KORNILOFF'S ARMY MEETS BOLSHEVIKI IN DEATH GRAPPLE

Reports of Outcome Conflicting; London Post Correspondent Says Eventually Russia Will Again Fight Germany

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless.)

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 13.—Locked in battle in the midst of a Russian winter, Gen. Korniloff's army and the forces of the Bolsheviki are fighting bloodily near Bielgorod, Northern Russia.

The outcome of the battle is not established. The Petrograd correspondent of the London Daily Mail reports that Korniloff has been defeated and wounded and that his capture is expected. The Post's correspondent says that Korniloff has routed the Bolsheviki. The Post also says that Korniloff had 3000 in his force, including the "Wild Division' and the "Death aBttalion" of women, and was supplied with artillery. This report also declares that Kornilotf had surrounded the Bolsheviki force, which would be "dealt with very drastically."

In reviewing the Russian situation the Post correspondent says that an iron hand will force a decisive future and that peaceful adjustments are impossible. Eventually Russia will confront Germany and, he adds, nothing which may develop should surprise the world.

56 GUARDSMEN TO BE EXAMINED FOR SCHOFIELD R.O.T.C.

What Rodiek Said In Statement To Court and What Diary Shows

EXTRACTS FROM RODIEK'S STATEMENT TO COURT.

"The office of consul is mainly a commercial agency and it was in the capacity of commercial representative alone that the defendants, Rodiek and Schroeder, gave attention to the matters referred to. If in any aspect these transactions could be regarded as violation of any of the neutrality laws of the United States, their participating herein was without guilty knowledge or intent.

"While pleading guilty to a violation of one of the neutrality laws of the country, and thus, as to himself, bringing this trial to a conclusion, the defendant, Rodiek, does not concede any disloyalty to this country or lack of devotion to its institutions."

"The transactions, because of which these two defendants found themselves involved in this indictment, which consisted exclusively in arranging for the furnishing of provisions and money to the steamer 'Maverick' while at Hilo and the transmission to her master of sailing orders previously communicated to them, took place during the months of April and May, 1915, and were regarded by them as purely commercial in character, involving no breach of any obligation due from either of them to the government of the United States.

"Neither of these two defendants at the time these transactions occurred was cognizant of the fact that in participating therein he was violating any law of the United States."

"While consenting, under the existing circumstances, to the entry of a plea of guilty, these two defendants are convinced that the testimony hereafter to be produced during the present trial will demonstrate that their participation in any of the transactions shown was without knowledge that such act would violate any law of the United States of America."

EXTRACTS FROM DIARY OF CAPT. KARL GRASSHOF.

April 24, 1915—"Following telegram was received from consul San Francisco through consulate, Honolulu:

"'Please quietly and in an inconspicuous way circulate rumors of a plan of attack on Canada.'

"To which was answered—'Telegram of the 24th unintelligible. Further instructions necessary.'"

SALIENT FEATURES APPEARING ON THE READING OF GRASSHOF'S DIARY IN CHRONOLOGICAL ORDER:

1.—That an attempt was made to get men from the former gunboat Geier through to Germany, some of whom were caught. Admission by Boyed of false passports being used.
2.—That A. V. Kircheisen, quartermaster of the steamship China, figured as a source of information for German intrigue. His secret title was "K 17." Used the China wireless frequently and made reports in person upon arrival in Honolulu.
3.—That Georg Rodiek, H. A. Schroeder and F. W. Klebahn had information concerning guns and ammunition on the Holsatia and conversed with Grasshof concerning them.
4.—That the Geier, though interned, was using her wireless all the time. Grasshof under examination stated that he thought the vessel caught practically all transpacific messages. That a message was received from the consulate stating the Geier would transmit to the Cormoran at Guam.
5.—That desperate efforts were made to stir up trouble between the United States and Japan, messages being deliberately wirelessed in English so that they would be picked up and start rumors that Japan had sent an expedition to Campeche, Mexico. Decided lack of geographical locations is shown in the messages, Campeche being on the eastern coast instead of the Pacific.
6.—That deliberate attempts were also made to give belief to the rumor that Germans in the United States were planning an attack against Canada, the intention of the rumors evidently being to frighten Canada into keeping part of the army at home. The Honolulu consulate received a message concerning this and evidently sent two inquiries about it asking instructions.
7.—That Boy-Ed wrote a letter here crediting an American submarine commander with the statement to a Geier officer that he "would like to do something against the Japs outside, if we could come to some agreement." Personally investigated by Grasshof and reported back to Boyed as a false story.
8.—That following the sinking of the Lusitania preparations were made to disable German war and merchant vessels, as was later done when relations were broken with Germany. That the guns on the Geier were destroyed in May, 1915, however, just after the Lusitania sinking. A message from von Bernstorff to hold up from such action arrived here too late to save them.
9.—That Albert Wehde, an American citizen, whose story is already well known in Honolulu, was at the Honolulu consulate on May 22, and was met there by Capt. Grasshof. This is the Wehde who is now serving sentence on the mainland for plotting.
10.—That Boy-Ed in a telegram from Washington urged the spreading of a story that a German submarine was operating in the South Seas, a palpable falsehood calculated to frighten shipping.
11.—That Boy-Ed attempted to transfer from Manila to Honolulu or Guam, a wireless operator, presumably to "listen in" on transpacific messages.
12.—That official messages of the American government were picked up by the German wireless men and filed away for reference.

PLOTTING WHICH CIRCLED GLOBE BARED AS CARRIED ON FROM WARSHIP; WIRELESS AND SECRET AGENTS ACTIVE FOR MONTHS

Facts In Possession of Naval Intelligence Office In Honolulu Add New Chapter to Story of International Scheming---Von Bernstorff, Boy-Ed and Von Papen Appear In Plans to Smuggle Germans to United States and Use Forged Passports

REVELATIONS of German plotting which stretched from Washington and San Francisco out across the Pacific to distant Shanghai and Manila, and which centered about Honolulu, the local German consulate and the former German gunboat Geier, are given to the public today by the Star-Bulletin.

The facts are in possession of the naval intelligence office here, and its own investigations have corroborated vital features of the story of intrigue. These facts the Star-Bulletin publishes today with the authorization of the intelligence office.

Figuring in the story are the names of Georg Rodiek, former German consul in Honolulu; F. W. Klebahn, manager of the shipping department of H. Hackfeld & Company, and H. A. Schroeder, former secretary to Rodiek at the consulate.

It is an official translation of the personal diary of Captain Karl Grasshof, commander of the former German gunboat Geier—this story. A diary that tells of intrigue and plotting carried on during the years of 1914 and 1915, while the little vessel that had scurried into this, a neutral port, and interned to save itself, defied the laws of nations and of men and threw to the winds the precepts of neutrality.

Extracts from the diary translation have been furnished to the Star-Bulletin by the naval intelligence office and are printed herewith in full.

Not least among the names mentioned over and over in it are those of Capt. Boy-ed, naval attache, and Capt. Franz von Papen, military attache of the German embassy at Washington, both of whom were recalled by their government at the demand of the United States.

Frequently recurring also, as the tale unfolds, is reference to one "K-17" as he was known in the records of these violators of neutrality; Kircheisen, his real name, the quartermaster of the steamship China. As he himself passed from port to port, gathering in strange places the information that Germany's agents desired, so come his records from date to date, carefully preserved in the Geier officer's diary.

Sometimes as the invited guest of fellow countrymen of note, sometimes rubbing elbows with the scum of the seven seas, K-17 lived his life to help carry out the details of German intrigue. Not content with the activity he had seen on the Pacific, K-17, or Kircheisen, made his way ultimately to Europe and was last August arrested by the Danish government in Denmark as one who had been giving information on the sailings of neutral and Allied vessels back across the German lines to Berlin or other cities of the German government.

Yet Kircheisen's efforts on the Pacific were not entirely unmolested, for the German captain records that the "chief steward is in K 17's way." This was Morgan, a red-blooded Australian, who evidently trailed the mischief maker too closely for comfort. The question is raised whether H. Hackfeld & Company, agents for the Pacific Mail, then owners of the China, had the employing or firing of employes of that vessel.

Jack D. Cleary, a local Irishman, also figures in the annals for the part he played in a certain German gathering to "celebrate Christmas" when he added enthusiastic comments to a speech by one Prof. Dwyer, a teacher of languages, who roomed for a time at the home of Dr. F. H. Schurmann on Beretania street.

That the Geier was receiving wireless messages throughout the period covered by the diary, this despite the fact that her radio outfit was supposed to be sealed, and that she communicated with the German gunboat Cormoran interned at Guam, is stated in the diary. Grasshof estimates that at times messages from a distance of 2400 nautical miles were received.

How an attempt was made to get a floating radio ship established on the Pacific, how instructions were given to unload a large supply of guns overboard from the Holsatia into Honolulu harbor, a thing which was evidently done; how desperate efforts were made to stir up American feeling against the Japanese; how it was sought to spread the rumor that Germans in the United States were planning to cross the border to attack Canada; how arrangements were made for German interned sailors from the Geier to break parole here and make their way to the mainland and Germany; how German men in San Francisco were to be substituted for sailors in case inquiry was made by the United States—all these are told in Grasshof's diary.

Capt. Edmund Deinat or Deinhard, now under indictment by federal grand jury in the Hindu plot case at San Francisco, and former commander of the Holsatia and Ahlers, both of which ships were warbound in Hawaiian waters, is also frequently mentioned by Grasshof.

The Star-Bulletin also makes public today the fact that Capt. Grasshof, while a prisoner at Schofield Barracks, after the discovery of the diary last spring was examined by the army authorities and put in solitary confinement. At that time, he made statements vitally connected with plotting which was carried on in this city.

One of the big features of his diary is the fact that plans were made at the sinking of the Lusitania, when it seemed certain that the United States would enter the war, to destroy the machinery of the German refugee vessels as it was later destroyed when diplomatic relations were severed.

How all the messages were received or sent from here is not stated, but from the text of the diary it is presumed that the majority of them were handled through the local German consulate or the gunboat Geier itself. The Star-Bulletin is not free to state how the extracts from the diary were secured by the naval intelligence bureau.

LATE NEWS

GERMAN SUMBARINE BOMBARDS FUNCHAL

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 13.—A German submarine today bombarded Funcnal, Madeira, sending 40 shells crashing into the town. The submarine then fled before the attack of patrol boats.

FRENCH MARINE LOSS SMALL

PARIS, France, Dec. 13.—Only one French vessel over 1600 tons was sunk by the U-boats for the week just ended.

ANOTHER GERMAN ATTACK ON ITALY UNSUCCESSFUL

ROME, Italy, Dec. 13.—The enemy attacked in force yesterday, the attack continuing until the afternoon, when it was abandoned on account of heavy losses and no progress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13.—The senate subcommittee hearing on the sugar shortage will be held tomorrow. Claus Spreckels will be the first witness.

HONOLULU PLANTATION MANAGER IS ARRESTED

James Gibb, manager of the Honolulu Plantation Company, was this afternoon arrested at Aiea, on the complaint of David Kupihea, of Watertown, manager of the Hawaiian Standard Food Company, for malicious injury. Kupihea alleges that Gibb instructed laborers from the Aiea plantation to tear down certain buildings at Watertown belonging to Kupihea. The trouble is believed to have originated from the shooting of Mrs. Kupihea through the arm while holding a small child, one morning, by a military guard at Pearl Harbor. It is said Kupihea was ordered to move from that locality but refused to do so. Gibb will appear in police court December 18.

"U. S. GUARD" TO KEEP HOME WATCH

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13.—A "United States Guard" to supplement police details during the national emergency was authorized today. It will be filled by voluntary enlistments of men from 31 to 35 or by the assignment of drafted men who are unfit for general service. The uniform will be army blue and Krag-Jorgensen rifles will be the arms.

Survivor of Russia's Death Battalion Tells Vivid Story of Horror

With Dissolution of Government, Slav Soldiers Cast Discipline to the Winds, Left Trenches, Invaded Petrograd and Raped Women Defenders, Declares Member of Famous Amazons

A tragic victim and witness of one of the war's revolting occurrences, a close-cropped golden-haired girl of physical proportions that many men would envy, smiled cheerfully at noon today as the Dutch steamer Rembrandt from the Orient and was tied up at Pier 7.

But it was not at the tragedy left behind, but because she was at the western gateway of America. Only in flitting reflections in her eyes did one gain the impression that memory of a night of horror in Petrograd was still retained.

She is Miss Eva Lciontz, a Jewish Cossack, who was a member of the second contingent of the Battalion of Death in training at Petrograd a few months ago when the Russian government lost its control over its soldiers.

Until today the fate of that second Battalion of Death has been unknown. With considerable reticence, but nevertheless with remarkable frankness, she disclosed in broken English a story of rioting Russian soldiers back from the eastern trenches which in this country is almost unbelievable.

With all discipline cast aside as their officers had been shot or deserted, these soldiers reached Petrograd and with the threatened downfall of the Kerensky faction as another season for excesses, a detachment of them stormed the inadequately guarded encampment of the brave women of the second Battalion of Death.

What ensued in the wholesale raping can be better imagined, for it cannot be told in detail, no more than could of this war victim of the occurrence relate it today.

"It was bad, worse than the trenches—and from the countrymen whom we would have aided," says this woman soldier of Russia.

"I did not go to the front, no; but like many other women of the battalion we prepared to leave Russia," she added.

Later she said that Kerensky was a

U-Boats Ordered To Get Busy And Aid Land Drives

The Associated Press today brings news of a new German "drive"—that of the U-boats. The summary says:

"The German submarine force is carrying on an offensive of great magnitude, in complement to the drives attempted on land. The submarine move has failed signally, according to a high naval authority in London. The American navy has reinforced the Allied patrols and convoys and successfully countered against the U-boats.

"The details of the Russia fighting have not yet been made clear."

Mail from the states of possibly 1500 bags or more is expected late this afternoon. This is the first mail for nine days to be received from San Francisco

PLANS TO SMUGGLE GERMAN SAILORS TO COAST APPEAR EARLY IN DIARY

The story of German duplicity revealed in Grasshof's diary is involved and at times made obscure by references not exactly clear. Other references, however, are startlingly clear and significant. From the moment when the Geier sought the refuge of Honolulu harbor and placed itself under the protection of the United States as an interned vessel of war, Grasshof seems to have been scheming and plotting to violate successfully both the laws of neutrality and his own parole, which became operative upon internment.

BOY-ED'S NAME COMES EARLY IN DIARY ENTRIES

GEIER WIRELESS, SECRET AGENTS, USED FOR PLOT COMMUNICATIONS

was made to get men from the Geier through to Germany and some were caught. In this attempt, with its plans to use false passports, Boy-Ed is openly involved, inasmuch as he admits the scheme to use forged credentials.

Here also appears the name of a German, von Knorr, said to be connected with the German consulate at San Francisco. Apparently at this time he was in San Francisco and was to be one of the agents in passing the Geier men across country after they had violated internment parole at Honolulu.

"UNDERGROUND" PLAN TO SLIP GERMANS AWAY

On October 28, 1914, in Grasshof's diary are mentioned the following two telegrams regarding this "underground" scheme. In the second message the words in parenthesis are filled in to make the meaning clear as it is established by the investigations of the naval intelligence office:

October 28, 1914: "I sent a telegram to Knorr that the sending home of officers and sailors is (possible?) and that two officers, two men and—those who are sick have been given instructions. The steamers which are out of commission are the Holsatia and the Locksun."

"Telegram from San Francisco: 'I have (concealed?) the sending home of the men, also secured (accommodations?) in New York. I recommended that shelter be given on board German vessels to all accredited persons.'"

Possibly the German captain was planning on making his own escape, for next day his diary contains the following:

October 29, 1914: "Telegram to Knorr, San Francisco, to be forwarded to Washington. 'Please notify me if return home is at all possible. No trouble here.'"

FAILURE OF SCHEME; S. F. CONSULATE BLAMED

Further developments in this scheme to slip interned Germans out of Honolulu are revealed in the following entries:

October 29, 1914: "Today shortly after the American steamer Enterprise left port I received a message from San Francisco saying 'Return of personnel not impossible provided they go in small numbers.' A good opportunity was thus missed to send back two officers and four men. The consulate at San Francisco slipped up."

October 30, 1914: "Telegram from Boy-Ed, New York, 'Turned out poorly Geier. Don't send home any men except those who can speak some other language. False passports necessary.'" (Evidently this referred to failure to get Germans through to Germany).

October 30, 1914: "In answer I sent the following telegram to Boy-Ed: 'Why did former attempt not turn out properly? Will avoid further failures. For your information here an alien certificate is necessary, Honolulu.'"

November 3, 1914: "Consulate, San Francisco, sends telegraphic information that officers and men were caught. Has requested their release." (These were supposedly men of Geier who attempted to reach Germany).

FLOATING WIRELESS ON PACIFIC IS NEXT SCHEME HATCHED

A new scheme hatched in the German embassy at Washington next comes to light through the faithful diary. It is that of securing a vessel which shall operate in the Pacific as a wireless station for the use of the Germans, possibly to get messages to and from the German interned and refugee vessels at various ports, and possibly to communicate direct with the great home station at Nauen, Germany.

Boy-Ed apparently desired to maintain this outfit primarily for "listening in" on transmission of messages. An attempt to transfer a wireless operater from Manila to Guam or Honolulu appears later in the entries. Honolulu figures in these entries as one of the points where the scheme was to be put into operation. Here are the entries:

November 2, 1914: "Boy-Ed requests that a schooner be fitted out for his radio master."

(Then an attempt to forward one (operator) to coast, which was unsuccessful.)

November 7, 1914: "Telegram to consul, San Francisco: 'Sending of wireless operators made impossible because Admiral Moore sent an officer, Captain London (naval station) to inform me that Geier must leave harbor tonight by twelve o'clock or intern.'"

"K 17" SECRET AGENT NOW APPEARS

About the same time as the entries above, the German secret agent, A. V. Kircheisen, who figures so largely as "K 17," appears in the story. He is mentioned often in the diary and, in the opinion of the officials who have gone carefully into the references, reported to Grasshof or to Rodiek, probably both; to the German consul in San Francisco, and sometimes direct to the German embassy, Washington. He was at this time a quartermaster on the steamship China, plying between the Orient and San Francisco, touching at Honolulu en route. He used the wireless outfit frequently and appears to have occupied a position of some importance, but some question might be raised as to the accuracy of his reports. Kircheisen represented the owners of the steamship Maverick while she was at Hilo—the Maverick being the vessel so prominently involved in the "India conspiracy case" now on trial in San Francisco.

HACKFELD & CO. SAY UNAWARE OF K 17'S OCCUPATION

F. W. Klebahn, secretary of Hackfeld & Company, has admitted, the naval intelligence office states, that Kircheisen contracted for the supplies and paid for them, stating, however, that Hackfeld & Company or Rodiek did not know of his (Kircheisen's) occupation.

Kircheisen appears in connection with the proposed furnishing of a military passport, which would necessarity have to be forged, to a Dr. Schwiek who had arrived in Honolulu from Manila and Trinansu. (The identity of this latter point is in doubt. Possibly it is Tsingtau.)

Here is the entry which ushers upon the stage the secret agent, K 17.

USE OF FORGED PASSPORT REFERRED TO

November 17, 1914: "This afternoon the consul came on board with a Dr. Schwiek from Manila and Trinansu. He has a secret message. I will give him a military passport from July 25 to August 15. Knorr will give him transportation beyond.

"Later: Have decided not to give Schwiek a passport because Kircheisen, the quartermaster of the China, warned me against him, saying suspicion had been directed on Schwiek on the China. Kircheisen gave me and the captain of the Pommern a radio code for sending news. He (Schwiek) claims to be a U. S. agent for the suppression of white slavery and the opium traffic."

ABOUT MUNITIONS ON BOARD S. S. HOLSATIA

A little less than a month later the diary reveals an apparent plan to send weapons and ammunition from the cargo of the Holsatia to Japan. In this connection appears the name of "Capt. Deinhard," supposed to be Capt. Edmund Dienart or Dienat, master of the refugee steamer Holsatia. Dienat was one of those indicted for the Hindu conspiracy, the trial of which is now in progress at San Francisco. He was interned at Angel Island after his Honolulu activities. The entries below tell the story in chronological order:

December 21, 1914: "Captain Deinhard and Mr. Klebahn came on board and requested information as to whether some boxes of sporting rifles and ——— which were among the cargo of the Holsatia could be sent to Japan. I told him the articles were contraband and could not be sent."

April 4, 1915: "Telegram from the Embassy, Washington—'In case the weapons on the Holsatia have only been partly paid for, refuse to deliver them, as in this case the German authorities will arrange for their purchase. Let us drop them down by courses (i. e. a few at a time) with caution in the bay, and let them be covered with care.'"

RODIEK'S NAME USED IN HOLSATIA WEAPON CASE

April 10, 1915: "On the sixth of April the following telegram was sent to the Embassy, Washington: 'In reply to your inquiry, 5½ shotguns, 36 stock, 36 barrels, 14 boxes of ammunition. Not known whether paid for or not. (Signed)

"'RODIEK.'"

April 28, 1915: "Had a conversation with Messrs. Klebahn and Schroeder regarding weapons on the Holsatia. We decided to write to the embassy and call their attention to the danger of some one getting into difficulties if the American authorities found these things on board."

TWO GERMAN OFFICERS WITH FORGED PASSPORTS

Next there is a reference made to a Lieut. Telt or Peltz, and to a German naval officer, both of whom were using forged passports. Of this incident Capt. Grasshof says:

December 22, 1914: "The Mongolia came in from Shanghai in the evening, having on board Naval 1st Lieut. Telt (or P.). The first named was an aviator at Tsingtau and escaped the day before the surrender. He landed in the vicinity of Nanking, was interned there and that evening went to Shanghai by rail. The latter was an officer on the Jaguar attached to headquarters, Shanghai. They are both traveling as merchants under forged passports."

INTERNED GEIER WAS USING WIRELESS CONSTANTLY

The Geier, although interned was using her wireless all the time, the diary shows. Grasshof under examination later stated that he thought they caught practically all transpacific messages. Here is one entry showing successful wireless communication:

December 22, 1914: "Telegram received from consulate: 'Geier will transmit messages to Cormoran.'"

FALSE STORIES SPREAD TO ALARM PACIFIC SHIPPING

Such acts as those given above did not by any means constitute the range of activities of the Germans at that time. They were persistent and mischievous spreaders of propaganda designed to alarm Pacific shipping or to foment trouble between friendly nations.

In line with this policy is the story told piecemeal in the diary of a mythical Japanese expedition to Mexico. Apparently the Germans hoped to spread such stories partly by messages which would be caught by others than themselves and believed. This method, they hoped, would result in the spreading of all sorts of alarming rumors.

"JAPANESE EXPEDITION TO MEXICO" IS HOAX

The following clew to a pretended belief in a Japanese expedition to Mexico is a very patent sample of German propaganda. The government has known that much of it has gone on. One rather ridiculous feature is to be noted—that the message speaks of taking troops to Yucatan, which is not on the west coast of Mexico, but the east coast, and therefore inaccessible to troops thus carried—the reference indicating lack of geographical knowledge. Here are the entries showing how this story of a Japanese expedition was spread:

December 26, 1914: "Telegram from Washington: 'Have you any news about Japanese transport reported to be taking troops to Campeche (Yucatan)? Answer by cable.'"

December 28, 1914: "Sent the following telegram to Manila and San Francisco: 'Have you any news,' etc. (same as above). Tell Quartermaster Kircheisen of the China so that he can make a careful inquiry when in Japan. In case the rumor is correct answer with the word "arrived" and if it is wrong with the word "leaving".'"

WIRELESS IN ENGLISH—FOR PUBLIC CONSUMPTION

The message was apparently caught by the Cormoran (at Guam). This is in English for public consumption:

December 29, 1914: "Telegram from Cormoran in the evening: 'Your last telegram not understood. Please repeat same in navy code.'"

January 1, 1915: "Telegram to Cormoran: 'Made personal inquiries and found out that telegram of the 27th went forward in English!'"

Note that the following message was sent to the Consulate. It refers to the possible Japanese expedition. The "quartermaster" (Kircheisen) is mentioned and must have been known to the German consul here, in the belief of the officials investigating:

January 2, 1915: "The following telegram was received at the consulate yesterday evening: 'Following is the answer to telegram of December 29th. Wait for news of destination. Embassy has been notified directly and quartermaster instructed.'"

January 6, 1915: "Received a letter from Kircheisen dated December 24 (his instructions regarding inquiries into Japanese troop movements were dated December 29). He told me that no preparations had been made for transporting troops."

COMMUNICATES WITH SAN FRANCISCO AND SHANGHAI

January 18, 1915: "Sent the following telegram to German consulate, San Francisco, and to Germania, Shanghai: 'A Japanese transport has been lying at anchor, outside of the harbor, since the morning of January 17.'"

January 18, 1915: "Received a telegram from Shanghai in the evening. 'Is there more than one Japanese transport there; are they army transports? What is their destination?'"

January 18, 1915: "Thereupon the following telegram was sent to Germania, Shanghai: 'For Schowalter. A Japanese transport to Angals (?) from the Caroline Islands. Has a crew of 168. Leaving in the morning, destination unknown. Is a Japanese collier with coal on board for Japanese warships. Papers state that certain Japanese warships are in the vicinity of the Hawaiian islands.'"

(The above telegram is also sent to the consulate, San Francisco.)

January 23, 1915: "The following telegram was sent to the embassy in Washington: 'Inquiries in ——— have established the fact that no transports are going to Campeche.'"

SECRET AGENT K 17 AGAIN COMES INTO DIARY

Here Secret Agent K 17, otherwise Quartermaster Kircheisen, again comes into the diary. Kircheisen is understood to be a German citizen and apparently was in possession of an American passport, which again raises the point of the wide use of forged passports. The entries relating to Kircheisen at this point are:

January 29, 1915: "K 17 asked by wireless from the China whether his telegram has been received. Since the China will be in Tuesday, I will not answer the telegram in order to avoid compromising him unnecessarily."

February 1, 1915: "China in. K 17 informed me that the Japanese have sold to the Russians all the old guns taken from the latter during the Russo-Japanese war."

February 1, 1915: "One of the Hindus sent off by Knorr left for Shanghai on the 6th." (Apparently information brought by K 17.)

February 1, 1915: "Eight thousand Japanese rifles were found buried in the ground outside of Manila." (Apparently information brought by K 17) "Holstein released." (Apparently information brought by K 17.)

February 27, 1915: Communications from K 17: "The crew (Chinese) of the China brought weapons on board in San Francisco. Destination, Hongkong. Ostensibly for the approaching revolt. K has the task of approaching the Chinese confidential agents in Hongkong and attempting to determine where the arms are going. The leader of the organization on the China forwarding the arms has not yet been found. The consulate at San Francisco has been advised by the following cablegram:

'Organizer (or leader) of the weapon handlers on board the steamship China has not yet been determined. K 17.'

"Rumored that 12 English and seven Japanese were engaged in the battle at the Falkland Islands. The Japanese admiral reported to have balked at placing his fleet under English orders. During the course of the action the English reported to have requested aid from the Japanese which the latter furnished to some extent. (Japanese report.)

TAKES FLING AT COAST CUSTOMS COLLECTOR

"The customs collector in San Francisco, on his own initiative, held the two ships intended for the cruiser squadron. (He is of English origin.) Complaints against Haas and the other two firms were dropped. Haas and the other firms are entering suit against the customs collector.

"Rumors in San Francisco of strained relations between Japanese and Koreans. Investigation desired. U. S. revenue cutter gone to the aid of the Asama. Crew rescued. Rumor circulating that Asama was damaged during an engagement with the German ship. Reported that the Van der Tann and a small cruiser have broken the blockade.

"A dictaphone was found in the consulate at San Francisco which apparently led to the Japanese consulate. It was discovered very soon.

"Rumored that a machine factory has been established in Germany for delivery of arms to Russia. Since U. S. government forbade the exportation of certain submarines being constructed for European nations, the expert mechanics have gone to Canada to work on a job there.

AUSTRALIAN GETS IN K 17'S WAY—TOO BAD!

"Chief Steward Morgan (Australian) is in K 17's way.

"K 17 received the last telegram from Washington to Manila.

"Schwieb (Schwiek?) has announced (or acknowledged) being a swindler.

"Booden is director of the German-Australian bank in Yokohama.

"Holstein is with the firm of Nickels & Lyon in Kobe."

March 8, 1915: "K 17 sent a wireless on the 6th saying that two Japanese transports were steering southeast. The China must have been 2400 nautical miles from here and about 1100 from Yokohama."

March 19, 1915: "China came in at noon. K 17 brings the following information:

" '1. Holstein got three years confinement for shanghaiing a Japanese cowboy on the Mack. (?)

" '2. Japan has mobilized 300,000 men. Not known against whom directed.

" '3. Nothing particular known about the munition trade. (Mexico.)

" '4. In Hongkong there are 500 Hindus, 200 officers and volunteers, besides one torpedo boat and two Japanese cruisers.

" '5. K 17 was almost captured in Kobe. The first officer of the China warned him and he immediately got on board again as soon as possible. Since the Pacific Mail steamship company is apparently about to dissolve, he is going to Europe. He has American citizenship papers and reported himself to the consulate at San Francisco at the outbreak of the war.'"

DESPERATE ATTEMPTS TO STIR UP TROUBLE WITH U. S.

At this point in the diary appears a curious reference, showing not only an example of the desperate attempts to stir up trouble between Japan and the United States, but the fantastic yarn evolved possibly at the German embassy to do it. How the story got from Honolulu to Captain von Papen is not stated. Probably the captain started it himself and then sent it to Honolulu:

February 20, 1915: "A letter from Boy-Ed in which he states that Captain von Papen, military attache, told him that since the interning an American submarine (at Honolulu), came alongside and its commander made the following remarks to the watch officer (of Geier): 'I would like to do something against the Japs outside, if we could come to some agreement.' After speaking with the officer on watch at the time I reported to Boy-Ed that the report was untrue."

GERMANS TRY TO ESCAPE BY THE STATES

Early in 1915 the diary contains a good deal with reference to three Germans who seem to have tried to escape to the states. They are Max Pahrisch, officer of the Geier, who got to the coast and was being returned, and Striebel and Geissmann of the cruiser Leipzig, all being finally interned with the crew of the Geier. The entries are:

March 14, 1915: "Received a telegram from San Francisco, saying 'Pahrisch was started out from there on the tenth and in case anything befell him Geissmann, of Leipzig, will be passed off for him (i. e. secretly substituted in his place).'

"I answered by telegram as follows: 'My word of honor requires that I report the arrival of Pahrisch to the admiral and also the reason he was sent back without permission from (or the knowledge of) the Geier.'"

March 16, 1915: "Tuesday the 16th Telegram from Sauerbach, with reference to my telegram of the 15th: 'Have notified the admiral of the departure of Pahrisch. Report was overlooked on account of Sagelmanns' absence.'"

April 9, 1915: "Consul at San Francisco stated that Striebel and N. O. (non-commissioned officer) from the Leipzig came in on a U. S. transport."

April 13: "Transport Sherman is in Striebel and Geissmann on board, the latter formerly of the Leipzig."

April 17, 1915: "Decision of the navy department on the parole of the paymaster's clerk is here. They also ask if there is a man named Pahrisch on board. The requested parole was sent over. Also wrote them that they had evidently mistaken the name Paenich for Pahrisch."

NEW ANGLE APPEARS IN PROPAGANDA WORK

A new angle in the propaganda work busily carried on appears in April of 1915. This related to the story of a German raid on Canada, and an entry shows how the rumor that Germans in America were to attack Canada started:

April 24, 1915: "Following telegram was received from consul, San Francisco, through consulate, Honolulu: 'Please quietly and in an inconspicuous way circulate rumors of a plan of an attack on Canada.'

"To which was answered: 'Telegram of the 24th unintelligible. Further instructions necessary.'"

May 3, 1915: "Again asked for reply to my telegram of April 24 regarding the Canadian affair. Thereupon I received the following reply: 'The affair is settled.'"

PLANS FOR ACTION WHEN LUSITANIA WAS SUNK

None of the revelations contained in the Grasshof diary is more startlingly significant of the German attitude toward the United States than the entries about the time of the sinking of the Lusitania. They show that the German government looked forward to a possible break in diplomatic relations between the two countries, and that in Honolulu the German ship masters got ready for the contingency, preparing to disable German war and merchant ships.

The diary also refers in somewhat indefinite terms to the destruction of weapons on the Geier.

Here there comes into the diary the initials of "H.V.B." These are believed to indicate Count J. H. von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The entries which tell the story and open up a new field for speculation as to the activities of Germans in Honolulu are as follows:

May 17, 1915—"Telegram to consul, New York: 'Do you consider it necessary to destroy all secret matter?'"

May 17, 1915—"Telegram from consul, New York: 'I request you to notify German steamers immediately to burn all secret matters relating to the naval service; also notify the Alsace in Pago Pago.—Consulate.'"

"Telegram to consul in New York. (Better to have sent it to attache): 'Do you deem necessary the destruction of the entire set of machinery of the Geier?'"

[Above statement in parenthesis is that of Grasshof.]

"Telegram from consul, New York: 'Answer to your question: No. Only destroy steamers' equipment.'"

CHANGE OF ORDERS COMES TOO LATE

Then Bernstorff instructs, and three days afterwards rescinds the order, apparently too late:

May 18, 1915—"Telegram from Bernstorff to (?) [name omitted in diary]: 'Danger of having the weapons confiscated.'"

May 21, 1915—"Telegram from Washington: 'H.V.B. Do not destroy.' Answer: 'H.V.B. All destroyed on arrival of last telegram.'"

MEETS ALBERT WEHDE AT GERMAN CONSULATE

In May a name now familiar to Honolulans bobbed up in the diary—that of Albert Wehde, of Chicago. Wehde, it will be remembered, posed as a businessman and scientist in the Orient, but Uncle Sam looked into his activities with the result that a number of months ago he was arrested in Honolulu, taken to Chicago under indictment for complicity in the India conspiracy, convicted and is now imprisoned. Wehde is an American citizen and it is not clear why he should need the legitimate services of a German consul, this being noted because Grasshof refers to meeting him at the local German consulate. The entry:

Here is Grasshof's note on arrival of Maverick at Hilo:

MORE GERMAN PROPAGANDA SHOWN BY ENTRIES

June 17, 1915—"Telegram from Boy-Ed: 'Rumor of submarine in the South Seas is correct. Please spread this information very carefully!'"

Then there is revealed an attempt to transfer a wireless operator from Manila to Guam or Honolulu. This has already been referred to:

August 19, 1915—"Telegram from Manila and one to Boy-Ed. Telegram from hdqts., Manila: 'May I assign, over there, one wireless operator who is now here?' (This was apparently for 'listen-in' work on the Geier.) Thereupon I telegraphed Boy-Ed: 'Headquarters, Manila, telegraphs: "May I, etc."'"

August 20, 1915—"Telegram from Boy-Ed: 'Assign radio operator to Cormoran. Please attend to details.'"

August 21, 1915—"Manila telegraphs that sending of wireless operator is impracticable because it is forbidden for a German to land in Guam."

August 21, 1915—"Telegram to Manila, Germania: 'No objections to having sent here. Necessary avoiding authorities.'

"In the evening a telegram came from Manila asking us to secure permission from the U. S. authorities on account of the radio mate."

August 22—"Telegram to Manila: 'In my opinion the time to Sept. 2 is too short to get permission to bring in.'"

August 23, 1915—Telegram to Manila: "Time too short to get permission.'"

Late in 1915 occurred an incident on the Pacific Coast of which Grasshof apparently had some "inside" knowledge, the visit under secrecy of two members of the German embassy at Washington—Von Papen and Prince von Hatzfeldt-Trachenberg, counsellor of the embassy. This was just after von Hatzfeld-Trachenberg, counsellor "those idiotic Yankees" had seen the light of day and when a cry was going up in America that he be recalled. The Grasshof diary says:

September 24, 1915: "Capt. von Papen and Prince von Hatzfeld-Trachenberg are making a secret (incognito) visit to San Francisco. Papen will be reproached in that he is responsible for the letters about 'those idiotic Americans' found on Archibald. Prince Hatzfeld belongs to the German embassy.

October 1, 1915: "Papen and Count Hatzfeld are in the western states."

May 18, 1915: "Instructions were issued through Ambassador Bernstorff to all German consuls in the United States to be careful in all their actions so as not to violate the neutrality laws of the United States.

HOW GEIER LISTENED IN ON U. S. MESSAGES

Examples of "listening in": The following cablegram was found in a loose sheet in the diary:

"'From Kahuku to Tituilla (Tutuila, Samoa.)

"'Nov. 25, 1915, 9:44 p. m.

"'Radio IK 3F government Washington To Govt. Naval Station, Tituilla, For American Consul Apia, 16th Department, November 10. Please report full concerning the arrest of Hanssen and grounds for placing the German management and plantation employees of the South Sea Islands of Hamburg, under forced administration.

'LANSING.'"

DIARY TOUCHES UPON THINGS SOCIAL AND GERMAN

Late in December, 1915, Grasshof's diary branches off from plots and evasions, and touches lightly upon things social. Apparently the German-American social evenings attracted him, for his diary contains something like an account of what happened, and here occurs the name of Jack Cleary, the naturalized Irishman whose dismissal by his employer recently created some discussion and controversy in Honolulu. Here is what the ever-ready diary records:

December 26, 1915: Record of speech made at meeting of Germans to celebrate Christmas, Phoenix Hall, December 27, 1915. Dwyer is Prof. Patrick Dwyer, teacher of languages, who had an office for some time at Dr. Schurmann's, Beretania street.

Speech: "Prof. Dwyer:

'I believe in peace. I would like to see peace. I want to see peace when the Teutonic Allies have driven the Russian Bear to the North Pole; when they have trampled on the proud Lilies of France until they are undistinguishable from the mire; when they have driven the Garibaldi Dagoes into the crater of Mount Vesuvius; when they have twisted——

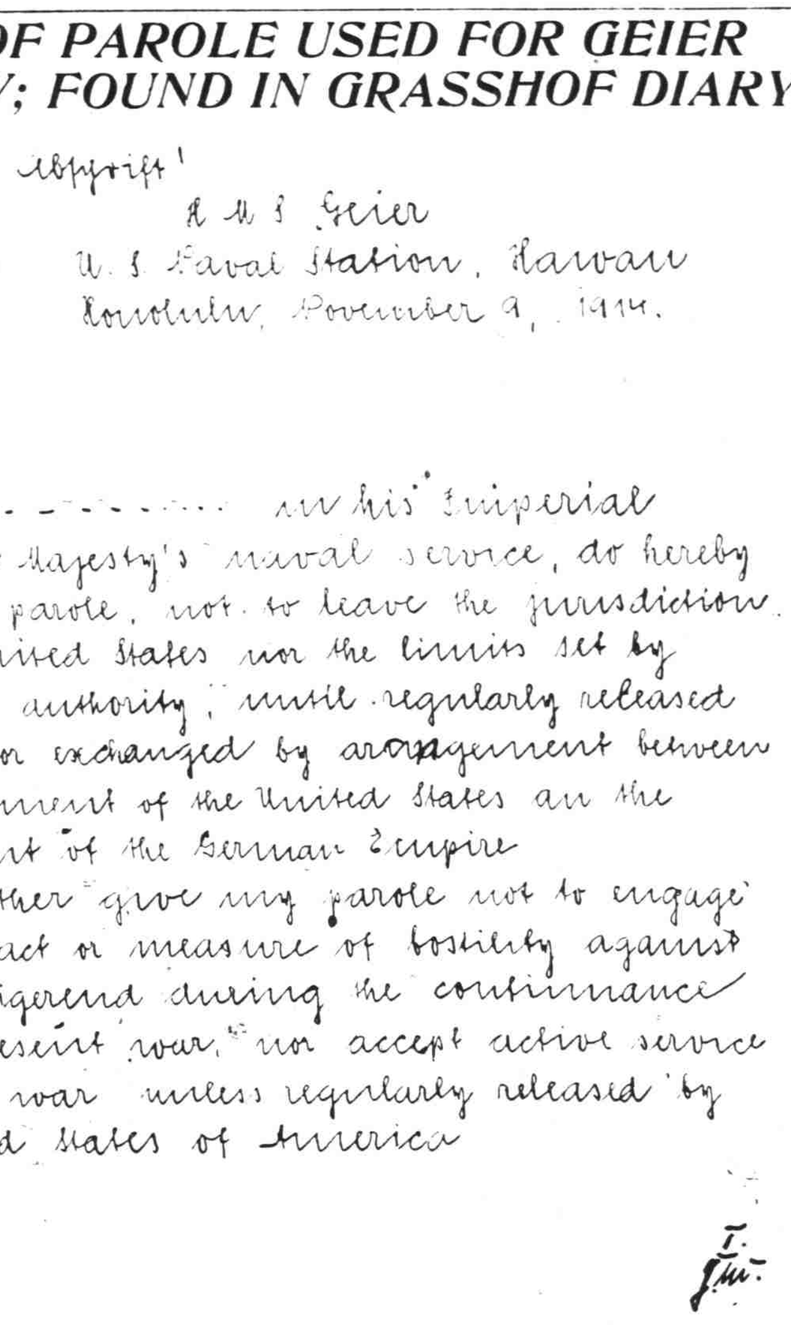
Jack Cleary (from the audience): "Again!"

Prof Dwyer: "——and twisted——"

Jack Cleary: "Once more!"

Prof. Dwyer: "——and twisted the tail of the English Lion until his howls can be heard reverberating through the deepest dungeons of hell!"

FORM OF PAROLE USED FOR GEIER CREW; FOUND IN GRASSHOF DIARY



Copyright
U. S. S. Geier
U. S. Naval Station, Hawaii
Honolulu, November 9, 1914.

I ——— in his Imperial German Majesty's naval service, do hereby give my parole, not to leave the jurisdiction of the United States nor the limits set by the proper authority, until regularly released by them or exchanged by arrangement between the Government of the United States an the Government of the German Empire

I further give my parole not to engage in any act or measure of hostility against any belligerend during the continuance of the present war, nor accept active service in them war unless regularly released by the United States of America

This is a form of the written parole which Capt. Karl Grasshof and other officers of the Geier handed over to the navy department immediately after internment. It is a promise to the American government to observe all its laws and respect its neutrality.

The actual interning of the Geier was performed on that eventful night at midnight by Collector of the Port Malcolm A. Franklin, and the boat and crew were then turned over to the navy department. These paroles or pledges, therefore, were given to the navy department, Admiral Charles B. T. Moore, commandant. Written pledges were given by the German officers for themselves and for their men, who were required to make verbal promise through their superiors. The accompanying copy was found in Capt. Grasshof's diary. The initials of the Geier's adjutant are in the lower right hand corner. The word "them" near the end of the parole evidently means "any."

Collector Franklin recalled today that when the vessel was interned and he turned it over to the navy department Admiral Moore told Capt. Grasshof that it was then too late (it being midnight) to make out the written parole of the officers and that this would be waived until Monday. Meanwhile, the admiral said, the Geier officers should consider the parole pledge as having been made and in full effect. To this Capt. Grasshof answered that he perfectly understood the situation and the verbal parole from Saturday to Monday would be binding.

DAIRY STOCKHOLDERS NOT DISSATISFIED, SAYS MANAGER; DIRECTORS MEET

Reports that there is dissatisfaction among the minority stockholders of the Honolulu Dairymen's Association over the cost of the distribution of milk to the public, are emphatically denied by Manager S. W. Smith, who explains the meeting held at the dairy this morning not one of stockholders but as a conference of the directors to discuss a proposal to increase the capital stock of the concern.

Manager Smith also makes denial of report that it has been ascertained by an expert that it costs the dairy about 2½ cents a quart to deliver milk, as against the 6 cents which, the food commission was informed at a recent milk investigation, it cost the association.

The association, says Manager Smith, recently employed a new bookkeeper, and the books of the concern are now being reorganized in every department. Up to the present time, he adds, there have been no definite figures secured concerning the actual cost of delivering.

JAPANESE ARRESTED AS MURDER SUSPECT

A Japanese was arrested this morning in connection with the murder of a Chinese laborer at Waipahu which occurred more than a month ago. Captain of Detectives Arthur McDuffie and several of his men have been working quietly on the murder since it took place, and this morning rounded up a man whom they believe was implicated in the killing.

The killing occurred in the Chinese camp on the Oahu plantation, the Chinese having been struck with a cane knife. He died a week later as a result of the attack.

T. N. T. THREATENS MUNITION WORKERS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The effect of T. N. T. is not faced alone by the men in the trenches. The munitions worker doing his daily stint faces possible death in making the high explosive. Not only is he affected by breathing the dust and vapors of trinitrotuoluol, but he becomes inoculated even through his pores. In a report to the United States public health by J. W. Schereschewsky, one of its surgeons, the need is emphasized for greater protection for the workers around the explosive

3RD ENGINEERS WANT RECRUITS BEFORE DEC. 15

The 3rd Engineers, Fort Shafter, are out with a whirlwind recruiting campaign in which the men of Hawaii are asked to join.

This is the reason: News has come from Washington, has told in despatches, that after December 15 enlistments will not be allowed except of men whose drafting is wholly improbable. This is to avoid last-minute evasions of the draft by enlistment.

The 3rd Engineers, one of the crack organizations of Uncle Sam's army have been instructed to recruit to full war strength and want to get 500 additional men.

Applications should be made at once to the dispensary, Fort Shafter. The engineers offers unusually fine opportunities to young men.

Here is a partial list of the type of trades or professions that will be especially qualified:

Construction workers of all kinds, photographers, lithographers, carpenters, blacksmiths, horseshoers, plumbers, pipe fitters, machinists, mechanice, miners, railroad operators of all sorts, lumbermen, telephone men, operators of gas, steam or electric engines; stokers, clerks, draftsmen, surveyors, riggers, men experienced in the handling of concrete, wood or steel; men experienced in handling animals, and men used to explosives.

Huber Is Ordered To Restrict All Austro-Hungarians

U. S. District Attorney S. C. Huber today received official news of the declaration of war by the United States on Austria-Hungary, together with cabled instructions from U. S. Attorney-General Gregory to apply certain restrictions to Austro-Hungarians resident in Hawaii.

These restrictions are identical with those imposed on Germans as provided for in Sections 9, 10, 11, 12 of the president's original proclamation containing war measures for home protection.

Sections 9, 10 and 11 provide that no alien enemy may leave or enter the United States except on presidential permission, and Section 12 provides for the arrest of alien enemies thought to be dangerous to the country's welfare.

For the present, say the instructions, no other restrictions will be applied.

EXPERT ON TAXES QUITS TO ENTER PRIVATE FIELD

E. R. Cameron, income tax agent at the local internal revenue office for the last 2½ years, has resigned that position to open a private office for specializing in internal revenue law, particularly as regards the income tax and excess profits tax. The resignation was tendered to Washington and became effective Dec. 1.

His business will be that of a revenue law expert, to answer the questions that arise, particularly on the new law. His ability to handle work of this kind is acknowledged by businessmen with whom he has come in contact as a federal officer and by the head of the revenue office. Acting Collector Ralph S. Johnstone paid high tribute to Mr. Cameron today, declaring that he is absolutely the best posted and competent man in revenue work that he has ever seen.

"Through Mr. Cameron's resignation," said Collector Johnstone, "the government has lost a thoroughly competent officer, and this office will feel the loss materially, for although his work was not directly connected with that of the local force, he assisted much in solving problems regarding the new law."

Mr. Cameron entered revenue work as a stenographer in March, 1912, at San Francisco. From that position he worked to the top in the income tax field service. He has taken an office at 213 Hawaiian Trust building.

CHILD HINTS AT HUN PROPAGANDA AGAINST FOOD PLEDGE "DRIVE"

That the spreading of reports in opposition to the local food pledge campaign may have been the result of mild pro-German propaganda, is hinted at by J. F. Child, federal food administrator for the territory.

Certain Portuguese in Honolulu declined to sign the pledge cards on the ground that they had been informed that, if they had gardens, the government would seize the products; and that, if they stored up supplies in their homes in the event of a shortage, the government would commandeer them.

These reports have already been branded by Mr. Child as absolutely false, and he has pointed out that the government has absolutely no intention of doing what these Portuguese have been led to believe it would do. On the other hand, he has explained, the government is exerting every effort to increase the production of food at home.

nice man and sanctioned the fleeing of the women deserters from the battalion and from Petrograd.

Relative to Korniloff and Kaledines, she is fearful for the Jews in that part of Russia which they control.

Miss Lciontz, accompanied by her mother and father, is bound for Brooklyn, N. Y., where she has a married sister with whom she lived and attended school for a year and a half up to five years ago.

Of the unfortunate victims of the first "Battalion of Death," she says: "One sees so many nice looking girls now in Russia with an arm or leg gone."

Aboard the Rembrandt there are many other Russian refugees headed for America, all of whom look to this young girl for leadership, even as did a Rumanian youth, Sceineillef, and a veteran of both the Rumanian and Russian armies, who is a stowaway aboard the ship.

After being wounded and discharged from the army he made his way to Vladivostok, where he met Miss Lciontz, who encouraged him to proceed to America. His money giving out he still tried to continue with her as a stowaway, but was taken from the ship today by the immigration officials. He understands no English.

His chief worry this morning was parting with Miss Lciontz and fear he would be placed in jail while detained here. Then it was explained to Miss Lciontz' friend that he was to be taken to the immigration station.

This she did not understand until she was told "like Ellis island." The explanation was clear to her, and she smiled cheerfully again and encouraged him with rapid-fire Russian as he was taken from the Rembrandt.

The immigration officers thing the Rumanian boy may be permitted to remain here, or go on to the United States.

HATCH FAMILIAR WITH PRINCESS BERNICE'S PLANS FOR KAM. SCHOOLS

Former Judge Francis M. Hatch would be a particularly happy selection as Bishop estate trustee, it was pointed out today, following the recommendation to the circuit court on his behalf yesterday by the Bishop estate estate board.

Judge Hatch was the lowyer who drafted the late Princess Bernice Pauahi Bishop's will and held many and detailed conferences with her. It is said he must have known, more than anyone else now living, her plans for the Kamehameha schools, her hopes and ambitions for the schools supported by her estate and which were the prime activity under the estate. As the repository of her ideas and because of his personal and legal qualifications, he is held to be a most logical appointee by the court.

THINKS REBELS WILL CONTROL POWER IN CHINA

That the revolutionary government of China will eventually be the actual government of the republic is the guarded prediction of Bishop W. S. Lewis, recent visitor in Honolulu. For many years Bishop Lewis has been located at Shanghai supervising the work of the Methodist Episcopal church in that part of China.

"There is practically no government at Peking which functions as a government in all parts of the nation. I think, on the whole, the people of China are opposed to the northern government, of which Li Huan Hong is the acting president," the bishop declared.

Bishop Lewis says that the revolutionary government of the southern part of China is not fully organized. After an attempt was made to prorogue parliament, the southern sympathizers went to Shanghai and remained for some time, after which the capital was established at Canton.

"Now the struggle for supremacy is going on. As I do not think the northern government has the confidence of the people of the north any more than those of the south I think it is doomed to fall. There will have to be an eventual compromise between the two governments," is the conclusion of the bishop.

Both the governments are seeking the cooperation of the Allies and both have declared war against Germany, so there is little danger of division over the European struggle, he thinks. The division of the power of the two governments is marked by the Yangtse river, he adds.

Asked regarding Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the Chinese republic, and who is so well known locally, he said:

"Sun Yat Sen is identified with the southern party, but is not in its leadership. In fact there is no well defined personality in the leadership of the revolutionary party of the south."

LOCAL BEER TO SHRINK IN ALCOHOL WHEN NEW PROCLAMATION ISSUED

As soon as the provisions of the president's proclamation reducing the alcoholic contents of beer to 2½ per cent become applicable in Hawaii, they will be carried out by the Honolulu Brewing & Malting Co., St. C. Sayres, secretary and manager, announced today. The alcoholic content of the beer manufactured by the local brewery is about 3½ per cent. Manager Sayres says that the reduction, if it has to be made, will in no way affect the brewery's output.

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 13.—The Japanese parliamentary delegation to the United States, headed by T. Masao, returned to Japan this morning. The delegation arrived on the Canada Maru of the O. S. K. line.

COX ENLISTS IN QUAKERS' CORPS FOR WAR SERVICE

Joel P. Cox, county engineer of Maui, has accepted a position with the American Friends' Reconstruction Service for work in France and will leave for that war zone as soon as he can be released from his civic duties and the selective draft list. Besides being county engineer he is engineer to the Maui loan fund commission.

With regard to the selective draft for the national army, Mr. Cox's name is near the top of the list, his number being 24, so that it will be among the first to be considered by the exemption board.

As the service of the Society of Friends, or "Quakers" as its members are commonly known, which he proposes to join is one of the great humane movements connected with the war, being the reconstruction of public utilities such as water and other works in the cities devastated by the Germans, it is anticipated that Mr. Cox will have no difficulty in procuring exemption.

Mr. Cox is the son of Principal Isaac M. Cox of Kamehameha school. His mother is also a member of the profession and of the College club of Honolulu. Last March he married Miss Helen Horton of Pasadena, Cal., a graduate of Stanford, whom he first met at that institution.

We have some pretty neckwear to show you

It is pleasant to think now, as Christmas draws near, there are scores of artists and designers all over the world busy creating things to make you and your friends look prettier than ever.

The necklaces we have received from them for this season's wear are truly delightful to look at—and will add a very important touch to your fall gown.

Organdie, voile collars and collar and cuff sets, dainty designs in Georgette and crepe de chine, embroidered, hemstitched and lace trimmed.

APPEAL IS MADE BY ASSOCIATED CHARITY BUREAU

Funds for Next Year Must Be Raised or Humane Work Will Suffer

Drawing attention to the large amount of work it is doing for the public good, the Associated Charities organization is beginning a canvass for funds totalling $20,500. The appeal is indorsed, after investigation, by the chamber of commerce.

The letter of appeal, signed by the president, J. R. Galt, and the finance committee, J. L. Cockburn, Mrs W. D. Westervelt, W. F. Frear, W. L. Whitney and A. Gartley, says in part.

It is of the utmost importance that we uphold the standards of work, especially in war time and in order to do this, we appeal to you to continue to contribute to the support of our association.

An estimate of our expenses for November and December, in addition to the ten months' expenditure, will total for the year about $20,500.

The chamber of commerce has indorsed our request to solicit $20,000 for the 1918 expenses. We expect to realize from our investments and from special contributions any additional money which may be needed to carry on the year's work.

The statistical report for ten months ending November 1, emphasizes the scope of the work. It says:

Number of families under care	573
Number of individuals under care	1,766
Service Rendered
Visits to or in behalf of the poor	3,539
Doctor's care secured for individuals	132
Number for whom hospital or other institutional care has been provided	132

STORE FINED FOR FRAUD IN ADS

Iowa's new law against fraudulent advertising stood its first test in court with the conviction of the Emporium Cloak and Suit Co. of Des Moines. In sustaining charges brought by the Associated Vigilance Committee of Iowa, Judge J. E. Mershon of the municipal court fined the concern $150 and costs. Later the fine was reduced one-half on a plea for leniency by the defense.

The case upholds the new principle of law that exaggerated price comparisons are in reality statements of fact rather than of mere opinion.

The store advertised $20 winter coats, $10.99; $18 dresses, $8.98, and $4 and $5 silk blouses, $1.98. The Vigilance Committee secured one each of the articles advertised and submitted them to experts, all of whom swore that the garments were not of the value claimed. The highest retail value placed on the coat was $12.50, on the dress $10 to $12, and on the blouse $2.50. The evidence was that the blouse was a grade ordinarily used as a leader at $1.95.

In rendering his decision Judge Mershon said that technicalities would not hold in a case where the violation of the law was so complete.

"The offense was willful and intentional," he said, "and a plainer case could not be shown."

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv

'OVER TOP' FUND REACHES $21,994

Activity on the part of the workers in the Y. W. C. A. campaign to raise a fund of $45,000 for association and war work brought in a total of $9,327.25 for the last 24 hours, raising the total amount subscribed to the "Over the Top" campaign to $21,994.40.

Walter Dillingham was the principal speaker at the luncheon at the association today. He urged the workers to continue the system which had been adopted.

Mr. Dillingham talked to a certain extent on assets and liabilities, and remarked that the assets were what a man had left over, and he believed that the campaign committee could do well to work on this phase of the situation.

A number of Japanese women of the city were present at the luncheon and more than 75 members of the various teams listened to the talks and reports of the captains.

Captains reporting contributions of more than $100 today were as follows: Miss Harriet Forbes, $1760.50; Mrs. W. C. Hobdy, $854.25; Mrs. John Guild, $300; Mrs. Forbes, $2776; Mrs. R. D. Williams, $397.50; Mrs. Elizabeth Mackall, $316.50; Miss Alice Hopper, $303; Mrs. Harold Hustace, $196.50; Mrs. R. G. Moore, $125; Japanese women, $240; executive committee, $2600.

THE FORESIGHT OF A LOCAL FIRM

A well known local lady visited three clothing stores yesterday with her two sons seeking to outfit her boys with blue serge suits. Not until she reached The Hub, on King street, did she find clothes which suited her. The manager of the Hub anticipating a general rise in serges and a probable scarcity bought heavily early in the spring in boys' serges which explains why today the Hub is selling all-wool, Washington blue serge suits in ages from 6 to 17, at $8.50. The Hub is still in their temporary quarters, at 78 South King street, opposite the Union Grill.

POLICE COURT NOTES

The case of David C. Buick, which was continued from yesterday morning until this morning, by common consent of both attorneys, is continued until December 27. William Carden is attorney for the defense.

Through some misunderstanding, Charles Hubert, auto driver, charged with manslaughter, failed to appear in court this morning. He is out on a bond of $2500. The case will be called for preliminary hearing before Judge Irwin on December 19.

S. Maida, arrested yesterday for the murder of the seven-year-old son of the camp boss, Tsunudu, near the Palama fire station, appeared in police court this morning, charged with first degree murder. No plea was entered, although the defendant asked for a preliminary hearing before Police Judge Irwin. The case was continued until December 17.

Declaring that he had used a knife only in self-defense and after two shots had been fired at him by two Hawaiians, Private E. Lewis, D Company, 25th Infantry, was committed to the circuit court by Judge Harry Irwin, police magistrate, yesterday. Lewis was arrested two weeks ago, charged with having seriously wounded Harry Wilson and Thomas Kahoe at Kakaako. Lewis' defense was that the two Hawaiians attacked him and shot at him and he knifed them to prevent a bad beating.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

PINES CO. TO BUILD $100,000 STORAGE PLANT

In preparation for any possible shortage of shipping and the resultant need of large storage facilities in these islands, the Hawaiian Pineapple Company, Ltd., will shortly build a concrete fireproof and damp-proof warehouse on its property at Iwilei, which will cost $100,000 and cover an area of seven-eighths of an acre.

The removal of the old buildings which stand on the site to be occupied by the new warehouse has already begun and the construction of the big storage plant will start as soon as the city and county building inspector can pass upon and approve the plans.

Final details in connection with the drawing of the plans are now being completed by the Hawaiian Pineapple Company architects. The contract for the construction of the warehouse has been let to the Pacific Engineering Company and most of the materials are already on the ground.

K. B. Barnes, manager of the Hawaiian Pineapple Company, said today that the growth of the business done required the new warehouse and further that they were making preparations to have ample storage facilities.

The subject for next Sunday morning at the Military Bible class will be "Militant Rome and the Jewish People. This class meets on the lanai of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock. Each session lasts exactly 45 minutes. The leader is Professor Vaughan McCaughey. The course is open to all young men, both civilians and enlisted men of the service. The subject for Dec. 23 will be "Jesus of Nazareth as a Militant Character."

ENGLAND PLACES ORDER FOR SHIPS IN CANADA

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, Eng.—It is announced here that Great Britain has placed orders in Canada for 22 steel vessels of 3400 to 8000 tons, the total tonnage now under consideration being 150,000. The vessels are to be launched this year or early in 1918. Orders for wooden ships to the value of $10,000,000 are also under consideration.

AMERICAN DENTIST FORCED INTO GERMAN ARMY

COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—Dr. Fisher, an American dentist, who has been practising in Cologne, has been taken into the German army, according to advices received here from Germany. The conscription was made under the rule requiring under certain conditions that foreign residents in Germany serve in the army.

Dr. Fisher hails from Chicago. He has resided in Germany for more than ten years and had decided to continue his practise there during the war.

INDIGO FROM MICHIGAN.

Advices from Midland, Mich., tell us of the first production of indigo from coal tar in the United States, says Ellwood Hendrick in "The Popular Science Monthly." One thousand pounds of 20 per cent paste are produced daily, despite the fact that in the last tariff bill the duty on dyestuffs was removed from indigo. The annual consumption of indigo in normal times is in the neighborhood of 10,000 pounds. By 1912 the German makers of the coal tar indigo, which is chemically the same as the product of the tropical indigo plants, had driven the natural product from the world's markets. The artificial is considered better and more reliable than the natural dye.

THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

MOTHER'S LOVE IS PORTRAYED

No element that is calculated to win interest and approval from theater-goers is lacking in the current week-end program at the Liberty theater. The bill includes a combination of attractions that should satisfy the most captious. The offerings that make up the bill include a star of more than national fame, Pauline Frederick, in a Paramount picture which has scored heavily in New York and other Eastern cities, and the serial picture in which Billie Burke is winning additions to the ranks of her admirers.

The Pauline Frederick picture has as its theme that great human force that most surely grips the heart. "The Love That Lives" is the name of the story, and the love that lives in the picture is a mother's love for her son. It is a narrative of high dramatic power faithfully delineated by a great artist.

"Gloria's Romance," the Billie Burke serial that forms a part of the program, in the new instalment lives up to all forecasts made for it. Billie Burke is always a favorite, and in "Gloria's Romance" she has a tale worth the telling. Her gowns are a particular feature of the production. The Pathe News pictures have timely interest.

COMMITS MURDER WHILE IN SLEEP

'Her Temptation," the latest William Fox picture, which is the main attraction at the Hawaii theater, is a drama of domestic life in which a unique quality is introduced. The power of the human will is the important factor in the story, and the chief tragic incident is a murder that a wife commits while she is in a hypnotic trance. While the theme is one of unusual sort, it is presented in a manner wholly artistic. Gladys Brockwell, who is widely known as a leading Fox star, has the support of an excellent cast in the production, and with her appears such well known people as Ralph Lewis, James Cruze and Bertram Grassby.

The Billy West comedy, held over from the beginning of the week, continues to meet with popular approval. "The Hero," as the picture is called, affords the star full opportunity to draw the laughs that his appearance usually calls for.

In addition to the two pictures mentioned, the new instalment of the serial picture, "The Neglected Wife," brings new and interesting developments in the story.

The Social Side of Hygiene

Society as a rule is generally careful about the state of their health, and they are apt to make good use of remedies known as disease preventives. Germicides and antiseptics are included in this class, but the greatest care should be exercised in using any which contains poisons, unless prescribed by a physician.

By reason of its absolute safety and its beneficial results, physicians have strongly recommended Tyree's Antiseptic Powder. This preparation appears to occupy a unique position as a toilet and hygienic antiseptic and is being most favorably commented upon by society, both in the States and abroad. The late Prof. W. M. Gray, pathologist to Providence Hospital and microscopist to the Army Medical Museum, in discussing the merits of the preparation said: "From the above and other experiments with Tyree's Antiseptic Powder, I conclude that it is a most valuable and useful compound, and that its efficiency must be due to its peculiar mode of manufacture and its well-balanced chemical adjustment as well as the exceptional purity of its ingredients." It is sold in packages at twenty-five cents and one dollar by the manufacturer, J. S. Tyree, Chemist, Inc., Washington, D. C.

TWO FEATURES AT BIJOU TONIGHT

Beginning tonight there will be two features shown for one price of admission at the Bijou. The first will be the official pictures of the U. S. navy taken by the request of the government to be shown in the countries of the Far East. German propaganda has led the people in the East to believe that the United States has a small navy and is not in a position to help the allied cause to any great extent. When these pictures are shown there they will undoubtedly change their minds. These picture should also be interesting to the soldiers and sailors here, for all sides are shown, showing the boys at work and also at play. The other feature will be a most interesting modern seven part photo-drama entitled "Loyalty." These two features will be shown on one bill for one price of admission.

'ABOUT WOMEN' IS CLEVER PLAYLET

'About Women," the clever satirical one-act comedy written by Mrs. H. P. Agee, better known to the literary world as Fannie Heaslip Lea, will be presented for the first time on Friday, Dec. 14, at the annual entertainment of The Footlights Club.

To Mrs. Denise Mahan-Beall has been given the pleasant task of creating the charming Mrs. Wilkenning, about whom the plot is woven. Will Lewers will interpret the character of O'Kelly, the intimate friend of Mrs. Wilkenning's husband. The other character in the play is that of the youthful poet, which will be portrayed by George Lindeley.

The Footlights has an unusually interesting program for the coming performance. It consists of three playlets, of which "About Women" is second on the list. The other two are "Eugenically Speaking," by Goodman, and "The Twelve-Pound Look," by J. M. Barrie. The opening performance will be on Friday evening and a second performance will be given on Saturday, Dec. 15. Both will be at the Lanai theater. Seats are on sale at Laniakea. The entire proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

LYCEUM THEATER AT MAUI TO BE REBUILT

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.)

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 14.—Plans were completed a few days ago by H. B. Weller when on Maui for the rebuilding of the Kahului Lyceum. "Maui will have a real theater when the Lyceum is completed," said Mr. Weller.

Work on the new structure was begun yesterday morning. The plans are elaborate. The front entrance will be on the corner, but the building will not be erected in the same manner as the Lyceum which was destroyed by fire. It will be across the spacious lot, so the stage will be as far as possible from other buildings, and the corner of the lot on Puunene avenue and also the corner of the lot on the road to Wailuku will be left vacant, at least as far as the theater itself is concerned. This arrangement will be a great advantage, as the view either way will be unobstructed, and this corner here will not be as dangerous as it used to be.

SAYS ACID STOMACHS NEED MAGNESIA

Doctor Calls Bisurated Magnesia Safest, Quickest and Most Effective Acid Stomach Corrective.

The almost universal use of magnesia by physicians and specialists in the treatment of stomach troubles, is due to the fact that it stops food fermentation and neutralizes the acid—the direct cause of nearly all stomach troubles. Of the many forms of magnesia such as oxides, citrates, carbonates, sulphates, etc., the most suitable and efficient, and the one prescribed by leading specialists is bisurated magnesia, a teaspoonful of which in a little warm water immediately after eating will instantly neutralize the acid, stop fermentation, and thus ensure painless normal digestion. Care should be taken to get bisurated magnesia, as its action is infinitely more effective. It is also, by the way, usually stocked by druggists in convenient compressed tablets as well as in the ordinary powder form. Stomach sufferers and dyspeptics who follow this plan and avoid the use of pepsin, charcoal, soda mints, drugs and medicines are invariably astonished to find that the stomach, relieved of the irritating acid and gas, soon regains its normal tone, and can do its work alone without the doubtful aid of artificial digestants.—Adv.

STUDENTS WILL HEAR ORIENTAL ART LECTURE

Members of the art class of the College of Hawaii will hear a lecture on Oriental art this afternoon in the exhibition rooms of Lewers & Cooke. The lecture will be delivered by M. B. A Revelation and A Warning

The revelations of German intrigue centering about Honolulu which the Star-Bulletin is able to publish today add to the varied war-history of the past three years a new chapter of international interest.

How wide was the mesh of German organization and how devious were its methods are told graphically in the diary to which Captain Grasshof of the interned German cruiser Geier confided with amazing indiscretion not only facts but copies of telegraphic messages involving not merely himself but German residents of Honolulu.

With what scope the German government worked abroad is shown in the fact that this commander of a small and obsolete German war-vessel, this German naval officer who theoretically was isolated in Honolulu, nevertheless appears as the active agent in scheme after scheme to foment international trouble, and in plan after plan to violate the neutrality of the United States after he had interned his vessel under American and international law.

Von Papen and Boy-Ed—those two names of notorious significance—those two arch-scoundrels associated with von Bernstorff — and the genial, plausible Count von Bernstorff himself appear in the pages of the diary as concerning themselves with German and American affairs. Their dealings in forged passports for Germans passing through Honolulu will come as no surprise, for conniving at forgery was merely one of their lesser pieces of mischief.

As to the repeated references to the German consulate, as to the entries involving Klebahn, Rodiek and Schroeder, it may be stated that the information contained therein and presumably a great deal more is in possession of United States officials and that they are in a position to act upon it.

Beyond the absorbingly interesting story of machination and intrigue, with its atmosphere of secret agents and far-flung plotting, there is the fact that most of the activities of Grasshof should have been made impossible. There is the further fact that Hawaii has not hitherto had a half-realization of the extent of German intrigue.

These revelations should serve to wake up every American citizen who is inclined to easy-going indifference to the facts of German activity in Hawaii. They should convince every such citizen that nothing but the most ceaseless vigilance will serve to protect Hawaii and the nation from the ceaseless conspiracies of the enemy. They should open every eye to the faithlessness of German word; to the ready violation of law and honor by German officers; and emphasize again the already known fact that a promise, a pledge or a parole is nothing to the German but "a scrap of paper."

Capt. Grasshof carried too far the German contempt for "a scrap of paper." He confided to "a scrap of paper" the story of intrigue, and now that "scrap of paper" turns up to expose to the world himself and the men with whom he dealt.

Tenement Evils Become Acute

Deplorable conditions of overcrowding in the tenements due to the sudden influx of laborers and their families from the plantation, temporarily affluent with bonus money, have been brought to the attention of the Star-Bulletin in the hope that official and private agencies will unite to prevent grave social evils arising from the indiscrimnate massing of men, women and children.

It appears that the situation is acute for a double reason; first, the payment of the large bonus has caused many laborers to quit work, either for a few weeks of "good time" here in the city, or to take passage to the Pacific coast. The stories of fortunes to be made in California still lure ignorant Spanish, Portuguese and others, in spite of the cruel disillusionment so many have suffered.

Coming to the city either to spend their suddenly-acquired money or in the expectation of securing steamer-passage, the laborers and their families take up quarters in the tenements. Those who hoped to go to the states have found it virtually impossible to get accommodations owing to the shortage of steamers. It is estimated that not more than a tenth of the expectant passengers are able to secure tickets. The remaining nine-tenths add to the already large crowds who have quit their regular occupations and, are little better than "floaters."

W. E. Pietsch, social worker, who goes into the tenement districts almost every day, tells appalling stories of what is happening. Families with young boys and girls, fresh from the plantations and quite innocent of the pitfalls that may await them, are herded together with single men of all races, and with women and other girls who ply their illegitimate trade brazenly.

As the money vanishes, the laborers grow desperate for money. Surrounded by evils which they scarcely suspect, the daughters, the young sisters, are likely to be forced by family necessity to adopt the most opportune method of earning a few dollars.

Mr. Pietsch has taken the problem to various social relief agencies and found them all willing to cooperate in a plan of persuading the laborers to return to the plantation, where steady and lucrative employment is assured them. He maintains that if outright charity is given them here in Honolulu, there is no hope that they will return until the last penny is gone and by that time the worst evils of herding the sexes together may have been wrought. He also feels that nothing would be more helpful in checking this indiscrimnate herding than prompt and vigorous action by the board of health to prevent overcrowding in tenement rooms.

Dr. Pratt, president of the board of health, in a talk to the Ad Club recently, pointed out the difficulty of prevent such overcrowding. The board of health's powers in this direction are comparatively small. But if such agencies as the Salvation Army, the Associated Charities and private philanthropists will refuse to pay out money to these families unless they will return to the plantations, sheer necessity and the sure road to prosperity again will speedily set their faces away from the tenements and toward the comfortable quarters on the plantations.

Each year is repeated the old story of laborers quitting their work in Hawaii because of fantastic and exaggerated stories of what they can earn in California. Each year, after this excursion far afield, they return to Hawaii exhausted in purse and often broken in health. This year few can get to the coast at all, and cooperation on the part of those who must deal with the needy poor will insured, in the majority of cases, their return to former employment at good wages and under first-class living conditions.

Curtailing the city's expenses for motor cars for department officials will call for a display of most heroic economy. But retrenchment of that order will profit the administration a lot more in public approval than some of the plans advocated for saving the city's money at the cost of reduced service.

The Support of Volcano Research

It may not be generally known that the scientific station at Kilauea is supported entirely by private subscription. The Hawaiian Volcano Research Association, with members and correspondents all over the world, is seeking funds for 1918. Certain corporations in Hawaii have given as reason for not subscribing to the labors of the volcano observatory that this work does not immediately concern their business.

That scientifically minded group of hard-worked businessmen, the directors of the research association, Messrs. Thurston, Peck, Thayer, Shingle, Atherton, Westervelt and Cooke, elected by one hundred and fifty associated persons representing a vital interest of the community, of the territorial government and of the nation, are not actuated in this service by the needs of their own businesses. The INTEREST in question is the volcano, center of a famous national park, prime attraction to travelers and primal gas-vent of a celestial globe on which we perforce must dwell.

The interest is vital because volcanoes are destructive—like the German army. The interest is territorial and not local because everyone goes to the volcano, soldiers, tourists and islanders. Everyone wishes the volcano explained and everyone quickens and trembles if his home, his loved ones or his purse is threatened by earthquake or lava, by flood or by drought. The islands are volcano-made. The interest is national because our volcano observatory is American and unique and may indeed pass into national control. The observatory has creditably completed five years of experiment, record and achievement. The director of the observatory has given aid, comfort and scientific advice at time of disaster, not only in Hawaii in 1916, but also in five other lands stricken by volcanic catastrophe, namely Japan, Italy, Costa Rica, Martinique and St. Vincent—all allies of the United States in the present world conflict.

Hawaii may take pride in the observatory and sustain it, or may release its scientific treasures to outsiders, or may let it die. But let no one living on these islands say that it does not concern his busines.

To this Governor Pinkham adds official indorsement:

Read and approved thirteenth of December, 1917.
LUCIUS E. PINKHAM,
Governor of Hawaii.

Many thanks, kind-hearted folks, for the response to the request made yesterday on behalf of a children's home for magazines and other publications from which pictures can be clipped and made up into scrapbooks. Colored pictures are particularly desirable, but any of those suitable for children, including photos and postcards, will be welcomed. Leave them in the editorial rooms, Star-Bulletin building.

One of the mysteries of German psychology as revealed in the San Francisco trial is how "easy" the Germans were in digging up thousands of dollars for perfectly unreliable and unscrupulous plotters.

A coal mine in Pennsylvania was recently closed for three days because a couple of wild cats had gotten into the mine and wouldn't be dislodged. Wild-cat mining seldom does so little damage.

They must have called Herr Zimmermann a foreign minister because in his case there was "nobody home."

La Follette will soon be as popular in the United States as President Wilson is in Germany.

Almost everybody but Mexico has declared war on Germany.

So far as Capt. Grasshof is concerned, this is "Der Tag."

Letters on Timely Topics

AMERICA NO PLACE FOR FOREIGN PROPOGANDA

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: "A Reader of the Star-Bulletin" writes to ask me if I think Mr. Cleary's all right. He hints that because Mr. Cleary is Irish and not German, I may be silent.

The fact is, I had already written something about the matter for my regular column, but as it may be some time before that could appear, I'll copy the letter here:

I think Mr. Cleary has no grievance against Messrs. Henry May & Co. They were perfectly justified in their action, went slowly, and with unusual tolerance.

Other firms might well take them for an example. The fact that Mr. Cleary so jauntily justifies his action is prima facie evidence that he lacks a true conception of the duties of an American citizen.

From a literary standpoint his poem is good, very good: its sentiment is rank.

Nothing can excuse it for any period of American history, before, during, or after the war.

Mr. Allen says editorially: "Many an American citizen still sympathizes with Ireland, and is frank about expressing that sympathy. But it is one think to speak for Ireland, and another thing to speak for Germany." That's it.

This poem speaks for Germany's cruellest outrages upon innocent women and children in England:

"When Germany shall batter down
And set aflame the wooden walls,
When grey coats march through London town,
And Britain's bloody sceptre falls,
When stands exposed before the world
The leper of humanity—
Then Freedom's flag shall be unfurled,
Ireland will stand—with Germany."

Before writing such disgraceful stuff Mr. Cleary should have given a thought to his own personal necessities.

Well, this war is settling a lot of things. One important matter is the citizen's accountability to his neighbor, his community, his government—not to some distant land from which he came.

This war is going to make a country of the United States; a homogeneous people.

We're going to be closer to England, Ireland, Scotland, France, and the other countries, even Germany, but we're going to protect the United States of America, too, within and without. You bet!

We're going to be more careful who gets in, and when they get in, how they conduct themselves.

America has too long been made a field for lawless campaigns against other peoples: insane, anarchistic crusades, in which wild-eyed socialists of all countries have raised their bloody flag.

We want to be done with BLOOD, and the hideous creatures who preach it.

We want true brotherhood and companionship and love in this broad land of plenty.

We don't want our food wasted in feeding exiles who come here to breathe out murder and revenge.

Ireland has had grievances, but they are being corrected by a country well inclined to do the right thing by all its people. That Ireland's problem is still a problem is due largely to Ireland itself.

That's plain to every man who reads history aright. And the Irish temperament, delightful as it is in many of its phases, is also one cause of the difficulty of dealing with the Irish.

England is coming slowly but surely to a solution.

There's no bloodiness or "marching through London" required, and so far as the United States is concerned, it's not our affair.

The Irish who come here to live must leave that matter overseas. They cannot inject it into our politics or our social life. They may think what they please, but the law is going to regulate what they write and say.

We have as much right to demand this of the Irish as we have of the Germans.

Our efficiency has been impaired by German, English, Scotch, Irish, Russian, Polish, Jewish, Italian and other kinds of Americanism.

It's time we shut up about the blood that's in us, or the bestever country from which we ourselves or our fathers were glad to be expatriated.

We're no better than we are, no matter who we are.

If we get drunk on German beer, English port, Scotch whisky, Irish Fenianism, Russian anarchism, Italian blackhandism, Jewish graft, we're not fit to live in America.

This country has treated everybody (except possibly the negro and the Chinese) right. We have treated them with good nature and generosity. Till now, we have trusted their good-will.

If anything, we've been too good to them, as sometimes we are to our own children.

We may have spoiled them by over-indulgence. Ingratitude, as we know, is often the result of such spoiling. Mr. Cleary has been ungrateful for what America has done for him.

No big talk or explanation can atone for the cruel sentiments he has expressed—nothing but a contrite heart.

E. S. GOODHUE.

ANENT THE PRICE OF FISH.

Honolulu, Dec. 9, 1917.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: When in the course of belligerent events, it becomes necessary for one clique of men to decide the destinies of the general public, and to declare unto oppressed mankind its obligations and beholdens unto them of the inner band—it behooves humble mortals to inquire into the reasons thereof and the logic therein that, being enlightened in the flame of purification, we may come to understand the sacred mysteries. For the way to Nirvana lies in the regeneration of man and in the pronouncing of the secret words. Let him who would read of the sacred Vedas first utter the mystic OM, lest in confusion his thought be lost, and learning slip away into oblivion.

A mystic name and a mystic tie, the territorial food commission—inured in the powers of government, product of the brain of Brahma. Long may it endure and its usefulness be prolonged. Let not the murky waters engulf our sovereign sires.

Nor, please Allah, may it come into conflict with that glorious trio resplendent in its disregard of public weal or of public woe. Far be it from the laity to dim the luminosity of the sacred symbol, or to intrdude into the inner recesses of Chillingworth, Winston and Cooke.

And it shall not be for the public to demand but for it to humbly accept. It shall not dictate, for it is subservient; and the public mind is a public void.

Let him who gainsalth the operations of price-exploiters, or the machinations of fish-boosters, be an athema. Be ever accursed that sodden train commonly known as the people. The senate halls of Iolani shall not be garnished in onions but in fish; smart society is immersed in the rarest of piscatorial aromas, not infrequently located near the corner of River and Hotel streets, nor imperceptible in the near vicinity of beautiful Palolo.

This is a realization of how humble and insignificant is the general public, and of how large and all important are those intricate interests entering into the fishing industry. For be it remembered that, withal, the public pocketbook and the public ballot are the only assets of the commonwealth.

And it is really surprising how presumptuous we are to question the right of our masters to charge us whatever prices they may deem fit, or to offer loaded figures to our susceptible food commission, or to present claims so harrowing as to cause even the denizens of the deep to weep scalding tears of sympathy.

Albeit, the publis has the option of eating or not eating fish, and the Lord knows how scarce piscis has become in the seven seas, and how utterly necessary it is for Honolulu to revert to feudal times in the conduct of its fishing rights. And it is unlawful for us to dip beneath the waves that roll on private strand or, for that matter, gaze upward into its over-doming canopy of heaven. For having read Lord Byron's apostrophe to the ocean, in which he extols the freedom of the briny deep in that immortal passage in Childe Harold:

"Man marks the earth with ruin—his control
Stops with the shore— • • • "

I am reminded that, after all, Hawaii has sadly upset poetic fantasy in her far-reaching endeavor to control not only land, but sea and sky.

Now it is not astonishing that prices should aviate like the soaring of that glorious bird the eagle into its hidden aeries, but the manner of passage is deep down into the hallowed folds of our humble pocketbooks, whose strings are not fastened into Gordian knots. And it is not to be remarked of how apparently obscure is the vision of proportion, entertained by these lovely isles of the mid-Pacific, in their endeavor to associate autocratic prices with democratic means, nor even the judgment of our learned food administrator in the advancing of theories so mathematically perfect, as to preclude all practical ideas or results.

Hence it is that all things being considered, we must take a fraternal view of the universe that is in Hawaii. Behold the little red foxes that run about seeking prey and the ensnaring of a busy world. Here is a bundle of sticks, in each separate rod a weakness, in the union, strength; there, a bow and arrows, the symbols of invincibility. True friendship hath no man but that he meet me on the level and part on the square.

Sith the world, indeed, is ancient and its syllogisms hoary in age, the passing day brings with it a burning brand of virtue from even the embers of evil. And evil there is in our Honolulu resplendent in the shimmering sheen of piscatorial cosmopolitanism.

Good people of Honolulu, what shall be your verdict?

Sincerely yours,

LAWRENCE KALEIOPU.

CENTRAL UNION PLANS XMAS ENTERTAINMENT

At a meeting of the executive council of the Central Union Bible school Tuesday, plans were formulated for the Christmas entertainment to be conducted by the Bible school on Friday evening, December 21, at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. R. D. Williams will give an exhibition of Christmas magic. Dr. Williams has the reputation of being a clever sleight-of-hand performer. Rev. Albert W. Palmer, the new minister, will relate a Christmas story, followed by the appearance of a real, live Santa Claus. Each pupil is expected to bring a present to give to Santa Claus, who in turn will give them to the poor children of the city. Refreshments will be served and a large Christmas tree will be decorated.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. W. J. Forbes, chairman; Mrs. E. A. Jones, Prof. Vaughan MacCaughey, J. E. Higgins, Walter Engle, Mrs. W. D. Westervelt and Mrs. Richard Whitcomb.

SUPREME COURT CASES.

The following cases are scheduled to be argued in the supreme court next Monday morning:

Antone Fernandez, Jr., vs. Sociedade Lusitana B. de Hawaii. Motion by plaintiff for correction of the transcript of evidence.

Territory of Hawaii by B. G. Rivenburgh, commissioner of public lands, v. F. G. Correa.

J. W. Ambrose v. Kealokaa. Appeal from circuit judge, second circuit.

Alfred N. Hayselden v. Wm. B. Lincoln, et al. Error to circuit court, second circuit.

In the matter of the petition of T. B. Lyons for a writ of quo warranto, directed to J. N. Uahinui. Reserved questions from circuit judge, second circuit.

Alfred N. Hayselden v. Wm. B. Lincoln, et al. Error to circuit court, second circuit.

Three hundred representatives from all parts of Germany attended the opening of the German Social Democracy Conference at Wurzburg, but there were no Independent Socialist delegates.

MEN of HAWAII

"MEN OF HAWAII," a biographical compilation of the men of note and substantial achievement in the Territory, which has been several months in preparation by the Star-Bulletin, is nearing completion and will be off the press for distribution about Dec. 20th. "Men of Hawaii" gives the facts of the careers of men active in the various fields of business and professional life. It is the most complete and authentic record that has ever been published in Hawaii.

Here are photos signalizing one of the biggest and best things that ever happened in Boy Scout activities in Hawaii—the launching of the Sea Scouts here. Honolulu and Hawaii once more are shown up in the lead of the country. The photos were taken last Saturday morning by the Star-Bulletin photographer. Upper photo, left to right—Leo de Roo, Carl Mortensen, Henry Silva, Guy Gitt, Cris Willis, Ezra Crane, Leonard McQueen, Alatau Wilder. Standing behind the line are, (left), Scout Executive R. N. Burnham, Scout Commissioner H. S. Hayward and George Crozier. In the lower photo the scouts are to be seen on the Charlotte C, getting ready for a cruise.

NOTICE.

The annual meeting of the Local Scout Council will be held at the Alexander Young hotel at 6:30 p. m.

TROOP MEETING CALENDAR.

Troop VIII will meet at its headquarters at 7:30 o'clock.

Troop III will meet at its headquarters at Moiliili next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Troop XX will meet at its new headquarters at 7:30 Friday evening.

Troop XX Gets New Headquarters

Next Friday evening the scouts of Troop XX will meet for the first time in their new headquarters which is at the church opposite from the Queen's hospital.

Scoutmaster Soares of the troop asks that all scouts in his troop make an effort to be present.

Troop III.

At the last meeting of Troop III at Moiliili, a class of fourteen scouts was organized to practise on the examination for the rank of second class. The troop is expecting some equipment by the next boat from the coast, staves and a troop flag being included.

TROOP V.

The usual meeting was held by Troop V last Friday evening. The financial business was again discussed. Phillip Zane talked about giving a dance at the Outrigger club. The others spoke of selling the bicycles which belong to the troop.

Patrol leaders were told to have a small memorandum book to keep track of all the records of the boys in passing their tests and in paying their weekly dues. William Holt of the second patrol was changed to the first patrol, formerly held by Louis Jardin.

E. S. Barry, formerly of Troop V is still keeping the drum and will not return it to the troop. He had the drum repaired for quite awhile and would return it if the troop would only pay him, it was stated.

A fifteen-minute drill was given to the boys. The troop was divided into two divisions under Thompson and Mortensen. The scout house is rather small for drilling so we had to drill out in the yard. We had a fine time. After the meeting football practise began.

TYAU,
Troop Scribe.

KNOT TIEING IN TROOP VIII.

At the short business meeting conducted by the members of the troop a challenge was issued by the Eagle patrol to the second patrol in knot tieing. Drill followed the business meeting and knot tieing followed the drill. A close competition between the two patrols followed and they were well matched but the Eagles carried off the honor of winning with the red marks for ability in knot tieing. It was found that all the knots tied by the scouts were correct.

A meeting of the troop will be held Friday evening at 7:30.

SEA SCOUTING WILL TAKE A STRONG HOLD HERE

So Says Popular Scout Officer.

That sea scouting will take a strong hold here, and in the near future will be looked upon as a greater unit than the troops of the land forces as they stand today, is the statement of Leo de Roo, one of the most popular Scout officers in the movement here.

Sea scouting will demand a very high standard and quite naturally will forge ahead of the mother organization very rapidly.

Experienced, clean, husky fellows will form the first troop of Sea Scouts here, and they will naturally demand that their standard be kept up, even though they will not boast of as large a membership as the land forces.

GIRL SCOUTS ENTERTAIN

It is particularly worthy of note that Troop II, Girl Scouts of Honolulu, gave an attractive program of music at their headquarters in Kakaako last Saturday night. That they could, so shortly after being organized, render so many songs in chorus as well as in solo and duet, reflects credit on the leaders, Mr. and Mrs. William Knott.

The girls were attractive in simple white dresses, with black ties and yellow leis. They were assisted by some of the boys of Troop VII as well as a few other outsiders, and netted $75 toward their equipment fund.

To Save Eyes Is The Object of This Free Prescription. Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50% in One Week's Time In Many Instances.

LONDON.—Thousands of people suffer from weak, work-strained eyes and other eye troubles because they do not know what to do, says Doctor Lewis. They know some good home remedy for all their other ills, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the inconvenience is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses they do not need, or which, after a few months, do their eyes more injury than good.

Here is a simple prescription that every one should use; 5 grains Optona dissolved in ¼ glass of water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use.

One man says: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses."

It is good for the eyes, and contains no ingredients which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

Note: Another prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Optona is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."—Adv.

Many Close Finishes In Y. M. Swimming Races Last Night

Ludy Langer Wins From Harold Kruger by Inches in Two Events —Ladies' Race Was One of the Feature Events of Evening—Marion Dowsett and Eleanor Lyser Tie for First Place—Preston Chapin Shows Ability in 220—Palama Wins Relay

If the swimmers and officials of the Y. M. C. A. meet had joined together last evening and "framed" they could not have staged a more exciting meet. From the first to the last event the swimmers were waging a merry battle, and practically every event was closely contested.

A large delegation was on hand, but not as many as ought to have been present for such a series of events. Governor Lucius Pinkham, General Wisser, General Johnson, Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson, Delegate Kuhio and other prominent people were present at the meet.

Hawaii has been lamenting the fact that there were no long distance swimmers here who could go after the laurels held by Ross, but last evening Harold Kruger made a game fight in the 800 meters, and although the winner is always accorded the honor for swimming a great race, great credit is due "Stubby" for his great fight against the Californian.

Great Race

For 40 laps Langer and Kruger stayed together, touching off at the turns with clock-like precision. Langer gained a trifle on the turns, but Kruger kept up his stroke, and the two long distance swimmers made a hard fight for honors, but Langer continued on to the line and in the last few strokes won from the local boy by inches.

The time for the race was slow. It was announced last evening that an English record had been smashed, but the time was 11:43 2-5. B. B. Kiernan of Australia in his race to the 900-yard mark made 11:35 2-5, and the 800 meters in 11:25 2-5. There is no official record for the 800 meters and had Langer smashed the time made by the other swimmers the record would not be allowed, as it was made in a 20-yard tank.

No Record

Norman Ross defeated Harold Kruger by about 50 yards in the 880-yard race here this year in 11:27 3-5, this being made in open water. Langer has made the 880 yards in open water in less than 11:30 while the best record for a 20-yard tank for the 880 yards is 11:14 1-5, made by Harry Hebner.

Langer set the pace in the 300 meters as he did in the 800 meters, and again Kruger stuck to him as the race proceeded. Langer was swimming in excellent form, and the local towheaded natator was plugging along even until the last lap. The crowd was yelling for "Stubby" to win, but Langer's experience and ability proved too much for the local boy in the last lap. The time was especially good, being only 1 1-5 seconds behind the record held by Vollmer.

Girls' Race Features

It was predicted that the race for girls would be one of the real features of the evening, and it was. From the start to the finish the young girls made a great showing, and when the line was reached Marion Dowsett and Eleanor Lyser were even. Miss Lyser gained on the turn, but in the last few yards Miss Dowsett spurted and nearly overcame the lead of the young swimmer from the Women's Auxiliary.

The judges were debating as to which swimmer had won, and finally decided it a dead heat. Edith Kenn was third by about one and one-half yards, but the judges were so mixed up that they gave Miss Hopkins a tie for third place with Miss Kenn. It was clearly a case of misunderstanding, as the Palama girl was clearly entitled to third place. It might be mentioned that the three swimmers who finished in the first three places are under 15 years of age. The time was 34 seconds, although the preliminary was made in 32 2-5.

The 60-yard open proved to be a close one in the early part of the race, but John Kelii closed up and won out in 1 2-5 seconds slower than the record held by Daniels. Harris made a pretty race for second place.

Albert Minvielle proved to be a stayer for the longer distances, and although many of the fans were confident that Chung would win out he failed to go the century up to the standard of the Outrigger boys.

Kruger Wins It

Stubby Kruger had a walkaway in the 75-yard backstroke, finishing in 49 4-5 seconds. Hebner's time for this distance was 49. Preston Chapin proved to be the real class of the 220 yard novice winning easily. This swimmer has been showing unusual promise and will without doubt be one of Hawaii's real stars in the future. Markham did not appear to be up to his usual form.

Hitchcock gave Kelii a great race for 80 yards in the 100 meter open and for a time was leading the Healani swimmer, but Kelii woke up and opened up a big gap in the last lap.

The youngsters under 12 years of age got a hand last night when they flashed through the water, and little Burbank, the water wizard, won out in a hot finish. The breaststroke was called no race as the swimmers were disqualified for not swimming the proper breaststroke and failing to touch with both hands.

Ah Kin Yee, champion Chinese swimmer of the world, won the 100 yard open event with a margin to spare over Hitchcock. Bob Fuller took the diving honors once more and Chung came back in the 50 and won from Minvielle who had defeated him in the longer event.

The last event of the evening was expected to be a hard fight, but the Auld sisters of Palama gained such a lead over Outrigger swimmers that Josephine Hopkins and Marion Dowsett made a great fight in the last relay, but Thelma Kenn had a real lead and was not in danger.

HAROLD KRUGER

MEDEIROS WINNER OF HONOLULU GOLF ONE-CLUB CONTEST

Whether there shall be absolutely strict conformity to golf rules in the rather informal one-club tournament at Moanalua last Sunday was the question upon whose answer depended award of the first prize. Last evening the committee in charge was still debating the question though inclined to give a liberal interpretation and award the victory to J. P. Medeiros, and this was done today.

Medeiros, it appears, did not adhere strictly to the ruling regarding lifting his ball from a hazard. Approaching the ninth hole Sunday he shot the ball into the stream which runs to the right (coming home) of te Moanalua fairway. While entitled to lift his ball and drop it a club's length from the stream, it is alleged that it was taken in on the fairgreen more than this distance, the player being unaware of the exact ruling.

However, it is pretty certain that a good many players in the one-club contest did not follow the rules to the hairsbreadth. The one-club tourney furnished a lot of good sport and there is no disposition to take away from Mr. Medeiros the credit for having gone around in winning style. A large number took part and even the near-cloudburst that deluged the valley did not dampen the enthusiasm, though it did dampen the skin, of the Honolulu Golf club folks.

Medeiros won with 88 net, using a mid-iron. William Cullen was second with net 90 and William Bell third with 91.

Next Sunday the club is pulling off a two-ball foursome. It will be hole-play. Players must be ready to start at 9:15.

On the following Sunday the second match of the Honolulu Golf Club vs. Oahu Country Club will be played on the Haleiwa course.

Finals of the Honolulu club's foursome will be played either on Christmas Day or the Sunday following.

REGENO DOMINO HERE TO BOOK FILIPINO TEAM

Regeno Domino, a prominent Filipino baseball promoter of Maui, is in the city. He came here to make arrangements for games with the Filipino baseball team of this city. Domino said that baseball was booming on the Valley Island, and was confident that the Filipinos of Puukolii would welcome the Pacific League team.

Domino is anxious to book the Filipinos for games on Rizal Day, December 30, and the local team may be able to make the trip to Maui to play the pick of the teams there. Domino is president of the Filipino club on the other island and is well known in Honolulu.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO SECURE STARS FOR GIRLS OVER 30 RACE

There appears to be a growing interest in the plan to stage a race for girls over 30 years old at the next swimming races at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening. Some of the members of the games committee of the association appear to favor the plan, and it is thought that more than 100 entries will be received.

The Y. M. C. A. committee would not state that they would have room for this race on the program, but said that if public sentiment demanded it the race would be given. "Tommy" Thompson, Walter Marshall, Bert Hushaw and two other members, still to be appointed, have been named as the committee to secure entries. They expect to receive a warm reception during their campaign. "No trouble at all" is their slogan.

SWIMMERS RUN TO FORM IN PICKS MADE BY STAR-BULLETIN WEDNESDAY

12 Out of 13 Winners Named; Picked First, Second, Third in Nine of "Y" Events

The old dope sheet ran true to form once more last evening, and only one winner out of the 13 was not picked in the selections made by the Star-Bulletin yesterday afternoon. On other occasions 11 winners out of 12 have been selected, and on two occasions 10 winners out of 11 were named, but this is the first time that the swimmers were picked in order named for every place in nine races.

From the results last evening the places were picked in exactly the same manner which they were published in the Star-Bulletin in nine events out of the 13. The Star-Bulletin has been fortunate in the past in picking winners or has been lucky, but the dope on last night's Y. M. C. A. meet holds the palm.

The following events and winners are published, together with the selections:

Star-Bulletin Selections—	How they finished.

Norman Ross Leads Swimmers In Number of New Marks Set

Olympian Swimmer Has Eight New Records to His Credit—Duke Kahanamoku's New Record for Century Recognized By A. A. U.—Olga Dorfner Leads Feminine Stars in Record Breaking—J. W. Overton Makes Sensation in Indoor Meets

Norman Ross, the sensational long distance swimmer, who flashed across the swimming horizon last year, has added eight recognized A. A. U. records to the long list of marks the Olympian has made. At a recent meeting in St. Louis the A. A. U. officials recognized a number of records for the year.

In addition to the eight records set by Ross, six other swimmers have added one record each. Duke Kahanamoku, Harold Kruger, Ludy Langer, Perry McGillivray, Mike McDermott and C. B. Pavlicek have each one new mark to their credit.

Olga Dorfner leads the feminine swimmers in new marks, with Dorothy Burns a close second. J. W. Overton, the Yale long distance runner, is given credit for two new marks, including 4.16 for the indoor mile. The list of records recognized are as follows:

COMMERCIAL NEWS

SUGAR MAILED TO N. Y. TO HELP OUT SHORTAGE

Among the high lights in the shipment by rail, express and steamship from this city, San Pedro and Vancouver, B. C., during the past ten days has been the novel one of answering "a cry from Macedonia" by individuals exporting twenty pound packages of sugar to New York relatives or friends because of the great saccharine scarcity in that neighborhood, says the San Francisco Bulletin. Mrs. Mary Robson of San Jose, whose daughter, Mrs. Jack Griswold of New York, is a marriage connection of the Vanderbilt family through the Dr. W. Seward Webb people, has been active in sending the sugar express packages.

Even the wife of Ralph Stubbs, the former San Franciscan who was recently made traffic manager of the Sugar Trust, can only get four pounds of sugar each week, the same as other householders.

Mrs. Stubbs has been having local relatives ship her weekly a twenty-pound package, stating by letter "sugar is the best gift you can give me these days."

The Western Sugar Refinery of the John D. and A. B. Spreckels syndicate is, in connection with the overland railroads, and at the instance of the emergency food committee under Herbert C. Hoover, rushing two 50 car trains of sugar to New York to relieve the situation in part. There are 4,000,000 pounds of refined sugar on the two trains.

Canadian Pacific wheat via Vancouver, B. C., and the Panama canal to Great Britain, and flour and wheat from Australia through San Pedro, this city and Vallejo for Great Britain are other traffic high lights in railroad and steamship circles.

Over a hundred and fifty carloads of Australian flour through San Pedro is now being expedited by the railroads for an Atlantic connection with British steamers.

A cargo of wheat a month from Australia is now scheduled to reach Vallejo, where it will be quickly converted into a hundred and fifty carloads of flour for England and her European allies.

In shipping circles one of the big events was the recent departure from Vancouver via the Panama canal for England of a wheat-laden 8800-ton British steamer. The cargo consists of 100,000 tons of wheat.

RUSSIAN BONDS QUIETLY BOUGHT

(By TICK R. TAPE)

Local investors holding Imperial Russian bonds are commencing to quake with dread, for Russian bonds have reached a new low level. The latest New York quotation received by a local trust company on Russian internals is $90.50. As more than two million rubles worth of Russian bonds are held by investors in this city it will be of interest to them to know that a great deal of quiet buying of these bonds is going on now. One local trust company has had a stack of orders which were to be filled the moment the bonds sank below the $100 mark and these are now being executed.

The reason for the drop is the fact that the Bolsheviks, now holding the upper hand in Petrograd, recently issued a statement repudiating the national debts. The moment a government of any kind repudiates a national debt it not only makes enemies of the men without its boundaries holding its securities, but also makes enemies of the men within the country who are financially interested.

This action on the part of the Bolsheviks will stir up the many slow-going Russian investors and capitalists who hold their country's bonds, and undoubtedly will result in the ousting of the Bolsheviki from power. Indications are that the Bolsheviks will not last longer than four or five weeks and may even lose seat before that time. This party has not been able to get control of the gold reserve in Russia and without gold it will soon drop into the past.

Whether the new government that comes will cancel the Bolsheviki action or not is a question, but the answer will probably be that any new government that comes in will win its power with the help of the financial men and the men interested in seeing that the country's finances are restored to a sound basis. Undoubtedly the moment a new government goes in Russian internals will rise from their present low level.

SUGAR DROPS TO NEW PRICE LEVEL

The receipt of the news that raw sugar on the New York market had dropped to 5.92 from 6.72 has little or no effect on the local sugar stock market. Stocks continued firm, and while no sales were made in the session, 174 of Waialua changed hands between boards at $22.25, which is an eighth of a dollar better than the closing price yesterday. Fifteen of Oahu went at $29.25, a steady price, and 15 Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Co. shares passed at $40. No reason can be given for the slight rise in the Pines.

There was little trading in the unlisted securities, 350 Honolulu Consolidated Oil bringing $4.80 a share, which is a rise of 5¢ over yesterday's figure. Brokers are awaiting confirmation of the rumor that the government had thrown open the oil reserve lands before plunging.

PORTO RICAN SUGAR CROP GAINS SLIGHTLY

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—A slight increase in the total production of sugar for Porto Rico for the 1916-1917 season over figures previously published is shown by the detailed figures just issued by the insular government.

Includes Small Mills

According to these statistics the island produced 503,081 tons of sugar, as against 502,398 tons reported in August by the Sugar Producers' Association. This is an increase of 683 tons, coming chiefly from twenty-two small mills in the island which were not reported by the Sugar Producers' Association, and the largest one of which produced 250 tons. Most of the other twenty-one centrals newly recorded in the statement issued by the insular government produced less than fifty tons of sugar.

There are comparatively few differences in the production figures of the most important centrals of the island as reported by the Sugar Producers' Association and the government.—Facts About Sugar

CITIZENS URGED TO BUY BONDS FOR BELT ROAD

If the work of constructing the $500,000 island belt road is to be continued the citizens of Oahu must come to the rescue by purchasing $250,000 worth of Territory of Hawaii 4 per cent bonds, said a letter read to the board of supervisors last night from C. J. McCarthy, territorial treasurer. The board decided to urge the citizens to try and carry out the plan suggested by Mr. McCarthy is raising funds to continue the work. The letter from the treasurer follows:

"The total appropriation for the road is $500,000, and it would be good business to let the job in one contract, if possible.

"From the proceeds of bonds sold up to date it would not be possible to allot the whole of this amount at present.

"In dealing with the projects in the other counties governed by act 218, the program has been to have the people in those counties who are directly interested in the projects, to purchase sufficient bonds to carry on the work, they stipulating in their offer to purchase bonds that, the proceeds shall be used for the specific item.

"The governor has already stated that whenever bonds are purchased with this request, the money will be so allotted.

"Now in connection with your particular item, I beg to make the following proposal, which proposal has received the approval of Governor Pinkham this morning: If the board of supervisors of the city and county of Honolulu can procure the sale of $250,000 Territory of Hawaii 4 per cent public improvement bonds, series 1917, at 98.04 and accrued interest from August 1, 1917, to date of delivery, the governor will set side from the loan fund for the construction of the Koolaupoko road, the sum of $500,000."

BUILDING SLUMPS ALL OVER STATES

Builders and others interested in real estate in Honolulu should not feel unnecessarily depressed over the low building record for this city during the last two months, for, according to Bradstreet's review, building for October in 139 cities of the United States was one of the lowest ever recorded for those particular cities. For the 16,943 permits issued in these 139 cities, the estimated value was only $38,417,838, a decrease of 29.2 per cent in permits and of 50.4 per cent in valuation of buildings started in October, 1916.

The ten months' total for 1917, ending with October, is the smallest for any corresponding period for the last ten years. The table below shows the valuations for new buildings for the month of October and for the first ten months of all years Beginning with 1908 and ending with 1917.

	October	Ten months
1917	$38,417,838	$624,996,737
1916	77,517,107	847,844,373
1915	69,838,197	689,098,000

TOG TALKS by Janet Walker

DAINTY LINGERIE

When we have completed our Christmas gifts, and finished the last ball of sweater yarn in the house, rather than let the long evening pass without accomplishing something, we might turn our attention to the scrap-box and pick out dainty pieces of muslin that can be made into lingerie. Dainty corset covers can be made of ever so small remnants of nainsook and lace; perhaps we may even have a tiny piece of georgette or crepe de chine that could be used. The cover in the hands of the pajama-clad lady is an excellent example of what you can do with small pieces of material. The outline of the lace makes this garment very attractive, and the insets of coarse net, finished at the corner with a wee bit of handwork, completes its simple beauty.

The robe de nuit is made in the same pattern, and the set-in kimono sleeves insure longer wear as well as being beautiful. The pieces on the shoulder are made of tucked net. A few tucks in front and back give needed fullness, and when finished this garment slips on over the head.

The charming little figure on the left is sweetly feminine in every way, from the topmost bow on her pretty head to the newest of new footwear. Something about the boudoir cap gives it a fresh girlish outline, perhaps it is the net of which it is made, or perhaps the very bow perched high upon the head, anyway it should be becoming to every woman. The "knickers" and bodice petticoat are made of crepe de chine, the ruffles are of plain pleated net; ribbon bows to match the cap tie in cupid bows on the shoulder. The net motif is the same that is used on the gown and corset cover.

Many of us do not find time to make our own underwear, and yet we do appreciate the little hand touches that make these garments so appealing. Many women buy plainer garments of nice material and original design, and then trim them in individual ways by adding touches of lace or handwork. One nearly always changes the ribbons on these garments, and in replacing them a new suggestion that is "different" is the combination of the pastel shades in very narrow ribbon braided together, and finished at the front with a waterfall effect in all the colors.

We who have so many times replaced the rubber banding in the waists of our covers and knickers, will rejoice over the suggestion of making this band of satin (which slips very easily) to replace the webbing, using only a strip of rubber four inches long at the back, if the garment closes in front, and if closing at the back then vice versa. This small strip can be easily replaced, and renders unnecessary the taking off of snaps and fastenings.

While we are discussing delightful airy nothings, we might stretch a point and tell something about dainty little bib and bibless aprons for the home. As domestic virtues are being so much talked about, and Mr. Hoover is continually urging the American housewife to watch the larder, the economists urging her to make her own bib and tucker, and with the knitting trust still in full swing, it seems that every feminine compatriot would welcome an apron to save her frocks. There are aprons for sewing, for brewing, for dusting; aprons for use and aprons for beauty. Who knows but what they may become as much a style feature as peplums or tunics or bustles?

Without a doubt the knitting apron will prove the most popular of all, for by this time most of us have discovered that yarns do leave more than a trace of lint on our dark gowns. Some of us have found comfort in these knitting bags of fancy fabrics that untie into aprons, and then tie up again into bags when the day's knitting is done, but they are by no means common and a separate apron would prove a joy to many a faithful knitter.

And there was found another figured apron which looked as if it had been a piece of grandmother's foulard dinner gown, that had been retrieved from the ignominy of the scrap bag. The white satin background with its dainty tracings of cobwebby black lines, was finished with apple green ribbon, and all around the edge was a ruffle of finely plaited net. Tiny black velvet bows held the bib in place, and finished the corners of the apron. Any one wearing an apron of this sort over a china blue frock would present a charming picture, and look much like a choice bit of colonial interior decoration.

Directors of the Solar Refining Co. declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $5 a share, and an extra dividend of $25 a share.

"TOG TALKS"

This article is number 21 of a series of papers on practical dressmaking and millinery subjects, with special hints on profitable buying for wear in Hawaii. This department is being conducted by Janet Walker, who, with several years of experience in dressmaking and with a wide knowledge of materials, patterns and values, brings to the work an unusually thorough equipment. All materials described in these papers may be purchased at the Honolulu shops and the aim is to furnish hints in an attractive, readable form for the women and girls of the city whether they make their own clothes in whole or in part, or buy at the tailors, the milliners, the dressmakers or the shops.

Local Far East Section is Brimming With Wealth of Art Treasures Gathered from China and Japan for Honolulu Stores

As Christmas draws near and Santa Claus hovers somewhere over the islands, Chinatown—which includes all Oriental stores in a large and not exactly defined section—takes on new life and added attraction.

The quaint workmen in the jewelry shops speed up their production; in the Japanese bazaars the rare and shimmering silks and the bright colored kimonos are heaped all day long on the counter, and the streets are crowded with shoppers.

No matter how much time one passes amid Oriental art treasures, one never becomes surfeited with them, for there is a certain air of mystery about the products of the Far East that keeps one's interest aflame. Perhaps it is because the art of the Chinese and Japanese is so unlike that of the Occident that it holds its charm; or maybe the reason is to be found in the historical associations that the Oriental vases and paintings, bronzes and lacquerware bring with them overseas.

The religions of Japan are plainly reflected in the nation's art, as is true of most other countries.

The earliest religious worship in Japan was of heavenly bodies, or wind and fire and thunder, and even of the forests and streams. Then followed a deification of the illustrious dead as well as of family ancestors; on the death of a member of a family he becomes "kami," or one to whom prayer is offered. The reverencing of ancestors continues to this day.

Chinatown has more objects of Oriental art concentrated in a comparatively small area than has almost any other city outside of San Francisco in the United States. If your interest lies in antiques, you will find them there, hundreds of years old; if in modern examples of Oriental craftsmanship, that line is just as varied and complete.

The Chinatown bazaars have not taken advantage of the high cost of living to raise the prices of those goods imported before the rate advanced. They are still held at the old figure, but once sold, they cannot be replaced at the prices which now obtain. This situation has appealed strongly to connoisseurs, who are daily taking advantage of it.

Perhaps the sandalwood fan, which can be purchased at virtually every Chinese and Japanese store is the most popular of the smaller purchases. There are fans of various feathers, also. Some of the combinations of peacock feathers and sandalwood are extremely attractive and the price is moderate.

Various textures which cannot now be secured from the Orient are still on sale in local houses. Exports from India have been much restricted since the war broke out but large stocks were on hand in some of the Honolulu shops and offer inviting possibilities.

Highlander Condensed Milk

makes cooking a success - not a speculation

Cooking is always a success where Highlander Condensed Milk (full cream) is used.
There's good reason, too, why the careful housewife should use this famous brand.
Firstly, it ensures better flavoured dishes. It is easy to prove this.
Try a dressing where Highlander Condensed Milk has been used against one in which ordinary milk or some other condensed milk has been employed—you can at once taste the superior flavour of Highlander.
Then, too, it makes food more digestible. Scientists tell us that the process of condensation modifies the caseinogen and thus makes the milk more digestible.
Then, too, Highlander Condensed Milk is richer—you have a standard full cream milk as against a fluctuating product, of varying quality and richness.
Made from the world's finest milk, Highlander is the standard brand for tens of thousands of women who have proved its superiority. One test will suffice—you owe it to yourself to make it.
There are hundreds of recipes in the big 200-page beautifully illustrated Highlander Cook Book. Write for a FREE copy to-day—address "Highlander,"

COMMITTEES OF CIVIC SESSION ARE ANNOUNCED

The personnel of the committees authorized by the Sixth Annual Civic convention has been announced by the chairman, J. F. C. Hagens.

The Boy Scout committee, which is to give its moral support and practical aid to the movement in the territory, is as follows:

Richard H. Trent, chairman, Oahu; J. W. Russell, Hawaii; D. H. Case, Maui, and A. K. Clymer, Kauai.

A national park committee, which is to assist in the putting into execution of the federal law creating a national park in Hawaii, comprises:

Marston Campbell, chairman; William Thompson, A. W. van Valkenburg, J. B. Soper and C. W. Ashford.

Another committee is to work for the passing of a law by the territorial legislature to put the accounting of the territory and the several counties on a uniform basis. It follows:

W. R. Farrington, chairman; E. M. Cheatham, Kauai; W. O. Aiken, Maui; R. T. Moses, Hawaii, and A. F. Clarke, Honolulu.

A road committee is appointed which is pledged to work for the sectional upkeep of all the roads of the territory and to the spirit of a resolution passed by the convention favoring the construction of territorial roads by the territory. This is the committee named:

H. E. Vernon, chairman; J. H. Moragne, Kauai; W. F. Pogue, Maui; C. E. Wright and L. MacFarlane, Hawaii.

CITY'S DEBTS ARE ORDERED PAID

It was bill paying night at the board of supervisors' meeting last evening. The final payment on the Beretarnia street work, amounting to $35,250.50, was ordered made to the Lord-Young Engineering Co., after questions on the part of Supervisors McClellan and Petrie who could not see how the city and county was going to order payment of this work when the money from the assessments had not yet been collected. After A. M. Cristy, deputy city and county attorney, pointed out that the city and county could register the warrant for the amount in any bank to be held against the collections to come, the action of payment was carried out.

Payment to the Spalding Construction Co. for the work done on Kalihi sewers, amounting to $7934.29 and $3692.03, to Foster & Keen, contractors, for work done on the College of Hawaii storm sewer, was also ordered.

Then came requests for more appropriations for various city and county projects and plans.

A letter was read from Fred Ohrt, sanitary inspector of the territorial board of health, asking an appropriation of $2000 to be used in eliminating blind catch basins in the main business district. There is no outlet to these sump basins, he declared, and the rain water remains stagnant in these spots and breeds mosquitoes. He advocated the building of a system of pipes to drain the water into the harbor. The letter was directed to the attention of the city engineer.

LUMBAGO, SCIATICA PAINS RELIEVED

Sloan's Linment Affords Best Local Treatment for Painful Inflammations

Soon as an attack of Lumbago or Sciatica begins apply Sloan's Liniment. A little, promptly used, not only stops pain, and overcomes stiffness, but hastens complete recovery and helps prevent recurrence of the trouble.

Sloan's Liniment supplies the warmth to soothe inflammation, its counter-irritant effect promotes circulation and absorption of morbid secretions, while its sedative influence soothes the nerves and muscles. Soreness, Stiff Neck, Wrenched Joints, Strains and Bruises are effectively relieved by its use.

A great comfort with Sloan's Liniment is that you don't have to rub. It is also far cleaner to apply than salves or plasterers, as it does not stain the skin or clog the pores. Generous size bottles at druggists everywhere. 25c, 50c, $1.00.

OPPOSED TO CALLING AMBULANCE FOR TRANSFER OF PRIVATE PATIENTS

While the emergency hospital ambulance was carrying a transfer patient to a private institution yesterday afternoon a call was turned in for a "fast wagon," and Dr. R. G. Ayer, police surgeon, was compelled to despatch the police patrol to the scene. A woman was badly injured by a rock thrown at her head and she was rushed to the hospital in the patrol. The emergency hospital ambulance was kept continually on the run yesterday, and hospital and police authorities complained of the fact that the ambulance was absent on a transfer case while there was need of it at headquarters.

A large number of private cases are transferred in the emergency hospital ambulance, but as the high-powered motor was designed for emergency work the hospital attaches are opposed to it being sent on long trips for private patients. The incident yesterday while the ambulance was away serves to show how necessary it is for the ambulance to remain at police headquarters to respond to emergency calls only, says Dr. Ayer.

CITY BUSINESS AND SUPERVISORS' NOTES

The report from the inspector of garages, showing receipts for November of $1,131.50 and expenditures of $2,419.24, was received.

The matter of calling for bids for 13,000 barrels of fuel oil for the water works pumping stations was referred to the clerk of the board.

A. K. Vierra, parks superintendent, reported that he had discharged John Kalaukoa, park keeper at Puunui park, for frequent absences from work.

Louis S. Cain, building inspector, asked for an appropriation of $202.12 for expenses of his office. The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

Appropriations for the maintenance and upkeep of Kapiolani park and other parks in the city and the public bath house were referred to the ways and means committee.

A letter was read from Raymond C. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asking the board to take action on renumbering the houses in Honolulu. It was passed over to the ways and means committee for action.

A. K. Aona applied for the job of caretaker of Diamond Head park and offered to work without pay providing the board permitted him to erect a tent and live on the grounds. The matter was turned over to the parks committee.

Sheriff Rose in a second letter pointed out the need of new helmets for the policemen and also the need of a new patrol. He asked for an appropriation of $2,000. The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

The board ordered the payment of $185 to Captain of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, which was a bill for personal expenses on the trip made to the mainland to arrest and bring back Lionel R. A. Hart. Chester A. Doyle's bill of $150 for assisting in the prosecution was referred to the ways and means committee.

The letter from Sheriff Charles H. Rose, regarding the closing of M. D. Castillon's dance hall in the country, explained the action by saying that this hall was the resort of women of the underworld. The letter also asked the board not to license any dance hall without first learning the manner in which it would likely be conducted. The letter was referred to the dance hall committee.

Previous to the regular business meeting, the board last night held the Laimi improvement district hearing on assessments. James T. Taylor called the board's attention to the unfairness of the proposed assessments, stating that the assessment against him for storm drainage was $225.46 in excess of what it should be. After an hour's discussion the board took the matter under advisement and then referred it to the roads committee.

WHAT BILLY SUNDAY SAYS

In one of his meetings at Boston the noted evangelist said, "I believe that every disease can be cured by some weed if we can only discover it. There is not an ailment that God hasn't somewhere an herb growing that will cure that ailment."

The choice medicinal herbs which will cure women's ailments were discovered more than forty years ago, and have been doing their beneficient work for half a century. Lydia E. Pinkham combined them in convenient form in her famous Vegetable Compound, which is to be found in the drug stores where every ailing woman may conveniently get it at small cost. It does the work!—Adv.

CIVIC BODIES JOIN IN PLEA TO SHIP BOARD

Three of the important civic organizations of Honolulu are now back of the movement to secure the issuance by the shipping board of six months' permits to foreign vessels to engage in the coastwise trade the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, the Honolulu Ad Club and the Hawaii Promotion Committee.

Action to support the desire of the Toyo Kissen Kaisha Co. for permits over a longer period than a single voyage was taken by F. J. Halton, of the Hawaii Promotion committee when George McK. McClellan, representative of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, was recently here, and who is now en route to Washington.

A letter was drawn up by Mr. Halton, which cited the needs of Honolulu for the use of the foreign vessels and gave specific statements regarding the amount of passage room which had been available and unused on these boats over a period of one month. This letter was given to Mr. McClellan before he departed.

At a meeting of the Ad Club yesterday the letter was approved, and afterwards it was considered by the Chamber of Commerce.

Discussion arose at the meeting over the indorsing of the letter when Mr. McInerny questioned the advisability of including in the letter or the action taken by the chamber, a request for the right to send perishable fruit on the foreign vessels. No mention of freight was made in the promotion committee letter.

Abe Lewis wanted to know were the T. K. K. and other foreign freight space granted to the islands if it would not result in that much tonnage, now provided for by the shipping board, being withdrawn.

Emil Berndt thought that the shipping board was in full knowledge of shipping conditions and our needs, as well as that of the nation, and could be depended upon to take equable action.

Finally a motion was passed which indorsed the letter in the possession of Mr. McClellan but added the words, "perishable fruit."

CROZIER SAYS U. S. TROOPS SUPPLIED

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13.—The senate military committee in its current investigation held another session today and required General Crozier, chief of the ordnance bureau, to explain specifically why there have been delays in furnishing arms and clothing.

Crozier replied that he had requested part of the emergency funds at the disposal of President Wilson last August. Prior to that he had catalogued the makers of war supplies and estimated the orders.

He emphasized that there is no shortage in supplies abroad and that the shortage is rapidly being eliminated in the states. He emphasized also that the American expedition was not delayed five minutes to wait for ordnance or other munition supplies.

HALIFAX RECOVERING FROM GREAT DISASTER

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless.)

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 13.—The second Boston relief ship, the Northlander, arrived here today. Conditions in the city are beginning to approach normal except for the ruins.

So numerous and severe are the cases of injured eyesight caused by the explosions that it is announced expert oculists are needed to prevent a great deal of threatened blindness.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Pvt. Vasquis Fernando, Co. B, 1st Regiment, Hawaiian Infantry, will be honorably discharged by reason of physical disability.

Pvt. Paul H. Pennock, M. G. Co., 1st Regiment, Hawaiian Infantry, will be honorably discharged by reason of removal of residence to continental United States.

Private F. E. Caricof is recalled to active service and assigned to the Quartermaster Corps.

Upon the recommendation of the Territorial Quartermaster, the following promotion and appointments are made in the Quartermaster Corps, to date December 1, 1917:

Sgt. Daniel P. McGregor to be sergeant first class to fill original vacancy.

Pvt. John M. Watt to be sergeant vice, McGregor, promoted.

Pvts. William B. Shields, John W. Siddall and Ludwig E. F. Langer to be sergeants to fill original vacancies.

PERSONALITIES

CIRCUIT JUDGE S. B. KEMP, accompanied by Andrew Hogan, registrar, has gone to Maui to hold a session of the territorial land court.

E. A. MOTT-SMITH, member of the board of supervisors, who is now on the island of Hawaii recuperating from his recent illness, notified his office yesterday that instead of returning to Honolulu next Saturday he would remain on the big island until December 18.

German Attack Upon Canada Was Rumor

One of the messages received here by the German consulate, according to the Geier officer, was one directing that information be spread on the report that Germans in America were planning an attack in force upon Canada.

As this message was received by the consulate, according to Grasshof, the question arises if the answer to it was sent by that same office. This answer stated that the message was unintelligible and asked for further information.

No reply was received to this query, which Grasshof directed, but was it sent by the local consulate?

Curiosity was too strong to be quieted, however, and about a week later a second query was sent to find out the meaning of the first message. An answer came to this stating that the matter was settled.

Viewed from the point of neutrality, an attempt of this sort to stir up trouble in which the United States would actually figure with its next-door neighbor, Canada, in case such an attack should be made, must appear as one of the most serious breaches of faith recorded in the captain's annals, it is declared.

DID BRASS BAND ON GEIER COVER NOISE MADE WHEN SECRET WIRELESS WORKED

Blunders at times ludicrous are shown in relief many places in the Grasshof diary, but in none better than at mention of telegrams received from the mainland regarding the submarine scare in the South Pacific.

"The report of a German submarine in the South Pacific is true," said the message which was sent here. "Circulate this report widely."

It is known now that no German submarine ever reached the South Pacific, but obviously had there been one its operations and the word of its presence would have been kept secret as long as possible by the Germans. The appearance of a German official wirelessing a lie to his accomplices here and expecting them not only to report it but also to believe it is funny enough to laugh at.

This is a sample of the desperate attempts to frighten shipping, and it will be remembered how generally widespread the story became.

The question naturally arises as to how it would have been possible for wireless messages to have been sent from the Geier without the tell-tale sputter of the instruments giving knowledge of what was going on inside the vessel.

It will be remembered, however, that the Geier crew had a band — a brass band of considerable size and volue. It is easy to believe therefore that during the evenings when that band was playing its favorite tunes down below another tune, accompanied by alternating flashes of light from a wireless instrument of no mean power, was being played by one of the numerous "operators" mentioned in Grasshof's diary. The "listening in" could be done quietly and at all hours of the day, as it evidently was, judging from Grasshof's report.

A beautiful enameled wall plaque, in colors and with lettering and ornaments in bas relief, has been presented to the chamber of commerce by the Chinese Commercial Commission which passed through Honolulu in 1915. The plaque was presented because of courtesies extended to the organization while here. The secretary of the commission, in a letter accompanying the gift, said he believed much good had come of the commission's visit both in Honolulu and upon the mainland.

Suspected of having sold liquor to soldiers in uniform, Mrs. Elsie Bolton of King and Alakea streets was arrested yesterday by liquor license officerso and will be turned over to United States District Attorney S. C. Huber. When the quarters were searched only a quantity of empty beer bottles are alleged to have been found, and the defendant declares she never sold booze to soldiers. The defendant was found in the company of a partly intoxicated soldier when arrested, say the officers.

GEOLOGISTS BELIEVE ENGLAND HAS OIL

LONDON, Eng.—It was announced in the House of Commons that "certain eminent American geologists, who have come from the United States to advise the government, hold that it is well worth while to spend a considerable sum of money in exploring the possible petroleum deposits in Great Britain."

The speaker, a spokesman for the board of trade, added: "It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of finding oil in this country. We cannot yet say that it is here, but it is certainly worth looking for. Oil is almost more important at this moment than anything else. You may have men, munitions, and money, but if you have no oil you are without the greatest motive power we are using, and the rest will be of little value."

Grasshof Held In Lonely Confinement After Diary Found

Capt. Karl Grasshof, commander of the German gunboat Geier, was interned in Honolulu Nov. 8, 1914, and retained his freedom on parole until the attempt was made to destroy the machinery aboard the German warships and merchantmen in February, 1916. His parole was then revoked and he and the German crews were confined at Schofield Barracks.

Later with the discovery of the diary which revealed the wide range of the violations of the neutrality of the United States, together with the breaking of their word of honor and parole while they were interned, Captain Grasshof was tried by court-martain Grasshof was examined and placed in solitary confinement, where he remained until the German prisoners were transferred during the summer to Fort Douglas, at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Captain Grasshof was seemingly a man of refinement and education and imbued with all the principles of the Kaiser's school of warfare.

AUCTION BULLETIN

We have some fine Koa Furniture in the Rooms and more coming from an Estate. Also several pieces of Mahogany, and one of the finest old Oak Dressers in Cheval Style now on display.

We have positive information that GRASS RUGS are worth more in San Francisco wholesale than you can buy them for one at a time at the rooms. 9x12 Crex Grass Rugs quoted at $14 in S. F. today, under these circumstances it will be wisdom to buy at once what Grass Rugs and Mats you want at our Great Rug Clearance Sale now going on in the Rooms. Rugs selling now at prices that were fixed at the Auction, we expect the owner to raise the limit on the balance shortly, and he will be amply justified as the present selling prices are below Cost but were put on the Rugs to clear even at a loss. Along now comes rises in all lines that are genuine responses to the shortage of labor and material, can you blame one if he makes an attempt to save the loss after all, call and buy now at Honolulu Auction Rooms. AMERICANS STRIPPED AND BEATEN TO DEATH BY GERMANS AND TURKS

(By Associated Press)
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt. —Refugees from Palestine report that the Turks, in cooperation with the Germans, are committing the most fearful atrocities on the Jewish colonies in Palestine. Last month all the leading men of the Jewish colony at Jaffa were accused of espionage and on false evidence or on confessions extorted by torture were convicted by a German court-martial and hanged with many members of their families, refugees declare.

In order to extort confessions, it is added, many men and women, including some American citizens have been stripped and beaten in public, some so severely as to cause death.

Workers at the Armstrong Cork Co. plant at Lancaster, Pa., tried to hang the foreman, Albert Sizenhufer, when he told them not to help in the work, as it was a war contract.

PADEREWSKI DESTINED TO EARN MILITARY FAME

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Ignace Jan Paderewski is developing qualities as a military man that may give him greater fame than his music, in the opinion of officials of the war department with whom he conferred again concerning his Polish legion for the war upon Germany.

The legion, formally approved by the government, already has taken substantial form and is now encamped on the Canadian side of the river at Niagara Falls to the number of 6000 well armed and equipped men. The force is being put through a course of intensive training by 200 young officers who have been given a primary military education in the United States and have received finishing training in Canada under veteran British and Canadian instructors.

Paderewski is anxious to secure for his legion some of the highly trained and experienced Polish officers who have been serving with the Russian army. He saw Counselor Polk at the state department, and is understood to have sought aid from the state department in obtaining the services of these officers.

WOMEN OF KAUAI DO THEIR 'BIT' FOR RED CROSS

That the Red Cross workers are steadily increasing the amount of surgical and hospital supplies, that money is being raised weekly, and that large shipments of goods for the trenches are being sent regularly to Honolulu, is the way Mrs. Eric Knudsen, chairman of the Kauai Red Cross chapter sums up the work on the Garden island. Mrs. Knudsen is in the city for a short visit.

Every Tuesday, she said, is Red Cross day on the Garden Island, which is divided into two districts, one headquarters at Homestead and the other at Makaweli. Mrs. Knudsen is chairman, Mrs. William Danford, treasurer, and the following are district leaders; Mrs. T. Brandt, Waimea; Mrs. B. D. Baldwin, Makaweli; Mrs. Frank Alexander and Mrs. J. Silva, Eleele; Mrs. Glaisyer, Homestead.

The Kauai chapter was formed when the war started. In October of this year, however, the Garden Island workers were organized under the American Red Cross, and made a part of the Honolulu chapter. Since September they have been sending regular shipments to the local headquarters for transshipment to New York.

Fifteen boxes of goods and 2000 articles have been sent to Honolulu during the time the Kauai chapter has been organized. Teachers and school children hold regular Red Cross days, and aid materially in the work. It is planned to set aside Thursdays for knitting day hereafter.

The Red Cross drive commences December 17, and A. L. Castle of Honolulu met the chapter leaders yesterday to help organize the work for the drive.

PLANTS ON SALE FOR BELGIAN DAY

Some of the best plants from the beautiful Moanalua gardens will be placed on sale at Lanikea theater next Saturday for the benefit of the Belgian relief fund.

The plants that will be offered to the public will include palms, ferns, poincettias, Australian ferns, grafted mangoes of the best kinds, very finest varieties of grafted pears, Hawaiian palms, and a wide selection of flowering and ornamental plants. The prices placed on these will be very reasonable and they are especially suitable for Christmas gifts.

It is hoped that the sale will bring out a large number of interested people who wish to secure the very best plants and ornamental trees and, at the same time, be sure that their money will be used for one of the best objects in the world.

KANEPUU-LOTA WEDDING

Abraham K. Lota and Miss Elizabeth Leialoha Kanepuu were married yesterday evening at Kaumakapili church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Akaiko Akana. The bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Namauu and Miss Victoria Chun See was maid of honor. George Hapai was best man.

The bridegroom is a step-son of Rev. James K. Lota, pastor of the Kaneohe Hawaiian church and a member of the lower house of the territorial legislature. Mrs. Lota is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kanepuu of Mokauea road, Kalihi.

A Wellington, N. Z., message states that Mr. Howell, assistant secretary to the Seamen's union, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment for inciting coastal seamen to a seditious strike.

MAUI PREPARES XMAS TREE PLANS

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 12.—Important committee work has been done on Maui during the last few days toward the securing of the unanimous support of the Wailuku people in a community Christmas tree. Those interested in the project met last Saturday morning at the Wailuku town hall, and discussed at length the possibility of holding such a Christmas celebration. The greatest unanimity prevailed and a hearty support to the project was secured from all the leaders of the churches and Sunday schools, the Alexander House Settlement.

Ensign Puck of the Salvation Army, who was the prime mover in the community Christmas idea, was elected chairman, L. R. Mathews treasurer, and Miss Gertrude B. Judd secretary of the organization.

It is estimated that fully $200 will be needed in cash or the equivalent in donations of island made candy, apples and oranges to make the affair a success. In the public and private schools of Wailuku, Waihee and Waikapu the Christmas carols are already been practised to enable the children to take an active part in the singing. There will be an electric lighted tree and the presents of only those articles named in the solicitation will be given out. The literary exercises aside from the singing of the carols will be the reading of a short Christmas story by Mrs. Helen Mar Linton. The Salvation Army band, whose services will be offered for the occasion, will play.

STAR-BULLETIN TELLS WORD OF DRAFT TO MAN IN FAR-AWAY MONTANA

An example of how the Star-Bulletin carries the news, even to interior states of the mainland, 3000 miles away, came yesterday in the form of a cablegram to Capt. F. J. Green, draft executive officer for Hawaii. It read:

"Received Star-Bulletin I claim no exemption. Instructions solicited.

"ALLEN CLYDE SMITH,
"Whitehall, Montana."

Mr. Smith registered in Hawaii last summer and subsequently departed to the mainland and saw his name and draft number published in the Star-Bulletin following the draft drawing recently. He is a former soldier.

OUTDOOR CIRCLE NETS $200 FROM MUSICALE FOR CHRISTMAS TREE

About $200 was realized from the matinee musical given yesterday afternoon by the Outdoor Circle on the roof garden of the Alexander Young hotel. The money will be used to cover the expense of lighting and other incidentals in connection with the community Christmas tree at the Capitol on Christmas Eve.

The program included two interesting dances by Miss Elinor True, the first being reminiscent of 1830, and the second an East Indian dance. The latter was a barefoot dance and one composed of many unusual steps. Baby Fidler, daughter of a local Russian musician, sang two Russian songs and gave a Russian dance in costume. An eccentric dance was given by Ivan Bankoff, and, assisted by Miss Maynard, he gave a peasant dance.

After the program refreshments were served and dancing indulged in.

As a result of majority and minority lists almost precisely balanced the executive of the Socialist Council of the Federation of the Seine is now under a committee of 24 members.

U. S. LEGAL FIRM TO AID MIGHTON

Announcement that the law firm of Morris & Hartwell of La Crosse, Wis., counsel for the Universal Chiropractors' Association, will send a representative here to assist in the defense of F. C. Mighton, a local chiropractor under indictment on a charge of practising medicine without a license, has been made by the law firm of Andrews & Pittman, Mighton's local counsel.

Mighton yesterday notifed the association of his indictment, and the law firm sent a reply cablegram to the effect that one of its representatives would be sent to Honolulu at once. He will be associated with the firm of Andrews & Pittman during the trial. Arrangements will probably be made for the case to be heard in the latter part of January or early in February.

The firm of Morris & Hartwell represents those members of the chiropractors' association against whom proceedings are brought.

INFLUX TO CITY OF LABORERS IS SERIOUS PROBLEM

In an open letter to the public, W. E. Pietsch, superintendent of the Gospel Mission Home, declares that immediate steps must be taken to prevent plantation laborers and their families, especially Spanish, from coming to Honolulu with a view to leaving the territory, and eventually becoming public charges, with the girls exposed to serious moral conditions.

"This situation must be faced immediately," declares Mr. Pietsch, "or the results will be appalling in the community."

Mr. Pietsch's letter follows:

"A large number of Spanish people particularly after the bonuses were paid on the plantations have come to Honolulu in the hope of leaving the territory, but the circumstances as to the steamship lines are such that the probabilities are that they will not leave for some time.

"In visiting the places in the tenements today I found a number of families spending money pretty freely, without proper care and protection. They will become public charges and the girls are exposed to serious moral conditions. I found in one case four families in three rooms, nineteen in the combination, and this was only one of many cases. A cooperation of the social workers in Honolulu is essential to get these people back to the plantations and keep them there until such time that they are assured of transportation as well as assured that they will be entered into the port of San Francisco, passing the immigration laws.

"This situation must be faced immediately or the results will be appalling in the community."

Mr. Pietsch recently completed an investigation of the tenements in Honolulu, and declares that conditions surrounding them are little short of frightful. He believes that wiping out the tenements will be an important step toward eliminating vice from the city.

MRS. HOBDY'S 'Y' TEAM TOPS LIST

The Y. W. C. A. captains reported at noon yesterday the amounts which they have secured in the "Over the Top" drive to date. The total, $12,629, was secured by the teams captained by the following workers:

Mrs. W. C. Hobdy	$3409.00
Miss Alice Hopper	1776.00
Executive committee	1350.00
Mrs. R. G. Moore	862.00
Miss H. Forbes	766.00
Mrs. Charles Chillingworth	500.00
Mrs. John Guild	337.00
Mrs. W. J. Forbes	269.00
Mrs. R. D. Williams	208.50
Mrs. C. Hustace	139.00
Mrs. E. Mackall	118:00
Miss Ruth Anderson	92.00
Mrs. A. W. T. Bottomley	158.50

Additional restrictions on coal and power for industrial purposes have thrown 13,000 more hands out of work in Victoria. Oil engines and even motor car engines are being used to run machinery.

WOMEN ON BATTLEFIELD

We hear much these days of what the women are doing on the battleline. How few American women are strong enough to go to the front and endure the hardships of the men!

Help is offered, and is freely given to every nervous, delicate woman, by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Remember ingredients on label. In tablet or liquid form. No alcohol.

In "female complaint," irregularity, or weakness, and in every exhausted condition of the female system, the "Prescription" seldom fails to benefit or cure. Bearing-down pains, internal inflammation and ulceration, weak back, and kindred ailments are cured by it, ask your neighbor. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, insomnia, or inability to sleep.

Write Dr. Pierce, President of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for confidential advice and you will receive the medical attention of a specialist, wholly without fee—no charge whatever.

GLENN JACKSON PROMOTED AT 'Y'

At the monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. directors Tuesday Glenn Jackson was promoted to the position of associate secretary, Richard Whitcomb was elected physical director and Charles A. Pease gymnasium director.

The requirements for religious work in the association and in cooperation with the churches together with the large administrative duties devolving upon the executive department of the "Y." caused the directors to make these promotions and give the association a better balanced staff.

Richard A. Cooke, treasurer, presided. Others in attendance were C. H. Atherton, Richard H. Trent, Robbins B. Anderson, Dr. A. F. Jackson, Harold G. Dillingham, Charles F. Clemons, Ed. Towse, C. B. Ripley, George C. Potter, Sherwood M. Lowrey, Dr. R. D. Williams, Dr. K. Kato of the international committee, and A. E. Larimer, executive secretary.

Reports from the various departments and committees showed strong activities for November and the affairs of the association in good condition. Two hundred and thirty different students are enrolled in educational classes against 210 at the corresponding time last year. One hundred and seventy-seven are attending the various Bible study clubs and classes.

WITHINGTON ARGUES IN FAVOR OF LARGE ALLOWANCE TO BABY

For an hour and a quarter yesterday Attorney D. L. Withington presented in Circuit Judge Ashford's court special argument in favor of the approval of the recommendations of Attorney Carl Carlsmith, master, that the annual allowance to four-year-old Richard Smart be increased from $2000 to $11,050.

Attorney Withington, who is counsel for Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, guardian of baby Smart, read at length from the recommendations, and gave his reasons why he thought they should be approved. He declared that, in his opinion, the amount of $11,050 was a very moderate allowance under the circumstances, intimating that many other items, which were not included, might have been incorporated.

Judge Ashford now has the matter under advisement and may give his final opinion before the end of this month.

A number of Italian members of parliament, including Senator Marconi recently welcomed to Rome the British Mission to the Inter-Parliamentary Conference.

MAUI RED CROSS DRIVE AIMS AT 6000 MEMBERS

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.)

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 12.—The visit of A. L. Castle to Maui last week certainly brought results on the Valley Isle. In the morning the leading business men were called together to organize for the Red Cross drive which is to begin on the 18th and close at noon on December 24.

The following men were appointed to take charge of the work of Maui county: Harold W. Rice, manager and campaign director; E. R. Bevins, director for Wailuku; F. F. Baldwin, director for Puunene and vicinity; H. D. Sloggett, director for Makawao; D. C. Lindsay, secretary. The Baldwin National Bank will be headquarters for the collections. There are to be captains appointed through Maui county and these captains will in turn appoint local lieutenants, so that the whole county will be thoroughly organized. The quota needed from Maui will be a total membership of at least 6000. Mr. Rice at once began his campaign and by Sunday night notices had been read from many of the Maui churches, and during this week not a village in Maui will be missed in getting the attention of the people centered upon the fact that a drive for annual membership would be on during Christmas week. Every organization will work through its members, so that not a family on the three Islands of Maui, Molokai or Lanai should be omitted in the biggest drive for membership ever inaugurated in the County of Maui.

A local Wailuku drive for assistance in the securing of support for the local Red Cross work has also been perfected, and Mrs. Caleb Burns and Mrs. Frank L. Hoogs have been appointed to make collections during Christmas week for the local Wailuku needs of the Red Cross.

HOW TO REDUCE COST OF LIVING

When butter sells at over 50 cents a pound, flour at $12 a barrel, and other foodstuffs in proportion, any hint to reduce the cost of living should be welcome. The great trouble is that rats and mice destroy many dollars worth of food a month. Exterminate these pests with Stearns' Paste, which has been used with great success by national and local authorities to kill rats. A small box, costing only thirty-five cents, will often rid the home or barn of a family of rats or mice in a single night.—Adv.

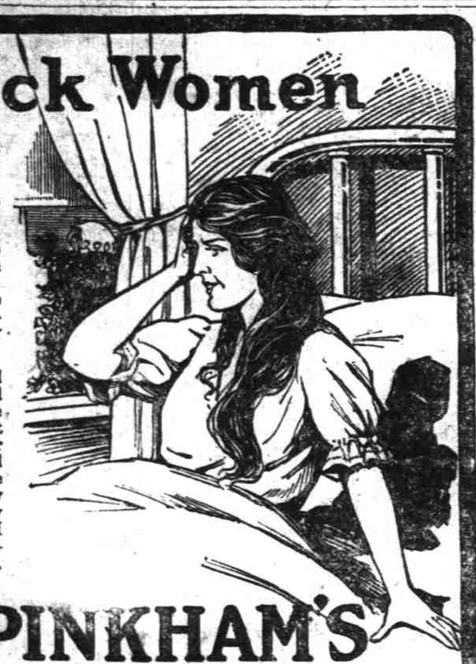
Notice to Sick Women

The Experience of These Women Prove That There is a Remedy for Your Illness.



Aberdeen, Idaho.—"Last year I suffered from a weakness with pains in my side and back. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did so. After taking one bottle I felt very much better. I have now taken three bottles and feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine I have ever taken and I can recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. PERCY PRESTIDGE, Aberdeen, Idaho.

Kingfisher, Okla.—"For two years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, and had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking ten bottles I am now well and strong, have no pain, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look and I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did it."—Miss NINA SOUTHWICK, R. F. D. No. 4, Box 33, Kingfisher, Okla.
