The assistant secretaries are dispensed with. Stenographer Avery was also reappointed. Nakookoo, who has been charged with favoring the Home Rulers in their periodical and timely disappearances from the House, had to fight hard for a reappointment, but regained his job, desite the opposition, led by Dickey.

Mahoe's brother got the job of messenger, displacing the late incumbent. Prendergast acted as teller, using his hat as a receptacle for the ballots. Prendergast and several of his party have a peculiar habit, when walking between desks during session time, somewhat like the goose that always bows its head passing under a gateway, no matter what its height, Prendergast and his fellows invariably crouch down when crossing the floor, apparently under the impression that such a procedure lessens the sound of their movements.

John Wise still interprets for the House.

Beckley was very nervous until the resolution sending him to the Coast was adopted, apparently too much so to shave, appearing with a flourishing crop of nascent whiskers.

New stationery was distributed yesterday morning, though several desks are still lacking inkstands and mucilage bottles. Monsarrat and Hihio were absent, having gone home, but it is understood that Monsarrat is returning on the next boat. Emmeluth is primed and ready to jerk the lanyard of his explosive eloquence at any time during the appropriation session, although he says that the party will take things easily.

The general opinion of the members seems to be that thirty days will not be sufficient for the work. There is a big batch of petitions and resolutions that have been lifted from the table, and are being printed for distribution. The petitions are from every district, and relate to important appropriations.

The first business transacted was the announcement by Clerk Meheula that I. K. Kaauwai would act as chaplain, and a prayer was then offered.

Beckley said that he had received no notice, and asked why the House had convened. Dickey explained that a proclamation had been duly published.

Akina was nominated for Speaker by Prendergast, and unanimously elected, being escorted to his chair by Gilfillan, who had been appointed a committee of one for that purpose. Akina made a short speech of thanks. The interpreter was next appointed. Beckley, as vice speaker, was nominated by Maikainai, and in turn, nominated Dickey. Consequent on Beckley's coastward trip, Akina has now no vice to relieve him.

Makekau tried to rush things by electing all the old officers except the assistant secretaries; Dickey also objecting to the sergeant at arms and messenger.

Mahoe advised that they stick to the rules, and elect each officer separately. Nailima objected that no rules were yet in order.

Emmeluth, in asking about Meheula's duties in preparing the journal, spoke strongly on the policy of adhering to economy.

Nakookoo's defeated opponent was H. Kailimai, nominated by Keiki.

The Rev. Mr. Homaku was unanfiob as janitor, in the person of Hanapii Kaumakeouli, winning from Puuki's brother by two votes.

The Rev. Mr. Hamaku was unanimously chosen chaplain.

Makekau, immediately after reorganization, gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill to appropriate money for the expense of the extra session, and for unpaid bills left over from the regular session.

THE BECKLEY RESOLUTIONS.

A resolution was now introduced by Representative Emmeluth, and gave rise to a fiery contention, which promises badly for prospects of a peaceful session. The resolution read as follows:

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Territory of Hawaii;

That F. W. Beckley, a member of the Legislature, be and he is hereby commissioned as its representative to present to the President of the United States the cordial greetings of the Legislature and the people of the Territory, on the occasion of this his first visit to the Pacific Coast.

That we extend to the President, the members of his Cabinet and members of both branches of Congress, our united invitations to continue their westward trip to these Islands, that they may in person familiarize themselves with the conditions and possibilities of this, the newest Territory of this Union.

That in the event of inability on the part of the President to visit Hawaii, the memorial and House Concurrent Resolution No. 4, heretofore passed by the Legislature, shall be presented to him, and that his early action upon its prayers be requested.

J. EMMELUTH.

Aylett moved to table the resolution on the score of needless expense and scarcity of funds, and submitted that the journal of the Legislature would be all that the President would need.

Dickey thought that Beckley's presence was needed, with that of all of the members, to properly consider the appropriation bill.

Emmeluth then made the most vigorous of his many forcible speeches since the opening of the regular session. The statements in effect were as follows, roasting the provisional government from 1893 to date:

"Ever since the beginning of the old P. G. those in possession of the reins have done their utmost to block the wheels of progress and thwart the popular will, endeavoring to prevent the introduction of a government based upon American principles.

"Their efforts are even now in progress. Remember the county bill. It slowly passed the two houses to die in the executive chamber a natural death. In New York a bill of 200 pages became a law in three days. But at this, the beginning of the century, it is too late for the Governor of this Territory to attempt to balk the people."

Hoogs here interrupted on a point of order, but swinging his fist onto his desk, Emmeluth went on.

"Despite the memorial lately passed by this House, these attempts are still going on. In '93 we paraded—I admit I was one of the number" (laughter and cries of 'you were!'). "We paraded to overthrow the monarchy, hoping to establish something better in its place. In our proclamation we charged the Queen with exercising the high prerogatives of her late brother contrary to the wishes of the people. A little transposition would make the proclamation as true today, and accuse Sanford B. Dole of continuing the system of his late dictatorship. IN THE INTEREST OF THIS PEOPLE SANFORD B. DOLE MUST GO. Representative Beckley goes forth to lay before the President of the United States the desires of this House."

Kumulae—"I rise to a point of order. What is the honorable gentleman talking about?"

Emmeluth—"I am not out of order; I am arraigning the late government."

Hoogs—"I rise to a point of order. The honorable Representative is talking through his hat. I am willing to donate toward Representative Beckley's trip myself, but I don't propose that the expense shall be paid from the Treasury appropriations."

Emmeluth—"Even if we are poor we don't have to go a begging."

Speaker Akina upheld Kumulae's point of order.

"I could talk," continued Emmeluth, "on this subject for two hours, and will talk again when the bill comes up. I stand here for the people, and no one shall muzzle me."

It is surmised that Emmeluth is advancing the necessary funds for Beckley's expenses on the trip, and the honorable Representative has not denied the allegation.

Prendergast—"I opposed the sending of the committee of ten Senators and Representatives to welcome the President, as we had no money for that or any other purpose. We do not know who is going to pay for this trip of a member, who is simply to extend our congratulations to the President of a section of the country that extends over many thousands of miles."

Makekau asked for the tabling of the resolution, and doubted the right of the House to adopt such a measure before notifying either the Senate or the Governor that the House was reorganized.

As the honorable Representative had just before given notice of the introduction of a bill, his remarks showed an inconsistency of which Emmeluth was prompt to take advantage.

Emmeluth—"I admire the late speaker for his wonderful argument. When a man gets up to speak upon a question, I like that man to have something of an argument to propound, but the wind has been entirely taken out of the Honorable Makekau's reasoning by his introduction of a bill this morning. He did not wait for the Governor or the Senate to be notified, but shoved in his notice as soon as he could. Let him be consistent, that is all I ask of him; let him be consistent. If he had a right to bring in his bill, then let him keep quiet on this subject."

Makekau lengthily defended himself, talking alternately in indistinguishable English and its native translation.

Dickey asked for a translation, but Wise said that the honorable member had made his own.

Robertson brought in a motion to adjourn, which together with a motion to postpone the resolution until tomorrow.

THE REPUBLICANS LEAVE.

The Republicans, rather than go on record as opposing the resolution, then went out, with the exception of two or three. The Republican party was not as a whole against the sending of Beckley to the Coast, feeling that it would be a matter of education for the Representative to take a trip to the States. The only objection made was that the expense should come out of the public purse.

Opposition in the face of the majority would have been futile, and in any case, upon fair play principles, the party felt no desire to prohibit a Home Rule representative from presenting the point of view of the Home Rule party.

Beckley himself declared his intention, after adjournment, of simply greeting the President and giving him the glad hand. "I am nobody's chicken," said the young politician. "I am not going to present any resolution. After welcoming the President I am going east to Buffalo."

The resolution was finally adopted, as amended, from a concurrent to a House resolution, by a vote of 14-8. The House then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

PARKER CARRIES PAPER TO 'FRISCO

Complete Answer to Groundless Aspersions of the Home Rule Zoo Legislature.

THE following set of Republican resolutions sustaining Governor Dole were sent to the President yesterday by the hand of Hon. Samuel Parker. Mr. Parker sailed on the Mariposa:

Honorable William McKinley, President of the United States—Sir: We, the undersigned, comprising members of the Executive Committee of the Republican party of the Territory of Hawaii, and Republican members of the Legislature, have the honor to submit the following statement:

A resolution having been adopted by certain members of the Legislature of Hawaii making charges against Governor Dole and asking you to remove him from office, we feel that it is due to you, to the Governor, to the Republican party in Hawaii and to the political and material interests of this Territory that the following facts be laid before you, viz.:

Said resolution is very general in character and contains no specific charges; the object of it is to excuse the Home Rule party for its failure to enact substantial legislation, and to lay the blame on the Governor. The facts show that it is impossible for the Home Rule party to escape from the responsibility of such failure.

At the last election the Home Rule party elected over two-thirds of the House of Representatives, and within one of two-thirds of the Senate. Several weeks before the meeting of the Legislature the members elected by the Home Rule party assembled in Honolulu, investigated the various departments of the Government, where they were accorded every courtesy and facility, and agreed upon their legislative measures.

THE COUNTY BILL DELAYED.

By virtue of the majority the Home Rule members of the Legislature naturally took, on the organization of the Legislature, all the offices and the control of the committees of both Houses; they limited debate, adopted a rule for the previous question, and thus obtained complete control of the Legislature, and had it in their power to fully carry out the program prepared by them. Instead of promptly proceeding with legislation, they delayed the introduction of bills which they regarded as most important. For example, their County bill, one of their main party measures, was not introduced until the session was half over, and was then found to be so full of errors, so illogical and incomplete in form and substance, that it was abandoned, and in the closing days of the session a substitute bill was introduced radically different from and but little better than the first. This was numerously and materially amended, and was finally passed through the House with many acknowledged deficiencies, which, its supporters stated, would be remedied in the Senate. No complete copy was made of the bill as it passed the House, but a patchwork copy of the original bill, with sections, lines and words erased or interlined with a pen, or stuck on with mucilage, was sent to the Senate. No copies of the bill as it passed the House were sent to Senators; the single mutilated House bill, filled with erasures, amendments and additions, and covering some seventy pages of legal-cap, was all there was to indicate the intention of the House concerning a bill which radically changed the form of government of the Territory. The bill was read the first time by title; the majority refused to refer it to a committee; refused to have it printed; refused to allow it to be typewritten, or even to furnish Senators with information as to what the changes from the original bill were.

On the next day the bill was read through, Republican Senators taking down hurriedly the amendments as best they could. The consideration of amendments and all discussion was refused, the majority members pledging themselves that discussion would be allowed and amendments considered on third reading.

On the third day, ignoring their pledge, the majority suspended the rules, read the bill by title, and thus finally passed it, without the Senate having any copy of the bill other than the single patchwork received from the House, and without allowing Republican Senators an opportunity to amend the same. Other measures deemed important by the Home Rule party were similarly dealt with.

REYNOLDS CHARGES BAIRD WITH GARBLING HIS NOTES

HONOLULU, May 8th, 1901.

Editor Advertiser: In an editorial contained in your issue of this morning, commenting upon the remarks of the United States Attorney relative to his speech in the case of the United States vs. William Walsh, quoted in the Bulletin in its issue of May 7th, 1901, you conclude by saying, "it is up to the stenographer" to explain.

Permit me to say that the transcript of the proceedings contained in the Advertiser of May 7th, 1901, except in the single particular that the same did not contain a full statement of the reasons urged by Mr. Kinney in objecting to the motion for a continuance, to which you allude in your editorial, is absolutely correct.

The only revision that was made by me in either of the copies furnished by me to Mr. Kinney or the United States Attorney was in a correction which consisted in inserting the words "It seems to me it may be the roar against the power of the general government," these words having been omitted by the typewriter in transcribing the matter at my dictation, and which omission was discovered upon comparison of the typewritten copy with my stenographic notes.

I never at any time authorized the United States Attorney to alter or revise, over my signature or otherwise, the copy of the proceedings, which I had furnished him, and he altered and revised the copy of the proceedings which he furnished to the Bulletin without my knowledge or consent.

The only garbled acocunt of the proceedings that exists is in the copy of the proceedings furnished to the Bulletin by the United States Attorney.

After an experience of nearly thirty years as a court reporter, it is highly improbable that I should be guilty of the thirty-five errors with which the United States Attorney seeks to charge me in his expurgated edition of the transcript of the proceedings.

As official reporter of the United States District Court, it is my duty to take down in shorthand the proceedings had in open court as they occur, and the statements of counsel are taken down precisely and literally as uttered.

I am not responsible for the utterances of the United States Attorney, in fact the United States Attorney, in the statement alluded to, personally and individually assumes all responsibility for his utterances.

Respectfully Yours,

C. F. REYNOLDS.

MEMORY OF BLAVATSKY

White Lotus Day is Observed in Honolulu.

PRAISE FOR THE GREAT EXPOUNDER

Addresses of Dr. Marques and Mrs. K. B. Davis of Boston on "H. P B" Life.

In commemoration of the death of the great expounder of theosophy, the followers of H. P. Blavatsky in this city met last evening in Foster Hall, to praise her memory and perpetuate her work. The hall was handsomely decorated about the chairman's platform, which was concealed beneath great masses of lilies and white flowers, relieved by dense screens of greenery. Palm branches and ferns placed in the corners and arranged behind the platform set forth in bold relief a large photograph of Madame Blavatsky. The lilies were the nearest approach to the white lotus to be found in the islands.

The meeting was given under the auspices of Aloha branch, Theosophical Society, in commemoration of White Lotus Day and in loving memory of H. B. P., the symbolic initials of the teacher of the cult, known the world over.

The meeting was graced by the presence of Mrs. Kate B. Davis of Boston, who made an address last evening on Madame Blavatsky and her work, which thrilled her auditors. Possessed of a commanding personality and pleasing address, clear enunciation and a clear-cut knowledge of theosophy, she carried the attention of those present while she narrated the noble devotion to a great principle of her teacher and friend. Mrs. Davis is a woman whose mental qualities are far above the usual and she speaks with an authority which marks her at once as one of the leaders in the theosophical movement.

The exercises were presided over by Mrs. Hendricks, who sat upon the platform directly beneath the picture of H. P. Blavatsky. They were pleasingly varied with addresses and music. The latter was a feature of the evening, and added not a little to the interest. Dr. A. Marques opened the meeting, and made the following address:

Today, all over the world, wherever branches of the Theosophical Society exist, special meetings have been held to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the death of the great teacher known to all Theosophists under the symbolic initials of H. P. B. So the little band of students here, who have requested the pleasure of your presence tonight, are merely following the precedent which has become a pleasant annual duty—the pious duty of sending out thoughts of remembrance and gratitude.

In all systems of religion or philosophy, gratitude—gratitude for favors received—is held as a high virtue; but, through Theosophy, we learn that the highest gratitude is that due to our teachers. The Oriental nations give touching examples of this sentiment, and Hindoos are known to devote their whole time, their very life, to their spiritual "Jurus," whom they serve in the most humble manner.

Therefore, if by the study of Theosophy we do learn more of the duties of life—if we gain new and larger insight into many of those problems which ordinary religions may mention, without any satisfactory explanation—it must be expected that we also more fully understand the nature and necessity of gratitude to the teacher, through whom we are enabled to obtain correct occult knowledge, whereby to hasten our evolution and progress. Now the only way we can manifest our gratitude to this departed teacher, outside of keeping her memory ever green, is by following her example and the way she pointed out, by carrying out the work she devoted her life to; that is to say, working, each of us within our humble sphere, for humanity, and learning, in order to help others. Thus our lotus celebration is not simply a mere honoring of the departed, such as we find in the Christian anniversaries, but it is a yearly renewal of our promise to continue our teacher's work. Moreover, in this celebration we find other higher ideals than the mere remembrance of H. P. B.'s lasting personality or the mere commemoration of her life work and departure, although for Theosophists the idea of death is in itself very different from the common views, since we regard death as a liberator, as the entrance into a higher condition of life and as a periodical phenomenon in our evolution; not as the end of all existence or of all physical life. Some of these higher ideals of Theosophical White Lotus commemoration are the following: an idea of homage and thanksgiving to the living great masters, whose devoted instrument H. P. B. was. To them H. P. B. owed her knowledge; from them she received the order to disseminate it in order to make it available to all the souls thirsty for truth, and they still remain the protectors of the Theosophical Society, the inspirers of all the teachings given out since H. P. B.'s death. So, honoring the memory of their instrument is really including them in our manifestation of gratitude.

Another idea is that of the good that can be done through the proper use of thought. The power of thought was nearly unrealized before Theosophy pointed to it; now science readily admits that man has in his mind a dynamo of tremendous possibilities, both creative and destructive. Theosophy adds that the individual power of thought is greatly increased when many people emit the same thought at the same time. The thoughts sent out simultaneously around the world in our Lotus celebration must produce results extremely powerful, even though we cannot realize them. They must reach H. P. B. in her new life, bringing her help for her own evolution and comfort by showing that her last work has not been in vain, while the same thought must also react on ourselves and on the society we belong to, strengthening our own power for work and binding us more closely to the good cause.

Another idea is more mysterious, in this: that it refers to possibilities yet little known, and essentially to that of H. P. B.'s possible reincarnation. She herself often said that, in her ardor to continue the great work to which she had devoted her last physcal life, she would reincarnate as soon as possible, so that she may possibly have already re-assumed a physical body, and as much as been hinted at by our leaders. To persons unacquainted with the great laws described by Theosophy, this will seem a wild assertion; but we justify it through the very fact that Nature is never capricious and that her laws always work equally in all directions and at all periods of life, whether before or after death. Thus, in the same way as it is possible for human beings to shorten their physical lives, so also it is possible for some to shorten the space of time which ordinarily separates what we call death from our next reincarnation, only the motive must be different. We all know that the incarnate Ego can put a premature end to his physical life from various reasons, and by various methods, from the selfish committing of suicide to avoid suffering or to escape the consequences of a crime, up to the generous, noble sacrifice of running into death's hands in order to save the existence of others, or to accomplish a duty. Similarly, but only through a still greater, nobler, purer sacrifice of thorough unselfishness, the disincarnate Ego can renounce his appointed time of happiness and life in Heaven, thereby shortening the interval between two successive reincarnations, and quickly assuming again another physical body, for the purpose of carrying out some great work for the benefit, the uplifting of humanity. Of course, at our present stage of evolution, very few Egos are yet advanced enough in knowledge, wisdom and abnegation to be not only capable but even desirous of, willing and ready for such a tremendous sacrifice as must be the exchanging of the bliss of spiritual life for the suffering and burdens of physical life; yet some such Egos do exist, and they belong to the phalanx of helpers and saviors who appear in the flesh whenever humanity needs a special help, a peculiar leader; whether it be an Attila or a Napoleon, a Confucius or a Mahomed. But the law is the same, whether the sacrifices be that of laying down the physical body to save others, or of renouncing Devachauic bliss, to help man's evolution; and the Ego who makes the sacrifice is assisted through it by those glorious masters who watch over the human souls at all the periods of their passage through the three great planes of life. Conditions are arranged by them for the prompt finding of a suitable body, and this can be done without violating any of the laws of nature, since it is also known that the ordinary man, who dies a sudden, violent death, reincarnates much more quickly than the average, through the intensity of his desire for resuming his interrupted earthly life. Thus it is a fact that, for a few years after wars and epidemics which abruptly carry away many souls, the proportion of births rapidly increases, in order to restore the equilibrium of numbers and to give a chance for reincarnation to the souls who wish for it.

Such being the case, if H. P. B. has already reincarnated, or will soon take up another body, our constant remembrance of her last personality through White Lotus Day, will strengthen the bond between herself and us and will help us to keep ready to receive and assimilate the new teachings, whether brought by herself or by a new messenger of the masters of knowledge. Thus our gratitude may turn to our own advantage. And it is a thing worthy of notice that, in India—that country of the highest spiritual knowledge and most earnest spiritual devotional life—our Lotus Day commemorations are not only kept up religiously, but the expressions of love, of thankfulness, of admiration for H. P. B. and her work are growing every year more pathetic. But if the Hindus, those excellent judges in occult matters, so readily recognize and proclaim their debt to H. P. B., we, of the western races—who owe her so much more, since our ignorance of the teachings she brought was so much greater—we need not feel ashamed or loth to proclaim our kind remembrances of her last personality; whether already reincarnated or still pursuing her own evolution on the appropriate planes of the world, the work she did remains as a precious monument, in which students find an inexhaustible mine of information, and many generations will pass before its importance is thoroughly recognized. Therefore, this alone would justify the keeping of White Lotus Day, and I hope our Honolulu branch will never grow tired of celebrating it with becoming respect.

And I shall now thank the kind friends who so readily respond to our invitation, and come to help us by oetaoinshrdlu and come to help us in our commemoration.

Mrs. Davis said: "In looking back upon that brilliant figure cast upon the screen of time, we that love the name of 'H. P. B.,' see two characteristics shine forth with a brilliancy that not only inspires us with hope, but inspires the whole world. It is not news to you, but it may be to some of our guests to know who our great teacher was. She was born in almost the highest circles of that autocratic land of Russia, having royal blood in her veins, having vast wealth and power. Almost everything the world had to offer was yielded to her. All she gladly gave up that she might go out into the world and expound this philosophy. She asked nothing in the way of the world's goods. I say that because the world has maligned and called her an adventuress. She cast riches aside before she took up our great work. We who know her life know how utterly unselfish she was when she began her mission in this world. The two features uppermost in her personality were to aspire to the highest and spurn the lowest. When H. P. B. came into the world, it was fast setting towards materialism. It was when the tide was strongest that that heroic soul stepped forth into the flood."

Mrs. Davis related the events of the teacher's life, her great mastery over the subject that made the world wonder while she was in the land of the living, and the work she left others to take up and carry along.

The program was very entertaining and the addresses were aimed not only to interest but to instruct. Throughout the evening, however, the memory of Madame Blavatsky was uppermost. The program was as follows:

1. Opening Address, "Object of Meeting," Dr. A. Marques.
2. Reading, "Bhagavad Gita," Mrs. Von Hasslocher.
3. Reading, "Light of Asia," Miss G. M. Sharp.

Hollow blocks of cement instead of bricks are being used for building purposes in Denmark. The blocks are made 13 by 13 or 9 by 13 according to the character of the wall. A mixture of sand and slow-setting cement is rammed in dry moulds in the usual way. After about six weeks' hardening the blocks are strong enough for most building purposes. It is claimed that houses built with these blocks are fit for occupation immediately after completion, and that the inside of the walls requires neither cleaning nor preparation, but is ready for papering or painting at once.

REPUBLICANS STAND FIRM

lature since annexation, constructive legislation in a broad spirit was essential for the welfare of every class and interest. Instead of adopting this line of procedure, the majority party refused to introduce an appropriation bill, although estimates therefor were duly submitted by the Governor at the opening of the session; and even failed to apportion the Senators, as required by the Organic Act, although a bill therefor was introduced by a Republican early in the session, and the Home Rule members were repeatedly urged to pass the same or some similar measure.

Although annexation has deprived the Territory of all custom duties, and of other revenues, thus materially affecting the finances of the Territory, and although the Treasury is in a depleted condition, the only revenue producing measure passed was introduced by a Republican.

USE OF HAWAIIAN LANGUAGE.

One of the causes of the failure of the members of the Home Rule party to attain their objects, and which prevented the Legislature from accomplishing more, was the insistence by the Home Rule members upon the use of the Hawaiian language in legislative proceedings, notwithstanding the Organic Act provides that: "All legislative proceedings shall be conducted in the English language." They elected interpreters and required interpretation of all bills, resolutions, motions and debates.

RUSSEL'S INDICTMENT.

A further cause of delay and waste of time was the apparent jealousies among the Home Rule members, and their lack of any recognized leadership. This was so apparent that the President of the Senate, himself a member of the Home Rule party, resigned in disgust, giving as his reasons the following statement, which is of record:

"To the Senate: Having repeatedly called the attention of this body to the fact that the short time accorded to the Legislature is wasted in debate on trivial matters which are of no interest to the people of this Territory, while the passage of measures which were promised by all the political parties are delayed; that little or no work is being done by the several committees, as evidenced by failure to promptly report; that, as a whole, the Senate is practically an inefficient body, and that the short time remaining in which to perform the responsible duties with which we are entrusted will prove utterly fruitless if present methods are continued; in the name of all the people and of all the parties who have entrusted us with the high mission of State affairs, which involves life, justice and property, and, in general, the good order of society and property of this young Territory, upon which the people of the whole Union are looking with profound interest, I protest against such an order of things, and I appeal to the best elements of all parties and of all people to unite for the purpose of doing our plain duty to the people during the remaining half of the session. There is no time to waste.

Being convinced that I can more fully perform my duty upon the floor of the Senate, I therefore beg to tender my resignation as President."

LEGISLATURE AND GOVERNOR.

We admit that there has been a lack of harmony between the Legislature and the Governor, but the reason for this condition is shown by the resolution of the members of the Home Rule party in the following words, to-wit: "That a majority of the legislators came to their duties prejudiced against the Governor on his record for the previous seven years," and as a result of this prejudice the Legislature has not dealt with the Governor in a broad and liberal spirit. But, after all, there has been no such want of harmony as to interfere with legislation or to account for the failure of the Home Rule party to pass important measures.

In refusing to extend the session of the Legislature, the Governor acted with the concurrence of the Republican members of the same.

This memorial is signed by all the Republican members of the Legislature, and by members of the Executive Committee of the Republican party. Among them are members of the party who, during the campaign and since, have differed from Governor Dole upon matters affecting the party policy, but who now appreciate that the Governor is in harmony with the party organization, as demonstrated by his public appointments.

From the foregoing facts it clearly appears, that the members of the Home Rule party, after ample preparation and with an overwhelming majority in the Legislature, and with full power and opportunity to carry out their measures, have only themselves to blame for not doing so. The fact is that the majority of measures passed were introduced by Republican members.

The resolution of the members of the Home Rule party fails to shoy any specific cause of complaint against the Governor, and, in our judgment, as loyal members of the Republican party, Home Rule party fails to show any action looking to his removal.

THEY WANT TO CARRY SWORDS

Wilcox Names C. K. Lyman for West Point, and C. G. Bartlett for Army.

Before leaving for the Coast Delegate Wilcox appointed C. K. Lyman, of Hilo, to represent Hawaii at West Point, in place of Vivian Richardson, who declined to accept the appointment. Lyman is about nineteen years of age, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Lyman, of Hilo. He is a graduate of Oahu College, and a part-Hawaiian.

The delegate is also urging the appointment of C. G. Bartlett for a commission in the regular army of the United States. Bartlett is a young man and a veteran of the Spanish-American war. At the outbreak of the war he was captain of the cadet company, First Regiment, National Guard of California, and went out with his regiment as a sergeant. He served through the Spanish war and in the Filipino rebellion, being promoted to sergeant major for his soldierly qualities. On being mustered out with his regiment in San Francisco, he came to Honolulu. He now occupies a clerical position with the Ewa plantation, where he has been for nearly a year. Mr. Bartlett is highly respected by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance. He was highly recommended for the commission he is now applying for by General James Smith, Governor of Negros Island, his former colonel, Captain Dumbrell and other army officers.

THE OPERA HOUSE.

Auber's Romantic Opera "Fra Diavolo" to Be Played Tonight.

Fra Diavolo, romantic opera, is one of the few works that stand on the merging line between light and grand. Martha, the Bohemian Girl, and perhaps Carmen, may all be included in this class. Aside from the dramatic value of its story. Fra Diavolo has always been a favorite through the harmonious value of its music. The melodies of the third act in particular, sorrowfully leading up to the magnificent death music at the close are well entitled to be styled grand opera.

Zerlina, the heroine, has one of the gems of the opera in her disrobing song, the other being, of course, the bandit's aria, "On Yonder Rock," and is a part that dramatically requires artistic handling. Last season Miss Stanton most daintly mastered its difficulties, giving an excellent interpretation of the role she plays tonight. Hallam, as the robber chief, may be safely counted on. Kunkel should play Lord Allcash well, and Harvey, aside from his comedy chances, has an opportunity to show first-class ability of a serious order in the last act.

Auber's opera should draw a big house tonight.

By request, the cleverly-sung sextette, "Tell Me Pretty Maiden," from Florodora, that in many minds was the hit of "Dorcas," will be repeated somewhere between acts tonight.

BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

THURSDAY : : : : : : : : MAY 9

It seems to be up to Baird.

The Star Dairy again heads the list of watered milk purveyors. It would not look natural in any other place, except, perhaps, at the pump.

John Emmeluth charges the Legislature with having taken $3,000 in bribes, but we do not note any double-leaded eruptions of type in our Home Rule contemporaries, calling upon him to "prove his case."

Mr. Emmeluth thinks that, of all delegates to see the President, he would be most likely to reach him diplomatically. It is understood that if the two statesmen ever meet, Mr. Emmeluth will proceed to hypnotize the chief magistrate after the fashion of Svengali. Our artist's conception of this interesting event will appear in the subsequent issue.

May we not hope that Statesman Beckley remembered, in making up his exhibit for the President, to include the Lady Dog bill. As the passage of that delectable measure cost the people, in Legislative expenses, about $20,000, any attempt to withhold the bill from the executive eye, would be a criminal reflection upon the acknowledged power of the Home Rule party to give Hawaii a noble government.

Representative Beckley after seeing the President—if he can—will go to the Buffalo fair. How long his engagement there will be we do not know, but the demand for island curios is so great that he may stay all summer. The Midway has a Kahuna, several hula girls, a shark god, two or three princesses of the Theresa sort, an outrigger canoe, an anti-Wilcox speech of J. Emmeluth and a picture of Judge Humphreys, and there is no reason why it should be denied such a rara avis as a Home Rule legislator.

The Star does a public service by printing the record, as a prisoner before the District Court, of Oscar Lewis, the new bailiff of the First Circuit Court. It appears that Lewis has been arrested and arraigned in this city five times since his arrival, about a year ago. He was convicted and fined twice and got off the other times owing, chiefly, to the absence of sailor-witnesses. What his qualifications for bailiff are, beyond the general duty of such men to teach Hawaii the virtues of "Americanism," we do not know. Probably the judge who appointed him had a fellow-feeling for Lewis, as he himself was once arrested in Honolulu and fined $100 for an unprovoked assault upon Davey, the photographer; had a narrow escape from similar justice when he began a street brawl with Editor Marshall, and had also, before coming to Hawaii, felt the heavy hand of the police upon his collar. The two make a very pretty pair.

It seems to us that the old rule of law, "Anything necessary to save a State from anarchy is absolutely necessary," is forgotten by those who, in various Eastern and Canadian prints, assail Funston's method of capturing Aguinaldo. The old mugwumps in their new guise of anti-Imperialists, agree that Funston had no right to capture Aguinaldo in the way he did. It was an "unworthy trick." The use of forged dispatches was "indefensible." The entrance of Aguinaldo's camp by stratagem, was as repulsive as the wooden horse fraud at Troy and the mud-monitor trick in the American civil conflict. Such critics are much too superfine for war and ought to have lived in the days of military punctilio, when one regiment asked the gentlemen on the other side to fire first. These people had much rather see the Philippines given over to the sword and torch of anarchy than to permit the capture of the rebel chief by any thing more drastic than polite correspondence.

The answer of the Republican party of Hawaii to the slanderous generalities which the Home Rule Legislature has written against Governor Dole in a memorial to President McKinley is a strong and cogent one. It shows that the failure of the Legislature to pass useful bills was due to the incapacity of that body, and not to anything done or left undone by the Territorial executive. To anyone familiar with American political methods it is clear that this official deliverance of the party in sympathy with the President, will put the Home Rule petition and the general plan of ex-monarchists and renegade Republicans to remove Mr. Dole entirely out of the sphere of practical politics. The dual scheme is now a negligible quantity; and time and money given to its furtherance will be wasted. Governor Dole will stay where he is, the Legislature will have its measurements posted in Washington and Wilcox and Beckley will find themselves without influence in determining any phase of the executive policy towards these islands.

Yesterday Mr. Emmeluth told the House that another crisis had come, and that Governor Dole must go. The drain-pipe statesman was in a somber mood over the plight of the country, his natural bent towards pessimism having got more angles since the downfall of the plumbers' trust. To him everything looked blue save the one red spot of burning charcoal where Governor Dole, as Mephistopheles, performed his selfish rites. So the catch-basin publicist passed the word that the Governor must be sacrificed for the public weal. "The days of 1893 are here again," said Emmeluth solemnly, "and now, as then, we must fight for good government. It is not Liliuokalani this time, but Dole," and with a chortle like the exhaust of a bath-tub, Mr. Emmeluth raised his monkey-wrench against his former chief, while the friends and followers of Liliuokalani looked on and clapped their hands with glee. It was indeed a stirring sight and one which must tend, with its lambent play of humor, to lighten the cares of the Governor as he contemplates the years of hard service still before him in his present post.

ARE WE UN-AMERICAN?

There is a certain type of Federal office-holder here that cherishes the idea or pretends to cherish it, that the attitude of this community is hostile to Americanism. In a way the office-holder is right; in another and more vital way he is wrong. Counted nose by nose, Honolulu's population would show more people who have no faith in things American than it would people who love the Stars and Stripes and what they stand for. The Home Rule majority, almost to a man, would vote the old monarchy back into power if they could. Their spirit was shown, when their leader, Wilcox, offered his "sword" to Aguinaldo, and when their newspaper organs hurrahed for the Don in the war of 1898. It is being shown now in bitterness towards Governor Dole and all others who helped to overthrow the Queen in 1893 and Wilcox in 1895. Aside from the Hawaiians, many white men, mainly foreigners, who sympathized with the Royalist cause, would give themselves over to a week's celebration if the American flag were hauled down for good. These people undoubtedly outnumber those who cherish American principles.

But oddly enough they are not the ones paraded in evidence by the kind of Federal office-holders who call this community "un-American," and who talk of the "roar against the general Government." Our job-encrusted friends, laying down their carpet bags marked "Sandwich Islands," make their charges against the very people who gave them the opportunity to live here under the American flag. In their lexicon of politics they define Governor Dole as the head and front of alien sentiment here; yet it was Mr. Dole who jeopardized his position, his estate and even his head for the sake of bringing these islands into the sisterhood of American States and Territories. Every man who stood by him in those trying days, putting his name on the roll of the Annexation Club and carrying a gun against the enemies of the United States, now finds himself derided by some Johnny-come-lately on the score of his want of patriotism. Some of these very "aliens" made a long journey to the Eastern mainland in the sixties to fight for the Union; others have spent their lives infusing Americanism into the old feudal laws of this group, and into the school system and into the methods and connections of business. For sixty years they and their fathers have met the political and commercial encroachments of England, France, and latterly Japan, with a firm American front. Whoever came to assail found them steadily aligned under the American flag. It was they who made the reciprocity treaty with the United States and who built up for the mother country a magnificent trade; and it was they who, taking their lives in their hands, hauled down the standard of Hawaiian royalty and formally requested the United States Minister to declare a protectorate, which he did. And when a recreant official came here from the President of the United States, hauling down the Stars and Stripes, they kept that very ensign, so that they might one day raise it for good and all—and they did raise it with tears in their eyes and acclamations on their lips. Once more when a recreant American Minister demanded that the annexation party should surrender their provisional government to the monarchists, who were the men who went under arms for a fortnight rather than lose the American ground they had gained?—who but these men that now, in the opinion of mere strangers—malihinis sent here because their friends were sick and tired of their importunities for office at home—are so "un-American" all of a sudden that they spend their time "roaring against the general Government."

The visitor from Altruria would find it hard to understand these tactics, but that would be owing to his unfamiliarity with American politics. What we hear about the "want of patriotism" among men whose courage and zeal brought Hawaii into the Union, is the campaign roorbach of the carpet-baggers who would, by excluding the annexation party from responsible public service, get the offices for themselves and their imported friends. Some of these legal and judicial job-chasers would be as willing as any political Barkis to succed Governor Dole and Chief Justice Frear and Secretary Cooper and the heads of Territorial departments. Their capacity for office is as unlimited as their desire for it is continuous. The great preliminary question with them is how to get the present incumbents removed, and hence the scheme to impeach their patriotism. Every man of them knows the fraud he is trying to perpetrate, but so did the schemer who described the gauzy tale of Morgan's murder by the Masons, as "a good enough Morgan yarn until after election." The talk about the "un-American attitude" of the Dole party is merely another trick of speech, evidencing hunger for office and no particular scruple as to how it shall be satisfied. It is as empty of truth, and even of probability, as was the political canards about the "imperialist plots" of the George Washington party after 1783.

The Home Rulers feel themselves patted on the back by the carpet-baggers, but they do not quite see what these gentry are after. Light will dawn upon them later on, when these same carpet-baggers, ignoring Hawaiians, will not only rush for vacant offices themselves, but will send home for more of their kind to fill vacancies to come. In fact importations have already begun. Only a week or two ago the most conspicuous office-seeker in the West landed by invitation of one of his old pals, and the town is full of smaller aspirants who have no more use for an Hawaiian claimant than they have for the police. If the Home Rulers give them an inch-worm they will take an eel.

No one could have read without anger the account in yesterday's Advertiser of the treatment given a poor Japanese woman by the man of her race, alleged to be her husband, who uses her as a slave and gambles away her earnings. Japanese women are not over-sensitive and usage that would drive one to hide out alone in the bushes for a week, enduring hunger, rain and cold, must have been brutal indeed. This is a case where the circumstances all point to slavery, but it seems useless to prosecute under that head, because of inability to prove an actual sale. Perhaps the best that can be done is to find the brutal husband or paramour and give him the limit of the law for assault and battery.

WHEN BILLS CAN BE SIGNED

Attorney-General Dole and Deputy Attorney-General Cathcart are of the opinion that the Governor has the right to sign any bill passed by the Legislature after its adjournment and within the ten day limitation.

The opinion was given with particular reference to bill 22, providing for the changing of the dates of the convening of the Supreme Court, which was signed on May 6th. The opinions are as follows:

Honolulu, H. I., May 3, 1901.

To His Excellency Sanford B. Dole, Governor of the Territory of Hawaii:

Sir—I herewith have the honor to submit an opinion in the matter of the power of the Governor to approve a bill after adjournment of the Legislature sine die, and within the ten-day limitation, written by Deputy Attorney General Cathcart. I am strongly inclined to think that Mr. Cathcart's conclusion is correct as a matter of law. I have the honor to be, sir, with great respect, your obedient servant,

E. P. DOLE,
Attorney General.

Honorable E. P. Dole, Attorney General of the Territory of Hawaii:

Sir—In this behalf a careful examination of the authorities leads me to the conclusion that the Governor has the power, under the Organic Act, to approve a bill (presented to him before the adjournment of the Legislature) after the adjournment of the Legislature sine die, within the ten-day limitation of the Organic Act, and that upon such approval the bill becomes a valid law.

There are two opposing lines of decision upon this question.

The earliest case was decided in California in 1852, and became the leading authority in support of the position that a Governor has not the power to approve bills after the adjournment of the Legislature. Fowler vs. Pierce, 2 Cal., 165; School Trustees vs. County, 1 Nev., 340; Thornburg vs. Hermann, 1 Nev., 400. Dissenting opinion in Lankford vs. County (Md.), 22 Atl., 412; dissenting opinion in Detroit vs. Chapin, 108 Mich., 136.

There is also a dictum to the same effect in Arizona and Utah.

The contrary position was taken in New York in 1860, and this case was followed by the greater weight of authority: People vs. Bowen, 21 N. Y., 517; State vs. Fagan, 22 La. Ann., 545; Solomon vs. Cartersville, 41 Ga., 161; Seven Hickory vs. Ellery, 103 U. S., 423; La Abra Mining Co. vs. U. S., 175 U. S., 423-451; Burns vs. Sewall (Minn.), 51; N. W., 224; Lankford vs. County (Md.), 20 Atl., 1017; States vs. County (Miss.), 1 So., 501; Detroit vs. Chapin, 108 Mich., 136.

The provisions of the constitution of California at the time of the decision in Fowler vs. Pierce (supra) was practically the same as the provisions of our Organic Act.

In the Nevada cases the decision was based on the view that the Governor, under the Territorial Act, was so component a part of the Legislature that his power necessarily terminated with that of the Legislature. The Territorial Act reads as follows:

"That the legislative power and authority of said Territory shall be vested in the Governor and legislative assembly." See also Sec. 1846 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

In the States where the courts have taken the position that the Governor has such power, the decisions are based upon the provisions of the several constitutions which are similar to those of our Organic Act. The whole subject is elaborately treated in the case of Detroit vs. Chapin (Mich.), reported in 37 L. R. A., 391, and in the notes thereto; and a perusal thereof will inform one so fully in regard to the law in this behalf that I respectfully call your attention to that case as reported.

The case of La Abra Mining Co. vs. U. S. (supra), decided that the President has the power to approve bills when Congress is in recess for a time named, the court expressly refusing to decide whether the President can sign a bill after final adjournment of Congress for the session, as that question did not arise in the case. The reasoning and expressions of the court are such as to induce the belief that a bill, if so signed by the President, would be sustained as a valid law. The other cases are reviewed in the case of Detroit vs. Chapin, to which attention has been directed in the notes thereto. Respectfully,

JOHN W. CATHCART,
Deputy Attorney General.

Honolulu's Darkest Places Are Crowded.

HUMAN WRECKS CAST ON BEACH

Visit to the City's Tramp Resorts in Company With a Police Chief.

The ragtag and bobtail of humanity is finding its way into Honolulu in increasing numbers. No one realizes the fact better than does Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth, whose duty it is to round-up that same ragtag and bobtail which constitutes the "floating" element of the city's population, and to see that it is kept floating.

Last night was the occasion of one of Mr. Chillingworth's round-ups, and by his courtesy a representative of the Advertiser was permitteed to accompany him in his search for the wandering ones. Knowing where to go to find them, the officer had no difficulty in gathering his harvest.

Mr. Chillingworth ordered the hackman to drive to the corner of Queen and Punchbowl streets, and alighting there, led the way through the slush and mud of an ill-smelling alley, which was total darkness, to a large tenement house known as Ah Leong's No. 1. Here apparently all was well, as quiet reigned, and by the straggling beams of light that came from dirty coal-oil lamps through the curtainless windows, the inmates were seen to be engaged in such peaceful pursuits as the smoking of pipes and the twirling of thumbs. This, however, the deputy sheriff stated, was until recently, one of the vilest haunts in the city, and it was a common incident a few weeks ago to find drunken and half-naked men lying about in the mud and slush of the yard. "We used to back up the patrol wagon here in this alley," said the offier, "and dump them into it. On Saturday night, particularly, it was bad. That is when the swipe carnival is at its highest, and by coming around here about twelve o'clock we could find them as thick as flies, all completely paralyzed and lying around in the mud dead drunk. We have got this place pretty well straightened out now, but I'll show you a place that takes the cake."

With this he led the way back through the narrow dark alley, across the street, down another alley of the slushy, odoriferous type, and into a side gate, where he halled a number of indolent, half-clad men who were loafing on the rotten porch of a tumbledown house, and inquired for Mr. McCarthy, the proprietor of McCarthy's boarding house. An unkempt individual with a shock of red hair, came to the door with a bunch of keys in his hand, a towel over his bare shoulders and a pair of nondescript trousers hanging about his hips.

In response to Mr. Chillingworth's inquiries, Mr. McCarthy said he had a full house, and that "Katie" was good again. Katie herself presently appeared. She is a well-known character of Kakaako, being addicted to the excessive use of swipes and numerous thumpings at the hands of her husband. Recently she was brought home from a swipes carnival at Ah Leong's by her lord and master, and given a horrible beating, for which Mr. McCarthy paid a fine of $100 to the police court. Reconciliation is now in order and domestic tranquility reigns.

"Anybody in the tent tonight?" inquired the officer.

"I don't know," answered the proprietor, "ain't none there unless they been put there; might of been some more robbed an' chucked in there so's they could lay the blame onto me."

It was explained that Mr. McCarthy is frequently the victim of other people's crimes. The tramps and hard characters about the waterfront get hold of the newly landed sailors, get them drunk on swipes, rob them of their money, and then take them to the McCarthy house and stow them in the tent on the premises; when the sailors awake from their swipe sleep they think they have been robbed by McCarthy, and there is pilikia for that gentleman. "The tent's 'bout all torn to pieces now," added the man, "there was a lot o' bad ones in there Saturday night, and they nigh done away with the tent altogether."

A visit to the tent corroborated the statement. Three or four old straw bed ticks, dirty and foul smelling were tumbled about the sloppy earth floor of what had once been a canvas tent; but which was now a frame work of tatters and strips, with one side of the top entirely torn away. According to Mr. Chillingworth, this is the vile nest for the worst element in town. "I have found them stowed away in here," said he, "as many as thirty at a time, in all stages of intoxication, fighting, squabbling, cursing and in the even more disgusting stage of drunken sickness; they pile in old sheet iron, or anything to keep the damp from coming up from the ground, and they crawl in there to sleep. It is hard to conceive how human beings can become so degraded. They are of all nationalities—the riff-raff that are brought in here by steamers and sailing vessels from the outside world; they come as stow-aways, or any way they can get here, and unless we can get them out again they keep us busy. They are the lowest type of criminal, and they keep coming in all the time. We watch the waterfront as closely as we can, and we have men watching the parks all night to catch the vagabonds that try to sleep on the benches, but there is no possible way of keeping them out, and if we put them in jail they serve out their terms and are with us again. We try to drive them out of town, and we are shipping them out all the time, on threat of imprisonment. They come here, I suppose, because they get the idea that living is easy, but one fellow that we arrested the other day said it was the d—est town he ever struck for getting the price of a meal, and that he had asked seven people before he found one that would pay for his breakfast. I hope the treatment we are giving them will give the islands a hard name for the class with the outside world before long. They seem to think this is a good place to come to, and Hawaii has become a regular dumping ground for these worthless beings."

From the McCarthy boarding house the hackman drove through the wretched district between Queen street and the waterfront, stopping in front of a crowded tenement lot. Thence the officer led the way through a hole in the fence, across lots where the refuse in open drains and cesspools filled the air with a revolting stench, and into a two-story tenement of two hundred rooms, which is the building known as "Ah Leong's."

Children not yet able to walk crawled about the floors and the dark porches, and men and women of all nationalities teemed about the place like swarming flies, while a smoke-smeared lantern setting on the dirty floor here and there, cast the sickly glimmers that furnished the only illuminations for the hundreds of degraded beings in rags and dirt, that call the wretched place home. On the upper porch a narrow rail was the only protection from a fall of thirty feet into the slop and mud below, though the inmates of the place jostled and elbowed each other roughly about on the very edge of the boards.

In every room was a pall of swipes, which was not being neglected by man, woman or child. Where the swipes come from is a thing that the officers would be very glad to know. There is always swipes in the building, and every inmate has his and her share, but they refuse to tell where they procure it, and, although it is an open secret that there is a woman in the building who manufactures the drink, the most diligent search and much detective work have failed to result in the discovery of the offender.

Here and there the meaningless twangs of Japanese stringed instruments indicated that some were being dismally gay; from other rooms came droning voices and the thumping of calabash gourds, indicating the native form of merriment. Inmates were found in various states of swipes intoxication, but they were unmolested by the officers so long as they were not entirely helpless.

At this place, Mr. Chillingworth stated, on hilarious nights, and particularly on Saturdays, are to be gathered a generous harvest of "common drunks," among them a motley throng of the "floating" element, coming from all parts of the earth, and kept continually on the move by the officers of all ports where they land. No town, no city, no country wants them, and they are bundled about from one place to another, worthless "vags" ready for the committing of any crime or the doing of any deed that is suggested to them by person or circumstance, begging, thieving, robbing and frequently killing, in turn, and eking out a wretched existence at the expense of other people, and disdaining work of any and all kinds.

Of this class of undesirable citizens Mr. Chillingworth says Honolulu is getting more than her share, and not only Honolulu but all the Islands. A number of "vags" confided their troubles to the officers and they say with one accord that the trip to Hilo and return on the Kinau is about the worst they ever came up against.

The Police Department is doing its best to watch the waterfront and to guard against the immigration of tramps, but they are still pouring in at an alarming rate, and their names and crimes are filling the rosters of the Police Court. High Sheriff Brown and his faithful deputies are bundling the unwelcome wanderers out of the Territory with all possible dispatch, and will endeavor to make the outpour as nearly equal to the inpour as they can, but as Mr. Chillingworth says, they have "a mighty big job on their hands."

Attracted by the tropical climate, where a pile of lumber is a warm couch, and by the reports that one may pick his dinner off the trees, the "Weary Willies" are flocking in with every steamer, sometimes at the rate of fifteen to a ship. It is to be hoped that the severe treatment they are receiving will result in Honolulu's being put on the black list by the worthless fraternity before many more moons.

NAGGED BY COLLECTORS

Ignominious Exit of Wilcox By Sea.

SERVED WITH TWO SUMMONSES

Judgment Likely to Be Taken Against the Delegate in Congress by Default.

Delegate Robert W. Wilcox, be-leied and surrounded by friends, got away for San Francisco yesterday afternoon on the steamship Mariposa, and this despite some men with bills.

He did not get his ticket until about an hour before the vessel left the wharf, and, "There must be some mistake," he said, when he went below to stateroom No. 32, and found that it was already occupied by three ladies who, while they were happy to have the honor of an introduction to the great man during the explanations which followed, did not feel inclined to give up their berths.

There were many people on the steamer long before Wilcox put his foot over the gangway who were anxious to see him. Among them were gentlemen with little accounts which they wanted him to settle. A couple of these people were accompanied by police officers who held in their hands papers which they were to serve.

A thorough search of the vessel was made before Wilcox went aboard. Creditors heard that he was already on deck, and that he was stowing away somewhere.

The saloon and the steerage were both examined, and the officers poked their noses into every cabin that gave any signs of being inhabited, and which were not locked.

Finally, when the delegate stepped aboard, a police officer was on hand, and handed him a summons as he stepped clear of the gangway. Wilcox was at the time accompanied by several prominent citizens with whom he was engaged in conversation. He looked at the summons without touching it. "What's this?" he said.

"Take hold of it with your hands," said the officer. Wilcox thereupon placed the papers in his pocket and proceeded below, followed by his friends and the officer, saying: "I'll attend to this by and by."

Another officer served papers shortly afterwards.

When Wilcox was questioned concerning the affair by a reporter he explained, with a merry jest, that it was a trifling matter of a few dollars, which he would settle when he returned from the States.

It seems that the first summons served on the delegate was about a bill for $156 and some odd cents which had been running for the last eleven years. Q. H. Berry, broker, wanted the cash. He was tired of waiting for it. He had presented the bill to Wilcox on many different occasions, but had always failed to get anything. Finally Wilcox gave Berry a promissory note on demand, for the amount. This, however, was no easier to collect than the bill.

Berry decided to sue. Hence the summons.

Wilcox, having gone to the Coast, will be unable to appear before the court. Judgment will probably be obtained through default.

Perhaps Wilcox will pay when he returns from Washington. Perhaps he won't.

The bill for $156 against Wilcox has a history, as above intimated, extending back over eleven years. In the year 1890 Teresa, his present wife, bought a piano of the Hawaiian News Company. So much was paid down on the instrument, and the rest was charged. Teresa gave a note for what was due, and Wilcox endorsed. Years passed, as the books say, and the Hawaiian News Company, unable to collect, turned the note over to Q. H. Berry. In 1896 the note was outlawed and Berry got it renewed. Ever since then he has been trying to collect. Lately he had the note again renewed.

On Tuesday, Fullerton, Berry's partner, who has been doing a great deal of hustling to present the bill to Wilcox often enough to keep it fresh in his memory, approached the delegate in the vicinity of Alakea and King streets, asking him for a settlement.

Wilcox thereupon made a speech in which he said he would take particular pleasure in breaking a club over the head of the collector.

The collector, his ire aroused, said that if Wilcox made any more such remarks he would make it so lively for him that he would be unable to find gas tanks enough in the country to hide in. About this time a little fellow in glasses and a Prince Albert coat toddled up to the "idol of his people" and took him away. The collector walked around the block to cool off.

One of the collectors who were looking for Wilcox on the Mariposa yesterday, had a judgment against the delegate. But summonses and judgments to the contrary, notwithstanding, the be-leied and smiling Wilcox went his way on the Mariposa to the Coast, saying he would settle by and by—in the sweet mahope.

SCIATIC RHEUMATISM CURED AFTER FOURTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

"I have been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for fourteen years," says Josh Edgar, of Germantown, Cal. "I was able to be around, but constantly suffered. I tried everything I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured, and I am happy to say it has not since returned." Why not use this liniment and get well? It is for sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.

When Elihu Root became secretary of war he signed his name in full to all official papers. It recently occurred to him, a Washington correspondent says, that by abbrevating "Elihu" he could save a great deal of time, and now all official papers emanating from the war department bear the signature "E. Root." The secretary does not like the blunt appearance, but time is valuable, especially since the additional work of reorganizing the army has demanded that he sign his name many times a day.

CATHOLIC AID SOCIETY.

Ladies Preside Over a Pleasant Evening at Progress Hall.

The Catholic Ladies' Aid Society held an evening reception at Progress Hall last night.

With a view of replenishing the funds of the institution a euchre party was adopted as a means of entertainment, somewhat out of the conventional, to be followed with a musical program.

Visitors responded sufficiently to fill forty tables, and while refreshments were handed round, a lively competition for the prizes ensued until shortly after 10 o'clock. Four prizes were chosen for the ladies, a spangled fan and some choice handkerchiefs for first and consolation prizes, respectively, and for the gentlemen, a silver corkscrew and a leather cigarette case. After cards, a collection in aid of the society, was taken, realizing a handsome sum.

The musical program proved especially interesting with Mr. Berger and Mr. Cunha Jr., at the piano, and solos from Mr. J. F. Bowles, Miss Nolte, Father Valentin and James Dougherty.

About eighty couples then took possession of the floor and enjoyed the pleasures of the dance until a late hour.

The successful carrying out of the evening was due in great measure to the efforts of the reception committee, consisting of Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Du Roi, Miss Perry and Mrs. Carroll, though all the members of the society worked hard on their respective committees to ensure success. A larger attendance was expected, but the muddy streets doubtless prevented a great many from venturing out.

New Teachers.

C. Biddell, Lanai, beginning May 1; Mrs. J. L. Coyney, substitute for Miss Mapuana Smith in Kaiulani School; Mrs. Lilla G. Marshall, assistant in Normal School to succeed Miss Susan G. Clark; Miss Mary C. Swain, additional assistant at Laupahoehoe; Miss Ivy Girvin, in the Normal School, in place of Miss Wood, who is taking a vacation; Andrew Wallace at Hanapepe, in place of Miss Trowbridge; Miss Elizabeth Eklund, assistant at Honouliuli, to succeed Miss Addie Farmer, resigned.

NO LOSS OF TIME.

I have sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for years, and would rather be out of coffee and sugar than it. I sold five bottles of it yesterday to threshers that could go no farther, and they are at work again this morning.—H. R. Phelps, Plymouth, Oklahoma. As will be seen by the above the threshers were able to keep on with their work without losing a single day's time. You should keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. THE LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS.

It seems almost incredible that any lamp could be good enough to take the place of electricity on even terms, yet such is the case with the ANGLE LAMP. All over the Islands people are throwing away their old lamps and replacing them with this lamp, not merely because it costs about one-tenth as much to maintain (cost is no object to some people), but, besides being infinitely cheaper, it is more brilliant and more reliable in the bargain. It is a revelation to every one who uses it, and simply demonstrates that the old-fashioned lamp was a barbarous contrivance. THE ANGLE LAMP never smokes, smells or gives any trouble, is lighted and extinguished as easily as gas, and is the ideal light from every standpoint. We carry these lamps from $1.80 up.

CURRENT NEWS OF RACE TRACK

Spaulding's String Did Not Come—An Experimental Handicap.

The Jockey Club meets tonight at the Pacific Club for the purpose of arranging the programs for June 14 and 15.

A day or so ago Jim Duncan and Fireman Kelly were discussing the respective merits of W. W. Wood and Waldo J. Said Kelly:

"Wood gave Waldo a good race to the half last year."

"I didn't see no good race," replied Duncan.

"Waldo wasn't very much ahead, anyway," said the fireman.

"Oh, he was just amusing Wood," exclaimed Duncan.

A match has been arranged for next Sunday morning between Edith R and Molly. The race will be a one-heat affair with Dickey Davis driving Edith and H. Hogan steering Molly. The stakes are $20 a corner and a dinner. Hogan worked-out Molly a couple of heats yesterday in 3:57 and 3:49½. The mare is a good all-around performer, trotting, pacing, running and single-footing by turns. Considering the merry clip, she did not appear to be greatly distressed by her effort.

Alfred Carter has turned over a bay pacer to C. H. Judd to train.

Amarino is looking much higher in flesh than when he arrived at the track last year.

A letter from a Hilo correspondent states that six race horses left the Coast with Socialist, among which were two harness horses.

Colonel Spaulding's horses did not arrive from Kauai yesterday as was expected.

The six furlongs match race between Aggravation and Virgie A will probably be arranged before the end of the week.

W. McDonough's Abbey will be taken to the track on the 20th inst. to be trained for the coming races.

A couple of handicap events on June 14 and 15 would prove very interesting and would undoubtedly draw a large crowd to the track. Two races framed as follows should result in exciting contests and every horse accepting would have a show to win:

One Mile—Socialist 125, Weller 122, Indra 122, Vioris 120, Aggravation 117.

Six Furlongs—Vioris 122, Watossa 118, Gartalene 116, Dixie Land 115, Virgie A 114, Aggravation 114, Venus 110, Amarino 107.

If you don't like the above "dope" try and pick the winners.

The seating capacity of the grand stand at the track is close on 1,000.

WHOOPING COUGH.

A woman who has had experience with this diesase, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops.—Jessie Pinkley Hall, Sprinville, Ala. This remedy is for sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.

An indictment in a Texas case charged that the defendant "did then and there unlawfully and wilfully, by loud and vociferous talking and by other noise, towit, kicking a joint of stovepipe," disturb the congregation.

NEW BOARD OF HEALTH

For the Present Dr. Cooper Will Preside.

MAY BE SUCCEEDED BY E. A. MOTT-SMITH

Mails Will Still Be Fumigated—Small Pox Infection—Leper Settlement Supplies.

DR. CHARLES B. COOPER was elected president of the newly created Board of Health at the regular meeting held yesterday afternoon. The new members were unanimous for him. Dr. Cooper accepted the honor with the proviso that he be allowed to resign in six weeks, when he will leave for the Coast on a two months' vacation.

It is understood that E. A. Mott-Smith, one of the new members, and formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs, will at that time succeed Dr. Cooper. Mr. Mott-Smith is an energetic man, and it is believed will be able to give much of his time to the needs of the health department.

At yesterday's meeting the following gentlemen were present: Dr. Cooper, Attorney General E. P. Dole, E. A. Mott-Smith, Fred C. Smith, Dr. C. L. Garvin, Dr. Sloggett and William Auld. Dr. Sloggett was the last appointee on the new board. Felicitations were passed about and the new board began its work harmoniously and transacted considerable business. The meeting was held at 1:30 o'clock, instead of 3, in order to give the members opportunity to see the Mariposa off and attend to their mail before its departure.

A short caucus was held prior to the open session, where it was agreed that Dr. Cooper should accept the nomination for president.

The nomination in open session was made by E. A. Mott-Smith, in view of the past services and general qualifications of Dr. Cooper.

The election was unanimous.

"In accepting the office of president I wish to state my position. I would not accept it as a permanent thing. I expect to leave in about six weeks for the Coast, but having previously been a member of the board and familiar with the routine work, I realize it would be hard to put in a new member and expect him to go ahead. Therefore, to facilitate the workings of the department, and on the condition that I be allowed to resign in six weeks, I accept."

Tenders for horseshoeing, which were to have been opened on May 1st, were only opened yesterday. These bids were called for to supply shoes and labor from May 1 to December 31. The work had formerly been performed at the rate of $2.50 for each set of four shoes, but in April the price was lowered to $2. Following were the bids: Nunez, $1.75; Tom Hollinger, $2.50, guaranteed to last a month; John McLain, $1.25; J. A. Morgan, $1.72½; Honolulu Stock Yards, $2. The board did not bind itself to accept the lowest or any bid. Dr. Cooper stated that the only guarantee was from Tom Hollinger, the others having failed to make any such guarantee. Mr. Dole moved to accept the lowest bid, with the condition that the contract be withdrawn if the work was not satisfactory to the executive officer. Carried.

A letter from Dr. Sandow, government physician on Kauai, was read, in which he reported on the smallpox patient at Waimea plantation. The patient was a Porto Rican, twenty-five years of age, who was quarantined. All the school children have been vaccinated and prohibited from going to school for a period of fourteen days. He asked for more vaccine. Dr. Sandow says the source of infection is a matter of conjecture. All the Porto Rican children have been vaccinated.

Mr. Dole said he talked with Mr. Halstead, who had just returned from Kauai, and he reported the patient on the road to recovery. President Cooper spoke of the excellent manner in which the smallpox cases had been handled by the physicians on Kauai.

The question of the fumigation of the United States mails was brought up. Mr. Dole said it was a hardship to continue the fumigation unless it was deemed absolutely necessary for the safety of the public. If there was danger still to be feared, he thought it wise to continue the present system. Dr. Cooper was personally of the opinion that where there is an iota of danger it would more than pay the community to see that the mails were fumigated, even if it delayed distribution for a few hours.

Dr. Pratt reported that statistics just obtained from the United States Marine Hospital Service office showed that there had been an increase of 1,000 cases of smallpox from April 5 to the 12th, inclusive, in all parts of the United States. Dr. Sloggett expressed himself in favor of having the mails fumigated. "The public will feel more comfortable in knowing that the chances for infection are being lessened."

Dr. Pratt said he had had a conversation with Dr. Cofer relative to the probable source of infection from which the Porto Rican on Kauai was stricken. Dr. Cofer said the clothing of the Porto Ricans had been fumigated upon their departure, again at New Orleans, and again at Port Los Angeles. He said immigrant trains were often sidetracked in the southern States, and passengers mingled with the negro inhabitants, and probably bartered for clothes. In this way the infection may have been carried along to the Hawaiian Islands.

The board decided to let the present system of fumigation stand.

A letter from Dr. Cofer was read in which he stated officially that for the week ending April 13 there were thirty-one cases and twenty-five deaths from plague, and twenty-two cases and seventeen deaths from smallpox, at Hongkong. A case of plague occurred at Nagasaki on April 17.

Treasurer Wright asked for instructions from the board as to applications received from Japanese for license to sell poisonous drugs. He asked for information concerning his duties and powers of discretion in the premises. Mr. Dole said the law provided that the Treasurer may issue licenses to sell poisonous drugs. He would advise Mr. Wright, until the Supreme Court ordered otherwise, to use discretion, and satisfy himself that the applicant in each case meant no harm.

The question of supplying the leper settlement with poi and paiai was again considered. Dr. Pratt read the following tenders of paiai submitted by Lee Chew, on the basis of 400 bundles per week: Twenty-one pounds, $1.10 a bundle; twenty-five pounds, $1.30, for a four-year contract; twenty-one pounds at 85 cents, 25 pounds at $1, for a six-year contract; twenty-one pounds, 80 cents; twenty-five pounds, 95 cents, for an eight-year contract. The president appointed William Auld, E. A. Mott-Smith and Dr. Pratt, a committee to examine into the quality of the paiai and satisfy themselves as to prices.

The request of Father McLaughlin, of New York City, the famous "Singing Priest" of the Catholic church, to be allowed to visit the Molokai leper settlement, was denied, as the board did not wish to establish a precedent, no matter how urgent or how humanitarian was the request. Father McLaughlin, through a friend, said he did not desire to go out of idle curiosity, but was impelled by religious motives only, and in view of the interest his church took in the settlement.

George W. Smith asked permission to send medicine to the settlement. He claimed it was a cure for leprosy. His request was denied.

Tenders of beef and live cattle from the Parker ranch on Hawaii, were read again. A report on the bid by E. C. Winston, a member of the old board, was read, and the same will be submitted to the Parker ranch management.

A number of lepers at the Kalihi Receiving Station will be sent to Molokai on the next steamer for Kalaupapa.

President Smith, of Oahu College, reported that the insanitary laundry on the college premises would be attended to immediately.

Dr. Shorey, food commissioner, was given authority to prosecute several adulterators of milk.

A letter from Lahaina asking the Board of Health to take action to have the water system there put into operation, so that the 500 school children could have a plentiful supply of drinking water, was read, and referred to the Public Works Department, with the recommendation that children be so supplied.

At the close of the meeting President Cooper said he did not doubt that all the new members had consented to become members with only the incentive uppermost to do their duty as citizens. He was sorry the Legislature had not adopted the bill drawn up by the Attorney General which provided for the appointment of a Commissioner of Public Health. It was hard upon business men to spend three and sometimes more hours of an afternoon discussing public matters without any remuneration except the commendation of the community. The members were subject to criticism, often unjustly, but that was only natural when men were trying to serve the public.

"Many matters are coming up for our attention," said he in conclusion, "especially Kewalo, which is a disgrace to civilization. That district should not have been opened for habitation until placed in a sanitary state. As soon as possible we should put our whole attention to rectifying the disgraceful conditions there."

CUBA AND ITS PROSPECTS AS SUGAR-MAKING COUNTRY

Editor Advertiser: Mr. William E. Curtis, the well-known Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, speaking of a recent interview with Sir William Van Horne, the Canadian Pacific railway magnate, gives some interesting predictions and facts to all the island peoples of the Pacific, as bearing not only upon the wondrous growth and prospects of the Cuban railway system now projected, and upon the development of the sugar industry in the West Indies.

Mr. Curtis says: Sir William tells me that during the next year he expects to lay 400 miles of track in Cuba between Santiago and the port of Nipa in the province of Santa Clara, through the center of the island and connecting the city of Santa Clara with the western system of railroads in the island. This will enable the passenger to go by rail almost the entire length of Cuba from Pinar del Rio to Santiago, the capital of the easternmost province. He also expects within the same time to build a line north and south between the two coasts in the province of Santa Clara, giving an outlet for the products of that region to the sea. This work is to be finished April 1, 1902. The company already have 3,000 men in grading and building bridges, and as soon as the sugar crop is gathered, within a few weeks, he expects to double his force and keep at least 6,000 men constantly at work in construction.

It is well known that under the Foraker resolution of Congress the granting of franchises and the establishment of a permanent government is so indefinite that Sir William and his syndicate, with the approval of the President and Secretary of War, have undertaken this work upon its merits, like any other enterprise, without any grant or special privileges. They have purchased the right of way for cash and are asking no bonus for developing the beautiful island. Sir William says: "This railroad is only one step in our enterprise and means far more than the furnishing of transportation. We have purchased vast tracts of land in the central and eastern provinces, including forests, pastures and first-class agricultural land. We propose to settle colonies upon it, giving preference to the best men in our construction gangs, and shall cut it up into small farms and assist people in their cultivation, and shall also assist in the establishment of ranches and the introduction of high-bred cattle. In Cuba are the finest ranches I have ever seen, and before the war had wiped out the stock there were 1,750,000 cattle there. There are now only about 95,000 head. We are putting up sawmills and are utilizing the wonderful forests of the finest cabinet woods in the world. Most of this domain we have bought from the Spanish owners who live in Paris and Madrid—who never came to Cuba, and have never done anything to develop the resources of the island. Conditions are improving rapidly in Cuba. The sugar fields are being replanted. Every man who wants work can get a dollar a day, which is considered a fortune by the average Cuban.

"It will be several years before Cuba can produce a normal crop of sugar. This year there will be about 500,000 tons, which is a handsome increase from the 350,000 tons of last year. We are spending millions of dollars upon our faith in the prosperity and stability of the Cuban government. Property in Cuba is just as safe now as anywhere else, or we would not go there."

Allow me to say to the Advertiser and to the people of the Territory of Hawaii that the wonderful presentation of the conditions which are now being illustrated by Sir William Van Horne, and referred to at length by Mr. Curtis in his articles now appearing daily in the Chicago Record-Herald, should stimulate every citizen of Hawaii to make the most of the boon of American civilization, education and growth now presented to their acceptance, and not allow the Spanish peoples of Cuba and Porto Rico to outstrip them in the race for prosperity and success. Make the most of what we have, and not quarrel and contend over nothings. Stand squarely up to the demands of the country and the people, and do not fall behind the Asiatics and the Mongolian races in the fight for life and livelihood. The United States only desires to see Hawaii become the ideal country, and possess the typical homes of the world, as it already has the choicest soil and climate.

DRUGS ARE POISONOUS

Dr. Shorey, Food Commissioner, reported yesterday to the Board of Health on Japanese drugs which had been sent from Hawaii for examination, as they were considered dangerous to the lives of the users. His report is as follows:

Honolulu, H. T., May 8, 1901.

To the President of the Board of Health.

Sir: A few days ago I received from Dr. Irwin of North Hilo through Dr. Pratt two packages of Japanese medicine for examination. With regard to this medicine I beg to report as follows: Each of the packages contained the same medicine; one which had not been opened contained fourteen envelopes each containing five pills; the other contained seven such envelopes, half having been used. The active principle in these pills was found to be Thalline Sulphate. Thalline salts are powerful antipyretics and may act as a direct blood poison; and would produce the effect noted by Dr. Irwin. Recent authorities state that the internal use of these salts is obsolete; and I have not been able to find any evidence of their use in this way by regular physicians or of their sale for this purpose by reputable druggists.

As this seems to be a case of Japanese suffering at the hands of other Japanese, and as people of other nationalities are not likely to use this medicine as sold at present, perhaps the best plan would be to draw the attention of the Japanese Consul to the matter.

Respectfully,

EDMUND C. SHOREY, Food Commissioner.

Mr. Dole moved that the matter be called to the attention of the Japanese Consul as suggested, which motion was carried.

COUNTER BLASTS TO PREVENT HAIL STORMS.

The viticulturists of France have suffered greatly from hail storms. At the viticultural congress held recently in Padua it was decided to try counter blast cannon to turn and scatter the storms. The picture shows a battery of these specially patterned cannon in position. The experiment is being watched with unusual interest by the thousands of viticulturists of France.

STAR DAIRY A CHIEF OFFENDER

Dr. Shorey Sends in a Long List of Foods Which Are Below Standard.

Two dozen milk dairies of this city are delivering milk below the standard, the Star Dairy heading the list. In the April report of Edmund C. Shorey, Food Commissioner, read before the Board of Health yesterday, full details of the class of milk delivered by each dairy in Honolulu are given, and four are to be prosecuted for selling milk to which water had been added.

Dr. Shorey's report is a long one, covering not only examinations made of milk, but of drugs and foods contained in many stores. His report is as follows:

Honolulu, H. T., May 1, 1901.

To the President of the Board of Health, Honolulu.

Gentlemen: Yours of March 25th re catalogue of ship chandlery goods has been received.

We have used a number of the John A Roebling's steam plow cables, and have found them far superior to the English cables, and at the same time a great deal cheaper; in fact, we sent for some of these cables and we put a new Roebling and a new Fuller cable on the same set of steam plows, one on each engine, of course, and that was considerably over a year ago. The American cable is much better than the English cable in every way, and today is not nearly as badly worn. We are perfectly satisfied here that the American cables are the best.

We shall certainly bear in mind your stock of goods whenever we need anything in your line.

Very truly,

NEWS OF THE WATERFRONT

Captain "Yankee" Kellar and Bark Palmyra.

Mariposa Off For the Golden Gate Yesterday.

CAPTAIN KELLAR of the good bark Palmyra, now in this port, is a Yankee from the land where Yankees grow—Maine.

He has done a great deal of trading with African ports in his time, and when he is in a reminiscent mood, which is most likely to happen when his vessel is safely in port and the work of the day is done and he is enjoying a meditative pipe, he delights in telling his friends, of whom he has a host the world over, how he used to get ahead of the skippers of English ships in Angoa Bay years ago. They used to guy him a great deal, as it often happened that he would be the only American skipper in port. They always called him "Yank," to which title he has the very best rights, having been born within a few miles of Bath, Maine, and he felt a special pride in thus representing his country.

One day, so the skipper tells the yarn, while the English captains were spinning funny stories about the Yankees in some popular ship chandler's establishment, one of the Britishers asked Captain Kellar a question intended to floor the jolly sailor.

"Tell me, what is a Yankee, anyway?" said he.

"Why, a Yankee is an Englishman improved upon," was the unhesitating reply. This settled the Englishman's hash for a while.

Captain Kellar has been going to sea for forty years. Most of his voyages have been in the Pacific, although he has traded a great deal in the Atlantic and has, in fact, been round the world more times than he can recall, if questioned suddenly.

He has been master of the bark Palmyra for the last ten years, and has served in many vessels before her. He at one time commanded the Bonanza, and was also skipper of the Elizabeth Kimball, which was put ashore on Easter Island, waterlogged, in 1868.

The last voyage of the Elizabeth Kimball was a memorable one, and will never fade from the mind of "Yankee" Kellar. The captain had his wife aboard that trip, and the experiences met with were hard for all hands, especially a woman.

The old Elizabeth Kimball was loaded with lumber at the time she was beached on Easter Island. She met a succession of severe storms and became waterlogged. As the captain expressed it, the ship was full of lumber and water; the lumber floated all right but the water didn't float as well. The vessel was far from any port at the time, and it would have been foolhardy to attempt to take her on her voyage or to put back to where she came from. It was decided that the best thing to be done was to run the ship ashore on Easter Island.

There were a couple of hundred natives on the island at the time, and the people of the Kimball were treated in a most friendly manner. There were plenty of yams and sweet potatoes and fish to eat and, after the Kimball had been put ashore, her crew experienced no hardships.

Captain Kellar and his men built a small schooner from the ribs and planking of the wrecked Kimball and, several weeks after the Kimball had been beached, the little schooner started out for Tahiti with the captain, his wife and the crew of the Kimball aboard. Tahiti was reached without difficulty, and there Captain Kellar sold his schooner for $650. From Tahiti the crew of the old Kimball sailed to San Francisco in a French barkentine.

The bark Palmyra is at present discharging coal at the navy wharf for the army. From this port she will sail in ballast for the Sound. In the Sound the Palmyra will load lumber, probably, for Cape Town. Pope & Talbot are the present agents for the Palmyra.

The bark was built at Bath, Maine, in 1876. She is a vessel of a little over 1,300 tons.

When she goes up the Sound she will probably have a new rigging put on her. Her shrouds are something like fifteen years old, and are apt to tumble to the decks pretty soon unless something is done. They are wire ropes, but even wire gets tired and falls to pieces after years of the action of the elements.

Mariposa for the Coast.

The rain came down in torrents yesterday afternoon about the time that the Oceanic steamer Mariposa, Captain Rennie, was getting ready to leave for the Coast, and those who had assembled on the wharf to say good-by to departing friends did so at the risk of getting wet, taking cold and feeling generally uncomfortable. This did not seem to affect the size of the crowd, however, for as many people as usually turn out at the going away of a Coast steamship were on hand and the only difference noticeable in the great throngs, besides the fact that they were more or less wet, was that they were packed away under the sheds instead of swarming out to the edge of the wharf to be as near to the steamer as possible.

Berger's band was in a dry place and the music, as usual, added a charm to the occasion that was in no way affected by the inclement weather.

Just for a moment the rain ceased as the steamer was getting away from the wharf. At that moment the crowd rushed to the edge to throw leis and to receive them from the hands of their departing friends, as tokens of farewell.

There were many people going away, most prominent among whom were Sam Parker and family, Robert W. Wilcox, Fred. Beckley and A. de S. Canavarro. The members of the Legislature were practically out in force to bid aloha to Parker, Beckley and Wilcox.

It was half past 4 o'clock before the Mariposa got away from the dock. The following is a complete list of those who sailed to the Coast on the vessel: J. E. Austin, wife and two children; Mr. Borghrevink and child, Miss Brewer, St. E. Bryant, Jr., A. E. Bailey, R. E. Burke and wife, Fred. W. Beckley, J. F. Carlisle and wife, J. H. Campbell and wife, Mrs. J. C. Cohen, A. de S. Canavarro, D. T. Davis, Wm. Douglas, Miss Daily, J. J. Dunne, J. M. Fleming, W. M. Gifford, F. Haviland, C. B. Henderson and wife, Mrs. W. L. Howard, Mrs. R. H. Haskel and child, W. J. Hayes, George Hammer, Mrs. F. J. Kruger, three children and nurse; E. A. Keithley and wife, Mrs. Keohokaloa, J. E. Lindsey, F. C. Lindsley, H. W. Lombard, H. M. Mott-Smith, wife, two children and maid; R. McKeague, Miss Clara Mueller, T. P. McLaughlin, J. A. Mand, M. McInerney, G. J. Moore, Mr. McKay, Sheldon Mantle, S. Parker, wife and son; Wm. A. Robinson, T. B. Richards and wife, Mrs. A. Smithies, child and servant, Mrs. Shaughnessy and child, H. Trail, Miss Trowbridge, A. H. Wagner, W. M. Warren, Miss E. Wilson, F. S. Washburn, Robert W. Wilcox.

Followers of the Sea May Combine.

A prominent local shipping man received a letter by the last mail from the Coast from one of the shipping firms of San Francisco, in which it was intimated that the Coast Seaman's Union might amalgamate with freight clerks and other employes aboard sailing craft and steamships, so as to completely tie up a vessel in case of a strike.

While nothing definite has as yet been learned concerning the scheme, if indeed any move has been made in that direction, there has been considerable talk on the waterfront in regard to the matter and shipping men are more or less concerned.

The organizing of freight clerks, for example, and the amalgamation of their organization with the union would mean that in the event of a strike on the part of the freight clerks, sailors and others would go out on strike also, to fight for the common cause.

In case of any trouble with employes, all being united, the result to the shipping interests of this port as well as Coast ports would be a serious one and the exporting of sugar from these Islands might at any time be interfered with, if not altogether tied up.

Shipping men are anxious to get particulars concerning the matter and are waiting for definite news from the Coast.

The Coast Seaman's Union already embraces Hawaii, there being a branch union in this port and a representative of the union here to look after union interests.

Fire on the Waterfront.

Every steamer in the harbor which happened to have sufficient steam up commenced to blow its whistle in short, warning notes about 9 o'clock last night. There was a fire on the waterfront and, at first, no one knew whether the whole front was burning or whether some loafer had dropped a match onto a bale of hay and started a small blaze.

It took only a moment, however, for the Fire Department to find out where the trouble was after they had been telephoned by one of the boys at the boat landing.

The blaze started forward on the gasoline schooner Eclipse of the Hawaiian Navigation Company. The Eclipse was lying at the end of Brewer's wharf and, so it is said, no one was aboard at the time. This is unlikely, however, and the general opinion of those who ought to know is that one of the crew was forward in his bunk and that he set fire to his mattress through smoking while falling asleep.

Certain it is that the fire originated in one of the bunks on the port side of the schooner forward under the forecastle head. Flames were bursting forth from under the forecastle head of the little schooner when the boat boy gave the alarm.

The department responded in its usual brisk and prompt manner, the chemical engine arriving first. After a few minutes' work the men of the chemical engine had the blaze apparently extinguished. As a matter of fact, however, the fire was not out, as was evinced by the smoke coming from under the forecastle head.

An attempt was then made to get a stream of water onto the fire by putting a suction pipe into the water of the harbor over the edge of the wharf. For some reason or other this arrangement proved of no use and not a drop of water was pumped aboard the schooner.

Meanwhile Captain Campbell of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, seeing that the fire was likely to gain headway and eat the schooner up, organized a bucket brigade and water was thrown more or less profitably in the direction where the seat of the fire was supposed to be.

After one man had fallen overboard in his attempts to be of assistance to the bucket brigade, and after a half-dozen pigs had escaped from the schooner and created excitement among the large crowd on the wharf, until they were caught, squealing, and put back aboard, a line of hose was attached to a hydrant which before had refused to work, and a stream was got in sufficient force to relieve the schooner of any danger of going up in smoke.

Then the bucket brigade was called off and the hose did the work.

It was a queer crowd which turned out on Brewer's wharf to witness the fire. It seemed that all the dark nooks and corners of the waterfront had given up their sleepers and loafers to join in the throng.

It was as dark as it could possibly be on the wharf and the firemen had great difficulty in moving around. It is a wonder that all of the wharves are not provided with electric lights, which might be used in just such emergencies.

Moana Comes and Goes.

The steamship Moana arrived from the Colonies yesterday morning and sailed for Victoria and Vancouver last evening.

For a long time the Moana was one of the most popular boats which called at this port and her return here after a long absence in southern waters was welcomed by many who had not forgotten pleasant trips on the fine steamship.

The Moana is now on the run from Canada to the Colonies in place of the Warrimoo.

She sailed from Sydney on the 22d of April, arriving at Brisbane two days later and sailing thence on the 26th.

No passengers were brought for this port. She took the following from here for the north, however: Mr. and Mrs. T. Rain Walker, Mrs. Wakefield and three children, Miss Jones, E. H. Wodehouse, Mrs. Ward and two daughters, D. J. Fisher, Mrs. John Bush, Mrs. C. V. Sturdevant, R. Dods, Mrs. Lidgate, Miss I. Blezerd, Mrs. C. Ericksen and child, Miss P. Nobles, Mr. Knowlton, Miss Greg, Mrs. W. H. Rickard, J. L. White, L. Abrams, A. W. Anderson, wife and three children; S. Ringstrow, William Roberts, James Dean, Mr. Donaldson, S. Oldstein, George Graham, T. R. Robinson and William Henry.

Among the through passengers on the Moana was Captain Peyton Hoskyns, R. N. C. M., who has been in command of the Tauringa, which is stationed with the Australian squadron.

The Mariposa's Next Trip.

It is said that the Mariposa, on her next trip from the Coast, will go through to the Colonies, taking the place of the Sonoma. No advices have been received at the office of the agents in regard to the matter, nor do the officers aboard the Mariposa know anything of the affair, although it is generally understood that the Mariposa will go through to Pago Pago, Auckland and Sydney on her next excursion.

Burned the Lumber.

All the woodwork around the stalls on the deck of the bark C. D. Bryant has been burned on account of a case of glanders. The burning was done by order of the Board of Health.

Sonoma Breaks Down.

It is probable that the Sonoma will be several days late on the trip from the Colonies. Advices brought by the Moana yesterday were to the effect that the ship has had further trouble with her engines since she left this port. It will be remembered that she had an accident on the way from the Coast here on the last voyage. Between Honolulu and Auckland, as was announced some days ago, the port engine was thrown out of commission by the breaking of the second piston rod. The forward piston rod on the port side broke during the trip from the Coast here.

It will be necessary to make repairs to the vessel before she can start on her return trip. As time is a big consideration, it is probable that only temporary repairs will be made in Australia, the Sonoma lying up for complete repairs on her arrival at San Francisco. She may be all the way from three to ten days late on her return to this port.

N. B.—A United States Army transport may be expected from San Francisco on the 9th and 24th of each month, en route to Manila, unless route is hanged by the War Department.

Not content with providing its own gas, electricity, water and street car service, the City of Glasgow proposes to dispense its own liquor, and the municipal saloon is talked about. A committee appointed to consider the question has reported in favor of an experiment, and parliament is to be asked for the necessary power.

COURT NEWS OF THE DAY

Atty. G. A. Davis Roasted in Court.

OBLITERATED THE RECORDS

Jury Finds Verdict for Plaintiff in Ejection Action of Holt vs. Kauhi.

Something of a sensation was caused in the First Circuit Court yesterday morning when the judge took Attorney George Davis to task for "obliterating the records" in the case of Hulse Bradford & Company vs. J. W. Jacobs. The following was the conversation:

The court stated that a complaint had been issued in this case out of the court to the high sheriff for service; that the high sheriff instead of serving the same, delivered the summons and complaint to Mr. G. A. Davis at his request. Mr. Davis, without the permission of the court and without any authority, then made several interlineations and erasures in said complaint, which totally changed the meaning of the same, and struck out the jurat to the complaint taken before N. Fernandez an April 26, 1901, and added thereto the jurat of C. F. Chilingworth, dated May 8, 1901, and altered the order of Judge Gear, granting an attachment against defendant to make the order read "as personal arrest."

"I direct," said the court, "that this paper be taken by the clerk now, it being a record of this court, and be retained by him, and that the same be stricken from the files of this court, as having been amended and obliterated in essential particulars without any authority and without the permission of this court."

Mr. Davis arose and addressed the court, stating that he had intended to file the altered complaint as an amended complaint and then have process of arrest made. The court responded, "You had no right to amend the complaint which was filed in this court and which was a record of this court, and even granting that you had such authority, you had no authority to strike out the name of a judge of this court, which he had signed to his order, and if it is ever repeated in this court again you will be severely dealt with."

Later in the day Mr. Davis presented an amended bill for the arrest of the defendant, and the court refused to allow the same.

In the ejectment suit of J. D. Holt, Jr., vs. A. Kauhi, heard before the First Judge of the First Circuit Court yesterday the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for restitution of the property claimed, that an undivided two-thirds of the land described in the complaint with damages in the sum of $613.50. The jurors were as follows: W. E. Sharp, George A. Howard, Jr., Walter A. Harvey, Hugh H. Walker, Wm. M. Cunningham, Wm. H. Lyle, H. G. Crabbe, Thos. R. Lucas, A. E. Lloyd, S. S. Kekumano, E. E. Messman and M. A. Gonsalves.

COURT NOTES.

In the case of Anna Gertz in her own behalf and as executrix of the will of Christian Gertz, deceased, vs. J. Alfred Magoon, et al., a joinder in demurrer has been filed by plaintiff through her attorney, F. J. Russell, joining issue with defendants John Buckley and J. Alfred Magoon, respectively, upon their demurrers theretofore filed.

The case of Mist vs. Kapiolani Estate was taken up at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the taking of testimony was completed. Argument began by respective counsel at 8 o'clock in evening session.

A judgment by default in the case of Mrs. E. A. Williams, undertaker, vs. Robert W. Wilcox was yesterday entered against the defendant for $78.25, in the Second District Court.

Notice of motion for a new trial was yesterday filed by the defendant in the case of Henry Smith vs. Hamakua Mill Company, Limited, upon the grounds that the verdict rendered by the jury under instructions from the Court in favor of the plaintiff, was contrary to law and the evidence and the weight of evidence, the motion to be presented on Saturday, May 11.

Service of the notice and motion is acknowledged by Andrews, Peters and Andrade, attorneys for plaintiff.

PROBATE.

The last will and testament of Piiwi Panaewa, widow, deceased, has been filed, together with the petition of John A. Baker, a devisee under such will, for the probate of the same.

The petition names as estate certain real estate on Maunakea street between Pauahi and Beretania streets, in Honolulu, of the value of $1,200 and personal estate consisting of a claim indemnity for houses destroyed by order of the Board of Health in January, 1900, of the value of $500.

The will bequeaths to Paia Ahia and Kaaahu Peka (or Baker) each the sum of $100 as testimonials of deep love and regard, and all the remainder of the estate of the decedent is bequeathed in equal parts to her nephew, Kahoi Kalua and her grandson, Joane Kalulu, after the payments of her just debts and funeral expenses.

The Court ordered that Monday, June 17, at 10 o'clock a. m., be set for the time of the hearing and proving of said will, publication of notice to begin at once.

Upon the reading and filing of the petition of Agnes H. B. Judd in the matter of the estate of Albert Francis Judd, deceased, it was yesterday ordered by the First Judge of the First Circuit Court that Monday, June 17, at 10 o'clock a. m., be appointed as the time and place for the hearing of such petition and that notice of the same be published.

Petition for the discharge of the executrix under the last will and testament of Albert Francis Judd, deceased, was yesterday filed by Agnes H. B. Judd, such executrix, who is also the sole legatee and devisee under the will, and who shows that she has complied with all the requirements of the law and has completed her duties as such executrix, therefore praying for discharge.

RETURN OF SUMMONS.

Return of summons was made yesterday in the guardianship matters of Navichi Nagao and Shigeru Nao, showing service by Deputy Sheriff Albert McGurn upon the respective defendants.

Garnishee summons was also returned in the case of the Hawaiian Supply Company, Limited, vs. James Nott, Jr., Frank Hustace, et al., showing service by Deputy Sheriffs Chillingworth and McGurn upon the Royal Hawaiian Hotel Company, Limited, through E. C. Macfarlane, upon H. L. Kerr Company, through H. L. Kerr, its manager; upon Yee Sing Tai and Company, through Pang Chong, its manager; upon the Hawaiian Automobile Company, through L. T. Grant, its manager; upon Pang Chong, upon H. A. Parmalee, upon John Ouderkirk, and upon Frank Hustace, J. B. Gibson, W. F. Paty and H. M. Dow, all named as garnishees. The return states that due and diligent search has been made for Sam Kee, also a garnishee named, but that he cannot be found.

Return of summons has been made by Deputy Sheriff Albert McGurn in the action of Lee But Sic and Lee Bak You vs. Wo How Chong and fourteen other Chinese, which is a petition for a bill for accounting in the dissolution of a partnership, showing service upon the defendant Wo How Chong.

NEW STATIONERY FOR SUPREME COURT.

The Supreme Court has just received a new lot of stationery, the letter heads and envelopes being from a new plate. The design of the letter head is an engraving of the Judiciary building, with a neat title of the court at the left in fine lettering. The envelopes bear the seal of the Supreme Court. The work was done by the Mutual Label and Lithographic Company of San Francisco.

DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS.

Which is Better:—To Try an Experiment, of Profit By a Honolulu Citizen's Experience?

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proven to be as represented.
Be successful at home or you doubt it.
The manufacturer's statement is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now, supposing you had a weak back.
A lame, or aching one.
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures,
But they come from far-away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Always remember,
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

Mr. H. S. Swinton, of this city, says: "I was a long sufferer from backache, having been afflicted with it for twelve years. Taking this as a symptom of kidney trouble, and seeing Doan's Backache Kidney Pills advertised as being good for complaints such as mine, I procured some of them at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. I found upon taking them that they were doing me good, and was thereby encouraged to keep on until now I am cured of the backache. The merits of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been strikingly shown in my case, and I recommend them to other sufferers."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills always have the picture of a leaf on the wrapper. In asking for Doan's Backache Kidney Pills ask for the kind which cured Mr. Swinton, and see that the leaf is on the wrapper.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Why not look young? There's genuine pleasure in holding back Father Time fifteen or twenty years. You can do it easily with Ayer's Hair Vigor, for it gives all that dark and rich look to the hair which belongs to young life.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

You know the story—how good Queen Bess, pointing to the beautiful hair of a peasant girl, said, "There's a real royal crown. I would trade my golden one for it." That was long ago. Now you can have a "real royal crown" of your own, simply by using Ayer's Hair Vigor. It makes the hair grow thick and long and stops it falling out.

When your hair is rich and heavy, and when the closest inspection fails to detect a single gray hair, you will certainly look a great deal younger, and you will be much better satisfied with yourself, too. Isn't that so?

DECISION RENDERED

Fishel vs. Turner Case in the Supreme Court.

LOWER COURT DECREE AFFIRMED

Justice Galbraith Files a Dissenting Opinion With the Decision.

Chief Justice Frear, Justice Galbraith and H. A. Bigelow, Esq., of the bar, in place of Justice Perry, disqualified, constituted the Supreme Court for the hearing of the case of C. J. Fishel vs. George A. Turner, an appeal from the circuit judge of the First Circuit. It is a suit in equity for specific performance of an agreement to convey certain lands situated at Olaa, in the Island of Hawaii. The case was submitted December 27 last, and decided May 8.

The Chief Justice renders the opinion of the court, Mr. Bigelow concurring. Justice Galbraith files a dissenting opinion. The majority opinion affirms the decree appealed from, ordering specific performance.

The transaction upon which the suit was based is described in the following paragraph from the opinion of the court:

"The plaintiff proved that in the early part of November, 1897, at Hilo, Hawaii, the plaintiff agreed to purchase of the defendant, and the defendant to sell to the plaintiff for $1,500, plus $3 per acre, lots 355, 356 and 357, in the Olaa Coffee Reservation, the conveyance to be made upon the defendant's obtaining a deed or patent of the land from the government. The defendant had not then applied for the land, but as he had at that time only sixty acres, or more accurately, 59.06 acres, he was entitled under the law, to apply for 140 additional, or more accurately, 140.94, the area of the lots in question. The parties seem to have spoken of the tracts in round numbers, as the 60 and 140-acre tracts, respectively. The defendant afterwards applied for the land, and in due time obtained a patent therefor. The plaintiff made payments from time to time on account of the purchase price, as requested by the defendant, until he had paid $1,138.64, and finally, when the defendant had obtained the patent, tendered him the balance and asked for the deed. This, the defendant refused to give because the plaintiff would not assume or guarantee a certain debt owing by the defendant's wife to certain creditors in San Francisco, a matter wholly disconnected from the land transaction."

What the dispute was about is shown in the following words: "The agreement as above set forth was proved by undisputed evidence. The defendant introduced no evidence. He relied entirely upon the assumed inability of the plaintiff to show a compliance with the statute of frauds. Under our statutes the consideration need not be set forth in the writing. There being no evidence that the contract contained any other terms than those set forth above, and the consideration not being required to be set forth in writing, the question is whether the terms above mentioned, other than the consideration, were put in writing and signed by the defendant. The contract itself need not be in writing. It is sufficient if there is some memorandum or note of it in writing. This may be made afterward. It may be in the form of one or more receipts or letters."

A receipt from Turner, the defendant, to Fishel, the plaintiff, for $294.30 on account of the purchase price of the lots in question, and a letter from the defendant to the plaintiff, discussing the balance of purchase price, are quoted.

The law of the case is stated in the following syllabus of opinion:

"The circuit judge of oue circuit may enforce specific performance of a contract to convey land situated in another circuit.

"The memorandum or note required by the statute of frauds to be in writing, may be in the form of one or more receipts or letters.

"Parole evidence is admissible to locate the land referred to in the written memorandum of the contract.

"When the terms of a contract within the statute of frauds are set forth in the several writings, all of which are signed by the party to be charged, such writings need not refer to each other. It is sufficient if they all refer to the same transaction, as shown by internal evidence and coincidences through inspection and comparison.

"When the evidence shows a complete contract, all the proved terms of which are in writing, signed by the party to be charged, it is not to be presumed that there were other terms not found in the writing.

"A contract to convey may be enforced, though the form of the deed is not specifically agreed upon, and though the wife of the vendor is not bound to release her inchoate right of dower."

Justice Galbraith, in dissenting from his colleagues, takes it "that the members of the court practically agree as to the law governing this case, and that the principal point of difference is as to the proper application of the law to the facts."

His opening remarks are as follows: "I am not able to assent to the doctrine announced in the majority opinion, particularly that concerning the principal and last proposition discussed, i. e., the sufficiency of the memoranda recited to take the agreement out of the operation of the statute of frauds. This opinion forcibly illustrates the simplicity and effectiveness of a system of 'inference, reference and comparison,' in revivifying and reanimating an uncertain and indefinite contract, and also shows how the operation of the system results in setting aside and annulling a statute by a judicial decision."

The dissenting justice reviews at considerable length the evidence, for the purpose of upholding his view already stated to the effect that an agreement was not proved, sufficiently definite and certain to be the subject of a decree of specific performance in a court of equity. He says, "it is very difficult to understand how the court can take the receipt and letter—less definite and certain than the original agreement—and figure out an enforceable contract." In conclusion he says: "I am firmly convinced that the decree of the Circuit Court appealed from ought to be reversed and the bill dismissed."

Hatch and Silliman and J. A. Magoon, for plaintiff. F. W. Hanky, for defendant.

SAYS LOOKOUT IS INCOMPETENT

Chamber of Commerce Asks for the Removal of Diamond Head Guardian.

The Chamber of Commerce entered a protest yesterday against continuing in service the present lookout at Diamond Head. Captain Rosehill, the present incumbent, is not acceptable to the business firms, and Superintendent of Public Works Boyd will be asked to remove him. F. J. Lowrey and C. L. Wight were appointed a committee to present to Mr. Boyd a resolution to that effect.

The matter was brought up by Mr. Lowrey, who said the present service was wretched, and the lookout seemed incompetent or indifferent. C. L. Wight called attention to the fact that there was not a flag-staff, signal flag, code or telescope at the station, and so exchange or signal could not be made with passing vessels. Mr. Morgan said that without proper facilities the present lookout could not properly be called incompetent.

The chamber also approved of the use of their rooms by the Fire Claims Commission, reserving the right to hold its regular or special meetings therein.

A Treat for the Kamehameha School.

Mr. Oliver Bainbridge, M. A., will entertain the scholars of the Kamehameha School on Monday evening next, when he will be ably assisted by his clever wife. Mr. Bainbridge will give a resume of some of his wanderings, recite one of his own compositions, give several of his clever blackboard sketches and sing Jude's "Mighty Deep" and "Flashes." Brisbane's society paper says of Mr. Bainbridge's rendering of the "Mighty Deep:" "His deep, well-cultured voice was heard to great advantage in the difficult range of the 'Mighty Deep.'" Mrs. Bainbridge, who has charmed those who have heard her playing, will give a number of difficult selections. Mr. Bainbridge will be here until May 18th.

An experiment of fifty years ago showed M. Daubree, a mining expert at Strasburg, that the gold in the sands of the Rhine between Basle and Wissemburg might have a value of $30,000,000 to $35,000,000. The Germans are now wondering why somebody doesn't gather in this wealth.

Bacteriologist of Health Board Reports.

CHAULMOOGRA OIL INHIBITS DISEASE

Patients at Kalihi Willingly Take the Treatment Although Painful.

The report of Dr. J. T. McDonald, bacteriologist of the Board of Health, covering the months of March and April, which was read at yesterday's board meeting, is as follows:

Honolulu, T. H., May 1, 1901.

J. H. Raymond, M.D., President Board of Health, Territory of Hawaii.

Sir: I beg leave to submit my report upon the bacteriological work of the department for the months of March and April.

Kalihi Receiving Station.—As it is now generally believed by the most competent authorities the world over that the sine qua non of leprosy is the presence of a specific bacterium, the Bacillus Leprae, it seems to me that too much stress can not be placed upon the importance of efforts to demonstrate its presence in all cases admitted to the station and particularly in those classed as suspects in whom the clinical symptoms of the disease are not fully and satisfactorily developed.

After repeated efforts, with negative results, I have come to discredit the statement of Ball of Philadelphia, and other authors who claim that the serum from a vesicant applied to a skin lesion shows the bacilli in large numbers. In more pronounced cases I have demonstrated it in the exudations from plantar pedis and other ulcers, but never once from the serum or scrapings from the base of a bleb produced by a vesicant applied to the most suspicious lesion to be found on the body.

The method which has thus far proved most satisfactory in my experience has been the excision of a small wedge-shaped section from the most suspicious lesion to include the subcutaneous tissue with the skin, and the immediate closure of the wound with a single suture. The piece is placed in physiological salt solution, where it remains until convenient to examine. It is then placed in a small mortar with half a dozen drops of the salt solution and thoroughly ground and triturated until the piece almost disappears in an opaque soupy-looking fluid. A small drop of this is evenly spread on a cover slip, dried, fixed, stained with carbol-fuchsin, decolorized in acid solution, contrast stained with methelyne blue, dried and mounted in balsam or damar. I have demonstrated the bacillus in some instances where the clinical symptoms alone would fairly have justified the verdict of suspect only. In each of the last three cases admitted the bacillus has been demonstrated by the above method. While it is not claimed that this method can compare with the more elaborate and tedious process of hardening and section cutting for a scientific study of the morphology of the bacillus, yet for diagnostic purposes alone it is at once rapid and efficient.

In the five cases of declared patients, retained for experimental treatment, the regular use of chaulmoogra oil, administered hypodermically, has been continued, with results noted thus far only confirmatory of what has already long ago been observed by others, namely, that in a certain proportion of cases, it seems to inhibit the progress of the disease, while in others it produces no effect whatever. All the patients take it willingly and cheerfully, although its administration must necessarily be somewhat painful. In one instance only, a patient 79 years of age, an injection was followed by inflammation and abcess from which, however, he made a good recovery.

We have had one case of facial erysipelas of considerable severity, the maximum temperature being 104.5 degrees, but the patient made an uninterrupted and complete recovery. With the exception of one or two cases of influenza, the health of the inmates has been good; in fact, the physical condition of some of those more recently admitted has improved, as shown by the healing of plantar pedis and other ulcers which the patients declare have existed several months or even years.

Bubonic Plague.—An outline of my work in connection with the recent case of plague has already been communicated to you in a special report March —, and need not be repeated here.

Summary.—Visits to Kalihi, 19; postmortems, 22; microscopic slides stained and mounted, 143; cultures made, 17; animals inoculated, 4.

Respectfully submitted,
J. T. M'DONALD.

SIMPLICITY OF SCIENCE.

Science is always simple. It's only quackery that juggles with jargons. Medical treatment of the past dealt with "simples," the pure vegetable remedies provided by Nature. Sagwa is compounded of simples. It is purely vegetable. It is scientific, because it is based on the best known curative properties of the herbs, roots, barks and gums which it contains. It is the most efficient blood purifier and blood builder known. Ninety per cent of diseases begin in the blood, and 90 per cent of diseases are cured by the prompt and proper use of Sagwa. It expels from the blood all the corrupting and corroding elements and builds up a new body with new blood. There is no substitute for Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. FOLLOWING THE BEAVER'S PLAN.

Animal instinct often gives a valuable hint to human reason. A case in point is cited by an engineer in a recently-written scientific review of the subject of dams. The beaver, he says, does not build his dam straight across the stream, but with an arch against the current, his instinct telling him that in this form it will better resist floods and the impact of floating ice. This hint from the little animal has been acted upon in many cases lately, notably in the building of the Great Bear Valley dam in California. Engineers, as a rule, build straight across stream, chiefly, perhaps, to save material, but the arched dam is the more economical in the long run.

LOOKING FOR ONE ERITSON

Policemen Search the Mariposa for a Much-Wanted Man.

Four or five anxious looking police officers were stationed on board the Mariposa yesterday, looking for a man named Eritson, who held the position of electrician on that vessel. Eritson was wanted on a charge of "heedless driving," having, while under the influence of liquor, hired a rig at a livery stable last Sunday, and driven out towards Waikiki. He was going along at a reckless pace, and when half way out on the Waikiki road, met another carriage driven by a lady coming in the opposite direction. For some reason, whether intentional or not, he failed to turn out. The result was a smashup, in which the lady was thrown out and suffered serious injuries, while Eritson escaped without any material damage being done to him or his rig.

The police were satisfied that he was hidden away on the boat, but repeated searching failed to prove it. However, the much wanted man is, no doubt, now enjoying the bracing salt air of the ocean.

RED RAIN AND YELLOW RAIN.

The peasants of Italy, Sicily and Western Austria were recently frightened half out of their lives by a fall of "blood rain," in spite of the fact that this phenomenon is not a rare one in that part of Europe. Sometimes the raindrops are so red that they stain the objects on which they fall. When this is the case the color is due to a scarlet seaweed that is picked up by the wind from the north coast of Africa and carried up into the clouds, where it is dissolved. A red rain is also caused by the wind lifting large quantities of red sand from the Desert of Sahara, and carrying it into the upper air, whence it falls with rain.

A yellow rain often falls in Norway and Sweden, and also in Northern Canada, in the spring. There are vast pine forests in those countries, and when the trees are in bloom the wind often takes up the yellow pollen from the flowers, and as it is dissolved by the moisture of the clouds it tints the falling drops yellow. This is what is sometimes called a rain of sulphur.

MARCH TERM, 1901.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF ALINA, DECEASED.

APPEAL FROM CIRCUIT JUDGE, FIRST CIRCUIT.

SUBMITTED APRIL 1, 1901. DECIDED APRIL 30, 1901.

FREAR, C.J., GALBRAITH AND PERRY, JJ.

Where an administrator has not faithfully performed the duties of his trust, his commissions may be disallowed either as a whole or in part, according to the circumstances of the case.

Under the circumstances stated in the opinion, a disallowance of all of the administrator's commissions held unjustifiable; a disallowance of $50. out of the total commissions of $243.40, ordered.

A reasonable master's fee, the payment of which is made necessary by the default of the administrator, may properly be charged against such administrator as a part of the expenses of the litigation.

Under the circumstances of this case, an allowance of $75. to a master as his fee, held excessive; a fee of $25. allowed.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY PERRY, J.

This is an appeal from a decree of a Circuit Judge of the First Circuit, in Probate, disallowing the commissions of an administrator, amounting to $243.40, and charging him with a master's fee of $75.00. The facts are these:

J. A. Magoon was appointed administrator with the will annexed of the estate of one Alina, deceased, on November 29, 1886, and duly qualified as such administrator on the 7th of December following. On December 19, 1900, no accounts having been in the meantime filed by the administrator, one of the legatees under the will filed a motion in the matter of the estate of the said deceased, in Probate, that the administrator be ordered to file his accounts as such. On the same day the desired accounts were filed, covering the period from the institution of the trust to the date of filing. Thereafter the accounts were referred to a master, who, after examination, presented a report wherein he called attention to the fact that no notice to creditors had ever been published and that no vouchers were filed for any of twelve certain items of cash paid to the legatees and for their education and for minor expenses of the trust, amounting in all to $67.80. In all other respects the accounts were found correct in substance. Subsequently the court signed a decree, ordering, "first, that the said administrator be directed to publish in the newspapers of Honolulu the usual notice to the creditors of the estate herein as required by law; second, that the item of $243.40 credited by the said administrator in his accounts as filed to himself as commissions for the handling of the said etate, and for which he has presented no vouchers, be disallowed and that the said sum of $243.40 be credited to the said estate; third, that the said administrator be charged with the sum of $75.00 as master's fees." From that decree the administrator appeals to this Court.

On behalf of the appellant, it is contended that our courts of probate have not the power to disallow the commissions of an administrator in cases of mal-administration or of failure to perform the trust. This question has been settled adversely to the appellant. See In re Estate of Akana, 11 Haw. 420, 422, where the Court said: "The commissions of the administrators are disallowed. The law is clear that statutory commissions are provided for the faithful and proper execution of trusts and where an administrator does not comply with the duties devolved upon him by his appointment he is not entitled to commissions." See also In re Estate of Joseph Lazarus, 13 Haw. 242, where this same rule was recognized. Whether or not commissions should be disallowed, in whole or in part, is a matter to be determined by the court in view of the circumstances of each particular case. A disallowance is ordered not as a penalty but because the services required have not been performed to that extent, and, therefore, the compensation is not due,—in other words, compensation is allowed only for services actually and faithfully rendered.

Under the circumstances of this case, is the disallowance of all of the commissions justifiable? We think not. No objections were made to the accounts or exceptions taken to the master's report by the legatees. It is fair, then, to presume that the accounts contain a correct statement of receipts and expenditures; nor has any suggestion to the contrary been made by counsel for the appellees. The master, although remarking upon the lack of vouchers for the twelve items above referred to, does not find that the payments were not made as shown by the accounts, nor does he recommend their disallowance; nor were they disallowed by the Circuit Judge. The notice to creditors required by law was not published, no accounts were filed other than those now under consideration, and there was considerable unnecessary delay in closing the estate but upon the record, there is no reason to believe that there has been any failure on the part of the administrator to comply with his duties in any other respect, or that any financial loss has resulted to the legatees. Under all of the circumstances of the case, we think that justice to the legatees and to the administrator requires a disallowance out of the latter's commissions of the sum of fifty dollars and no more.

Simple interest should also be charged against the administrator on the sum of $55.56 from April 1, 1892, at the rate current during the period, the said sum of $55.56 being the corrected balance on hand at that date and not since expended as will appear by the accounts when amended in conformity with this opinion.

A reasonable master's fee, the payment of which is made necessary by the default of the administrator, may properly be charged against the administrator as a part of the expenses of the litigation. See 3 Williams Ex. p. 2145; 11 A. & E. Encycl. Law, 2nd ed., pp. 1252, 1254; Blake v. Pegram, 109 Mass. 541, 558; Aldridge v. McClelland, 36 N. J. Eq. 288, 292; Barhite's Appeal, 126 Pa. St. 404, 407, 411. In the case at bar had the accounts been filed promptly and within the customary time, in all probability no reference to a master would have been required. It was the administrator's neglect and delay and the consequent increase in the length of the accounts that rendered the reference necessary. The master's fee, then, whatever it is in amount, should be paid by the administrator. We think, however, that the award of $75.00 made by the Circuit Judge is excessive. A fee of $25.00 is all that in our opinion, the services rendered deserve or justify.

The decree appealed from is reversed and the cause is remanded to the Circuit Judge of the First Circuit for such further proceedings as may be necessary in conformity with the foregoing views.

Magoon & Thompson for the administrator.
W. W. Thayer for the legatees.

Cases in District Court:

Tanaki, selling adulterated milk; fined $75 and costs.

M. G. Anrica, selling adulterated milk; fined $50 and costs.

Total number of milk samples examined, 93; of which 26 were below standard.

The following samples of drugs have been examined with the results noted:

Hydrargynum cum Creta. Mercury with chalk. Four samples; three not up to standard. The United States Pharmacoepoeia requires absence of mercuric oxide and but a trace of mercurous oxide.

1. From Benson, Smith & Co., mercuric oxide present and excess of mercurous oxide.
2. From Hobron Drug Co. (Merck); slight excess of mercurous oxide.
3. From Honolulu Drug Co., mercuric oxide present and excess of mercurous oxide. In this preparation the presence of these oxides is not due to a direct addition, but to change brought about by time and exposure to light.

Magnesii Citras Effervescens. Effervescent Citrate of Magnesia. Three samples, one not up to standard.

1. From Hollister Drug Co. (Alfred Bishop & Co., London), contains a considerable quantity of tartaric acid.

Unguentum Hydrargyri. Blue Ointment. Four samples all below standard. The United States Pharmacopoeia requires 50 per cent of mercury.

1. From Benson, Smith & Co.; mercury 34.30 per cent.
2. From Hollister Drug Co.; mercury 34.40 per cent.
3. From Hobron Drug Co.; mercury 45.90 per cent.
4. From Honolulu Drug Co.; mercury 35.20 per cent.

Tinctura Nucis Vomicae; Tincture of Nux Vomica. Three samples, all slightly above standard. In a preparation of this kind any great excess above the standard would be dangerous, but in the samples examined the excess is not enough to be so considered in the maximum dose. The United States Pharmacopoeia requires in this preparation 0.3 grams of alkaloids in 100 c.c. of tincture. The amounts found in the samples were as follows:

1. From Benson, Smith & Co.; total alkaloids per 100 c.c. 0.348 grams.
2. From Hollister Drug Co.; total alkaloids per 100 c.c. 0.502 grams.
3. From Hobron Drug Co.; total alkaloids per 100 c.c. 0.358 grams.

Opii Pulvis; Powdered Opium. Four samples, all below standard. The standard requires not less than 13 nor more than 15 per cent of morphine.

1. From Benson, Smith & Co., 11.15 per cent morphine (Powers & Weightman).
2. From Hollister Drug Co., 11.55 per cent morphine.

Samples of drugs for analysis have so far been obtained by me personally or on a written order from me, so that in all cases the druggists have known that the drugs were for analysis. In the case of two drug stores such orders have been immediately as in the case of an ordinary customer; with two others a delay of from one to twenty-four hours has been the rule in filling such orders. This delay leaves me in doubt as to whether such drugs may not have been prepared or obtained elsewhere especially for me. While I would not be justified in charging fraud simply because of a delay in filling an order, the doubt remains as a factor in making a report, and all reports on drugs examined hereafter will include a note of the time in which the order was filled.

One sample of candy rather suspicious in color obtained from a Japanese vendor was examined and the colors red, green and yellow found to be harmless.

Four samples of so-called "Boss" candy were examined for the amount of paraffine contained, it being known that paraffine is used in making this candy. Considerable variation in the amount of paraffine present was noted and since all the samples were similar in outer appearance, it is evident that if some paraffine is necessary in making such candy, some makers are using more than is necessary. Paraffine is perfectly indigestible, and as it is present in the candy in a very finely divided condition so that the greater portion of it is unavoidably swallowed in eating the candy, it is a question in my mind whether it may not be classed as an injurious substance, especially for young children.

The result of the examination of the samples is as follows:

1. Boss candy, Jap vendor, name unknown; paraffine present 1.05 per cent; amount of paraffine in 10 cents' worth of candy 31.02 grains.
2. Boss candy, Miller's candy wagon; paraffine present 0.90 per cent; amount paraffine in 10 cents' worth of candy 27.78 grains.
3. Boss candy, New England Bakery; parrafine present 0.70 per cent; amount of parrafine in 10 cents' worth of candy 18.36 grains.
4. Boss candy, Hart & Co.; paraffine present 0.75 per cent; amount of paraffine in 10 cents' worth of candy 15.04 grains.

One sample of Cream of Tartar was examined; no adulteration found.

One sample "Bakers' Egg" submitted by a private party was examined and found to be free from starch and foreign coloring matter.

Three samples of wine, one each of Port, Madeira and Claret, were examined and found to be normal in composition, with no adulteration present.

It perhaps is hardly necessary to say that wines, as is the case with many other articles, may be genuine in that they are made from grape juice and still be bad from the consumers' point of view.

One sample of canned peaches, "Palace Brand," H. Levi & Co., San Francisco, from H. May & Co., was examined. In this article it was found that the syrup covering the peaches was quite thick but was deficient in sugar. This syrup was found t obe thickened with a gum having the characteristics of dextrine.

Four samples of jam have been examined with the following results:

1. Currant jam, Cutting Packing Co., San Francisco, from Sung Lung, Queen and South streets; claimed to be made from select fruit and the best refined sugar; genuine as to fruit and color but made with glucose syrup.
2. Strawberry jam, Cutting Packing Co., San Francisco, from Triangle Store, King street; claimed to be made from select fruit and best refined sugar; genuine as to fruit and color, but made with glucose syrup.
3. Gooseberry jam, Cutting Packing Co., San Francisco, from Wo Chong, Beretania street, near Emma; claimed to be made from select fruit and best refined sugar; genuine as to fruit and color, but made from glucose syrup.

Glucose when pure is a legitimate article of food, and jam made with it can not be considered an adulteration, but in this case where a claim is made to the contrary it must be so considered.

4. Currant jam, Pacific Coast Syrup Co., San Francisco, from Triangle Store, King street; made from currants with glucose syrup and colored with aniline color (acid megenta).

Nine samples of honey have been examined, three of which were found to be adulterated, being composed chiefly of glucose syrup.

1. California Honey from Han Chang, Nuuanu treet; contains a large amount of glucose.
2. No label, from Hing Kee, King street; contains a large amount of glucose.
3. Wild Rose Pure Extracted Honey, Pacific Coast Syrup Co., San Francisco, from Lewis & Co.; contains a large amount of glucose.

Four of these samples other than those classed as adulterated were somewhat different in character from ordinary honey, and were probably the result of feeding the bees cane sugar or glucose. In some States this is considered an adulteration; but I think the law here will hardly bear that construction; and it is evident that while such honey may be inferior, bees may have access to sugar or glucose and the bee-keeper not know or be able to prevent it.

Two samples of granulated sugar were examined at the request of private parties. These samples did not differ from ordinary granulated sugar except that they had an excess of bluing. It does not seem to be understood by the public generally that all granulated sugar is "blued" in the process of manufacture, such bluing being for the purpose of removing the slight yellow color which it is not possible to remove otherwise. The bluing used is ultramarine, which is harmless even in considerable quantities.

An attempt has been made to ascertain the quality of taro being used by the Chinese for making poi, and seven poi shops have been visited for this purpose. As was expected, very little taro was found that was not more or less affected with blight, and in some cases very little care is taken in removing portions of taro actually rotten. While of course poi made from blighted taro is affected in flavor, I do not feel competent to express an opinion as to the injurious properties of such poi. If all taro affected with blight were rejected, the already deficient supply of poi would be reduced at least one-half, so that it is rather difficult to know where to draw the line.
