PORT MUST GO AFTER TRADE

Harbor Commissioner Wakefield, Back from Mainland, Brings Vital Facts

ATLANTIC SHIPPERS SAY SOME CHARGES TOO HIGH

Honolulu Will Fail to Benefit by Canal Opening Unless City Furnishes Facilities

"If this port and this territory are going to convince the big steamship firms of the Atlantic that it is to their interest to go to the Orient by way of Panama and the islands, we must lower charges to shipping and must furnish every facility for dockage and fuel. Honolulu's biggest asset right now to shipping concerns is the fact that the Inter-Island is building a great floating drydock here. This is a fact that the commercial bodies should put before the commercial interests of the world."
—James Wakefield.

Shipping firms of the Atlantic coast which now send their vessels through the Suez canal to the Orient, must be "shown" before they will route them through the Panama canal and by way of Honolulu, declares Harbor Commissioner James Wakefield.

Honolulu now has serious disadvantages in going after trade and commerce, in the mind of the commissioner, and these disadvantages must be removed within the next year or two or this port and the territory are going to fail to realize the expected benefits from the opening of the canal.

Commissioner Wakefield returned on the Sierra last Monday from an extended mainland business trip during which he made a special investigation of the intentions of Atlantic steamship firms and shipping concerns with regard to the opening of the canal.

Outlining briefly to the Star-Bulletin this morning the results of his investigation, he says that this port is not now in a position to assure Panama-Oriental trade the cheap facilities that should be assured. He advocates immediate and decisive changes in port administration and development.

While on his business trip for T. H. Davies & Co., Mr. Wakefield took a good deal of time for observation of the port systems of the largest eastern cities, including New York, Boston and Philadelphia. At Boston for instance, after finishing his business at six o'clock, he devoted the evenings to inspection of the waterfront. The port directors placed a launch at his disposal and he went over the dock sites, saw the mechanical devices in use and the handling of shipping.

In each of the cities he met the port directors or port commissioners and talked with them. Even more important than this, however, from the standpoint of future Honolulu trade were his visits to the biggest shipping firms in the three cities. He talked with a number of the men prominent in the great Aalantic steamship firms and discussed with them their plans for new routes after the Panama canal is completed.

Must Be Convinced.

"In every case," said Mr. Wakefield

BARON PLAIN SMITH WHEN DISHWASHER

Von Woellwarth Leaves Trail of Unpaid Bills and Unhappy Creditors

Baron G. von Woellwarth, recently a social lion in the vicinity of Honolulu, is missing and his loss is mourned by a number of acquaintances made by the glib-tongued visitor, who maintain they are financially put out over the unexpected and unannounced departure of the baron, who, until a few days ago had announced his intention of establishing a riding school in this city that would make kindred institutions on the coast resemble pigstys. Not only are members of the social elect peeved over the exodus of von Woellwarth and the thoughtless manner in which he forgot to straighten out his financial obligations, but others, in the more plebeian walks of life and on lower rounds of the social ladder, are mourning his departure, including a lowly German policeman who confesses to having been touched for $2.50 by the titled personage.

The police department armed with two warrants, is maintaining a sharp lookout for von Woellwarth, but to date has been unsuccessful in uncovering his hiding place, provided he has not made his escape already, through his experience as a seagoing flunky before he adopted the more aristocratic and remunerative profession of "baroning."

No Deposit Was Made.

"Baron" von Woellwarth escaped pressure from some creditors on the strength of an impression, probably sown abroad by himself, that he had made a deposit of $5000 with the Henry Waterhouse Trust Co., Ltd., upon the option for the purchase of a site for his riding academy. It happens that he had not paid 5 cents on that account.

"The baron came in here looking for a site for his riding academy," said President R. W. Shingle of the company mentioned, this morning. "He was referred to Mr. Steere, head of the real estate department, who offered him the old McCully homestead at Pawaa—an ideal site for the purpose. He was to pay $16,000 for the property, of which $5000 was to be paid on July 22, time being allowed for the balance. July 22 came and went without hearing from the baron or seeing the color of his money. So you can have the property for $16,000 if you want it."

Money and Watch Gone.

Count von Domkowicz, whose name has been connected with the "baron" as that of an intimate friend, acknowledges the relation as existing up till yesterday morning, while reluctantly admitting that it has been a costly intimacy to him. With the disappearance of von Woellworth he bids farewell to his gold watch and the sum of $350.

Asked by a Star-Bulletin reporter if he accepted the title of count, the victim of misplaced friendship replied: "I am an American citizen, and consequently do not wish to be known as anything else. So far as the title is concerned, however, it has

GIANT CRANE DISAPPEARS FROM FRONT

Slips Moorings Under Cover of Night and Reaches Pearl Harbor at Daybreak

The giant floating crane, which has loomed above the Honolulu waterfront for six months past, looking from near-to like a Zeppelin about to alight, and from a distance being easily mistaken for a battleship lying in the harbor, has vanished. Last night the crane was at its accustomed mooring at the navy dock, but even the earliest visitors to the waterfront this morning failed to find a trace of its existence, for at 1:45 this morning the huge steel framework, mounted on its ponderous pontoon, was towed through the channel and out to sea, its destination being Pearl Harbor. Shortly after 7 o'clock the crane was anchored in the mouth of the Pearl Harbor drydock, and one of the most difficult and dangerous towing jobs in the history of local shipping had been successfully completed.

Owing to the great height and weight of the superstructure, the big navy crane, which has been in process of assembling since last fall, has been considered one of the crankiest of craft, and many have been the guesses as to just what would happen when the contractors attempted to tow it to Pearl Harbor for delivery to the naval authorities there. If the crane were caught in a heavy sea, said the wise ones, it wouldn't take much to make the whole affair turn turtle, which of course would do untold damage to the machinery and probably wrench some of the heavy structural work clear away from the pontoon.

SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL THIEF MAY BE HERE

A young man, declared to be of good appearance and a rather swell dresser, who lightly passed up a bundle of riches, said to contain $20,000 in perfectly good coin of the realm, while he managed to annex a piece of diamond studded jewelry valued at about $2,000, is alleged to be a dweller in Honolulu, following the arrival of the Oceanic liner Sierra.

One of San Francisco's large hotels at present mourns the loss of a trusted employee and clerk.

The story which has reached the ears of local police is in effect that the young man, who had access to the office safe, extracted a package which he had reason to believe contained articles of much value.

But a few hours before the theft of the jewelry, the management had

JOHN BRIGHT POSTMASTER AT LAHAINA

Democratic Committeemen See Ray of Hope Through Appointment

[Special Star-Bulletin Cable]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—John M. Bright of Lahaina, today was named postmaster at that office to succeed Arthur Waal. This is the sixth appointment in the postal service in the territory made by the present administration.

C. S. ALBERT.

The news of the appointment of Bright proved sweet music to the ears of members of the Democratic county committee, which organization had indorsed him for the appointment, but had been skeptical of his success when it was learned that opposition to Bright had developed and that a protest against the appointment had been forwarded to Washington. Following the protest the committee cabled to Washington the name of an alternate candidate for the office.

Each of the six appointments referred to above had been made in accordance with the recommendation of the committee and this success in minor offices gives the members of the organization high hopes that their choice for the governorship will receive the official O. K. of the Democratic standard-bearer.

'BOOST HERE,' SAYS HEISER, TO HELP CITY

Honolulu needs a live organization to boost everlastingly at home, in the opinion of Charles G. Heiser, Jr., and in an entertaining and convincing manner he told the Honolulu Ad Club at luncheon today that "publicity through hospitality" is the thing just now.

Mr. Heiser recently returned from the coast and while there was a guest of the Oakland Commercial Club on its excursion to the northwest. His experiences with the energetic "boosting" organizations there were told to the Ad Club today. Mr. Heiser said:

You have offered me a splendid opportunity, gentlemen, to tell you something about the rapid strides that are being made on the Pacific Coast in city building, especially by the young men who are members of such organizations as the Commercial Club, the Rotary Club, and last but not least, the Ad Clubs.

These organizations today are the greatest factors in the work of developing the great northwest, the province of British Columbia and to the south the state of California.

These men believe in their own city, believe in its future and are working to make it a bigger and better city, and further they are so enthusiastic in their ideas that the visitor absorbs the spirit. Not only does the visitor absorb the spirit of belief in their communities but gathers many valuable suggestions, such as unity of action, and concentration of energy in publicity work.

In talks with members of these different organizations, especially the Commercial Club, in Roseburg, Eugene and Salem, Oregon, I found they were all working for a greater Portland, basing this belief on the theory that a bigger Portland should make a larger Roseburg, a larger Eugene and Salem, and finally a greater Oregon.

BAND OF AMERICANS, TWO WOMEN, BESIEGED IN TOWN OF MADERO; DANGER GREAT

Courier Reaches El Paso with News That Bandits May Have Killed or Captured Fugitives — Leaders of Huerta Administration Say That There Will Be War If U. S. Intervenes

[Associated Press Cable]

EL PASO, Tex., July 23.—Mexican bandits are besieging a little band of Americans, two of whom are women, and including a nephew of Admiral Farragut, according to a courier who arrived here this afternoon from the town of Madero, in Chihuahua. He reports that when he left the town a fortnight ago the provisions of the Americans were almost exhausted. The rebels were murderous because the Americans had sheltered cowboys who killed two Mexican cattle thieves. It is reported that the Mexican Indian chief, Pancho Villa, who is one of the rebels, is bound on a rescue mission, hoping to win American favor and recognition for the Constitutionalist cause.

Mexico Threatens War if United States Intervenes

[Associated Press Cable]

MEXICO CITY, Mex., July 23.—That intervention in Mexico by the United States will mean instant war is the declaration of Mexican officials here today, following reports from Washington that congressmen were demanding some move to protect American lives and property.

The newspapers of the capital city are following closely the news of the United States congress, and there is much talk of possible intervention. The Huerta administration says that intervention is unthinkable.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23.—The administration has determined to revoke the exportation of arms and ammunition to either the Mexican federals or rebels. A poll of congress shows sentiment favorable.

(The above dispatch is somewhat ambiguous. Under a resolution adopted by the last United States Senate President Taft was empowered to prohibit the exportation of arms into Mexico. Since that time it has been suggested that order should be revoked and that the free exportation of arms into Mexico for rebels and federals alike should be allowed so that Mexico could settle her internal war quickly. Hence it is possible that the administration wishes to revoke Taft's order. A more probably interpretation is, however, that the administration intends to enforce the order more stringently, as there have been numerous complaints recently of shipments of arms and ammunition across the Mexican border from American firms.)

Thought Fire Alarm False

[Associated Press Cable]

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 23.—The property loss from the Freeman Overall Factory fire of yesterday is now placed at $200,000 and it is believed the dead will number between fifty and sixty.

It was learned today that fire drills among the scores of girls employed in the factory were frequent, and that the girls believed when the fire alarm was sounded yesterday it was a false alarm and given for a drill. The Binghamton chief of police says that the laws have been observed and the various facilities for protection were supposedly adequate.

Swiss Papal Guards to Go

ROME, Italy, July 23.—The demands of the Swiss Papal Guards for lighter hours and the right to frequent saloons have been rejected by the Vatican authorities. The rank and file of the guards will be permitted to resign but the leaders will be dismissed.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 23.—Servia and Greece have agreed to the proposal to negotiate with Bulgaria at Bucharest. Roumania has refused Turkey's request to participate.

Capitalist Dies in London

[Associated Press Cable]

LONDON, England, July 23.—Anthony N. Brady, the New York capitalist and promoter of electric and surface lines and suburban railways, died here today at the age of 70 years. His fortune is estimated at $25,000,000.

'SEE HAWAII FIRST' FIRES AD CLUB TO ACTION

"See Hawaii First," interpreted by Hon. Lorrin A. Thurston at the noon luncheon of the Honolulu Ad Club today found a ready response. The Ad Club by unanimous vote decided to arrange for an Ad Club trip to Hilo. The committee appointed was Mr. George B. Curtis, Mr. Charles R. Frazier and Mr. Strange. They will have the cooperation of Mr. Giles who is representing the transportation companies in Honolulu.

Mr. Thurston was the speaker on home topics this noon, he being preceded by Mr. Heiser, who told of how the Ad Clubs operate on the Coast.

Mr. Thurston in his introductory remarks said that he believed in advertising and the ad club movement. He believed that advertising is a fine art and too few of the businessmen of this city and territory appreciate that fact. Too much of the advertising is dull and routinelike. He presented his name for membership in the Ad Club.

In Mr. Thurston's opinion the situation called for business men to look for anchora to windward so to speak. The main industry is threatened and it behooves us to look about for other lines. None offer better opportunities than the business that is a part of and associated with the tourist business. The promotion committee is working along the right lines and doing wonderful work with a preposterously small amount of money. It should be supported more liberally as a matter of good community investment.

There is also work along the same general line of developing what we have here in Hawaii and making people appreciate what they have here at home, and see Hawaii first. Mr. Thurston reviewed the plans and work of the Hilo Board of Trade. A canvass of the business men of that community resulted in only two of those canvassed refusing and only three who gave less for the promotion campaign than had been alloted them. Though Hilo is somewhat of a backwoods town compared with the center of trans-Pacific commerce, it is nevertheless growing. Only recently its harbor received the first foreign steamship, which brought eight hundred tons of freight valued at $160,000.

Hilo's riches in the many points of interest which the tourist likes to see were glowingly described by Mr.

CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS PLAN TO ENTERTAIN CONVENTION OF 1913

C. C. von Hamm Named Chairman and H. P. Wood Secretary, While Date of Meeting Is Set for September 17-19, Thereby Concluding Business in Advance of Regatta Day

The first meeting of the joint committee composed of two members of each of the three commercial organizations in Honolulu, appointed to make arrangements for the second annual convention of the civic and commercial bodies of the territory, was held at ten o'clock this morning, in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, at which time C. C. von Hamm, of the chamber of commerce, was elected chairman of the committee; H. P. Wood of the promotion committee, secretary, and Thomas Church, of the merchants' association, treasurer.

Those in attendance were J. L. McLean and Fred C. Smith, of the commercial club, Thomas Church and G. B. Curtis, of the merchants' association, and Fred L. Waldron and C. C. von Hamm of the chamber of commerce.

C. C. von Hamm was elected temporary chairman, and following the appointment of officers, discussion was called for with regard to the date of the convention, which is to be held in Honolulu this year. Upon a motion put by Fred L. Waldron, it was decided to begin the conference Wednesday, September 17, adjourning it on the nineteenth, and thereby leaving September 20, Regatta Day, as a day for the entertainment of the visiting delegates from the other islands. Through this arrangement, the delegates from Hilo would arrive in Honolulu Tuesday, one day prior to the opening session. The question of special fares for the visiting delegates was then taken up, James L. McLean being appointed a committee of one to interview the Inter-Island officials on this point. Mr. McLean said that a party of at least thirty persons would have to be guaranteed the steamship company before special rates would be granted. The committee, however, is assured that the number of delegates in attendance at the convention will far exceed this number. Honolulu alone sent 44 delegates to the conference last year, which was held in Hilo, special rates having been secured at that time. Mr. McLean was instructed to figure out approximately the special fares of parties of different numbers, and to report his findings at the next meeting of the committee.

In order to perfect the arrangements of the conference at an early date, the following committees were appointed: James McLean and G. B. Curtis, transportation; Fred L. Wal-

MORE PAY AND SHORTER HOURS

What practically means more pay with shorter hours will fall to the lot of officers in the great White Star line. The Imperial Merchant Service Guild is officially informed by the White Star Line of substantial improvements in the pay and general conditions of the officers of the fleet, which has taken effect in the case of all steamers leaving on and after May 1st. All the officers will then be granted increased pay, in many cases to the extent of $15 to $20 per month. A special system of annual leave for all the commanders and officers of the fleet is to be arranged as soon as possible, and officers will be given an annual holiday extending to three weeks, two of which will be made continuous, whenever circumstances will admit of it. Officers' royal naval reserve drill will not be counted as holidays. The officers will not, as hitherto, be required to undergo the sight tests at the board of trade, but will be examined by the company's own doctor. Considerable improvements are to be inaugurated as regards watch-keeping, and as soon as the company can arrange it, all officers throughout the company will be put on three watches and in a large number of the ships an additional officer will be carried in order that this may be done. This eventually will lead to the entire abolition of the two-watch system in the White Star line. Improved conditions are also to be instituted in connection with the messing of officers, who in the first-class passenger steamers will fare according to the first-class menu, the daily messing in this way to be arranged by one officer of each ship deputed by his brother officers for the purpose. In the second and third class passenger vessels and cargo steamers an improved scheme is to come into force providing for special fare in the case of commanders and officers.

WIRELESS NOW FOR FREIGHTERS

The installation of wireless equipment on the larger freighters, operated in the Pacific and those which make Honolulu as a port of call in the delivery of coal from the east coast of the United States or from Australia, is predicted with the enforcement of the new federal law which went into effect the first of the present month.

According to the United States law, all big freighters without distinction as to the flags they fly, must be equipped with wireless if they make calls at American ports. The law is in the nature of a supplementary act to the law requiring wireless on passenger boats.

The law applying to freight carriers provides that all vessels arriving at, or departing from an American port, and carrying fifty persons or more, either crew or passengers, must be equipped with wireless apparatus, an auxiliary wireless set with storage batteries, for use in case of accident, and two wireless operators, one of whom must be on duty at all times.

On exclusive freight carriers one of the operators may be a member of the crew, licensed for the operation of the wireless, and able to understand the call of the ship and receive distress calls. In case any extended wireless communication is necessary, the operator with the crew is instructed to call the expert operator. He is merely to be on guard at the wireless station to summon the expert operator to the key when necessary.

The new law is far-reaching in importance, and local marine men expect that it will result in practically all freighters, whether with large or small crews, soon will be equipped with wireless telegraph.

Big Castings Aboard the Mongolia.

After much planning and genuine hard work, several hundred tons of iron and steel castings, boilers and drums, in some instances weighing ten to fifteen tons each, were raised from Alakea wharf and lowered into the hold of the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia, prior to the sailing of that vessel for the Orient at noon today.

The loading of the last of a large sugar mill intended for the San Carlos Sugar company in the Southern Philippines proved an undertaking of no mean proportions. In leaving San Francisco, considerable room was left in the forward part of the vessel to accommodate the material.

The Mongolia sailed with an additional hundred or more passengers, who for the most part were Asiatics, departed for their native land amid the fervent banzais of their countrymen who gathered at the wharf. The Mongolia will omit a call at Shanghai on the outward voyage, proceeding from Nagasaki, Japan to Manila direct.

Kauai Sugar Report.

Sugar awaiting shipment at Kauai ports including the following amounts according to report received today with the return of the steamer W. G. Hall: K. P. 12,608, H. S. 23,360, McB. 38,057, L. P. 12,500.

Lumber for Hana.

Lumber and general cargo arrived at Hana, Maui, in the American schooner Honoipu, which is reported by wireless to have reached destination on July 21. The vessel may be supplied with a consignment of sugar before sailing on a return voyage to the coast.

C.-A. Liners Prepare for New Trade.

New Zealand butter is predicted will become a prominent factor in the cargo brought into the Hawaiian islands and British Columbia ports by the Canadian-Australasian liners. To better handle this growing trade, it is said that some alterations will be made in the refrigerated capacity of the Marama, Makura and Niagara with a view of taking on an increased amount of the product. That the Pacific coast will probably be a heavy buyer of New Zealand butter next winter was the impression conveyed to the members of the San Francisco Wholesale Dairy Produce exchange by W. F. Crichton of London. Crichton is connected with the London firm of Weddell & Co., which is reputed to be one of the largest concerns operated in the dairy produce line in the United Kingdom, and he has been in the city for some time studying local and coast conditions to learn what effect heavy importations of New Zealand butter at San Francisco will have on the London market.

Korea Here Saturday Afternoon.

The Pacific Mail liner Korea will not sail for San Francisco before Sunday morning according to late wireless information received today at the agency of H. Hackfeld and Company. The Korea is due to arrive at the port on Saturday afternoon with 800 tons Oriental cargo for Honolulu. The vessel is understood as bringing 116 Asiatic steerage passengers. The Korea will be supplied with 600 tons coal during the stay here.

After No Further Speed Record.

No attempts were made on the outward voyage of the magnificent C. P. R. liner, Empress of Russia, to break any more records, according to advices received by officials, and the vessel made the voyage to Yokohama in eleven days. The big turbine-driven ship arrived in Hongkong July 7, and sailed for Vancouver July 16.

Enterprise Carried Much Sugar.

During the stay of the Matson Navigation steamer Enterprise at Hilo that vessel was supplied with three thousand tons of sugar besides a shipment of pines and other lines of island products. The Enterprise was dispatched for San Francisco at six o'clock Monday evening.

Three Windjammers Ready for Sea.

Three sailing vessels, each having been discharged of large quantities of lumber, are now ready for sea. The Mary E. Foster, arriving July 4, the J. M. Griffiths, July 9, and the J. H. Bruce, July 14, are expected to sail for Sound and North Pacific coast ports before the close of the week.

BRAVE ISLANDER GIVEN MEDALLION

The Royal Humane Society has awarded to Teriakai, a native of the Gilbert Islands, their bronze medal and certificate for the gallant act performed by him on the 28th of June, 1912. The facts are as follows:

On the morning of June 28, a sailing boat left the government station at Betio, Tarawa, with fourteen persons on board, among them was a prisoner, Teriakai. At 9:15 a squall of wind overset the boat when within some four miles of the land. It was found impossible to bale it out after righting it, and, further, that in her waterlogged condition the boat would not support more than six persons in the water; the others had to support themselves on the oars, masts and other gear.

At about 11 a. m. eight natives attempted to swim ashore, but all save Teriakai failed to do so owing to the high wind and sea. This man succeeded in effecting a landing after fourteen hours and went to a trader's station for a boat. On reaching the station he fainted from exhaustion. No boat being obtainable at the station he then, after recovery from his faint, ran four miles along the island to another trader's station and there obtained the necessary assistance, going out himself again in the boat to the assistance of the party in the water. At about 6 a. m. on June 29 they were picked up in a most perilous situation as they were rapidly drifting out to sea. The rest of the crew of the boat were all saved and most certainly owe their lives to the heroism of the prisoner Teraikai.

Immigrants Leave in the Mongolia.

Portuguese and Spanish immigrants to the number of 37 were deported today at the instance of the federal immigration authorities, and were given passage in the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia as far as Hongkong. At the China port, the immigrants in charge of J. K. Brown of the local customs staff, will be transferred to a liner proceeding to the Mediterranean and European ports.

Those who were forced to leave today were among the passengers who arrived here some time ago in the British steamship Ascot and the Willesden.

Four Russians were also numbered among those who took second class passage to Japan in the Mongolia.

Schooner Melrose Sailed from Hilo.

The American schooner Melrose, an arrival at Hilo on June 25th with lumber from Tacoma, was dispatched for the Sound on Saturday, according to wireless messages received in this city today.

Hall Back from Garden Island.

The Inter-Island steamer Hall was a lone arrival this morning, the vessel bringing 5000 sacks sugar, a cargo of fruits and sundries. The Hall returned with a fair list of cabin and deck passengers. The vessel is to be dispatched for the Garden Island at five o'clock tomorrow evening.

Schooner Resolute Is in Port.

Completing a voyage from Columbia river ports with nine hundred thousand feet of lumber, the schooner Resolute was towed in the harbor Monday evening. The vessel and cargo are consigned to Alexander & Baldwin.

HARBOR NOTES

The steamer Noeau for windward Kauai ports, sailed last evening, taking mail and general cargo.

Inter-Island steamers departing for island ports last evening were well laden with supplies and general cargo.

In sailing for Kona and Kau ports yesterday the Inter-Island steamer Mauna Loa carried a fair-sized list of passengers, and cargo including lumber, fertilizer and sundries.

The steamer Kinau for Kauai ports, the Mikahala for Maui, Molokai and Lanai ports, and the Likelike for Mahukona and Kawaihae, were dispatched at 5 o'clock last evening.

Owing to the large quantity of coal taken into the bunkers of the Pacific Mail liner Persia, that vessel was delayed a half hour in getting away for San Francisco. The Persia departed for the coast at 5:30 o'clock last evening.

ALLOWANCE IS MADE FOR PLANS OF WHARF SHED

Superintendent of Public Works Caldwell has requested Governor Frear to advance out of the loan fund $4,000 to be used in having plans drawn for the Hilo wharf shed and the approaching road, and Governor Frear has tentatively agreed to allow the money to be drawn, but not in the way suggested by the superintendent.

This became known yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the harbor commission when Chairman Caldwell of the commission stated that he had made such an application to the governor, and that he had received a letter from the latter stating that he would probably advance the $4,000, but would take it temporarily from the fund available and unexpended for wharf construction at Honolulu.

As the balance remaining of this fund is not sufficient for any big jobs to be done with it, the harbor commission has not objected to the $4,000 being diverted temporarily. They are anxious for the plans for the Hilo wharf shed to be made as soon as possible.

The last legislature allowed $140,000, in the loan fund, for the Hilo wharf shed, but the commissioners state that as the governor will go out of office soon, he does not wish to borrow this sum, believing that it should be done by his successor in office. As it will take some time for the plans to be drawn, the commission believes that much time will be saved by having this work begin at once, and that probably by the time the plans and specifications are completed, Governor Frear's successor will be in office.

'SEE HAWAII FIRST,' FIRES AD CLUB TO ACTION

Thurston. He told of a trip taken a few days ago by himself and others in following one of the old lava flows to its source in or near one of the "twin craters" at Kilauea. In making this trip new and wonderful points of interest were developed in the immediate vicinity of the volcano. Referring to the hitherto almost unthought-of points about Hilo he told of the "boiling pots" above Rainbow falls and a short way from Hilo, and above this in the Waiuku stream gulch a waterfall four hundred feet high. He then told of the wonderful primitive conditions at Kalapana reached by a special automobile trip arranged by the Volcano Stables. There is the native Hawaiian village where neither the white man nor the recent arriving oriental has taken his abode. There is to be found the cave of refuge in its natural condition and a hundred and one intensely interesting sights that appeal to the traveler whether from abroad or one of the other islands. Only a short way from the Volcano House are to be found hitherto unrecognized sections where the old-time Hawaiian birds are numerous and thriving. And so on without end it would seem. All this splendid value remaining unproductive simply because the people do not know about it, simply because it has not received the livewire touch of publicity. Finally Mr. Thurston spoke of the scenic beauties of the railway to Paauilo. Here Hilo has a railway thirty-four miles long that cost four millions of actual dollars to construct. It has a changing scene with every turn and scenes that cannot be duplicated anywhere on earth.

Following Mr. Thurston's very instructive talk the club voted to take up the Hilo excursion and lead the way among organizations of "Seeing Hawaii First."

BOY IS BITTEN BY AN ALLIGATOR

[By Latest Mail]

ST. LOUIS.—Ned Jones, 16 years old, a clerk in a drug store at 326 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was bitten yesterday afternoon by an alligator, which fastened its teeth so deeply in his hand that its jaws had to be twisted open with a monkey wrench.

The reptile, more than three feet long, was kept in a tank in the shop. Jones was feeding it with crawfish when it snapped his hand.

The proprietor, Charles S. Merker, seized a monkey wrench and beat the alligator over the head, hoping to make it relax its hold. This failing, he screwed the wrench on the animal's lower jaw and pried its jaws open. The youth's index finger was almost severed.

A petition for allowance of administrator's account and for distribution of the estate of Elizabeth K. Richardson, deceased, was filed in the circuit court this afternoon, W. O. Smith being the petitioner.

TAX APPEAL DECISIONS ARE GIVEN

Decisions in the last three tax appeal cases were handed in yesterday afternoon at the territorial tax office. The cases are all appealed from the values placed on the property by the appraisers, and concern land of the ahupuaa of Kahana. The property involved in the three contests belong to the Hui of Kahana. In the first case, where the property was turned in at $5500 and the appraisement made at $1100, the decision of the tax court was that the land should have been valued at $6851.

In the second case, the land being turned in at $45,480 and appraised at $91,490, the court held that $57,188 was the fair tax value of the land. In the last case the land was turned in at $350, appraised at $850 and the court fixed its figure at $471.

PINEAPPLE COMPANY INCORPORATES

The last step toward the completion of the preliminary work incident to the opening of the Kapaa pineapple plantation on Kauai, over which Albert Horner will be manager, was taken yesterday afternoon when articles of association for the company were filed in the office of the territorial treasurer.

The name of the company, as given in the articles of incorporation, is the Hawaiian Canneries Company, Ltd., with a principal place of business at Kapaa. One hundred thousand dollars is the amount of the capital stock, divided into shares of $20 each; and the privilege is retained to increase the capitalization to $1,000,000.

Among the officers and directors of the corporation appear names of persons prominent in this city and on Kauai. The incorporators are Albert Horner, Cecil Brown, J. L. Fleming, J. L. Coke and Elmer L. Schwarzberg, and the officers of the company are: Albert Horner, president; Isador Jacobs of California, vice president; J. L. Fleming, secretary; Cecil Brown, treasurer, and Arthur Rice, J. L. Coke and C. W. Spitz, directors.

Mr. Horner will leave here Thursover the ground of the Kapaa site, and over the ground of the Kapaa, and return here later to report to the directors. He stated this morning that it may be two years before the cannery which is planned by the company is completed and that it is doubtful if work on it will begin at once. The recent cutting of prices of the canned article, he said had made them more cautious in proceeding with the development of the land.

Police Notes

Found guilty with having opium in the possession, several Chinese were called to account at this morning's session of police court. A half dozen defendants were fined $50 and costs, the minimum penalty that can be imposed for this offense.

The police ambulance was called this afternoon to Gulick avenue, where a Japanese lineman, who had been engaged in repairing wires, fell from the top of a pole to the ground, and sustained some injuries necessitating his removal to the hospital for treatment.

Nakamura, a Japanese, charged with having been present at a place where gambling was carried on, and placed under arrest at the instance of Chief of Detectives McDuffie, was found to have faced eighteen previous convictions upon a similar charge, following an investigation by Prosecuting Attorney Chillingworth. Nakamura was assessed a fine of $50 and costs.

SUMNER ACTION AGAIN RESUMED

Judge Robinson of the circuit court resumed the hearing of the Joan K. Sumner action this morning. Sumner is attempting to have a power of attorney, said to have been given by him to Elias L. Jones, set aside and an accounting made. Attorney Stanley, representing the defendant, sought this morning to settle the question of whether Sumner had given the instrument to Jones or not. The former testified the first of the week that he had no knowledge of ever having signed the power of attorney, but this morning, when the case was continued, he was not so sure of it. When asked what conversation occurred at the time the instrument was given him in the office of P. C. Jones, he stated that he could not remember off hand, but might if given time for thought. So the court ordered recess.

occasion to deposit a large sum of notes in the strong box, the money being securely wrapped in a bundle, but containing no marks to indicate its character.

The absence of the hotel clerk was noted the day that the Sierra was scheduled to depart for Honolulu.

San Francisco police and detectives are said to have swarmed over the popular liner for several hours prior to the casting off of her lines. The search apparently proved fruitless, and the officers returned to the wharf without having caught a glimpse of their man.

Several days following the sailing of the Sierra, her officers noted the presence of a young man, whose actions at times led them to believe that he might be attempting to conceal his identity. All attempts upon the part of the Sierra men as well as a few passengers, to make friends with the stranger proved futile.

Persistent inquiry finally elicited the information from the young man that he was a commercial traveler, representing a large mainland manufacturer and that he was making a business trip to the Hawaiian Islands. It developed later that the party in question carried no samples.

The San Francisco officers have so far sent no inquiry to Honolulu police regarding the apprehension of the clerk. The description given the Sierra officers by coast detectives is said to tally in many essential details with the individual who reached this city last Monday morning.

of the job for the contractors, the Welman, Seaver, Morgan Co., of Cleveland, laid his plans carefully, and took every precaution to guard against accident. He determined that conditions of sea and weather would be most favorable in the very early hours of the morning, and as moonlight was also essential to the undertaking, the time was fixed for 2 o'clock this morning.

Fifteen minutes before that hour the usually quiet waterfront presented a strange scene of activity. A waning moon, showing through rifts in the rain clouds, disclosed five vessels that were to take part in the towing operation. The crane itself was lighted by its own power with four arc lights, strung in line along the arm, and any passing skipper who did not know the answer to the riddle, would have had a hard time classifying the odd-appearing craft, with its strange arrangement of running lights.

The actual towing was done by the tug Intrepid, Captain Peterson, and two 100 h. p. motor boats belonging to Young Bros. The navy tug Navajo stood by and acted as a convoy, while a navy steam launch followed the wallowing crane closely, to lend first aid in case of accident. Progress was very slow, as the crane proved a most unwieldy tow, very susceptible to even the lightest breeze. The harbor was cleared without trouble, and outside a calm sea prevailed by good fortune.

At that, the gentle swells made the big crane pitch dangerously, the contrivance racing up and down like the walking beam of an old-time side-wheeler. Several times during the voyage the pontoon shipped a sea, but there was no actual damage, and bar the uncomfortable feeling that something unpleasant might happen, those who made the trip on the crane were as comfortable as those who traveled on the tugs. The trip was timed so as to reach the entrance to Pearl Harbor just after daylight, and the passage of the channel was made without difficulty, although it required some masterly manipulation of the tow line, and the assistance of the smaller launches, to get the crane by some of the buoys which mark the fairway.

The floating crane is one of two built for the government under exactly the same specifications, the pair being the largest ever constructed. The mate to the Pearl Harbor crane was delivered at the Boston navy yard a short time ago, and has proved satisfactory in every way. The Pearl Harbor crane has a lifting capacity of 150 tons, and cost about $320,000. Weight lifting tests will be conducted at Pearl Harbor before it is finally accepted by the naval authorities.

FILIPINO TERRORIZES ENTIRE CAMP

Entering the home of a fellow countryman at Ewa plantation, succeeding in breaking open a trunk and extracting $10 and other valuables, later attempting an assault upon a woman, are charges that will be brought against Pedro Obado, a Filipino, who yesterday was taken into custody by Special City and County Officer Harry Lake and taken to the police station.

An entire camp of Filipinos at Ewa plantation is said to have been thrown into a state of terror at the action of Obado, who is alleged to have defied the gathering of little brown brothers to detain him in his attempt to break away from the scene of the disturbance.

Obado is said to have visited the home of Nabong, where he found the tenants had left for the field. The place was completely ransacked and goods scattered about the premises. Nabong's wife happened to return unexpectedly, and she was soon involved in a desperate encounter with the assailant, who was armed with a gun and a dagger. It is alleged that at a point of a revolver, Obado stood off the maddened mob of Filipinos until the officer reached the scene.

PORT MUST MAKE FIGHT TO GET NEW BUSINESS

this morning, "and this applies to eight or ten prominent firms whose vessels might be sent through the canal, I found that they must be convinced that there are distinct advantages in coming this way.

"The difference in the time of the voyage is practically nothing. It resolves itself down to this: that Honolulu, in order to expect trade to come this way, must furnish it facilities and furnish them cheaply enough to be attractive.

"These steamship companies now have their routes established through Suez canal. They will not make a change until they are assured it will be to their advantage to do so."

Commissioner Wakefield says that all of the shipping firms are open to conviction, and that it is up to Honolulu to provide the facilities to convince them.

Must Lower Water Charges.

"For one thing," he declares, "we must lower our water charges. This is a large item in shipping expenses here now. In Boston, I found, water is furnished the ships at 10½ cents per thousand gallons. When I was asked what our charges are, and told them that we charge $2 per thousand gallons, they said at once that such a rate would be one reason for not coming here.

"They also desire a change in the method of charging pilotage fees—a change, by the way, which we have already determined was reasonable. The present flat rate should be abolished, and some system of fees based on tonnage of the vessel should be established. The present system, they say, and it is a fact, works a hardship on the smaller vessels.

Full Facilities Needed.

"Another thing is that we must be prepared to furnish facilities for taking on fuel. Our present fuel-oil pipeline is a distinct advantage for us, because many of the vessels coming this way will be oil-burners. We must, however, develop our facilities for coaling. The site of the marine railway will be, according to our plans, taken by the government and used for coal wharves.

"I was asked, also, what mechanical devices we have for the handling of coal, and had to admit that we have none. The big eastern ports have up-to-date coal conveyors of various types by means of which coal can be handled rapidly and with a small labor cost. Some are owned by the port commissions, some by private companies. Honolulu needs these mechanical devices if we are to assure steamships of speedly coaling.

"All of the shipping men were interested when I told them that we had a fuel-oil pipe line running around the harbor ready to supply oil at any dock. It is recognized that oil is the coming fuel of the future for steamships. But we must be in a position to assure them of coaling facilities, too.

"The experience of Boston is something that Honolulu can well take to heart. Boston's water commerce was choked off by railroads until the state awaked to the fact that Baltimore and New York were leaving it far behind and that its interests were suffering. Then began a campaign for port development in which the city is doing remarkable work. State bonds to the amount, I think, of $25,000,000 were issued and Boston began to build. When I was there the port directors were completing a great pier 1200 feet long and 300 feet wide for the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, which had signed a five-year contract for its use. The steamship company was given free wharfage and charged 10½ cents per thousand gallons for water, the special shipping rate.

How Merchants Cooperate.

"So determined are the business interests of Boston to build up the port that the merchants voluntarily pay a high tonnage tax to secure necessary port revenue. Merchandise in transit over the wharf, whether going or coming, to or from all points outside Boston, is charged 10 cents a ton each way. But on merchandise coming or going from points in the city itself, forty cents a ton is paid by the consignee or consignor. The merchants are willing to do it to build up the port. They realize that the only chance for Boston to compete with the other Atlantic ports is to build up commerce.

"Honolulu must get the port charges right, must develop new facilities and must let the shipping firms of the world know what we have. The biggest asset that Honolulu now has to attract shipping is the floating drydock that the Inter-Island company is building here. The Atlantic firms are interested in this because they can drydock their ships if necessary in the middle of the Pacific. This drydock will accomodate vessels 500 feet long and may be enlarged to take bigger ones. The biggest drydock in Boston harbor will accomodate vessels up to 465 feet only.

"As an instance of the value of the drydock, I might say that there are 37 steamers running into New York which cannot be drydocked at all in America, either in naval or other docks. Eighty-seven steamers are crossing the Atlantic that cannot be drydocked in any commercial dock in America, only in the naval dock. Thirty are now running into Boston harbor which cannot be drydocked there. They are now urging along the construction of a large graving-dock in Boston."

Commissioner Wakefield sees one factor that may keep Honolulu from carrying out much immediate wharf construction, and that is difficulty in selling the bonds authorized by the last legislature and of which the harbor board is to have the spending of something like three-quarters of a million dollars. The money stringency is no dream in the east, says Wakefield, and there may some difficulty in getting a good price for the territorial bonds.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

An order of notice of petition for allowance of account and distribution of the estate of James K. Luka was made today in the circuit court. The hearing of the petition was set for August 18.

Domingo Cruz, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was before the circuit court this morning for arraignment. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was placed on the calendar for hearing in regular order.

Alfredo Castrillo plead not guilty to the charge of burglary in the first degree this morning in the circuit court before Judge Robinson. His bail was fixed at $1000, in default of which he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Appraisers of the estate of Clement Gerald Sneyd-Kynnersley, who died some time ago in England, and whose estate is being probated here, were named this morning in the circuit court. The appraisers are John A. Maguire, A. L. Greenwell and Edward H. Edwards.

There will be a meeting of the territorial board of examiners July 30. The meeting will be held at the Normal school, and its purpose is to outline the questions to be propounded to the applicants for teachers' certificates when they appear in August to take the examinations.

From the first to the sixteenth of July seven persons were reported victims of tuberculosis, according to the report just made to Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, president of the territorial board of health by M. H. Lemon, registrar general. One case of typhoid and one of diphtheria were also reported, making a total of nine contagious diseases for the sixteen-day period.

The results of the examination for admission to the high schools of the territory have been communicated to the territorial board of education. The examinations were held June 17, 18, and 19. The number who succeeded in passing the examinations is much larger than heretofore. In the central grammar school 54 passed, Royal 24, Kaahumanu, 27, Kaiulani 7, Waialua 5, Eleele 4, Hilo 4, Liliuokalani 2 and Paia 1.

One of the busiest places in the city now is the normal school, where the month's summer session is on. Aspirants to teach school are making the most of the time to prepare for the examinations, the passing of which will qualify them to take a school. Lectures are being given the pupils on different subjects connected with their work. The last lecture was given yesterday morning by C. O. Smith, principal of a Kauai public school. His subject was school organization. Other lectures are being planned and will probably be given soon.

Francisco Aville, charged on two indictments with assault with a deadly weapon, changed his mind this morning when he was brought before Judge Robinson of the circuit court to be sentenced. On his arraignment, Aville had pleaded guilty to the charges, and his appearance in court this morning was to receive sentence. "I am not guilty," he said. "I plead innocent." The statement made by the accused came as a surprise to the prosecution; but they consented that his former plea be withdrawn and his new one entered. C. K. Quinn was appointed his attorney.

Secretary H. P. Wood and Chairman Fred L. Waldron of the promotion committee entertained at luncheon at the Country Club yesterday in honor of several persons who were through passengers on the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia en route to the Orient. After the luncheon the party motored to the Pali and other places of interest in and about the city. The guests included Captain Emory Rice and Purser Hunt of the Mongolia; Captain Hill, Purser Petrocelli and Doctor Deakin of the Persia; General Agent Halton of the Pacific Mail Company at Hongkong; Robert Frothingham, representing Everybody's Magazine, Mrs. Frothingham and Miss Dorothy Frothingham, John Siegfried and Sidney Jordan.

A part-Hawaiian girl, a victim of a revolver shot from a gun aimed by Francisco Sison, a Filipino, is an inmate at the hospital, suffering from a flesh wound, but with good chances for a speedy recovery. The shooting took place at Waiahole Water Company camp yesterday afternoon, the girl reaching the hospital at a late hour. The Filipino was placed under arrest and is at present at Kaneohe jail awaiting action by the sheriff.

FOOD WORTH

Thousands of Pounds.

Sickness is nature's call for better food. Much ill-health comes from the use of foods which do not properly nourish and build up the body. Many a millionaire would give thousands of pounds for a return of health and strength; and yet this can be accomplished for a few shillings if the right sort of food is used.

The digestive organs become overtaxed by the use of improper or poorly-cooked foods, which cannot be properly digested. Therefore, the brain and nerve centers are not rebuilt after the losses caused by the day's work.

Nature will stand the draught for a while, but soon nervous prostration sets in, directly caused by the failure to supply the body with the kind of food required.

Better far to go to the root of the evil; change the diet. Grape-Nuts cereal food is the food of all foods best suited to replenish the waste and correct the evils caused by improper diet.

It is made of selected parts of the grains, wheat and barley, and predigested in the process of manufacture. Its steady and persistent use by persons who have sufered in the way indicated will certainly give the relief sought. There is a reason for this.

Grape-Nuts requires no cooking, but is ready for instant serving with cream or rich milk.

Many persons suffering from impaired digestion carry a small supply in the pocket, and when that hungry feeling so common to the dyspeptic comes over them munch a little Grape-Nuts with most excellent results.—Advertisement.

GET THE FACTS BEFORE THE PUBLIC

Commissioner James Wakefield of the harbor board brings back from the mainland a message that ought to be given to every commercial body in the territory.

He brings back concrete and emphatic ideas as to what the territory and Honolulu in particular must do to win and hold commerce after the opening of the Panama canal. It is not an easy task that confronts this city. Port charges must be made more reasonable; water rates to shipping especially must be cut perhaps as much as in half; docks must be supplied; fuel made cheap and easy of access.

Commissioner Wakefield points out that Honolulu will have to show the shippers of the Atlantic coast special advantages before they will break their now established Suez connections and come by way of Panama and Honolulu, or before they will develop new steamship routes this way. The port must be made attractive from a trade standpoint.

It is a work that demands the best energies of Honolulu and the united efforts of the commercial bodies. The commissioner has just returned from a visit to the Atlantic ports during which he was in touch with big shipping interests. What he has to say is so timely and pertinent that it ought to be said at open meetings of the commercial bodies to which the general public is invited.

MEXICO

Uncle Sam's attitude toward the Huerta administration, while undoubtedly provocative of serious trouble and resulting in danger to Americans, is both consistent and fair. It is a policy of non-recognition and non-intervention for the present. Whether the policy of non-intervention can be maintained much longer is doubtful in view of the increasing anti-American demonstrations.

Soon after taking office President Wilson enunciated the theory that government by force is not to be encouraged. The theory was made to apply to Latin-American countries and naturally icludes Mexico. The president's advisers, according to good authority, have not had confidence in the stability of the Huerta regime, nor have they wished to encourage the violent measures that were taken to overthrow Madero. President Wilson has therefore declined to recognize the de facto Huerta government.

Wilson's attitude is at variance with that of previous administrations in diplomatic relations with Latin America, but it is consistent with his official pronouncements made after taking office. It is also consistent with our attitude toward the Chinese republic. Moreover, events have shown that while Huerta rules in Mexico City, he does not rule in Coahuila, in Chihuahua and in several other states of considerable importance. He has never ruled in the north, and only half-ruled in the south.

New factors are, however, coming into the discussion. Anti-American demonstrations cannot be long tolerated, and Mexico's move for a Japanese alliance is rightly to be viewed with misgivings. Unless Huerta can furnish protection for American lives and property, Uncle Sam cannot remain passive much longer. Huerta will not be allowed to fight out his destiny. He will be swept aside.

WILL THEY DO IT?

Mayor Fern and the board of supervisors will please the people of Honolulu if they will keep hands off the road department and let City Engineer Whitehouse run it.

Deputy City and County Attorney Weaver has, at the request of Mayor Fern, given the mayor a written opinion to the effect that the appointing of a road overseer rests entirely in the hands of the city engineer. This opinion is the only commonsense interpretation of the law that could be given, and it is just exactly what the Star-Bulletin pointed out editorially two weeks ago. On July 7, when the question first arose, the Star-Bulletin said:

> The board can go a long way to remedy this latter mistake (referring to partisan politics) if it will turn the entire matter over to the proper department and the official to whom it belongs—the city engineer. Let the city engineer run the work that belongs to him! Hold him responsible for results! Give him a free hand, and forget party politics!

The present board, on taking office and naming Whitehouse engineer, promised the community that he would be given a free hand in the administration of his department. He was not given a free hand. Smiddy was a political appointee, and practically every member of the road department now is a political appointee, given a job by the Democratic administration for politics only.

Now the situation is this: City Engineer Whitehouse nominally is given charge of the road department and under the law has the sole right to name his subordinates. In practice, however, the law is not observed, for Supervisors Petrie and McClellan control the board and thus control the city engineer's office. He is at their mercy. They hold the whip-hand over him and if he does not carry out their desires, his own position is imperilled. Every man who knows the internal workings of city and county affairs realizes this. Through their control of the city engineer's office the supervisors control the road department. It is for them to say whether it shall be run for politics or efficiency, whether it shall be run by the city engineer or by the road committee of the board..

The spirit of the law demands that Whitehouse be allowed to name the road overseer and there should be no evasion of that spirit.

The present board is occupying a good deal of its time in undignified and petty squabbling, for which both factions are to blame. Supervisor Pacheco voices a series of protests at almost every meeting. Supervisor Petrie sometimes retorts. The others chime in according to their sympathies. Work is halted while the board makes precisely the same kind of spectacle of itself that the last board made. And the last board, it is well to remember, was one of the causes of Republican defeat in 1912.

There is petty politics played by both of the Democratic factions, yet each has the possibilities for constructive work. The road committee has made some really commendable plans. If it would confine itself to its proper sphere and not interfere with the city engineer's department, it will score, in the public mind, the greatest possible victory against the insinuations of the opposing faction.

The proper sphere of the road committee is to investigate the needs of the city and county as to streets and highways, advise the board as a body and consult with the city engineer's office, pass upon the work to be done and upon the work that is done. The road committee has no right to administer the road department, to dictate its employes, to do the executive work. That right is plainly vested in the city engineer. Interference of the kind that has been witnessed is against efficiency and no business firm would allow such unbusinesslike methods. No board of directors would attempt to take from a plantation manager's hands the running of the plantation, would name all the lunas, clerks and laborers, and then expect the manager to get efficient service or progressive results.

The situation is no different when it comes to municipal affairs.

It might be suggested that if the supervisors take the road overseer's job out of politics, Democratic patronage here is going to be reduced something like 100 per cent.

Ambassador Guthrie's comment on diplomatic matters while here was confined to the comparatively safe course of quotation from the Declaration of Independence.

If there is going to be real trouble with Mexico, possibly Col. Roosevelt can be prevailed upon to reconsider that Argentine trip.

The deputy city attorney decides that the city engineer ought to have the right to run his own department. Eminently correct.

Talk of a Japanese alliance with the Mexican government is affected by the very natural inquiry, Which government?

Local Bull Moosers are going to have a dinner on August 5, but it will not be taken at the political pie-counter.

We should say that Felix Diaz was wise in accepting that foreign post.

Looks like a good year for the war-correspondent crop, anyway.

Secretary Bryan, however, is cherishing that peace plan.

Thirty cents Mex. has acute significance just now.

At least, no one can say Felix Diaz hard.

ONE REASON IS POLITICS

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir—Why is it that we never hear of any other city under the American flag having so much trouble with the collection or non-collection of its garbage as is made manifest in this city? Here is Honolulu, a city that can be considered tropical from every standpoint, and in which, for the preservation of the health of the people the collection of refuse and garbage should be the first consideration of the authorities, and if not of the authorities then of the people themselves, we find that somebody is delinquent.

In a number of cities in which I have lived the garbage is collected by private enterprise, the customers paying from 25 cents to $1 a month for the removal of all trash from premises. The above charges refer to private homes and residences. What the cost to large stores and the like was I do not know.

Another feature in the collection of garbage in the cities of the mainland is that it is placed in a garbage can at the back door and taken by the garbageman from that point. Here there seems to be an insane desire on the part of the householder (where garbage is collected) to parade the collection of refuse, no matter how nauseating it may be, out on the front sidewalk, where it adds to the beauty of its surroundings possibly up to the hour of noon before it is removed by the garbage collectors, and I have known instances where it has remained there for a week.

There seems to be a delinquency somewhere. If it is in the garbage department, then correct it. If it is with any of the "higher ups" the correction is needed so much the more. If there is not money enough to do the collecting of garbage thoroughly, then tax the people for the money that is necessary for the work. It does not seem possible that there are people in this city that are so short-sighted that they would object to a tax of ten cents a year when that would possibly save a doctor's bill of many times that in dollars.

Neither the mayor nor any other official of the city should fail to understand that tourists view with disgust the collections of refuse and garbage that daily appear along the side walks of the principal thoroughfares of the city that is the capital of the "paradise of the Pacific," and this feature alone should spur somebody on the an "awakening" along these lines. If Mayor Fern did nothing else during his administration than establish a garbage collecting scheme that would work to the satisfaction of the people he will have been worth while.

A full and scientific study of the whole question of the collection and disposal of the city wastes is required. There should be a whole-city collection of garbage made every day. The collection of garbage is for the purpose of preserving the health of the city. We all will admit that. But wherein lies the philosophy of collecting the garbage from one house daily, and the garbage in the house on either side is allowed to rot and decay.

If I had my way some of the "jobs" of the city, that act as sponges for the city money, would wait till the garbage proposition had been placed on a footing that would keep the city clean and healthy. You can dodge a bad place in the road, but you can't dodge a bunch of microbes that come sailing out of some side alley from a decaying lot of garbage.

Although I am a citizen of Honolulu, and have lived here many years, and take all the pride in the world in this city and think it the only place worth living in, I admit, that as far as my observations go, the city work is done here in the slackest and most don't-care-a-darn manner of any city I have ever lived in.

In a comparison of the amount of funds expended in this city and other cities in the collection of garbage and the result of the work there is no credit coming to us. The system here seems about as rotten as some of the garbage it doesn't collect.

CITIZEN

In The Public Eye

As to the manner of computing interest on public funds deposited in national banks, a problem propounded by the secretary of the treasury, it is a matter entirely within his discretion, answers Controller of the Treasury Downey, and the law has no word to say on the subject.

"The question is one of agreement rather than law," says Controller Downey, in his opinion just made public, "and subject to such regulations as you may prescribe."

The question of the method of computing interest on government funds in national banks, he suggests, is one to be decided by agreement between depositor and depository. The secretary of the treasury, he recites, is authorized by Section 5153, Revised Statutes, to prescribe regulations not in conflict with law.

No regulation affecting government public funds deposited in national banks has been promulgated other than the regulation of Secretary McAdoo, issued April 30, requiring all government depositories, active and inactive, beginning June 1, to pay 2 per cent per annum on average monthly balances, to be credited semi-annually, January 1 and July 1.

The controller of the treasury goes into the detail of defining monthly averages, as understood in commercial and financial practice. This he regards as a determination of the method of computing the interest charges, under this regulation. Otherwise he suggests that the secretary of the treasury has full authority and that the controller of the treasury can give no further light.

"I am willing to run the gauntlet here," said Mr. Sayre, "but at home I want rest."

Mr. Sayre said he would take a rest for two or three days, and then resume his work in the complaint bureau. With his admission to the bar he will be elevated to the position of assistant district attorney.

Mr. Sayre has traveled widely over the country. He was born in South Bethlehem, Pa., in 1885 and was educated at Williams College. In 1909 he entered the Harvard law school, graduating last year with a degree cum laude. One of his more exciting experiences is the trip he took down from Labrador on Peary's ship, Roosevelt, on the return of the exploring party from the Arctic region.

In politics he declares himself to be an independent, voting for the man rather than the party. He voted for President Wilson at the last election, and when pressed for his preference between Wilson and Roosevelt, Mr. Sayre said:

"I admire President Wilson more than I do Col. Roosevelt."

The wedding is expected to take place at the White House in November.

Miss Wilson will be the thirteenth White House bride. She is 24 years old and was educated at Goucher College, Baltimore, where she specialized in political science. She has done much settlement work in Philadelphia and also in New York, and has been actively identified with the Y. W. C. A., having recently made many speeches in its behalf.

NEW YORK.—The official announcement of the engagement of Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, to Francis Bowes Sayre, brought many callers to the office of Mr. Sayre in the Criminal Courts building. He is attached in a clerical capacity to the office of District Attorney Whitman, a position which he says he procured through the influence of ex-President Roosevelt, of whom he is a great admirer. Mr. Sayre serves without salary, not having been admitted to the bar.

Mr. Sayre blushingly declined to relate any of the particulars of his courtship. He stated it was a purely "formal and conventional" proceeding without any of the striking elements that would constitute a romance. He said he first attracted Miss Wilson's attention by his striking resemblance to President Wilson himself. He is of the same build, though slightly taller than the chief executive. At the time of his first meeting with the president's daughter, two years ago, both were visiting at the home of a mutual friend in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

In the Criminal Courts building, the announcement of his engagement was a great surprise. No one in the building, not even in the district attorney's office had had the slightest intimation of this courtship. Today scores of persons, many of whom Sayre had never met in his life, stepped in to congratulate him. His telephone wire was busy throughout the morning. He submits to this sudden popularity more out of courtesy than joy and he refused to give his city address, in order that he might avoid callers at his home.

dron and Fred C. Smith, entertainment; Thomas Church and C. C. von Hamm, program and invitations. H. P. Wood will act in the capacity of secretary for the three committees. Each of the committees was given the power to add to its number when necessary, these additional members to be chosen at random from among the members of the three local commercial organizations. A meeting has been called for Friday morning at ten o'clock in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, at which time these committees will submit their reports. The commercial organizations on the other islands will be notified at an early date of the date of the convention, requesting them to send delegates. This notification will give these bodies a chance to offer suggestions to the local committee.

Upon a motion made by Fred L. Waldron, the committee appointed the following members of island organizations to cooperate with the local committee in carrying out the details and arrangements of the convention; Dr. Harold B. Elliot, of the Hilo board of trade; Hermann Rohrig of Lihue, Kauai, and William Walsh of Kahului, Maui. Each of these will be requested to appoint and act as chairman of a committee of two, these committees to forward their suggestions to the local committe.

On the Mongolia.

Among the prominent Honolulu people to return on yesterday's Mongolia were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Warren, who have been spending six or eight weeks on the coast, in Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Francisco and Berkeley, with a week or two at Glen Alpine and Lake Tahoe. At the latter place, Mr. Warren was able to recover fully from the operation which he had undergone in San Francisco — which was an entire success, his friends will be glad to hear. Both Mr. and Mrs. Warren enjoyed the horse-back riding and country life, to say nothing of the bracing climate of Lake Tahoe. During her various visits in California, Mrs. Warren was the incentive for a great many social events, all of her friends being eager to entertain for her. The following clipping from the Los Angeles Times will be of interest to her friends in Honolulu:

"Mrs. John Treholm Warren of Honolulu, formerly Miss Grace Tower, arrived in Pasadena Monday for a short visit, and has been the recipient of much social attention during her stay. Monday afternoon, Mrs. Warren was the guest of Mrs. Winslow at the Valley Hunt Club, when several old friends, members of the club, and others, were invited to meet her, and Tuesday, Mrs. James Hamilton Gaut gave an informal luncheon at the Rose Tree teahouse for Mrs. Warren. Wednesday afternoon the Misses Early invited in their home on South Marengo avenue, informally, a very few old friends for a thimble party. Among these guests were Mmes. Elmer Grey, Neal K. Traylor, Walter Hadley, Ira Smith, I. B. Winslow and Miss Ellen Lowry. This evening Mrs. Una Nixon Hopkins gives a supper party at her home in Congress place for Mrs. Warren, when covers will be laid for fifteen."

Luncheon at the Young.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Guthrie and Miss A. Guthrie, the former's sister, were the guests of honor yesterday at a luncheon given by the Sons of the American Revolution. The affair took place in the private dining room of the Young hotel and was perfectly appointed in every detail. A long table ending in a T took its origin from a circular one at which sixteen of the guests were seated. Red carnations were used for a centerpiece, while a wreath of the carnations and maile extended down the whole length of the T. Berger's band played throughout the lunch and many speeches were made by various guests. Mr. Perley Horne, president of the Hawaiian Sons of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Horne, regent of the Aloha chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, presided. Covers were laid for sixty-five.

"From Island Home.

"Mrs. Louis Davis has come from her home in Honolulu to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Horatio Bonestell of Piedmont, for the summer months. The attractive young matron will be remembered as Miss Alma Hill, a bride of two years ago. She has many friends in the bay section who will shower her with compliments during the two months of her visit, and her sister will make her the motif for several informal affairs."

After a short honeymoon, the young couple will sail for Honolulu, where they will make their home. Prior to his marriage, Mr. Bailey was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Blacow in Irvington.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin"

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-or-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.—advertisement.

DIRECTS HER HEART BE CUT OUT

[By Latest Mail]

SAN FRANCISCO.—The will of the late Adelaide Sherwood Soule, widow of the late Professor Frank Soule of the University of California, was filed for probate in Oakland yesterday afternoon by Attorney Benjamin Atkin. It disposes of an estate estimated to be worth $15,000. Mrs. Soule had a fear during her life of being hurled alive. She also feared that after her death some harm might come to a number of domestic pets. In her will she provides against both.

The testament reads: "I direct after my apparent death that my heart shall be removed from my body, my remains kept for several days and then cremated.

"I direct that my domestic pets be chloroformed and afterward immersed in water for twenty-four hours. This shall be done immediately after my death."

The testatrix bequeaths $500 each to Shirley Worden and Marian Johnson, cousins, and D'Arnaud Soule, son of Beach Soule. Of the residue, one-quarter is bequeathed to Kathleen Soule, a half-sister of Professor Soule; one-quarter to the Oakland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and one-half to her husband's two sons, Beach and Douglas Soule.

The provisions of the will have been complied with.

The London Assurance Corporation, founded in 1720 and in active business ever since, paid $7,000,000 (gross) losses arising from the San Francisco disaster. This is a much greater amount than paid by any other company, operating under a single name, in this or any other conflagration, and stands without a parallel in the history of Insurance.

COMMERCIAL ITEMS

Hawaiian Commercial was 26.50 bid, Hawaiian Sugar 25.25 bid, Honokaa 3 bid, Paauhau 13.50 bid, Union 20.50 asked, Hutchinson 16 asked, Onomea 21.25 bid, and Honolulu Plantation pool 20 bid with 22 asked, in San Francisco yesterday.

The Luzon Pineapple Company, in the province of Nueva Eciji, Philippine islands, will have its cannery ready for operation in January. Its estimated output the first season will be 10,000 cases of 24 cans each from a planting of half a million plants. Ground is being broken for setting out a million plants, which a Manila paper calls "trees." L. C. Kellogg, formerly of the Wahiawa colony of Californians, is in charge of the plantation. It was his expert investigation and favorable report that led to the formation of the company.

Stocks did not maintain their recently found strength in New York yesterday. Canadian Pacific showed some strength. Steel, Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated yielded under pressure. New low records were made by Wells Fargo and California Petroleum common and preferred. The weaker issues were the New Haven 6 per cent convertibles, declining almost 4 points with a decline of more than 2 points for the stock. Bonds were heavy. Late in the day considerable activity was shown by independent steel com-

DUKE KAHANAMOKU IS BREAKING SPEED RECORDS

THE AVERAGE VISITOR TO HAWAII is infected with the speed microbe. If he can make a break from the Hilo wharf to the Volcano and back again, spending one night and a part of two days on the island, he feels that he has done his duty and got his money's worth,

WE WANT OUR VISITORS TO GET THEIR MONEY'S WORTH

And we know that they are not getting one-half of it when they spend two days and nights at sea just to make a steeplechase run to the Volcano and back.

WE EARNESTLY ADVISE VISITORS to stay over at least one trip of the steamer and get double their money's worth by seeing:

The wonderful precipice and waterfall scenery along the railroad north of Hilo;

The unique primitive Hawaiian villages, palms, cocoanuts, warm springs and lava trees of Puna;

The Koa forests and pit craters—as wonderful as Kilauea itself, in the vicinity of the Volcano;

To say nothing of short trips to Akaka Falls, the Boiling Pots, the Onomea Arch, the Kaumana Caves and auto trips of 60 to 100 miles to Kau and Kona over good roads and thru beautiful scenery.

TAKE OUR WORD AND TRY IT, and see if you will not thank us for the advice!

Spirit of Unity.

Not only does the spirit of unity prevail as regards the different cities, but is to be found in the activities of the several organizations situated therein. It was my good fortune to attend a banquet in Spokane, given under the auspices of a combined committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Ad Club, these organizations all being represented in the speech making, showing a desire to combine in anything that will be for the best interests of the city.

I have dealt somewhat in generalities but will now endeavor to tell you of some of my personal experiences, that will probably explain my enthusiasm along these lines.

Arriving in the city of Oakland, Cal., in the early part of May, I called on the secretary of the newly-formed Oakland Commercial Club with the idea of offering reciprocal relations with the Honolulu Commercial Club, of which I happen to be secretary.

This gentleman is Leslie F. Rice, assistant cashier of the Oakland Bank of Savings. Finding that I had made no particular plans for my vacation, he insisted on my promising to accompany an excursion to the Portland Rose Festival contemplated by the Oakland Commercial Club. This we will call my first experience with hospitality.

Oakland's Experience.

Let me tell you something about the Oakland Commercial Club. It was organized but a few months ago along the line of a boosting organization, and has on its roll most of the prominent businessmen of Oakland. The club has leased the entire top floor of the new Oakland hotel, and the fixtures are now being installed. When I left about three weeks ago the club had about 450 members and was growing rapidly. They have secured the services of a splendid manager and director, Mr. Joseph Caine of Salt Lake City, and are paying him a salary of $8000 per annum. His work will be along the line of publicity, and it is expected that through his efforts many conventions will be secured for Oakland. He is at present attending the convention of the National Educational Association, endeavoring to secure the 1915 convention for Oakland.

Work of City Building.

The work of city building calls for enthusiasm, and that can best be obtained through something unique, something that will catch and hold popular fancy.

Along this line the Commercial Clubs, and Ad Clubs are organizing uniform ranks of publicity workers. The following are some that I traveled with and met socially during the trip. The Royal Oaks, affiliated with the Oakland Commercial Club, these men are dressed in white serge suits with a blue sleeve band with a splendid catch phrase "My City Oakland" in white, and carry a cane.

The Royal Rosarians of Portland, who dress in white suits very similar to the Royal Oaks, only have a big red rose embroidered on the arm.

The Knights of the Rose Tournament of Passadena, dressed in bright red coats, riding breeches, and wearing a high hat, certainly a very spectacular costume, but one calculated to keep Pasadena in the minds of all who had an opportunity of watching these gentlemen parade the streets of Portland.

The Radiators of Eugene, Oregon, with gray suits, tan shoes and straw hats, with the arm decorated with a setting sun with rays radiating, emblematic of their title. They informed us that the wool was produced in Eugene, an dthe tailoring was of local labor.

"The Tillikums" of Seattle wearing white serge with the Totem pole as suggestion of Seattle.

Men With Red Blood.

These organizations are composed of men, many of whom hold executive positions, they number among their rolls, bank officials, mayors and capitalists. Men who ordinarily would hold aloof from anything of a spectacular nature. But when visitors arrive in their city, the true spirit of hospitality prevails and they are to be seen daily in their conspicuous regalia. When they visit another city such as the Royal Oaks, and the Knights of the Rose Tournament of Pasadena visited Portland, they go with the desire of securing publicity. Favorable publicity such as will help to build up their own city.

Leaving Oakland on a special train of about thirteen cars the Royal Oaks party were given a splendid send off. Of the one hundred and fifty on the train about 42 were in the uniform of the Royal Oak. They were led by Mr. Fred E. Reed, a prominent real estate man of Oakland. One of the cars on the train was used for dancing, the furniture having been completely removed.

Arriving in the town of Roseburg, Oregon, around 10 a. m. on Sunday morning, we found the Roseburg Commercial Club awaiting at the depot ready to escort the party to the club rooms for a reception. The ladies decorated the entire party with roses and served refreshments as well, after which a motor ride was enjoyed by all. Upon arrival at our train we found that the club had sent two crates of strawberries together with cream to be served in the diner. It is needless to say that this was a treat, and one that will help us to remember Roseburg.

Later in the day, Eugene was reached and the station was crowded with people. Our first sight was the entire company of Eugene "Radiators" lined up ready to geet us. Motors were available and a hour was spent in sightseeing. A reception was held at the Commercial Club, where ice cream and cake were served. Each lady of our party was presented with a basket in which were artistically placed strawberries and roses.

A few hours later we arrived at Salem, Oregon, the state capital, and were welcomed by the Governor of Oregon, the Mayor of Salem and the various clubs representatives. After a very pleasant motor ride during which time the beautiful electric fountain was displayed we attended a banquet at the hotel. Being Sunday great credit is due for such royal entertainment.

At Salem where our train remained evernight, a delegation of the Royal Rosarians of Portland met us. They presented to everyone on the train an envelope in which we found a badge with the word "Guest" printed on the ribbon, with a space to slip one's card in above, and below a button upon which was printed "Royal Rosarians," a card granting privileges of the Portland Commercial Club, and tickets to the theatre and ball game, together with a little booklet showing just what we were to do each day of the festival week.

One should remember that the Royal Rosarians were entertaining about 200 people from Pasadena, and others from Seattle, Spokane and Victoria, making in all about 1000 people as their special guests.

How Portland Does It.

On the day of our arrival we were guests on the Rose City escorting Rex Oregonus, the head of the festival, up the Willamette river. The following day an excursion up the Columbia river to Multnomah Falls was provided with luncheon and vaudeville on board. Front seats in the grandstands were ours, the guest badge being sufficient to gain admittance. Motors were placed at our disposal by the Rosarians, and during the entire week the Rosarians placed themselves in the position of hosts. A grand ball was given at the Multnomah hotel, at which the various uniform ranks and their friends were the guests.

I missed the luncheon by the Ad Club of Portland owing to a misunderstanding, but the Royal Oaks are certainly very enthusiastic over their reception by your fellow organization.

The ladies of Portland provided roses in the hotel every morning, bringing same in large clothes baskets and every member of our party was never without a rose. I could speak for considerable time on the roses of Portland, for they are beautiful beyond description. The system of planting the roses between the sidewalk and the curb appealed to me; they look beautiful when in bloom, and the value of this scheme from a publicity standpoint seems to me of large measure.

The parades were beautiful, especially the electric parade at night. Flat cars were decorated to resemble gems and flowers and were covered with thousands of electric lights, making an unusual and handsome display.

The main party of Oakland people returned after the rose festival but some forty of the party went on an extended tour.

We had learneod to know out hosts, the Rosarians, very well, and when the time came to say good-bye many of us were a little broken up. This feeling was especially pronounced when we arrived at the North Bank depot to take the train to Tacoma, and found that the ladies of the Rosarians had completely decorated our sleepers with roses. The curtains were hung with roses, the pillows were covered, and they were placed between the sheets. Is it strange that most of us were sorry to leave the beautiful city of Portland with its true hospitality?

Tacoma and Seattle Busy.

At Tacoma a motor ride was provided by the Commercial Club through the splendid Point Defiance Park, with its fine vistas through the pines to the Sound beyond.

Seattle was reached by boat from Tacoma. The Commercial Club and the mayor met our party, and a drive around the famous Lake Washington Boulevard was one of the features of our stay. This was followed by a banquet at the Savoy Hotel.

The same spirit of hospitality prevailed in Victoria and in Vancouver, where the commercial organizations entertained us with motor rides, both in the afternoon and evening. The Sound country is beautiful and the commercial development that is pushing the cities of this part of the country ahead is ever apparent.

Small towns are also awake to the value of publicity through hospitality. In Everett, Wash., our train stopped for three hours. The Commercial Club were our hosts at a breakfast, and later a motor ride over their city.

Spokane Live Wires.

But it remained for the Ad Club of Spokane, that real live organization of the great Inland Empire, to open our eyes. Arriving in their city about 10 p. m., during a pouring rain, we were allowed no time for discussion but immediately hustled into taxicabs and taken to our hotel, where rooms had been reserved. While gathered around the lobby of the hotel one of their number announced that we were expected to be ready within a few minutes as they had prepared a little midnight supper for us. This proved to be more like a banquet and was given at Davenport's, a well known restaurant of the northwest. We were further informed that breakfast would be served at 8:30 a. m. and that we were expected as their guests. This was followed by three hours of motoring, ending at the Chamber of Commerce, where a luncheon was served in our honor by the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and the Ad Club combined. The afternoon was spent at the athletic games with the Ad Club. In the evening we were tendered a banquet by the Ad Club, followed by a dance. Twenty-four hours of true hospitality.

It was during the Pow Wow week that we were in Spokane, and Mr. Raymond Bigelow, head of the Ad Club, was Big Chief of the Pow Wow. He secured this honor through the efforts of the Ad Club members. I understand some $5000 was raised to defray the expenses of the Pow Wow week through a voting contest for chief of the Pow Wow, votes being sold at 1 cent each.

Mr. Bigelow acted as toastmaster at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon. In addition to the Big Chief of the Pow Wow there is a chiefess known as Miss Spokane, a young lady of very pleasing personality. Every member of the Ad Club is like a brother to this young lady and she is doing a great work for the city of Spokane. During the Rose Festival in Portland Miss Spokane was the guest of the Rosarians, and while accompanying the excursions would appear as an Indian maiden.

Hawaii's Opportunity.

It seems to me there is an opportunity here in Hawaii for greater activity on the part of such organizations as the Ad Club and the Commercial Club, especially during our Flower Parade Week.

The Promotion Committee is doing a wonderful work in bringing people here, but our opportunity comes in entertaining them and gaining the great favorable publicity which comes through hospitality.

KILLS A MAN AND GETS FIVE DAYS

[By Latest Mail]

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Five days in jail for involuntary manslaughter was the sentence passed upon Mrs. Anna Dotson, wife of Dr. Walter Dotson, a Gallatin physician here. She was charged with the murder of Charles Cobb, a barber, whom she shot in a barber shop here last March.

On the stand Mrs. Dotson admitted she had had relations with Cobb, had told her husband and a minister, and related she vowed if she were not separated from Dr. Dotson, and could obtain divine forgiveness, she would kill the man who "wrecked her life." The defense offered testimony to support an insanity theory. Mrs. Dotson is 33 years old.

LATEST CHINESE WAR NEWS BY CABLE

The above gathering first heard the reading of President Wilson's letter recognizing the independence of the Chinese Republic. Yuan Shih-Kai, president of the young republic, is in the front rank, in uniform and top boots, while to his immediate left is E. T. Williams, in charge of the American legation at Pekin who, yesterday made request that the marines of the Pacific squadron be instructed to protect Americans in the southern provinces.

been in our family for eight hundred years." His card asserts the claim in a coronet surmounting the legend: "R. von S. Domkowicz, Na Ohia, P. O. Hoopuloa, Kona, Hawaii." Continuing in answer to questions, Mr. von Domkowicz said:

I first became acquainted with von Woellwarth when we were both patients in the Queen's hospital. He appeared to have plenty of money and entertained freely. If he is the man he represented himself to be, and he seemd to answer the description, he comes of an old Westphalia family. He claimed to be an officer of the king's Hussars regiment of Bonn.

"The last time I saw him was yesterday morning about half-past seven. He was going out to the stables on Diamond Head road, the old government stables where he was training Dr. Straub's horses, and he told me he would see me on his return. No, he did not seem to be disturbed in manner."

Borrowed the Watch.

"Yes," he reluctantly assented when asked if von Woellwarth had got away with his gold watch and $350 borrowed money. "I do not like to talk about it, as I took him for a gentleman. He did not steal the watch from me directly—it was loaned to him.

"I was told that the First National bank had a sheaf of documents from von Woellwarth showing that a large sum of money was coming to him."

Kappelmeister Berger is one who failed to respond to the blandishments of the polished adventurer.

"Baron von Woellwarth tried his game on me, but it would not work," said the veteran bandmaster this morning. "He wanted to engage the band to play at the opening of his riding academy. I told him I wanted to see the money first. 'Cash before we commence, when we're dealing with strangers,' was my answer to him."

No Account at Bank

"The baron had no account with us," said Cashier L. Tenney Peck of the First National Bank, on which von Woellwarth had drawn a check for $2250 in favor of the von Hamm-Young Co., Ltd., to pay for an automobile the riding master had possessed for one day. Mr. Peck and President Cecil Brown only laughed when asked about an imposing-looking financial document reported to have been presented to them by the bogus check-signer some time before his disappearance, purporting to show that a large foreign remittance was on the way to him.

According to the best obtainable information von Woellwarth's creditors are legion. Hotel bills, stationary bills, room-rent bills, bungalow rent bills, ad infin., are reported as remaining unpaid throughout the city. At the Young hotel, where von Woellwarth made his permanent residence while in the islands, his bill is said to be well into the three figures, while in addition he had a room in Garden lane and a cottage on the beach.

Baron Was a Dishwasher.

Von Woellwarth, who was more or less extensively entertained by the local swart set, and upon whom much attention was lavished by Honolulu society in his brief and meteoric career, is declared by well posted shipping men to have first made his bow to the Paradise of the Pacific in the capacity of a humble fo'c's'le hand, and a sailor in the barkentine Irmgard. This vessel reached the port some months ago from the south seas, where a shipment of fertilizer material had been taken aboard destined for one of the local companies dealing in the product.

It is then said that the "baron" remained on the beach for some little time, finally shipping out of Honolulu as a galley assistant in a coast-bound liner.

Again the "baron" loomed up on the waterfront, and this time he was listed as a dishwasher in one of the Matson Navigation steamers. He is said to have been seen in this city with each appearance of the steamer, having made several round trips between the islands and the coast as a member of the steward's department.

Customs officers and local police readily recall von Woellwarth, who, with his return to the city with the arrival of his steamer, was prone to discuss the prospects of opening an equestrian school in Honolulu.

While a sailor, and later as a dishwasher, the "baron" traveled under the commonplace name of "Smith". He is understood to have carried a membership card in one of the coast labor organizations bearing this name.

"Smith" jumped his job amid the pots and pans of the Matson Navigation steamer Lurline on a recent visit to this city. A few days later, he managed to secure several suits of clothes, including all that goes with the habiliment of "full, dress", and then sallied forth under the more aristocratic nom de plume of Baron von Woellwarth.

He is said to have easily fooled many of Honolulu's society folk by his suave and polished manners, when they met on equal footing at a Country club dinner or dance.

Officers Watch Departing Steamers.

Deputy Sheriff Rose detailed special plain clothes men to watch departing steamers with the result that a careful search of the Persia and Honolulan was made last evening before these vessels sailed for San Francisco.

The report was given out this morning that it was possible that von Woellworth may have left the city yesterday as a passenger in the Inter-Island steamer Mauna Loa, with a hope of gaining passage in the Matson Navigation freighter Hyades for the coast.

Among the several "touches" now laid to the young "baron's" door is a small loan declared to have been negotiated in which a newly commission-

FORCES ARE BATTLING FOR FEDERAL ARSENAL

(Special Cable to the Japanese Chronicle).

TOKIO, Japan, July 22.—It is reported here that large detachments of federals and revolutionists are engaged in a battle at the city of Kiangnun, province of Ansui, each endeavoring to secure possession of the rebel arsenal located there. The arsenal, it is said, contains quantities of arms and ammunition which would greatly aid the forces securing them. Further advices are to the effect that the federal army which recently defeated the rebels at Kiu Kiang, province of Kiangsi, is marching to the north with a view to attacking Shanghai, one of the principal cities in possession of the rebels. The city of Shanghai is in a tumult, business has been suspended and the people are fleeing.

ed police officer is a victim, to the tune of $2.50. The "baron" professed to be a fellow countryman, awaiting funds from Germany.

von Woellworth is said to have stated yesterday when last seen that he expected $35,000 from his baronial estates, the sum to arrive here in the Sierra. He appeared much peeved at not receiving it in the last mail.

The Worker Must Be Well

In these days of sharp competition everyone who works should be keyed up to the highest pitch of efficiency. The rewards of business life go to the clearest thinkers, to the men and women who know and do things better than other people.

But who can do his best work when the health is impaired, when the appetite fails to demand the food necessary to sustain the body, when strength is lacking and ambition gone? Surely the part of wisdom is to begin at once to build up the body to its normal condition and this may be done more certainly by the use of

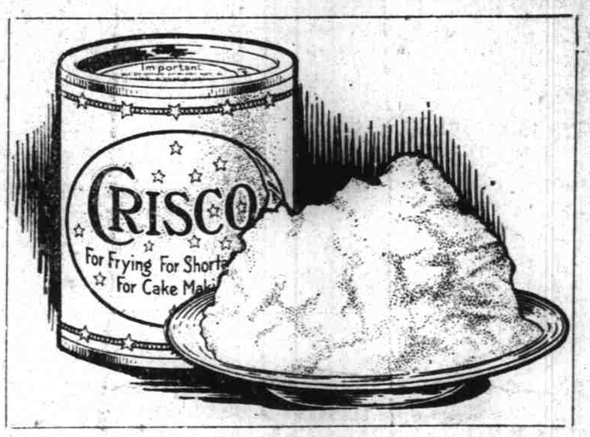
than any other medicine. It checks hacking coughs, sharpens the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood, restores flesh to the emaciated, and renews health and vigor. It is so agreeable to the taste that its regular use is a pleasure. Get it at your druggist's and be sure you get STEARNS —the genuine.



The Difference Between Crisco and "Lard-Compound"

Crisco; the NEW shortening, is a logical improvement upon a good product, "lard-compound." Instead of Crisco being cottonseed oil stiffened by a hard animal fat which is not digestible, it is the BEST and RICHEST food fat delivered from the oil.

It is of ideal consistency and remains so, without separating. Those parts of the original oil which are not rich, which turn rancid and which burn and smoke readily, are not in Crisco.

Which would you buy, cream or milk, if you could obtain them at practically the same price? Crisco is the cream.

Crisco DOES more for cooking and more for DIGESTION than any other shortening. That is why you should insist upon your cook using it. Crisco can be had of your grocer.

PONY QUESTION SERIOUS WITH OAHU POLOISTS

Team Is Shaping Up Well but Good Mounts Are Scarce. Fast Practice Game Yesterday.

The Oahu first took the polo field yesterday afternoon, and ran through the scrubs in a way that was most encouraging to those who are eagerly watching the development of the combination that is to go against Maui and the Cavalry in the inter-island tournament beginning August 16. Eleven to 2½ was the final score, after six periods of moderately fast polo. As was the case last Saturday, most of the Blue goals were due to fast breakaways and hard hitting, sometimes at difficult angles, which showed that the team has a lot of good polo under cover, and that it can cut loose when the occasion demands.

The pony question is the most serious just now, and it looks as though Trainer Hannon would be hard put to find 16 ponies with enough class to carry the Oahu team through the tournament. Domino, one of the most reliable ponies in the string, who played all through the coast campaign, sustained a stick cut yesterday which put him out of the game on three legs. The injury is not serious, but it is likely to put him out of commission for the coming tournament, when he is most needed.

Play didn't start yesterday at Moanalua until after 5 o'clock, and it was 6:30 before the whistle sounded the end of the last period. Harold Dillingham, who returned from an extended trip to the East only yesterday morning, was in the saddle for the first time this season, and showed remarkably well for a player who hasn't swung a mallet since last year.

The combination of Walter Macfarlane and S. A. Baldwin at 1 and 2 is working out in great shape, and yesterday the former did some hustling riding off, keeping Walter Dillingham off the ball time and again, while Sam Baldwin came down the field like a young whirlwind with a score at the end of most of his clear chances. Baldwin is showing great hitting form, his shots being remarkable for both distance and direction. Macfarlane also hit well, and proved by his play that he can do more good to his team at No. 1 than at back. Captain Harold Castle sported a smile that even a hard fall couldn't shake off. His pony tried to climb into Walter Dillingham's saddle, the result being a cropper for Castle and mount, but neither was hurt to any extent. Castle is making good both as a No. 3, a shift from his his usual position in the forward line, and as a captain. He is using his head well, and yesterday his coaching enabled his team to score several times by pretty combination work.

The score of yesterday's game:

Blues.

No. 1—W. Macfarlane.
No. 2—S. A. Baldwin.
No. 3—H. K. Castle.
Back—N. O. Ruof.

Total goals, 12; lost by penalties, 1; net total, 11.

Whites.

No. 1—G. Macfarlane, C. B. Lyman.
No. 2—C. Lucas, H. G. Dillingham.
No. 3—R. W. Shingle.
Back—Walter Dillingham.

Total goals, 3; lost by penalties, ½; net total, 2½.

Summary.

Goals scored—Blues: Macfarlane 2, Baldwin 5, Castle 4, Ruof 1. Whites: W. Dillingham, Shingle, Lucas.

Fouls—Against H. Dillingham, Castle 2.

Referee—L. Redington.
Timer and Scorer—A. Horner.

CASTLE-LYMAN IS OLD-TIME BATTERY COMBINATION HERE

Next Monday's ball game between Stanford and the Punahou Athletic Club has been arranged primarily to give the old-time Punahou battery, A. L. Castle and C. B. Lyman, a chance to once more perform on the points. It was in 1904 that the Castle-Lyman, who has just graduated from West Point with baseball honors as well as a commission, was a kid sophomore at Oahu College nine years ago, and Castle was a star who had won his baseball at Harvard. It will be interesting to see how this old-time combination will work against Stanford, and if Castle was in shape, the cardinal batters would probably go up against more than they expected. The Punahou captain has been on the sick list, however, and it is hardly probable that he will be in his best pitching form.

St. Louis plays Stanford at Moiliili Saturday, and Sunday the scene shifts to Athletic Park, where the collegians will go against the Portuguese.

The king of Roumania has declared war on Bulgaria. It is also reported that the Bulgarian army of 50,000 has been forced to surrender to the Greeks.

JOHNNY WILLIAMS IS BEST IN THE LEAGUE

Williams, the Honolulu wonder, is the most effective hurlsmith in the league without question. The figures prove that. In 120 innings he has allowed an average of only 1.35 runs per nine inning game. His hit average is 6.90 per game, this being surpassed by James and West of Portland.

West ranks as second in run averages with 2.11 and then James 2.14. Perritt of Los Angeles 2.24 and Parkin of Oakland 2.48. Williams has fanned 68 men, walked 36 and hit two in 120 innings, his winning percentage being eight victories and five defeats.—Sacramento Bee.

TENNIS WILL BOOM DURING NEXT MONTH

The date of the Hawaiian tennis championship tournament has been advanced to August 21, in order that play may start after the annual pilgrimage to Maui, which is scheduled for Saturday, August 16.

Entries for the singles championship will close on Monday, August 18, and play will start the following Thursday, no games being scheduled for Saturday, the 23rd, on which date Maui and Oahu meet on the polo field in the inter-island championships.

Local racquet men are looking forward to the yearly brush in doubles on the Puunene courts, at the time of the Maui Harvest Home celebration. Eight tennis teams will go up from here, and as usual the play will be "Maui style," total games to count. Last year Honolulu won out by a safe margin.

The Honolulu invaders are paired as follows for the tournament:

Roth and Izard, Castle and Lowrey, Nowell and Anderson, Cunha and Warren, Hoogs and Hoogs, Bockus and Brown, Judd and Dowsett and one other pair yet to be named.

Most of the players will go to Maui on the Claudine, sailing Friday night, August 15, and will return on the Honolulan late Saturday night. As usual, a large amount of competitive sport will be crowded into a single day. The tennis matches will be in the morning, on the turf courts at Puunene, and after a light luncheon the annual Honolulu-Maui relay swim will be held in the tank. In the afternoon the Punahou Athletic Club is to play a game against an All-Maui team, at Wailuku, and in the evening there will be the usual dance.

The Maui polo men are planning to return with the locals on the Honolulan. It is also likely that there will be several Maui entries in the tennis championships here.

Tinker Declares he Has a Real Pitching Find in Indian Johnson

CINCINNATI. — Joe Tinker, the manager of the Cincinnati Reds, thinks that he has a real Indian ball player in his new pitcher, Chief Johnson. "It looks to me," says Joe, "as if Johnson was a better Indian than Thorpe from a baseball standpoint. From what the big right hander has shown to date I'd be willing to stake a lot on his chances of sticking in the big ring. The chief has lots of smoke, a good curve ball and control—in fact, he has everything that a big league hurler needs. Yes, we got Johnson from St. Joseph after the Chicago White Sox had turned him back. Callahan took Johnson along on the training trip, and the big fellow looked good from the start if we are to believe the stories the war correspondents sent out. There were more reasons than one why Callahan shipped the redskin back to St. Joseph. In the first place, Johnson is the same style of pitcher as Walsh, Lange and Scott, and with this sure thing trio on hand there was no room for Johnson. Sounds funny, doesn't it, when they turn a man back because he's too much like Ed Walsh? But that was what happened in Johnson's case."

INFIELD FLY RULE NEEDED

The infield-fly rule applies only when first and second bases are both occupied, because it is only in that case that a cinch double play can be made. With both bases occupied, and less than two men out, a smart fielding team, but for the infield-fly rule, could work a double play with the greatest ease by simply trapping or mufing the fly, thus forcing both runners to advance. A quick play would often force both of them, thus putting out two men when really one should have been retired on the play.

This condition was responsible for the adoption of the infield fly rule, on which the batter is declared out as soon as he lifts a fly ball to an infielder, whether it is caught or not.

The rule relieves the force on the other runners in case the ball is dropped or muffed, and so prevents a double play of a cinch nature. This rule does not apply when only first base is occupied, for in that case no double play is possible if the batter does his duty and runs out his hit. He can always get to first base in time to avoid a double play if he hustles down the line. It is possible, of course, to force the runner on first in case the ball is trapped or muffed, but no double play can result.

When Harry Pauliam was president of the National league some years ago he went beyond the rules and issued private instructions to his umpires to prevent the trapping of a fly ball with a runner on first by calling the batter out, the same as if both first and second bases were occupied. These instructions were really illegal and they are no longer in force.

President Lynch has notified his umpires to allow the trapping or intentional muffing of a fly ball by the infield side, which is strictly according to the rules. If the fielders can get a fast runner off the bases by such a bit of smartness they are entitled to do so.

DONOVAN AND REILLY NEXT?

There are a good many ring fans in Honolulu who believe that Charley Reilly's poor showing against Carlin at Schofield Barracks the other night was due to the fact that he didn't have sufficient time to condition himself for the mill, and these same fans are calling for a match between Reilly and Donovan, the soldier scrapper of Fort Shafter. It looks now as though this match would materialize, and that it would be held in this city into the bargain.

It has been some time since a scrap has been pulled off in Honolulu, and in all probability a card with any sort of class to it would draw well, especially if held at one of the big show houses.

There is no doubt but that Reilly was short of work when he went up against Carlin the other night. He didn't make any too favorable an impression inside the ropes, and certainly his lack of condition had something to do with this. Donovan is the sort of rough house fighter who would make Reilly work from the first tap of the gong, and the claim of the latter's friends after the affair last Thursday, that it takes two to make a fight, and that Carlin wouldn't open things up, wouldn't hold good in a Reilly-Donovan affair. There's a good chance of the boys being signed within a day or so.

FITZ TELLS WHY THE OLD-TIME FIGHTERS RANKED PRESENT CROP

By ROBERT FITZSIMMONS

Men are just the same today that they were ten or fifteen years ago. The reason why we don't have boxers of the same class is that the sport has changed.

It used to be all twenty or forty-five rounds or to a finish. Men fighting to a finish have to know how to fight. You don't have to know so much about it boxing ten rounds without a decision.

Look over that fight of mine against Corbett at Carson City in 1897. If that had been a ten-round fight, no decision, I'd have been forced to rush in and take a chance of winning with a punch. I wouldn't have had to show any skill. As it was, I calculated just how long Corbett could stand a certain pace and wore him down until I got him. The result was as sure as science could make it. I knew how I could fight and how he could fight, and just what advantage in skill and strength I had, and used it. I never figured for a moment that he had any chance to beat me. But I didn't go in blind, slamming around for general results. Corbett had his calculation. He thought he could wear me down with jabs, bleed me and weaken me, and then get me. His calculation was wrong and mine was right, as the result proved.

That fight only took fourteen rounds, but if it had gone forty I'd have followed the line I set out on, gradually wearing him down and then planting the solar plexus punch when I had forced or tricked him into giving me a sure opening.

Now, suppose that had been a six or a ten-round bout. Corbett would have had just one idea in his mind — to stand off and jab me and make a showing and stick the ten without letting me slip one over. I'd been working to get him in a hurry, and where would the science have been?

This no-decision thing allows boxers to stall. In my championship days I never thought of such a thing as stalling, except just once. That time I stalled because I had sent my wife a wire that I was going to win in the fifth round, and the other fellow was easier than I expected, so I had to stall through a couple of rounds to keep from knocking him out too soon.

When you have a decision to win at the end of a fight there isn't the same temptation to stall. The way it is, two-thirds of the boxers are satisfied to slide through ten rounds and get the money without extending themselves or taking a chance. If the route was twenty rounds they couldn't afford to do that, because the chance of losing would be greater. If they were forced to fight every time they got into a ring they'd develop great fighters just the way they used to.

You can't make champion golf players by reading the rules to people, or champion Marathon runners by putting them through the sprints.

The reason that nearly all of the good fighters are developed in the west is that they fight long fights out there. Big or little, the man who is used to the 20-round game has an advantage over the New York boxer who only knows how to fight ten rounds. No champion will ever be made in ten-round bouts.

CHINESE ARE ON THE HIGH SPEED NOW

After having played some very successful ball in and around New York, the All-Chinese baseball team is taking another swing around the Pennsylvania wheel. And incidentally the aggregration is making more of a sensation with every game. As a publicity proposition, the Chinese team is a sure winner, and through it Hawaii has had much desirable advertising.

A Reading, Pa., paper of recent date gives the following boost to the Orientals:

The Chinese University baseball team from the Hawaiian Islands stacked up against the crack Boyertown team at Lauer's Park yesterday afternoon and gave the more than 1500 fans present one of the finest exhibitions of the game ever seen in Reading. The Chinks ran bases a la Ty Cobb, fielded like Eddie Collins and the rest of Connie Mack's billion-dollar infield, while they played the finer points of the game as if they were being directed by the only man who ever gave Philadelphia a winning team—the one and only Connie himself.

The work of the yellow men was a big surprise to the fans. The Boyertown boys, one of the strongest semi-professional aggregations in the state, could do little with the Mongolians after the first inning, when the Berks team got three counts over the rubber. After that Foster, the Chinaman with the American name, was airtight and allowed but five men to reach first base in the final eight innings. Sensational fielding and throwing helped the foreign pitcher some.

The Berks county team used three pitchers in a attempt to stop their opponents from piling up runs, but to no avail. Lintz and Frees proved easy, Rhoads alone having the Chinamen guessing and shutting them out in the three innings he pitched. Then, again, the men from the far-off island possessions of our own Uncle Sam got around the bases so fast that when a throw was made to get a runner at second the chap was already on third. Boyertown's infield was slightly wobbly at times, but all pulled off some star plays, enough to show the class that has enabled the boys to win 18 out of 20 games this season.

The game was greatly enjoyed by the fans, who were impartial in doling out applause.

SOLDIER BATTERS ARE HITTING BALL HARDER IN POST LEAGUE; HOLLINGSWORTH AGAIN IN FRONT

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, July 22. All teams in the league at Schofield Barracks have improved their batting averages except the First Field Artillery, which is having considerable of a slump. The Twenty-fifth is about holding its own, while the Cavalry and First Infantry have made decided gains.

The First Infantry has fattened its averages by the remarkable record of 30 hits in the last three games, which, for the trailers in the league, is going some. The leaders have annexed 35 hits, the Cavalry 25, and the Field Artillery but 17, in the same number of games.

The individual honors of the twelve games still go to Hollingsworth of the Twenty-fifth, who leads with .385, but the big slugger has only made one lone hit in three games, while Curran of the Artillery, who formerly held second place, hasn't made a single even.

Grey of the Field Artillery is second for those who have played every game, with .342, with Neat of the Artillery not far behind. With the First Infantry batters hitting well, it would not surprise the fans here if they passed both the teams of the mounted troops before the series ends.

Following are the batting averages of the Schofield Barracks League:

FOURTH IS WELL LIKED BY PUGS

It has only been in late years that boxing promoters picked out the Fourth of July as a good date for championship battles. The contest between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson at Reno, Nevada, on July 4, 1910, was the biggest event of the kind ever held in the country on Independence Day. Johnson won on a knockout in the 15th round. This was the first fight Jeff ever fought on the Fourth of July. Johnson and Jim Flynn did the honors in 1912, when they met at Las Vegas. Johnson won in the ninth round, when the police stopped the battle.

Ad. Wolgast has always been a lucky fighter on the Fourth of July. Two of his most notable victories were earned on that day. He beat Owen Moran at San Francisco in 13 rounds, and also won over Joe Rivers in 13 rounds at Vernon. The Moran fight took place in 1911 and the Rivers fight in 1912.

Many of the great fighters never took part in a Fourth of July fight. Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons and others were not given an opportunity to do any fighting on the day we celebrate.

Battling Nelson had good luck in the ring when he chose the Fourth for his day to get busy. It was on the Fourth of July, 1908, that he won over Joe Gans in 17 rounds at San Francisco.

A contest that was advertised as the Fourth of July heavyweight championship battle between Marvin Hart and Jack Root at Reno, Nev., really took place on July 3. Jim Jeffries was refferee, and Hart won. It was stated that Jeff, who had announced his retirement, gave the title over to Hart, who beat Root in a knock-out in the 12th round. This was in 1905, the same year in which Hart won a 20-round decision over Jack Johnson at San Francisco. Coulon, McFarland and Kilbane have never taken part in a Fourth of July championship battle.

OVER-NIGHT FEDERAL WIRELESS To the Advertiser

Headed by the famous old battleship Oregon, now in reserve at Mare Island, the entire Atlantic fleet of great dreadnoughts will pass through the Panama canal as soon as it is completed. This is the gist of the statement made by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels at San Diego today.

Furthermore, the battleship fleet will, after the completion of the canal, spend as much time in the Pacific as the Atlantic, according to the secretary, who said:

"When the canal is opened the battleship Oregon which raced around the Horn to take part in the battle of Santiago, will, as is fitting, be the first vessel to pass through the canal. The Oregon will not travel alone, for the gallant old warship will be followed by the entire Atlantic fleet of dreadnoughts. The battleship fleet henceforth will remain a portion of the time in the Pacific and a portion of the time in the Atlantic, one as much as the other."

After three years or work, Lieut. Harold Chase Woodward of the Twenty-second Company of National Guards of New York has discovered, it is reported, the safest high-power explosive the world has ever known. It is said to be an explosive equal to the strongest dynamite made. Trotol is the name given the new explosive.

Although half a dozen nations would pay at least $500,000 for the discovery, Lieutenant Woodward will give it to the United States. It is predicted that within a year the United States will be using no other explosive and that gun cotton, the standard for ten years, will be given second place.

Hope of an entire settlement of all difficulties over wages and hours between Eastern railroads and their employes was expressed today by the members of the government mediation board at New York.

A conference between representatives of the trainmen and the board has been scheduled at which a basis for arbitration is expected to be reached. The mediators are seriously considering the stand taken by officials of the Erie railroad and will try to persuade the road to reenter the conference. Failing in this the Erie officials will be asked to submit their grievances to a separate arbitration board.

A new form of protest against imprisonment was today added to her already long list by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette. In addition to a hunger strike, which she already has inaugurated, Mrs. Pankhurst actually refused to walk. The six women taken in custody with Mrs. Pankhurst today were convicted of disturbing the peace. Imprisonment of from two to three weeks was imposed in each case.

Flat denial of published reports that Ty Cobb, the sensational fielder of the Detroit club, is going to Boston in exchange for Tris Speaker and a cash consideration was voiced today by Frank Navin, owner of the Tigers.

"No club in any league," said Navin, "would give in either cash or players what Cobb is worth to Detroit. There is no possibility of Cobb going to Boston."

It is officially denied that Sergeant Ee. A. Wallace of the Coast Artillery has died as a result of the wounds he received in the anti-I. W. W. rioting at Seattle last week. Wallace's condition is critical, it is said, but he is not dead as reported. Special officers are patrolling the city in fear of trouble, as feeling is running high.

A soldier named Lamale was killed today at Mourmelon when a biplane whereon he was a passenger turned turtle. Lieutenant Gabriel, who was guiding the machine, was unhurt when it fell.

The Porte officially announced tonight in Constantinople that Enver Bey's army had entered and recaptured the holy city of Adrianople in the name of the Turkish empire.

LANTERN SLIDES STOLEN FROM HILO HALL

That the path of the lecturer is not strewn with roses and other products of the flower garden is the opinion of Prof. M. B. Bairos, a teacher in the McKinley High School, who is at present touring the island of Hawaii delivering stereopticon lectures on tuberculosis under the direction of the board of health.

Mr. Bairos lectured in the Armory Hall at Hilo during last week, and after the crowd which attended the first of the series had departed, and the building had been locked, a Hawaiian boy entered the structure by the way of a rear window, and removed therefrom the box of lantern slides used to set off Mr. Bairos' lectures. Upon entering the hall the next morning to make preparations for the evening exhibit, the lecturer found that his slides had disappeared, whereupon he immediately notified the sheriff's office. A sleuth was put upon the trail, which led to the home of a Hawaiian boy who is said to be feeble-minded, and after a cross-examination by the Hilo Sherlock which would have made a certain former district attorney gnash his molars in envy, the lad finally confessed that he had entered the building and stolen the slides.

When questioned further the boy named several places where he claimed to have hidden the features of the tuberculosis lectures, and they were finally located quietly reposing in a coffin under the Hilo Furniture store. The Hilo police say that the Hawaiian boy has been found guilty of a number of petty offenses, and that he will be brought to Honolulu and placed in the reform school. Professor Bairos, however, had to postpone his lecture that evening.

HARBOR BOARD IS OVERCOME BY LETTER

A letter from the secretary of the Japanese Young Men's Christian Association received by the harbor commissioners at their meeting yesterday afternoon worked like magic to settle the question of whether the association is to be given space at the Alakea wharf for a free information bureau, to be run in benefit of their countrymen arriving here strangers and without means. The commission agreed that the space should be given them. The letter which brought the board to this conclusion, and which has been copied by two of them for their scrapbook, reads as follows:

"Dear Sir: I beg to tell you that we are still waiting to hear from you a happy information about the resurrection of our free information bureau at Alakea wharf which was closed two months ago. I beg to draw your kindest attention that this is one of our most attractive work which our association was doing in order to be understood what Y. M. C. A. is."

On hearing the letter read the board decided to take up the matter at once. The chairman will meet the secretary of the association this week and discuss with him the amount of space necessary, and present the results of the conference before the board at its next meeting.

A greater part of the meeting was consumed in authorizing the payment of bills and the passing of routine business collected in the last fortnight. However, the board did not find time to discuss the new Matson wharf, on Queen street, which they now believe will be completed the first part of August, and also they talked over the $140,000 set aside for the Hilo wharf shed.

It is believed that the Matson wharf will be finished in time to dock the steamship Wilhelmina when it arrives here from its next voyage, August 5. The work is progressing rapidly. Much of the roofing has been laid, and the woodwork on the Queen street side is finished.

REPORT READY ON TIME, SAYS GOVERNOR

Governor Frear is not losing time in preparing his report covering the past year. Though he has not received his reports from all the department heads as yet, he is advancing as far as possible with his report and expects to have it completed on time.

He has stated that his work is being held back to some degree by not having received all the department reports, but that they are coming in rapidly now, and probably by the end of the week they will all be submitted to him.

"I am going ahead with my report as far as possible," he stated. "I plan, in many points, to make use of the department reports and so until they are all it in it will be impossible for me to complete my work."

All of the departments have either submitted their reports or will do so this afternoon or tomorrow morning, they say. In many instances the document to be handed in will be voluminous and have required no little effort to complete. Particularly is this true with the board of public works, the report from which department will be finished today. The attorney general's report is finished and Land Commissioner Tucker yesterday afternoon submitted his lengthy statement to Governor Frear.
