Moralist Campaign On Iwilei FAIRBANKS FOR TARIFF REVISION

Morbid Imagination, Is Pinkham's Answer To Civ. Fed. Charges

While the Ministerial Union, the Civic Federation and others have for some time past been working tooth and nail to get Iwilei closed before the arrival of the fleet, this work has been done absolutely under cover. This afternoon, however, the light of publicity will probably shine on the matter, as the Board of Health is to take its up, and at least some of the members of that body will be opposed to any single-chamber proceedings.

Third, the method of procedure is suggested that the property owners, lessees, etc., interested in that property be notified coincidental with the rabid move.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE IN COURT

Ferreira Cannot Explain
Apparent Change
In Note

A charge of fraudulent alteration of a note was made in the District Court this afternoon and was sustained by Judge Long, who presided in the absence of Judge Andrade, who is ill. Attorney Correa made the charge in the suit of J. F. Souza vs. Faustino Correa, assumpsit for the sum of $83.35.

What Will The Issue Be?

Political interest is being stirred up in all parties and factions by the close approach of conventions and later primaries, but with few exceptions there has been comparatively little discussion of the issues that will come to the front in the local campaign this fall.

WHERE SAILORS DISAPPEARED

Thirty Stowed Away On Big Transport
Sherman

Statistics have been compiled by waterfront authorities which show what has become of the great number of sailors who were "on the beach" here for some time. They show that there were at one time over fifty men here who follow the sea as a vocation who were without work.

Fairbanks' Platform For Tariff Revision

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 1.—The State Republican Convention in session here today endorsed Vice President Fairbanks for the Republican nomination for President.

Anarchy In Hayti

PARIS, France, April 1.—It is reported here that complete anarchy prevails in the Island of Hayti.

Is Mayer Hilo Bid Illegal?

HILO, Hawaii, April 1. — Hilo hopes the Hoogs breakwater contract will be accepted, as it means labor near the town and business for the stores instead of camp stores established thirty miles away.

BACTERIOLOGICAL SESSION OF COURT

Science Of Germ Study
Figures In Habeas
Corpus Case

A man who knew nothing about what was going on, stepping into Judge Lindsay's court this morning, might have thought that he had stumbled onto a class in bacteriology. The air was full of polysyllables and technical terms and the room was full of doctors.

Dredger At Pearl Harbor

The United States Government has chartered the dredger owned by Cotton Bros. and it was towed to Pearl Harbor, where it is to be used by the James Makee.

WATERFRONT NOTES

THE OCEANIC Steamship Company's liner Alameda sailed away this morning for the Coast, carrying a large number of tourists who have been here for a considerable time.

Frank Behorn of Fresno, California, returned to his home. He said that he was delighted with the islands, and especially the Volcano trip, and that Hawaii could always count on him as a sincere booster.

Dr. E. P. Phillips, the best expert, returned to the States after a visit around the islands. He came down on a United States transport, R. C. Dillingham left for the Coast on the Alameda.

Lieutenant Nevins, who has been in command of the marines recently returned from Midway Island, was a passenger for the Coast. E. L. Farnsworth was called back to the States sooner than he had planned on account of the death of his father.

His wife and daughter are still here. Mr. Farnsworth is an enthusiastic booster for Hawaii. His home is near Spokane, Washington, where he has large banking and wheat interests.

When the Alameda comes back on her next voyage, the smiling face of Chief Engineer Jim Richards will be missed from among the officers of the popular ship.

"Jim" has been on the Alameda for a long time, and before he came on this ship he had long experience at sea. He is well liked and is an excellent engineer.

He will take the position of chief engineer on the Monadnock building in San Francisco.

THE AMERICAN BARKENTINE Coronado arrived here from the Coast this morning. There was a curious coincidence connected with her departure from the Coast and her arrival here.

She sailed just a few hours after the Alameda on her last trip down, and she arrived here this morning a couple of hours before the Alameda sailed.

The sailors on the Coronado say that this is a good luck sign. The Coronado averaged 209 miles per day on her trip from the Golden Gate city.

She brought down a general cargo, and is docked at the foot of Fort street, where a part of her cargo will be discharged.

THE AMERICAN-HAWAIIAN company's steamship Novadan will sail for San Francisco tomorrow night at 5 o'clock.

C. P. Morse, the local agent for the company, received advices from the other islands which enable him to state positively that the crack big boats will sail for certain at this time.

The passenger trade on these boats is rapidly picking up, for they are big, roomy, and comfortable ships, on which every attention is paid to the wants of the passengers.

The Columbian, of the same line, is now loading sugar at the American-Hawaiian dock here. She will sail shortly.

PURSER STONE of the Likelike reports finding very rough weather on the other islands. At Kukaia there was a strong east wind blowing and a choppy sea.

It was rough to work there. The Likelike passed the Mauna Kea at 8 p. m. on the 30th. The Likelike brought in 5000 bags of sugar and 7 packages of sundries.

A FEW OF THE SAILORS who were reported to be in against it, have been earning good money for the last few days working at the burning coal piles.

THE MARAMA SAILED last night at 9 o'clock for British Columbia. There was about the largest passenger list on her that has been through here for some time, though only a few of them were booked for Honolulu.

Surely a little promotion work would have done some good among such a crowd of "hunters" or "trippers," as they are called by the English.

THE IRMGARD is discharging her cargo at the Waikiki side of the Honolulu wharf. She will be ready to sail for the Coast again in about two weeks time.

She brought no passengers on her trip down, but she will carry some probably on her return trip.

THREE OR FOUR sailors managed to sneak aboard the Alameda this morning and stowaway. The number of men "on the beach" is steadily decreasing, though there are few sign on the ships in port.

The Edward sawall and the Atlas are up against it for seamen.

Per stmr. Iwailani, for Molokai and Maui ports, March 31.—Miss J. Hartwell, R. Hind, G. P. Cooke and family.

Per C. A. S. S. Marama, for Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 28.—Senator Frye's bill establishing a University of the United States made its thirteenth appearance in the Senate today.

Senator Frye introduced this bill, creating a university in Washington, in the first session of his first term in the Senate, in 1881, after having introduced it in the House during the six terms which he served previous to election to the Senate.

Senator Frye comes from Maine, where "stick-to-itiveness" is regarded as one of the chief essentials of a strong character.

He has never failed to introduce this bill at the beginning of every new Congress, and has not been discouraged over the failure to have it advanced beyond a second reading and reference to the same old committee.

ACTOR HITCHCOCK'S ACCUSED LIED

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK
Waiting Examination of Jurors

New York, March 16.—The case against Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, collapsed like a skyscraper today in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. Seventeen-year-old Flora Whitson, the corroborating witness in the action, confessed while on the stand that the comedian had never wronged her or anybody else, so far as she knew; that the statements to that effect which she had made to the Grand Jury and at various times and places before and after were absolutely false.

The upset of the sensational turn in the already sensational case when Hitchcock was ordered declared not guilty without the jurors leaving the box, and the pale-faced Whitson child was arrested, charged with perjury.

In ordering the acquittal of the actor, Justice Blanchard demanded an immediate and most searching investigation. This investigation is to be made by the Grand Jury and the district attorney's office tomorrow morning.

Assistant District Attorney Garvan announced tonight that this investigation would by no means be confined to affirming the story of the girl that Agent Pessarria of the Children's Society had threatened her with incarceration in an institution, and thus separation from her mother if she did not tell of Hitchcock's alleged wrongdoings, but a searching inquiry will be made to ascertain just who got the girl to change her original story. Mr. Garvan let it be known that an effort will be made to trace the action of certain persons interested in the Hitchcock defense.

It was to Attorney Carl Elischer Hansen, associate counsel with John H. Stanchfield, that the story of the girl's untruthful statements and affidavits were first told, according to the testimony adduced in court today. John B. Graff, the girl's stepfather, it was brought out, first went to Mr. Hansen with the information that the girl had told a trumped-up story against the actor. Lawyer Hansen brought this out during the hearing in court today when the stepfather was called to the stand subsequent to the amazing denials of the girl.

The Whitson girl was immediately taken to the Tombs court for arraignment, where Magistrate Butts held her in $5000 bail.

It was stated that two more arrests would be made tomorrow.

There are five more indictments pending against Hitchcock, and we are going to try him on them, too, depend on that," said Mr. Garvan. "I had to drop the case today because of the law which requires corroboration on such a charge, but we are not through. I will at once take steps to have Flora Whitson arrested for perjury. I will also make a thorough investigation of the charges affecting Agent Pessarria. This matter is not going to be allowed to drop."

WHAT WILL THE ISSUE BE?

tion now under the present liquor law, but I believe some people want more of it."

Albert F. Judd—"I think the most momentous question before us locally is to test the municipal law and learn whether it is legal and will hold water. I don't know how the community feels. I don't belong to these outside societies. I am a 'machine man'—just an ordinary citizen. I ran across a law for the Territories passed by Congress in 1886 that says Territorial Legislatures cannot do the things that were done by the last Legislature in passing the municipal law for Honolulu. The Organic Act or a later law may have put that '86 law out of action. I don't know. I think we should know what the law is worth before we go to work and elect officers under it. Taxation will hardly be an issue unless the people take more interest in it than they are now doing in the work of the Taxation Commission. I am inclined to think that either Roosevelt or Taft will be the candidate for President on the Republican ticket, and I don't favor sending either Governor Frear or Delegate Kuhlö to Chicago. I think the delegates should be men without any strings on them. Take Alec. Robertson and someone else. But I'm not in politics and don't pretend to be. I prefer to keep in the background and just work."

Richard Ivers—"Hawaii doesn't have anything to say on its leading issues. The land question is the most important one before us at the present time and that is in the hands of Federal authorities."

Ex-Governor John D. Baker—"I don't belong to any political party; but I vote for good men at the polls. Party affiliation is not good. It teaches a man to swallow things that he dislikes."

Judge Mahaulu of Wai'alua—"Nothing doing at Wai'alua at present; but when the people do move, some surprising things will spring up."

Wm. Moanan—"More Home Rulers are joining the Democratic party, but they play foxy. That's what the matter."

W. C. Achi—"Wait for election and you'll see for yourself what the Labor party can do."

Supervisor Kauloha—"The Home Rule party is O. K. Wallach will be an attraction."

BACTERIOLOGICAL

"How long is the bacillus of leprosy?" he asked the Doctor.

"Well, as nearly as I can remember, it is from five to eight micromillimeters, or microns as they are generally called, in length."

"How much is that in inches?" Ashford wanted to know.

The Doctor really couldn't answer. He had never figured it that way and he would have to take a pencil and paper to work it out. Scientists never thought of using measurements in inches, anyway. The unit of measurement for very small objects the world over was the micron.

But Ashford insisted. He must know just what fraction of an inch a micromillimeter was. The Doctor explained that a micron is the thousandth part of a millimeter, and a millimeter is the thousandth part of a meter. A meter, he said, was very nearly a yard.

But Ashford still insisted that he must have the exact figures, though it appeared to be in no way pertinent to the matter at issue. At this juncture Deputy Attorney General Whitney, who had been busy with a pencil and a pad of paper, came to the rescue, explaining that he had figured it out. A micron, he said, is the 25-millionth part of an inch.

Among the witnesses summoned to appear this morning were Doctors Wood, Macdonald, Sinclair and Pratt, John and Mary Atcherley, President Pinkham and Secretary Charlock of the Board of Health, and others. The Territory was represented by Attorney General Homenway and Deputy Attorney General Whitney. C. W. Ashford appeared for the petitioners. Although the questions of law in both cases are very similar, the evidence is different, so the cases are to be heard one at a time. That of Mele Kamaokapa was taken up first and will probably last all of today and perhaps tomorrow.

It was agreed that the testimony should be taken first and all questions of law involved argued later, the attorneys to have the right to move to strike evidence not in accordance with the ruling to be given on points of law.

Two witnesses were examined this morning, Doctors Macdonald and Wood. Dr. Macdonald, who testified to having examined the woman and found her a leper, was vigorously cross-examined by Ashford, who made the most searching and exhaustive inquiry into the details of everything connected with the bacteriological examination for the bacillus of leprosy. Dr. Macdonald, like so many other witnesses, had difficulty in understanding that there is a wide difference between common sense and law, and as a consequence was considerable-ly badgered by Ashford's questions. Ashford refused to allow the witness to say that water had been boiled unless he actually saw it boiled or that a bottle could be clean unless the doctor himself had cleaned it. He tried to pin the witness down to the statement that he could never be sure whether a patient had leprosy tuberculosis, but the doctor refused to make any such admission, and declared that he knew absolutely that the woman in question was a victim of the disease. Ashford insisted on having each separate step in the process of a bacteriological examination explained, including the taking of a piece of skin from the suspect, its maceration, staining and microscopical study, and then wanted to go into the internal anatomy of the bacillus leprosy. If the doctor followed his morning are continued, the case promises to last for days.

Macdonald stated that it is sometimes impossible to distinguish the bacillus of leprosy from that of tuberculosis. He said that the bacteriological examination of a suspect is generally taken as confirmatory of other steps in the diagnosis, and that everything had to be considered,—the general state of the health, the appearance of the face and body, etc.

HAWAII'S JANUARY TRADE.

The domestic merchandise Hawaii shipped from mainland markets was valued at $1,615,961, for the month of January, 1907. For the month of January, 1908, it was $1,996,556.

The immediate suggestion of these figures is that this represents the falling in trade following the financial panic of October and its consequent business depression.

The statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor from which these figures are taken also show, however, that during the seven months ending in January, 1908, Hawaii purchased $8,712,524, worth of goods in mainland markets as against $8,988,998, for the same period of 1907. It will be necessary to await the figures of later months to determine the full effect of the mainland business depression on these islands.

It might be thought and the adverse influence temporary, on account of the excellent prospects for our island crops.

Hawaii's purchases of cotton goods showed the largest reduction, dropping from $186,458, in January, 1907, to $94,100, in the same month of 1908, almost exactly one-half. Purchases of breadstuffs also fell off nearly $70,000. Iron and steel and their manufactures dropped nearly $100,000. Meats and dairy products were reduced from $87,479, in January, 1907, to $42,213, in 1908.

The notable feature for the month of January last was that no eggs were shipped from the mainland. In the same month last year the record shows 3,800 dozen, valued at $1,442. This must mean that Hawaii is supplying its own market with eggs, a fact that should give great satisfaction to the poultry enthusiasts.

Next to the mainland, interest centers our trade with Japan. This is increasing. Hawaii shipped Japan, in the month of 1907, goods to the value of $229,914. During the same month of 1908, the value of goods shipped to Japan was $229,914. During the same month of 1908, the value of goods shipped to Japan was $229,914.

Our total shipments from foreign countries amounted to $2,669,519.

WHAT ARE THE LOCAL ISSUES?

What does it profit that the Ancient Order of Patheons should raise their war-cry of "Fudge" and discuss the Saturday-primary false alarms?

Is this what the people of this Territory are interested in?

They have very little appreciation of the duties of citizenship, no important matters to consider than the one that is the Dave Withington's scheme from or whether the Fudge-doodles are real or not.

Should our people be inclined to politics, they can find no more profitable field of thought to cultivate than contemplation of the issues that are likely to be brought before the voters at the coming campaign—issues outside the problem of who gets the job that another now has.

The man who says there are no issues may not be asleep but he is too lazy to think and not anxious to work.

All too many who may have an idea that will benefit the general public, wait until the last call, and they are too late. Then they forget that they have been indifferent and accuse the workers with having "bred" everything.

Some campaign issues make themselves; they grow, like Topsy.

defendant, objected to its admission in evidence on the ground that it showed on its face that it had been altered. He pointed out that the note had been dated March 18, 1908, and that the figure one in the date had been altered to a two, thus making the date March 25. This had apparently been done to bring the note within the statute of limitations, as the suit was brought on March 27, or a day before the six-year limit expired by law would have expired had the note actually been dated March 25.

"There is no question but that that note has been altered," said Correa, exhibiting the paper to the Court. "It was done to bring it within the statute of limitations. I do not know who did it, and I do not care. It shows on its face that it is a fraud, and it is illegal and void."

Atty. Ferreira contested that the note had not been altered, but the note itself amply testified against him.

"It seems to the Court that this alteration must be explained," said Long, "before the note can be placed in evidence. The law is plain on the subject. It seems to the Court, from its own observation, that the figures have been changed, and unless an explanation is made the Court will refuse to receive it."

But Ferreira could not explain. He tried to go on with the case by questioning the plaintiff, but was stopped dead by Correa, who objected on the grounds that the suit had been based on the note, and the note was not in evidence. The Court sustained this objection, and Ferreira threw up the sponge, the Court entering a judgment for the defendant and assessing the costs to the plaintiff.

Roosevelt, His Way

CONGRESS SUBMITS TO HIS PLANS FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Washington, March 21.—President Roosevelt is to have his own way with Congress. The laws which labor leaders have been demanding...

In addition, the stand-patters in the party will be shocked to learn that the President has forced the high tariff leaders to consent to the passage of either the La Follette or the Beveridge bills creating a tariff revision commission.

These questions were settled today after a long conference between the President and Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, the "big boss" of the Senate, and Representatives Hayne and Dalzell, the sub-bosses of the House.

Programme Outlined. It is understood that the tentative programme outlined and agreed to today provides for the following legislation before adjournment:

Passage of the Aldrich emergency currency bill.

An employers' liability law, prepared with care to stand the test of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law and the interstate commerce law demanded by labor in its memorial to Congress.

A bill providing for the appointment of a tariff revision commission to make a preparatory report to Congress for revising the tariff.

By this programme it will be seen that the President yields on only one point, and carries four of his own.

Yields Only One Point. He takes the stand that the Senator from Rhode Island has withdrawn the railroad bond feature of his bill, it having been deprived of its most objectionable feature, and will do no particular harm if passed.

The greatest surprise in the programme is the consent to the creation of a commission to revise the tariff.

Senator Beveridge made himself quite unpopular by introducing a bill of this kind in the Senate early in the session and making a speech on it.

Senator La Follette added to his unpopularity yesterday in introducing a similar bill and announcing that he intended to make an extended speech upon the question.

PUBLIC BUILDING BILL

Washington, D. C., March 19.—There is considerable discussion regarding the prospects for the public buildings bill. The latest gossip is that it may be made up to carry about $15,000,000, in which case, if the fate of other appropriation bills is any criterion, it will be cut down to $6,000,000 or $7,000,000.

Already there is speculation as to how the smaller sum will be apportioned, and there is fear that the men whose influence may be greatest will get all the money for their districts.

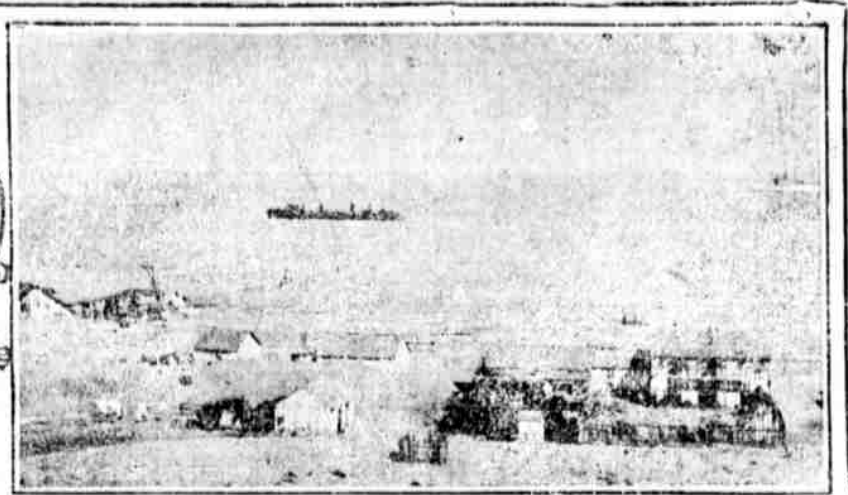

In case the apportionment is not considered equitable, there are enough ricklers to make it tolerably certain that the bill will be defeated.

For San Francisco no more money will be allowed this year, but the appropriation for the Sub-Treasury will probably be changed to allow the money so far appropriated to be used for the site.

THE U.S.S. ST. LOUIS, CHARLESTON, MILWAUKEE, AND ALBANY—THE ADVANCE GUARD OF THE ATLANTIC FLEET ANCHOR IN MAGDALENA BAY

By RICHARD BARRY U. S. S. KANSAS, MAGDALENA BAY, Lower California, March 12. It is done. We have slipped anchors in a California bottom and the California bath is on our brows.

But three months ago—or was it yesterday?—we felt the snows off Hatteras and watched the Mayflower, with its President, grow dim on the Virginia shore.

Then into the soft-smooth Caribbean and the warm blow of the south; then the fuscious tropics, where Neptune, pausing on the Equator, halted us till he properly made every hand-lubber one of his trusty shellbacks; then the south temperate with its sweet-sleek breath from the savannas, and again the snow, this time from the glacier peaks of Magellan, and then the Pacific, sunny, serene and cool, up which we crept for six weeks, straight from the tip of the Andes to the top; then cut the neck from the tossing Gulf of Tehuantepec, rounded the gray lee of San Lucas and swiftly dug our sea-battered noses into the Bay of Magdalena!

And here we are—the continent circumnavigated; three zones and five climates survived, the roll of South American republics complete on our visiting list, not a propeller out of place, not a gun trunnion rusted, not a boiler condemned, sixteen battleships of the first class quite ready and willing to start out this sunny and cool forenoon, for we have a week's coal in our bunkers, a month's provisions in our hold and enough ammunition in our magazines to put any respectable navy out of business in an hour—we are ready to start out, I say, without notice, and prove it.

Which we are going to do; this minute I can hear the ammunition hoists bringing up the first round of 8-inch for the preliminary run on the target range.

Railroad Trains Outside. And on time; to be exact, two days ahead of time. When they made up that schedule in Washington, some one was kind enough to forget that February in 1908 has twenty-nine days, so we were as well off as if we were sailing west across the international date line.

We just a day from Trinidad to Rio, but we made it up from Rio to Punta Arenas, and then we picked up another day from Callao here. Hence we are two days in front of the timetable.

Can you mention a transcontinental train, after thirty years on the run, that can do that, or, to be more fair, an ocean liner with that pleasant habit?

Thirteen thousand miles in three months, sixteen battleships constantly in tactical formation, no one ever more than eight hundred yards from its nearest neighbor, and most of the time but four hundred yards, transiting the sea power of the nation—the second navy of the world—from the east to the west coast of the United States through one of the most dangerous channels known to navigation, without accident or delay, and on a little better than schedule time—that is the record.

Since God made the world it has not been done until now. Nor anything like it.

12,899 Miles in 87 Days. If you wish to be precise, it was 12,899 miles in eighty-seven days; but the twenty-four hours we grew gray in Rio de Janeiro wondering if our month's mail would arrive before we shoved off can safely put on another three days (you can even stretch it to three weeks); while the tide-rips we fought in Possession bay and the northwest currents we bucked on the other side of the passage will easily make up the odd 101 miles.

Someone may detect a boastful note in this plain record of a great event. If so, it must be ascribed to the writer, and not to the officers of this fleet. They scoffed at the possibility of difficulty; they quietly shrugged their shoulders when praised for their hardihood in undertaking this cruise.

Today they look out upon this obscure and straggling Mexican hamlet with the same indifference they have previously displayed for a hundred other ports.

Armor Belt Is Showing. How about the armor belt? Does it show? It shows. You can see it very plainly on all the ships. On this ship it is about a foot above the water; on some it rises to three feet; on none lower than six inches. You can easily tell, because the main belt is painted red, while from the protective deck, which meets it, upwards the paint is white. Under the white paint the armor is seven inches thick, under the red, nine.

Right here we come to that big bugbear, criticism of the navy. It centers in the armor belt. It also centers in the freeboard, and in the ammunition hoists, and in the lowness of the turrets.

But it is more plausible in the belt, in which the style now is like that in women's belts and supposed not to show. But if we pause to consider this proposition of the armor belts for a while we may get a glimpse of what all this storm of criticism means. Yet, I doubt if I can present it here, because it would require several volumes.

I may only say that for three months I have been diligently trying to find out from the various experts on this fleet—we have three naval constructors and 700 well-trained officers—whether the armor belt should be above or below the water. Part of them say that it should, and part of them say that it should not, and whenever you get a wardrobe conversation on the subject you start a debate at a state university—Should we have co-education?

At any rate, there is that 7-inch armor plate plenty high enough, and at least some of the 9-inch. A battleship is a compromise. When they start to build one they let loose on her plans three bureaus in Washington and about six experts, who collectively represent the highest naval intelligence the world can produce.

Each of these experts is a specialist, who has devoted his life, perhaps, to ordnance, perhaps to engineering, perhaps to navigation. They battle, each for his convictions. It is like turning a sick man over to half a dozen specialists, each for a different disorder.

The result is—well, you will see sixteen of them steaming up the coast within the month; on time, ready for action—or a flower parade. Years afterward, when this present expose of the navy has been placed historically on record with a long list of other sensational international disruptions, each of which has contributed its tempest-testing and whirlwind-proving to an efficient and distinguished service, you will still find the Stars and Stripes floating over the best battleships in the world.

Perhaps not a little of that antipathy will be due to these attacks; but—if you take them seriously while they are on—pshaw!

MAGDALENA BAY, Lower California, March 13.—Rear Admiral Evans sat for several hours enjoying the semi-tropical sun today in an armchair placed on the after bridge of his flagship, the Connecticut, gazing out over the broad waters of the bay and admiring the wonderful advantages of this out-of-the-way harbor. He pointed out its merits as a naval base in detail, and regretted that its counterpart was not located along the southwestern shores of the United States.

"It would be a great thing for us," he exclaimed. "What a fine place for our purposes! Deep water, high surrounding hills and deserted shores, which permit of any range of target practice."

As the Admiral was speaking, the Georgia, Admiral Enery's flagship of the second division of the first squadron, steamed within the anchorage radius of the Fleet, returning from the target range. She came at rapid speed between the ships, making her way to the head of the division on the starboard bow of the Connecticut. The Admiral watched the vessel for a moment, then turned half way in his chair and spoke some orders to a member of his staff. Immediately there was stirring activity on the bridge, with half a dozen officers moving with energy and swiftness to execute the order of the commander-in-chief.

Meantime the Georgia had moved into her allotted position, the anchorage had been let go, the chains had rattled through the starboard hawsehole and she had come to a stop directly in line with the other vessels.

"Well done, Georgia!" the Admiral remarked casually. The words were repeated with a shout by an aid to the officer on the bridge, and up the mainmast shot the signal of commendation to the Georgia. The acknowledgment came back instantly.

Admiral Evans said that very likely he would go out on the target range with the Connecticut when she engaged in her record target practice. He said that his tender, the Yankton, would be here by that time, and he might go aboard her, but more likely he would remain on the flagship.

A few big guns were fired the effects were not felt. But the first attempt to keep up a rapid fusillade from all twelve guns produced what was described to me as a "storm" which played worse havoc among the crew than a possible enemy's shells.

Firing Wrecks Nerves. Even men who were not incapacitated complained that their nerves and vision were so badly affected that it was useless to continue firing.

If this experience is repeated with other ships of the Dreadnought type they will be able to use only part of their primary batteries, and as they have no secondary batteries they will be in the same position as the battleships of the old type, which were armed with only four twelve-inch guns.

The Russo-Japanese war showed that secondary batteries play a tremendous role. The only damage that Rojestvensky inflicted on Togo at the battle of Tsushima came from the Russian 8-inch and 6-inch guns. The Japanese did havoc with their secondary batteries. It was shells from their smaller guns which set the Russian ships on fire. The Russian Captain Semenov, who was on the flagship, declared that it was "the un-interrupted thick rain of six and eight inch shells which effected our ruin," and he adds that the occasional shots from the big Japanese guns were comparatively harmless.

As no Dreadnought is armed with a secondary battery, it is plain that if she is compelled to use only a few of her big guns she will be unable to stand up against a ship of the older type.

Japan Takes Advantage. This reasoning has evidently been adopted by Japan. Her two new supposed Dreadnoughts, the Aki and Satsuma, are in reality the antithesis of the English Dreadnought type. They carry four 12-inch guns mounted in pairs in bow and stern barbettes, and twelve 16-inch guns mounted in pairs in broadside barbettes.

The broadside barbettes constitute the secondary battery. These guns weigh 28 tons, as opposed to the 50 tons of the 12-inch guns, and their shells weigh only 450 pounds, as opposed to 850. The weight of their powder charge and their muzzle velocity are only half of those of the guns in the 12-inch barbettes. The real Dreadnoughts have big guns all of the same caliber, which could be brought into action at the same moment, whereas the Japanese secondary battery could be used only at a much closer range than the four big guns.

The two 22,000-ton battleships which Japan is building at home, and the third, which is under construction on the Clyde, are also not Dreadnoughts. Each will have a secondary battery of ten 8-inch guns mounted in pairs. It is declared, however, that the main armament will consist of no less than twelve 12-inch guns. If that is so they would suffer from "storms" as badly as the British Dreadnoughts, but they would have a secondary battery to fall back upon.

Other Guns Shock Crews. It is a curious fact that the Dreadnought's gunners never suffered from the discharge of the guns in their own barbettes. The shock from which they suffered was caused by heavy simultaneous firing of guns in other positions.

Apart from the shock problem, Japan's insistence on a secondary battery is causing much comment. But taken together with the stories of the effect of firing on the Dreadnought's crew, it has the effect of raising the very momentous question: Is the Dreadnought the irresistible monster she is boasted to be, or is she an over-armed, unworkable toy, which will be rejected by the navies of the future?

RECORD BREAKING CRUISER SETS WORLD'S MARK. Washington, D. C., March 4.—The United States scout cruiser Chester, to which Commander H. Wilson has been assigned as commander, has broken the world's record for naval vessels of over 1,500 tons' displacement. That means that the Chester can beat anything outside of a torpedo boat destroyer.

A dispatch has been received by Rear Admiral Capps, chief of the Bureau of Construction, from Commander Wilson, stating that the Chester had made 23.8 knots per hour on a steady 24 hours' coal consumption test run. That breaks all records.

In a test held just before this, the Chester made 26.52 knots per hour for four consecutive hours, and that beats the world's record. The Chester was constructed on the plans of Admiral Capps.

METCALF WILL INVESTIGATE ARMOR-BELT QUESTION. Washington, D. C., March 18.—Secretary Metcalf intends conducting an investigation of his own into the much-discussed question of the water-line armor belt of the battleships, which some critics of the Navy have declared to be too low for safety. He will call on Admiral Evans for data on the subject. He will supplement this with some observations of his own when he reaches San Francisco to review the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets there on May 8th.

Defense Of Australia

PLANS IN MOTION TO RESIST EXPECTED JAPANESE INVASION

London, Eng., March 21.—The Australian Government practically has committed itself to compulsory military service as the only safeguard against the dreaded Japanese invasion. The immediate proposal is to form a national guard of defense in which every young Australian will be required to serve during his nineteenth, twentieth and twenty-first year, spending sixteen days a year in camp.

Ultimately, counting only men under forty, Australia will have 800,000 men who are either in or would have passed through the ranks. No conscription is made that this scheme is directed against Japan.

The Australian press, commenting on Prime Minister Deakin's speech, declared that all Japanese were taught that it was their destiny to acquire Australia. At present the Anglo-Japanese treaty intervenes between Japan and her ambition. But when the treaty lapses, Australia will then have to defend herself or go under.

Programme Outlined. It is understood that the tentative programme outlined and agreed to today provides for the following legislation before adjournment:

Passage of the Aldrich emergency currency bill.

An employers' liability law, prepared with care to stand the test of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law and the interstate commerce law demanded by labor in its memorial to Congress.

A bill providing for the appointment of a tariff revision commission to make a preparatory report to Congress for revising the tariff.

By this programme it will be seen that the President yields on only one point, and carries four of his own.

Yields Only One Point. He takes the stand that the Senator from Rhode Island has withdrawn the railroad bond feature of his bill, it having been deprived of its most objectionable feature, and will do no particular harm if passed.

The greatest surprise in the programme is the consent to the creation of a commission to revise the tariff.

Senator Beveridge made himself quite unpopular by introducing a bill of this kind in the Senate early in the session and making a speech on it.

Senator La Follette added to his unpopularity yesterday in introducing a similar bill and announcing that he intended to make an extended speech upon the question.

PUBLIC BUILDING BILL

Washington, D. C., March 19.—There is considerable discussion regarding the prospects for the public buildings bill. The latest gossip is that it may be made up to carry about $15,000,000, in which case, if the fate of other appropriation bills is any criterion, it will be cut down to $6,000,000 or $7,000,000.

Already there is speculation as to how the smaller sum will be apportioned, and there is fear that the men whose influence may be greatest will get all the money for their districts.

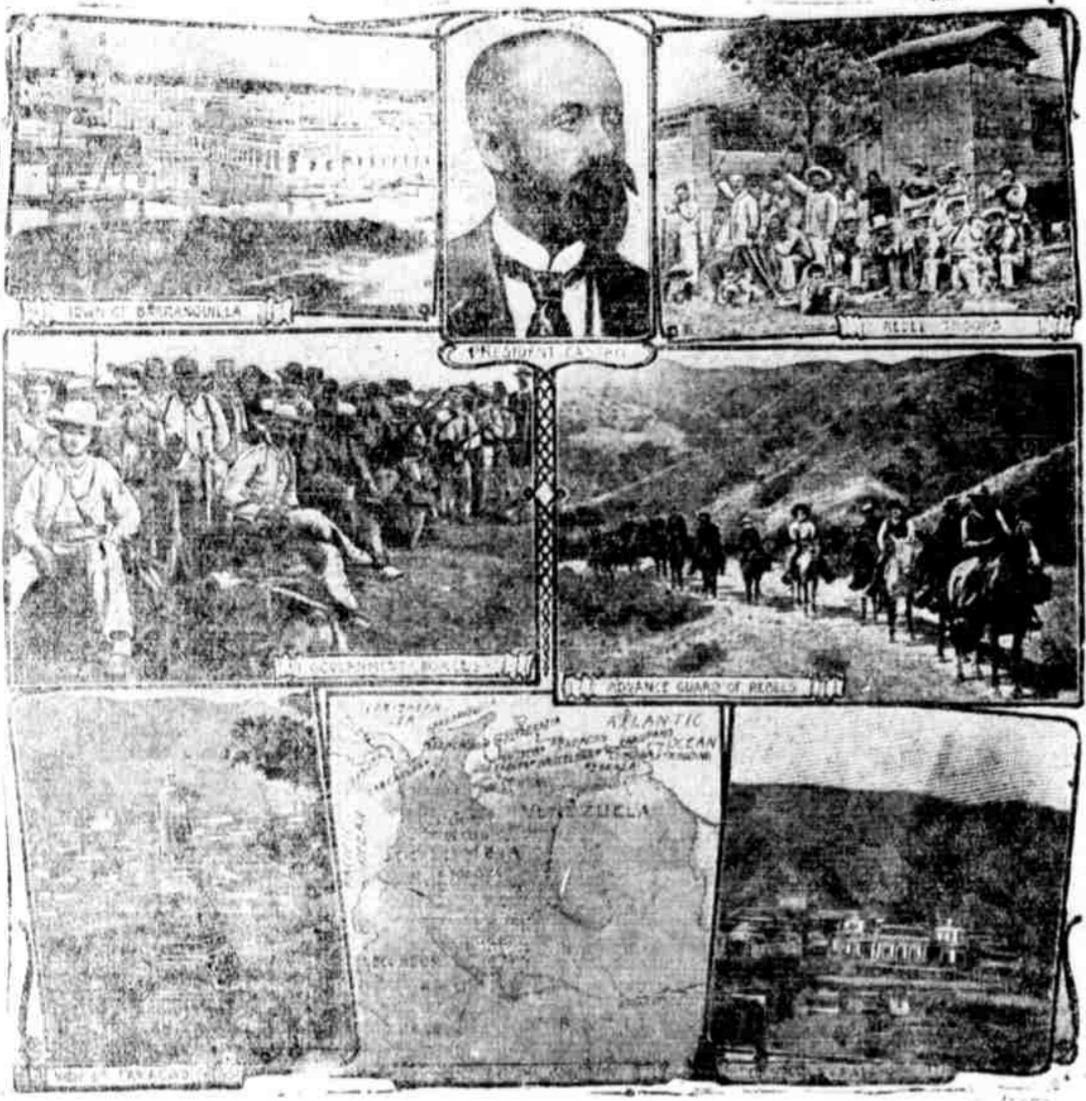

In case the apportionment is not considered equitable, there are enough ricklers to make it tolerably certain that the bill will be defeated.

For San Francisco no more money will be allowed this year, but the appropriation for the Sub-Treasury will probably be changed to allow the money so far appropriated to be used for the site.

Castro Makes Serious Trouble

WASHINGTON, D. C., MARCH 31.—CORRESPONDENCE WITH VENEZUELA OVER THE AMERICAN CLAIMS WAS SUBMITTED TO THE SENATE TODAY. IT CREATED A SENSATION BY SHOWING THAT THE NEGOTIATIONS HAVE REACHED A CRITICAL STAGE.

The Venezuelan situation has been developing diplomatically the last few months. President Castro has assumed a very belligerent attitude toward the United States in connection with the claims of American citizens. The whole matter is involved in the affairs of the Asphalt Trust. Castro not long ago refused to submit the questions at issue to arbitration. He has also become more stiff-necked since the departure of the fleet to the Pacific coast.

TAKAHIRA IS COMING

Washington, March 31.—Baron Takahira, Japanese ambassador, is said to be arranging to visit the Pacific coast during the stay of the battleship fleet at San Francisco. There has been a rapid restoration of cordial feeling between Japan and the United States following Takahira's return to Washington and the adjustment of the immigration question, and it is the ambassador's desire to convince even the Pacific coast that Japan's wish is to do everything possible to maintain friendship.

If this aim can be furthered by visiting San Francisco, Baron Takahira will make the trip. It is reported that the ambassador has sounded the administration as to his views on his proposed trip, and that he has been assured that California would extend him a most cordial welcome.

If he declines to do so, President may detail a rear admiral of the Navy to accompany him as a special escort.

Trenton, N. J., March 23.—At the banquet of the Board of Trade held in the Masonic Temple tonight, Baron Takahira of Japan reiterated expressions of good-will. His address was largely devoted to the silk industry and trade relations between the United States and Japan, with reference to the silk industry of New Jersey. He added some remarks about the coming world's fair in Tokio, and closed with these remarks:

"Gentlemen, the United States opened Japan to foreign commerce by sending there the famous Perry expedition some half a century ago and reorganized the Philippine islands in the late years by introducing an improved system of government and thereby acquiring permanent peace for the inhabitants. Moreover, the noble action of your great President at the peace-maker for the Far Eastern struggles has most deservedly endeared the Americans to the people of these regions.

"All these circumstances taken into consideration, I doubt not your participation in the coming exposition of the arts of peace in Japan will lead to a new era for the commercial development of the two borders of the Pacific and will tend to form the strongest ties between the Americans and the Asiatic people for their mutual friendship and common interests with every prospect of beneficial results to the peace of the world."

Secretary Taft spoke on the commercial relations between Japan and the United States. Both speakers were enthusiastically received.

China Sounds German Intent

SUN PAO-KI AND HIS CHILDREN

Berlin, March 7.—The Chinese Minister at Berlin, Sun Pao-ki, received some weeks ago from Peking to discuss with the German Foreign Office the possibility of the United States and Germany entering into a special agreement concerning the maintenance of equal trade opportunities in all the Chinese territories.

Sun Pao-ki communicated his instructions to the Foreign Office and discussed the subject in the most general terms. Foreign Office officials receiving his suggestions in a courteous, inquiring, but non-committal manner. Presumably the German Foreign Office has corresponded with the German Embassy at Washington and understood that Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister, had received identical instructions and had laid them before the State Department.

China's idea of a special agreement between the United States and Germany appears to rest in the belief that these two alone of the great commercial States would be likely seriously to oppose Japan's disposition, as China avers, to discriminate in Manchuria in favor of her own merchants.

China's appeal has raised the question both at the Foreign Office here and at the State Department at Washington as to whether such an agreement as China proposes would not be superfluous, and if its object is not already fully covered by international agreement.

It is considered probable that the recent telegram from Washington saying that President Roosevelt proposes sending a circular to the Powers regarding Chinese trade is a direct consequence of the question brought out by the application of the Chinese Government to Germany and the United States.

CHINESE BOYCOTTING JAPAN

HONGKONG, China, March 31.—The Chinese boycott on Japanese goods is spreading.

M. Tardieu, foreign editor of Paris Temps, says immigration question is not finally settled and may serve as pretext for trouble between Japan and United States.

REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING

Neither Cracks nor Breaks

Rex Flintkote Roofing

makes an inexpensive, and satisfactory roofing for use on light structures, farm buildings, barns, etc., where a waterproof covering is desired. Keeps hens and stock warm and dry. Is excellent for lining feed boxes, poultry houses etc., as rats and vermin will not attack it. It is odorless and will not taint rain-water in any way. The waterproof compounds with which REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING is saturated and coated will not dry out or evaporate. Packed in rolls 72 feet long and 36 inches wide, containing 216 square feet, 16 square feet being furnished free of charge for laps and butts.

IT is made from the highest grade raw materials obtainable. The basis is the best non-conductor of heat or cold known---wool felt. The felt is first thoroughly saturated with a binder which is acid, alkali, and waterproof, and is unaffected by steam and gases. The mass is then put under enormous pressure, making a tough, pliable sheet of close texture. The sheet then receives a coating on both sides of our special compound and also receives the flint coating.

Although the roofing is laid with the flint side down, the flint is a very valuable addition, as it absolutely prevents the roofing from sticking together in the rolls when shipped, assists materially in the insulating qualities of the roofing and forms a minute air space between the roofing and roof boards, thus preventing dry rot, and keeps the roofing from adhering to the sheathing, thus adding materially to the resistance against heat or cold.

2-PLY REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING.
For general use. Is fire resisting and waterproof. If properly laid, will not crack or run in any climate.

E. O. HALL & SON,
LIMITED,
Agents for Rex Flintkote Roofing

The smooth side of the roofing, which is laid uppermost, is treated with materials which render it practically fireproof, and sparks, burning brands and cinders falling on it will burn out without injury. It is therefore endorsed by Boards of Fire Underwriters throughout the country.

No tar is used in its composition. REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING consequently does not run in summer, nor become hard and brittle in winter, and is less affected by changes in temperature, and is more durable than other roofings owing to the use of the perfect non-conducting materials in its manufacture.

Rex Flintkote Roofing

is made for use in any climate. The flint coating which is applied under enormous pressure is a very valuable feature, as it becomes part of the roofing, giving it a flexible surface as hard as flint on a perfectly elastic, non-conducting base.

REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING is light in weight and on new buildings lighter roof supports can be used, and on buildings more or less weakened by age REX FLINTKOTE ROOFING can be used with safety where the ordinary heavy roofings would be dangerous. Leaks can be easily located and made tight with little trouble.

PARIS SEES TROUBLE IN EMIGRATION MATTERS. PARIS, France, March 21. — The Temps today publishes an interview accorded by Baron Takahira, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, to its foreign editor, Andre Tardieu. M. Tardieu returned here a few days ago from America, where he had interviews with a number of prominent persons, including President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft. To the French journalist Baron Takahira expressed the opinion that the pending immigration agreement between Japan and the United States would put a complete stop to the movement of Japanese coolies into California, as well as regulate the emigration to Hawaii in a satisfactory manner. Tardieu, speaking for himself, then says that although there is no chance at present of a conflict between Japan and the United States, the immigration question has not been actually solved because Japan does not recognize the right of the United States to restrain her emigration and, therefore, the question may later serve as a basis or pretext for new difficulties. Tardieu also draws attention to the fact that the understanding with Japan is not satisfactory to California.

HER CHINESE HUSBAND UNHINGED FATHER'S MIND

Pittsfield, Ill., March 10.—The evidence at the insanity inquiry of Shelby Perry Clemmons, father of Mrs. Howard Gould and Mrs. Lee Yun of San Francisco, indicated that the old man had worried over the troubles of his daughters until his mind became unbalanced. In 1902, a stroke of paralysis two years ago precipitated his mental collapse. Clemmons, who is about 70 years old, has been married twice. His first wife was a daughter of Colonel Thomas M. Kirkpatrick, whose home was in Winnebago. They had two children, Ella and Katherine, who later became Mrs. Gould. Clemmons procured a divorce and the mother and the two girls left for California. In the meantime Clemmons married again. One of his sons by this second marriage is Nolan Clemmons of St. Louis, who holds a professorship in a commercial college there. Two daughters by the second marriage live in Pike county. The second wife died several years ago. Clemmons now is blind and unable to care for himself. He has heard only infrequently from his daughter Katherine since she became the bride of Gould, and this, added to the sorrow caused by the marriage of the older girl, Ella, to a Chinese, caused the wreck of his mind.

INTERPRET BY MACHINE. COLUMBIA STUDENT ASTONISHES PROFESSORS—MACHINE WILL AID COMMERCE.

New York, March 21.—Donald H. Miller, a Columbia student, has invented a machine to translate mysterious Chinese into English by the mere touching of keys resembling those on a typewriter. Miller also says it will translate any other language. Professors of Oriental languages at Columbia have had scores of midnight conferences in young Miller's room, investigating his remarkable discovery and experimenting with it. As a result they announced that they believed the machine practicable, and that it would eventually revolutionize trade with China. The contrivance resembles an adding machine. It has keys bearing Chinese characters. When the key is struck type on the other end leaves on the paper an impression of all the possible meanings of the character. Miller has been a student of Chinese for two years. He was graduated from Columbia last summer, but is continuing his work in order to obtain a degree of Ph. D. At Livingston Hall, the university dormitory, he said: "I began studying Chinese two years ago and soon realized the enormity of the task. There are 20,000 characters in the Chinese language. "In an effort to invent some apparatus to enable one to read Chinese without thinking or studying, I hit upon the translating machine. "I believe I have found the underlying principle which will make Chinese as simple as one's A B C's. The machine will aid commerce and also the diplomatic corps. The dictionary, I believe, will be adopted by college students as soon as I publish it."

WESTERN ROAD EXTENSION

CHICAGO, Ill., March 19.—It is reported that plans are under way for extending the Chicago & Northwestern road from Lander, Wyo., to the Pacific Coast to meet the competition of its close competitor, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

It was stated today that Traffic Manager Kiskern of the Chicago & Northwestern had started for the Orient by way of Europe to make preliminary arrangements with the Chinese and Japanese Governments for the establishment of a Pacific Coast steamship line in connection with the Pacific extension. At Mr. Kiskern's office, however, this report was denied. Nevertheless, it is admitted that the extension of the Northwestern to the Coast and the establishment of a Pacific Coast steamship line is deemed imperative to cope with not only the St. Paul road, but with the HULL lines and the Hartman lines.

The Vice President and the General Passenger Agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul passed through Honolulu some weeks ago on a tour of the Orient with an eye to future business.

The passengers last night seemed to regard their dangerous predicament in the light of an experience and all seemed in the happiest of moods. Some of the passengers will take the overland route to their homes, while others will wait until the next steamer leaves.

All of the passengers spoke in the most glowing terms of the bravery and coolness of Captain Swanson and his crew, at the time when it seemed that all hands might go to the bottom.

ORGANIZE TO KEEP ORIENTALS OUT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Denver, March 18.—"To me papers find an awful means to keep the yellow and brown races and all European coolies from landing on the shores of the United States, thereby protecting the position of every laboring man," is given as one of the objects of the Iron Brotherhood, a new secret fraternity that filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State here today. Zenna M. Lock of Pueblo, Thomas J. Bourne of Raton, N. M., and Oscar V. Mast of Denver are the incorporators and three of the five directors for the five year.

SPORTS Official Offer Of "Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy"

Honolulu, T. H., March 31st. W. H. McInerney, Esq., Secretary Trans-Pacific Yacht Committee. Dear Sir:—During my recent visit to Colombo as Special Commissioner of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry of Hawaii, I had the pleasure of meeting Sir Thomas Lipton. In the course of our conversation much reference was made to the Trans-Pacific Race, a subject regarding which he seemed well posted and concerned. On learning of my connection with the event, Sir Thomas asked me to convey his compliments to the Commodore and the Trans-Pacific Yacht Committee and to say on his behalf that it would afford Sir Thomas great pleasure to present the cup for this contest with his compliments, and as an evidence of his interest in this Trans-Pacific Race. Accordingly I convey this to you, asking that you communicate your pleasure in the premises direct to Sir Thomas, admitting the execution of my very pleasant commission. Very truly yours, FRED. T. P. WATERHOUSE.

OCEANIC IS READY TO START STEAMERS Three Liners in Good Condition To Go On Australian Route—Wait Only for Subsidy. San Francisco, March 22.—Little time will be wasted by the Oceanic Steamship Company in arranging for a resumption of business on the San Francisco and Sydney route, following the passage of the ship-subsidy bill at Washington. The three steamships formerly on the line, the Sierra, Sonoma, and Ventura, have been maintained here in first-class condition ever since they were laid up last year, and a force of seven men has been kept on each of the steamers. There are men long in the employ of the Spreckels company and are heads of departments in the various steamers. A year has almost elapsed since the Oceanic company went out of business on the Australia and New Zealand routes. The Ventura, which was sent to an anchorage in Mission Bay after the completion of her last voyage, has been here since April 16th. The Sonoma, which was in the service of the Pacific Coast Company for a short time following the abandonment of the Sydney line, has been at anchor in Mission Bay since August 31st last, and the Sierra has been at anchor near by since October 14th, after she had made several voyages between this city and Honolulu. Ever since the liners were taken off the San Francisco and Sydney routes complaints from New Zealand and Australian people have been loud and frequent, for the lying up of the steamers removed their best and quickest means of reaching Great Britain. About thirty-one days was the usual time consumed, as against thirty-five or more by any other route. Business men of Honolulu, as well as tourists bound to or from Samoa and other South Sea points, have also complained. Mayor Taylor sends a letter of appreciation to the citizens' health committee for the good work done in cleaning up city. Certainty of another deficit in Alameda county general fund causes him inclination in purchase of a single ton of coal.

PROTECHER AND KAWAE MATCHED

Will Wrestle April 18,
For Purse in Orpheum

Hans Protecher and Frank Kawae have been matched to wrestle April 18. The following are the articles agreed upon, which will be signed today:

1. The bout to take place on April 18 at the Orpheum theater in Honolulu.
2. Fifty per cent. of the gross receipts to be set aside as the purse, to be divided on a basis of 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser.
3. The bout to be wrestled under the catch-as-catch-can rules of the International Wrestling Association.

4. The contestant retaining the best two out of three falls to be declared the winner.
5. Catchweights to govern the bout.
6. A referee agreeable to both parties to be selected.
7. A forfeit of $50 to be posted by each man immediately after the signing of these articles, said sum to be claimed by the opponent of the man failing to appear in the ring at the time and place specified by the promoter.

Considerable talk is going on the rounds about horse-racing at the park while the Fleet is here. How about the baseball games?

Attell's cleverness and Nelson's stick-to-itiveness—last night's fight may be summed up in the foregoing.

WILL NOT PLAY PROTESTED GAMES

Chinese Alohas Claim
They Are Treated
Unfairly

Owing to the refusal of the representatives of the Riverside Junior League to grant the request of the Chinese Aloha Club to sign two new players to fill three vacancies, the club has decided not to play the Sweet Violets and the Asahi A. C. again on the two protested games entered by the latter clubs, which were sustained by the league. They claimed that they had won the two games fairly according to the decisions of the umpire and will disregard the rulings of the president. In the Sweet Violet game the Chinese Alohas Jr. defeated them by a one-sided score after five innings were completed, when the Kalaianoa League took the field and Umpire R-poza, in accordance with the baseball rules, gave the game to the Chinese Alohas Jr. This was protested by the Violets and they managed to get the league to allow them to play the game again from where it ended. The Asahis lost the game in a somewhat different way to the Alohas—that is, the full nine innings were played, but they claimed that the umpire was rotten in his decisions, and protested. The league also held that the umpire was wrong and sustained the protest, so the game which was won is to be replayed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 31.—The Nelson-Attell battle in the prize-ring tonight was a draw.

"We are not going to play these two games again under any circumstances," said Ho Lin, the captain of the Chinese Alohas Jr., this morning. "We are going to disregard the decision of the league, because we believe that it has no power to declare any games void that have been won fairly with an umpire that has been agreed upon by the two captains. It seems that all the other teams are jealous of us and are planning to work against us also. Every time we won a game we expected protests, and they usually came, and we are not going to stand for it any longer."

PLANS FORMED FOR ALL-STAR OARSMEN

New York, N. Y., March 23.—Plans for the selection of an American eight to row in the Olympic regatta in England in July were announced yesterday by James Pilkington, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen and a member of the committee which has in charge the forming of an American crew.

"The original plan formulated by Julian Curtiss and myself will be adhered to," said he. "According to the rules of the association, we can pick twenty-seven oarsmen who show up well in all or in any of the regattas held before June 1st. These men will contest against one another until we have selected eight oarsmen and several substitutes. There is no truth in the report that we intend to pick a crew as a whole. By picking eight of the best oarsmen in the country we will have no trouble in boating them in time for them to get plenty of practice together before they go abroad early in July."

JAY GOULD BEATS WORLD'S CHAMPION

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., March 22.—Jay Gould, amateur court tennis champion of the United States and England, defeated Peter Latham, professional champion of the world, on the court of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet Club today by three sets to one in an exhibition court tennis match.

The victory was a brilliant one for Gould because of the fact that Latham easily defeated Estace H. Miles, former amateur champion of England, by three straight yesterday.

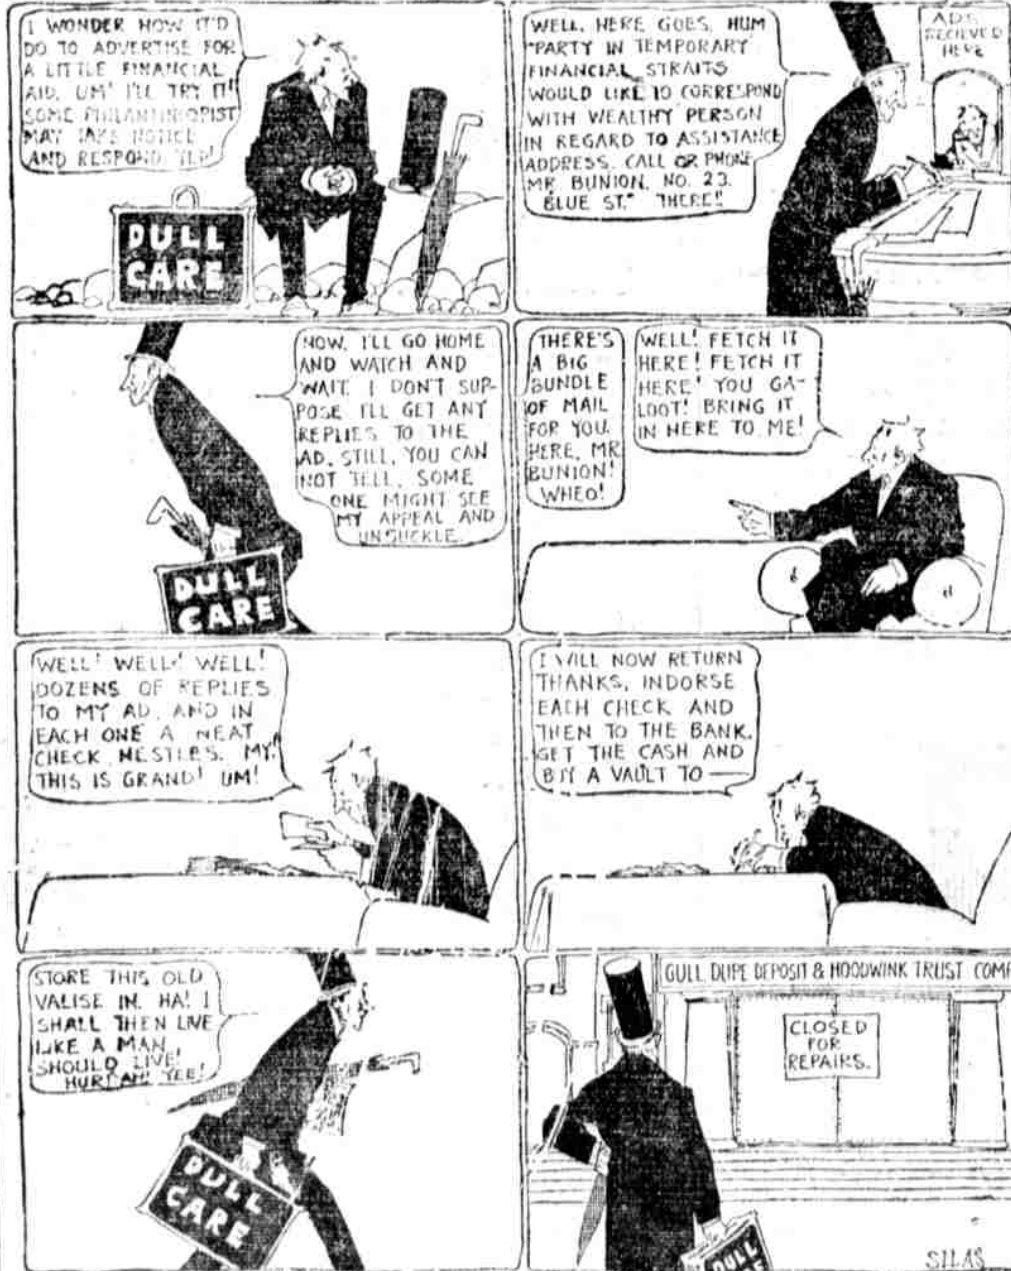

Latham, who was the favorite, conceded 15 in today's match. Latham took the first set at 6-4. The next three sets went to Gould by the one-sided score of 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

COMISKEY WANTS GUARANTEE

If Charley Comiskey takes his White Sox to the Hawaiian Islands in 1909, and there is little doubt but what he will, it will be the first trip of a big league team over the Pacific since the Chicago team of 1888 went around the world. The plans of Comiskey will in all probability cause the sailing off of the Coast League Stars' trip to the islands. In arranging for the visit of the Sox to Honolulu, Comiskey wants a guarantee, and with Woods is corresponding with the Chamber of Commerce at Hawaii. If the trip is made, the team will leave Chicago the 15th of February next year and play three games at San Francisco before going aboard the boat.—Examiner.
