SAMMIES SUBJECTED TO FIRST BOMBARDMENT

WOMAN SHOT BY SUITOR

Triangular Love Affair Ends in Murder at Watertown; Woman Shot Dead When Claimant for Her Affections Finds Rival With Her; Accused Murderer Now in Jail

ONE Filipino woman was shot and killed and a Filipino man was shot in the back and clubbed over the head with a revolver in a shooting scrape at Watertown, near Puuloa, this morning. Erino Dujailonse, a Filipino laborer, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Fernandez shortly after the crime was committed and is held at police headquarters here for investigation. He will probably be charged with first degree murder.

The man who was shot in the back is named Gemo, and about the only information the police have secured so far is that the affray was the result of a quarrel over the affections of the dead woman.

According to several witnesses who were brought into headquarters, Dujailonse was infatuated with the woman. The woman, however, seemed to care more for Gemo, and early this morning, Dujailonse, it is alleged, entered Gemo's home as he was sitting down to breakfast. Dujailonse, without any apparent reason, started for the woman, who was in the room. After a heated argument the man pulled a .38 caliber revolver from his coat and shot the woman dead.

Gemo started for the man and tried to wrest the weapon from him, but Dujailonse is said to have clubbed the former on the head. Gemo fought until weakened and overcome he loosened his grip on Dujailonse. The latter, according to neighbors, turned the gun on Gemo and shot him in the back.

The crowd which had gathered prevented Dujailonse' escape until the officer arrived. Gemo was rushed to the emergency hospital where, after an examination, it is believed the bullet is lodged in his back. When questioned at the hospital, Gemo did not know whether or not he had been shot, but a bullet hole in his shirt and back, with powder stains sprinkled around, caused the surgeons to probe for the bullet.

Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie will investigate the case. This makes the fifth shooting to occur within the past few weeks. One Filipino died in the Queen's hospital this morning, following a shooting affray which occurred last week at Puuloa.

All of the officers are instructed to sail for San Francisco on the first available vessel. It is probable that most of them will leave on the Maui next week.

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

Names of Men On Kaiser's Payroll In U. S.

Alan Lowrey Is Made Lieutenant In Aero Section

Honolulan Receives Appointment to Command 50 Men; Expects Active Service

ALAN LOWREY, a prominent young man of Honolulu, son of F. J. Lowrey, president of Lewers & Cooke, has been appointed a lieutenant in command of an air fleet composed of fifty men, according to advices received this morning. Lowrey, who was one of the ten men appointed to enter the officers' training camp at the Presidio, has been studying at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, in preparation for the flying squadron.

When the ten local appointments to the Presidio were made, Lowrey was one of the Honolulu boys slated to go to the mainland to train for an army officer. But when the announcement was made that the men would report to the new camp at Schofield, Lowrey decided he would go East instead. He enrolled in the Naval Reserve, and selected the aviation squad as offering the best chances for quick and active service. He was sent to Tech where he underwent a course of instruction in aeronautics.

According to the news received from him this morning, he has been commissioned. This probably means action in France at an early date for him.

PROBE OF COMMERCIALIZED VICE IS ORDERED BY COURT

Iwilei Closing Law Still Effective Says Judge Heen in Instructing Jurors to Investigate Increase of Offenses and Spread of Demi Monde to Residential Districts

A DRASTIC step toward wiping Honolulu clean of commercialized vice was taken at 2 o'clock this afternoon when Circuit Judge William H. Heen instructed the members of the territorial grand jury to conduct a thorough investigation of reports to the effect that, since the closing of Iwilei, vice has become widespread throughout the city, even penetrating into the more respectable residential sections.

In his special charge to the jurymen, Judge Heen points out that, if vice is on the increase and if it is spreading as reports allege, then the question arises as to whether it is due to the closing of Iwilei. He instructs the jurymen to indict all persons believed to be violating those laws under which the local restricted district was obliterated.

Judge Heen's charge to the jury follows:

"Sitting as judge of the criminal and juvenile divisions of this court, my attention has repeatedly been directed to cases involving what is popularly known as sexual crimes. Whether or not there has been an increase in these offenses, I am not in a position to say at the present time. If there has been an increase, then the question naturally arises as to whether or not the same is due to the closing up of the red light district in Iwilei.

"Judging from the frequent occurrences of the offenses mentioned, it is strongly suspected that commercialized vice has spread out through the city, and that women of questionable reputation are now plying their trade in the various districts of the city.

"Many of the prostitutes who were arrested at the time Iwilei was closed, and who were released on suspended sentences have been brought both before this court and the district court of Honolulu and have been sentenced to imprisonment or forced to leave the territory. Notwithstanding this action on the part of the authorities, it is charged that the condition above outlined still exists.

"In view of the foregoing, I instruct you, gentlemen of the grand jury, that a thorough investigation of the existence of commercialized vice throughout the city be made by acting as a whole or through a committee. In this connection, I further instruct you that the laws which were invoked for the closing up of Iwilei are still in force. It is your duty to indict all persons whom you believe are violating these laws."

Little Nation Preparing To Join Entente

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24.—An order for the immediate mobilization of the Argentine navy was issued late today by the minister of marine.

While no formal declaration of war has been issued by the government, events of the past few days and the unusual activity in governmental and military circles indicate that Argentina is preparing to join in the war on behalf of the Entente Allies, due to the exposure by the United States of the duplicity of Germany in using the Swedish embassy in Buenos Aires as a channel to communicate to Berlin the movements of Argentine ships.

Although the official explanation of the troop movements is that it is due the railroad strike, a member of the general staff has admitted to press correspondents that "other necessities" are being considered in the general plans of preparations.

'If War Goes On, Fault Is Not Germany's'

---Kaiser To Troops

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 24.—Switching from the far north battle front of Riga, the Kaiser is reported to be now in Rumania, where, according to his usual custom, he addressed the troops.

"If the war is continued," he is reported to have said, "it is not Germany's fault."

German heavy artillery is active in the Arras sector.

PARIS, France, Sept. 24.—The big guns are roaring again in the Verdun sector, an intense artillery duel being waged between French and German batteries. No infantry movements are reported from the battle area.

PASSPORTS ISSUED FOR HUNS' GOLD

State Department Has List of Those Who Furthered Plots to Destroy Munitions Plants and Incited Labor Troubles; But Will Not Reveal Them at Present

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—That the state department has the names of many of the men who received pay from the German government for the furtherance of the Kaiserbund's plots against the neutrality of the United States became known today.

Officials of the department are known to have in reserve indisputable evidence of German intrigues of the most sensational nature, one of which is reported to be a list of the persons who received German gold wherewith to conduct a system of issuing fraudulent passports.

Men in the pay of the Kaiserbund for the furtherance of plots against munition plants on war work for the Entente Allies are also known, and at the proper time officials declare the disturbers of America's neutrality will be brought to justice.

Representative J. Thomas Heflin at the session of the lower chamber today denied that he had ever said members of congress accepted money from

ENCAMP IN RANGE OF HUNS

Two Are Wounded as Sammies Take Up Position on Historic Battlefield and Laugh at the Kaiser's Reward for First American Taken, Dead or Alive

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

SOMEWHERE AT BRITISH FRONT, Sept. 24.—Many American troops are encamped on a historic battlefield in France, the vanguard of Uncle Sam's big armies which are soon to see active service at this front.

The camp is within the range of the German heavy artillery, and has been subjected to bombardment. Two men have already been wounded, but are very proud they have bled for the good cause.

Stringent orders have recently been issued to keep the men out of the British front lines. The health of the men is reported excellent.

The issuance of the munificent reward for the first Sammie—dead or alive—to be brought within the German lines is causing great amusement among the men.

Officers and men are alike loud in their praise of the welcome and fine treatment accorded them by the Tommies, who they one and all declare are "mighty fine folks."

SLAVS AGAIN SHOWING FIGHT

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

PETROGRAD, Russia, Sept. 24.—Russians are again on the offensive in the Riga front, and despatches received here report the occupation by Slav troops of the sector around Silzene. The Germans left 400 dead on the field, and 60 prisoners were taken.

PETROGRAD, Russia, Sept. 24.—A great democratic congress is scheduled to meet probably Wednesday for discussion of Slav internal affairs, and it is said that 1500 delegates, mostly of the peasant class, will attend the opening session.

BERLIN, Germany, Sept. 24.—Rich booty and vast quantities of provisions fell into the hands of the Germans when Jacobstadt was captured, according to reports from Ludendorff.

Japanese In Demoniacal Frenzy Smashes Skull of Bride As She Lay Asleep

DRIVING a smashing blow to her forehead with a heavy iron hammer, Azuma Kagehiro, a young Japanese of Lihue, Kauai, split open the head of his bride of less than a year as she lay sleeping peacefully with her babe of one month folded in her arms. Imbued with demoniacal fury, the husband then rained blow after blow upon the head of his victim until, disturbed by the efforts of his parents to gain entry to the room, he ceased his murderous work and fled from the room, drank poison and in an unconscious condition was discovered later. He is expected to recover.

Details of the tragedy which was enacted Saturday were received this morning by the Nippu Jiji through its Lihue correspondent. The crime caused a great shock to the Japanese community of Kauai.

Azuma, who is a sugar boiler, aged 28, lived with his wife, parents, brother and sister in a tenement. His wife was 24 years old. She came to Hawaii as a picture bride last year.

When the gray dawn of morning broke Saturday Azuma, as he heard his brothers depart for their daily work, arose from his cot and approached the bed where his wife and little one were sleeping peacefully. Tiptoeing about so as not to awaken them, he procured a heavy hammer such as is used in the quarry. Raising it aloft he let drive with the full force of his arm. One spasmodic lurch did the victim give; not a cry came from her lips. Death evidently was instantaneous as the heavy weapon went crushing through her skull.

A stream of blood spouted from the gaping hole and trickled over the infant.

The sight of the blood served only to madden the infuriated husband, who rained blow after blow on the head of the dead woman. How the child escaped injury is remarkable.

Awakened by the crunching blows on flesh and bone Azuma's parents, sleeping in the adjoining room, were awakened. The father tried to enter the room and found the door locked. As the room was on the second story he got a ladder and entered through a window. The husband, his fiendish work interrupted, fled screaming from the room.

The infant lay waddling in a pool of blood.

Azuma reaching the ground floor, locked himself in another room and drank ant poison.

What was the cause for the crime is unknown. One theory advanced is jealousy.

Nippon Liner Nearly Blown Up By Bombs

(Special Cable to Nippu Jiji)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 24.—With the safe arrival Saturday in San Francisco of the Seiyo Maru, the T. K. K. liner on the South American run, from Iquique, Chili, it was learned that an attempt to blow up and destroy the vessel at sea was made and as the result of which two Japanese sailors were killed instantly and several others injured.

The Seiyo Maru, according to the story told by her officers, made its regular call at Iquique, the Chilian nitrate port, for nitrate cargoes. During the stay in port German spies placed bombs in the steamer's hold, the explosion of which mibht set the whole nitrate cargo and the liner on fire.

The explosion of the bombs took place on August 23. The liner was saved only by the heroic efforts of the whole crew who struggled hard to extinguish the flames caused by the bomb explosion.

After the explosion a thorough investigation of the steamer's hold was made by the officers and it was found that the bombs had been concealed in the nitrate sacks.

CITY TO HAVE $1,000,000 TO SPEND ON ROADS IN 1918

THE City and County of Honolulu will have a fortune of almost a million dollars to spend on road building, road improvements and road maintenance next year, according to the tentative statement of finances for 1918 compiled by the city and county auditor today which will be presented by E. A. Mott-Smith, chairman of the finance committee, to the meeting of the board of supervisors tomorrow night for their information.

There will be $680,000 in the permanent improvement fund, $121,500 in the road tax fund and a balance in the general fund for road work of all kinds of $155,500, making in all a grand total of $957,000.

While the expenditure of the permanent improvement fund moneys and the road tax fund cash is all provided for, the $155,500 balance in the general fund will be the big item, for it is with this money that the city and county will really move forward to new projects and make general progress in building, improving and maintaining better roads.

James Bicknell, city and county auditor, outlined at the end of the tentative budget a statement showing what could be appropriated for road maintenance alone in 1918 if the whole of the available balance in the general fund were used for this purpose. According to this plan $27,805.51 could be spent every month for road maintenance, making a total of $333,666 for the year.

The statement of the general fund shows that the amount on hand on January 1 minus the usual deduction for cash basis fund, police, fire and bandsmen pension fund, should be $861,000. The permanent improvement fund after the usual deductions should have $680,000 on hand and must be expended as follows: ½ for concrete roads, $340,000; 1/3 for water and sewer extensions, $216,666; 1/12 for road maintenance, $56,667, and 1/12 for other permanent improvement, $56,667.

There is a possibility that even more money will be available for road work in 1918; the last legislature having passed an act which fixed the rate of taxation at 1.80 per cent and the residue for next year's levy, after deducting the amount required for the general fund, and the territorial budget will go to the permanent improvement fund, which fund shall also receive all additional taxes on over $110,000,000 and shall stand all delinquent taxes. According to the tentative outline of next year's finances Honolulu appears to be in a fair way to having a prosperous year bearing in mind the amount on hand for expenditure for road building, improvement and maintenance.

HOOVER TO INSTRUCT HAWAII FOOD COMMISSION.

That the territorial food commission has effected closer affiliation with the national food administration is evidence in the following cablagram received today from Herbert Hoover, food administrator:

"Mailing you much information regarding food administration."

J. F. Child, assistant executive officer, said this afternoon that he considers the message as meaning that full instructions as to how the local commission should proceed have been forwarded from Washington.

The case probably will be ready for the jury tomorrow.

SOLD BOOZE TO SOLDIER; GETS SIX MONTHS

Five bottles of beer sent Arthur McClogan to prison for six months today, and, in passing sentence, Federal Judge Poindexter declared that the more "wine bums" brought before him the heavier the penalty will be. McClogan pleaded guilty to violating the law prohibiting the sale of liquor to enlisted men in uniform. He bought five bottles of beer and turned them over to a soldier.

HONOLULU BOYS ASSIGNED TO AMBULANCE TRAINING CAMP.

Cable advices received this afternoon by A. L. Castle from the five Honolulu boys who were sent east several weeks ago to join the hospital unit being organized by the Tennis Players association, says they have enlisted in the ambulance corps and have been detailed to the big army ambulance training camp at Allentown, Pa. The cable, which is from Ernest Podmore, saying the young men have been sent to the Allantown camp, is taken to mean that they have been accepted. Podmore's cable says they will be put through a course of rigorous training for the next few weeks. The men are Ernest Podmore, Francis Brown, William Noble, William Wells and Fred Bivens. All are local boys.

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

PRICE OF STEEL IS SET BY U. S.

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—At a conference between the government's price control board and representatives of the steel manufacturers of the country, a price has been agreed on and will be strictly adhered to during the term of war.

It is announced that the agreed on price per hundredweight at Pittsburg and Chicago will be $2.90, instead of $5.50, the present price.

The uniform price for steel was made public today by government officials. The new schedule is based on the cost of production as reported to the federal board.

The purchase price to allies of the United States represents reductions on the present price of from 40 to 70 per cent.

It is expressly stipulated that there shall be no wage reductions at the rolling mills, and the manufacturers are warned to see to it that their factories shall be worked to their full capacity.

TRIES HAND AT 'DYING' ONCE TOO OFTEN; IS JAILED

Parasite Collapses at Governor's Office, But Hospital Steward is on to Trick

The telephone in the emergency hospital office rang frantically this morning, and when Steward Stephenson picked up the receiver he heard an excited voice at the other end of the wire.

"This is the Governor's office" shouted the unknown speaker. "There's a man sick, or dying, or something, right here in front of the office. Send the wagon up right away Hurry, before the man dies".

The steward banged up the receiver, shouted an order, and the ambulance tore through the streets at a fast clip right up into the capitol grounds. The hospital attendants rushed up the steps on the double-quick.

"Where is he?" they shouted "Where's the dying man?"

"This way!" exclaimed someone who was waiting for them. "Hurry".

In front of the governor's office lay a Spaniard, groaning and moaning and rolling around on the floor at a great rate.

The steward took one look at the "dying" man.

Him!" he grunted disgustingly, "Dying! Bah."

They put the man in the ambulance and sped back to the hospital.

"You see", they explained at the hospital, when asked why they seemed so disgusted at the dying man," this fellow is an old hand at the dying game. Why, at a conservative estimate, this fellow has been brought to the hospital no less than twenty times within the last few months. He was here two nights ago. He's too lazy to work, and wants a nice quiet place to sleep, so he picks on us. He throws a fit, or something, in front of a doceor's office, or on a street corner and figures he'll be given a clean, cool bed in our ward. Nothing doing. But this is a new one, dying in front of the governor's office. He must be trying to break into politics."

Instead of reclining luxuriously on a white cot in the hospital, the "dying man" is sitting on a hard bench downstairs behind the bars.

GEN. JOHNSON HAS ANOTHER CLOSE ESCAPE

Brig.-Gen. Samuel I. Johnson, commander of the Hawaii National Guard, had a close call yesterday when a guy wire on a telephone pole in the Punahou district caught the top of his automobile and tore it back from its f tenings.

Persons who saw the machine after the accident marveled at the fact the officer was not killed or seriously injured, but he escaped without a scratch. The windshield was shattered, the front dash torn from its base and the wiring in the front part of the car wrenched out from the electrical system. All in all the car has a very much used up appearance.

The general said today that there was no one else in the car. It was not much of an accident, he added, despite the appearance of the machine. This is the second accident that has befallen the officer recently. A week ago last Saturday when coming into town from the officers' training camp at Schofield Barracks he crashed into a moving plantation train and only averted a serious smashup by his presence of mind in turning his automobile aside into the ditch.

AUSTRALIAN HAS WAIVED EXTRADITION

Horace Rupert Henworth, who is being held by U. S. Marshal J. J. Smiddy on a charge of embezzlement preferred by the Australian government, has waived his rights to fight extradition, having signed the necessary documents to this effect this morning.

Henworth was taken off the steamer Sonoma when it last arrived at this port and will be held in custody until the marshal receives definite instructions from the Australian government as to what disposition shall be made of the man. From what the marshal has been able to learn, the amount of Henworth's alleged defalcations totals about $6000. He is a resident of Melbourne and is in very poor health.

HILO ENGINEER MAY GET U. S. COMMISSION

(Special Star-Bulletin correspondence.)

HILO, Sept. 21.—B. D. Davis, better known as "Deacon" Davis, and a popular man around town, will probably be off to the front before long. His application to join the officers' reserve corps was made last May. The latest word received is that he would be called upon to pass a medical examination in the near future and that then he would probably be called to active service.

Davis has had military experience, as he was a member of the Kentucky militia some years ago.

At present he is superintending the removal of an old mill on the Hamakua coast.

JAPAN TO SEND FINANCE MISSION TO THE STATES

Will Visit Honolulu En Route to U. S. to Strengthen Financial Relations

(Special Cable to Nippu Jiji)

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 24.—Following closely on the heels of two preceding commissions—the first, a war commission which is now in Washington and the second a parliamentary commission now on its way to San Francisco on the T. K. K. liner Shinyo Maru—a third imperial Japanese commission is about to visit the United States. This is the special financial and economic commission which, according to an official announcement made here today, will sail from Yokohama October 15. This delegation will pass through Honolulu October 25.

The organization of the special financial and economic commission to America was perfected a few days ago. Its personnel follows:

Baron T. Megata, head of the commission and a member of the house of lords of the imperial Japanese diet.

Baron B. Ito, secretary of the department of agriculture and commerce.

O. Matsumoto, chief of loan bureau, department of treasury.

B. Sakaguchi, inspector, Yokohama custom house.

Y. Yamamoto, representing Sumitomo Mining Company.

Y. Ymamoto, representing Sumitomo Mining Company.

C. Koike, representing Kuhara Mining Company.

K. Matsumoto, representing Yasukawa Mining Company.

The commission is to confer with the heads of the American government as well as the foremost financiers of the country with a view of strengthening the financial and economical relations of the two countries. The commission is to stay about three months in America.

RESTRICTION ON SALE OF LIQUOR TO BE ADOPTED

License Commissioners Say Protests Against Proposed Curb Carry No Weight

No definite action has yet been taken by the board of liquor license commissioners in regard to their new regulation restricting the sale of intoxicats for consumption off the premises. The next meeting of the board will be held Thursday afternoon, when the commissioners will act on the proposition.

There is no doubt but that the regulation will be adopted, according to several members of the board. No further protests have been received, and the arguments brought up at the meeting last week were hardly forceful enough to change their minds, say the commissioners.

Owing to the illness of Inspector W. H. Hutton, who is suffering from typhoid fever, the regulations cannot be put into effect before October 15, Assistant Inspector Jack Roberts is suffering from an infected hand, and the "booze" squad is generally depleted. Before the regulations can be put into effect, several deputies will have to be appointed, among them being a Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiian, and probably a Portuguese, to act as interpreters for the big trade among those people. An office will be opened in the vicinity of Nuuanu and Merchant streets, it is believed, as this is the most centrally located position for the wholesalers.

SCOUTS READY TO HELP RAISE LIBERTY LOAN

While no definite orders concerning the part the Boy Scouts are to play in raising the next Liberty Loan have been received, Scout Commissioner Roger C. Burnham said this morning that they are ready to do all that they can towards helping in this work.

"We are awaiting orders concerning the matter," stated Commissioner Burnham this morning," and are expecting them very soon now. I do not know just what part the Boy Scouts of Hawaii are going to play in this work, but I judge that it will be similar to what the members of the organization on the mainland are planning to do."

APACHE STUNT IS ENACTED ON HAWAII

Filipinos on Hawaii tried some real Apache of Paris stunts on a Japanese chauffeur last week, when they hit him over the head with a lead pipe, rifled his pockets, tied him to a tree and stuck knives in him.

The assault occurred near the Volcano House, and quick action on the part of the stable attendants probably saved the man from bleeding to death. The highwaymen took great delight in gashing the trussed man with their daggers. As yet the Big Island police have made no arrests.

The Dutch steamer Goentoer which was expected to arrive this morning from San Francisco will not get here until tomorrow morning, according to a wireless sent C. Brewer & Co. No explanation of the Goentoer's delay was given.

SLAVS DEBATE ORDERS TO ARMY BEFORE ACTING

Petrograd Dentist Says Roads Will Prevent Germans From Taking Capital This Winter

Germany will not attempt to capture Petrograd this winter, is the opinion of W. D. Ellis, an American dentist, who has resided in the Russian capital for 15 years. He is a passenger aboard the China bound for the United States for a visit.

Dr. Ellis comments on the chaos through which Russia has been passing, but, for such a tragic subject, gives a sidelight of humor regarding the situation, when he remarks:

"Red signified liberty to the Russian peasants, so that was adopted as the emblem of freedom following the revolution. When the Russian anarchists began to arrive from America they found their old emblem was usurped and that red stood for law and order. The anarchists then adopted a modification of the old pirates' flag, one with a black ground. During an attempt of the anarchist group to parade carrying their black flag they were mobbed and their banner torn from them by the 'reds.'"

With only two or three good roads and most of the country from the present German line to Petrograd impassable, is the reason Dr. Ellis believes no attempt will be made this winter by the German army to take the Russian capital. "The difficulties of transportation and the long haul to bring in supplies will deter them," he says.

"Brotherly feeling of Russian socialists for German socialists accounts for the lack of a Russian offensive," he says.

'That's exactly the kernel of the trouble with the Russian army. They have to hold committee meetings now in the Russian army to see if an order to advance is to be followed. In the meantime, other Russian forces may be wiped out," he cynically remarks.

The dentist believes Germany had been able to take Riga for some time before she did, but postponed doing so in the hopes of gaining it by diplomacy and through the sympathy of the Baltic Germans, who constitute 47 per cent of the population of that district.

That Protopopoff, former Russian minister of the interior, precipitated the successful Russian revolution is the belief of Dr. Ellis. "It would not have come then," he says, "if it hadn't been for the Petrograd bread riots. Everyone knew there was to be an attempt to overthrow the monarchy. Street car conductors would openly tell you so. The government knew it also, and thought it best to start the trouble before the revolutionists had fully prepared.

"While Protopopoff was a member of the Duma he went to western Europe with a commission for a conference with representatives of Italy, England and France. Before that he was considered as a member of the left faction, but on his way back to Petrograd he had a conference with German agents in Stockholm and after his return flopped over to the right. It was then he was named as minister of the interior.

"Suspicion of Protopopoff, lack of bread and hatred of the police brought about the revolution sooner than anticipated. But it was bound to come sooner or later. After the first day's fighting in Petrograd it was simply a case of police baiting and police hunting."

HARVARD CLUB IN ANNUAL MEET

The annual meeting of the Harvard Club of Hawaii was held Saturday evening at Wahiawa, at the home of James D. Dole. After the dinner speeches dealing with the work which Harvard and Hawaii have done and have still to do in this war were made by David Withington and A. F. Griffiths. Scout Commissioner Roger Burnham made an eloquent plea for the work of the Boy Scouts, and on motion of W. F. Dillingham, the club went on record unanimously as indorsing Mr. Burnham and his cause.

Mr. Knollenberg and C. F. Damon spoke interestingly of their experiences as members of the Officers' Reserve Camp at Schofield. Further addresses were made by Wm. Hoogs, A. L. Castle, Chas. A. Davis, J. P. Morgan and James D. Dole. An interesting letter from Mon Fah Chung, the club's scholarship holder at Harvard, was read by Dr. W. T. Brigham.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Walter F. Dillingham; secretary-treasurer, J. P. Morgan; executive committee, the officers ex-officio and A. M. Nowell, E. A. Mott-Smith and James D. Dole; scholarship committee, Dr. W. T. Brigham, Professor A. L. Dean, President A. F. Griffiths and J. P. Morgan.

This year the club will again offer the cup which is emblematic of the interscholastic football championship of Honolulu, and will also reward the scholarship to Mon Fah Chung.

GREEN TO TELL MAUI, HAWAII ABOUT DRAFT

Maj. F. J. Green, draft officer, will leave for Hawaii and Maui some time toward the first of October to instruct the local exemption boards there as to the operation of the draft law.

These officials have stated that they will meet to discuss the law and prepare questions that may be troublesome to them in preparation for the visit. It does not look now as if the draft can be held here on October 1 as seemed likely when the call for it was first given. It will probably be a week or so later. The length of time taken by Oahu to get the registration figures filed is held responsible for the delay.

JAPAN REFUSES LANDING TO HUN ENVOY TO CHINA

Minister Handed Passports By Peking Will Pass Through Honolulu Soon

(Special Cable to Nippu Jiji)

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 24.—Dr. E de Rostone, the Austrian minister to China, is a passenger aboard the Dutch steamer Oranje, which arrived at Yokohama yesterday from Shanghai, China. The Japanese authorities are keeping close watch, while the steamer is in port, on the Austrian diplomat, who is not allowed to land on Japanese soil.

Dr. Rostone was handed his passports by the Peking government following China's declaration of war on Germany and Austria-Hungary. He is now on his way home and free conduct of his party through Japan, which was asked by the Chinese government, was granted by the Japanese government. He is going to San Francisco via Honolulu, to take train for the East where he will make arrangements for the last lap of his homeward journey.

GUARD COMPANIES UNDERGO INSPECTION

Official inspection of the Ewa, Waipahu and Waialua companies of the 1st Hawaiian Infantry, national guard, was held yesterday by Capt. Charles H. Bonesteel, through orders from the war department.

Practically every man in the three companies turned out, and according to officers made a creditable showing for the short time which they have had to drill since organizing.

Those in the party were Capt. Bonesteel, Col. W. R. Riley, Will Wayne and Lieut. Tom Boylan. They left Honolulu at 8 o'clock in the morning. The Ewa inspection was held at 9 o'clock, Waipahu at 11 and Waialua at 3. Lunch was had at Haleiwa. The officers returned about 7 o'clock yesterday evening.

ADMONISHES JAPANESE

Sunday evening, H. Pomerantz, secretary of the central Y. M. C. A., spoke at the South King street Methodist church on the purpose and mission of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Pomerantz also spoke pointedly to the young Hawaiian-born Japanese. He warned them of not only being "Sunday Christians," but that they should bear in mind that the one who was a Christian every day of the week was the one worth while. He mentioned that the Japanese were liable to become like the Jews of olden times, wise in their own conceits, a thing which Christians must continually guard against; for as the scripture tells us, "The wisdom of this world is foolishness with God."

How the Housewife Can Aid the Cause

Everyone can help; you, Mrs. Housewife, especially. You are the purchasing agent for a whole family. You can economize not only in your buying, but in your methods of buying.

There is nothing that causes you such needless fatigue and worry as walking through store aisles in a vain effort to locate materials or articles you cannot find. You can eliminate most of this trouble by studying the advertisements of the firms you patronize; and planning your trips ahead of time. Then you'll know just where to go; as well as how much money you'll require for your purchases

If you already study advertisements and have made use of them, tell your grocer or butcher. Encourage him. He is making an effort to ease your difficulties; and to enable you to stretch your husband's salary farther than would otherwise be possible.

TWO ATTORNEYS WILL REPRESENT NIPPON TEACHERS

Attorney R. W. Breckons and Attorney Frank E. Thompson have been retained by the Japanese Teachers' association, to look after the interests and welfare of the five Japanese teachers who arrived from Japan last month, and were refused landing in Honolulu by Richard L. Halsey, immigration inspector.

J. Watanabe, master of Japanese laws, who has been handling the case of the Japanese teachers, stated this morning and already a legal opinion has been rendered by Mr. Breckons and Mr. Thompson regarding the case of the Japanese teachers.

Mr. Watanabe said that Messrs. Breckons and Thompson will have nothing to do with the actual trial of the case in the ninth circuit, or before the supreme court of the United States, where it is expected the case will eventually go.

About the middle of this week another meeting of the Japanese Teachers' association will be held in the Central Grammar Institute on Nuuanu street.

PROBE OF BERG CASE TO BEGIN THIS AFTERNOON

City Attorney Arthur M. Brown was to present to the territorial grand jury this afternoon the case of Miss Florence Berg, former Queen's hospital nurse who died recently following a criminal operation. According to Attorney Brown, the jurymen will be asked to investigate to determine, if possible, the person or persons who performed or helped Miss Berg perform the operation which presumably cost her her life. A large number of persons were to be summoned as witnesses, being the same ones called to testify at the coroner's inquest.

Other cases to be presented this afternoon were Cornalio Soberano, charged with the murder of Mantaleo Wham, who died yesterday at the Queen's hospital, and Erino Dujailonse, who is alleged to have shot and killed a Filipino woman at Watertown early this morning. Attorney Brown said the latter case would be presented if the proper evidence was forthcoming before 2 o'clock.

SCHOFIELD GETS $20,000 BAKERY

Plans are being drawn at the office of the department quartermaaster for a modern bakery building to be constructed at Schofield Barracks under the general building plan that has been developed for that post.

The building will be of concrete and exclusive of all equipment and machinery will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000. It will be approximately 150 by 55 feet dimensions and will contain four huge ovens able to satisfy the daily hunger of some 20,000 people.

Under the general plan proposed for the building the flour will be brought in at one end of the building and the finished bread will be passed out at the opposite end, the necessary mixing and cooking being done by stages on the way.

One corner of the big building will be used as a dormitory by the baking unit. There will also be a recreation room where the bakers may lounge and read when off duty.

Oil will probably be used as fuel for the ovens and the oil burning devices will be of the latest type. In fact the whole establishment is to be constructed on modern lines. It is not known definitely yet when the work will be started.

HAWAII BOY WOUNDED WHILE FIGHTING HUNS

George Kealia Kahea, Hawaiian, who has been fighting with the Britishers in the front, has been heard from. Although seriously wounded, according to reports received here, he is said to have expressed his eagerness to fight on with his company.

Kahea was born near the Royal Mousoleum on Nuuanu street and after attending schools in Honolulu, he went to the States, where he resided before going to England.

Kahea is the great granson of Captain George Beckley, military advisor of Kamehameha, first commander of the original Honolulu fort, which was located at the foot of what is now known as Fort street.

MAUI HOSPITAL CHARGES FIXED BY SUPERVISORS

(Special Star Bulletin Correspondence)

WAILUKU, Maui, Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the Maui board of supervisors last week the matter of rates and also the regulations of the Makulani hospital, Wailuku, and the Hana hospital was discussed. At Hana it was settled that the rate should be $1.50 per day. It is expected that at the next meeting of the board full report will be submitted by the special committee consisting of Messrs. Fleming and Drummond.

John E. Rodrigues was appointed poundmaster at Kalapue, Molokai, where a pound is to be established in connection with the county stables.

A flat rate of $1.50 a yard was offered the county by the H. C. and S. Co. for all grades of crushed rock for the macadamizing of the Camp 3 road. This low figure was made possible because the company has a large rock crusher and can do the work for a reasonable figure. The matter is being carefully considered by the county fathers.

The lower portion of the Pukalani road is to be finished by vote of the board. This will be a very marked improvement in the roads of this section of Maui.

W. E. Bal, district overseer for Wailuku, has been authorized to proceed with the laying of a much needed water pipe in the Wailuku cemetery.

POLICE COURT NOTES

Thirty-seven persons were taken to police headquarters over the week-end, charged with anything from gross cheat and insanity to having opium in their possession. The station was taxed to the limit.

Because she had imbibed too freely of samshu, Mrs. Ahou, of Dowsett lane, was taken to the emergency hospital yesterday afternoon, and was treated for what the attendants thought was poisoning. Dr. Ayer discovered that it was only samshu and sent her home.

Thomas Douglas, a 25th Infantry soldier, driving Capt. Bankhead's car, was placed under arrest late last night charged with reckless driving. He was running the machine, in which was Capt. Russell, 25th Infantry, when he tried to squeeze between two other cars in front of Vida Villa. He smashed into a car driven by a Japanese. Both autos were completely wrecked, although no one was injured.

The two prisoners who dove into a clump of keawe bushes last week and made a clean getaway, are once more at home in the city jail. Kapu Keawekane went home to his father, who promptly turned him over to the jailer. Kapeliela was picked up in Kakaako by a special officer.

When a drunken soldier at Kuliouou yesterday pulled a revolver and threatened to shoot anyone in sight after he had counted to twenty, the gang of carousers with him broke for the keawe trees. One brave soldier sneaked up behind the gunman and hit him over the head with an iron bar. The man with the revolver was dumped into the sidecar of a motorcycle and taken to the Fort Shafter hospital.

Jerome J. Patten, 58 years old, and E. Thayer, aged 30, both photographers living at 522 Hotel street, got into an argument over whether a ratcatching cat should continue to catch rats around the premises. Thayer, it was charged, tried to wring the cat's neck. Patten stopped him. Thayer swore out a warrant for assault and battery against the older man, who was arrested and later released on bail.

It took eight men to hold down a Hawaiian who ran amuck near the pineapple canneries at Iwilei Saturday. The man, who is believed to be insane, was causing trouble for a Japanese and one of the cannery officials, when he suddenly became violent. Eight men held him down while the emergency hospital ambulance was called. The insane man is now at the emergency hospital.

Because she was twitted when a physician wrongly diagnosed her case, a young Portuguese girl drank alcohol Saturday afternoon. The girl had been ill, and a charity physician believed her to be in trouble. He sent her to the Queen's hospital where it was found that there was nothing wrong with the patient at all. Friends, however, got hold of the physician's report and made fun of her. She thought poison was the quickest way out. Dr. R. G. Ayer, at the Emergency hospital, treated the girl for poisoning, and got her out of danger.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS CONSERVATION SERMON

Emphasizing the fact that "Patriotic Conservation" is one of the most important issues which the people of the world today are interested in, Dr. J. [illegible] Williams, last night, preached a stirring sermon before a large audience which gathered in the Central Union Church.

"No nation on the globe wakes so quickly as the United States when the great need is set before it," said Dr. Williams. Continuing, he said if we value human life, we must value the means to sustain life. It is only by economy and elimination of waste that life can be kept in a state of vigor and efficiency; conservation must be the nation's watchword.

HILO CANVASSES CITIZENS ABOUT BUYING OF BONDS

(Special Star Bulletin Correspondence)

HILO, Sept. 21.—The county of Hawaii will soon have a chance to show how much money can be raised through the territorial bonds, which pay four per cent interest. A committee of the board of trade has been appointed to canvass the town and county and see what promise there is in the way of selling bonds locally. This committee is expected to turn in a report within a short time.

There are many improvements to undertake and chief among them is the first section of concrete road to the Volcano. That this proposition should be a territorial one and paid for by special taxation has been the opinion of most persons. The board of trade of Hilo went on record many months ago as indorsing a proposition to have a concrete road constructed to the Volcano at the expense of the territory at large. Representative Norman K. Lyman, who was requested to introduce the bill for this purpose and to fight for that object, effected what he called a compromise whereby the sum of $200,000 was appropriated from the loan fund for the road, with the provision contained that the county of Hawaii would have to pay the money back, plus interest. This was directly opposite to the wishes of the board of trade and the manner in which the "compromise" was made has been a sore subject ever since.

While it is realized that a concrete road to the Volcano would be a fine thing, it is declared that the taxpayers of the county of Hawaii should not have to bear the entire cost of the undertaking as such a road, they argue, would be a territorial asset.

Now that the burden of providing the money also falls upon the people of this county and no road will be constructed unless the bonds be locally sold to cover the cost, some people are asking whether it is not a foolish move altogether to dream of building such a highway at the present time with this country at war, when every cent that can possibly be raised is needed for Liberty loans.

TENDER KUKUI IS COMING BACK

After three years in Alaskan waters the lighthouse tender Kukui, built and named especially for service in the Hawaiian islands, is to be brought back here the middle of December. The Columbine, the present tender here, is to be taken to Seattle. Telegraphic instructions to this effect have been sent to A. E. Arledge, lighthouse inspector for this district.

Mr. Arledge explains that if weather conditions will permit the absence of a tender from here, the Columbine will leave some time between November 1 and 5 for Seattle, where the officers and crew will be transferred to the Kukui to return to the islands. The Kukui will leave the northern Pacific port about the first of December and is expected to arrive here between December 12 and 14.

The Kukui was taken to Ketchikan, Alaska, the headquarters of the 16th Lighthouse district, three years ago, after a large tender was lost in those waters. As she has a net tonnage of 677 tons and was larger than the Columbine, she was more serviceable for the Alaskan work than the smaller vessel which was sent to this station. Now a new, big tender of 1600 tons is nearing completion to replace the Kukui at Ketchikan.

BRIGADIERS FROM OAHU ASSIGNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 12.—General officers of the United States army are again in prominence at Western department headquarters in the Santa Fe building. No less than five brigadier-generals registered yesterday in the big book there and paid their respects to Major-General Arthur Murray, department commander. One of the visitors, Brigadier-General Lloyd M. Brett, wears with his service ribbons the insignia of the highest military honor this country can bestow, the medal of honor, that commands a salute from every soldier, no matter what his rank may be.

The brigadiers arrived yesterday from Honolulu on their way to the various national army camps.

Brigadier-General Brett will command the 166th Infantry Brigade of the 86th Division at Camp Lee, Virginia. Brigadier-General Andrews [illegible] the 154th Field Artillery Brigade of the 79th Division at Camp Meade, Maryland. Brigadier-General J. H. McRae, the 75th Depot Brigade of the 83rd Division at Camp Sherman, Ohio, and Brigadier-General William Weigel, the 151st Depot Brigade of the 76th Division at Camp Devens, Mass. It is not known to what organizations Brigadier-General L. G. Berry, the remaining visiting general, will be assigned.

MAN SHOT IN FIGHT DIES; ASSAILANT HELD

Shot through the stomach when a gambling game at [illegible] ended in a fight, Mantaleo Wham, a young Filipino, died in Queen's hospital last night. Cornalio Soberano charged with first degree murder.

The fight is said to have started over a gambling game, in which the dead man is believed to have been a heavy winner. Some said he was cheating and the fight began. The prosiner, who is charged with the murder, is said by witnesses to have pulled a gun and shot Wham.

This makes about the fourth murder case within the past few weeks

EAT WHAT YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT IT

People who consistently deny their appetite some particular dish appealing especially to their palate, because indulgence has always meant subsequent suffering, will think this a strong statement. It is a fact, however, that most people can, without fear of distressing consequences, indulge the appetite within reason if the bowels are active and regular.

Heavy dinners and late suppers can be enjoyed with impunity if, before retiring, one will take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that druggists sell for fifty cents a bottle. Gentle in action and positive in effect, it regulates the bowels in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort, and is the ideal family laxative. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist and keep it in the house. Use it occasionally and you will find you can eat almost anything you like without fear of consequences. A trial bottle can be obtained free of charge by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

The housekeeper who is desirous of setting a pleasing table without undue expenditure of money will find the Casserole dish an indispensable addition to her table service. It changes the nature of an ordinary commonplace meal and gives it an air of elegance and distinction.

NIPPON PAPER WITHDRAWS FROM WAGE MOVEMENT

"Now is the best time to get higher wages."

With the above remark almost all the speakers at last night's meeting of the Japanese higher wage association, held in the Asahi Theater on Maunakea street, roared at the top of their voices and urged the audience to support them in their movement. About 1500 were present.

Fred K. Makino, editor of the Hawaii Hochi, presided. He said that the meeting was for the purpose of hearing expressions from the speakers, preparatory to formulating their plans for presentation to the planters' association, asking that the wages of the laborers in the plantations be raised.

The Nippu Jiji was not represented at the meeting. Editor Y. Soga, according to reports, refusing to participate in the movement.

The stand taken by the Nippu Jiji so irritated the leaders that they charged the former with having sided in with the planters. K. Izumi of the Yoto said that the Nippu Jiji has been won over by the influence of the planters.

REGISTRATION IN HAWAII COST U. S. TWO CENTS A MAN

Maj. F. J. Green, in charge of the territory's registration and draft work, estimates that the actual cost to the federal government of registering the 30,000 men, here was about $600. Hhis is on an average of two cents per man.

Of course the actual cost of registration was more than this, for a large part of it was borne by the various counties and not charged up to the federal government at all.

On the mainland the cost of registering 10,000,000 men was approximately $8,000,000 or 80 cents a man. It should be remembered, however, in considering this expense that it covers all the cost of printing forms, making filing cases and acquiring other material which could be charged to overhead expense.

30,000 TONS SUGAR STILL IN TERRITORY

All but about 30,000 tons of the Hawaiian sugar crop for 1917 will have been carried out on the way to the market by the end of this month. Then the total will reach [illegible] tons, which will leave a very small margin for shipment during October and possibly afterward for some of the plantations have been delayed in their grinding by the lack of water for fluming.

The estimate of the crop is 637,152 tons but about [illegible] tons is ordinarily figured for home consumption which would leave only about 15,000 tons for later shipment.

ISHII'S VISIT CEMENTS BONDS SAYS LANSING

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—That the visit of Viscount Ishii and the war mission from Japan has resulted in a strengthening of the bonds of friendship between Japan and the United States is the emphatic opinion of Secretary of State Lansing.

In an interview today that official declared that his "conversations with Viscount Ishii had been most satisfactory. I think the visit of the Japanese mission to this country has been most helpful in benefiting the relations of the two countries and in strengthening the bonds of friendship."

ARGENTINE VOTE ON WAR HALTED BY LATE NOTE

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—Declaration of war by Argentina against Germany has been postponed by the arrival in Buenos Aires just as the vote on war or peace was to be taken in the chamber of deputies of Germany's reply to Argentina's ultimatum.

The German note expressed "disapproval" of Luxburg's ideas on "cruiser warfare." Announcement by the foreign minister that a note had come from Germany in response to the utimatum resulted in a postponement of the vote and an adjournment until today when it is expected that the foreign minister will present the text of the German reply to the deputies.

SWEDISH CRISIS INCREASES WITH U. S. REVELATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Signs of a crisis in Sweden's ministerial affairs and of the probable disruption of the present ministry are multiplying, according to reports received in London from Copenhagen. These are occasioned to an extent by results of the recently held elections but more especially by the revelations of the state of affairs that have existed in state of affairs that has existed in the Swedish legation at Buenos Aires. They are further aggravated by the fact that Germany has sent no satisfactory reply to Sweden's demand for a full explanation of the Luxburg episode.

PRICE OF BEET SUGAR WILL BE REDUCED OCT. 1

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Beet sugar is due to drop nearly a cent a pound in price by October 1.

Producers and refiners will be allowed to charge only 7.25 cents a pound on that day. The price is now 8.20c a pound.

Cane sugar is sold on a basis of 8.40 cents a pound, custom giving cane granulated a differential of .20 of a cent the higher price.

"But only for immediate requirements" was the word passed out to all retail grocers.

The order from Washington that beet sugar must be sold at this price has thrown the entire industry into a waiting attitude.

No one knows even what 7.25 cents a pound means.

The original order fixed this price at the American primary points, which prevail for cane sugar—San Francisco, New Orleans, Chicago, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

It so happens that nearly all of the beet sugar raised in the United States is produced far distant from these primary points.

The Utah and Colorado beet sugar houses are a thousand miles or so away from the nearest. Those in Southern California are from 400 to 550 miles away.

What is puzzling the California beet producers is who is going to absorb the freight between the beet sugar houses and the "primary point"—in this case San Francisco. The position of the Utah, Colorado, Idaho and Oregon sugar houses is still more puzzling.

Connected with this is the problem as to how the government will fix profits on the output, and on what basis the excess war profits will be assessed against the beet sugar houses.

Why the federal government has fixed the price of beet sugar without attempting to interfere with cane sugar prices is explained in this manner:

"Beet sugar represents about one-fifth of the American consumption. By lowering the price of beet sugar the government pushes the American production at once into consumption.

"Meanwhile dealing is in progress with the Cuban producers for their crop. England, France and the refiners of the United States will all buy through the United States government, and there is no intention to pay any excessive price to the Cuban producers.

"About 4 to 4.40 cents is believed to be the price that will be offered the Cubans. If they do not take it, enough steamers can be requisitioned to bring the excess supplies in Java and the Philippines to the United States and the Allies.

"The government does not prefer to use this sugar on account of the time necessary to bring it here."

After the beet sugar is sold out, the government is expected to fix a price of 7.25 cents for cane granulated sugar. Here are the figures of two San Francisco experts as to how this will be done with Cuban sugar:

	Cents	Cents
Price to producer	4.00	4.40
Freight to U. S.	.75	.50
Duty	1.00	1.00
Refining and profit	1.50	1.35
	7.25	7.25

These experts do not agree on the cost of freight from Cuba, neither are they in accord as to a fair cost and profit mark for the refiners, but they agree that 7.25 for cane sugar is in sight, and that it will take effect when the beet sugar of the United States is used up, which will be about January first.

NAMES OF MEN WHO TOOK GOLD OF HUNS, KNOWN

Von Bernstorff's fund, disbursed with the object of delaying the administration's policy against Germany.

"What I did say," declared the representative from Alabama, "was that there were rumors that in the gambling houses in Washington which were run by Germans, Pacifist backers and pro-Germans won easily.

"If the house wants I can name men who are disloyal, but I can't prove anything. The tree is known by its fruit."

As the solon resumed his seat there was a succession of noisy scenes, and an acrimonious discussion followed.

How Germany "shamefully abused and exploited the protection which was afforded to it by the United States," was told by Secretary of State Lansing in further revelations which he made public yesterday.

Quantities of explosives and deadly germs and microbes were taken to and concealed in and about the building in Bucharest that had been occupied by the German legation up to the time when Rumania entered the war on the side of the Allies. These were brought in before war was declared but were concealed afterward and this was done after the United States had taken charge of German affairs in Rumania. Of this Lansing gives conclusive proofs.

Offenses Admitted

A part of the announcement made yesterday is the report of Secretary Andrews of the Bucharest United States legation. "Servants of the former German legation and a former confidential agent of the German minister at Bucharest admitted to me that explosives, microbes and germs had been hidden in and about the building formerly occupied by the legation after the breach between Germany and Rumania and after the United States had taken charge of German affairs at the request of the German government. They said that some had been hidden in the garden and still larger quantities buried under the house."

Circuit Judge Ashford's trial jurors not engaged in the case of R. S. Morehead have been excused until 9 o'clock next Wednesday morning.

HONOLULAN WILL CENSOR MAIL TO CENTRAL POWERS

Private correspondence allowed to pass from the United States to the Central Powers, and from those nations back to America, hereafter will be censored by W. R. Castle, Jr., a Honolulu man, to whose department of the Red Cross this important work was lately assigned.

At the request of the department of state, the Red Cross is taking over the censorship of correspondence intended for Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, and persons desiring to inquire regarding the welfare of friends or relatives residing in territory belonging to or occupied by the Central Powers should communicate with the bureau of communication, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C. Proper inquiries will be transmitted to Geneva, Switzerland, and from there to the persons for whom they are intended.

The following points are to be observed by all inquirers.

1. Letters of inquiry must be addressed to the bureau of communication; not to the person concerning whom inquiry is made.

2. Letters must be concise, since only the briefest communication can be sent.

3. They must mention only personal matters, such as communications concerning the condition of members of the family and requests for similar information.

4. Letters must be legible and must be in English, French, Italian Russian, German, Polish, Hungarian, Turkish or Greek.

5. They must include the full name, address and occupation of the sender and the full name, address, occupation and age of the person for whom the inquiry is destined.

6. Inquiries concerning the same person may not be made oftener than once in six weeks.

The bureau of communication reserves the right to refuse to transmit any information or inquiry which appears to be contrary to the national welfare.

COME EARLY FOR GOOD SEATS!

STAR SEEN IN DOMESTIC DRAMA

"Sleeping Fires," a strong dramatic offering from the pen of George Middleton, written expressly for Pauline Frederick and produced by the Famous Players Film Company, is the feature offering at the Liberty theater and will continue through the early part of the week. "Sleeping Fires" should bring out good audiences, as it is a powerful drama.

Unlike the usual feature in which Miss Frederick is cast, she here appears as a good woman. Not that she is usually bad—in the pictures—but that her average role shows her, well, as Zaza, Bella Donna, Sapho and in like parts. As Zelma Bryce, in "Sleeping Fires," she is a faithful wife and mother. The husband and father (John Sainpolis) in this instance being the villain. Zelma is forced to fight a life and death battle for her own son, the father being willing to use the little lad as a weapon with which to secure a divorce in order that he may wed his secretary.

Pauline Frederick is easily the star of the production, although she has excellent support in Thomas Meighan, one of the idols of followers of Paramount pictures and Maury Stewart, a youthful actor who appears as the son, being billed as "The Little Fellow."

There is ample opportunity for Miss Frederick to demonstrate in this character her versatility and to win for her, stronger than ever, the title of "the screen's greatest emotional actress."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AGAIN IN TOWN

"C. C." is here—the initials meaning Charlie Chaplin. Which announcement should be productive of mammoth crowds at the Hawaii theater during the next several days.

"The Floor Walker," is the latest Chaplain success and the latest Hawaii attraction. Those who have seen Chaplain and know the job of a floor walker should have no trouble is imagining just how funny this film really is. He finds more ways to produce mirth than the average individual would believe possible.

Charlie Chaplin is a good tonic for the "tired business man" and his entire family. He is equally as effective with the businessmen who is not so tired. The old folks enjoy the comedian and so do the young ones. Chaplin caters to no particular age, sex or class. He is a people's mirthmaker.

Usually, a comedy is billed as an "added attraction," not so with Chaplin. The added attraction at the Hawaii for the early part of the week is "The Jungle Child," a strong Triangle feature.

ANOTHER BEACH FILM AT BIJOU

William Farnum appeared in the leading role in that famous photodrama "The Spoilers" and he became famous. Since that production he has been one of the prime favorites of the silent drama, and while he has appeared in a number of great successes, the greatest of all is easily "The Spoilers," edition de luxe, now being shown at the Bijou theater.

While the original edition was one of the biggest attractions ever brought to Honolulu, the producers felt there was something lacking and "tried again." In the second edition there are but few changes in the cast and these for the better. Farnum still appears as Glenister, while Kathlyn Williams has been added, essaying the role of Cherry Malotte, the dance hall girl who plays such a prominent part in the screen story.

It is likely that the fight scene in "The Spoilers" has called for more comment than any one scene ever photographed. In the present offering the fight scene stands out above all others.

"The Spoilers" is on its farewell tour, the picture rights expiring in the near future and anyone who misses the Bijou during the present week will miss one of the really big things of the camera.

The initiation of candidates will take up most of the time at the meeting of Excelsior Ladge No. 1., I. O. O. F. tomorrow evening.

The Whisky Men's Enlistment

The week-end record of drunken rows is an ever-recurring reminder of the results delivered by men of this city whose business is the traffic in intoxicating liquors.

These men have said that they are ready and anxious to do everything during the period of the war to assist the United States of America.

Every drunken man in the uniform of the United States is a demonstration of the weakness, insincerity or duplicity of these well-spoken men in the liquor business.

When the liquor men made their declaration it was supposed to be like all honorable enlistments, till the end of the war.

They know that the men for whom they speak control all the intoxicating liquor that comes to this island.

They know that when a drunken soldier reels down the street he is an evidence of their incapacity or dishonesty. The assumption is that the liquor that caused this man to violate military regulation came from some "blind pig."

They know that they could control the "blind pig" business if the desire to assist the United States of America during the period of the war were equal to the greed for a dollar.

Knowing these facts as the liquor men do and as we all do, every day brings proof that the liquor men are not "playing square." They either are deliberate in their intention to trick the community or they are just plain deficient.

In either case they have yet to give practical evidence that they offered anything but an empty bluff when they said they were willing, ready and anxious to assist the country during the war.

WILSON'S FIGHT FOR PEACE.

A Honolulan, recently returned from the mainland, relates a conversation he had with the chairman of a Democratic state committee, in which this worthy told him that he was much puzzled at the attitude that President Wilson was taking in regard to public affairs. This political gentleman, who should be given credit for astuteness, professed to be at sea where his leader's intentions were concerned. He said that he would not be surprised in a couple of months to hear that Wilson was advocating peace.

This much for practical politicians. They are as a rule so unused to plain speech that they cannot comprehend that there may be truth in the statement Wilson has repeatedly made; his declaration that he is fighting for peace. Anyone who has taken the trouble to read his words knows that he is doing all in his power to bring such a condition about. That we are at war with Germany is no more his fault than it is the fault of Argentine republic that she will ultimately be forced into the same predicament. One must defend himself against a murderer. A country must defend its rights.

From the very outset President Wilson has had definite aims in view. In spite of hysterical denunciation, he refused to make war on Mexico. Now we can see that he was right. Not only are our hands free at the present moment from that embarrassment, but we have fostered the confidence of Latin America into the bargain. They perceived that he was playing square.

America can reassure herself. A strong man is at the helm. We are going to have peace and it will be a good peace when it comes. We can trust Wilson for that.

BRING ON THE GOLFERS.

Riley Allen's suggestion that some of the champion golfers of the country be asked to come to Honolulu during the winter Carnival season is one that should stir the golfers of the Country Club to action.

If we can assemble in Honolulu the best tennis men of the country and also set the pace for the swimming men and women of the world, there is good reason to believe that this golfer's paradise could be made the center of winter tournaments that would possess all the advantages of championship contests in other sports.

Honolulu is just beginning to realize that it has something to do in providing the sinews for this war. The Red Cross drive and the widening interest in this particular branch of the service is a splendid proof that willing workers are discovering how they can help. Keep the date in mind and be sure to have the money in your pocket.

With a murder about every other day somewhere in Hawaii and murder trials, exclusive of grand jury investigations, taking an average of ten days each, Justice is heavily handicapped even with six circuit courts in the territory.

While Honolulu is debating what kind of a Carnival is to be held in February, there is no doubt about the kind of Carnival King Alcohol is holding all the time. Its events are crowding the news columns of the daily papers.

Have you decided whether you have done anything to help win this war. It is time to begin action somewhere along your line of living.

Old Dobbin's Finish

"Old Dobbin" is approaching his finish. Before many years he will have plowed his last furrow, just as in Honolulu the last hack plug will have pulled his last fare. The gasoline motor tractor will take the place of the noble animal on the farm. Or, if gasoline becomes too scarce and high, then internal combustion motors using any sort of cheap grease fuel will serve the same purpose.

Partly on account of the war, and partly through the march of progress making farming a business rather than an occupation, tractors are displacing horses in many countries, in some lands indeed not hitherto particularly noteworthy for keeping up with the times.

"Since the beginning of the war," Consul William P. Kent writes from Berne, Swiss peasants have paid increased attention to American agricultural machinery, especially to motor plows. The principal drawback to the introduction of modern American agricultural machinery in Switzerland is that few farmers own more than five to ten acres and about five to ten head of cattle; but recently the larger peasant associations have shown an interest in such machinery, and they might act as purchasers of the machines, renting them to the farmers."

Spain is heard from to the same effect, through Consul Wilbur T. Gracey at Seville. He says that considerable interest recently has been aroused in the Seville district in the use of tractors for farm work. A few years ago, it is stated, machines of that class were unknown in that part of Spain. One was imported in 1915 and three in 1916. "These trial machines were so successful," according to the consul, "that 29 have been imported in the first five months of 1917."

In Great Britain the government, in its food activities in connection with the war, has about 500 farm tractors in use. These are rented to farmers at a fixed price per acre. Consul J. N. McCunn at Glasgow says: "Without doubt there never was a time in the history of Great Britain when there was such a demand for motor tractors on the farms as at present." After explaining how this is largely due to war stimulus and the fact that before the war "the British farmer was not sufficiently encouraged by landlords to extend his cultivated areas," Mr. McCunn goes on to say that "prior to eight months ago no great interest was taken in mechanical traction for agricultural purposes"—this notwithstanding the fame the Fowler plow from an English factory earned in Hawaii and other sugar fields many years ago—"but existing conditions have forced such assistance well into view."

Finally, Consul Rufus Fleming at Edinburgh, says in part: "The marked success of tractors in many counties of Scotland, especially in the lowlands, for plowing and other farm purposes is just now the most notable feature of the agriculture industry. Several American types of 16 to 24 horsepower have done satisfactory work and have proved to be invaluable aids in breaking up the land at a time of serious shortage of farm labor. They have come to be regarded as a necessity for agriculture in the future."

War conditions promise to convince Hawaii that its agricultural industry may be expanded to produce food for its people as well as specialties of commerce. When the interests of the homesteader and the small farmer are coordinated, as seems an early probability arising from the present food conservation campaign, there is no reason why the diversified agriculture of the territory should not be marked by the same high standard of scientific appliances which has made the Hawaiian sugar industry world-renowned.

France asks the United States to allow her 100,000 tons of sugar next month. This is equal to nearly one-fifth of the annual export sugar crop of Hawaii, which in 1916 was 580,000 tons. Last year Hawaii imported from the United States molasses to the value of $12,593, refined sugar valued at $55,298 and confectionery at $170,463, a total of $238,354. Mr. Hoover asks the people of the United States to reduce by one-third their consumption of sugar so that France may have what she wants. Counting the domestic sugar consumed here, Hawaii's consumption is perhaps around half a million dollars' worth, so that this territory, to do its share, ought to sacrifice its sweet tooth to the amount of $166,666.

Though the city treasury may be empty, it seems reasonable that sufficient credit could be secured from some source to obtain the rock and the men necessary to fill some of the holes in the main highways. One or two holes in the road on the town side of Fort Shafter have probably done more damage to vehicles than could be equaled by the expense of ten men working on that particular strip for six months.

The kaiser indicates that he is willing to give up Belgium if he can be sure of the return of his colonies. He seems to forget that being the most despised man on earth he will be entitled to nothing and his own countrymen will one day seek to blot his name from history, because of the awful fate to which he has brought them.

ISLAND GOSSIP DRIPS FROM PEN OF CLEVER 'TOWN TALK' EDITOR

Theodore F. Bonnet Discusses Politics, Commerce and Society of Hawaii

Hawaiian gossip—political, commercial and social—are woven into an article by Theodore F. Bonnet, editor of the Town Talk of San Francisco, in a recent number of his publication. Mr. Bonnet recently visited the islands, and his impressions are given herewith:

"Life is romantic at all times and in all seasons; probably more so in the tropics than elsewhere. In the tropics there is much of the freshness of an untold fairy story in every fantastic cloud, much of the enchantment of mystery in every exotic shape that nature has taken. On a flying trip into the tropics, from which I returned the other day, I met romance at every turn; even at Waikiki beach, famous in ragtime and lyric for sentimental adventure, the kind that poets regard as the very substance of romance. Even there, I say, because as a matter of fact, it is not romance but matter-of-fact that holds one at Waikiki. Imagination does the rest. You stare there at the Pacific with a wild surmise, like one silent upon a peak in Darien; for many a sad and melancholy song to the irritating accompaniment of the tinklelaylee, which you have groaned at somewhere "in the states," as they say in the islands, has invested the beach with a vague sympathy and misunderstanding that give the scene of a well-worn theme a certain indescribable freshness. You stare at Japs here, there and everywhere, most unromantic Japs, and mayhap you feel the sting of a mosquite, and then you wake up and stare some more—but not with a wild surmise. Having seen beaches on many a Pacific and not a few Atlantic coasts I was not greatly thrilled at the romance of Waikiki. Yet it is not to be gainsaid that romance abounds in the tropics. You sense it first on the ocean approaches thereto, folks on shipboard seeming to have it in their system. They give manifestations of it on deck in the moonlight of the doldrums. They yield to it going and coming. To what extent the spirit of romance dominates the tropics, one may infer from the circumstance that romance is discussed even in the Commercial Club of Honolulu—the romance of politics. Yes, there is a romance even of politics in the tropics. There is for example the romance of Lucius E. Pinkham, the governor of the territory who, as a private citizen became a Republic overnight on a trip from Honolulu to 'the states' and landed the gubernatorial job by virtue of his timely change of complexion.

"The romance of Governor Pinkham interested me because of the part played therein by personalities with whom I am acquainted. Our own fellow citizen, the Hon. Bill Kent of Kentfield, the gentleman who sponsored the bewildering shipping board commissioner from California, is one of Governor Pinkham's backers. How interesting to go far from home and learn of the activities of the neighbors we have left behind. Denman's friend, Kent, is not the only man from California who has put in a good word at headquarters for Governor Pinkham. Franklin K. Lane has busied himself in Pinkham's behalf, and will doubtless assist again now that the governor's term is drawing to a close and his enemies are very busy.

GOVERNOR PINKHAM.

"There is a movement on in Honolulu to separate Pinkham from his job. The head and front of this movement, it is said, is S. C. Huber, the federal district attorney of the islands, who has the backing of W. A. Bryan, a professor in the College of Hawaii and chairman of the Democratic Central committee. Now political intrigue in the Paradise of the Pacific is spiced with the very same ingredients that are employed elsewhere. When the visiting Japanese commission was about to be given a reception in Honolulu some months ago the tip was given out that if wine were served at the banquet a complaint would be sent to Washington because of the military officers invited. Thus was Pinkham to be caught napping, and he called off the wine. When he made a speech to a company of Boy Scouts somebody perceived that his sentiments were pro-German and he was taken to task by Lorrin A. Thurston proprietor of the Commercial Advertiser, the same Thurston who served as Minister to the Provisional Government in the days of Grover Cleveland. From one group of partisans one learns that Pinkham stands in with the Big Five, the most powerful of the sugar planters who are prospering as never before. The Big Five are Alexander & Baldwin, Castle & Cooke, Brewer & Co., H. Hackfeld and T. H. Davies. From Pinkham's friends one learns that the big sugar plantations are in the main controlled by the descendants of the old missionary element who are still powerful enough to direct the spirit of the community, but that when Pinkham was appointed governor the office was for the first time made independent of missionary influence. The fact is, however, that before Pinkham's appointment he was employed by the Planters' Association and sent to the Philippines to get labor for the plantations of Hawaii.

"Whatever the truth as to the governor's attitude toward the powerful planters they appear to be somewhat uncertain as to his intention respecting the homestead problem. The homesteading of lands has been very unsatisfactory since the lands invariably fall into the possession of the planters, and it is felt that the system of disposing of the lands should be improved. Another pressing problem is that of the traction system which has not thus far yielded any revenue to the people. But all these are questions apart from the real romance of the islands, which appear to be destined to grow in importance as a resort of tourists, especially of people with army and navy social connections. Before the war Honolulu was a great garrison town, and doubtless it will become much greater after the war. Certainly with its colossal new drydock it will be found to be of great importance to the navy. The general impression in the islands is that our government regards it of the utmost importance that Honolulu should become the Gibraltar of the Pacific and thus render the Pacific Coast secure from attack. By reason of this impression the people are inspirited at the prospect of even greater prosperity than has prevailed of late. They feel that they are no longer to be dependent wholly on the sugar plantations; and in truth they have one other industry that is growing, that of the by-products of the pineapple, for which lately they have become indebted to the chemist's laboratory. Between these two industries great has become the prosperity of the Oahu railroad which renders the plantations accessible to tidewater. The owners of this road, by the way, have availed themselves of the services of a crack traffic expert from San Francisco, Jack Butler, formerly of the Southern Pacific, a gentleman who has many friends in this city. Butler's talents have attracted the attention of railroad men all over the country, but he is under contract in Honolulu, and as he has become acclimated he is well satisfied for the present with his experiences in the Paradise of the Pacific."

LETTERS

GET TO WORK, MEN.

Editor Star-Bulletin:

Sir: The political spectacle, seance, skit or whatever one may wish to call it which is unfolding itself in the present board of supervisors of this city and county is not pleasing to the eye, or comforting to the conscience of the average patriotic citizen. What has this board done since July 1st? The tendency to political squabbling, which for so many years has held this city at its mercy, is holding the whip hand as usual, and apparently taking advantage of the present crisis to do just as it pleases. A case, apparently, of the public be darned.

Our country is at war with one of the most powerful military nations the world has ever produced, and no matter how sure we are that we can subdue Germany, there is always an uncertainty about war that makes a thoughtful man consider.

This is the psychological moment when prudence and patriotism call for and demand from our public servants as strenuous care and economy in public affairs as is given to private affairs by the average citizen.

Does the consensus of opinion on the amount of work the present board of supervisors has done since it took office call for hurrahs, and possibly a monument in the future? Not by a jug full. Does any citizen of Honolulu for one moment suppose that the endless controversy over who is going to be foreman of the smoke at the city garbage incinerator, or some equally unimportant appointment is dictated by any unselfish effort for the public good? To what end are the endless obstructions and delays to the appointment of a much-needed city and county engineer? What about other public work, jobs too numerous to mention, our beautiful (?) streets that are being held up because possibly one supervisor don't exactly catch on to what the other one is trying to put over?

Public shoutings, furnishing the band to welcome distinguished visitors; building parks, when every front yard in Honolulu is a park itself, has a tendency to instil in a gaping crowd a due idea of their importance and patriotism. But how about the real, earnest and unselfish consideration which should dictate every economy and efficiency in the public service, the husbanding of the taxpayers' money for the uncertain demands that may arise in the near future.

We are a long ways from the seat of war, but if a crash comes it will hit us just as hard as it will the people of the New England States.

Like dogs fighting over a bone, there is a continual wrangle over who shall or shall not do this or that. Why this anxious endeavor to prevent the other fellow spending money for public betterments? A good citizen is satisfied if the money is spent for the public good; he has no itch to get his hands on the coin.

The people of Honolulu have never had the courage, conscience and political virtue to free themselves from a city governing body that seemingly is more of a millstone about its neck than a guiding hand toward progressive methods.

The Blush of Shame

IT brought a blush of shame to the cheeks of half-a-dozen folks who overheard it:

"Let the missionaries do it."

It was a well-dressed clerk that spoke. He draws a salary of something like two hundred dollars a month, and has a family of a wife and two children. Amongst his customers are scores of the best people of Honolulu, most of them belonging to the so-called "missionary" class.

His companion was a plainly dressed mechanic, belonging to what is commonly called, for some inexplicable reason, the "working class." He earns probably five dollars a day when he works, and has a wife and five children to support.

A pained look came over the mechanic's face. He had asked his friend to subscribe to the American Red Cross fund, and was plainly disappointed at the answer he got. He hesitated a moment, and then spoke very slowly and deliberately, but very earnestly:

"Look here, John, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. This war is not being fought for the 'missionaries' or any one class of people, but for you and for me, and for my wife and your wife, and for our children. We live in the best country on God's earth, and common gratitude ought to make us willing to sacrifice something for her in this hour of her trial. The fellow who is willing to let somebody else do it all while he and his family enjoy the benefits without cost is little less than a traitor, and I know you are nothing like that. While hundreds of thousands of our fellow citizens are not only giving up their businesses and their homes, but actually offering their lives in sacrifice before the enemies' guns, surely those of us who stay at home ought to contribute of our means. We don't have a superabundance in our home, but wife and I have decided to economize in every possible way, and we are going to take one dollar memberships in the Red Cross for every member of our family, including the baby, and then we are going to make a monthly contribution of ten dollars, and more if possible."

John was looking serious. The car stopped at a corner and the two friends got off. Some of the remaining passengers exchanged nods of approval of what the mechanic had said. And more than one of them who knew John personally registered the hope that he would be a man and not a slacker. And I believe he will not disappoint them.

25th INFANTRY WALLOPS NINTH FIELD ARTILLERY AT MOILIILI

Wrecking Crew Appears Against Another Schofield Team to Win By Overwhelming Score of 12 to 1—Fleetwood Starts Rally for Losers in Ninth Frame When Run Was Scored

Wreckers 12, 9th Field Artillery 1.

Rallying in the last of the ninth when Fleetwood, batting for Duddleson, knocked the ball in a clean drive over second for the third hit for the team, Likins followed with another hit, the fourth, and Mulhern brought the first batter in on a sacrifice fly, the 9th Field Artillery saved itself from an absolute outclassification in the second game at Moiliili park yesterday afternoon.

With "Chief" Waterhouse pitching wonderful ball, the 25th Infantry Wreckers had an easy time with the other team from Schofield. Too easy for the fans, for they began to stream out of the grandstand as early as the sixth inning and had nearly all left when the 9th Artillery came back with its one redeeming run.

Moore opened the game for the losers by twirling the kind of ball off of which the Wreckers were able to score six runs. Likins did not do much better in the last five innings when he was in the place that Moore formerly occupied, for he allowed 10 hits and 6 more runs.

Rogan Hits Some

The Wreckers were batting strong yesterday and gathered a total of 17 hits. Rogan made no less than a home run, two three-base hits and one one-base hit. His hitting was all done when it counted for a lot, and each time he scored himself.

The home run followed a single by Smith in the seventh inning. It was a long drive over the left field fence and brought both the man on base and the batter across the platter.

Throughout the contest the Wreckers completely outplayed and outclassed their opponents from Schofield. The latter, while not up in the air, did not have the situation in hand very much of the time.

The final score of 12 to 1 truly measures the relative ability of the two teams with the possibility that the Wreckers are even stronger, for they were playing easy ball during a good part of the game.

Doings on the Pop Circuit

Rogan made an error in the game at Moiliili Saturday which was needless. He tried to make a fancy catch of a long fly to center field and the ball slipped.

If Sterling had not been so wild in the game between the Filipinos and the Hawaiis on Saturday, he might have saved his team a defeat.

The Filipino team is enthusiastic about its trip to the Orient and is preparing to make a good showing.

Fleetwood did the unexpected on Sunday when he started things moving with that hit in the last inning. The comback that the Ninth Artillary made in that inning was to their credit.

The management of the Moiliili park stated this morning that a meeting will be held soon to rearrange the the Pacific League series. So many games have been postponed during the past month, that the original plans are considerably shaken up.

Frank Kalua, manager of the Hawaiis, received a communication from Hilo not long ago in which the writer stated that the members of the Hilo Tribune staff were so sure of a victory for the home crew that they had the news of the victory in type some hours before and were merely awaiting the final word.

If the Filipinos continue to play as they have for the past two weeks, they may win the Pacific league series.

There are exciting games going on at the Makiki field every Sunday between the Pacifics and whatever other team they can find. About Friday of every week the Pacifics issue a challenge to some team through the Star-Bulletin and it seldom fails that they get a game.

As soon as the present series of the Pacific league is over, the management may mark off a gridiron on Moiliili park and open it to professional teams.

PACIFICS ARE TWICE WINNERS ON SUNDAY

Playing a good brand of baseball, the Pacifics won from Kaimuki by the score of 10 to 6 yesterday morning, and from Kaneohe by the score of 11 to 7 yesterday afternoon. Superior hitting won the games for the Pacifics in both cases.

On the Kaneohe team were Planas, Botong, Bonny and Benny, all of whom are well known stars. However, they were unable to overcome the Pacifics.

MEN OF DRAFT AGE TO BE SERVED BY Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association is making an effort to serve the young men of draft age through its senior gymnasium classes which open tonight at half-past seven.

C. A. Pease, gymnasium instructor, will conduct systematic class work on Monday and Wednesday evenings at half-past seven, beginning tonight. The gymnasium will be open for the men to follow individual exercise on Friday evenings and at all other times when there are no regular classes on the floor.

The business and office men's classes begin their fall season this afternoon at five o'clock. A program of exercise will be conducted by Physical Directors Jackson and Pease.

WORLD'S CHAMPION BOXER NOT EXEMPT

NEW ORLEANS.—The district exemption board has refused exemption to Peter Gulotta, known in the sporting world as Pete Herman, claimant to the world's bantamweight championship. His parents had appealed from the local board on the ground that their son was their sole support and they were aged and infirm. The district board held that Gulotta had sufficient funds to care for his parents.

Summary—Home run, Franco; three-base hits, Reid; two-base hits, T. Carreira; hit by pitcher, Jackerson; bases on balls, off Plada 1, off Nelson 1, off F. Rodrigues 3; struck out, by Plada 6, by Nelson 4, by F. Rodrigues, 6; umpires, Haneberg and Lee; time of game, 1 hour 45 minutes.

JAPANESE TAKE BRIEF SIESTA AT ATHLETIC PARK

Before a grand stand that was occupied by a row of Japanese fans, who appeared to be out for their Sunday afternoon siesta, for one of them had not taken the trouble to put on his shoes, a few dead heads in the boxes and a spattering of about fifty fans in the bleachers, the Fort Ruger giants won from Co. C, 2nd Infantry, in the first and only game played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon. The score was 6 to 4.

The scheduled game between the Submarines and the Marines, both of whom were supposed to come up from Pearl Harbor, was not played and no one around had any reason to give for the failure of the two teams to appear. "They just didn't come!" exclaimed one soldier fan, and others quite agreed that this was probably the only reason there was.

Game Not Bad

In spite of the small attendance, the game played between the two soldier teams was not bad. Fort Ruger netted nine hits and Company C four. However, the latter team made a total of 11 errors. These coupled with the hits of the Ruger giants sealed their fate.

The summary follows:

COLLEGE TEAM HAS WEEK OF HARD TRAINING

Coaches Wentzel and Crawford Preparing Largest Squad in History for Games

The College of Hawaii football team spent the last week in intensive training. Coaches Wentzel and Crawford are giving their attention to exercises that will toughen up the relatively light line for speedy and aggressive playing.

In laying down plans for the opening game with Punahou, the greatest factor to be considered is the difference in the weights of the two teams. The backfield of the college is the only section that has practically been decided on, and it, of course, is light compared with Punahou's backfield. The college line, judging from present material, will be very light, and under these circumstances the only course open to the coaches is a system of speedy and tireless attack. This will be possible with Brash's perfect passing, and with the great number of candidates for end positions.

Not only are both of last year's ends, Mariuchi and Ai, still on the team, but there are three more fast men in Hayselden, Kong and Iwanaga. Cowan and Wung were last year's guards, but due to the enforced change of tactics it may prove advisable to switch them about. Jones, King, Kanahele, Lee, and Bryan are also out for line positions, but it is impossible to forecast any line at this early date, partly because of the appearance of new candidates from day to day.

There are a number of mainland college men in the ranks of the army for the duration of the war who speak of taking a few subjects at the college, and among these there will undoubtedly be some line men.

At present there are enough men for two squads, an advantage that the college teams of former years have not enjoyed.

FOOD FOR FANS

Are the fans going to support Athletic park?

Does Athletic park deserve the support of the fans?

For two weeks now nothing more than a spattering of baseball enthusiasts have attended the games at this end of the town. Gate receipts were not enough to pay for the upkeep of the park alone.

The one game played at that park yesterday afternoon was worth viewing, but what about the first game? Does the management of the park expect to draw a crowd when a game is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock and none is played until about 3?

The fans say that they will attend when they are given good games. The management of the park say that they will insure the fans of good games when they attend.

What's the matter with the thing anyway? Why not settle it once and for all?

MEREDITH RETIRES FROM CINDER PATH

Ted Meredith has announced his retirement from the cinder path once and for all. Although he was unable to run in the quarter mile race at the national championships at St. Louis recently which had been the goal of his ambitions for six months, he is determined that he is through for good.

Meredith was primed to run in the quarter and was ready to break the record to win. At the last minute, however, he was unable to leave the training camp at which he is learning to fly for Uncle Sam and did not arrive in St. Louis until Sunday afternoon, 24 hours after the race had been won by Shea.

Mrs. Eliza Shepard, a sister of the late Jack London, and Mrs. London, who are carrying out his ambition for the betterment of livestock in the west, took more awards, in proportion to the size of their exhibits, at the California State Fair at Sacramento—for both shorthorn cattle and shire horses—than any other exhibitor.

FILIPINOS WIN ONLY GAME IN PACIFIC SERIES

Chinese--Braves Contest is Postponed; Healani Gives Game to McKinley

Chinese	2	4	.333
St. Louis	1	4	.200
Healanis	1	5	.166

The Filipinos won the only games played in the Pacific league series over the week-end by defeating the Hawaiis by the score of 3 to 2 on Saturday afternoon at Moiliili. Although they are still in third place, their victory over the leading team makes them appear possible winners of the series.

Neither the Braves nor the Chinese appeared for the first scheduled game at Moiliili park on Saturday afternoon so it was postponed to some time in the future. The Healanis did not show up for the first game on Sunday. It was forfeited to the McKinley team.

Enough men were handy yesterday afternoon to make a full team to play against the McKinleys who were present in force, and this picked team played and defeated the latter in a fairly good game.

The final score was 4 to 0 for the seven innings which were played. The game was called off to allow the 25th Infantry-9th Artillery contest an early start.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.)

The affair was a notable one and a large number of the friends of the judge were in attendance. Judge and Mrs. Hall are famous for their luaus and the open Sunday was no exception to the rule.

Every year Judge Hall celebrates his birthday in the same fashion and every year the same crowd attend the function. Everything is of the best and all the delicacies of the season are to be seen gracing the tables.

EASTERN FOOTBALL SCHEDULES SUFFER FROM EFFECTS OF WAR

Many Traditional Games, Including Yale-Harvard and Army-Navy Contests are Given Up Following the Enlistment of Stars in the Service of the Government

ALTHOUGH football will be played in most of the colleges in the country this fall many of the traditional games of the East, among them being the Yale-Harvard and the Army-Navy games, have been completely given up, and the prospects for inter-college series are very poor.

The only big game of the season is scheduled to be played Thanksgiving Day at Philadelphia, when Pennsylvania and Cornell battle for supremacy. The Penn-Cornell games date back for more than 20 years, and the announcement that these old-time rivals would not give up the big event because of the war is the one bright spot on the dull horizon of fall sport.

The Yale-Harvard game has been cancelled, as have the Yale-Princeton and Princeton-Dartmouth events. The stellar attraction of the football season, next to the Yale-Harvard game, has always been the Army-Navy struggle. This event has of course been wiped off the slate, as the majority of the big stars have been called to active military service. The freshman teams of the two government academies, however, will stage a series of informal games. The "plebe" classes at both schools have been doubled, and it is expected that much good timber will be found in them. Olyphant, the West Point star, is still at the military academy.

Among the big college games to be staged this fall are the Dartmouth-Penn game at Boston, the Colgate-Brown game, and the Syracuse-Pittsburg game.

When the call to arms was flashed across the country, the football men were the first to respond, and in some of the colleges, the entire gridiron squads were depleted. Since the beginning of war, whole platoons of athletes enlisted in the army and navy, and the ambulance corps is still draining the schools of their sports men.

College Hard Hit

Captain Heinie Miller and Howard Berry are the only two veterans who will report for practise at Penn. Miller tried to enlist three times, but was rejected because of defective eyesight. Berry has been playing baseball all summer with a bush league in Jersey.

Neither Cornell nor Brown have any idea as to who will report when the call is made. Colgate has been hit harder than any of the other colleges, for besides losing her coach, Ellery Huntington, she has lost every single man of her 1916 varsity.

Two colleges have cancelled their ruling that freshmen cannot play varsity football. These colleges are Dartmouth and Syracuse, whose teams have been almost depleted by the call to service. First year men at both these institutions will be allowed to play on the first team.

Columbia, New York University, Rutgers, Stevens and Fordham will place men on the field. Columbia and New York University have both lost their 1916 varsities. Williams and Amhurst have both lost heavily, and unless the new students can show exceptional ability, the traditional Williams-Amhurst game will not be staged.

The only Eastern colleges who are really going ahead to any extent for the coming season are Wesleyan, Trinity, Tufts and all the Maine colleges.

CONNIBEAR WAS ONE OF BEST CREW COACHES AMERICA EVER PRODUCED

Coach Connibear, whose brilliant career in the athletic world has recently come to an untimely end, was one of the most successful molders of rowing crews America has produced. He was the Courtney of the West. Under his guidance the oarsmen of Washington university won victory after victory and, try as Stanford and California did, they could never achieve an equality with the men of the North. All admitted, friends and foes alike, that the reason for the invincibility of Washington was chiefly "Foxy" Connibear.

Connibear first commenced his career as a coach for professional cyclists. Curiously enough, Frank Foster, the successful mentor of the athletes of the Olympic club, began his work as a teacher of athletes in the same sphere. Connibear then went to Chicago and there met with great success as a track coach. But it was not until he reached Washington and took to rowing that he achieved his national reputation. Rowing has evidently been his strong suit from the start.

His crews were ever in perfect condition and had beautiful form. The latter was always rather marveled at by rivals because he was not an old oarsman himself. Connibear, like Dobie, the other famous Washington coach, was of the old-fashioned, silent, secret breed. He hated reporters to try and see his men at work and if they actually got into the Washington launch by hook or crook, it was generally found that there was something mysterious the matter with the boat gear and no serious practise took place. He was, however, a good sportsman in the race itself and would always give his rivals a fair show and all possible credit if they won. He was convinced that rowing ought to be a greater sport than it is on the Coast and in his last interview with the San Francisco Bulletin expressed a hope that an Eastern university crew would soon come out here.

FREIGHT RATE CUT ON ORIENT SHIPS TO COME

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 13.—That San Francisco merchants who have been paying excessive freight rates to the Orient are about to obtain relief is the information contained in a wire received by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce from its Washington representative.

"Negotiations are progressing between American and Japanese officials with the view to a reduction of Japanese freight rates across the Pacific Ocean and for a reciprocal arrangement whereby Japan will turn over ships for operation in exchange for steel plates. Japanese are sharing every desire to meet the Americans and it seems safe to predict that freight rates will be low[illegible] to and from San Francisco.

"Howard Coffin, chairman of the Aircraft Production Board, says that the manufacture of airplanes on the Pacific Coast would be confined to the number of planes needed on the Coast until further plans are developed. If Congress makes appropriations, to be asked, there will be a big increase of production on the Pacific Coast. There is also a prospect that Japan and [illegible] be supplied by airplanes built on the Pacific Coast. The chief airplane headquarters on the Coast will be North Island, in San Diego bay, where temporary buildings are now being turned into permanent ones. Coffin also said other training grounds would probably be selected in California.

The former German steamship Serapis, which has been carrying cargoes along the Pacific coast, has been renamed the Osage.

S. S. CHINA JUST ESCAPED TYPHOON

Successfully running out of the tail of a typhoon which she encountered between Shanghai and Hongkong, the Pacific Mail steamer China arrived from Oriental ports this morning with about 75 cabin passengers bound for the mainland. The vessel was docked at Pier 16 instead of 6 or 7 because of the amount of cargo on these piers. Due to exceptionally good sailing the China reached Honolulu four hours sooner than was estimated by her commander, Captain R. O. Demarst, on last Saturday, when her position was reported by wireless.

About an equal proportion of the China's passengers are Americans and Chinese, with a sprinkling of other nationalities. Many of the Americans are missionaries and their families returning from work in India, China and Japan. The Chinese in the first cabin are mostly students bound for mainland schools. Included among the Americans are several army and navy officers.

Maj. C. Oakes, with Mrs. Oakes, has been in the Philippines with the 27th Infantry. He has been ordered to the United States.

A. Trullinger is a representative of Swift & Co., has been on a business trip of four months to the Orient. He is accompanied by Mrs. Trullinger.

PACIFIC MAIL EARNINGS JUMP

Net earnings of the Pacific Mail Steamship company for the first six months of 1917, which constitute the last half of the company's fiscal year, amounted to $759,217, an increase of $268,751 as compared with the corresponding period in 1916. After allowance for dividend requirements for six months on the $1,700,000 preferred stock, the balance available for the $1,150,000 common stock at $5 par value is eyquivalent to or at the annual rate of $6.08 a share.

The net revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917, includes transpacific lines for six months of this year and one trip, that of the steamer Ecuador, in 1916. During the six months ended June 30, 1916, the transpacific line was not operated.

An interesting item in the annual report states that the company, notwithstanding the showing it has made during the 12 months ended with June last, is still alive to the fact that stockholders should not be unprepared for a possible curtailment of the earning powers of the company until a final readjustment of general conditions due to the war takes place. On August 8 the company established a bi-monthly service to the East Indies and Calcutta, in accordance with plans inaugurated last spring for the Far East service.

RUSSIA NEEDS MILITARY DICTATOR BELIEF OF RETURNING AMERICANS

Sentiment is Korniloff Rather Than Kerensky is Type of Leader Wanted Now

American opinion of travelers coming from Russia is centralizing around the belief that it would have been to the benefit of the Allies cause if Cornhoff had been successful in gaining a military dictatorship over the Russian army.

Carefully and cautiously missionaries, business men, wives of Russian army officers, and state department men, express themselves as doubtful whether Kerensky, a successful politician, is the type of leader who will bring order into that troubled nation and concerted action against Germany.

None will permit themselves to be quoted, for, although the present government professes to grant freedom of speech, there is still a Siberia, and secret police of the Russian government all over the world. But on every steamer from the orient there are Americans who show keen disappointment when they learn that the Kornloff revolution has failed and that he was forced to an unconditional surrender. Any suggestion that he would have favored a return of the Romanoff family to power is treated as absurd. All profess to believe he would have been the successful leader who could have been depended upon for a successful offensive against Germany.

"A nation with 180,000,000 persons who have never known liberty must have a strong government or anarchy will result," is in effect the general opinion expressed by the Americans.

"Kerensky has done his work. He successfully led his followers to an overthrow of the monarchy and has successfully organized a civil government. But his work is done. What Russia now needs is a strong military dictator who is anti-German," are other common expressions of Americans.

Little hope of a stable government is expected by these Americans until such a dictator gains control of the Russian army and navy.

As they say, Elihu Root pointed out as a magnet given to him and the members of the Root mission in Petrograd by the American residents, no country, not even our own or France, has ever undergone a revolution and become well and strongly governed until a strong and able man gained control.

In this "I can't be quoted" comment on Russia, there is a strong underlying sentiment that it would be unsafe and unwise to send either American or Japanese troops to the aid of the Russian army. Many frankly believe it might precipitate trouble between Russia and the nations attempting to aid her. "Russia is extremely jealous," is a common remark of those who have studied her internal troubles. Covertly, many say that Ambassador David Francis and the Root mission have advised the American administration to not consider sending military aid to the Russians.

"With 15,000,000 men in uniform there is no need for it, and it would be a dangerous move," say these Americans who have watched Russia struggling through the recent months since the revolution.

"If Russia wants to fight Germany she has plenty of soldiers to do it with, and the Allies will furnish her plenty of supplies," say these American observers. But in spite of these pessimistic views, perhaps correct ones formed from knowledge unknown to the outside world, there is always hope expressed by the Americans that "Russia will pull herself together in time to avoid German conquest."

WADMAN MAY STAY IN EAST

Dr. John W. Wadman, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, has announced that he will remain in Washington, D. C., as long as there is a probability of putting through a "dry" measure affecting either Hawaii alone or the United States as a whole.

Doctor Wadman has been authorized by the league to remain at work in the national capital at least until Congress reconvenes in December, and there is a possibility, it was announced today, that he will stay longer.

Regarding the petition recently sent to Washington by the league asking that the president issue an executive order making Hawaii "dry," letters acknowledging receipt of the communication have been received from Mr. Wilson and from the secretary of the interior. The latter sent the league copies of the Gronna and Houston prohibition bills. Copies of the Shafroth bill are expected in the next mail.

TWO SOLDIERS ARE EXONERATED

Asa Wiggins and Joseph B. Elliott, members of Battery E, who were arrested yesterday afternoon charged with drinking in public in Kapiolani park, were discharged and completely exonerated by Judge Irwin in police court this morning. Captain Hauser, representing the defendants, brought out evidence to show that the men had been unjustly arrested, and that it was not they, but two drunken Hawaiians who started the trouble which resulted in the policeman making the arrest, sending to the station for assistance. The officer was simply scared because a number of soldiers were near. In refuting the testimony of the officers that one of the soldiers had attacked him, Captain Hauser showed such a statement to be unfounded because the soldier in question was physically incapable of violence due to a wound.

MRS. BARR RELEASED ON BOND OF $1000

Clara Barr, a colored woman charged with conducting a bawdy house in Kalihi and within five miles of a military post, today was released by federal authorities on bond in the sum of $1000. Mrs. Barr was arrested in company with a colored soldier who is still in custody.

MUST FIGHT FOR GREAT BRITAIN OR GO TO JAIL

Stowaway Bound for Australia to Escape Conscription is Caught on Ventura

Imprisonment or enlistment is the choice which is to be given Frank Moriarty, a British subject who was discovered as a stowaway on the Ventura when she was two days out of San Francisco on the voyage to the islands. Moriarty excited the suspicions of the Ventura officers, who first thought he was an American slacker trying to evade military service.

Then it was discovered that he was born in St. Helens, Eng., a few miles out of Liverpool, and it was established that he was trying to reach Australia to avoid conscription, which is in force in Great Britain but not in Australia.

When the Ventura arrived this morning he was turned over to A. E. Carter, the waterfront police officer. Moriarty's case will be placed before E. L. S. Gordon, the British consul, for disposition.

Moriarty boasted on the voyage to Honolulu that nothing could be done with him, as he was a British subject and outside the jurisdiction of that country. The ship's officers were anxious to discover if his claims were right, so called the waterfront officer as soon as the vessel docked.

CUSHINGHAM IS FINED $10 FOR DISTURBING POLICE COURT SESSION

Ten dollars fine and three dollars as costs of court was the sentence imposed this morning by Police Judge Irwin on J. S. Cushingham for maliciously permitting the muffler of his automobile to make a loud and annoying noise outside police court Saturday, thereby disturbing the peace and quiet of the session.

Cushingham, who was arrested by order of Judge Irwin, appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty. He offered no excuse when asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be imposed.

LANAI THEATER WILL PRESENT INITIAL PLAY

The Lanai Theater Co. will present its first play on Friday and Saturday evenings, October 5 and 6, at 8:30 o'clock, at the Laniakea theater.

Mrs. Roger Noble Burnham, producer, has charge of the rehearsals, and has a promising cast. The women are all well known society girls and the men have all had stage experience.

The play chosen is "The Perplexed Husband," by Alfred Sutro.

The leading role will be played by Roger Noble Burnham, whose success in the Toy theater, Boston, assures a happy interpretation.

His work is specially commended in strong parts. The Boston Evening Transcript says of his acting of "The Christmas Fantasy," a monologue written by himself, that "with only one actor, and that actor the author, with only three characters, and two of them imagined, Roger Noble Burnham conveyed more dramatic feeling than the cast with 19 speaking parts and three scenes could do. It was rare suggestion. With surprising economy of means—both in acting and in story—Mr. Burnham got a disproportionately large effect."

It is hoped the Honolulu public will give enthusiastic support and welcome to this newly formed dramatic company, which is turning its talents to patriotic use. All proceeds beyond actual cost of production will go to war relief, and the management desires to fill the little theater with patrons of the whole series of six contemplated plays, such subscribers having seats reserved for all performances, but paying cash for each as it is given. The prices for seats are $2 for the front half of the theater and $1.50 for the rest.

BLACK AND GOLD SELECTS EDITOR

The McKinley high school student body held a special election Friday and chose the editors of the school publication, the Black and Gold. The editor for this year will be Earl McTaggart, and, as manager, he will have Frank Padgett, who has already been chosen to lead the basketball five.

The election was held chiefly for the selection of these literary lights who will handle the magazine, but a student body officer was also chosen to take the place of a girl who did not return to school.

Miss Jorgine Jensen was the fortunate one, and she now takes the vice-presidency of the school organization. Tsukiyama, president of this organization, and the other officers were all elected at the end of the spring term.

A number of changes are planned in the student body government which will greatly facilitate the handling of the various sports, and at the same time give the students a more direct hand in the management of their own affairs.

HAWAII JAPANESE GIVE $300 TO ALLIED RELIEF

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.)

HILO, Sept. 21.—One day last week, before he left for Honolulu and the mainland, Manager John Ross of Hakalau received quite a joyful surprise when a deputation of Japanese waited on him and, after a little preliminary talk, presented him with a sum of money to be forwarded to the Allied War Relief fund.

The amount contributed by the Japanese was $302 and this is an excellent contribution to the well-known society which is doing so much good.

Manager Ross was delighted to undertake the commission to forward the money to Hilo and did so, assuring the Japanese that their gift would be much appreciated.

SYMPTOMS OF HER DISEASE

Backache, Sideache, Nervousness, Dizziness, Faintness, all Disappeared After the Woman's Medicine was Taken.

Kingfisher, Okla.—"For two years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, and had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking ten bottles I am now well and strong, have no more pain, backache or dizzy spells. Everyone tells me how well I look and I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did it."—Miss NINA SOUTHWICK, R. F. D. No. 4, Box 33, Kingfisher, Okla.

Every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mrs. Southwick did, or if they need free advice in regard to any annoying symptom write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass

Dorothy Dix Talks

THE DANGEROUS AGE OF YOUTH

By DOROTHY DIX
The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer

THE old woman, whose years are as a crown of glory to her, was turning the heel of a stocking she was knitting for her grandson somewhere in France, and as her needles clicked, she talked, out of the fullness of wisdom and experience, about men.

"If you can only get a man safely through his second summer he is in perpetual danger, and it takes a wife who has patience, and poise, and long suffering endurance to get him through it alive."

"His second summer," I inquired.

"Yes," she replied, nodding her old head, "men have two second summers. The first comes when they are about two years old and are cutting their big teeth, and they are sick, and peevish, and irritable and unreasonable, and like to die, but if their mothers can worry them through that they generally grow up into big, fine, healthy children."

"A man's second summer comes when he's shaving around the fifties, and when he's cutting his false teeth, and that's the real danger time of his life when he's restless and full of strange fancies and does foolish things that are apt to be fatal, but if his wife has got enough sense to nurse him along through this period of his existence she'll have a husband that she'll never need to be anxious about again."

"I've been trying to explain this to Betty," the old lady went on, "but every wife believes that her husband is an especial god, or a particular devil, instead of realizing that husbands come by the bolt and are all cut off of the same pattern, and that most of the things that they do is just the working out of the law of nature in them, and has no especial reference to the particular women to whom they are married."

"You know, Betty and Jack have been one of the model couples to which we have pointed with pride as an illustration of people being happy though married. Betty's been one of the good wives who has been a real helpmeet, thrifty and economical and industrious, and there's been no man who's had a more comfortable home than Jack or been better taken care of. And Jack has been as domestic as a house cat, one of those satisfactory husbands whose world is bounded by his business office and his own front door, and whose idea of a good time has been to have a dinner downtown and go to the theater with Betty once a month."

"This happy state of affairs has existed for nearly 30 years, and now, suddenly, when they are middle-aged people, Jack jumps over the pasture bars. He has fallen in love or imagines he has—with a girl young enough to be his daughter, and he has taken to dyeing his hair and his moustache and wearing the giddiest lot of rah-rah college sport clothes you ever saw.

"Worst of all, the poor simpleton has told Betty all about it, and he wants her to give him a divorce so he can marry the little doll baby with whom he has been playing around, and she's just been here to tell me her troubles and ask my advice."

"What did you tell her?" I asked."

"Oh, I told her," smiled the old lady, "just to sit tight and keep a death hold on her wedding ring, and that if she had enough courage to realize that Jack was going through a brainstorm that would pass and leave him normal and sane again, she would win out, and he would come back loving her better than ever.

"And I told her that she hadn't any right to ruin Jack's life by giving him a divorce, and thus percipitating him into a marriage that was sure to bring him nothing but misery."

"Furthermore, I told her that her husband was simply suffering from an ailment that is as apt to break out on men of his age as the measles is in childhood, and that if she would just tend him cheerfully through the attack, he would be immune from it in the future."

"You see, about the time that a man gets to be fifty, or thereabouts, he has a sudden second summer of youth. It's an immitation summer, but it looks to him like the real thing while it lasts. It is a false fire, but it burns up fiercely for a little time, and by its light he takes an appraising view of his wife, himself, and the future.

"He hasn't realized it before, but he perceives with pitiless clearness that his wife is middle-aged. He observes her double chin, her thirty-inch belt measure, her grizzled hair, her sagging cheeks, the heaviness with which she walks, the fact that she prefers comfort to gaiety."

"He looks at himself and he sees a man who is still young in spite of his being five or ten years older than his wife. Of course, his hair is graying, too, and he isn't as slender as he used to be, but by jinks! he feels like a boy. He wants to dance, to run about from place to place, to be amused. He yearns for thrills and excitement. He wants to love, and make love, and be loved in a romantic fashion."

"And he sees the future, by the side of his wife, stretching along dull and desolate, two old people yawning and nodding over the evening paper with their feet on the radiator."

"The outlook for the future appals him, and he begins to look around for an antidote, and he finds it in some pretty little slim girl who is about half the age of his wife and who weighs a third as much. He begins paying her attention, and, being a cheerful worker who sees in him a good meal ticket and joy rides, she opens up the batteries of her flirtation upon him and knocks him dead."

"He thrills and tingles at the thought that he can still make a woman love him, and that even a young girl can't resist his fascinations. He knows that he is doing wrong, but the knowledge gives him the same exquisite joy that he had when he robbed his neighbor's apple orchard when he was a boy. Stolen fruit is still sweet on his lips."

"It seems to him that he is young again, that he is twenty instead of fifty—and that he would always be young if he could have this child by his side. She keeps him stirred up, full of vim and vigor, whereas his wife pulls him down and depresses him with her age."

"So he wants to marry the girl. And he does if his wife is foolish enough to give him a divorce, and he lives miserably ever after, for his little second summer is soon over. He sinks into middle age, and his young girl's chatter tires him, and his old bones cry out for an easy chair instead of the fox trot, and he wishes he were back again with the old wife, who knows the things that agree with his stomach, and with whom he has a lifetime of memories in common."

"Practically every man has this little flare up of youth when he reaches the years of indiscretion, when he thinks he's in love with somebody the age of his granddaughter, and it's up to his wife to nurse him through it, as she would a teething baby," said the old lady, "and if she does she lives happily ever after."

BESSIE BEATTY PRAISES HONOLULU IN TRAVEL LETTER TO COAST PAPER

Bessie Beatty, the clever special writer for the San Francisco Bulletin, who was recently in Honolulu on the first lap of her voyage around the world, was eloquent in her praise of this city in her articles home. The following is one of these articles:

Hawaii, when I met it in the school geography years ago, was but another aggravation in the life of youth submitting unwillingly to the ordeal of being educated. We never could remember whether it was spelled with one "i" or two, heaved a sigh of relief when we turned the page and proceeded to forget its existence as readily as we forgot the capitals of the United States and the rivers of Asia.

Hawaii, when I came upon it again, was the Hawaii of the musical comedy and the popular song—a place of silver-sanded beaches and palm-bordered waters, of native huts clustered beneath the banyan trees, of sleek copper-colored bodies decked with flower leis, of insidious music, sweet-scented night and perpetual moonlight.

Hawaii through the early morning mists—a rain that is not a rain, but liquid sunshine—presented no such aspect.

The silver beach was there, and the banyan trees, the tall, leaning, plume-topped coconut palms, the happy, lazy, luxurious life and all and more color and beauty than the musical comedy or "The Beach at Waikiki" ever dreamed of suggesting. But they were not spread out in the broad daylight to the gaze of the incoming voyager. One must go hunting them.

Must Run Gamut

To find them one must run the gamut of taxi drivers and baggage hustlers, and traverse the length of a typical United States city. To be sure, it is a southern, rather than a western city, but American, none the less.

Here on a South Sea island just inside the tropical fringe, inhabited day after day by copper-and-bronze people, dressed in coconut oil, are traffic "cops" in broadcloth, steel-frame office buildings, metropolitan hotels, French pastry, clanging electric cars and all the other impedimenta of western civilization.

Six days at sea sharpens the appetite nicely for a bit of dry land. My fellow journalist (so S. S. McClure styles himself) and I were eager for knowledge and keen for experience as we stepped from the shelter of the steamer into that pleasant Honolulu morning.

Most of all, we were hungry for news from home. We had been six days without knowledge of our country's moods and actions, other than the one brief message announcing a declaration of war. We had even less information about the rest of the world. The first big modern building to catch my eye was the home of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. From the moment we walked into the editor's office, Honolulu was ours. Not only did we find all the news that Honolulu had to offer, but everything else.

Wireless Taken Over

The wireless had been taken over by the government. The surrounding islands had received no word of the declaration of war until two days after it was made, when a boat put out to carry the news.

American flags were fluttering from most of the buildings. Soldiers were quartered in little brown tents on the lawns of the capitol to be ready for quick action on the waterfront should their services be necessary. That morning the Chamber of Commerce was meeting to pass resolutions indorsing the action of the United States. The spokesman was an Americanized German, breaking the last strand of loyalty that bound him to the Fatherland.

The men were pointing proudly to the national guard, larger in proportion than that of any other state or territory in the union. The superintendent of schools during the afternoon issued orders to the teachers to encourage the work of young school gardeners and the governor the day before had signed a proclamation setting forth the critical condition that would result from a food shortage and urging the conservation of supplies.

When you consider that Hawaii last year bought nearly $8,000,000 worth of food from other countries, $5,000,000 worth of which came from the United States, it is not difficult to understand her dependence upon the mainland and her fear of the future.

Women Taking Stock

While the men were talking war measures, the women were doing what women of all lands do; taking stock of their possible human sacrifices to the war gods, hoping and fearing and only half believing in impending calamity.

It would be difficult to believe in any grim reality in Honolulu. It is so full of delight. It is so beautiful beyond imagining, so soft and gentle, so pleasantly warm and mellow, so fragrant, so playful, so like the sunshine showers that turn out not to be rain at all, but shadow mists more welcome than the morning dew upon the flowers.

You would known more of Honolulu? Did I tell you that they made the island ours? Presently the mayor, big and bronzed, part Hawaiian, and undeniably the better looking for it, is sending his automobile to take us for a drive. You shall come, too, but you must hurry, for we are lunching with the governor and the retiring secretary of the territory, who knows much that we must learn and we cannot be late.

Perhaps when we have returned we will all forget that it was in the geography book and had to be learned. We will just live it

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

Fencing—Now The Woman's Game

MOTHER GOOSE knew many of life's philosophies. She was far beyond her day, whether she be one or many, as some of the radicals will tell us. Personally, I prefer to believe all that wisdom was centered in one darling old Mother Goose, and picture her giving all those lessons in the nursery jingle. Here is one today, for a beauty culture lesson, and it is no other than "Jack, be nimble, and Jack, be quick; and Jack, jump over the candlestick." Think of the concentration Jack put into that jump, so as to clear that flame. He did not dare get too fat, for his bulky body would never have taken that leap. An entire lesson is in that jingle. He did not overeat. He kept his body supple with exercise; then he kept his mind clear, so he could be alert—even to a well-directed vision.

Fencing cultivates all these graces. Women are now more in evidence in the gymnasiums, learning this game, than men. It looks as if a generation hence there will be no pudgy women. Even the matured figure need not be flabby and stiffened, with poorly directed energies. The athletic girl has long ago supplanted the hollow-chested and round-shouldered one of the past. It is the exception to find a girl all in a heap in a rocking chair. She is already alert and holds her head and shoulders so they show her well-poised mind and accurate vision on life. She knows exactly where she stands, and what she is aiming to be later. A still finer girl is being evolved from correct living. She will not only be athletic, but will have the grace of the old Greeks. Would you hasten it for yourself? Learn to fence. Then start the craze for it among your friends.

Questions and Answers

I have been using borax for softening the water for bathing at a summer resort, but I think it is making my skin too dry. Can you suggest something better?—Matrea.

Reply—A few drops of ammonia will be all that is needed to a large basin of water. It is a thing so easily overdone. If possible, why not boil the water, and take from it only the steam. A distiller would do this quickly, and is not costly.

Learn to fence, if you would be nimble

My nails are so brittle that occasionally they start to split, going all the way back below the quick. Is there any way to stop this?—Amy H.

Reply—You may keep them from getting brittle by rubbing cream into them every night. After they split, cut them back past the line; but if the trouble has gone below the quick, protect the nail by wearing the tip of the finger from an old glove. This will stop the splitting, and in a few weeks the nail will have grown out again.

SCOTCH WILL LAST 3 MONTHS

Drinkers of Imported 'Stuff' Will Have To Swear Off Jan 1

AMERICAN WHISKY 3 YEARS

THREE months from today is the date set for the execution of the last potion of Scotch whisky in these islands.

This is the verdict of the government, as the result of the food control act, and is based on the consensus of opinion of Honolulu liquor dealers, who believe that the supply in stock in the wholesale houses, saloons and the bonded warehouse will be consumed by then, if the consumption remains normal.

As no more can be imported, the death knell to this branch of the John Barleycorn family is apt to be the island requiem dirge for Scotch whisky, at least until after the war is over.

As to American whisky, there is enough on hand in Honolulu to last for three whole years. "That's all the war is expected to last," it is always added.

For the imbiber of imported gins there is a slightly longer reprieve. The supply of imported gins in Honolulu will last for six months, it is said. And perhaps the manufactured home product will last as long as the American whiskies.

Not only is the plebian drinker of imported whiskies and gins threatened with a long drought, but the aristocratic consumer of fine wines will soon be in the "dry belt." Champagne and other imported wines, although not prohibited from importation under the provisions of the food act, have become so scarce that the price asked is almost prohibitive even to the convivial sons on the "White Way." "No more high priced wines are being imported," say the liquor wholesalers.

Chinese wines are under tabu and can no longer be imported. A shipment which arrived here on the Nichiyo Maru is to be seized by the customs men, as is all others which come later. There is small prospect these shipments will be permitted entry, because in transit when the food act went into effect, as the importers had 30 days of grace before the law went into effect. "The supply is light and the prices sky high," say the dealers in Chinese wines.

Beer and the cheap wines, backed by presidential consent, are still firmly intrenched, and steadily increasing in production, in anticipation of the day when all liquor imbibers will have to turn to these beverages of small alcoholic content, as a surcease from an itching appetite and in continuation of their search for mental oblivion.

Incidentally, drinking is now the indoor sport only of the rich or moderately rich. Prices on distilled liquors have been steadily soaring for the past few months. Scotch whisky which formerly sold for $1.50 now brings $2.50. Other liquor price raises are in proportion, the ratio being about one-third in excess of former figures.

No one dares to predict what Scotch will sell for before the final day of execution. And a quart of French brandy costs as much, almost, today in Honolulu as does a pair of shoes—the accepted gold standard of all comparative war prices. But at that, Scotch may yet cost more than shoes.

WILL EMPLOY WOMEN AS SUGAR CHEMISTS

GREELEY, Colo.—This year, for the first time in the history of the domestic beet sugar industry so far as is known, women are to be employed as chemists in the factories. The Great Western Sugar company is the first to adopt this means of supplying the shortage of chemists, the adoption of the plan being due to the suggestion of G. W. Atkinson, chief chemist at the company's factory here. The laboratories will be run on eight-hour shifts.

HONOLULU ASTONISHED BY MERCHANT'S STORY

A merchant relates the following: "For years I could not sleep without turning every hour. Whatever I ate caused gas and sourness. Also had stomach catarrh. ONE SPOONFUL buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka relieved me INSTANTLY." Because Adler-i-ka flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. HAWAII DANCERS MUST WEAR MORE GRASS AT A. C.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 7.—Stirred by the demands of cafes, Director of Public Safety Sooy has issued an order that in the future dancers, of whatever class, must be properly clothed when appearing in public, says a despatch from Atlantic City.

He declares that the time has come when more decorum must be observed in the costuming of the beauties who grace the floors of the carabets, and his public warning is made at this time, he says, to avoid entangling contracts which cafe and cabaret owners may be considering for next season.

There will be no objection by the director to dancers who meet with popular demand as to the extent of the anatomy that will be veiled from the gaze, but he will draw the line on dancers who throw modesty to the winds in a desire to outshine competitors. He said:

Hula Hula Tippers Hit

"When the Hawaiian dancers, against whom this order is partly aimed, first appeared in local entertainments, their grass skirts were modest and becoming, but as competition became keen the skirts shrunk to a point that provoked protest. Now, we have no rule as to length, but we demand that the skirts drop sufficiently low not to cause comment.

"What is desired is a performance which will meet with the approval of reasonable people. It has come to my notice in an official way that the dancers mentioned became reckless and it was due wholly to the manner in which others tried to eclipse them.

"Atlantic City is liberal and strains a point in this regard, but there is a line which cannot be passed. These dancers annihilated the dead line. What is desired is simple modesty in dress and action. Muscle dancers are objected to, and while the dancers in question did not come under that head, they were approaching it. I can announce that the order will be strictly enforced."—Spokane (Wash.) Chronicle.
