A BIG CUT IN RATES.

The Canadian Pacific's New Defiance.

The Canadian Pacific has made sweeping reduction in rates to northern and eastern points. It is a wholesale cut of from 30 to 40 per cent. from existing rates.

Beginning November 6 the rates from San Francisco will be:

	1st Class.	2d Class.
To St. Paul	$30 00	$25 00
To Chicago	41 50	36 50
To Toronto	40 80	33 30
To Montreal	48 15	40 65
To Detroit	40 80	33 30
To Boston	50 05	42 55
To New York	49 00	41 50
To Buffalo	42 75	35 25
To Philadelphia	48 50	41 00

These rates of course apply only by the water route to Victoria.

The company will put on a rate of $490 from San Francisco to Australia, thence to Japan and China and return, good for nine months and to apply either way around.—S. F. paper.

New Treaty With China.

In connection with the passage of the new law it is known to be a fact that a new treaty with the Chinese government is now in course of consideration. The present Chinese minister is representing the celestial kingdom in diplomatic negotiations for the new treaty, and Secretary Gresham is representing the United States. What effect the plan for a new treaty between the two countries will have upon the present law is a question that cannot be determined. Negotiations are being conducted with the usual secrecy, and it is impossible to get at any definite information regarding the basis upon which the new treaty is to be founded.

The state department has, it is said, received assurances from the Chinese minister that he will induce his countrymen now in the United States to comply with the Geary act as amended, and it is believed that the law will receive the moral support of the six companies.—Am. Ex.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1893.

It is clear, from the advices published in this paper yesterday, that the settlement of our political questions must be postponed till after the opening of the year 1894. If it involves the negotiation of a treaty this course must necessarily take time. Nothing definite has transpired regarding the terms which Mr. Cleveland proposes to submit to this government for its acceptance. Whatever they may be they will receive the full consideration of the Provisional government. But no step can be taken by it that is not fully in accord with the public sentiment which now rules and will continue to rule in Hawaii. While the delay is unfortunate, it must tend to solidify public sentiment throughout the group in favor of the platform adopted in the proclamation issued at the formation of the present government, on the 17th of January. On no other basis can a permanent settlement be made.

There is no reason to believe that there is any imminent source of public disorder likely to break out here. Hawaii is not living on a volcano. The principal elements of society are orderly, peaceable, and quietly engaged in their various avocations. What explosive steam is being generated finds free vent in speech and printer's ink.

As a matter of course, it is the cue of the Anglo-royalist papers to deride the idea of any actual danger of outbreak against the government. If there is none, it is entirely because the government is well armed and watchful. The adherents of the ex-queen, are not accused of being all insincere in their support of her, or of being all lacking in courage. If they remain passive, it is only because insurrection is made so plainly hopeless by the thorough and vigilant defense maintained by the government.

At the present juncture, there is an element of danger sufficient to justify the extra precautions taken by the government. It is in the peculiar agitation of the public mind consequent upon the arrival of the delegate of President Cleveland prepared to carry into effect the policy determined on by him. So long as that policy is kept unknown, and a denouement is imminent, even though avowedly postponed for a few weeks, both parties are subject to a keen awakening of both hopes and fears. There is nervous tension. There is a feverish state of the public mind. This manifests itself in various forms of irritated and excited activity. Wise men will exhort to calmness and patience, but anxiety and solicitude there will necessarily be until the great questions at issue are settled in some form. There is good cause to hope that a reasonable and just settlement will soon be arrived at.

While this disquieted and feverish condition of the public mind prevails, there is a tendency for the disorderly elements which exist in every community to rise to the surface and become active, and to incite others to active disorder. This has to be taken account of by the government, which must keep more or less additional force on duty on account of this liability. That they are doing so gives a general sense of security. It is confidently hoped that we are about to enter upon a period of stable government and public quiet, when this year of contention and disquiet shall belong to the past.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION.

Nearly eight months have passed since Mr. Cleveland assumed office, says the S. F. Chronicle, and the Hawaiian problem is still unsolved. During about half of that time the senate has been in session and could have considered the matter if the president had been prepared to submit it. But nothing has been done since the treaty negotiated by Mr. Harrison was withdrawn from the senate, except to send Mr. Blount on a semi-official or extra-official tour of observation. His work, whatever it was, has been finished for several weeks and still the president has done nothing.

This delay is or may appear to be of small importance to the United States. We have been during these months much taken up by our financial troubles, and recently by the monetary struggle in congress. The attention of the country has therefore been diverted from the question of our relation to the islands. But it might be well for us to consider how it has been and is with Hawaiians who have been standing at our door all this time. Is this delay just to them? Are they not entitled under every consideration of fairness and of diplomatic and political prudence to an answer to their proffer?

A recent Washington telegram states that it is expected that Mr. Cleveland will send a special message to the senate as soon as the silver bill is out of the way. It is to be hoped that this is so, but it is more than likely that nothing will be done until the regular session. Even if the message is sent in, congress may take a recess before any action can be had.

But it would seem that the subject is receiving attention at Washington. A democratic member of the foreign affairs committee is reported to have said that one of three things will be done. The queen will be restored, a protectorate will be established or the islands will be annexed; he was unable to say which plan would be favored by the administration. And then we have an account of an interview with Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, formerly chairman of the foreign affairs committee, who says that all of these plans are impracticable, and the first one absurd. His idea is that the United States should acquire the islands as a military necessity, to be held and governed as a military and naval station.

Such a proposition is utterly out of the question. That we might with propriety obtain a military or naval station there or elsewhere may be conceded. But when it comes to including a large population within a military reservation, to be governed by the laws of war and by our military and naval officers, the thing is not to be thought of. It is at utter variance with the theory of our constitution and the spirit of our institutions.

GENERAL ARMSTRONG.

Reminiscences by Jos. S. Emerson in "The Outlook."

The geometry class at Punahou, which, as your readers will remember, is in the Hawaiian Islands, during the school year of 1858-9 was composed of the following pupils: Mary Alexander, Pattie Cook, Hattie Parker, Carrie Parker, George Wilcox, Edward Wilcox, and Joseph Emerson. Our teacher, Mr. Edward Beckwith, took great pains with the class, requiring at each recitation, not only a good understanding of the mathematical principles involved, and a logical accuracy of demonstration, but also an exact memorizing of the words of the text in the statement of every definition, axiom, and proposition. Our text-book was Robinson's geometry in its earlier form of seven books, a work which was well adapted to the method of teaching and to the wants of such a class. Mr. Beckwith took a proper pride in his class, and never was a teacher more beloved and respected by his pupils. Before we had more than half finished the subject he was obliged to give up the charge of the class into the hands of a student who was but little more advanced in his mathematical studies than we were. We were all very sorry to lose Mr. Beckwith, but hoped for the best from our new teacher.

It required no little tact for an undergraduate to take charge of a class under such circumstances. But Armstrong seemed equal to any emergency. On the playground he was the leading spirit in all athletic exercises, and was the undisputed champion in the game of wicket, in which his side seemed always victorious. On taking the class in geometry, from the very first he began to inspire us with some of his own enthusiasm. Coming in from a hotly-contested game of wicket he looked every inch a man. He would deliberately close his own book and lay it on one side, seldom referring to it during the hour of recitation. It was thus easy for him to persuade us to follow his example in this particular. Our memories were trained to do admirable service, so that at the end of the year the majority, if not all, of the class could repeat the entire seven books, except the demonstrations and mathematical calculations, from beginning to end, or give any axiom, definition, or proposition by its appropriate book or number. In the demonstrations on the blackboard a very different course was pursued. The figures were often purposely changed from the form given in the book. Numerals were usually substituted for the letters, and every effort was made to make the demonstration as much as possible a training of the reason, with as little of mere memorizing as could be. We were stimulated to study up other demonstrations, and sometimes he would set the example by giving us the result of his own study of other text-books. In this way we were trained to self-reliant habits of study, which I have found of the greatest service in all my subsequent mathematical work. It was remarkable how much hard work he got out of his class. But in this, as in everything else, he always led others by his own example. I have been under the instruction of various teachers in the higher mathematics, some of whom were finer scholars than Armstrong, but I have yet to know the man who could inspire an entire class with his own spirit and purpose as he did. There was something in his personality far more influential than mere learning or scholarship, and I can never cease to look back to the work done under him as among the most valuable to me of my whole life.

With the end of the school year came the public oral examination. The books were, as usual, laid aside, and, with a method and precision almost military, the class was put through its drill. Every one was delighted with the bearing of the teacher and the readiness of the class. At length, by way of variety, Edward Wilcox was told to demonstrate a certain theorem in book first. After drawing the figure, he was requested to change the order of the numerals to be used in the demonstration. Then, after a few moments given him to fix the figure thus renumbered in his memory, he was ordered to turn his back on the board and proceed with the demonstration from the figure thus pictured in his mind. This was done in such a ready and prompt manner as to excite the surprise of one of the examining committee, who, not appreciating the true object of this unusual display of intellectual gymnastics, interrupted him with the repeated request: "Look at your figure young man!" Armstrong then explained to the rather puzzled examiner the nature of the test to which he was putting his pupil, who was now permitted to finish his task, to the great interest of all present. The superior work done by the teacher and his class was highly appreciated by the committee, and will never be forgotten by those who had the good fortune to belong to the class.

During the general's late visit to the islands, the writer, in a familiar chat, alluded to some of the incidents connected with the geometry class, and particularly to the drill in memorizing, such as that in which Edward Wilcox figured. He seemed very much amused with the account, and modestly said, "Why, Emerson, I was never anything of a mathematician. It seems absurd that I should have taught such a class, and put them through such performances!"—Jos. S. Emerson in the Outlook.

An apple tree known to be 143 years old on the property of Mrs. Della Hotchkiss, in Cheshire, Conn., was destroyed by a recent storm. It bore fruit every fall, but only one side each year. The side that bore fruit one year would be barren the next. The tree yielded 140 bushels annually.

November 20, 1893.

We expected to sell Aermotors this week so that property owners might irrigate their lawns and supply water to their tennants while the Makiki pumping plant was receiving the usual repairs, but a "contingency" arose Saturday and Sunday, which causes us to postpone the matter and turn our attention—and yours to Hartman Steel Mats, an article you are in need of since the heavy mud-producing rain has fallen. These mats are not a fancy thing that will wear out in a little while, but a strong, serviceable steel mat that will last forever. The one at our front door has been there for four years and has withstood the tramping of thousands of feet. If you have a steel mat and want something for the door sill, get a cocoa mat for about half the price you've been paying.

There's something about the quality of our silverware that makes people want it. Last week we had a run on it that overtops anything of the kind we have ever experienced. We aim to get the best of everything and this rule applies to spoons, forks, etc., made of silver.

If people want to establish themselves as money makers they must start on the right track; "all roads lead to Rome," but straight out Economy street is the only road to wealth. The quickest and safest way to get to this street is by the use of stays and washers in making a fence. You are throwing money away in building an old fashion post and wire fence. Steel stays at six cents each compares favorably with redwood posts for the same purpose at eighteen and twenty cents without freight.

WHARF AND WAVE.

Captain Schmidt, of the barkentine Irmgard, is of the opinion that the wrecked steamer City of New York cannot be floated again. When the Irmgard passed out of the Golden Gate on November 5 Captain Schmidt saw two wrecking steamers alongside the New York and the freight was being passed over to them. There were about six steam pumps on board, each having a discharging capacity of at least 2000 gallons per minute, but the pumps were almost powerless, as there were several big holes in the ship's bottom.

The barkentine W. H. Dimond due at Kahului to-day, left San Francisco November 5th, with the following cargo: 450 bbls. flour, 105 pkgs. groceries, 100 bxs. crackers, 6 bbls. oils, 75 pkgs. lead, 10 cs. butter, 25 kgs. powder, 10 cs. lard, 200 bxs. sugar, 175 bbls. lime, 400 cs. coal oil, 100 bls. salt, 700 sks. rolled barley, 900 sks. bran, 10 bdls. codfish, 299 sks. barley, 25 chts. tea, 4 cs. hardware and 268,680 lbs. fertilizer.

The steamer Lehua was hauled alongside Wilder's wharf yesterday. She will soon go into commission.

The five-masted schooner Governor Ames, Captain Davis, belonging to Bath, Me., which has been in the coal and lumber trade between San Francisco, Hawaiian Islands and Puget Sound, is about to leave the coast. The schooner sailed October 29 for Port Blakely, to load 1,900,000 feet of lumber for England—S. F. paper.

The bkt. Irmgard brought the following cargo: 112 pkgs. furniture, 360 sks. ground barley, 1091 sks. rolled barley, 1544 gals. wine, 10 rls. leather, 229 pkgs. hardware, 1002 sks. bran, 50 sks. corn, 100 sks. middlings, 272 gals. vinegar, 20 bxs. lard, 1020 lbs. vegetables, 290 bxs. soap, 12 cs. canned fruits, 32 pkgs. ship chandlery, 148 bxs. crackers, 35 bxs. candles, 41 cs. canned goods, 93 bls. salt, 5 kgs. butter, 52 bdls. straw paper, 661 gals. 50 cs. whisky, 100 bbls. lime, 16,000 bdls. shingles, 150 bbls. flour, 5 bbls. pork, 50 bbls. 75 cs. bottled beer, 29 cs. 22 bls. dry goods and 14 cs. boots and shoes.

The steamer C. R. Bishop took yesterday afternoon 150 tons of coal for Makaweli, and the Pele will take 240 tons of coal for the same place next Thursday or Friday.

The steamers Kinau and Waialeale are due this morning from windward ports.

The historic man-of-war Hartford has been hauled up to the dock at Vallejo and is to have a large amount of money spent in putting her into commission again.

The collier San Mateo, 2291.66 tons register, which was badly wrecked by coal gas at Victoria, B. C., on October 30th, flies the Hawaiian flag. On her way out from England via the Suez canal several years ago, she called at this port to be registered under the Hawaiian flag. She is owned by M. E. M. Makalua, and others, of England. The vessel will be patched in Esquimalt and taken to San Francisco to complete the work. The cause of the disaster is supposed to be accumulation of coal gas from the cargo, which was ignited by a lantern taken into the hold.

The City of Peking arrived at San Francisco from the Orient November 2d, after the roughest passage of the year. Several storms were encountered in the China seas, one of which, amounting to a typhoon, necessitated stopping the engines and lying head to the blow for eighteen hours.

VICTORIA, (B. C.), Oct. 30—The official statement of the catch of the British Columbia sealing fleet for the season just closed has been presented, and shows that with fifty-four vessels employed—fifty-two from this port and two from Vancouver—a catch of 69,741 skins has been secured, this total being the largest in the history of the industry. The fifty-four vessels have given employment to 806 white men and 432 native hunters, utilizing 256 hunting boats and 204 canoes. The Maud S. is credited with 989 for the season. The grand total of 69,741 is thus made up: Catch of vessels—British Columbia coast, 26,578; Japan coast, 29,107; Russian side, 11,955; Indian catch (canoe), 2,101.

The Hessian fly is so called because it was supposed to have been brought from Germany during the revolutionary war in wheat imported for the use of the Hessian mercenaries in the British army. It has traveled west at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles a year.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Warrimoo is due tomorrow from Vancouver.

The board of health meets at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The weather clerk predicts that northerly trade winds will blow before noon today.

The Strangers' Friend Society will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A.

The time for receiving tenders for the construction of a jail at Honokaa, Hawaii, closes today at noon.

It is hardly likely that the Monowai will arrive before Friday or Saturday, as the English mails are very uncertain at this time of the year.

Jack Neill, the hack driver who was caught Monday night with opium in his vehicle was remanded until November 20th, by Judge Robertson yesterday.

F. W. McChesney has filed in the supreme court his accounts as assignee of the estate of W. H. Daniels, and has asked for a discharge as such assignee.

A regimental drill will be given the government forces to-night, on Palace square at 7:30. The men will assemble at 7 o'clock, and the band will be in attendance.

The sailing of the brigantine W. G. Irwin for the Coast has been postponed until this morning. She was detained in order to take in more rice. She will carry all mail marked to go by her.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. at Waimea, Kauai, intend giving a luau and concert on the 2d of December, as a means of raising funds for repairing their meeting house. Robert Waialeale has charge of the concert.

Rev. J. Okabe, pastor of the Japanese church at Hilo, Hawaii, has exchanged places with Rev. Oku, pastor of the Japanese church in this city. The latter gentleman will leave for Hilo by next Friday's Kinau.

The 6-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln H. Holstein, of Kohala, Hawaii, died at the Queen's hospital last Sunday of fever. He was removed from the Kamehameha preparatory school to the hospital about two weeks ago. Mr. Holstein is expected from Kohala by the Kinau this morning.

Beginning this afternoon and ending a week from today the Punahou and Honolulu foot ball teams will meet for practice every afternoon on the college grounds, preparatory to the coming game between the Punahous and Pacifics, to take place on Thanksgiving day at the base ball grounds. The Pacifics are also practicing with the Kamehamehas on the school grounds.

AGAIN TO THE FRONT.

After a day's lull in libel suits, Bolabola again commenced proceedings against Editor Smith, this time for the articles in Monday's Star, one editorial and one local. As no arrests had been made on Monday, and Mr. Wilson did not like to have his record broken, he got out two warrants, one for each article. They were served on Smith while he was sitting in the marshal's office, and he was released on his own recognizance.

This makes five suits that the editor of the Star will have to answer to at Wilson's instigation. He will appear this morning at 9:30 o'clock in Judge Robertson's court.

Mrs. Dimond's Funeral.

Mrs. Ann Maria Dimond, who died Monday evening, was buried yesterday afternoon from the residence of Henry Waterhouse. Dr. Beckwith conducted the services, both at the house and the Nuuanu cemetery. The pall-bearers were President Dole, Hon. W. O. Smith, C. M. Cooke, Rev. S. E. Bishop, W. W. Hall and G. P. Castle.

In New Quarters.

The kitchen and dining room of the regulars was moved yesterday morning from the basement of the executive building to the old electric light building, in the upper corner of the yard. The room formerly used for the boilers has been converted into a kitchen, while the other room, erstwhile occupied by the dynamos, makes a very cheery dining-room.

AN EXTRA KONOHI.

A Lot of Chinese Fireworks Made a Big Noise and Clatter.

Residents of upper Fort street had quite a scare last evening. In the rear of one of the Chinese stores in that vicinity have been stored a number of fireworks, presumably for the next celebration of the Chinese New Year. But they will never be used for that purpose now.

About eight o'clock last evening they were set on fire, in a way at present unknown. But there was a fizz and a bang, and then for five or six minutes the air was full of flying fire crackers, pinwheels, nigger chasers and other delights of the celestial heart. Luckily no damage was done, beyond scaring the custodian of the goods nearly out of his seven senses.

SATURDAY'S MINSTRELS.

The Boys Will Open at the Opera House on That Night.

Saturday night will see the first theatrical performance that Honolulu has seen for some time. The minstrels will then put on the burnt cork and grease paint, and appear with the same old tambo and bones, the same old interlocutor, but a brand new selection of jokes, songs and specialities. A good, very good, performance is promised by the boys, and if constant rehearsing, together with throwing all their energies into the affair, can accomplish anything, that promise will be fulfilled to an extent that will surprise a good many people.

UNUSUAL QUICKNESS.

The Bulletin was lamenting the fact last evening that all the papers it received from the Irmgard had been clipped by some-one else previous to coming to the hands of that paper. That was too bad, but the blame can only be laid at the door of the enterprising water front reporter of the Bulletin's rival, who secured all the late papers from the ship, and then probably clipped what he wanted from them, and gave the Bulletin the skeleton remains. And the loss was not discovered until the next day!

A Dangerous Motto.

Miss Bleecker—Do you know? Mary Havisham has married that Charlie Goslin, after having broken her engagement to him three different times!

WISE MEN.

The telegraph department of the Southern Pacific Company's main offices in San Francisco has been completely fitted out during the past month with "Caligraph" typewriters for the use of all receiving operators. "The Caligraph" was selected after thorough investigation by the officials of the company, who were determined to have for this important department the very best typewriter in the market. The order was filled by Chas. E. Naylor, who is supplying "Caligraphs" to station agents and telegraph operators throughout his territory. The operators who won the "Mackay gold medals" in the telegraphic typewriter speed contest in New York, March 25, 1893, both used "The Caligraph," and as any machine that comes off victor in such a severe test, where all the other first-class machines were competing, is acknowledged to "stand at the head," it must certainly be the best typewriter for all kinds of practical work.—S. F. Chronicle, May 18, 1893.

AKI'S DIRE REVENGE

HIS SUCCESSFUL LITTLE JOKE ON MARMONT.

He Fools the Police Force and Will Now be Contented to Stand His Trial.

Aki, the Chinese steward of the Mikahala, who was arrested last week for having opium, fooled the officers yesterday, and now considers himself even with them for his arrest.

He told Captain Campbell that he intended to "fool the police" as soon as he had a chance. So yesterday, in the spirit of revenge, he hired a hack, and did up a very suspicious-looking bundle. Then he chased down to the Inter-Island dock, and jumping out of the hack, looked carefully around to be sure that he was watched, and stole on board the steamer with a foxy gleam in his eye.

Detective Marmont saw that foxy gleam, and was delighted. Here was another big haul of opium, and the credit of the find was his. He did not like to take matters in his own hands, so he hurried up to the police station, and secured a warrant. Then, accompanied by Captain Parker and two policemen, he proceeded to the ship, and demanded that they be allowed to search for the dope.

They did search and thoroughly. The saloon and staterooms were ransacked, and valises opened, but none of the seductive drug was to be discovered.

All this time Aki was laughing in his sleeve at the officers, but looking very demurely on while the search was continued. So was Captain Campbell, and so were the balance of the people were initiated into the joke. And after the officers left, with nothing but the warrant to carry back with them, Aki felt that he had accomplished the one aim of his existance—and was completely even with his prosecutors. He would now take a few months sentence for his escapade of last week, with a very good grace, comforted by the thought of his little joke.

BLACKMAIL IN RESTAURANTS.

How the System of Tipping Has Degenerated In Many Eating Houses.

Complaints of the tipping system, or rather want of system, are growing more and more common. It is the opinion of those who are in the habit of getting their meals here and there and patronizing the cafes about town that insolence among waiters has visibly increased. Everybody who knows anything about New York knows what that means—an exceedingly disagreeable state of affairs.

"The evil is worse in proportion to the respectability of the place," says a man about town. "In other words, the more expensive the meal the more liberal the tip, and the more insulting the waiters if it does not come up to their ideas of what the amount of the tip should be."

I have been making some personal investigations in this line myself and unhesitatingly indorse the above opinion. I have found that in every instance the waiter expected a tip whether he had served well or not, and that this expectation is made so baldly apparent that the attention of everybody in the vicinity is called to the fact to bear unwilling witness as to the extent of your liberality. Also that too small a tip will subject you to more pronounced insult that none at all; that any effort to correct abuse of this character by reporting the servant is more likely to multiply your bad treatment than to reduce it.

If the executive clerk or proprietor does not recognize in you a valuable customer of the place, the chances are two to one you will be received with more contempt than you got at the hands of the waiter. No one man in 500 thus offended ever complains—he simply doesn't go back. Most city men and travelers are not easily offended by waiters. Familiar with the ways of the waiter, they either pay up or ignore the intended offense. It is the sensitive man who is the more readily blackmailed, or who, resisting the levy, feels more keenly the insolence of the menial.

In my experiments, conducted at six different respectable restaurants, I found that the poorest waiters, the men who gave the poorest service, were the most offensive. At one place where, at the suggestion of a friend interested in this class of human nature, we went back to the same waiter on the next day, there was such a visible reluctance to serve us that we were compelled to call the head waiter before we could get anything to eat. As my rule is to reward a servant proportionately for extra service and attention, and as some of these men rendered this service and got nothing, I cherish no hard feelings against them for the look of cold disappointment with which they greeted our departure. Indiscriminate tipping has made tipping useless practically, so far as good service is concerned. It has become merely so much blackmail, and the poorest service demands and receives the same reward earned by and cheerfully paid the best. Men are awful cowards and would rather be robbed outright than thought mean, even by a waiter.—New York Herald.

A "Don't" For Summer.

"Don't," says a writer in the Boston Traveller, and it is a good "don't" to listen to, "have a big Chinese porcelain jar on a veranda only four times as big as the width of the jar."

IF I HAD KNOWN YOU.

If I had known you, oh, if I had known you,
In other days when youth and love were strong,
I would have raised a temple to enthrone you
On some fair pinnacle of cloudless song.

If you had touched me then with your dear laughter,
As now its echo smites me in my grief,
I would have given my soul to you, and after
Lived in my love—grown old in my belief.

If you had loved me, oh, you would have loved me.
Earth would have worshiped us, its seers sublime,
My song had been a psalm, and saints had proved me
Prophet and priest, your poet for all time.
—W. S. Blunt in Boston Budget.

The General Drift to Cities.

The tendency of the laboring population in rural districts to migrate to the cities is receiving forcible illustration in Germany. Not only has the city of Berlin increased in population nearly 200 per cent in the last quarter of a century—at a rate of progress four times as rapid as that of London—but almost all the great towns in Germany exhibit a similar tendency to augment their population at the expense of the country. In many parts there are not enough laborers to perform the necessary agricultural operations. The country is, in fact, becoming deserted, and in some cases land is approaching its "prairie value." In the kingdoms of Saxony and Bavaria at this moment there are said to be many small farmhouses, each with a large plot of garden land, advertised for sale at prices which elsewhere would barely suffice to pay the ordinary conveyancing fees. One little property of this sort, for instance, is offered to any purchaser for the ridiculous sum of $20 and another for less than $50, house and land included—all freehold. It is pretty clear that all Germany's protective import duties have been powerless to ward off agricultural depression. In fact, her farmers appear to be suffering a good deal more than those of Great Britain.—New York Post.

The Throwing Power of a Wave.

To appreciate wave force and what may be termed the throwing power of a wave, let it be understood that in the winter of 1860, at Bishop's Rock Highthouse, the bell was torn from its fastenings, although situated 100 feet above high water mark. At Unst, in Shetland islands, a door was burst in at a height of 195 feet above the level of the sea. The most wonderful effects of wave force recorded were witnessed at Wick Harbor breakwater. Blocks weighing from 5 to 10 tons were built in above the line of high water, first with hydraulic lime, then with Roman and last with Portland cement. This great work was considered by the most learned engineers in England to be capable of withstanding the assaults of the ocean for ages, but in October, 1864, over 300 feet of this giant barrier was swept away.

In 1872 a monolithic block, 1,350 tons, was lifted bodily and carried to leeward of the breakwater, and in 1873 another and heavier concrete mass, weighing 2,600 tons, which had replaced the former, was swept away intact and carried to a point equally distant.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Kitchen Steam Is Bad.

Specialists on throat diseases are beginning to take unusual interest in culinary methods. They advise a kitchen quarantine on wash days and boiled dinner days, giving as a reason that the steam from boiling clothes and pickled meats that require much heat produces many illnesses of the respiratory organs and aggravates slight or chronic diseases of the nose, throat and lungs. Patients are advised to vacate apartments having dark or ill ventilated kitchens, and to keep all babies and ailing children out of the kitchen when cooking is going on.—Exchange.

A Dangerous Witness.

"You can take the witness," said the prosecuting attorney in a trial before a Texas court to the defendant's lawyer. The witness happened to be a good looking girl.

"Judge," exclaimed a young man in the back part of the room, standing up on a seat, with one hand under his coattail; "don't let him take her! That witness has been engaged to me for more'n three years, and if he takes her thar is goin ter be trouble right here."—Texas Siftings.

The Modern Plow.

The principle of the modern plow was laid down by Thomas Jefferson. A plow consists of two wedges—a cutting and a lifting wedge—and Jefferson discovered and enunciated the proportions of each, and the relation each bore to the other. Before his day no two smiths made plows alike; now they are made in accordance with a mathematical formula.—Exchange.

An Orange Seventy-five Years Old.

Benjamin Hubbard of Wells has an orange that is 75 years old. It was found among the valuables of an uncle who died in the West Indies in 1818, and from the associations connected with it has been treasured by the family all these years. It shows no marks of decay, but a gradual shrinking, being now about the size of a hen's egg.—York Courant.

Given Up.

Crimsonbeak—I hear Mr. Bacon has been given up by the doctors.

Mr. Yeast—He must be a pretty sick man.

"On the contrary, he is perfectly well or the doctors would never give him up!"—Boston Transcript.

In Worcester, England, is a stone erected over the grave of a departed auctioneer of that city on which "Gone" is inscribed. In a Sussex graveyard, in addition to the initials of the deceased and the date of death, a stone has inscribed in large letters the words "He Was."

A queer deed has been recorded in the register's office at Port Huron, Mich. A father deeded his farm to his son for the consideration of a yearly payment of $24 cash, 24 bushels of potatoes, 4 barrels of flour and 200 pounds of pork.

A whistle that can be heard a distance of 25 miles has been constructed in Reading for a Philadelphia car manufactory. The cylinder of this formidable steam trumpet is 18 inches in diameter.

One of the largest wire cables ever made has been completed by a Liverpool firm. The rope has a continuons length of 4¾ miles and weighs over 25 tons.

In most churches of England a ring is kept so that embarrassment may be spared in case of forgetfulness of the parties concerned.

An armless boy of Middletown, Conn., named William Mylehreert, has completed the painting of a wagon. His feet did the work.

The Question of the Hour.

Are you going to keep up with the times and have your House lit up by Electricity, or are you going to keep right on in the same old rut and burn OIL simply because you have grown use to the uncomfortable heat, the strong odor, to say nothing of the danger from explosions, and bother of cleaning and filling your lamps, ordering your oil, etc.? Which is the easiest, to have a switch at the head of your bed and turn on a 16c.p. lamp when the baby begins to talk politics at 1 A. M., or to get up, fall over three chairs and pull off half the wall ornaments feeling for the match safe and then be told, just as the lamp is well lighted, to "please put out the light, baby is alright now?"

In a few short months the

will be able to furnish all the Light and Power the City of Honolulu will require, and, as we now have some six large wiring contracts to begin on, as soon as the Australia gets in with a big lot of assorted wire, we would call the attention of those wanting ELECTRIC LIGHTS in their Houses at an early date to the advisabilty of having the wiring done soon.

As only a limited number of good house wire men are to be had, contracts for wiring will have to be taken up in turn in the order received.

After the Australia gets in we will have a complete line of everything needed to wire any building, including Electroliers, Brackets, etc., and a large assortment of plain and fancy Shades.

☞Leave your order early and have the satisfaction of having your House ready for the lights when the current is turned on from the New Station now under way.

BLOWN TO ATOMS.

HAVOC IN THE CITY OF SANTANDER.

Blowing Up of a Steamer Laden With Dynamite

MADRID, Nov. 4.—From Boo, a village near Santander, capital of the province of that name, comes a frightful story of explosion, fire, havoc and death. It seems that last night a steamer arrived at Santander with a cargo largely made up of dynamite, although the fact that the explosive was on board was not known to the authorities. Last evening the vessel, from what cause will probably never be known now, took fire while lying at her dock, and at once a large crowd collected to witness the unusual sight of a ship on fire. The Santander fire department also hurried to the scene to prevent the spread of the flames to the other shipping.

Suddenly, coming from no man knows where, the dread rumor was circulated through the crowd that the vessel contained dynamite, and just as the people had started, panic-stricken, from the scene, the flames reached the terrible cargo, and with a deafening roar it exploded, scattering death, fire and destruction on every side. The wharves, shipping and neighboring houses were torn to fragments, and the whole city was shaken as if by an earthquake, and windows were shattered in every house for miles around.

Fire at once broke out in the ruins of the shattered buildings and spread to those still standing with great rapidity. The inhabitants were so dazed by the shock of the explosion that they were unable for a long time to do anything to stay the spread of the fire, which as this dispatch was sent was eating its way from house to house, threatening the destruction of the entire city.

It is also said that the whole city will likely be destroyed and a population of over 45,000 rendered homeless. A dreadful panic prevails on all sides. Engines from many points have arrived and are making a determined stand against the flames.

All those on board or near the dynamite steamer and all those on board the tugboat alongside her, as well as the officers and crew of the trans-Atlantic liner Alphonse XII, were killed by the explosion. The body of the civil governor has been recovered, as well as the bodies of a number of other officials. Among those reported killed is the Marquis of Pombo.

It has been ascertained that the dynamite-loaded steamer was the Cabo Muchicaco, belonging to Bilbao, and not a British steamer, as was at first reported.

Every possible assistance has been sent to Santander, where hundreds of doctors are already at work. The troops sent to the spot are also rendering great service in blowing up buildings across the pathway of the flames in the districts still threatened with conflagration.

No definite estimate of the loss of life had been received up to the hour when this dispatch was sent, but there have as yet been no denial of the statements made in private and other dispatches to the effect that the death list will be figured by thousands instead of by hundreds.

Private telegrams say, that over one thousand people met death by fire and explosion at Santander. In addition a trans-Atlantic steamer was burned and forty of her crew perished.

It is officially estimated late tonight that the dead will number over 300. The number of missing and injured is enormous and many of the injured are dying owing to the want of prompt medical attendence.

No Jurisdiction Over Him.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The action for breach of promise, involving heavy damages and the question of the possession of a diamond bracelet, brought against his highness the Sultan of Johore by Miss Jenny Migbell, of Brighton, came up in court today.

An application was made on behalf the sultan for a stay of all proceedings, on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over him. The judges decided to allow the appeal of the sultan, on the ground that he is an independent sovereign and does not come under the jurisdiction of the court.

When the senate convened the house joint resolution reducing by 50 per cent. the duties on goods imported for exhibition to the World's Fair passed. It releases from duty altogether articles acquired by the Columbian museum for its own use.

SHE SHOULD BE FAST.

People who know a thing or two about war ships have watched the new cruiser Olympia on her occasional runs up and down the bay and have agreed that she will be a marine racer of the speediest class.

The new cruiser is nearly ready for the builders' trial trip. As all the work is being done with the utmost care, the finishing touches have taken more time than was anticipated.

A week ago it was hoped to have the Olympia ready to leave the Union Iron Works to-morrow. The programme was to have the big cruiser go out to the buoy near Mission rock for the night and put to sea the next morning for a four days' test. This arrangement has been somewhat modified. Next week, a sea trial may be looked for, while this week several more trips will be made on the bay to make sure that everything is in working order.

The first trip to sea will last four days, and will be a test of every part of the new fighting machine. On the return to the port the Olympia will go on the Hunter's point dry dock to be scraped and painted for her speed test. The bottom of the vessel has, in the short time she was launched, become too foul to allow of a trial trip.

The trips to be made on the bay between Hunter's point, Red rock and the heads will probably take up several days.

The speed requirements of the government contract call for twenty knots, with a premium of $50,000 for every quarter knot over this. The Olympia is expected to go twenty-one knots, and possibly more. In case less than twenty knots is made, the penalty will be in the same ratio as the reward offered.

When the cruiser was tried on the bay here, about six weeks ago, she gave evidence of being phenomenally fast. The stem is as sharp as a knife, and the displacement of water as the vessel moves is gradual and with far less than the ordinary resistance.

After the builders' trial trips the Olympia will be prepared for a government test, including a four hours' run at sea under continuous forced draft. This will be made down the coast between Point Sur and Santa Barbara, where smooth water is found in ordinary weather. The government board of inspection will go on the trip and make a report to the secretary of the navy. After this the Union Iron Works people will settle up accounts and the Olympia will belong to the United States.

During the preliminary trips on the bay only a small crew is carried, but on the sea trip a small army of coal-handlers and passers, firemen, oilers, engineers and sailors will be required.

Captain Charles Minor Goodall will command the Olympia on her trial trip, while Captain J. M. Fields will act as executive officer. Chief Engineers Trilley and Burnap of the navy are down from Mare Island navy yard and will go on all the trial trips.—S. F. Chronicle, Nov. 5th.

STANTON'S BLUNDER.

The Rear-Admiral's Explanation to Secretary Herbert.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Secretary Herbert today gave out the following statement and telegram in regard to the Stanton-Mello incident:

"Inasmuch as there seems to be an impression that the president has acted in the matter of removing Admiral Stanton without hearing from him, it is fair to state that before the order was issued Secretary Herbert sent a telegram of inquiry and received the following reply, dated Rio Janeiro, October 25th: 'Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Before anchoring saluted the flag of Brazil with twenty-one guns. The salute was returned by the government fort. After anchoring received a visit from an aid-de-camp of Admiral Mello, flying the Brazilian flag. Returned said visit and saluted the Brazilian admiral afloat. The salute was returned by the same. No call received from any Brazilian official from shore. Next day called upon the Brazilian admiral. The visit was returned. Mello is the only Brazilian admiral afloat.' This was signed Stanton."

A Pertinent Question.

Pat had a photograph taken. It was a head-and-shoulder photograph, the genial Celt preferring that to a full-length pose owing to a patch in his best trousers. When the proofs came he showed them with a little pride, to his wife.

"Phat's thim?" asked the good woman.

"Phottygraphs," answered Pat.

"Of what?" queied Mrs. Pat.

"Me, sure," Pat rejoined. "Phat ilse?"

"Hiven knows," the wife replied. "Phat's happened yure legs?"

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid wears a decoration, gold and precious stones, presented to her by the Sultan of Turkey.

Queen Natalie, of Servia, instead of constantly bewailing her woes as formerly, has decided that there is something left in life, and the other evening appeared elegantly dressed at a ball given in Mentone in her honor by Mrs. Mellor, an American.

Princess Maud of Wales is particularly fond of assuming an alias and dropping some of the red tape of royalty. Every year she goes to visit her former governess, who lives in Devonshire. Always the sensible princess insists on being called "Miss Mills" and upon being treated as a member of the family.

The wife of Governor Flower of New York is quite devoted to philanthropic work. Her charities cost her on an average $250 a week. She is as shy as a school girl. The only picture ever made of her was a crayon, which the governor insisted should be hung up. Mrs. Flower compromised by turning the face to the wall. A portrait is being painted of her now by an Albany artist.

The mother of the Khedive of Egypt has just had a splendid toilet service made for the Egyptian monarch, in which are twenty-seven pieces, all mounted in eighteen karat gold, richly chased, each article bearing a brilliant diamond monogram with the initials of the khedive, "A. P." Twelve hundred diamonds have been employed in the service, which is inclosed in a grand ebony dressing case, the property of the late khedive. The service comprises all articles required for toilet use, even to a mustache waxer.

A young English girl afflicted with an undesirable amount of adipose tissue has succeeded in ridding herself of a large amount of it without injuring her health by following the regime given below. She began by getting up at 6 o'clock every morning and taking a three-mile walk before breakfast without considering the weather. At 9 o'clock she had a large cup of coffee, with very little sugar, and a slice of dry bread. Then she occupied herself as she liked until 2 o'clock, when more bread and some vegetables composed her meal. At 2:30 o'clock she was off for another long walk, followed by a cup of tea and a few dry biscuits. Ninety days of this regimen reduced her weight from 185 pounds to 145 pounds.

How often it has been said by the croakers that there is no business, everything is dead, times are hard, and everything is going to the bad here in Honolulu, but the California Feed Co. are not built that way; we say business is good and getting better every month. And to prove what we say we have had to take larger and more commodious warehouses. We have just completed arrangements with Mr. J. F. Colburn, whereby he gives up his old stand, corner Queen and Nuuanu streets. We take possession on November 15th. Our old place at Leleo is too small for our fast increasing business, hence the change.

We expect the Hawaiian bark Mauna Ala to arrive here again in a few days with her fourth full cargo of hay and grain bought by our Mr. J. N. Wright who will arrive on the bark. We prefer to select our merchandise ourselves rather than have others do it, which means that we get better goods at a less price.

We thank our many friends for their liberal patronage for the past three years, and hope by strict attention to a business we thoroughly understand to merit the patronage of as many more.

We intend to keep a large, well selected stock of the very best hay and grain to be had in the California market, and we are going to sell it.

"German Syrup"

J. C. Davis, Rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Eufaula, Ala.: "My son has been badly afflicted with a fearful and threatening cough for several months, and after trying several prescriptions from physicians which failed to relieve him, he has been perfectly restored by the use of two bottles of Boschee's German Syrup. I can recommend it without hesitation." Chronic severe, deep-seated coughs like this are as severe tests as a remedy can be subjected to. It is for these long-standing cases that Boschee's German Syrup is made a specialty. Many others afflicted as this lad was, will do well to make a note of this.

Music

In the Air

And also at the Music Emporium of the Hawaiian News Co. In the past month, we have made many improvements and additions, both as to variety and quality of stock and general arrangement of the department.

Our latest importations in the Piano line consists of the celebrated make of "Everett" of Boston and "Schillier" of Chicago; unequaled for brilliance of tone and perfection of action and considered by all connoisseurs of the music art as superior instruments in every respect. Three of these Pianos just to hand by last steamer; also cabinet Orgaus for parlor, church or schools; every instrument fully warranted for five years. The installment plan for the sale of Pianos and Organs inaugurated by us five years ago, has proven a great success as many a home in Honolulu can bear testimony. We shall continue same and increase our facilities in this branch as the trade demands.

Just landed—a new line of piano Stools in various styles, prices from $1.75 up; also genuine made American Guitars, elegant tone and well finished $7.50; cheap German make as low as $4.

Special Order Department—for Sheet Music and Music Books—if you will hand us your orders and same cannot be filled from our large assortment in stock, we will book it in our "special orders," which go forward to the publishers every mail; in this way we will save you much trouble as well as money, as we make no charge for postage.

It is our aim to keep in stock everything connected with the music trade; parties out of town will find it to their advantage to deal with us and not send their orders abroad.

THE HAWAIIAN BOARD.

Its Management and Its Finances.

The Hawaiian Evangelical Association is the ecclesiastical organization which has taken the place and functions of the American Mission. By its constitution it is limited to certain prescribed departments of church work pertaining to the welfare of the whole body of evangelical churches. Its department of Christian beneficence is placed in charge of a board of twenty-seven members. One third of this number is elected by the association at each annual meeting, at which time also a treasurer and a corresponding secretary are chosen. This Hawaiian board, as it is commonly called, chooses its own president, vice-president, recording secretary and auditor. The corresponding secretary, Rev. O. P. Emerson, is the executive officer of the board, which in its sphere may be regarded as the executive committee of the evangelical churches.

The general work of the Hawaiian board in its various departments is under the supervision of seven standing committees, whose functions are indicated by the titles, foreign missions, home work, publications, education, finance, Morning Star, appropriations from the American board. In carrying on the Micronesian mission these two boards cooperate, and in the home work the American board assists by grants to pay the salaries of Messrs. Emerson, Hyde and Damon, and by special aid from time to time for specific objects. But the expenses of the work here in the islands must be met by the Hawaiian board. They are large indeed for so small a constituency as is represented by the membership of the evangelical churches, 4154 native, 1212 foreign, 676 of these Americans, and a few others who most generously assist in bearing this burden. Few people know how much is done for the various nationalities, for their moral, intellectual and religious welfare, and how much this work demands necessarily of added expenditures from year to year.

The fifty seven Hawaiian churches are supposed to support their own pastors, raising last year $8029.70 for thirty-three pastors, some of these supplying more than one church. The average salary is thus only a little less than $245 in addition to a parsonage and glebe. But the people are poor, and each year seem to be growing less able to give a suitable support to their pastors. There are twelve churches without any pastors, and too small in membership, too isolated, to expect more than a quarterly visit from some preacher who has been appointed by the island associations to exercise some general oversight over that particular church. For church buildings, chapels, parsonages, forty-nine Hawaiian churches report that they contributed last year $6043.35; and to the treasury of the Hawaiian board $996.15. For miscellaneous Christian work they also contributed $2859.58, making a grand total of $16,582.48 raised last year by these Hawaiian Evangelical churches, reporting an average of $340 from each church. This however $5,371.81 less than was reported in 1892.

Individual donors at the Islands have contributed $7,721.48. One large item of this in the monthly donation of $150 from J. T. Waterhouse, Sr., specially helpful from coming so regularly at the intervals of special need. The special donations of Mrs. M. E. Rice and Mrs. J. M. Cooke for Portuguese work and tools and furniture for Hawaiian pastors, have been most acceptable and timely, as also those from Messrs. Wilcox, Robinson and others for general work. Besides the donations duly acknowledged in the last annual report, are doubtless many others paid directly to local objects that have not passed through the treasury of the board. The Central Union Church has contributed $1,868.24 to the general work of the board, and the Central Union Sunday School $200. Hon. C. R. Bishop has added to the permanent funds of the board, the munificent sum of $10,000, only the annual income of this to be applied to the current expenses of the board. Friends in the States have contributed $1357, a friend in Japan $500, and Micronesia has sent $425. The total receipts of the board have been $25 144.42.

But the expenses have exceeded this sum, and amounted to $25,649, diminishing the large cash balance reported the previous year, and leaving in the treasurer's hands only $455.67 to begin the work of the current year. The foreign work calls for an outlay of $3000; North Pacific Missionary Institute $1000; Queen Emma hall $1200; Kohala school $500; other Hawaiian work $1800; Chinese work $5400; Portuguese $3600; Japanese $3000; publications $500; general expenses $2500; a total of $23,500 at the very lowest calculation, and if there is to be any adequate extension of the work, $25,000 is the probable amount of expenditure for the current year. The treasurer has received already two donations of $1000; but the quarterly expenses amount to $6000, that must be paid as they fall due. The board relies today as ever upon the liberality of God's people interested in Christian work. Shall it ever appeal in vain?

C. M. HYDE.

Coburg and Kaiser William Meet.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.— The unusual splendor of Emperor William's reception to his uncle, the Duke of Coburg-Gotha (late Duke of Edinburgh), caused a great deal of comment in this city.

The reception took place at Potsdam and was upon the occasion of the first visit of the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha to the imperial court since his accession to the dukedom of Coburg.

The scene at Wild Park railroad station was one of the most brilliant it is possible to imagine. Emperor William was dressed in a naval uniform as a compliment to his uncle, who is an admiral in the British navy, and was accompanied by all the officers at present serving with the regiments at Potsdam or at Berlin.

Poor Helpless Men.

I met a brisk little married woman at the Long Island ferry house the other day, and I said:

"Why, I thought you were in the country for the summer."

"So I am, dear, but I have to run into town once a month to look after my husband's wardrobe."

"What's the matter with it?"

"Why, it's steadily decreasing. I am referring to his—hem—lingerie."

"Oh!"

"What he does with his things I don't know, but they disappear in the most astonishing way.

"He had complete sets of everything on June 1, but I've just come from a very discouraging hunt, I assure you.

"He runs down and sees me every Sunday, but he can't lose the things on the train."

"Hardly."

"I've found nine undershirts out of the original dozen, 4½ pairs of socks out of another dozen, seven pairs of unmentionables out of a similar amount and so on.

"It's simply discouraging the way his ties, handkerchiefs, collars and cuffs are disappearing."

"It's probably the laundry."

"That's just what I think. He pretends to keep a strict account, but I don't believe he does it at all.

"Men are so helpless unless there's a woman to look after them."

This Year's Juicy Melons.

It is one comfort that financial stringency hasn't hoarded up and hidden away all the peaches and melons. The quality as to most fruits is hardly up to the customary mark this year, and a good many apples fail to attain their customary size and flavor. Even the tomato is inclined to indicate a little falling off. The watermelons are good. If the market does not show quite such huge ones as a few of the big southern melons seen here in most years at this season, the supply of good sized ones is abundant and the quality good.

The only criticism is that while they were probably harvested and sent north at the customary time not all of them for some reason have fully and completely ripened this time. In the heart of many of the sweetest will be found a streak or two of unripeness. But this criticism does not apply to all. Some of the southern melons are as sugary as they are juicy, and how good they are these hot days, especially after a few hours of cooling near the ice! Those who have not tried them in the morning before breakfast have something to learn of their excellence at that hour.—Hartford Times.

The New Reichstag.

Statistics have just been published in Berlin which give some interesting information concerning the composition of the new reichstag, so far as members are concerned. It appears that 80 belong to the Evangelical church, 137 to the Roman Catholic church, while 4 profess the Jewish creed. Three of these latter are Social Democrats, the greater majority of whom are designated as undenominational. Rather more than one-fourth of the members—namely, 102—are of noble birth. The Social Democratic party contains one of these, Herr von Vollmar, who was the only candidate of noble birth who was returned at the late elections for the Bavarian diet. About 100 different occupations are represented in the new reichstag. Foremost come the landed proprietors and farmers, of whom there are 145. The legal profession has 110 representatives. Besides these there are, among others, 40 authors, 36 professional military men, 28 clergymen, 18 burgomasters, 1 photographer, 1 former secretary of state—Count Herbert Bismarck—and lastly one master chimney sweep.

Women Ask For a Severe Penalty.

In consequence of the alarming increase recently in this state of felonious assaults, the action of the women of the Christian Temperance union in Chester county in preparing a memorial to the next legislature, asking that the grade of that crime be advanced to a capital one, will pretty generally be commended throughout the state. In some respects the crime is more atrocious than that of lifetaking. Regarding it in this light, the present laws providing punishment for felonious assault are totally inadequate, and it would seem eminently proper to change them so as to increase the possible but not necessary penalty. It is the sentiment that the laws do not properly meet the heinousness of the offense that has much to do with the alarming increase in the number of lynchings in other states.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Brooklyn Churches In Vacation Time.

For a city as to which it is popularly said that the churches are all closed 55 religious advertisements make a very good showing. Of course these figures represent only a small part of the edifices in which congregations gather on Sundays in summer. The truth is that there is probably no denomination the members of which can excuse themselves for staying at home because there are no services provided.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Narrow Escape.

A narrow escape from "a mysterious dispensation of Providence" is reported in Aroostook county, where a farmer was tending a horse fork, unloading hay, with a lighted cigar in his mouth. He placed the fork, and as the forkful started it hit the cigar, which flew out of his mouth and went up with the hay. But his buildings are yet standing.—Lewiston Journal.

The Humors of Hoarding.

One of the humors of the financial situation was a woman's act in locking up in her strong box a draft on New York. Another woman has $20,000 in currency tucked away in her safe deposit vault, when it might be paying her big interest and doing lots of good besides.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

COAL!

Blacksmiths' Coal

[CUMBERLAND.]

In bulk or purchaser to furnish bags at $12.50 per ton.

Franklin Egg Coal

[ANTHRACITE.]

For household use or any purpose; burns clean and without smoke, does not black utensils of a kitchen with a ¼ inch of soot; is invariably the Coal used by every housekeeper in the Eastern States and will go 50 per cent. farther than the ordinary American or Australian soft Coal. There is a trick in knowing how to use it which is easily acquired and after you get your hand in with it, you will never use any other. In bags at your door for $15 per ton, or if you can get your drayman to cart it to you in bulk, the price will be $13 per ton.
