VOLUME III. NO. 351. HONOLULU, H. T., FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1901. PRICE FIVE CENTS

ANOTHER MAN FREED FROM UNLAWFUL IMPRISONMENT

The Prisoner Was Entitled to a Unanimous Verdict Under the Constitution.

W. D. Hamilton, Convicted of Manslaughter Before Judge Stanley in 1898 and Sentenced to Serve Five Years, Released By Judge Gear on Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Another man illegally convicted of a crime during the "transition period" in these Islands, convicted upon a jury verdict of nine to three, was given his liberty yesterday by Judge Gear on a writ of habeas corpus.

W. D. Hamilton, who was convicted of manslaughter before Judge Stanley in August, 1898, and who was sentenced to serve a term of five years' imprisonment in the Oahu penitentiary, is now a free man, having been convicted contrary to the Constitution of the United States of America which requires a unanimous verdict to convict.

The Court declared that the prisoner was entitled to a unanimous verdict of his peers. An interesting point in the application for the writ of habeas corpus in this case was that the indictment against Hamilton was found by a judge. Judge Stanley found the indictment, tried the case and sentenced the prisoner.

At the time of the trial in 1898, Attorney G. A. Davis endeavored to obtain Hamilton's release by habeas corpus proceedings before Chief Justice Frear, the application being denied.

Attorney Davis' petition in the case yesterday was identical with the one filed in 1898, except for additional paragraphs relating to the verdict.

The writ of habeas corpus was opposed by Attorney General Dole, who spoke at great length in the matter. He requested the court to withhold judgment until the Supreme Court could pass upon his appeal. He conducted his side of the case in the same manner as he did in the Japanese cases on Wednesday.

In the matter of the application for the writ of habeas corpus, the proceedings between the Court and Attorney General were, in full, as follows:

By the Court.—In this matter it appears from the record that Mr. Hamilton was tried for an offense alleged to have been committed by him. His trial was had after annexation to the United States of these Islands, and that the verdict of the jury convicting him was not unanimous, and that there was no indictment found by the grand jury.

By Mr. Dole.—That is correct, if the Court please. In this matter I consider it my duty to do what I can within the law to protect the community from a general jail delivery of four or five murderers, and some twenty or twenty-five persons convicted of rape, arson, burglary in the first degree, and other offenses of a like character. I have reason to expect that there will be a special term of the Supreme Court of the Territory held during the month of August. I cannot say definitely that it will be held, but I have reason to so expect, and the matters passed upon by Your Honor yesterday will come up, as I have every reason to believe, on appeal, and the questions as to the extension of the Fifth and the Sixth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States before the 14th of June will come before the court.

Now, if in cases of this gravity, where men are charged with the commission of the highest crimes, and have been convicted, and a term of the Supreme Court is so close at hand, and the consequences of turning these men loose are so serious, I would suggest the advisability of the court's continuing these matters for a reasonable time until we can get a decision from the Supreme Court.

It will free Your Honor from a very heavy responsibility. I know Your Honor is extremely anxious to follow the law, and is not anxious to set these men at liberty in violation of law. Of course the Circuit Courts will be bound by the decision of the Supreme Court.

By the Court.—If not contrary to decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

By Mr. Dole.—The Supreme Court will say. Of course the Supreme Court of the United States is the absolute authority.

By the Court.—Over this court.

By Mr. Dole.—I have no idea of questioning the authority of the Supreme Court of the United States. It is a question whether the Supreme Court of the United States have rendered any decision which applies in this matter, or, if it has, whether it is not in favor of what I contend, the other way, and that is a matter for the Supreme Court of this Territory to decide. I think it is right and reasonable that I should ask that this matter be continued for a sufficient length of time in order that the Supreme Court may pass upon these matters.

By the Court.—Some time ago the Court was asked, when the cases of Goto and Ah Oi were brought before it, to hold its judgment in abeyance until the official report of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States was at hand, for the purpose of guiding this Court, and for the purpose of not allowing this Court to be in error as to what it should decide. Under those circumstances this Court continued the hearing until the decision of the Supreme Court could be brought here. In each of those cases the Court had under consideration the facts in each case, and whether or not it should release each man from imprisonment. Upon receipt of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court heard arguments, and fully made up its mind, and at that time in those cases assumed the responsibility which now devolves upon this Court. It is not a question of assuming any new responsibility. The Court felt the great responsibility devolving upon it because before it was a man sentenced to a long term of imprisonment and for a grave offense. The Court knows of no other great responsibility that is to be assumed now which it has not already assumed. This Court knows of no general jail delivery of which the Attorney General has spoken. The Court has before it a writ of habeas corpus, upon which a return has been made, and which shows this defendant was convicted by a jury of less than twelve, by less than a unanimous verdict, and for that reason this court believes, and having made up its mind that the defendant was guaranteed a trial by a common law jury, the law of this land at that time, that this defendant was entitled to an absolute right to have a conviction of twelve jurors before he could be sentenced to imprisonment; and this Court, being fully convinced that any law in the Hawaiian Islands at that time providing that he could be convicted by nine jurors was absolutely null and void, and was abrogated by the Newlands Resolution, that the resolution was in force at that time, the Court is of the opinion that the defendant must, on the face of the record, be discharged. You now ask me to wait, in this matter until you, the Attorney General, can find out whether you can appeal from the decision of this Court in those other cases. The Court does not feel that it has any right to do that. If you have not the right to appeal you cannot hold the defendants in custody. If you have the right to appeal the law which gives you that right should also give you the right to hold the defendants in custody pending the appeal. This Court knows of no such law. The Court will not, now, in this proceeding, do what, in effect, would be ordering this party back into custody; not render a decision and put it over until the Attorney General, perhaps, may get a hearing before the Supreme Court, and perhaps, in the decision of that Supreme Court, obtain a decision in conflict with the decision of this Court. The Court is of the opinion that by the passage and taking effect of the Newlands Resolution, all municipal laws of this Territory contrary to the Constitution of the United States were abrogated and null and void, and that that provision of our laws which allowed an indictment to be found by a Circuit Court Judge was abrogated and annulled, as well as that provision of our laws which permitted the court to instruct juries that nine jurors might return a verdict of guilty, and that the law at that time was that all twelve jurors should have concurred in rendering a verdict. The Court being of that opinion the Court believes that, not only for the reason that the verdict in this man's case was not unanimous, but because the law authorizing indictments by a Circuit Judge was annulled, and this defendant was convicted under an indictment brought under a law abrogated and annulled by reason of the taking effect of the Newlands Resolution; that he was sentenced by the court on a conviction by only part of a jury, which conviction was only authorized under a law theretofore in force in this Territory, and which was abrogated and annulled by virtue of the Newlands Resolution, which was a law superior to the law theretofore in force—this being so, this Court is bound to presume, feeling in its own mind to a certainty what the law is, and presuming also that the Supreme Court of this Territory would so decide; that the Supreme Court of this Territory would if the matter was brought before them, declare that the Newlands Resolution, by its express terms, not only provided that all municipal legislation not inconsistent to the Resolution, the United States constitution and United States treaties should remain in force, but, by such provision, annulled and abrogated all laws inconsistent with the Resolution, inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States and inconsistent with the treaties of the United States. This Court is not bound to follow any erroneous decision of the Republic of Hawaii or the Supreme Court of the Kingdom of Hawaii rendered on matters not fixing a rule of property or entering into contracts. This Court is clearly of the opinion that, if the Supreme Court of the Republic rendered an erroneous decision on this question the Supreme Court of the Territory is not bound to follow it, and this Court presumes that, if the question was ever brought before the Supreme Court of the Territory of Hawaii they would quickly say that, by the very terms of the Newlands Resolution all laws contrary to the Constitution of the United States, all laws contrary to the existing treaties of the United States and the Newlands Resolution, were abrogated and annulled.

That being the opinion of this Court the Court feels that in a matter of this kind where the defendant is, according to the idea of the Court, illegally restrained of his liberty, where the Court feels the defendant has been illegally restrained of his liberty since his imprisonment which is shown to have been a long time, the Court does not feel that it should put off its decision in this matter. If any man is in Oahu Prison now restrained of his liberty, under a sentence which this Court believes to be illegal, this Court will discharge him. This Court has rendered a decision which it considers, under its oath and under its conscience, to be right. That being so this Court does now order, adjudge and decree that the defendant in this case having been convicted illegally, as above stated, under laws abrogated by the constitution of the United States, the defendant is entitled to be liberated and discharged, he not having been convicted under an indictment found by a grand jury, and convicted by less than a unanimous verdict, and the writ of habeas corpus will issue and the defendant be discharged.

In cases where the Court thinks the defendants are illegally restrained of their liberty this Court feels it is obligatory upon it to grant writs. It would seem, if it were ever intended to be so, that there would be some provision of law providing for appeals. The Court does not believe it was ever so intended. No such law has been pointed out.

By Mr. Dole.—I have pointed out the law if the Court please. It is section 1433.

By the Court.—Do you claim under that section that this Court has any jurisdiction, after having discharged a defendant on a writ of habeas corpus, to again order him committed?

By Mr. Dole.—I claim the right of appeal under that law.

By the Court.—It is not for this Court to say whether that right will be sustained. This Court does not think it will be. I think the Court is bound to presume it will not be sustained.

Mr. Hamilton. The Court being of the conviction that your sentence and your imprisonment are not legal because of the fact of your having been convicted under laws contrary to the Constitution of the United States, and under laws expressly abrogated and annulled under and by the Newlands Resolution, by virtue of which we came under United States authority, the Court is of the opinion that your conviction by less than the verdict of a unanimous jury was illegal; that your trial had under an indictment found under a law which was also abrogated and annulled by the Newlands Resolution was also illegal, the Court therefore finds your imprisonment today illegal and void, and that it was so from its inception, and the Court, while expressing sorrow that it is not able to wipe out the imprisonment that you have already had, now holds that you should be discharged. You are therefore, and it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that you be discharged from imprisonment.

By Mr. Dole.—I wish to give oral notice that I shall file notice of appeal to the Supreme Court of the Territory. I want to make, in view of that, a request that the defendant, the petitioner, be held to bail, or under his own recognizance, and I ask for a ruling of the Court on that.

By the Court.—I am sorry that you ask it. I feel so strongly about these things that I think you should not ask this Court to hold a defendant, discharged on a writ of habeas corpus, to bail, and under a sentence which this Court has held to be illegal and void.

By Mr. Dole.—I make the request and leave it there. And I will ask in this case, and in the cases disposed of yesterday, that your Honor sign the decrees I shall draw. I will draw the decrees of discharge. I feel if Your Honor please, that it is a serious question whether the Newlands Resolution extended the Fifth and Sixth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States to these Islands.

McKechnie Has the Goods.

A visit to McKechnie's wall paper and painting establishment, located at 1178 and 1184 Union street will readily disclose the fact that he possesses one of the best selected stocks of pretty patterned wall papers, room mouldings, window shades, curtain poles, fixtures, rods and trimmings to be found in Honolulu. In paints and oils and general decorative work, the best of them can't excel McKechnie. Diamond Head Floor Paint is warranted fast colors and retains its gloss.

PRAYS THAT WARRANTS OF ARREST ISSUE FOR DETENTION OF FREE MEN.

What Was Done in the United States District Court—Various Other Matters of the Court Yesterday—Vivas vs. Kerr Decision.

Attorney F. M. Brooks made application before Judge Gear late yesterday afternoon for writs of habeas corpus in the cases of Ihara Ichigoru, Osaki Marukichi, Chida Mangaboro and Yamane Ninchiro, the bodies of these prisoners to be brought before the court at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

All of these men were convicted of crimes during the "transition period," so-called, and were convicted by the verdicts of less than unanimous juries, contrary to the Constitution of the United States of America which requires that a jury be unanimous in its verdict in order to convict.

Already three men have been given their liberty, having been unlawfully imprisoned for various alleged crimes. The present four cases, if the men are set at liberty, will swell the number to seven and there are more cases, many of them, yet to come.

Ihara Ichigoru was convicted of murder in the first degree on May 22, 1899, and was sentenced to serve five years in Oahu penitentiary by Judge Perry.

Osaki Marukichi and Chida Mangaboro were convicted of manslaughter on May 22, 1899, and sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment each, by Judge Perry.

Yamane Ninchiro was convicted of manslaughter in the second degree and was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment by Judge Perry.

The following is a list of those who are liable to secure release on writs of habeas corpus, inasmuch as they were convicted by verdicts rendered by juries which were not unanimous and have, therefore, been imprisoned illegally, according to the decision of Judge Gear in the recent Japanese cases and the Hamilton case:

Ben Kupihea, rape, March 3, 1889, 3 years.

Gengi, assault with deadly weapon, August 15, 1899, 7 years; Stanley.

Yong Look Nee, murder second degree, December 9, 1899, life; Kalua.

Lum Ko, larceny first degree, 18 months, March 13, 1900; Perry.

Nalope, arson, May 8, 1900, 2 years; Stanley.

Kaluna, burglary first degree, May 14, 1900, 15 years; Stanley.

William Ester, manslaughter, May 25, 1900, 20 years; Stanley.

Lono Opio, rape, June 8, 1900, 4 years; Kalua.

Ah Quong, rape, January 12, 1899, life; Wilder.

Wong Chew Hung, manslaughter first degree, January 12, 1899, 10 years; Wilder.

Huekoni, burglary second degree, April 8, 1899, 5 years; Wilder.

Hanalei Napua Paheo, murder second degree, October 6, 1899, 20 years; Wilder.

Lo On Pau, burglary, second degree, October 18, 1898, 12 years; Stanley.

Hamada, burglary first degree, April 5, 1899, 3 years; Wilder.

Makihara Katsutaro manslaughter, second degree, July 13, 1899, 7 years; Wilder.

Lee Lang, larceny first degree, October 18, 1898, 4 years; Stanley.

Chow Yuen Toon, alias Papaaloa, assault with deadly weapon, March 5, 1900, 2 years; Parsons.

Amu Sang, larceny first degree, Oct. 18, 1898, 4 years; Stanley.

Kaluahine, rape, January 6, 1899, 8 years; Wilder.

Applied For Writs of Mandamus.

Attorney General Dole has appealed to the Supreme Court of the Territory in the matter of Judge Gear's decision in the habeas corpus proceedings of the two Japanese, Goto and Ah Oi, given their liberty from the Oahu penitentiary on the ground that they were convicted by the verdict of less than unanimous juries.

The Attorney General yesterday filed petitions in the Supreme Court asking that a writ of mandamus be issued commanding and directing George D. Gear, Second Judge of the First Circuit Court, his successor or successors in office, to allow the Attorney General's appeals from the Circuit Court's decision, made Wednesday in the habeas corpus matters of Ah Oi and Goto. The petitions recite the histories of the two cases from the time of conviction of the two Japanese to when they were released on the ground that such convictions were contrary to the Constitution of the United States of America. It states the fact that the Attorney General was refused the right of appeal and that the motion of the Attorney General to require the furnishing of bail for the Japanese was denied. Also that the court refused to pass upon or consider any bonds which might be offered by the Attorney General. The petition of the Attorney General on the Goto case concludes as follows:

"That the Attorney General, representing the Territory of Hawaii, believes that said Goto Hayzo was discharged by the Second Judge of the First Circuit Court aforesaid in consequence of a misapprehension on the part of said Judge in regard to the application of the Insular Decisions, so-called, recently rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States, to the Fifth and Sixth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and that said Goto Hayzo is not lawfully entitled to his liberty.

"Wherefore, the Territory of Hawaii, by E. P. Dole, its Attorney General, prays that a writ of mandamus issue from this Honorable Court commanding and directing the Honorable George D. Gear, Second Judge of the said First Circuit Court, his successor or successors in office to allow the said appeal of the Territory of Hawaii to the Supreme Court of said Territory according to law; and that in the meantime and pending the final decision of said appeal a warrant of arrest issue for the detention of said Goto Hayzo and for such other and further relief as justice in the premises may require."

In the Federal Court.

Judge Estee will render a decision this morning in the case of Kam Yan, the Chinese lady with the little feet, who was married once in the Orient and once here. She will then know whether she must get out of the country or whether she can stay and enjoy the beauties and pleasures of the Paradise of the Pacific.

Several deportation cases were heard in the United States District Court yesterday. Two little Chinese girls were discharged, while the case of a third small daughter of the Celestial Empire was continued over to today. The girls discharged were Ah Sam and Kan Pam, while she whose fate still hangs in the balance is Ah Quai. All of these children claim to have been born in these Islands, afterward going to China with their mother who is still living there, according to the children's story.

Captain Wallace of the bark Sea King appeared before Judge Estee and pleaded not guilty to a charge of cruelty on the high seas.

Attorney Thompson entered pleas of not guilty in behalf of the four sailors of the bark C. D. Bryant, charged with deserting that vessel in time of peril.

William S. Fleming, clerk to United States Attorney Baird has tendered his resignation to take effect on August 1, when he will go into the law office of Thomas Fitch as assistant. He has been admitted to the practice of law in all of the Territorial courts.

Various Court Items.

In the case of Sophia Hunter Kahaleahi vs. M. S. Pereira et al, the complainant has filed a motion by her attorneys, Andrews, Peters & Andrade, that the cause be set for trial.

In the case of William F. Jocher vs. Carl H. Patzig and wife, complainants make motion, by their attorneys, Andrews, Peters & Andrade, that respondent's demurrer to complainant's bill of complaint be set for hearing.

David Dayton, who has been appointed guardian of the Kahookano minors by Judge Gear, has filed a bond of $1000 with the court.

In re the guardianship of James B. Roberts, minor, an inventory has been filed, showing the minor to be the possessor of 291-1000 of an acre of real estate situated on Punchbowl street, adjoining the premises of James Campbell.

In the matter of the estate of Alina, Magoon & Thompson have filed notice of appeal from the decision of Judge Gear, allowing attorneys for the legatee a fee of $40 for services and ordering the same charged against the administration of the estate.

In deciding in favor of the defendant in the case of J. M. Vivas vs. L. B. Kerr, Judge Gear says: "The Court has given the matter a great deal of consideration, and the Court does not see its way clear to get around the rule of law with regard to the burden of proof. The Court cannot say Mr. Vivas was not correct in what he said, but his statement was diametrically opposed to the statement of Mr. Kerr. By giving judgment for the plaintiff the Court would necessarily find that Mr. Kerr's statement was untrue. The Court has nothing on which to base any such presumption. The Court feels that perhaps Mr. Vivas did some work for which he should be paid, but, under the rule, the burden is on the plaintiff to prove his case. There were but two parties to the transaction, Mr. Vivas and Mr. Kerr. Mr. Vivas says that Mr. Kerr employed him. Mr. Kerr says he did not. There is some evidence that Mr. Vivas was also connected with a vendor of the stock sold to Mr. Kerr. The Court feels, under the circumstances, that it must give judgment for the defendant on the ground, and bases its decision solely on the ground, that the plaintiff has not sustained the burden of proof as required by law. The Court therefore renders judgment in favor of the defendant for costs.

Refused to Show Colors.

Daniel Paea, a boatman possessing a license, failed to display his badge upon demand at the waterfront Wednesday afternoon, and was consequently arrested. He was discharged with a reprimand when his case was called in court yesterday.

PERILOUS CHASE LEADS TO IMPORTANT CAPTURE

Lantana Embowered Illicit Stills Raided By Chillingworth and His Officers.

Five Men Engaged in the Unlawful Manufacture of Okolehao Are Now Behind Prison Bars at the Central Station—Elaborate Paraphernalia Confiscated.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Chillingworth scored a signal triumph, as well as adding fresh laurels to his already enviable record as an efficient officer, by the successful culmination of his carefully planned raid by which two of the largest okolehao distillers illicitly operated in the Hawaiian Islands were completely destroyed and the larger part of the product on hand confiscated, at a late hour yesterday afternoon.

As a result, down in a large cell room under lock and key, at the city station house, are stored for safe keeping the following described plant: One large copper still, of recent manufacture, fashioned upon the latest scientific lines. One combination wooden and copper still, which has evidently seen much longer and harder service. A quantity of copper tubing. Several vats and troughs. A large amount of captured okolehao is also included in the spoils, consisting of five 1¼-quart square bottles, four five-gallon demijohns and two five gallon kegs, all filled with the finished product of the two distilleries.

Besides these assets, the police department has in its charge John Carvalho and Joe Mendez, ruthlessly snatched from toil at the first still visited; also Keoki, a Japanese named Sato and John Richard, found at work at the second distillery, which was presided over by Keoki.

The stills in question were located at Kalihi, in the Puulale district, not far from the Allen Herbert residence. Their product had been on the market for some months. The closest watch and much quiet investigation failed to reveal the location of the illicit manufactories of spirits. Reports came into headquarters that large quantities of spirits were being disposed of by Chinese and natives, but the whereabouts of the prime movers in the matter continued to baffle the watchfulness of the police.

About two months ago Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth took hold of the okolehao matter and its illicit distillation reported as being conducted at Kalihi. He resolved that he would locate the still and run its owners to earth if the job took all summer. A strict watch was maintained when officers could be spared for the work. The press of other police duties, however, prevented careful and painstaking investigation until a week or ten days ago, when the Deputy Sheriff instituted a daily vigil in the suspected neighborhood and assiduously collected data and information, which would serve to make detection and conviction of the guilty parties sure when the time was ripe for making a raid and plucking the outfit.

The difficulties and dangers connected with the raid possessed many of the characteristics of a United State moonshine romance as sometimes found in the Cumberland mountains of Tennessee. The arrest of the proprietors and assistants at the illicit distilleries was attended with a considerable amount of hardship. After a consultation with several of his officers Deputy Chillingworth concluded that it would be useless to delay closing the institutions any longer. Therefore picking Officers Kealakai and Ah On, he started for the locality shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was later joined by Dr. Shorey, Officer Apana and press representatives. The officers effected a disguise in citizens' clothes. The drive to Kalihi was made without attracting undue attention. Carvalho's still was first visited. Its equipments were found installed in a well-built shed, which was completely surrounded by a high board fence. The descent upon the place was made through several tortuous by-paths and over streams of muddy water, the officers hoping in this way to reach the scene of operations without the knowledge of the culprits. The party had to combat the thick growth of lantana which at times almost blocked the way, requiring the officers to crawl on hands and knees.

The enclosure was located in a vineyard and adjoining a windmill. The entrance being carefully guarded, the place was surrounded. A demand was made for admission. Carvalho was assured that escape was out of the question and that the best thing he could do, under the circumstances, was to capitulate without further trouble. At this the party were admitted. Here was found the copper still in full operation. The fires were going at full blast and the distilled product was dropping from the copper spout. The officers found seven barrels of mash in the room. Search also denoted the presence of two demijohns, four bottles and two kegs of okolehao on the premises. The finished product was loaded into a dray, while Chillingworth shattered the heads of the barrels containing the mash, scattering the contents over the ground.

Carvalho offered no resistance when placed under arrest. His assistant Joe Mendez also accompanied the officers without causing trouble.

The moonshiner-hunting posse next directed its course to the notorious still said to have been operated by Keoki. This distillery was quite a considerable distance from the one conducted by Carvalho. To reach the second place where illicit liquors were concocted, the officers and others had several very trying experiences as well as exasperating. One member of the party, being a kodak fiend, was obliged tearfully to part company with his camera because of the tortuous pathway and the difficulties of locomotion through a tangled mass of lantana, which in many places reached a height of twelve feet. In the center of a field of perhaps ten acres or more, a pathway had been cut through the lantana jungle. In following this course for several hundred feet the party encountered several stone walls, which proved well nigh insurmountable. It was also found necessary to ford a stream of water. Over to the mountain side of the stream the clearing in the lantana grove widened to considerable extent, and the distillery was found. At work in the vicinity were found Keoki and the Japanese. They were immediately covered by Chillingworth, and escape was not attempted. The still was a crude copper and wooden affair. It plainly showed indications of excessive use. Its concealment in the clustered and almost impregnable lantana was accomplished with unique ingenuity and originality. The smoke from the fires of the still was conveyed through a tin pipe of over one hundred feet in length, which led to a palm tree and from thence to a height of some twenty feet, where the vent was found among the branches. The smoke in this way would almost baffle detection. The water to supply the manufactory was secured some hundreds of feet away and conveyed in pipes to the scene of operation. A curious alarm system was placed at the still, connecting with the neighboring house, in which Keoki resided. The approach of a visitor to within a few hundred feet of the okolehao distillery resulted in the necessary warning being transmitted to the workers in the lantana thicket, when the works would suddenly assume inactivity.

The officers overhauled Richard while he was conveying a bottle of the concocted stuff from the Keoki distillery.

Two demijohns and one large bottle of finished booze were found in close proximity to the still at the latter place. Keoki had in connection with his alarm system a corps of scouts who trailed about the outer circles of the thicket, ever on the qui vive to give note of warning at the sign of approaching strangers. The circuitous path pursued by Chillingworth and his scouts outwitted all the safeguards with which Keoki had surrounded himself.

The proprietor and the Japanese assistant submitted gracefully to the arrest. With Richard they were taken to the carriages and conveyed to the station accompanied by an officer. Several barrels of mash in the course of fermentation were smashed and the contents destroyed.

At a late hour yesterday evening Keoki made a successful attempt to secure $1000 bail. He was thereupon released from custody.

The Police Department is jubilant over the success of the raid. The establishments have caused the officers a great amount of trouble of late. They have been conducting a large business and the parties concerned have made it their boast that they defied the officers to discover their whereabouts. Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth is more than pleased that he has at last succeeded in running down the largest gang of illicit distillers doing business in the Territory of Hawaii.

The accused will in all probability be given a preliminary hearing in police court today upon the charge of illicit brewing or distilling spirits contrary to the laws of the Territory.

The use of the wheel resulted in the bicycle face and now the links are charged with producing the golfing spine.

THE waterfront was thrown into a great state of excitement yesterday when it was seen that the America Maru was entering the harbor with the quarantine flag flying. Soon it was known that she was not coming to the dock and all sorts of rumors were flying about. Inquiry developed the fact that a suspicious case of sickness was found by the doctors, in the rigid examination they made of the second class and steerage passengers, and at this time as the plague is so prevalent in the Orient they thought it best to take no chance of letting the steamer come to the wharf. A careful examination of the passenger was made and after consultation he was declared suffering from a disease other than plague and so the steamer was allowed to dock after she had been detained in quarantine about four hours.

Her steerage passengers for here, about twenty-five in number, were with their baggage sent to Quarantine Island. The cabin passengers were allowed ashore and were greatly relieved when they heard that the case was not serious. Among the cabin passengers were several for this port. During the time the vessel was in quarantine there were people aboard who did not relish their positions, especially as there was a fifteen day quarantine in sight for them. They were Pilot Cameron and Customs Inspectors Doyle and Scanlon. The probable enforced vacation did not appeal to them, and they all wore very long faces. Captain Cameron was especially anxious as he had an appointment with the captain of the transport Grant to take the vessel to sea and by the quarantine he was forced to stay aboard the America.

Although she arrived off the harbor about eleven o'clock the Maru was not allowed to dock until nearly five o'clock. Her passengers then came ashore and started out to see the sights as they will have to leave again this morning at ten o'clock. There are a good many passengers aboard, among them several American army officers and their wives and some Russian officers, on their way to the states and Europe. Several missionary families are also on their way home after their labors in the Orient.

The Maru had a splendid trip all the way from Yokohama. In the inland sea when few hours out from Kobe, she lost a sailor overboard, but he was rescued very shortly after he hit the water.

The Freighter Oregonian.

The big American-Hawaiian steamer Oregonian which is on her way here and was last reported at Coronel, Chile, on the 13th inst., is in command of Captain H. H. Williams, a skipper well known on the Pacific Coast. He is an old sailor and has in his time commanded many ships. His last experience in a sailing vessel was in the Frederick Billings, which was one of the finest American ships afloat. He lost her at Callao, where she was loading niter. After the vessel was loaded her crew set her afire and she proved a total loss. Going home to the East, Captain Williams gave up the sea for a year and then came west. He took command of one of the steam whalers of the Pacific Steam Whaling Company. For four years he engaged in this work and was wonderfully successful. Tiring of the hardships of the life in the Arctic, however, he gave it up and was appointed commander of the Oregonian.

The big vessel is a traveling store house of general merchandise and hardware. When she arrives here she will have about twenty-five hundred tons of general merchandise for this city. In her cargo are 650 tons of structural steel and iron for the new Alexander Young building, now in course of construction.

U. S. S. Petrel Here.

With homeward bound pennant flying, the little gunboat Petrel arrived here yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. There were no guns or blowing of whistles to welcome her, nor even a telephone message from the lookout at Diamond Head to acquaint the town with her coming. Neither the pilots nor doctor knew of her arrival until the pilot office was notified by a newspaperman of the vessel's approach, and by the time they were ready to go out to her she was in the harbor and had her anchor down.

The Petrel came from Manila by way of Yokohama. She left the latter place on the 8th inst. and made a rather slow trip to port, as she cannot carry a great deal of coal, and has to be saving of what fuel she can carry. After an absence of several years she is on her way home and will leave here for the Mare Island Navy Yard as soon as she can coal and get provisions. The vessel is in command of Commander E. H. Green, most of her officers have recently joined her and hardly any of her crew, who were on her at the battle of Manila, are with the vessel now.

This is her first visit to a home port, since the celebrated action in which the little vessel played such a conspicuous part, and she will have a thorough overhauling when she gets to the navy yard. In the line of battle on the memorable First of May, 1898, the Petrel was fourth in the procession of ships as they entered the harbor. She was astern of the Raleigh and ahead of the Yorktown. Her part of the battle gave her a reputation, and, as she is the heaviest armed vessel of her size in the world, she was able to do a lot of execution. Her main battery consists of two six-inch guns on either side besides a lot of smaller pieces, and rapid fire guns. During the action she engaged the Reina Cristina and Castilla. The former was steaming and the latter anchored within about five hundred yards of the Petrel. After silencing these two she turned her guns on the Don Antonio and sunk her. At the termination of the battle the Petrel was sent to destroy what shipping there was in the harbor belonging to the enemy, and she did so with great success. During the engagement the Petrel was struck but once and that a glancing blow by a shell which hit her under the hawse pipe and exploded as it hit the water, sending a torrent of spray over the forecastle.

Rothschild Heard From.

Mr. Rothschild, a reputed newspaper man of San Francisco, who descended like a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky on the newspaper fraternity of this city on the last trip of the America Maru from San Francisco, did not return in the vessel. Some of his belongings did, however, and thereby hangs a tale. Mr. Rothschild presented his credentials at this end of the trip which showed that he was to correspond for the San Francisco Bulletin. The letter also stated that he was to be paid for any of his work that the paper accepted. Besides this letter Mr. Rothschild brought a message from President McKinley to the newspaper men of Honolulu in which the Chief Executive sent his aloha and said he was sorry he could not be here.

The path of the America Maru from San Francisco was strewn with empty champagne bottles which had been emptied at the invitation of Mr. Rothschild, and on arrival at this port several other bottles large and cold were split for the delectation of the new found friends of the traveling scribe. After telling who he was and asking for a notice in the papers he was given the glad hand and some notices. The notices did not seem to do him any good for he went on at the same rate during the trip to Hongkong. Arriving there the steward and his assistants presented Mr. Rothschild with sundry and various little slips of paper that had scribbles with a pencil and printing on them. For each card there was a corresponding vacancy in the wine room of the America Maru and before separating from the ship which had been his home for such a long time the newspaper man was asked to liquidate. He had done so much of that on the way over that it was impossible for him to do any more of it and as a result the steward had to keep the wine cards and also Mr. Rothschild's trunk and a flute, with which the traveler was wont to beguile the weary hours of the night, during the trip. The ship's officers would willingly have kept the traveler but he had departed hence and was to be found not. Rothschild was greatly missed by the steward.

Assaulted Customs Guard.

George Kaya, a Japanese in the employ of a local customs brokerage firm, got himself into serious difficulty last evening at the main gate of the Pacific Mail wharf by assaulting and cursing Guard M. P. Gomes, of the customs service, while the latter was on duty.

The Jap insisted in going upon the wharf and the official refused to permit him on as he had orders to do. Kaya became very much incensed and struck Gomes in the face. Officer Harry Flint who was near was called and the man was placed under arrest. On the way off the wharf he called the guard a very vile name and at the police station besides the charge of assaulting a federal officer, an additional charge of using profane language was placed against his name. He was bailed out by his employer.

The last time a customs guard was assaulted, the assailant was sent to jail by the United States Court. The case of Kaya, being an aggravated one, he will probably feel the heavy hand of the law also.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The cruiser Philadelphia is expected here about the fifth of August.

The Mauna Loa leaves for Maui and Kona, Hawaii, ports this noon.

The America Maru sails this morning at ten o'clock for the Coast.

The barkentines Benicia and S. N. Castle will probably sail for the Coast tomorrow.

The French man-of-war Protet after various experiences in the South Seas, is expected here shortly.

Captain Andersen of the Charles B. Kenney sailed without his papers. They were sent to him by registered mail today.

It is not yet known definitely when the transport Buford will sail. The repairs necessary aboard her are very complicated, and taking longer than was at first expected.

The steamer Helene arrived from Hawaii and Maui last evening. She had no later reports about the volcano. Her cargo consisted of 12,000 bags of sugar and 40 head of cattle.

Mate Dowling of the Rufus E. Wood took the ship Sea King to sea on Wednesday in place of Captain Wallace, who is detained here, pending the charge against him in the United States Court.

Captain Curtis of the schooner William Marston entertained a party of friends aboard the vessel last night. The Maile Ilima Quartette furnished the music, and the evening was very pleasantly passed.

The big transport Grant got away for Manila yesterday afternoon. In the morning Captain Berger and his band boys entertained the passengers with a fine concert which was very much appreciated.

Nerves of Weak Men

[Trade Mark.]

I have demonstrated the fact that weaknesses of men, the result of early or later indiscretions, such as Drains, Impotency, Lame Back, Varicocele, etc., will not yield to a stimulating treatment. This accounts for the fact that drugs never cure. The medicines given for these troubles, essentially poisonous, are intended only to stimulate. Continuous stimulation must result in harm. Thousands of patients have said to me: "Doctor, when I took this or that medicine I felt better in an hour, but after a month my weakness returned, and I was worse off than ever." "Better in an hour" means a powerful stimulant—means a wrecked constitution.

Electricity Is Strength!

That's what you want, strength, not stimulation. Electricity will never cure in a day; it does not cure in a week. It takes two months, it may take three, but the results are there to stay. I am the inventor and introducer of the famous Dr. Sanden Electric Belt, with attachment for men. It embodies the best efforts of my 30 years as a specialist. Worn at night, it strengthens you when you sleep. Currents act upon the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bladder, Prostrate Gland and all weakened parts. It weighs but five ounces. Currents instantly felt.

HONOLULU CLAY COMPANY MUST OFFER EQUIVALENT

Territory Would Swap Lands—Few Liquor Licenses Recommended by Executive Council.

Very little business of importance was transacted at the meeting of the Executive Council yesterday morning. Minor matters came up for the consideration of Acting Governor Cooper, Superintendent of Public Works J. H. Boyd and Territorial Treasurer W. H. Wright.

Mr. Boyd read an application from the management of the Hilo Railroad requesting the right of way over certain lands for the extension of a branch from the Hawaiian Mill over land owned by the government. The application was referred to Assistant Superintendent of Public Works Marston Campbell for investigation.

Treasurer Wright read an application for a light wine and beer license which was received from S. Kaululaau of Waialua, Hawaii. The matter was referred to the judgment of the high sheriff. The application of Masaki requesting a wholesale liquor license at Hanapepe, Kauai, was accorded a similar disposition. The request of T. Dadani asking for permission to conduct a sake distillery at Manoa valley was referred to the Attorney General.

The Honolulu Clay Company, through Superintendent of Public Works Boyd, submitted a request for a quitclaim deed for certain parcels of clay bearing lands near their premises in Nuuanu valley. It was recommended that the same be granted in return of a cash payment of $200 and the relinquishing by the company of a strip of land adjoining Nuuanu avenue, by which means that thoroughfare could be widened. A communication to this effect was ordered forwarded to the Honolulu Clay Co.

Upon recommendation of the council the Territorial Treasurer was notified to issue no liquor licenses for Kalihiwai.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Associated Veterans of Farragut's fleet, whi recently conferred on Admiral Schley a Farragut medal, have received a letter from him.

In it he thanks them "for the high honor they have done me in presenting me a gold medal, bearing the effigy of our great admiral, David Glasgow Farragut. I am delighted to have been one of his pupils in the days of 'Auld Lang Syne,' to have learned from him the art of war, and to have done enough to have deserved to wear a medal bearing his grand old face, voted to me unanimously by those who were associated with him as I was in one of the fiercest and bloodiest wars of modern days. It is an honor that my children and their children will love to dwell upon when I, in my turn, have gone to take my place with our great captain, where envyings cease and strifes are unknown.

"The greatest joy of my long service has been that I have served faithfully with no thought of self, that I have helped others to stand for home and for country, and I have believed in that camaraderie which comes from a common exposure to common dangers, from the admiral commanding to the man behind the gun or before the furnace, who are all alike in sharing perils or glory."

HONOLULU NINETY-FIFTH.

Relative Rank of Pacific Coast Places With Regard to Population.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The census bureau today made public a corrected list of the relative rank of the cities of the United States which have more than 25,000 with regard to population.

San Francisco, with a population of 342,782, stands ninth, and shows an increase during the past decade of 14.6 per cent.

Los Angeles shows 102,479, a net increase of 103.4 per cent in ten years, which makes it rank thirty-sixth instead of 135th, as shown in the census of 1890.

Oakland, with 66,960, stands fifty-sixth and shows an increase of 37½ per cent.

Sacramento stands 137th with a population of 29,282.

Portland, Or., is forty-second, with a population of 90,426, and shows a net increase of 94.9 per cent.

Seattle, Wash., is forty-eighth, with a population of 80,671, and shows an increase of 88.3 per cent, while its rival, Tacoma, is 104th, with 37,714, and only shows a net increase of 4.7 per cent.

Honolulu ranks ninety-fifth, with a population of 39,306, which is an increase of 71.6 per cent of the 1890 census.

With the exception of Tacoma the cities of the Pacific coast have shown the most remarkable growth of any in the United States.

Greeting Old Friends.

Judge A. S. Humphreys of Honolulu has been here since last evening renewing old acquaintances. There is but little change in the judge. He carries the honors of prosperity which he has achieved in the islands with easy dignity which was always characteristic of the man under all circumstances. He leaves tonight to visit the old homestead in Mississippi. After a short eastern trip he will return to Honolulu and resume his judicial duties.—Tempe (Ariz.) News.

Mrs. Cordelia Botkin's case is to be carried to the Federal courts. She was convicted of murder in sending poisoned candy to the victim.

Merit in Kodak Work

When customers send films from California to us for developing and printing there must be more that ordinary merit in the class of work we turn out. They claim that they cannot get the same excellent results in San Francisco, and are willing to send 2000 miles and be sure of having good Kodak pictures. That's why we get the business—merit.

We turn out uniformly good work. Every roll of film receives the best treatment that skill and experience can give it.

Our Photographic Department is full of work, but we are able to turn out work when promised, and no order is slighted.

Our popular prices will save many a dollar for the amateur—that's another reason for you to bring us your work.

Remember we are headquarters for Kodaks, fresh films, plates, printing papers—everything in the photographic line.

Let us have your next roll and we will demonstrate our claims for excellent and careful photo work.

HONOLULU, H. T., JULY 26, 1901

WARRANTS OF ARREST AND NOT APPEALS ARE WANTED.

There is a good deal of unnecessary howling over the jail deliveries that will result from Judge Gear's recent decision. What is there to prevent the Attorney General from causing the re-arrest of the released men, and their commitment to await the action of a Grand Jury? Is it the provision of the U. S. Constitution that a man shall not be put twice in jeopardy for the same offense? Wharton, the great authority on criminal law, says (Sec. 510): "A conviction set aside on the defendant's motion on account of erroneous ruling by the Judge is no bar to a second trial. The defendant by setting up the position that the ruling was erroneous is afterward estopped from disputing this. He affirms that he never was in legal jeopardy, and that the ruling of the Judge against him putting him in jeopardy was not law. When he gains his point he cannot afterwards plead jeopardy."

GERM OF NEW SYSTEM.

The New York Evening Post has been taking pleasure, as it says, in calling attention to the last batch of diplomatic appointments, "as showing an apparent intention on the part of the Administration to bring about improvements in the service by promoting and transferring men already in it when there are vacancies to be filled." The Post gives a number of instances where this course has been followed and says:

The whole proceeding shows plainly how much a conscientious Executive can do to secure a creditable diplomatic corps for the country, even though there be no regular gradation and no distinct avenues of promotion, from Consul to Ambassador Extraordinary and properly salaried by Congress. Any one who has had to do with a large corporation filled with aspiring young men will realize what a stimulus these promotions will be to the American representatives in foreign lands, just as anyone who has traveled at all knows that continuity of service is, next to original fitness, one of the most necessary attributes of a diplomat. By this we do not mean continuity of service in one capital, but permanence of employment in the diplomatic corps, the European nations having found frequent transfers highly desirable in the case of the younger officers, that they may gain in knowledge of languages, diplomatic experience, and general breadth.

It is pointed out by the same paper that in this matter of permanence the United States has profited greatly by the re-election of President McKinley. Cases are cited where, had changes been made at the beginning of this presidential term, the transference of delicate negotiations from the hands that had carried them along until triumphant results were in sight to green hands might have involved disastrous consequences. This truth is not obscured by the fact that many important negotiations are now largely carried on in Washington, for "however able and however completely the master of a situation the Secretary of State may be, the need of a trained mouthpiece, of a skilled reporter and observer, and of an able spokesman will never be done away with." If Mr. Conger was merely "the news-gatherer of the Government and its pen" while at Pekin, as had been said, "the desirability of a shrewd foresight in such a news-gatherer, based upon keen insight into local conditions, is none the less obvious," and the Evening Post thinks the State Department ought to have been very glad to have as Mr. Conger's temporary successor a man like Mr. Rockhill, with the experience of years of training in China, in Greece, in the Bureau of American Republics, and in the Department itself.

Several instances are given of able men who have been in the United States diplomatic and consular services for many years, in proof that a man's career therein is now not necessarily limited to four years or to one post. "Indeed, surveying the whole field, there is distinct ground for encouragement for those who are working for a permanent corps, and who desire to end the scandals connected with the appearance of incompetent and underbred diplomats and consuls as representatives of this great republic."

The promotion of the desirable end of a permanent tenure of office to diplomats and consuls produced by President McKinley's re-election is none the less gratifying because it is largely accidental. It is the accidents of events which, not at all infrequently, lead to the adoption of improved customs, practices and even systems in government. It is possible, therefore, that the present status of the American diplomatic service, in its accidentally prolonged tenure of personnel, contains the germ of a new and greatly advanced system.

NOT NECESSARILY DANGEROUS.

With the cars kept in good mechanical condition and careful and capable motormen in charge of them, the baleful predictions of casualties from the operation of the electric line in Honolulu will, it is hoped, never be fulfilled. The Phoenix, Arizona, Republican just received reports the first fatal street railway accident in that city. On this the comment is made: "It has been eight years since the trolley system was inaugurated, and considering the fact that there are no rigid municipal restrictions thrown about the running of street cars, this record of immunity is one of the most remarkable in the United States." The fact is notable that the Phoenix cars have been run without fenders, and the paper here quoted throws doubt on the proposition that fenders are not liable to do more execution than they are designed to prevent. However this may be, the Honolulu Rapid Transit Co. equips its cars with the most approved type of fender, which has been accepted by the territorial authorities. It is certainly very ingenious in appearance. Perhaps, to reassure the nervous public, one of the directors might be induced to have the fender tested upon himself.

The Republican tried yesterday evening to get the truth from Hilo regarding the report brought by the steamer Noeau, that the volcano of Kilauea was again active, but it was found impossible to have the query answered over the wireless telegraph before business hours this morning. It is hardly possible the news is true and Hilo so sound asleep as not to notify Honolulu of the fact on the eve of a scheduled mail departure for the Coast. A man interested in tourist business said yesterday that Kilauea active six months would mean the addition of half a million dollars to the money circulation of this Territory.

In the case of Hawaii, the constitution was the tortoise, and the flag the hare. The hare was lulled to sleep by the Supreme Court of Hawaii and

The capture of two illicit distilleries in the Kalihi suburbs at one stroke is a feather in Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth's cap.

Had the Hawaiian courts followed the constitution when it beckoned to them, there would be no jail delivery today.

Miss Murcutt Writes.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Dear Sir.—I have just heard by the last mail that the doom of Iwilei is sealed and that soon its three hundred unwilling captives will be free. Allow me to congratulate The Republican for the noble stand that it has taken in this matter and for the part that it has played in ridding Sunny Hawaii of this moral pest house ,and in upholding the sacredness of the American home and the honor of American womanhood. I feel that all lovers of home and purity througnout the nation owe you a debt of gratitude.

I would like also to congratulate the people of Hawaii, together with those whose voices have been heard in protest and whose influence has been used against this shameful institution. I hear, alas! there are some "who are grinding their teeth with rage" at the turn matters have taken. Their consolation must be to know that all the powers of darkness and imps of hell are in sympathy with them.

Again congratulating all on the triumph of righteousness,

Believe me, Yours sincerely,

ADA L. A. MURCUTT.

HIS MOURNFUL TRIP.

Arrival of Samuel Parker at San Francisco.

Samuel Parker, the well known Honolulu capitalist, arrived from the East last night with the remains of his wife, who died in New York, Mrs. Parker is to be buried in Hawaii. Accompanying Mr. Parker on his mournful trip are his two sons, E. N. and James K. Parker, and Miss Darby. They are at the Occidental. At the time of her death Mrs. Parker and her husband were on their way to Carlsbad. Mrs. Parker was a Miss Richardson before her marriage and came from one of the best native families of Hawaii. She was an intimate friend of former Queen Liliuokalani and prominent in that monarch's court when her husband was a member of the Queen's cabinet.—S. F. Examiner.

LITTLE WHITEWASH SPRAY WILL NOT HURT THE TOWN

The Much Advertised Tradesman Was Perfectly Innocent of What Was Done in His Behalf.

The wrath of the P. C. A. was righteous enough in its way and still those "vandals," more than any other object of its congenial invective, are not killed.

Investigation of the desecration of Lookout Point on Punchbowl with a whitewash advertisement elicits the fact that the beneficiary in the case was made such involuntarily.

It appears that H. McKechnie the painter, in order to keep up his business, has been obliged to hire fresh help. One of these new men, with more of thirst for business than for the beauty of nature, conceived an idea to sprinkle the hillside with a sprayer, in such a wise as to show forth to better advantage the merit of his boss's goods. Accordingly, with two helpers, he set forth at lunch hour and with the aid of the aforementioned sprayer accomplished his fell design.

Mr. McKechnie's first intimation of the enterprise was received from his wife, who, coming home from Waikiki in a car, leisurely took in the view of the landscape. She saw the bizarre sign and was somewhat surprised, if not pleased a little too. On reaching home she informed her "hubby," who set out to ascertain how and by whom he was made liable to trouble for vandalism. Of course he knows now the why and wherefore, but is not especially pleased with the language the Advertiser used to describe the unworthiness of the deed. He thinks a man should have fair play, but still he is grateful in a measure for this free advertising.

It may be news to the P. C. A. censor of scenery—again it may not—that the "flaring white letters" were simply sprayed on the rock with the spraying machine and it was not paint either. Whitewash it was, or a composition of that nature which can be removed by a rake, or the first fair rain that drifts along will do the trick and wipe away this stain upon our land before justice, at the instance of a reporter's home-brewed indignation, is misled sufficiently to take action in the matter. It is a case for a warning, that is all. Why make a mountain out of an ant hill?

R. F. M.

The Judge Banqueted.

From the Blade, Florence, Ariz.

Judge Abram S. Humphreys, of Honolulu, arrived in Florence, last Friday, after the Blade had gone to press. Upon his arrival he was instantly surrounded by a host of old Florentine friends and acquaintances, who cordially and enthusiastically greeted him. Neither the name nor the face of any one of them had escaped his remarkable memory, and he had a kind word and pleasant smile for each. Time has dealt gently with the Judge and aside from a slight touch of silver in his hair he looks the same as of yore. There was nothing political in his visit. He came solely to renew ges Time had wrought in the place he had known as home before Fate led him to the Island city and within the range of Fortune's sunniest smiles. He remained here till Sunday, and Saturday evening he was made the recipient of a complimentary banquet in the dining room of the Florence hotel, gotten up and attended by a large number of prominent citizens of the town. Although gotten up on short notice the spread was worthy of the occasion. The toasts were numerous and the responses in happy veins. Judge Humphreys, in choice language, expressed his appreciation of the spirit of friendliness and kindness which prompted his old friends to accord him so cordial a welcome. Their response was a hearty and spontaneous outburst of applause. The Judge will have no cause to regret his visit to Florence. He left his wife and infant daughter in San Francisco, fearing the latter could not endure the fatigue of a journey across the continent, during the summer season. He left here, Sunday evening, for his old home in Mississippi, going by way of Phoenix. He takes with him the best wishes of the Blade.

WHITE HOUSE BRIC-A-BRAC.

Collection Valuable for Association as Well as Beauty.

There are doubtless in every large city in the country larger and more valuable collections of bric-a-brac and art furniture than that to be found in the private apartments of the executive mansion, but it is a question whether there is in the length and breadth of the land any other half so interesting. Rarity is, of course, a universal characteristic of the artistic gems scattered through the home of the Presidents, but better than that is the fact that almost every piece is fraught with memories and associations that make it a prized possession. Of the whole number probably half are the gifts of Kings and rulers—tokens of appreciation from friendly nations—and the remainder, having been fashioned especially for the White House, have no duplicates anywhere else in the world.

This accumulation is not the product of any particular administration. President Arthur had, perhaps, more of the collector's spirit than has been inherent in any other man who has been master of the White House, and certainly he made more additions to its furnishings than any other of its occupants.

Any expenditure which the President himself makes for pictures, or statuary, or bric-a-brac, or furniture, unless specially provided for, must come out of the fixed appropriation which Congress makes each year for the maintenance of the White House. Mr. Arthur chose to spend the major part of his allowance in the manner in which has been outlined. Mrs. McKinley, on the other hand, has preferred to devote the rather modest sum to beautifying her temporary home in other ways, and thus we find all about the house new mirrors, freshened decorations, and other evidences of refurnishing. Mrs. Cleveland added more new flowers than bric-a-brac, and Mrs. Hayes found her hobby in pretty table china rather than in the treasures that are purely ornamental.—Woman's Home Companion.

FIFTY DOLLARS FOR A PEACH.

Experience of an American Who Took Fruit in France.

From the New York Press.

A well-known insurance man of New York recently had some amusing experiences in Paris. At the Cafe Ritz, seeing a fine basket of fruit on the table, he persuaded his wife to eat a peach while waiting for luncheon to be served. When the bill was rendered there was a charge for "fruit, 15 francs." He protested. One peach for $3 was a little more than he thought an American should stand. The manager was summoned. "You have destroyed the decoration of the table," he explained: "You should not have eaten the peach. You will see there is no fruit on the bill of fare." "Well, when fruit isn't to be eaten, why don't you put a fence around it and hang out a sign? I refuse to pay that charge. It is an outrage." In a very short time our fellow countryman had broken a waiter's nose, and kicked him into the street, for which display of valor a gendarme hauled him to the police station.

When the American consul was informed of the trouble he sent Mr. Bowen to look after the prisoner, and no sooner had that gentleman heard the story than he advised our friend to close the case at once by paying his bill as charged and giving the waiter a handsome tip to soothe his injured feelings. Some diplomacy was required to induce the garcon to withdraw his complaint, but in the end everything was settled for about fifty dollars. The deputy consul general said privately as he and the victim of French persecution left the station "You got off light. In Paris never strike a Frenchman. As for that peach, you were absolutely wrong. Why didn't you call for a messenger and send the basket to your hotel?" "The basket to my hotel? Why, man, at $3 a peach it would have cost me twenty-five or thirty dollars." "No, no. You don't understand. When you took the peach you spoiled the decoration of the table, therefore the basket and its contents were your property for the $3. "Why in thunder didn't the scoundrel say so?" "It is hardly to their interest to educate foreigners."

Had Lots of Fun.

"Enjoyed your party, Bobby?"

"Yes, ma."

"Well, what little girls did you dance with?"

"Oh, I didn't dance; I had three fights down stairs with Willie Richardson, and I licked him every time.—London Tit-Bits.

THE FILIPINO WIFE.

An Anachronism Among Our Newly Annexed Orientals.

"The Filipinos are much as the Spaniards have made them," says Anna Northend Benjamin in Ainslee's. "The upper classes adhere closely to Spanish custom, so, barring certain foolish restrictions, and too much 'duenna,' the women are treated with the utmost respect and consideration. Among the lower-class natives conditions are more interesting. Long contact with the Spaniard has removed whatever prejudice concerning women there might have been in the Malay breast—for among his race in general she is looked upon as decidedly inferior—and now we are able to observe very amicably family arrangements in which the woman is the partner of her husband, and apparently regarded as one of equal importance, though no particular deference is paid to her. In this marital partnership the wife is often the active member, displaying great energy, especially in goading her indolent spouse to effort. Sometimes one of these little women supports the whole household. Generally speaking, she is the more ambitious of th two, and if she does not actually perform all the labor of support, the fortunes of the family may be dependent on her wit and enterprise. It is not at all uncommon for a Filipino wife to apply to an American officer in charge of a department for a job for her husband. I do not mean to imply that the wife always takes the lead, but if she is capable of it, she is not held down by thongs of custom and prejudice. She is an industrious, clever little body, and she and her husband show a devotion to their children which is one of the most lovable traits in the Filipino character."

Clock's Minute Hand is 13 Feet Long.

What are probably the biggest clock hands in the world have recently been completed in France, where they are intended to adorn the face of a giant clock upon the railroad station at Lyons. The diameter of the face is twenty-six feet, and each of the Roman numerals is three feet long.

The minute hand of the clock is thirteen feet long.

Popper—Tawklotz may be a great linguist, but I'll bet he doesn't know what "Uss hoiter" means.
Hopper—Well, what does it mean?
Popper—"Ice water."
Hopper—In what language?
Popper—Our baby's.

Not Always.

Mrs. Dearborn—Do you think marriage is always a failure?
Mrs. Wabash—Oh, no! Two or three of mine haven't been.—Yonkers' Statesman.

...SHIRTS...

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SOME MEN.

The brisk selling of the past few weeks has played such havoc with our lines of sizes in NEGLIGEE SHIRTS, that we have decided this week to offer you the entire lot at 50c EACH.

These are not inferior shirts—not one of them. They are of fine Madras, solid colors, full size, and perfect fit.

Look closely after the little things that a good shirt always has, not one is missing. What are they worth? If we said that they cost us double what we now offer them at, you would think we were romancing—so we say almost double. They really averaged us $10 a dozen.

But no matter—if you can find your size you are the gainer. We don't promise that you will, but remember the sooner you (or your wife) can come in the better the chance.

PHTHISIS ON THE DECLINE.

There is Far Less of Consumption now Than in Earlier Days.

Mortality statistics collected in different countries seem to concur in giving evidence of a steady reduction in the number of deaths from consumption during the past half century. It may be plausibly suspected that the whole of the apparent gain is not real and that greater exactitude of diagnosis and a more precise use of the term "phthisis pulmonalis" may explain away some of it. Still, we may thankfully believe that a large part is real. We obtain support in that conclusion by the general impressions almost without exception, assure us they hear and see far less of "consumption" now than they did in the days of their youth.

It is of great interest to determine the influences which have been at work in bringing about this result. It may be said at once that attention to the now so fashionable doctrine of contagion has had no material share in it, since, until the last few years, no sort of precautions on that score had been taken. It is possible, but perhaps not very probable, that the inspection of butcher's meat may have been influential in some slight degree. By far the most probable hypothesis is, that the gain has accrued from the improvement in the general prosperity of the race which the nineteenth century witnessed.

To speak of England alone, those who can remember what it was sixty years ago assure us that the advance in the condition of the working classes has been very great. The food which is now obtained by all is more nutritious, more varied, and less exclusively vegetable than it formerly was. The clothes are better, and the houses are better. In spite of the fact that the age has witnessed the influx of population into cities and large towns and a partial abandonment of the country, the facilities for locomotion and the cultivation by both sexes of athletics and outdoor pursuits have probably secured without diminution the advantages of fresh air. As regards the use of alcoholic beverages, the age has witnessed vast improvement. While there has been no diminution in the quantity taken, it has been spread over a larger number. Excess has become disgraceful, and is far less common than it was, while what may be called the dietetic use has been maintained. Thus, then, we seem to come to the conclusion that the reduction in the prevalence of tuberculosis has been due to improvement in general stamina and advancement in the arts of civilized life.—London Polyclinic.

HOUSE RAISES APPROPRIATIONS

SCARCITY OF QUORUM THREATENS TO DELAY THE FINAL PASSAGE.

Many Legislators Depart for Their Homes—To Adjourn Sine Die Saturday Now the Program—Provision for Unpaid Bills for Session.

The continued exodus of members of both branches of the legislature to their respective homes within the past few days has succeeded in drawing the lines exceedingly close in securing a working quorum in either body of lawmakers.

Yesterday proved to be an uneventful one in the legislature. The Senate chamber was closed. The House met in the morning with twenty-one members present, Hoogs, Robertson, Gilfillan, Mossman and Hihio being added to those present the day previous. The first business other than the usual routine was the second reading of Senator Brown's bill appropriating $85,000 for unpaid bills of the Territory.

Beckley moved that the bill be read by title only. He was ruled out of order by the speaker, and the bill was read through its entirety. Emmeluth moved the bill be sent to a special committee of five members. Prendergast seconded the motion. Makekau wanted to pass the bill as it stood, claiming it would be disrespectful to the Senate to question their judgment.

Kekaula moved an amendment adding $2000 to the Act for unpaid bills of the session. The amendment was typewritten and had been passed round among the members before the session convened, being finally turned over to the member from Kau for introduction. Several seconds greeted the amendment and it was duly carried. Hoogs, Robertson, Gilfillan and a few others voting against it.

Puuki and several others were loud in their clamors for an investigation of the measure. It was claimed that the amounts called for were not sufficiently itemized for passage without such actions. Makekau and Puuki the already too much prolonged session, but they did not favor voting for a measure of which they knew comparatively nothing. The desultory dialogue between factions was carried on to considerable extent, until time for voting came round.

The motion to send the bill to a special committee for investigation then went through with much rapidity. Emmeluth, Gilfillan, Kekaula, Prendergast and Mossman were appointed to attend to the matter. Beckley wanted the committee specially instructed to look up the $10,000 that Superintendent J. H. Boyd wanted for current unpaid bills and Paele wanted the 1897 bills thoroughly investigated.

The committee were instructed to have their report ready by 2 o'clock today. The committeemen were then at liberty to tackle their job. The greater portion of the afternoon was spent by the inquisitorial body in the office of Superintendent of Public Works J. H. Boyd where facts and figures were placed at the disposal of the committee. They carefully looked over the items in the unpaid bills, and their report will embody a general recommendation that all items, with possibly one or two exceptions, are right and proper and should be allowed.

This move by the House will necessarily defer the final passage of the unpaid claims one day, as the bill will through necessity come up for second reading in the lower house this afternoon. If satisfactory it will receive its final vote tomorrow.

Kindly Recognition.

From the Blade, Florence, Ariz.

While here Judge Abram S. Humphreys illustrated his natural generosity and kindness of heart by deciding to pay the expense of educating two worthy but poor young girls, namely, Miss Rosa Miller and Miss Mary Wills. He will send Miss Wills to the Territorial Normal, at Tempe, and before leaving gave her $50 to meet the expense of preliminary preparations and left funds with Mrs. C. D. Reppy to cover the cost of board, clothing, books, incidental, etc., for the entire three years course. Miss Rosa will go to the Sister School in Los Angeles and remain there till she graduates. This will be pleasant as she will be near her father, who is in the soldiers' home at Santa Monica. Judge Humphreys was prompted to these acts of generous kindness by the remembrance of the courteous treatment he received from these people while he was a resident of Florence. He is to be commended in this matter.

Destroyed Feminine Finery.

John Waipa was committed to the Circuit Court for trial by Judge Wilcox yesterday morning in the district court. His charge was unlawfully depriving one Kuhana Penaheie of her clothing. In addition to this there were several lines of conflict, which resulted in official interference. Waipa claimed in court that it was with his pa claimed in court that it was his hard-earned coin that the clothing of the lady was purchased. The court evidently considered this not a valid reason for causing wholesale destruction of wearing apparel, consequently the defendant was sent below to await the action of the higher court.

Salvation Army's Work.

As the result of thirty-five years' work, said General Booth recently, the Salvation Army was to be found in 47 countries and had literature in 30 different languages. The army had over 7200 separate societies, with 14,000 officers and 40,000 lay officers; 609 social institutions, with 1700 officers; a labor bureau, giving employment to 6800 people; 109 rescue places, 72 workshops and factories and 13 farm colonies. The army also sheltered 15,000 outcasts every evening and had given away millions of breakfasts.—London Express.

A Toothsome Blockade.

Akisaki, the principal motive power for a waterfront portable pie dispensary, was fined five dollars and costs in the police court yesterday morning for leaving his pastry-laden vehicle in too close proximity to the main entrance of the Pacific Mail wharf, thereby proving a nuisance to the public at large and causing a blockade in traffic.

THE EVOLUTION OF A BOXER FROM DUCKPOND PROTOPLASM

Two gentlemen of Hankow or somewhere in that direction—unknown to the public by name or address but remarkably alike in voice, gesture and face—fell out yesterday morning over the merits of a sausage, which one of them had sold to the other. The argument became heated, so did the two Celestials. They invoked the aid of numerous gods, tucked up their back hair and, without waiting further, waded into each other in great style.

A clinch, a breakaway, a long drawing scratch, and one Celestial bolted fo the door pursued by his bleeding opponent, who overstrided him in the back yard, where the combat was renewed with greater fury than ever.

Some wondering ducks reposing in a hole full of water departed, the writhing heroes hung on the verge, a foot of one slipped in, the remainder and the other man followed.

A pool, six feet square of liquid mud, some arms and legs waving indiscriminately over all, then a miserable looking being emerged apparently sitting on a log and pounding something down below. He seemingly grew tired, rose and reached terra firma. The supposed log then climbed out, dripping water, curses and wrath. By the time the latterly described object had congested organs, called man, had disappeared—you could see his trail that was all. There is a certain Chinaman in town who has burnt, only he knows, how many sticks to his deity to requite his disappointed vengeance.

You may see him on the street. One of his eyes is closed for repairs and his blunt nose looks crooked. He is minus two yellow teeth and carries a butcher knife in his girdle. Get off the sidewalk for him. He is now a "Boxer."

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Three cases of drunkenness in police court received the regulation fines which they were able to pay.

The assault and battery charge against Ho Chong Sing, preferred by Joe Bent, was nolle prosequied yesterday morning when the matter came up in the district court.

Superintendent of Public Works Boyd and his assistant Marston Campbell, together with one of the sewer contractors have completed an inspection of the various sewer mains of the city.

The Territorial Band gave a concert aboard the transport Grant previous to her departure for Manila yesterday morning. The musical program was greatly appreciated by the passengers.

The Tramways Company is removing the macadam recently laid by the street department along its Fort street tracks between King and Merchant streets and is replacing it with boulders and a top dressing of broken rock.

Dr. St. D. G. Walters, the acting medical superintendent of the Insane Asylum, denies the statement that he had resigned from his duties at that institution. On the contrary he intended to remain until the return of Dr. Herbert.

Florida's Fisheries.

It may surprise some to hear that Florida stands tenth as a fish producing state. It has a coast line (not including islands) of 3,500 miles. The annual catch is about 36,000,000 pounds, with a total value to the fishermen of $760,000.

In Boston.

Doctor—Yes, you have quite a severe cold in the head. How did you catch it?

Miss Backbay—I fancy it is due to my having changed my heavy glasses for my Summer pince-nez rather prematurely.

CAPITOL BALL TOSSERS SELECT THEIR PLAYERS

Active Preparations Going On Among the Athletic Inclined in All Territorial Departments.

Fourteen young men who spend the greater portion of the working day in employment of various tasks in the departments of the big Capitol, can be found at the close of almost every day engaged in the perfection of their knowledge of the great American game of base ball in a grassy carpeted corner of the executive grounds.

The young men have been dubbed the Capitolists by their fellow employes. After a week or so of preliminary practice, the rule of the survival of the fittest will be put into effect, and nine true and tried base ball manipulators will be chosen to sustain the honors of the Territorial Capitol.

Their opponents on the other side of King street self-styled the Judiciarists, who belong to the ranks of the toilers in the Judiciary and Board of Health buildings, are not permitting any large quantities of alfalfa to collect about their pedal extremities.

Since the challenge has gone forth between the two branches of government quiet but extensive preparations have been going on. From present indications the match game of base ball between the opposing nines will take place Saturday, August 17.

The Capitolists have decided upon the following line up. Dayton, Road Department, catch; Richardson, Water Department, pitch; Mahelona, Auditor's Department, 1st base; Kaanoi, Treasurer's Department, 2nd base; Woodward, Water Department, 3rd base; Treadway, Auditor's Department, shortstop; Cummins, Road Department, sub shortstop; Chillingworth, Water Department, right field; Kupihea, Auditor's Department, sub right field; Rose, Treasurer's Department, left field; Sherwood, Auditor's Department, sub left field; Peters, Treasurer's Department, center field; Kulike, Public Works Department, sub center field; Vierra, Public Works Department, player at large.

Meanwhile the Judiciary ball tossers sneeringly gaze upon the efforts of the Capitolists and haughtily shake their heads, muttering: "Wait till we finish them. They will look like thirteen cents Chinese money in a two-bit saloon on a thirsty day, after the game is over."

The Capitolists on the other hand regret that they are obliged to perform the sad duty of relegating the youth and flower of the Judiciary building to complete oblivion.

However, time will tell the tale. May the best team win.
