CAPTAIN TAPLEY IS GIVEN HIS FREEDOM

Prosecuting Witness's Testimony Found to Be False.

KANEOHE RANCH COMPANY WINS

JUDGE GEAR ISSUES CALL FOR A GRAND JURY FOR NEXT WEEK.

Two Deportation Cases Under Advisement—A New Point Involved—Estate of J. C. Riordon—Various Other Matters in the Courts.

Captain Tapley of the American bark St. James, still in this port, was discharged yesterday by Judge Estee in the United States District Court and his bondsmen were released.

Prosecuting Attorney J. J. Dunne made a motion to dismiss the case, at the same time explaining his reason for so doing.

Captain Tapley, charged with cruelty on the high seas, was, however, not charged with having struck any blows himself. He was accused of witnessing cruelty to a man before the mast at the hands of the second mate of his vessel.

Hadley, it will be remembered, was the prosecuting witness, and, from conversations which the prosecuting witness had with captain of the vessel and this Hadley, Mr. Dunne came to doubt very much if the prosecution was just. On Friday last, therefore, Dunne made various and sundry experiments aboard the bark St. James.

Mr. Dunne went aboard the St. James with the United States Marshal, the prosecuting witness and the defendant. He first ascertained from the prosecuting witness that everything was in the same position on the vessel as it had been at the time of the alleged assault. Dunne then requested Hadley to place the captain and himself in exactly the same positions in which the captain had been at the time of the assault.

This was done with the result that Mr. Dunne could not help but see that it was a physical impossibility for Captain Tapley to have seen what the second mate was doing at the time. It was impossible for Captain Tapley to have seen any blow struck. Dunne then put the complaining witness in the captain's position, with the result that Hadley confessed that it was impossible for him to have seen the blow struck. It was impossible, he said, for any one standing in the position of the captain to see any blows struck by the second mate.

The prosecuting witness even went so far as to tell the posecuting attorney that he believed that the charge against Captain Tapley should at once be withdrawn.

When the prosecuting attorney called Hadley to the stand the latter corroborated everything that Dunne had said. Thereupon Judge Estee formally discharged Captain Tapley and his bondsmen were released.

Grand Jury For Next Week.

Yesterday morning Judge Gear issued the formal call for a grand jury. The grand jury will be summoned to appear at the Circuit Court on Monday next, August 5th, at 10 a. m. The call is addressed to High Sheriff Brown and Bailiffs Hopkins and Ellis.

The August term of the First Circuit Court opens on next Monday. Among other important matters the charge to the jury will deal with prisoners released from Oahu penitentiary on habeas corpus proceedings. Until all of the cases are disposed of the jury will be kept in session and the term extended.

Kapiolani-Kaneohe Case Decided.

The case of The Kapiolani Estate vs. The Kaneohe Ranch Company et al was brought to a finish in Judge Gear's court yesterday afternoon.

After nearly all of the morning had been occupied with arguments over the instructions to the jurors, counsel for the plaintiffs and for the defendants having filed motions for instructions, Judge Gear charged the jury to return a verdict for defendants. This the jury did without leaving their seats.

Deportation Cases Before Estee.

Much of Judge Estee's time yesterday was occupied with a couple of deportation cases. In the morning he took up a case which involved a new point which has occasioned a great deal of comment and discussion.

Young Ah Ho left this country in October of 1899 and overstayed his leave of absence in the Orient, not returning here in time to register in the Internal Revenue department. Judge Estee had to decide whether Young Ah Ho has a right to remain in this country despite the fact that he has no certificate of registration. According to a ruling at Washington, where a certificate for departure to China is outstayed by reason of illness or some other unavoidable cause the holder of the certificate may be admitted on giving satisfactory evidence that he did his best to return within the year prescribed by the law.

This particular Chinese has testified that he was unable to return inside of the year on account of sickness. Chronic rheumatism seems to have been the cause.

Judge Estee took the case under advisement. The United States Attorney and Attorney T. McCants Stewart, representing the Chinese, will prepare briefs in the matter.

The case of Lam Chau, deportation, followed that of Young Ah Ho. This is a case to determine whether the Chinese was born in these Islands. Judge Estee has also taken this case under advisement.

Various Court Matters.

In the matter of the estate of J. C. Riordon, the report of F. J. Russell, master of the accounts of Larry H. Dee, administrator, was confirmed by Judge Gear yesterday morning and the accounts were approved. Not until after the proof of the heirs has been made will the administrator be discharged.

In the case of B. F. Dillingham vs. The Wahiawa Sugar Company, notice has been filed for the defendant by Attorneys Kinney, Ballou & McClanahan, of motion to set for hearing at an early date. An affidavit of the president of the company, A. E. Nichols, is filed, in which it is alleged that procrastination in the trial of the suit prevents the defendants from enjoying the beneficial use of their lands.

M Kaawa, by her attorneys, has filed a motion asking that she be appointed trustee for her two minor children for the purpose of withdrawing money on deposit in the Bank of Hawaii.

Attorney George A. Davis has filed a bill of costs, $85, for the libellant in the case of Libana De Nobrega vs. Sylvano De Nobrega.

Mary Kahalepuna has filed an answer to the petition of Hanuea in which the latter asked to be appointed administrator of the estate of Haiai Kalu. Mary Kahalepuna alleges that she is the widow and asks that she be appointed.

In re J. O. Carter vs. Sybil A. Carter, bill of advice, motion to set for trial has been filed.

In the estate of James Gay, H. Focke and Cecil Brown, trustees, have filed their annual account showing receipts of $19,118.39 and expenditures of $148.78.

IMPROMPTU TRIAL TRIPS OF RAPID TRANSIT CARS

Easy Working of Mechanism and Smooth Running on Tracks—Directors and Others are Pleased.

In moving a car from where it was set up to the front of the barn, at the Rapid Transit power station about noon on Sunday, it worked so smoothly that those in charge decided to make a trial trip outdoors. Accordingly, the car was run up Alapai street and onward to Lunalilo and Kapiolani streets. It mounted the steep hill past the pumping station without perceptibly taxing the mechanism and on returning proved to be under perfect control in descending the grade.

C. G. Ballentyne, manager; J. H. Fisher, director; and Jas. A. Barclay, electrical engineer, formed the working crew for this initial trip.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock another of the Rapid Transit Co.'s cars started out of the shops for a trip, going up Alapai street, thence along Lunalilo street and Wilder avenue to Punahou.

The car was well crowded with directors, shareholders and others, who enjoyed the speed and unity of motion so much that Mr. Barclay had the motorman take the car up and back three times. With well ballasted tracks and a fine speed, first class accommodation and all the etceteras of up-to-date locomotion, this line will catch the popular fancy from the word, "All aboard."

On the last trip coming home the car was invaded by hordes of Portuguese and native boys, who, hanging on any old way at all, collected all the dust going and the pleasure of a free ride.

Just where the motive power came in was a puzzling question to most of them. The majority, however, seemed to decide it had something to do with the floor or under the floor.

The car traveled smoothly from the time it slid out of the shops to the time it turned in. No hitches or out-of-order stops at all. Directors and others expressed themselves as delighted with the results.

THT PLUMBING STRIKE.

Some Prospect of Coming to an Understanding Soon.

The committees of arbitration, elected by both the plumbers and their bosses to settle the all-important question of a compromise, have not yet met, though they intend to do so some time this week. There was to have been a meeting on Saturday, but the bosses failed to notify the men and so nothing came of it. It is to be hoped that a settlement of the long-standing trouble is not far distant, as both employers and employees seem to have had enough of it.

OBSTRUCTIONISTS DIED VERY HARD

Stinging Assertions Abounded at Senate Deathbed.

COMMON SENSE FINALLY PREVAILS

ALTERATIONS TO CLAIMS BILL BY REPRESENTATIVES PRODUCED A STORM.

After It was All Over Senators Kiss and Make Up Again—Fight Made Upon Refund to Fertilizer Co.—Money for Luau Purposes.

The presence of a majority of clear-headed and sober-minded members of the Legislature in the Senate yesterday morning was about all that prevented the otherwise peaceful closing of the extra session of the First Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii.

The roll call noted Senators Baldwin, C. Brown, Achi, Carter, Crabbe, White, Kahalini, Kahoai, Kanuha, Kalauokalani and Kaiue, present.

The amended claims bill from the House stared the senators in the face when they settled down to the final session of the Senate. The refusal of the House to concur in the refunding of a sum of money to the Hawaiian Fertilizer Co. proved to be the first reef upon which the legislative ship stood great danger of becoming wrecked. Mr. Carter was father of the clause. It was at his instigation that the sum of $1928.36 was twice introduced in the claims bill. Mr. Carter was greatly exercised over the action of the lower house. He characterized that body as ignoramuses and passed out several bunches of torrid remarks, which were emphasized by a violent waving of limbs and gesticulation, reminding the spectators of old times.

The strictures of Mr Achi in his remarks protesting against the passage of an item of $2600 additional for the payment of expenses of the present Legislature caused considerable hard feeling among legislative attaches and their friends. According to Mr. Achi's assertions the money might have been devoted more to the purposes of luaus than legislatures. Mr. Achi did not receive the endorsement of a single member of the Senate in his fling. With the usual spuabble the incident was dismissed.

Mr. Carter made a tearful and impassioned appeal for the reinstating of the amount set aside for the Hawaiian Fertilizer Company. The senator from the peaceful Nuuanu valley was loud in his demands for information as to the reason the sum was eliminated by the lower house. He insisted that the item calling for the refunding of $1890.38 for a merchandise license and $38 for stamps was a just debt. To cut the matter from the bill meant a repudiation.

"I do not want to prevent other people from getting their just dues, neither do I wish to persist in a dog-in-the-manger policy. However, I insist that my clients, the Hawaiian Fertilizer Co., are entitled to this amount. The company represents a local concern. There is not a dollar of foreign capital invested in the company.

"I believe the claim was knocked out by the representatives because of sheer ignorance. Had the members of the lower house looked into the claim the item would have been passed."

Mr. Carter proceeded to intimidate his colleagues with the prediction that if the claim against the Fertilizer Company was not allowed, the company would be obliged to find redress through the medium of the courts. Mr. Carter was of the opinion that the policy of repudiation as inaugurated by the lower house would in the end prove a lasting disgrace.

Senator Achi caused the ears of legislative officials to tingle by his assertion made in regard to the additional appropriation of $2600 made by the House for the purpose of liquidating the unpaid bills incurred by the Legislature.

"For all I know, this amount may have been added for the purpose of furnishing the materials for a luau for the officers of the Legislature," said Achi in offering his objections to the insertion. "I cannot vote for the item, on the ground that it was not properly inserted. The lower house has a way of transacting business peculiar to themselves. If that item passes this body I believe it will be found illegal."

Mr. Achi's slurring remarks concerning the questionable manner in which the $2600 additional was introduced by the House failed to meet the approval of the Senate. His colleagues of Republican affiliation even took occasion to declare themselves opposed to such sentiments. With the exception of Achi the Senate was in favor of allowing the item, as was indicated by the vote taken some time later.

The unwarranted assertion of Achi was made in reference to small gatherings of legislative officials and members, one of which was held some weeks ago at the home of Interpreter Bush, the other very recently at the home of Senator Kalauokalani. In each case the expense of the social gathering was borne entirely by the parties who acted as hosts on the occasion.

Seeing the tenor of the Achi tirade and the manner in which some ill-timed portions of it were received, Mr. Brown spoke briefly advocating the passing of the House amendments to the claims bill without further alteration or delay.

"I am getting very tired of this whole legislative proceeding," declared the Oahu senator. "I for one want to get through with the whole matter, and give attention to my personal business affairs. I want to pass this bill, and get through today."

In this connection Mr. Brown offered a motion that the claims bill pass the Senate, and that the House be notified of the action of the Senate, and that the upper body stood ready for sine die adjournment.

Mr. Baldwin was of the same mind in regard to the closing of the legislature. Mr. Baldwin also questioned the logic of Carter's argument that the refusal of the Legislature to allow the rebate of $1928.36 to the Fertilizer Company meant repudiation by any means. Mr. Baldwin cited instances in his extended legislative experience where claims against the government were repeatedly turned down in the Legislature for perhaps two sessions only to be passed at the third, and the parties receiving all that was rightfully due them.

"Let us pass this bill without alterations," insisted Mr. Baldwin. "To make a determined stand for the private interests of individual clients will only tend to block the passage of the bill, and perhaps prevent any action whatever being taken in the matter. It is too difficult a matter to secure a quorum at the closing days of the Legislature to become too fine haired in the matter of individual interests."

Mr. Baldwin also took occasion to repudiate the assertion of Achi that the legislative officials intended to use funds included in the extra appropriation for sociable purposes. "Our officials have reputations at stake and I for one do not believe that they would prostitute themselves to such baseness. I have every confidence in the integrity of the Legislature and its officials."

The vote on the claims bill resulted in eight for and two in doubt, the doubtful voters being Senators Crabbe and Achi. At the second calling of the ayes and nays, Crabbe lined over on the side of the affirmative. Achi held firmly to his obstructive position.

A resolution introduced by Senator Crabbe to the effect that the furnishings, fixtures and documents belonging to the Senate be left in the custody of the Secretary of the Territory provoked considerable amusement before it was thoroughly understood by Mr. Carter. The Nuuanu valley exhorter caught the first part of the resolution all right, but was of the opinion that the Secretary of the Senate was to be appointed the custodian of the senatorial belongings. Mr. Carter became very much excited over this proposition, and started off in an emphatic protest against the Senate bills and furniture being placed in the charge of the Senate secretary. The flow of objections continued for a period of fifteen minutes or more, during which time it was set forth in prismatic colors that direful calamity would result if such a procedure were taken. After Mr. Carter had entirely exhausted himself in his denunciation of the resolution, Mr. Crabbe quietly called the attention of "the youngest member of the Legislature" to the fact that nothing had been said about leaving the belongings in the hands of the senatorial secretary, but that the resolution called for the custodianship of the Territorial Secretary.

It took Mr. Carter about ten minutes to recover from the shock. He sat down amid a grand chorus of horse laughter. Mr. Carter's chagrin was complete. The resolution of Mr. Crabbe passed. A recess was then taken until afternoon to await the action of the Houe.

The motion to adjourn sine die was about the only business that the Senate transacted after coming together in the afternoon.

The motion which produced the peaceful demise of the extra session of the Territory of Hawaii was offered by Mr. Carter.

Previous to this, the clerk read a communication from Acting Governor Cooper to the effect that he had signed the claims bill as adopted by the House and Senate.

Mr. Achi as a member of the special committee appointed to wait upon the Executive reported verbally to the effect that the Acting Governor was notified of the disposition of the claims bill. The Executive notified the committeemen that he had no further business to present to the legislators. Mr. Achi's report was adopted.

The minutes to date were then read and approved. Invocation was offered by the Senate chaplain. The vote was called upon the Carter motion to adjourn sine die. There was no dissenting voice. The closing scene was marked by an absence of congratulations or felicitations. All members present seemed imbued with the desire to quit the premises as speedily as possible. The Bungalow was evacuated without ostentation or display. Several lawmakers made their escape to neighboring cool retreats where they fought their oratorical battles all over again.

Verily, the exit of the Senate into obscurity was most lamblike.

Zealandia Sails Friday.

The sailing of the steamer Zealandia for San Francisco has been postponed until Friday at 4 o'clock.

LUNG TO LUNG DISCUSSION BARRED

What Is Home Without an Ice Chest?

ERRING DAMES MEET THEIR FATE

KAKAAKO ATMOSPHERE RESEMBLED A SEVERELY PUNCHED MEAL TICKET.

David, Charged With Larceny Committed to Trial at Circuit Court—The Nolle Prosequi Habit One Which Expands.

A scene was presented at Police Court yesterday morning which bore a striking resemblance to a slice of the sixteenth act in an amateur performance of the Mikado, done with variations by the Haymakers Comedy and Undertaking Company while on their "farewell tour." Oh yes, it was very killing.

When Saung, Akiasi, Otsu, Ikami, Matsuda and Sikogawa lined up before His Honor to answer to the heinous charge of gambling during the quiet of a Honolulu Sabbath, the demonstration enacted before the court resembled the obeisance made before a cannibal king by his unclothed loyal subjects. Evidently some misguided individual has passed the word along the line that a generous kowtow to the court would result in leniency. However, the court was sans glasses about the time the Japanese contingent were in the midst of their fulsome gyrations. At any rate the little band of brown men never connected.

"You are charged with gambling," stated the court in contemplation of the net cash results of the array before him.

The spokesman of the party completely ignoring the presence of an interpreter endeavored to hold a quiet little lung to lung talk with the court. There was no mistaking the fact that his conversation mill was well oiled. He talked like a legislator who had been absent from his onerous duties on a week's fishing trip.

The accused had been involved in a crap game out Pawaa Sunday morning. Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth related to Judge Wilcox the many trials and tribulations he had endured in corraling the Japanese. Matsuda having dropped a few hints regarding the guilt of his colleague was granted a nolle prosequi. The other defendants were assessed individual fines of $10 each.

Kuhia, swearing loudly in two languages and laboring under the burden of a fulsome jag, was introduced to the usual penalty employed in such cases.

Nakai, Kauhi and Ekekiela happened to meet together and indulge in vocal musical practice Sunday down Kakaako way, at which time they punctured the densely laden atmosphere in that vicinity until it was like a last month's meal ticket, after it had been the property of a hungry man out of a job. When the officers hove in sight, the trio were struggling with the last verse of "What Is Home Without An Ice Chest." They pleaded guilty to the general charge of drunkenness and caught the two dollar and costs cards as they were drawn by the court.

Utake and Teiki, females who wore worried and careworn expressions upon Japanese features, were brought before the tribunal charged with vagrancy. It was also intimated by the prosecution that the defendants had been caught soliciting, which is contrary to the statutes. One was given five days at hard labor within the confines of Oahu prison. The other was the recipient of a real hard scolding.

Charles David, charged with larceny in the second degree, was committed to the Circuit Court.

Fukunaga, arrested some days ago for flourishing a weapon about his abode at Palama in a very promiscuous manner, was discharged. It was found that the alleged deadly features in the assault were conspicuous by their absence.

J. McKay, found guilty of assault and battery upon Charles E. King, was fined $25 for his fun.

A number of nolle prosequis were entered in assault and battery cases. One of the trials attendant to the administration of police court justice is the persistence of some parties to come before the officers and loudly demand the arrest of those who they allege have caused them bodily damage, only to suffer a change of heart on the following morning, when they tearfully plead for the release of the unfortunate who was placed in durance vile. This sort of proceeding is of almost daily happening at police court. Judge Wilcox has become used to the deal, and the request for a nolle prosequi generally meets with a smiling acceptance.

Lee Loy and a Miss Teika of uncertain age and morals were not present in court. The bail of $20 apiece was consequently forfeited. They were charged with a serious infraction of the social and moral code, as promulgated by a Christian legislature.

Chas. David, charged with gross cheat, was sentenced to six months at the prison.

Two common nuisances were given stiff reprimands and told to go their way and sin no more.

THIMBLE PARTY.

Pleasant Event Given By Mrs. Ashford Yesterday.

Mrs. C. W. Ashford's thimble tea was held yesterday afternoon and was very much appreciated by all present. The diningroom was laid out very prettily indeed. Great bunches of golden shower ringed with maidenhair were scattered artistically over the table, and the rest of the room was decorated with palms and ferns.

After refreshments the "sweet sixteens" found their way back to the drawing room, where music, singing and cakewalking was indulged in. It would hardly be fair to mention the young ladies that distinguished themselves in that pleasing dance, they all took a whirl at it.

The list of invited guests is as follows: Mrs. Jas. W. Barclay, Mrs. H. C. Austin, Miss Kate Horner, Miss Madge McCandless, Miss Bessie Hopper, Miss Irene Fisher, Miss Ethel Amweg, Miss Whitney, Miss Bell Ashley and Miss Julia Damon.

EXPRESS FACILITIES.

Wells, Fargo & Co. Will Handle Bonded Merchandise.

Treasury Decisions No. 28, received by last mail, contains the approval by O. S. Spaulding, Assistant Secretary of the application of Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, for permission to add to the list of water routes embraced in that company's bond as a common carrier for the transportation of unappraised merchandise from San Francisco the Oceanic Steamship Company and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. This would indicate that Honolulu is to have the benefit of traffic in bonded merchandise through the quick dispatch furnished by the great express concern of the West. Bishop & Co., bankers, have had the local agency of Wells, Fargo & Co. for the past six months.

JOINED THE HERD.

Several Additions Made to Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The local herd of Elks was substantially reinforced by the addition of several prominent bearers of well developed antlers, at its meeting and social held yesterday evening at the Progress block corral, Chief Steward Seeley of the Zealandia was one of the candidates for admission. Together with a number of Honolulu business men the band were given a rousing initiation into the mysteries of the order.

At the close of the serious portion of the session, The Best People on Earth enjoyed a respite at which time conviviality and good fellowship reigned.

MISS GIVENS' DEATH DUE TO TEMPORARY INSANITY

Coroner's Jury Find No Evidence to Indicate that a Murder Had Been Committed.

The verdict rendered by a coroner's jury called to investigate the mysterious death of Miss Gertrude Givens, the fifteen-year-old daughter of J. W. Givens, formerly of the Olaa Sugar Company's plantation on Hawaii, whose body was found late Saturday afternoon at the home in this city, almost precludes the assumption that a murder had been committed.

"We the jury impaneled for the purpose of investigating the cause of death of Effie Gertrude Givens, find that death was caused from a gunshot wound inflicted by her own hand while temporarily insane," was the verdict rendered by the following jurors: I. Levingston, T. Krouse, George Andrews, G. A. Bowers, A. B. Scrimgeour and E. E. Mossman.

At the inquest several witnesses were called upon to testify to the habits of the young lady. It was learned that the deceased had been a sufferer from a complication of catarrh and asthma, which at times was almost distracting in its severity. The only conclusion arrived at by relatives and close friends was that in a fit of temporary insanity the desire for self-destruction became uncontrollable, which resulted in the shocking deed of Saturday.

The testimony offered by Mrs. Givens, the stepmother of the girl, Miss Felker and Miss Kruger, intimate companions of the deceased girl, was all of about the same trend.

Study Cane Pests.

Professor Koebele, the entomologist, will make an extended trip over the island of Hawaii. He goes in the Hall today. Professor Koebele will be accompanied by Professor Ashmead, the well-known naturalist. Together they will make a careful study and investigation of the pests which inflict the cane fields of the big island.

Children's Night.

Tonight will be Children's Night at Salvation Army Headquarters. The service will be characterized by a drill, interspersed with songs and instrumental music by the children. Major Harris of San Francisco, the organization secretary of Young People's Work, will conduct the meeting and make an address.

MRS. MONTANO WANTS HER MONEY BACK

Asks That W. R. Castle Make Accounting in Land Deal.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE NOT ACCEPTED

INTERESTING CASE IN EQUITY COMES UP BEFORE JUDGE GEAR.

Andrews for Plaintiff—Weaver for Defendant—Senator Achi, Mr. and Mrs. Montano and Miss Emma Davison Testify.

The case of Mrs. M. J. Montano vs. W. R. Castle, bill for accounting, came up before Judge Gear shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Attorney Lorrin Andrews, for the plaintiff, called Senator Charles Achi, Mrs. Montano, Miss Emma Davison and Mr. Montano as witnesses, also going on the stand himself to testify.

Mrs. Montano and her husband have for some time been having business relations with W. R. Castle. The Montanos had borrowed money off Castle and the latter had taken a mortgage on real estate in Manoa valley for $16,000.

In the latter part of 1899 the Montanos were desirous of selling about eleven acres of land, the land mortgaged to Castle, for the purpose of paying off the mortgage and at the same time realizing a substantial difference.

According to the testimony various bids were made for the land in question. One offer was for $20,000, one for $25,000 and still another for $30,000. As the land, however, was mortgaged to Castle and the Montanos could not sell the land to outside parties, they decided to get Castle to sell the lands, stipulating that they desired $25,000 for the property and not a cent less. From the proceeds Castle was to be paid the amount of the mortgage and his commission for making the sale, which was to be $1,000, and the balance would be to the credit of the Montanos, to be paid over to them by Castle or invested by him in real estate or Government bonds, any good investment which would mean an income.

The Montanos claim that the transaction was carried out, but not to their satisfaction. Castle sold the land for $25,000 to Charles Achi. The $16,000 due Castle on the mortgage was thereby paid and there was $9,000 due the Montanos. This $9,000 Charles Achi was unable to pay in cash. He therefore gave two mortgages on his dairy, one for $6,000 and one for $3,000. This $6,000 mortgage, in which cattle were included in the security, was claimed by the plaintiff never to have been made with her consent. The mortgage was not made out in her name; her name or the name of her husband did not appear in the instrument. The plaintiff stated that she had refused the mortgage, that she had never accepted it. Mr. Montano stated that both his wife and himself had declared the mortgage no good when they first saw it. He said it was a chattel mortgage and that it was no good. He has stated before Mrs. Montano and before W. R. Castle that he would not give four bits for the mortgage and Mrs. Montano had stated on the same occasion that she would not accept it.

This mortgage for $6,000 given by Charles Achi is what the whole case seems to hinge upon. The Montanos, after the sale of their eleven acres of land by W. R. Castle to Charles Achi and after having paid off the mortgage of $16,000 on the land, were expecting either the cash difference between the $16,000 mortgage and the $25,000 for which the land was sold, or else they wanted the difference invested in some way that would mean an income. The Montanos informed Castle, according to the testimony, that they would rather have the money invested than have the cash. They stipulated, however, that the money was to be invested in real estate or Government bonds, they had no idea that a chattel mortgage would figure in the transaction. Mrs. Montano was not over strict, according to the testimony given yesterday, in the matter of demanding an accounting of W. R. Castle. According to her testimony on the stand she took a great deal for granted, inasmuch as Castle had lent her money and she had been in his debt, therefore, thinking that, on this account, she should give him the selling of the lands and all other business connected therewith.

After the mortgage for $6,000 had been drawn up and after Mrs. Montano and Mr. Montano had declared that it was no good and that they would not accept it, the Montanos went many times to the office of W. R. Castle, asking about the money. They wanted the money and ignored the mortgage which they had refused to accept and, as a consequence, wanted to know what had been done with the money in question.

Mrs. Montano testified that she went many times to Castle's office but that JUDGE ESTEE'S action in dismissing the case against Captain Tapley of the bark St. James yesterday was the sole topic of converation among the captains in port who are all more or less interested in the cruelty charges now pending in the United States court against various American skippers and their mates.

The testimony on which Tapley was held is characterized as sailor talk, and it is anticipated that when it comes to threshing out the evidence in the other cases before a jury, the charges against most of the accused people will fail to the ground of their own weight.

As the captains and the owners of the vessels are in no very cheerful mood over the delay and expense caused by the actions of the irresponsible sailors, in swearing out warrants for the arrest of their officers, on arrival at this port from Newcastle, there is liable to be some action taken, that will serve as a warning to the sailors, as the conviction of the captain and mate of the Hesper is being held over the heads of the skippers. It is probable, that the men who swore so positively that Captain Tapley was in a position to see all that took place on the deck of his vessel will be asked to explain why they should not be proceeded against for perjury, in swearing falsely and maliciously against their skipper. There is a feeling making itself manifest among the skippers that what is sauce for the gander should be sauce for the goose.

The Bark Empire.

The tale of the destruction of the bark Empire at Mahukona last week was told and retold many times yesterday. The story of some of the crew of the ill fated vessel is as follows:

On Friday morning Capt. Knacke's wife discovered smoke issuing from the lazarette. An investigation followed and the ship was discovered afire. Mate Noble uncovered the after hatch and tried to go below, but was driven back by a dense column of smoke and flame which sprang up as soon as the air got to the coal in the hold.

A very few minutes after the fire was discovered the anchor chain of the vessel parted and the sail was set to get her to sea as the fire was not thought to be a serious as it later turned out. The vessel had proceeded but a little way when she was ablaze from stem to stern. Smoke was issuing from every crack and crevice of her deck, and the pitch in her seams was boiling and bubbling. Soon the poop deck became so hot, that it was impossible to stay at the wheel and left to her herself the vessel began to drift. An anchor was let go and the vessel brought up in seventeen fathoms of water about three miles from Mahukona.

She was then a raging furnace and nothing could have been done to save her. Her entire cargo seemed to be on fire and her upperworks and masts and spars were in a blaze. The Kinau which arrived on the scene after the vessel returned from the sea, sent a couple of boat's crews to the vessel. She had been abandoned and the crews from the boats climbed aboard the doomed vessel. Some of the natives made a seach for something of value to carry off with them and a gang of them came across a big saucepan of stewed apples in the galley. The apples were too tempting to be left to the flames and so the boat boys went at the stew and were at work trying to finish it, when they were called to go back to their boats. The men were standing first on one foot and then on the other on the galley floor. It was so hot that they had to keep hopping about while eating, to keep their feet from becoming blistered.

As to the cause of the fire an investigation will have to be held. It is very probable that had the vessel's voyage larted a few days longer than it did the Empire would have been placed on the overdue list and then posted as missing. It is thought that her cargo had been on fire for days before it finally was discovered, and had it not been that the hatches were removed, she would have probably blown up when the flame got to the gas that the heat of the burning coal generated.

Will Use Wireless.

PORTLAND (Or.), July 20.—Experiments with wireless telegraph for reporting incoming ships will soon be made between Tatoosh Island and Neah Bay, at the entrance to Puget Sound. At one time the Government maintained a station for reporting and observation on the island, but the cable to Neah Bay broke several years ago, and since then vessels have been reported from Neah Bay. The government now proposes to re-establish the Tatoosh Island station and to re-open telegraphic communication with the mainland. If the experiment with wireless telegraphy fails, a cable will be laid between the island and Neah Bay. Owing to currents and rocks between the island and the mainland, the life of a cable off Cape Flattery is very short, so the government will do its best to make wireless telegraphy a success in order to save the cost of expensive cables. A reserve has been set aside at Tatoosh Island, and plans and specifications have been made for a station to cost $5000. It is expected that bids will be called for at Washington within a month.

The Maalaea Baby.

In the yard of the Wilder Steamship Company is a very large buoy which has been built for Maalaea Bay, Maui. This bay is one in which the island vessels have had a good deal of trouble about grounding. The water is very shoal and many times steamers have been in serious plilikia on account of getting in too close. Luckily the bottom is mostly sand. There has been no suitable mark for the captains of vessels to be guided by until now, and the Wilder people have gone to the expense of marking the place so that on the darkest night it will be safe for vessels to enter the bay if they take the buoy as a mark to go by. The buoy is a very large one, and in appearance its superstructure resembles the bell buoy off the reef at the entrance of this harbor. It is constructed of wood. The Lehua will take the buoy to Maalaea and Captain Tom Clarke will probably go along to superintend the laying of the structure. The new mark has been named "Maalaea Baby." As soon as it is put in position its bearing in reference to points on the surrounding shore of the bay will be sent to the United States Hydrographic Office so that it may be noted on the charts of the Maui Coast now being gotten out by that department.

A Long Tow.

NEW YORK, July 20.—It is announced that Rear Admiral Bowles, Chief Constructor of the Navy, is taking steps for the transportation of the Spanish dry-dock in Havana harbor to Subig bay, island of Luzon. Had it not been for Rear Admiral Bowles' foresight the dock would within anothr week have been in the possession of New York capitalists who had opened negotiations for its purchase and were making final arrangements for the transfer when the Navy Department stepped in and bought it. The route and the distance the dock would be towed are thus stated by the Navy Department: Havana to Canary Islands, 3,100 miles; Canary Islands to Gibraltar, 700 miles; Gibraltar to Port Said, 1,920 miles; Port Said to Aden, 1,310 miles; Aden to Colombo, 130 miles; Colombo to Singapore, 1270 miles; Singapore to Manila, 1,386 miles; Manila to Subig Bay, 100 miles; total distance towed, 9,976 miles.

Defender Arrives Safely.

The schooner Defender, which was aground at Hanamaulu recently, arrived here on Sunday after a fast trip of two days from the Garden Isle. She comes here to discharge several hundred barrels of lime and have her damaged rudder and keel repaired. Captain Masters says that had it not been for the frail condition in which the rudder was, he would have made a much better trip. As it was he had to steer with the sails partly, and so could not use all the canvass he would have under ordinary circumstances. The Defender after repairing will load sugar for San Francisco.

Her wonderful donkey engine which, according to yesterday morning's Advertiser, saved the vessel at Hanamaulu by carrying 225 pounds of steam pressure was carefully examined by all the engineers at liberty yesterday. They looked at the steam guage on the boiler and then smiled.

The Fearless' Pup Coming.

The little tug Leslie Baldwin which was christened the "Fearless' pup," when she arrived here from the Coast, is due to arrive here soon from Kahului to go on the marine railway for an overhauling. She will be brought here by Captain Dick Seike. Chief Engineer Evans will be in the engine room. The little vessel has been in the water over six months now, and is very foul.

The Kinau will lay over next trip to have her regular semi-annual painting and scraping. The Claudine will take her place.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Claudine towed the British bark Antiope to sea from Kahului on Saturday.

The time of the sailing of the Zealandia has been set for Friday at 4 p. m.

The Peru from San Francisco and the Moana from the Colonies are due Thursday.

The four masted barkentine Arago is going on the marine railway as soon as discharged.

The steamer Niihau is laid up for an overhauling. Her boilers will be retubed and she will have a new tail shaft.

The bark W. B. Flint is now taking on sugar at Kahului and will sail for San Francisco probably next Wednesday in tow of the Claudine.

The Claudine, which arrived from Maui Sunday morning, brought 1760 sacks of sugar, 121 sacks of corn, 41 sacks of taro, 44 hogs and 60 pkgs sundries.

The R. P. Rithet had 24,000 bags of sugar aboard at noon yesterday. Her cargo will be complete today or tomorrow and she will get away probably tomorrow afternoon.

While entering the harbor at Hana on her recent trip the steamer Claudine caught a sunken buoy in her propeller and had to employ three divers to remove the obstruction.

The Antiope is the fastest ship to discharge coal that ever worked cargo at Kahului. The average discharge of coal on most vessels at the Maui port is about 150 tons per day, but the Antiope has put out from 200 to 250 tons per day.

Captain Jackson of the S. G. Wilder is greatly rejoiced over the improvements being made at Brewer's wharf. He had to take two looks and then pinch himself to make sure he was not dreaming when he first saw that repairs were being made.

Nerves of Weak Men

I have demonstrated the fact that weaknesses of men, the result of early or later indiscretions, such as Drains, Impotency, Lame Back, Varicocele, etc., will not yield to a stimulating treatment. This accounts for the fact that drugs never cure. The medicines given for these troubles, essentially poisonous, are intended only to stimulate. Continuous stimulation must result in harm. Thousands of patients have said to me: "Doctor, when I took this or that medicine I felt better in an hour, but after a month my weakness returned, and I was worse off than ever." "Better in an hour" means a powerful stimulant—means a wrecked constitution.

[Trade Mark.]

Electricity Is Strength!

That's what you want, strength, not stimulation. Electricity will never cure in a day; it does not cure in a week. It takes two months, it may take three, but the results are there to stay. I am the inventor and introducer of the famous Dr. Sanden Electric Belt, with attachment for men. It embodies the best efforts of my 30 years as a specialist. Worn at night, it strengthens you when you sleep. Currents act upon the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bladder, Prostrate Gland and all weakened parts. It weighs but five ounces. Currents instantly felt.

THE WASHINGTON STAR ON HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS

[Special to The Republican.]

"There is no reason to be pessimistic over the extension of American rule to island peoples because the first stage of the territorial government in Hawaii has fallen short of the expected mark. There is no doubt that mistakes were made in granting to Hawaiians a franchise far more liberal than they were competent to exercise. It was in excess of that which they had been enjoying under the island republic and beyond that which was advised by the congressional commissioners who visited the islands for the purpose of framing a fundamental law. Had the advice of those who knew the conditions in Hawaii been followed by Congress in this important matter of establishing representative government for the new territory many, if not most, of the mistakes of the past twelve months would have been avoided. But in characteristic congressional fashion the bill was changed from house to house without reference to the imperative requirements of the case and against the suggestions of those best qualified to advise, and from the final conference it emerged with a suffrage provision which represented a compromise on the lines of the utmost liberality short of an unqualified franchise.

"In consequence of this unwise grant of suffrage to natives who were unready to exercise it a legislature was chosen which would have ruined the territory financially, politically and morally had it not been for the wise intervention of Governor Dole. They sent to Congress a man representative of the lowest classes in the archipelago and allied closely to the old monarchical system. They precipitated quarrels which have interfered with the exercise of the administrative functions and have even developed scandals in the judiciary.

"But there is reason to look for betterment. The delegate to Congress is fast transferring his political allegiance. He has modified his views and is now headed straight for conservatism. The evils which menaced the islands have been warded off by the barriers erected by the mainland government. The natives have begun to learn the lesson of self-control and the folly of political division along race lines. The administration in this city has stood steadfastly in support of the island executive, and there is a prospect that the second legislature will be of a better character than the first.

"Nevertheless, the experience has not been a pleasant one for either Hawaii or her friends in the states. The territory has been set back somewhat by the shock of the legislative failure. Yet, with excellent prospect of a curing of the evils which have been so distinctly shown in Hawaii during this year of representative territorial government, it may be believed that the experience has not been wholly lost. An object lesson in avoidance has been afforded for possible application to the case of the Philippines. The United States has found that it is unwise to start a people long accustomed to absolute dominance by another power too far along on the road toward complete independence at the outset of a new career. The race is not to those who set the sharpest pace at the start. Hawaii is learning by bitter experience that self-government is not a matter of mere enactment or proclamation, but of gradual evolution through progressive stages. E. S. L.

From the Washington Evening Star.

It is properly understood among army teamsters that the only ways to start a mule are to build a fire under him or to swear until the atmosphere is blue. Mule drivers, like poets, are born, not made. On the whole, Missouri men are supposed to handle a mule a little better than anybody else. When General Otis was in command in the Philippines a raw Missouri recruit was set to driving a refractory mule team. His appointment was unfortunate, because he had "hitched on to the Baptists" just before joining the army. The roads were almost impassable, and the rest of the teamsters were literally bombarding their charges with oaths. The Missourian held his peace, albeit in impotent rage. At last one of the wheel mules balked and refused to advance a step. The driver used every endeavor to urge the beast along, but to no purpose. At last he roared out solemnly, "O Lord, you know where this mule ought to be as well as anybody. The whole army knows where he ought to be. He knows where he ought to be. I know where he ought to be, O Lord, and if he doesn't move in a minute I intend to say so, by gum."

We turn out uniformly good work. Every roll of film receives the best treatment that skill and experience can give it.

Our Photographic Department is full of work, but we are able to turn out work when promised, and no order is slighted.

"KING" TOBIN'S DEFENSE.

Mr. Tobin is given the right of reply to his critics and detractors, the due within proper limits of anyone signing his proper name for publication. As between his admitted exaggerations on the spieler's pedestal and Mr. Coelho's exploitation of a religious minister's role for advertising purposes, there can be little to choose one way or the other. When, however, Mr. Tobin retorts on Miss Davison's expressions of regret that Hawaii, excepting for the educational exhibit that she had charge of, should have been solely represented by a hula-minstrel show at the Pan-American Exposition—and does so in the manner shown—he is scarcely gallant. Miss Davison's opinion in the regard stated is that universally held here. At the same time there is reason to believe that the class of native dancing presented at the Hawaiian Village is not more objectionable than has been seen before now by a fashionable audience in the Hawaiian Opera House. The most respectable Honolulu visitors to the Buffalo fair, and those fully sharing in Miss Davison's views as published, have yet been glad to visit the Hawaiians and their show and give them aloha. Still, it is true that such a show is misleading by itself, very much so, as to life in Honolulu. It bears the same relation to present day social customs prevailing here as would the panorama of an abandoned bridle path to that of the scientific roadway built by educated civil engineers over some of the vast gulches in these islands, or a representation of the grass hut of a century past to one of Honolulu's modern business blocks. Miss Davison's acceptance of a pass to the Hawaiian Village and accompanying of friends there amount to nothing more than participation in the exchange of courtesies between managements of exhibits and shows at expositions. No doubt the Hawaiians have been the recipients of many kindnesses from the Commissioner which would make the little courtesy of a pass to see them at any time other than a gratuity. Then, as to the streets of Cairo—that old chestnut transplanted from Coney Island to every exposition that is held. Whose curiosity is proof against the picturesque and gaily caparisoned camels, the brightly turbaned Egyptians and the ministrelsy, to the extent of not entering the outer courtyard to see the main performance, consisting entirely of an oriental parade, theatrical fighting with weapons, jugglery, etc.? The dancing unfavorably compared with the hula by Mr. Tobin is in a theater beyond, a separate exhibition with an extra admission fee patronized by comparatively few of the crowds that pass through the outer gates. Anything Mr. Tobin or anyone else may say, however, cannot jar the high esteem in which Miss Davison is held by all her home acquaintances. Hawaii's educational exhibit could not have had a worthier representative and the genuine interviews with her that have been published prove that she is well capable of giving accurate information on Hawaiian matters other than the high specialty borne in her commission.

AN OLD QUESTION.

The Treasury Department has just now had to give a ruling on the old story of the "most favored nation" clause in treaties of friendship. It was the familiar occasion of an importer protesting against the regular tariff duties on the plea that other countries than that of export in the case were allowed a lower rate under treaties of reciprocity. The importation was one of Scotch whisky from Great Britain, which the New York collector of customs assessed for duty at $2.25 per gallon. Under reciprocity treaties with France, Portugal and Germany there is a reduction of duty on spirituous liquors from these countries to $1.75 per gallon. In the treaty of friendship with Great Britain of the year 1815 it is provided that no higher or other duties shall be imposed on the importation into the United States of any articles, the growth, produce or manufacture of His Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe, than are or shall be payable on the like articles being the growth, produce or manufacture of any other foreign country. This is the most favored nation provision on which the New York importer based his protest.

The collector, in his report to the board of general appraisers, justified his assessment as made on the ground that this country has not entered into any reciprocal commercial arrangement with Great Britain, under the provisions of section 3 of the tariff act of July 24, 1897. In sustaining the ruling of the collector, as it is itself sustained by the Treasury department, the Board held, following a number of judicial decisions:

The question presented is one purely of a political and diplomatic character and is to be settled by the treaty-making power of the Government. It is competent for Congress to pass laws which supersede existing treaties, and it does not lie within the jurisdiction of this board or of the courts on this ground to question their validity.

If the most favored nation clause in a treaty of comity availed to give one of the countries making it the benefits and privileges of treaties of reciprocal commerce with a third country, the results simply would be to deprive any country of whatever advantages its public policy might find in reciprocity with particular countries. Under such a condition the reciprocity treaty between the United States and the Hawaiian Islands, which built up the sugar industry here prior to annexation, would have meant free sugar in the United States with whatever such involved to that country and the absence of any advantage to the Hawaiian Islands from the treaty. European beet sugar would, however, probably have been excepted on the ground of its receiving a home bounty.

The doctrine that a subsequent Act of Congress may overrule a treaty provision was declared years ago in Chinese exclusion cases.

If the Washington Star reflected a little on the early struggles of other American commonwealths than Hawaii, borrowed less information from prejudiced sources and increased its faith in the saving virtue of American institutions, especially when set to leaven an intelligent (if somewhat justifiably prejudiced) community—then that paper from which a long but ill-conceived article is copied in this issue would have less to say about Hawaiian affairs until it learned to discuss them conscientiously and rationally. The blame of such misrepresentation is not to be laid chiefly at Washington. Those who sent forth false statements about Hawaii and the Hawaiians before annexation, priming all misrepresentation abroad, are the same clique and clan that from Hawaii today are trying to poison public opinion on the mainland against allowing the Territory of Hawaii to enjoy the privileges of American freedom and self-government.

Where is the $20,000,000 represented by last year's sugar exports from Hawaii, also the residue of the $14,000,000 belonging to the previous year? There must be a lot of money locked up somewhere, at least a generous portion of which ought to be due for further development of the resources from which the wealth of the Territory is derived. Capital ought to loosen up a tride.

Attractive signs have been placed at the entrance of The Robert Grieve Publishing Co.'s and The Honolulu Republican's offices. They are not put up to tantalize the Advertiser people, but no doubt they will have that effect. Every fresh mark of prosperity hereabouts means a howl from the cage over the way.

Miss Davison, Commissioner to Buffalo, has written to friends denying that she made any such statement to Chicago reporters as that recently published here, about eligible Hawaiian heiresses for the proper sort of Yankee husbands. It wasn't a killing matter if she said it, being about the right kind of "josh" to give a fresh Chicago reporter.

It is rather mean of the Advertiser to father its lies on the newsboys, even if its own efforts did choke the press and keep the paper late on Saturday.

From the "King of the Midway."

To the Editor of The Republican:

Sir:—Although I may never again visit Honolulu, I have several friends who were kind to me, and it is because of them that I write you this letter, which I trust you will kindly publish. Here are a few facts.

The Hawaiians came to Buffalo to show native life, not to show how bright they were. They came to sing, play and dance, and not to do stunts in algebra. They wanted to act and dress just like Americans, Mr. Coelho assuming the leadership. I told Mr. Coelho he came to sing, and that if he had any bright ideas to exploit them in Honolulu, where they no doubt would be appreciated.

In regard to money to be paid in Honolulu to the families of the members of my company, I will say that they have been paid in full every dollar due them, as Mr. David Dayton, who has charge of this matter in Honolulu, will tell you.

In regard to the hula hula. We are showing the dance, and the best people in America, including Senator Mark Hanna, William Jennings Bryan, Chauncey Depew and the Governors of eleven states and their ladies and staffs have seen no harm in it. Although Miss Rose Davison, who has the school exhibit which is of intense interest to the people of Buffalo, said it was vulgar. I wonder if she thought the streets of Cairo was. I saw her going in there several times. However, she accepted a season pass for the Hawaiian village and witnessed the vulgar dance at least twenty times, and also invited her friends to see it. Here it is all summed up.

When I left Honolulu I had to advance fourteen people money to pay debts and buy clothing. They now have money in the bank and good clothing. There were two in the hospital, one with chicken pox and the other with female trouble. I paid the hospital bills. Coelho is an agitator. I made a mistake in bringing him.

I do tell some strong stories on the Sandwich Islands, that's a fact. But everybody is pleased with our show. The stories I tell do not hurt the islands in the least. It must be good talk or the people would not care to see the show. They say I am lying about the country. If I could lie half as strong as some of your good citizens, who tell sugar cane and coffee stories, I would be entitled to the nom de plume of "King of Liars," instead of "King of the Midway."

MONTHLY STEAMER LINE FROM SEATTLE

WILL FURNISH TRANSPORTATION FOR HAWAIIAN FRUIT IN COLD STORAGE.

The Globe Navigation Company Has Three Steel Steamers on the Way Out From the Atlantic—Honolulu Line Will Be Permanent.

According to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer three steamships of the Globe Navigation Company ought to have arrived at that port by this time, having sailed from the Atlantic coast late in May. J. W. Clise, vice president and general manager of the company, said one of the steamers would be placed on the run between Seattle and the Hawaiian Islands on her arrival. Mr. Clise said further that the Seattle-Honolulu line to be established by his company would be monthly sailings to begin with, and as the traffic grows more steamers will be added.

Soon after its organization several months ago, the Globe Navigation Company purchased three new steamers for its Seattle line. These are the Eureka, Tampico and Meteor. Each has a capacity of about 3,500 tons freight. All are steel vessels of modern type built for carrying freight at a low cost. The Tampico and Eureka sailed together from Norfolk and the Meteor from Baltimore. They had been reported at Montevideo at last accounts. All three loaded with coal for the San Francisco market.

Mr. Clise said regarding the Honolulu line that there would be no difficulty about sending the Tampico out fully loaded on every trip. The only trouble is to get return cargoes, San Francisco controlling the sugar trade by reason of the refineries located there. However, a fair amount of cargo can be obtained in the way of fresh fruits, etc. The Tampico will be provided with a cold storage plant for the transportation of this fruit in the best condition. Gradually, it is believed, the return cargoes can be increased.

It has been learned in Honolulu that the Eureka will leave Seattle for this port on August 10.

HO, HO, BUT THEY'D BUMP A LITTLE BIT

The erstwhile Representatives now thirst for the gore of their fellow-legislators who have vainly endeavored to hold down the safety valve on oratorical pressure in the Senate chamber.

The defy has been flung into the camp of the Senators. The House has challenged the Senate to a base ball game to be conducted under the latest Marquis of Queensberry rules, with joint resolutions and amendments, as per Emmeluth resolution.

The date for the game has not yet been decided upon. Oh, yes, it will come soon. The precipitous slopes of Punchbowl have been advocated by some as the scene of conflict. Others insist that the contest should take place in close proximity to the Y. M. C. A. camp in order that the dignified tone of the affair might be better preserved.

"Might send them all to Hilo," was the suggestion of a Uitlander when the matter was proposed.

The dignified Senators have shuffled themselves into base ball position in something like the following order:

Kaiue, catch; White, pitch; C. Brown, 1st base; Kanuha, 2nd base; Kahilina, 3rd base; Achi, short stop; Kalauokalani, right field; Coney, left field; Crabbe, center field. Col. Mazumas has been selected as mascot for the Senators, while acting the official kahuna for the House will in all probability fall to the lot of Avery.

To add to the serenity of the occasion the umpires for the game will be selected from the large and seasoned corps of chaplains who have officiated throughout the very trying period of tempestuous legislation.

Watch for the time and place. The game will be the sporting event of the season. Remember that this is positively the last appearance, and it is the only show that carries its own audience, tremendous expense to the contrary notwithstanding.

Treasurer Elected.

There was a meeting of the directors of the Oceanic Gas and Electric Co. on Saturday afternoon in the Spreckels' block, to consider the advisability of electing a treasurer. This was carried out, J. H. Fisher being elected to that position. Mr. Cohen will retain his position as manager.

William T. Bryan, a Cincinnati electrician who has been a student of disease treatment by electricity, claims to have discovered a method of turning the current on a poor beefsteak and making it a tender, toothsome morsel.

DEATH OF BRITISH CONSUL-GENERAL OF PACIFIC COAST

He Was a Missionary Agent in Madagascar Before Entering Consular Service—An Able Man.

W. Clayton Pickersgill, British Consul-General for the Pacific States and Territories, died Friday morning, July 19, at 9 o'clock, at the Alameda Sanitarium, where he was taken the previous Sunday from Ben Lomond. Death was due to a recurrence of Madagascar fever which General Pickersgill contracted during a residence of twenty-two years on the east coast of Africa. Owing to constant relapses of the malady the Consul-General's health had been bad for some time, and Vice-Consul Wellesley Moore had been in charge of the office.

William Clayton Pickersgill, Companion of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, his Britannic Majesty's Consul-General for the States of California, Nevada and Utah and the Territory of Arizona, the son of Thomas Pickersgill, Esq., was born in Lancashire, England, in 1846. He was educated at the Lancashire Independent and at Owen's College, Manchester. He was agent of the London Missionary Society in Madagascar from 1873 to 1882, and was appointed British Vice-Consul for Antananarivo, Madagascar, in 1883, and served until 1892, when he was made her majesty's Consul for the Portuguese possessions in West Africa south of the gulf of Guinea. From 1892 to 1898 he was Consul to the independent state of Congo, since which time he has been Consul-General at this port.

Mr. Pickersgill was married in 1883 to Miss Agnes Merrington Gill, daughter of the late Thomas Griffith Gill of Barbadoes. From this union there are four sons, the eldest being 16 and the youngest 6 years of age.

During the three years' residence in San Francisco of Consul-General Pickersgill he had shown himself to be active in promoting the interests of England in a commercial way. He had rather the appearance of a student and scholar than that of a commercial representative, and during his long service in the consular corps of the British Government had shown himself to be a profound thinker on commercial and economic questions, and his reports on the business of this Coast have been eagerly sought for by those who desired an insight into the commercial conditions of this part of the United States.

PAINTERS' UNION NOTICE.

There will be a special meeting of the Painters' Union on Wednesday evening at 7:30. Special business to transact. Every member is requested to be present.

A Sad Little Romance of the Sea.

From a New York Letter.

Pretty Marguerite Laforte, a young French girl, came to America to be a bride. She is now detained at Ellis island and will be deported on the first steamer. Death separated her and her sweetheart before the ceremony could be performed. Mademoiselle Laforte and Victor Gangen came to this country to be married and intended to settle in Pittsburg. On the way over Gangen was taken suddenly sick and died, his body having been buried at sea. When the heartbroken bride-to-be arrived here she had but a few francs, although Gangen had over $1,000 in money, with which he intended to go into business. As the girl was without funds of her own she will have to go back to France. The money that her fiance left will be sent to his relatives in France.

Assurance is received from officials at the Leper Settlement that the supply of poi furnished to the unfortunates is ample and sufficient for the time beiung. Taro is being received from the neighboring valleys. It is believed that when the Board of Health secures a steamer of its own the difficulty attendant on furnishing poi will be greatly obviated because of frequent trips to taro sections throughout the group.

THE JUDGE PRAISES THE MISSIONARIES

Humphreys Interviewed In New Orleans on Hawaii.

SAYS PEON IS A CURSE SYSTEM

STRONGLY FAVORS IMPORTATION OF AMERICAN LABOR TO THE ISLANDS.

Discusses Sugar, Artesian Wells, Education, Absence of Defined Race Prejudice and Speaks With Eloquence and Enthusiasm.

From the New Orleans Picayine, July 15.

Judge A. S. Humphreys, United States circuit judge, of Honolulu, and General Francis S. Healey, ex-attorney general of Arizona, were talking with some friends at the St. Charles Hotel last night about Honolulu and the Hawaiian Islands. They are both enthusiastists on the subject, but the judge is especially enamored of the charms and advantages of the islands, which have been his home for more than six years. He practiced law there before he was appointed to the prominent position that he now holds by President McKinley, and in his capacity as a lawyer he represented a great many very large interests and had ample opportunities to see the islands and the people from many points of view—opportunities which he improved to the utmost, and which did nothing but increase his good opinion of both islands and people.

"The early missionary influence," said the judge, "is apparent in many ways. I think it is specially noticeable in the language of the people. When the missionaries found them they had no written language, and the spoken language in use was very simple, consisting of very few elementary sounds, which made it very easy to reduce to rule and systematise. The missionaries gave them an alphabet, and really created the language as it now exists. This accounts for the fact that there are no profuse words in the language as now spoken. When a native wants to say the hardest thing he can about a man, he cannot curse him as his Anglo-Saxon brethren would, but says he is a naughty man, or a bad man, or he won't go to heaven, and then he looks as if he expected a fight. He has done his worst to provoke one, and has exhausted his vocabulary of vituperation.

"The missionary influence is apparent in the absence of any decided race prejudice. Up to a few years ago there was no race prejudice there whatever, and even now there is very little, though there are indications that some race prejudices are springing up. This is natural when the inferior race sees the rewards of industry and enterprise all going to the stronger and more powerful race. There are other reasons that it may be as well not to attempt to analyse at this time. However, the prejudice, if any does exist, is not of a nature to cause any apprehension, and may be due to the political ascendency of the natives as much as to anything else.

"Another matter which may be attributed to the missionary influence is the excellent educational facilities of the islands and the low per cent. of illiteracy. For more than fifty years there has been a splendid system of public instruction, and now there is only 1 per cent of illiteracy in the islands, a showing that is far ahead of that of any state in the Union. In the six years that I went about in the islands, during which time I saw all manner of men, I never saw a native that could not write his name.

"As for the industries of the islands," continued the judge, "in the cane-growing and sugar-producing line they are far ahead of this country. The average yield per acre is from six to eight tons of sugar, or from two and a half to three times as much as in this country, and there is one plantation that I know where the amount produced averages eleven tons per acre. This is the Ewa plantation, that is capitalized at $5,000,000 the stock being much watered, and yet paying very handsome dividends. The secret of the great yield is, of course, greatly climatic, but there is another important particular in which they are ahead of the rest of the world. They have German chemists on every plantation of any size, and are continually experimenting and analyzing, always finding out what is needed and furnishing it at any cost.

"They analyze the soil and the cane, then they analyze the juice as it is first compressed, and again after it is boiled, then they analyze the sugar and whatever is needed to improve the one or the other is furnished, no matter what may be the trouble or expense.

"The plantation managers are paid from $6,000 to $15,000 per year, and with such salaries they are enabled to command the best talent and get results that are not attainable under less liberal methods.

"The cheapness and abundance of artesian water are large factors in the economy of the sugar grower. The rainfall is not sufficient to grow cane at its best, and the wells are resorted to to assist nature. The water is found near the urface in great abundance, and so the question of rain never comes into consideration.

"The rice industry is not so developed. It is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese, and they have not improved much on primitive methods. They raise a very inferior quality of rice to that grown here, and it is not nutritious either, I believe.

"A great deal of the soil that is not suitable to the cultivation of sugar can be profitably put to rice, and it is on these lands that the rice is grown. I refer to the lands where there is too much salt for the culture of cane, or where the water is somewhat impregnated with salt."

The judge is a very interesting talker, and when on his pet subject, which is evidently the islands that are so dear to him and their development, he is always enthusiastic, and sometimes eloquent. He talked of the future of the islands and their great blessings of soil and climate, the bounties of nature that are there scattered with a lavish hand, and the great opportunities for capital and labor.

He thinks that the peon system that is now attempted to be established there, is a curse to the islands and a menace to the future of the peasantry of the islands, and thinks that congress may, under logical deductions from the insular decisions, which, by the way, he declined to discuss, make laws to control or suppress the system. He is strongly in favor of the importation of free American labor, and thinks that much depends upon such a course being adopted, though he confesses that the problem of how to do it is a difficult one, when it is considered that capitalists can get cheap labor, as they are doing now, and will always do so when they can, no matter what may be the consequences to the future of the masses.

LAWMAKERS WOULD DO BATTLE ON THE DIAMOND

The dying hours of the House of Representatives were about equally divided between the discussion of the relative merits of its various members as base ball players, and the fulsome congratulations that legislative tasks were about to become a thing of the past.

The resolution introduced by Representative John Emmeluth succeeded in arousing the sportive proclivities of the members of the lower house. It made its appearance during the latter part of the afternoon, but, in the mad whirl of business attendant to the final obsequies of the legislative session, the measure was carefully laid upon the table never to arise. The resolution read as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring: That upon adjournment of the Legislature sine die the officers of the two houses meet and arrange the preliminaries for a game of base ball to be played between teams chosen from the officers and members of the two houses, the game to be played on Makiki recreation grounds tomorrow at 2 p. m.

JOHN EMMELUTH.

Honolulu, July 29, 1901.

The House waited patiently the pleasure of the Senate in disposing of the claims bill at its final session yesterday morning. It was nearly eleven thirty before the assembly was enabled to get down to business. When hey did the first matter coming up was a printed copy of Act 4 of the special session, which Mr. Beckley declared was in error in several instances. He first called attention to the subsidy to the Wilder Steamship Company for steamer service to Molokai which had been inserted without his rider that the boat should stop at Pukoo both going and coming. Mr. Beckley wanted the Board of Health and Department of Public Works notified in regard to the omission.

Mr. Emmeluth called attention to the fact that the amendment of the Senate by which the clerks of the several Circuit Courts are to be appointed by the judges of the several courts had been left out, so that the First Judge of the First Circuit had the appointment of the whole lot.

Mr. Emmeluth's attention had been called to the matter by a well known office-seeker who had devoted considerable time during the present session in earnest endeavor to connect with the soft side of a fat clerical position under one of the circuit judgeships. As a remedy for the defect it was proposed that the best way would be to notify the Governor and with House vouchers as proof, the matter could be satisfactorily adjusted.

The House appointed a committee consisting of Beckley, Prendergast and Keiki to wait on the Governor with a like committee from the Senate to notify him that the Legislature had nothing further to present to him unless he has other business to bring before the Legislature.

A quorum was secured at the afternoon session shortly after two o'clock. A resolution introduced by Mr. Prendergast fixing the time for final adjournment for July 29 went through with a whoop and hurrah.

Mr. Beckley reported for the special committee that it had called upon the Acting Governor, and had been informed that the executive had no further business to transact with the legislature.

To Mr. Beckley fell the honor of offering the motion for adjournment sine die. It carried by unanimous vote. Time 3:20.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Scott of Dawson City, whose marriage was announced in this paper last Wednesday, have returned from their honeymoon at Waialua and have taken up their residence with the bride's mother until their departure the 16th of next month.

she rarely if ever found him in. She said that he was an exceedingly busy man and that it was almost impossible to see him. Indeed she had failed to see him time and time again and had been informed that he was either not in or that he was too busy to see anybody.

When Mrs. Montano interviewed any of W. R. Castle's clerks or assistants at the office on the matter she failed to get any satisfaction. If she succeeded in getting to speak to Castle or if she managed to get any message from Castle through any of his assistants, it was always the same old story. The money was all right, everything was all right; Mr. Castle was too busy to be seen. Mrs. Montano testified to that effect.

Finally Mrs. Montano demanded the $6,000 less $700 which was paid her on account on a certain occasion. She sent her husband to W. R. Castle with a written note demanding the money. She also gave her husband a receipt for the amount due, the receipt to be handed to Mr. Castle in the event of his settling up. The money was not paid, the mortgage being referred to by Castle as the reason, according to the testimony. Only twice in a long time had Castle made any accounting. No accounting was ever given of the $6,000 proposition. When Mr. Montano failed to collect the $6,000, less $700, for his wife, Mrs. Montano placed the matter in the hands of Attorney Andrews. Now the matter has come before the court.

On the stand Mrs. Montano swore that she had never authorized W. R. Castle to lend $6,000 on a chattel mortgage. She told her story of the whole affair from beginning to end in a very plain and simple manner and caused a smile now and then in answering the questions of Attorney Weaver, counsel for the defendant. It developed that Weaver, acting for W. R. Castle, had visited her place in Manoa valley many times on business connected with the matter on trial.

"I think you finally got scared to come to my house, Mr. Weaver, didn't you?" she said.

"You will probably remember that I continued to call pretty often, however," answered Weaver.

"Yes, but you sent your wife when you were afraid of coming yourself," said Mrs. Montano.

Miss Emma Davison succeeded her mother, Mrs. Montano, on the witness stand.

They asked to see Mr. Castle but were informed that he was so busily engaged that it would be impossible to see him. They saw Mr. Campbell, who told them about Castle being busy. They waited.

Mr. Campbell asked them what they wanted to see Mr. Castle about.

"We want to see him about that money," said Mrs. Montano.

"What money, Mr. Montano's money?" asked Campbell.

"No, my mother's money," spoke up Miss Davison.

Miss Davison and her mother went again to Castle's office on the same mission. They were again informed that Castle was too busy to see them.

No better success was met with on that trip. They went a third time. It was on this third trip to Castle's office that Mrs. Montano wanted $700 cash for the purpose of making an investment. Campbell said that she could have it.

Mr. Montano, when he was put on the stand, testified to the effect that on the 25th of December, 1899, acting under the instructions of his wife, he went to the office of W. R Castle and asked him to sell the land owned by himself and Mrs. Montano up Manoa valley. He broached the subject in a jovial spirit, wishing Castle a merry Christmas and telling him that he would give him, Castle, a Christmas present of $1,000 as commission for selling the land.

The Montanos wanted to sell the land for the purpose of settling the mortgage held by Castle. Montano told Castle, according to Montano's testimony, that $25,000 was wanted for the property and that he would not let it go for a cent less. Castle made the remark that it was a high figure. Montano, however, refused to sell the land for anything under $25,000.

Montano stated that out of the $25,000 the mortgage of $16,000 held by Castle would be paid and the remainder was wanted in cash.

Montano went on to tell how he and his wife met in the office of W. R. Castle on the 3rd of January, 1900, and were shown the mortgage of $6,000, the chattel mortgage, which was pronounced, first by Mrs. Montano and then by himself, as no good, inasmuch as it was a chattel mortgage, the security was therefore no good, and the name of Mr. or Mrs. Montano did not appear in the instrument.

He swore to the fact that the mortgage had never been accepted.

Montano went on to relate the incident of going to Castle's office and demanding $530 of Castle, acting under the instructions of his wife. He had the receipt with him. Castle, however, did not pay any money.

When Lorrin Andrews went on the stand he swore that he had been retained in the matter.

He went to Castle's office and demanded certain money which Mrs. Montano said that Castle had of hers.

He did not see Castle. He saw Campbell. Campbell said that he knew nothing of the matter whatever. Andrews then saw Weaver. Weaver told him that the money had been invested in a certain mortgage and that there was no money due Mrs. Montano.

Later Andrews saw Mr. Castle on the street and, smilingly, demanded the $6,000 due Mrs. Montano. In the same smiling manner Castle said: "What's the matter with Mrs. Montano?" Castle went on to tell Andrews that the money demanded was invested in a certain mortgage and that he, Castle, could not get it back.

The attorney for the plaintiff has presented his case and the matter continues this morning before Judge Gear.
