THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

DESIGNS OF THE HOLY ALLIANCE ON SOUTH AMERICA.

England's Connection With the Monroe Doctrine Explained—British Foreign Secretary Canning.

England's connection with the formulation of the Monroe doctrine is thus explained by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: George Canning, the British Foreign Secretary, told Richard Rush, the American Minister in London, in August, 1823, that the Holy Alliance had designs on the freedom of the South and Central American States which had recently gained their independence of Spain, and proposed that the United States should co-operate with England in defeating this purpose. Rush informed the Secretary of State, John Quincy Adams, of Canning's revelations and proposition, and Adams laid them before President Monroe. Wisely declining the "entangling alliance" proposed by Canning, the Administration took prompt action on its own responsibility, and the result was the declaration in Monroe's message to Congress in December of that year warning Europe to keep its hands off the independent Latin nations of this Continent. What were England's motives in this matter? Nobody supposes she was prompted by any love for either the Latin-American nations or the United States or for the cause of freedom. Most of the American statesmen of that day attributed her course to a knowledge that the profitable trade she had with those nations would be cut off if they were restored to Spain or if the Holy Alliance took possession of them. Adams thought her purpose was to commit the United States against getting control of any of them. These considerations should be kept in mind when Canning's boast is read: "Contemplating Spain such as our ancestors had known her, I resolved that if France had Spain [France had just suppressed a popular revolt in Spain] it should not be Spain with the Indies. I called the New World into existence to redress the balance of the Old."

What were the views of Monroe's contemporaries as to the scope of the Monroe declaration? Adams who, as Secretary of State, is understood to have written that part of the message in 1823 which contains the "hands off" warning to Europe, said to Congress in 1825, as President, in his special message on the objects of the Panama conference, the original "Pan-American" affair, that "each (Latin-American nation) will guard, by its own means, against the establishment of a future European colony within its borders." And he added that "this was, more than two years ago, announced by my predecessor to the world as a principle resulting from the emancipation of both the American continents." These words are against the notion that the United States was to exercise guardianship over the whole continent. Daniel Webster, in a speech in the House in 1826 on the Panama mission, said the Monroe declaration could not be "retracted or annulled without disgrace," and that it was a "bright page in our history." If countries as "remote from us as Chile or Buenos Ayres" were assailed he thought we might "content ourselves with remonstrance," but he said "a very different case" would arise if a country on "the shores of the Gulf of Mexico were invaded." Clay, Calhoun and most of the statesmen of his period appeared to agree with this view. Venezuela is near enough to the Gulf of Mexico to bring England's assault upon her within the scope of the Monroe warning

THE STEAMER RACE.

Captain Cameron of the Claudine Claims the Run.

S. S. CLAUDINE,
HONOLULU, Jan. 5, 1896.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Dear sir: Your correspondent appears to be mistaken in the times noted of each steamer in the late race, and as I do myself the honor of submitting to you for publication some extracts from the S. S. Claudine's log, your correspondent can draw his own inference. Thanking you for the favor, I remain, dear sir.

Yours truly,
E. F. CAMERON,
Commanding S. S. Claudine.

S. S. CLAUDINE,
HONOLULU, Jan. 5th, 1895.

EDITOR BULLETIN, Dear Sir:—On our arrival in Honolulu hearing so many conflicting statements on the subject of the late race between the S. S. Kinau and S. S. Claudine, I considered it a duty towards myself and friends to hand for publication extracts of the S. S. Claudine's log, I will preface my extracts by stating that owing to the direction of the wind at time we could not leave the dock without colliding with the S. S. Kinau. Consulting Captain Clarke on the subject we decided the S. S. Kinau should leave first and we parted with the distinct understanding that each of us would do his best under the circumstances.

S. S. Kinau started from her dock, Dec. 30th, 5:04 p. m.

S. S. Claudine started from her dock, Dec. 30th, 5:11 p. m.; had Molokai light abeam, Dec. 30th, 8:34 p. m.

S. S. Kinau blew her whistle at Lahaina, presumably at anchor, Dec. 31st, 0:06 a. m.

S. S. Claudine was anchored at Lahaina, Dec. 31st, 0:11 a. m.

I am, my dear sir, yours truly,
E. F. CAMERON,
Commanding S. S. Claudine.

HAS FORSAKEN THE WORLD.

Conversion of Attorney J. J. Paulsell of Stockton, Cal.

STOCKTON, December 22.—Stockton church circles have been greatly pleased during the last few days by the fact that Attorney J. J. Paulsell has forsaken the world. He will later on become an evangelist, he says, if he feels called upon to do that sort of work.

Mr. Paulsell is a son of the late ex-Harbor Commissioner of that name and was at one time a deputy clerk of the Supreme Court. He ran at the last municipal election for Mayor of Stockton, but was defeated. He is well-known throughout the State, especially in legal circles. His sudden conversion is creating comment among people of all classes in this city, owing to his prominence.

Mr. Paulsell says that he does not care to join a church just at present and that he will devote most of his labors in the religious line toward wiping out creeds and making professed Christians be Christians in fact. Sham Christianity and creeds are the two great drawbacks to the religion of Christ he says. He believes in a universal church that will permit its members to construe the teaching of Christ exactly as they understand them and to walk accordingly. Mr. Paulsell was baptized at the Christian Church tonight in the presence of a large throng. He is receiving requests to deliver exhortations in other cities.

ABOUT THE GAME OF GOLF.

SHORTLY TO BE INTRODUCED IN HONOLULU SOCIETY.

A Sport That is Not Indulged in by Dudes Because it Requires Too Much Violent Exercise.

As the good old Scotch game of golf is about to be introduced into Honolulu, the BULLETIN has been asked to furnish a description of the sport and how it should be played. It has recently been brought into vogue in San Francisco and a late Call contains a good deal of information about it which is given below:

"Golf as she is played" is not altogether a dude's game, and good healthy men will be found to be the best players. It requires energy and skill, two elements that can only be obtained by frequent indulgence. The popular idea that golf can be played in one's back yard will be found to be a mistake when it is better understood.

To begin with, the course, or the "links," as they are generally called, cover several square miles of territory, a considerable part of which is covered with low shrubs and sand dunes, all of which make the obstructions that the skillful player learns to avoid in time, and which make the unskilled player lose his temper and the game.

To the laymen the following brief description of golf will be found valuable:

A small gutta-percha ball, 1⅝ inches in diameter, painted white so as to be easily seen at any time, is placed on the apex of a small pucker of sand, and the player stands over it with the driving-club some four or five feet long, so constructed as to posses elasticity and proper weight. Some hundred or two yards away, the distance varying with each goal, is a small hole four and one-fourth inches in diameter. The object is to get the ball in that hole in as few strokes as possible. In delivering the blow he swings his anatomy with a graceful motion, and the gutta-percha globe, when squarely hit, sails into the air like a bullet, frequently covering over 200 yards of space inside of two seconds. The player then follows it over the ground, and by careful driving and striking gets it near enough to the hole to place it in with the "putter."

He may succeeded in winning each goal with from four to six strokes, and sometimes three, but it is not unusual that several times that number are frequently taken. There are nine goals in all on the Presidio course, but in Scotland and England when the ground justifies it there are eighteen. After getting the ball in the first goal it is taken out and placed in position again on the "tee," one of which is near each hole, and preparations are made for another drive to the next. Thus the game continues until all are made. A score of forty-five drives to cover the nine holes is considered unusually good, but it will be some time before such scores will be made here.

There are a great many things to overcome in golf. If the ball becomes lodged in a brush one has to keep on striking until it is free again, no matter how many strokes it requires to accomplish it. Each stroke counts against the player. In some parts of the ground are high sandhills, over which it is well to get the ball, for if it gets in the sand it is a difficult thing to drive it up hill and over the obstruction. Deep gullies and clumps of thick brush are scattered over the ground, all of which make it difficult to do as you please.

Around each hole for the space of fifteen yards the ground is leveled off and planted with grass, which is kept short and level, so that skill in rolling the globe will be rewarded with success. Flags of a red bunting, numbered consecutively, mark these goals so they can be seen from a distance. It requires an hour or two to play a game, but the exercise is invigorating, and in the excitement of following the ball one forgets that there are hills to climb and sandbars to wade through.

Should the ball be lost, the player who is following it is allowed five minutes to find it, failing in which he loses the goal for which he is leading.

It will never do to lose your temper, for it unnerves you for precision of stroke, and precision is one of the chief requisites.

There are a great many different kinds of clubs for playing the game, but the driver, the brassey, the cleek, the lofting iron, the mashie and the putter are the most generally used. They all have their value in lifting the ball from all sorts of localities, from the center of a brush to a rabbit hole.

Altogether golf is a game that any American citizen can well afford to play, if he is in need of exercise or open air treatment. It cannot be indulged in without walking, and cold and bracing air is preferred by those who play often. It warms up the blood and is a better tonic than bottled medicine.

Tea Drinking.

Tea drinking is coming under the severe lash of the medical profession, and a physician in an article in a recent monthly says that tea worship, carried on by its fair devotees in the prettiest drawing-rooms, in the smartest of tea-gowns, with the daintiest of silver and china, may to a large extent disarm them as to the real nature of this insidious, but implacable fiend. He further says the evil effects of the tannin in tea are readily seen by its ravages on the throats and stomachs of tea tasters. It is well known that dyspepsia is often caused and increased by tea drinking; it is harmful in two ways. Neither should it be taken by those suffering from varieties of heart affection, or by those having a feeble circulation. Mental depression and extremes of melancholia the doctor also attributes to tea drinking and even suicidal monomania. This view is supported by the lately published statistics concerning the increase of lunacy among the lower orders, considered due in a measure to the excessive amount of tea drinking now prevalent among them and those acquainted with the ways of tea drinkers of this class, know that the teapot is never off the hob, and that tea is drunk at every meal, as well as between meals. It is ancient history to say that the tannin is the cause of all the mischief, and that tea should be drunk immediately after it is made. So extensive has this knowledge on the subject become, that at afternoon tea in fashionable drawing-room, both in town and country, people are trying their hardest to put it into practice. No easy matter, for teamakers, both ladies and servants, will not go with them, their notions of hospitality being too strong to admit of offering a cup of weak tea to a valued friend or a new acquaintance. The struggle to decline the strong beverage by saying, "Not quite so strong, please," or "May I have a little water?" when there is no room left in the cup for it, are requests so irritating and trouble-giving to a smiling but embarrassed teamaker that a good-natured guest finds it easier to swallow the bitter potion than to make a fuss about it.

SHOE HEELS OF WOOD.

Compressed Pulp Now Used in the Shoemaking Trade.

One of the latest features of wood pulp industry is the manufacture, in Haverhill, Mass., of shoe-heels from that material, white pine and other kinds being used for the purpose. In carrying out this art the plan, as described, consists in reducing the wood in the usual way in digesters, after which the pulp is put into a tank and mixed with the substances necessary for imparting to heel stock the necessary requirements, such as alcohol, litharge, tar, degras and fish glue, a thorough mixing of these with pulp being followed by soaking the same a day or two, so that the fiber may be penetrated, when another application of materials occurs. The object at this stage is to harden the pulp somewhat, so that it can be rolled into thick sheets and handled, shellac and borax accomplishing this, the pulp thus having the consistency of cement.

At this point slackened lime is put in, and, as this hardens when dry, the pulp must be rolled into sheets and cut into heels before the hardening takes place. With needed rapidity the pulp is now drawn from the tank in sheets, it being just thick enough, and there being specially arrang d rollers and adjustments at the bottom of the tank for effecting this.

A series of pressures through press rollers reduces the sheet to the right thickness, and the sheet is next placed quickly upon the bed of a cutter; the wheels are now started, and in a moment the platen falls, forcing a hundred or more cutters upon the sheet, shaping out a heel each.—New York Sun.

Largest Mirror in America.

The largest plate glass mirror ever brought to this country was placed in the dining-room of the Hotel Savoy, Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue. It was twelve feet high, thirteen and one-half feet wide, one and one-half inches thick. It was imported from Belgium, where it was made in the factory of St. Gobain, which is the largest of the kind in the world. It was brought over on the steamer Friesland, which docked at Jersey City. It was found to be impossible to take it to New York safely on a ferry boat, so a special lighter was chartered for the purpose. New York Exchange.

Bismarck's Lower Lip.

It is said that Prince Bismarck is particularly well pleased with the truthful way in which Pfretzschner, the sculptor, has treated his lower lip in the relief medallion for his monument being erected on the Rudelsburg. "The artists," he says, "have always made my busts without giving me justice as far as my lower lip is concerned, and that is wrong; it is there, and it is there very much—but not too much—for that would indicate willfulness: that was never one of my qualities; and I have always been amenable to argument if better opinions than mine were given. But a well-formed lower lip indicates perseverence." Upon the completion of the artist's work the Prince took the modeling spatula into his own hand and engraved personally his well-known "v. B.," giving the medallion a signature which no other Bismarck portrait has ever received.

VALUABLE PUBLICATION.

Standard Dictionary and Columbia Historical Novels.

Messrs. B. R. Foss & Co. have completed arrangements for the exclusive sale of the Standard Dictionary and the Columbia Historical Novels in the Hawaiian Islands. These publications are from the press of Funk and Wagnalls Co., New York, and should be in every home on the islands. The Standard Dictionary has the universal endorsement of the press and all the leading educators in America and England. It was prepared without regard to cost, the expense being nearly one million dollars. It contains more words than any dictionary published, and the arrangement is said to be more convenient, simple and logical than in any other dictionary. It is the only dictionary that has introduced such Hawaiian words as must come into general use.

The Columbian Historical Novels were written by John R. Musick, are twelve in number, and contain a complete history of the United States to 1894, in the form of twelve complete stories, chronologically arranged. Hernando D'Estevan, the cabin boy of Columbus, whose picture appears in the great painting in the capitol building at Washington, is the hero of the first volume and accompanies Columbus on his first voyage. He finally settles in San Domingo and his descendants are traced through the series to the present day. The History of the Hawaiian Islands, so far as it relates to the United States, is given in these volumes. Each book covers a period or historical era of about forty years, and is provided with an historical index, chronology and map of the period, making it a valuable work of reference to the student.

The books are so written as not to confound fiction with fact, and may be read for the story, for the history, or for both. They contain more historical matter of the United States than can be found in any other history, are endorsed by Gov. Morton of New York, Gov. McKinley of Ohio, Gov. Stone of Missouri, John J. Ingalls, Bishop Bowman of the M. E. Church, the presidents of Harvard, Yale and Brown universities, and scores of other educators, and State Superintendents of schools; they have been adopted by the Public Schools of New York, Brooklyn and other cities and are endorsed by the principal religious and secular press in America and Great Britain.

Women and Wheeling.

It would be difficult to say to which class of women the bicycle is the greatest blessing. To the rich it gives a healthy distraction and amusement as vivifying as it is innocent. To the poor it brings a joy of life never before attainable. If testimonies from the scores of overworked teachers and stenographers to whom this exercise has restored happiness, self control and ensuing success and comfort in their avocations may be believed, some idea might be obtained of the benefit which the bicycle has already brought. Before long, at the present rate of increase in the exercise, not one woman will be without her wheel.—Mrs. De Koven in Cosmopolitan.

Perfectly Wretched!

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND RESTORED MRS. DARROW TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

This is the Medicine That Makes People Well!

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., MONTROSE, PA., Sept. 25, 1894

Gentlemen:—I was very much run down, had no appetite at all, was very nervous, had no sleep night or day; to sum it all up, I WAS PERFECTLY WRETCHED. But thanks to Paine's Celery Compound I can now eat and sleep and work just as well as I could before I was taken sick. When I commenced taking the Compound I weighed 136 pounds; I now weigh 158 pounds and do all the work for my family of five. I have recommended the Compound to three families already and they are very much pleased with it. I am now taking my fifth bottle, and would RECOMMEND IT TO ALL WHO ARE SUFFERING WITH STOMACH TROUBLE OR NERVOUS TROUBLE.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. AUG. DARROW.

MORE VARIED FOOD.

Considerable changes in the conditions of Honolulu's food supplies may be expected from the cold storage just starting. Fresh meat, fish, vegetables and fruit from other climes will now be placed within reach of moderate purses. There will be no need of racing to the vendors' shops to secure an article before it spoils in our atmosphere, or before all not already spoiled has been bought up. The extension of the list of supplies for the table will be wholesome in its possibilities of change of diet. For a supposed fruit country the markets of Honolulu are extremely disappointing in the quantity, variety and, in too great a degree, quality of the fruit supplies. With refrigerator compartments in the steamers calling here, it should be possible to have an exotic variation in fresh food supplies at both of our two slightly differentiated seasons. This is because the American and the Australasian summers are the reverse of each other in point of time. The facilities for procuring supplies from abroad will tend to keep prices reasonable here, without furnishing competition severe enough to be disastrous to any local industries. Some of our food raisers will probably profit by seeing how the foreign producers put up their articles for exportation. The consumption of fruit will tend more and more to become habitual among people with whom it is now only casual. Thereby the production of domestic fruits will be stimulated, while methods of marketing them will be improved. There is not the least doubt that an increased use of fruit by the people generally in this climate will greatly enhance the public health. An excess of animal food, with greasy concomitants and fiery condiments, must be responsible for much of the gastric troubles found in the tropics.

THE APPOINTMENTS.

Judge Whiting was the legitimate successor to the vacant place on the Supreme Court bench, and his appointment will be received with general satisfaction. As a private practitioner, Deputy Attorney General, Attorney General and Judge of the Circuit Court, successively, he has had a valuable experience covering a period of many years. Throughout he has proved himself a man of ability and integrity, while his affability and courtesy to clients, suitors, jurors and the public have marked him as a thorough gentleman who will dignify his present office.

There is nothing to be said personally against either of the appointees to the Circuit Court bench, Messrs. Carter and Perry. Yet, as the BULLETIN has intimated before, it is a pity that practitioners of more mature years and extended professional experience could not have been induced to accept the positions. No matter how proficient the incumbents may be in the legal lore of the books, it occurs to a lay mind that a considerable period of actual battling in the arena should be requisite, for cultivating quickness of judicial insight and discrimination between the true and the false issues of a cause. Mr. Carter, it is true, has the benefit of some years of connection with the Judiciary Department before taking his law college course, and all who know his steadiness and gravity of purpose will expect that in time he will make a model jurist. Indeed, with an older head as his associate, there might be no objection to his elevation, as in difficult questions taken under advisement he would have the counsel of age and experience. It would be highly improper, in our humble opinion, for a nisi prius judge to consult with a member of the Supreme Court upon any specific issue, as the advice given might bear upon points that were to come before the Supreme Court on appeal. In that case a leading principal of our judiciary law would be violated. For the same reason Mr Perry, estimable in every way as a man, might not be an objectionable appointee with an older and more experienced colleague. He is practically unknown as a practitioner at the bar, however, having only been licensed shortly before his appointment as District Magistrate.

The foregoing remarks are not intended to condemn the appointments of these two worthy young men to the highly responsible positions in question, but rather to place this paper on record as holding views that have mostly always in this country and with rare exceptions in other countries ruled appointments to the higher courts of law. Even if the appointees in this case should prove at the very outset of their judicial careers the peers of the ablest and oldest jurist that have ever shed lustre on the Hawaiian bench, the fact would not detract from the soundness of the position herein assumed, but would only be a most gratifying exception that proved the rule.

It must be understood, however, when so much has been said, that this paper finds not the slightest fault with the new Circuit Court Judges for accepting the positions. Nobody who knows them will believe that either of them put himself forward as a candidate, but on the contrary must be sure that both of them shrunk from entertaining the suggestion when approached therewith. It was a case undoubtedly of the offices seeking the men, and if the Government exhausted means for procuring more seasoned timber, for at least one of the seats, then it is a case of necessity, which knows no law.

There is reason to believe that the chief difficulty in finding men to accept or to retain positions on the bench in this country is that the salaries are not an inducement to weigh against the profits of a fairly good private law practice with trust business and money brokerage thrown into the scales. Men who have acquired goodly private fortunes and won distinction in law practice besides, however, who would reject the high honors of the judiciary for money considerations are certainly to be regarded as lacking in public spirit as well as respect for their own time-honored profession. If there are none such here and the salaries are only acceptable to youthful licensees who have not had time to realize the golden gains of private practice, then let the salaries be raised to a degree that will permit men of mature years and solid experience to accept the judicial ermine. Or else let us try the much decried policy of appointing judges for only limited terms, excepting perhaps the Appellate Court justices. It might be alluring to our most eminent lawyers, then, both for the high honor and the change of occupation, to dispense justice for a period of, say, three or five years.

In conclusion, it is safe to regard it as doubtful if the two young Circuit Judges, when they shall have outlived all the disadvantages of youth and inexperience and become invaluable jurists—as no one questions they the have capacity of becoming--will not have grown restive under the limitations of their offices and leave them for the greater activity and excitement of forensic practice or the paths of statesmanship. In any event, they have only the best wishes for their welfare and unbounded success from the BULLETIN.

FROM MR. HAYNE.

He Airs a Double Grievance Against the Advertiser.

HONOLULU, January 6, 1895.

To the EVENING BULLETIN:

Having placed the open letter following in the possession of the editor of the Advertiser, and being in a measure disappointed by the fact that the communication did not appear in the columns of that Hawaiian daily, I have to request the Evening Bulletin, in the interest of fair play, to kindly give me space. Yours most truly,

JULIEN D. HAYNE.

A QUESTION OF MORALS.

An Open Letter to the Editor of the Advertiser.

January 4, 1896.

To Alatau T. Atkinson, Editor Commercial Advertiser.

My dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space sufficient in the columns of the interesting journal so carefully edited by you, to state a question of journalistic privilege?

In an editorial found in the Advertiser for January 2d, 1896 and so presumably written by yourself, the name of the editor of The Hawaiian, as well as the fame of an unpublished number of said magazine, are mangled almost beyond recognition. The reasons stated for this performance are that the December number of The Hawaiian contains "disreputable matter," and "would have been a disgrace to the office that issued it." Right here comes the question: How do you know anything about the matter that was to be published in the December number of The Hawaiian?

So that you may quite understand my position and yours, Mr. Atkinson, let us agree upon the facts. The manuscript for the December number of The Hawaiian was delivered by myself to the Hawaiian Gazette Co.—a corporation organized under the laws of the Republic of Hawaii — for the purpose of printing said number. The Hawaiian Gazette Co. had no authority or power to publish the December number of The Hawaiian. Said company did not assume to, nor, so far as I am able to learn, did said company publish any of said magazine numbers, nor has any other person or company done so. Now, I think you will agree with me, Mr. Atkinson, that, morally and legally, the unpublished writings of an author are quite as sacred as his sealed letters. It would scarcely be deemed honorable to read, much less to publish, the latter.

In India they have a fable to this effect: One day Braham said to Force, "Who is stronger than thou?" Force responded, "Tact." A Chinese proverb says: "What could not the lion do were he a monkey!" Now, I am assured that the Advertiser is neither served by a lion nor by a monkey; yet the thing which the Advertiser has done suggests the Chinese proverb and the fable of Hindustan. Will you kindly, Mr. Atkinson, explain your position. To me your attitude is one which will scarcely warrant the claim of right conduct or square with the ethics of morality.

Yours most truly,
JULIEN D. HAYNE.

The question was asked the other day: "If Hayne's magazine is immoral, why don't the BULLETIN or Advertiser state wherein its immorality lies?" The BULLETIN does not see that there is any necessity of detailing the charge. It is in a measure self-evident, from the general tone of previous issues of the Hawaiian. It would have redounded to the Advertiser's credit if that paper had refused printing it three months ago.

RELOADING OUTFITS, AMMUNITION, ETC. ETC.

Christmas is over but there are plenty of ducks and turkeys flying about the ponds, marshes and woods of these islands, and there are plenty of hunters who will take advantage of the numerous holidays between now and Washington's birthday to try and get a shot at them. To insure a good bag of game on one of these trips, the hunter must have a good gun, good ammunition and good dogs. The Hawaiian Hardware Company will fit you out with a gun and ammunition and if you haven't got a good dog why you can borrow one. We make a specialty of reloading outfits, shells and ammunition of all kinds to suit any bore and can guarantee satisfaction to sportsmen.

In rifle and pistol catridges we have a large supply to fit any weapons.

Christmas has come and gone but the holidays are not over. You will want to purchase some little reminder of the New Year for your better half, and we are just the people to find something that will suit you without running you in debt or mortgaging your property. We have a small lot of that beautiful aluminum ware left, comprising handsomely engraved hair brushes, mirrors, clothes brushes, jewelry cases and such like.

We have many useful and ornamental articles in solid silver or plated ware, cut glass goods, lamps and lamp shades, water coolers, goblets, etc. that would make a desirable gift.

Call and examine the many beautiful, useful and economical goods we have on hand suitable for presents. You will be sure to see something that will strike your fancy.

By the next Australia we have an immense consignment of goods in all our departments to arrive, comprising many novelties, of which due notice will be given. Among them may be mentioned a fresh consignment of the Tribune wheels direct from the factory and up to date in every respect.

One of Quinns hacks, driven by Manuel Reis, while at the stand on King and Fort streets, was overturned by a runaway team belonging to the Woodlawn dairy on Saturday afternoon. A broken spring and a bent top was the resultant damage.

The Board of Immigration held a few minutes' session this morning at the office of the Minister of Interior. The meeting was for the purpose of consideration of applications for more Japanese contract laborers for the plantations.

A Furniture Deal.

Ordway & Porter, the enterprising furniture dealers on Hotel street, have another surprise for the Honolulu public, having during the last few days received a large invoice of furniture of the latest designs direct from the factory.

This firm are certainly abreast of the times, as they import direct from the factory, thereby doing away with the jobber or middleman's profit. This little stroke of business ability enables them to sell at a very low figure, and people who are thinking of buying furniture will do well to inspect their stock before purchasing elsewhere.

The goods are ready for inspection and comprise bedroom sets, extension tables, sideboards, secretary book cases, chiffoniers, wardrobes, etc., etc, all from the very latest designs and at prices to suit the times. *

POLICE COURT MATTERS.

A Long Calendar Disposed Of at This Morning's Session.

As the commissions of the new judges have not yet been signed, Judge Perry was found occupying his usual seat on the rostrum of the District Court this morning. He found a calendar of forty-eight cases confronting him but they were mostly for minor offenses and were soon disposed of.

Six drunks got off with the usual fine and the case against Charles Reynolds for being a common nuisance was dismissed.

The case against Antone Recard and Mrs. Lokalia Inch, charged with adultery, was put off until the 9th.

Aiau and Ah Choy, charged with having opium in possession. were nolle pros.'d.

Of the twenty-one Chinese gamblers hauled in on Saturday night six pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each and costs; seven were remanded and the balance let go.

Ah Ngan will be tried on the 9th for maliciously injuring a certain cocoanut tree, the property of Mr. Yaeger, by cutting off its leaves and thereby inflicting damage to the amount of three dollars.

In the examination of J. Carvalho for perjury the defendants' demurer was overruled and the trial continued till tomorrow. A. S. Humphreys and G. A. Davis assisting the prosecution and A. G. Correa and W. S Edings for the defendant.

A nolle pros. was entered in the case of Ah Yong charged with attempting to bribe a police officer.

John Fitzpatrick and E. S. Bryan, charged with an affray, failed to appear and their cash bail of $10 each was confiscated.

A number of opium, bribery and larceny cases were put off to future dates.

POLICE AT THE BUTTS.

A Marching Drill, Team Shoot and Collation.

In commemoration of last year's busy times the police force of this city were drilled by Senior Captain Parker at an early hour this morning and afterwards marched to Kakaako butts, where a team shoot took place between the first watch under Captain Kause, the second under Captain Scott and the third under Captain Hookano. There was nine men in each team and the shoot was for a purse containing $10.50. The money was won by the first watch with a score of 132. Captain Hookano's team came next with 120, while Captain Scott's watch only made 83, which is accounted for by seven of the men being new recruits, one of whom only went on duty yesterday.

After the shooting the men marched to the station house, where they were dismissed and entertained with a fine collation to which they did ample justice.

Assault by Footpads.

Jas. Nott, Jr., was assaulted by a footpad on Vineyard street, Saturday evening. He was on his way home when be noticed a man following him and acting in a peculiar manner. Just as Mr. Nott turned to accost him, the man threw a large stone which struck Nott on the hand, inflicting a slight wound and bruising the member so that it is still considerably swollen. He started after his assailant, who turned and ran. Mr. Nott says he believes the person to be a white man, but could not be sure on account of darkness.

Mrs. E. F. Bishop, Mrs. J. Walkington, Miss Goodale and Miss Boyd are booked to leave for the Coast by the Australia.

A. E. Carver, of Saratoga, Waikiki, leaves by the Australia today for the coast. Mr. Carver goes to look after his mining properties in Calaveras county, California and will return about Feb. 1st.

ORANGES FROM JERUSALEM.

Shipments to the Chicago Market From Remote Points.

Jerusalem is now competing with Mexico and California for the orange trade of Chicago. The other day five cases appeared in South Water street, the appearance of which soon attracted the curiosity of the commission men, who had never before seen any such packages. To the ordinary spectator they were simply wooden boxes secured with strips of green timber, but to the experienced handlers of produce they differed entirely from the usual run of cases.

As the top of the case was removed and the yellow fruit came in view a South Water street wag was heard softly singing, "Jerusalem the Golden." Light in color, of oval shape and in the finest condition, the fruit was packed much more carefully than that from other countries. The cases were first lined with white paper and sheets were placed between every layer of fruit. Each orange was separately wrapped in the ordinary manner. Oranges from the holy land never have been seen in Chicago before, and these attracted much attention. They were grown in the district between Jerusalem and Jaffa. They are worth from $4 to $4 50 a case.

Spain and Northern California are also new competitors in the Chicago market this season. "The orange situation is remarkable," said George W. Barnett Brothers. He added: "With the 3 000,000 or 4,000 000 cases of Floridas out of the market this year dealers have had to seek fresh fields for stock. Spain, whose fruit in ordinary years wouldn't pay freight charges, has sent over considerable quantities this year, which are now selling at from $6 to $6.50 a double case. The greater part of the stock has been sold in New York, because here it comes into competition with the California and Mexican crops. If it had not happened that the California fruit ripened two weeks ahead of the ordinary time we should have had to depend entirely on the supply from Mexico, and prices, which are high enough already, would have advanced still further.

"The most interesting feature in connection with the new shipping points is that Northern California for the first time in its history has sought the Chicago market. Oranges in the Sacramento district ripen fully two weeks ahead of that in the southern part of the State and the northern crop always has been sold in San Francisco. In former years it would have been useless to ship it here in competition with the Floridas, as growers would scarcely have made the freight on it. The car which came in the other day was made up of navels, seedlings and 'Parson Browns,' and came from Newcastle, 400 miles north of Los Angeles. They were all of the finest quality and sold readily at from $4 to $4 25 a case. Northern California will be heard from again on the orange market."

Never before was the orange market supplied from such remote and diverging points as this season. North and South California, Florida, Mexico, Jamaica, Valencia, Jaffa, Jerusalem, are chief among them.—Chicago Record.

ROUGH ON THE CLOTH.

Mayor Sutro Says Preachers and Teachers Crib Books.

"It is the clergymen and school teachers who steal books, more often than any other classes," was the startling statement made by Mayor Sutro at a meeting of the City Hall Commissioners yesterday, says a late San Francisco Chronicle.

The Commissioners were considering a request from the trustees of the Law Library to be provided with a private room in which rare and valuable books can be stored. "I am opposed to such a plan," said Mayor Sutro, "because books kept in a private room are more apt to be stolen or mutilated than if they are in a public place. The valuable books should be kept in a public room and, perhaps, it would be wise to keep them under lock and key.

"I have had some experience with a library," continued the Mayor, "and I know the safest place is a public room that is constantly filled with visitors. If rare books are kept in a private room the clergymen and teachers are always given free access to them and those classes of people are the greatest book thieves. They love books, and being unable to get them any other way they do not hesitate to steal them. They do not seem to think that it is a crime to mutilate a book or steal knowledge."

The Mayor then proceeded to show how it was done. "For instance, as is often the case, there is a work on street engineering and a page of it contains some valuable information. The bookworm realizes its importance and he goes to the library with a string in his mouth. When unobserved the wet string is inserted at the page desired. The dampness from the string makes it an easy task to remove the page. Now if valuable books are kept in a private room it will be much easier for such stealing to be done."

Yales' La Freckla

is Mme. Yale's infallible cure of Freckles, Tan and Sunburn. It is the only remedy ever compounded that will remove freckles completely and surely.

The fairer and more delicate the skin, the more likely it is to freckle and the worse it will look after it is freckled.

Thousands of women, otherwise beautiful, are disfigured by these unsightly, brown blotches. Nothing will hide them. They are a source of misery, but they can be cured. La Freckla is the death-warrant to freckles.

The preparation of La Freckla is one of Mme. Yale's greatest achievements. There are many imitations, some of them very dangerous and hurtful to the skin; none of them really effective. For safety and certainty, insist always on getting the genuine and original La Freckla.

LINER AUSTRALIA DEPARTS

STEAMER MIKAHALA GOES TO THE GARDEN ISLE.

Notes from Foreign Shipping Today—Items Alongshore—The Kinau-Claudine Race—Cameron's Mistake.

A busy day at Oceanic wharf.

The Mokolii resumed her place on the Lahaina, Lanai and Molokai route this evening.

The steamer Waialeale came in last evening with 3368 bags of Hamakua sugar for Schaefer & Co.

Tomorrow, Monday—high tide large at 7:50 a m; high tide small at 9.37 p m; low tide large 2:39 p m; low tide mall 1.36 a m.

The wooden sloop Adams will leave San Francisco for Sitka about January 15th to relieve the Pinta, which will return to Mare Island and be sold as useless.

Work is very slack at the Mare island yard now, only about 360 men being on the rolls, but the Baltimore's arrival, which is looked for soon, will liven things up.

The American three-masted schooner Mary Dodge, Hansen master, 18 days from San Francisco arrived in Kahului, December 30th with a cargo of general merchandise.

The ship Iroquois, 2095 tons, has been chartered by J D Spreckels & Bros. Co., for ballast from San Francisco to Honolulu and sugar from this port to either New York or Philadelphia, at $5.75.

The U S S Ranger has been dismantled and will be hauled into Rotton Row in San Francisco harbor to lie until men are available for her. The same fate has already befallen the Mohican, Pensacola and Swatara—all useful ships in their way for coast defense service.

The liner Australia cast off her lines for San Francisco at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It has been hot work during her three days in port to discharge and load. Bananas piled up on the wharf all yesterday and as early as three o'clock this morning loads of this fruit commenced to arrive. The Australia carried away considerable sugar and a lot of passengers. She remains in San Francisco eight days this trip.

TO ALL WHO USE PAINT:

The undersigned, L. C. Ables and H. P. Walton, purchased from Charles J. Wagner, the inventor of Peerless Preserving Paint, the exclusive right to manufacture, use and sell the PEERLESS PRESERVING PAINT in the Hawaiian Islands.

Patent for Peerless Preserving Paint.

On the 26th day of September, 1895, the Republic of Hawaii granted to L. C. Ables and H. P. Walton, a patent No. 110, granting them the exclusive right to make, use and vend PEERLESS PRESERVING PAINT throughout the Hawaiian Islands.

Trade Mark for Peerless Preserving Paint.

The Republic of Hawaii has also granted to L. C. Ables and H. P. Walton the exclusive use of the words PEERLESS PRESERVING PAINT as a trade mark throughout the Republic of Hawaii for the term of 20 years.

Imitation.

Certain parties in San Francisco have recently been sending to Honolulu under the name of PEERLESS PRESERVING PAINT a spurious article not only inferior to the genuine paint, but one which is positively injurious to any metal to which it may be applied.

Beware of Fraud.

We hereby warn all persons against being defrauded into using any but the genuine PEERLESS PRESERVING PAINT, which can be obtained only of Ables and Walton.

Warning Against Infringement.

We also hereby warn all persons against buying, selling or using any article under the name of Peerless Preserving Paint, except that sold by us, as such buying, selling or using will be a direct infringement of our patent and trade mark, and a violation of our rights, subjecting the persons buying, selling or using such paint to a claim for damages by us in accordance with the Hawaiian Law.
