The Drawbridge Keeper.*

Dreskee, the drawbridge keeper, opened wide
The dangerous gate, to let the vessel through;
His little son was standing by his side
Above Passaic River, deep and blue,
While in the distance, like a moan of pain,
Was heard the whistle of the coming train.

Almost there Dreskee worked to swing it back—
The gate-like bridge that seems a gate of death;
Nearer and nearer, on the slender track,
Came the swift engine, pulling its white breath.
Then, with a shriek, the loving father saw
His darling boy fall headlong from the draw.

Either at once down in the stream to spring
And save his son, and let the living freight
Rush on to death, or to his work to cling
And leave his boy unheeded to meet his fate;
Which should he do? Were you, as he was, tried,
Would not your love outweigh all else beside?

And yet the child to him was full as dear
As yours may be to you—the light of eyes,
A presence like a brighter atmosphere,
The household star that shone in love's mild skies—
Yet side by side with duty, stern and grim,
Even his child became as nought to him.

For Dreskee, being great of soul and true,
Held to his work, and did not and his boy,
Who in the deep dark water sank from view.
Then from his father's life were death all joy;
But as he fell back, pallid with his pain,
Across the bridge in safety passed the train.

And yet the man was poor, and in his breast
Flowed no aristocratic blood of king or lord;
True greatness needs no title and no crest
To win from men just honor and reward;
Nobility is not of rank, but mind,
And is inborn and common to our kind.

He is most noble whose humanity
Is most corrupted. To be just and good
The birthright of the lowest born may be;
Say what we can, we are one brotherhood,
And rich or poor, or famous or unknown,
True hearts are noble, and true hearts alone.

HENRY ABBY.

* History and poetry celebrate no whimsier act of devotion than that of Albert G. Dreskee, the watchman of the Passaic River drawbridge, on the New York and Newark Railroad. The train was due, and he was closing the draw, when his little child fell into the deep water. It would have been easy enough to rescue him if the father could have taken the time, but already the approaching train was at hand. It was a proud agony. His child could be saved only at the cost of other lives committed to his care. The brave man did his duty, but the child was drowned.

Miscellaneous.

The telephone is only about two years old, but some of the jokes about it sound as though they were rapped when the pyramids were young.

"How many deaths?" asked the hospital physician while going his rounds. "Nine." "Why, I ordered medicine for ten." "Yes, but one wouldn't take it."

Medical Man: "And then with regard to the swelling at the back of your head, I don't apprehend anything serious; but you must keep your eye on it."

"Mike, come in and take a drink." He rolled his eyes upward, then brought them down, and replied, "Darlint, I thought 'twas an angel spakin' to me."

The man who won't talk with you ten minutes on an ordinary business subject, without expressing great anxiety about your sole, needs the very kiniest kind of watching.

A pretty actress settled her advertising bill with a Little Rock newspaper last week by kissing the editor. Arkansaw editors don't get very rich, but they have a heap of fun.

A Brooklyn man stole up behind a lady in a dark room and kissed her, and when he found it was his wife, and she found it was her husband, they were both as mad as wet hens.

"What makes you so grum, Tom?" "Oh, I have had to endure a sad trial of my feelings." "What on earth was it?" "Why, I had to kiss a pretty girl's bonnet while her ma was looking."

It is not what we earn but what we save that makes us rich; it is not what we eat but what we digest that makes us strong; it is not what we read but what we remember that makes us learned.

A man who can stand a great grief and conceal it, and hug it to his bosom, and go smilingly around the world, can't conceal his emotion when a fly lights on his nose while the barber is scraping his throat.

"What pretty children, and how much they look alike," says C. during a first visit at a friend's house. "They are twins," his friend explains. "What, both of 'em?" exclaims C. greatly interested.

The novelty just now most popular in evening dress is hand-painted flowers upon satin or silk. Sometimes the front of the dress is covered with sprays of flowers, and sometimes the train has a wreath of bouquets scattered over it.

Christina, the new Queen of Spain, has magnificent jewels—diamonds, sapphires, rubies and emeralds in plenty. She also has "a black silk bollet sewn with real pearls, and trimmed with red and yellow—Spanish colors."

"Young man," said the orator impressively, "do you want to go down to a drunkard's grave?" "Well," replied the young man, with the careless air of a man who he'd accustomed to refusing, "I don't care if I do. Whereabouts is your grave?"

An irreverent Englishman asserts that whatever theological difference of opinion there may be between his brethren and sisters north of the Tweed they are united on the broad basis of eating peppermints during divine service.

The boarding-house keepers are comparing notes. "It pears to me," Mrs. Miggs says, "that your chicken and mine are related somehow, for I never have a mouse of your boarders complain." "Well, you see," explained Mrs. Miggles, "I allus chops up a few feathers with the veal."

Belle: "This bully in my hair wants a little relief—it's too red." Aunty: "Well, why not put in a spring or two of mistletoe, dear?" Belle: "Nonsense, aunty. Why I shall have all the young men kissing me." Aunty: "Indeed, no my dear, they'd do nothing of the kind. I've tried 'em."

There is a good deal of fraud practiced under the guise of scientific science. A certain miner in Arizona suspected that a certain assayer was an impostor, powdered up an old dried potato and gave the dust to him to analyze as a new ore. The alleged chemist said it yielded 40 dollars in silver to the ton.

A pompous lawyer said to the keeper of an apple-stand: "Your business cares seem to be too much for you. You should go into something which is not so trying to the brain." "Oh, 'taint business," replied the apple seller, "it's lyin' awake nights, trysin' to decide whether to leave my fortune to an orphan asylum, or to a home for played-out old lawyers, as is killin' me."

An old Scotch lady, who had no relish for modern music, was expressing her dislike for the singing of an anthem in her own church one day, when a neighbor said: "Why, that is a very old anthem. David sang that anthem to Saul." To this the old lady replied: "Weel, weel, I noo for the first time understahd why Saul threw his javelin at David when the lad sang for him."

He was a bachelor, had traveled extensively, and could speak any language, dead or alive. Hungry eyes were nothing to him. But when he returned home the other day and talked to his sister's baby, and when it cried and was pacified by its mother saying, "Did his naughty wanty uncle wantle some honey wooney and scaredy my little pubsy wubsy," he just leaned over the back of the chair and wept.

Many years ago a Boston man, after many months of close application, discovered a way of making watch oil free from all acids and gummy qualities. The man's mind had been greatly absorbed in perfecting his discovery, as he very well knew that if success crowned his efforts fortune and luxury were his. The oil, after being perfected, was offered for sale, but as watch-makers seemed to believe that other kinds were just as good, or a little better, its sales were limited. The inventor was disappointed, grew despondent and committed suicide. To-day there are only two small lots of the oil, and more can not be made as the secret of the invention was never made known. It far surpasses any other oil known. There is only one gland of the precious lubricant in the United States, and that was purchased in an Eastern city the other day by a representative of a watch factory for two hundred dollars cash. The balance of the oil, a small quantity, is owned in London, England.

On the 2nd of August, Mrs. Timothy Bradley, Johnston, Trumbull County, Ohio, gave birth to eight children—three boys and five girls. They are all living and healthy but quite small. Mr. B's family is increasing fast. He married six years ago Bessie Mowery, who weighed 275 pounds on the day of their marriage. She has given birth to two pair of twins and now eight more, making twelve children in six years. Between very strange, but nevertheless is true, Mrs. B. was a twin of twins, her mother and father being both twins, and her grandmother was the mother of five pairs of twins. Mrs. B. has named her boys after noted and distinguished men—one after the Hon. Joshua Giddings, who has given her a splendid gold medal; one after the Hon. Elijah Champlin, who gave her a deed of fifty acres of land; and the other James Johnston, who gave her a cow. Mr. Bradley says that it is profitable to have twins, and the neighbors have elected the others since they were born. Mr. B. is a poor industrious laborer, but says he will not part with any of his children while he is able to work.—American Paper.

VANITY FAIR!
IT IS WITH PLEASURE WE ANNOUNCE that our Vanity Fair Tobacco and Cigarettes, in their various styles, have been adopted by the French Government. Below we quote from the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle:
"It is a matter of pride to Rochester, as well as to the firm directly interested, that yesterday a Cable dispatch was received stating that the French Government had adopted the Tobacco and Cigarettes manufactured by Wm. S. Kimball & Co., of this city. We should explain, perhaps, that all tobacco sold in France up to this time has been manufactured by the Government. Of late the demand for other makes has arisen, and the Government, to meet it, allowed English and American manufacturers to enter goods for competitive test with a view to the adoption of the best. The fact that Wm. S. Kimball & Co. have come out far ahead of all other manufacturers in both countries, is conclusive proof that their goods are the best the world produces. Their Tobacco and Cigarettes will henceforth be on sale in Paris as freely as in New York. See the other major, except the French, will be found there. In other words, the French Government, on the report of its experts, declare the goods of Wm. S. Kimball & Co. the best in the world."

DECLARATION.

The undersigned Plenipotentiaries, negotiators of the foregoing Treaty of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation and Consular Convention between the German Empire and the Hawaiian Kingdom, have met to-day and agreed, with the consent of their respective Governments, on the following explanatory notes regarding some dispositions of said treaty.

First. The Third Section of Article II of said Treaty, in regard to marriages, concluded by citizens of the one country in the other in the forms sanctioned by the laws of the latter shall be considered and held legal and valid likewise in the former country; provided that, in regard to the material conditions of marriage, no disposition, applicable to each case according to the law of the native country, is violated or contravened by such marriage.

Second. The clause of Article XII in regard to the reciprocal exemption of consular officers, not being citizens of the country where they are accredited, "from all direct or personal or sumptuary taxes, duties or contributions," is not intended in any case to include Customs-Duties.

Third. The clause in the same Article XII "if however the said Consular officers are, or become owners of real estate in the country where they reside, or engage in commerce" is intended and shall be construed to mean the engaging of any consular officer in any business or pursuit for profit extraneous to his consular functions.

Done at Berlin, February 20th, 1880.

HENRY A. P. CARTER.
JOHANNES ROSING
H. V. KUSSEROW.

AND, WHEREAS, The said Treaty has been now duly ratified by His Majesty the King, and His Imperial Majesty of the German Empire, and ratifications exchanged, the said Treaty has become a part of the law of the said Kingdom, and all the provisions thereof are to be observed.

Minister of Foreign Affairs.

HORSE AND STOMACHS.—The number who graded so voluminously on the subject of the Crown Jewels of Great Britain is sadly astray in his facts. The British never sent camels to India with or without bundreds of thousands of pounds to buy the Koh-i-noor or any other diamond or gem. In fact it was not bought at all but fell into the hands of a British army by the fortune of war. It is unpleasant, that is, permanently, in the British Crown, though no doubt it would shine there at a coronation or other very important occasion. At present it is usually kept in the Jewel House at the Tower, it is worn not infrequently by Her Majesty as a personal ornament.

Hawaiian Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 21, 1880.

A WAR of throwing mud will as far as this journal is concerned be left to other combatants, who will suit their own fancies and purposes, or what they may deem to be the public taste in such things. Early in the year, we informed the public, that we proposed to discuss all subjects upon their intrinsic merits, and not to be drawn off from such discussions by personal considerations.

OUR esteemed contemporary of the Advertiser informs the public that "the insinuation of the GAZETTE that Mr. Gibson is in any way an attache or writer for the Advertiser is entirely untrue." We are not aware that we have made any "insinuation" of the kind, although our correspondents and the public generally, as we believe, have supposed that the gentleman in question writes for that journal; not that such a position, if he held it, would be a discredit to Mr. Gibson, nor that we know any reason for the Advertiser's protest.

WE are informed that Mr. Gibson has suggested in the House that there is something improper or under-handed in the statement made by us that the men of intelligence and property in the country are demanding that a party be formed to represent their views and interests. The honorable member must be aware, that the necessity of such a representation has for many months been a subject of general conversation in every intelligent circle, not even excluding many official circles. He need have no fear that any secrecy will be observed in the matter.

EVERYONE in this country, whether he takes an oath to obey the Constitution and Laws of the Kingdom, usually called the oath of allegiance, or not, is bound to obey them. But it would be unfortunate to make acquiescence in all that is supposed to emanate from the King a test of loyalty; for the result would often leave no loyalty (of that kind) in the country. Loyalty is shown by obeying the law, and inculcating respect for it. Disloyalty consists in disregarding the law. As the loyal English poet wrote:

"We too are friends to loyalty; we love
The King who loves the law, respects his friends
And reigns content within them."

THE feeling of the solid men of the country is growing stronger that an entire prohibition of sales of intoxicating liquors should be made without distinction of race or persons. Men of intelligence generally are convinced that the proposed law allowing sales to natives is fraught with serious consequences, and that if such a law should go into effect it would depreciate the value of property all over the kingdom. It is the loyal and not disloyal men and women, who deprecate as earnestly as acts and words can do, the royal approval of the fatal liquor law. It is hoped and believed that His Majesty will regard the wishes of those on whose substantial support the prosperity of the country depends, by withholding his signature from the liquor and opium bills.

THE way in which government measures are brought forward and passed without the knowledge or sanction of the Ministers is deeply significant, for it shows whether or not we are practically living under the government of a responsible Ministry, such as the law of the land was intended to secure. For instance, this matter of expending $10,000 to crown His Majesty was brought forward outside of the Cabinet, and not even a Minister voted for it; every person of intelligence, unless it be Mr. Gibson and Mr. Rhodes, regards this outlay as worse than useless; it is stupid. For if it is important now, it was no less so in 1874 when the King was elected. If it is of no importance except for show, it is both unwise and ridiculous. Mr. Gibson likens it to the wedding ring; but surely this is not the time to "furnish forth the marriage feast."

TO QUOTE from the views just now expressed by the Advertiser, as well as from certain remarks in the House made by one or two gentlemen, loyalty consists in making no objection to any public measure or to any appropriation of public money to which it is supposed that His Majesty has given encouragement. The mental and moral condition of that man deserves public sympathy who entertains such notions of his duty or rights. It is far better that there should be open and public discussion of all such matters—and we shall not change our contemporary with evil motive if it advocates views opposed to our own—than that an under-current of discontent should prevail, for nothing is more injurious than unexpressed distrust. It was one of Napoleon's wise maxims, always to let soldiers complain. We hope to be able to praise as well as censure, and shall continue to express the public views and to advocate the public interests without asking further permission than the law gives.

AN ATTEMPT is being made just now to gag the free expression of public opinion and we are surprised to see our neighbor the Advertiser lending its columns to any such purpose. In this matter of the rights of public discussion we wish to be clearly understood. We intend to discuss and to discuss freely any subject that comes before us; our columns will ever be open to the ventilation of every matter of interest; this is our duty as a public organ and to our duty we shall always remain true.

Our neighbor complains of the "innuendos" which we make against the King. We make no innuendos; we do say what we mean and we intend to continue to say it. Every public man is liable to be criticised for his public acts. In England criticism more often falls upon the Ministry, because the Ministry are supposed to represent the policy of the Crown; not the wildest stretch of imagination could lead any one to suppose that the Ministry represent the policy of the Crown in this country. Whoever wields public power and patronage must expect to have his every act scrutinized and valued by his fellow men. It is very possible that those in power here forget that the people do not exist for the government but that the government does for the people. If any public act is performed it is the right of public opinion to criticise that act; to award praise if it should be merited; to mete out blame if it should be deserved; we care not who performs that public act; upon that act the person should be judged whatever his position or his rank.

If a thing is right there is no reason why any one should object to its being mentioned and discussed; if it is wrong all the more is it the duty of the Public Press to take the matter up and ventilate it. Men will do that in a corner which they fear to do in the full blaze of day, and the moment that they know that the corner will be lighted up they will cease from shabby transactions. The Public Press is the greatest safety a country has. Statesmen or writers and we may not always be infallible, but we always will try to express public opinion aright and in nothing will we more strongly assert ourselves than in the dear-bought privilege of the liberty of discussing everything and everybody in the columns of the newspaper.

WE are glad to see that arrangements are being made by some of our principal merchants to initiate a movement for another market for Island sugar. It is very evident that with our increasing production we cannot depend entirely upon San Francisco as a consumer for all of our sugar, and again it is undoubtedly to our advantage to find more than one purchaser for it. At present as we all know there is but one market, and naturally it makes its own price. While it has perhaps been a comparatively liberal one, there is no doubt that the Islands have not obtained a full market value for their products. Our sugars are richer in saccharine than those of almost any other country; this arises perhaps from richer soil or more probably from the fact that we have a cane soil which has not been exhausted by long repeated years of cultivation. To refer to "Manila" especially it is thoroughly well known that their sugars for refinery purposes are far below ours in value from the greater quantity of syrups necessarily made from them. A few years ago when the San Francisco Refiners purchased largely from Manila the product of syrup was so far above the demand that thousands of barrels were sold and exported to foreign countries. We know at one sale of a thousand barrels for export which were sold at 22½ cents, while the regular price for home consumption at San Francisco was 55 cents.

Of course it is the refiner's aim to make as little syrup as possible. Now how has it been with Hawaiian Sugar. Since the Refiners have purchased so largely of our product they have not manufactured enough syrup to supply the San Francisco market and are actually buying our molasses to make over into syrup? It is easy enough then to see that our sugars are far more desirable for refining purposes than Manila's and we think they ought to command a better price. The Manila basis of prices is considerably below New York rates of the same standard. A sale of Island sugar on refinery account was made at San Francisco on the 25th June at 7.02 per 100 lbs, while on the same date at New York Cuba sugar of the same standard in polarization and of No. 9. in color sold to New York Refiners at $7.5 per 100 lbs, this difference in value will cover increased freight and insurance as well as interest (which by the way will be six per cent. instead of 10 per cent.) and will leave a margin of ¾ cent. or $15. per ton to our advantage. These are genuine figures from actual sales so that we feel well convinced that this movement will soon ripen into a large trade. We understand that a first class ship will be laid on for New York in January to be followed by others as the trade may warrant.

The Currency—An Ex-Editor's Views.

THE recent discussion of the currency question has subsided, without apparently reaching a definite conclusion, or providing for the adoption of any practicable plan of relief; and without even making it clear to the public what course, if adopted, would put our currency on a better basis than now.

The last previous discussion of the currency took place in 1876, before and during the session of the Legislature, when the currency Act of that year was passed. That law did not express the sentiments of the press nor of the business men of Honolulu, except perhaps in one particular, that it declared gold to be the legal standard of the country, which has had a beneficial result so far as it may have helped to establish a reputation for us abroad of having a gold standard, although, in reality, this is not so. Otherwise, the law proved harmless, because it was neither approved nor sustained by the business men of the city, by whom it has been "honored more in the breach than in the observance." The provision in it authorizing the imposition of ten per cent. duty on certain silver coins when imported, is a pernicious one, and can only result (when enforced as has lately been done with standard Mexican dollars,) in reacting disastrously to our own interests. Its effects will soon become apparent to all.

Although by the above law American gold is declared to be our legal standard and the basis of all business here, our currency still consists, as it did when the law was enacted, wholly of silver coins and silver certificates; the business of the metropolis being transacted chiefly with paper, and that of the country with coin. So long as silver certificates are issued, as at present, to serve as our leading currency, it will be impossible for gold coins to circulate freely here. Neither American nor British gold can by any law or legerdemain be made to float on a commercial stream with Hawaiian silver notes—the latter being the less valuable and lighter will float or keep in circulation, while the more valuable gold sinks out of sight and disappears. And people wonder why it should do so, and where it goes to! If we desire a permanent gold currency, we can have it by at once withdrawing the silver certificates, and issuing gold certificates or notes. At least, it seems more reasonable that gold coin will circulate along with gold notes.

But it will be asked—"How can this be done?" Either by the Government or by the Bank. It is one of the duties of all Governments to provide a currency for the people. Having no mint, the Hawaiian Government can issue gold notes secured by gold coin, as at present. Or, if it be deemed best, it can delegate its authority to the Bank to issue gold notes to a limited amount, say $300,000, of the denominations of ten, twenty, fifty, one hundred and one thousand dollars, secured, as is the currency of the National Banks in America, by a deposit of government bonds in the public treasury, to the same amount as the currency issued. The Bank has become, by common consent, the clearing house of the country, where all large transactions can be more conveniently settled than anywhere else. It is, consequently, a money center, and it would seem to be the most proper institution to have the authority to issue notes, and to provide and keep on hand the coin necessary to redeem them; for shrewd financial ability and vigilance will be required to manage this business successfully.

The business of all the leading nations is transacted chiefly with paper, based on gold, and not with the coin itself. So here, the business of Honolulu is done chiefly with paper—silver certificates. Entire these, and issue in their place gold notes, and the country becomes, in reality, actually and at once based on gold, silver serving as a subsidiary currency for smaller transactions and for country use.

But it may be asked—"How are we going to keep these notes circulating, as every one wishing to remit money abroad, will demand the gold coin, and it will drain to foreign countries?" Let it drain, until the stream finds its level. It will be the business of those who issue the certificates or notes, to provide and keep a sufficiency of coin, to meet any demands made on them, just as it is the business of the merchant to provide and keep on hand ample supplies to meet the wants of his customers. Let the gold system once be put in operation,—let the gold stream once begin to flow, and it will flow in as well as out. The business of the country will then have changed its currency basis almost imperceptibly, and it will be the interest of Government, and of the entire community, to aid in keeping it in its proper place, instead of seeking to derange or cramp it. And it may be that these gold notes would prove about as useful for travellers and others to take abroad, at least to San Francisco, as the more bulky coins; especially if there was an understanding with leading houses or banks there to receive and dispose of them to returning travellers.

As it seems to me, all that is now required is the authority (if it may be needed,) to withdraw the certificates now in circulation, and the authority to issue GOLD NOTES, secured as above suggested, or in some other way that will insure the public against any possible loss. To this should be added the [illegible] co-operation and determination of the business men of Honolulu to make the change a success. This seems to me to be the best if not the only way to introduce gold as a circulating medium, for we so long have power enough to make it circulate freely with silver certificates, surporting to be of equal value, but really of less value.

The silver will then take care of itself. All the American and other standard silver coins now here, as well as all that may be brought, will be required, as now, for supplying the country trade and plantation wants; and, while gold will become actually, as it is now only nominally, our legal tender, silver will serve its proper duty as a subsidiary coin. Debased silver coin can always be put out of circulation by government notices.

In conclusion with you, gentlemen in authority, to say how soon this change shall be made. If there be now in the public treasury $216,000 of U. S. gold coin, as reported to the Legislature by the Finance Committee, the change to a gold basis can be effected within ninety days, and as quietly as to-morrow's daylight. Paper money may not be as good as coin, but so long as we use it and must have it, and so long as it performs all the function of money, it is just as good. The change consists in declaring on the face of the notes in circulation, that they are "payable in U. S. gold coin," instead of silver, and in providing to meet such payment on demand, and in keeping up the supply, that at no time there may be a lack of coin or of notes. Then, and not till then, will our currency be a good standard—a basis as solid and as trustworthy as that on which Old England's time-honored monetary rests.

H. M. WHITNEY.

Kailua, Kau, July 5th, 1880.

Indeed! Indeed! Is it true?

That "kanakas have never been instructed in regard to the simplest laws of health, pertaining to their new civilized condition of life," as stated in W. M. Gibson's preface to his Sanitary Instructions for Hawaiians.

In chapter 19th of his book, page 108, he says "the Hawaiians have been so surrounded and pursued by gratuitous foreign instruction, management and meddling, religious, political, educational and social, that the Hawaiian has lost his old native vigor of life, and cannot stand alone, and care for himself in the new order of things."

We have read with interest Mr. Gibson's book, and highly approve of many things which it contains. There is a bold dash of sarcastic, reckless statements, contained in the above quotations, which are self condemning.

He says "all this is undertaken in a spirit of love and gratitude," also that "the Legislative Assembly of 1878, appropriated the sum of fifteen hundred dollars for the publication of a series of Sanitary Instruction for Hawaiians."

Page 107, "the effects of rum, and laziness and decay, took possession of Hawaiian women." Whence the rum! Whence the fancy!

On the same page, "Let the Hawaiian girl and mother exercise abundantly, and live cleanly, and wholesomely; and there will be no need to discuss women's disease in Hawaii."

We say, let them read much that is contained in the Sanitary Instructions and profit thereby. Mr. Gibson began his instructions in 1879. In 1880 his book was published. He says "this is the first monument in Hawaii not devoted to Hygeia." "Some good effects from these instructions have already been manifested. We are glad that he is so much encouraged, but it might be well to remember the words of an old Bible prophet: "Let not him that girdeth on his harness, boast himself, as he that putteth it off."

We have spent the best part of our life, nearly fifty years among Hawaiians, and endeavored to teach them by precept and example. We regret that our efforts have not been crowned with more perceptible results. We have often felt in late years, like the old Bible poet to bemoan the goodly vineyard, which "the wild boar out of the woods is trampling under foot." We incline to the belief that all missionaries of both sexes, since they first landed on these shores, have never failed to communicate their best sanitary instructions to natives of all ages and classes as opportunity offered. Such instructions have been freely given, but not all written, hence they may prove a crumbling monument. Let each missionary on these Isles bear testimony, whether they have or have not done such work.

MRS. C. C. ALEXANDER.

Honolulu, July 12, 1880.

Some Strange Experiences of Strangers.

MR. EDITOR:—I have been reading something of the dangers to which ye old resident is constantly exposed from strangers; the gilt-edged variety especially. I think alarm in this direction is unnecessary. It is pretty evident that the Hawaiian pioneers while laying up treasure where certain kleptomaniacs have but poor encouragement, have not failed to take chances with the moths in taking good care of the man objective.

But the stranger without the gate has to pay two dollars to come within. He is told that this money is for Hospital purposes, but soon learns that however urgent his need he cannot enter the public hospital except by paying in advance. He thinks something about false pretences but is warned by friends to say nothing. He now finds himself at a hotel which will charge him by the day if he remains therein a year; but has the option of facing the "furnished room brigade. He can have a room by paying in advance, one half" or the whole rent of the house. He can procure board by paying in advance and can be arrested for cantering a horse, while the old timer can gallop with impunity. If he makes any failure to advance the dimes his Sunday dinds or aught else can be pounced upon without any process known to law! This has special reference to rent, thus showing its aim at the stranger "within thy gates."

There are several things however given the stranger free and abundantly. Good air, bad water and doubtful advice. The advice which has frequently vibrated our own tympanum has been to "join the church, Doc.," or at least attend, put in an appearance. The motive urged was and is the treasures on the moth side of the question. A church pew it is claimed is a paying investment, the pay consists of dollars and dimes. This advice is thrust upon the astonished stranger not on one but on every one so far as I can ascertain. Can anything be the matter with the church! Is any considerable percentum of Honolulu church goers actuated by the motive aforesaid? Is there any attempt to fill empty pews by threats even implied of empty stomachs? Can it be? Is it so? If it is I would suggest that a full head in the pulpit might be an improvement. One which would know how not to do it—how not to select a text from which every word of the sermon can be anticipated. But the cause of so much advice of such quality is probably outside the church. We must suppose that amongst so many missionaries the advent of many "sinners" would be warmly welcomed as affording a good field for the exercises of religious zeal, and that instead of strewing flowers in the path and making much of the coming of a big saint that the joy would be over the big "sinner" even without a prospective "tarty" sermon prelude or the hope of endless taffy in the by-and-bye. * * * It may be claimed that the advice aforesaid comes from those who do not go to church themselves. Be it so. It only shows the impression which the church policy has produced—however false it may be.

But amid all these perplexities the stranger is not without consolation. If he essays to tear himself away to whence he came and does not use six bits, grief to the amount of one dollar will be showered upon him.

And as balmy breezes waft him from fair Hawaii's shores he feels that her people are safe from the wiles and the arts and the blandishments of the stranger. * * * But he has a vision of a camel and a needle, and a Hawaiian Christian on other shores and—and he is heartsick perhaps only—seasick. Respectfully yours,

Honolulu, July 17, 1880. KOSMOS.

[We publish the above with the comment that we fear that the writer has much to learn concerning the essentials of Christianity. The Sermon on the Mount is not at the mercy of church goers or of those who scoff at church going. ED.]

Notice to the Public.

To avoid imposition, purchasers of Waltham Watches will observe that every genuine watch, whether gold or silver, bears our trade mark on both case and movement.

Gold cases are stamped "A. W. Co." and genuine certificates accompany them. Silver cases are stamped "Am. Watch Co., Waltham, Mass., Sterling Silver," and are accompanied by guarantee certificates, signed R. E. Robbins, Treasurer. The name "Waltham" is plainly engraved upon all movements, irrespective of other distinguishing marks.

This caution is rendered necessary by reason of the fact that our cases are frequently separated from our movements and put into worthless movements of other makers, and vice versa, thus affecting injuriously the performance of the watches and vitiating our guarantee, which is intended to cover only our complete watches wholly made by us. It is necessary, also, because it is to be feared is to be a public scandal, that there is great fraud in the metal quality of both gold and silver cases as now generally sold. We have demonstrated by frequent assays that many gold and silver cases offered in the market are debased from from 18 to 28 per cent. from the quality they assume to be. This is a fraud upon the purchaser, and accounts for the low price at which such cased watches have been sold.

We take this occasion to announce that we have recently entirely remodelled the very popular grades of full plate movements, known by the marks "Wm. Ellery," "Appleton, Tracy & Co." "Waltham Watch Co.," "P. S. Bartlett," and "Broadway," giving to them not only a highly improved appearance, but great additional value. We embody in them each of the best results of our experience and study for twenty years as can be useful in this popular form of watch. We give these new model watches special recommendation to all who look for durability of performance and solid excellence at moderate cost. The alterations have been made with the view of pleasing practical watch makers, as well as watch wearers.

We avoid ourselves, but, of this notice to warn the public against cheap watches. The superiority of Waltham goods, in all grades, is now so generally acknowledged that our competitors, Swiss and American, seem to have no resource but to present the attraction of low price. Their goods being inferior to ours, they have to sell them for what they can get. Times are hard, and people generally not knowing a good watch from a bad one, very often allow a small price to decide them. William Morris, the eminent English Lecturer on Art and Labor Topics, in a recent lecture delivered before the "Trades Guild," says:

"I know that the public in general are set upon having things cheap, being so timid of that they do not know when they get them cheap; it is an ignorant timidity, neither know nor care whether they give a man his due. I know that the manufacturers, 'so called,' are so set on cheaping our competition to its utmost, competition of cheapness, not of excellence, that they never the largest manufacturers half way, and cheerfully furnish them with nasty wares at the cheap price they are asked for, by means of what can be called by no prettier name than fraud."

We are much mistaken if this is what the public want or expects, of, at least. Good watches cannot be made when neither workman nor employer has pride in his occupation; interest and pleasure in the work are both wanting, and both are essential in good watch making. Low prices, especially in watches, mean low quality, with low performance and high repairs.

Our mission was, and our business is, to make good watches, whatever the cost; holding firmly to this single purpose, we have seen improvement in quality and reduction in cost, by means of discoveries and improvements in machinery and by natural causes, go steadily on together, until we can truly say, Waltham Watches in their respective grades, are the best watch made; and as to the lowest grades, they are within the reach of everybody who earns wages. Our prices are as low as they ought to be, and as low as they will be. Watches cannot be made for nothing, even by machinery. We say to the public, buy a good watch while you are about it, and pay a proper price for it. The more you pay an honest dealer the better satisfied you will be in the end; don't be deceived by cheapness—quality seconds better than price.

HONOLULU, JULY 28, 1880.

We have had little change to note in business, if anything. There is some little improvement in the demand from the other Islands, although for only so much as will fill actual wants. The country is overstocked with goods, and we cannot expect much trade until these are partially worked off.

Little is reported from the Sugar Plantations, on Molokai, has been sold to Lee Ngawa & Co. for $40,000. One of our first-class retail dry goods stores has also been sold to a Chinese firm, and we hear that we are soon to have a Chinese Bank. Now certainly of the Chinese future in Hawaii nei seems likely to be an accomplished fact.

There have only two foreign arrivals during the week—the Martha Bidwell from Port Blakely, and the Kate Sedden from Humboldt—and two departures, the T. F. Whitney for Royal Roads, and the Kate for San Francisco. The latter carried a full cargo of Island produce. The Kalakaua and Forest Queen are on the bench loading for San Francisco. The J. A. Falkenburg, after discharging, will also be placed on the berth for San Francisco.

Mr. Adams has received household furniture at the residence of F. Bunting, Esq., Nuuanu Avenue, above the fort bridge.

The Chinese steamer Ho Chung is reported to be due here shortly, en route for San Francisco, with 400 male oriental passengers for this port.

"Honor to whom Honor," &c.

MR. EDITOR,—I am neither bishop, priest, presbyter nor deacon, but I may justly call myself "Elder," and to be permitted to repeate a little on the above text. I was Monday evening one amongst a crowd occupying the Lyceum which Mr. Waterhouse with his usual kindness and "politeness," if I may coin a word for the occasion, had lent for the Exhibition of the Royal School, and I witnessed with pleasure the result of a year's hard work of the Rev. A. Mackintosh and his staff of teachers. Honor is due to him for the pains he has taken and the spirit he has infused into his pupils; they acquitted themselves well, and showed that they understood what they were about. To me the Oration of Kaneali, by Samuel Kaholokula appeared the best delivered piece of the evening, although some taught prefer Langhorne's rendering of the speech of Pericles. On examining some maps which were shown to the audience and finding the best of all, a map of Asia, had been drawn by this same Samuel I could not help giving the palm to him, but a friend at my side said no, there was more spirit and intelligence in Lot, who personated the Frenchman; I know in any other book of my day all did well, and may well be an excellent accompaniment by Miss Alice Smithies. If my voice could have prevailed, I would have encored the pretty glee "Beware" which was admirably sung, the short notes morally great; but the majority of the audience preferred Natalie, by superior and aiton, which was encored and sung better the second time than the first.

And now Mr. Editor I am going to make a second application of my text "Honor to whom honor" after the last glee, "Graduating Ode," the people sang the Kamehameha hymn, the national anthem, and we were glad to see the venerable Principal turn to the audience, and with an enthusiastic wave of the hand incline them all to rise during its performance, an act of courtesy too rarely shown in Honolulu. It is not adulation to pay respect to royalty, the powers that be are ordained of God, and he who is worthy of the name of King, or ruler of his fellowmen, or honorable of birth, or of wealth, or of high position, worthy of it, and be thankful to show "that mind of the gentle and the strong, that makes the man."

LATE FOREICN NEWS.

GUAYMAS, June 25th.—Lord Napier, of Magdala, has visited the steamer Dessenk, with the obelisk on board. She will sail for the United States to-day.

LONDON, June 25th.—Intelligence from Buenos Ayres represent that a battle was fought on the 7th inst. and between national and provincial troops. The latter were routed. The national troops, however, were repulsed in an assault upon the city of Buenos Ayres on the 10th inst.

PARIS, June 25th.—Intelligence is received from Buenos Ayres that a treaty of peace has been signed. Tejedor has withdrawn as a candidate for the Presidency. The provincial forces had drawn their forces in Buenos Ayres.

LONDON, June 25th.—Telegraph communication with Buenos Ayres is entirely cut off.

LONDON, July 3d.—Matters in Buenos Ayres have again assumed an unfavorable aspect, owing to the refusal of Buenos Ayres to accede to the conditions imposed by the National Government. Buenos Ayres continues to make warlike preparations and receive arms and ammunition from Montevideo, notwithstanding the blockade.

DUBLIN, June 30th.—About one hundred gentlemen sat down to a banquet given to-night to the Americans and Irish teams, by the Lord Mayor of Dublin. After the repast toasts, Burrows, United States Consul, responded to the toast to President Hayes and the American Nation, and Col. Bodkin replied to the "Our Guests, the Americans" toast. Mayor Lowell made a speech on behalf of the Irish Rifleman. The proposition of the Americans was exceedingly cordial on all hands. An invitation was extended, by Col. Bodkin, on behalf of the New York Rifle Association, to the Irish Rifle Association, to send a team to New York to compete for the "Prince" Centennial Trophy. The invitation was favorably received, and Mayor Lowell intimated that an Irish team would probably be organized for that competition.

VIENNA, June 30th.—There appears to be little doubt that a re-accentation of the Ministry is impending. It is expected that next week Baron Sennenge, Kaiser, Horst and Kingsper will resign.

VIENNA, June 30th.—The reconstruction of the Austrian Ministry is expected to be completed, and the official announcement is expected daily. Herr Dumpenski takes the Ministry of Finance, Baron Sennenge that of Justice, Major-General Baron Widenhalm, Minister of Marine, Baron Kuenast, Minister of War, and Baron Kremer that of Commerce.

VIENNA, June 30th.—Ministerial changes in the Austrian Cabinet have been accepted as follows: Dr. Dumpenski, Minister of Finance; Baron Stand, Minister of Justice; Major-General Baron Widenhalm, Minister of Marine; Baron Kuenast, Minister of Commerce.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30th.—The Commission appointed of four Bulgarians and three Turks, and other foreigners, which investigated the recent massacre upon Mussulmans by East Roumelia, find that 18 Mussulmans were killed—12 without admissable provocation, and there were 50 cases of rape, and much robbery. Captain Vasbeck of the Bulgarian commander of the militia, and four other officers and 11 privates, have been arrested.

BERLIN, June 30th.—The line of frontier adopted by the representatory Conference, is as follows: On the east it follows the northern valley crest of Salonichia, at a considerable distance from the river, up to the northwest around Monastir, gives every a little more than one-third of the Greek-speaking province of Epirus; thence strikes across the country to and includes Janina, and joins the Ottoman conditionally above the middle point of its course, and following the bed of the same, reaches the Gulf of Corfu, with the northern arm of the river.

ISLAND LOCALS.

ABOUT TOWN.

Very comfortable weather for July. Yet not wholly natural for this time of the year.

An exhibition of the Royal School was given at the Lyceum on Monday evening, which is well described by a correspondent.

Epicures will do well to drop into Hart Bros. Astor House Lunch Room, Hotel street, at 12 o'clock, and regale themselves with genuine green turtle soup.

One of our citizens sailed from the street to his house in a big packing box Monday last week during the rain, and because of the freshet. More ways than one to progress.

People may as well have a care these days. House fastenings had better be locked to. There is a tramp abroad, and trouble may ensue. Mark Twain is the author of this.

The usual monthly meeting of the H. M. C. Society will be held next Saturday evening, at the residence of Hon. S. L. Austin on Punchbowl street, opposite the North Pacific Missionary Institute, at half past seven o'clock.

The new member for Kau replacing Mr. Kalauli, who died recently, is Mr. Kapahu, who represented that district in 1878, and whose standing in the House in more senses than one may will remember.

Is not the weather this year much like that of a year ago? When the fall comes on and the rainy season sets in are we likely to have less sickness than a year ago? In what respect is the sanitary condition of the town improved? There are too many ifs.

Any Frenchman who has not complied with the requirements of the laws of France with reference to the army, or who may have deserted, now has the opportunity for confession and forgiveness, as advertised, and according to the views of Fred in Howell's Undiscovered Country, forgiveness does away with the sin, makes it in short uncommitted.

The examinations of the government schools begin to-day, at nine o'clock at the girls school at Fort Street School will be examined and on Friday the Royal School. These exhibitions are interesting and furnish a very good example of the efficient system and work of the Board of Education.

One of the passengers by the last steamer from San Francisco, was Mr. Fernerax, an artist of repute from Boston. He proposes to remain in our midst for a year or more, and as soon as convenient will have a studio. He has already laid out studies enough to last a year, and by the time he goes will probably have reproduced some of our picturesque and beautiful scenery upon canvass.

Uncertainty seems to exist still as to the movements of the mail steamers. But it is probable that from San Francisco the steamers will hereafter arrive on Saturday or Sunday. It is also rumored that the time from the South has been changed, but the advertisement is as formerly. The Australia from San Francisco may be looked for by Saturday, August 7th, while the up steamer will be here on Monday 30.

On Wednesday evening last the Star gave a dinner at the Hotel to His Excellency the Attorney General. A very pleasant company gathered about the table and with conversation and short speeches passed a sociable evening. A gentleman present criticised that entertainment, and all like it as selfish and wrong in the highest degree, because of the absence of ladies. What do the ladies think? In spite of the absence of the ladies, and the dinner, a very enjoyable evening was passed.

The Advertiser speaks well of the Post Office, and suggests the usefulness and value of postal cards. The Act of 1878 provides for them, and gives all necessary directions concerning their make and use. All needed now is the necessary appropriation for their manufacture, and it is to be hoped that this generous House will not adjourn without providing for our postal cards. Any one who has lived in Europe or the United States within a few years past knows how very useful and convenient they are.

Two members of the senate Assembly now sitting at Allahuai Hale had a little set-to the other day. It seems that a petition was presented by one, so they say, to have the other appointed a perpetual tax assessor, collector, or some such official, but the other did not take kindly to the idea, and endeavored to correct his wrongs by the use of the cuffs, which resulted in a scrimmage, whereby all wrongs were righted and everybody took comfort. Such are the episodes enliven and edify the rather dull business of making laws, and promiscuously appropriating other people's money.

Hon. C. H. Judd seems to have been again appointed tax assessor for Honolulu. Citizens are requested to go and get themselves taxed, or they will be taxed at the assessor's figures. These figures will have to be high this year and next or we shall be short for cash to pay the army, provide decorations, pay for household expenses and other huge items. However, it is notorious that as a rule people are like mules, and will bear heavy burdens and much abuse before kicking, but when the kick comes—whough! stand from under.

Among other business which has occupied the Legislative doings the past week has been a bill said to have been introduced by Mr. Aholo to provide for the crowning of the King. It proposes to allow the Privy Council to appropriate not over $[illegible] for this purpose. The real object of the bill is to have liberal to provide of a grand ceremony when the new palace is ready to be occupied. As long as the tax payers foot the bills any amount of foolish or reckless expenditures is perfectly allowable apparently. People begin to ask the question now with more anxiety than ever before, where are these gentlemen going home?

Since the recent rain vigorous efforts have been making to clean the streets. The dirt was pretty effectually washed from the crown of the road into the gutters, and there it is piled awaiting the cart of the gatherer. In some instances these piles particularly in narrow streets, cause a good deal of inconvenience, but if they are only removed people will be willing to stand some of that. It seems to that there be taken away and not left the those on the west side of Fort street last winter till they solidified and made a series of waves over which carriages rolled and bumped like a ship at sea without chart or pilot, and in a fog.

The Royal Hawaiian Band will give another of their popular moonlight concerts this evening at Emma Square, at 7:30 o'clock. The following is the programme:

1. Quickstep—On the Parade ..... Bachmann
2. Overture—Light Cavalry ..... Suppe
3. Fantasia, Rienzi—Rienzi ..... Wagner
4. Selection—The Great Chunee ..... Lecocq
5. Selection—The Great Days of Pompeii ..... Pacella
6. Waltz—Implorata ..... Strauss
7. Ballad—Rowing ..... Boothman
8. Quadrille—The Times ..... Coote

With the expected return of the Ko Chung we shall probably have a large influx of immigrants; perhaps we shall also have some opium, although as these people when brought before a Police magistrate neither know anything about opium or ever use it, it is difficult to see why they bring it in, and why too so against our laws. No, on the whole there will probably be no more opium; but there may be some enamels, in view of the 37.37 per cent. liquor bill which has recently passed the House. These people do not come to stay, nor are they altogether desirable as residents. If there is any money in the country to spend for immigration, let it be used to bring people from the north of Europe.

A well wisher in last Saturday's Advertiser suggests that the public health is not to be improved by drenching the town into the harbor, and says that all cesspools should be removed from the vicinity of the city to the westward. The ideas are good. Perhaps he does not know that the plan for drainage consumption taking the sewage of the place outside of the reef. Not the place for a public cesspool in the country below and adjoining the road through Kalihi, is the plain of "Kaiwiki." The drainage is perfect, soil porous and extent unlimited. By the addition of a little water, a beautiful cemetery could be laid out, ornamental and in the right place.

There will be another Montague Concert to-morrow evening at Kawaiahao church. Those who attended the first will surely not fail to be present at this one. Miss Montague will be assisted by one of the finest tenors of the United States, Mr. Turner, a gentleman who for a whole season captivated those who frequented Gilmore's Gardens in New York City. Besides this assistance Mr. Berger and his band will furnish their valuable aid. The concert promises to be even better than the first. The gallery seats are fully equal to those on the floor of the house and this time those who desire reserved seats can have them either above or below. Under the gallery the rate will be fifty cents.

Probably the Indian were surprised on Saturday last to find that Grant and Bolbeman were open for the last time, that they have disposed of their stock and business, and that another will take the business established by them for a year or two so long as they do it in a proper way. It is rumored that Chinese will reopen their place of business. Honolulu needs a place where ladies can get a first class variety of goods for every season. If some of our dry goods men will only appreciate this fact and act accordingly, people will stop importing for themselves. It is a common saying and there is a good deal of truth in it that every one is his own importer. One possible reason is that prices are very high with us, and it pays to import.

New buildings are constantly going up and many in process of erection approach completion. E. H. Roth Lustfinet's fine house on Emma Street has received some additions in the way of porches, verandas and other external adornings neatness which make the building much more stylish and look like a school or court house. Mr. Cecil Brown is putting up a neat cottage on his lot next to Mr. Preuss's on King Street. Improvements are going on in the premises of the many pleasant homes on that street. On Punchbowl Street near King a fine large house on the Neddies' lot is approaching completion. A new gate and neat name arch over grace the "North Pacific Missionary Institute."

The California Variety Combination still continues to play at the theatre to fair houses. This week the manager promises an entire change of programme—Messrs. Fox and Fremont in Dutch specialties, Mr. Charwan as the wonderful club swinger, and the talented lady vocalists, Miss Granville and Miss Bickle, in favorite ballads. First appearance of the grotesque dancers and celebrated "high kickers," Messrs. Jean, Cal. and Julian, whose performances rarely fail to receive the applause of the audience.

If any one has a cork leg, wooden arm, false nose or any other ornamental addition to his person, it had better be prepared for medical inspection for there is no telling how soon it may come in requisition to avoid the draft, if that agreeable looking Assembly at Allahuai Hale sits much longer. Having inserted about a quiver full of inexplicable bills and things, rumor has it that measures to reinforce the Army will come next. We humbly ask whether those words "are disloyal or calculated to injure the borrowing power of our adopted country in furrin' parts;" if it is, we withdraw and ask for the one to loyalty. We have a lurking suspicion that the one is the queen.

Hoapili Baker's liquor bill has passed and become law, so far as the Legislature is concerned and only awaits the action of His Majesty to become a law of the land or take a position in the waste basket. This extraordinary bill was rendered still more wonderful by an amendment proposed by Mr. Kalua, and adopted, that in searching persons going from place to place about the Islands, the Royal Family, Governors, wealthy people, ministers, princes, &c., should be exempted; and if Mr. Kalua should be searched suspicious probably he would object to his own bill, for who on earth is to determine the question of respectability. Mr. Pilipo, Mr. Nawahi and others are deserving of praise for their consistent opposition to this measure.

Mr. E. B. Frell the recently appointed Inspector of Weights and Measures, furnishes some curious figures regarding the results of his labors so far. He has found unstamped, 123 scales of various kinds, 52 yard sticks, 60 liquid and oil measures 20 fine milk. Thirty-seven scales and spring balances were found stamped and correct, 130 had to be adjusted, 35 of which had to be replaced by new. The 1lb varied from 1 to 4 ounces to the pound in favor of the seller, mostly by Chinese dealers of various sorts. Some of the Chinamen were using lead weights, and all of the China beans, so called, had to be replaced. Wouldn't it be a good idea now, to have the measure taken of a Chinaman's day's labor, reckoned from the laborer's stand point.

Work has been commenced in earnest towards the construction of our new Musical Hall. The fence around that old spot has been removed, the houses, one torn down, the other dragged away; a shed has been built across Opera Lane, and generally signs of activity prevail. There was such an extraordinary difference between the highest and lowest bids for the work as to lead to the query—wherein lay the difference of work proposed. We want no such building as that which has resulted in dreadful accidents in the United States and Europe. It will be well for the building committee, if there be such a body, of the Trustees to narrowly watch the work and be assured that it is safe in every respect.

The Supreme Court has continued in session the past week, with a foreign jury except, a day or two when sitting in banco, or hearing applications for divorce, of which there are some fifteen or sixteen. Monday of last week a number of decisions from the April Term were read and filed. The case of the barque Kalakoa comes up again this term for a final hearing. This as many recollect is the old opium smuggling case. The matter of the estate of R. B. Neville comes up again for re-argument. The question at issue is an interesting one, involving the powers liability and rights of a guardian as to the ward estate. The defendant of the criminal side is pretty well placed, by acquittals, convictions and discontinuances. The murder case from Kau resulted in a verdict of acquittal; that from Makawao in murder in the 2nd degree; and of conspiracy to murder, in a verdict of not guilty, after which one at least of the accused confessed to our officer of the Crown that the charge was true. If anything more extraordinary than this can be told, we would like to hear it.

HAWAII.

Waimea has suffered a loss in the death of Mrs. Koki the principal merchant and caterer of the place. She was a native Hawaiian, a faithful wife and a good mother. Koki is left a widower with six bright little ones, who have the sympathy of the community.

A fire occured at the residence of Wm. Todd, Kailua, Hawaii, one day last week, whereby the building and contents were entirely destroyed. The fire was caused by a small child playing with matches. Mr. Todd and his wife were absent in Honolulu at the time, and lose all their household goods by this unfortunate occurrence.

In no district on these Islands are rum, brandy and hale allowed such free license as in Kau, where judges, sheriff and constables, all alike, not only do not seek to check the use, but rather encourage it. Said a gentleman the other day to us "I have never seen so much drunkenness in Honolulu nor in San Francisco, as I have seen in Kau."

Another homicide has occured in Waiohinu, Kau, in the open street. One Aloikiaa who used to be a soldier in Honolulu, who was a leader in the affair of the barracks in 1873 and one of the prominent rioters in 1874, is the man who committed the deed. The man who was assaulted and killed was Hulihui. Aloikiaa was probably under the influence of liquor at the time the act was committed. He literally pounded and crushed in the head of his victim with a stone. Hulihui was a friend and companion of Aloikiaa.

The Hilo and Laupahoehoe canal progresseth. It is approaching the enormous in its dimensions. The great question now is how to get it across the Jordan, whether along on poles or to traverse. A few days ago there came a storm so hard that at one point the tide of travel could not get around and had to go right through the ditch. A party going into town, approaching one of the most promising points of the way, found a fellow who had evidently experienced of commencement something for bed rock. Quoth the party "What are you doing there up to your waist, in mud? Why don't you ride a horse?" "Horse!" replied the fellow "I am riding horseback and a good powerful horse too, and if folks will only let me alone I'll strike bed rock some of these days, too." Going back a day or two after the party found a hole and looking down, heard deep subterranean mutterings, in the midst of which came the words "rocks—bed rock—China—rice—Jordan, etc., and he went on his way musing and sorrowful.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY TOO MUCH IN praise of this good old standard Family Medicine. It cannot be too highly recommended, as it is truly a Marvel of the Age, and no household should be without it. It prevents as well as cures Skin Diseases, Gout, Rheumatism, Gravel and all Kidney Diseases, Affected Liver, Headache, Nausea, Bile, Wind, Indigestion, Constipation, Fevers and Ague, Sleeplessness, Lassitude, Foul Breath, and every disease brought on or aggravated by a disordered stomach.

It purifies the Blood, Cleanses the Stomach and Bowels, and gives the whole system a healthy and Delightful Tone. There never was a medicine for the Nursery equal to it, and being composed of Herbs only, it can be given safely to infants. It is a triumph in medicine—harmless, yet effectious. Invaluable in the family, on the road, at sea, and everywhere.

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, June 26th.—A correspondent at Peru, describing the famine in Asia Minor, says he learns that the British Consuls, Armenia Relief Committees, and American missionaries have been the most active, and have done all in their power to alleviate the miseries of the famished population.

LONDON, June 26th.—From 15,000 to 20,000 persons were present at Bradlaugh's meeting in Trafalgar Square last night, under the impression that Bradlaugh would proceed to the House of Commons after making his address. Some thousands of persons, who had been attending the meeting in Trafalgar Square, rushed down Parliament street to the Palace yard, and some three or four thousand got into Westminster Hall, but the police charged them and drove them through the gates. Meanwhile several thousand persons had assembled outside the railings. A reinforcement of police, however, removed them to the opposite side of the street, in order to clear the way to the House of Commons.

LONDON, July 3d.—The action of the House of Commons on Gladstone's resolution, permitting Bradlaugh to affirm, has given great satisfaction to the supporters of the Government. The next critical division will be on Monday on the Irish compensation for the Disturbance bill.

LONDON, July 3d.—The action of the House of Commons on Gladstone's resolution, permitting Bradlaugh to affirm, has given great satisfaction to the supporters of the Government. The next critical division will be on Monday on the Irish compensation for the Disturbance bill.

With a view to bringing the conduct of Bradlaugh in Parliament before the Court of Queen's Bench, witnesses were in the House of Commons yesterday, noting the fact that Bradlaugh was sitting and voting. His prosecution will be commenced forthwith. It is understood that Bradlaugh intends to fight the matter, if necessary, to the House of Lords.

LONDON, July 3d.—The Standard announces that Bradlaugh on leaving Westminster Hall last evening, was served with a writ of suit of Henry Lewis Clark, claiming to recover a penalty of £500 of the defendant for his affirming in lieu of taking the oath, and afterward sitting and voting in the House of Commons.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 26th.—The Porte has addressed a note to the Persian Ambassador, stating that it is informed that the Conference at Berlin has adopted a frontier line giving Janina to Greece. The note reminds the Powers that, in accordance with the Treaty of Berlin, they have only the right of mediation, not of final decision in this matter. The Porte also announces its intention of occupying the districts ceded to Montenegro when the agitation among the Albanians has subsided, and of compensating Montenegro for the expenses she has incurred in connection with this matter.

LONDON, June 29th.—The Times prints the following in a conspicuous position: "Diplomatic relations are finally broken of between Brussels and the Vatican."

DURBAN, June 23d.—Ex-Empress Eugenie has arrived here from Zululand, on her way to Europe.

LONDON, July 3d.—Lord Shaftsbury to-day unveiled the statue on the Thames embankment to Robert Raikes, the originator of Sunday Schools in England one hundred years ago. Dr. Vincent was present on behalf of the Sunday Schools of the United States. Dr. Murphy, American, read a portion of the Scripture, and Dr. Todd, American, offered a prayer.

BERLIN, June 26th.—It is expected that the Supplementary Conference will be able to conclude its labors to-morrow, and a protocol will be then adopted, declaring that the Ambassadors have ceded the Greek frontier. The Ambassadors will then report to their respective Governments, and the Powers will dispatch an identical note to the Porte, announcing the decision of the Conference. It is believed that the Conference has so thoroughly considered the subject, and its harmony is so complete, that it will be unnecessary to take special executive steps for carrying its decisions into effect.

The Conference was entirely unanimous regarding the Greek frontier line, which is that elaborated by Gen. Sir Lintorn Simmons, before he left London. It was submitted by him, for approval, to France, and recommended to the Conference by Count De St. Vallier. The proposal is, therefore, an English one. It includes Janina.

In the Conference to-day, the report of the delegates upon the French proposal was unanimously adopted by the Plenipotentiaries.

It is considered possible that, if necessary, the Western Powers will make a naval demonstration to enforce the decisions of the Conference.

Prince Orloff has arrived in Berlin. He will probably confer with Prince Bismarck.

GUAYMAS, June 25th.—The steamer Dessenk, with the obelisk on board, will sail for the United States to-day.

Pianofortes in the Exhibition.

"In our previous notice of the Pianos in the Exhibition, N. Neufeld's contribution with those of the German Court, we were unable to do more than enumerate the exhibits of L. NEUFELD, of Berlin, and that enumeration was erroneous. Since writing that notice, the Sydney agents, Messrs. Ribbons, Feez & Co., have given us an opportunity of seeing the instruments, of which four are exhibited instead of two, as formerly stated. The First is a Grand of full compass, 7½ octaves, overstrung, "an acoustical metal frame in agraffe, the action is perfect in finishing repetition." All the modern improvements are applied. The instrument is cased in walnut, of fine tone and light touch, and being in addition by far the most praiseworthy ought to command the most ready market. No. 2 is an upright cottage grand, with iron frame overstrung, well finished, and cased in a handsome frame in the Louis Quatorze style. No. 3 is an upright cottage, simple in the exterior, but with substantial metal frame, and all the evidences of thorough care in the internal construction. No. 4 is an overstrung upright boudoir cottage of very agreeable tone.

Having thoroughly examined the workmanship and construction, and tested tone and touch, we are able to speak with confidence on the sterling merits of these instruments, especially when we compare the prices with those of other exhibits. Pianos are now on exhibition at the store of

Mr. F. VEHLING

I have received instructions from Mr. Vehling to offer at private sale the above

VALUABLE MANUFACTORY,

WITH

ALL THE MACHINERY AND MATERIAL,

As well as the unexpired Term of Lease.

The property is a paying one, the demand for its products being regular and increasing every year. It presents an unusual opportunity for a person with a small capital to enter into a well established and successful business, where with reasonable energy one may be sure of a handsome income. The business has been established over three years. The machinery is all first class and in perfect order, with sufficient material on hand to carry on the manufacture for some time.

There is also considerable spare power which could be utilized in a profitable manner. The capacity of the Factory is 100 Gross of Card and Block Matches Daily.

Mr. Vehling will give the purchaser all necessary instruction to carry on the business. A complete inventory of the property can be seen at my office, or by calling on Mr. Vehling at the Factory, Liliha Street.

Dr. Potts Experimenting on a New Theory.

Old Dr. Potts, who lives out on Mission street, and who is an enthusiast in his profession, is the originator of the theory that much disease is transmitted to human beings through eating the flesh of immature animals, such as calves, in the early spring. The doctor maintains that the young animals in their inexperience eat greedily of certain noxious weeds, and that the poison thereby assimilated is transferred to the consumer of the animal's flesh. As this assertion was disputed by some of his contemporary M. D.'s, Dr. Potts determined to make some useful experiments before giving the world his discovery. He accordingly purchased a six months calf—one of that kind that appear to be built on stilts—and as the doctor had no back yard to speak of, he had the brevet cow placed in the cellar, where he proposed to mix the weeds in question among its food for a few days prior to its being converted into veal cutlets, so to speak. The China boy was bribed not to mention the calf's presence to the other members of the household, who, it happened, had been absent while the quadruped was being secretly let down through the coal hole by the butcher. To prevent its bleating the doctor had wedged a stout leather muzzle on its nose.

That night the doctor was awakened by Mrs. Potts, who sat up in bed and gasped in a horror struck voice:

"Gracious heavens! Archibald, don't you hear that singular noise down stairs?"

The calf had evidently go the muzzle about half off, and was making a peculiar sound, resembling a small fog-horn tortured by remorse; but old Potts stammered out that he couldn't hear anything in particular.

"Not hear anything, Dr. Potts? Are you deaf? Just listen to that! It's perfectly blood-curdling."

"Perhaps it's rats," hazarded the miserable physician.

"Rats, Dr. Potts! Are you insane? Did you ever hear rats wailing like a lost soul in purgatory?"

"Well, not exactly like it," said the doctor soothingly, "but perhaps—"

"I can't stand it a moment longer. I shall go wild if you don't go down and see what's the matter. It's my belief that burglars are trying to murder Ah Wong."

"Well, my dear, if you insist, I'll—"

But just then there came a sudden jerk at the bell and a terrible hammering at the front door. The doctor put up the window, and beheld a delegation of about fifty half-dressed neighbors, with four police officers in their midst.

"Is he dead yet?" said one of the crowd, as the doctor poked his head out.

"Is who dead?" said the latter much astonished.

"Why, your brother, down there in the cellar. Didn't you tell us your brother had made a big strike in stocks, and was coming to stay with you this week?" asked Didimus, the doctor's next door neighbor.

"Why, yes! What of it?"

"You cold blooded villain. Do you suppose no one heard you murdering him in the cellar just now? By Jove, he is not dead yet—he's groaning still. Just listen!"

"If you don't lemme in I'll bust the door down!" said one of the police.

"Oh, Archibald! to think you should turn out to be a murderer!" gasped Mrs. Potts, going into hysterics.

Old Potts was too mad to utter a word. He just walked down stairs in his night-cap, admitted the whole crowd, conducted it to the cellar stairs, handed the policeman a candle and told him to go ahead. He then went up stairs and awaited results.

Of course the calf made a break for the light as soon as it saw it. The big officer holding it was upset by a terrible butt in the stomach, the candle went out, and amid the rattling of coal and the unearthly yells of the crowd, the cellar began to vomit forth hatless, grimy, and disgusted men.

When they had all gone, old Potts quietly descended, locked the house up again, tied a sponge full of chloroform round the calf's nose, resuscitated Mrs. P., then returned gloomily to his dreams of science. Thus ended one of the most interesting incidents of pioneer life in the far West.—S. F. Post.

A "New York Orfun."

One of the little lambs picked up in the streets of New York, by Whitelaw Reid, and sent West to find a home, was adopted by a Detroit family about two months ago, and ere this is published, Mr. Reid has recieved a big postal card announcing that his dear lamb has gone West to fight Indians, and that he needn't mind about sending on another to take his place.

This New York lamb was 13 years old. He said so at the depot on his arrival, and half an hour later he reiterated this statement at the house, and added; "And if you don't believe it, then call me a liar! That's the sort of spring gun I am, and don't you forget it!" They didn't forget it. He gave them no chance to. He ate with his fingers, wiped his mouth on his sleeve, and gave the family to understand before supper was over, that he didn't come West to have his hair combed or his face washed as a regular business. On his first evening he slipped out, had three fights and stole a dog, and when hunted up he was about to take his beer in a saloon. The family expected to wrestle with him for a while, and they didn't sit down on him until it became a painful necessity. During his first week he stole $5 in money, a gold chain, a revolver, and a pair of ear-rings, and he got drunk twice. When reasoned with and asked to do better, he took a fresh chew of plug tobacco, and replied: "Oh! you Michigan people are too soft! If a fellow can't have a good time, what's the use of being an orphan?"

On Monday of the second week he sold the family dog to a stranger for a quarter, threw the saw and ax in the alley, and when locked up in a closet he tore a Sunday coat to pieces. It was thought best to have a policeman talk to him, and one was called in. He put on his fiercest look and lectured the lamb for fifteen minutes, but as soon as he stopped for breath the young sinner replied: "Now see here, old buttons, you are wasting your time! I know my little gait, I do, and if you think I've come to a village like this to be bluffed by anybody, you've missed your train!" He was taken to Sunday school by the band. He hadn't been there half an hour, when he was taken out by the collar. He seemed anxious to punch the head of every good little boy within half a mile of him, and he told the teacher of the class that when she could stuff Moses in the bullrushes down him it would be after she had bleached out her freckles. They gave him a Sunday school book to fit his case, but he fitted it to a crack in the sidewalk on his way to the house.

When moral suasion had no effect on the wicked boy his guardian tried the rod. He was bigger than the boy, and he walloped him, but within three hours two nats were taken off his buggy and thrown away. There was a second scene in the woodshed, and before dark a window glass, worth $3 was broken. That orphan was faithfully and duly and persistently wrestled with. He was coaxed and flattered. He was licked and reasoned with. Ambition, gratitude, fears and avarice were alike appealed to in turn, but as he was the first day so he was the last. A few days ago he was told that he would be sent to the Reform School at Lansing, if there was any further trouble with him. That night he stole $5 from the cook, a butcher-knife from the pantry, a pie from the sideboard and departed the house, leaving a note on his bed reading as following: "This town ar' no place for a New York orfun. I'm goin' out on the planes to fite injuns. It will be yourselves to foller me, fur I can't be took Alive."—Detroit Free Press.

A Tall Horse Story.

"You ask if we have any particularly bright horses," replied a hook and ladder man. "Here is Peter; he's been with us nine or ten years, and we rather brag on him. Let me introduce you. Peter, here is a chap from the Detroit Free Press."

Peter nodded his head and pawed the floor.

"Peter, have you been to a fire to-day?"

He shook his head.

"Were you out yesterday?"

He nodded

"Peter, how old are you?"

The horse pawed thirteen times with his right foot.

"That's right, old boy. Do you remember when a loafer stabbed you at a fire?"

He did.

"Where is the scar?"

Peter bent himself almost double to bite his hip at a spot where a scar could be traced.

"Now, Peter, show the Detroit man how you take your place at the pole."

Down went the chain and the horse covered the distance at two jumps.

"Now walk around the truck and come and take my hat off."

The horse obeyed to the letter.

"Now," continued the fireman, as he lay down on the floor, "step over me."

Peter lifted his feet very high and stepped softly over, and returned to his stall.

"That horse is one of us," said the man, as he brushed off the dust and sat down "We can rest the foot of a ladder on his back and he will not move. Whenever we stand him at a fire there he will stay without watching. He eats with us, chews tobacco, likes beer, and would learn to play dominoes in a week, if he could only handle them."—[M. Quad.

Dr. Richarbson on Dress.

A few days ago Dr. B. W. Richardson delivered a lecture at the London Institution, Finsbury-circus, upon the subject of "Dress in relation to Health." The theatre of the institution was crowded, and the lecture was applauded at frequent intervals. At the outset Dr. Richardson repudiated any intention to deprecate good fashion or change of fashion in dress. He thought, with Mrs. Haweis, that it was the bounden duty of every woman to look as handsome as she could, and to maintain her beauty as long as possible, for nothing was more beautiful than beauty in old age. (Hear, hear.) Fashions, as a rule, were dictated by vain and ignorant persons who set nature at defiance, as though they were nature and she an idiot. (Laughter.) What was wanted in the reform of dress was good fashion for both sexes, and for ever-day life some uniform costume that should tend to bind more closely together the various classes of the community. With regard to the mechanical adaptation of dress to the body, the most serious error was tightness, by which pressure was brought to bear upon any particular part, such as the neck, feet, and limbs. The corset was opposed to all that was healthful and that was beautiful, keeping as it did the heart and the adjoining organs under suppression. No subjection to which women were liable could be greater than that which they voluntarily inflicted on themselves by wearing those articles, which deadened their mental capability as well as their vital energy. Waistbands, garters, and tight shoes, or shoes with pointed toes, were also very prejudicial to health. Belts interfered with respiration, and, moreover, among working men who wore belts, it was the rule rather than exception for hernia to intervene, while bad boots were responsible for misshapen feet among nine-tenths of the English community. Woman's dresses should be loose, and should be supported from the shoulders, as was usually the case with male attire. Indeed, faulty as it was in an artistic point of view, man's dress had greatly improved in these latter days, and was in relation to health, perfection as compared with that of women. He suggested that the dress of women ought to be—although of light materials—the same as that of the opposite sex, with the exception of the exterior robe or gown, which should play the same part as the outer coat of a man. In regard to hats, the "gipsy" bonnet was becoming for women, while the chimney-pot hat worn by men was light and healthy, and far superior to some descriptions of felt hats, which were in a hygienic point of view bad, and hideous to look at. The best and most simple of all was the fine old Swiss cap, sometimes called the Leonardo da Vinci. One of these, a limp black velvet cap with flaps, was exhibited by Dr. Richardson, who stated that he himself wore one as graduate of a Scotch University, where the original one was supposed to have been made from John Knox's breeches. It was especially necessary to adapt one's clothing to the season of the year, as it has been proved by the late Mr. Milner that the body undergoes two pounds of waste in the autumn and two of increase in the spring. Waterproof clothing was injurious to the system, as were also in another way the aniline and other dyes now prevalent. The best color for dress in warm or cold weather was white, which might be modified to light gray as less liable to get dirty, while black was the worst. It was satisfactory to think that mourning was slowly falling into disuse, for, after "suttee," it was almost the saddest of miseries inflicted by society on the already miserable. Dr. Richardson concluded by pointing out the necessity for cleanliness in all wearing apparel, and by commenting on the utter inefficiency of the laundry system in London and other large towns.—Home News.

Hawaiian Gazette Supplement, July 21, 1880

The Legislature.

Fifty-Third Day, Thursday, July 8.

On suspension of the rules Mr. Kahuli read a petition from Honolulu praying that the $10,000,000 loan be accepted. Referred.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the petition of one Wahu, reported that the petition be referred to the Minister of the Interior to be considered with Kanuka's petition. Adopted.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the petition from South Kona asking leave to open the mail at Hoopulua, reported favorably. Adopted.

The majority of the Committee to whom was referred the bill forbidding the Minister of Interior to make further sales of Government lands, reported that the bill be indefinitely postponed, and the minority reported that the bill be passed. Both reports were laid on the table.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the bill to exempt from taxation the parents of large families, reported that the bill be laid on the table to be taken up with the bill relating to local taxes. Adopted.

Resolutions and Bills.

Mr. Baker read a resolution that after the third reading of the bill to indemnify the School Agent at Kau, the remainder of the liquor bill be considered. Passed.

Mr. Kaua gave notice of a bill to pension Mr. Swinton.

Order of the Day.

The bill to indemnify the School Agent at Kau was read a third time and passed.

The remainder of the liquor bill was then taken up section by section. Sections were read separately and passed with some amendment.

The House took a recess at 12 M.

On reassembling at 1 P. M. the House went into Committee of the Whole for consideration of the remainder of the bill relating to local taxes. Bill read and passed.

On suspension of the rules Mr. Kalua read a resolution that the Secretary be instructed to number the Sections of the liquor bill as passed. Carried.

Mr. Aholo moved that the bill be passed to engrossment, to be read a third time on Tuesday next. Carried. Adjourned.

Fifty-Fourth Day, Friday, July 9.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the bill to amend Art. 61 of the Constitution, reported that the amendment be passed to engrossment. Report laid on the table to be taken up with the bill.

Mr. Gibson read a resolution to the effect that in the "Hawaiian Gazette" of July 7th it was stated that the market is out of silver and gold, and requested that the Minister of Finance should state before the House whether it is so or not. The Minister replied that the Government has plenty of silver and gold.

Order of the Day.

The House went into Committee of the Whole for consideration of the remainder of the Appropriation Bill.

For printing and binding the Session Laws of 1880, $3,000, passed. For curing lepers, $20,000, passed. For printing the book entitled "Rules of Health," $3,000, passed.

The bill to regulate the importation of opium and its sale was read a third time and passed.

The amendment to Art. 36 of the Constitution was read a second time and passed to engrossment.

The bill relating to local taxes was taken up and the first part passed. Adjourned.

Fifty-Fifth Day, Saturday, July 10.

On motion, the Order of the Day was taken up.

Order of the Day.

On the remainder of the bill relating to local taxes. It was read and passed. The committee rose.
