Supreme Court Roasted By De Bolt For Its Impracticality CIRCUIT JUDGES TOO EASILY OVERRULED

It isn't often that the Judge of a Circuit Court takes occasion to roast the Supreme Court, however much he may feel like it. It is a pretty common thing for the Judge of the Circuit Court to be overruled by the Supreme Court on technicalities, and there is a fairly common feeling that in many cases common sense is given the worst of it in favor of the letter of the law.

Judge De Bolt today, in making a ruling on the motion for a new trial for Katsutara Takamoto, who was found guilty of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, takes occasion to make a few remarks on the attitude of the Supreme Court, hinting that in many cases it is composed of men who know little of the practical things of the world. Judge De Bolt denies the motion for a new trial in the following words:

"One of the greatest difficulties a trial court has to contend with in the administration of justice and administering the laws of the country is the ease with which we are overruled by the Supreme Court. Some of the Supreme Courts are composed of men who have had occasion to rub up against the rough sides of the world and they know something about what occurs and is required of trial courts; they can use that practical knowledge in the interest of justice and in prevention of crime.

"I feel that where a case has been tried, although there may be some errors, still, if a just and proper conclusion has been reached and we can look at it as a whole and say that it has been fair and impartial, it ought to stand, and I think that if the Supreme Courts would take that practical view of the matter there wouldn't be so many appeals—people would have more confidence in the courts; they would feel greater security in the law, and in the administration of criminal justice in particular. There is often too much theory and not enough practical application in the matter.

"But I do not feel that I am called upon to establish what I believe to be a precedent and a clear departure from plain common sense. I have at ways been of the opinion that drunkenness was only a defense to disprove or rebut a specific intent, such as murder in the first degree, and it seems to me that the defendant has had the benefit of that in this case. If the Supreme Court sees fit to overrule me in the matter and send it back for a new trial, let the responsibility be with them. I think he has had a fair and impartial trial. The hands of the trial judge should not be tied by technical rules and fine-span distinctions built up from theory and not from practice.

"I feel that the motion should be denied. It is accordingly denied."
"J. T. De BOLT,
"First Judge."

TAYLOR TAKES, SAYS IAUKEA, MURRAY'S JOB

Sheriff-elect Iaukea has not as yet decided on many new appointments which he will make in the Police Department, when he takes charge of it next Monday. He has found a man for chief detective, and has also finally determined on the person who shall succeed Harry Murray as chief clerk. A. P. Taylor will, as previously reported, be chief of detectives. A. F. Taylor will succeed Harry Murray. Iaukea will also make some changes in the staff of receiving station desks. Possibly A. P. Taylor will get these jobs also.

"I have not made up my mind as to any new appointments," said Col. Iaukea this forenoon. "I may not make any before I am actually in office. A. P. Taylor will probably take Harry Murray's place as chief clerk, at least until I can find someone else. He will at the same time fill the position of chief detective. The chief clerkship I have offered to Ed. Ingham, but he could not accept it except at a sacrifice, and I hardly expect that he will take it."

TAHITIAN PRINCE WILL SOON ARRIVE Queen Liliuokalani Will Give Him a Royal Reception

Among the arrivals who were expected on the steamship Sonoma yesterday was Prince Alexander Arapaoa of Tahiti, who has been touring around the world for the last six months. He is said to be a good French scholar and is of course a fluent English speaker. Hon. E. K. Liliuokalani, on behalf of Queen Liliuokalani, dressed in Prince Albert coat with the order of Kapolani on his breast, went out yesterday to meet him, but was disappointed to find that his royal guest had not arrived. Prince Alexander has had communication with Queen Liliuokalani, acquainting her with his intention of visiting here. He would have reached here sooner had he not met with delays while crossing the continent.

Prince Alexander, according to Liliuokalani's statement, was here in 1876, when King Kalakaua was on the throne, and intimated then that he would come around again. He is a nephew of Queen Pomare, whose throne is under the protection of the French government. He is a very wealthy man and is expected to arrive here with a retinue of his own. While here he will be given a royal reception and will be a guest of Queen Liliuokalani. He will remain here for some time and then continue on with his journey. Liliuokalani says that a letter has been received and will be opened upon the arrival of Queen Liliuokalani, who was a passenger on the Kinohi, arriving from Lahaina, today.

HIGHTON'S REMAINS TO BE SENT TO COAST

A reply was received last night from the California Commandery of Knights Templar, in answer to the inquiry sent from the local lodge as to what disposition should be made of the remains of the late Henry E. Highton. It asked that they be forwarded by the steamship Ventura. As this message was not received before within an hour of the Ventura's sailing time, these instructions could not be carried out. The California Commandery, on being advised of this, called back instructions to send the body by the Alameda, which will leave on January 16.

PROMOTIONS MADE IN TAX OFFICE

Tax Assessor James L. Holt has appointed, with the approval of Treasurer Campbell, Isaac H. Harbottle, H. Sing Fook and Vincent Fernandez, Jr., as deputy assessors and collectors for the District of Honolulu. Hereafter, besides doing their regular duties, Harbottle will attend to the Japanese, Sing Fook to the Chinese and Fernandez to the Portuguese work. These boys have been in the office for the last five years and their appointments are in the line of promotion.

Kilauea Pit Has Not Moved

(Wireless to Bulletin)
Hilo, Hawaii, Jan. 5.—Surveyor E. D. Baldwin has surveyed the crater of Kilauea and his figures disprove the published story that the crater has moved.

He found the pit bottom in exactly the same place as in 1892. The depth now is from 597 to 602 feet and 1300 feet across.

The exact location of the crater of Kilauea was of great importance, not only from a purely scientific point of view, but also from an absolute business standpoint.

The Bishop Estate includes among its numerous holdings a large tract of land on Hawaii, on the highlands, which surround the crater. One of the boundary marks, which determined the boundary line between the Bishop Es-

SAM'S VICTORY MAY CHANGE COUNTY ACT Member From Fifth Wants All Supervisors At Large

The resolution passed by the Board of Supervisors last night recommending to the incoming Board that Sam Johnson be retained, has probably turned the tide strongly in favor of Sam. Cox, Archer and Dwight, who voted for the resolution, are generally conceded, even by those who have been working to get John Wilson into Johnson's place, to have put themselves on record so strongly that they would not be able to back out, even if they would very much like to do so. The votes of those three, together with those of Hostess and Keoloha, who are sure to vote for Johnson, will give the doughty captain a majority, against which the two Democrats, Harvey and Fern, can do nothing.

In the Fifth District, whence the opposition to Johnson mainly came, there is, however, great dissatisfaction with the way the matter has worked out, and although the fight has not entirely been given up, the disheartened politicians are already planning to do a

Says Japanese Will Fight Americans

Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—"War between the United States and Japan is inevitable," said Y. Yamaji, commercial commissioner for the Japanese Government, who has charge of the exposition at Venice, the Los Angeles seaside resort. "The San Francisco school incident in itself was a trivial thing, but it was an insult, and such an insult may be more than Japan's pride can endure.

"We naturally desire to be treated as the world power we have proven ourselves to be. The Russian war demonstrated that. Japan regards the United States' invasion in the Philippines as a menace to the peace of the Orient. We want to civilize Asia, and conceive that to be Japan's great mission."

LAND COURT ASKS FOR SIX THOUSAND

Judge Weaver Wants That Amount For Next Two Years

Judge Weaver wants $6,000 to run the Court of Land Registration during the next biennial period, and he also wants a pretty nice sum of money to finish up the present period, the court being broke now. In response to the request of Governor Carter for estimates of the amount of money needed by the various departments during the coming period, Judge Weaver has submitted the following estimate: We estimate that an appropriation of at least $6,000 will be necessary to cover the expenses of registering title during the next biennial period. This estimate is based on the fact that for the six months ending Jan. 1, 1907, twenty-four cases were filed. It is reasonable to estimate that there will be more than that average number of cases filed by about 25 per cent increase, or say thirty cases for each six months, or 120 cases for the biennial period. The cost of each case averages about $47, which would make a total estimated cost of $5640. This amount with a small balance for stationery would make the appropriation amount to $6,000.

The present fees charged under the Land Registration Act have shown a practical return of these costs to the Government of 75 per cent. The above amount of $6,000 when approved cannot be used up except upon deposits in the treasury of $4,500, as the cases are settled up, provided the estimated average of cases filed comes to 120 as a total. (Signed) P. L. WEAVER, Judge.

WAS RECORD BLOW IN MAUI COUNTY

Waialuku, Maui, Jan. 4.—For five days beginning last Saturday the island of Maui was swept by a Kona storm, and while it lasted the wind blew great gusts and it "rained cats and dogs." Over in the Nahiku district the wind was so strong that the roads were clogged with fallen trees and quite a few rubber trees were blown down. One of the bridges on the upper Nahiku road was washed away entirely and many houses blown to pieces by the force of the wind. Much damage was done to roads all over the County. The landings at Kihel and McGregor Bay suffered some damage. Over 19 inches of rain fell in Pala Monday night; in other places it rained by feet rather than by inches, and what with high winds and broken tree limbs and leaves the rain gauges in some instances failed to make a correct register of the rainfall. The retiring Board of Supervisors were, owing to the storm, unable to get together Wednesday, as intended and will meet tomorrow (Saturday).

The politicians in the town precincts of the Fifth are mad because it is the members from the country districts who have caused their defeat. New Club Will Dine On Jan. 17

The members of the Commercial Club of Honolulu held a meeting this noon in the rooms of the Promotion Committee to pass upon the lease proposed by the Board of Governors for the fourth floor of the McCandless building.

The chief point of dispute about the lease is the requirement of the McCandless Building Company that no other system of lighting than electricity shall be used in the proposed club rooms for a period of ten years.

The members by a close vote refused to ratify the lease with this ten-year lighting provision, and it now goes back to the Governors for further consideration.

Immediately after the members adjourned the Entertainment Committee held a meeting to arrange for the first dinner of the club. While the club is waiting for quarters it was deemed advisable that a dinner should be held to enable the members to get acquainted with each other. The members are not yet paying dues and the expense of the dinner per plate would come as something in that line.

The dinner will be held at the Seaside Hotel on the evening of January 17th. The invitation list will not be large as it is hoped to turn out the full membership of the club. The affair will be the first occasion of the club members getting together and it is intended to make similar gatherings frequent until the club has quarters.

KILAUEA

Now, when some time ago the crater was reported to have moved, it was generally supposed that it had moved away from the Bishop Estate land line and into the government land. This gave rise to a rather fine question of law. The Bishop Estate people contended that the area of their lands was determined by the boundary line. If the boundary line changed, they argued, the area changed accordingly. The Territorial authorities on the other hand held that the area was the fixed quantity, and that the boundary lines, even if they did change, could not change the area. Of course, if the Bishop Estate theory was found correct the result would be that the Estate made a neat gain by the vagaries of the crater, while the Territory suffered a corresponding loss.

The perignation of the crater was explained in a very natural manner. It was stated that while the edge of it on the government land side was constantly falling, the Bishop Estate side was building up at the same time, the result of which would be a quite natural, though necessarily rather slow, change of its location. At the time when the matter was first brought up Surveyor General Wall pointed out that there were other fixed points in the vicinity by means of which the exact location of the crater relative to the one which it was formerly supposed to have occupied could be determined. It is evident that Surveyor Baldwin has based his investigations on these other marks arriving at the result given in the above message.

ENCAMPMENT TO BE HELD IN FEBRUARY

National Guards Will Drill At Wahiawa Next Month

The $5000 allotted for the War Department for the use of the National Guard of Hawaii is no new appropriation, according to the statement made today by Col. Jones. It comes out of the running appropriation for the entire National Guard of the United States.

Up to last year Congress for some time back had appropriated the sum of $1,000,000 a year for the National Guard of the various States and Territories. The amount is divided among the States according to their representation in Congress. The appropriation for the Territories is arbitrary and is made by the War Department.

Last year Hawaii received $7,500 of the million. But the last session of Congress doubled the appropriation for the National Guard, making it two million dollars, and consequently Hawaii gets twice as much for this year as for last. Fifteen thousand dollars is allotted to the National Guard of this Territory.

The $5,000 allotted for an encampment and for rifle practice comes out of the total $15,000 allotment.

Of the $5000, the sum of $4500 is for the purpose of paying the expenses of the encampment of the First Regiment, and $500 is for the purchase of lease of a rifle range.

Col. Jones states that the encampment will be held in February, probably along about Washington's birthday, on the Duffett estate at Wahiawa. The exact time depends upon when permission for the holding of the encampment can be obtained from the estate. Washington's birthday is considered as the best time, as it will not necessitate the men being away from their work so long as would be the case at any other time. The encampment will last not less than five days.

The present rifle range is on the bench near the reef. The land belongs to the Bishop estate. Col. Jones states that he is making arrangements to get a leasehold on the land for regular use as a rifle range, and the negotiations are expected to be concluded soon.

The object which Congress had in doubling the appropriation for the National Guard was to allow of more rifle practice. The United States has but a small standing army, but it is the idea that by allowing of more target practice, there will be the basis of a large army which could be quickly assembled should it be necessary at any time to call them together. This, of course, is in addition to increasing the efficiency of the National Guard as such.

KAHUNA BRINGS BACK FIDO SWANZY, ONCE ROASTED AND EATEN

The dead has come back to life, the cooked and eaten is back in living form and already to go through the performance again. Such is the tale of a miracle performed even in modern days by the miraculous power of the Kahuna.

There is little doubt of truth when it is said that if a tale like the one now being written had been told hundreds of years ago in these Islands it would have been preserved in a mead and would be among the most interesting of Hawaiian legends; but now it is but a tale.

A family lived in Honolulu by the name of Swanzy and among their most precious belongings was a collie dog, with long silken hair which was most carefully combed by Umomoto each day and whose appetite was encouraged with tenderloin and porterhouse. No ordinary dog, this. Far from it—a blue-blooded monarch whose lineage was as proud and haughty as that of any millionaire in the United States.

But came to pass that a few weeks was spent by this family at a resort of good cheer and beautiful scenery called the Volcano House. Fido accompanied the family; nay, he was one of the family, and went to take his holiday vacation with the other members.

But certain wicked Hawaiians in the neighborhood observed how he was fed on the finest meats cooked to a turn and flavored with spices, and thought that such a dog for a luan morsel would far surpass any which had ever been partaken of on the island of Hawaii. With felonious intent and greed of stomach Fido Swanzy was stolen and in spite of his indignant growls at the rough handling by men unused to treat with a dog of such exalted position, he was taken to the luan and, when prepared with the utmost care, was pronounced the most delicious morsel which had ever passed the lips of the Hawaiians who were lucky enough to be present.

Now the story becomes shrouded in mystery. It seems that one member of the Swanzy family has delved deep in the folk lore of Hawaii and has learned of the truly mysterious and magical power which belongs to the Kahuna of the old stock, and, having found complete proof that the dog had been eaten, decided that there was but one way in which he might be restored to the arms of those who loved him. This way was followed.

White roosters by the dozen were prepared, red sugar cane was found, roast pig cooked to the nicety of perfection was obtained, and a special messenger sent for one of the finest brands. Thus equipped and fortified the supplicant was sure that the plea would not be in vain. Noe was it.

The kahuna who had been selected ate and he became contented. He drank and became happy. Then he performed stunts in his magical line and announced results. He could not get back Fido Swanzy, but he could do his best and would, if allowed a day's time, produce a dog exactly like Fido and guaranteed to wear.

An agreement was made and the supplicant was instructed to go to Oahu, where, on the second day, Fido would appear in imitation but so carefully made that it would deceive an expert.

On the second day, as foretold, Fido was on deck, looking as ever but with one exception—he was no longer the fat, sleek, smooth-haired Fido, but in the process of making him to order in such a short time his hair had become full of burrs, his coat was poor and lost of all, he was thin as a rail.

Fido was brought back to Honolulu today and it is thought that with careful attention he can be palmed off on his old friends as the real Fido, over whose tender morsels many a lip was smacked by the natives of Hawaii.

THANKS ARE GIVEN TO ADMIRAL BECKLEY

As the result of his generosity in presenting Company D, N. G. H., of Hilo, with a piano, Admiral George C. Beckley has received a finely engrossed parchment, thanking him for his kindness. The inscription reads as follows:

HILO FOOTBALL

According to the Hilo Herald the New Year's game of football has caused a sudden lull in that sport in the Hilo town. The play was very exciting all through and the game resulted in a tie, though an extra half of 20 minutes was played in which neither side was able to score.

In the first half Waialaka scored through Hakalan to such an extent that with a sudden brace, they rushed the ball down the field and between the goal posts of their opponents, without giving Waialaka a chance to even form a defense. After this the ball wavered around the middle of the field for the remainder of the game, neither team being able to score any great advantage.

A. Lowrie was referee and Wm. Turnbull and A. Ainslie linesmen.

LOCAL AND GENERAL A. K. Foster was committed for trial before the Circuit Court on a charge of rape by Judge Whitney this morning. Ball was set at $1,000. Warrants were issued today for the arrest of Malon and Kee Long, against whom indictments were returned yesterday by the Grand Jury, against the former for perjury and against the latter for manslaughter. Victoria K. Lna was today granted a divorce from her husband, Kakekela Lna, on the ground of desertion, and the court awarded the custody of the children to the libellant. The oldest of the children is 29 and the youngest 13. H. W. Holin, a hotel proprietor of Spokane, Wash., and his wife are in town, having come in on the Sonoma. They will remain at the Young Hotel until the arrival of the Korea and then they will resume their vacation jaunt, which will include all the noted resorts of southern California. Ballou & Mars, attorneys for the steamship Manchuria in the libel pending against that vessel, have filed leave to amend their answer and the court has granted the leave. The Manchuria was libeled by the Pacific Commercial Cable Company for salvage on account of the services rendered by the Restorer. Chas. Brewer et al today filed an action in the Circuit Court to recover from M. W. McCloskey & Sons, Ltd., the sum of $1250 with interest, attorney's fees, etc. The plaintiffs claim that on January 11, 1899, they leased to M. W. McCloskey & Sons the property on Queen street, between Kanuhumu and Nuanua streets, formerly occupied by the Inter-Island Company and by McKibben's drug store, for a rental of $1500 per annum. It is claimed that the amount owed for it due. In the case of Harry T. Mills vs. John S. Walker, defendant, and W. G. Irlin & Co., garnishee, the plaintiff today filed a motion to dismiss the appeal of the defendant on the ground that 15 days has elapsed since the case was placed on the calendar and the defendant has failed to file and make service of brief. The motion will be presented to the supreme court on Monday by A. S. Humphreys. A suit in equity was instituted today by John M. Dowsett, trustee, against A. Fernandez, Minerva Fernandez and Ida E. Lani for foreclosure of mortgage. The complainant alleges that he loaned the defendant Fernandez $2000 on July 21, 1897, taking a mortgage on certain parcels of land, one piece located on King street at Kulaokama, one on King street between Victoria and Pihok, and one in Kalihi. In the suit of replevin brought by L. B. Kerr & Co. Ltd., against Fred Kaeok to recover a sewing machine, judgment was rendered today in favor of the plaintiff by Judge De Bolt. A replevin case was held this morning at 10 o'clock for the rescue of the soul of the late John Kna.

SATURDAY, JAN 5, 1907.

The vote taken by the Supervisors last evening solemnly pledges each of the re-elected members to vote for the retention of the present Road Supervisor. Any plan which contemplates a reversal of the endorsement given by Supervisors Cox, Archer and Dwight must include a request for these men to stultify themselves, and make them the laughing stock of the people. No friend could ask that.

REPUBLICAN PROMISES AND THE SCHOOLS.

The wide interest aroused for the advancement of the public schools shows that the people are alive to the necessity for the protection and development of this great factor of our American progress.

We pledge our legislative representatives to the adoption of appropriations that will secure for the teachers of the Territory the remuneration which their training and experience justifies, under the present rules and regulations of the Department of Public Instruction.

We favor the appointment of a local Board of Education in each County, which Boards shall have full charge of the public schools in their respective Counties, under and subject to such general rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Department of Public Instruction.

We favor the extension of manual training in the public schools. From the Republican Platform adopted by the Territorial Convention at Wailuku, Maui.

The paragraphs here given constitute the particular educational plank by the Republican party which at the present time seems to be variously interpreted and generally misunderstood.

The words "full charge" appear to be taken in the most sweeping sense possible and without regard for the reading of the previous paragraph of the plank. Strange enough, this interpretation is given by those most enthusiastic over the retention of all public school administration by Territorial authority.

It must be admitted that the words used are sufficiently direct to carry the impression, after casual perusal that the plank contemplates turning the schools over to the Counties. The representatives of the party however, should go more deeply into the history of this paragraph, and also read it intelligently in connection with the preceding paragraph of the educational plank.

By so doing they must be convinced that the framers of the platform did not contemplate complete control of the public schools by the individual Counties, and if the wording is ambiguous it was the result of haste in framing or error in typewriting.

The paragraph which precedes that relating to the schools and Counties pledges the Republican legislators to pass appropriations which will allow the public school teachers to be paid according to the schedule laid down in the present rules and regulations of the Department of Public Instruction. If it were intended to turn the public schools over to the Counties in the sense which the opponents of such a move try to make out, the Republican party managers certainly would not have had a plank in the platform solemnly pledging their representatives to the payment of the teachers by the Territory.

Those having the responsibility of framing a law in keeping with the spirit of the party promise should go into the details of the framing of a careful plank. It is doing so in this instance they will find that the County plank relative to the schools when originally brought before the Committee on Platforms was a lengthy and intricate scheme for placing the finance and management of the public schools under County administration.

During the course of the resultant discussion it was pointed out that in view of the contemplated revision of the tax laws the transfer of the water works to the counties and the desire to have the educational department fully re-established on the old salary scale it was not available to compile the revision and increase the work of the Legislature by revolutionizing the present system of education administration. It was felt that a measure could be passed which would bring responsible and public-spirited citizens of the Counties other than Oahu into closer touch with the management of the schools. And as time went on the schools might gradually be transferred to the Counties, as conditions and public demands justified.

There were members of the Platform Committee who were opposed to any suggestion of the Counties in connection with the schools. They accepted the platform plank as it finally passed on the understanding that the Boards of Education created for the various Counties should act in an advisory capacity, and under rules to be framed by the Board of Public Instruction. On any other understanding it would have been impossible for the plank to have been inserted in the platform.

A law carrying out any other plan will violate the spirit of the party plank.

Framers of the party measure under this educational plank can make a mountain of a mole-hill if they see fit, and thereby bring about a general wrangle in which water works, and income tax, and public schools will be so mixed up, and the main issue so befogged, that the Legislature can come to a close with nothing done.

A desire to fulfill the purpose of the platform and at the same time make real progress will cause the construction of a law providing for the appointment of a Board of Education for each County, this Board to act in an advisory capacity with the Normal Inspector, and the recommendations passed on to the Territorial Superintendent and Board of Public Instruction. The members of County Boards to serve without pay.

The theoretical plan would be the creation of County Boards, of which the Normal Inspector is the executive officer or Superintendent, their acts to be in the nature of recommendations to the Central Board.

A law drawn on this plan would prove by practice whether there is a public-spirited interest in the schools of each County. It would furnish a test for future action.

Whatever the law drawn may be the framers and the Republican members of the Legislature should bear in mind that the only direct and definite pledge of the Republican platform is the sensitive and unqualified promise to provide an appropriation that will secure for the teachers the salaries to which they are entitled under the present rules and regulations of the Department of Public Instruction.

This can mean but one thing as regards appropriation. And when the Territory pays the teachers it is not proper to endeavor to interpret the words "full charge" as conveying the purpose of absolute control to the Counties.

Splendid headway has been made in the decentralization of governmental power. The work already done should not be destroyed or the advance impeded by attempting too much.

MAUI SUPERVISORS ADOPT APPROPRIATIONS LIBERAL FOR POLICE

(Special to the Bulletin) Wailuku, Maui, Jan. 4.—Owing to an increase of fifty per cent in the police appropriations made by the Board of Supervisors at their meeting December 15th, police circles are all agog with excitement and speculation as to the final form the Board's generosity will assume. Whether it will mean a fifty per cent increase in the pay of the present force, or fifty per cent more police, is the question.

It is supposed, however, that the Board looked ahead and made the estimate liberal to be in a position to put the jailors and prison guards on the pay rolls of the County when local jails are turned over without having to cut into the public improvement estimates.

Poorly paid teachers and district judges are wondering whether or not the Territorial administration can be as generous and get as near their hearts as the Maui County fathers have gotten to the hearts of the police.

REPUBLICANS CONFER

(Special to the Bulletin) Wailuku, Maui, Jan. 4.—The Republican County Committee will meet Thursday, January 10th, to discuss needed legislation, and all leading party men within the County have been invited to the convention. The Wailuku Precinct Club meets tonight to discuss and suggest needed legislation.

William McKinley Lodge No. 8—C. A. L. Wolf; V. C. W. L. Frazee; P. L. B. Reeves; M. of W. P. Wood; K. of R. and S. E. A. Jacobson; M. of P. F. N. Noves; M. of Ex. H. Bicknell; M. at A. A. Gertz; I. G. Lynch; O. G. S. C. Sibbard.

Brother Chalmers, in a few well chosen words, presented retiring Chan cellor Commander A. D. Bond with a Past Chancellor's jewel. A fitting response was made by Mr. Bond.

The work of the Mystic Lodge for many years was briefly reviewed by Brother F. Waldron. He spoke highly of the manner in which affairs had been handled. He spoke of the past year as being a banner year under the efficient management of the retiring Chancellor Commander, O. J. Whitehead.

Brother Whitehead was presented with a Past Chancellor's jewel in token of the esteem in which he was held by Mystic Lodge.

Brother Whitehead responded feelingly in a few words of thanks to the lodge.

A Past Chancellor's jewel was presented to Brother M. M. Johnson, retiring Chancellor Commander of William McKinley Lodge No. 8. Brother Sinclair made the presentation in a few well-chosen words in which he gave Brother Johnson great credit for the large advancement made during the year.

Brother Johnson was much affected as he responded with thanks to the lodge for its high value placed on his lodge work.

Brother Thos. O'Brien, P. C., of Mystic Lodge was then called to the floor. As he stepped forward a look of mystified expectancy passed over the faces of those present. Brother Ed. Towse, in a well-favored speech called attention to the faithful and untiring labors of Brother O'Brien in the interest of the lodge. For 25 years he had given the best endeavours of his life toward the uplifting and up holding of Mystic Lodge No. 2.

A Veteran's jewel was presented to him in token of appreciation of the zeal and energy he had displayed in the work.

Brother O'Brien thanked the members for the honor they had bestowed upon him and said that he hoped to be with them for many years to come.

After closing of the lodge the members went in for social chat and chat.

TO COMPROMISE CLAIM. A. Hansberg, administrator of the estate of L. Aldo, deceased, today petitioned the Court for consent to a compromise of the claim against S. Ah Fat, of Waikoua. At Fat in 1898 executed a mortgage on personal property for $2400 in favor of Aldo. There is still $900 due and unpaid, and the property which was mortgaged has either been destroyed or worn out, so that the mortgage as such is worthless. Ah Fat offers to compromise for $250. Hackett & Co. are now the holders of the mortgage. Judge De Bolt granted the permission sought.

HALF OUR ILLS ARE CATARRH.

"Every family should know the important fact that catarrhal diseases claim many thousands of victims in Canada each year. In spring and summer, catarrh of the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys and pelvic organs is most common."

REVENUE MEN UNDER CIVIL SERVICE RULES. Collector of Internal Revenue R. W. Chamberlain has received notice that all deputy collectors come under the civil service rules. This affects those now employed as well as future appointments, but those who are now employed by the department will not have to take any examination, as they have been in office since November 7 or before. A new okolehao distillery is to be opened at Napoosoo next week and Collector Chamberlain and Deputy Drake may go there to be present, if the amount of business on hand will admit. If there is too much to do only one of them will go.

HAWAII TO GET GOOD BOOST

The Chicago Chronicle has a department devoted exclusively to winter resorts, and treats unsparingly of the Southern States and California in particular.

Hawaii receives a generous share of attention as a winter resort. It says: "The trip over the placid waters of the Pacific to the Sandwich Islands is becoming one of the favorite voyages at all seasons of the year. In happy Hawaii it is always June with never any extreme of heat or cold. The trees are always green, flowers bloom in tropical profusion, and the invigorating air of the ocean is always pleasant and refreshing."

"Situated on the world-famous Waikiki beach road, three and a half miles from Honolulu, lies the magnificent Moana Hotel, a twentieth century establishment modern in every detail. From the roof garden, which crowns the structure, a wide stretch of observation is possible, embracing ocean, mountain and highland from Diamond Head to the Waianae range. A distinct feature of the Moana is its social life. The society people of the cosmopolitan population gather here for the various fetes and here is heard the native vocal and instrumental music, the Royal Hawaiian Band."

The following ad. also appears in the same paper:

"ATTENTION, PASSENGER AGENTS"

"Have You Read Mark Twain's Pious Poem on Hawaii?"

"What do YOU know about Hawaii?"

"The trend of travel is now toward the Paradise of the Pacific, the world's great resort for home builders and tourists."

"Would you answer the question, 'Why should Hawaii expect to become a great resort for homebuilders and tourists?'"

"For the best article (to contain not more than 2000 words) answering the above question the Hawaii Promotion Committee will give a prize of $100. The second and third best papers will also be awarded prizes of $50 and $25 respectively."

Messrs. Geo. H. Daniels, managing Adv. Dept. of the N. Y. Central Lines; W. H. Simpson, Adv. Agt. Santa Fe system, and James Horsburgh, Jr., Gen. Pass. Agt. of the Southern Pacific Co., have kindly consented to pass upon the merits of all papers submitted.

"Content will be kept open until January 15, 1907."

"For detailed information ask your General Passenger Agent, or write to 'H. P. WOOD, Secretary."

SOCIAL CHATTER AND HOME TALK

Amidst the howling of the gale and the whistling of the wind, with the windows swathed in blankets, and the lanals protected by awnings, the annual New Year's Eve ball began promptly at nine-thirty in the dining room at the Moana hotel, and the gay and brilliant crowd danced the merry hours away. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the ball-room was comfortably filled and the walls on either side lined with interested spectators. Large flags covered the blankets and palms, greens and flowering shrubs made a good effect. In one corner of the room was a buffet, and iced punch, lemonade and sandwiches were served throughout the evening. The Moana quintet club occupied the gallery and two-steps and waiters were danced until an early hour in the morning. Precious to the ball many diners were given, and perhaps the largest of all was the one of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Paton, who are guests at the hotel. The table had for its central ornament a miniature Scottish castle. Everything was complete, even to the turrets, moat and Scottish flag which flew proudly from the tower. This castle was set in a bed of maidenhair ferns, and its entrance guarded by a drawbridge. The Scotch thistle was very much in evidence amidst the greens and the candles which surrounded the maidenhair had green shades. The menu cards were hand painted and the red place cards had a wishbone introduced into each end, and toward the middle of the dinner much merriment was caused by making a wish and cracking them. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. C. Deering, Mrs. Avery, Mrs. Hawes, Mr. J. H. Bliss, and ex-Governor Cleghorn.

At other tables were seen Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Pise, who were dining the Alexander Scotts, and Mr. and Mrs. Fife's dinner guests were Mrs. C. Heremman and Mr. Kirkland. Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Minnesota, who are stopping at the hotel, had a party of eight and there were many other small dinners, giving an air of gaiety to the place.

Mrs. Mary Gunn has taken the cottage in the grounds of the residence belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weight in Nuananu avenue.

Miss Florence House, who sailed in the Ventura, is the principal of a fashionable girls' boarding school at Los Angeles, called Huntington Hall. She was a college friend of Mrs. Frear, and she made such a favorable impression in Honolulu that several parents are contemplating sending their daughters to her in the near future.

Among the festivities given in honor of Mrs. Rudolf Slattery was the bride of Mrs. Smith on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Slattery wore a toilette of mauve and her picture hat was of the same color. A large amethyst in a single gold chain completed a becoming costume. The two prizes, bolts of long ribbon in hand-embroidered bags, were won by Mrs. Brock and Mrs. Hawes.

It was so stormy on Wednesday that the promoters of the promenade in Kapiolani Park decided to postpone the opening day until the sun should shine again. It would have been actually dangerous to have attempted it this week, for trees were falling and a perfect hurricane took one's breath away. However, we need not despair, for this state of affairs cannot last, and when we are again enveloped in our usual sunshine the bad days will be forgotten.

On New Year's evening Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Watson gave a pretty little dinner at their residence on Vineyard street, in honor of Captain and Mrs. Rudolf Slattery, and on Wednesday Mrs. Watson gave a tea in honor of her sister. It was a social little affair, and over the tea a delightful hour was spent. Among the invited guests were Mrs. Layard, Mrs. Van Vleet, Mrs. Alexander Young, Mrs. Archie Young, Mrs. Clive Davies, Mrs. A. Berg, Mrs. von Hamm, Mrs. Lewton-Brain, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. McCandless, Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Frederic Klamp, Mrs. Clinton Ballentyne, Mrs. Smith, Miss Harvey, Miss Bertha Ruth Young, Miss Gillet and Mrs. Hawes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fife, who sailed in the Ventura, have been guests at the Moana over a month. They have made hosts of friends and have been much entertained. Mrs. Fife will visit in Los Angeles before proceeding to her home in Milan. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fife expect to spend several months in Mexico in the near future.

Judge Highton will be greatly missed from the community where his kindly presence and courtly manner have always exerted a charm over all he knew. He always had a pleasant word for his friends, and those who knew him at the Alexander Young Hotel, where he lived, were very fond of him. Mrs. Highton was called for and is expected to arrive in the Alameda.

Mrs. Frederic Klamp, who is one of the most prominent hostesses in Honolulu, gave a bridge lunch for Mrs. Herman Focke and Miss Margaret Walker on Monday. The table presented quite a holiday effect with its banking of holly and greens. Among those present were Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Rodlek, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mrs. Henry Dutton and Mrs. Charles Wilder.

Mr. Carl Hedemann was a returning passenger to Maui on Friday. He has been spending the holidays with his family at Waikiki.

On Tuesday evening, New Year's day, the Moana Hotel dining room presented quite a gala appearance for there were several smart dinners on. Lord and Lady Playfair were dining Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Pike, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Scott. Lady Playfair, who is a distinguished looking woman, had on a very becoming frock. At another table were the R. N. Patons, and their dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. Focke, Mr. and Mrs. R. de B. Layard, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. C. Deering and Messrs. David Anderson, James Cockburn, Jamieson and Watson. Mr. and Mrs. Grinbaum were also giving a dinner, and among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Willard Brown and Captain and Mrs. Andrew Fuller. Mr. and Mrs. Wood, who entertains so much, had a gay party of young people at her table. The Moana Hotel orchestra was at its best and the shaded electric lights, flowers and the many pretty women, gave a festive look to the room. Coffee is generally served on the lanai and it is always a pleasant interlude.

The Misses Murielle and Violet Pounds, charming English girls, are guests of the Montague Cookies for a month, on their way around the world.

Miss Nannie Winston, who is still confined to her room by the severe cold contracted two weeks ago, is progressing favorably. She has been greatly missed for the holiday festivities, of which she is always a bright and shining light. In fact, she had invitations out for a large supper to be given in the private dining room on New Year's eve which were recalled. At the many dinners of her friends her health has been proposed many times.

Mrs. George Carter's "at home" day on Wednesday was attended by a large number of callers. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Crechore (nee Belle Carter), Miss Carter, Mrs. Graydon, Mrs. Blackman and Mrs. Frear. Mrs. Carter looked unusually well on Wednesday, and received her friends in her usual gracious manner. Mrs. Richard Ivers poured tea, and Mrs. F. H. Humphris presided over the famous punch-bowl, which was given the Governor by the Chinese Prince. Mrs. Mackall sang most beautifully and the room was filled with the perfume of roses which were lavishly scattered about in large bowls and vases.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson are stopping at the Moana hotel. Mrs. Richardson is a pretty girl and a bride. She has a lovely trousseau, which is very much admired. Mr. Richardson's home was in Hawaii.

The names of the ladies who have decided to receive on the first and third Mondays are: Mrs. C. F. Eckart, Mrs. Mist, Miss Edith F. Mist, Mrs. Lewton-Brain, Mrs. Allan Bottomley, Mrs. O. Gulick, Mrs. Frank Atherton, and Mrs. Montague Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond de B. Layard gave a charming little dinner at the Consulate on Friday evening for Lord and Lady Playfair, Major and Mrs. Van Vleet, Dr. and Mrs. Humphris, Captain Carter, U. S. N., and Mr. Howard Bowen. The table decorations were very effective, graduated cut-glass vases holding delicate blossoms in conjunction with maidenhair. After dinner the guests played bridge.

Mr. Alfred Harrison and Mr. Brenston, who have been guests at the Royal Hawaiian hotel, sailed in the Sonoma for the Colonies. Mr. Harrison, who is a brother of Mrs. Stouffer, has been much entertained.

Among the festivities of the week was the very enjoyable informal lunch which Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder gave on New Year's Day. There were two tables, and among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mr. and Mrs. H. Macfarlane, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Hays Brooke, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Miss Marion Scott, Captain Carter, U. S. N., Dr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Richard Wright, Mr. Leslie Scott, Mr. Gerrit Wilder, Mr. Robbins Anderson, Mr. Derby, Captain Humphrey and Lieut. Epley.

Mrs. Hoffmann's artistic home on Liliha street was the scene of a coffee musicale on Wednesday in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. MacNiell. Mrs. Hoffmann favored her guests with several little songs, which were enthusiastically received and she also sang a duet with Mrs. Oat from Semeramide, and then came the piece de resistance, for Mrs. MacNiell whistled several selections, playing her own accompaniment. This novel performance was heartily enjoyed and proved a great success. Even the pet canary seemed under the influence of the whistler's charm, for the more she whistled the louder it sang. The coffee and cakes were much enjoyed, and Mrs. Hoffmann's guests much appreciated the delightful afternoon. Among those present were Mrs. Cushman, Mrs. Caraber, Miss White, Miss Gregg, Mrs. E. W. Jordan, Mrs. E. L. Cutting, Mrs. Wilkinson, Lady Herron, Mrs. Lange, Mrs. G. Carter, Mrs. Layard, Mrs. Schaefer, Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. Archie Young, Mrs. Arthur Berg, Miss Gillet, Miss Anna Danford, Mrs. Ota, Mrs. Frissen, Mrs. Wadman, Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. Wallace Farrington, Mrs. de Roi.

Miss Josephine Locke's interesting lectures on "Dante" begin on Saturday, January 12th in Mrs. Sanford B. Dole's drawing room on Emma street at ten o'clock.

The Misses Louise and Laura Gerard, sisters of Mrs. Frederic Klamp, arrived on the transport Logan and will remain with their sister for three or four months. Col. Gerard, who is also on the Logan, will proceed with the transport to the Coast.

Miss Mary H. Kront expects to deliver a course of lectures in a week or two. The place has not yet been decided upon, but it is hoped that some charitable person with a large lanai, centrally situated, will offer it for the occasion. The talks are divided as follows: January 5th, "Hardy"; January 12th, "Stevenson"; January 22nd, "Kipling"; January 25th "Conrad"; January 29th, "Recent Writers". Miss Kront has delivered these lectures in Australia and New Zealand and she has enjoyed the unique distinction of completing the last book of Lew Wallace.

One of the delightful entertainments of the week was the dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Murray for Mr. and Mrs. H. Focke, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fenner, Miss Jessie Kaufman and Mr. "Jack" Atkinson.

The death of the mother of Mrs. Paul Neumann, Mrs. Sancedo, of Mexico, will be quite a shock, as the family received a cable on New Year's day saying "All's well. Mrs. Sancedo visited here a few years ago and charmed everybody by her delightful foreign manner and bright conversation. She was gifted and talented and was a veritable "grande dame." Mrs. Paul Neumann may return to Honolulu soon.

Mrs. James Castle has gone to Laie for a few days. Her place, "The Dunes," is very artistic and comfortable.

The Hotel Baths held the first Laides Day yesterday morning and the society folks were there in great numbers and enjoyed a dip in the huge pool of crystal water. The ladies "shot the chutes" and indulged in swimming and diving. This fashionable sport has certainly caught on with the society people and every Tuesday and Friday will be looked forward to with pleasure by them. There are many private parties forming who intend engaging the pool for the evening.

On Monday evening, January 7th at 7:30 o'clock, a meeting will be held of the chairmen of the different committees who will have charge of the Mardi Gras. A benefit ball will be given February 14th for the Kilohana Art League.

The members of the Kilohana Art League will be received by Mrs. W. F. Frear in behalf of the Literary Circle of the Kilohana Art League, the occasion being a reading by Mr. Eug. F. Horton. After the literary exercises the tea table will be presided over by Miss Letta Hardaway.

WHITIN STUCK FOR THOUSAND DOLLARS

The suit of Thomas Kay against F. B. Whitin came to an end last night after a trial lasting four days. The jury at 7:20 o'clock returned a verdict awarding damages to Kay in the sum of $1000. This case was the automobile accident case. Whitin's automobile, driven by his chauffeur, ran into a hack in which Kay was riding, injuring the plaintiff. Kay asked for $5,000 damages.

A similar suit for the same amount has been brought by the hack driver Gumphers.

In the case just ended the plaintiff was represented by J. J. Dunne and W. T. Rawlins. C. F. Peterson represented the defendant.

COLLEGE MUSIC LAST NIGHT

Bishop Hall at Oahu College was filled to overflowing last evening by lovers of music and they received a full measure.

The splendid range of baritone commanded by Mr. Hastings was in perfect form and range. In the German selections, followed by an Italian piece, Mr. Hastings carried all triumph.

Mrs. A. B. Ingalls responded to an encore after the rendering of an entrancing selection which held her audience as with chains. Such rapid advancement as Mrs. Ingalls is making with the king of instruments will shortly place her among the highest.

Miss Gertrude Brown entertained at the piano. Her selections were difficult of execution, but with her magic touch interest was held throughout and hearty applause was given by an appreciative audience.

During rainy days some of the rooms in the Judiciary building are quite dark, so much so that lights are needed. As the electric lights furnished by the Government are not in operation until after sunset, there appeared to be no way of overcoming the difficulty. Mr. Holloway has come to the rescue by having a switch from the Hawaiian Electric Co.'s plant put in.

"Mr. Dooley" Reviews Events Of The Year Passed

BY F. P. DUNNE.
Copyright, 1906, by H. H. McClure & Co.

"WELL, sir," said Mr. Dooley, "in a few more days the New Year will be here an' we'll all date our letter nineteen hundred an' six."

"It's been a grand year," said Mr. Hennessy.

"It's a year that will stand out in the history of the country like eighteen hundred an' two," said Mr. Dooley. "I've been readin' about it an' I'm proud I lived through it an' glad. It's been a wonderful year, accordin' to this paaper. Mine an' factory has poured out their treasures in steel, copper, copper stock, bedsprings, hair tie, chewin' gum, glass eyes, patent corkscrews, safety razors, union underwear an' see-gars, an' all th' other glorious products that make us a free, happy, united, an' intellectual people. No wan has been out in employment who wanted to wurruk an' many who didn't. We've been staggerin' under such a load of material wealth that if we can't dump some of it I don't know what'll happen to us. We are so rich that if we were any richer we'd be broke. Th' banks are burstin' with gold or without it, as the case may be."

"Everywhere I turn I see men that a year ago were compelled to live in th' humblest surroundings on wan-fifty a day now livin' in th' same surroundings although they get wan-sixty-five a day. Such is th' force of habit. Take me own case. Th' best index, as Hogan says, is th' condition of th' country is th' liquor business. Well, Sir, I've been struck by th' wave of prosperity. Everything has boomed. Th' rent is up fifty per cent., th' wholesale price of Mrs. Nation's Sootin' Syrup has raised twenty-five per cent., an' th' size of me prosperous customers' drinks has increased, as it looks to me from a bar-nd's eye view, about two hundred per cent. I can't raise th' price of a sample of this Fountain of Perpetual Youth above fifteen cents or two for a quartler. That price has been settled for cinchies. As Sierity Shaw wud say, it's part of th' fundamental faith of our people. It's a case in which religion interferences with pollyteical economy."

"If I end I'd like to make th' figures on th' bill in fare keep step with th' rent an' th' price of beefsteak. But if I did I'd be driven out of th' ward by an indignant populace. But, thank th' Lord, I always try to look on th' bright side of things. In th' mist of all this prosperity that makes life twice as expensive to me as it was while it was a luxury and before it became a necessity, I rayjoke, as Hogan says, that I'm a citizen of no mean city adjoining a large lake with a small water tax. Have another drink, Hinnessy. Barrin' typhoid fever, there isn't a headache in a bar'ly it."

"Yes, Sir, nineteen hundred an' six has been a grand year. About this time th' paapers prints an account of what has happened since last January. Here it is in this paaper. Let me see: 'Nineteen hundred an' six will go down into history—ye bet it will—'I'm—m, remarkable peevyol. Niver before has a country been blessed with such—bursting gran'ries—universal welfare—ear shortage—luck in money—ostentation in th' rich—insurance scandals—increased in drunkenness—let me see, let me see. Oh, here it is: 'Progress in th' wurruled in nineteen hundred an' six.'"

"Science.—February third: Professor Schmitt-schmitt in Berlin rayports th' discovery of a new element that enables him to converse with th' spirit wurruled, relieves th' human body of weight, cures whoopin' cough, an' makes hair grow on th' baldest head. He calls

th' new metal Gabozolum. It is worth ninety millyon dollars an ounce. February fourth: Professor Schmitt-schmitt, th' famous scientist an' discoverer of Gabozolum, has been committed to a rest cure in th' South in Germany. July first: Camel Flimflammarion announces that he has distinctly seen people swimmin' in th' canals of Mars. July second: While Camel Flimflammarion, th' discoverer of life on th' planet Mars, was walkin' yisterdahl in th' Change Alley Aisy, his little dog broke away from him an' th' gr-reat astronomer fell down a coal hole an' broke his leg. August nine: Erastus Moses of South Framingham, Massachusetts, patents a new method of preparin' curled hair.

"Exploration.—April first: Lemoni, th' intrepid Arctic explorer, starts on his fifty-fifth attempt to discover th' North Pole. July first: Lemoni, th' intrepid Arctic explorer, has put into Ostook, Norway, an' rayports that, owing to th' overcrowdin' of th' Arctic Sea with Swede fishermen, it was impossible for him to go on in his dash for th' Pole.

"Pannyma Canal.—January tenth: Poulthry Big'low visits th' Pannyma Canal; it is not at home. March sixteenth: Great indignation at Wash'nton on account of Poulthry's rayport on th' Pannyma Canal based on information gained in fifteen minynts. Poulthry Big'low again visits th' Canal. Stays an hour. Canal hands him his hat. July tenth: Prisdiant announces his intention to call on th' Canal an' show th' wickedness of careless investigation. November first: Prisdiant goes to Pannyma. Spends th' afternoon. In th' accompanym' pitcher th' Prisdiant is seen havin' his photygraft taken alongside a steam shovel. Th' mark (x) enables th' reader to distinguish th' Prisdiant. December twenty: Th' Prisdiant makes a most exhausting rayport on his trip to Pannyma. December twenty-eight: Injurers rayport that thirty-two feet of canal have been dug.

"Diplomacy.—Th' year has been a notable wan in diplomacy. In January th' Prisdiant addressed th' followin' note to wan of his most distinguished Ambassadors: 'Dearst Marlar: Well, well, it's like a breath of fresh air to hear from ye again. Ye're such a dear. Th' necktie ye knit for me came this mornin', an' I'm wearin' it as I write. I am sinnin' ye a miniculer in meself. It wud fill me heart with happiness if I thought ye were wearin' it. Now, Marlar, will ye do something for me? It's only a little thing, but I want it done very much. I wish ye'd drop in at th' Vatican some day an' tell th' Pope that 'twud be a fine thing for th' cause of religion if we cud show that an Irishman doesn't lose anything by bein' a Raypublican. Tell him to give our good friend wan in thim red hats that are so becomin'. Ye'er's, Thuydoor, P. S.—Write soon. How's dear old Bell?'"

"Th' Ambassadors acted at wanst. Puttin' on her diplomatic uniform in green erape de shine an' carryin' a lavender parasol, she proceeded to th' Vatican. It is regrettable that th' simple priests there didn't understand her. They showed her th' dure, closed th' dure, locked it, an' said some prayers. To th' Ambassadors Extrahordinary an' Minister Plenipotentiary in th' United States in America to th' Kingdom of Hiven, Marlar, they give what is known in Rome as th' merry delval. Th' unforchint incident was closed with th' usual diplomatic reserve. Th' Prisdiant wrote a letter to th' Ambassadors beginnin', 'Say, you,' an' th' Ambassadors rayturned to America with her husband, an' sent all her private letters, valentines, keepsakes, an' photygrafts to th' Cincinnati Inquirer for publication."

"Do ye want me to r-read ye anny more about th' progress in th' wurruled in this magnificent year? It's all here down to th' failures an' deaths. But I won't r-read on. Wan year is a good deal like another. I suppose nineteen hundred an' six done its best. Consider th' matter of a year has got to wurruk with ye can't blame it too much. Sometimes I'm sorry for th' years. We welcome thim, an' whin we've used thim we kick thim out just th' same as if they were people. But they have their fun with us, too. We lustle thim out late at night, but before we go back to welcome in th' New Year we've got to wash our wounds.

"Nineteen hundred an' six was a good frind an' companym' in mine. But he was rough. He was rough. He cudn't take a joke. I'm all marked up from him now. An' all th' years that I've known have left their signs on me. That wrinkle under me eye was made by eighteen hundred an' sixty-wan. Eighteen hundred an' sixty-two, three, an' four sandpapered me hair off me. Eighty-wan injured me hearin'. Eighty-three almost put out me eyes. I got this stoop in me shoulders from eighty-five. Nineteen hundred, wan of me best frinds, knocked most of my teeth out of me. I bear thim no grudge. Maybe they're goin' off somewhere an' tellin' everybody what they done to me. I can see nineteen hundred an' six sneekin' behind his hand, whin he hurries away to qualify for th' Association of Dooley's Years. He's got a right to. I don't care. They think they've defaced me. Maybe I do look like a fence in a school yard. They can laugh an' say: 'Look at that bald head! That's Dooley. Look at thim weak legs! Martin Dooley. That's what we've done to him. He's a tough old fellow an' we've been in a hurry, but before we sendin' in an apprentice that'll shave him down to a wishbone.'

"But, d'ye know, Hinnessy, I've got a feelin' they haven't reached me. 'Fools,' says I, 'I've deceived ye. Ye've been shootin' at a decoy for th' best part of a cinchry. That figure,' says I, 'was not Martin Dooley, but a scarecrow that I put on th' breastworks to draw ye'er fire while I says, 'set down here safe an' sound in th' trench an' smoke me good seggar an' laugh ivry time ye blow a limb off me ripresentative,' says I. 'Ye've niver touched me,' says I. 'I'm younger thim I ever was,' says I. 'Th' oldest I've ever been was forty years ago whin I had all th' weight of th' wurruled on me shoulders. I've been growing younger iver since. In thim days I end do th' longest hop, skip, an' a jump in anny man in th' ward. Today th' on'y way I end do a hop, skip, an' a jump wud be to do it off th' top of a buildin'. But I can do other things. I can fly, I can—' For Hiven's sake, Hinnessy, close that dure. There's a tur-rible draaft. Why, ye'll be th' death of me with ye'er carelessness."

"What was I sayin'? Ah, about th' New Year. I welcome it, mind ye, but it's like anny new customer. I won't give it much credit. Th' pitcher papers have pitchers in th' New Year as an innocent, prattlin' child, but don't ye believe it. Th' New Year is a grown-up son in th' old year an' has been thurly coached before comin' in. Ye can't fool him. He's a dark, mysterious stranger, with a slouched hat pulled over his eyes an' something that looks like a knife up his sleeve. I'm goin' to be as soeyable to him as I can. He may be a nice fellow. But I've had a lot of experience with th' years, an' I've seen what they've done to some of me frinds. This fellow may be all right, but he may have designs on th' cash drawer or me life an' I think I'll watch him."

"It won't do anny good," said Mr. Hennessy. "He'll do as he likes, annyhow."

"Thru," cried Mr. Dooley. "Thim all bets are off, an' I'll do as I like."

The reception which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Dickey gave in honor of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Dole, at their residence in Nuuanu avenue on Thursday evening was attended by a large and brilliant number of guests. Probably no nomenclature in years has brought out so many of the old families and their descendants as were seen at the hospitalous mansion. The prominence of both families would account for this, as well as the popularity of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey received their guests in the drawing-room and they were assisted by Miss Anna Paris, Mrs. Ellen Weaver, Mrs. John Waterhouse, Miss Nina Adams and Miss Katherine Graydon. Mrs. Dickey wore a handsome frock of grey and black silk which suited her perfectly. Mrs. James Dole looked beautiful in white Marseilles satin, exquisitely soft, and perfect in style, garnished with old-rose point lace. On her yellow hair rested a wealth of orange blossoms. She was a picture which her friends will not soon forget. The house was artistically decorated by Miss Helen Alexander and Miss Lily Paty, and the decorations were carried out in green and white, and trails of delicate foliage were threaded through the tiny electric lights and the three rooms were banded with white roses, white asters and greens. Over the doors and windows there were portieres of trailing vines interspersed with white asters and roses. The effect was lovely, and the grounds also came in for their share of decorating. Hundreds of tiny electric globes were amidst the branches of the trees and there was a pathway of electricity to the house on either side of the driveway. The large elm at the side looked like an immense Christmas tree, for it fairly glittered with light. The refreshments and supper were in the elegant hands of Miss Emily Ladd and was voted delicious. Mr. and Mrs. James Dole will reside with the Dickey's until their house on Wylie street is completed. The list of guests is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Atherton, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Arnold, Mr. A. L. C. Atkinson, Mr. Robert Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Short Stories For Evening Hours

THE YOUNG DOCTOR'S MASCOTTE

Spring had touched the fields with her magic fingers, and buried herself in the throats of myriad songsters, so that they poured forth a very riot of mad melody.

The woods, decked with shy young green, called to the artist in me to be up and doing. (To be candid, I am never quite certain that there is very much of the artist in me, but I was young then and enthusiastic, and obeyed the call.) I rose from a comfortable armchair and in my brother-in-law's smoking room, and, primed with a sketch-book and the attendant necessities (not forgetting lunch), went forth to woo nature.

"Help! Oh, please help!" cried someone a few yards behind me. I hastily put down a sandwich I had been on the point of consuming, and ran.

"Help!" cried the voice again, and I plunged off to my right to where a hedge of hawthorn divided the border of a wood from a field.

A little cottage girl with an ambonnet stood by the hedge with an expression of pain on her face. She might have been seventeen—she might have been less. One arm was raised as if she were about to gather something out of the hedge, and she did not appear to be able to withdraw it.

"Good gracious!" I exclaimed. "What's the matter?" "This horrid—w—w—it's caught my wrist. O—o—o—h!"

Sure enough, it had. A nasty loose line of it, ferociously barbed, ran through the hedge, inserted by some wily keeper with a view to trespassers, I suppose.

One barb had dug deeply into the smooth, brown flesh; but I was not in my first year at the Eclectic Hospital for nothing. I dislodged the spike as tenderly as I could—the arm was torn and bleeding; we examine it together. "If you'll come back with me to the clearing," I said, "I'll bathe it. I'm painting, and I have some clean water there."

She came back obediently. She seemed a very docile little creature, I bathed the wound carefully, and then bound it up as comfortably as I could with my own handkerchief—a new silk one.

"Are you a doctor?" she asked in a frightened whisper, as I had finished. I was immensely flattered. "Not exactly," I replied, "but I hope to be in a year or two."

She gathered courage. "Well, you'd be a splendid one, for you've made my arm feel ever so much better already."

"I'm so glad, but it's only temporary, you know. When you get home you must get our mother to bathe it in warm water and er—boracic—and it will soon heal."

Her blue eyes—I noticed for the first time they were very blue, and the lashes were straight and black—twinkled suddenly.

"Yes, thank you," she said demurely. "I ought to go home now."

But I had discovered that the binding up of damaged wrists was far more to my taste than painting trees. Also that blue, demure eyes, oval cheeks, and tumbled hair under sunbonnets appealed to me more strongly than all the smiling April landscape. I dare say it was silly, but, remember, I was very young. I sought for an excuse to detain her.

"My brother, Doctor O'Donoghue, Miss Gearing."

Miss Gearing was a willow woman, looking much less than her age. I fancy, with frank eyes and a hauntingly sweet face.

She had brought a small niece to the party. "Who is she?" I whispered to my sister, when I could detach her for a moment; "she seems so familiar to me somehow."

"Her uncle had the next place to ours in Faubridge—she stayed with him sometimes, but you never met her. Yes—yes, dears, certainly. Blind-man's bluff? If you like—oh! you want Doctor O'Donoghue to be blind-man, do you? Here, Acton, do you hear?"

Of course I heard—equally, of course, my handkerchief, which was of a sensible size, had vanished in the previous scinnages. I must borrow one—a large one, for my head was large.

Several microscopic fragments were immediately offered me. "Too small," said I. "Perhaps Mrs. Allen or Miss Gearing will—"

But even these proved useless to the requirements of my cranium. "Wait a moment," said Miss Gearing, and her color deepened—why, I was at a loss to imagine. "I think I have a bigger one."

She dived into the lace which trimmed her bodice, and produced something of a reasonable width. "Will you tie it on, please?" I asked.

Suddenly, as she began to fold it with a view to obeying my request, a very curious feeling took possession of me. I experienced the sensation of being carried back into the past. The eager faces, muslin trills, and bolero jackets disappeared. I was standing in a spring-bathed wood, binding a torn brown arm, while two very blue and rather frightened eyes looked timidly on.

Then, after all, she was not a cot-tager's daughter—and—well, the ways of fate are inscrutable. "How many fingers do I hold up?" screamed someone, and I came to myself with a jerk.

"Twenty!" I cried recklessly, thinking of the years that had flown. Everybody shrieked with laughter, and we plunged into the game. I caught her first, much to the delight of the youngsters, who howled with joy. I held her in my arms, pretending I thought it was my sister, and when at last she restored to me my sight she was blushing just as she had blushed twenty years ago in the clearing.

Soon afterwards they clamored for kiss-in-the-ring, and it fell to me to send a letter to my love. "Honestly, I did not mean to drop it to her—I shouldn't have cared. It was destined for the shoulder of a tallish girl who stood next. Perhaps my hand shook—at any rate, it dropped against her dress."

She started good-naturedly in pursuit of me, and caught me without difficulty. I led her into the middle of the ring. "Now, you must kiss," cried the children gleefully. My sister looked very scandalized; I rose to the occasion and lifted her hand to my lips—it was brown still.

Again she blushed, and I felt so absurdly young and buoyant that I was quite ashamed of myself.

Forty? Nonsense! I was a boy again—a mad, frolicsome boy! It was not till after supper that I got a few moments quietly with her in the corner. I had absently retained possession of the handkerchief, and I took the opportunity of giving it to her.

"It's a very elaborate one," I said, "and—excuse my impertinence—a man's, isn't it?"

"Yes," she smiled. "I came by it in a rather curious way. It was given me by a strange young man in Faubridge Woods—years ago—don't ask me how many, please. I had hurt my arm, and he bound it up so beautifully. He was rather a sentimental person, I fancy, for he asked me to keep the handkerchief as a mascot."

"And you did?"

"Yes—wasn't it curious? I was in a bad carriage accident the next week, and I was the only one out of five who escaped unhurt. Then, later on, I stayed in a house where scarlet fever broke out, and I didn't take it. Of course, it's dreadfully silly of me, but I've really quite a superstitious veneration for that piece of silk."

"Shocking!" I said. "Would you know the young man again?"

"Oh, yes, anywhere—he had brown curls and the most beautiful straight nose."

There was a small square mirror fixed against the wall immediately facing us. I got up and looked in.

"It's pretty straight now," said I, "but the curls belonged to his student days. Work and care have straightened them, I'm afraid."

She started violently—turned quite white—and gave a little cry. "You don't mean—"

"I do," said I, and somehow I found I'd taken both her hands. I didn't know I was going to do it, but I did. "Have you kept your promise?" I asked, and thought of him—this young man with the straight nose—every day?

But, before she could reply, a reveler—one of my four nieces, by the way—found us out and precipitated herself upon us.

"Oh! Uncle Acton," she cried, "you didn't kiss Miss Gearing properly when we had 'kiss-in-the-ring'!"

"It's never too late to mend, Dolly," said I; "just you wait till next time!"

FRUITY RHYMES

In olden days to make things away, The sword was used to clear the way, But in these days the pen now makes Clear the way that progress takes.

So with my pen I strive to make My jellies, jams and chutney take The foremost place on menus fair As conserves, rich, superb, and rare.

A goodly sight is this I trow, Chutney, jelly and jam in a row. Me thinks, if Hamlet this had seen A crazy man he ne'er had been.

Rome was not built in a day, But all good things grow, that pay Of 'Lea and Perrina,' the whole world knows, But bigger than this Kearns' Chutney grows.

APPEARING OLD.

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment. You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxuriant growth of hair. The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herculide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herculide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure. Accept no substitute—there is none. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herculide Co., Detroit, Mich. Hollister Drug Co., special agents.

When your vitality is low, you are miserable all the time. You are languid and depressed, your nerves are weak, and your appetite is poor. Read what did for the invalid daughter of a grateful mother.

My daughter had for a long time been troubled with violent headaches and sleeplessness. She was pale, had no appetite, and was losing flesh rapidly. She tried various remedies, but received no benefit until she commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking half a bottle she began to feel better. By a continued use of this medicine her appetite returned, her cheeks began to fill out and show color, she gained in strength, her headaches disappeared, she slept better, and now says she feels like a new person.

There are many imitations of Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get "AYER'S."

Dear Sirs:—About two years ago a very fine, well bred mare I own got what seemed to be a bad sprain of the off fore fetlock, which made her very lame; I blistered her and let her run out for about four months, when I took her up she was better but still lame and got worse when worked. I then tried another kind of blister with about the same results.

Last Spring I bought a bottle of your Save-the-Horse from your agent in this city. After treating the mare with this for about two weeks I gave her some slow driving; she improved very much, and by the time I had used up the bottle I was able to drive her twenty or thirty miles without any apparent bad effects. She now goes sound; I also with the same bottle removed two wind galls from her hind legs.

Hoping that this will be of some benefit to you, I am, your truly, MARRITT BURNELL, 401 California St.

Positively and permanently cures Spavin, Ringbone, Thoroughpin, Gurb, Splint, Capped Hock, Wind Puff, broken down, bowed or strained tendon or any case of lameness. Horse can be worked as usual and with boots, as no harm will result from scalding of limb or destruction of hair.

PROPOSED DEATH OF COAST GRAND JURY

It became known yesterday that measures are being introduced in the Legislature to abridge the powers of the Grand Jury and prevent further indictments of the boodle ring at the hands of the inquisitorial body.

The United Railroads and other corporations that are likely to be brought into unpleasant prominence in the graft inquiry are to join with the municipal administration in the organized effort to curtail the Grand Jury's powers. If not to wipe out the Grand Jury system.—S. F. Chronicle, Dec. 28.

NEGROES REPLACE JAPANESE

Tacoma, (Wash.), Dec. 27.—Determined to do away with Japanese labor, the Great Northern Railroad is importing negroes from Missouri. Three conclaves passed through Everett today en route to the vicinity of Bellum. There were 150 in the party. A party of 200 more is on the way here.

Japanese laborers are becoming harder to get every day. While they are steady workers, they do not accomplish as much in a day as other men. If the present experiment is successful the Great Northern sections throughout the Northwest will be manned by negroes.

JOHNSON GAVE GOOD SPARRING EXHIBITION

The exhibition given last night at the Orpheum was witnessed by a crowded house and was a mixture of good and bad. The people paid for two things—to see Jack Johnson, the big negro fighter, and to see the pictures of the O'Brien and Burns fight. The Johnson end was all right. He came out first and did a bit of shadow boxing such as he uses in his training and then when the pictures were through sparring for three short rounds with Jack Lamphier, who styles himself "Champion of Calcutta."

Lamphier was of course no match for the big negro, who could outbox him at any style of the game, and was quick as a cat on his feet, but he was willing, and for a man completely out of condition put up a very good exhibition. There was no hard hitting in the boxing, but it was simply an exhibition of the skill of the big heavy weight.

The pictures were quite another story and were by no means up to the mark. The last ten rounds was a great deal better than the first ten, but there was no reason that it should not have been a great deal better. Many who had paid for good seats left the hall, not knowing that Johnson was going to spar, and thoroughly disgusted with the pictures which they had seen.

The reason that the pictures were a failure was given that the current was too strong and when run through a postcard was too weak. This has been the case before, when the pictures of the Passion Play were exhibited, and it would be advisable to do some work on the machine before anything else of the kind is attempted.

The footwork shown by O'Brien was something marvelous and outside of Jim Jeffries, the referee, who attracted universal attention, as he towered over the two fighters, was the feature of the pictures. The films are excellent.

SOCKER TODAY

Males vs. Infantry.
Y. M. C. A. vs. Punahou.
The two above games of soccer will be played this afternoon, as they had to be postponed New Year's Day on account of the heavy rains. The Males should beat the Soldiers and the Y. M. C. A. should defeat the Puns, though in the last game the Y. M. C. A. line-up will miss Turner badly. Special care will be taken today to see that there are plenty of players on the grounds, that no repetition of the games a week ago, when two teams played short-handed, may be seen.

CHINESE FIELD DAY

The Chinese Athletic Club, which won the championship of the River side League at baseball, has turned attention to field sports. The field day will be held on Feb. 12 at 1 p. m. at the Boys' Field on Vineyard street, and should be one of the most interesting events of the kind which has ever been seen in Honolulu.

The following Chinese societies have been invited to send representatives to the meet: The Chinese United Societies, Mo Hoek Society, Quon On Society, Kwong Yee Society, Chi

NEW RECORD

Los Angeles, Dec. 28.—Sonoma Girl owned by J. D. Springer of Los Angeles, trotted an exhibition mile in 2:07 and broke the matinee record at the Christmas matinee of the Los Angeles Driving Club at Agricultural Park. The mare had neither paces nor trailers, and Springer failed to touch the whip to her throughout the mile. It is believed that had the track been at its best and had Sonoma Girl been in her stride at the word she would have negotiated the distance in 2:05.

Today's mark beats the matinee record of Crescous by half a second. When the great mare trotted back to the stand she was given an ovation and, seeming to pulse the festive mood of the crowd, cavorted with her handlers as though she had been on a workout jog.

MARVIN HART WRESTLES

Louisville, Dec. 25.—Marvin Hart showed his versatility today by winning a match on the mat from Al Swanson of Torre Haute, Ind., welter weight champion wrestler. The local pugilist proved a surprise even to his friends, who knew he was a handy man in this direction also. Hart started in as though he meant business and in the first set to began by getting a flying fall which almost meant down for him. The first two falls, however, went to his Swedish opponent, and it was not till the third go that Hart had his chance. With a half Nelson he laid the Swede flat on the mat and held him there.

By the terms of today's contest Swanson was to have thrown Hart three times in one hour of actual wrestling.

1907 TRI COLLEGIATE RACE

Stanford University, Dec. 23.—Representatives from Stanford, the University of Washington and the University of California, came to an agreement today which provides for a tri-cornered regatta to be held on the San Joaquin course next spring between varsity eights, varsity fours and freshman eights from the three colleges. This agreement, which will become a binding contract if ratified by the respective student bodies, is the result of a visit paid to the Stanford campus by J. W. Slattery, graduate manager of the University of Washington. Slattery came here very anxious that Stanford and California should agree to a proposition of his which provided for a tri-cornered regatta to be held on Lake Washington between the three universities. After some talk with Turner, president of the Stanford Boat Club, Coach Gardner of California was secured to talk over the affair and assist in reaching an agreement. Both Turner and Gardner were opposed to the idea of rowing the big regatta so far north, for that would prevent the students of Stanford and California from seeing the regatta. As a compromise it was agreed that the first regatta should be rowed at Sausalito, and in the event of a varsity eight victory for Stanford or California a later contest between the winning crew and Washington should be held in the north.

KAUFMAN WINS

Los Angeles, Dec. 21.—The fight to light between Al Kaufman of San Francisco and George Gardner of Lowell, Mass., which ended in the fourth round with a victory for Kaufman, was a slow and amateurish heavyweight contest. Neither man showed any class. Kaufman had Gardner all but out in the second, and again in the eleventh round, but the latter's ability to cover up and hold on saved him from a knockout. Gardner appeared very awkward in the ring, and his blows were slow and without effect when landed. He showed some ability to box and landed numerous blows on Kaufman in several of the rounds, but they were not of sufficient strength to stagger his opponent. In the early rounds he seemed to lack confidence, and while he showed some aggressiveness in the latter rounds he was evidently very wary of the San Francisco man. Kaufman had a strong punch, but fought with very little vigor, and the crowd booed his efforts throughout the fight. Kaufman was warned several times during the bout by Referee Tommy Burns for unfair fighting.

Kaufman's weight was 185 pounds and Gardner's twelve less.

The blow which ended the fight was a stiff right to the jaw, which rendered Gardner helpless and caused his seconds to throw a towel into the ring. Gardner was so weak during the last round that he fell to the mat twice from sheer weakness and took the count of nine each time.

HAWAII'S REVENUE

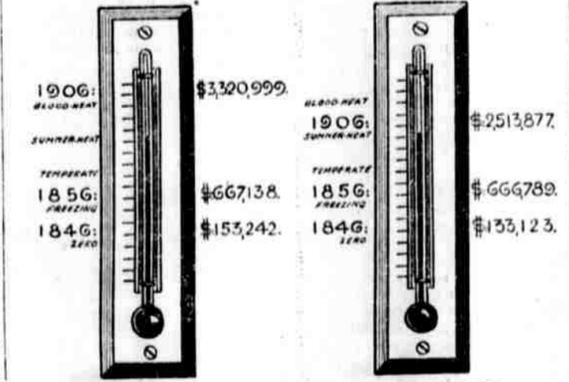

(From Trans-Pacific Trade)

Over sixty years ago in 1843, the year of the British occupation of these Hawaiian Islands, their total revenue did not amount to $50,000 annually. In 1845, under the monarchy, the first financial exhibit was made by R. C. Wyllie, the actual receipts being $130,417.55 with a deficit of $7,934.80. Then there was no segregation of the different sources of income or outgo, such a detailed method of bookkeeping not being put into force till 1847, sixty years ago. The statement of receipts is now interesting:

Import duties	$ 51,134
Internal taxes	25,638

the total revenues in 1847. It is not till the biennial period 1856-1858, half a century ago, that we get an idea of the details of expenditures which show that provision had to be made for a robbery in the Custom House, as well as for an embezzlement by the Clerk of the Governor of Oahu. Thus:

EXPENDITURES, 1856-1858.
Civil list	$ 68,907
Interior department	102,259
Government press	20,754
Dept. of Foreign Relations	17,556
Dept. of Finance	41,842
Dept. of Public Instruction	92,799
Dept. of War	49,329
Dept. of Law	34,214
Bureau of Pub. Improvement	139,530
Miscellaneous	29,159

RECEIPTS	EXPENSES
1906: $3,320,999.	1906: $2,513,877.
1856: $667,138.	1856: $667,789.
1846: $153,242.	1846: $133,123.

Internal commerce, coasting, 12,354
Fees, perquisites, 4,705
Fines, penalties, forfeitures, 8,426
Stamps, sales of new laws, 3,184
Government realizations, 20,399
Due by sundries, 18,521
Bills receivable, 50,273

Profit and loss from robbery of Custom House, 8,954
Bills receivable for cash embezzled by clerk of Governor of Oahu, 1,244
Cash on hand, Feb. 31, 1858, 319

Total, 1906, $3,320,999

In that year, 1847, when the Hawaiian people were "independent of all Foreign Influence and Control," as the financial exhibit states, there was a "balance, being excess of receipts over expenditures," amounting to $35,072.43.

Comparing the conditions of today with those of sixty years ago, we find that the Territory's revenues amounted, in 1906, to $3,320,999 without including the import duties which go to the Federal government and which constituted more than twenty-five per cent. of Half a century ago, as now, most of the expenditures were for public improvements, though it is doubtful whether the subject of good roads was then as live an issue as it is today. The education of the people was also well provided for, a larger proportion of the total revenue being then devoted to the Department of Public Instruction than is now given to the purposes of the Board of Education. Judging from the old appropriation for the Department of Law it would seem that a love for litigation must have been born among the Hawaiian people.

CHIUSA MARU IN PORT

The Japanese steamer Chiusa Maru arrived yesterday afternoon from the Orient, bringing 500 tons of freight for this city and 561 Japanese immigrants after a rather unpleasant voyage from Yokohama, the weather being thick almost all the way over. This necessitated low speed at times.

Thursday, when approaching the islands, the Chiusa ran into a very thick fogbank and was delayed for some time. Then, coming through the Mokuauia channel and arriving here by way of Diamond Head, a fact which caused more or less question as to the ship's identity.

Judge Lindsey is expected back tomorrow morning from Kanae, whither he was called on account of the serious illness of his mother.

This machine MAKES fence from 1 to 5 ft. high with 1 to 12 in. mesh with a breaking strain of over 25,000 lbs. at a cost of 50c and up per rod, being Horse-high, Bull-strong, Pig-tight, Chicken and Mongoose Proof. Catalogues on application.

PUPILS TO AID PROMOTION

Secretary Wood of the Promotion Committee has arranged a series of contests among the pupils of the higher schools of the city. The subject of the contest will be description of plant-life on the Hawaiian Islands. A $5 prize has been offered to the pupils of the High School for the best article written on that subject. The same prize is offered to the pupils of the Priory.

The pupils of St. Louis College have been asked to compete for a prize with a series of articles on the fruits of Hawaii.

MARDI GRAS MAY REVIVE

Mr. Wood asks the right to retain any and all papers submitted to him.

The Kilohana Art League has something up its sleeve for Washington's Birthday. At a recent meeting they decided to repeat the Mardi Gras held on the evening of February 19, 1901 in the old drill-shed.

That function will long be remembered as an occasion that displayed the most magnificent gowns that dressmaker's art could furnish.

Her Gracious Princess of the Carnival was Princess Kawananakoa, and J. Tarr McGrew was escort Prince.

Former Queen Liliuokalani occupied a box adjacent to the Carnival Majesties.

To be correctly clothed will make friends and unlock doors anywhere. You can get that kind of clothes from the Kash Co.

Old Board Recommends To Successors That Johnson Be Kept

PROPER CEREMONIES WASH LAST MEETINGS

While the last meeting of the old Board of Supervisors last night almost went the recent storm one better, so many speeches and resolutions of thanks, appreciation, etc., were there the real meat in the cocoanut was a resolution introduced by Jack Lucas, whereby the Board expressed its confidence in Sam Johnson and recommended to the new Board that it retain him as road supervisor.

As a vote of confidence the resolution was probably worth no more than such things usually are, but the resolution becomes far more significant when it is remembered that three members who voted for the resolution Cox, Dwight and Archer, are also members of the new Board, and by their vote last night they virtually pledged themselves to support Johnson. Archer, in kokuaing, hesitated and seemed far from enthusiastic. The others followed suit with better grace. Thus, unless the three members stop Sam will have their, Hustace's and Kealoha's vote in the new Board, and will be sure of holding his job in spite of the Democrats, Achi and the others who have been trying to undermine him.

The Board of Supervisors held its first meeting in its new room last night. In many ways the room was an improvement, being much larger, airier and more comfortable than the old one. Excellent accommodations had also thoughtfully been provided for the press. The room bears the number 13, but it is hoped that the new Board will be able to live it down.

Among those present at last night's meeting were all the Supervisors, Clerk Kalaoukalanui, Deputy Clerk Bufandeau, Sheriff Brown, Supervisors-elect Hustace and Harvey, Park Keeper Kallimal, County Engineer Gere, G. A. Davis, Wm. Ellis, Sam Johnson, Tom Cummins, Fire Chief Thurston, Assistant Clerk Hanaiei and the press.

MAILS LOSES SUIT TO RECOVER LAND

The suit in which C. B. Maille vs. J. W. Pratt was concluded in Judge Bolt's court last night, the Judge finding for the defendant on all the points raised. Maille, according to the statement made by his counsel, Light foot, will appeal from the decision to the Supreme Court.

The suit was brought by Maille nominally against Pratt to set aside a sale of lands under execution for taxes on the ground of gross inadequacy of price and of fraud. The Judge held that it was Maille's own fault that he lost his property.
