SENATE SELECTS DAM COMMITTEE

Hawaii Supervisors Want Their Salaries Raised

FOURTH DAY.
Forenoon Session.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Senate convened. On motion by Lane a technical error in the journal of the first day was corrected. It had failed to show what disposition had been made of the Governor's message, this error being due to an oversight.

L. E. Pinkham wrote that $50 a month had been appropriated for a physician for Koolaupoko by the last Legislature but it had not been available, as it was specified that such physician must be a resident of the district, and none such could be secured. He asked that the appropriation be made available. Referred to the Health Committee.

Smith reported for the Judiciary Committee on Senate Bill 3, providing for fire departments for Wailuku, Lahaina and Kahului, as well as other towns where such departments are organized. It recommended the passage of the bill. Smith stated that the question of transfer of property to the counties, would be raised by this bill, in this case no transfer of property was referred to, its provisions referring merely to the personal and organization of the department. The title to the equipment would still rest with the Territory. The bill passed second reading.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

The Judiciary Committee also reported on Senate Bill 14 relating to the right of married women to deal with their separate property. It provides that a woman may be authorized by a Court to sell her property without her husband's consent, when her husband has failed to provide suitably for her, or unreasonably stands in the way of her proper enjoyment of her property. Filed to be considered with the bill.

Gandall reported for the Committee on Rules recommending that the temporary rules be permanently adopted.

Kalama introduced a bill relating to the payment of laborers on road work for the Territory. Passed first reading by title.

JAPANESE OFFICERS ARE PLANNING TO VISIT VOLCANO

Admiral Tomioka's fleet will visit Hilo if the plans now on foot are carried out. The visit to another port in the Territory was suggested yesterday and immediately Secretary Atkinson rendered all the assistance possible to further the plans of the nation's guests.

Wireless telegrams were sent to the people of Hilo today and although the notice is short, it is believed a good reception will be given the visiting officers and men, and ample accommodation placed at their command for a visit to the volcano.

The ships will stay in this port as long as originally planned, the stop at Hilo being an extension of their visit to the Territory.

HAWAII IN HARPER'S

The latest issue of Harper's Weekly received in the city, makes a leading feature of the lesson Hawaii has given California in handling the vexed school question. An illustrated article by Special Correspondent Inglis reviews conditions in Hawaii's schools at considerable length and in a manner to reflect great credit on the Territory. Photographs of Kaahumanu, Kaiulani and the High School scholars are given to more fully demonstrate the statement of the text of Mr. Inglis' article to the effect that Hawaii has the greatest mixture of races to be found in the United States, and still finds no difficulty in dividing its scholars without raising arbitrary and un-American race problems.

LUMBER FIRMS ARE NOT MAKING MONEY

F. J. Lowrey Gives Very Strange Figures On Witness Stand

The case of the United States against the Lumber Trust was continued this morning in the Federal Court with F. J. Lowrey, manager of Lewers & Cooke, on the witness stand. A good deal of valuable testimony was received from Mr. Lowrey during the morning, the Court being adjourned at 11 o'clock to enable him to bring into court certain papers which were desired by the prosecution.

The main points of Lowrey's testimony were in regard to the methods by which the three firms now on trial arrived at their common price list. It was very interesting to note that according to the figures which Lowrey gave, the Lumber Trust is losing money on each 1,000 feet of lumber which is sold.

Lowrey testified that he had made up the price list which was sent in January and that he arrived at the price of $37.50, which is being charged for rough lumber, from the following figures:

Coast of lumber on the Coast	$17.50
Freight	12.50
Interest, exchange and insurance	.35
Handling lumber in Honolulu	1.25
	$31.60

Immediately after this he testified that the expense of doing business here is 20 per cent. of the selling price, amounting to $7.50 in this case. Totaled this would make the lumber cost the firms here $39.10, while they sell the same lumber for $37.50.

In regard to the American-Hawaiian freights Lowrey stated that the price had been raised from $7 to $11 on all shipments of less than 150,000 feet two years ago and that he had talked the matter over with Agent Morse before this was done. He said that he had not taken the matter up with the other firms. The three firms had agreed to ship at least 150,000 feet of lumber by the American-Hawaiian every three months, and that they had fulfilled this agreement for the past two years.

He stated that the scale of prices was fixed as the result of talks between himself and the managers of the other two firms and that they were then made up by one man and the other two copied them. He said that from his personal observation he believed that the three firms on trial controlled 75 per cent. of the lumber business in Honolulu and from 40 to 50 per cent. of the business in the Territory.

JAPANESE SCHOOLS ARE INDEPENDENT

Interesting Opinion Is Rendered By Deputy Attorney-General

That the Board of Education has practically no authority whatever over the Japanese private schools in this Territory unless the same children fail to attend schools where English is taught, is the gist of the opinion rendered at the request of the Board by Deputy Attorney General Prosser and presented to the Board this afternoon. The Department of Public Instruction is practically told "hand off."

Mr. Prosser's opinion in full is as follows:

Feb. 25, 1907.

Honorable W. H. Babbitt, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Honolulu, T. H.

Dear Sir:—In response to your request for the opinion of this Department of date January 16, 1907, as to the construction to be placed upon Sections 209, 210 and 211 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii for the year 1905, we give you the following advice relative to the questions propounded by you:

The law places the obligation on your department to see that every private school sought to be established within the Territory of Hawaii makes application for permission so to do as provided by Section 209. Your Department has no power to compel schools already established which have not complied with law in the matter of their obtaining permission so to do, to now obtain such a permit. The sections referred to cannot be enforced by any penal prosecution. If capable of enforcement at all, injunction would be probably the only remedy that could be invoked. The powers in the sections named conferred upon the Department of Public Instruction are such as might very properly be exercised by it, and some of the powers therein contained, come well within the police power of the Territory, for instance, the power to establish rules and regulations relative to sanitary conditions and the rule prescribing that teachers of private schools should be persons of good moral character. It it is desired to have rules and regulations that are enforcible as set forth in the Sections named, such a result might be attained by requiring all persons before taking up the profession of teaching to have a license issued under proper rules and regulations by your Department prescribed.

While your Department is, by the Sections referred to, given the power to make Rules and Regulations relative to sanitary conditions and hygiene, yet you are not required so to do, and may rely upon the Board of Health's examination of school premises and sanitary conditions if you so desire.

The object of our present school law, so far as compulsory education is concerned, is attained by the attendance of children at public or private schools where English is taught within the Territory of Hawaii. If the parents of such scholars desire that in addition to the schooling prescribed by law, such children should have other and different educational facilities, whether in foreign languages or in subjects not taught in the common schools, there is no reason why the same should not be permitted. In fact, any attempt to prevent the attendance of children at schools other than those provided by the Government, provided that such child comply with the law in regard to attendance at public or private schools within the Territory where English is taught, would be a violation of the constitutional rights of the citizens and residents of the Territory.

The word "school" is defined by Bouvier, Vol. 2, page 957, as being "an institution of learning of a lower grade than a college or university. A place of primary instruction."

Section 206 of the Revised Laws provides that "all schools established and maintained by the Department in accordance with law, are public schools. All other schools are private schools." It therefore follows that if the places where children meet for purposes of instruction in languages other than English, can properly be considered institutions of learning or places of primary instruction, then such place of meeting for such purpose would be a private school within the strict meaning of Section 206.

The past year at Makawell has been exceptionally dry and the total deliveries of water from our two ditches reached a mark as low as 45 million gallons per day. Our cane fields have suffered greatly for the lack of water and we were especially hard pressed during the summer months, when matters were made worse by a demand for water by the rice planters in Hanapepe valley, which we were obliged to give them. The leaf-hopper pest did considerable damage to some of our fields of plant cane in the beginning of the year, but the severity of the attack was for a short period and we have not been bothered to any extent by this pest since.

CROP OF 1906.

I am glad to report that this crop just harvested has overrun the estimate and has yielded a total, including the Gay & Robinson sugars, of 20,844 tons of sugar. The total yield of this crop, although the area was a little larger, was not as high as the 1905 crop, which was due to the severe attacks of the leaf-hoppers, as they never left the fields during its entire growth. The following is the final result, including the Gay & Robinson sugars:

Plant Cane	1110	7748
Ratoons	1932	10650
Total H. S. Co.	3042	18398
G. & R. Cane	404	2446
Crop 1906	3446	20841

CROP OF 1907.

The milling of this crop was commenced on December 3rd. The area of the crop is the largest that we have ever carried here and would have given us a banner yield under favorable conditions, but as stated in the beginning of this report we have had an unusually dry year and the yields of our cane fields, which promised so well at the first, have been reduced considerably.

CROP OF 1908.

We started planting for this crop the first of May and finished in October. On account of our long grinding season and for other reasons I deemed it wise to reduce the area of our planted fields and raise a larger area of ratoons. I am glad to say that the young cane, both plant and ratoons, look well and our prospects for good yields are promising. The following is the area of this crop, including the Gay & Robinson fields:

Hawn. Sugar Co.:	Acres.
Plant Cane	615.33
Ratoons	2,672.
Total area	3,287.33
Gay & Robinson:	Acres.
Plant and Ratoons	500.
Grand Total	3,787.33

The expenditures for permanent improvements for the past year were $56,229. Of this $25,000 was spent for the construction of new railroads and the material for the same, and the balance was spent, of which the most important items are as follows: the construction of laborers' quarters, one 20-ton Baldwin locomotive, live stock, construction of new fences and the material for a 40 x 120-foot warehouse at the Makawell landing.

At a meeting held in Honolulu October 23, 1906, and also at a meeting held September 21 by the directors of Hawaiian Sugar Co., it was decided that a dynamo be installed near the mill, to be operated by a Pelton wheel to furnish lighting for the mill etc., as the present plant was entirely too small. It was also decided to equip our lighterage outfit at the Makawell landing so that we could handle from 500 to 750 tons sugar per day, as it is necessary to handle this amount in order to make direct shipment of sugar from Makawell landing by American-Hawaiian steamers via the Tehuantepec route. We have ordered a 35 H. P. gasolene launch from San Francisco and are having three boats made in Honolulu. It is hoped that the above equipment will be here in time so that we can handle the first American-Hawaiian steamer to arrive here in February, 1907.

Outside of the above new dynamo and improved lighterage equipment and possibly the extension of our railroads, there will be very little spent on improvements for the coming year.

SUGAR FACTORY.

The crop just harvested is the first we have taken off by the roller system at Makawell. It is gratifying to report that the results have been very satisfactory and the cost of manufacture has been reduced greatly. We are well pleased with our 12-roller mill, which has proved itself to be strong and well made in every instance. The new copper rolls which were installed in our 13-foot vacuum pan have made this pan now a quick boiler and a steam saver. The automatic feeders in the fire room are giving good satisfaction and have enabled us to reduce the expense in this department. Altogether, our factory is now in better shape and I think the cost of manufacture for the crop now being harvested will be less than it was last year.

Senate Bill 14, relating to the rights of married women to deal with their separate property, came up for second reading on motion by Smith, who spoke strongly in favor of the bill. Dowsett said that often a man might have good reason to object to his wife's disposing of her property. He thought the bill might be passed in another form.

Makekau moved that the bill be postponed indefinitely, as he thought it would only lead to the estate of married women being swallowed up by litigation. He found no second.

VOLUNTEERS ARE BACK HOME AGAIN

Yesterday was anything but a day of rest at Camp Taft. Early morn saw movement on foot in preparation for breaking camp. Regrets that the field life was nearly over were heard from all sides. The day was as perfect as could be desired. No intense heat from the sun, and only a trace of dampness along about noon.

Quite a considerable target practice was indulged in notwithstanding the hustle and bustle of packing up.

Captain Sam Johnson went up on the Sunday morning train, to take charge of his department and enjoy to the last the grandest outing the National Guards have ever had.

A number of the officers came to town on the train leaving Wahiawa at 4:15 p. m. yesterday. One soldier whose name could not be learned was brought back on the same train on a stretcher, completely covered with a blanket. He was removed from the train at this end to the "hurry-up" wagon. It was reported that he had a severe case of measles.

There has been quite a little sickness in camp, especially from measles, which seemed to pick out the Maui men as special victims. Two or three cases were so bad that they were left behind at the hospital tent, but no serious consequences are looked for.

At the drillshed last night after their triumphal march through the city, headed by Captain Berger and his band, three rousing cheers were given for their officers and the National Guard of Hawaii. Colonel Jones thanked the boys for their general good behavior and cheerfulness in carrying out all instructions while in camp. The Oahu boys then dispersed to their respective homes, while the Maui and Hilo companies took possession of the drill shed to await the departure of steamers for the other islands.

The camp life was anything but play. The amount of valuable instruction absorbed in the short time they were out is wonderful. In the handling of the rifle and marksmanship the men made a showing that they need not be ashamed of.

In speaking of the results of the encampment last night Colonel Jones said:

"The men one and all did their work well, showing an eagerness in their duties that was very gratifying. From the first reveille until bedtime they were busy, but they seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves in spite of that. They were orderly and sober and I do not think that anyone at Wahiawa will have the least complaint to make about them. They left Camp Taft reluctantly, and this is not to be wondered at, for we were camped in one of the prettiest places in the whole Territory. The weather was delightful during our stay there, the nights being cool enough to make the men sleep well after their day's work."

Saturday was the day of days at Camp Taft. It was inspection and review day. A few very light showers dampened the grass of the parade ground, but that was the only thing that was dampened. Spirits, health and equipment were at the top notch.

A trifling accident marred the practice shoot for just a few seconds. Sergeant Gouves, like a good soldier, was when the bullets were the thickest; that is, he was in the marker's pit when a spent bullet ricocheted into the pit, striking him in the side. It did not enter so far but what the gallant Sergeant plucked the offender out himself and started for the hospital tent without assistance, Drs. Cooper and Moore were right there with the goods (and bandages) and had him fixed up in a jiffy.

The United States War Department demands that an inspection of militia be made at stated periods. And a thorough inspection it is, too. Strength, efficiency, equipment, discipline and camp paraphernalia are given a most thorough looking into and a report made to headquarters.

Just back of the camp is a most ideal parade ground, and it was there that the review and inspection were held.

The maneuvers were up to date in every particular, and the discipline so near perfect that one wonders at the thoroughness.

The Governor expressed himself well pleased with the appearance of the camp from the point of cleanliness.

Secretary Atkinson and Captain Chamberlain of the regular army accompanied the Governor and Major Van Vliet during the discharge of their official duties.

CO. F WON HONORS OF WAHIAWA SHOOT

Four First Places Won By Capt. Johnson's Company

According to Col. Jones of the National Guard, the recent encampment was by far the most successful which has ever been held in the Hawaiian Islands. The target shooting was by long odds the most prominent feature of the work done and the scores made were very satisfactory. Who all the best shots were has not been determined but Col. Jones is having the scores made up and they will soon be ready for publication.

Saturday was inspection and the boys were given plenty of work by Major Van Vliet, of the Tenth Infantry, who allowed nothing to escape his notice, making the most rigid inspection which has ever been experienced by the National Guard of Hawaii.

The shooting honors of the encampment were carried away by Capt. Sam Johnson with a score of 45 at all three ranges, 200, 300 and 500 yards. Three other men in Capt. Johnson's company made the three next highest scores so that Co. F still holds her position as the crack shooting company of the islands.

The National Guardsmen suffered a little from the cold weather at Wahiawa, which they were unused to, a large number needing attention from the medical department on this account. Their spirits raised as the sun came out, however, and all enjoyed the trip. The cold was felt worst in the morning hours when the boys were out of bed at 5:15, before the sun was up.

A club was formed while in the camp which was known as the Never Sleep Club. This was composed of a number of the officers whose duties kept them up till all hours of the night. Adjutant Tom Cummins had his office hours posted outside his tent. They were from 5 a. m. on one day till 1 a. m. on the next.

JAPANESE SCHOOLS

Your Department has no duties as to supervision over the instruction of such children at such hours except as provided by the Sections hereinabove referred to. Even admitting, for the sake of argument, that the Sections referred to are enforcible, we would call your attention to the language of Section 209, relative to the qualifications of persons seeking to teach private schools, to-wit:

"If the applicant possesses the necessary qualifications to become a teacher of the school proposed, the Department shall issue a permit authorizing the establishment of such school."

This evidently contemplates the establishment of various kinds of private schools, the qualification to be possessed by the teachers thereof to be dependent upon the instruction to be given therein. There is no law enforcible which would prevent the establishment of a private foreign school, and in the event of the establishment of such school, the existing statutes only require that the teachers therein need be possessed of the qualifications to instruct in educational matters therein taught.

Of course, the foregoing advice relative to the method of enforcing Sections 209, 210, and 211 of the Revised Laws applies only as against persons desiring to establish a private school, or who at the present time are teaching or conducting such a school without having complied with the requirements of law.

If children attend a public or private school recognized by your Department, they cannot be punished (if they need be punished at all) for attending a private school that is not so recognized at hours other than those required by your Department for their attendance. It might, however, be argued that the Sections under consideration might be indirectly enforced as against children within the school age attending schools not public or not complying with law. Attendance at public or private schools is by our laws made compulsory, and attendance at private schools not recognized by your Department, places a person attending such school in the same position as though such person refrained from attending school at all, the penalty therefor being prescribed by Section 213.

The wisdom of attempting to enforce Sections 209, 210, and 211, in the indirect method hereinbefore suggested, does not appeal to this Department, and it is extremely doubtful if prosecutions under a technical violation of this law, as suggested, would be successful.

I have the honor to be,
Yours very respectfully,
M. F. PROSSER,
Deputy Attorney General.

E. C. PETERS,

Women Avoid Operations

MISS ROSE MOORE

When a woman suffering from female trouble is told that an operation is necessary, it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital, the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation has been decided upon as the only cure. The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who by taking made from native roots and herbs, have escaped serious operations, as evidenced by Miss Rose Moore's case, of 307 W. 26th St., N.Y. She writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

THE NEW IMMIGRATION LAW.

The best evidence of the confidence existing between the "high contracting parties" Japan and the United States is the paragraph in the immigration law, just passed, which puts an end to the use of Hawaii as a half way station for a flood of Japanese going to the mainland in violation of their contract with their Government as expressed in their passports.

"Provided, that whenever the President shall be satisfied that passports issued by any foreign government to its citizens to go to any country other than the United States or to any insular possession of the United States, or to the canal zone are being used for the purpose of enabling the holders to come to the continental territory of the United States to the detriment of the labor conditions therein, the President may refuse to permit such citizens of the country issuing such passports to enter the continental territory of the United States from such other country or from such insular possession or from the canal zone."

It will be noted that the word Japanese is not used, and consequently includes all aliens with passports specified for Hawaii.

Under the terms of this law Japan by signifying its acceptance, places full confidence in the good-will of the President, who alone must "be satisfied" of the proper period for refusing immigrants the privilege of going to the mainland.

The United States by passing this law expresses its reliance on the good intention of the Japanese by assuming that Japan will not issue passports for laborers to go to the mainland.

Taken as a whole, this law does what this paper has suggested it might do—makes the passports of the Japanese Government effective.

Japan for the last year or more has been issuing few passports for the mainland. Yet her people have been going there by the thousands. This new law causes the passport to mean something. It gives form and reality to the reiteration of the Japanese Government that it does not wish to have its people emigrate in large numbers to any part of the United States where they are not wanted.

Further expression of confidence in Japan is found in the fact that under this new law the responsibility for determining what constitutes a "laborer" rests with the country issuing the passport. This also eliminates what might well be a serious source of friction, for the American definition of a coolie is very different from that given in the dictionary or accepted in the Orient.

This immigration amendment is admittedly a temporary affair pending the adoption of a treaty to cover the point at issue.

There is every reason to believe that the treaty will follow the same general lines.

A CHILDREN'S LAW.

With all the laws that are in the making, it would seem that everybody ought to get something that shall be of benefit to himself. With so much talk about it and about, such endless words, burning oratory, such countless references to the good of the Territory, the duty of the lawmakers, their responsibility to their constituents, there surely ought to be laws enough to go around.

No doubt, before the legislative session ends there will be enough pet measures introduced. We are to have liquor license legislation, land law legislation, primary law legislation. There may be legislation regarding lumberniption, regarding this thing and that thing. We are liable to have laws to eat by and sleep by, to live by and die by.

But all the legislation so far proposed is for grown-ups. Has anybody heard a whisper regarding any law for the benefit of the children? Hardly.

Surely they are not so unimportant. We have laws regulating our treatment of horses and dogs. Why not one regulating the treatment of children?

In Hawaii a man's child is treated too much as the man's private property,—to do with as he will. The man may not beat his dog cruelly, or ill treat his horse, on pain of being brought up with a short turn by the humane officer, haled before a magistrate and fined or imprisoned. He may not let his horse or cow wander loose in the streets or trample down his neighbor's flower-beds. If he does the pound officer comes along and takes the beast and the man must go down in his pocket and dig up coin of the realm to get his property back.

But a child is a different matter. There is no law in the statute books for him. True, if he violates any of the countless laws that men have provided, he is liable to imprisonment or other punishment. But what recourse has the child of a drunken or careless father or an incompetent and ignorant or heartless mother, who thrashes the life half out of him for some real or fancied wrong, or turns him adrift in the streets to get along as best he can?

To whom can he appeal? The law? There is no law for him.

If his parents refuse to care for him the officers of that law that is not for him take him up and lock him in jail, along with drunks and burglars, insane men, murderers and all the riff-raff of society that society locks up to rid itself of.

Is the little girl disobeys some instruction of her mother, or runs away from school, — does any one of the things that every girl of ordinary intelligence and spirits does,—she, too, is liable to go to the public lock-up, to remain there with denizens of lwi-lei, the parasites of the social body, until the judge sends her to the reform school.

The reform school seems to be the only place for the unfortunate boy or girl whose parents are too incompetent or too worthless to look out for the child properly.

The reform school is all right in its way, conducted by men and women who have the best interests of their charges at heart. But what kind of an upbringing is it for the child? What kind of a home is it?

And there is no denying the fact that a proportion of the children placed there are committed for offenses for which we older ones, if we had done the same things, would only have been scolded, or perhaps spanked.

How many grown men are there in Honolulu who can say that they never robbed an orchard or a melon patch, or threw stones at some neighbor's chickens? Who is there who would be willing to admit that he never played hookey from school to go fishing. How many little Lord Fauntleroy's were there in your neighborhood when you were a boy, anyhow?

Yet it is for no graver offenses that many of the reform school children are committed.

Hardly a day goes by but that some small urchin stands before the majesty of the law, as exemplified by Judge Whitney, and confesses that he has been playing truant from school. Or a bashful little girl, wriggling bare, brown toes under ragged apron, confesses to the heinous crime of having disobeyed her mother.

And the mother and father of such children?

Of course they are there to plead with a hard-hearted judge to give the child one more chance,—not to put the brand of criminality on the child soul? Hardly.

In most cases, if the parent appears in the case at all, it is to urge the judge to send the youngster to the reform school. That takes the responsibility of its care and rearing off the parents.

Judge Whitney has stated that he never cares to commit a child if he can help doing so. There is no doubt but that he does all he can to keep from making prisoners of children.

But what can he do?

The law makes it no offense for a parent to refuse to care for his offspring.

A child can be ill-treated, turned adrift in the streets, kicked out of its parents' home, and nothing can be done. If it were a dog or a horse, the case would be different. Then the law could step in and force the man to act differently.

But a child—there is no law for a child.

Judge Whitney is trying to do on a small scale in Honolulu what Judge Ben Lindsay is doing on a large scale in Denver—make men of the boys. But he has no law to help him. Lindsay can punish the parents if they neglect their offspring. Whitney can do nothing.

There is a chance here for some legislator to do a better work than anyone appears as yet to have select-

CROOK VISITS MAUI

[Special to the Bulletin]

Wailuku, Maui, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Crook of Honolulu have been callers at Wailuku this week. Mr. Crook renewed his acquaintance with many of his friends, and many of the latter are numbered among the gentler sex, whose admiration of him has not waned during his long absence at the capital. They were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Raymond while in this town. Mrs. Crook is a sister of Mrs. Raymond. They also paid a flying trip to Makawao, the parental home of Mr. Crook, where he was reared in his boyhood days. They will return to the city this evening on the Kinau. Mr. Crook promises to branch out in business for himself in Honolulu when he returns from the East in three months' time.

FOUND HIS MAN

Lihue, Kauai, Feb. 18.—Sheriff Rice has succeeded in apprehending the man who committed the murder in Lawai some three weeks ago. It will be remembered that a Korean was found buried in a pile of earth at the mouth of one of the tunnels on the road to Kukuiula, but that the trace of the murderers had been lost, principally on account of the failure of the Koloa police to inform headquarters about it until the fifth day after the discovery. Sheriff Rice went over himself and started a quiet investigation, which led him to arrest three Koreans of the neighborhood. They have had nothing to divulge, but yesterday evidence was secured which proved at least one of the men to have been implicated in the murder.

MANY PEOPLE ENJOY
JAPANESE
WARSHIP HOSPITALITY

The inspection of the Japanese squadron by all the Honolulans and the outside district Japanese yesterday brought forth the largest and the most orderly group of spectators seen on the waterfront for a long time.

The ship's of Dai Nippon now in port were thrown open to the inspection of the people and the officers from Admiral Tomioka down who are always polite with their guests, accorded them all the courtesies typically Japanese.

Admiral Tomioka's flagship, the Itsukushima, was the center of attraction, as the crowd wanted to see the admiral, Captain Nawa and Lieutenant Tsukamoto, the captor of Rojestvensky. Some of the people considered themselves very fortunate in seeing the admiral while others of their guides were showing Lieut. Tsukamoto, who gained fame in the Russo-Japanese war. The lieutenant speaks English very well and his guests listened with great interest to the stories of the great naval battles. The cruiser Hashidate, Capt. Yamagata's ship, was crowded from stem to stern. On board the Matsushima, Capt. Nomaguichi, the flagship of the Japanese fleet in the China-Japan war, the spectators were likewise treated well. Most of the officers of the ship speak English and the crowd had no difficulty whatever in gaining information.

The Matsushima was classed as a battleship in the China-Japan war and made a history of her own. She was the flagship of Admiral Saito then and was in the thick of the battle.

The following notice, which was posted on the 12-inch gun, gives an account of her engagements:

September 17, 1894, in Yalu. Feb. 7, 1895, Fort Leu King Tan. March 23, 1895, Fort Pescador, July 26, 1904, Lai Lui Chui, Aug. 9, 1904, Takhe Bay; May 27-28, 1905. Naval battle in Japan sea, July 7, 1905 Saghalin, and July 24, 1905, Japanese land in Casterics.

WILL THEY LAND?

The following cablegram from Secretary of State Root to the Governor late Saturday afternoon shows, without a shadow of doubt, just where the Japanese of Hawaii are at, regarding their chances of getting in on the mainland:

Washington, Feb. 23.

To Governor Carter, Honolulu.

Immigration Act approved Feb. 20. Provision affecting alien laborers from Hawaii now in force.

ROOT.

The Mongolia carried away between 300 and 400 Japanese, bound for California on the Tuesday prior to the signing of the Act. It is expected that they will be denied admission to the mainland, and interesting developments are awaited.

MAUI MASONS GIVE TUCKER FINE PRESENT

Joshrua Daniel Tucker, 33d degree, the genial tyler of the Masonic Temple and general guardian of Masonry in general throughout the Hawaiian Islands, was properly surprised on Saturday. Hon. H. P. Baldwin arrived from Maui by the Kinau and later called on Tucker, with the object of presenting him with a slight token of the esteem Maui men have for him. Tucker opened it and found a beautiful gold watch with fob carrying the emblem of the 33rd degree Mason. Tucker's initials are engraved on the back of the watch and within the case is an inscription notifying him that the gift is from the brother Masons of Maui whom he has assisted in many ways. Joshua Daniel now wears a perennial Maui smile.

The taking of testimony is being hurried as much as possible in order that the Fullerton may leave for San Francisco at once. RECEPTION GIVEN
ON BOARD
JAPANESE FLEET

The Japanese public of the Territory is being entertained this afternoon aboard the Japanese squadron between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock, at an "At Home," and plantation laborers have already flocked into town by this morning's trains.

The ships are beautifully decorated and the flagship Itsukushima will be the center of attraction. The affair is strictly limited to the Japanese population. The flagship Itsukushima is decorated with the artificial cherry blossoms and other artistic flowers of Japan, while the international colors beautify the ship itself. A representation of a Japanese battleship, with all the modern inventions is mounted on a stand. The wireless implements aboard the little battleship can be put in operation without any hitch.

Tea and refreshments will be served aboard the Itsukushima and the midshipmen's quarters on the Matsushima have been turned over for the use of the ladies. The decorations on the Matsushima are similar to those of the Itsukushima. The Hashidate differs in her decorations. Her guns are decked with the Hawaiian greens and the interior of the ship is neatly dressed with the national colors. Gymnastic exercises will be held on the wharf between the Itsukushima and Hashidate. Fencing, wrestling and races will be watched with much interest. The main gate which leads to the Itsukushima and Hashidate, is guarded by the Japanese marines and a long tarpaulin adorned with the flags, running between the ships obstruct the view of the wharf.

The officers of the ships will see to the wants of their guests and dinner will be given aboard the Matsushima at 5 o'clock.

It was reported this forenoon that a few interesting songs would be sung by the crew and likewise by the Honolulu Japanese.

Miki Saito, the Consul General, and his staff will witness the exercises and prizes will be awarded to the winners of the contests. An invitation has been sent to Admiral Very and his staff and a real good time is expected.

The next meeting of the Buckeye Club of Hawaii will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Merrill, Chaplain Lane, at 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, March 1. The meeting will be in the form of a reception to Dean Bosworth.

A Rainier Toast
To The Japanese Fleet

They have come from far Yokohama,
Frm the shadows of high Fujiyama,
These men of the mighty Mikado,
Who conquer though scorning bravado.
Then here's to the Japanese tars,
The sons of old Neptune and Mars,
Fujiyama's forgotten,
And saki forsaken,
RAINIER lifts her head to the stars.

So we welcome them here
With a schooner of beer,
These jolly, brave Japanese tars.

The Marathon Mystery

A Story of Manhattan

By BURTON E. STEVENSON
Author of "The Holladay Case"

Copyright, 1904, by Henry Holt and Company

"Let you out of where?"

"Out of the closet. You see, unfortunately, this lock works only from the outside, so you'll have to lock me in before you go. I've put on the bolt as an extra precaution."

"You mean you're going to spend the whole morning in that closet?"

"That's precisely what I mean."

"But you'll suffocate."

"No—you see I've cut a hole through. That will let in the air; besides, through it one can get an admirable view of the outer room."

"Ah!" I said, beginning to understand. "It's a trap!"

"Yes, a trap. Maybe we'll catch something and maybe we won't. What time do you usually go to lunch?"

"About 1 o'clock."

"That ought to bring you here by 1:30. Very well; lock me in and take the key with you."

I did as he bade me, though not without some reluctance, and I confess that I thought of little else during the morning.

* * * * * * *

One o'clock came at last and I hurried out and took the elevated uptown as the quickest way of getting there. It was just 1:20 when I opened my door. With a little shiver of apprehension I inserted the key in the lock of the closet and threw back the bolt. Godfrey walked out on the instant. He was smiling, but pale with fatigue.

"If you've got such a thing as a nip of brandy anywhere about, Lester," he said, sinking into the nearest chair, "I'd be infinitely obliged for it. I feel rather shaky in the knees."

I brimmed a glass for him, and he set it down empty, with a sigh of satisfaction.

"That's better. Do you know, I thought for a time toward the last that I was going to collapse. One little crack is scarcely ventilation enough for an active pair of lungs. However, I was repaid."

"You were?"

"Yes," and he smiled at my impatience. "I'll tell you the story and see what you make of it. First came the chambermaid, who performed her duties with neatness and dispatch. Then a dreary half hour passed. I had about come to the conclusion that I might have spared my pains when I caught the sound of a key in the lock of the outer door. I heard the door open and close, and an instant later our friend Tremaine appeared within my range of vision."

"Tremaine!" I exclaimed. "Then he had Thompson's key!"

"Yes," agreed Godfrey. "But my story's only begun. Tremaine took a look through the rooms to assure himself that there was no one here. He tried the closet door, but didn't seem surprised or suspicious when he found it locked. Then he went back to the outer room, dropped on his hands and knees and began to search."

"For the diamond?"

"So I thought at first. I couldn't see him for a little while, but presently I perceived that he wasn't searching over the body of the carpet, but around its edges. He seemed to be looking for a place where it was loose, for he went very slowly from tack to tack. Once I thought he had found it, for he came to a place where a tack was wanting and ran his hand under eagerly. But in a moment he brought it out again empty."

"If it couldn't have been the diamond," I remarked in perplexity.

"No, it couldn't have been the diamond," assented Godfrey, his eyes shining. "But Tremaine wasn't done yet. Really, he'd make an admirable detective. I admired his methods, though they also gave me a clew to what he was looking for. He placed a chair just here, before this desk, just opposite the bedroom door. You'll remember that Thompson also had a table and chair similarly placed."

"Yes, I remember."

"Then he sat down in the chair and began a minute scrutiny of the walls. First that one yonder. He went over it inch by inch until he came to the speaking tube. Then he sprang up and opened it and peered inside, even holding a lighted match in. Let us see," and Godfrey also examined the tube. "It's empty."

"Yes," I said. "I've used it once or twice, and it works all right."

"Well, Tremaine wasn't satisfied with that. He ran his hands along the top ledges of the doors, mounted a chair and peered above the windows, examined every nook and cranny. At last he gave it up, replaced things just as he found them, watch and went away. Now, what was he looking for?"

I cudgeled my brain.

"I don't know," I said. "I can't imagine."

"Let me help you," said Godfrey, his eyes shining still more brightly. "I had time to think it all out in the closet there. In the first place, he looked only in the outer room; in the second place, he was plainly looking for something that had been purposely concealed; in the third place, when he examined the room he placed his chair just where Miss Croydon had sat."

A flash of light burst upon me.

"The clippings!" I cried.

"The clippings. Just that. I haven't the least doubt of it. And that explains another thing which seemed very puzzling. It explains why Miss Croydon was so anxious to rent this suit."

"But how did he find out about them?" I asked at last.

"I think they contain some secret of his, and he's concluded she hasn't got them because she hasn't produced them against him. And he's reasoned correctly in supposing that if she hasn't got them she must have hidden them here."

It was a good guess; an adroit one.

"The question is," added Godfrey, looking about him, "where did she hide them?"

CHAPTER XI.

WHEN I left the office at noon next day I took a cross town car which eventually landed me at the foot of West Tenth street, where the red and black steamers of the Quebec line load and unload their West Indian cargoes. I had found by reference to a file of the Maritime Gazette that the Parima had arrived on Feb. 23 and had sailed again on the 5th of March, and the paper of the day before showed me that she had just arrived in port again.

I hunted up the purser without delay.

"May I see your passenger list for your last trip north," I asked, "the trip before this one?"

"Certainly," he responded, and produced it.

It was not a long one, and in a moment I had found what I was looking for. Victor Tremaine and wife were fifth on the list. But no "H. Thompson" appeared there. However, I had a last resource. I had scarcely expected to find him entered among the passengers.

"Is the captain aboard?" I inquired.

"Captain Hake has gone over to his home on Long Island for a day or two," answered the purser. "The first officer, Mr. Grice, is forward, superintending the unloading."

"Thank you," I said, and hurried up to the deck. I found Mr. Grice without difficulty, a tall, blond young man, with eyes of a cerulean blue. "Can you spare me a moment?" I asked, after I had introduced myself.

"Why, I guess so. What is it?"

"Did you ever see this man before?" and I produced the photograph Godfrey had given me.

"Well, I should say so!" he cried at the first glance. "And I hope I'll never see him ag'in. Thompson his name is, and we shipped him at Barbados, in place of one of our men who deserted there. He didn't have a decent rag to his back, so we fitted him up with some old things out of the slop chest."

I nodded.

"He only skipped as far as St. Pierre," continued the mate, "but after we'd got there he changed his mind and come on to New York. What's he been doin'? Gettin' into more trouble? He's n't been out of jail more'n three or four weeks."

"Out of jail!"

"Yes. He was a regular fiend for booze. Bough, we didn't find it out until after we left St. Pierre. Where he got it I don't know. He didn't have any money t' buy it, that's sure. I've kind o' thought one of the passengers must 'a' give it to him, though I can't imagine why. But, anyway, he was half drunk three-fourths of the time and dead drunk the other fourth. We'd find him layin' in his berth and we'd yank him out and drop him into a tub of water. He'd sober up quicker 'n any man I ever see, but he was never satisfied unless he had a pint or two inside him. When we tied up at the wharf here he got awful bad. Wanted t' go ashore right away. Fought the captain when he wouldn't let him. The captain handed him over to a policeman, and he got twenty days on the island."

MANNING'S CREW ROWED FINE RACE

There never was a prettier race seen in Honolulu harbor than that between the crew of native boatmen and the crew of the Manning, which took plice Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The Manning won decisively and deserves all credit for a game struggle, and the Hawaiians certainly upheld their reputation for the way which they rowed after the Manning was well in the lead. There was no sign of quitting to be seen on their part.

Condition won the race for the Manning, combined with physical strength such as is seldom seen in any five men picked from the crew of as small a boat as the revenue cutter. Every man in the Manning's crew was in absolutely perfect condition and the fact that they started out with a stroke of 48 to the minute and never dropped below 40 throughout the entire three miles, finishing with 44, is enough to show this to be true.

The Hawaiian crew pulled a longer and slower stroke, much prettier to look at, but when the time came to spurt they could not get a foot more in speed out of their boat.

The difference in the two boats was noticeable. The manning boys pulled one of the ship's boats, which was at least 300 pounds heavier than Prince Cupid's boat, which was used by the natives. This was counterbalanced by the fact that three of the Manning's five oars were on the starboard side, while the reverse was the case with the Hawaiians. In making the turn from left to right the Manning gained at least two lengths for this reason.

At the start the Hawaiians took the lead, catching the water cleanly and having a lead of a clear length when the first buoy in the channel was reached. From here till the flags for the turn were reached the Hawaiians gained steadily, though they lost some distance on account of the fact that their coxswain did not see his flag and kept too much to the leeward.

At the mid-channel buoy the Manning boat was full four lengths behind and the Hawaiians seemed to be loafing so easily were they in the lead. Just before the flags were reached the Manning crew sprinted and after rounding the flags were only a little over a length behind. Here they settled down to work and, urged by Coxswain Marthinussen, the veteran of a hundred races, gradually took the lead.

When opposite No. 5 buoy they were four lengths ahead of the natives who tried to spurt, and succeeded in cutting down the distance to about a length before reaching the lighthouse. From here on the Manning boys kept on gaining, being about six lengths to the good at the finish.

Both crews were in good shape at the finish, the Manning's men looking as if they were fit for another contest at once. There was over $600 which changed hands on the result, the revenue cutter men placing all their savings on their crew.

The arrangements were perfect, the Waterwitch placing the buoys and measuring the course with a patent log and the "Oahu" acting as the referee's boat and following the two crews. Mrs. S. C. Allen's new launch with a numerous party on board also followed the race and deserves special credit for keeping far enough away so that no wash from her could possibly interfere with the crews.

During the race a party of about thirty viewed the contest from the Manning and were entertained by Captain Joynes and the Manning's officers. Afternoon tea and congratulations were the order of the day on board when the race was over.

The crews were:

Manning—Coxswain, K. Marthinussen; stroke, E. Hakasson; No. 4, J. Roalsen; No. 3, G. Lion; No. 2, H. C. Jensen; bow, C. Jakorlieff.

Hawaiian — Coxswain, Andrew; stroke, E. H. Mahuka; No. 4, Cloud; No. 3, Kanei; No. 2, Tom Mahuka; bow, Kane.

Time—Manning 29:11 3-5; Hawaiian, 29:32 4-5.

KAWAIHAUS WIN

The Royal Kawaihau Glee Club baseball team kept on with its winning streak yesterday, defeating the Standards at Aala Park by a score of 13 to 5. The features of the game were to be found in the pitching of Paaluhi and the batting of the "Musicians."

DATE FIXED FOR WAIKIKI REGATTA

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association, which has in hand the arrangements for the entertainment of the Los Angeles excursionists, held a meeting this morning, at which it was decided to hold the Waikiki regatta on the afternoon of Saturday, March 16. T. H. Petrie was added to the regatta committee, as F. L. Waldron, another of its members, will soon depart for the mainland.

The committee is figuring that the itinerary of the excursion will be about as follows: Leave San Pedro March 2, arrive at Hilo March 9, arrive at Honolulu March 13, sail for San Pedro March 20.

SPORTING GOSSIP

It would be a crack crew that could gain six boat lengths in the first minute of a race, as was stated in the morning paper.

C. Jakoalieli, who pulled the bow oar in the Manning's crew, is an Aleutian indian and has been with the Manning for some time. As one of the results of his hard work Saturday he will eat his meals standing up for the next few days.

Ex-Assistant Secretary of the Treasury H. A. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor were among the most interested spectators at the race.

Secretary Atkinson acted as official stakeholder and turned $200 over to the Manning's crew after the race.

It is understood that Governor Carter will back a crew from the Japanese training ships against the Manning.

Every Sunday a number of golfers may be seen practicing strokes for accuracy on the lawn Ewa of the Moana Hotel.

The beach was a popular resort yesterday, many taking a dip in the water which was at an almost perfect temperature.

Be down at the wharf Wednesday when the Alameda sails, to see Barney Joy off to the Coast.

The police are liable to make arrests of some people in town who have several autos and one license. They are being looked up now. The owners change the license number to the machine which they are going to use and have so far avoided detection.

FORT STREETS WIN

The Fort street baseball nine defeated the Kauluwela Athletic Club at the Panoa Park grounds yesterday to the tune of 21 to 9. The batting of the Fort Streets was the feature of the game, as the many pitchers who went into the box for the Kauluwelas can testify.

VIERRA BENEFIT VERY GOOD SHOW

The Vierra benefit at the Orpheum Saturday night came up to expectations. There was a full house and roars of laughter shook the roof in spots.

Chinese New Year, the opening sketch, was full of fun and local hits.

Songs by Mrs. Alapai and Miss Kaai came up to their usual good style and fairly delighted a number of tourists who attended.

The sketch of the evening's entertainment was carried through by Vierra and Andrade impersonating Japanese in an endeavor to enlighten the audience regarding the troubles of "through" Japs with only a Hawaii passport.

There were numerous other sketches in which the artists did remarkably well.

Tuesday evening the entertainment will be repeated.

HELLO BOYS LUAUED

Wailuku, Maui, February 22.—Judge and Mrs. A. N. Kepoikai gave a little poi dinner at their home in Wailuku this Friday afternoon to the telephone operators. Before New Year many of the warm friends of the 'phone boys got up a little subscription as a small token of their appreciation of the many courtesies extended to them by the hello boys during the past. Owing, perhaps, to the unsettled state of the weather and unforeseen events, the suckling pig was not killed until today when the Judge and his amiable wife called in C. H. G. Braun, Thos. Holstein, and Wm. Kahalewailua, comprising the central trio, and entertained them at a sumptuous poi dinner. Among others present were: T. B. Lyons, E. H. Hart, M. H. Reuter, G. Weight, Dan Weight, G. Weight, Jr., J. R. Love and a Bulletin representative. The ladies did not forget the operators for a number of them, ever mindful of the untiring attention shown them by the central boys, came and waited upon the table. The admirers of the boys could not understand why Washington's birthday was chosen for the luau, but they surmises it was perhaps because the hello boys cannot tell a lie.
