Pledged to neither Sect nor Party, but established for the benefit of all.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 9, 1890.

"The Friend," although a religious journal, cannot refrain from meddling in politics. Its last issue has an article headed "The Political Situation," which, although certainly containing some scraps of truth, is largely composed of misrepresentations and exaggerations. That narrow, bigoted spirit which cannot tolerate an opposing opinion breathes through the whole. The professed object of the writer is to give "more light" to readers abroad upon the proposition to hold a convention for the purpose of preparing a new constitution; but much of the light imparted is of a nature calculated to dazzle the eye and produce distorted vision. It is very poor light for guidance which comes from a mind so prejudiced as that of the writer of the article in question evidently is. However unwise the proposition for a convention may be, it is not improved by misrepresentation.

ANTHAMUS DREAMS A DREAM.

In the cool of the evening I climbed to the summit of Punchbowl. Weary and worn by the exertion I sat me down upon the ground to rest and recuperate, with my back leaning against the flag pole. Languidly I looked upon the city below and gazed out upon the sea beyond. Toiled worn by the struggle up and lulled into a frame of charmed quietude by the view before me, I closed my eyes and fell into a peaceful slumber. The cares of life and the turmoil of the world vanished. Before me appeared, out on the ocean, a magnificent ship that was drifting, drifting—whither I could not tell. At one time she seemed to be nearing the land, and then to be going farther to sea. Now she was apparently safe in deep waters, and five seconds afterwards appeared to be in imminent danger of getting on the shoals.

What meant this? said I; and a voice replied, It shall be revealed unto you. And I saw a great company on board, saints and sinners inconspicuously mixed in a heap. Each had his own notion about the course the ship should steer, and how she should be navigated. One said, "North is the proper direction; there we shall find the regions of ice, and cool off the tropical heat."

WHY WE SHOULD HAVE A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—The agitation for a constitutional convention seems drawing to a focus and for the settlement of the following questions it would be for the welfare of our country that the wished for convention should be called. First of all our constitution should be so modeled that members of the Cabinet should hold elective seats in the parliament instead of ex officio. If this mode should be adopted I have not the slightest doubt but that the people who elect members of the Legislature and possible Cabinet officers will have no fault to find. It satisfies them that the choice was from the many of their chosen ones, and not that this is good enough for me," and again dropped into a quiet slumber. This brought to his feet an excitable man, to whom nature had been so unkind as not to afford sufficient sight to see the length of his nose, and shouted, "Up with all sail, boys, and let her rip! We shall get there all the same!"

Amid all these divided counsels, no two agreeing in one opinion, the ship drifted and rolled and rolled and drifted.

Then I muttered to myself, "Surely the vessel is without captain and officers; that is the trouble." And the voice spoke and said, "The trouble is the ship is in possession of the motley company you see, and as you have also seen there is no unanimity in the company, and each in turn threatens to pitch the captain and officers overboard unless his particular wish is obeyed. Hence there is such confusion of opposing orders that the navigator of the ship is perplexed above measure, and knows not what to do. You must understand these people are afflicted with a horrible disease designated 'big head,' which causes them to feel a thousand times larger than mathematical measurement makes them, so that tinkers, tailors, hackmen, and other useful workers in their own proper sphere imagine that they know better how to navigate the ship than the officers."

"I see," said I, and in my vision I saw and heard a little man with a voice like a penny whistle stand up and say, "Let us bundle the captain, chief mate, and other officers out of their cabins neck and crop. We'll see if these sons of sea cooks will persist in regulating the ship by the principles of the constitutional chart, in defiance of our wishes. We'll make a great chart for ourselves, and sail the craft after a fashion of our own. Jack knows how to handle a spade, therefore he shall take the helm; Bill is a dabster at driving mules, and he shall set the sails; Tom has had long practice at looking into tumblers, and he can find the latitude by the aid of a cocktail; Dick can let go the anchor; and I will show how all these things are done."

When this speaker ceased talking the butcher and barber were paralyzed by the words of wisdom uttered, and the cook's mate, unable to restrain himself, shouted, "Hurrah, hurrah!" to which the multitude responded with great enthusiasm, while a few sarcastic sceptics kept cool and muttered in an undertone, "Verily this man is inebriated by an overweening estimate of his own importance, and knoweth not whereof he speaketh; or, in other words, he is a self-conceited ass."

Then everyone went his own way, and did as he pleased. One fellow tossed the compass overboard; the cook made oyster stew in the binnacle; the cook's mate chopped up the wheel for fuel to boil the coppers; the sheet anchor was lugged to the foretop, as the most appropriate place for an ornament so unique; the charts were cut into slips for use as pipe-lights; everybody smoked in the powder room, as a shady place of repose; and the masts being constitutional were chopped away as useless appendages.

In the midst of these remarkable and irregular proceedings, there suddenly arose a mighty storm, the sea became exceedingly rough, and the winds came on to blow like blazes. The people were greatly alarmed, and ran hither and thither in much confusion, while the ship was being driven broadside onto the shoals. It was impossible to hoist the sails to keep her off, because the masts had been wantonly cut away, and the wheel was gone. And on to the shoals she went and became a total wreck.

I awoke with a start, and realized that it was all a dream.

of a few "unprincipled wire pullers." Again it gives the people a chance to defeat an obnoxious Minister at the polls, so compel his immediate resignation. The needs and wishes of the people would thus be better attended to, and they would be looked to by the possible Ministers instead of the few successful "wire pullers." This plan I am very sure will give better satisfaction than the present one.

Another grievance is the elective franchise; as it now stands it is an open injustice to a majority of our intelligent voters. The plea against unrestricted noble franchise was the ignorance of the masses. The plea is correct but the measure by which the boundary is fixed is not. If one studies the list of school teachers and their salaries one finds most of our school teachers are getting all the way from $20 to $10 per month. Does that mean they are ignorant, and cannot the right to vote for Nobles be given them?

But the most vital question to us as a people and a nation is the Chinese question. It is a question that must be dealt with at once. It is admitted on all sides the sugar planter, to get his 80 percent dividends, must have coolie labor, but it does not necessarily follow that planters be allowed to turn them loose on the community. We read in the good old book how the Lord charged the leaders of the Israelites to exterminate the people dwelling in the cities of Canaan. How they were destroyed and to what stratagems these doomed peoples resorted to exchange their certain extinction for a life of slavery. We read the same lesson with his bitter conclusion in the wars of King Phillip and the New England Puritans. We read of Attila and his Huns heaving their way from the Scythian wilds through populous Europe into Gaul then back and finally settling in the fertile valley of the Danube as a distinct unmixed race. History teaches us that different races coming in contact with one another can never amalgamate, but the weaker will always disappear.

Not a particle of difference does the manner of contact make. Sooner or later the struggle for ascendancy shall come. We read how the Goths appended to the Romans (or rather Greek) and bound themselves by the most sacred oaths to become grateful slaves to the emperor if they were allowed to cross the Danube and shelter themselves under the banners of Rome from the fierce hordes of Tartars. The desired boon was granted. Once over how lightly were those oaths and conditions broken! How quickly the suppliant dictated terms to their trembling masters! The influx of light haired Goths into the Roman Empire clearly demonstrates that when the intruders become sufficiently strong they aspire to rule, so shall it be with our "bland child like Chinese."

Our present Constitution grants them all privileges (to which they are unworthy) by which they, as a people, may acquire wealth and ultimately power—ay, political power, for wealth is the surest step to political power. Why should they be allowed the means of acquiring political control in the near future? Why should we sit by and look on and see them silently but steadily reject our manners and modes of living, corrupt the morals of our youths, and gradually acquire that political ascendancy which we as yet seem ignorant of how to withhold from them? I say draw a limit to their occupation. It is because the Constitution is in the way, that a limit to their occupation cannot be drawn. Let the Constitution be amended—but the Chinese plan will baffle amendments—so call a Constitutional Convention, and in the Constitution to be framed let there be a clause forbidding Chinese from undertaking any occupation which requires a Government license. It is not on the same line as refusing them the elective franchise? Is it wrong for a nation to protect its subjects? Is it wrong to withhold privileges from the people of a nation that has never granted us like privileges? While we write and discuss this vexed problem the Chinese are slowly and surely gaining that political ascendancy which wealth always confers and we have yet to learn of the evils which history teaches, will always follow when a strange race gains undue ascendancy over the people of a nation. We have withheld from them the voting privilege, but granted them all the means whereby wealth could be acquired; now let us withhold from them the means of accumulating undue wealth which is really the only true way of keeping political power from their grasp.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SEVENTY-THIRD DAY.

MONDAY, Sept. 8.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House resumed at 2 o'clock. Rep. Kalua requested that his place on various committees be filled by some one else, as he had already sent his resignation to the Minister of the Interior, with the request that it be laid before the House. The hon. member then said good by, and left the House.

Noble Widemann—I moved to adjourn in order to prevent the hon. gentleman from saying what he has. He was red hot, and in that condition could not judge as to what he was saying. He was so excited that he did not take the way open to every member for redress. He accused the House. Now, Mr. President, I am not against him. I am not sure I have the precise merits of the case. He brought a resolution, and the President ruled it out of order. If he thought that decision wrong, he should have appealed. If the House had sustained the decision, he might have had something against the House. I am sorry this has happened, and that these words have passed. I now move the House do adjourn, and I hope his friends who are on better terms with him than I am, will endeavor to persuade him to change his mind. Motion was lost.

Rep. Rosa gave notice of an Act to regulate fares on tramways at certain hours at night. 2. To enable the tramways company to make certain connections. 3. To admit railroad material free of duty. 4. To make certain provisions regarding the arrest of debtors.

Rep. Waipulani gave notice of an Act to authorize and encourage female industrial schools.

Rep. Nawahi—Resolved, that the Secretary of the Assembly be instructed to give the requisite notices for filling the vacant seat from Wailuku.

The President—There is no vacant seat.

Rep. Nawahi said he thought that Rep. Kalua had intimated very unmistakably that he had resigned. His resignation was in the hands of the Minister of the Interior.

Rep. Brown moved that the resolution be laid on the table until such time as the resignation may be presented to the House. Carried.

Noble McCarthy gave notice of an Act to license photographers.

Rep. Paehole gave notice of an Act providing how English school teachers shall be paid, and an act to require persons lending money on mortgage to take out a license.

Rep. Nawahi gave notice of an Act to re-establish the office of governor.

Rep. Rosa reported for the printing committee certain bills printed.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

The House went into committee of the whole, Noble Marsden in the chair, for consideration of the Appropriation Bill.

Postal items, considered with report of select committee.

Minister Brown moved that $35,000 for pay of clerks pass as recommended by committee. Carried.

Minister Brown asked for an explanation of the raise in the item for postmasters.

Rep. Marques explained that it was found by the committee that some of the salaries were low in comparison with the wealth of the country and the responsibilities of the officials.

Minister Spencer moved that the item pass at $30,000.

Noble Baldwin gave further explanations. The pay of some postmasters was ridiculously low. They were forced in some cases to hold the offices or else let their localities be without postoffices.

Passed as recommended.
Pay of mail carriers, $28,000. Passed.
Incidentals, $13,000. Passed.

Rep. Kaneali moved to insert $2000 for a bridge at Wailuku.

Minister Brown considered the hon. member out of order, as there had already been a liberal appropriation for roads and bridges on Maui. It would be in order on the third reading.

The motion was withdrawn.
Central fire station, Honolulu, $50,647, recommended by select committee.

Rep. Brown moved it pass. Carried.
Fire engine for Kulaokahuia plains, $5000, recommended by committee. Passed.

Addition to Honolulu Water Works, $276,500 recommended by committee, in place of $291,000 in the bill.

Noble Baldwin asked where a certain flume was to be placed.
Minister Spencer explained.
Rep. Brown moved $236,640, amount recommended less cost of filter plant. Carried.
Rep. Brown moved to insert, Filter plant, $39,860.

Noble Widemann would be glad to see a filter, but there were two water systems. Would both sides of the town have filters? He did not care much whether they got a filter or not, but wanted to know where the money was coming from for all these things. They were piling up an Appropriation Bill so that the top could not be reached with a fifteen-foot pole.
Rep. Paehole moved to strike out the item as not absolutely necessary. The other towns were getting water works and would want to have filters likewise.

Rep. Brown held that for the capital city with thousands of a population filtration of water was necessary for the public health.

The item carried.
Volcano road, $70,396.77.

Rep. Paehole moved that the item be postponed until further information is gained on the debt of $13,000.

Rep. Brown believed some disposition should be made of the item then. He was not sure that he would vote for the item, till he heard the views of some other members.

Noble Widemann considered the road a luxury in which they could not indulge. It would cost $60000 a year for interest. He was informed that the completed part of the road was all cut up by ox and mule carts hauling firewood. The finance committee's report quoted an agreement made between the late Minister of the Interior and several firms, on the strength of which the Minister spent $13,000 more than was appropriated. That was an illegal transaction, and to appropriate that amount would be a dangerous precedent. He would beg every member to think of what he was doing before he voted for the payment of this unauthorized debt.

Noble J. M. Horner, as a member of the committee, could say that they regarded this as one of the most important roads in the kingdom. Two hundred acres of coffee had been set out on account of the road. As to the $13,000 they believed that as honest work was done for it as for any portion of the appropriation. He moved the item pass as recommended by the committee.

Noble Cornwell was in favor of the item. It would enhance traveling. Roads were among the best means of developing the country. That money was spent on the road and he should support its repayment.

Noble Baldwin did not like the look of the transaction any more than the hon. Noble from Honolulu. Those firms had an interest in the road and volunteered their assistance, counting on this Legislature refunding the amount on account of the road's importance. This item should be voted as for something to be done, and the question should turn on whether it was advisable to complete the road. He was on the committee last session and did not think it was contemplated that the road could be completed for the appropriation of $30,000. There had been some talk of a bid having been made to build the whole road for that amount, but he did not think that if made the offer was genuine. He believed in the importance of finishing the work and therefore should vote for the item as recommended.

Noble Widemann said there might be honest difference of opinion as to the importance of the road, but he took the stand that the debt was a part of measures to destroy the institutions of the country. That was the stand that he would live and die holding. The proper recourse for the late Minister was to bring in an indemnity bill for the amount, but had anyone heard of an indemnity bill? He wished it to go on record that he was opposed to this item as an illegitimate piece of business, and if it was passed he should feel like following the example of the hon. member from Wailuku in resigning.

Rep. Paehole argued in favor of his motion to postpone the item till after consideration of the finance committee's report.

The motion to postpone carried.
The committee rose, Noble Marsden reported its proceedings, and the report was adopted.

COMMITTEES, ETC.

Notices of various committee meetings were given.

The President appointed, as the committee on Rep. Kalua's resolution regarding damages to the Queen's property, Messrs. Kalua, Brown, Cornwell, A. Horner, and Crabbe.

Rep. Paehole asked the Cabinet if Rep. Kalua had resigned his seat.

Rep. R. W. Wilcox moved that the Ministers have till to-morrow morning to answer.
The House adjourned at 3:45.
