CLOSING THE CASE.

The Commission strikes Out Part of the Ex-Queen's Statement.

Argument by Counsel for the Defense and the Judge Advocate.

NINETEENTH DAY.

Court convened at 10 o'clock. After reading of minutes of proceedings of the preceding day Col. Whiting announced the court cleared for deliberation. The Court returned in a few minutes and announced that there were certain parts of the ex-Queen's statement made yesterday which he regretted to say would have to be withdrawn. He indicated the objectionable passages and would read them if desired. Mr. Neumann preferred to examine them first and would so propose.

Col. Whiting announced that the decision of the Commission would take its course, and handed the statement to the Judge Advocate. From the Judge Advocate the statement was handed to Mr. Neumann.

Mr. Neumann, after perusal of the revised statement, replied that he would decline to advise his client to withdraw the first part of the statement ordered stricken out, namely, that paragraph beginning, "A minority of the foreign population made my action the pretext," etc.

To the other clauses, namely, those beginning, "I owed no allegiance to the Provisional Government," etc., "The wishes of my people were not consulted," etc., "This selection was anticipated," etc., "By my command," etc., "I must deny your right," etc., "There may be in your consciences a warrant," etc., and "I would ask you to consider," etc., Mr. Neumann stated he would either withdraw or amend.

Col. Whiting said that the Court had already stated that all the paragraphs indicated would be stricken out.

Mr. Neumann objected to the rejection of any part of the statement less than the whole. If the Court insisted he would withdraw the entire statement.

The Court retired for deliberation, and overruled the objection of Mr. Neumann.

Mr. Neumann began his closing address for the defense, saying he would consume as little time as possible. He recited his objections at the outset to the jurisdiction, and now would also object to the nature of the evidence taken. The offense for which the accused was tried was testified to have been committed at a time antedating the proclamation of martial law. There was not a particle of evidence to show that the accused was guilty of misprision of treason after the proclamation of martial law under which this Court was convened. If she committed any offense it was before the proclamation of martial law, and she is amenable only to the laws of the land just the same as if martial law was never proclaimed. He held that no offense committed before martial law was declared could be tried by a military commission. Authorities were quoted directly in support of his contention. If that is the correct doctrine, and it certainly is the logical doctrine, an offense of the kind charged can only be tried by the civil tribunals. He would go further and say that, notwithstanding the extensive powers of courts-martial, their jurisdiction ended with the termination of the necessity. No war was in existence when the accused was arrested. There had been no battle even, the mere attempt to overthrow the Government never having ripened. Doubtless Nowlein made a movement with treasonable intentions, but he had been unable to put armies in the field. If his contention was not correct, then we had no civil law in the land but were under military rule. Where was the Provost Marshal if military law had been supreme over the civil law at the date of the uprising, to whom communications could be made and by whom orders should issue. Col. Winthrop was cited in the opinion that martial law could only exist on the actual theatre of war. Whatever rulings the Commission had made be respected, but he hoped the Commission would take this point—now raised before—into serious consideration, as it involved the question of whether the Constitution and laws of this country were still in force. If the principles of "Greenleaf on Evidence" were observed by the Commission, the accused ought to be acquitted. The rules of evidence were the same before a court-martial as any civil tribunal, and the court was bound to pay due regard to those rules. Misprision of treason was the concealment of knowledge of intended treasonable action, but there was not a particle of evidence to show that the accused knew of the proposed act of war. Clark's evidence, which was denied, did not go any further than Nowlein's, which had not been denied. Several reputable persons had sworn that Clark was utterly unworthy of belief. He would drop Clark because the subject was too unsavory. A person who had eaten the bread of charity from the hand of the accused for two years, and then had come on the stand and lied against her, was, as he had stated, too unsavory a subject for discussion.

Counsel next reviewed the evidence of Kaauwai, who had been put in prison simply to give evidence, and long before the trial had been examined by the Judge Advocate. Kaauwai was simply a gardener and had taken no part in the emeute. There were no witnesses produced who had substantiated anything like a case against the accused excepting witnesses who had been intimidated. He had nothing but respect for the Commission and its decisions, but he would say that the authorities of this land had used illicit means to procure evidence against the accused. It was only necessary for him to quote the evidence of Mr. Robertson on this point. Poor harmless natives, in terror of the whites as they always have been, after being thrust into jail were threatened with dire penalties if they did not give evidence against other prisoners. No Attorney-General that ever held office in this country had ever been guilty of such an offense, that of suborning evidence, of which the authorities in this instance had undoubtedly been guilty. With regard to Ksae's evidence, counsel contended that the signing of commissions, proclamation, etc., was not a treasonable act. Even if she had signed a new Constitution it would not be treason. The commissions must have been delivered and accepted, and the constitution proclaimed, before treason could be committed. There could not be misprision of treason without there being treason at the time. Treason according to the law that the accused is charged with violating makes treason the levying of war against the Government. It was unquestionable that no acts of treason were committed within her knowledge, and therefore there could have been no concealment or misprision of treason. Nowlein denied the ex-Queen's prior knowledge of the Thursday evening movement, and repeated the denial with regard to the Sunday evening attempt. The gentlemen of the Commission might believe in their own minds that the accused had the guilty prior knowledge, but their belief did not weigh a particle in the decision they must make. They were obliged to decide wholly by the testimony before them, and to convict the accused they should find the most undoubted proof of guilt in that testimony. They could see from Nowlein's testimony—extracts of which counsel read—that information of the intended movement was concealed from the accused. She was not aware that arms were being landed, although told after the event that arms had been landed. He begged of the Commission to remember that a permanent record of this trial was in existence. Also he begged of them to remember that any mistake they might make now would heavily fall upon them hereafter. It was well for them to remember that they were not to give way to prejudice—that they were under oath—that they were bound to give the accused the benefit of any reasonable doubt. It had not at first been his intention to argue the case at all, but he decided to draw their attention to the salient points in the testimony which were in favor of the accused.

Speech of the Judge Advocate.

Captain Kinney, Judge Advocate, in beginning to close for the prosecution, stated the nature of the charge. Certain matters in evidence were indisputable, such as the fact that there had been an uprising, following an agitation in a portion of the press for the restoration of the monarchy. It was undeniable that arms and ammunition had been obtained, that a movement to overthrow the Government had been planned by four men—Gulick, Rickard, Seward and Nowlein—and that eleven commissions to high office had been signed. The accused had positively declared that her hands were clean of all complicity in the insurrection. Counsel read passages from the statement of the accused. He was with opposing counsel in desiring that the judgment of the Commission should be rendered entirely on the evidence. It had been attempted to be shown that the whole movement was designed to be a big surprise party to "her majesty," that the person who was to be the principal beneficiary of it knew nothing of the plan. Yet it was undeniable that the leader of the uprising was living under the roof of innocence, and the confidential servant of the accused. It was contended that her premises were made an arsenal for guns, ammunition and bombs without her knowledge, while she was pursuing her object along the paths of calm and peaceful diplomacy.

The Court took recess from 12 to 1 o'clock.

Afternoon Session.

The Commission did not resume until 1:30 p. m., owing to a delay in Mr. Neumann's arrival. At that hour the Judge Advocate spoke to the Court, saying he was reluctant to continue his address while the accused was not attended by counsel.

Mr. Neumann just then arriving said he understood recess had been taken to half-past one.

Colonel Whiting said the Court had distinctly stated that recess was to be for one hour.

Captain Kinney, resuming, said it had been conclusively proved that eleven commissions had been signed on December 27, and that the accused knew that arms had been landed. The accused had stated that the commissions were signed in view of legitimate restoration. Now, while the Commission was asked to absorb this information, eight out of the eleven persons commissioned were in jail for a plot to overthrow the Government with arms. These documents were in the hands of C. T. Gulick, but they flitted into the hands of innocence. It was astonishing how these documents passed from the hands of guilt into those of innocence. They were asked to believe in this extraordinary coincidence, with their invoked oaths as the only obstacle. It was strange that in 1889 out of the premises of this lady marched Wilcox and his followers to make a revolution; God knew what might happen if this lady had turned her thoughts from peace to war, when her acre lot was a crowded arsenal. From whose long bow had come the charge that the Government had accused the Hawaiians of bloodthirstiness? When there was published a talk about decapitation and forfeiture of property, did anybody imagine that it represented the sentiments of the Hawaiian race? It was a pity that the instructions of the missionary fathers had fallen on such barren soil in the house of the accused for the past two years. She sat there and heard members of her own household tell of her house being thronged with armed men while she was pursuing the paths of peace and diplomacy. Those incriminating documents had all been destroyed so effectually that even the lynx-eyed Marshal, who could discover bombs growing in a garden and rifles in a rubbish pile, could not unearth them. Perhaps before the parting of the ways between herself and her counsel, he could explain why the documents were destroyed. He submitted that every circumstance of the case pointed unmistakably to the guilt of the accused. What had been produced in her defense was worthy only of a petty larceny case in a police court. There were men there, born on the soil of this country, sitting in the palace of that lady's illustrious predecessors, who had supported the monarchy until to do so meant the sacrifice of their self-respect. There was not one of these men who would have put her in the unfortunate position she occupied to-day. Did anybody believe that with eyes to see, a mind to understand, and intelligence to grasp facts, she did not know what was going on in her house that Thursday night, when a shelf in her apartments bore the evidence of her guilt, and on her private desk was the tell-tale fragment of a bomb. When her brother wrecked his throne in 1887 by a carefully planned illicit opium deal, there were Absaloms within the gate to whisper in his ear that they would try to right his wrongs. And for the past two years Absaloms had been at the gates of Washington Place to whisper in the ear of that lady that her wrongs would be righted, after she had brought about the overthrow of her throne by a lottery bill and an opium bill. Because the authorities had told prisoners that guilty persons would be punished, they are charged by counsel for the defense with subornation of perjury. Yet he stood there in the light of day and represented red-handed treason to be only a trivial matter. The prosecution had no vindictiveness against the prisoner, but only sought to prevent a recurrence of such public disturbances as had just been encountered. Captain Kinney closed by expressing the hope that the accused would, before very long, have her desire for peace and prosperity realized in her own peaceful existence under the flag of the United States.

At 2 o'clock Col. Whiting announced the case closed, and ordered the Court cleared for the day.

JUDICIARY JOTTINGS

Bankruptcy and Probate Cases Heard at Chambers.

Before Judge Cooper to-day, thirty-six creditors proved claims amounting to $27,126 19 against C. L. Brito, bankrupt, and F. W. Chesney was appointed assignee.

The accounts of J. A. Magoon, guardian of Rebecca Paoe Hameku, were approved.

The accounts of F. A. Schaefer, trustee of the estate of A. A. Corniot, deceased, were approved. Receipts were $2104.90, expenditures $1582.70 and balance $522.20. The estate is inventoried at $18,222.20.

Important Annexation Argument.

We have not a doubt that if the annexation of Hawaii had been accomplished last year there would have been plenty of ship loads of American visitors to the beautiful American islands in the Pacific this winter. With a couple of ship-shape and fast American steamers running between San Francisco and Honolulu, making the voyage in less than four days, with an American ocean cable uniting the two cities, with American law for the protection of life and liberty, there would be many thousands of American visitors to Hawaii every year. The trip is an enjoyable one.—New York Sun.

EX-QUEEN'S TRIAL.

Mrs. Dominis Completes Her Evidence and Makes a Statement.

She Appeals to the Civilized World and Invokes Peace and Prosperity.

EIGHTEENTH DAY.

Afternoon Session.

The objection was sustained. The Judge Advocate must confine himself to the evidence brought out in the direct examination.

Continuing—Do not know who has charge of the premises when Nowlein is absent; do not know whether he was gone from the place on that Sunday night; think that Charles Clark takes charge of premises when Nowlein is away; do not know whether Clark had charge on Thursday or Sunday night; don't know whether it transgressed rules if Clark came into the house at 9 p. m. and told me that Government soldiers were on the streets; from the time of the overthrow of the government the Provisional Government allowed me sixteen guards; later the guards were taken away, but the people stayed there as retainers; the arms were taken away; did not see Clark between sunset and midnight that Sunday; did not know he was on the premises during that time.

The case for the defense closed.

A statement by Mrs. Liliuokalani Dominis was then filed. The statement was written in Hawaiian originally and was interpreted by W. L. Wilcox.

Ex-Queen's Statement.

In the year 1893, on the 14th day of January, at the request of a large majority of the Hawaiian people, and by and with the advice and consent of my cabinet, I proposed to make certain changes in the Constitution of the Hawaiian Kingdom, which were suggested to me as being for the advantage and benefit of the Kingdom and subjects and residents thereof. These proposed changes did not deprive foreigners of any rights or privileges enjoyed by them under the Constitution of 1857, promulgated by King Kalakaua and his Cabinet, without the consent of the people or ratified by their votes.

My Ministers at the last moment changed their views and requested me to defer all action in connection with the Constitution, and I yielded to their advice as bound to do by the existing Constitution and laws.

A minority of the foreign population made my action the pretext for overthrowing the Monarchy, and, aided by the United States naval forces and representative established a new government.

I owed no allegiance to the Provisional Government so established, nor to any power or to any one save the will of my people and the welfare of my country.

The wishes of my people were not consulted as to this change of government, and only those who were in practical rebellion against the Constitutional Government were allowed to vote upon the question whether the Monarchy should exist or not.

To prevent the shedding of the blood of my people, natives and foreigners alike, I opposed armed interference and quietly yielded to the armed forces brought against my throne, and submitted to the arbitrament of the Government of the United States the decision of my rights and those of the Hawaiian people. Since then, as is well known to all, I have pursued the path of peace and diplomatic discussion, and not that of internal strife.

The United States having first interfered in the interest of those founding the Government of 1893 upon the basis of revolution, concluded to leave to the Hawaiian people the selection of their own form of Government.

This selection was anticipated and prevented by the Provisional Government, who, being possessed of the military and police power of the Kingdom, so cramped the electoral privileges that no free expression of their will was permitted to the people who were opposed to them.

By my command and advice the native people and those in sympathy with them were restrained from rising against the Government in power.

The movement undertaken by the Hawaiians last month was absolutely commenced without my knowledge, sanction, consent or assistance, directly or indirectly, and this fact is in truth well known to those who took part in it.

I received no information from any one in regard to arms which were procured or which were to be procured, nor of any men who were induced, or to be induced, to join in any such uprising.

I do not know why this information should have been withheld from me, unless it was with a view to my personal safety or as a precautionary measure. It would not have received my sanction and I can assure the gentlemen of this Commission that, had I known of any such intention, I would have dissuaded the promoters from such a venture. But I will add that had I known, their secrets would have been mine and involuntarily preserved.

That I intended to change my Cabinet and to appoint certain officers of the kingdom, in the event of my restoration, I will admit; but that I, or any one known to me, had, in part or in whole, established a new government is not true. Before the 24th of January, 1895, the day upon which I formally abdicated, and called upon my people to recognize the Republic of Hawaii as the only lawful Government of these Islands, and to support that Government, I claim that I had the right to select a Cabinet in anticipation of a possibility, and history of other governments supports this right. I was not intimidated into abdicating, but followed the counsel of able and generous friends and well-wishers who advised me that such an act would restore peace and good will among my people; vitalize the progress and prosperity of the Islands and induce the actual Government to deal leniently, mercifully, charitably and dispassionately with those who resorted to arms for the purpose of displacing a government in the formation of which they had no voice or control; and which they themselves had seen established by force of arms.

I acted of my own free will, and wish the world to know that I have asked no immunity or favor myself nor pleaded my abdication as a petition for mercy. My actions were dictated by the sole aim of doing good to my beloved country, and of alleviating the privations and pains of those who unhappily and unwisely resorted to arms to regain an independence, which they thought had been unjustly wrested from them.

As you deal with them, so I pray that the Almighty God may deal with you in your hours of trial.

To my regret much has been said about the danger which threatened foreign women and children, and about the bloodthirstiness of the Hawaiians and the outrages which would have been perpetrated by them if they had succeeded in their attempt to overthrow the republican Government.

They who know the Hawaiian temper and disposition understand that there was no foundation for any such fears. The behavior of the rebels to those foreigners whom they captured and held shows that there was no malignancy in the hearts of the Hawaiians at all. It would have been sad indeed if the doctrine of the Christian Missionary Fathers, taught to my people by them and those who succeeded them, should have fallen like the seed in the parable upon barren ground.

I must deny your right to try me in the manner and by the Court which you have called together for this purpose. In your actions you violate your own Constitution and laws which are now the Constitution and laws of the land.

There may be in your consciences a warrant for your action, in what you may deem a necessity of the times, but you cannot find any such warrant for any such action in any settled, civilized or Christian land. All who uphold you in this unlawful proceeding may scorn and despise my word, but the offense of breaking and setting aside for a specific purpose the laws of your own nation and disregarding all justice and fairness may be to them and to you the source of an unhappy and much to be regretted legacy.

I would ask you to consider that your Government is on trial before the whole civilized world, and that in accordance with your actions and decisions will you yourselves be judged. The happiness and prosperity of Hawaii are henceforth in your hands alone as its rulers. You are commencing a new era in its history. May the Divine Providence grant you the wisdom to lead the nation into the paths of forbearance, forgiveness and peace, and to create and consolidate a united people ever anxious to advance in the way of civilization outlined by the American fathers of liberty and religion.

In concluding my statement I thank you for the courtesy you have shown to me, not as your former queen, but as a humble citizen of this land and as a woman. I assure you, who believe you are faithfully fulfilling a public duty, that I shall never harbor any resentment or cherish any ill feeling towards you whatever may be your decision.

Recess taken until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Pure Milk.

The business of the country is settling into its former groove. Our gentlemanly driver has returned from his vacation, the cows in the pasture switch flies instead of bullets with their tails and the cream is richer in consequence. We believe we have satisfied every one of our customers who have taken milk from us and we are in a position to supply a great many more. The people who from choice or necessity visited Waialae during the past two weeks have had an opportunity to see just what sort of diet our stock feeds upon, and no longer wonder at the richness of the milk from our dairy.

Our facilities for delivery are the best. With the exception of a day or two early in the late unpleasantness our drivers have always been on time at our customers' residences. We take this opportunity to thank those who have been patient with us and to solicit a continuance of their patronage. We will be pleased to fill all orders telephoned to us and guarantee all milk to be pure and free from adulteration.

REAL ESTATE IN HULL.

As Observed by Prof. Charles Dawbarn.

Under this heading the following witty description of the volcano of Kilauea appears in the San Leandro (Cal) Standard. There is just one error in it, where it says the latest lava flow was in 1882. There was a big one in 1887:

MAUNA LOA, HAWAIIAN ISLANDS / November 5, 1894.

EDITOR STANDARD:—Lava is everywhere around me as I sit and write by the crater of the most active volcano in the world. Hawaii is proud of its giant Mauna Loa, with one volcano on its side 4000 feet above the sea level and another on its summit, at an elevation of 14,000 feet. They are called the safety valves of the world, but much of the lava is so hot that the weary tourist finds no safety except as he keeps moving on. I just now pushed a stick into yonder bank. It came out coated with liquid sulphur at a boiling temperature. Everything is weird and unreal. The lawn bends as you walk, and below is an echo which you feel a very unsatisfactory foundation for the trail, three miles long, by which you creep to the edge of the crater where I am sitting.

I rarely note down a first impression, and have often regretted it, so here, on the spot, I record a rather irreverent comparison suggested by the scenic play a hundred feet below.

It is not yet quite dark, and the lake is still dimmed by the light of day. But it is crossed and re-crossed by lines of fire. They are cracks in the lava, but they have a strange regularity that somewhat resembles the map by which a dealer in real estate advertises his coming sale of most valuable and eligible lots. One almost expects to see somewhere a huge sign announcing, "Building Lots for Sale in Hell To-night!"

But the play goes on. Fountains begin to sparkle; cascades tumble and roar; geysers spout; and presently a huge wave of white-hot lava rolls over at least one third of the great lake where the lots had previously seemed rather neglected and unsaleable. In one corner the hour has come for increased activity, and we hear the "puff! puff!" of the engines, with the thundering of plutonic hammers, evidently pounding and smashing great blocks of chaos into fragments of suitable size for the fuel needed by the volcano.

It is a gruesome and weird scene, and is rendered none the less so when the guide tells me that he considers this rather comfortable ledge on which I sit and write as liable to tumble into the crater at any hour. No one has yet gone to heaven—or elsewhere—by this route, but the guide says he has often found the resting spot of one day gone on his visit the next. So a startling newspaper epitaph is included as one of the possibilities of a tourist's ticket.

This volcano is presided over by Goddess Pele, and at frequent intervals she sends from the higher crater a stream of lava that usually makes quite a reputation for itself before it ceases. And thereby hangs a rather interesting tale.

In the year A. D. 1882 the last of these great laval rivers started to cross the island and reach the ocean. But right in its road was the one seaport of the island, the flourishing little city of Hilo. The inhabitants, both sacred and profane, naturally objected to being wiped out in this manner, and a battle royal began, just as, according to sacred history, a similar battle was fought to the bitter end between Elijah and the priests of Baal, when the prophet defied the god of the priests to set fire to the sacrifice on a great altar he had erected. The prayers of those priests were many and long but too cold for the occasion, and the sacrifice remained unburned. But the prayers of the prophet went straight to the spot, and there was a grand conflagration. Of course the "maddening crowd" joined his church immediately, for there is nothing so popular as success. Here at Hilo there was to be a similar battle royal, only this time the victor was to put out a fire instead of kindling it. The missionaries and their flocks had their innings and prayed with the fierce fervor of the ancient prophet, but the goddess Pele continued her march all the same. When the awful stream was less than half a mile from the city a dear, good princess of the then royal family, one of the famous line of Kamehamehas, undertook to appeal to the goddess. So Princess Ruth Keelikolani—a sylph weighing over 300 pounds—started in her chariot, which would be called vulgarly an ox-cart, only it was drawn by loving and devoted natives. She sat flat on the bottom of the cart, with her princely limbs hanging out behind in the full glare of the nineteenth century. With her were offerings well known as acceptable to the divine Pele, and when a suitable position was reached the lovely Ruth placed the votive pig where the goddess could immediately enjoy roast pig. In a moment the lava ceased to flow and the city was saved.

Of course the natives believe more firmly than ever in their good goddess and why shouldn't they?

Elijah murdered all who wouldn't believe that his God sent the fire. These gentle natives are quite willing that the white race should continue to make unanswered prayers. The missionaries shouted, "Only a coincidence!" Just so. But the same remark hits the case of Elijah. And personally I confess to a great respect for an unanswered prayer, but none at all for the petition that can neither start nor stop a fire or do any other useful work. So Pele, dear Pele, until further advised accept my humble congratulations.

CHARLES DAWBARN.

PACIFIC CABLE TALK

Referring to the recent Colonial Conference, the Auckland Herald has the following. It shows that an accident has made people in the Australasian Colonies to look forward to the Pacific cable as a necessity:

One important matter which the Conference considered has already been put on a practical footing, and is likely at no distant date to be realized, and that is, a cable across the Pacific. It was thought that the communication between Europe and Australasia had been secured by the duplicate lines now working, but within the last few days we have been compelled to realize that this is not so, communication having ceased for about a week. This is a very serious matter for us now, seeing that the news by cable as to the markets of Europe has become a matter of daily need, and that without it business is dislocated. At the present time the colonies are all more or less unwilling to incur additional responsibilities, but we have no doubt that in regard to this cable project they will endeavor to meet the necessity. Great Britain will no doubt look at the subject on every side. In a time of war, the present lines are all exposed to great danger, as they pass through narrow seas, and through territory over which Great Britain has no power. But a Pacific line would stretch from the western coast of the Canadian Dominion to New Zealand, without danger of any interruption unless Great Britain completely lost the command of the seas. It is evident now that the Pacific Ocean is likely to play a larger part in the history of the world than it has done in the past. The great empires which border it, China and Japan, have hitherto been strictly exclusive. They will evidently be exclusive no longer, but will be marts of world-wide commerce.

A NOBLEMAN THRASHED.

His Charge Against a Fellow Passenger Resented Physically.

There was quite a little scuffle on the Oceanic wharf about 10 o'clock this forenoon between Count Von Plateu, who is a passenger for Honolulu by the S. S. Mariposa, and a through passenger by the same steamer. The Count had had trouble on the steamer during the passage with the gentleman and sent a message to him accusing him of misappropriating some pictures which he (the Count) had. The man did not say anything until the Count's baggage was brought ashore to be inspected by the Customs officers. The Count stood by while his baggage was being searched, and the gentleman accused of stealing happened along. He accosted the Count. A few words passed between them and the stranger hauled off and struck the Count square in the face. He followed it up with several other blows and finally grabbed the Count's cane and struck him over the head with it. Port Surveyor Sanders came to the assistance of the Count and the men were separated. The Count's eyes were blackened and he had a cut on his nose. He did not attempt to make any resistance whatever. After the trouble he said he was going to appeal to the Consul, but later decided he would not.

Common Sense

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a lumberman is called upon to endure in the camps often produces severe colds which if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex-manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Co., an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used this remedy for a severe cold and obtained immediate relief. This medicine prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia and insures a prompt recovery. For sale by Benson, Smith Co., Agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Timely Topics

February 5, 1895.

The occasional heavy rains we are having appears, to the uninitiated, like a balm to the injured roses and tropical foliage for which Honolulu was once famous. You've noticed, perhaps, the absence of the rose bug for several weeks past; they seem to have disappeared as effectually as the cargoes of some of the mysterious crafts that enter the port. But they are simply taking a vacation; if you will dig down into the soft earth you will find hundreds of little white worms which, if these heavy rains do not kill them, will in a short time develop into full fledged rose bugs. Without knowing positively that the rain will kill the larvae we would imagine it would do what nothing else has done.

The Grand Rapids Carpet Sweeper is as well known as Pears' Soap. For polished or covered floors there is nothing more effective and nothing easier to handle than one of these sweepers. We have a few and we sell them cheap.

If your mangoes are ripening you will want a fruit picker because it saves your mangoes from being mashed when they fall to the ground. If you sell your fruit you will save ten times the price of a picker the first season you use it. Four, bits if you don't want a handle; six, if you do.

One of the new lot of Carriage Whips we have just received will suit you unless you require to have it gold mounted, in that case it will be done for you at the Coast. Ours are really good ones for the money; you can get one pure whale bone or imitation as you wish.

The Pasteur Filter seems to be a good one, judging from the quantity of dirt that collects on the cylinders as the water is filtered. We rent them at a dollar a month or sell them at a fixed price—try one of them for a month or so and if you like it well enough, buy it.

You will never have a loaf of heavy bread in your house if you cut it with a Clauss Knife. For real genuine usefulness nothing can compare with it. Just fancy! For a dollar we give you a knife that will cut warm bread, another that will cut iced cake and still another that pares apples or potatoes with the least proportion of loss of material.

Haviland China leads all others and we have the stock from which you may draw from. Our assortment is made up off all sorts of the very best and we have arranged the price to suit your purpose.

For sale everywhere for 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.

WHAT OTHER SAYS:

SAN JOSE, JAN. 27, 1868.—Certificate of Blood Spavin.—In justice to the proprietor of "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," I will say that I have used it to good satisfaction, and can recommend it to those keeping horses as an invaluable medicine, and I believe it to be equal to what it is recommended; and I have not known its equal as an external remedy, for I have also used it to good effect for rheumatism upon myself.
J. C. PHIPPS.

This is to certify that I saw the above case, and it was one of the worst spavins I ever saw. I did not believe that the blood spavin could be cured, but I would acknowledge that I was mistaken, and am willing to recommend "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," superior to anything I ever had any knowledge of as a horse medicine.
T. ANDREWS.

MR. D. DOCK TOMLINSON—Dear Sir: For the information of the public and in justice to your valuable horse medicine, "The Celebrated H. H. H. Horse Medicine—D. D. T., 1868," I would state that I have used it to full satisfaction on a mare of mine that had an enlargement of the fetlock joint, which was at least one third larger than before it got hurt; and of a hard callous lump, and her leg also much larger. The above medicine removed the enlargement, and otherwise performed a perfect cure.

I also know of its curing blood spavin in different cases among my neighbors' horses, which were very bad and in curable by all who saw them; and I have full confidence in the above preparation, and bear it spoken of by others with equal to what it has been recommended, and can recommend it to others with full confidence of its great worth, and that it performs all cures without injury to the growth of the hair, does not change the color of the hair, and leaves the limb smooth and clean.

Your respectfully,
JOHN WEATHERS.

MORE GUNS RECOVERED.

Wilcox's Followers Eat a Dog—Silver Mounted Gun Wanted.

Senior Captain Parker secured two more Winchester 44-calibre rifles yesterday. Information as to their whereabouts was given by Ioela, the rebel who followed R. W. Wilcox through his mountain travels and was apprehended with him at C. L. Hopkins' place at Kahakaalana. Special Alick Nicholas was despatched with Ioela. The rebel had informed the captain that the guns were abandoned on the mountains between the Nuuanu Pali and Kalihi Valley. The two started in the morning. They went up Waolani Valley and walked away into the recesses of the mountains, meeting with no little difficulty in climbing over brush and trees. Finally they had to climb a high ridge on the northeastern side of Kiloahua Valley and above Waolani. Amid the trees the two rifles were discovered. With the exception of being a little rusty they were in good condition. They were not loaded and no ammunition was found in the vicinity.

Ioela showed the special the place where Wilcox and nine rebel followers roasted a small dog and ate it. The place where the fire had been was seen and bones were scattered about the place.

The rebel told the officer how they came to roast the dog. The little animal belonged to one of the rebels and was with them during Sunday and Monday, and followed the rebels after the fight over the mountains up to the time it was killed. The poor little thing travelled with great difficulty through the brush and had to be helped along sometimes. On the morning of the roasting one of the rebels, a young fellow named Kahanui, had gone down on a lower ridge. He had with him Wilcox's silver mounted rifle. He hallooed out something to Wilcox and his men. They seeing the soldiers on the road below refrained from answering, for fear of their hiding place being discovered. They could not get down to where they could get some fruit to eat. They waited until the fog settled on the mountain, when someone proposed that the dog be roasted. No sooner said than done, and the dog was roasted and furnished the rebels' morning repast.

While Ioela and the special were in the mountains an ineffectual search was made for Wilcox's silver mounted rifle. Kahanui, the one who knows where it is hid, is known to the police.

There were two silver mounted rifles used in the late uprising, one being carried by Charles Warren and the other by Robert Wilcox.

POPULAR APPROVAL

Goes far toward establishing the standing of a business house in any community, and the good-will and patronage we have had during the last forty years indicate, not only that we have the POPULAR APPROVAL, but that those who have dealt with us have been eminently satisfied with their transactions.

WE ATTRACT

And retain patronage more by the EXCELLENCE of QUALITIES shown and our REASONABLE PRICES than by preposterous claims of selling goods below cost, etc.

WE REPEAT

As we have said before that when you pay less for goods than we ask for them you get an inferior quality.

WHILE WE

Carry a stock of dry goods that is complete in every sense, from the lowest priced goods to the most luxurious made, we make a specialty of the highest grade, and exclusive designs of the most recent and accepted styles.

IT IS

Worth your while always in making purchases to look at our stock before deciding. If we have what you want you will certainly buy it, if quality and price are any consideration.

What Shall We Drink?

When the rays of Old Sol are boiling down at a ninety degree rate, the air like the breath of a furnace and everything hot, dry and dusty, the natural desire of the average human is to drink. But, what to drink? There's the question.

The serious effect of an over-indulgence in ice water is well known. The thousand and one cheap gassy beverages are known to be more or less injurious to the health, while the mineral waters of known purity and healthfulness are a luxury beyond the reach of but few. What shall we drink?

A beverage to meet the requirements, must, first of all, be absolutely pure and non-alcoholic. It should possess a medicinal element to counteract the effects of the heat and keep the blood pure and the stomach healthful. In order to be palatable and refreshing, it should be sparkling and effervescent. Last but not least, it must be economical and within the reach of all. A beverage that fully meets all of the above requirements and one that is entitled to more than passing mention is HIRE'S' ROOT BEER, manufactured by the CHAS. E. HIRE & Co., of Philadelphia, U. S. A. This preparation has been analyzed by the highest authorities and pronounced by them to be free from any deleterious substance and absolutely non-alcoholic; while all physicians acknowledge its health giving qualities. It has a delicious, appetizing flavor, is full of snap, sparkle and effervescence, and is without a peer as a refreshment.

A package from your storekeeper will make five gallons of this great temperance drink. Truly it answers the question—What shall we drink? There are many substitutes and imitations of HIRE'S' ROOT BEER offered for sale which should be carefully avoided.

Testimonials:

"We have used your Root Beer for over a year and find it delicious and healthful. We would not like to be without it a single day. We find it is helping all of us.—Mrs. F. H. CLARK, 735 Chester St., Oakland, Cal., U. S. A."

"We have used over one hundred bottles of your Root Beer, drinking it winter and summer. My brother and myself are total abstainers, drinking nothing but Hires' Root Beer.—MICHAEL KELLY, 16 Water St., Waltham, Mass., U. S. A."

Mrs. Judge Peck Tells How She Was Cured

Sufferers from Dyspepsia should read the following letter from Mrs. H. M. Peck, wife of Judge Peck, a Justice at Tracy, Cal., and a writer connected with the Associated Press:

"By a deep sense of gratitude for the great benefit I have received from the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I have been led to write the following statement for the benefit of sufferers who may be similarly afflicted. For 15 years I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia and Heart Trouble.

Almost everything I ate would distress me. I tried different treatments and medicines, but failed to realize relief. Two years ago a friend revealed upon me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle I noticed helped me, so I continued taking it. It did me so much good that my friends spoke of the improvement. I have received such great benefit from it that

UNHEALTHY GOLD FIELD.

Terrible State of Affairs at Australian Diggings

Captain Way, of the Lake Country, who left recently for Coolgardie, returned this week. He got as far as Adelaide, where he met some of the returning diggers, who gave him such a dreadful picture of the state of affairs on the goldfields that he decided to return. They said that twenty to thirty a day were dying of typhoid and other complaints, and being shovelled into the sand in holes about two feet deep. The sufferings of the diggers through the lack of a sufficient supply of water were very great. Captain Way concluded that he could do better by returning to Auckland than by trying his luck at Coolgardie in such a state of affairs.—Auckland Herald.

S. S. Mariposa Arrives

The S. S. Mariposa, Captain Hayward, arrived from the Colonies via Samoa early this morning. She left Sydney on Monday, Jan. 21, at 5:20 p. m., sailed from Auckland on Sunday, Jan. 27, at 1:43 a. m., and left Apia on Thursday, Jan. 31, at 8:35 p. m. Her delay in reaching Honolulu was owing to the rough weather experienced on the passage. She will leave for San Francisco at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The steamer is expected to carry a very large mail hence.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

THIS CUT is a fair and comprehensive example of a cheap and uncentered lens. You think you get the same amount of relief from a cheap glass, because it may have the same amount of refractive power as the more costly. See where the above lens focuses. See the scattering of rays. As much spherical aberration in such glasses as there is aberration of the mind in an insane person; yet this is the general run of glasses you buy cheap. How long will your sensitive eye stand this strain? Why, until they are ruined entirely. Can you afford to wear such glasses, simply because they cost you a little less than the perfect? No, a thousand times, No. You could not if they were given you with a bonus. We will not sell such glasses; would not be guilty of giving them away. But we guarantee to fit every manner of complicated case with the proper and correctly ground glass, and to give perfect satisfaction.

National Cane Shredder

PATENTED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

Mr. John A. Scott, Manager of the Hilo Sugar Company, gives the following wonderful record of the working of the NATIONAL CANE SHREDDER, which was erected by their works at the commencement of the crop just harvested:

"During the past week the Hilo Sugar Company's mill exceeded any of its former records by closing the 125 hours grinding with an output of 3000 tons. This is fully 10 percent more than the best work of former years.

"The three roller mill being 26 in. by 54 in. and the two roller mill 30 in. by 60 in. The first mill doing this amount of work in an efficient manner and with great ease, compared with work on whole cane, owing to thorough preparation of the cane by the National Cane Shredder, recently erected by the Company.

"And by its use the extraction has been increased from 3 percent to 5 percent on all kinds of cane, and in some cases 80 percent has been reached; the average being 75 to 78 percent, according to quality.

"I continue to find the megass from shredded cane better fuel than from whole cane.

"The shredder has been working day and night for seven months and has given me entire satisfaction, having shredded during that time about seventy thousand tons of cane, and a large part of it being hard ratoons.

"The shredder and engine require very little care or attention."

Plans and specifications of these Shredders may be seen at the office of

LORD BRASSEY TALKS.

Says the House of Lords Goes Too Far in Rejecting Bills.

At the Liberal Federation meeting Lord Brassey, replying to congratulations expressed on his appointment to succeed Lord Hoptoun as Governor of Victoria, said he had accepted the office chiefly from a sense of public duty. He would do his very best to serve the colony well and promote cordial relations with England.

Lord Brassey, speaking at Rochester, said that if the leaders in the House of Lords were prudent and discreet that Chamber might not be required to be reformed for many years to come. Its attitude on the Irish Home Rule question was, he thought, to a certain extent defensible, but its rejection of every Liberal measure compelled a review of its position. The last straw was its rejection of the Evicted Tenants Bill. He approved of the payment of members of Parliament, and regarded local veto as being in accordance with the spirit of the age, because it prevented an excessive number of licenses. When absent in Australia his heart would always beat in unison with the Liberals of the Old Country.

The Work He Does.

How much does a newspaper man write in a year? An old newspaper worker has sat down and figured it out. He figures that he writes an average of a column and a half every day, except for his Sunday paper, when he contributes three columns. This makes twelve columns a week, and, allowing for two weeks' vacation, he has fifty weeks in a year, in which time he turns out 840,000 words. An ordinary book of short stories contains about 40,000 words, therefore his year's labor is equivalent to twenty books. At this rate of comparison the feat of Marion Crawford in publishing two books per annum does not strike the newspaper man as an incredibly hard task, even allowing for the extra amount of thought involved in story writing. Mr. Howells considers a thousand words a good day's work. Thomas Janvier is satisfied with 400 words, or a little over a quarter of a column.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Lady Editor's Scoop.

Lady Colin Campbell has succeeded in passing all the other papers in London by securing as a contributor for her new paper, the Realm, the sultan of Turkey. All of the other papers are pitching into the Realm in a very vigorous fashion for using the sultan as an advertisement, but the ring of jealousy is evident everywhere. The sultan did not actually write the article himself, as he is not a very fluent penman, according to the gossips, but he dictated it to one of his ministers, and then corrected it. The enterprise of the Realm in securing the article is looked upon as marking an epoch in British journalism and as beating the American papers in their own field. The sultan did not say anything of any particular consequence in his article, but that aspect of the question is not looked upon as worthy of discussion.—Exchange.

READ WHAT Ayer's Sarsaparilla

did for the Invalid Daughter of a Prominent Lowell Tradesman.

"My daughter had for a long time been troubled with violent headaches and sleeplessness. She was pale, had no appetite, and was losing flesh rapidly. She took various remedies for her trouble, but received no benefit until she commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking half a bottle, she began to feel better. By a continued use of this medicine, her appetite returned, her cheeks began to fill out and show color, she gained in strength, her headaches disappeared, she slept better, and now says she feels like a new person."

Real Estate and Loans

The enlargement of the LOAN Market so as to cover the wants and necessities of the large number of honorable people who are not owners of unencumbered Real Estate was one of the most necessary innovations of recent years. To many it has meant relief from pressing claims at the very time when most essential. When properly and honorably conducted this business is of equally great importance and value to the community as Building and Loan Associations have proved themselves to be.

The Hawaiian Investment Co.
