HE SOUGHT REFUGE HERE FROM GEORGE OTTERSON ON THE WRONG STEAMSHIP

PROFESSOR CHARLES COPELAND IS WANTED.

Came to Honolulu Leaving His Family Back in Ohio—Is Now Principal of Kapaa School.

Professor Charles E. Copeland, who was recently placed in charge of the Kapaa school on Kauai by Inspector General Townsend, pending an investigation in the Austin matter, is involved in a mystery which he will be asked to clear up before he is given permanent employment under the Educational department.

By a recent mail there came to the President of the Board of Education a postal which contained a picture and minute description of Professor Copeland. Any information concerning his whereabouts was asked to be telegraphed immediately to the missing man's wife, Mrs. C. E. Copeland, of Delaware, Ohio, or the chief of police at Columbus, Ohio. Any one taking this trouble will be liberally paid.

The circular gives a very complete description of the professor from birth marks to a monogram on his watch chain. He left his home in Delaware, Ohio, on June 19, taking a bicycle and $800 in money. It also stated that Mr. Copeland was a Methodist, and never swore, drank or used tobacco. He was a Mason and has travelled over the United States and Europe. He taught three schools in Singapore, India; was principal of the Delaware, Ohio, schools for three years, and was a graduate of the O. W. U., with an A. M. degree.

Further information is given concerning the man, that he likes to live near the water, and would surely seek a quiet boarding house, rather than noisy hotels. Copeland landed in Honolulu in July last. He immediately sought employment of the Educational Board, presenting testimonials and diplomas. From what little can be learned concerning him, it appears that he left his home on account of family difficulties.

KILAUEA REALLY ACTIVE.

Steamer Mauna Loa Brings Ample Confirmation.

A. Stanley, a tourist who returned on the Mauna Loa today from a trip to the volcano, confirms the report brought down by the Claudine last week, that old Kilauea is again in a state of great activity. He says that since the outburst witnessed by the Congressmen and Attorney General Smith, a week or so ago, the lake has been rising gradually, and that there has been an almost constant display of fire, with fountains playing. The lake is now about 500 feet below the level of the large basin. At night it presents a grand appearance, for the surface is as boiling and restless as in years gone by.

The steamship companies are very slow to confirm the news of the new activity. So many false reports have been sent out from time to time the people are beginning to look upon all reports concerning the activity of the volcano as "stories for summer boarders only." President Wight of the Wilder Steamship Company, says that if the volcano is again active, he does not doubt that it will continue so, and increase until it presents the same grand spectacle that it did three years ago, when hundreds of people came from all parts of the world to see it.

FINNEY'S HARD LUCK.

Started for the Klondike but Had to Put Back to Frisco.

B. L. Finney, formerly interested in the newspaper business in Honolulu, outfitted for the Klondike in San Francisco on August 24, and sailed on the steamer Navarro three days later. The Navarro had to put back to San Francisco. The party had a flat bottom river boat in tow which proved to be unmanageable and a rudder was put on. Finney's party was delayed some time in San Francisco, and as the Yukon had already begun to freeze he will get no further than St. Michaels this winter.

NOT A GOVERNMENT INVITE.

The Government never authorized the invitation of Senator Bacon, as stated in telegrams that appeared in the San Francisco dailies. Mr. Bacon was invited by private parties and the Government had nothing to do with the matter.

ON THE WRONG STEAMSHIP THE FIRST STEP IS TAKEN

AN UNWILLING PASSENGER ON THE WARRIMOO.

Charles Taylor Plans to Go to Tacoma, but Finds Himself Unexpectedly in Hawaii.

Charles Taylor, who arrived from Victoria on the Warrimoo this morning, finds himself in a very unique and unpleasant predicament of being just 2500 miles distant from the place he had selected as his destination when he boarded the steamer at Victoria, eight days ago. What is worse, his friends in Tacoma, who were expecting to meet him on the day he sailed, have no doubt been hunting high and low for him, and he can almost see the glaring headlines in the papers announcing his mysterious disappearance, and probable death at the hands of thieves.

It was all through a mistake on the part of Mr. Taylor. By some strange misunderstanding he boarded the Warrimoo instead of the Tacoma steamer, and she was well on her way to sea before he discovered his mistake. Captain Hay was unwilling to turn back to land Mr. Taylor, so the steamer was forced to continue his enforced journey as a guest of the company, and finds himself today in a part of the world he had never expected to visit. He will be placed in charge of the British Vice Consul here, and on October 1st be returned to Victoria on the R. M. S. Miowa.

Mr. Taylor is a draper by trade, hailing originally from London, but of recent years a resident of Chicago. He was on his way to visit friends in Tacoma when he got astray. Just how it happened Mr. Taylor is still unable to tell. The Warrimoo was lying at the dock alongside of the Tacoma steamer. Mr. Taylor was late, and rushed aboard the Warrimoo just before the gang plank was hauled in. It was getting quite dark, and the traveler did not notice that the vessel he was aboard was heading out to sea.

Half an hour later he went down to dinner, and then, for the first time he discovered his mistake. Of course he wanted to go back, but Captain Hay would not hear of it. Mr. Taylor was told that he must go on. As his ticket and papers proved beyond doubt that his mistake was an honest one, and his anxiety to return to Victoria evident, Captain Hay told the traveler that he must continue his journey at the expense of the company, returning to Victoria by the next steamer. Mr. Taylor has made the best of it. He found himself in pleasant company, and is enjoying his trip very much except that he is worried on account of his friends, who will undoubtedly believe that he has met with foul play.

A GOOD YACHT RACE.

Henry Williams sailed his yacht, the Pokii, over the Diamond Head course in 1 hour 44 minutes and 38 seconds, yesterday afternoon, winning the second class yacht race. The corrected time was 1:34:54.

The Clytie, sailed by T. W. Hobron, finished second, going over the course in 1:55:01. Her time, after deducting the time allowance, was 1:44:40, giving her the second prize. The Abbie M., sailed by H. M. Dow, finished in the elapsed time of 2:02:56; the Combination, sailed by F. Walker, finished in 2:11:53; and the Bennington, sailed by Bennington men, finished in 2:08:30.

The Edith L., owned by Joseph Gilman, did not compete. She won the race last year.

ESCAPED FROM MOLOKAI.

Six Patients Get Over the Pass to Kaunakakai.

Executive Officer Reynolds reported on matters pertaining to the Molokai settlement at the Health Board meeting yesterday. Six patients had escaped from the settlement going over the pass to Kaunakakai. Five of the fugitives have been captured. Mr. Reynolds recommended that the Kaunakakai officers be more careful hereafter.

The Waleia road is being pushed to completion. It is feared that $600 will be insufficient to carry out the work. The department will encourage the patients to catch fish and dispose of them to the Government at 4 cents a pound. This would be much better than buying meat at 5 1/2 cents. A number of canoes were being built for this purpose. Mr. Reynolds said that Acting Resident Superintendent Hutchinson feared the natives might escape in the canoes, but he did not believe so, if proper care was taken in watching them. A rule will be enforced that all canoes must be locked or chained in a shed at night.

Beretania hall is running and is kept open until 9 o'clock for the benefit of the working people.

It is likely that the Kahawao store will be turned into an amusement hall for the residents.

It is intended to purchase some swings and croquet sets for the settlement out of money to be raised from the public.

RESISTING TEMPTATION.

Balzac, the great French writer, used to say: "I can resist everything excepting temptation." In these modern times of ours we naturally infer that he was thinking of bicycle riding. ### THE FIRST STEP IS TAKEN JOHN CLAIMS THE OPIUM GETS $1,000 FINE AND SIX MONTHS IMPRISONMENT.

Maui Election News—An Unexpected Bride—Sugar Shipments to the Coast This Week.

Maui, Sept. 23, 1897.
Last Monday, on board the schooner Albert W. Meyers, Port Surveyor Zumbalt made a haul of 109 tins of opium. Upon her arrival the vessel was searched, but nothing was found. When the cargo was all out a second search was made, and this opium was found in a locker, near the captain's cabin. As soon as it was discovered the Chinese steward, Jim Johnson, stepped forward and owned up that it was his, and he was immediately placed under arrest. Mr. Jim Johnson is a civilized Chinaman, with no cue, and the distinction of possessing a white wife and several children. The case came up yesterday before Judge Halstead, and was finished this morning. The defendant was found guilty and sentenced to six months imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $1,000. A. N. Kepoikai, attorney for the defendant, noted an appeal.

There is some little excitement here over the election next week, and especially so in Waialuku. Considerable money has been wagered there on the result, as to whether A. N. Kepoikai will be elected or not. One bet of $250 is reported, and some money is also up in Lahaina. It is generally conceded that W. P. Pogue, A. N. Kepoikai and S. W. Kaai, will be elected, leaving Kahaulelio of Lahaina the defeated candidate. A political meeting is to be held next Saturday evening in the Waialuku Court House, to give the candidates a last chance to address the people before the election.

A. N. Kepoikai and George Hons spent several days electioneering in Lahaina.

Dr. P. McConkey surprised his many friends by bringing a bride home with him last week. At present they are stopping at Dr. Goodhue's, Waialuku.

The brig Lurline got away yesterday morning for San Francisco, with a cargo of Spreckelsville sugar, and three passengers on board.

The three masted schooner Albert W. Meyers sails tomorrow morning, also loaded with Spreckelsville sugar, for the Coast.

MAUI POLITICS.

Rival Hawaiian Annexationists in the Field.

At a meeting held in the Lahaina Court House on Tuesday evening, September 21, the rival candidates for Legislative honors, A. N. Kepoikai of Waialuku, and D. H. Kahaulelio of Lahaina, addressed a number of the Lahaina voters.

Kepoikai said that although at one time a strong Royalist he was now the president of the Annexation club at Waialuku. That as a member of the Waialuku Board he had worked hard to get the carriage road round the mountain. He pledged himself to work for annexation, to improve the road from Lahaina to Waialuku, and to do his best to keep the December term of the Circuit Court at Lahaina.

George Hons of Waialuku spoke in favor of Kepoikai, dwelling on his career as Circuit Judge of Maui.

D. H. Kahaulelio then made an eloquent address in Hawaiian. He said he had never been Circuit Judge or president of the Annexation club, but he had been elected on Hawaii a delegate to the Constitutional Convention and had helped to frame the Constitution.

He asked who would have the interests of Lahaina more at heart, a stranger living at Waialuku, or a person born and brought up in Lahaina.

He undertook to do as much as Kepoikai for the roads and towards keeping the Court at Lahaina, and he also promised to work for an appropriation to improve the Lahaina landing.

He had already given his pledge in writing to do all in his power in favor of annexation.

WHAT SAILOR MEN TALK OF

SCHOONER WAIALUA TO HAVE STEAM POWER.

To be Rigged Like the Morning Star—Warrimoo in Port—Made a Cold Sneak—Gossip.

The Warrimoo sails for the Colonies at 3 p. m.

The Kaena will sail at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Kahuku, with a cargo of redwood lumber ties.

The Claudine will sail for the Coast on or about October, according to the present arrangements. Captain Cameron will of course take her up.

Purser Matthews of the Mauna Loa had a telephone message from Captain Freeman yesterday saying that the Helene would arrive here Saturday morning.

The Mauna Loa arrived at noon from Hawaii and Maui ports, with 6690 bags of sugar for the S. C. Allen. She also brought 200 bags of coffee and 27 head of cattle. Captain Simerson reports fine weather.

The Aorangi was to have left Victoria on the 20th, four days later than the Warrimoo, and barring accidents, ought to reach here about the 28th.

During the time she lay at Vancouver she was given a thorough overhauling, and it is not believed she will give any trouble on the way down.

The Helene ought to have been here last Wednesday, but has not yet put in an appearance. Just why she is delayed is not easy to see, as there could not have been much difficulty in securing her inward cargo, even if the water proved rough. The Mauna Loa is expected to bring some word of her.

The Kaala will be taken off her regular run today for another trip to Lahaina, with a cargo of coal and deck load of ostriches. The big birds came down from Kauai recently, and are to be used to stock a new ranch on Maui. Captain Mosher says he has had many strange traveling companions, but these are the strangest.

The R. M. S. Warrimoo, Captain Hay, arrived in port at 5:30 this morning, and went at once to the Oceanic wharf to discharge 250 tons of general cargo. The Pacific Mail dock was crowded for her to dock there.

The Warrimoo left Vancouver on the 16th, four days ahead of her schedule time, on the time set for the Aorangi. Fine weather was experienced on the way down. The Warrimoo brought about thirty passengers, including first and second cabin.

A sailor of the bark Rufus E. Wood was observed by Customs Inspector Monoha in the act of making a cold sneak aboard the ship with a bundle under his arm this morning. The inspector thought he had his man cold, and so it proved, for when he laid the strong hand of the law on the sailor's shoulder, the latter, with chattering teeth, unrolled a cake of ice, stolen from in front of the Port Surveyor's office. He said the mate had sent him out after a piece of ice, and being a stranger in these parts, he had taken the first piece that came within view. He was forgiven.

The little schooner Waialua now engaged in the Waialua rice and paddy trade, is to have supplementary steam power in the near future. Her owners, Evans & Vida, have recently purchased the compound engine and boilers that came out of the old Frolic. One of the schooner's masts is to be made of iron pipe, to be used as a smoke stack, after the fashion of the missionary packet Morning Star. An increase in freight has made it essential for the owners of the Waialua either to increase her carrying capacity, or her speed. She will be an odd looking craft when the changes are made.

In the rooty ground your plow either rolls over the rocks or cuts through them, and we find it unnecessary to sharpen the discs, which scour perfectly and were set at such an angle that friction with the earth makes them self-sharpeners. I am, dear sir, yours very truly, PAUL R. ISENBERG.

HAWAIIAN LANDS.

The San Francisco Argonaut devotes nearly a column of editorial to a dissertation upon the taking of the land of the Hawaiians.

Congressman Cannon the other day was looking for land for the United States naval station and found that the owners were willing to give so much for the consideration of a dollar, and that the rest could be bought at a reasonable price. There is no land steal in the annexation movement. As was proved by the Census the Hawaiians under the Republican Government had been given an opportunity of acquiring land for homesteads.

There will be no taking of land without compensation, and after annexation there will be no claims to pay because no legal claims exist. The people of France might as well be hunting for Chilperies' descendants, or those of Italy be seeking those of Sallust, as the United States Government seeking for owners of the soil on islands every foot of which has better title deeds than those of many a owner in the United States or Europe.

The argument used is nonsense, but at the same time it is the nonsense which goes down with a certain class of people who know nothing of the true condition of affairs and who never trouble to inform themselves. What the Argonaut uses might be a very good crowd cry, but it will not go down with those who know, and Senator Morgan, who is attacked in the article, may well afford to smile at the feeble effort of his opponents.

QUITE A FARCE.

There should be some distinct regulations with regard to vessels here. The other day when the Peru arrived there was a sort of quasi-quarantine ordered and on application of a reporter from this paper to go on board he was refused. At the same time hotel runners and baggage men were allowed to go on board, see the passengers and then mingle with the crowd.

This is simply ridiculous. If the authorities wish to keep a quarantine, even for half an hour, they are perfectly justified in doing so, but to shut out one class of the community and allow another to go on board is merely playing at quarantine in a manner which must inspire contempt. The newspaper reporter when he goes to a vessel or any where else represents the public. It is for the benefit of the public that he gathers the news, and discrimination between him and hotel runners is for a petty authority to discriminate against the public.

It is, on the face of it, unlikely that the Board of Health ever issued any such idiotic dictum that hotel runners and others would not infect the crowd on the wharf, but some of the less intelligent of its instruments have done so, and the Board should look those gentlemen up and promptly sit on them. Either have regulations or don't have them, but as things are managed now they are utterly illogical and absurd, put the members of the Board of Health in anything but an enviable light and result in an actual farce.

SAMOA.

The question of American influence in Samoa is troubling the Australian press somewhat. The Australians have always regarded the islands South of the line as their eventual property. North of the line they do not care what happens, indeed the entire Australian press is very favorable to the annexation of the Hawaiian group, having a very wholesome fear of the immigration from Japan, which has already pressed upon some of the Northern possessions, notably Thursday Island. On this island the white man has been nearly driven out by the Japanese. With such an object lesson before them the Australians saw the necessity of curbing the quiet power of expansion which Japan possesses, and they have regarded the annexation of these Islands as a step towards checking Japanese influence in the North Pacific, which might be eventually extended to the South Pacific.

Politically the United States will not take more active part in Samoan affairs than Great Britain and Germany do. In tripartite arrangements there will always be one representative who will take the lead of the other two and, as to influence in Samoa, it will and does much depend upon who is the representative of the United States, Great Britain or Germany.

With regard to trade that is a matter of competition, and if the trade goods of the Colonial traders are of inferior quality to American trade goods the former may not be surprised that the Samoans buy the goods or the latter. If the Colonial axes are blunt the Samoans will certainly buy the sharp axes supplied by the sharper trader. But politically Samoa is not yet above the horizon, so the Australians need not worry.

The situation in Greece will become somewhat like that of Egypt. According to the latest advices the six powers guarantee the payment of the indemnity to the Turks. The six powers take possession of the finances of Greece and run them under a mixed commission representing the owners of the Grecian debt. A similar scheme has worked well with the Egyptian finances and will probably work well for Greece. In point of fact the paying of the indemnity may bring about such a readjustment of her finances that in a few years she may be better off than she has ever been. As for Turkey, the indemnity which rolls into her coffers simply goes into a bottomless pit, and will bring her practically no advantage. It has come to be an acknowledged fact now that at the receipt of a money indemnity works more harm to the nation receiving it than it does to the nation paying. Japan is a special case in point. In spite of the large indemnity paid by China, Japanese finances are in anything but a healthy condition at the present moment, and Japan's credit abroad is by no means first class.

In resigning his position on the Advisory Council Geo. W. Smith has considered carefully where his work might be of greatest use to the public. By the law, as it now stands, Mr. Smith could not occupy two positions under the Government, even though both offices were unpaid. The position of Commissioner of Education is far more onerous than that of a member of the Advisory Council, in that it makes greater demand upon the time of the incumbent of the position. The teachers, as a body, and all those interested in education are much gratified that he has decided to accept his position as Commissioner of Education as his well known good sense and strict impartiality will be a source of strength to the Board and of satisfaction to its employes.

RED VELVET CORRUGATED GARDEN HOSE

is the result of years of experimenting and severe tests as to durability and practicability. The old style of armored and plain rubber hose is bound to crack eventually, no matter how much care and attention is given it.

is made of the best quality of rubber, of ample thickness to sustain any amount of dragging around and hard usage, and being ribbed, or corrugated, the possibility of kinking is reduced to a minimum.

Continual kinking, together with negligence in allowing hose to remain attached to the tap when not in use, is what makes hose crack. The Red Velvet Garden hose is made to stand all this and fills the bill to perfection as well as a long felt want.

Aside from this hose in three-quarter-inch, any length, we carry the plain rubber hose in half-inch, three-quarter-inch, and one inch sizes; also suction and steam hose in all sizes.

Tariff Vagaries.

In the United States the Government allows a rebate to the manufacturers on all agate ware shipped out of the country. It is one of the fine points in the tariff question, and enables the foreign importer to compete with the dealers in the United States in the sale of these articles. It makes it possible for our customers to buy such goods from us at lower prices than they can buy them in San Francisco. The appended list shows but a few of the articles in this line sold by us, and where more than one price is given it will be understood that the price is graded with the different sizes of the articles. In every instance you will observe that our prices are much lower than the same goods may be bought for at the Coast. These prices are taken from the catalogue of one of the largest House Furnishing Goods dealers in San Francisco. It is bona fide, and the goods are identical in quality as those advertised in the catalogue. It is hard to believe that the people of Honolulu—2,100 miles from San Francisco—can buy such goods for less money.

CRUSHED IN AN ICE FLOE

FATE OF THE OLD STEAM WHALE BOAT, NAVARECH.

Thirty-eight of Her Crew Supposed to Have Perished—Vessel Well Known in These Waters.

SEATTLE, Wash., September 10.—The steam whaler Navarech was caught in the ice pack near Point Barrow last July and thirty-eight of her crew are thought to have perished. Twenty-nine of the missing men left the ship on August 12th to make a dash across the field of ice to the mainland near Point Barrow, and it is thought that every one of them perished. Nine of the men refused to leave the vessel, and, locked in a huge block of ice, went drifting farther into the inhospitable Arctic circle. They can hardly escape death.

Captain A. C. Whitesides, who commanded the unfortunate craft, led the only party that escaped the tragic fate of the rest. With his wife, two mates and four seamen he crossed the ice to Cooper Island and was rescued by the revenue cutter Bear. The latter had been vainly striving for weeks to reach the imprisoned whaler. Once the cutter was within five miles of her and that too at a time when not a member of the crew had left her, but dense fogs and treacherous ice baffled the rescuers. A crew of natives from the Point Barrow rescue station and the whalers Orea, Rosario and W. Bayliss also made heroic efforts to save the crew of the Navarech, and some of the rescuers nearly perished in the ice floes.

The eight survivors are Captain A. C. Whitesides, Mrs. Whitesides, Second Mate Blaine, Fourth Mate Reed, Boat-steerer Peters, Boat-steerer Sanders and Seamen Lechow and Scott. Blaine and Reed joined the Rosario and the other six were brought to St. Michael on the Bear.

The nine men who remained on the Navarech are: Fireman Lord, Cook J. Hanna and Seamen T. Collins, M. Husby and R. Bergman, Cabin Boy F. Falter and Seamen J. Brem, J. Slater and O. Peterson. The names of the twenty-three men who abandoned the ship before Captain Whitesides and his party left cannot be furnished as the papers of the ship were not saved.

The survivors left the whaler on the morning of the 14th of August, and were sixty hours in reaching Cooper Island. The latter is a barren bit of sand thirty miles east of Point Barrow, but its shores were hospitable. For nearly three days the party had trudged across the broken ice, with danger at every step.

Mrs. Whitesides won the blessing of many a man in the forlorn little band she taking her turn at dragging the boat across the ice, and if ever her hope failed she never surrendered. She encouraged her husband and his men, and would not admit that she had been in any danger until she was in a cozy stateroom on the Bear. Then in her gratitude she cried:

Next day they started for Point Barrow under the care of a friendly family of Esquimaux. At midday the Bear bore in sight, a tattered flag was hoisted on a pole and the canvas boat sent out to head off the cutter. It seemed for a time that they would not be seen, but the lookout on the Bear was sharp.

MRS. KANOA'S WILL.
The wife of Kalepua Kanoa, widow of Governor Kanoa, was filed in the Circuit Court today for probate. The estate is valued at $15,000 in real estate and personal property, including horses and cattle on Kauai valued at $7,000.

THE OSTRICH FARM.
Birds from Kauai En Route for Maui By Steamer.

The little steamer Kaala will be a genuine traveling menagerie tonight. Forty large necked and long legged birds whose ancestors once roamed the Great Sahara desert, will comprise the show. From the hurricane deck of the little steamer they will be given an opportunity to do all the stargazing they want to, and to enjoy the beauties of the Molokai and Maui channels.

So ends the ostrich farm experiment on Kauai about which so much has been said and written in years gone by. It failed, it is claimed, because the birds were not given sufficient freedom. J. H. Walker and others have become interested in the enterprise, and bought the job lot of birds far below the coast price. They have a fine place for a farm at Kananapali, on Maui, where they propose to give the birds another trial. Last week all of the ostriches, some forty in number were captured and boxed up in large crates. The Ke Au Hou brought them down without accident, and this afternoon they are to be shipped to Lahaina to stock the new farm.

Among the herd is Sullivan, a male ostrich of considerable value imported here a few years ago. He is wild and fierce and can kick like a mule. Most of the birds are natives of Kauai. They are a dangerous lot to handle. One of the natives employed in loading them was severely kicked by one. Crated up as they are for shipment the ostriches present a very laughable sight. When angry they stomp their feet and show fight.

HE REMEMBERS CHARITY.
Cecil Brown today filed a petition for the probate of Godfrey Rhodes' will. The real estate on Nuuanu street is valued at $24,000, and the household furniture at $500.

The widow is to receive the entire revenue during life. The daughter Ada Tree Rhodes is to have a proper income and is to be educated in the Catholic convent. Maria Chapman, sister-in-law of the deceased, will receive $500 annually, should Mrs. Rhodes die. Should the daughter have children at her death, the estate passes into their hands, otherwise the pieces of Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes receive one-half of the estate equally and the Homeless Child in New York one-quarter and the Catholic Mission in Honolulu one-quarter.

THE CRICKET MATCH.

Local Players Retrieve Their Defeat of Saturday Last.

The second match between teams from H. B. M. S. Comus and the Honolulu Cricket club, played yesterday afternoon, was far and away the best of the season, both sides being determined to make it a game for blood. The local men came out the winners, with a total of no less than 115 runs to 88 for their opponents. For the former, A. R. Mackintosh with 36, Herbert with 21, Wansey with 19 and Kane with 16, did yeoman's service; of the latter Lieutenant Luard, Mr. Backhouse and Mr. Carrington scored 32, 24 and 15 runs respectively. Messrs. Hatfield and A. St. M. Mackintosh of the home team divided the honors pretty evenly for most of the bowling done, while the visitors had no less than six men trying their hands.

NOTES.
The refreshment tables presided over by Mrs. T. Rain Walker, wife of H. B. M.'s Acting Consul General, were greatly appreciated.

An unusually large number of spectators were present, the interest taken in the sport by the outside public being clearly on the increase.

Lieutenant Luard, who captained the naval men, is a host in himself, and a thorough all round cricketer.

A. Wansey has a pretty style of delivering his ball, and with practice he will become an acquisition as a bowler.

The unusual feat of scoring seven runs off a single ball was accomplished by Lieutenant Luard, who first drove the ball to the boundary, and got three runs more by the over-throw.

H. Herbert, captain for the Honoluluites, is the right man in the right place. Rarely disappoints you.

Aeneas Mackintosh piled up his 36 by playing a most careful innings. He is to leave for Oxford in a few days, the more is the pity.

E. W. Dalton very efficiently officiated as scorer in the unavoidable absence of Virgo Jacobsen.

The third and final match between the combatants takes place tomorrow and is likely to draw a crowd.

Her Candor.
She opened the door at the agent's knock.

"Madam," he began brusquely, "where is your husband?"

"I really don't know," she said softly. "I am a widow."

Then the door closed of its own accord.

PREDECESSOR OF ANDREE

FITZ-JOHN PORTER'S BALLOON ADVENTURE.

Thrilling Tale of an Aerial Voyage Thirty-five Years Ago—Lucky Escape from Capture.

"It always seems to me that Andree's Arctic balloon voyage hadn't even a chance in a thousand of escaping disaster," said Gen. Fitz-John Porter to a New York Sun reporter. "Thirty-five years ago I developed the use of captive balloons for war purposes, and have since been a close observer of experiments in aeronautics. My experience with a runaway balloon at Yorktown has in it a lesson to aeronauts who ascend upon the borders of dangerous territory. My balloon had tantalized the Confederates for many days. They saw that it was doing some very valuable spy work, and tried in every way to bring it down. I was wholly unprepared for a flight into space, and it was a wonder that, under the circumstances, I gained control of myself and the machine and made the ascent a valuable one, from a military standpoint. I made the ascent just at the time by special direction of General McClellan, who wished me to take some observations of affairs inside the Confederate lines, with a view to ordering an immediate attack. This was wholly unexpected by the balloon corps. It seems that a certain member of the corps was a new arrival in the camp, and as he ranked a little above some of the old hands, they were jealous of him, and made up their minds that the best way to get rid of him was to have an accident happen to the balloon under his management. They deliberately removed all the safety ropes, but one, and to that they applied acid which cut the strands almost in two. The moment the balloon ascended far enough to strain the remaining strands they parted, and the alship, with its occupant, who happened to be myself, leaped into space.

With every confidence in the balloon corps, I entered the basket hastily not noticing that there was only one safety rope, and ordered the men to cast off. I held my field glass out and was sweeping the field with it, unconscious of what was taking place with the balloon until I felt myself flying upward, far beyond the usual limit. A glance downward told me that the balloon was running away. At first I was uncertain what to do, because it was a new situation for me. As a rule Professor Lowe, the chief aeronaut, had accompanied me, and I left the management of the balloon to others.

"Supposing one of the small ropes dangling in the basket to be a valve rope, I attempted to pull it and let myself down. Seeing another rope dangling in the rigging I climbed out of the basket and grabbed that with better success. I noticed that I was ascending through a stratum of escaping gas.

"I knew that I had control of the balloon and determined to carry out the object of the ascension. I had my glass with me and swept the whole field around Yorktown, up the Peninsula to Richmond, down toward Fort Monroe and Norfolk. I saw the fleets in the harbor, I saw the camps of the enemy along the James river and also around Richmond, with their flags flying. Beneath me was Yorktown, and the horse in the streets appeared to be ants, masses of little specks.

"My second startling sensation was when I found that by letting out some more of the gas I dropped into a current of air which swept me over the enemy's camps. That meant capture, the loss of the balloon and the failure of the expedition.

The current I was in was rapidly bearing me west, far into the enemy's country, and I pulled the valve until the balloon sank into a stratum of air moving directly east. I pulled with all my strength and felt the balloon sinking rapidly. As the gas left the silk bag the latter fell over and formed a sort of parachute with the air beneath it. This caused the whole machine to sway and made me very dizzy and uncomfortable. As soon as I found my course changed to the east I took my glass and examined the camp where I thought I would fall. I saw the Stars and Stripes there and that reassured me. I then gave all my attention to personal safety.

"At first I thought I was about to be caught in a tall tree, but I escaped that and then floated over long lines of stacked bayonets. I did not relish being impaled on them, and gave the valve another pull, bringing the balloon down upon a tent. I was in the camp of the Seventy-second Pennsylvania, Baxter's Zouaves. The men had been excited spectators of the course of the balloon, but they all supposed that its occupant was Professor Lowe. I wore no insignia of rank. I did not undress them. They told me that when the balloon was seen making in the direction of the Confederate camp a body of our cavalry had taken the field and ridden out with the intention of charging into the enemy's lines to recover the runaway.

"I had landed more than a mile from headquarters, and after giving directions for packing and shipping the balloon, I borrowed a horse and rode to General McClellan's headquarters. The general was astonished to see me safe and sound.

THE IDEAL SCHOOL HOUSE.

To begin with the entrances of a school house should be made as inviting as those of a home. If there be a yard, no matter how small, it should have, first of all, evergreen trees in it, or some bit of leafage, which, winter and summer, would bring a message from the woods; it should have flowers in their season and vines should be planted wherever possible. Within the school every color should be agreeable and harmonious with all the rest. Ceiling, floor, woodwork, walls, are to be treated so as to make a rational and beautiful whole. In entrance halls for instance, where no studying is done, a fine pleasing red or cheerful yellow is an excellent choice; in the bright sunny rooms a dull green is at once the most agreeable color to the eye and perfect as a background for such objects as casts or photographs. In a room where there is no sunlight a soft yellow will be found to be admirable to use. The ceilings should be uniformly of an ivory white tint, which will by reflection converge the light, and will be refined and in key with all the other colors. The treatment of wood is a study in itself. Briefly and for practical use, woods can be treated in two legitimate ways—either it can be painted with relation to the wall colors or it can be stained to anticipate the results of time upon wood surfaces.

A JAW CRACKER.

Diparacetophenondiphennipazine is the name conferred by an Italian chemist upon a new compound he has discovered. The word is said to mean something to chemical experts.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros. Drug Company of St. Louis, Mo. I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household remedy." For sale by all druggists and dealers. ### OBLIGING DRIFTER.

HE TRAVELED 320 MILES TO MATCH A RIBBON FOR A WOMAN.

She Was Another Man's Wife, but She Was a Good, Sweet Little Creature, and Women Were Scarce at the Hudson Bay Post, and There Was to Be a Dance.

"Why, Drifter is never happier than when he is holding some woman's parcel or doing the gallant on a street car. I honestly believe he'd find pleasure on a shopping tour with his mother-in-law."

"Right you are, you ent," said Drifter, "and, what's more, as long as Drifter navigates he'll be at the service of the ladies. The truth of the matter is, I've lived a part of my life where a woman's voice or the sound of a laughing baby was rarer music than could be furnished by all the great stars of the Metropolitan Opera company, and as for shopping with a woman—shaw, youngster! I've traveled 320 miles to match a bit of ribbon and buy a pair of gloves for a woman, and I thought no more of it than you'd think of calling a cab in Fifth avenue for a girl of your acquaintance."

Of course Drifter was asked to explain. "Talk about dancing attendance on women," he said. "When I was up in the Lake of the Woods country in 1883 and put in my time out at the mines or exploring along Rainy river and Rainy lake with a few good fellows, we thought nothing of a day's tramp over the packed ice on the lake, with the temperature knocking around 40 degrees below, just to get a chance to hear a white woman say, 'I'm glad to see you.' There were perhaps half a dozen women all told at the little Hudson Bay post in those days—the hotel man's wife, the doctor's wife, his sister, the daughter of the agent at the Hudson Bay company's store, and the wife of the man who ran the only steamboat on the lake in the summer."

"And about that 320 mile trip for a ribbon and a pair of gloves?" queried the disrespectful cub who had started Drifter on this tack.

"Oh, yes. Well, I'm married now, settled down, have twinges of rheumatism or get once in a while, and like New York pretty well," continued Drifter, "but I'd walk that 320 miles in moose skins on a northwest prairie right now for the same woman under circumstances such as I am about to describe."

"Never mind her name. She was a dainty, black eyed, rosy cheeked, young wife and mother. Brought up in an old Canadian town, she had been surrounded not only with comforts, but luxuries, all her life until she married a giant of a Russian who had come to the new world to make his fortune. Something went wrong with them at home, and he came out on the C. P. R., where, at the time I speak of, he was station agent and yardmaster in that wilderness."

"I took a pretty heavy man to stand the trials of winter in these dealings, but for a woman—well, this particular woman was a brick. She followed her husband as soon as he wrote for her to come. She looked as much out of place in the crowd of lumbermen, miners, half breeds and adventures at the Portage as one of you easy going chaps would in the stockade of an ocean liner—and that baby! It was only a few months old, but the first one in camp, and some of the old timers actually snivled when they heard the youngster cry with some infantile distress beyond their comprehension. The big Russian, during the hours when he was not working for the C. P. R., put up a little rough board house for his pretty wife, her young sister, who came along with her from their old home, and the kid. It was the best he could do, and as good as any man out there had at that time, but when the snow drifted in, through the chinks and piled up on the floor, and the wind howled around the cabin, there were trying times for mother and baby. Well, of course, that husband loved her. Who wouldn't? She never murmured. She never complained of the fierce cold, of the deprivation or of the rough life. We all made friends with the baby, and as for the mother—she was the good angel of the camp."

"One day the hotel man's wife told us boys that she intended to have a dance at the hotel. 'It is to be a real one, respectable time,' she said, 'not one of the blow out you have in the lumber camps or out on the prairie. Not one of you men is to have a drink until the affair is over and you must slick up in your best clothes.' If there was one of us hardened sinners there were a dozen who sneaked one at a time up to the little house on the hill and asked the station agent's wife to come to the dance. I know I quarreled with two of my best friends in the camp because I told them they were intruding. They gave me a dressing down, and even went so far as to go to the husband and ask him to pick out an escort for his wife, it being well understood that he had no time for anything but work and sleep."

"Two days before the dance I went up to the house to see how the lady's latest tooth was coming on, or something of that sort. The mother looked bluer than the baby's eyes. I heard her sigh once or twice, and at last she said: "'Do you think it's wrong, Drifter, for a young woman to want pretty dresses and hats and gloves and ribbons and to fix herself up once in a while, even though she is buried out here in a wilderness?'"

"That was enough for me. I wanted to go. 'Pshaw!' I said. 'You always look pretty enough to eat, and so does the baby, and—'"

"'Yes,' she said, with a shade of petulance, 'but I do want to go to that dance just as if it was at my old home. I haven't a decent pair of gloves to my name, nor a ribbon sash of the color I want, and there's no way of my getting them. I might as well wish for the moon.'"

"That was enough for me. 'If I get them in time, will you go to the dance with me?' I asked."

"'Of course I will,' she answered, 'but how foolish! You can't leave here for a woman's whim and take that long journey to Winnipeg and back.'"

"'Can't I?' I exclaimed. 'See me.' I got a piece of the ribbon to match, took the size of her pretty little hand, and that night the only train out took Drifter to Winnipeg, 160 miles. At Winnipeg I astonished the clerks in all the stores, I guess, but I got that ribbon and a box of gloves, and the next day the train out took me back to the Portage, a round trip of 320 miles, to oblige a woman, and that woman another man's wife."

"'Yes,' concluded Drifter, "and I'd do the same thing over again to bring as much happiness as that little wife displayed when she went to the dance and probably reveled in the fact that, wilderness though it was, she was the prettiest and best dressed woman in the settlement.'"—New York Sun.

TENACITY OF TENNIS.

The Great Lawn Game Grandly Withstands the Rivalry of Golf.

All lovers of vigorous, active outdoor sports are gratified at the survival of a strong interest in lawn tennis, in spite of the newly developed love of golf.

Tennis is a sport which calls for steady nerves, a quick eye, a flexible wrist, active limbs and swift judgment. It is not a good game for the middle aged, and it can never hold its own with golf in the estimation of those to whom violent effort is either distasteful or exhausting. But it is a good game for the young, the alert and the vigorous.

Tennis has one immense advantage over golf, and that is its interest to the spectator. The merest tyro can learn to enjoy the game of tennis, which he can watch from a comfortable seat near the side lines, while only an enthusiast would care to walk two or three miles across country to follow a golf expert around the links.

The recent international tournament at the St. George's cricket grounds in Hoboken brought out some of the finest tennis players ever seen in this country and aroused as much enthusiasm as used to be displayed in the brave days of Dwight and Sears. That the American players were victorious is, of course, a matter for congratulation, but it must be borne in mind that they won by only a small margin from opponents who proved themselves to be brilliant and plucky players. The defeated Englishmen accepted the fortune of war with a grace that will always be a pleasant memory to the Americans who witnessed the contests and conducted themselves throughout the series in a manner thoroughly sportsmanlike. Their visit will go far toward increasing the kindly feeling which generally does and always ought to prevail in trials of skill or strength between America and England.—New York Times.

ALL SORTS OF SPORTS.

Joe Bernstein, the clever New York boxer, is matched to box Ben Jordan at the National Athletic club, London, Nov. 5.

The friends of the late Jack Burke, the "Irish lad," are getting up subscriptions toward erecting a monument over his grave.

Tom Gourley's brother, a golfer of some prominence, is coming out from Scotland to take charge at the Kebo Valley County club, Bar Harbor.

Before "Podlar" Palmer was matched to meet Dave Sullivan, Billy Brady offered a purse of $5,000 for Palmer and George Dixon to fight in Nevada.

The San Francisco club, which has arranged a 20 round bout between Eddie Connelly and Owen Ziegler, has named Sept. 11 as the date for the contest.

The Metropolitan Rowing club of New York has engaged John Fitzpatrick to train its junior four oared gig crew for the middle states regatta, which will be held on the Harlem river on Labor day.

Mr. B. F. Nicholls, the professional golfer, broke a record recently at Lenox, Mass., on the links by going round the course in 36 strokes. Nicholls was in great form, driving and approaching with remarkable accuracy.

Dal Hawkins and Young Corbett complain that America is not very anxious to give them a chance to fight and consequently talk of going to England and looking for game. Hawkins expects to get on a match with George Johnson in England.

It is said that Tom O'Rourke is dickering to have Tim Heggerty, the champion featherweight of Australia, come to America and fight George Dixon in Nevada. He originally proposed to have Jack McGowan pitted against Dixon, but has since learned that Heggerty is a better man.

Crack Swimmers to Compete.

The annual swimming championship meeting of the Atlantic association of the Amateur Athletic union will be held at the Wayne natatorium, Wayne, Pa., near Philadelphia, on Saturday, Sept. 18. The championship events will be 100 yards and one mile and will be open to all registered amateurs residing in the territory of the Atlantic association. In addition there will be races open to all registered swimmers throughout the country.

There will be a 50 yard novice race, 100 yard scratch, 220 yard handicap, half mile scratch and a special distance race to settle the supremacy between Dr. Paul Neuman, the American and Austrian champion, now a resident of Chicago, and George Whittaker of Milwaukee, last year's champion. Whittaker was prevented by sickness from competing in the national swimming championship meeting held in Chicago on July 3 of this year.

A One Armed Baseballist.

Tom Simms of Kansas City is a one armed ball player who has been creating a sensation on the amateur diamond in the city by the Kaw. At present he plays left field on the courthouse team. In a recent game he went to the bat six times. He made three hits and the same number of runs. He was put out three times, twice on grounders to the infield and once on a high fly to center. As on most occasions, he did not strike out once. Simms lost his right arm when he was 10 years old. He was jumping on a freight car at Shirley, Ill., when he fell so that the wheel passed over his arm.—Exchange.

New Umpire System.

It is quite probable that the National Baseball league will adopt the double umpire system next season. It has been suggested that the players be forbidden to speak to the umpires on any pretext, and that captains must confine their protests to typewritten statements to be submitted to the president of the league.—New York Sun.

PANAMA CANAL.

Story That Great Britain May Assume Control of the Ditch.

NEW YORK, September 13.—The World's Washington correspondent wires: Interest in the Colon dispatch regarding the Panama canal has been revived by additional intelligence that reached Washington today.

A German diplomat has received a dispatch from a compatriot now stationed in Paris that a British company is negotiating for the purchase of the canal.

The sale, according to this diplomat, is the result of numerous conferences held in Europe during the past winter, when the United States government was urging the completion of the Nicaragua canal. The powers of Europe, notably England, France and Germany, viewed with alarm the tremendous prestige of the United States as the supporter of the Nicaragua project, and they agreed to unite against the common danger, allowing that nation which was the most concerned to become for a time the proprietor of the Panama canal. England, logically, was the nation selected among the rest.

The whole scheme is similar to the one by which England gained control of the Suez canal, except that in this case the powers concede her right, which before she was obliged to steal.

Maurice Trubert, Charge d'Affaires at the French Embassy, maintains great reticence in discussing the Panama affair. He emphatically asserts that he has received no official notification of such a transfer. Nevertheless it is believed by other diplomats that there is yet much to be learned regarding the Panama canal, and it is known that the State Department is quietly investigating at Colon and in the capitals of Europe.

Be it remembered that the newspapers are the merchants' tried and true mediums for advertising. Use them largely if not exclusively. Advertise in The Star.
