Tribune Bicycles.

Some people, it would seem, hardly realize that there may be as great a variety in the value of bicycles as in clocks or other articles where different grades of work are required. In building Tribunes we have the advantage of all the finest and most approved machinery. Tribune this year are finer and better than any previous year. The changes this year is in the size of the tubing to 1.8 inch in the upper frame. The crank fastening is secured more positively by the use of the small key instead of clamp screw.

The Fleet Columbus

made at Columbus, Ohio, is made at a factory which covers over two acres of floor space and is used for the manufacture of bicycles EXCLUSIVELY. Is a strictly high grade bicycle of flush joints re-inforced, cold drawn seamless tubing; main frame 1 1/4 inch, head 1 1/2 inch. There are other wheels of a common green color, but not the shade of the Columbus.

Wood handles bars and hygienic sager saddles. $75.00 places this first class wheel with the reach of all Columbus Juveniles for boys and girls.

Stormer Bicycles

have won their fame through use; everywhere guaranteed; mechanical construction perfect; substance and finish the best science can produce. Price $75.00.

B. and H. Specials.

When you find a wheel that will stand the severe strain that renting out gives it you may know you have an excellent wheel. Price $60.00.

SOME RUMORED CHANGES

RUMOR SAYS THAT JUDGE CARTER WILL RESIGN.

The Judge Will Not Admit That It is a Fact.—Minister Shimamura Calls— Council of State to Meet.

There is a well defined rumor afloat that some important changes are to occur shortly in official circles. This same rumor has it that Circuit Judge Alfred W. Carter will retire from the bench, and that he will form a law partnership with a well known attorney. That Deputy Attorney General Dole will be advanced to the vacant judgeship and that Antonio Rosa will succeed Mr. Dole.

Judge Carter was rather non-committal this noon when asked regarding his intention to resign. He stated positively that he would go into no law partnership. He had not handed in his resignation. He did not know whether he would or not.

Antonio Rosa had heard that he was slated to be Attorney General Smith's first assistant, but he did not get his information from the authorities. None of the Ministers would admit that such a change was contemplated. It may be all talk, and it may not be.

Japanese Minister Resident Shimamura visited the Foreign Office at 11 o'clock this morning. He presented to Minister Cooper the correspondence sent by the Japanese Foreign Office to this Government by Counsellor Akiyama on the Naniwa, and touching upon the cases of the rejected Japanese immigrants.

Acting Minister of Finance Cooper held a rather lengthy conference late yesterday afternoon with William G. Irwin, F. M. Swanzy, J. F. Hackfeld and P. C. Jones, comprising the committee, chosen at a meeting of the merchants on Saturday, to enter a protest against the enforcement of Schedule E in the tax laws. After the discussion of the objectionable clause, Minister Cooper promised the committee that he would lay the protest of the merchants before the next Cabinet meeting. The Cabinet will decide what action shall be taken in the matter.

The President has issued a call for a meeting of the Council of State tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting will be to consider a number of applications for pardons, none of which are very important.

CENTRAL UNION MEETINGS. At the Wednesday evening prayer meeting the topic will be "Serving Our Generation."

The executive committee of the Sunday school will meet the same evening.

The Christian Workers' prayer meeting will take place in the Y. M. C. A. hall Friday afternoon. The Palama Chapel prayer meeting on Friday evening.

REGIMENTAL DRILL. There will be a full Regimental drill of the National Guard of Hawaii on Thursday evening. Lieut.-Col. Fisher will be in command. The drill is chiefly for the purpose of securing a large turnout on Decoration Day, when the sailors from the Philadelphia and Marion will parade.

New Process Gasolene Stoves, Sturdevants.

The Best Typewriter.

It has proven to the satisfaction of the business world that the PEERLESS is the best Typewriter on the market. Why?

Primarily because it never gets out of order, leaving correspondence in a chaotic condition on the busiest day, and among many other reasons, because of its lightness of touch and quick response to the keys, its lightning paper release, its arrangement for doing tabulated work and for sundry matters of convenience which we will be pleased to show and explain if you will call.

SAILORS PREFER PRISON

OUTCOME OF MUTINY ON THE MOKOLII.

Five of the Crew Steadfastly Refuse to Return to Work Under Mate Kapala.

Six of the native sailors on the steamer Mokolii, who refused duty yesterday morning, were arrested last night on charges of violating the labor contract law. This morning five of them, who refused to return to the vessel, were committed to jail at hard labor by Police Judge De la Vergne until they are willing to resume their work on the steamer and fulfill their contract. The sixth admitted that he was in the wrong and was permitted to return to the vessel.

When placed on the witness stand this morning, the sailors, each in turn, complained that they did not like the mate of the Mokolii, Kapala. Some of them refused to give any reason, while others said they had been ill-treated by Kapala. When pressed to give some specific instance when they were ill-treated, the sailors refused to talk. They admitted to the president of the company they had said nothing of ill-treatment.

Judge De la Vergne found no merit in the complaint of the sailors. He found them all guilty of having violated the contract labor law, and gave each the alternative of returning to the vessel or remaining in jail, at hard labor, until they were willing to return to their position. One after another, five of the burly fellows, replied that they would never return to the Mokolii while Mate Kapala was in her. All were then committed.

So far as the investigations of the steamship company go, the grievance of the sailors seems to have been purely imaginary, as there has never been any trouble aboard between the mate and the men. Those who read between the lines believe that there was merely a conspiracy between the sailors to oust the mate and secure his place for one of their own number that they might have an easier time.

A NEAT GIFT.

Manager J. T. Moir of the Honoumuli plantation has been presented with a painting of Waikiki by moonlight by E. H. Scovill, who came to Honolulu recently from Hilo. The painting is large and gives an accurate picture of the beach with several canoes on the water. There is a fine combination of light and shade.

MAUNA LOA ARRIVES.

Pleasant and Speedy Round Trip.

The Mauna Loa arrived from Hawaii and Maui ports soon after noon, after the smoothest and pleasantest voyage of the year. The new thrust bearing, designed and adjusted by Chief Engineer Keech when she was last in port, has proved a success in every way. The engines can now be opened out to their best speed, and on the voyage just completed the big steamer made many record runs between ports. Had it not been for an additional call or two, the prospects are that the Mauna Loa would have reached the home port this morning in record time.

The cargo of the Mauna Loa was: 5,871 bags of sugar, 77 bags of awa, 83 bags of coffee, 28 head of cattle and 9 bundles of hides. Following is a list of her passengers:

A. M. Erskine, Dr. A. McWayne, C. F. Day, Rev. O. P. Emerson, E. Broumaghin and wife, Mrs. C. L. Hopkins, Miss M. R. Hopkins, Miss C. K. Bush, T. Rockford, J. Keane, S. F. Chillingworth, Mrs. J. E. Bush and children, Mrs. J. Frerira, Jr., and 70 on deck.

NEW CORPS OF OFFICERS.

Charles Crane was made President of the Honolulu Amateur Athletic Club last evening. Other officers chosen were: George Angus, Vice President; D. F. Thrum, Treasurer; Directors, E. B. Berger, Thomas King, D. K. Unawna; H. E. Giles, Captain bicycle team; D. Unawna, Captain of track team.

A road race will probably be arranged for the latter part of this month. The big relay race is scheduled for the Fourth of July.

PORTUGUESE BUY A RELIC

STORY OF AN OLD BURGLARY REVIVED.

Safe That Was Once Robbed of $800 in Gold Coin—At Custom House Sale Yesterday—Society Pick Up a Curio.

The Portuguese Mutual Benefit Society of Honolulu had carried to its meeting hall today a large iron safe which has a romance connected with it that is very interesting indeed. The safe was purchased by the President of the society at an auction sale at Morgan's for the small sum of $35. There was no demand for the safe and the auctioneer congratulated himself upon securing the sum he did.

The safe was in the government service in the fifties during the reign of Kamehameha the Fourth. It was used to store the Custom House revenues and has held many thousands of dollars within its doors. On the evening of March 28, 1858, burglars entered the old Custom House, where the safe was stationed, and took from the drawers some $8573, nearly all of which was offered for any information that would lead to the detection of the guilty persons. They have never been discovered.

Warren W. Goodale, who died recently in Honolulu, while on his way from P. C. Jones' residence to board a Nuuanu street car, was Collector General of Customs at the time. He was obliged to make good the loss to the Kingdom.

A good many of the old-timers remember the incident quite distinctly, but they have forgotten the details. Professor Alexander's history gives very little information regarding the robbery. One pioneer said today that the thief had taken the key from Mr. Goodale's trousers while he was sleeping, stolen the money, and then returned the key.

The safe is a large, bulky affair of the plainest design. When it was in the service of the Kingdom a combination key was all that was required to open it. After the robbery a bar and bolt was added, which improvement is on the safe to this day.

A safe of somewhat similar construction is in use at the Board of Education, but money is not kept in it.

AMERICAN SEAMEN.

Successful Shore Drill Held This Morning.

A battalion of seamen, consisting of six companies—300 men—from aboard the Philadelphia and Marion, were ashore this morning at 8 o'clock. A quick march was made out King street to the new baseball grounds, in Makiki, where an exhibition of physical drill, with arms, to the music of the Admiral's band, took place. The movements consisted of overhead, outward, downward and see-saw motions, and were done with prompt execution, making the sight a very pretty one, indeed.

On the return, the battalion came to a halt at Kawaliaho Church well, where the men scaled the high wall several times. Some of the men had never seen such a maneuver before, much less having gone through it, and as a result, were awkward and clumsy in their movements. The quickest time in which the battalion went over the wall was a minute and a fifth.

The case of Kanoli against G. E. Maioipahia is now before Judge Carter. Hawaiian jury. W. R. Castle, for plaintiff; Magoon & Edings for defendants.

ANOTHER FINE STEAMER

WILDER S. S. CO. TO BUILD A NEW STEEL VESSEL.

A Sister Ship of the Helene, to Replace the Likelike, Will be Ordered at Once.

The lost steamer Likelike is to be replaced with a fine steel vessel, similar in build to the Helene, and about the same size. The directors of the Wilder Steamship Company, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to build, and authorized President Wight to place the order for the vessel at the earliest possible date. President Wight will leave for San Francisco on the steamship Belgic next Friday, and will probably let the contract for the new boat to the Union Iron Works, builders of the Helene.

Work on the new steamer will have to be pushed, in order that she may be ready by the opening of the sugar season next winter. Had the Likelike been lost a month earlier the business of the company would have been seriously affected, for it required every foot of carrying space in the Wilder fleet to move the sugar when the season was at its highest. As the latest estimates place next year's crop at 10,000 tons more than this year, the necessity of a steamer to take the place of the Likelike at once became apparent.

The decision of the company to build a high-class steel vessel speaks well for its enterprise, and shows a lasting faith in the future of the Islands. The Helene has come fully up to the expectations of her builders, as the style of vessel best adapted to the inter-island trade, and it did not require much discussion for the directors to arrive at the conclusion that such another vessel would be the best investment. As no time is to be lost, the vessel was ordered forthwith, and President Wight was vested with full authority to place the order.

The Helene is, perhaps the finest of the island steamers. She was built by the Union Iron Works last year, at a cost of about $100,000 and was put into commission only last March. She is 175 feet in length, 30 feet beam and 14 feet, 10 1/2 inches deep, and is fitted up for the best class of passenger traffic, as well as a big freight carrier. On her trial trip, the Helene reeled off 12 knots, with her engines making from 140 to 145 revolutions. The new steamer is to be about the same size and style, with a few improvements that have suggested themselves since the Helene has been in commission. It is believed that she will not only take the place of the Likelike, but will be large enough to handle the additional crop expected next year.

President Wight said this morning that he would leave for the Coast on the Belgic next Friday to place the order. He will go clothed with full authority to make the contract, and will probably place the order with the Union Iron Works, as that concern gave the best of satisfaction on the Helene.

SURF RIDING.

One of the few interesting, and at the same time exciting, pleasures always sought by strangers is that of surf riding. By the formation of the Hui Pakaka Nalu, at Waikiki, opportunities are now offered the public in general this much-sought sport, independent of friends, who formerly were needed. The men in charge of the native canoes are experts, and no danger is attached to the pastime. See advertisement on page 3 for details.

CHORAL CONCERT.

The present indications are that the popular concert given by the Honolulu Choral Society this evening at the Opera House will be very largely attended. An excellent program has been carefully arranged by the committee. A good rehearsal was held last evening.

YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION. General Meeting Last Evening and New Members Taken In. Six young men were added to the membership membership roll of the Young Men's Christian Association at a general monthly meeting last evening. Treasurer Willard G. Brown's report showed an income of $288.58 for the month of April. All but $18.23 of this amount had been expended. Some important amendments to the rules were proposed. It was decided, after considerable discussion, to defer action on this matter until the June meeting. General Secretary Coleman's report for the month's work was submitted. He spoke of matters connected with the various departments of the Association. The review of the first month's work in the new Association year is very encouraging. A bicycle team has been formed under the auspices of the Gymnasium Committee. Samuel Johnson, Thos. King and other speedy riders comprise the team.

THEY PLAY EUCHRE. The members of the Vice Versa Card Club spent a thoroughly enjoyable time at the Sorenson home on Nuuanu street last evening. Miss Carrie Afong won the lady's first prize, a silver handled bonnet brush. Charles Weight captured the gentleman's first trophy. It was a fine silver trimmed comb. Herbert Ewing, who lost more games than anybody, was presented with a silver mounted rabbit's foot, which will probably assist him in coming games. Those present were: Mrs. Avery of San Francisco; Miss Charlotte Collins of Oakland; the Misses Annie and Kulama Ward, Bessie and Carrie Afong, Allie Wall, Rita Schmidt, Lillian Paris, Charlotte Parmelee, Myra Angus; Messrs. George Kluegel, Harry Mist, George Angus, Charles Weight, Olaf Sorenson, Herbert Ewing, W. E. Arthur, and Alfred Wall.

EDDYSTONE. The island on which the Eddystone lighthouse stands lines nine miles off the Cornish coast, and is supposed to be the smallest inhabited island on the globe. At low water it is thirty feet in diameter; at high water the base is twenty-eight and three-quarters feet, completely covers it. It is inhabited by three persons. ARE YOU TIRED. All the time? This condition is a sure indication that your blood is not rich and nourishing as it ought to be and as it may be if you will take a few bottles of the great blood purifier Hood's Sarsaparilla. TRAM FRANCHISE.

The tram system of the city is eminently unsatisfactory. The cars are run up on the plan of the public be-hanged. The employees, from the head to the foot, seem to have modeled themselves upon the character of the young ladies in the refreshment room at Mugby Junction, as portrayed by Charles Dickens. It will be remembered that the main object of those haughty damsels was to do as little for the convenience of the public as they could, and as much for their inconvenience as possible. When the dragon at the head of this amiable coterie visited France and returned with the news that there the wishes of the traveling public were listened to and their tastes catered for, the select band of young ladies at the Junction fainted, one and all, at the recital. The tram line management of this city must be in direct descent from the Mugby Junction damsels.

This is a long suffering community. It jogs along uncomplainingly under the minor evils. When its female section wears dainty dresses and these are dirt stained because the cars have not had their six-monthly wash, it merely smiles a sickly smile. When the doors won't shut and the rain beats in, or the dust sweeps through, it is merely regarded as a triumph of construction on the part of the car builders and a marvel of scientific acumen to have discovered the cars when constructed. When the cars are too late or too early at the various points on the route, it merely gives a pleasing spice to life. Shall I miss the car because it is ahead of time, or shall I have to wait in the broiling sun for ten minutes or so because the mules prefer walking exercise, gives that charming uncertainty which lends variety to existence and lifts it above the dull, dead level of uniformity that we should otherwise have to endure.

All this the community can stand. But when it comes to the consideration of the safety of the passengers, it is time to call the attention of the Minister of the Interior to the franchise under which the cars are run, and to ask whether its provisions have not been violated. The fact that the cars are unsafe has been frequently pointed out by the Press of this city. The brakes work upon one chain instead of upon two separate chains. The consequence is if anything goes wrong with the forward brake, the brake at the back of the car also becomes useless and the car can dash along at its own sweet will.

Twice, recently, there has been an accident on the Nuuanu Valley road, caused by the brake giving way and the car flying off in a wild career, which brought up against Waterhouse's concrete pillars, smashing the car. Fortunately, on each occasion, there were only a few passengers in the car. On Sunday, when the accident occurred, there was only one man in, and he was active enough to jump off. But had that car been full ladies and children, there would have been no chance of jumping off and when the crash came there would have been broken limbs, cuts, bruises, and very likely death. Such an accident may happen any time. It only requires a little conversation with the drivers to learn something of the condition of the brakes. Throughout, the cars their condition is very unsatisfactory and in many cases dangerous.

Section 6, Sub-section 6, of the franchise, reads: "That the cars must be of the most improved construction for the comfort and convenience and safety of passengers. The Minister of the Interior is requested to look over the passage and then call, Mr. Payne's attention to it. We have neither comfort, convenience nor safety.

CABLE.

There is every reason to hope that the cable matter will come up before Congress at its regular session and that within a year and a half we may at last lose our isolated position and become linked to the world, throbbing with its pulses and in touch with its great events, commercial and political.

From all that can be learned Mr. Schrymser and his Company intend to make a vigorous campaign for a subsidy from the United States Government. The cable purely to the Hawaiian islands hangs upon the laying of the cable from here to Japan, and perhaps to Australia. Though no exclusive franchise may be asked from San Francisco to the islands, it will undoubtedly be asked for, for the other part of the route. Money for the laying of the cable is forthcoming, and the subsidy will be used as a reserve fund. Laying a cable, at such great depths as the floor of the Pacific present, is in a great measure experimental, and the company undertaking the work must be prepared to meet and overcome difficulties which cannot be foreseen at present.

What other Richmonds may be in the field is not known yet. Colonel Spalding has large financial resources and has been anxious in the past to push this enterprise through. He may yet come forward with some new scheme. To us on the islands it is a case of "we care not whence it comes, but let us have a cable." The Government is untrammelled and ready to act with any one.

The matter of Schedule E will be laid before the Advisory Council at a very early date. This is most necessary in view of the fact that appeals must be in before May 15. This is an instance of not looking after legislation while the Legislature is in session. Much friction might be avoided if the full bearing of laws could be clearly understood before they come into operation. There are two or three points advanced by the merchants which will require careful ruling upon. It should always be remembered that one of the most important rules in levying taxation, is to get the greatest amount of money with the least possible friction, and that the latter part of the rule should have the greatest weight.

The information that a base ball match can be played on the floor of No. 3 reservoir up Nuuanu Valley is not very satisfactory intelligence for those who depend upon the valley for their water supply. Unless rain comes soon a considerable portion of the city will suffer. There are regular cycles of drought in the Pacific, and it looks very much as if we had reached the point. Other parts of the Pacific are reported as suffering, so we must not consider ourselves as specially picked out. It is said to be some alleviation to suffer in company, but this gives small satisfaction to the farmer and the cattle raiser, after all. The news from the Kula of Maui is really disheartening. The land there is occupied by small farmers who are making a brave effort to get ahead. They have been doing well for some years, but are not well enough forward to stand a very serious set back.

LOSE THEIR NERVE.

The Brightest Scholars Sometimes Do the Worst at Examinations.

"There are some men who cannot stand examinations," commented one of the examining engineers of a great western railroad. "This road is very rigid in its examination of engineers, which perhaps is one of the reasons why it has had so few accidents. It aims to give good service as possible and succeeds so well that the people are not talking about legislating its rates way down."

"I know one of the best engineers in Chicago who four times failed to pass the simplest kind of an examination. The moment he came before us I saw how nervous the man was. We received applicants in a car especially devised for examining purposes, with a great deal of machinery in it and models which included everything about a locomotive and cars. I said to him, as I always do to applicants: 'Make yourself at home. We aren't going to hurt you. Make yourself entirely at home now and forget you're on your mettle.'"

"Forget it? Not he. He got everything mixed up and broke down completely. Several months after he came before us again. He was as nervous as ever and failed to pass his examination. After the trial was over I heard him talking to some of the other applicants and explaining things pertaining to the models. I listened and saw that this man was thoroughly posted. He had studied deeply into the subject, was logical, sound and extremely intelligent. He knew as much about the subject as I myself. Yet this man had hesitated and blundered, blundered and hesitated."

"Here," I said to him, "if you can't stand an examination, examine me."

"He did so, and I answered him incorrectly. He corrected me in as clear headed a manner in every instance as could be. You see, examination hour was over. He asked puzzling questions, which showed he was a fellow of brains. But as he had not passed the examination I could not give him employment. Now, however, I am glad to say he is one of our engineers and an excellent man. We have always found him quick, smart, reliable and steady. This only illustrates what school-teachers will tell you—that the brightest scholars often do the worst at the examinations, while the worst pupils frequently distinguish themselves upon such occasions."—Detroit Free Press.

A GORY OFFERING.

How Three Tails, a Sioux Indian, Sought to Reward His Benefactor.

It is of a member of the Sioux tribe that an official of the Northern Pacific railroad tells this story to the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune: In the early days of the road he was engaged in surveying for it and, with his assistants, was encamped not far away from a tribe of the Indians, who were supposed to be friendly enough, but like most Indians, would bear watching. In dealing with them he found it always a wise plan to impress them with the fact that he was possessed of unusual powers, and when they visited his camp he would exhibit his prowess in various ways, do sleight of hand tricks, predict an eclipse, which was easy enough with an almanac at hand, and accomplish other wonderful things until they actually believed that he was endowed with supernatural power and could scare away devils.

One day a warrior of the tribe who was regarded as one of the bravest of the young men came to him and asked for a charm against a certain devil who occupied a pass in the Bad Lands, through which he would never let this warrior, Three Tails, go. Quite bravely Mr. X. gave him a piece of paper, with the desired charm written upon it, and the grateful Three Tails went his way. Some weeks afterward Mr. X., sitting at the door of his tent, which had been moved many miles westward, very homesick and lonely, was astonished to see Three Tails standing before him.

"Here," said this stalwart young brave, throwing a long line of scalps at his feet, all of them fresh and some of them still wet with blood. "Three Tails make paleface medicine man present. Paleface medicine man sent devil away; bring Three Tails luck."

"The sight of those scalps and the thought of where they came from made me deathly ill," said Mr. X., "but I had to refuse the scalps, diplomatically or get scalped myself. As it was, my friend Three Tails went off much disgruntled because I would not accept them, and I moved camp the next day."

A Counterfeit Expert.

A new counterfeit of the silver dollar, 1896 issue, was detected in the treasury in Boston lately. It is represented to be of good workmanship and to weigh and ring like a genuine coin. Eight or ten of them were found by Mr. Vassar, the coin expert, of whom the Boston Transcript says: "He has been in the treasury for some 30 years and has developed an extraordinary power of detecting counterfeit coin. Once he threw out a gold quarter eagle as counterfeit, and it was returned by the experts at Washington as genuine. Mr. Vassar paid for it out of his own pocket and sent it on to the mint, where it was found that it was a counterfeit, but of such extraordinary excellence that it puzzled the officials to know how Mr. Vassar could possibly have found it out."

Washington's Hand.

George Washington's hand was described as that of a giant. On the last occasion of General Lafayette's visit to this country he remarked to Mr. Custis when referring to a former visit:

"You were holding to a single finger of the good general's remarkable hand—the greatest feat you could perform at that time."

Washington was the champion jumper of his day. In one match he covered 21 feet 3 inches, easily beating all competitors.—Chicago Times-Herald.

SALMON CULTURE.

Mysterious Failure of the Effort to Stock the Atlantic Coast Streams.

An interesting review of salmon fish conditions in this country is made in a report of the United States fish commission on artificial propagation of salmon on the Pacific coast. The conclusion reached is that although nature evidently has designed that the quinnat salmon shall not take up its abode on the American shores of the Atlantic its breeding serves a legitimate and valuable purpose in maintaining the supply of its species in its native waters on the Pacific slope. This is made apparent by the enormous drafts on these fish by the canneries.

The report says the Battle Creek station of the California state commission may soon pass into the charge of the United States. This is the most extraordinary place for collecting quinnat salmon eggs known. It is said 20,000,000 salmon eggs can be taken on Battle creek in six weeks of a favorable year.

Salmon are on the increase in the Sacramento and Feather rivers. It was the intention of the California commission to increase the salmon on the Atlantic coast by restocking its depleted salmon rivers. A few millions of salmon eggs were safely transported to the Atlantic rivers no one doubted that salmon were going to become abundant again in the Atlantic rivers, and many believed that several southern rivers that had never had salmon in them before would now become prolific salmon streams. The result was a great surprise and disappointment. The eggs hatched out; the young fry grew rapidly and were observed to go down in vast numbers to the sea. What became of them will remain forever a mystery. Some thought they wandered to the far north, others that they strayed out into the ocean and were devoured by marine animals and larger fish. The report lays it down as no longer open to question that quinnat salmon, at least those that spawn a long distance from the ocean, never return to it alive again. They all die on their spawning grounds.—Washington Star.

Merit

Made and Merit Maintains the confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla. If a medicine cures you when you are sick; if it cures your neighbors and your friends when they are ailing; if it makes wonderful cures of many diseases everywhere, then beyond any question that medicine possesses merit. That is just the truth about Hood's Sarsaparilla. Prepared by a combination, proportion and process unknown to other medicines, it has curative powers peculiar to itself. We know it possesses great merit because it has

Hood's Sarsaparilla is known to possess merit or the power to cure disease; it is known to be the best building-up medicine on earth; it is known to be honestly advertised, and for these reasons the people buy and take Hood's Sarsaparilla almost to the exclusion of other preparations. In fact, Merit Made and Merit Maintains the confidence of the people in

Singer's Machines

The International Jury of Experts at the World's Columbian Exposition reported on this machine as follows:

"It has a positive motion obtained without gears or levers, avoiding vibration or torsion, and producing a uniform stitch at all speeds. This combination enables use of a shorter needle than is practicable on other vibratory shuttle machines. The peculiar formation of shuttle-race prevents catching or rubbing of thread between shuttle and race and enables easy delivery of thread, which is perfectly controlled by evenly balanced tensions."

Have you a leaky gutter? If you have, make it perfectly clean and dry, apply a good coat of No. 3 P. and B. Paint over the leaky spots; then take a piece of stout Manila paper, or a piece of common cotton cloth, paint it well on both sides; lay it over the first coat, giving the whole a final coat, and there will be no more leak there. Or if the whole gutter is bad, make it clean and dry, and apply a paste of P. & B. Paint and Portland Cement

AFRAID OF TAKING OATH

PORTUGUESE ON MAUI DECLINE TO BE SWORN.

Natives Are Registering Very Readily—Fire in a Cane Field—Shipping is Lively in Kahului Harbor.

Maui, May 8, 1897.

Last evening at the residence of Mr. R. T. Engle, Paia, a "pic" social was held under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Makawao. The evening's entertainment consisted of a conversational program of fourteen topics, and two guessing games, for which prizes were given. Refreshments were served, the chief feature of which was pic, about all kinds imaginable being there. Chocolate and sandwiches were passed as a mere side dish. A goodly company filled the parlors and an enjoyable time was had.

Yesterday in Iao Valley W. H. Cornwall gave a luau in honor of the Tahitian Prince, Mr. Salmon, who is his guest at Waikapu. A bountiful spread was prepared and a large number partook of it, and it is reported as a most pleasant affair.

The Registration Board met at Paia Plantation office yesterday, and are there again today. Natives are registering very readily and the Portuguese are willing to register, but refuse to be examined under oath. They will give all the required information, but refuse to swear to it. They seem suspicious of that oath, and unless some one can explain it to them satisfactorily it looks as though but few of them will be eligible to vote in September.

The Board meets at Hamakua on Monday.

Dr. W. Maxwell, in charge of the Agricultural Station in Honolulu, arrived Wednesday and is the guest of Mr. J. W. Colville at Paia. He is here partly for business and partly for pleasure, and will remain about two weeks.

A fire in the cane at Paia occurred Tuesday afternoon, about five acres being burned. As it was about to be cut, anyway, no loss was sustained, it being ground immediately.

Mrs. C. H. Dickey returned home on Wednesday, after six weeks' visit in Honolulu.

Mr. Wheeler, late assistant bookkeeper for Kahului Railroad Company, is now bookkeeper for Wailuku Sugar Company, Mr. Goodhue having resigned. Mr. Waldron, from Honolulu, takes his place at Kahului.

Mr. L. von Tempisky, with his family, is sojourning at Olinda, having been obliged to leave Kula, owing to the scarcity of water.

Shipping at Kahului has become very lively again. The three-masted schooner Mary Dodge, Hausen master, arrived Sunday, fourteen days from San Francisco, with merchandise for Paia and Haiku Sugar Companies stores.

The three-masted schooner Otilie Fjord, reached port Tuesday, forty-two days from Honduras, in ballast, to load Paia and Haiku sugar.

The four-masted schooner Golden Shore appeared in the offing yesterday, but was told to stand off until Sunday. She was sixty-two days out from Newcastle with coal for Spreckelsville.

The schooner Olga got away Thursday with a cargo of Paia and Haiku sugar, and the barkentine Mary Winkelman sails today, laden with the same sugar.

Consequently warehouses are relieved and sugar matters move along in their natural groove again.

BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register. Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she has used ever did her as much good. For sale by all dealers and druggists. Benson, Smith & Co., wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

THE AWAKENING.

A sunburst flows from the day's bent bow And stirs the notes in the morning air. It sets the heel of the night aglow And glids the gloss Of the locks that toss Over the pillow white and fair. A burst of day with a touch of night, For out of the blue of the counterpane Her eyes, like the morning stars, burn bright A halcyon sleep— A gentle sigh— The soul of my day is alive again. —John Albert Macy in Bookman.

HER AMBITION.

Eva Norrington inserted her latchkey into the keyhole of a Bedford square boarding house and entered. It was a dismal, windy, rainy November evening, and ever since lunch she had been paddling about London, climbing the grimy stairs of newspaper offices and talking to people who did not seem especially pleased to see her. Her skirts were wet, and a wisp of damp hair was tumbling over her eyes. On the hall table, disclosed by the flickering gas jet, were some letters.

"A year ago today," said Eva to herself as she closed the door against the wind. "Has he written or has he forgotten?"

He had not forgotten. Eva picked up the letter from the hall table, looked quickly round at the closed hall door, and at the closed dining room door, and at the balcony door that led to the kitchen stairs—and kissed it. Then she went up stairs to her bed sitting room with the letter in her hand and a great joy in her heart.

"Hateful little room!" she murmured to herself as she struck a match and lit the gas. "But it's the last time, thank God!" The room was not really bad—a bed in the corner, a washstand, a wardrobe, here and there a picture on the walls, and a table by the window, rather rickety, on which lay a heap of manuscript—a half finished story.

"I will burn that before I go to bed to-night," said Eva as she caught sight of it. Then she took off her hat and cloak, drew the only easy chair under the gas jet, and sat down. Fingering the letter, she did not open it at once. Now that happiness stretched in front of her it was pleasant to linger on the confines of misery. To look back on the life she was to leave.

"It is not every one," said Eva reflectively, "who can make experiments in life—without expense."

Eva Norrington had been the pride of the provincial town which gave her birth. At the high school no girl could stand against her. Her former governess, who now and then asked her favorite pupils to tea, even said she might be a head mistress one day. To Eva this seemed absurd. But when, at the age of 20, she gained a guinea prize for a story in a weekly paper, she began to think that at least she might be a great novelist. At any rate she felt sure that somewhere ahead of her stretched a career, and as her twenty-first birthday approached she announced to her startled parents her intention of going to London in search of it. Thereupon ensued a series of domestic scenes, such as have been common of late in the homes of England, wherein the parents play the part of the apprehensive hen, the daughter that of the adventurous duckling. The duckling invariably gains its point, and so it was with Eva Norrington. Having refuted argument and resisted persuasion for a certain number of weeks, Eva obtained a grudging consent to her departure. The townspeople knew not whether to admire or disapprove. But they had read in novels of young ladies who took their lives and their latchkeys into their own hands, became famous and married respectively after all. So during the weeks of preparation for her campaign Eva became something of a figure in local society, and more than one dinner party was given in her honor as well as plentiful advice as to the necessary precautions against London gulls and many recipes for guarding against the colds induced by the fogs that infest the metropolis.

Eva was almost happy, for she had the hopefulness of youth and beauty and all the exhilaration of taking her life into her hands and fashioning it as she would, with none to raise objections to the process. She would have been quite happy but for Allan Craig, for Allan Craig, whenever he heard that Eva was bent on going to London to make a name for herself, promptly offered her his own as a substitute. It was a good enough name, and at the foot of a check it was generally respected, as Allan Craig had lately stepped into his father's business of estate agent and was prospering. Eva was disturbed, but she turned not aside from her project. She had mapped out her life and Allan Craig was not included in the scheme.

As she sat fingering her letter in her bed sitting room she went over the parting scene in her mind. The details of it would only increase the delight of the letter, for Eva had learned during the last year that happiness is so rare that it deserves to be rolled on the tongue and not swallowed in haste. It was at a dance on the night before her departure—her last dance, so she thought, before she started life in earnest. They were sitting out a dance together, for Eva was not disposed to think unkindly of Allan, though she might resent his intrusion into her scheme of life. She remembered how there had been silence between them for some moments, how Allan had leaned his elbows on his knees and dug the heel of his dancing shoe into the carpet.

"And you are quite determined to—to leave us?" said Allan.

"Of course," said Eva. "My boxes are all packed."

"Full of manuscript novels and things?"

"One novel and several stories."

"I cannot understand why you want to go when—"

"I want to—well—to live a larger life."

"You mean you want to live in a bigger place?"

"Well—not exactly. I don't think you quite understand."

"I quite understand that there is not enough scope for you here and that I am a selfish brute for trying to keep you from your ambition. Look here, Eva, can you honestly say that you don't love me a little bit?"

Allan had risen and was standing over her. Eva looked up at him. She could see him standing there now—big, comely, with something in his eyes that thrilled her, half with fear and half with pleasure. She rose and faced him.

"I shall be very sorry to leave you—very sorry."

"Then why?"

"Can't you see, Allan? I know I have it in me to do good work, and I must be where good work is wanted. Here I am hampered. In London—"

"You may fail," said Allan, with a note of hope in his voice.

"I shall succeed. I know I shall."

"Will you write to me?"

Eva hesitated. She was half inclined to give in to that extent. Allan had mistaken her hesitation.

"No," he said. "There shall be no selfishness in my love for you. I will wait a year from tonight, and then if London is—no go, you know, there will always be me. You can't expect me to pray for your success, can you?"

Eva, placed on her mettle, looked him in the face.

"I am bound to succeed," she said, and turned to go. The waltz had ceased in the room below and a rustle of skirts and a ripple of tongues had taken its place.

"Eva—once—the last time perhaps."

She turned again, laughing.

"Quick!" she said. "Some one will come."

A woman may forget many things, but no woman forgets the first time a lover's arm was around her waist and a lover's lips upon her own. And as Eva sat in the corner of a third class carriage in the London train next morning looking forward to the career before her, the remembrance of the support of Allan's arm persisted in obtruding itself. Having got what she had wanted, she already began to doubt if she wanted what she had got, for a career, after all, is rather a lonesome sort of thing.

Such small success as may come to the inexperienced girl upon her first incursion into literature came to Eva. She lived sparingly, worked hard and never made the mistake of refusing invitations on the ground of work. She said up a little later or got up a little earlier instead. A weekly column on "Health and Beauty," placed at her disposal by the youthful editor of a new woman's paper, who had met her at the Writers' club and thought her pretty, paid her weekly bill at the boarding house. Her stories found frequent acceptance and occasional welcome in the minor periodicals, and a happy meeting with an editor at a dinner party paved the way to her appearance in a widely read magazine. By the end of the year Eva Norrington had got so far toward the realization of her ambition that when people mentioned the name she wrinkled her brows and tried to remember where they had heard it before. At home, of course, her fame was great. The papers in which she wrote circulated freely in the town, her stories were discussed at afternoon teas, and townfolk were glad to think that they participated to some extent in the literary movement of the century.

And all this time Eva was horribly lonely. She knew plenty of people, and liked them. They were kind to her, some of them because they liked her for herself, others because they saw that she was marked for ultimate success. Having advanced a certain distance along the road she had longed to travel she could judge better whether it would lead her. It would lead her to a place in the newspaper paragraphs, to a place on the bookstalls, to a place in the photographers' windows, and to a place at Bayswater or South Kensington. This, then, must be the end of the struggle and the turmoil of the fight. And how she hated the fight! A fight wherein victory would bring her no nearer to the actualities of life, for she had come to learn in the year's struggle that our social system by no means places women on an equality with men, and that whereas men can buy the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil by the pottle, women must buy the tree outright, and pay cash. It was terribly unfair. And the most unfair thing about the whole business was that, while success was almost within her grasp, success was not what she wanted. There is no fun in living your own life when that is precisely the life you do not want to lead.

It was not as though Allan Craig had never kissed Eva Norrington.

She opened the letter, cutting the envelope with her nail scissors, for some distinction must be made between your first love letter and your bootmaker's bill. She felt as one who has held his breath to feel what suffocation is like. The letter was long. Eva read quickly at first, then slowly, knitting her brows as she turned the pages and came at last to the signature, "Ever your friend, Allan Craig."

The letter lay for some minutes in Eva's lap, while she looked vaguely round her room.

"He is afraid of spoiling my career—my success has put an insuperable barrier between us," she murmured. The phrases of the letter had burned themselves into her brain. "Oh, Allan! I wish I could tell you—or do you want to hear?"

When the dinner bell rang an hour afterward, Eva rose wearily from her writing table, where she had been toiling over her half finished manuscript. She had not burned it.

Five years passed before she saw Allan Craig again, and then the meeting was unexpected at the exit of the theater where Eva had gone to see the hundredth performance of her play. Allan was obviously proud of knowing her, and introduced his wife, to whom she gave graceful recognition. It was raining, and Allan offered to see Eva to a cab. They stood for a moment on the steps to the entrance.

"Yes," said Allan in answer to Eva's polite question, "all is going well. We have a little daughter—Eva—my wife's name, curiously enough." He stood by the hansom as she entered, guarding her dress from the wheel. As she turned to give the address he said:

"I ought to congratulate you on your success. It is very sweet to me. You know—you owe it all to me. Are you grateful?"

"Yes. I owe it to you," she said, leaning forward as the apron closed upon her, and the attendant constable grew impatient. "Come and see me—Tuesdays."

"I can't think why I should be so silly," said Eva to herself as she stuffed her handkerchief back into her pocket and felt for her latchkey, when the cab drew up before the hall door of her flat in Kensington.—London Black and White.

Inertia of the Nerves.

The reserches and experiments of Messrs. Broca and Richet have led them to the conclusion that the cerebral nervous system is incapable of perceiving more than an average of ten separate impressions per second. After each excitation of the nerves a period of inertia follows, lasting about one-tenth of a second, and during this period a new impression cannot be made. According to the same authority, a person cannot make more than ten or at the most a dozen separate voluntary movements of any kind in a second, although the muscles, independently of the will, are capable of making as many as 30 or 40.—Youth's Companion.

Jet Trimmings.

Jet trimmings and passementerie often become dull and rusty. They may be cleaned and freshened by wetting a piece of soft black cloth in alcohol diluted with a little water and rubbing it over the trimmings. Portions of the passementerie that have become browned from wear may be greatly improved by brushing with shoe polish.

A warm shampoo with CUTICURA SOAP, followed by gentle applications of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, will clear the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, allay itching, soothe irritation, stimulate the hair follicles, and produce a clean, healthy scalp and luxuriant hair, when all else fails.

LADIES ARE ASSURED that to cleanse, purify, and beautify the skin, to allay itching and irritation, to heal chafings, excoriations, and ulcerative weaknesses, to speedily cure the first symptoms of torturing, disfiguring skin humors, nothing so pure, so sweet, so wholesome, so speedily effective as warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, followed, when necessary, by mild applications of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure.
