LOSING AN OPAL.

But You Can't Expect a Man to See Through Anything.

"Adelaide is a bandit," remarked the girl with the black eyes, "and I told her so as soon as she left yesterday."

"A—what?" asked the blue-eyed girl in surprise.

"I said bandit, but I'll substitute high-way robber if you prefer."

"H'm. I know that she sometimes abstracted other people's admirers, but I didn't think she would take anything else."

"Oh, didn't you? Well, listen. You know that since the 1st of January Adelaide and I have been rooming together. We have what the landlady calls two rooms, but one is only a closet large enough to hold a folding bed. The other is our sitting as well as dressing room. You would never guess."

"Oh, yes, I would, my dear! I've boarded. You keep your toilet things in a book-case and your tea and crackers in a foot-stool—Don't waste time on that, but tell me about Adelaide."

"I will. Jim Tooker has been awfully nice to me this winter. He told me the other day that the firm had decided to send him to Mexico to settle some matters for them. He didn't know just when he would start, but he would run up to say good-bye to me for sure."

"Perhaps he will bring you a Mexican opal when he comes back. I have one, but I want it set in a buckle, and I need at least one more. I left the one I had out in full view on purpose to attract his attention. But—"

"Oh, did he call when you were out?"

"He thought he did. I had been reading the most delightful novel yesterday and was just about to dress for the afternoon when I heard the bell ring."

"And the maid brought him right up to the room. Oh, I know all about it!"

"She did, and had barely time to hide in the other room, while Adelaide, who is always well dressed—so vain of her—went to the door and told him she was expecting me home any moment."

"Whatever did you do?"

"Nothing. I couldn't even call her to bring me my new tea gown, for it was in the closet, which is only a box, and Jim was sitting on it."

"Poor Rhoda. It was too bad!"

"Too bad—well! Adelaide made herself perfectly lovely and said so many nice things that his head was simply turned. Then she actually showed him the opal and asked if he had ever seen one."

"The little out!"

"But that wasn't all. She told him it was mine, and she had always envied me so much."

"And he promised her one?"

"Of course he did. You can't expect a man to see through things. And there I had to stand outside the other side of the door, for I didn't dare to let down the folding bed because of the grating noise it makes, and listen to her exclamations of delight and gratitude!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Diary of a Lady.

First day. On the high seas. Stormy weather, disagreeable company.

Second day. Captain very amiable. Made a declaration of love and offered me his heart and hand. Rejected.

Third day. Captain returns to the charge, threatens to kill me, commit suicide and blow up the whole vessel with 300 persons. Rejected.

Fourth day. Saved the lives of 800 persons.—Tit-Bits.

An Instance.

At the session of the school for noncommissioned officers of one of the companies stationed at Fort Wayne the following question was asked of Sergeant—

"What is strategy? Give me an instance of it." After studying very intently, a moment or two the sergeant gave the reply, "When in battle, and you are out of ammunition and don't want the enemy to know it, it is good strategy to keep right on firing."—Argonaut.

Graduation.

Clerk (to curate): "I'm terrible sorry, sir, that you be a gwaline to lave us. We've changed ever so many times since Pappen Green died, and always for the worse!"

A Horrible Death.

"I caught sight of a sneak thief under my bed in the hotel the other night."

"Dear me! What did you do? Yank him out?"

"No. I sent for the chambermaid and had her sweep the room. The poor fellow died of suffocation."—Chicago National Hotel Reporter.

Cruel.

Miss Singlewoman—What a hateful thing Lyddy White is!

Miss Thingummy—Why, what has she been saying now?

Miss Singlewoman—I just happened to say she'd never see 45 again, and she said, "Not when I look at you."—Boston Transcript.

The Real Trouble.

Mrs. Withersby: "I wish you would be more particular, Henry, when you are in company."

Withersby (savagely): "Don't you consider that I have good manners?" Mrs. Withersby: "Yes, dear, but a poor memory."—New York World.

METHOD OF PURGING.

It is possible that some liberated conspirator, made foolish by drink, has told the Bulletin that he was coerced into signing a statement. He was probably a man who was surprised and satisfied when the prison gates closed behind him. He felt that he was cheating the law in accepting the alternative of leaving the country as against standing trial. The man, whoever he was, knew where to go to air a baseless grievance. He knew what paper favored the defunct monarchy and hated the Republic.

WANTS TWO LINES.

SANFORD FLEMING is one of the Imperial Cable Commissioners who lately visited Hawaii. He has been talking at Toronto, of the Senate appropriation of $500,000 for a line. Mr. Fleming thinks that should the United States Government determine to lay a cable from San Francisco to Honolulu, and at the same time assent to the landing of a British cable on some one of the Hawaiian Islands, the general interest of commerce would be greatly benefited, and that in a few years the commerce of the Pacific would be sufficient to justify the establishment of both cables.

It was at Montreal, we are now told that the Bulletin editor first won fame as a fireman. The correction is cheerfully made.

It is evident that the convention on war records has no apportionment committee. Company D, N. G. H., with eighty members, has five delegates and the Citizens' Guard, with several hundred members has but three. However the convention composition is thoroughly representative.

THE movement to oust from office men who do not think enough of the Government to fight for it is being very intelligently managed so far. There is a disposition to present without delay cases against the suspects. There is also a pronounced disposition to be both firm and fair.

THE end of the Military Commission term is now coming into view. The trials yet to be had will not occupy many days. Credit is due in several quarters for the absence of delay in the proceedings. The dispatch with which business has been transacted is rivaled only by the fairness and thoroughness of the work.

THE Advertiser of this morning made an indefinite and bungling attempt to give an advance sheet on acts of the Military Commission, the Commander-in-Chief and the Cabinet. The Advertiser is as forgetful as it is vacillating. It has forgotten all of the high and holy regard it declared for principle and ethics when it protested over THE STAR'S publication of trial news.

Timely Topics.

February 12, 1895.

Congress seems to be awakening to the advisability of taking steps towards the annexation of Hawaii, but it is not to be expected that anything definite can be accomplished until the 54th Congress convenes. If it is true that the Democratic Party was the greatest opposition two years ago that same party is still in power and not much in this line can be expected from it. On the other hand if annexation to the United States depends solely upon a Republican Congress the matter should be satisfactorily settled soon after March 4. It is a question whether annexation was defeated in '93 simply off party lines. Both sides seem to be divided on the merits of the movement and unless it should be brought up now on a strictly party vote there may be a doubt as to its passage. And how stands Hawaii on the proposition? Are there more people here who would advocate annexation than there were in 1893, or less? Does the majority feel that it is for the best interests of the masses to pool issues with the older Republic rather than go it alone? Annexation has disadvantages that cannot be counted upon the fingers of one hand, but it is argued that the benefits to be derived from such political union would more than compensate the country at large. An independent Government has been tried and those who are in close touch with it are best able to judge whether it has been a success. It's nice to be independent, if one can, better yet if that one happens to be a government of the United States contend with year in and year out, we are able to judge from non-partisan papers whether the people there are prosperous and happy and we can make a pretty close guess as to whether under the conditions which exist here, prosperity would be any closer at hand than it is under the present circumstances. An objection heretofore has been in the fact that the voting franchise has been too general for certain purposes. As an offset certain aliens were given certain rights which with annexation to the United States could not exist. There could be no special rights of citizenship under the Constitution of the United States nor would there be any property or income qualification upon the citizen of Hawaii who wanted to cast his ballot. Considering this matter in the light in which it appears to the non-participant where will our Government be improved by annexation.

We have sufficient plain galvanized and barbed wire to build a fine wire fence around each island in the group. We have it now, but we do not believe we will have it all in a fortnight. We sell wire, you understand, we make no attempt to keep it because there is more money in the sale than the storing. Our barbed wire is the best made and will stand all the tests wire may be subjected to in this climate. Our plain galvanized wire is the best that has ever been brought to the country. Our prices are lower than you have ever paid for it.

We have a few of the only genuine fruit pickers in town, and they are really very good and will save you lots of fruit. They are a cheap but well made article and cannot wear out or break. Fifty cents is the price.

If you think the rainy season is over you must also think it is time for you to begin tithing your house. The first step in this direction will be in painting the outside and you cannot do better in this respect than by using Hendry's Ready Mixed Paints. Try them once and you will never use any other. They will retain their gloss and color longer than those mixed by painters and will give better satisfaction in every way. They go further than other paints and cost you less money. We have all colors for house, floor or veranda painting in quart, half-gallon and gallon containers. The Wertheim Sewing Machine that does three distinct stitches without change of any part of the machinery is the cheapest thing you can have in the house. The price is lower than that of an ordinary machine.

The youthful adventurer had his doubts whether the lock would pay for itself, and when good natured friends—whose good nature, we may be sure, stopped on the wrong side of being said, "if only he had retired," he was rather inclined to agree with them.

At last, in fear and trembling, he wrote to the publisher to know the worst—which he himself had calculated at about $200. "Let me know how many have gone off," he wrote in all modesty, "and what is the balance I owe you?"

The publisher wrote back: "Dear Sir—Your whole edition has gone off, saving a balance of $20 in your favor. Check enclosed." The poet was in the seventh heaven and yet not satisfied. He rushed to the publisher's to inquire who had bought the book—friends, Madie or who?

"Thought Exchanges" at the Club.

Boston is breaking out now with conversation clubs, or "thought exchanges," as the Bostonians call them. The number is not yet large, but a Boston paper predicts that it will be greater with the better conception of the idea of culture. Another sort of a club is the Castilian club, which had a meeting not long ago with a paper on "The Royal Chapel of Catalonia and Corruente and Barrial Places of Spanish Sovereignty." This was a very enlightening subject, but the spirits of the club were sustained by receiving from a member the autograph of King Ferdinand annexed to an official document. The club already possessed one of Isabella's autographs.

Knipped in the Hand.

Dear Sir—Your whole edition has gone off, saving a balance of $20 in your favor. Check enclosed. The poet was in the seventh heaven and yet not satisfied. He rushed to the publisher's to inquire who had bought the book—friends, Madie or who? "My dear sir," said the publisher, "I think you had better not ask."

Distinctions With a Difference.

There were a knot of men standing on a street corner. One of them had just finished relating some exciting episode of a hunting excursion which he had taken the day previous down the river.

"So you're a sporting man, are you, Joe?" I never knew that before, really, and one of his companions.

"No, sir," said the first speaker. "I am not a sporting man. I am a sportsman, plain and simple. A sporting man is a man who has the first man still looked blank."

"I beg your pardon, my friend, is the difference?" "Well, difference, why, great Scott, man, there is as much distinction between a sportsman, a sporting man and a sport as there is between a doctor, a medical and a phib!" The speaker glanced at spectators, but the first man still looked blank.

"Pray define it, then," he said after a pause.

"To be sure. It's something that everybody ought to know, but unfortunately I don't follow never take the trouble to learn these things. A sportsman is a man who has been in his true sense. At least I so consider it. He is a man who enjoys hunting, fishing, camping out, and is in any of them at all. He probably plays sports in the way of boating, swimming, riding and the like. He is, pardon my opinion, apt to be a man of gentlemanly habits, and he is a man who is an entirely different sort of a fellow. He is one who takes an interest in sports of different sorts, although he may not engage in any of them at all. He probably plays the races, thinks hard, takes in all the public sports and amuses most of his evening hours when there is nothing else on hand. But a sport is on a still lower scale. He is a fellow who thinks his big potatoes when he's really nothing but a man. He must not know anything about sports or engage in them either. His reputation will be won chiefly by his loud dress, his relations with the women, his hanging round saloons and his general worthlessness. No, sir, there are good many persons who are proud to be called sporting men or sportsmen, but only a few are sportsmen by such a term is little short of an insult. Ta, ta!"—Washington Post.

The Hole Was Loaded.

With a "tramping rod" between them John McCaffery and Michael Reese stood over a hole in the rock on the Wood street grade between Lexington avenue and Carter street, Manhattan, yesterday. Several bags of powder and a quantity of dynamite were lowered carefully into the hole, which had been drilled for a blast. The return of weather fit to permit out their work had made the men more cheerful than they had felt for a week, and they were chattering away as they busily rammed the explosives down. A score of other workmen were busy about, and a crowd of spectators were watching the work.

"A fine day, Mollie, it be either the rain," said McCaffery.

"It's a fine day, Mollie," replied Reese. "It's a fine day, Mollie, it be either the rain," said McCaffery.

A sudden bang, a faint explosion, a rending and splitting of rocks, was the answer to the old question. The two men in "tramping" the explosives had struck fire with their rod, and in the next instant they were flying high in the air amid a shower of two tons of rocks. They came down with it all in a heap, and the flying fragments struck several of the spectators. None was seriously hurt, however.

As McCaffery slowly picked himself up 20 feet away from where the hole was he exclaimed, "Are you here, Mollie?" "Oh, sir, that's my fault," replied Reese from his hand resting place. "Be yez above, John!"

The two men were picked up, and Reese, who seemed much the worse for his upward flight, was taken in the police wagon to St. Timothy's hospital. There it was found that his hands and arms were burned, his head cut, and his body bruised, but he was cheerful and bright, and the doctors say he will be out in a day or two.

McCaffery escaped with only a few bruises. How the men escaped instant death is one of the mysteries.—Philadelphia Record.

The Stealing of the Statues.

One of the wonders of a collection of drawings of the old masters is how they worked with anything that came to hand—with crayon, chalk, charcoal, sepia, India ink or silver point. They made you a hand or arm or whole figure from the life with an accuracy apparent case and certainty as a baker makes a loaf, nor have they any care as to how they arrive at the result—a wash, a rub, a scratch, does the business—the light of heaven shines in mirror of chalk, and the darkness of the inferno is revealed in a smudge of ink.

Probably because they served a long and hard apprenticeship, had grown up in studios and workshops, had been tickled with the mallet and had paint pots thrown at their heads, did they acquire this easy, infallible method of theirs. Not that this explains the whole of the mystery, but it may go part of the way.—All the Year Round.

SENTENCES.

C. T. Gulick, thirty-five years and $10,000 fine.

W. H. Rickard, thirty-five years and $10,000 fine.

T. B. Walker, thirty years and $5,000 fine.

Major Seward, thirty-five years and $10,000 fine.

Robert W. Wilcox, thirty-five years and $10,000 fine.

Henry Bertelmann, thirty-five years and $10,000 fine.

Carl Widemann, thirty years and $10,000 fine.

W. H. C. Greig, twenty years and $10,000 fine.

Louis Marshall, twenty years and $10,000 fine.

John Lane, five years and $5,000 fine.

William C. Lane, five years and $5,000 fine.

The above are the sentences read to political prisoners this morning. They show the findings of the Military Commission modified, in several cases, by the President.

AMENDED.

C. T. Gulick, Major Seward, W. H. Rickard, Robert Wilcox, Samuel Nowlin and Henry Bertelmann were sentenced by the Military Commission to these cases were modified as above.

AT OAHU.

The principals on the above list received their sentences in the office at Oahu prison. Major Potter read them. Major McLeod, Marshal Hitchcock, Deputy Ator- ney-General Robertson and a repre- sentative of THE STAR were present.

C. T. GULICK.

Mr. Gulick was the first called, he looked pale and weak. His usual composure, however, did not forsake him, though toward the end he appeared quite nervous. His sentence dates from January 25th. When it had been read to him, he requested a copy of it of the Marshal. Mr. Hitchcock replied that it was not usual to furnish prisoners with copies of their sentences, but if Mr. Gulick desired it, he should have it. The prisoner then asked if he might see his attorney, Mr. Neumann. The Marshal replied that the prisoner's request would be communicated to the Commander-in-Chief.

THE MAJOR.

Major Seward looked cool and collected when he entered the room, though he turned pale and twitched nervously while his sentence was being read. He left the room without a word, but so that his Loyol Legion button was nearer the floor.

TOM WALKER.

Tom B. Walker was perhaps the coolest man of the lot. As he walked in, he bowed pleasantly to various persons in the room. He was found guilty of nearly all of the specifications and both charges. The sentence passed by the Com- mission was thirty years imprison- ment and a fine of $5,000. This was approved by the Commander-in-Chief.

THE EN-QUEEN.

President Dole said this morning that the Military Commission ver- dict in the case of the ex-queen had not yet been passed upon. She will learn her sentence early next week. The current rumor is that the finding was for five years imprisonment and a fine of $5000. This is probably correct.

THE MODERN INVALID.

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. If really ill he consults a physician; if constipated he uses the gentle family laxative Syrup of Figs.

W. H. RICKARD.

Rickard looked well, but was extremely nervous. He was found guilty straight through, charges, specifications and all. His sen- tence dates from January 5th.

THE SICK MAN.

Bertelmann received his sentence in bed. He is a very sick man. Mrs. Bertelmann was in the cell when the deputation entered. The Commission had sentenced Bertel- mann to be hanged. He was found guilty of both charge and speci- fications. The President modified this sentence to thirty-five years and $10,000 fine. An appendix to the sentence was worded the same as that in the case of Nowlin. The Marshal told him that as soon as he was able he might go home. Bertelmann thanked the Marshal and Major Potter. He is extremely weak. His voice came almost in whispers. As soon as the doctor will permit he will be removed to his home.

WM. LANE.

The sentence of William Lane was read at the station house. James Lane is still at the asylum. His sentence has not been read to him and may not be until Monday. He will first be brought to the sta- tion house and from there trans- ferred to Oahu Prison.

IN STRIPES.

Gulick, Seward, Rickard, Wil- cox, Walker, Widemann, Greig and Marshall donned their prison suits immediately. Major Gulick was the first to step out in his stripes. The trousers, coat and hat were of black and white stripes. As soon as he was dressed he walked over to the hospital and joined V. V. Ashford, who has worn his suit of the same material for several days. Wilcox, Walker and Major Seward strode out to- gether. The younger men and Rickard appeared later.

OTHER PRISONERS.

In the prison yard the political prisoners who have been sentenced stroll leisurely about. They have nothing to do yet, and time seems to bring heavily upon them. This morning Mr. John A. Cummins sat in the sun in the front yard. Geo. Lycurgus, dressed in a smoking gown, paced the yard. He was in a fine humor, and said Hotel d' Low was a first-rate rival of Sans Souci.

John E. Bush and Nawahi, com- mitted to the Circuit Court on charge of conspiracy, were sitting together in a corner of the yard reading from some books. Neither of the men looks well. Bush says prison life and editing newspaper are two entirely different things.

DAVIES.

The Waimanalo captain, Davies, was sentenced, it is said, to ten years and a fine of $10,000. This may be remitted on condition that he leave the country never to return. His sentence has not been announ- ced yet.

THE EN-QUEEN.

President Dole said this morning that the Military Commission ver- dict in the case of the ex-queen had not yet been passed upon. She will learn her sentence early next week. The current rumor is that the finding was for five years imprisonment and a fine of $5000. This is probably correct.

GARABALDI.

Robert Wilcox was pale and nervous. When the findings of the Commission were read, he turned extremely pale, but braced up under the modification by the President.

YOUNG WIDEMANN.

Carl Widemann looked like a man at the end of his row, and who cared not what came next. He was pale, but scarcely moved dur- ing the time his sentence was being read. His sentence, thirty years and $10,000, was approved by the President.

A RIFLE SHOT ALARM.

RUSH OF A MOUNTED POLICE SQUAD TO KAMEHAMEHA SCHOOL.

It Was an Accident—A Pupil and a Rifle—The Dangerous Journey of a Bullet.

Waimanalo Is the Boat—Tabiti Was the Destination—All Ready to Leave.

If the little steamer Waimanalo does not gain notoriety at the present time it will not be for lack of peculiar positions in which she has been placed. In December Captain William Davies took her out and landed arms from her, used in the late rebellion. From that time forward her name has been heard daily in the Military Court room, and has appeared in the papers far and near. Alexander Hill, a new- comer, succeeded Davies as captain of the Waimanalo. He was in the employ of Davies when the arms were landed. Hill has had a good deal of trouble here.

The latest freak of the Waima- nalo is with her new captain. It is seldom that a man attempts to steal a steamer, but that is what is charged against Hill, who was arrested about noon today. The allegations are that he took on a lot of coal and provisions yesterday and intended leaving for Tahiti to- day or Monday. Enough supplies had been taken aboard to last a month. Two other men living here, were in the plot.

The scheme was known to the authorities, but action was delayed until this morning. Hill was locked up, and the other two men will be arrested. The coal was taken from the steamer. Hill denies point- blank that he intended taking the steamer, but the owners assert that they have all the evidence needed.

The Waimanalo will likely be sold to Jack Walcott this afternoon. He intends to re-sell her.

Fred Meyers and Mrs. McNabb were arrested late this afternoon on suspicion of complicity in the scheme to seize the Waimanalo and go south. A trunk and bag, full of private effects, were also seized, the opinion being that important evidence is to be found among the papers.
