THE NEW MINISTER.

It is pleasant to know that Minister Willis finds Honolulu to his taste. He thinks it a better place to live in than he had been led to expect, and its tropic luxuriance of shade and color appeals to him with the charm of novelty. The climate also pleases him.

One thing he must notice which will bear upon him more and more strongly as he lives here; and this is that Honolulu is an American city—American in its architecture, modes of daily life and public spirit; American in its press and literature, in its moral sentiment and in the way its opinion manifests itself.

Whatever result Mr. Willis' mission may have on the annexationist cause now, we feel sure that, as the Minister's stay among us continues, he will find himself in strong sympathy with the character, feelings and ambitions of those to whose government he comes accredited.

THE VIEWS OF MR. DAVIES. In the STAR of September 20th the avowal of Mr. T. H. Davies that Hawaii could not forego her sovereignty without a ballot was put into contrast with British legal authority and precedent.

IN SMALL BUSINESS. It pleases the Bulletin to invent false logic for the STAR and then to refute it. Our readers are quite aware, for example, that this statement, or its equivalent has never appeared in these columns:

That paper holds that the United States had a right to interfere with this sovereign state in its relations with another power, but has no right to interfere with this same sovereign state in a question of more intimate relations with the United States herself.

her forces were merely employed, as they had been before in an era of popular excitement here, in protecting American property. "What revolutionary force, then, does the STAR refer to?" If Mr. Davies will call at the photograph galleries he will find pictures there, taken on January 17th, of the armed men in motley garb who overthrew the Queen.

To quote further: I do not propose to criticize in any degree these statements or admissions of yours, but I am curious to know how they will be dealt with by Mr. Curtis J. Lyons, who recently stated in your columns that Hawaii had "offered to forego her sovereignty," thereby evidently intending to convey that the aborigines had joined in that offer—which you and I deny.

We do not think that Mr. Davies draws a fair inference from the words quoted. If the new Provisional Government of Brazil should overthrow Peixoto, and after possessing itself of the capital and of all the functions of authority, should tender that country to the United States and maintain the terms of the offer through ten months of uninterrupted rule, it would be proper to say that Brazil had offered to forego her independent government.

Mr. Davies is pleased to say that the status quo in Hawaii is the result of either conquest or usurpation. Assuredly there has been no conquest; and as for usurpation that is a name which every successful revolt has gained from those whom its triumph had discredited or overthrown.

READERS OF THE STAR TO-MORROW will have a full account of the ceremonies at the Executive Building, with verbatim reports of the speeches made.

HUMOROUS LEGAL COMPLICATION. How a Litigant Escaped the Law's Behest. About the queerest case at law this summer was that fess in a small Maine village in this part of the State. Two neighbors owned dogs. One dog got afoul of the neighboring canine and was chewing him to the queen's taste when the owner of the under dog shield a club.

URNS FROM ANIMAL TO PLANT A Curious Object of Dual Nature in New Zealand. The most curious of all objects in New Zealand is that which the Maoris call "weto." One is uncertain whether to call it an animal or a plant.

One of the Ballet Girls' Woes. Speaking of the agony ballet girls suffer on account of their feet, a physician said recently: "The premieres, if they appear twice in the same evening, invariably have a chiropodist behind the scenes to attend them between acts. It is peculiar, but ballet girls get corns under their great toenails. This, of course, would prevent them from dancing, but we have a way of treating such things. We split the toenail down the center and place cotton between this and the corn. This has to be dressed after each dance. I have seen a premier danseuse come off the stage smiling and fall in a faint as soon as she was out of sight of the audience, all caused by the pain in her feet.—London Figaro.

MR. DAVIES is right in his view that there are two wings to the Annexation party in Hawaii. It should be explained, however, that they are not divided by essential issues. It is the wish of one side to conduct the Government on the basis of civil service reform, leaving all competent men in office, though they may not sympathize with the cause of Annexation.

Every conviction tells me that a government of law and order cannot rest upon the basis of the acclamations of a mass meeting. The edifice may grow and look fair, and the builders may be honest and true—but if the foundation is rotten the building can never be safe.—T. H. Davies.

That is what was the matter with the Kalakaua monarchy which some misguided people want to have restored—it's foundation was rotten and so was its superstructure. That monarchy was a patchwork of immorality, bribery, debauchery, opium, lottery and despotism, and it was shaken by three revolutions in six years.

It would serve the ex-Queen well to pray to her gods that the peril of restoration may never come to her.

SAN JUAN'S WONDERS.

THE MARVELOUS PREHISTORIC PICTURE GALLERIES OF UTAH.

Navajo Mountain's Every Boulder and Smooth Surface Covered With Weird, Fantastic and Touching Specimens of Barbaric Art of Long Ago.

Western newspaper correspondents have for years at irregular intervals discoursed at some length upon the wonders of the Rio San Juan, and in the category of the marvellous this mountain tributary of the great Colorado has taken its place...

Whether this is a region that will ever show rich "pay dirt" the writer knows not, but he can say without hesitation that it is one of the most weird picturesque and beautiful regions in the world.

On the mountain these continue to the summit, and as the crowning piece a huge block of sandstone stands on the top, the four sides presenting smooth surfaces, and on each face is a picture of the sun, with the figure of seven warriors bowed, as to the earth, in prayer.

On one wall, in an apparently inaccessible place, there is a picture undoubtedly intended to represent the mastodon. The trunk, the tusks, the massive body, are all there, and the long, shaggy hair tufts of another than the modern elephant.

A few years since the United States government imported a few of these ships of the desert to be used as a means of transportation in southern Arizona and the California desert, but the scheme proved impracticable, and today these camels are roaming at large.

Another striking feature of this rude picture gallery is the number of times that the mysterious Biblical number seven occurs. On the verge of the canyon, as approached from the south, seven boulders stand side by side.

A few miles from the Colorado river, where the canyon is not more than 800 or 1,000 feet from wall to wall, and where the walls are perpendicular and smooth, on the right wall are the pictures of seven warriors with bows drawn to the last notch, while across the river on the opposite wall are the pictures of seven antelope, apparently in full run to escape the hunters.

Some one who has figured on the work done at Pompeii since June, 1873, says that it will take until 1947 to unearth the entire ruins with 85 men working every day.

The lord mayors of London during the past 50 years have collected over twenty millions of money for philanthropic purposes.

NIAGARA'S FASCINATION.

An Indescribable Attraction Well Nigh Transcending All the Spectacles.

Not every visitor to Niagara falls has for his benefit a full moon every night and a brilliant sun by day. They tell me that the grand time to see Niagara is at midwinter, when huge tons of ice go thundering over the cataract and the lower falls are one mass of sparkling icicles.

We wandered out, the night as light as day, under acres of white blossoms, to see the upper torrent before it falls over the precipitous cliff. The rest was to be left to the imagination. You cannot conceive the effect of that midnight emphasis—the eternal thud of the cataract emphasizing the delicious silence of the night.

But there was no vestige or shadow of disappointment in the morning. How shining there be! The apple blossoms were waxen, the grass of emerald green, the sky was blue, the sun was in the heavens. At last it was all right with the world.

Modern enterprise allows you this experience. Formerly you had to stand on a slippery rock in a muck-hole and go literally into the falls. Nowadays a plucky little steamboat plunges into the very heart of the torrent and takes you so near the falling mass of glittering and rainbow tinted water that you gasp for breath.

You will ask me, what is the effect of Niagara falls on the spectator? To me they have an indescribable attraction and fascination. While resting there I could not get away from them. The roar in the distance seemed a call which I was bound to answer.

Amassers of Books. One has a kind of contempt for the collector who has no specialty and buys without discrimination and even without inspection. Mr. Heber, the brother of the bishop, was a purchaser of this class.

Of a similar disposition was the far more famous Antonio Magliabecchi, who is said to have lived on titles and indexes, and whose very pillow was a folio. "The old bibliomaniac lived in a kind of cave made of piles and masses of books, with hardly any room for his cooking or for the wooden cradle lined with pamphlets which he slung between his shelves for a bed. He died in 1714, in his eighty-second year, dirty, ragged and as happy as a king."

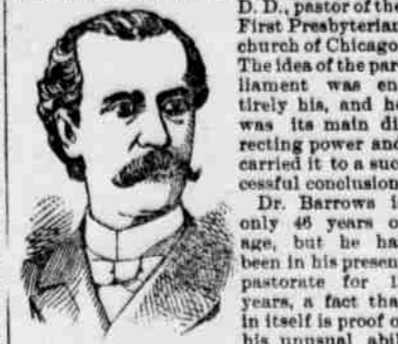

Killed by Imagination. The odd fact is that a man's mind is stronger than his body, and if he decides that the wheels shall stop at a given time they will influence a heart beat. The physical machinery is dependent on what is going on in the brain.

Str Boyle Roche Indignant. Autograph letters of Sir Phillip Francis are authority for adding this to the many famous Irish "bulls" attributed to Sir Boyle Roche. Some ladies went to the Irish house of commons to hear a particular debate, which happened to be put off till the next day.

A TALENTED PREACHER.

Rev. Dr. Barrows of Chicago Originated the Parliament of Religions.

The parliament of religions was probably the most unique and successful of the many great congresses held in Chicago during the World's fair, and its happy accomplishment added not a little to the renown of its originator, Rev. John Henry Barrows, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago.

Dr. Barrows is only 45 years of age, but he has been in his present pastorate for 12 years, a fact that in itself is proof of his unusual ability. His parents were of New England families, and he was born at Medina, Mich. He graduated at Olivet college in 1867, showing exceptional brilliancy in literature, history and the classics.

After leaving Springfield he spent a year in foreign travel, supplying the pulpit of the American chapel in Paris during his stay there, and making many friends in the French capital. On his return to America he became pastor of the Eliot Congregational church of Lawrence, Mass., and went from there to the Maverick church in East Boston, whence he was called to the Chicago congregation. The Maverick church at that time was deeply in debt, and Dr. Barrows was making heroic efforts to raise the burden.

Dr. Barrows' Chicago pastorate has been very successful, largely because of the superlative energy with which he is endowed. For four years he held services in Central Music hall on Sunday evenings, which were marked with wonderful results. Besides being a preacher of wonderful power, he is a lecturer of eminent ability and an author of considerable fame.

Nature is never niggardly. When we exhaust one of her storehouses, she immediately opens another. It is well known to everybody that the seeds of the cotton plant were for many years regarded as waste and worthless material.

But whales grew scarce, and we wondered what would become of us. The whaling craft rotted at the wharves, because it was no longer profitable to man them. Then some lucky fellow, digging a well in Pennsylvania, found to his surprise that oil gushed out instead of water, and all the world wondered. Oil wells were sunk, companies were formed and colossal fortunes were amassed.

The Vivisector Held Up. One of the most curious expeditions ever planned by man was that once undertaken by Dr. J. G. Bunting of Portland. During all his life he had been a close student of the philosophy of digestion, and for the purpose of his investigations he had that remarkable Canadian, Alexis St. Martin, in his care for 30 years.

The Kodak In the Pulpit. To be photographed while you doze in a corner of your pew at church is one of the latest terrors. The kodak has made its way into the pulpit. An Irish clergyman the other Sunday during the service took a snap shot of his congregation.

WHY YOU WANT THE "STAR!"

Every person in the community — man, woman or child—who is able to read and who desires to keep in touch with the spirit of this progressive age and wishes to be posted as to events of interest which are continually happening at home and abroad, on land and sea.

The STAR is a new paper and has introduced Californian methods of journalism into Hawaii, where, before its advent, the Massachusetts newspaper traditions of 1824 held sway. It has three prime objects:

To support the cause of Annexation of Hawaii to the United States and assist all other movements, political, social or religious, in the islands and their people.

To print all the news of its parish without fear or favor, telling what goes on with freshness and accuracy, suppressing nothing which the public has the right to know.

To make itself indispensable to the family circle by a wise selection of miscellaneous reading matter.

As a commentator the STAR has never been accused of unworthy motives. As a reporter the STAR has left no field of local interest ungleaned. As a friend of good government the STAR has been instant in service and quick to reach results.

As an advertising medium the STAR, from the week of its birth, has been able to reach the best classes of people on all the Islands.

The "STAR" Is 50 Cents A Month In Advance.
