THE BAILIFF ACT ATTACKED

STARTLING POINT MADE IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Robertson Says It Did Not Pass Three Readings as is Required by Law.

The famous bailiff act of the last legislature was attacked this morning before Judge Humphreys in the first circuit court. A. G. M. Robertson, in behalf of ex-Judge W. K. Rathburn, who is indicted for jury, offered to attack the recent grand jury, on the ground that it was summoned by an officer not having power to summon a jury, to wit, a bailiff of the court. In support of his motion he offered to introduce in evidence the journals of the house and senate, showing that the bailiff act had not been regularly passed. The motion involves the validity of each of the 37 indictments made by the last grand jury and of all indictments and proceedings under them, since the legislature adjourned, and if successful means a far larger jail delivery, or task by fixing cases, than was brought about by the habeas corpus decisions of Judge Este and Gear.

The principal contention of the counsel for the defense is that the bailiff act was not read three times, in either house, as is required by law. On this point the counsel for the prosecution says: "That a bill in order to become a law shall, except as herein provided, pass three readings in each house, on separate days, the final passage of which in each house shall be by a majority vote of all the members to which such house is entitled, taken by yeas and nays and entered upon its journal."

The bailiff act, according to the journals of house and senate, passed three readings in each house, but there is a question of regularity in the matter of an amendment. The bill had a very ordinary course in the Senate, but its way through the house leaves a winding devious trail in the journal. Senator White gave notice of the bill on March 11 and it passed first reading two days later. On March 24 it passed second reading and on March 25 it was finally passed and sent to the house. When the house met Senator White's bill, known in the legislature as Senate bill No. 38 and in the law books now as Act 10 of the Session Laws of 1901, it quickly passed it on first reading on March 26 and on April 6 passed the bill on second reading without any trouble. After that the bill went to the Judiciary committee. On April 8 when the bill came up for third reading, Robertson moved to amend by striking out Section 5. His motion was lost and then the bill was defeated by 13 yeas and 14 nays, the latter not being a clear majority of all members, which is needed for final passage of a bill. Section 5 dealt with the pay of bailiffs.

After the defeat of the bill Robertson moved his amendment again, and it carried, eliminating section 5 from the bill. On the 9th Dickey proposed another minor amendment, which was lost and the bill went to the Judiciary committee. The Judiciary committee approved the bill, but it was postponed on the 11th and again defeated on the 15th.

After the defeat of the 15th, a new section, section 5, was added. On the following day the bill passed its third reading in the house, and it went to the governor, being signed by Governor Dole on April 26.

The records of the journals do not show whether the section 5 that was placed in the bill was the same as the section 5 that had been stricken out. It was a very different, then the senate has never voted on it, and the house appears to have erred in not sending the bill as amended to the senate for approval, instead of sending it to the governor for signature.

Attorney Robertson stated in court that he had a good deal of testimony to offer, and it may be that the original papers will have to be brought into court, and the testimony of those concerned in passing the bill taken. Judge Humphreys set the case for hearing next Monday morning.

Deputy Attorney General Cathcart, who appeared for the territory, remarked that the question ought to be speedily settled now that it had been raised, as it was of great importance.

PAIN CARS IN PILIKIA

THE RAPID TRANSIT EXTENSION BLOCKS TRAFFIC.

The Two Lines Running Parallel Monopolize the Entire Road to Palama and Kailhi.

The irregularity of the Hawaiian Tramways cars has caused many heart-felt comments of late on the King street line, where passengers have waited wearily on a switch for minutes that dragged into half hours before the welcome sight of the slowly perambulating mules of the other car appeared on the opposite direction. The blame has been laid by Pain's drivers and inspectors on the laborer's of the Rapid Transit Company who, in hastening the completion of their line towards Kailhi have obstructed the rails and tracks of the old company.

A trip along the line towards Palama shows the absolute impossibility of any vehicle, be it buggy, express or draught wagon, bicycle or tram car, traveling at a faster pace than a walk between Liliha and the end of the mule line or indeed beyond.

From the reform school there is a constant congestion of traffic. A wagon belonging to Judge Wilcox took an hour and a half making the trip the other day and the only wonder is that it was made at all.

An army of laborers are at work on the Rapid Transit Company extension carrying on the laying of the tracks at the different stages of progression simultaneously. Far out Palama the road bed, formed almost entirely of broken blocks of coral, is being quickly torn up, closer in a wide trench is prepared ready for the sleepers, and at different sections rails are laid down and perhaps filled in with the crushed rock ready for rolling.

For the whole length of the work, possibly a little over a mile, the tracks run closely together sometimes not far enough apart to allow of a buggy passing between the mule cars and the trench of the new line. When a car and vehicle meet on the stretches there is usually a lively time while the horse is backed out or the buggy turned around.

Meantime wagons loaded with crushed rock, wagons loaded with rails, a steam roller, gangs of men working on the side of the road, the ground strewn with rails lying on the ground, poles scattered here and there, make passage almost impossible for ordinary traffic, which has to scramble up hill and down dale, and confiscate the sidewalks, while horses back and balk and their drivers air their opinions of their predicament to the bystanders. Children and each other in flight, and abandon that perhaps renders them best said in a foreign tongue.

Whenever a wagon laden with materials for the electric road gets ahead of a Pain chariot or temporarily blocks up the way when dumping a load of mules, the movements of the drivers are marked with a calm deliberation and deafness to the clanging bell that is peculiarly exasperating to the Jehus that manipulate the mules as well as to passengers. From the end of the Palama switch to Liliha street, mule chariots run a gauntlet of delays, blockades and narrow passages that are leaving their records in long scarpes across whatever paint time has left on the cars and in the nervous exhaustion of the drivers.

By the rice fields on the mauka side where barefooted Chinese women are gleaming stray grains from the last crop, excavations for sewer pipes help along the mix-up and necessitate the changing a car. Meanwhile Manager Bullentine seems likely to have his extension into a big order by Saturday. When all is finished and cleared it is hard to see what will remain of the public highway for business or pleasure driving. So closely do the two lines run together, without reckoning where switches come that a horse and buggy caught with a mule car coming in one direction and a swiftly moving trolley car in the other will be in an extremely hazardous position that will take a cool head and capable driver to make the best of. Progress will always be a procession timed to the speed of the foremost conveyance.

There are many places where even a breaking cart could not pass between two cars. As for the sidewalk that is already appropriated for long strips at a time.

It is little wonder that cars Waikiki of King street wait indefinitely on the switches and are likely to do so until the extension is completed.

DRIVEN OUT OF COURSE

BARK R. P. RITHEH HAS A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Loses all of Deck Load and Drifted 180 Miles To Northward—Made Port Today.

After going through the worst weather the captain has known in these islands, the bark R. P. Ritheh arrived from San Francisco this morning. The vessel was not minus any sails, but she lost all of her deck load during the terrible weather, she experienced since last Friday.

About midnight of Friday, Captain McPhail found his vessel about 20 miles or so off of Halawa Point, Molokai. A terrible southeast gale set in and as the weather looked so threatening, the captain decided not to try and run through to Honolulu, but to have his vessel to, thinking that the storm would abate by the morning.

On Saturday, the weather was, if possible, worse than during the night so the ship was allowed to drift with only the topsails set. From then until Sunday afternoon she drifted 180 miles to the northward, the reckoning showing the boat, at that time to be in 157 west longitude and 25 degrees 4 minutes north latitude. The course of the vessel was again changed and she began to beat to the southward.

The seas were terrific, Captain McPhail says, and swept the decks of the vessel worse than he has ever known in the Hawaiian trade. There was a deck cargo of potatoes, kerosene, some crates of chickens and other stuff and all of this was picked up by the waves and washed overboard. The sailors were thrown about the decks like pieces of timber and on more than one occasion the skipper and his officers feared that the sticks would be yanked out of the boat as she lay over under the heavy strain. The captain hardly knew where his ship was.

On Monday the storm broke and the vessel was able to gradually beat back toward Oahu. She had to come in by the northward on the second attempt, not taking the regular course of sailing vessels.

Captain McPhail is anxiously awaiting the steamer tomorrow as quite an interesting event happened in his family during his present voyage, and an heir to the house of McPhail is expected.

ANOTHER SCHOONER LOST

BLANCHE AND ELLA TOTAL WRECK ON KAULAI.

Dragged Her Anchors Last Saturday Night and Was Driven Ashore by Strong Wind and Sea.

Another of the inland schooners was wrecked by the storm of last week. The little schooner Blanche and Ella is the latest vessel to break her bones on the beach. She now lies a total wreck at Waialua, Kauai. She was driven ashore Saturday night. No lives were lost, her captain and the five members of the crew returning this morning on the schooner Malolo.

The Blanche and Ella left here last Thursday for Waialua with a big load of shingles. She reached Waialua on Friday and went inside the harbor. A big sea began to set in, soon after she dragged her anchors and was unable to do any work, unloading her cargo. The sea continued rough throughout Friday and Saturday and, finally Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock the wind began blowing in shore. Captain Kaaina attempted to get out but the wind was so strong and he could not get a way to remain until after the weather had abated, dangerous as was the anchorage. He put both anchors out. The wind increased in volume and finally about 8 o'clock Saturday night the boat began to drag her anchors.

The minute that the vessel started toward the shore, there was consternation among the five Japanese members of the crew. They rushed to the side of the vessel with the intention of springing into the water. Captain Kaaina remained perfectly cool throughout the danger and stood forward, taking soundings every instant. He ordered the men to remain aboard. Had they jumped overboard they would, in all probability, have been drowned as the sea was running very rough. The men took his advice and remained with the boat until she struck.

The beach is sandy where the schooner struck, but so great was the force of the wind and sea that the vessel began to break up almost instantly after she went aground. Some of her cargo of shingles was washed ashore, but many bundles were broken up and washed away.

The Blanche and Ella was owned by Julius Dudot but was under charter to Henry Macfarlane. She was insured for $1,000 but $1,500 cash had been refused for her only a few days before her departure. The vessel has been on the Waialua run only recently.

HOW TO TREAT A TROUBLESOME CORN.

To remove a troublesome corn or bunion: First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily; rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days, to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by all dealers. The 20 per cent reduction sale of stationery and blank books inaugurated by the Golden Rule Bazaar has proven to be quite a hit. The sale is still on, and remember that 20 cents pays for one dollar's worth of goods at 316 Fort street, one door from King street.

WAS FIRST TO GET AWAY

MALOLO ARRIVES SAFELY FROM KAULAI.

Had to Put Back to Hanalei After Leaving Hanalei Last Week—Weather-bound Fleet Safe.

The first of the vessels which have been weather-bound at Kaulai last week to arrive in Honolulu was the gasoline schooner Malolo. She came in port at an early hour this morning, after one of the roughest experiences in her career. Twice was she forced to seek refuge from the storm along the northern and eastern coasts of Kaulai and not until yesterday morning, would Captain Moki attempt to make Honolulu.

It was last Friday that the weather first became so bad. The Malolo, schooners Lady, Ada and the steamer James Makee were weather-bound together at Hanalei. The Malolo tried to go from Hanalei to Kailihiwai but the weather was so rough that after getting abreast of Kailihiwai, Captain Moki put back to Hanalei as rapidly as possible.

This occurred last Friday. He remained there together with the other vessels until Sunday when he started for Honolulu but when beyond Anahulu Point, again encountered such bad weather that he was forced to put back into Hanalei to save his vessel. From Sunday until yesterday morning, he remained at Hanalei and finally made a second attempt to go to Honolulu, reaching port without further incident.

Captain Moki reports that the wind is very changeable about Hanalei. First it was from the east, then it switched around to the southeast on Saturday and, finally, on Sunday it was north-easterly.

Subsequent reports from Kaulai by the steamer Mikahala, which arrived this morning from Nawiliwili, state that all of the vessels at Hanalei have gotten out safely. The James Makee is loading coal at Kilauea, and the Ada went to Hanalei.

MORE PLEAS OF GUILTY

BICYCLE THIEF GETS HEAVY SENTENCE.

Enoka's Fourth Conviction of Petty Larceny Sends Him Up for Six Months' Hard Labor.

Several more pleas of guilty were made in the First Circuit court this morning, disposing of a number of cases on the long calendar. Tin Soon got a sentence of one year for stealing two bicycles. Judge Humphreys remarked that stealing of bicycles called for serious punishment, as bicycles must necessarily often be left where they are exposed to thieves. Tin Soon pled guilty to two charges and got a year on each, both sentences beginning at once, so that he has really only one year to serve.

Enoka, was found guilty by the jury that was locked up last night. The jurors did not come to an agreement till about 9 o'clock this morning. At 10 o'clock they rendered their verdict and the prisoner was called up for sentence. It appeared that he had had a term in the Reform School when a boy and since then had been convicted three different times of larceny. The judge gave him six months at hard labor, remarking that he hoped that Enoka, after the six months, would realize that he should do his duty as a citizen and honesty's sake, honesty was the best policy anyhow.

In the case of W. K. Rathburn, charged with perjury, Judge Humphreys overruled a plea that the indictment was faulty. Robertson claimed that several different perjuries were recited under the one charge. The court held that this was not improper in a perjury indictment, as the narrative in which the alleged perjury was committed was considered as all one transaction.

William Davis, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, entered a plea of not guilty.

THE SIGHT OF A LIFE TIME.

"If the inhabitants of Hawaii," says Professor Lyons, "will look in the western heavens immediately after sunset for this and the two ensuing evenings, more particularly on the third evening, they will probably be able to witness a rare sight in the appearance of Jupiter, Saturn and Venus in the same field simultaneously, a conjunction of the planets that is not likely to occur twice in the ordinary life time."

WILL NOT PROSECUTE.

Complaint was made to Collector Stackable yesterday that Captain Nilson of the schooner Maria E. Smith had failed to display her side lights between October 15 and October 27, on the recent voyage from Port Gamble. Captain Nilson admitted that such had been the case but said that a mistake had been made in delivering coal oil to the vessel, there being three cases short when the boat left. The facts were laid before United States District Attorney Dunne who has declined to recommend that no prosecution or fine be made. It is said that the report on the third evening, they will probably be able to witness a rare sight in the appearance of Jupiter, Saturn and Venus in the same field simultaneously, a conjunction of the planets that is not likely to occur twice in the ordinary life time."

NEW COURT INTERPRETER

A NEGRO SAILOR OF MANY LANGUAGES.

In Twenty-three Years' Travel He Picks Up Seven Languages—Interpreter for Late.

George MacCauley, a negro sailor who has begun work as an interpreter in the Circuit and United States District Courts, holds a high record as a linguist. He has seven languages at his tongue's end, having picked them up during 23 years of travel about the world.

MacCauley speaks English, Spanish, French, Italian, Portuguese, Norwegian and Swedish and is ready to interpret in any of them. He has appeared before Judge Este as an interpreter of Spanish and applied to Judge Humphreys for similar work in the Circuit Court. There is no appropriation for a salaried Spanish interpreter, the court making a selection for each case when it is necessary to do so. MacCauley has been given a chance when cases come up. He was engaged in the federal court today.

The ex-sailor was born in Matanzas, Cuba, nearly 50 years ago and Spanish was his original tongue. He went to sea as a young man and for 23 years sailed around the world. Parts of languages he picked up from companions at sea, where all sorts of nationalities mingle. He has also lived among people speaking each of the languages he learned. English was the first. "You find that everywhere," said MacCauley and he speaks it with a very pure accent.

MacCauley came here about four months ago from Iquique, Chile.

JAPS DROWNED ON KAULAI

CARRIED AWAY BY SWIFT CURRENTS SUNDAY.

One Lost in Waimea River and Other While Crossing Hanapepe Stream. Body of One Victim Recovered.

Two Japanese were drowned on Kaulai last Sunday. News of the death of the men was brought by Purser Friel of the steamer Mikahala today, which arrived from the Garden Isle. Both drownings were the result of the recent freshets on Kaulai.

On Sunday morning, Fuji attempted to go from Hanapepe across the Hanapepe river to Waimea. The rush of water was too much for him and he was swept away and drowned. His body was not recovered.

The other drowning occurred the same day, but in the Waimea river. Yokoyama was the victim. He was riding a horse across the Waimea river. The current proved too strong and he swept the horse off its feet. The Japanese evidently could not swim and lost his presence of mind, for he soon disappeared under the muddy water. The horse, in the meanwhile, swam across further down the river. The body of the Japanese was found on Sunday on the rocks by the mouth of the river.

Heavy rains are reported all over Kaulai. The weather was so rough at Waimea Sunday, that the Mikahala was not work sugar. The Waialeale was at Hanalei loading iron, and the Ke Au Hou was at Makaweli when the Mikahala left yesterday for Honolulu.

MONEY GOING VERY FAST

FIRST CIRCUIT COURT WILL BE SHORT.

Appropriation Not Nearly Enough to Last With Continuous Sessions and Jury Trials.

The judiciary appropriation, for the First Circuit Court, is melting away very rapidly. Grand juries and large petit juries in session for long periods are eating away the funds at a rate that promises to leave the court without funds before half of the fiscal period is over.

During the four months of the present period the sum of $12,000 has been used up of the appropriation for the First Circuit Court. The legislature appropriated $38,000 for a period of two years. This could be just enough for one year, at the rate of expenditure so far.

What the circuit courts will be able to do when the funds give out is a question hard to answer. There will be no funds available in the treasury for court expenses. "We shall have to stop issuing warrants when the appropriation is exhausted," said Auditor Austin when asked about the matter.

The unusual expenditures have largely been for juries. The recent grand jury was in session five weeks and cost the department quite a sum. There were 19 members at $2 a day each and incidentals that brought the cost of the 37 indictments to not far from $2,000.

A trial jury of 36 men has been in service most of the time lately. This means $78 for every day the jurors appear in court and they appear almost every day, being seldom excused over a whole day. This makes an extended term of 24 days cost $2,600 for trial jurors.

Another cause of the rapid eating up of the appropriation is the fact that the circuit court is in session all the time now. Formerly it held regular terms and had no jurors between terms. Now every term is extended as long as the law allows and each term is followed at once by a special term, so that there are no intervals. In spite of this continuous work, however, and many night sessions, the calendar grows, for the calendar this term is the largest yet.

VALUABLE PIPE STOLEN.

Leong Loi was committed to the Circuit Court today by Judge Wilcox to answer to a charge of larceny in the second degree. Leong is alleged to have stolen a valuable opium pipe from Ah Sin of this city. The pipe is one of the finest pieces of workmanship seen here, being made from compressed lemon rinds, and finished in silver. Deputy Sheriff Fernandez was given the warrant last night and, going to the house of Leong recovered the stolen pipe. Leong was later caught at the Honolulu Sugar Company's mill.

THE BEST METHOD.

The best method of protection yet devised is life insurance. Every man, rich or poor, owes it to himself, his creditors his family some measure of indemnity against loss, in proper proportion to his means, and commensurate with his responsibilities. Life insurance is a necessity, not a luxury. As a charge against income it is quite as legitimate as taxes or fire insurance. Take out a policy in the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society, A. HARBOR LIGHT HIDDEN

COMPLETELY SHUT OFF BY CHANNEL WHARF.
Captains of Vessels Can Not See Harbor Light for Some Distance After Rounding Diamond Head.

The controversy over the anchorage of the transport Kipatrick Saturday night has caused some of the old sailors to speak of an actual danger to the navigation, which they claim exists at the present time. This danger consists in there being no shore light visible to navigators when some distance Wai-kiki of the bell buoy.

So far as the safety of the anchorage of the Kipatrick is concerned the pilots and sailors are unanimous in declaring that Captain Rodgers of the transport chose a perfectly safe and in fact, the very best anchorage which could be found, any where outside of the harbor. It was under the lee of Diamond Head, and protected by the hills. There was a strong trade blowing off shore which if it did anything swung the vessel away from the location of the reef.

That particular place has been the anchorage grounds for all sorts of vessels for many years. In the olden times, the chiefs all dwelt along that section of the beach and not until more recent years did the center of shipping remove to its present locality.

A real danger however, confronts skippers, and especially those unacquainted with this harbor and the various lights shown. Through some accident the elevation of the channel wharf is higher than that of the light house, which is directly opposite it. The result is that, for some distance after rounding the Diamond Head point at night the red shore light is not visible to incoming vessels. In consequence a navigator has to feel his way and take chances on getting along right for a mile or so until he can clear the end of the channel wharf when the red light becomes visible.

The light should be raised sufficiently to be seen by inward bound vessels and, in addition, a stronger lamp should be provided. Sometime a skipper who is not acquainted with this port, may get his vessel onto the reef for lack of the proper light being shown, and then the government will perhaps take some steps to put the light where it can be seen, as was originally intended.

OAHU'S SYSTEM OF DEFENCE.

The Report of the Board of Fortifications.
The Island of Oahu seems likely to fairly bristle with engines of defiance, defence and destruction and may soon be aptly termed the Gibraltar of the Pacific when the recommendations of the military Board of Fortifications which has just completed its work, go into effect.

The work of the two engineer and two artillery officers under Colonel Heuer has been completed under a week by strenuous haste and disregard for weather. The report will go forward to Washington today in the Alameda with Colonel Heuer.

The full details of the scheme of fortifications will only be known upon the disclosure of the Chief of Engineers at Washington, the members of the Board having preserved secrecy as to what they have accomplished.

It is understood that turret batteries will not be recommended but that high power rifles of eight, ten and twelve inch caliber with disappearing carriages and low strong fortifications will be adopted. One or two sixteen inch rifles placed in barbette behind armored shields may be placed on one or two commanding points.

The chain of fortifications will see guns placed at Waialae, Diamond Head, the harbor mouth, Pearl Harbor and Waianae. The windward side of the island has natural defences of its own while the only pass over the Paik can be easily defended against a flank attack. The proposed site for the army post at Kahauiki is likely to be abandoned as a too palpable target and it is believed the Board have recommended a site nearer the beach.

A VILLAGE BLACKSMITH SAVED HIS LITTLE SON'S LIFE.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan Co., N. Y. says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so had have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all dealers. Geo. Smith & Co., general agents, Hawaiian Islands.

How is your Wind?

If you are short of breath; if your heart flutters or palpitates; if you have pain in left side or in chest; if your pulse is irregular, or you have choking sensations, weak or hungry spells, fainting or sinking spells, remember, Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is especially adapted to remove just that class of disorders. It is a heart and blood tonic which strengthens the heart, purifies the blood and gives new life to the weak and weary.

The man who comes to his work in the morning with a headache, who suffers all day from dullness, drowsiness or nervousness, or who tosses restlessly through a sleepless night should seek the quieting, power-producing help of Dr. Miles' Nervine. "A few minutes' work would make me so nervous and exhausted that I trembled and could hardly stand alone; but after using Dr. Miles' Nervine for six weeks I could work full time and felt hearty and strong."

PAIN FILES AN ANSWER

THE MULE-CARS A CONVENIENCE TOO.

Denies That He Ever Agreed to Abide by Supreme Court Decision—Declares the Decision Void.

The Hawaiian Tramways Company yesterday filed a replication to the answer of the Rapid Transit Company, in the injunction suit in the United States District Court to stop the electric line extension on King street.

Pain denies the statement of Manager Hallentyne of the Rapid Transit that he did not act in good faith in bringing the injunction proceeding, and denies that he entered into an agreement to submit the question of the rights of the electric road to lay tracks on King street to the Supreme Court, and abide by its decision.

Pain denies that there ever was any decision by the Supreme Court, declaring that the pretended submission was wholly void and that the decision and judgment were wholly without any authority in law. The Tramways manager insists that he has always opposed in every way the efforts of the Rapid Transit Company to use King street, and has never in any way acquiesced in its using the road, nor neglected to take all possible steps to secure its exclusive right to the road.

In conclusion Pain avers that as far as the matter of public convenience is concerned, his mule line also can make claims. He says: "Affiant further shows that all of said alleged 'showing' descriptive of the 'great public convenience and necessity' of respondent's railway is equally true of petitioner's railway."

Of the several clever plays on the pen of Oscar Wilde, the one universally admitted to be his cleverest is "An Ideal Husband" in which James Neil and company will be seen here at the opera house next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Neil will be seen as Lord Goring. The role has a delicate fantastic charm and clever dandyism.

WORLD'S COINAGE OF GOLD.

A table prepared by the director of the mint shows that the coinage of gold for the world during the last calendar year was $254,936,497, a decrease from $466,110,414 for the preceding year.

The coinage of silver was $177,011,902, an increase over the preceding year of $10,664,938. The coinage of gold and silver for the principal countries for the years 1899 and 1900 was as follows:

Gold. 1899. 1900. United States.....$111,344,220 $99,272,943 Great Britain.... 43,852,085 63,759,609

Russia..... 192,481,077 83,221,525 Germany..... 33,438,455 34,680,396 Silver. 1899. 1900.

United States....$ 26,061,520 $36,345,321 Great Britain.... 7,810,885 10,107,818

THE LAUGH WAS ON HIM.

Ex-Attorney General Miller recently told this story, which is thoroughly enjoyed by the narrator.

"When President Harrison invited me to become a member of his cabinet," he said, "I determined to visit by boyhood home in Indiana before going to Washington. I had not been in the town for twenty years. At the railroad station I was met by the village blacksmith, who knew me when I was a boy. He greeted me as if I had felt the town only the day before. On the way to the hotel in his ramshackle 'deep-sea goin' hack I said:

"Well, William, what has happened since I have been here?" "Nothin'," he replied.

"William," I continued, "I've been chosen a member of the President's cabinet. What do the neighbors say to that?"

"Nothin'," he answered, "they just laugh."—New York Times.

MINING IN CALIFORNIA.

In the fifty-two years that have elapsed since gold was first discovered in California, in "forty-eight," the output of the mines has reached the enormous total of something over a billion dollars; to be exact, the amount is $1,350,000,000.

The largest yearly production was made in 1852, when the placers were at the height of their glory, the amount being $81,294,700.

The old placer mines of the early days have long since disappeared, and the crude methods at first in use have been replaced by thoroughly modern skill and appliances.

The surface workings of fifty years back have been followed by scientific mining in the deep levels. Never before have California's mines been so favorably regarded or so active as they are today, and while the output of the gold alone has not advanced, the production of other minerals has made such strides ahead that the outlook is most assuring.

With the aid of science and perfected appliances, the mines today in California are doing more and better than ever before in the eventful history of that state.—Mining and Metallurgy.

A FAKE NORTH POLE.

A fake discovery of the north pole is not among the impossibilities. Some day an unsuccessful explorer may return from the Arctic regions and report that he reached the pole, and give a lot of bogus data in support of his pretensions.

If such a piece of deception were done skillfully it might be years, possibly centuries, before the fraud was exposed. If one of the earliest explorers, for example, had pursued this dishonest course the world today would not know that he was an impostor, but would be honoring him as one of the greatest of discoverers.—Kansas City Journal.

PERMANENT STATISTICS.

With the approach of the congressional session attention is being directed to a variety of matters about which interest has for some time past been allowed to slumber. Among these is the project of establishing a permanent census bureau. This is a plan which comes up for discussion periodically, the interest in it being most keenly felt when the strain of the work of census-taking is on. Whether it is likely to have an attentive hearing at the next session remains to be seen.

Of the advantages to be derived from the concentration of the government's statistical work and the creation of a permanent bureau to handle such work we have repeatedly spoken. It is not necessary that it should be called a census bureau; perhaps it would be better to designate it a statistical bureau pure and simple and give it charge of the census work, as well as of all other branches of statistical labor.

Some such arrangement, it is likely, will have to be made ultimately, and would certainly seem to promise the advantages of continuity and economy of effort, as well as those to be derived from the employment of trained skill in statistics.

JAPAN'S MISSION.

An interesting view of the mission of Japan in the immediate future of the far East was presented at a dinner in New York by one of the most notable public men of the time. This is the Marquis Ito, to whose efforts the introduction of constitutional parliamentary government in the empire of the Mikado is mainly attributed. He pointed out that what may be called the new Eastern question springs out of the contact of two diametrically opposed civilizations, not the transient contact of conflicting rulers and armies, but the ever increasingly dense contact of millions with millions in their daily life.

The Japanese, in his view, are the only people in the Orient who can fully understand the import and significance of the two civilizations. It is the mission of Japan, he says, to play a role in the maintenance of the future peace of the Orient and to take the part of "honest broker" in the coming contact of diametrically opposed cultures.

How Japan has been qualifying herself to play this part was indicated by some figures showing the development of the country in the last decade or so. The railway mileage considerably more than tripled in the ten years ending in 1899, the telegrams more than quadrupled and the telephone wires increased from 399 miles to over 18,000 miles in the same period, while the foreign commerce of the country increased to over three times what it was at the beginning of the period. There can be no doubt that Japan is the leader of Asiatic civilization, and that it has it within its power to play a weighty role in the world politics of the future.

OLD BATTLE ABBEY.

Patriotic Englishmen are so afraid that should classic old "Battle Abbey" be sold at auction in November, according to its present owner's intention, some rich American will bid it in that the plan of raising a national fund with which to buy and present it to the country has met with general favor, and it is now reported that definite steps to carry out the scheme will be taken by the Sussex Archaeological Society.

The stately old monastery, which William the Conqueror built to commemorate his victory at Hastings, was for years the property of Lord Rosebery's mother, the Duchess of Cleveland. The duchess always took a special pride in the old abbey, and did all she could by means of repairs to save such of it as was not already in ruins. After the death of the duchess Captain Forester inherited the estate, and it is he who now offers it for sale.

Having been built in 1067, almost immediately after the Conqueror's overthrow of the Saxon king, Battle Abbey is of course, one of the oldest historical relics in Great Britain, and the parts of it that are still standing are among the finest specimens of Norman architecture now existing. The abbey stands on the same high eminence, about six miles from Hastings, where the English king planted his standard, while the high altar is supposed to occupy the exact spot where Harold fell with an arrow through his skull. Six thousand acres round about were set apart by William as the abbey grounds, and a contingent of Benedictine monks was brought over from France to live in it. It was christened "Battle Abbey," and made the repository of the Conqueror's sword and of the famous roll of his barons.

Henry VIII, during the time when he was ousting the church everywhere and presenting its property to his favorites, gave Battle Abbey to one Gilmer, who, after maltreating it in attempts at improvement, sold the stately building to Sir Anthony Brown, the king's master of horse, whose family occupied it for years thereafter. Legend says that while old Sir Anthony was holding a sort of house-warming in the former dining hall of the Abbot there appeared to him the specter of a monk which promised that through fire and water his line should perish, and sure enough several members of the Montague family lost their lives through fires which broke out mysteriously in the old building, and several more in a terrible hoisting accident which took place in 1613.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

It is said the Home Rulers will tonight wrestle with the question of whether their party name shall be the Independent Home Rule Party or the Independent Home Rule Republican Party. The important thing, what the party signifies, seems to be entirely overlooked. Adding the word Republican to the Home Rule party's name will not make it the Republican party, nor will it even deceive any person into believing it is the Republican party. No changing party can be recognized by anybody, and the only republicans are those who believe in the principles of the Republican party and act with it. There is room and welcome in the Republican party for every voter in the Territory of Hawaii. But there can't be two Republican parties here, especially when one of them repudiates essential Republican doctrine. Adding the word Republican to the name of the Home Rule party will still leave that party where it has placed itself, essentially reactionary in character.

The Literary Digest gives a list of forty-two industrial stocks dealt in in the New York market whose recent prices are from $2 to $40 a share lower than the highest prices of 1901.

Prof. Lyons calls attention to an astronomical sight which, if it is clear may be seen for two or three evening now, but which will never probably be seen again in a lifetime. The planets Jupiter, Saturn and Venus are all close together in the western sky and can be seen right after the sun goes down.

The New York campaign may be fairly supposed to have gone in favor of Seth Low, with Tammany beaten, practically all along the line. Tammany, however, is too strong to remain beaten. It may be improved and purified for a time, but it will come up smiling at the next political fight.

That bright little magazine the Philistine has some remarks upon Presidential hand shaking which are reproduced in another column. Hand shaking indiscriminately is a barbarous custom. After Admiral Dewey's reception in New York, his right hand was so maimed that it was several days before he could use it again.

The municipal campaign in New York city seems to have become national in the ground over which it is being fought. The fusionists seem to have captured about everything outside of New York, but Tammany confines its operations to the municipality. The fight against Tammany has lasted longer than the Boer war or the Philippine insurrection is likely to do. The reformers have always been able to convince everybody except a majority of the voters of New York that Tammany is a very dangerous organization.

The suggestion for a McKinley Memorial Flower Market made by James Steiner through the columns of The Star seems to have aroused considerable interest and response. There is much in the suggestion and doubtless the Memorial committee will thoroughly consider it. There is no city in the world which has a flower market which is not proud of it, and which does not attach considerable sentiment to it. The early morning flower market in Union Square New York attracts thousands of visitors to the metropolis. And the flower vendors at the corner of Geary, Market and Kearney streets, San Francisco, are one of the attractive sights of that city.

Pain's tramway drivers need something more than uniforms to make them fit for the service they are paid or underpaid to perform. Many of them need to be taught that it is not necessary for them to spend their time leaning back in the car at lady passengers, and that they would be much more useful to their employer, and more satisfactory to patrons if they were on the alert to see the signals of intending passengers. Unless people are out in the middle of the street many of the drivers never see or hear a signal to stop. A signal from the sidewalk is as unnoticed as the ordinary rules that usually govern such employment.

Dr. Willis L. Moore head of the Weather Bureau says of the cold-wave warnings of the bureau which sometimes despatches 100,000 telegrams for this purpose in a few hours:

"What this means to the farmer and shipper is well illustrated by the fact that we gathered from those personally interested statements relative to the sweep of one cold wave, which showed that over $3,400,000 worth of property that would have been destroyed by the low temperatures was saved. To be sure, sometimes the surging of the great air eddies which constitute our rain-storms and cold waves—one the low-pressure eddy and the other the high-pressure eddy—deflects the course of the storm or minimizes the degree of cold, and the warnings may partially or wholly fail of verification; but in these important atmospheric disturbances the warnings are justified in such a large proportion of cases that those whose property is at stake do not longer question the utility of the government service."

We are going to do all we can to make it pleasant for you.
You may feel poor, from the fact that your income has been somewhat reduced, owing to the non receipt of your sugar dividends.

However, you will make your usual holiday gifts, and perhaps a few more, than you did last year.

No doubt you will be more judicious in your selections but your friends and yourself will enjoy Christmas just as much as ever.

Our stock of goods is arriving daily, and the assortment will be better than ever.

We are making some changes in the arrangement of our store, which will interest you, and the many novel articles that will be displayed, will surprise you.

We will announce, in a few days, when we will be ready for your inspection.

KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR

FIRST FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE NEW LINE.

Manuel Peter was Thrown in Front of Electric Car on Liliha Street Yesterday and Killed.

The first tragedy of the new trolley cars occurred yesterday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock on Liliha street near Wylie just makai of the Aho residence.
Manuel Peter, a Portuguese youth about 16 years of age, was instantly killed by Car No. 4 of the Liliha street extension line. So far as the authorities have been able to ascertain, the tragedy was not due to any fault of either the boy or the motorman, but to a fractious horse which Peter was riding, just before he was thrown in front of the car.

In company with George Holt and Kapena, another native, young Peter was riding horseback toward Honolulu.
He was employed as a cowboy, driving stock from the various steamers through the city. Car No. 4, of which Motorman Cooke was in charge, approached from the rear. The motorman noticed that the horse, on which Peter was riding, seemed rather fractious, so slowed down the car almost to a standstill. Holt and the horse turned their horses to the left of the car track while the horse, which carried Peter, jumped across the road into the ditch by the side of the track. As soon as Peter appeared to have quieted the animal and gotten it under control, Cooke started on the car and by the time it came up with the horse and rider, the car was going very rapidly.

The horse became frightened again and began backing toward the track as the animal heard the car approaching.
The horse fell in front of the car and the rider was thrown on the track. One of the legs of the horse got caught under the fender, causing that leg to be raised to such a height, that it passed over the body of Peter and permitted the front wheel of the car, as well to pass over the young man's body.

Peter does not appear to have made any effort to save himself, but fell and it is thought from this fact, that his head must have struck against the ground or else the horse kicked him in the head and rendered him unconscious. Peter's skull was fractured on the right side and it is likely that either of these causes produced that injury.
The wheel of the car simply ground the trunk of the helpless youth, into a mass of broken bones and torn flesh. The body was nearly severed. Practically every rib was broken, the spinal column was cut in two besides and other injuries were inflicted. Death was instantaneous. It is more than likely that the fractured skull rendered the young man unconscious before the car hit him.

The car had to be raised from the body with the aid of jack-screws. An investigation by the police satisfied High Sheriff Brown that the affair was an accident and as all of the statements of bystanders went to exonerate the motorman, Cooke was not taken into custody.

The deceased was a son of Manuel Peter who is employed in one of the Irwin warehouses, and they resided on School street. A coroner's jury was summoned and will hold an inquest tonight at 7 o'clock. Dr. McDonald performed the autopsy.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB MEET.

At a meeting of the members of the Social Science Club last Monday evening at the residence of P. C. Pones, Judge Frear gave an interesting account of the Yale-Bicentennial which he attended and at which he was treated with marked honors. In connection with the influence of Yale upon ecclesiastical and missionary affairs, the Hawaiian Islands were especially introduced by the Theological branch of the University and the names of Justice Judd and the Rev. Hiram Bingham particularly mentioned.

BUY RUSSIAN TRAMWAYS

AN AMERICAN SYNDICATE IN ST.
PETERSBURG.

Offers to Take the Entire System of the Russian Capital and Completely Electrify and Modernize it.

The offer of Murray A. Varner, of Pittsburg, Pa., to buy all the municipal and private street railways of St.
Petersburg, introduce electric traction and construct a complete system of electrical tramways, has been received very favorably by the St. Petersburg press. The municipal council has been discussing the matter for several years, but Mr. Varner's offer is the first genuine step towards the introduction of electricity. The city owns three lines and a number of other lines are owned and operated by private companies.
The city has begun legal proceedings against these companies with a view to unifying all the surface traction companies, and Mr. Varner's offer stipulates that the city shall turn the private lines over to him when the matter has been litigated.

Mr. Varner's offer is regarded by the press as straightforward, businesslike and fair. It is too early to predict, since many cooks help to make broth in this city, but the municipal council was approved until Mr. Varner, who had been to St. Petersburg three times within four years, had carefully studied the whole problem from a financial and technical point of view, and W. A. Haydecker, the American vice-consul, had sounded various authorities about the matter.

Mr. Varner's proposal is, briefly stated, to organize a company under the laws of Russia, with a capital stock of 50,000,000 roubles and the right to issue bonds to the same amount. He states that he and his friends can supply the money. He would agree to complete the transformation of all existing lines into electrical lines within four years from the date of the franchise, and would so arrange the traffic that no needless change of cars would take place in going to and from the center of the city.

He would employ girder rails weighing ninety-six pounds (English) to the linear yard, except in the suburbs, where eighty-pound rails would be used. Overhead trolley wires would be used, but insulated copper feed wire would be carried in conduits. Double-deck cars would be abolished and replaced by trains with three separate classes. The platform of the winter cars will be enclosed. Bridges will be widened and strengthened, where nec-

HIS WARDROBE.

A local contractor had a faithful Mileman working for him for several years. A few weeks ago the employe announced his intention to pay a visit to a brother in the west. He was to be gone a month, and the contractor, being a good natured fellow, purchased a ves-tial for "Tim." The night "Tim" was to quit the vestial was presented to him with a few kind words "Tim" looked rather surprised for a moment and then asked: "And what am I to do with
that?"

"Why, put your clothes in it when you go away," answered the boss.
"Put me clothes in it?" said "Tim"
with a few kind words "Tim" looked
rather surprised for a moment and then asked: "And what am I to do with
that?"

Explanations were considered unnecessary.—Albany Journal.

enary, at the company's expense and the company offers to assume the burden of building a stone or steel bridge across the Nova, near the palace, to replace the present wooden structure, the cost of the bridge to be deducted from the annual compensation payments. This is a point of great importance to the city, which is considering the issue of bonds for this purpose.
It is stipulated that Russian engineers and workmen shall be employed as far as available.

The compensation stipulates the immediate payment by the company of the actual cash value of the inventory of the existing lines, the payment to the city, during four years, of the previous revenue of the various lines and the payment annually thereafter of a percentage of the gross receipts to be agreed upon by mutual consent.

The municipality shall enjoy the right of purchase at the end of twenty-five years, again after a lapse of an equal period, and thereafter every ten years.
Bonds shall be paid for at par, and the net earning capacity of the shares shall be capitalized for purposes of purchase.
The municipal lines have not been paying satisfactorily, owing, presumably, to increased cost of operation.

THE DRAMA.

Augustin Daly's comedies were written to be played by a strong and well trained company and to provoke laughter. Both conditions were met in last night's performance of the "Lottery of Love" by the Neill Company at the Hawaiian Opera House. From the rising of the curtain for the first act until it went down on the last, the well filled house was in a roar of laughter.

The plot of the play is so improbable that there is no deterrent to mirth in any effort to reconcile it with reality.
But the plot being granted, the incidents arise out of it with a naturalness almost amounting to spontaneity.
The man who had certainly done all that a man could be expected to do to escape a mother-in-law, had a part which might easily be overdone, and except in the hands of a very capable man would certainly be worse than done. But Mr. Neill made "Adolphus Doubledot" a most mirth provoking character. Whatever the situation he turned it to good account.

Miss Edith Chapman as "Diana" the repressed, obedient daughter of the baron's mother-in-law had little to do in the action and on that account it was harder to do it, but it was done well. In the epilogue she gave one of the daintiest pieces of recitation heard from this stage in a long while.

Lillian Andrews as "Mrs. Zenobia Sherramy" the terrible mother-in-law, was irresistibly funny. Laughter never ceased while she was on the stage. John W. Burton as "Benjamin Buttercorn" who "wanted to see things" portrayed a consistent and delightful character.
Frank Mac Vicars as "Captain Sam Herriman" was a delightful old breezy and characteristic. Robert Morris as "Tom Dangerous" played acceptably. Louise Brownell as "Jo" and Mary Elizabeth Forbes as "Ann Crawell" were pleasing. The other characters were Scott Seaton as "David," Arthur Crawell as "Rory" and E. Gardner-Jones as "Grass."

"Rosemary" will be the next play presented, Thursday evening.

"ROSEMARY."

"Rosemary" in which James Neill and supporting company will be seen here at the opera house tomorrow evening is one of the sweetest love stories running throughout the play that ever came from the pen of a playwright.
The story opens in England in the year 1838, with the elopement of pretty "Dorothy Crickshank" and "William Earwood." They come to grief over the start of their flight and are rescued from an uncomfortable situation by "Sir Jasper Thornbyke," a kindly squire of 40 years, who houses them for the night. The angry parents arrive soon after in hot pursuit, and are also taken care of by "Sir Jasper," who acts as peacemaker and afterward takes all the parties concerned off to London to view the coronation of Queen Victoria. The elderly squire falls in love with "Dorothy," and the latter returns it, but only as the love of a child for a father. It is during the hopelessness of his affection, but in order to cherish her memory he buys the house they have occupied during the ceremonies as a sacred shrine to return to on every anniversary of this occasion. The final act shows "Sir Jasper" a towering old man of 90 years, returning for the last time to his shrine.
Mr. Neill will play the part of "Sir Jasper."

WASTING THEIR BREATH.

PIERPONT'S PERSIAN RUG.

rarest of its kind in existence. The feet, was made of Persian silk in Ta-briz, Persia, and was woven by Mohammedan friars 150 years ago for a shah. It took 16 years to weave the rug.

LEHUA IN SONG AND STORY

SUGGESTED AS HAWAII'S EM- BLEM LONG AGO.

Mrs. Frances Sinclair Many Years Since Beautifully Described it and Pointed Out Its Fitness.

A correspondent who has become interested in the suggestion of a floral emblem for the Territory of Hawaii, calls attention to the following in Mrs.
Frances Sinclair's "Indigenous Plants of the Hawaiian Islands." This work was written a number of years ago, but the aptness of Mrs. Sinclair's description of the Lehua and her suggestion of it as an appropriate emblem is very striking in the present discussion.
Mrs. Sinclair describes it as the Lehua and sometimes as the Ohia-lehua, and gives the botanical name as Metro-sideros Polymorpha.

Of the flower, she says:

"Perhaps there is more graceful song and story connected with the Lehua than with any other Hawaiian flower. It is so well known, and so striking a feature in the landscape when in full bloom, that it is naturally a favorite with all classes; and is always spoken of with that sort of tenderness with which a Scotchman speaks of heather.
If any particular flower were to be taken as an emblem of the Hawaiian Islands, the Lehua would be most universally chosen, and none would more deserve the honor. It grows to all sizes, from the handsome shrub of fifteen feet high, to the forest tree of a hundred.
On the high table land of Kaula, about 4000 feet above the sea, a great deal of the Lehua is merely a low shrub a few feet in height, but by no means less beautiful than in the lower country. Indeed, the flowers seem to increase in brilliancy in proportion as they are found above the sea level. There are several varieties of the Lehua. A few are found almost white or pale yellow. In spring many of the young leaves are of bright orange scarlet. These leaves, and afterwards the blossoms, contrast beautifully with the dark evergreen background. The blossoms are long and honey, which is the favorite food of the lovely "lookele" a small bird with brilliant scarlet plumage. Few sights in the Hawaiian Islands realize one's dreams of the tropics so fully, as a Lehua tree in full bloom, with olokeles flitting from flower to flower, the birds only distinguishable from the blossoms by their quick graceful movements."

VEGETABLE BUTTER.

Is the cow to be altogether eliminated from the dairy? The British consul general at Marseilles hears that "a new fat substance, for consumption in the United Kingdom, to take the place of butter, is being put on the British market. It is called vegetable, and is nothing else than the oil extracted from copra (dried coconuts), refined, and with all small and taste neutralized by a patented process. It becomes like sweet lard, and is intended to compete with margarine on the breakfast table as a substitute for butter." A Liverpool firm, we are told, will this year help in an effort to popularize the stuff.
—London Telegraph.

LIBRARIES FOR COAL MINERS.

A circulating library is being put in at Rockvale, a short distance southwest of Florence, by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. It will be started with 100 selected volumes, and Prof. Wilson will have charge. This is for the benefit of the miners, and if the system proves a success the library will be augmented by doubling the number of volumes. At the coal camps in the outlying districts the employes of the company have not the opportunity of securing an education as is afforded in the cities, and at Rockvale about fifty boys between the ages of eight and fifteen years are being employed. Courses of lectures on mining and the care of sick and injured will be delivered during the winter. The company has installed these libraries in several of its other camps and they have proved of benefit to the miners.—

NICKNAMES IN AUSTRALIA.

Although the Australian colonies have now been linked together in a commonwealth, it is not probable that the nicknames bestowed by one province on another will be abandoned.
The inhabitants of New South Wales have long been known as "cornstalks," an allusion to the length and slenderness of the average young New South Wales native. "Victorians" are known as "gunsmen" with reference to the gum that is found on many native trees, some of which is relished by the juveniles. "Croweaters," as applied to the South Australians, owes its origin to a statement that in times of drought the wheat farmers of South Australia are driven to the source suggested for food. "Wheatfielders" is a more euphonious name sometimes used for the same province. The Queenslanders are known as "banana landers" that tropical fruit growing there abundantly. Western Australians are known in the east as "sand lophors" and "The Wandralans" themselves group all the other states into "other siders" and call the residents "other siders." Tasmania, the green little island that is much like England in climate and other characteristics, is generally regarded as very quiet, as "the land of lots of time," "the land of the sleepers," and so on, while the inhabitants are called "Tasmiens" and "jam eaters," the latter being an allusion to the great fruit production of the "tight little island."—Leisure Hours.

Like the flight of the swiftest bird is the progress of a hacking cough into consumption. First a cold, then a settled cough, then slow fever, night sweats, and hemorrhages. Don't neglect your cough. Stop it at once and drive away all thought of consumption. Begin as early as possible—the sooner the better—to take the most effective remedy for coughs of every kind and in every stage. One of the most annoying coughs is a throat cough, where you have that constant tickling in your throat. It comes on worse at night, keeps you awake, and makes you have that smothered feeling in the chest. It hardly seems possible that one dose of Cherry Pectoral will do for this kind of a cough, it brings such marked relief.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

DOUBLED GOLD OF COCOS SOLD PAPERS IN COURT

MORE EXPEDITIONS TO SEARCH FOR IT. FOUR SMALL BOYS ARE HAULED UP.

One Man Claims to Have a License from Costa Rica to Search for This Fabled Treasure.

VICTORIA, November 1.—Captain Hackett, who commanded the Aurora expedition to Cocos Island in search of alleged buried treasure, and who is to command the expedition which his company is organizing, has received a letter from August Giesler, of Stockton, Cal., who claims to have a license given by the Costa Rican government to hunt for the treasure, in which Giesler says that the schooner to be sent from Victoria will be met by a Costa Rican gun boat. Giesler signs himself as governor of Cocos Island, and the letter is dated from San Francisco. Captain Hackett handed the letter to A. R. Milne, collector of customs, who said that he would give the schooner a clearance to the island and as Great Britain did not recognize any sovereignty over it, which was shown by the fact that a British cruiser had been allowed to go and her crew to search for the treasure.

The letter was sent to Admiral Bickford, but no answer has yet been received from him. The company in Victoria business men are interested, has not by any means given up their idea and several secret tests of the instrument, which, it is alleged, will find gold and silver, have been made, and so far with success.

A little bag containing $120 in gold and a number of gold watches and chains was buried in the center of a cluster of brush, and those with the instruments which were attracted by the buried gold discovered the hiding place and unearthed the cached watches and coin. One of the instruments used is like a whip, with tips which are attracted to gold or silver, and when this instrument has pointed out the direction of the cache the other instrument, which has two bent sticks for handles, finds the exact location, but only when the man holding this instrument in his hands is standing on the spot where the gold is hidden does the attraction indicate that the spot has been found.

By means of these two instruments the treasure was found within a short time.

Doubtless a majority of the British people will feel that the incident marks the beginning of a better era in the affairs of government.—Chicago News. The common sense of justice will not sustain such acts.—St. Paul Globe. He is not entitled to much sympathy as he brought this action upon himself.—Butte Miner.

The good queen is dead. The war goes on and Buller disappears beneath the waters of oblivion, shipwrecked by a small so petty that no one knows what caused it.—San Francisco Call.

As commander of the forces in Ireland and was broad-minded and pacific. But the speech for which the war office has deprived him of his command was frightfully egotistical and unsoldierly.—Buffalo Express.

Buller, under Roberts, showed himself a good fighter in the second advance for the relief of Ladysmith, but his success in relieving that point was marred by his failure to pursue closely the retreating Boers.—Minneapolis Journal.

He might have kept his place if he had held his tongue, but he persisted in talking, and in talking after such a fashion that he betrayed a contemptible lack of self-poise and a wretched weakness of character.—Chicago Record-Herald.

It is easy to be wise after the event. What Gen. Buller's rabid critics forget is that justice requires that he be judged in the light not of present knowledge of the Boer resources and military strategy, but of the misinformation which was accepted at the time.—Chicago Post.

The removal of Gen. Buller from command of the First army corps, because of his unfortunate after-dinner speech in which he undertook to reply to his critics, will hardly strengthen the position of the war office with the British people, but it may prove effective from the standpoint of discipline.—Denver Republican.

STRANGE PLACE.

An osprey, a species of the eagle family, was found at the base of a 135 foot flue at Hotel Reynolds in Boston, the other day. The bird measures from the tip of one wing to the tip of the other about five feet, and the flue it went into is about three feet in diameter. This kind of a bird is rarely found inland. It probably lost its sea compass and lighted upon the edge of the top of the Reynolds hotel. It is in the city, where there is no footing for such a heavy body. The osprey is a dangerous bird, and will show great fight if a person is so unfortunate as to come within reach of its long claws. When they do get live prey within their grasp it is likely to be killed, for the reason that they imbed their claws into the flesh and the longer they have a hold the tighter becomes their grip. This one will probably be killed and stuffed.

GOLD IN PHILIPPINES.

Walter Wellman makes the prediction that a great gold rush to the Philippines will soon be witnessed. It is in the island of Mindanao that the gold is found, and Mr. Wellman states that returning army officers declare there can be no doubt that it will become the seat of a great mining industry.

It was gold that brought the Spaniards into the western world and it was gold that drew Americans across the continent to settle every available spot between Kansas and the Pacific ocean. If there is gold in the Philippines in paying quantities there will be an army of prospectors to invade the islands, and these will contribute powerfully toward the development of every business adapted to the conditions prevailing there.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Judge Humphreys Tells Them to Keep Away from the Court Room—Proceedings Yesterday.

Four small newsboys stood in a row before Judge Humphreys yesterday afternoon, one of them weeping and all of them trembling with fright. They had been selling papers in the corridors of the building and around the courts, when the bailiffs suddenly swooped down upon them and dragged them into court. Hopkins got hold of two and though they struggled hard to run from him, he held them both and stood them up before the bench.

In the minds of the kids such a proceeding could mean nothing less than that they were to be bundled off to jail, but the tears dried up a moment later. "There's no need to be frightened, the court is not going to do anything to you," began the judge, "but it wants to caution you not to disturb the proceedings by coming in the doorway of the court to sell papers. Several times this afternoon you have disturbed the court in the trial of a case. You have a perfect right to sell newspapers in the building and the court commends you for working hard, but don't disturb the court. You may go now."

The boys left the court room and the building too. They did not stop to sell papers in the corridor, but made for the exit at King street. There they held a caucus, in which three of them pointed the finger of scorn and threw many taunts at the fourth one, who had cried as he stood before the judge.

Judge Gear denied the motion of T. McCants Stewart, in behalf of William Davis, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for assault with a weapon that he be allowed to see the minutes of the Grand Jury on the case. Stewart wanted to show that the indictment had been brought without sufficient evidence. The court held that the privilege of seeing Grand Jury minutes could only be allowed under extraordinary circumstances, when the interests of justice demanded it, and that such circumstances were not present in the case of Davis.

The Supreme court yesterday heard argument on the appeal of Corrine Bartlett, from an order of the Circuit court denying her a divorce from W. S. Bartlett. The lower court held that the alleged cruelty, which consisted in the husband charging his wife with adultery, was not cruelty. Attorney Biglow argued that great mental suffering was caused by the accusations, which constituted cruelty as real as that of physical assaults. No appearance was made for the defendant.

HANDY'S QUESTION.

Deputy United States Marshal Handy asked Larry Dee and some others a question the other day, which he said he had been required to answer. It was as follows: "If two diametrical circles with octagonal peripheries should collide with a centrifugal idiosyncrasy, or to put it plainer we will say a disenfranchised nonentity, what effect would the catastrophe exert on a crystallized codfish suspended by the tail from the homogeneous rafter of the empyrean?"

NO SYMPATHY WITH PREJUDICE. The President has absolutely no sympathy with the prejudice against color. He has shown this on two occasions. MRS. VIDA CHARGES FRAUD

GRAY'S PURCHASE IN CALIFORNIA SALOON.

The Former Owner Brings Suit and Secures an Injunction to Prevent Another Transfer.

Mrs. Kate L. Vida yesterday began suit against Charles B. Gray, charging him with fraud in purchasing from her a half interest in the California saloon, and asking that the court nullify the agreement by which it was sold to Gray. Judge Humphreys granted a temporary injunction to restrain Gray from disposing of his half interest during the pendency of the suit.

Mrs. Vida alleges that on August 15 last Gray represented to her that he was a person of large means and would in a few days be in receipt of a sum of money exceeding $5,000, with which he could take up a note for that sum, to be accepted by plaintiff in payment for the half interest in the saloon. On those representations she agreed to take the note, and half interest in the saloon was turned over. Mrs. Vida alleges as follows:

"That at the time aforesaid said Charles B. Gray had not and has not now, and ever since has not had any money, resources, credit, property, or moneys whatever, and has and still is utterly unable to pay either of said notes and has not paid the notes, though requested so to do by your petitioner.

"And your petitioner further shows that said Charles B. Gray now refuses to pay said two thousand dollar note, or any part thereof, or to give your petitioned any mortgage, lien or pledge on the property so transferred to him as security for the payment of the same or to reconvey said property to your petitioner or to give any satisfaction whatsoever.

"Your petitioner further shows that said Charles B. Gray is wholly insolvent and irresponsible, and unable to respond in damages in any sum whatever, and that your petitioner is without remedy at law.

"And your petitioner further shows that since the 15th day of August, 1903, the defendant herein in disregard and in fraud of the rights of your petitioner, has received in cash from sales of portions of the property conveyed to him as aforesaid the sum of about four hundred dollars, all of which he has appropriated and retained to his own use and refused and still refuses to pay over to your petitioner the same or any part thereof, except the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars paid by him to petitioner as two month's interest on said two notes.

"Your petitioner further shows that unless prevented by injunction there is danger that said Charles B. Gray may dispose of said property to an innocent purchaser and decamp with the proceeds or appropriate the same to his own use."

Mrs. Vida asks that the contract of sale be rescinded and offers to return Gray's notes to him.

MYSTERIOUS PRINCE COMING.

He Describes Himself as Ranji of Beluchistan.

LONDON, October 26.—Prince Ranji of Beluchistan, who to an unusual extent has succeeded in exciting and hating London's curiosity, and who is variously described as an Indian potentate and a prince of Siam, sailed October 24 from Liverpool for Montreal on the steamer Lake Simcoe, whence he is going to New York, accompanied by a suite, including a military band and persons. He lived a fortnight in all the splendor of Oriental opulence at a fashionable London hotel, where he had dropped in unannounced an unconcern-edly engaged twenty-three rooms. In spite of the publicity which such an arrival was bound to create, he has left England as much in the dark as to his identity as when he arrived. The Indian office has issued an official announcement that there is no such Indian chief as "Prince Ranji of Beluchistan," but neither condemns the mysterious stranger nor clears up his identity, as Ranji is palpably an assumed name. When interviewed in London, where he by no means courted publicity, Prince Ranji declined to say from whence he came, but he once ordinally remarked, "I am a king."

Whether he is or is not a king, he certainly lived like one, spending about a month's worth of money. The retinue which sailed with him included musicians who produced from weird instruments still more weird sounds. A dancing girl formed a prominent part of the daily entertainments which the suite provided for their master, who spent most of his time in bed. He is a man of fine physique, dark skinned and handsome. All his food was prepared in accordance with the strictest Oriental usages by his own servants, who wore gorgeous robes and were nightly marshaled by a major domo for exercise in an adjoining park.

This mysterious party, it is said, will make a tour of Canada and the United States, returning to England in time for King Edward's coronation.

JUST THE "WHITE HOUSE."

President Roosevelt Disapproves of Term "Executive Mansion."

The following circular has been issued to officers of the treasury by Secretary Gage:

"In view of the desire of the President, it is hereby ordered that the naming or date lines of all official papers and documents prepared or written in the executive department of the treasury and requiring the signature of the President be hereafter headed 'White House' in place of 'Executive Mansion.'"

THE MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

There seems to be danger that the Mc-Kinley memorial plans may go awry.
The representations of the organization formed in Ohio which proposed to have a national memorial to the late President built in Canton have been published in the Spy. Another society has been formed in Washington that means to collect funds for building a memorial arch there. Other plans are reported from other places.

Many feel adverse to the thought of building a great monument at Canton on the ground that it is out of the way of travel. Comparatively few will be able to see it if it is constructed there. The theory is that a great and beautiful memorial built by the people should be where it will be seen by the greatest number, and therefore exert the greatest influence for good. For a worthy monument is certainly eloquent.
On the other hand it is admitted that at least a monument, modest in proportions, should mark the burial place at Canton.

W. R. CASTLE, JR., Secretary and Treasurer.

The idea of an imposing memorial structure at Washington seems appropriate. There Mr. McKinley performed his work and attained his chief triumphs. It is the capital of the nation and is the Mecca to which thousands journey every year.

The organizations should not work at cross purposes. They should consult and decide upon some plan for cooperation. It should be determined where the chief memorial shall be placed, and what proportion of the funds, provided Canton is not the place selected for it, shall be applied to building a suitable monument there. Once the public sentiment is convinced that contributions will be entered and applied to good purpose contributions would no doubt flow in rapidly. The cause is an excellent one.—Worcester Spy.

side of the English side of his mouth, "While fate would surely then be sealed." Jes-

TALK OF CHURCH UNION.

CINCINNATI, November 1.—Bishop Goodsell presided at today's session of the Methodist Bishops. It was decided to hold the next semi-annual conference at Chattanooga, at which time closer relations and the final union of the churches North and South will be further considered.

Dr. James M. King, who was the first assistant of the late Dr. Spencer of Atlanta, was elected corresponding secretary with headquarters at Philadelphia.
Second Assistant Secretary Dr. Showers of Evansville, Ill. is an applicant for promotion to Dr. King's old place, but five other candidates are in the field and the contest is so strong that no election result will be made until next week.

ARIZONA'S NEW GOVERNOR.

President Roosevelt, in appointing Col. Alexander C. Brodie as governor of Arizona, has undoubtedly made a popular choice. Col. Brodie's popularity is not confined to Arizona, but extends throughout the West. A man of such achievements and activities is just the person needed at the head of affairs in Arizona.—Denver Republic-

MAN'S LIMITATION.

Every man has his limitations, even great, is small in some particulars.

Never idealize if you desire not to be simism is hard work. Ennui is a sore philosopher. If a man sits all day in a tub he sure he will become a cynic.—

REFORM GOES ON.

The London Daily Mail has announced that it will make no further detailed mention of the noisome Dis de Bar trial. Alfred Harmsworth never did a more commendable thing than this, and it is earnestly hoped that other papers everywhere will follow the Mail's noble example.—Chicago Post.

RESULT OF GOOD SYSTEM.

The not uncommon belief that the government cannot carry on any great business to advantage is disproved in the case of the postoffice department.
The money order business now averages about $1,000,000 a day and is carried on at 30,000 offices, yet in the last fiscal year the department lost only $174.—Pittsburg Post.

STORM ON LAKE BAIKAL.

nounced in a dispatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg that scores of fishing boats were wrecked and that 170 men were drowned during a recent storm of Lake Baikal.

HAWAII'S LIGHTHOUSE SYSTEM.

There is a strong likelihood of the lighthouse system of Hawaii being taken over by the United States Light-house Board. Secretary of the Territory Cooper on his visit to Washington talked over the matter with the members of the board and a recommendation from the Treasury Department will probably result in a further inspection of the local system by Colonel Charles E. L. B. Davis now here as a member of the Fortifications Board. Colonel Davis has already secured certain data showing the number of the lights but it is thought that he will be returned from Washington to make a special report in time for the appropriations for the Lighthouse Board in the present Congress.

Two flashing lights one red and one white may be recommended by Colonel Davis as desirable accessories at the mouth of the harbor for the use of ships entering after night fall.

SEALERS SEIZED.

VICTORIA, B. C., October 27.—According to advices received by the steamer Olympia, which has arrived from the Orient three more Japanese sealing schooners have been seized by the Russian cruiser Yakut for sealing within the limit around the Copper and other Russian seal islands. This makes six schooners and a boat's crew of another which have been seized this year, or about seventy-one men, most of them Japanese, but some Americans and Canadians. The schooners were taken to Petropaulovski, where they were condemned and the men to Vladivostok, where some were sentenced to a year in jail and others were waiting trial. Another schooner which was seized was released, as it was shown that the captain had lost his bearings and had been driven into the prohibited zone.

STOKES IS DYING.

NEW YORK, November 2.—Edward Stokes, who is seriously ill, has been gradually growing weaker for several days past, and the physicians who attend at his bedside have practically given up hope for recovery. Stokes' friends said today that they anticipated his death today that they anticipate his death at any time.
