STRANDING OF BELGIC

Highest of all in Leavening Power—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

At Yokohama on the 21st of October an extended inquiry into the stranding of the Belgic was held. This was at the British consulate.

The court was composed of Mr. J. C. Hall, the British Consul, presiding, Captain Edwin Ravenna, Captain Ronald McGregor of the steamer Guildhall and Captain W. W. Evans of the Shire Liner Monmouthshire.

A notable feature of the inquiry was the studied effort of Chief Officer Thilson to place Captain Walker in the worst possible light. Both are veterans in the Pacific Mail service, but have long been enemies.

For four years the chief officer has been out of the mess. The chief officer gives this brief account of the loss of his second officer.

I went to sea to put out the boats and show signals of distress, and decided to send a boat to Kanonaki for assistance, with the second officer in charge.

When near the water the boat was driven by a swell forward, and the second officer who was in the boat was pushed out an oar to him; but at that time he seemed fatigued and disappeared from sight.

The findings of the Court, which are very interesting, were as follows:

1.—That up to the time of passing Noshima Light, the Master appears to have navigated the ship with due care.

2.—That after that point sufficient care was not taken in calculating the distance run by the ship.

3.—That owing primarily to this neglect, that Master was led into an error of judgment, in mistaking Mela Head for Suosaki.

4.—That the casualty was due entirely to this error of judgment on the part of the Master.

5.—That the conduct of the first officer, Mr. Thilson, is commended for his having paid due regard to the navigation of the ship, and for having drawn the Master's attention to the fact that the ship was too near the land and should not have been hauled up so soon.

6.—That after the casualty everything appears to have been done that was necessary for securing the safety of the ship and passengers.

7.—That the second officer, Mr. Beckman, lost his life in performing his duty of launching and getting ready the boats, and that all available measures were taken to save his life.

8.—That the Court, considering that the Master's mistake, though a serious one, is the first made by him during a service extending over fourteen years in command, are of opinion that a severe reprimand will meet the justice of the case and he is hereby reprimanded accordingly.

9.—That the expenses of this Court, amounting to $28,128.64, be paid by the master.
