A LITTLE four line item about the increase of insanity and idioy in Norway since the removal of the tax on spirits...

CONSIDERABLE feeling was caused on Tuesday in connection with Mr. Graenhalg's departure. He owes certain amounts in town—no very heavy sum probably, but sufficient to cause protests to be filed against his passport...

We publish elsewhere a translation from the Luso Hawaiian. It indicates to some extent the course of thought among our Portuguese brethren. Race differences produce at least five wholly distinct classes with some interests in common but many which are wholly diverse...

THE CULTURE occupies the minds of every nation of any importance or degree of western civilization. Something has been done for tree culture here and experiments with various kinds of trees have been made at Maiki, above Punaheou, at Lihue under the auspices of the Lihue Plantation Company...

good for me." In Kan the destruction, at one place, is not confined to the actual trees felled; it has injured a very promising little coffee plantation. Robbed of the shade under which they used to luxuriate, the coffee trees are steadily dying...

The lack of proper qualifications in a considerable portion of the minor judiciary is a serious obstacle to the due and efficient administration of justice in this country. The mental and moral qualities required to make a good District Judge or Police Magistrate, though inferior in grade, are not essentially different in kind from those needed in the highest grades of the judiciary...

The Government ought to look into the matter of "assisted" landings. The term will appear strange to a good many people, but it is easily explainable and we think it is perfectly applicable. In many places where the landings have been very bad the Legislature has voted a certain sum for landings. The plantations which have been situated near the landing have supplemented the sum by perhaps a smaller one, an equal one, or in some cases a larger one...

punish this man, to thwart that, because in their self conceit or their self righteousness, and we have both forms of the disease finely developed here, they think he ought to be. They have no idea of individual rights of the citizen. They may talk largely of freedom; they may most earnestly desire reforms should take place which will give others, save those immediately under their sway, the greatest opportunities for free personal action...

But to return to the actual wrong just now being done. Should not the government, having expended public money—certainly not purely for the private ends of the plantations—should not the government, we say, step in and regulate the prices charged for getting freight into the hands of the individuals to whom it belongs? From our point of view there is no "should" about it. We feel morally certain that the proper word to use is "must."

This matter has been argued again and again. It is for ever coming up. It has been fought out in Europe, it has been argued out in the United States. It is the question of what the monopolist can manage to make when he gets the chance. In the particular case to which we refer it interferes with trade. The extra freight charged makes it impossible for any outsider to compete with any particular predilection of a plantation manager. The laborer has to pay the prices charged at the favored store, for it is impossible for anyone else to compete.

BELLIGERENT POWELL. The slayer of Ralph S. Smith Attempts to Shoot Another Man. Ripwood Cry, October 25.—Powell, the slayer of Ralph S. Smith, attempted to draw a pistol on T. J. McNamara in a saloon in this town. Last Tuesday night Powell was playing cards with the proprietor, John Gown, when McNamara walked in and stood by watching the players. He made some remark about the game when Powell turned to him and demanded to know what business he had there, and called him vile names. McNamara resented the insult by striking him.

THE BASEBALL GIANTS.

Sketches of the Members of the Chicago and All-American Teams.

CHICAGO.

Captain A. C. Anson, the big-hearted giant, who holds down first base and captains the team that has won more league pennants than all the other league teams combined...

Williamson is also a member of the famous Chicago infield, and when a prominent American newspaper last season asked for answers to the question of "Who is the greatest all-around player in America?"...

Fred Pfeiffer is perhaps as well-known as any professional ball-player in America, both for his ability as a ball-player and his gentlemanly conduct on and off the diamond...

Mark Baldwin has played ball with the Chicago team for two seasons past, and is one of the most effective pitchers—judging from his record against the greatest teams of the country—in the league...

Few ball-players made their reputation so quickly or jumped into popular favor so completely and suddenly as did Ryan, the brilliant little center fielder of the Chicago team...

Thomas Burns is one of the "old guard" of the Chicago Club, and few ball-players in the country can count so few enemies or so many friends upon their list of acquaintances as he...

John Montgomery Ward, of the New York team, is one of the best known and popular professional players of the present day, and in gaining his consent to act as field captain of the All-American team...

been a member of the New York Club since 1885; he is organizer and president of the Ball Players' Brotherhood, and author of the standard work, "Base Ball."...

Michael J. Kelly, of the Boston team, is one of the best known and most popular ball players in America. He is described as "a great general in a contest; a clever strategist, well versed in every point of play, and competent to play any position himself; tricky, bold, and thoroughly experienced in his work upon the diamond..."

Edward Hanlon, of the Detroit team, is both highly capable and popular. He is a native of New England, and joined the Rhode Islands as far back as 1877, leaving it for the crack Albany club in 1879...

Fred H. Carroll, of the Pittsburgh team, is a native of Sacramento and twenty-four years old. Beginning as an amateur in Reading, Pa., in 1882, going with the Columbus team the following year, and from the next year being catcher with the Pittsburghs...

Harry H. Simpson is the first member of the expedition to meet Honolulu people, having come in advance of the rest as a local organizer. He is an all round baseball, football, and cricket player. In 1885 he organized and managed the Newark (New Jersey) Cricket and Baseball Association...

M. J. Tiernan has made a great reputation as a ball-player since he became a member of the New York team at the outset of the season of 1888. As a batsman he has especially distinguished himself, and as an outfielder the manager of the New York team claims that he has no superior...

George A. Wood is one of the greatest outfielders of the League, his work for the Philadelphia team during the past two seasons having won him a high reputation. He is thirty years old, a Bostonian, who began professional ball-playing at Lynn in 1878...

John Healy, Indianapolis, is looked upon in America as one of the puzzling pitchers of the League, and many a lot of strong batsmen have gone down before his delivery...

J. A. Rogers is a professional cricketer who will coach and train the team in cricket for such games as they may decide to play. He has a splendid record both as batter and bowler, having made an average of 17 runs per inning in 24, and bowled 186 wickets for an average of 4 runs per wicket...

The Late John M. Kippen. Dr. C. T. Rodgers Tuesday morning held an autopsy on the body of the late John M. Kippen, whose death the previous evening was announced in the Advertiser. The doctor's report is as follows:

"As the result of said examination, I found the deceased had been suffering from chronic bronchitis, and that there were extensive pleuritic adhesions on both sides, particularly on the right. The muscular tissue of the heart was flabby, and there was some disease of the valves. In my opinion the above described conditions were sufficient to cause his death."

Kippen left a family of two helpless children in Sydney, for whose benefit Messrs. Thomas Lindsay and E. B. Thomas have circulated a subscription list, which was pretty numerously subscribed. The deceased intended to have left by the steamer Alameda this week for Sydney. His funeral took place in the afternoon of Tuesday, Rev. Geo. Wallace conducting the burial rites of the Church of England.

THE HATCH-HAWES WEDDING.

Particulars of the Interesting Event—List of the Guests.

The following report of the marriage of Mr. Hatch of this city is from the San Francisco Alta California of November 4th:

The residence of Colonel and Mrs. A. G. Hawes was the scene of a lovely wedding last Wednesday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Alice Hawes and Frank M. Hatch of Honolulu. The residence was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns by Miss Mary Bates. The wedding bower was of course in the bay window of the drawing room, where a pretty background was formed of clusters of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns laid against the curtains. Overhead were three large wreaths of yellow and russet-colored chrysanthemums suspended by loops and streamers of narrow gold and red colored silk. The wooden mantel at the side was set with tall sprays of ferns and masses of chrysanthemums, fringed with umbrella grass and encompassed by bands of yellow silk. Seemingly clambering over the pictures on the wall opposite were light traceries of chrysanthemums and eucalyptus foliage ending in a huge cluster of Langtry chrysanthemums and a drapery of yellow silk at the side of the entrance. A short portiere of eucalyptus and white chrysanthemums was hung from the arch which spans the ceiling, and in the rear apartment russet and yellow chrysanthemums, eucalyptus and African marigolds adorned the curtains and pictures with charming effect. There were wreaths and baskets of white chrysanthemums, streamers of smilax and draperies of mahogany-colored silk hung at the folding doors leading to the dining-room, where chrysanthemums in pink and white were disposed where they would produce the most artistic results. In addition to all of this were numerous handsome baskets of roses and other flowers which had been sent as gifts from friends.

At 8:30 o'clock the parlors were filled with guests, and as the orchestra played the wedding march the bridal party appeared. Mr. James D. Phelan and Mr. Harry Durbin held back the silken ribbons, making an avenue through which they walked.

Miss Mammie Josselyn and Master Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., led the way, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Jessie Kaufmann, and the bride, who was escorted by her father. The groom and his best man, Mr. Charles Deering, of Honolulu, had preceded them with the minister, Rev. Hiram W. Beers, of Trinity Church. The ceremony was most impressive, and was followed by the sincere congratulations of all present. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing and the enjoyment of an elaborate supper. The happy couple were well remembered in the way of presents, all of which were elegant and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Hatch have gone to Europe to travel until next June, when they will go to Honolulu to reside permanently.

The bride looked lovely in a beautiful toilet of white brocade surah, made with a long court-train and trimmed elaborately with cascades of point lace. A filmy veil of white tulle fell to the end of the train from the cofiture, and was confined in place by an elegant diamond star. At her corsage was a diamond pin, and she carried a hand-bouquet of Niphetos roses.

Miss Jessie Kaufmann appeared in a becoming Directors' toilet of blue surah, trimmed with blue brocade and net. Her hand-bouquet was of La France roses, and her ornaments diamonds. Mrs. A. G. Hawes wore an elegant costume of shirp-pink faille Francaise, en train, trimmed with blue crepe and passementerie; ornaments diamonds. Among those present were: Colonel and Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Montague, Judge and Mrs. E. W. McKinstry, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Parke of Honolulu, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Pixley, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Reis, Mr. and Mrs. H. The Valorous Czar. The Czar of Russia has issued the following order from Sebastopol, which is considered very significant: Thirty years or more ago the Black Sea fleet, while gaining glorious victories, sacrificed itself for the good of Russia and transferred its spirits to the mounds and hills of Sebastopol. To-day the fleet has arisen anew, to the delight of the long-offended fatherland. My will and thoughts are directed toward a peaceful development of the national welfare, but circumstances may render difficult the accomplishment of my wishes and compel me to take up arms for the defense and dignity of the state. You will stand by me in upholding that dignity with the same devotion and firmness that your predecessors displayed in response to the call of my grandfather and which struck their contemporaries with astonishment. On these waters which witnessed their brilliant deeds I confide to your care the safety, the honor and the tranquility of Russia. (Signed) ALEXANDER.

AFFAIRS IN GERMANY.

The cordiality with which the Emperor of Germany has been received in Vienna, and the apparently thorough good understanding which exists between him and the Emperor of Austria, have given Europe a new feeling of assurance in the continuance of the present relations between the Great Powers. Thus the young Emperor should have made his first visit to St. Petersburg, and that the character of his diplomatic suite seemed to indicate some purpose to exert a definite diplomatic influence, gave rise to disquieting rumors of a possible change of relations which might have thrown the apple of discord among the armed nations of the Continent. If Germany had come once more to an understanding with Russia, the present alliance between Austria and Italy could hardly have continued, nor could Russia and France have remained long in their present friendly relations if Russia had again fellow-stopped with Germany. But the German Emperor has followed his visit to St. Petersburg with a similar visit to Vienna, and those who are carefully watching the signs of the times, as read in the movements of the heads of the Government, are inclined to the opinion that the visit to St. Petersburg was more a matter of courtesy than of diplomatic intention, and that the alliances remain as they were. It becomes more and more clear that the young Emperor intends to be the actual as well as the nominal ruler of Germany. His speeches make it clear that while Germany may have Prime Ministers, it is to have a sovereign who will bear on his own shoulders the responsibilities and burdens of the government. The speech of the Emperor's friend, Count Douglas, delivered at Aschersleben last week, appears to have been a deliberate notification to Germany that henceforth the Emperor William, and not Prince Bismarck, will shape the policy of the Government.

Meanwhile the excitement over the publication of extracts from the diary of the late Emperor Frederick shows small signs of abating. Professor Geffcken, through whom the extracts were made public, has been arrested, but as yet no definite measures have been taken toward his formal prosecution. It is said in some quarters that the Professor is insane, and that he is not responsible for his action. Now that the text of the Emperor's diary has been published at considerable length, it is easy to understand the anger of Bismarck and the men who have impressed a distinctively imperial policy on Germany. Not only do the important part which the late Emperor played in the establishment of the Empire, and his sagacity and forethought, become apparent, but the dispositionateness of his temper, the liberality of his views, and the nobility of his ideal for Germany are disclosed in all the fullness and frankness which a sincere and frank man would use in making personal memoranda. Thoughtful Germans can hardly contrast the ideal of the Emperor Frederick with the actual achievement of Bismarck without a keen sense of what was lost by the long-delayed accession to the throne of a ruler whose instincts were all for freedom, and who seemed to grasp in a statesmanlike spirit the noblest possibility of his country. Bismarck's services in the consolidation of Germany were so many and so great that he can well afford to part with the almost exclusive renown which had come to him while the people believed that the modern German Empire was a creation of his own brain. It was Bismarck who undermined Austria's position, led her into the Schleswig-Holstein war, disconnected one by one with infinite patience and tact the strong ties which united her with her German allies, and finally led her into the terrible blunder of a war with Prussia, in which the fruit of years of diplomatic scheming was pinched on the field of battle. Bismarck does not seem, however, to have realized the strength of the racial German sentiment among the southern members of the German Confederation, and it is at this point that the difference of opinion between himself and the Crown Prince Frederick arose. The Crown Prince understood the temper of the Southern German people, and believed that the former allies of Austria were ready to accept the leadership of Prussia. He criticized, therefore, the Fabian policy of Bismarck, and urged more aggressive and immediate measures. The Crown Prince believed that the time was ripe for the re-establishment of the German Empire on a broad and liberal basis; Bismarck hung back, and there was a sharp collision of opinion. When the French and German war came to a successful conclusion the problem was solved, but not according to the generous ideas of the Crown Prince. Just before the capitulation of the French, Bismarck confessed to the Crown Prince that he had made a mistake in not raising the imperial question in 1866. The diary is a very important contribution to contemporary history, and its full publication will be inevitable.

IMPORTANT TO STAMP COLLECTORS!

I HAVE TO THANK THE PHILATELISTS of Hawaii for the liberal attention which my late advertisement has received. It is safe to say that hundreds of thousands of Hawaiian Stamps have been sent away without receiving more than half their value in return, and what is far worse, every collector gets a quantity of useless duplicates. By the plan which I have so successfully worked up, everyone gets only such stamps as he needs; and besides, he gets full value for each and every kind of Hawaiian Stamp. The prices which I allow are better than those of ANY EUROPEAN DEALER, and are higher than most American Stamp Dealers pay. I receive fresh sheets of stamps by every steamer, and will send them on request to any address. The prices for these stamps are as low as those of the largest dealers. Hawaiian Stamps are good for exchange, and it should be to the mutual interest of all our Philatelic friends to assist me in my efforts to make every kind of stamp bring only what will add to collections, and not a host of worthless duplicates. In less than nine months I have an album of nearly Four Thousand specimens by confiding myself to the above plan. W. F. REYNOLDS, No. 3, Union Street, Honolulu. The Catholics and the Schools.

Mr. Editor: I did not intend writing anything more on the subject of religious teaching in the public schools, but the Bishop of Oahu having devoted a column in the Bulletin to a criticism of my second letter, it seems proper that I should make some reply.

I fear it will be impossible for the Bishop and myself to find any common standing ground on which to discuss this question to advantage. I have stated my position frankly, and in as clear language as I could command. I have set forth at considerable length the principles on which that position was based, and my reasons for the views I hold.

The corner-stone of the Bishop's position, the fundamental assumption which can alone justify a claim to any concessions beyond those equal rights which the Catholic church, in common with all churches in this country, now enjoys, is one which no Protestant can endorse or accept.

Under the constitution and laws of this Kingdom the Catholic church now enjoys, not toleration, but absolute equality with other religious bodies. The Bishop and his clergy have full liberty to preach and teach, to proselyte and convert, and to bring every man, woman and child in these islands within the fold of their church, if they can do it by argument and persuasion.

This is the theory; how is it in practice? If in the administration of our laws, partiality has been shown, and Catholics, as such, have been discriminated against in any way, it is an injustice which should be exposed and corrected. I do not understand the Bishop to make any complaint in this direction.

First. Supposing the circumstances were all reversed, and the Catholics were as entirely dominant as the Protestants now are, and the latter as poor, as weak and as helpless as he represents the Catholics to now be; would he consider that justice demanded the granting, and would he be in favor of granting to Protestants the same concessions he now claims for his own people?

Second. Should he be personally in favor of so doing, will he tell us whether the same would be in accordance with the general rule and practice of the Catholic church in such cases?

Third. If he is prepared to answer this second question in the affirmative, will he furnish some proof of the correctness of the statement, and point out the countries in which the Catholics being as much in the ascendant as he says the Protestants are here, grant to the latter the concessions which he is now asking, or give them more liberty in any way, than he and his people are now enjoying in these islands?

Fourth. A suggestion as to the possibility of formulating some general statement of religious truth which should be agreeable to the great body of Christians of all denominations is promptly met by the declaration that no such arrangement would be accepted, and that Catholics can be satisfied with no religious instruction for their children unless it includes the distinctive doctrines, in the holding of which that church differs from the rest of Christendom.

Fifth. There being, apparently, no possibility of finding any common ground of agreement in the matter of religious teaching, the Protestants say: let us then agree to disagree, let us have a purely secular school system, which shall aim at nothing beyond imparting secular knowledge, and inculcating good manners and good morals, and leave all religious, and especially doctrinal teaching, to the church and the family.

Sixth. And now comes Bishop Herman, and declares that this arrangement will be no more satisfactory than the others, at least for Catholics, that it will not meet their "just demands," that the mere absence of any religious instruction makes the schools virtually Protestant, and therefore, soul-destroying, or at least, soul-impairing institutions.

Under these circumstances, any difference with the Catholic church seems to be radical and irreconcilable. That church appears to hold that some measure of control over the general school system of the country is necessary to the proper performance of its own peculiar work, and the public schools, supported and paid for by all the people, regardless of religious belief, a legitimate channel through which to exercise its influence.

After all, I most seriously question whether it is really more difficult to get into society in this country than in any other. I incline to the belief that the difficulty, if not a fancied one, is only felt more here than elsewhere, owing to the peculiar conditions that exist here, among which may possibly be the want of public entertainments.

cause it does not agree with one's own," is equally so. A man is not usually condemned for what he believes, but for what he practices; and to show "wider human sympathy" to a fellowman who would make use of it only to gain social pleasures, and not as an aid to uphold him in a pure upright life, would be simply to make a fool of oneself, while committing an injustice to another man of more honest purpose.

POLITICAL.

Large Meeting of Hawaiians to Organize a Party.

The initial meeting of what has been named "The Hawaiian Political Association" was held Thursday evening at the Army of the Honolulu Rifles. It was attended by nearly one thousand of its enrolled members.

President, Hon. J. E. Bush. Vice Presidents, Messrs. C. H. Clark, Jas. Kanila, W. H. Cummings, W. S. Lokai and G. P. Kaamaana. Secretary, Mr. Thos. K. Nathaniel. Corresponding Secretary, Mr. F. Metcalfe.

Mr. Daniel Lyons was the first speaker of the evening, his remarks being interpreted into Hawaiian by the President. He spoke for three-quarters of an hour, frequent interruptions of applause showing that his sentiments were largely approved by the meeting.

Trouble With Hayti. A telegram has been received by Acting Secretary Rives, announcing the capture of the American steamer Haytien Republic while trying to force the blockade at St. Marc.

A cablegram from Port au Prince announces the capture of the British schooner Alta, which left New York about the 19th inst. with a heavy cargo of arms and ammunition.

The seizure of the American steamer Haytien Republic has become an international episode, as Secretary Bayard has instructed the United States Minister at Port au Prince to protest instantly against the action of the Haytian authorities, and has informed him that a man-of-war will be ordered to Haytian waters as soon as possible.

The brig Richard T. Green, Captain Patrick, from St. Marc, Hayti, reports that on October 18th, when off St. Marc, he was ordered to leave to by a Haytian man-of-war whose armed officers and men came on board three times, taking away the ship's register and all her papers, and threatening to take her to Port au Prince as a prize.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company announces that, beginning with November 13, 1888, the Company's service from San Francisco to New York, Panama and the coast will be increased to three steamers per month, sailing the 3d, 13th and 23d of each month, at 12 o'clock noon.

A despatch from Zanzibar says: The Germans have burned all the dhows and boats in Whindi harbor. Lieutenant Fitzherbert of the Algerine, in face of a heavy Arab fire, chased a dhow with 200 slaves off the north coast of Madagascar until the dhow grounded. Lieutenant Fitzherbert captured 27 slaves with the dhow.

Attempt to Kill the Czar. Five minutes before the Czar's train arrived at Kutais, en route from Tiflis to the Black Sea, a Konban Cossack, disguised as an officer, was arrested at the station for having on his person several hand explosives and some poison in gelatine capsules. When arrested the man attempted to poison himself. He was one of the founders of the South Russia Revolutionary Society. The other members of the society have been arrested at Simropol.

The State Department has received particulars from the American Legation in Russia concerning an accident to the Czar's special train. It was a narrow escape for the Czar, as nineteen of his suite were killed and eighteen wounded.

The train, containing the Czar and Czarina and suite, while passing through a deep gorge near Borki, left the rails. The Czar and Czarina were in a saloon-carriage at breakfast. When the first carriage left the track, the rest of the train oscillated and each succeeding carriage tipped over. The saloon-carriage, although remaining on the track, was badly damaged. The roof fell in, but rested on a portion of the side, thus forming a shield for the occupants. The Czar's foot and the Czarina's hand were injured.

The disaster to the imperial train at Borki was the result of an attempt by the Nihilists to assassinate the Czar and Czarina. Details received from well-informed quarters say the railway in the Borki defile was undermined and that the mine was sprung as the train passed over, but the explosion was only partial. Had it been complete the entire train would have been blown to atoms.

The Minister of War and the Commander of the Czar's bodyguard were badly injured. Nihilist Bobets, the Baku petroleum refiners, spent 25,000 rubles entertaining the Czar. They presented the Czarina with a diamond bouquet-holder valued at 10,000 rubles. Another petroleum firm at Baku spent 20,000 rubles in honor of the Czar.

Fifty persons have been arrested in Moscow, including Professor Holzoff, editor of the Pan-Slavist paper Russki Mysl. Other arrests have been made at Charkoff.

Mr. Sidney Dickinson Delights a Sydney Audience with "The Fire Islands of the Pacific."

The Sydney "Herald" of October 31st has the following report in its "Amusements" column:

"At the New Masonic Hall, Castle-reagh street, last evening, Mr. Sidney Dickinson gave an interesting and entertaining lecture, illustrated by dissolving views, on 'The Fire Islands of the Pacific.' There was a fair audience. The lecture, which was the second of the series, was illustrated by a number of excellent pictures, some of which were colored, and probably ranked amongst the finest of their class ever exhibited in Sydney. Those present were taken (in imagination) from the port of San Francisco to the Sandwich Islands, by the Alameda, the view of the vessel at sea being a faithful reproduction of the original. The second picture 'Moonlight on the Pacific,' showing the full-orbed moon lighting up the gently heaving waters was very effective, and it was deservedly applauded. In choice and appropriate language Mr. Dickinson described the halcyon days and nights spent on board the steamer, and told how speeding merrily on her way, the good ship brought up in the harbor of Honolulu. The characteristics of this interesting place were fully described, and the life, customs, and costumes of the natives alluded to. Passing reference was also made to the phrase, 'Aloha! Aloha Oe!' with which the new arrival is invariably greeted on arriving at the chief port of the Sandwich Islands. Portraits of native women—some of them fine specimens of feminine beauty—and the reigning monarchs, Kalakaua and his queen, together with the palace and the 'standing army,' numbering some eighty warriors, were also shown. A tribute of praise was paid to the King's native band, the conductor of which is a German. This band is said to perform some of the works of Offenbach and other composers in splendid style; in fact, it is said to be unequalled out of Germany. The avenues of stately palms and the lovely flowers, together with the fruits of the islands, were spoken of, and views of these were displayed, the lecturer describing them with exquisite word-paintings. The mighty precipices and the lovely waterfalls of the Hawaiian group, which present a perfect kaleidoscope of beauty and grandeur to the eye of the traveler, were next described upon glowing language and illustrated after which the leper settlement and other places of interest were visited. The journey to the lakes of fire, the island of Maui, and the largest crater in the known world was then entered upon, and having glanced at the tomb of the great navigator Captain Cook and many other objects of interest, a visit was paid to mighty and awe-inspiring Kilauea, with its burning lakes, its fountains of fire, and billows of flame. Mr. Dickinson was heartily applauded at the conclusion of his lecture.

Roads in Hilo.

A correspondent discusses roads and road-making in the Hilo District as follows:

"The roads of Hilo town are simply beastly, most of the road money being spent in improving plantation interests. However, an experiment is being tried on the principal street of the town, in the way of manufacturing a road of no less substantial materials than hay, under brush and sand—said to be excellent for heavy travel. The hay is laid on carefully to a depth of from one to two and a half feet. This is top dressed with two inches of sand. If it works, and some think it will work up a little, a patent will doubtless be applied for. It is now some years since the Hilo road to Puna has been doctored. The Inspector General of Schools pronounced this road as being by far the meanest and most difficult to find and travel over on the island of Hawaii.

P. S.—Steamer day—heavy rain—good test for the new hay and sand road. Observation—Sand went to the bottom; hay floats. Suggestion to the road-maker—house that portion of the road.

Horse Races on Maui.

At the fall meeting of the Maui Racing Association held at Waikapu on the King's Birthday, only three races were contested owing to the bad weather which prevailed. A large number of spectators were present to enjoy the day's sport, but unfortunately the other five races which were announced on the programme had to be postponed until Christmas. The races run were as follows:

Running race—1/4 mile dash; free for all Maui bred horses. Purse $25. W. H. Corwell enters dr. b. g. Creeper; H. Roberts enters b. g. Silver King; G. C. Potter enters b. g. Barney. Won by Silver King.

Match race—1/2 mile dash. Purse $50. J. W. Kalua enters b. g. Billy Buttons; D. E. Meyers enters b. g. Waiomeli Boy. Won by Billy Buttons.

Pony race—1/2 mile dash. Purse $50. E. von Teupsky enters b. g. The Monk; Dr. E. Herbert enters gr. m. Darling; G. C. Potter enters b. g. Barney. Won by Darling.

Sailing of the Australia.

The crowd at the departure of the steamer Australia was not so great as on some former like occasions, doubtless because a less number of people than usual were leaving on this trip. Fine weather and an excellent programme by the band made the event enjoyable to all who were at the dock. American, British, German and Hawaiian national anthems were played in honor of departing friends. "Auld Lang Syne" and "Hawaii Ponoi" concluding the series as the vessel swung out. One jolly looking old gentleman waved his farewell to friends on shore with a Republican campaign handkerchief. The mail carried away by the Australia comprised 5,648 letters and 1,407 papers. Passenger and freight lists will be found in our shipping column.

In recognition of his services in negotiating the fisheries treaty at Washington, Sir Lionel Sackville West, the British Minister to the United States, has received the grand cross of the order of St. Michael and St. George. Messrs. Winter, Bergne and Thompson have been knighted commanders of the order, and Sir Charles Tupper has been created a baronet.

PORTUGUESE SHIP OF WAR.

Translation of a Leading Editorial in the "Luso Hawaiian" of Nov. 17, 1888.

We again return to the subject to-day, and we will not abandon it until the Portuguese Government has shown, at least once, that it does not forget us, and that it wishes to honor us. This time we are going to employ an argument with which we hope to see realized the greatest desire of all the Portuguese colony, but also to see taken a measure of necessity and of duty, such as is the presence of a Portuguese ship of war in the harbor of Honolulu.

The argument which we are going to use is the following: At the end of next year, 1889, or say a year from this date, there will necessarily be great agitation in all this country, and especially in this capital, in consequence of the next general elections, which are to take place in February of 1890. The elections of 1890 will be the most warmly contested, if not the most critical in the history of the country. The principal question involved will be the anti-Chinese versus the pro-Chinese, or in other terms, the proletarian class against the capitalist class—one strong in number and in the right of representation, and the other strong in money and in power. There must be a terrible struggle, and it will be fortunate if it terminates peacefully. At that time there will not fail (as there did not fail at the time of the general elections of 1887), to be ships of war here belonging to the different nations which have subjects here in large numbers, and no nation has so great a number of electors here as Portugal.

Will any one believe that Portugal will fail to send here one of her best ships of war at that date? We do not believe it. We believe that she will not only send one, but make it remain here during the opening of Parliament. The parliamentary session of 1890 will necessarily be a stormy one in consequence of the predominant question, anti-Chinese, which will involve an amendment of the Constitution, and if the anti-Chinese programme is realized, which we hope, and for which we shall heartily labor, and which is the only means of salvation of this "Paradise of the Pacific," we do not ill in being prepared, and the first preparation which we require is the protection of a Portuguese ship of war, which with its presence in this harbor will exert a strong influence in our behalf, and will greatly honor not only the Portuguese colony in Hawaii in particular, but also Portugal in general.

We do not hesitate a moment in crediting that our inimitable Commissioner, His Ex. Sr. A. de Souza Canavarro, will not only completely endorse our sentiment, which, as His Excellency knows, is the sentiment of the whole of the Portuguese colony, but will also especially bring to the notice of the Portuguese Government, in better and more appropriate phrase than ours, the same reasons for our request. And His Excellency being in the best relations with the Portuguese Government, and being a gentleman highly respected in Portugal, there ought not to remain any doubt that his influence will produce for us the desired result—a Portuguese ship of war at Honolulu at the end of 1889 or the beginning of 1890.

Naval Notes.

The S. S. Arabic is found to be too large for the China trade and her place will be taken by the San Mateo.

Captain Lubbock, Supervising Inspector of steam vessels, has exonerated Captain Wallace from blame in the City of Chester disaster.

Ship-carpenters are putting new planking on the starboard side of the Vandalia, replacing those that were damaged by the vessel running aground in the Straits of Magellan two years ago.

The Mohican will shortly be put in commission, as there is but little more work to be done on her to make ready for sea. The draft of officers to command her has been made out, and some of them are on their way from the East.

The old steering wheel that came out of the Lackawanna is being fitted up for the Mohican. It is twenty-six years old and as good as when made. It was made in the Brooklyn Navy Yard in 1862. The Mohican wheel was condemned for being too narrow.

There is a rumor that the United States steamship Vandalia will have to go out of commission to be repaired. The survey held on her at Mare Island shows that she needs very extensive repairs, which will take a long time to complete and a large appropriation of money, the amount of which will nearly equal, if it does not exceed, the limit allowed by Congress. The Vandalia was almost completely rebuilt ten years ago at one of the Eastern navy-yards, and was supposed to be good for at least fifteen years' service.

Some Salaries Paid by a Great English Newspaper.

The London correspondent of the Irish Times professes to have ascertained the salaries paid by the Times to its foreign correspondents: M. de Blowitz, the Paris correspondent of the Times, is paid $0,000 forins, or $3,300, per annum; Mr. Lowe, at Berlin, has $2,500; the Vienna correspondent, an equal salary; the correspondent at Rome, $2,000, with rent of residence; Mr. Simpson, at St. Petersburg, the same. Even the lesser correspondents, who do not wire a dozen or half a dozen columns in the course of a twelve-month, are paid on scales varying from £1,000 to £500 to Herr Julius—a name which will be familiar to many in Dublin and more in Cork—who represents the Times in Brussels, and so on to the minimum of £250 paid Mr. Heinrich at Christiania. This seems small, but seeing that the correspondents wired or written to Printing-house square occurred only fifteen times throughout 1887, he was fairly well paid for his labors at the rate of £17 per message. The correspondence budget of the London Times in salaries alone is nearly £30,000 a year ($150,000).—Pall Mall Gazette.

Count Taaffe, the Austrian Premier, expresses indignation at the action of his Holiness the Pope, in raising an agitation with regard to temporal power at such a moment as the present, when its approach would lead to a terrible crisis. He would warn all who decided to preserve the peace of Europe not to raise the question, which would be used as a pretext for commencing hostilities.
