CAMPBELL IS SMILING

LAST NIGHT'S RAIN HAS GREATLY IMPROVED THE WATER SITUATION IN HONOLULU.

There was a smile on the face of Superintendent Campbell of the Department of Public Works this morning, which would not come off. It was caused by two things. The first was the visit yesterday of Engineer J. D. Schuyler, of Los Angeles during which praise of the work being done in Nuuanu Valley was heard and the second the rain of last night.

The rain was really the most important. An inch and a half fell up the valley, and the level of the water in the new big reservoir was raised two feet and a half by ten o'clock this morning, with the water still coming in. This means that the worst fears of a water famine have disappeared, though precautions will still be taken, for the level is down to eight and a half feet, while twenty feet is desired before any water will be used for sluicing.

GOOD COURT WORK

The work done in the present term of the Circuit Court in the criminal line has been remarkable. There have been over seventy cases disposed of already, over forty of these being handled by Judge Robinson since his return from the Coast. Thirteen cases have been set for trial and will come up very soon and there are only five or six more left for disposal. The calendar is in much better condition than it has been for a long time.

Through the sales of the old buildings on the Federal lot at Hilo, Superintendent of Public Works Campbell has collected the sum of $360, which is available for improving the grounds. Before any of this is expended, however, the ground will be brought to an even level by the work of the Masonic Hall Association, which has been given permission to dump the dirt from their excavations on the lot mentioned. When this has been done Campbell will spend the $360 in planting grass, laying water pipes and in other general improvements.

BRANDED AS BLASPHEMER

DR. HAHN BROOKS, A PERIPATETIC QUACK, FAILS TO IMPRESS THE WATERFRONT EXCEPTING WITH DISGUST—THIS SACRILEGIOUS IMPERSONATION SHOCKS EVEN THE NON-RELIGIOUS ELEMENT—HIS APPARENT IMMUNITY WITH WALLACH'S PUNISHMENT.

"Get on to the guy with the beard on the back of his head," cried a sailor on the plaza between the chandelery and Almy's Federal shipping office this morning.

A tall being with the face of a man and the hair of a woman, wearing a duster and distributing tracts, was passing. Here and there he stopped and handed out a tinted card proclaiming himself as Dr. Hahn Brooks, solar biologist, which means he's an authority on the science of sun life, although he may not mean it that way himself.

He may be from the sun, but has the appearance of having stayed out too long in the moonlight.

Brooks' fuzzy hair was tied in a bunch at the back of his head and naturally excited comment.

His circular declares that is a teacher of the science of being, the Astro Masonic Religion of the Ages.

Whatever his teaching, good, bad or indifferent, in the opinion of those who saw him today on the waterfront, he is anything between a blasphemer and a plagiarist, for it is plain that he designs to impress simple-minded folk with the suggestion that he resembles the portraitures of Christ.

"If he's got any healing power, why can't he heal on his merits, without attempting to imitate what artists would have us believe the Christ looked like," said a captain who has some reverence for religious ideas whether he believes them or not. "I call it blasphemy and he's a naturefake of the baldest type as far as his make-up is concerned, whether he's a healer or not."

"Ship him around the Horn, the Dirigo needs men," said a cook, looking for a job aboard ship.

"Wallach went to jail for wanting to cure leprosy," said another, "and I see by his schedule that Brooks claims to cure cancer, dyspepsia, stomach troubles, weakness, insomia, nerves, pipe-hitting, tobacco-chewing, dope, booze and all manner of evil."

If he wore a collar and had a haircut he might do some business on the waterfront, where a few of the toilers there are troubled with insomnia and nervous prostration, but he has impressed the waterfront as a blasphemer and they will have nothing to do with him unless it is to report him to the police.

Consult With Fleet Officers

ADVICE FROM JAMES McCANDLESS IN SAN FRANCISCO TO SEND COMMITTEE THERE FROM HONOLULU TO ARRANGE PLAN OF LOCAL ENTERTAINMENT—McCANDLESS DECLINED TO JOIN SELF-CONSTITUTED COMMITTEE OF HONOLULUANS.

An entirely new and an important suggestion for the fleet executive committee comes from James S. McCandless, writing from San Francisco to his brother, John A. McCandless. This is to send a committee to San Francisco to confer with the fleet officers over the general plan of reception for Honolulu to adopt. It is what has been done on the coast, the suggestion in the words of Mr. McCandless being as follows:

"I think the Honolulu people should send a committee up here to arrange with the fleet officials about their entertainment. This has been done by all the places along this coast and everything has gone off beautifully, just like clockwork. The navy people know beforehand just what part they are to do and just what is expected of them.

"Getting suggestions is all very well but if you had a committee here they could arrange the whole program beforehand and go home ahead of the fleet and have every detail arranged when they get there. You have time enough to do this and this looks right to me, and I think it would be wise for you people to take this matter up."

Mr. McCandless is not by any means butting into the arrangements of his fellow-citizens at home. On the contrary he refused to join in a meeting held in San Francisco to consider the Honolulu arrangements. Yet as a matter of course he was consulted by others and had advice for the Honolulu people thrust upon him. The idea he forwards to his brother seeming good to him he could not do otherwise than pass it along.

As well known Mr. McCandless was in San Francisco on his way to the Shriners' Conclave in St. Paul, and had left Honolulu with an immense stock of Hawaiian souvenirs, fruits and promotion literature which he was going to distribute at St. Paul, as well as points going and coming, to the best possible advantage. His presence in San Francisco was naturally deemed valuable by McBride and his coadjutors who were trying to arrange the Honolulu entertainment from there. In his letter already quoted from he says:

"I met Mr. Dunne last Wednesday. He asked me to go to his office on Thursday to meet some other Honolulu people, saying they wanted to pass some resolutions about how we should entertain the fleet in Honolulu. I told him I thought the Honolulu people were fully capable of attending to this and that it was none of our business, and I did not go to this meeting."

Mr. McCandless' letter is of a day's later date than last San Francisco mail direct to Honolulu, having come here from Hilo where it arrived in the Enterprise mail.

He encloses a report of the meeting from the Call of May 10, the date of his letter, which incorrectly places his name in the list of those present. Mr. McCandless expresses disapproval of the positive action taken by the Honolulu people in San Francisco in unambiguous terms, but adds the suggestion he received on the outside which is given above.

THE CALL REPORT.

Under the heading, "Plain Hula Dances and Luau Feasts—Hawaiians to Give Visting Bluejackets the Time of Their Lives—Committee Arranging for Most Suitable Form of Entertainment," the Call report runs thus:

All Hawaii is in a whirl over the form of entertainment to be given the sailors of the Atlantic fleet when it arrives there next July, according to advices recently brought from the islands. Whether to give the bluejackies the big time of their lives with a round of the fascinating—and wicked, so it is said, hula dances, and the famous luau native feasts—or to furnish them with the more tranquil amusement of trolley and automobile rides through the tropical palms is a

SCHUYLER SEES DAM

THE ENGINEER APPROVES NUUANU RESERVOIR WORK BEING DONE UNDER HIS PLANS.

James D. Schuyler, the engineer from Los Angeles who rendered such valuable assistance in perfecting the plans for the Nuuanu dam, passed through here in the Manchuria yesterday with his wife and visited the Nuuanu structure. In speaking of it just before the Manchuria sailed he said:

"I was very much pleased at the way things looked at the new dam. All that is needed there now is water and it will not take long to complete the work. Mr. Campbell was most courteous and took us all over the work and I have not a criticism to offer. The sluicing will be very rapid as soon as there is water enough to go ahead with it and the whole work is in fine shape.

"My wife and I expect to come back through here in a year from now, as we make another trip to Japan and when we do we will stop over for a week at least, for we are very fond of Honolulu. If Jack Lucas and his wife could have accomplished it, they would have stolen our baggage from the boat in order to make us stay over. Your people here are almost too hospitable."

Mr. Schuyler has been in Japan on a commission of engineers to report upon an enormous power plant to be installed in the Island Empire. The plant will supply power for operating the street railways of both Tokio and Yokohama as well as for lights for both, streets and commercial purposes and power for industrial enterprises. The work involves the construction of several large dams, the first of which will cost upwards of $5,000,000.

Mr. Schuyler expected to make the trip around the world, via the Trans-Siberia railroad, but found that every place on the only English train which is run on the road had been taken for three months in advance. To go on any other train would mean taking a second class passage and being mixed up with unsavory classes of Russians, which was too unpleasant to try.

ANDREWS IS JUDGE

FORMER SHERIFF OF HAWAII BECOMES THE DISTRICT MAGISTRATE OF SOUTH HILO.

Lorrin A. Andrews, formerly Sheriff of the County of Hawaii, was appointed magistrate for the District of South Hilo this morning by Chief Justice Hartwell, of the Supreme Court. This fills the vacancy made by the resignation of Judge Hapai. The probability of this apointment was forecast early in the week in the Star and will be a most acceptable one to the people of Hilo, from the news which came down by the Mauna Kea this morning.

MUST HAVE OUTFIT OR CANNOT SAIL

SERIOUS EMERGENCY CONFRONTS TRANSPACIFIC YACHT RACE COMMITTEE—CONSIDERABLE AMOUNT MUST BE FORTHCOMING WITHIN A FEW DAYS TO FURNISH THE TERRITORIAL YACHT WITH EQUIPMENT FOR THE ROUND VOYAGE.

It was learned this afternoon that the sailing of the yacht Hawaii for San Pedro on June 1, to participate in the Transpacific yacht race appointed to start from the California port on July 4, is dependent on the committee's receiving further public contributions of money.

The additional funds are absolutely necessary to provide the yacht with adequate outfitting and stores for the voyage to San Pedro and the race back to Honolulu. Outside of $3000 debt on the yacht, the sum of $2000 will have to be paid in to the committee before June 1 for the purpose just mentioned. The alternative of failure of the money to materialize will be that the Hawaii cannot sail on the first of June.

Contributions should be handed to Charles T. Wilder, treasurer, at the Tax office, or, if more convenient, to W. H. McInerny, secretary, at McInerny's shoe store, Fort street. It is highly desirable that the money should not be held back until the end of the month. The Star has been asked to request that the amount should be made up by Tuesday next. Perhaps that is giving too short a time to citizens, but the week should not be allowed to close without the money being in sight.

As most if not all of the large business houses have given liberally to the building of the yacht, it is hoped that the small dealers—those of them not contributing anything hitherto especially—and the recipients of respectable salaries and wages in regular employment will be good for the moderate amount of money upon which the sailing of the yacht on time is now contingent. Even dollar subscriptions will be welcome.

By all means, give no occasion for reproach from the other side in connection with the race at the present stage of the game.

MORE GUNS FOR HARBOR

HEAVY BATTERIES WILL BE PLACED ON WAIKIKI SIDE OF CHANNEL AS WELL AS ON SAND ISLAND—SEAWALL EXTENSION OF SIX HUNDRED FEET TO BE MADE—PARK FEATURES ON NEW GROUND.

In addition to two 14-inch guns to be placed on Sand Island, on the Ewa side of the harbor channel, two great guns will be mounted on new land to be made on the Waikiki side of the channel.

Within a few weeks work will be started on the Waikiki side of the channel and the seawall will be extended makai about six hundred feet, the land being raised by excavated material from the sides of the channel itself.

When the work is complete the harbor entrance will present a formidable appearance and, withal, a pleasant prospect, for trees are to be planted, grass grown, seawalls hedged and flowers and shrubbery given an opportunity to beautify the made land on either side of the mouth. The lighthouse, tanks, powder magazines, guns, army buildings and auxiliaries will be arranged attractively as well as serviceably. It may not be a Golden Gate, but it will be nearer a gate of adamant.

MAN WORTH MILLIONS CANNOT EAT LOBSTER

Pioneer Brewer of Columbus Rebels Against Physician's Orders, but in Vain.

COLUMBUS, (O.), May 6.—Isn't it awful to be well to do and not able to eat?

Of course, you would say that such was the case in your own instance. But suppose for a moment that you wer worth many millions and then were worth many millions and then could not eat, what would you think then? If you never thought before that time you certainly would begin to think then. And such a situation exists with one of the best-known citizens of the capital city, all because of a desire for a lobster.

Some weeks ago Nicholas Schlee, the pioneer brewer and the reputed richest man of the city, became suddenly ill. To such an extent had the malady progressed that the papers published his obituary and all but predicted his early death.

But Mr. Schlee survived and bethought himself of live lobster. He spoke his mind to the doctor and was told that lobsters were not for men of his class at all, but for an entirely different set of fellows—not those who owned many houses, banks, breweries and other valuables, but for those who get about without automobiles and other like conveyances and suffer no inconvenience in consequence.

Mr. Schlee rebelled quite naturally, but his protest was of no account. He is still on the diet, and all his stocks, bonds, houses, properties and innumerable other things, to say nothing about the residue he has in various banks, will avail nothing compared to his appetite for the lobster, which anybody with a dollar or two and an inclination can eat.

POLITICIAN BITTEN BY WISE HORSE

Amusing Though Painful Incident In California Political Campaign.

ORATION IS RUDELY STOPPED.

Victim of Equine Viciousness Had To Be Sent To The Hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—A handsome bay horse with a marked antipathy for politicians, particularly of the Herrin brand, and a decided leaning toward the supporters of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, became involved in a friendly dispute with one of the lieutenants of the Southern Pacific boss, who was electioneering at the corner of Brady and Market streets this morning, which soon waxed so warm that Herrin's henchman, injured in feelings and in fact, had to be taken to the Central Emergency Hospital for treatment.

The horse belongs to one of the League watchers and had been left standing a short distance from the voting booth of the Fourth precinct in the Thirty-sixth district at Brady and Market streets, while his master was on duty within the polling booth. C. J. Clark, who lives at 118 Rose avenue and is one of the attaches of Herrin's organization, took up his post on the curb near the usually peaceable animal and made fruitless efforts to lure voters into switching their allegiance to his boss as they went up to vote in the primary election.

The horse stood this line of talk as long as he could and then softly bumped the offending politician with his nose, as a gentle persuader to go elsewhere with his excited exhortation.

Clark, however, paid no attention to the hint he had been given and continued to rate upon his particular brand of Republicanism until the horse sense of his equine listener could stand it no longer. He laid back his ears and reaching over seized a portion of Clark's physiognomy in his teeth, which he shut tightly, leaving marks which the injured politician will wear for some time.

Clark, when treated at the hospital, was inclined to take the matter good-naturedly, however, and confessed that had he realized the animal's degree of devotion to the organization with which his master was affiliated he would have spared him the pain of having to listen to a eulogy of the other portion of the party and himself the teeth marks which now display themselves upon his left cheek.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

A wagon laden with lamp globes collided with a motor bus, and much of the glass was smashed. Considerable sympathy was felt for the van driver as he gazed ruefully at the shattered fragments. A benevolent-looking old gentleman eyed him compassionately.

"My poor man," he said, "I suppose you have to make good this loss out of your own pocket?"

"Yes," was the melancholy reply.

"Well, well,' said the philanthropist, 'hold out your hat—here's a shilling for you, and I daresay others round will give you a helping hand."

The driver held out his hat, and several persons dropped coins into it. When the contributions had ceased, he emptied the contents of his hat into his pocket. Then pointing to the retreating figure of the philanthropist who had started the collection, he observed:

"Well, he is a take-down! He's my boss!"—Pearson's Weekly.

WEEKLY WEATHER BULLETIN

For the Week Ended May 16, 1908.

Honolulu, May 18, 1908.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

The mean temperatures were considerably higher than those of the preceding week at all stations on Kauai, and somewhat higher at the majority on Maui and Oahu, and at those in the Puna, Kau and Kona and the northern portion of the Hilo and the south-central portion of the Kohala districts of Hawaii.

The rainfall was above the average for the week at all stations having a record of ten or more years in the Kohala and Hilo districts of Hawaii, and below the average at all other such stations in the section, excepting Koloa, Kauai.

The excesses were .04 to .12 inch in the Kohala, and .77 inch to 1.52 inches in the Hilo districts of Hawaii. The deficiencies were: Hawaii, .39 to .44 inch in the Kau and Hamakua, .87 inch in the Puna, and .19 inch in the Kona; Oahu, .15 to .54 inch, and Kauai, .22 to .60 inch, excepting an excess of .44 at Koloa.

The greatest amounts of rainfall occurred in the Hilo district of Hawaii, and ranged from 2.83 to 5.94 inches. The amounts, in inches, in the other districts were: Hawaii—Kohala .84 to 1.05, Hamakua .38, Puna 1.26 to 3.00, Kac .06 to 1.13—excepting .00 at Pahala, and Kona 1.27 to 1.39; Maui—Koolau 1.26 to 2.25, Hamakualoa .54, Hamakuapoko .41 to 1.04, and .00 in the remaining districts; Oahu—Koolaupoko .40 to .96, and .00 to .07 at the remaining stations; Kauai—Koolau .67, Puna .00 to .36 and Kona .02 to 1.48, and Molokai .17. Moderately heavy rains occurred generally over the Hilo district of Hawaii on the 10th and 11th.

There was more rainfall than during the previous week at the majority of stations on Hawaii, and less on the other islands, but the differences were not large—the greatest excess being 3.14, and the largest deficiency 1.10.

Earthquake shocks were felt at 9.20 p. m. on the 10th at Kealakekua (Wallace), and 9.45 p. m. of the same date at Kealakekua (Davis).

The following table shows the weekly averages of temperature and rainfall for the principal Islands and for the Group:

	Temperature.	Rainfall.
Hawaii	70.5 deg.	2.08 inches.
Maui	73.8 deg.	0.55 inch.
Oahu	75.0 deg.	0.25 inch.
Kauai	74.0 deg.	0.46 inch.
Molokai	74.2 deg.	0.17 inch.
Entire Group	72.08 deg.	1.20 inches.

At the local office of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Honolulu partly cloudy weather obtained, with measurable rainfall on the 10th, amounting to .02 inch, .54 gelow the normal for the week, and .06 less than during the preceding week. The maximum temperature was 81 deg., minimum 68 deg., and mean 74.9 deg., which is 2 deg. above the normal and 3 deg. lower than last week's. The average daily relative humidity varied from 65 per cent to 70 per cent, with a mean of 68.7 per cent for the week. The prevailing wind direction was E. on the 12th and 13th, and N.E. on the remaining dates, and for the week, with an average hourly velocity of 7.4 miles. The mean daily barometer was normal on the 14th, and above normal .01 to .07 inch on the remaining dates.

TOWN TALK

By THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

I have been elected an honorary member of the COMMOTION COMMITTEE and was present at last night's meeting. This meeting was the most important of any held, for the Chief Decident had announced that the press was to be admitted to the charmed circle and the inquest opened with the Soakretary calling the roll of the newspapermen, of whom the following were present:

Oil bright, Molten Airs, Booster, O'Connors, Ma-a-ington, Dusty Roads, Satan, Slogan, Skinney, Annie More, Mathedaughter, Hen Schell and Gibraltar Gee Myth.

"The idea is to elevate things generally," declaimed the Decident, "hence this yeasty injection of mixed intellect."

"Have the scribes been sworn in as members?" inquired Brother Francis, tithe gatherer, shifting his leather contribution bag.

"Oaths are waived with the press," replied the Soakretary, "for the oath requires a member to tell the truth."

"But surely newspapermen tell the truth."

"They tell the truth,' was the sad reply, "but they are not limited to nothing but the truth, and they dare not tell the whole truth—all the time—in Honolulu—thank Goodness!"

Oilbright brushed away a tear; Skinney gulped; Ma-a-ington let out a stereotyped "fudge" with almost human intelligence; Booster sniggered; O'Connors looked politely indignant and Molten Airs wrote the following limerick on his otherwise immaculate cuff.

There was a young man of the Press
Who was asked if he'd kindly confess
If he e'er told a lie,
And he made this reply:
"That's for the Dear Reader to guess.

"The yacht Hawaii needs passage money to San Pedro," yawned the Decident, starting the mental gyroscope.

"May be Alexander Hume Ford has an idea how to gather it," urged Booster.

"Yes, let Ford runabout," laughed Jim Quinn, chauffeur, who was acting as doorkeeper.

"The Ford runabout is a gas machine," said Oilbright.

"So's Ford," O'Connors murmured.

"Put him aboard the Hawaii as auxiliary power," said Molten Airs, running his hand through his hair, "she may need the wind."

"Cut it out,' cried the Decident, throwing a pencil at Airs who instinctively pocketed the weapon, or wand.

"Yes, cut it out," demanded Mathedaughter, "or ex-Hume Ford, as it were." (loud cheers.)

There was a sudden commotion in the rear of the hall, the ice-water magazine exploded and the air for a moment was full of cracked ice.

"We're pinched," yelled Skinney, kicking over the traces.

"The devil," cried Satan.

Too true! Sheriff Jaukea, Chief Taylor, "Scotty," Waller, Achi, Claudius McBride, Thwing, John Martin, Jack Atkinson, Annie Marie Prescott and Howard Adams burst through the debris.

"Why this unseemly intrusion?" demanded His Decidence.

"These ladies and gentlemen," said Jaukea and Taylor, speaking at once, "declare there's conspiracy afoot to print their names."

The officers of the law were at once suppressed. Airs put a waste-paper basket like a cage over Curtis' headpiece and Ma-a-ington gagged the poor Chief with an "editorial." The complainants were invited to seats, Miss Prescott passing around copies of the Honolulu Times.

"Let us all unite in singing Annie Marie's poem on page 3," said George Davis, acting chaplain, when he'd found the place and shaken a lot of barb-wire parentheses out of his fingers.

Annie More fainted but Gibraltar Gee Myth saved the awful situation by making a noise like a Bystander

"I'd like, please (police) to go (it's a go) along (not for long) on the yacht Hawaii (Hawaii nei—nay, nay, Pauline!—pull in! alias haul in) as press (Oh such power) correspondent," said Annie Marie Prescott.

"You can, if there's a press cot to spare," said Dusty Roads.

"Let's discuss fleet athletics," suggested Molten Airs, "I'd like to strike a few safety matches, for the fleet entertainment, between good material. Don't all speak at once. Now what would be some good, drawing, scientific boxing contests?"

"John Martin vs. 'Scotty,'" boomed Gibraltar Gee.

"Howard Adams vs. Tosh," yelled Booster.

"Judge Kingsbury vs. Tom Fitch," cried Slogan.

"George Davis vs. Thwing," suggested Satan.

"Pop Spitzer vs. Lewis, or Pop O'Brien vs. Pop Adams," den Schell added, "or Soda-pop vs. Ginger-pop, any of which would be popular."

"Referred to the mixing committee," ordered the Decident.

"I object to that thirsty name for a committee," evangelicated Martin.

"So do I," said Airs, "I'm getting so I can't look a square-face in the face."

"Is Dusty Roads on the water-wagon?" inquired Booster.

"Always was," cried Roads.

"'Twould be better if they rolled a water wagon over dusty roads," said Hen Schell.

"Another strike and you're out," roared the Decident.

"Have you tried Koki's hair-restorer?" asked O'Connors of Molten Airs.

"What's that?"

"Why, during the Koki trial in the Federal Court I've noticed Judge Dole's beard has gained eleven inches."

"As long as that?"

"Yes, the trial still drags."

"No, I mean the beard."

"Oh, that'll be dragging, too, soon."

"Talking cases," said Oilbright, "how about Bierce vs. Hutchins?"

"Interfering with National politics," said O'Connors.

"How?"

"Keeping Alec Robertson away from the Republican National Convention."

The Decident rapped for order. "No politics allowed here," he declared.

Here it was for the first time noticed that Thwing's shoe-lace was untied and the meeting broke up in righteous indignation.

"It's a wonder you can't refrain from such fearful impropriety," said the Decident, "go home and dress yourself."

Their faces covered with their hands, their modesty thoroughly shocked, the congregation filed out, only Satan daring to look at the shameful decollete.

I believe it is commonly thought that Minister Gibson and King Kalakaua were the prime movers in the first effort to establish a Polynesian nation which should include all the people of the Pacific Islands, gathering them into one federation under the Hawaiian flag. Documents found by Secretary Lydecker, of the Board of Archives, however, show that the scheme was a far older one. Governor Boki of Oahu sailed from Honolulu with such a scheme in mind in 1829. This is quite a discovery. Alexander's History tells of Boki starting, with 300 men, in the brig Kamehameha, to get sandal wood from the South Pacific, but says nothing of the federation scheme. Boki was in debt and sandal wood was getting scarce on this island. He touched at Rotuma and remained there ten days, and then sailed for the New Hebrides. Nothing was heard of him or the vessel again. According to the letters in the archives which Lydecker is classifying, Boki had in mind the political project of uniting the Pacific islands in one nation, just as King Kalakaua hoped many years later to do it.

⁂

It was a very romantic dream. Imagine an inter-island nation, composed of all the peoples of Polynesia. Kalakaua made something of a start when he concluded an alliance with Samoa, but the famous Kaimiloa expedition, to cement the union, pau-ed it. In the ineffable hilarity of that matchless embassy treaties were lost and dissipated, like liquid sunshine as it descends on summer dust, and the grand project of a Pacific federation collapsed to rise no more. Nevertheless 'twas a radiant dream.

⁂

"Want to buy a dorg?" said the youngster in the play. Repeating that query, I beg to state that if you do, the man to communicate with is the poundmaster. Oahu county has a new and merciful deal for dawgs which are arrested for being alive without a license. The old-time practice of taking them to the pound and if they are not duly claimed using a club to send them to a happy hunting ground where scared cats are eternal and bones can never dry, has been given up. The dogs are now auctioned off. So if you want to buy a pet, consult the poundmaster and attend his auctions. His "goods" are not merely the despised low degree animals popularly supposed to be the only ones which fall victims to the dog-catcher. The other day a dog that had been impounded and remained uncalled for sold for $12.50.

⁂

Talking of the police raids on Chinese gamblers' private games, I wonder if Mr. Chang-tso-Fan, the consul who has just left us, and who was as fine a Chinese gentleman as could be wanted, told Minister Wu Ting Fang that he was one of the victims of police raid of a little private game of Chinese gentlemen? He didn't make any row about it, of course, but he probably told the Chinese minister if he had a chance to see him to do so. Before leaving Mr. Chang-tso Fan gave voice to some expressions of profound disgust at the local treatment of his countrymen. He made some good friends here, but when he left he said he hoped he would never return to Hawaii.

⁂

Circuit Judge Robinson was very kind to a juror who went to sleep the other day during the trial of a case,—more kind, in fact, than I have ever before heard of a judge being. The juror dozed off some time between ten and eleven in the morning and was very sound asleep when it came time to interrupt a witness for the eleven o'clock recess. "The court will take the usual recess," said the judge. "Mr. bailiff, you will kindly awaken Mr. Juror Blank and inform him that the court is taking a recess."

The reason that no letter has been published from George R. Carter, accepting the position of chairman of the fleet executive committee, has leaked out and I am happy to have the pleasure of announcing it to the exclusion of the news sleuths who follow the vocation daily. We all remember the famous episode in regard to willingness to marry his daughter to a Japanese, in which our late governor took part. Also the sale of the island of Lanai.

Now in these two matters there was trouble brewing for George R. from the fertile pen of my old companion, R. Beverly Kidd, and no wasp ever stung harder and it was "same place evely time." Therefore listen and hear words of wisdom and truth. Carter did not accept the position as chairman till he had cabled to Will Cooke in New York to find out whether Beverly was coming back before the fleet got here. Learning that he would not get here till later on Carter accepted, but it was too late for a formal letter of acceptance to look well.

"Us Irish" have certainly got a kick coming. Not satisfied with setting forth our physical characteristics in a manner both displeasing and insulting to the canon of art as brought down from the dark ages by the Hanahana Smart League but they have gone even further and it is too much. What do you think of having a Japanese consul here named Mickey (Miki), the change in spelling being simply an added touch, for who knows how to spell his name better than a son of Erin? I could have stood for this though, till I ran across the name in the court records the other day of Patrick Silva. Shades of Brian Boru, can we stand for this?

HE SHUT THE WINDOW.

There is a certain old gentleman who partaeks of the qualities of the diamond as it is mined, but whose lack of "polish" is a sad trial to his eldest daughter. The old gentleman, as he expresses it, "got thar with both feet when some dude investors come pirutin' round the range." Not long ago the family were gathered in the library one of th ewindows of which was open.

"That air——" the father began, but was quickly interrupted.

"Father, dear, don't say 'that air'—say 'that there,'" the daughter admonished.

"Well, this ear—" he again attempted, but was as quickly brought to a halt.

"Nor 'this 'ere;' 'this here' is correct," he was told.

The old gentleman rose with an angry snort. "Look here, Mary," he said, with asperity. "Of course, I know you have been to school and all that, but I reckon I know what I want to say, an' I am going to say it. I believe I feel cold in this ear from that air, and I'm going to shut the window."—Tit-Bits.

WALKS FIFTEEN MILES TO FUNERAL AT 104

MUSKEGON, Mich., May 5.—"Buckshot Dan" McPhal, 104 years old, walked fifteen miles today to attend the funeral ofr Patrick Philip Bogie, who died the other day at the age of 100.

McPhal is a member of the "Hundred Year Old Club" composed of six residents of Muskegon county, whose ages are in the neighborhood of the century mark. They have sworn to be chums for life and to attend the final services of all members who die before them.

McPhal lives fifteen miles from North Muskegon, where Bogie resided. He walked the distance to demonstrate that he retains much of his youthful vigor.

Why "VUDOR" PORCH SHADES Are Needed

You need Vudor Porch Shades to get the most out of your porch.

To make it a spot where you can rest or work on the hottest days—outdoors, yet free from the sun's glare and heat.

You can do this with Vudor Porch Shades; you can add to the house another room, cool and shady, where you may enjoy every refreshing breeze, in secluded comfort.

Vudor Porch Shades are very durable, and will last many seasons.

Another good feature about them is the peculiar fact that those sitting on the porch can see out, but passersby cannot see in. In other words, you have complete privacy, and can use the porch or veranda the same as an inside room, with infinitely more comfort on hot days.

Vudor Porch Snades are just the thing for "boxing in" porches or balconies that are to be used as outdoor sleeping or living apartments.

Vudor Porch Shades are made of thin, flat strips of Linden Wood, closely bound by strong Seine Twine, in a lock-stitch weave.

They are artistically stained in soft, pleasing colors. These colors are weather-proof, and will not fade or crock off.

The shades can be instantly raised, or lowered (operating on the principle of a theatre curtain) and are easily and readily put up.

GEORGE F. HENSHALL ..... MANAGER

SATURDAY ..... MAY 23, 1908

THE ROUGH STAGE PASSED.

Development of diversified industries in Hawaii would proceed as it were automatically if only the auxiliary conditions were established Factors of soil and climate, practically also of irrigation, are here primordially, the sole question in these regards being that of area of cultivable land yet unoccupied.

Tropical agriculture was in much of a primitive state the world over a quarter of a century ago. It was said then, however much truth there might have been in the assertion, that tropical agriculture was lacking altogether in standard literature of its own. Now it has a copious body of technical literature in text book, treatise and record forms. Tropical agriculture can today be pursued after the methods of an exact science. Therefore the toilsome road of experimentation has not to be traveled, except it be upon the lines of improvement and of labor-saving methods. If a man desires to raise oranges or grapes for instance, he can find the right guidance to success at his hand. He has not to discover anything rudimentary for himself and only need exert mental effort to adapt existing science to such local variations of conditions as may differentiate his place from any localities for which rules have been drived from experimentation. Even in this respect the present day agriculturist has access to the constantly accruing body of knowledge in public experiment stations established for the common benefit. All this is different from the state of affairs which existed in the past.

In its inception here the sugar industry was conducted by crude modes, its scientific evolution up to the present status—that of being the world's standard—having extended during the life of a generation. The first pineapples with which the Honolulu market was acquainted, which revealed the possibilities of a great industry now being realized, were the inferior little things that came in small parcels from the Kona coast, where they grew with little or no cultivation among the hot rocks. Coffee, that with a fair show will yet take a large place in Hawaiian exports, came from the same district, yielding, though gathered from unkempt bushes, an aroma that to trained olfactories was a prophecy of the great future now fairly dawned. Bananas luxuriate in the forests and oranges in the gulches all over the islands.

There is no question of the adaptability of the Hawaiian soil and climate for the profitable raising of the products before mentioned, with countless others besides, which have a perpetual market here and abroad. Neither is there doubt regarding available science of production. All that is needed to develop the still considerably latent resources of tropical agriculture in Hawaii may be summed up as the peopling with industrious settlers of all unoccupied lands and adequate facilities for marketing their produce, supplied both the new settlers and the people already living upon the soil in any degree of independent tenure.

JURIES AND PUBLIC OPINION.

The disagreement of a jury in Abe Ruef's case is one of the most striking examples ever furnished of the controlling strength of public opinion even in the jury box. It is a debateable question whether the course of justice would not be more true if the jury system were abandoned and trained judges given the duty of settling questions of fact as well as law, but deep rooted reverence for the jury system is in the way of such a change. The theory of the law is that twelve unbiased and unprehudiced men shall hear the evidence and decide the facts, basing their decision solely on what they hear in court. The fact is that twelve such men can never by any possibility be secured and that men capable of settling issues by a calm intellectual process free from bias or prejudice are so scarce as to be freaks. As showing the force of public opinion, it may be stated that if Ruef had been tried a couple of years ago he would surely have been convicted. He seems to have known it too, and he out-generalled the prosecution by pleading guilty to an indictment which as a lawyer he doubtless felt was defective and would fail, as it did, on appeal. Now that it has been shown that the reaction has set in San Francisco and that public sentiment has ceased to back the graft prosecution, largely on account of its methods and motives exposed, Ruef feels it safe to go to a jury. Others, generally thought to be equally guilty with him, feel the same way.

The idea that public sentiment influences jurors to the extent above indicated does not necessarily mean that citizens violate their oath to render a true verdict to the best of their ability. The influence is unconsciously felt. When powerful, as in the early days of the San Francisco graft exposures, it is a sort of atmosphere. Perhaps in these days of proven telepathy it is not unreasonable to suppose that it is a real and direct power, bearing upon the twelve minds engaged in deciding a specific cause regarding which popular sentiment runs high.

If the Star's much-wanted morning paper lasted two days that would be a day longer than its Sunday paper lasted.—Advertiser.

The Star issued a Sunday paper for the first time—about twelve years ago. It was easily a financial success. But local religious sentiment was against it, and for that reason alone it was stopped. That was when the Sabbath was more carefully observed here than it is now,—before we had Sunday baseball, a Sunday Advertiser and other sports.

Having said that the Advertiser declared the police to be "without authority" to interfere with gambling in clubs, and that the motive was a dangerous one, The Star is answered this morning by the following:

> To those who know that the last Legislature put the clamp on the clubs that are easy to form, the comment of the Star will be merely amusing.
>
> The last legislature pased no law whatever upon the subject, except as the new liquor law affects club applications for licenses to serve intoxicants. As far as the law is concerned, there is no more difficulty in forming clubs now than there was before the legislature met. Further:
>
> The Advertiser has not said there was gambling in the clubs or if there were that it could not be reached; merely that games of cards there are not in the class with the games in public gambling houses where the Star has put them. Misquotations from this paper are common in the Star and without them that paper could make no reply to its statements.

Here is the Advertiser's original statement:

> The police are after public gambling places, and have no more authority to enter clubs and homes to interrupt a private game of cards than they have to interfere with drinking there after the hour for shutting up saloons has passed.

It might be observed that we used the term "without authority" exactly reproducing the Advertiser's idea. In attempting to disclaim it the Advertiser expends it into a remark that gambling "could not be reached," a very different proposition indeed, as any detective knows.

Where is the misquotation?

BECOMING A FARCE.

On the very page yesterday where the Star was celebrating its civic virtues, old habit asserted itself and it spoke of "the more or less absurd gambling crusade to get rid of Brown." Does the Advertiser need any plainer proof of the hollowness of the Star's pretensions of being on the side of good government? If there ever was a crusade which was needed it was the anti-gambling one, and the people endorsed it by a fair majority in both districts and by a tremendous one in the fourth. In calling the campaign "absurd" the Star is merely currying favor with the Cunha alley politicians, whose cause it plainly means to support.—Advertiser.

What a stretch of misquotation there is in this one little paragraph,—from a characterization as "more or less absurd" to "calling the (whole) campaign 'absurd.'" And how absolutely puerile is the conclusion! The same old, old charge is there of seeking to "curry favor" some way or other with somebody or other,—the Advertiser's unswerving notion of the underlying motive of every line of printed matter it disagrees with,—but in this case reduced to such a ridiculous pass as to be unworthy a Home Rule politician.

BRIGHT THINGS IN CONGRESS

(From the Congressional Record.)

"The Congressional Record is the greatest daily published in the wide, wide world."—Congressman Clayton of Alabama.

CONGRESSMAN HALE of Tennessee: Sir William White, who is an expert upon everything relating to navies and the construction of ships, says that we have got the best ships, considering construction, armament, gunnery and everything that makes up the efficiency of ships, that any nation in the world has got, and that contents me. It was not a surprise to me; I believed it before; but I was glad to have the testimony of so acute, discriminating, and searching an investigator as Sir William White.

SENATOR TELLER of Colorado: I do not think it is decent for a country as rich as the United States to send its ambassadors abroad as they are sent now, even if they have abundant money, to pass six months, a year, or eighteen months in looking for a suitable place to house themselves. You have all heard the story of Mr. Choate and what he is reported to have said in a speech at a dinner. He said he wished to compliment the police of London; that on the night of his arrival in London it was very rainy. He was wandering about the streets and a policeman stopped him and said: "What are you doing here?" He said: "I am just wandering about the streets." The policeman said, "You must not do that; you must go home." "Why," said Mr. Choate, "I have no home; I am the American ambassador." (Laughter.) That is on exaggerated way of stating what is an actual fact.

CONGRESSMAN LEAKE, of New Jersey: The man who, in a misdirected effort to punish an evildoer visits the vengeance of the law upon the great mass of innocent victims, is the foe of progress. The Roosevelt policies are based upon the inherent dishonesty of mankind. They are absolutely false, and they are applied in a most dangerous and unfortunate manner. They overlook the principal causes of our evils—administrative and legislative inefficiency; and they seek to divert a righteous condemnation of Republican administration by the American people. They are about as useful as the substitution of unbuckling the crupper for the unchecking of a thirsty horse. In the first place the people need a rest, and when they have recovered from this Republican panic they need more home rule and less Roosevelt domination. (Renewed applause on the Democratic side.) They need more of the Democratic principle of exact justice to all men and less Republican discretion. They need the emancipation of the House of Representatives. Drive the boss system from this House or you will have socialism. Give the people full representation in one branch of your Government or they will certainly lose respect for and they may overthrow all. (Loud applause on the Democratic side.)

SENATOR STONE of Missouri: To see a young man like Senator Bryan already eminent, and yet with all his highest hopes and best opportunities before him, standing in the morning light with undimmed eyes uplifted to green hills and to loftier peaks beyond, suddenly stricken with the shriveling pain of death is something so terribly pathetic that it staggers even the strongest. It is a note struck on the chords of life so discordant that it puts the whole world out of tune, and we can not help pausing to wonder and to question. But wonder and question as we may, what answer will come to us? We can not answer for ourselves. In the presence of such a tragedy no unaided mortal wisdom can soothe the heart's tumult or silence the mind's protest. But this I know, that somewhere in the far-off summerland we have mothers—mothers who taught us to lisp a prayer in childhood days. Sometimes we fancy we can see their sweet, benignant faces smiling down through the shadows. If they could give answer to our questioning, they would tell us with that simple, sublime, submissive faith with which they comforted in the long ago, "It is God's will." And, after all, that old, familiar saying embodies all that Christian men can know concerning the stupendous mystery of death.

MANCHURIA MYSTERY

A Japanese fisherman, owner of a sampan, called at the office of H. Hackfeld & Co. this morning, demanding that he be paid for landing three men at Diamond Head from the S. S. Manchuria last night.

The steamship agents could not get out of him who the men were or why it was that they were landed from the vessel.

A man living on Tantalus says he noticed in the dusk that the Manchuria was behaving queerly, circling twice and apparently lowering a boat, and that he saw her lights for some time after she should have rounded the head.

Who was put ashore or what was the meaning of the queer maneuvers is unknown and the sampan man appears to know nothing.

SUGAR ON HAWAII.

OTHER ISLAND SHIPPING.

Purser Phillips of the S .S. Mauna Kea which arrived this morning from Hilo and way ports, makes the following shipping report:

S. S. Maui will arrive at this port tomorrow with sugar and cattle from Hawaii. A.-H. S. S. Texan reached Hilo Friday morning from Kaanapali. She has the steel structural iron for the new Masonic Hall at Hilo. She expects to sail, full loaded, for Santa Cruz on Monday. S. S. Enterprise reached Hilo from San Francisco on Wednesday last. The bark Mohican sailed from Hilo on Friday for the Coast. The barkentine Aurora will be through loading tonight and will put to sea tomorow or on Monday.

THE YACHT HAWAII

The yacht Hawaii, under the command of Captain Harris and with her regular crew and a party of invited guests on board, will leave the Alakea street wharf tomorrow morning at ten o'clock for a trial spin outside, returning in three or four hours.

Tomorrow will be the last day that anyone will be able to see how the Hawaii sails, as Captain Harris will allow no one on board during her trial spins hereafter, except the regular crew.

She will leave for San Pedro on Monday, June 1, some time in the forenoon.

MAUNA KEA FROM HILO

THE INTER-ISLAND FLAGSHIP BRINGS SEVERAL INTERESTING PEOPLE FROM THE OUTPORTS.

It quit raining when the Inter-Island flagship Mauna Kea, Captain Freeman, before 7 o'clock this morning arrived from Hilo and way ports. She brought a lot of passengers.

President J. A. Kennedy of the I.-I. S. N. Co. returned from a business trip.

L. A. Thurston, J. B. Castle and L. A. Garnsey, the latter a Redondo man, did not return, intending to come back in the Mauna Loa. They are on Hawaii on business connected with the affairs of the Hawaiian Mahogany Company, concerning ohia ties for the Santa Fe contract.

D. E. Metzger, who was recently awarded the Hilo breakwater contract, comes to the city in the flagship.

Captain Humphrey, United States Depot Quartermaster, returns from the Big Island.

W. J. Coelho, Senator and Maui leader, is in the city per Mauna Kea.

United States District Attorney R. W. Breckons and U. S. Marshal E. R. Hendry are home again after creating the usual stir abroad which their presence creates on the other islands. They left here suddenly for Lahaina in the Claudine last night and most people upon learning of their return will remark that they were not aware they had gone.

Charlie Hall, the hustling traveling man, is back again to the joy of many friends.

Purser Phillips reports thef ollowing freight: One shaft, three horses, five boxes chickens, eleven bales awa, 16 bundles hides, 20 crates of luscious Hawaii celery, frosty white at the roots; 22 barrels of empty bottles, souvenirs of Hilo's thirst; 24 packages of veal; 26 bags of cabbage; 30 1-2 cords of wood; 31 empty kegs, 256 sheep and 195 packages of sundries.

A VERDICT FOR BIERCE

AWARDED $28,156 BY JURY LAST NIGHT AFTER LONG AND HARD CONTEST.

After a trial for nearly two weeks, a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $28,156 was returned by the jury in the Bierce vs. Hutchins case last night at 9:30. The case was given to the jurors at 6:30 last night, after a full day of argument, and was practically decided by the instructions of Judge De Bolt. The hour or more that was spent in deliberation, the rest of the time being consumed with dinner, was taken in explaining the situation to the four Hawaiian members of the body.

The suit was on a replevin bond, given by C. J. Hutchins, trustee. Henry Waterhouse and A. B. Wood were the sureties on the original bond. The bond was to secure the return of a plantation railroad furnished to the Kona plantation, which was afterward sold at a receiver's sale. Hutchins was trustee for the purchasers. In the first suit Judge De Bolt decided in favor of the plaintiff but was reversed by the Supreme Court of the Territory, and the last mentioned decision was reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States. This threw the matter of the replevin bond back on the local courts, resulting in the suit which was completed yesterday. Notice of a motion for a new trial was given after the verdict was brought in last night.

LEONARD RUNS HILO RAILROAD

The resignation of D. E. Metzger, as superintendent of the Hilo railroad, has been accepted and his place will be filled temporarily by H. M. Leonard, who has had charge or the books of the railroad company and has acted in the place of the superintendent when he was away. The appointment is that of acting-superintendent, and whether it will be made permanent or not has not yet been decided on by the directors.

ON MARRIAGE.

Mark Twain, at the remarkably beautiful dinner that Robert Collier gave at Sherry's in New York, sat beside Miss Ethel Barrymore.

Miss Barrymore, the story goes, talked to the great humorist about marriage. She spoke of the odd views on marriage that are held by H. G. Wells, by George Moore, by George Meredith, and by Mr. Howells, who is continually saying that passionate love soon dies.

"What is your idea of marriage?" she asked the humorist.

"Let me repeat to you," he replied, "a remark that I heard a Hartford man once make.

"It was at the marriage of this man's daughter. All was over, and the young couple were about to start on their honeymoon.

"The man, as he bade his new son-in-law good-by, shook him by the hand and said huskily:

"'It's twenty-five years since I was fixed up, Bill, my boy, and I trust you'll—well, of course, the rough goes with the smooth.'"

START ON HILO BREAKWATER

The first work on the Hilo breakwater will probably be started within the next month, according to a statement made by D. E. Metzger, who arrived here this morning by the Mauna Kea, to sign up the contract for the building of the Hawaii harbor protection. This does not mean the placing of the stone in position, or even the bringing of it to the shore where the breakwater will start, but simply the preliminary work in the quarry at Puna.

Mr. Metzger stated that he was rather surprised to find that he had been awarded the contract for placing the stone in position, as he had thought that it was more likely that he would simply be given the job of quarrying and furnishing the stone needed. His arrangements for the plant which will be needed are practically completed and will be made through the Honolulu Iron Works. The plant will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000.

The method of building the breakwater by running a track out on the rock fill will not be used, according to the contractor. He will start a trestle from the shore and will carry it out to the end of the work, believing that by doing this from the start he will be able to do faster work, and not take any chances of being forced to change his plans after he is in the middle of the job.

In speaking of the feeling of the Hilo people in rgeard to the contract Mr. Metzger said:

"I think that everyone in Hilo is well satisfied with the way that things have turned out. At first there was a feeling that they would much rather have the work go to other contractors who would have their quarries near the town, but this disappeared when the situation became better understood. As the superintendent of the Hilo Railroad I have always purchased everything possible in Hilo and there will be no change in this policy when I am doing my own work.

"I should say that it would be about ninety days before the actual work on the breakwater itself will be started. It will probably be about thirty days before the contract is approved and then I am allowed sixty days more in which to start the work. I can see no reason that the work should not start in time and go through very rapidly.

"I will sign up the contract with Captain Otwell on Monday or Tuesday and in the meantime, ever since hearing of the acceptance of my bid, I have been making all the arrangements possible to get ready for a quick start."

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—Captain Otwell's recommendation of the Metzger bid was based largely upon hearings held in his offices after the opening of the bids in Honolulu. Instruction No. 2, of the instructions to bidders, stated that "a firm, as such, will not be accepted as a guarantor nor a partner for a copartner or firm of which he is a member." The testimony shows that Mayer admitted that his bondsmen were financially interested in his proposed contract, but there was no actually formed company.

In addition to this violation of the rule of bidding, Captain Otwell's full report to General McKenzie contained the statements that no definite company had yet been formed by Mayer to carry on the work, and it appeared that there was doubt as to the quarrying rights held by Mayer in connection with the property from which he proposed to get rock. Metzger had all these points straight in his record and testimony, and Captain Otwell in his recommendation said, as a result of the investigation, it is believed the following facts are developed:

As a result of the investigation, it is believed the following facts are developed:

That the lowest bidder, Mr. Mayer, submitted the bid before having formed a definite business association or partnership;

That the bid of Mr. Mayer was practically that of Messrs. Hoogs and Belser, they alone filing protest against the acceptance of the next lower bidder;

That the guarantors to his bid were to all intents and purposes his partners, and hence disqualified as guarantors.

That the engineer—Mr. Smith—showed reasonable care in preparing estimates of cost and details of plant, but that the bid was submitted without having a definite or businesslike arrangement as to the essential right to quarry;

That Mr. Metzger's bid is that of himself alone—he having offered, if required by this office, to take an affidavit to that effect;

That his arrangements were perfected in a businesslike manner, except that the rate which he agreed upon with the Hilo Railroad was prepared hardily;

That while the agreement as to rates was not signed by either the Railroad Company or himself, the same was reduced to writing and orally agreed upon by both parties before Mr. Metzger submitted his bid;

That with the sixty days advertising, contractors—save probably Mr. Plummer who represented Mr. R. A. Perry of San Francisco—were dilatory in ascertaining freight rates from the Hilo Railroad;

That the Hilo Railroad was dilatory in not having prepared rates based on various conditions, most of which could have been foreseen, hereby forming a basis for prompt consideration upon application of any contractor; (It should be stated in justice to the railroad company that they claim the matter would have been taken up sooner had not the return of Mr. Walter Dillingham been delayed, due, partially at least, to his illness, but in any event had any contractor called upon them in time, they would have entered negotiations.)

That from the evidence available, the opinion is not warranted that the Hilo Railroad desired to quote a rate to Mr. Metzger only, this, however, being subject to proof by Mr. Plummer that he did not make the refusal attributed by Walter Dillingham to him.

Based on the above facts, it is believed that:

The bid of Mr. Mayer should be rejected;

The bid of Mr. Metzger should be accepted, provided—first, that it is not based on a freight rate fixed by the Hilo Railroad with the evident intent of furnishing it to Mr. Metzger only, thus enabling them to dictate an exorbitant charge for hauling; second, that the price is reasonable.

With reference to the first consideration:

The only evidence warranting serious consideration is inference to be drawn from the statement of Mr. Plummer that he was practically denied a rate by the Hilo railroad. If the statement of Mr. Walter Dillingham is correct, and there is little evidence to the contrary, there is no proof of the charge of attempt to control the rate. Unfortunately, it is impossible to interview Mr. Plummer further, and only such other evidence as may be locally available can be considered. The main question of interest to this office is whether or not there would be any material reduction in freight rates should the proposals be readvertised—this being necessary in case Mr. Metzger's bid be not accepted, the other two bids being irregular and excessive.

A very fair indicator of the reasonableness or of the excessiveness of the freight rate of the Hilo Railroad would seem to be obtainable by comparison of the bids for rock hauled over the railroad, and for rock not so hauled. The bid of Mr. Mayer for rock procured from a quarry off the Hilo Railroad, one, or not to exceed two, miles from the breakwater, is $1.80, while that of Mr. Metzger for rock hauled 25 miles over the Hilo Railroad is $1.89, a difference of but 9 cents. This slight difference would seem to indicate that the rate of the Hilo Railroad is reasonable. The bid of $1.80 is probably based on difficulties or other reasons counter-balancing the cost of the longer haul. Beyond Mr. Hoogs' simple statement that if proposals were readvertised they would make a much better figure, there is no evidence to warrant the assumption that the bid of $1.80 is not based on careful consideration of the actual cost with reasonable contractor's profit. Needless to say, such a statement should receive very little consideration. If they could have made a lower figure, but did not, knowing the advantage of their location, there is little reason to assume that the figure is greatly in excess of that to be expected in the future tenders. There could therefore be no material advantage to the United States to readvertise, while there would be the disadvantage of delay at least, and of the possibility that such action might be interpreted as a recognition of unbusinesslike methods in submitting proposals for Federal work.

With reference to the second provision:

The original estimate of this office was $1.33 per short ton for stone in place in the breakwater, if of type 3, or $1.47 per short to nif of type 2.

While it is believed that these figures are sufficient, if the entire breakwater be considered, still, since there is required a relatively large percentage of large, as compared with small, stone where the depth is so shallow as it will be over the portion to be completed under the contract, since there is a large initial cost of plant, both for quarrying and for hauling since there is considerable uncertainty of the manner in which the rock will break up in the quarry, and since the prices on the two lowest proposals, based on careful investigation by Messrs. Metzger for himself, and Smith for Mr. Mayer, are practically the same, it is not believed that for work of this type, entirely new to this country, the price of $1.89 per short ton for stone delivered is unreasonable.

With reference to the question as to which of the bids—for material delivered only, or for stone in place—is most advantageous, it should be noted in Mr. Metzger's interview, that his bid for material in place is based on the construction of a single trestle, he allowing 59 1-2 cents per ton for placing stone by this method. While this construction may eventually prove necessary, it is believed that with a double track railroad placed on the rock five feet above low water, with a locomotive crane and inclined switches to push the empty cars on to the second track, the work can be done quite expeditiously, and at a cost of 25 cents per ton as against 40 cents per ton estimated by this office, for the trestle method. The difference between 59 1-2 cents bid and 23 cents estimated, which will probably be quite sufficient, it is believed justifies the acceptance of the bid for materials only.

I am therefore of the opinion that the award should be made to D. E. Metzger for furnishing the stone at such point of the breakwater as may be directed, at the price bid—$1.89 per short ton.

If this recommendation be approved, notice to that effect is requested by cable, in order that the receipt of the plant may be expedited as far as practicable.

A description of methods proposed for the construction of the breakwater and the plant required, with request for authority to purchase, is set forth in a separate communication of this date.

CONSULT WITH FLEET OFFICERS

question that is causing heated discussion among the people of the Pacific isles.

Cladius H. McBride, private secretary to Governor Frear, is in San Francisco as secretary to the Hawaii fleet committee, to get suggestions from the San Francisco committee as to the best entertainment to provide. McBride called a meeting of Hawaiian people in this city Thursday in the office of J. J. Dunne in the Monadnock building, and his ideas of giving a distinctly Hawaiian form of entertainment, including the dances and the feasts, were enthusiastically indorsed. Dunne was former United States assistant district attorney in Honolulu. Among others present were McBride, S. Crook, A. H. Crook, J. M. Johnson, J. S. McCandless, William Boler and Dr. Mitchell. Then McBride took the matter up with Mayor Taylor and Chairman Phelan.

"By all means, have a distinctly Hawaiian program for the sailors, something they haven't seen, and something that will be so unique they will remember it always," was practically the mayor's indorsement, and he approved a cablegram to that effect sent by McBride to the Honolulu committee. Phelan went even further by dictating the following cable himself:

"Acting Governor Ernest Mott-Smith:

"As requested, I suggest characteristic Hawaiian entertainment, sailors' athletic games and other important changes, and that McBride arrange general plan proposed now, our committee helping.

"JAMES D. PHELAN."

The hula dance, which is a characteristic island form of entertainment, is performed by native women in rather undress costume. McBride's plan, which has been indorsed by Governor Frear, is that this dance be given publicly under the auspices of the committee, with certain regulations governing dress, etc. Otherwise, he says, the sailors will contrive to see it anyway, and not always under the best circumstances. The luau feasts, which some of the Hawaiian committee also want tabooed, is a favorite native form of banqueting. Those who attend it sit crosslegged around a big circle, and are served island dishes, the most famous of which are poi, a form of vegetable paste, and roast pig cooked in the ground. All these things, it is believed, would make a tremendous hit with the seamen.

McBride is also securing the opinions of the sailors themselves. Without exception, they have declared enthusiastically for the hula and the luau. The opposition to this form of entertainment in Hawaii is said to have come from certain of the missionaries, while others are just as emphatically in their favor.

HALEIWA AND WAHIAWA.

The most delightful ride in this section of the Territory is that between Honolulu and Haleiwa with a side trip to Wahiawa where the pineapples are now ripening. You can make this in an automobile without tiring and get to Haleiwa in ample time for lunch or, if you make an afternoon trip of it, in time for a splendid dinner for which Manager Bidgood is famed. There is much to see on the run and the trip is growing more popular every day. The number of public automobiles in Honolulu make the journey possible. If you are going in a party and want special dishes for your meal, telephone Mr. Bidgood before you leave town.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Honolulu promises to be like it used to be during the days of the monarchy when the fleet arrives in July. Dances every evening, dinner and luncheon parties, bridge, tea, receptions and other forms of social enjoyment will be crowded into one of the busiest weeks that Honolulu has known for many years.

Society is waiting with bated breath for the Diamond Head lookout to announce that the great armada is in sight, and from the time that the anchors are dropped until they are weighed one gay, maddening round of enjoyment is in store for those who live for pleasure.

The women in the smart set are doing nothing these days but talking about who is going to entertain the most for the officers, and unless there is less jealousy the invitation lists are likely to be most beautifully mixed up.

There are a great number of officers in the fleet who are well known here, having visited here many years ago in some of the older ships in the service, and they will be very busy renewing old friendships.

The crowning social event of the visit will undoubtedly be the ball which will be given at Waikiki the second night of the fleet's stay.

Already the many modistes in town are busy with new gowns for the matrons and maids, and from now until late in the fall they will be very busy, as the summer and fall will be the gayest ever known here as far as Naval events go. The question of receiving the men at the dances is still being earnestly discussed by the members of the 400, and it is almost certain that some that have been opposed to dancing with the men in blue will be seen doing that same in July.

The fleet has been received everywhere by the social set with open arms, and it is to be hoped that Honolulu will not fail to do her share when the time comes.

Willard E. Brown, Mrs. Brown and their children left for San Francisco in the Manchuria. They will be away until September, the greater part of their time to be spent in motoring through California.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin entertained a number of their young friends at dinner Thursday night, the party going out to the dance at the Seaside later on. The table was very prettily decorated with roses, maiden hair ferns, and maile leis. Those present besides the host and hostess were Miss Hazel Heilbron, Miss Florence Ingersoll and Messrs. Charles Albright, Ray Jones and Foster Davis.

♠ ♠ ♠

The home-coming of the younger set from schools and colleges on the mainland will soon begin, and in a few weeks the familiar faces of the young ladies and gentlemen will be seen at the many social functions which are being planned for the coming summer.

♠ ♠ ♠

One of the principal events of the week will be the visit to Honolulu of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Virgil of New York. Mr. Virgil is of world wide reputation—an educator in music—and Mrs. Virgil an accomplished pianist. They are to give a very interesting program in the ball room of the Young Hotel May 29th at 8 p. m., and no one can afford to miss this opportunity.

A gentleman friend the other day made a complaint to me which I think has considerable foundation. "I would like to know," he said, "what is the rule, if there is any in Honolulu, about speaking to ladies on the street. Is it the reverse of what I have been accustomed to? I always thought that after a lady and gentleman had been introduced as formal acquaintances, it was for the lady to first indicate whether, in passing on the street, she wished to speak or not. Once or twice in Honolulu I have had the pleasure of introductions to ladies and then on meeting them on the street have seen them go sailing by often looking directly at me without speaking. My notion was that in such a case, the gentleman should not bow. I thought the lady was supposed to speak first, exercising a sort of right to keep up the acquaintance or not, as she chose. Later I have learned that some of these same ladies complained of my rudeness in not speaking, and I fear I have made enemies by following a simple rule which I thought was all right." Has Honolulu a rule of her own?

Dr. and Mrs. Doremus Scudder were the hosts at a very prtty dinner at their home on Monday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Noble, who are making a tour of the world. Besides the guests of honor those present were Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cooke and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lowrey.

Major and Mrs. Dunning were the hosts at a very pretty dinner at their quarters, Fort Shafter, on Tuesday evening, in honor of Captain and Mrs. Rees. The other guests were Judge and Mrs. Selden B. Kingsbury.

♠ ♠ ♠

Miss Schaefer was the hostess Thursday afternoon at one of the largest bridge teas that have been given this year at her father's home, Nuuanu avenue. The beautiful home was tastefully decorated with cutflowers, palms, and ferns, and one of the most brilliant gatherings of Honolulu's smart set were present during the afternoon. Dainty ices and cakes were served during the afternoon and everyone present voiced the afternoon a great success.

♠ ♠ ♠

Hon. S. A. Duke and his granddaughter, Miss Marguerite Duke, who have been in Honolulu for several months as guests at the Pleasanton, left for home yesterday in the Manchuria. They have made many friends during their stay here and it is quite likely that they will return for a visit next year.

♠ ♠ ♠

Captain Goodwin of the American ship Dirigo was the host at a very pretty dinner party in the private dining room of the Young Hotel last Friday evening. Red carnations and maile leis were used entirely in the decorations. The place cards were very pretty pictures of the Dirigo under full sail. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall, Captain and Mrs. Wadhmans, Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mrs. Kackley and Mr. Edward Duisenberg.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitch were departing passengers yesterday in the Manchuria. They do not expect to return until late in the fall. Mr. Fitch will present the famous sake case before the United States Supreme Court in October.

♠ ♠ ♠

General and Mrs. Pratt, who have been here with the Dukes, left for their home in Denver, Colorado, in the Manchuria yesterday.

♠ ♠ ♠

Acting Governor E. A. Mott-Smith was the host at a luncheon yesterday at the Young Hotel in honor of Consul W. T. Gracey and Mrs. Gracey who were through passengers on the Manchuria. H. P. Wood was a guest at the luncheon.

♠ ♠ ♠

General and Mrs. McClellan were departing passengers yesterday in the Manchuria. It is very uncertain if they will return before the late fall.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Lansing entertained at the Commercial Club last Saturday at luncheon for Mrs. P. Peck and Miss Stella Peck.

♠ ♠ ♠

D. H. Lewis of Jovejoy & Co. entertained Stanley Fletcher of London at luncheon on Thursday at the Commercial Club.

♠ ♠ ♠

President G. W. Smith of the Commercial Club had as his luncheon guest at the Club on Thursday, T. R. Cheatham of Reno, Nevada.

♠ ♠ ♠

Captain F. C. Miller gave a luncheon last Saturday at the Commercial Club in honor of Father Emanuel Rogier of Fanning Island. The other guests present were Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Crockett and Father Valentin.

♠ ♠ ♠

R. C. Stackable, F. W. Macfarlane and J. F. Childs have been hosts this week at the Commercial Club to a number of their friends at luncheon.

♠ ♠ ♠

Col. A. H. Strong and Mrs. Strong of Rochester, N. Y., who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. George R. Carter, for the last few months left for their home yesterday afternoon in the Manchuria.

♠ ♠ ♠

The many friends of Lieutenant-Commander Carter of the U. S. S. Iroquois will be sorry to hear that he will leave here shortly to be attached to one of the vessels on the Coast. It is possible, however, that he will be here during the summer when the fleet arrives.

♠ ♠ ♠

W. R. Castle was a departing passenger yesterday afternoon in the Manchuria. Mr. Castle goes directly to Cambridge, Mass., to attend the graduation of his son Alfred at Harvard.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mrs. James W. Saunders and her daughter, Miss Dora, who have been guests at the Seaside for a number of months, left for home last Tuesday in the Hilonian. It is quite likely that they will return here for another visit in the near future.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown were unable to leave in the Manchuria, but hope to be able to get away in the Mongolia on June 13 for their annual trip to the East.

♠ ♠ ♠

George Brown and Allison Jordan are having a very pleasant trip through the Orient and are not expected home until the middle of July.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mrs. F. G. Bland and her two charming daughters of Pasadena, Cal., are guests at the Pleasanton. They will probably remain here until late in the fall and spend the winter in the Orient.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mrs. Bland entertained on Thursday evening at the Pleasanton, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Courteen and Mr. Biggs, who are at present guests at the Moana.

♠ ♠ ♠

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Olds have taken apartments at the Pleasanton and will move in after their return from the volcano next week.

Mrs. J. D. Gaines was the hostess at a very pretty bridge party on Thursday afternon at the Pleasanton, the tables being placed on the lawn at the rear of the house, so that the guests could get the benefit of the cool Manoa breezes. Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon. The lucky ones who carried off the prizes were Mrs. Halstead and Mrs. Pearson.

It has been some time since so many pretty gowns have been seen at an afternoon function. Among those present were Princess Kawananakoa and Mesdames Brown, Halstead, Cooper, Paxton, Thurston, Pearson, Lackland, Richardson, Wall, Riggs, Campbell and Miss McStocker.

♠ ♠ ♠

Captain Rees, U. S. N., and Mrs. Rees entertained informally at dinner last Saturday night at the Pleasanton in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Langhorne, Paymaster and Mrs. Brooke, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Fay.

♠ ♠ ♠

Geenral and Mrs. Pratt were the hosts at a small dinner party in the private dining room of the Pleasanton on Tuesday evening. The table was tastefully decorated with ferns and cutflowers. Those present were S. A. Duke and Miss Duke, Professor and Mrs. Alexander, Theodore Richards and Mrs. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hall.

♠ ♠ ♠

A very quiet dinner was given on Wednesday night at the Pleasanton in honor of General and Mrs. Edward Davis by General and Mrs. Pratt. Besides the guests of honor those present were Mrs. Duke and Miss Duke.

Dr. Derby and Mrs. Derby, who have been guests at the Haleiwa Hotel for a few days, have returned to town.

A number of the local musical talent made it possible to give the sailor boys the most pleasant evening of their stay in port. Among those who helped in the evening's entertainment were Miss Damon, Miss Restarick, Mrs. George Davies, George Davies and David W. Anderson.

♠ ♠ ♠

A concert under the direction of George Davies was given on Thursday night at the Seamen's Institute, in honor of the crews of the English bark Holywood and the English ship Elvaston which are at present in port.

Songs, dances and instrumental music were enjoyed until quite late in the evening.

Kapiolani League, Kapiolani Park, afternoon: Twilights vs. Young Tidal Waves; Reliances vs. Leahis.

Seaside League, Oil tank grounds, afternoon: Pacifics vs. Star Lights; Okumas vs. Sweet violets.

Newspaper League, League grounds, afternoon: Advertiser vs. Bulletins; Mercantile vs. Paradise.

Golf tournament, Country Club, morning.

A large number of golfers are expected to be on hand tomorrow morning at the Country Club, when the Bogey tournament starts. Two prizes have been offered and some interesting scores are looked for. The links are in very good condition, the greens being especially fine. Play will start promptly at ten o'clock.

The baseball fans who journey out to the league grounds this afternoon to witness the big games will probably see the best baseball they have seen so far this year.

The Punahou-Saint Louis game, which will be played first, will be a fight from start to finish. Both teams have been working very hard this week correcting their weak points, and the best kind of baseball will be played. The betting slightly favors the Puns, although lots of Saint Louis money will be on hand at the game.

The second game between the leading and tail end teams in the league looks like an easy victory for the Heads, although the Kams promise some surprises this afternoon. Jones and Vanatta will probably be in the game, and with Dick Reuter in the box they ought to be able to put up better ball than they have so far this year. Hampton will be in the box for the Puns with Lyman on the receiving end, while Soares and Bushnell will be the battery for the Saints.

The rooters' chorus will be on hand in the Ewa bleachers, and with such men as Jackie Doyle, War Scribe Jimmie Dougherty, Doc Monsarrat, William "Caruso" Welsh and others, the players will have to play ball if they don't wish to be joshed during the entire game.

The famous side-line coach, James Thompson, will be on hand for the Heads and it is safe to say that with him there the admission ought to be much larger than ever before this year.

"Play ball" will be the signal tomorrow afternoon at the league grounds for great cheering, when the Advertiser and Bulletin teams line-up in the first game in the Newspaper League. Both teams are determined to win, and good, fast ball will be in order. The second game between the Mercantile and Paradise teams ought to be fast from start to finish, as both teams have been winning so far in the series. Good baseball will be in order, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

One of the largest crowds that have attended a luau this year is expected to be on hand this evening at Notley Hall, at the luau to be given by the champion Aala A. C. baseball team.

A fine program of songs, speeches and instrumental music has been arranged to be given during the luau, and afterward dancing will be indulged in until the arrival of Sunday morning. The luau will start promptly at six o'clock, and no one will be admitted to the hall without a ticket.

The four horses that will take part in the special races this afternoon at Kapiolani Park are in the best of condition, and some good sport is in store for the lovers of the sport of kings.

A large number of cricketers is expected to be on hand this afternoon on the Makiki field, when the team from the two British vessels in port lines up against the local players. The game will start promptly at two o'clock and wickets will probably be drawn about five-thirty.

Bill Chillingworth arrived this morning in the Mauna Kea and will be in the game for the Heads against the Kams this afternoon.

The five-mile automobile race this afternoon on the Kapiolani track will probably draw a large number of motorists to watch it, and as all arrangements for safety have been made, the race should be, to say the least, interesting. Both cars will carry their full complement of passengers. The race will start promptly at four o'clock.

The second game in the Junior interscholastic baseball league was played yesterday afternoon on Makiki field between the Kaahumanu and Alilicani school teams, the former winning by the one-sided score of 13-1.

The second teams of Punahou and Saint Louis College met yesterday afternoon on the Punahou grounds in a very good game of baseball, the Saints defeating their rivals by the score of 15-7. Smith and Yen formed the battery for the Saints, whilee Frazier and Hind did the same for the losers.

A large number of the local Japanese colony is expected to be on hand tomorrow afternoon on the Kakaako grounds to witness the opening games in the new Japanese baseball league. Consul General Saito will throw the first ball. A very handsome silver cup will be given the winning team at the close of the season in October.

FANCY DANCING

On Saturday evening, June 13, a children's fancy party will be given at the Moana Hotel under the direction of Mrs. Mary Gunn. It is to be a fancy dress affair, and promises to eclipse all former exhibitions of fancy dancing.

Over half a hundred children are training for the party, which is to be held in the dining room of the Moana, where there will be ample room for the dainty little dancers to disport themselves.

Special music will be furnished by a large orchestra, and after 10 o'clock a general dance for the audience will be in order.

WOOD-CUTTER AND TREE.

If you were a wood-cutter, and somebody told you to cut down a pine-tree that would give a sixty-foot mast for a vessel, how would you go about selecting a tree? You could not spare the time to measure it with a tape-line, even if that method were practicable. Besides being a wood-cutter, you should be able to select a tree of a certain height readily, not by merely looking at it, for this, at best, is nothing but guesswork. Now, the wood-cutters of Maine have a quick and simple way of taking the measure, and it is worth telling to the Wide-Awakers. Assuming that a mast sixty feet in height is wanted, the cutter selects a tree that he thinks will furnish it, and then measures off on the ground, from the trunk, sixty feet, less his own height. If he is six feet tall, therefore, he would measure off on the ground fifty-four feet. At this point he puts upright in the ground a pole exactly his own height. Then he lies down on the ground with his feet to the pole, so that his head is just sixty feet from the tree. Lying thus, face upwards, of course, he sights over the top of the pole, and the point on the tree-trunk on a line with the top of the pole is pretty sure to be sixty feet from the ground.—Chicago Daily News.

LONDON TAKEN BY A POMPADOUR

Flora Wiggins In "College Widow" Gets All the Laughs in London.

NOT ADE'S WIT, BUT HER RAT.

Humor, and the American, the English, the German and the French Notion of It.

(By Amy Leslie in Chicago Daily News.)

Mr. Ade, whom we regard as buoyantly witty and an irresistible humorist, never touched them over the water, but Gertrude Quinlan's pompadour was swept up the Strand like a simoon of laugh dust which set them all talking about America.

Now, when Miss Quinlan startled this country by hitting up Flora Wiggins of the college boarding house in such a vigorous style as to make America laugh, the success was regarded something in the light of an accident which, to say the least, was rather putting it over Miss Quinlan with the smallest show of national pride. Now that London has laughed, actually laughed blithely, let us hope, with an American for the first time in its theatrical life, Miss Quinlan's comedy corpulence must be admitted without the nullifying adjunct of accidental.

MAYBE GERTIE KNEW.

Gertie probably knew it was loaded. She is a quiet person of unobtrusive talents as a coy soubrette of the molasses-candy variety, much lauded in musical comedy, but she is a Yankee with a splotch of Irish in her veins and her humor was brisk enough for her to laugh obstreperously at herself in many of the kittenish girly-girly jokes Mr. Savage repeatedly asked her to operate in disguise from the noisy end of a comic opera. But the public knew nothing of that. And when Miss Quinlan, who had never shone so as to put other and further soubrettes in the shade, stepped out of the kittenish row and commanded a rich comedy situation, revealed a creation in purely domestic comedy of the broadest pattern, it was instantly set down as a regular hunk of Savage luck, which counted nothing in the praise of the artist.

ADE ONLY ONE OF MANY MYSTERIES.

To be sure, George Ade is quite a solemn mystery for London. It would be a dreadful disappointment to his friends if London had seen clear through him when Mark Twain, Artemus Ward, Nat Goodwin, Harry Dixey, Lotta and everything else actually delightful in the land of laughter struck them dumb with a mystifying admiration of the kind Shakespeare talks about. The only American fun the Londoners tackled to was that of Jimmy Powers' bell hop in "A Bunch of Keys" and Little Tich, a monstrosity who clowned grotesquely. But Gertrude Quinlan's hit depends entirely upon the choice antics of her pompadour. The uproarious humor in her severe attitude toward the college students, her apathetic sympathy with the hulky boy who has made the awful wish to be back home and all the subtleties of the Quinlan first aid to the witty slid down comfortably unobserved in the grin of the west ender chewing his cane and gloating over her wonderful pompadour. Perhaps they regard it as a zoo capture, alive and kicking comedy up in the brow of Gertie.

TRYING TO ENTERTAIN THE BRITISH.

I remember a doleful reading of Ezra Kendall's comic effusion in book form once upon an occasion made sad up in Blackeath environs where some natty young guardsmen had been invited up from the barracks to drink tea with the Goodwins. Miss Gertrude Elliott was entertaining her fiance, Forbes Robertson, too, upon the same afternoon and it rained, of course. Tea in a garden with nothing but a London June sun to depend upon is usually largely water before the clouds feel comfortable. With the rain came a dullness which threatened to throw me into nervous prostration, as I had been stabbing sugar for one hour and piling it into a Tokyo cup for a stunning young lieutenant named Beresford who wore a Victoria cross tucked away under his corset edge and displayed an alarming breadth of chest. I gave way under the strain and proposed that Gertrude read a page from "Artie." They were the most delightfully reposeful and amiable beings, those husky boys of the Queen's Own—for there was no king just then—and the besugared Beresford sprang up like a gun-shy deer and said, "By Jove!" in the most terrific outburst of enthusiasm, so I knew he had heard of the magic name of Ade.

"ARTIE" IS READ AMID SILENCE.

"Oh, ah, yes, dear Miss Elliott, do. You know, Manchester reads the blooming stuff outrageously and makes no end of fun. Let's have it. I'll hunt the book." But it was not to be hunted on Nat Goodwin's American parapets, for it lay out of the wet just where Gertrude's dainty hand could wrest it from oblivion, and she began to read the chapter where the fresh messenger boy visits Artie's boss and Artie puts him through a course of delightful joshing. Not a laugh penetrated the patter of rain sounds on Nat's eighteenth century "Penzance" roof as the reading proceeded, though we saved sugar by the absentminded Beresford's lapse into a mechanical leer of anticipation. The only line, "Sit down and take off your gloves," appealed to Beresford and, after the sad reading was over, he said decisively:

"Not a bad idea that, to make messenger boys wear gloves, by Jove! They are soiled little devils everywhere, possibly in Chicago, too."

"Possibly," echoed Nat and Maxine and I in a pathetic choral as Nat closed "Artie" reverently. With a perverseness born of the weather Miss Elliott dragged out Ezra Kendall and stood up in the middle of the garden where a huge tree protected us from the drizzle and read with delicious humor Ezra's description of rides in street cars and sleepers. Mr. Robertson, who is accounted a wit and delicate humorist, objected openly to Ezra and none of them could understand why we expected laughter for plain statements of the habits of a country. Our afternoon of American humor was a drab and humiliating defeat and we sugared up the army sadder with wiser ladies after our collapse.

BUT THE BRITISH DO LAUGH.

And yet the British are the greatest people to laugh I ever knew. They live up to the top notch of having a good time and their whole lives are passed looking for entertainment, for fun and laughter. Now it is a question whether perhaps the British are not wittier than we, for they did laugh with Dickens and Hogarth and always with the French, who are the universal wits for all the world. The Japanese laugh with French humor and wonder much at American. Sometimes I wonder whether we are so dog-gonned funny as our humorists think we are. I never heard of a Chinaman laughing at an American joke, but they perpetrate many of their own and silently grin beyond us. The French, volatile, effervescent, elegant and subtle, never fail to make any nation laugh when they so desire. The Irish have a kinship with these Gauls and manage the same way, though their wit is of a cleaner, blunt and bragging pattern. No people can be so coarse with so little open offense as the French and their wit is nearly always both philosophy and religion, though sinful and suggestive. German wit nobody can pretend to overlook, for it is as obvious as the price of beer. Dean Swift and the Beaumont and Fletcher comedy were carefully attuned jesters compared to the blood-pudding humorists of Germany. They are funny—philosophical, rude, but the funniest people on earth and they have the broadest comedy view of any people unless it be Americans. Come to think of it, the comedy which is most atrocious goes the best here. Meantime, Gertrude Quinlan's pompadour is being set to music and the British lyres are singing her praises.

FLORA IS ALL THE RAGE.

They do not know what her lines mean at all, but they shriek with uncontrollable laughter when Gertie's Flora turns a frigid eye studentward and tilts her pompadour leeward with a savage glance. They are building hats and naming them the Flora and red pocket books are seen on the swards when the Johnnies come marching home, and crowds are packing the theater regardless of the widow, the rah-rah push, the slang and the squab, all of which is "rot, old top, don't you know," just for the sake of applauding Gertrude's rat of brown with its animated and cultivated expressiveness.

ACTRESS-EDITOR GETS PAY IN FARM PRODUCE

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 5.—Laura Biggar Bennett, former actress, who received almost $1,000,000 from the estate of her husband, Henry M. Bennett, theatrical manager, has satisfied the ambition of her life. She is now a real editor, even if it is in a country where the subscriptions are paid in yams, alfalfa and Mexican turnips. The paper which Mrs. Bennett owns and edits is the Daily Sun of Albuquerque, N. M.

Some time ago Mrs. Bennett's son's health failed and she took him to the Southwest. She was so much pleased with the place that she decided to settle there, and in order to have her mind occupied she purchased the Sun. She came back to Pittsburg today to settle up her affairs here, as she expects to reside there permanently.

"It's glorious to be an editor," she said today. "All these Arizona Kicker stories that you read about are bosh. Since I've owned the Sun there has been only one 'bad man' in trying to shoot up the office, and he was intoxicated. The editors of the other papers ride over to see me on their bronchos, and some of them have said real nice things about me editorially.

"Of course, it's hard to use all the produce that comes in for subscriptions and advertising, but then I like it all immensely, anyhow."

NOTICE OF SALE OF GENERAL LEASES OF AGRICULTURAL LANDS AT LAUPAHOEHOE-WELOKA AND KAIAAKEA, HILO, HAWAII.

At twelve o'clock noon, Monday, June 8, 1908, at the front entrance of the Judiciary Building, Honolulu, there will be sold at public auction, under the Provisions of Part 5, Land Act 1895, and of Sections 278-285 inclusive, Revised Laws of Hawaii, General Leases of the following described lands:

1. Lands of Laupahoehoe-Weloka, comprising of the lands of Weloka-Paeohe, Kapehu 2, Kapehu 1, East Moanalulu, West Moanalulu, Kaiwilahilahi, Papaaloa, Kihalani, Hokumahoe, Manowaiopae-Puualaea, Kilau and Laupahoehoe, and consisting of 3,132 acres, more or less, agricultural land, said land being situated at Laupahoehoe, Island of Hawaii.

Term of Lease, ten (10) years from May 1, 1909.

Upset rental, $8,456.40 per annum, payable semi-annually in advance.

This Lease will be sold reserving to the outgoing tenant the privilege of harvesting crops growing on the land on May 1, 1909, the outgoing tenant being required to pay for such privilege to the incoming tenant an amount equal to the rent per acre paid by such incoming tenant proportioned to the time required to complete such harvesting.

2. Lands of Kaiaakea, consisting of 100 acres more or less, agricultural land, said land being situated near Laupahoehoe, Island of Hawaii.

Term of Lease, eight (8) years from May 1, 1908.

Upset rental, $335.00 per annum, payable semi-annually in advance.

The lessees will be allowed to cut from the premises such trees as may be necessary to provide fence posts for constructing and maintaining the fences required under the terms and conditions of these leases.

The Government also excepts and reserves from all of the above tracts, all roads, trails and rights-of-way.

The usual reservations regarding land required by the Government for settlement or public purposes will be embodied in each of the above leases.

For plans and full particulars, apply at the Office of the undersigned, Judiciary Building, Honolulu, or at the Office of the Sub-Agent at Hilo on the Island of Hawaii.

Here Is Some Advice---

Honolulu more than any other city in the World, is a place where the Evening Paper gets the news first. The clock here is over two hours behind the clock at San Francisco, four hours behind Chicago, five hours behind New York and ten to eleven hours behind the clocks in the European capitals.

This means that when The Star is going to press THE DAY IS CLOSED in Washington, Chicago, New York and Europe and almost over in San Francisco. The news of the day is here for The Star.

Under modern conditions it takes practically no time to prepare and transmit news and THE STAR gets every evening the cable dispatches giving

The News Of All The World
For The Day Just Ended---

Here are some of the features that go to make the evening paper the predominating factor in an advertising campaign:

It is delivered at the home each night when the whole family has plenty of time to read it.

It is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done and it stays there. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family and hurriedly read.

The evening paper is not read hurriedly, but thoroughly, so that all the advertisements receive their share of attention.

It presents the store news a little ahead, giving the prospective purchaser time to plan a shopping tour for the next morning.

The evening paper presents the news the day it happens. The morning paper the day after.

The evening paper presents the news first. The morning paper merely elaborates it.

The evening paper prints daylight news. The morning paper takes what is left.

THE WATER PROBLEM

FOR A TRIFLING SUM ONE MILLION GALLONS DAILY COULD BE ADDED.

The poverty of the department of Public Works cannot be better illustrated than by the present threat of a water famine. If the small sum of $1,200 was only available, there would have been no notices in the papers and everything would have gone along smoothly. The $1,200 mentioned would be applied at once to the purchase of a gasoline engine for use in Makiki Valley. There is a fine deep well pump there, which is dismantled, and useless at present because there is no engine available to use with it. The boiler of the engine, which was a steam affair, was taken down to the sewer pumping works some three years ago, and since that time this well, with a supply of water of the finest kind, has been useless.

To buy and place in position a gasoline engine which would do this work in a satisfactory manner would cost about $1,200 but where is the money to come from? It is expected that the department will face a deficit of $8,000 by the time that the legislature meets. With the engine mentioned the Makiki well would be able to furnish 1,000,000 gallons per day of the finest artesian water, which would have allowed plenty for everyone and have assured a full supply for all irrigation.

Another matter which Campbell would like to take up is the rebuilding of the Kalmuki reservoir, but there is no money in sight. To do this work would cost about $25,000 and Campbell says:

"Let some one furnish me the money and I will go ahead so fast that it will make your head swim. I will start on the work tomorrow if I can get money to do it."

TARRIES FOR TARS

Good ship Dirigo, Captain Goodwin, tarries in the stream awaiting tars. First she was waiting for the tug Intrepid to return from towing the bark Kaiulani to Kaanapali. The Intrepid returned last night and still the foremaster waits in the srteam, lacking men.

She had a crew, but the mate threw five men ashore for sauciness and the captain is tired of monkeying with bums who profess to be anxious to ship and then behave like loons when they get aboard, and he's thinking seriously of taking Japanese who are well-behaved, rarely drunkards and get into sea-shape quickly. The Dirigo may sail today.

SIX NEW CITIZENS

FOUR BRITISHERS AND TWO OTHER EUROPEANS COMING UP FOR NATURALIZATION

Monday will be naturalization day in the Federal Court and six foreigners will come before Judge Dole to swear allegiance to the flag and promise to forsake the monarchs of Europe Of these Great Britain will as usual furnish the greater number No less than four British subjects are ready to come under the folds of the Stars and Stripes Germany will furnish one and Belgium the other.

Henry Beerman, a German subject, who was anxious to take up the privileges of American citizenship ,and who was one of those to appear, will not be heard from. His application was made under Judge Doles ruling in the Rodiek case, which was recently reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, and Beerman must wait for two years after making application to get his final papers.

James Arthur Rath, in charge of the Palama Settlement work will be among those to renounce King Edward and has presented the names of Dr. Doremus Scudder and W. R. Castle as his witnesses. Castle's testimony was taken yesterday, just before he left for the Coast in the Manchuria. The others who will appear are Alexander Smart Young, William Knott and J. Gustavus Munro, all of Great Britain, Frank J. Louke, of Belgium; Rudolph Kurella, of Germany.

KALIHI BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETING

A meeting of the new Kalihi Baseball League was held last night in Cooley chapel, a large attendance of members being present.

It was decided to open the season in three or four weeks, the games being played on the Fort Shafter grounds, until the new Kalihi grounds are finished.

The Tidal Waves sent in an application to be admitted to the league, but action on their application was deferred until the Moanalua team was heard from.

The president of the league, Edwin Fernandez, announced that he would give a cup for the championship of the league. His gift was received with enthusiastic applause.

Lieut. Chilton of the 20th Infantry will have charge of the Fort Shafter team, which promises to be one of the fastest in the league. The teams that will compose the league are the Kalihi A. C., Roads and Bridges, Fort Shafter, Wailele, and either Moanalua or the Tidal Waves.

The following officers of the league were present at last night's meeting: President Fernandez, Secretary Atkinson.

IN POLICE COURT

Only five cases were on the calendar this morning at Police Court for trial, and they were disposed of with the usual alacrity.

R. Kinney, who assaulted Nigel Jackson the other afternoon with a deadly weapon, had his case nolle prossed on account of Jackson's willingness to withdraw the complaint. The charge of profanity against Apau was also nolle prossed.

Ah Gau, a minor, charged with truancy, had his case continued until Monday morning.

Gus One was given a chance to reform, sentence being suspended for thirteen months, on account of drunkenness.

K. Kauhiolola was fined $4 for being drunk.
