

PRINGLE IS DISCHARGED BY COTTRILL

Luther A. K. Evans was this afternoon appointed a Deputy U. S. Internal Revenue Collector to take the place of C. D. Pringle who put in his unconditional resignation at 1:30 this afternoon as per demand of Collector C. A. Cottrill.

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue C. D. Pringle is out of office whether he likes it or not. Collector Cottrill demands his unconditional resignation at a certain hour this afternoon.

In the absence of the unconditional resignation, Mr. Pringle will be summarily removed.

Pringle has stated that he will see his attorney, but when his attorney sees that the appointment reads "at the collector's pleasure," the attorney, said to be Clem Quinn, will likely advise a resignation, as requested, so that his client may still retain a chance to obtain a position elsewhere in the internal revenue service.

Pringle Made Charges.

On May 4 Pringle gave to Collector Cottrill what purported to be information against members of the internal revenue staff. The statements made by Pringle involved criminal charges. So serious were the charges that Cottrill immediately made a thorough personal investigation, occupying three or four days, with the result that Cottrill informed Pringle that unless he substantiated the charges against certain other employes of the office his resignation would be required.

This morning Pringle handed in his resignation "under protest," as he worded it, saying: "You called my attention to the information which you had furnished you and you said to me that said information amounted to a charge against certain other employes of said department as aforesaid, and that if I could not substantiate the same, you, as collector, aforesaid, would demand my resignation. I hereby tender my resignation 'under protest.'"

Nothing in the Charges.

"Pringle, being unable to substantiate his charges," says the collector, "has resigned. But I want a resignation without condition, and he has been allowed a few hours to make up his mind. I have personally gone into all the charges, covering several days careful investigation, and I find that Mr. Pringle has absolutely failed to substantiate a single statement. The allegations are false."

This is no sudden circumstance in the office of the Internal Revenue Collector, for Pringle has been a problem ever since he has been there.

Former Collector Drake found it necessary to suspend him for fifteen days on account of inattention to duty and, as Drake expressed it today, Pringle's resignation would have been asked for at that time except for the fact that the man seemed to be in financial trouble and the sympathy of the collector led to his being given another chance.

Pringle's charges were hinted at before he made his statements to Collector Cottrill, and Inspector Thomas also investigated and found them without foundation.

Now Pringle renews his charges and is invited to resign or be fired for the information given by Pringle was voluntary and unsubstantiated. If true, it would have affected every man on the staff, but Cottrill declares emphatically that Pringle's allegations are without the faintest substantiation in fact and that, for the "good of the service" Mr. Pringle's presence is no longer desired in the office.

DR. RAMUS EXPLAINS THE QUARANTINE RULES

Dr. Ramus, head of the federal quarantine service, this morning gave the Star a statement in answer to some of the criticisms passed upon the existing quarantine. He said: "There seemed to be a general misunderstanding in regard to the enforcement of the outgoing quarantine regulations. It would seem desirable to all concerned to have this cleared up if possible."

"In the first place, I must define our positions as quarantine officers. We are subject to orders for transfer from Washington at any time from our surgeon-general. Our details at Honolulu and other ports are, therefore, temporary. We have no personal interest in the islands except that required for the proper performance of our official duties and the more or less fascination felt by all who have been privileged to live for awhile in these beautiful islands.

Try to Avoid Severity.

"In the conduct then of the quarantine service at this and other ports, our aim first of all is to administer the United States quarantine laws and regulations efficiently and impartially. These prime requisites having been fulfilled, our next endeavor is to make their application no more severe or irksome than necessary, but in order to do this—to maintain an efficient though somewhat elastic quarantine—many complications and vexatious details inevitably arise. The first thing encountered is class distinction. On through vessels if we let the cabin passengers ashore the second class are indignant. If the second class are

WILL TAKE NO RISK OF TARO DISEASE BEING BROUGHT IN

Edward M. Ehrhorn, superintendent of entomology, has made a report to the Commissioners of Agriculture and Forestry, containing the following with reference to March work:

As in the previous month, plant shipments continued to arrive, and about 4,165 plants, trees and shrubs were examined. Having found previous shipments infested with scale insects and other pests, I deemed it advisable, on account of the methods used in packing and the packing materials, to subject these shipments to longer fumigation. The results have been very satisfactory and no injury to the shipments has resulted. We are very careful about fumigating plants and never attempt to do it if plants are at all moist from sweating en route, as in such condition fumigation will invariably injure the foliage. On some oranges in the baggage of a passenger from Fiji we found a new scale insect (Pinnaspis sp.). The white peach scale (Aulacaspis pentagona), is frequently found on plants from the Orient, and although we have the pest here, we always destroy badly infested plants.

Don't Want Japanese Oranges.

Some orange trees from Japan infested with the White fly (Aleyrodes citri) were thoroughly fumigated first, then each tree was defoliated and cut back to stumps. This pest only infests the foliage, so that after our vigorous treatment no danger of the pest remained; all foliage and twigs were burned. We discouraged the

REBEL AGAINST ORDER PROHIBITING BATHING IN OCEAN

The interisland quarantine was lifted today by Dr. Ramus in accordance with cabled instructions from Washington, and it is said that there may soon be other loosening of the quarantine rules. The local order prohibiting bathing in the harbor will be the next to go, according to report, unless there are new cases of cholera.

J. B. Lightfoot and C. E. Mayne, two prominent members of the Hea-lani Yacht and Boat Club, were placed under technical arrest on Saturday afternoon, on a charge of bathing in the waters of the harbor, in violation of the Board of Health cholera regulation.

A large crowd of the club members had been in the water swimming and the news was conveyed to them that a police officer was on his way to the scene. A few minutes after this Harbor Officer Carter appeared and placed Lightfoot and Mayne under arrest. Attorney Joseph Lightfoot was communicated with and he saw Deputy Sheriff Rose, with the result that the matter was allowed to stand over until today when Mr. Mott-Smith could be seen about the matter.

No warrants were issued for the arrest of the two young men, nor are their names to be found on the police charge sheets. In fact, it is claimed that no actual arrests were made, and further that this morning Mr. Mott-Smith gave orders to the police department that no warrants nor penal summonses were to be issued in respect to similar cases.

Bert Lightfoot claims he is quite ready to have his case made a test case and saw Mr. Mott-Smith with regard to the matter this morning. At that time Mr. Mott-Smith was undecided about the matter and planned having a conference with the Public Health and Marine Hospital doctors before taking any further steps in the matter.

When the bathers were in the water it was known at the clubhouse that Harbor Officer Carter was on his way down, but the boys had previously taken legal opinion as to the validity of the Board of Health order and were willing to test it. Consequently Carter had little to do to make the arrests. Bert Lightfoot explained this morning that he had made two efforts during last week to see Mr. Mott-Smith with regard to the matter but had been unable to meet him, owing to Mr. Mott-Smith being engaged on other matters.

Lightfoot also claimed that yesterday the crew of the revenue cutter Thetis and the mascot of the boat were in the water swimming and so far have not been placed under arrest. Yet the doctor of the Thetis is a member of the Public Health and Marine Hospital service.

Dr. Ramus remarked this morning that it was all a question of currents, whether it was dangerous or not to bathe in the harbor. At that time the conference between the territorial and federal health officers had not taken place.

Bathing at night has become the fashion along the Waikiki beach since the regulation was made prohibiting bathing. It is stated by residents along the beach that scores of people have been going in the water every night.

It was reported today that the regulation against bathing would be withdrawn tomorrow.

KOREANS TAKE PLACES OF THE STRIKING JAPANESE STEVEDORES

The strike by Japanese laborers on the railroad wharves has been broken by Koreans, who are giving entire satisfaction and everything is progressing smoothly.

On Friday night the Japanese laborers employed by the railroad company on its wharves, to load and unload the trucks, struck for extra wages. The railroad declined to give them the twenty-five cents an hour for night work—an increase of ten cents—and the men quit right away. The Honolulu was on the berth, and had intended taking away as many bags as possible of the 40,000 awaiting her, but she had to go away without even one being placed in her holds, for the Japanese struck before this portion of her cargo was ready for handling.

The employes were firm on the matter, and work on the wharves—that is the handling of truck cargo—was at a standstill throughout Saturday, and the Japanese on the El Dorado ceased work later on in order to show their sympathy. In the circumstances, there was not much dislocation, for the Arizohan was discharging a general cargo, and was not nearly ready to receive her sugar cargo, but the El Dorado was tied up in the discharging of her nitrate.

Manager Hurtt, however, lost no time in repairing the damage, for as soon as the Japanese struck on Friday night he went quietly to work and began to engage Koreans as an experiment. He continued his work, and now he has got together fifty-nine of them. They have been given a trial, and making allowances for the strangeness of the work, they are giving entire satisfaction. With familiarity he is satisfied that they will be as good as the Japanese. The work of bringing the staff up to the full strength of seventy-five is being proceeded with, and will be concluded today.

Hurtt thinks that the whole trouble began with two or three agitators, who have sowed the seeds of discontent among the men. He does not consider that the whole of the men were in sympathy with it, but the ringleaders began to make the men dissatisfied and then convinced them that they were entitled to more than they were getting. With the engagement of the Koreans the Japanese have disappeared from the wharves and no trouble is anticipated.

HILO SCANDAL PAU, NO INDICTMENTS?

The federal grand jury has finished its investigations of the Hilo High School affair and the witnesses have all been excused. Those summoned from Hilo will probably return on the Mauna Kea tomorrow. It is not expected that there will be any indictments as a result of the investigation, but the jury in its report to the court may take occasion to express its opinion of the school conditions.

MAN ESCAPED, WOMAN LET GO

Matilda Pestana, indicted for perjury in a liquor case, was leniently dealt with this morning on changing her plea from not guilty to guilty. County Attorney Cathcart stated that the man acquitted, largely through her evidence, had escaped from the jurisdiction and could not be punished, and therefore he asked that sentence of the woman be suspended. Judge Cooper granted the request. L. M. Straus was counsel for the defendant.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 8.—President Diaz has issued a proclamation in which he states that he will resign the presidency of Mexico when he is sure that anarchy will not follow. Immediate resignation is impracticable. There will be no new election.

EL PASO, May 8.—General Madero has issued a proclamation withdrawing his army from before Juarez and Anna Prieta. He offers an armistice to the Federals in the Juarez district. He has notified President Diaz that he will start for the City of Mexico today.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The news from Mexico is favorable to peace. LONDON, May 8.—Queen Dowager Alexandra will be absent from London during the coronation ceremonies.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—There is friction between China and Japan because the latter are collecting customs at the leased port of Dalny.

BRITONS WANT LOCAL HOLIDAY BUT FEAR FEARS COMPLICATIONS

Governor Frear was this noon uncertain whether to smile with the appreciation of the possible humor of the situation, or to look worried with the burden of a problem forced upon him in a peculiar manner through the legislature's little bill giving him power to declare holiday when he likes.

"The executive power of declaring an arbitrary holiday," said the Governor, "is convenient in times of financial stress, or panics, to prevent bankruptcy and to maintain credit; but here I have the proposition presented of declaring a holiday on June 22, a Thursday, in honor of the coronation of His Majesty, King George V. of Great Britain.

"Four prominent gentlemen called on me this morning with this request. I have not yet decided whether I shall declare June 22 a holiday or not. It is a matter for deep thought." And the Governor smiled and sighed simultaneously.

It is a matter for deep thought, for the "favored nation" clause is not unlikely to enter into the consideration. If a holiday is declared by an American Governor in honor of a British King, why may not the Madero's birthday be sought as a holiday here by Japanese residents? Why may not the Russian immigrants want the Czar's wedding anniversary observed in Hawaii by a holiday? How about a holiday in honor of the King of Siam's natal day?

Still, between America and Great Britain there is such a brotherhood of that the Governor may be persuaded to let the Britishers and their thousands of local friends celebrate June 22 by a closing of the banks, baseball, fireworks and even a procession, if they so desire.

MEMBERS OF THE BAR GREET THE NEW DISTRICT MAGISTRATE

Judge James M. Monsarratt, newly-appointed judge of the district court of Honolulu, took his seat at about nine-thirty this morning, after being duly sworn into office. The court room was crowded long before the new judge arrived, among those present, besides the usual court officials, being Judge Chas. F. Clemons, City and County Attorney Cathcart, Deputy City and County Attorney Milverton, Wm. T. Rawlins, assistant U. S. district attorney, Lorrin Andrews, George Davis, A. L. C. Atkinson, S. F. Chillingworth, Charlie Chillingworth, Joseph Lightfoot, J. B. Lightfoot, H. G. Spencer, James Lloyd, Frank Andrade, W. H. Smith of Hilo,

C. F. Peterson, C. W. Achi and L. M. Straus.

Upon the bench was a large bouquet of roses, sent to the new judge by Attorney Wm. B. Lymer, the retiring judge. Just after Judge Monsarratt took his seat, Attorney George Davis, addressing the court, remarked that as chairman of the executive committee of the Bar Association it afforded him great pleasure to extend to the new judge the congratulations of the bar upon his appointment as district magistrate of Honolulu. It was not necessary for him to make a prolonged speech, but he was sure

HONOLULU IN ALL RED ROUTE

The scheme for linking-up England with Canada, New Zealand and Australia by means of greatly accelerated mail services of steamers across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is, writes the London correspondent of the Wellington Post, likely to be much discussed this year. Since the last Imperial conference met in 1907, when the All-Red route received considerable attention, various events have happened which tend to bring the scheme once more into the region of practical politics.

The first reason is Sir Joseph Ward's declaration that he intends to bring forward at the Imperial conference, to meet in May, a motion to the effect that it is desirable in the interests of the Empire that Great Britain should be connected with Canada, and through Canada with Australia and New Zealand, by the best mail service available.

Another reason is that at the moment Canada and the United States seem to be drawing closer together in commercial relationship, and the question of our communication with Canada naturally rises to the surface. The United States and the United Kingdom are connected by steamers of twenty-five knots, the capital for building the vessels being lent by the Imperial government at a low rate of interest, and there are those who ask how long it will be before such a service is maintained between Canada and this country. At present the quickest mail service between this country and Canada is via New York, taking on the average eight days.

A further reason is the question of our food supplies in time of war now raised in the discussion of the principles of the Declaration of London. An integral part of the scheme provides for making Blacksod Bay, on the west coast of Ireland, the headquarters of new Atlantic lines which it is proposed to build, and it is suggested that the strategic advantages of that harbor would make its development into a port of great value should this country be engaged in war with European powers.

The fourth reason is that a bill to incorporate the proposed steamship company is now before the Canadian parliament. The details of the syndicate, running the Imperial Steamship Company, may be said to provide for the establishment of an express service between Halifax (Nova Scotia) and Blacksod Bay of vessels capable of crossing the Atlantic at an average speed of at least twenty-five knots an hour; the establishment of ferries between the east coast of Ireland and the west coast of Scotland and England; the construction of a railway of eighty miles in length to connect Blacksod Bay with the existing railways in Ireland; a contract has already been awarded for the construction of this line and the necessary dock accommodations at Blacksod Bay; the establishment of a service of first-class steamers having a speed of eighteen knots an hour between Vancouver (B. C.) and Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney.

Apart from the Canadian Pacific Railway now running from the Atlantic to the Pacific across Canada, two other transcontinental lines are being constructed—the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern—and both these lines will be completed in time to make part of the through service. Passengers will thus have the choice of three lines for crossing the continent. An important part of the scheme is the provision that there should be through connecting services between London, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The U. S. S. Thetis returned from Laysan Island on Saturday afternoon, having landed the party of naturalists from the Iowa University there to study the conditions prevailing. After the scientists had been landed at Laysan Island, the cruiser went on to Midway Island and then called back to Laysan, visiting Lisianski en route. Everything was in order on the bird island, and there was nothing to indicate that any poaching had taken place there. When the Thetis returns to Laysan Island, Governor Frear will be a passenger, and so, in all probability, will be Entomologist Ehrhorn. The trip over will be but a short one.

The birds will be greatly affected.

He thinks that there are not more than half a dozen pairs of Laysan teal, which he characterized as the rarest bird in the world. The islands he described as perfect health resorts, with plenty of fishing to be obtained.

The need for wireless telegraphy on Midway Island was touched upon by the professor. He said that something should be done to take up with Washington the question of establishing a wireless station on the island. If this were done, the vessels from Japan would be in touch with Honolulu three days earlier than they are now.

Partial Raising of Quarantine. Dr. Ramus has received the following telegraphic message from Surgeon General Wyman, at Washington: Discontinue inspection inter-island traffic twelve days after last case.

Immediately on receipt of this Dr. Ramus notified the local office of the Inter-Island Steamship Company, and later on confirmed them of the message by letter. This will mean that in future steerage passengers may be booked by those who desire to travel that way.

Siberia at Ten Tomorrow. Hackfeld & Co., agents for the Pacific Mail Co., have received word from the Siberia to the effect that she will be off port at about ten o'clock tomorrow morning. No details were received regarding the number of passengers she has for this port, but it was mentioned that there are 250 tons of cargo. She should sail again during the afternoon.

Mikahala With Live Stock. The Mikahala arrived yesterday morning from Molokai and Maui with 1,350 bags of sugar, one horse, fifty-six pigs, seventy-two bundles of hides, forty-three bundles of empty bottles, sixty-four bags of coffee, eight boxes of chickens, nineteen boxes of eggs, fourteen bags of potatoes, twenty bags of corn, 151 bags of sundries.

Purser Richter of the Likelike states that the Helene was at Papeete and would help out at Hilo with a load of sugar from Papeete. She is expected here on Wednesday. The Wallele was at Honokaa loading sugar.

Sugar Awaiting Shipment. Purser Kalpo of the Noeau reports that the following sugar was awaiting shipment on Kaula: M. A. K., 46,842 bags; MeB., 34,917; K. K. B., 3,550; K. S. M., 409; L. P., 15,713; K. P., 9,530; M. S. Co., 23,000, and K. S. Co., 1,900.

Purser French of the Mikahala states that there were 950 bags of sugar at Olowalu.

Purser Richter of the Likelike reports that the following sugar was awaiting shipment on the Hamakua coast: P. S. M., 24,300 bags; H. S. Co., 12,000; D in a circle, 5,500; Kukaiau, 7,000; Ookala, 10,000, and Laup. S. Co., 18,000.

A WARM WEATHER JOB.

A negro boy from Louisiana got into Boone, Iowa, during a cold spell last winter. He was thinly clad, and the first job he got was cleaning snow off the sidewalks. As he was at work he stopped a passerby and asked: "Mistab, can you tell me whar I kin find some other job than this? I ain't nevah goin' to shovel snow ag'in whar it's cold." Over the Teacups

By Lady Gay

A certain young society bud of Honolulu desires to know why such a monumental household commodity as a staid and dignified porcelain bath tub is subtly capable of such nerve-racking tricks?

And why it wouldn't be just as plausible to invent and manufacture these necessary adjuncts of a sand papery substance, which would insure her safety when she takes her morning plunge.

It is preposterous to give credit to a mere bath-tub for having succeeded in depriving her of a half season's enjoyment, and yet it really must be conceded.

To her friends who solicitously inquired for her, the news went forth that this girl, so popular and widely sought in the younger set, had suffered a severe sprain, from falling from her horse, and those to whom this enlightenment was accorded secretly deploring the accident, resolved that never again should the equestrian passtime be indulged, at the same time walking right into the very jaws of danger, which took the form of white tiled marble and an immaculately shiny dignified porcelain tub!

The victim of the mishap, with a badly bruised arm which interfered with her eager tendencies toward sleeveless evening gowns, smiles meanwhile, at the savage fibs she has been obliged to recount to her more inquisitive friends, and through her eyes are fearlessly when she handles her spirited mare, she blanches with presentiment at the daily sight of an inanimate bath-tub and lays a Turkish towel along the bottom before she turns on the shower.

She knows it seems dreadfully stupid, but she is not taking any chances, at any rate, not till the formal close of the season!

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

A great deal of interest is being aroused in the younger set over the arrangements for the wedding of Miss Claire Williams and Mr. Bruce Cartwright Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lodge Marx with whom Miss Williams is staying have taken the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frederick Wichman until their return from New York in the fall and hit her on Thursday about twenty young friends of the bride-elect called, on the occasion of her day at home.

The trousseau of this popular society girl rivals that of any girl who has ever been married in Honolulu, and the wedding and subsequent reception will be not only brilliant and unique but will present features which will never be quite forgotten by those who attend.

Miss Williams since her return from abroad has introduced innumerable little dainty fads and fancies in vogue in London, Paris and the Continent.

One of these is the adoption of "Boudoir Bonnets" which Miss Williams, Miss Edith Williams and Miss Ethelyn Castle wear at home each afternoon, and which will be worn by Miss Sarah Lucas and Miss Edith Williams in the bridal party.

These are dainty caps, fashioned of rose point lace and trimmed with clusters of baby roses, or whatever delicate shade or flower is preferred. Touches of ribbon are sometimes added, and also streamers of soft satin.

In the trousseau of this popular bride-elect, are selections from the establishments of Paquin, Worth, Pofret, Rondeau, and other shops which in Paris cater only to the elite.

There are lingerie sets by the dozens, any one of which would set the heart of any girl with a love for the artistic, on the flutter.

This whispered by some of the girls who have enjoyed the privilege of peeping into Miss Williams's boudoir, that one set of French lingerie is a revelation of beauty and originality, the entire set being hand-embroidered in exquisite motifs of baby Cupids.

Could anything be more delightful or appropriate.

There are silk sets too, in their clinging, shimmering beauty, trimmed with a variety of real laces.

And the bridal hosiery, are of white silk, also brought from abroad and laced with rose point motifs.

Miss Williams is daily the recipient of exquisite presents, over two dozen engagement cups having already been received. Friends on leaving Europe for her home last fall must have had a premonition of affairs which have later developed, having bestowed over one hundred and fifty gifts on this popular girl.

Miss Williams is noted for her artistic skill and the fact that she has decided to make her own wedding gown is causing great excitement among her incredible associates and friends.

One evening gown 'tis said that Miss Williams has herself made and which has never failed to attract attention and elicit admiration is of soft chiffon over satin which is adorned by hand-painted delicate pastel motifs.

This week is to be one of prominence in society circles, many beautiful functions having been planned. Each day and evening will be filled on the program.

The dance given by the guests of the Hotel Courtland on Saturday evening was in every way a decided success, about fifty couples having attended. The grounds and buildings of the Outrigger Club were gayly decorated with Japanese lanterns and the U. S. Marine band provided music for the dancers.

It was an enjoyable and informal reunion of the guests of the hotel and their friends.

Miss Juliette Atherton was a charming hostess on Saturday afternoon, when she entertained at a luncheon, complimentary to Mrs. Frederick Dwight Lowrey.

Quantities of pink begonias combined artistically with lace maidenhair to form a fetching centerpiece, covers having been arranged for Mrs. Frederick Dwight Lowrey, Mrs. Wilcox, and the Misses Muriel Howatt, Alice Hopper, Bessie Hopper, Jessie Kennedy, Vera Damon, Cordelia Gilman, Helen North, Ethel McKenzie, Marjorie Peterson and the hostess.

WHAT MAKES A

WOMAN ALLURING?

What makes a woman alluring? Is it a perfume, the color of her gown, the way she does her hair, or just a natural charm of which she is unconscious?

"What kind of perfume would an alluring woman use?" the woman who sells the most expensive perfumes in New York city was asked. She thought a moment and then pulled the long glass stopper from a small bottle and waved it in the air.

"What is it?" asked the inquirer, puzzled.

"It is a bouquet," she replied. "That is what makes it alluring. It is exquisitely sweet, and for a moment you think you are going to recognize it and then it escapes you."

"What sort of a woman would buy it?"

"Well, rather a worldly wise woman, one who would know the value of each detail of her personality. Now a modest retiring woman generally asks for violet, and a sporting woman gets sandalwood, Jewish women buy heavy Oriental perfumes, and Anglo-Saxon women the Japanese, especially the lighter scents.

"Some women are as jealous of their perfumes as they are of their friends. They consider that a person who buys a perfume like theirs is really stealing. For that reason they buy different kinds and mix them so that it is impossible to tell just what they use."

"You see that a woman who has a mysterious perfume is naturally more interesting than one whom you can catalogue as of a certain type. All people are curious, and it is the person who stimulates this sense who is the most fascinating."

"There is a certain sentiment about an individual perfume. It will often bring up a picture of a person, no matter how far away. One man received a letter in South America which still held traces of the perfume his sweetheart used, and it brought her very close to him."

This is what a jeweler said:

"You will find that the jewelry an alluring woman wears is odd—not cheap, but individual. She knows the value of those strange rings which portray a certain individuality. And so alluring women are only women after all who dare to keep their individuality."—New York Sun.

HOW COLDS ARE CAUGHT.

Coryza is an inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the cavities of the nasal passages, and may be either of the acute or chronic variety. In its acute form it is generally called "a cold in the head." The reason for this is that, given certain conditions of the system, which tend to inflamed mucous membrane, the acute attack can very often be traced to exposure to cold, drafts or damp. It can, perhaps, just as often be traced to heat, dust and stuffiness; but, whatever may be the final touch, it is certain that the victim of the coryza was in a condition in which his powers of resistance were reduced, or he could not have "caught cold."

It is of great importance that those people who spend many months of the year traveling from one attack of coryza to another should learn just where to place the blame for their trouble. It is a pity to get into the habit of blaming every open door or window, or dreading every unexpected breath of air, because this only leads to the course of life most to be avoided. If a person finds himself with the "catching cold" habit increasing winter by winter, depend upon it there is something wrong, and that something is not fresh air, because that is the very thing he of all people most needs. In such a case the daily habits should be carefully overhauled.

Does the sufferer overeat, and especially does he take too much animal food and too little exercise? This mistake is at the root of the coryza habit in many cases. It is simply the sign of rebellion on the part of the over-loaded system. Often the trouble may be traced to too much heavy clothing, to rooms kept too warm, and to an atmosphere dried up with steam heat and no ventilation. People who sleep in shut-up, stuffy bedrooms ought to live in a state of grateful surprise if they do not have constant colds.

The change that can be produced in the human constitution in this respect by a continuous course of common sense applied to daily life is almost like miracle working. But the course must be begun today and kept up at least 365 days in the year. The cold catcher must pay minute attention to the digestive process, and is probably better off to eat meat not more than once a day at the most. His bedroom window must stay open winter and summer, not two inches, but all the way open. He must accustom himself to cold-water bathing. This does not mean ice-water bathing. A bath thermometer is a cheap purchase, and 65 degrees is cold enough for most persons.

Deep, slow breathing with the mouth closed should be constantly practiced, and never more faithfully than at the moment when a cold seems to be in the act of getting itself "caught."—Youth's Companion.

KING GEORGE OF GREECE.

The Danish royal family was lucky in securing thrones, but Prince William Christian Alphonse George, who reigns in Greece under the name of George I, King of the Hellenes (not of Greece, but of the Greeks), is the luckiest of all, according to the Eastern and Western Review; for anarchism in Greece is unknown, and royalty walks freely and unmolested.

King George has comparatively an easy time of it. Gifted with no small share of worldly goods, for besides the civil list granted by the Greek Government, he receives an additional grant from the three protecting Powers—England, Russia and France—he is therefore considered one of the richest rulers in Europe. The court expenses, both private and public, are limited; no one could accuse the King of undue display, or of squandering his royal estate.

Both he and the Queen set an example by their simplicity of living, both at home and in their travels abroad. They brought up their family as becomes the democratic spirit of the country.

Forty-three years ago the King married the young and beautiful Grand Duchess Olga Constantinovna of Russia. The Crown Prince and his son, Prince George, having been born in Greece, and brought up in the national creed of the country, the Greek Orthodox church, are looked upon as native Greek Princes by the nation with which they have wholly and entirely identified themselves.

It was a difficult task for any one coming to a country that had been divided by internal strife, after expelling its ruler, to reign over a turbulent race as yet unused to any higher authority. Happily, the King adapted himself to circumstances, and aided by a natural gift of foresight and keen intelligence, won the respect and devotion of his subjects. He assumed for his motto, "My strength lies in the love of my people," which pleased every Greek heart.

HOW THE MOORS MAKE TEA.

In his article on the little-known Moroccan city of Rabat in Harper's for May, Sydney Adamson tells of the curious ceremony of tea drinking with the Governor, to whom he bore a letter from the Basha of Tangier.

"Moorish rugs, in brilliant barbaric coloring, covered the finely tiled floor. Around the walls, richly covered cushions lay for one to sit upon cross-legged. The Governor sat upon one in front of the raised dais. His brother and a nephew, a young man who wore his fez rakishly on one side, were seated near him.

"We conversed while the slaves brought a silver tray and tea service of Turkish gilded glass, a great kettle with charcoal stove inside, which boils its own water, and trays heaped with rich cakes. But the office of making tea itself always rests with a gentleman, and is never performed by a slave. The good-looking young nephew with the rakish fez honored us. First, he warmed the pot. Then he took a large lump of loaf sugar so big that his hand could not surround it, and thrust it into the pot. A big handful of freshly gathered mint leaves followed the sugar, and then a sufficient quantity of the finest green tea completed the charge. The boiling water was then poured over this, and for the usual five or six minutes it was permitted to stand. A slave then handed us each a glass of the fragrant amber-colored liquid, which was very delightful and wholesome, but more like a rich, unusual punch than everyday tea.

"I sipped my tea and allowed the others to talk. The scene was too novel and exotic to spoil with speech.

How entrancing is that effect of the familiar in our own person when it is suddenly surrounded by a setting and people entirely strange and Oriental! I noticed the rich, low-toned decorations painted on the walls, beautifully subdued to bring out the fine garments of the men. How spotlessly clean in clothes and person were these Moorish gentlemen! I listened. There was no noise, no sound of opening or shutting doors, no voices were heard, slaves came and went noiselessly on bare feet. Sometimes one would bend and whisper behind a covering hand in the Governor's ear; and he, screening his whole face with his hood, would whisper quite inaudibly, to the nearest Moor his commands."

Figures but recently completed by the Geological Survey show that ore mined in the United States yielded 1,092,951,624 pounds of copper in 1909, the greatest year in the history of the industry.

MOVING DECENTLY AND IN ORDER.

It is pleasing to know that the cleaning up of the town will not take that hasty, informal character which, however effective it might be in raising the quarantine, would be wholly wanting in dignity. Things are going on, as they should, with a stately step. It is now about seven weeks since it was decided to fill up the Kewalo ponds, but the placid surfaces of that historic quagmire have not been disturbed by any dump-cart intrusiveness. It's too soon. A couple of months ago there was some talk about doing more street cleaning, but, after consulting precedents, the men in authority have concluded to wait for a rain. That is cheaper. There may be impatient souls that complain, but they are mostly hotel owners, boarding-house keepers, beach resort folk, the common run of retail merchants, arrant new-comers and the like, people who either care nothing for or do not understand the virtues of sanitary precedent. The other day somebody said that a man like Sam Johnson would have had the ponds filled up, the town cleaned and the quarantine off by this time; but this is neither here nor there. Men like Sam Johnson are from another state of existence. Give them their way and they would vulgarly hustle; indeed they would be quite over-zealous to enforce the law even against the most respectable nuisances. They would show no more deference to transgressors of wealth and social station than to the smallest taxpayer. It is possible that they would even have some leading property owners arrested for disobedience to sanitary statutes. Indeed, there is no telling to what undesirable lengths men like Sam Johnson would go if told to clean Honolulu. They would even do it quick. The probable result of such methods is one upon which no man who has lived long enough in Honolulu to have a permitted voice in its affairs can look upon without suspicion.

The Star ventures to assure the meddlesome nonconformists that things are all right as they are. The Board of Health automobile is seen on the streets as often as is decorous; and if another case of cholera appears the police or the newspapers will let the inspectors know in time. It was announced in this morning's Advertiser that former Governor Carter, chairman of the new sanitary commission, which is to expend the $250,000 clean-up fund, is on Kauai and will remain there until next Sunday. This shows that there is no need of unseemly haste. Mr. Carter was expected yesterday, but didn't come. He knows the proper time. "He will," says the Advertiser, "have much to say in regard to the crusade for better health conditions, and how it shall be conducted, and will, without doubt, call an early meeting of the commissioners." In the meantime, however, the Board of Health will start out in an automobile. This formal pastime will occur, the morning paper says, "either today or tomorrow." Its object is to "decide upon what points to tackle first in filling in swamp lands and making things uncomfortable for the mosquito family." This, of course, is highly important, as the Board might, if it leaped before it looked, attack some influential nuisance in raw, Sam Johnson style; and it might also make things uncomfortable for the gentleman who has been drawing a salary these many months on account of a supposed mosquito crusade. By making a leisurely tour the Board will have its warning data well in hand by the time Mr. Carter returns and inaugurates the great work of pecuniary sanitation with fitting ceremonies. We hear some talk, which we wholly approve, in favor of holding these ceremonies on Kamehameha day. There is no hurry about health, now the trades have set in, and any honors we could pay to Kamehameha would help promote good feeling among the natives.

MADERO'S POOR SHOWING.

General Madero seems to be easily satisfied. He started a revolution to get rid of Diaz, and, when an armistice was reached, he declared that Diaz must resign, after calling a new election, or he would start the fighting again. Diaz didn't go. After taking his time to answer Madero he said he would resign when he found reason to believe that anarchy would not follow. As to a new election he made no promises; in fact, he said nothing. Whereupon Madero, after a feeble spurt of temper, put on a delighted smile, withdrew his forces from Juarez and Agua Prieta, gave the local Federals an armistice they did not ask for, and sent word to Diaz that he was coming to call.

So far as the cables sent here reveal the fact, President Diaz made no new promise. He had said for years that the only reason why he held office so long was that he feared anarchy in case he should withdraw to private life. A year ago he said so in an official interview. Now, in the very midst of anarchy he answers the demand of the rebel chief in the same old way. "He will get out when he feels certain that peace will not be broken by a change of government, he alone to be the judge. And Madero professes to be satisfied with this and will go to the capital to smoke the pipe of peace with the venerable despot. Is it any wonder, after this revelation of Madero's character, that the other rebel generals do not heed their alleged provisional chief and go on with their fighting in spite of him?"

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST CHINESE.

Seven Chinese who sold cooked and uncooked pork to their customers Sunday after ten o'clock were arrested. White dealers, on the other hand, were permitted to sell any food all day, to be eaten elsewhere if the customers wished. The distinction was as nice as that of arresting Chinamen for gambling in their clubs and ignoring the similar practice of white clubmen. Is it any wonder that the Chinese in Honolulu begin to suspect the Caucasian sense of justice?

If a white man gets up late Sunday morning he need not trouble about his breakfast. He can send out and get something cooked or uncooked as he pleases. To be sure, there are no markets open; he must go to a bakery or a cafe, but he is served with what he wants. The Chinaman has a similar privilege, except that the cooked or uncooked food he wants is served in a different kind of a place. It is called a market, not a cafe; but to the Star's idea any place which sells staple food, cooked or uncooked, should not be discriminated against on account of a name. If it meets a common human need, which has to be catered to at all waking hours, it ought not to be molested by the police. Assuredly a food market should enjoy as many privileges as respects open hours as a tobacco shop or a fruit stand.

Dowager Queen Alexandra finds it as hard to let go her state and power as did her sister, the Dowager Empress of Russia or her sister-in-law, the Empress Frederick of Germany. Their attitudes show how easily, in an earlier and stormier time, a change in royal succession spilled so much blood. Human nature is the same now as then, but civilization keeps superseding queens within legal bounds even though it has not yet succeeded in making them conform to the canons of good taste.

There is no occasion to change the view expressed some time ago that Juarez and Agua Prieta would prove to be the safest towns in Mexico.

Uncle Walt

The Poet Philosopher

Beneath a tree the pauper sat, a week-old paper on his knee. He wore a hen's nest for a hat, and sagely he discoursed to me. "This blame fool treaty with Japan will bring our nation many woes," remarked this sad and ancient man, who had a red and bulbous nose. "My blood is boiling in my veins," he said, "Taft makes so many breaks; why send our soldiers to the plains to roost with owls and rattlesnakes? And Congress fools and paws around the most absurd, disgusting way; our statesmen waste in empty sound the time they need for baling hay. What think you of these British peers?" the pauper asked, in accents hurt; and he had sandbars in his ears, and wore a floursack for a shirt. One time this poor old ruined man was strong enough to wield a spade; he never tried his life to plan; he never tried to learn a trade; he never struggled to advance, to fill his mind with useful lore, and now he's wearing county pants, and sitting by the poorhouse door. He always liked to talk and show how ignorant a man can be; and here he sits, his nose aglow, a week-old paper on his knee.

WALT MASON.

If Congress and the States would pass laws restricting the sale of dynamite in the same way that state laws limit the sale of poisons, there would be fewer criminal explosions.

Representative Berger declares the Senate's day done. Somebody said the same of the House of Lords in Cromwell's time. Lots of people have an idea that they don't approve of is doomed, but it usually requires a bigger man than Berger to make good.

If they can keep mosquitoes and yellow fever out of Panama, Honolulu needn't worry about the effect on vessels which come here by that route.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

DR. RAMUS—There were people in can produce the log, and I think that the steerage on the Chiyu Maru who had first-class tickets.

CHARLEY HUSTACE—The Hustace Board of Supervisors started the belt road.

MAYOR FERN—Some of the stories I told to Congressmen at the Volcano House have gone all over the country. I don't blame the Congressmen and nobody else does.

SUPERVISOR MURRAY—It takes a long time to float a loan, but if the Territory decides to go ahead with the belt road loan, we hope to make arrangements whereby funds will be available to begin work in July.

R. W. BRECKONS—The late John Deas was one of the best-read men of this city. His knowledge of Dickens was peculiarly close and intimate and it was a pleasure to talk with him.

L. L. McCANDLESS—More lives have been lost through Board of Health measures than through cholera. In other words, by stoppage of the supply of pol, more people were starved into a condition of fatal susceptibility to disease, than the cholera killed.

LORRIN ANDREWS—Seems to me that the Superintendent of the Board of Health ought to give the A. A. U. the Nuuanu Dam in which to hold their swimming sports. That is, of course, if there is enough water in it.

BERT LIGHTFOOT—The boys went in swimming on Saturday simply to test the prohibition against it. We did not break the law for the pleasure of breaking it, simply to make a test case.

L. L. McCANDLESS—No, if we get back to power at Washington, and acquire it in Honolulu, we shan't follow the example of the Republicans here and exclude the other side from office. There will be as much need then as now for a healthy political opposition.

CAPTAIN WIKANDER, Bkt. Hawaii—If the men think that they can make a charge of not having burnt sidelights on the voyage over from South America, let them bring it. I

CLAIMS $10,000 FOR A BAD FALL

A $10,000 damage suit is on trial before Judge Whitney, being that of a house carpenter named J. Marshall against J. Pringle and others, contractors, for certain buildings at Fort Shafter. The plaintiff was hurt by the fall of scaffolding on which he was working.

E. C. Peters is attorney for the plaintiff, and Frank E. Thompson for the defendant. The jury consists of Charles H. Eichler, Franz Beckert, John E. O'Connor, George A. Gonssalves, David Douglas, John Hills, George M. Raupp, Edmund Swan, Thomas K. Ulukou, Richard Weedon, Benjamin H. Clarke, and James Steiner.

How people who meet each other in distant lands come together again in Honolulu is illustrated in this case, Marshall, under cross-examination this morning, said he met Pringle first in the gold fields of Western Australia ten or eleven years ago. He did not work for him there but formed a social acquaintanceship with him. Next he met him in San Francisco two years after the earthquake, and was in his employ there about seven months. It was in San Francisco that Pringle engaged him for employment in Honolulu.

ANOTHER OPIUM CASE ON TRIAL.

Lee Yun Kwai was placed on trial before United States Judge Clemons this afternoon for importing smoking opium, assisting a certain other person in the same unlawful business and dealing variously in such opium including its concealment. Assistant District Attorney Rawlins is prosecuting and Burchard, Coke and Humphreys are defending. It required a special venire of twenty jurors to make up the panel of twelve accepted, and after many challenges the following were sworn to try the case:

Charles Auld, Alfred Abreu, Louis A. Perry, Charles Bon, Henry A. Giles, Wm. A. Friedly, G. W. Spencer, E. A. McInerney, Wm. Green, Edwin Austin Jones, E. P. Fogarty and Ben Hollinger.

Defendant keeps a little store on Fort street near the Lucas planting mill.

B. P. O. E. 616 will be represented at Atlantic City in July by Past Exalted Ruler James D. Dougherty of Honolulu. The convention will be held during the month of July and Mr. Dougherty will leave Honolulu by the middle of June.

ASAHI'S BIG SHOW TONIGHT.

The new theater on the Independent circuit, which is the Asahi, on Maunakea street, opens tonight with a most tempting program of diversified vaudeville talent, good illustrated songs and moving pictures.

Jack Russell, the clever character singer, comedian and general entertainer, is one of the headliners. Olive Russell's musical entertainments have entranced thousands throughout the world and the combination of Jack and Olive is enough to keep any house entertained for an evening. There are other good artists.

In front of the Asahi tonight there will be exhibited the splendid Chalmers-Detroit $2,200 automobile which is the prize in the big voting contest under the management of the Independent theater.

TAXING AN AMERICAN ABROAD.

The seashore town of Brightlingsea, England, is in a dilemma. And an American has caused it all, says the Philadelphia Record. For more than twenty years this "representative of ours abroad" has lived upon a yacht some few hundred feet from shore—"the abbot of an aquatic monastery." He keeps to himself, as a cenobite commonly does. And he is as generous to the local poor as the ideal head of a monastery ought to be—for millionaires can afford to be generous, and "Americans must be."

Mr. Brown—that is his simple name—has never budged from his site. Neither, in all these twenty years, has he paid harbor dues, rates, nor taxes. His peculiar pose—always under the Stars and Stripes—has finally caught the attention of the income tax assessors. They rule that, though he be a citizen of the United States with an income wholly from abroad, he must be adjudged a resident of England, and must pay taxes like the rest.

Though Mr. Brown has kept up steam night and day during all these years, he has never moved from his anchorage. He may move now. Local.

WHERE HE OUGHT O DIE.

"My hero dies in the middle of my latest novel," said the young author. "That's a grave mistake," replied the editor. "He should not die before the reader does."—Atlanta Constitution.

YOUR WIFE As Executor

In the administration of an estate we will act with another appointee, if desired. For example, your wife can be made one of your executors, and as the other we would relieve her of the arduous part of the work and keep the estate clear of legal entanglements. Consultation about this will cost you nothing.

POSSIBLE NEW USE FOR COTTON

E. C. Smith, the Pearl City culturist in different lines, has received a letter from C. J. H. Woodbury, Boston, secretary of the International Association of Cotton Manufacturers, which gives intimation of a possible new use for cotton. He acknowledges the receipt of samples of cotton from Mr. Smith and encloses the proof of the latter's paper read before the Association, which has been printed in The Star. Mr. Woodbury trusts Mr. Smith will be able to get some of the "native cotton cloth" for him, and in conclusion says: "The General Electric Company have been consulting me in regard to the use of cotton for a peculiar purpose and I may give them one of the bags for the experiments."

EWA ADVANCES AN EIGHTH POINT

An advance of one-eighth point in Ewa, with sales at the board of sixty shares in small parcels at $31.12 1/2 is the most interesting exhibit of the Honolulu Stock Exchange list today. McBryde holds at $7.40, with two sales, making sixty-five between boards at two making seventy-five at the session, and a quarter advance is asked. One sale of ten shares of Oahu at the previous figure of $30.00 is reported. Honokaa shows a gain of one-eighth in a sale of 125 at $11.87 1/2 reported. Waiialua retains its closing position of last week in reported sales of sixty shares in three lots at $112.00.

On the Hawaiian exchange sales of 100 and 200 shares of Honolulu Consolidated Oil are reported.

PROPOSED LOAN FUND COMMISSION

S. C. Dwight, Andrew Adams and E. Faxon Bishop are proposed as the members of the commission to be appointed by the governor on the Loan Fund Expedition. Under the terms of the loan bill the money is to be spent under the supervision of a commission of which the Mayor and Superintendent of Public Works are ex-officio members. The Governor is to appoint three others.

PER CAPITA WEALTH OF NATIONS.

That the per capita wealth of France is greater than that of any other nation in the world has long been an accepted fact. A new demonstration of this situation is published by the Wall Street Journal, which recently printed the following table of the total wealth of the four nations: United States $125,000,000,000; Great Britain 88,725,000,000; France 83,000,000,000; Germany 63,500,000,000.

The per capita wealth, together with the population of the four nations, is indicated in the following statistics:

France, population 40,000,000, per capita $2075; Great Britain, 46,000,000, $1930; United States, 90,000,000, $1390; Germany, 64,000,000, $992.

Such a statement as the foregoing makes it simpler to understand why the present community of action of England and France in financial as well as political questions serves to block effectually German aspirations for the extension of political and commercial influence in the near East. At the present time there is lacking to Germany adequate capital for her own enormous industrial expansion at home, and in this her situation resembles our own. As for foreign enterprises, for these she must have the aid of Paris or London, aid which in the present state of affairs is steadily refused.

It will be seen that the per capita wealth of France and England is almost the same, the slight advantage resting with the former. A greater advantage lies in the fact that in France more than in any country in the world there is an actual division of wealth, which makes a much larger percentage of French than English, American or German citizens or subjects capitalists.—New York Sun.

SEEK PERE MARQUETTE'S TREASURE.

The location of the spot where Father Marquette buried the crucifix and the combined Spanish and French affiliation money nearly 300 years ago has occasioned much speculation in the upper peninsula of Michigan recently because of a visit to the locality by an aged man named George who, it is claimed, was the only individual living who has any idea where the treasure is buried. It is generally believed the spot is some-

ALLOW A ROAD THROUGH FORT

Word from the war department has been received by Governor Frear to the effect that permission has been granted for the extension of Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues, Kaimuki, through the Fort Ruger military reservation, thus connecting with the Diamond Head road and gratifying the residents of that flourishing district.

When Mather Marquette first came to the upper peninsula 300 years ago he established a mission at the Soo and caused a crucifix to be erected on the spot, which is said to be near the government locks. Later, he caused to be buried near the place an emblematic crucifix and other treasures on the banks of the rapids, then covered by a growth of underbrush.

The location of the spot was known only to his own party and the chief of the tribe of Indians in that section, Father Marquette also caused a description of the buried treasures to be placed in a cathedral at Montreal, where it remains to this day.

The Indians out of reverence for Father Marquette always held the location of the treasure as sacred ground and would never reveal its location to any white man. Talbot, however, who was a close personal friend of the late Chief Shawno, the last of the great chiefs of the Chippewas, is said to have gained the information from the aged chief just prior to his death.

Several attempts have been made to locate the cove containing the treasures, the last being in 1892, when the government sent a party of engineers to make a search. They went back unsuccessful.

Talbot was employed by the party to assist in the search and it is asserted by himself and others that he succeeded. But he would not work with other members of the party and quarreled with the government party over the amount that he was to have in case the treasure was unearthed. The sum asked for his information was so great that it was refused. Talbot then left the party, vowing he would never reveal the secret for any price.

Talbot now regrets his action at the time of the search made by the government. He says if there is still a desire to locate the spot he will do his best and give his services free of charge. He is now more than seventy years old, and it is said he fears he will die before he is ever able to locate the spot again.—Sault Ste. Marie Correspondence St. Paul Dispatch.

NATURE'S BIG INCUBATOR.

On a ranch in a valley of the Colorado desert we find a new and strange method of hatching chickens. Many artesian wells are in this valley to furnish water for irrigation. They are made by drilling a hole in the earth, and as the dirt is drawn out, a pipe is pushed in until water is reached, which then rises to the top and flows over the edge. One hole was drilled for 750 feet into the earth, and a flow of water came up with a temperature of 102 degrees. Since chicks will hatch when eggs are kept just about as warm as this for twenty-one days, the people who own this well decided to use its heat to hatch eggs.

The earth was dug away from the pipe, so that the water, as it flowed over, formed a pool, in which an ingenious form of incubator can be submerged.

Of course, the eggs would spoil if placed directly in the water, so a round can of galvanized iron was made, eighteen inches in diameter and six inches deep. By stretching the arm and hand down this chimney, the eggs are placed on straw on the bottom of the can. In this way, too, they are turned twice each day, and out of the chimney the chicks are drawn when two days old. They are then placed in brooders and given their first food and water.

The can is securely fastened in the warm pool by weights. The only things that appear above the water are the chimneys and the end of a small tube, which is inserted in the bottom of the can and curves upward.

Through the chimney the foul air rises and escapes, into the tube rushes fresh air with moisture, which ascends as vapor from the water. Both are necessary to give health and strength to the little birds growing in the shells.

These chicks are as strong as any chicks have ever been, and hatched in this way, it is claimed that they are out of their shells one day earlier than when a hen sits on the eggs.—St. Nicholas.

BUSINESS NOTES

Sales by the Kaimuki Land Company in April approximated $60,000 and for the first six days this month amounted to $6003. A building restriction of $2500 is being put on lots in four sections of the company's tracts. John Walker began work today on the contract for erecting the can factory of the Standard Oil Company at Iwilei. It will be of sheet steel upon concrete foundations. This is part of the development of the company's station here, changing from a package to a bulk station, reported in The Star last week.

ATHLETIC PARK BALL GAMES UP TO A HIGH STANDARD

"How's that for ball?" said Charlie Chillingworth after the game on Athletic Park yesterday between the Japanese and the Portuguese.

Yes, it was good ball; clean and snappy. In the field there was some excellent work; the pitching was good and work with the stick was not at all bad.

Fans Satiated; Umpiring Good. There was a great crowd present and the fans thoroughly enjoyed the class of ball handed out.

Espinda Hits Two-Bagger. The Japanese did the damage in the first of the second. Akana met his fate at first, but Ross reached the initial sack safely on center-field's error.

As happened in the first match the second game resulted in a two-nothing victory, both runs being netted in the one spasm.

Native Sons Beat Stars. As happened in the first match the second game resulted in a two-nothing victory, both runs being netted in the one spasm.

Ex-Collegians Exhibit Trickiness. It was one, two, three for the Stars when they opened the game, but when the Native Sons came up to bat they jumped into the limelight with a vengeance.

Native Sons—Rice, I. F.; W. Desha, c. f.; D. Desha, r. f.; Hamauku, 2b.; Dreier, 1b.; Thomas, c.; Markham, 3b.; Milikaa, p., and Kuali, s. s.

Stars—Ah Toon, 2b.; Fernandez, 1b.; Sumner, r. f.; Barney Joy, c.; Kan Yen, s. s.; Hayes, p.; Williams, 3b.; O'Sullivan, c. f., and R. Chillingworth, 1b.

Comments on the League Games. Of the three two-baggers made in plate following a particularly good throw from right-field by D. Desha.

A Smart Catch. Pitcher Milikaa brought off a good catch in the Stars' seventh inning when he retired Williams, with Kan Yen on third, for both he and Markham rushed for the ball and collided.

How the Double-Plays Went. The double plays in yesterday's games were interesting, snappy and clean. In the Portuguese seventh, with Pedro on first, Deponte grounded to second, Franco fielded the ball, tabbed Pedro, and threw to first in time to retire Deponte. In the second innings of the Stars, with Kan Yen on first, the batter fanned and Thomas threw smartly to second retiring Kan Yen. That play in the Stars' fourth, in which Milikaa, Dreier, Hamauku and Markham figured roused the fans.

The Stars Rattled. Immediately Hayes wound up to pitch to Hamauku, David commenced a steal and Hayes threw to first. David stopped between bases and Bill began to edge towards home.

In the next inning Joy and Ah Toon brought off a great double play. With one man out Kan Yen walked and as Hayes was truck out Kan Yen tried to make second but Joy threw hard and straight to Ah Toon and brought off the play.

Stars Lose Chances. The Stars had a chance in their fourth spasm. Fernandez made first on Rice's error at left field and then set sail for second. Rice threw in well but Hamauku missed and Fernandez made the base. Sumner grounded to pitcher, out pitcher to first, Dreier, threw to second to catch Fernandez between the bases, second relayed to Markham on at third, back it came to Hamauku and back to third before Fernandez was tabbed.

A Fighting Finish. Up to the beginning of the ninth everything looked good for the Native Sons, but the Stars made a great finish, though they did not succeed in scoring a man. Fernandez opened the inning, out pitcher to first; Sumner then happened along with a two-bagger between left and center field, and Barney Joy sent a liner just beyond first. He made the base safely and Sumner sprinted for home. Right fielder D. Desha gathered in the sphere and sent in to the plate with an unerring throw and Sumner died, inches from home. Meanwhile Barney Joy was lumbering round the bases, getting to second safely. Kan Yen hit through short-stop to the left field, but before Joy could make that sack Rice had thrown in to Markham and the game was over.

The finish to the game roused the fans and they went home talking of the splendid nine-inning effort of the Stars.

The line-ups and scores were: Japanese—Zerbe, I. F.; Franco, 2b.; Japanese—Zerbe, I. F.; Franco, 2b.; Walker, c. f.; H. Chillingworth, s. s.; Akana, 1b.; Ross, 3b.; Asam, r. f.; Brito, c., and Espinda, p.

Field Play Good. Franco's play at second base was a treat to see. He had six assists and three put-outs, but his work was the acme of neatness.

Sunday's Pitching. Pedro was the most successful pitcher on Sunday in the Oahu League games though he had four basehits made off his twirling.

A Fatal Error. Eddie Fernandez made a mistake in the first inning of the Native Sons yesterday. When W. Desha was on third and D. Desha on first, the latter tried to steal and Hayes threw the ball to Fernandez at first.

The local branch of the A. A. U. are about to consider the advisability of holding a track and field meet in the near future.

The Seals took another plunge yesterday afternoon at Oakland, much to the surprise of the local fans, who looked for a victory, says the S. F. Call on April 28.

The Seals still have a good, healthy lead, so it does not look as though we will have to worry about them this week, anyhow.

The results of games were: Oakland 3, San Francisco 1. Portland 3, Sacramento 0. Los Angeles 6, Vernon 5.

GOOD TENNIS ON SATURDAY

The second afternoon's play in the Castle cup tennis tournament brought out some good play on Saturday, for of the nine matches contested five of them went the full three sets, three were decided in two straight-out sets, and the other one went by default.

One game in the first round, that between F. E. Steere and G. L. Duckworth, was decided early, Steere winning 6-1, 6-4. Then Steere had to stack up against S. A. Baldwin and lost after three sets were played.

Baldwin put up a great game against Steere, who owed fifteen, and Steere also played in fine form. The first set went to Baldwin 6-2, Steere took the second 7-5, but Baldwin came back for the third and won it 6-3.

Greenwell won out from Durston, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. Theo. Richards was beaten by R. Sinclair 6-3, 6-1, and on the result of this match alone Sinclair must be regarded as having as good a chance as any player to pull off the tournament.

This afternoon's matches promise well. They are as follows: Neighbourhood Courts. L. M. Judd vs. W. Greenwell. J. O'Dowda vs. S. A. Baldwin.

Buttolph vs. J. Macaulay. J. R. Judd vs. J. Sinclair. Rather a mix-up occurred between V. Stevenson and G. G. Guild as to their first match.

Some years ago King was assigned to do a criticism of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on its first night in Indianapolis.

SPORT NOTES

McKinley High School beat St. Louis in a ball game played at Kamehameha on Saturday afternoon, the score being 7-5.

The Kamehameha senior team won its third victory against Punahou on Saturday afternoon on the home diamond, getting away with the game, 5-3.

St. Louis juniors defeated Punahou Juniors on Saturday, 3-0. Ching Sue, the Saints' pitcher, struck out fourteen of the Puns, while Baldwin of the Puns, only retired three of the Saints by striking them out.

The swimming carnival billed for June 10 has been abandoned, the reason given being that swimming is prohibited in the harbor.

Fort Ruger ball team defeated Fort Shafter in a seven-inning game at Fort Shafter yesterday by 6-5. Moanalua will be the scene of the return match scheduled for Sunday next.

A. A. U. Track Meet Proposed. The local branch of the A. A. U. are about to consider the advisability of holding a track and field meet in the near future.

The Seals took another plunge yesterday afternoon at Oakland, much to the surprise of the local fans, who looked for a victory, says the S. F. Call on April 28.

The Seals still have a good, healthy lead, so it does not look as though we will have to worry about them this week, anyhow.

The results of games were: Oakland 3, San Francisco 1. Portland 3, Sacramento 0. Los Angeles 6, Vernon 5.

Standing of the Clubs. W. L. Pct San Francisco 18 11 621 Portland 17 12 586 Sacramento 13 14 481 Vernon 13 16 448 Oakland 13 16 448 Los Angeles 11 16 407

Umpires Differ in Ball Game. The game between the Waseda team of Japan and the Mission high school team played at St. Ignatius grounds ended in the tenth inning, with the score 5 when a difference arose owing to the double umpire system.

The incident was unfortunate, as it marred what otherwise was a tight and exciting game. In the beginning of the tenth Barker of Mission reached first on an error and was sacrificed to third. Murray was next man up and hit to the second baseman, who erred and Barker raced for home.

The Jap catcher, Fukunaga, received the ball from second and put it on Barker. The umpires differed in their decision, and the game was called off, as no compromise could be arrived at.

Up to the seventh Mission had a lead of 5 to 2, but in this frame the Japs came through and scored three runs. Mission fell down in the pinch and went to pieces in this frame.

The batteries for Mission were Driscoll and Murray and for the Waseda team Matsuda and Fukunaga. Barker, over whom the discussion arose in the tenth, sprained his ankle when sliding for home. Score: R. H. E. Mission 5 8 8 Waseda 5 6 9

CRITICISING THE DRAMA. King Hubbard, who is one of the best known cartoonists in the Middle West, enjoys also a reputation as a humorous writer.

Some years ago King was assigned to do a criticism of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on its first night in Indianapolis.

Here is the verdict on the show:

"That fine old play, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' was presented here last night. The dogs were fine, but their support was wretched."—Popular Magazine.

URGES WORK FOR TWO FEDERAL BUILDINGS PRIZE CONTEST AT OAHU COLLEGE

Editor Star:—In an editorial you must be made to house all departments. The Mahuka site, as it now stands, is large enough for the post-office and the other departments save except the Custom House and the Judiciary. Why not put the $300,000 it will cost to condemn the buildings on Fort street into another site and have the two buildings? This would satisfy all, and building operations on the plans already drawn can be begun without delay. It only needs the backing of united Honolulu to get this. While the one building is going up, a move can be made at Washington for an additional appropriation for a judicial building to be placed on the Irwin site.

Now why not call off this petition, on which the public can never agree, and unite on one to go ahead on the plans now ready? Without unity nothing will be accomplished by petitioning. The U. S. will go ahead and condemn the property on Fort street, and put up one large building, and the scheme to make a Honolulu a beautiful city will have a set back that can not be remedied in the next generation. Let us get together and unite on two buildings, and we will get one without delay.

POSTOFFICE.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

This high cost of living problem has penetrated the halls of Congress, and when it comes to the solving of problems of domestic economy, Congressman J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia has the frugal housewife all to the bad. But Moore has overlooked the beef and sugar and has joined the Jim Hill decliners of extravagance.

Congressman Moore has completed a list of luxuries apparently deemed essential in this era of rapid living which comes short of being a joke. His statistics show that these luxuries consumed in a single year would complete a chain of canals from Boston to Key West; that the jewelry sold represents more than twice the cost of building the Panama canal and that the nickels annually spent for the pink and brown sizzling soda water are sufficient to complete the inland waterway system for which all South Texas is so ardently pining.

According to Moore, the boys and girls of the country, as well as the adult masticators of chiclet, spent $25,000,000 last year on chewing gum.

The candy bill in the United States last year reached the astonishing aggregate of $78,000,000.

The soda water bill in this country, where it flourishes as in no other in the world, was—shall we say cool—sum of $320,000,000.—Washington Letter to Houston Post.

MOVING 900,000 BOOKS.

The removal of books from the Astor Library to the New York Public Library will begin April 15th. There are 900,000 volumes to be transported from Lafayette place up to Bryant Park, and Director John Shaw Billings wants to have them there in time for the opening of the library, on May 24th, following the dedication on May 23rd.

"There will be about 400,000 books available to the public on the opening day," Director Billings said, "For the rest, not so much in demand, it will be necessary to wait a few weeks

In the second annual eighth grade prize speaking contest held Friday, May 5, in Chas. R. Bishop Hall, Punahou, the following program was given:

- "An Incident of the French Camp" Robert Browning Platt Cooke.
- "Old Mistis" James T. Moore Bernard Damon.
- "Casey at the Bat" Ernest L. Thayer Joseph Farrington.
- "Just 'fore Christmas" Eugene Field Dorothy Hoogs.
- "Seen' Things" Eugene Field Stella Hoogs.
- "Practicing" Miss Dillingham Catherine Jones.
- "A Nervous Woman at the Telephone" Stanley Schell Catharine Kerr.
- "The Talented Man" Winthrop Praed Catherine Paris.
- "Opportunity" Edward Sill Hilda von Holt.

Catherine Jones won first prize, Dorothy Hoogs second and Bernard Damon honorable mention. The speaking was of a high order and reflected credit on the school. These speakers were selected from a list of twenty-five who had previously spoken before the grade. The prizes, which were presented by Miss Sheldon, teacher of the grade, were books by Charles Dickens.

longer. The Astor Library will be closed April 15th. On the following day a runway will be built from the second story down to the door, and this will be used to slide the boxes of books to the street level to put into furniture vans.

The books are of course classified by a letter or by two letters to indicate their subject. When they are carried to the library they will be sent up to the stack and deposited at the shelves bearing the same letters. After that they have to be arranged in alphabetical order, so it may be that for a short time it will be necessary for readers in the new library to wait five minutes for a book.

The books are to be placed in boxes usually not larger than one man can carry. Director Billings expects to be able to move 20,000 a day, although the rate depends on the weather. Wet days are not suited for the work. The 150,000 volumes of the Lenox library were moved down to Bryant Park in thirty days, ended last Tuesday night.

"The public will have to use our forty branches while we're moving," said Mr. Billings. "It will not be possible to study certain special subjects at that time except in the private and college libraries. But I am making an effort to keep people out of the library as short a time as possible."
—New York Sun, April 15th.

THE MOVING PICTURE GAME.

Speaking of motion pictures, the charge for admission is seldom more than 10 cents. To offset this, however, from the manager's point of view, he has no exorbitant headlines' salaries to pay, no orchestra, no seat coupons to print, and only one or two ushers to hire. Besides, he need not advertise in the daily newspapers.

There are, moreover, no disputes to settle with the performers about the locations of dressing-rooms or positions on the bill, and no regular treaturer need be engaged. In his place, the moving picture impresario needs only a neatlooking girl cashier, posted in a glass cage as close to the sidewalk as the law will permit—in order, I suppose, to get a patron's money before he has time to change his mind about going inside. For there is no denying that the film habit distinctly lacks "class."

Managers go into the game because the risk is almost nil, and thousands of people patronize it simply because they haven't the price to pay for flesh and blood entertainment. In fact, cheapness is rampant all along the line of the kinetoscope, even to the pay that writers of the scenarios draw. Although it is much more difficult to devise a good wordless play than one in which dialogue can be used, the authors receive for the most part only $10 to $25 per piece.

allowed ashore, the steerage are furious. We have at various times given reasons for these distinctions, but they are soon forgotten. The most important are that first-class cabin passengers as a class do not frequent, or at least remain long in, the unsanitary and dangerous districts of infested parts. Steerage passengers, again as a class, do. Second class passengers usually occupy a middle ground, but the sanitary average is much higher among those on Canadian steamers than on Oriental liners.

Took No Chances.
"Now as to the present cholera outgoing quarantine. At first when we could not know whether Honolulu was in for a real epidemic, we took no chances that might imperil the Pacific coast. We applied the regulations rigidly. No fruit or vegetables from the island of Oahu had been permitted to be shipped, and through passengers were held on board liners while in port. As the situation improved, and it seemed safe to do so, we relaxed the quarantine from time to time. Shipments from outlying districts were permitted, and first cabin passengers on Oriental liners were allowed ashore. There was some friction, of course, but nothing serious.

"When the Zealandia came in from the colonies the experiment was tried of giving shore liberty to the second-class passengers, and then there was trouble; many of the second-class passengers grossly abused their privileges and gave their passes to steerage passengers and members of the crew. Instead of appreciating what was done for them the cabin passengers seemed to take sides with the steerage and incited them to resistance and anger at the unjust, ridiculous discrimination against them. After that experience—with the best class of second cabin passengers that ever came into this port—it was obvious that we could not so favor those of Oriental liners.

"When the Chiyo Maru came in Friday I gave passes to the first cabin passengers and not to the second class. There was the usual bad feeling and more or less general comment on the freaks of the cholera quarantine. By a recent arrangement with Mr. Stackable, the United States customs officers cooperated with us and guarded the vessel at the wharf. With this very satisfactory assistance we were able still further to relax the annoyance of quarantine procedure and to permit the townsfolk to come unrestricted to the gallery of the wharf. At first there was some misunderstanding and people were held at the main entrance. More trouble and more irritation.

"Now to come back to our actual duties as quarantine officers. It is vastly easier for us to maintain a rigid, non-intercourse with minimum of bad feeling and adverse criticism. It is only when quarantine officers endeavor to mitigate the rigors of quarantine that they have any real trouble and opposition. Cabin passengers submit almost without complaint when made to stay aboard. When allowed ashore they are indignant when required to show passes and when not allowed to carry fruit on board. The townsfolk and tradesmen, instead of being thankful that hundreds of cabin passengers may come ashore and spend their money freely, are angry because second-class passengers may not come also.

"The practical bearing of all this dissatisfaction and adverse criticism is that it raises in our minds the question: Why should we take the trouble to do all this when it only results in misunderstandings and misrepresentation of our motives and our capacity to perform our official duties? We are willing and glad to go out of our way to an extent not required of us by our regulations, when it really does some good, but we are not willing to continue to do so when it results in abuse and discredit before the community.

"Practically it is up to the community to decide on the kind of quarantine it wants: the rigid, non-intercourse regulations; or the present, liberal, elastic, though in a measure, inconsistent, quarantine, which permits cabin passengers to come ashore and spend their money, shippers to send some of their goods to the Coast, and which gives relief to a community which would otherwise be almost marooned."

further shipments of such plants.

Two species of ants (Strumigenys lewisi) and (Phelidole sp.) were found on Japanese plants, the first in stems of a tea plant, and latter in soil around Bamboo.

Some coconuts from Central America were found infested with scale (Aspidiotus cydoniae).

No Risk to Taro.

Seven lots of sweet potatoes and yams found in the immigration baggage were destroyed on account of showing infested spots, which might prove a disease, although no germs have been found. The risk of bringing in a disease which would attack the sweet potato and the taro is too great, and in the future all such shipments will be refused entry.

The first two lots of banana plants, consisting of four sprouts from Central America and Mexico were received this month and under Rule VIII were promptly destroyed.

Brother M. Newell, Inspector at Hilo, reports the arrival of six vessels, three of which carried vegetable matter consisting of 108 lots and 1,778 parcels. One lot of infested cauliflower was burned.

Beneficial Insects.

At the request of Mr. D. Morrison, superintendent at Midway, we sent a good strong colony of Vedalia cardinalis for the Cottony Cushion scale, which attacks their ironwoods. Much complaint of damage by the Japanese beetle is coming to the office, and we are prepared to furnish fungus inoculated beetles, but request that parties furnish us quantities of beetles, as we are short handed and can not get beetles.

BAR GREETED JUDGE

that the members of the bar generally felt that his honor's ripe experience and knowledge of the world, together with his intimate knowledge of Hawaiian affairs generally, would enable him to preside with justice and impartiality. They felt satisfied that his honor would realize that there were always two sides to every case, that of the Government and that of the defendant, and that as long as the judge was guided solely by law and the evidence he would make no mis takes. No man was infallible; all were liable to err, but it was always satisfactory to the bar, when the judge did err, if he erred on the side of mercy. They all felt that his honor would use his best endeavors to fill the position and would be kind and courteous to the bar, expecting from them, of course, the same courteous treatment.

Judge Monsarrat thanked George Davis for his kind expressions on behalf of himself and the members of the bar, and hoped with their assistance to do his duty in the court. He thought there was nothing else to say, except to again thank them.

The calendar was a lengthy one, for no less than fifty charges were made this morning and eight were afterwards added, making a grand total of fifty-eight for Judge Monsarrat's opening day. There were forty-one charges arising out of gambling raids, seven for violations of the Sunday law, seven drunks, two brought over from last week, and one case of vagrancy. All cases, except the drunks and the vagrancy case, went over.

LOW WENT ALONE, THE REST WENT YESTERDAY, AND THE BELT ROAD PLANS ARE FORMING

With a view to investigating the Oahu belt road proposition, Mayor Fern and most of the supervisors, including the members of the road committee excepting Eben Low—who travels alone—yesterday went round the island in autos, leaving Honolulu shortly after six in the morning and getting back at six in the evening. They found greatly improved roads for most of the distance, and in the places where formerly the road was worst. But there are several stretches which call for a lot of money. Calls were made on various district road supervisors on the way round, and the lunch hour was spent at Andrew Cox's place, where a fine repast, luau style, was enjoyed.

"Link" McCandless was first honored by a call, in the early morning, quick time having been made over the Pali. From Kahana on, quick time was also made, considering the stops.

Will the Loan Be Made?

It is the plan of the board to start work as soon as possible on the belt road work under the loan appropriation. "If the Territory goes ahead with the loan arrangements," said Supervisor Murray, who was guide and one of the chauffeurs of the party, the mayor being the other, "we think that arrangements can be made whereby the money can be secured here, without the long delays incident to floating a loan, as soon as it is definitely decided by the Territory, to issue the bonds. If we raise $50,000 in this way by next July, a big start can be made then."

Mayor Fern expressed doubt that the Territory would make the loan, but the other members of the board were confident that the money would be secured. Under the terms of the act, the Territory secures the money, and calls for bids for the belt road contract. The city and county will bid and has advantages which are regarded as certain to make it the lowest bidder. The money is to be spent by a commission to be appointed by the governor, on which it is expected, Chairman Dwight of the board's road committee will be one. Dwight was one of the party to make the trip yesterday.

Belt Road Starts at King Street.

"The 'Belt Road' starts at King and Nuuanu," said Supervisor Kruger, "and the $25,000 we are spending on the upper Nuuanu road should come out of that fund. As it is, we have to spend our regular money in Nuuanu, because the job has to be done at once, and therefore we have little for downtown work."

Bridges Need Repairing.

A number of bridges were found to be much in need of repairs, and at one of them, the visitors found red danger flags flying. Plans will be proceeded with at once for the repair of this and some of the other bridges.

Low Went Alone.

Eben Low, the all-round insurgent, made his trip round the island during the early part of the week, and will also have a report to make about belt road matters and bridges. "They say I am 'butting in' on road business," said Low. "But I am a member of the road committee and it is my business."

In the meantime, other members of the Board are kicking because they say that Low doesn't do anything as chairman of the ways and means committee, but puts in all his time on roads. "There are a many ways and means committee reports, of the greatest importance, which are overdue," said one member of the board, "but no one can get Low to pay any attention to anything but roads."

LAND COMMISSIONER TELLS OF THE WORKING OF NEW SYSTEM

The report of the Land Commissioner, Marston Campbell, for the six months ending June 30, 1909, and for the year ending June 30, 1910, is now in the hands of the Governor. The advantages of the consolidation of the departments of land, public works and survey, are treated in the Commissioner's report in the following language:

"The legislature, at its regular session in 1909, for the purpose of economy and more efficient administration, combined the offices of land commissioner, surveyor and superintendent of public works. This consolidation has been of decided advantage in the administration of the land laws, as it has, by placing the control of all matters pertaining to the public lands under one head, resulted in the closing up of all unfinished business. Formerly, the departments of survey and land were entirely separate, the land commissioner being in great measure dependent upon the survey department for necessary surveys and descriptions, which, owing to the rush of work in that department, at times hampered the land office in the expeditious dispatch of its business. The co-ordination of the two departments under the new system has not only enabled the commissioner to carry on the work of the land office at less cost than heretofore, but has in addition resulted in the dispatch of a larger amount of work with a smaller force. During the last fiscal year more documents, i. e., patents, leases, agreements, etc., were issued from the office of the commissioner than during any year previously. A comparison of the statistics giving details of the work of the department for the years 1909 and 1910, as shown by the tabulations accompanying this report, demonstrate the wisdom of the plan of consolidation.

New Land Law Amendments.

"Anticipating the enactment by Congress of certain amendments of our organic law pertaining to public lands, every effort was made to wind up all outstanding matters, so that with the beginning of the new year the undivided attention of the staff of the land office can be given to the promulgation of the land laws as amended, necessitating a material change in procedure and additional work consequent thereon.

"As far as homesteading of the public lands is concerned, Congress in the amendments required that it should be the duty of the commissioner of public lands to cause to be surveyed and opened for homestead entry a reasonable amount of agricultural land and also of pastoral land in the various parts of the Territory for homestead purposes on or before January 1, 1911. The land commissioner, therefore, immediately upon receipt of a certified copy of the amendments to the Organic Act relating to land laws, gave instructions to the survey department to prepare all data in reference to the public lands of the Territory that had been surveyed into homesteads prior to the passage of the amendments to the Organic Act, and the commissioner is able to report that this work is practically complete. Early in August, 1910, there will be advertised 1,026 homesteads, aggregating 29,989.05 acres, and having an appraised value of about $141,230.34, a single homestead varying in acreage (according to the character of the land, whether wet, taro, agricultural, pastoral and agricultural.

"BUD" MARS GOING TO AUSTRALIA; TELLS OF HONOLULU FLYING

Sydney Telegraph: Hitherto, with the solitary exception of Houdini's flights, the people of Sydney have had to be content with reading the reports of aerial flights. But soon local enthusiasts will have an opportunity of realizing the extent to which man has gained mastery over the air. Mr. Hammond, with his Bristol biplane, has already proved his skill in West Australia and in Victoria, and during Easter week he has arranged to provide some interesting flights. Arrangements are being made for a flying area near Sydney, and it is expected that thousands of people will pay admission to the ground. Mr. Hammond can always be reckoned upon to provide a fine performance, providing the weather conditions are suitable.

What adds great interest to Mr. Hammond's visit to Australia is the fact that next month he may be seen in Australia in competition with the representatives of an American aeroplane, the Curtiss. "Bud" Mars, an aviator not yet out of his teens, accompanied by two other aviators, Messrs. Baldwin and Schriver, started this year on tour with the object of securing orders for the Curtiss biplane company. They first visited Honolulu, and after spending three days there sailed for Japan, after which they will make flights in China and the Philippines before coming on to Australia and New Zealand. They expect to reach Sydney early in May.

Moanalua Winds.

In Honolulu it was impossible for either Baldwin or Schriver to make ascents in their large machines owing to the weather conditions, so that the brunt of the entire exhibition fell upon "Bud" Mars and his diminutive Curtiss biplane. In this he again and again ascended the canyon at the back of the polo grounds at Moanalua. More than a dozen times he was in actual danger, for Niagara's of air currents poured over the precipices and tossed the aeroplane and its rider as though upon a stormy sea. There was scarce room to turn, and once the machine was dashed by the warring air currents against the cliffs, barely escaping total destruction. On another occasion the contortions of the man and the machine bent steel rods so that the aeroplane was all but wrecked, yet the plucky bird-man insisted on one more flight amid air currents the like of which he had never before encountered. There were currents that poured down from above and sent man and machine down—down towards the bottom of the canyon; and others that lifted his machine as though upon a giant wave. It was luck and pluck that pulled this boy of eighteen through, his fellow-aviators holding their breath on more than one occasion when the machine was all but capsized or was dashed down towards the earth by some sudden air current. It is the amusement of those who visit the Pali or great precipice behind Honolulu to throw stones down over the brink for the powerful air currents to send sailing skyward. Such were some of the currents that "Bud" Mars had to stem! Mars' machine is only thirty feet from tip to tip—the smallest machine that has yet made extensive flights. (It may be mentioned that Hammond's Bristol biplane measures thirty-nine feet six inches by thirty-three feet six inches.) One of the features of Mars' Hawaiian flight was the attention given by the cattle on the hillsides. At first the clatter of the propeller and the approach of the aeroplane sent them scampering off, but by the third day the cattle did not even look up from their grazing. Horses, however, turned to watch the strange air machine, and seemed to enjoy the exhibition.

"Bud" Mars has issued a challenge to any other aviator he may meet on the route he has announced to a test of skill in managing a biplane. He has offered to stake £100 on the result. There should therefore be an interesting competition in the near future between Hammond and this youthful aviator.

The fact of four aviators being in Sydney at one time is regarded by Mr. G. A. Taylor as very favorable to the success of his proposed Sydney-to-Melbourne flight. He states that committees have already been formed at Parramatta and Liverpool for the raising of funds, and other committees are being arranged. The presence of those professional aviators will make flying the popular sport in Sydney before very long.

FOUND OLD NATIVE TRAIL OVER THE HILLS FROM KAIMUKI TO THE WAIMANALO SIDE

From Kaimuki over the mountains to Waimanalo, without traveling over the Pali road, is the trip made yesterday by four trappers, who achieved the feat of relocating an old native trail leading from the Palolo ridge down to the "other side," a trail which has been lost for years and searched for for half a century or more without success, say the enthusiastic mountain climbers. It isn't much of a trail now, but careful examination of the soil and vegetation shows where it was, generations ago.

A Historic Trail.

"Surveyor Alexander told me he never heard of anyone who had been able to find this trail in recent times," said Emil Berndt, who was one of the party, "but that there were reports of it in history." The other members of the party were W. R. Farrington, P. Baering and A. H. Tarleton, the former being the pathfinder and the one to take the first jumps when doubtful places were struck. A few marks were left for future adventurers. One is a handkerchief tied to a tree at the place where the descent begins. Others are a cane, lost by Farrington and glasses left by Tarleton when they took a slide of

Mountain Side Stairway.

This slope is the hardest portion of the trip. There are evidences that steps were once cut out, but they have worn away and are mere traces now. It is proposed to ask the Trail and Mountain club, whose members have also been trying to find this long lost trail, to cut the steps again. When that is done, say those who took the walk yesterday, the tramp from Kaimuki to Palolo, over the ridge so long held to be impassable, will be quite easy.

Other parties of the Trail and Mountain club have recently gone over to the "other side" of the island without going over the Pali, but they all used ropes at some places in the journey. Yesterday's trip is, it is stated, the first time the journey has been accomplished without ropes since the old trail was given up and lost.

The trappers left the end of the carline at 7:30, reached the top of the ridge at 10:20 and four hours later were at Maunawili on the Waimanalo side. From there they walked to the Pali road and up the road, lost by Farrington and glasses left by Tarleton when they took a slide of

ARMY AND NAVY

"Camp Jones" at the Kahuiki reservation, where the camp of instruction for the National Guards of Hawaii is to be held this month, is being prepared for the coming event. The ground is being cleared and the camp will soon be laid off.

It is hoped to make some improvements this year over the first encampment which was held at this same site last September. The roads leading to the parade ground of Fort Shafter from Camp Jones have been greatly improved and other comforts will be looked after, which were suggested during the week's instruction at Camp Bullard of last year.

Colonel Dunning's Retirement.

Lieutenant Colonel Samuel W. Dunning, adjutant general for the department of the Columbia, stationed at the Vancouver Barracks, Washington State, will retire for age on May the tenth, 1913. He was post commander at Fort Shafter of the Second battalion, Twentieth Infantry, for almost four years, and has many friends in Honolulu, who will be surprised to learn that retirement age will be reached by Lieutenant Colonel Dunning in just a little over two years.

Departures of Officers.

Captain Chalmers G. Hall, Fifth Cavalry, who has been stationed at the Leluhe reservation since last fall, serving with his regiment, has been granted a leave of absence for two months. Captain Hall boarded the U. S. A. T. Logan on Thursday night to journey to the coast. Captain Wallace B. Scales, Fifth Cavalry, of Schofield Barracks, came in to see Captain Hall off for the homeland.

Another passenger that was "taken on" at this port by the troopship before sailing between the setting of the sun on Thursday and the rising of the same on Friday morning, was Lieutenant Thomas A. Rothwell, Lieutenant Rothwell was a member of C Troop, Fifth Cavalry, with station at Leluhua reservation, standing number one in the list of second lieutenants. A promotion to a first lieutenancy came to Lieutenant Rothwell recently. With the promotion comes a change of regiment and station, and Lieutenant Rothwell will join his new regiment, the Ninth Cavalry, at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming.

The departure of Captain Hall and Lieutenant Rothwell this week is only the beginning of many more to follow from Schofield Barracks. Captain Albert U. Faulkner, First Field Artillery, is among the detail of officers for the school of the line that meets at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, early in August.

New Transport Captain.

The new captain and quartermaster of the transport Sheridan, which left the coast for this port last week is Captain Edwin Bell who has been assigned the charge. Captain Bell succeeds Captain Henry L. Kinnison, who has been acting quartermaster of the Sheridan for almost two years. Captain Kinnison was of the Twenty-ninth Infantry with station at Fort William McKinley, Rizal, before this tour of duty on the rolling waves. Captain Kinnison will have station in San Francisco.

Bus Schedule Changed.

The Fort Shafter army bus schedule has recently been amended for the convenience of those living at the Kahauli reservation, and friends in Honolulu wishing to visit the residents of the line of this battalion post. The bus meets the Rapid Transit at the terminus of the line below the hill, and in this way the last quarter of a mile into the Government post is made easy and pleasant, particularly when it is raining or the sun is very hot.

Rapid Transit cars reach the Fort Shafter end on the hours and even minutes. The post bus meets the street cars at seven-twenty and at seven-thirty in the morning and again at nine and ten o'clock before noon. The afternoon schedule is twelve-twenty, two-thirty and six o'clock. With six o'clock the last trip to the cars are made, unless an extra call is sent to the corral by some of the line wishing to take the street cars to the city.

This army bus leaves the administration building at Fort Shafter just five minutes before the time the Rapid Transit is due. In driving along the officers' row passengers may be picked up and taken to the car or to their quarters in the "model post."

There is a comfortable waiting houses at the Fort Shafter junction, in Kalihi, where passengers are protected from the weather, which was built by the Rapid Transit. This is not only of convenience for the reservation people, but many who live in Moanalua Park and beyond. Colonel Charles O'Connor, of the Sixth Cavalry, relieved Colonel Sibley of his command at Douglas, Arizona. There have been six troops only at this station. Two troops kept constantly on the patrol, with four held in reserve. On the Border. The Sixth Cavalry has been ordered to the borderland country, and probably left its station at Des Moines, Iowa, about April 22. The First squadron of the Sixth Cavalry will be

INTER-ISLAND HAPPENINGS

HILO, May 2.—The Hilo Labor Union last week held an unusually lively meeting, the ginger being mainly due to the presence of a number of Portuguese who came to clamor for the scalp of their fellow-countryman, E. S. Capellas, the principal of the Hakalau school.

A short time ago Principal Carvalho of the Honoumua school applied for money for a school fence, offering to do the work himself. His request was not granted. At the same meeting of the supervisors Capellas asked for money for repairs for his school. This was granted. This incident may, or may not, be the cause deep down at the bottom of the present trouble.

The Portuguese attending the meeting of the Labor Union were led by M. S. Pacheco, who introduced the following resolution:

"Whereas through some reliable information received from the people of the district of South Hilo that the repairing of the Hakalau school house was given to Japanese and Chinese carpenters; and

"Whereas the Laws of the Territory of Hawaii provide that all public work shall be given to American citizens or those eligible to become such; and

"Whereas the action taken by one of the territorial officials, who pretend to be good citizens, in employing these Asiatics on the aforesaid work was contrary to law, he ought to be removed from his present position.

"Be it resolved that the members of the Hilo Labor Union do hereby solemnly protest against the action taken by this government official and that the Board of Supervisors be respectfully requested to investigate this matter. If found true, they are asked to refuse payment of any claim presented to the Board for the aforesaid work and make the party liable therefor responsible, as such expenditure was unauthorized by the Board."

There was intense excitement among the Portuguese present, and considerable talk followed, during the course of which Pashao opined that Hakalau was outside the jurisdiction of the Union. Still, he believed the supervisors should be asked to prevent the repetition of such action. A motion to adopt the resolution finally carried unanimously.

Pacheco brought another resolution to the effect that the members of the Labor Union should patronize the stores run by citizens instead of those owned by Asiatics. Makanui opposed saying that America was a free country, and every man might buy where he pleased. Keamokou endorsed Pacheco's resolution, arguing that since the laborers received their employment from the citizen business men, they should in their turn patronize their employers.

Chairman Lewis of the board of supervisors, when called on, told of a case where he persuaded a Japanese to employ a Hawaiian to lay a sidewalk, only to see the Hawaiian turn around, as soon as he had secured the contract, and employ Japanese for the work. Pacheco wanted his motion put to a vote, but Chairman Ewaliko advised that a matter of such importance should be given more consideration, and it was finally decided to postpone action until the next meeting.

Hilo to Have a Parade.

HILO, May 2.—The subcommittee of the Fourth of July committee which was appointed to take charge of the parade feature of the celebration, held a meeting at the Hilo Hotel parlors last Friday evening, at which the various features of the parade were discussed.

The tentative program which the committee has outlined, is as follows: Section No. 1. Marshal of the day, two mounted police officers, color bearer, speakers of the day in decorated automobiles, drum corps, militia, business men's floats, children, county officials in decorated autos.

Section No. 2. Color bearer, band, labor union, fire department, decorated automobiles, cowboys, ridiculous.

Section No. 3. color bearer, Japanese music, Japanese Sunday school children, Japanese floats, ridiculous.

"CLEAN-UP DAY"
Editor Star: I am glad to see that there is to be a "clean-up" day in Honolulu some time in the near future, for there is undoubtedly great need of it.
But bad as many of these back yards are, it seems to me that the streets are often worse. For instance, the way the dust sweeps down the streets here almost every afternoon is a caution, and is a disgrace to the city. For at times it arrives in clouds and is almost blinding and it is being commented upon by almost everybody. And I have met men who claim that they would prefer to live almost anywhere else to avoid it. There can be no doubt about it being a great discomfort, not to say a nuisance, and gives a bad impression to the visitors that arrive here, and that it has much to do in driving many of them away.
And I would like to ask if this unpleasant state of things can not be avoided. Is it because there is no water, or not enough water wagons, or not enough men or brooms to be had to do this simple kind of work?
There is another reason why this state of things should be prevented, and that is because of the harm it may do, and the disease it may spread about the city. For it is a well known fact that dust carries not only all manner of filth, but disease germs as well, and therefore it may be the cause of very much disease we have here to say nothing of its many other objections.
But I want to say more particularly that cleaning up the back yards will not avail much so long as the acres and acres of foul fever, disease and pest producing swamp lands are permitted to remain, and will be little better than money thrown away. And while this should not be overlooked our great effort must be made in the direction where lies the greatest danger and no one can begin to estimate this danger, or the disaster which any day may be upon us should the yellow fever by any means be brought here. Indeed should these yellow fever spreading and carrying mosquitoes ever get here and mix and breed in with the countless millions that every day arise from these swamps it is safe to say that there would be but few of us that would escape, but that the death rate would be something appalling.
Very truly,
GEO. OSBORNE.

KAIMUKI FAIR WAS A SUCCESS
With the rapid growth of Kaimuki, the Episcopal residents felt the necessity for a church of their own, and accordingly a strong guild was formed to bring about this end.
Services conducted by Rev. F. A. Saylor were held at Mrs. F. T. Bickerton's residence, but the spacious lanai became too small, and it was then that a real effort was made to get a church for Kaimuki to be known as the Epiphany chapel. Already the sum of $600 in donations is in hand, and the committee has in view the erection of a church on Tenth avenue. The thirty-two members of the guild have been working earnestly for the past two months, and they have done a great deal towards the realization of their schemes, but as they want a $2500 church there is still a lot to be done.
After a long discussion it was resolved that a fair would be an excellent means of augmenting the fund, and accordingly arrangements were made for holding this. The function was held on Saturday afternoon in the spacious grounds of A. F. Cooke, and it was indeed a thorough success, and a substantial amount was obtained.
The weather was charming, and the grounds presented a pretty sight. Booths were erected, and young ladies appropriately clad according to the title of the booths, dispensed afternoon tea, etc., to the visitors. A special feature of the fair was the Japanese stall. This was a pretty sight, for over the evergreen vine that clung to the stone pillars, real wisteria had been hung, and beautiful effects were obtained. All the booths looked well, and everything went with a swing that showed that the managers were capable. The ladies thoroughly deserved the success that attended their efforts.
A feature of the entertainment was the maypole dance by a number of children who had been trained by the Misses Logan. This was rendered at three o'clock and five o'clock. Berger's band played an important part in the entertainment, for his musical program was highly appreciated, and so were the Hawaiian songs by Ma-

... dame Alapai. The band played the necessary music for the maypole dances. Donkey rides were highly appreciated by the children.
The president of the Guild is Mrs. G. W. R. King, with Mrs. M. H. Webb as treasurer and Mrs. Alfred Moore as secretary. The members of the Guild, who helped so much to make the function a success were: Mrs. F. A. Saylor, Mrs. William King, Mrs. A. F. Clark, Mrs. C. D. Casterline, Mrs. M. H. Webb, Mrs. J. R. M. McLean, Mrs. H. Berger, Mrs. I. M. Cox, Mrs. T. T. Bickerton, Mrs. Alfred Moore, Mrs. E. A. Berndt, Mrs. Ralph Johnstone, Miss Mabel Armstrong, Mrs. Ed Towse, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. James Guild, Mrs. F. Stone, Mrs. T. M. Church, Mrs. H. B. Brown, Mrs. William Fraser, and the Misses F. A. A BRIEF FOR BREVIDY.
A public speaker was once asked how much time he would need to prepare an address on a certain subject. He replied: "If I am to speak only half an hour, I shall need a week; if an hour, three days; if as long as I please, I am ready now." A message of thirty-five words, written by a woman in answer to a telegram, was reduced by an expert to one without loss of efficiency. Who doubts that the average man could put his written or spoken thoughts into fewer words than he uses—or that the average woman ought to?
Most modern writers use too many words and too long ones. A common offense is the superfluous out in watch out, win out, try out, etc. To read of a candidate being tried out suggests lard rendering, or "something humorous, like death by boiling oil." In most cases, up need not follow open, back, fill, cover, etc. Forward, backward, toward, approve of, equally as, need pruning. Why use the longer as though for as if, or during for in? Why say you are aggravated or provoked when you are merely vexed? Why anticipate what you expect, or expect what you simply think? Why commence, conclude, remit, settle, or donate, when you can much better begin, close, send, pay and give? Why prefer lengthy to long, avocation to vocation, widow woman to widow, or individual to person?

It might be supposed that the illiterate would find it easier to use short words, yet we hear from them such elongations as attached, telegraphed, preventative, agriculturalist and casualty. It would seem that there is a form of mental laziness which prefers the long way around to the trouble of finding a short cut.
"Time is money," is a business maxim, and railway companies no longer name, but simply number their locomotives; and the old-time gentlemen's room and ladies' room have given way to men and women in their stations. On the other hand, street railways have displaced the eminent-ly fit driver for the longer motorman, a monstrosity which should have never been admitted to the language.
The automobile has foisted on us that foolish word chauffeur. Whoever first called an automobile driver a chauffeur committed a crime. At least he might have unmasked his villainy, and made him a stoker, which is a good English translation, and shows its inaptness frankly. Needless words, which apply for positions not vacant—and get them—are impudent parasites, drones in the hive. Foreign words of this class, which seek to supplant better ones already here should be ruthlessly turned back, like pauper immigrants.—Frank M. Bicknell, in May Lippincott's.

WONDERFUL NAVAL GUNNERY.
The effectiveness of the Texas firing and the havoc wrought by the shells amazed the fleet. Her rule, under battle conditions of rapid firing, would have been effected in ten minutes. The first two salvos which struck the Texas were sufficient to sink her. She was wholly crippled as a fighting ship in less than two minutes. Though greater effectiveness in gunnery is now, more than ever the aim of the Navy, it must be remembered that the accuracy of the shooting at the Texas surpassed that of any other navy.
"The gunners of the New Hampshire hit the Texas at will, while steaming rapidly past the ill-fated fighter, seven and one-half miles away. The Texas seemed only a gray blotch on the horizon at that distance, yet, at the word from Mr. Meyer, the Secretary of the Navy, the gunners hit her masts and

THE GOOD LOAN SHARK COMING.
"Do you believe in a real, actual turning hell?" asked a suburbanite recently.
"I am compelled to," was the reply. "I can figure out no other way of disposing of a certain man who has been lending money to a poor woman in my flat and charging her 400 per cent for it."
And now comes the good news at last that a movement is on foot in New York to put the bloodthirsty chattel shark out of business. After a quiet investigation that has lasted three years, the Russell Sage foundation is encouraging a plan to establish a remedial loan society which will beat the sharks at their own game. It will probably be modeled after the Provident Loan Society (which all orthodox pawnbrokers curse) and will be in operation within a very few months.
This new society will enter the sea that has hitherto been monopolized by the chattel shark—the fellow who lends you money on your piano or other personal property that cannot be taken to the pawnshop, and who charges you a rate that may be as low as 120 per cent a year in some cases, and has risen as high as 600 per cent in other cases. This loan society will lend you just as much money on the same kind of security, and will charge a rate of interest that will not be a hardship. It will make it unnecessary for you to do business at the old stand—and even the shark business cannot survive in the presence of such ruinous competition.—Edgar Allen Forbes in Harper's Weekly.

broke them off. When Mr. Meyer asked the gunners to destroy the conning tower, they responded by hurling two shells through its side and it toppled to the deck. "Hit the turret," said Mr. Meyer. On the next salvo one shell burst the upper plate of the turret, and another smashed the gear below, putting the two big guns in the turret out of commission.—Dudley Harmon in Leslie's.

Section No. 4. Color bearer, boarding school cadets, pa-u riders, Chinese athletic association, Chinese floats, ridiculous.

Seven-thirty o'clock p. m. Japanese lantern parade headed by the band.

The committee has selected the following subcommittees to take charge of the various phases thereof: Pa-u riders, Mrs. C. K. Maguire; Chinese floats, Geo. Akau; Japanese floats, Takel; cowboys, Ollie Shipman; children, Miss Josephine Deyo; drum corps, Mr. Terry; antiques and horrors, Stephen Desha Jr.

The committee members state that they have every reason to believe that the parade, particularly the floats and decorated auto section, will surpass anything Hilo has seen before in this line.

Ends Long Illness.

Maui News: Early Tuesday morning, the 2nd, Miss Nellie Smith of Hamakua died at Paia hospital of a complication of diseases. She had suffered from an acute form of rheumatism for ten years, and for several years past most severely.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and was born in San Francisco about thirty-four years ago. Her father now deceased was a well-known engineer in Virginia city in his palmy days. Her mother, Mrs. Matilda Smith of Hamakua, survives her. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. D. Born of Hamakua and Mrs. E. C. Mellor of Haiku and an aunt, Mrs. S. E. Taylor of Hamakua.

Miss Smith was a graduate of the Valencia High School of San Francisco and for sixteen years was a most successful teacher in the Hamakua government school, resigning last year because of ill health. Her character was an exceptional one, her fortitude and cheerfulness under severe and prolonged suffering being worthy of a saint. She leaves a large circle of friends.

The funeral took place the same afternoon, the services which were largely attended being held both at the Makawao Union Church, Paia, and at the cemetery in Makawao. The grave was banked with beautiful flowers, a profusion of blue water lilies, easter and calla lilies, violets, and roses of different kinds being especially noticeable.

Rev. E. B. Turner officiated and Dr. W. F. McConkey, Messrs. H. A. Baldwin, J. B. Thompson, D. C. Lindsay, W. O. Aiken, and E. A. Peck acted as pall-bearers.

Some Joits From Maui.

Maui News: Now they say that the first case of cholera in Honolulu was never reported. The more they talk about that matter the more ridiculous they appear. We would not be surprised to hear that there never was any cholera in Honolulu at all.

What a fine thing it would be to have someone on the Board of Education with a little of Teddy Roosevelt's ability to call a spade a spade.

Admirers of Kipling will be wary reading his poems to others in the future. They certainly have power. Work on Kahului Breakwater.

WAILUKU, May 6.—Manager Williams of the Kahului Railroad took a party up to the new quarry this week to get a close view of the way, they turn out the stone for the new breakwater. After a short trip over the road the quarry was reached, and it is doubtful if one person in a hundred who passes and repasses this spot has any idea of the quantity of stone that is being taken out of there daily the thing is being done in such a quiet and unostentatious manner.

The party arrived at the quarry just as the men were getting ready to set off a blast. All walked boldly along inspecting the great boulders and the modern machinery in operation, until some one dropped the remark that the men were connecting up the wire to set off a charge of 900 pounds of powder. Everyone had seen enough at close range, and felt safer a little farther away, and the writer saw one hardy mariner perched up behind a water tank.

At a word from the engineer in charge the current was turned on, and it seemed as though the whole face of the gulch became a living thing. The mass of rock gave a heave, and then with a mighty roar that could be heard for miles, collapsed, and in ten minutes the steam derrick and men were back at work clearing away the debris.

Thus the work goes on, and as the trains bring the stone down to the breakwater it can be seen extending farther and farther until soon Kahului will have a harbor suitable for the adequate handling of its shipping.

General Notes.

Last Sunday, in the presence of a large audience, Bishop Res'arick, assisted by Rev. Mr. Short Canon A. J., and other Honolulu clergy, officiated at the dedicating exercises of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Wai-luku. The Bishop preached a very impressive and instructive sermon.

The fishermen at Hana made an exceptionally large haul Thursday. There was about 13,000 fish in the catch, and the town of Hana is completely covered with the drying Akule.

Postmaster Lyons of Wailuku is making some very necessary changes in the postoffice. He has added about fifty new boxes, and is also extending the office back the entire length of the building, giving much better light and more room, thus facilitating the rapid handling of the mails.

Kohala Midget: With cholera in Honolulu, plague in Honokaa, scarlet fever in Maui, and a smallpox scare just abated in Hilo and Kona, to say nothing of typhoid on the island, it behooves us to keep clean and sweet.

Kohala Midget: The whole community of Laupahoehoe went wild Wednesday evening, when water refused to trickle through the various faucets and taps. Thinking that the main pipe line was broken, Superintendent of Water Works Jeremiah Malou, immediately set out to investigate. Upon reaching the reservoir (water head) he discovered that the valve had been tampered with and water turned off. It took him but a minute to put the water on the "go," and Laptowners were happy again. It is a shame the way the county is neglecting the care of the waterworks here. The valve and the the reservoir for collecting the spring water are in an unsafe condition.

THE THEATERS

The Bijou theater will tonight present a coast headliner in the dainty person of Miss Eva Mudge, regarded as one of the stars of vaudeville, who has been touring in the Orpheum (Coast) circuit, and was only secured for the Honolulu Amusement Company because she had some open time. She is one of the best lightning change artists on the stage, doing an act which justifies her reputation. She carries out an entire act, in which several characters are presented, representing each one herself. For instance, she appears in a bathing suit, in a beach scene, drops behind a rock and a parasol, converses with an unseen "Charley," and in the twinkling of an eye "Charley" appears on the scene, but it is only Miss Mudge in her lightning character change. She makes several changes in her act and sustains the characters throughout. Miss Mudge has a star reputation on the mainland and is one of the biggest attractions brought to Honolulu for some time. The Younger Brothers will appear in a strong-man act, and both will give an exhibition of bunching their muscles. The trained lions will be exhibited only tonight and tomorrow night.

The Savoy will present tonight Lovell and King, the Australian team, who will introduce their own composition, "The Blind Miner," in which King has opportunity to show his powers as a monologist. This is a pathetic scene and has many thrilling situations. The Anker Sisters, in addition to several new songs, including "The Arab's Dream," and "He's a College Boy," will dance the fascinating Tarantella. The management has secured an unusually fine collection of moving pictures, all new to Honolulu.

The Empire theater has two strong features for the week. Pastor and Earle, the newest team, give a comedy, "The Johnnie and the Soubrette," in which Pastor does many funny acrobatic stunts, in the funniest of his many comic makeups, while Miss Merle will sing Haviland's latest song success, "You'll Come Back." Miss Merle's voice is one of the most unusual heard in vaudeville. Foley and Earle, the clogdancers, introduce new steps and by request Foley will give his famous "Dope Fiend's Dance" again. A new series of films will also be shown.

BAND CONCERT.

The Hawaiian band will play tonight in Emma Square at half-past seven o'clock, presenting the following program:

Overture, "Roman Life".....Thiere Introduction and Polonaise.....Williams Ballad, "Blue Violets".....Hans Vocal, Lucrezia Borgia.....Donizetti Vocal, Hawaiian Songs, Ar. by Berger Selection, Ernani (by request).....Verdi Waltz, Dreams.....Fusick Finale, Chantecler.....Thurban The Star Spangled Banner.

COUNTRY BOYS EXCEL.

Students from the country districts show up better physically than those from the cities, according to a compilation made by men in the department of history and political science at Cornell University. From the measurements of 1723 students who entered in 1908 and 1909 the statistics were obtained. There were 991 men from the country and 732 city bred students. For the purposes of the tables every place with a population of 25,000 was considered a city. The statistics show that the country bred students were half an inch taller, three and a half pounds heavier and had slightly greater chest expansions.—Ithaca Special in New York Sun.

located at Douglas, the Second squadron at Nogales and the Third squadron will go to Fort Huachuca.

The troops at Douglas patrol a distance of four miles east and four miles west of this place. The behavior of these troops doing that patrol duty along the sandy banks of the Rio Grande in Uncle Sam's service is causing much favorable comment.

There are fifteen vacancies in the Engineers Corps, U. S. Army, to be filled. The examinations will be held this summer. Civilians are eligible for these appointments. It is probably in the Panama zone that these additional engineers will be needed.

Personal and General.

Sibley, recently promoted from a Lieutenant Colonel in the Fourth Cavalry, has been assigned to the Fourteenth Cavalry and is traveling this way on the transport that left the coast on the 5th instant. Colonel Sibley will assume command of his new regiment, which is serving a tour of duty, with station at Camp Stansberg, Panghanga, Philippine Islands.

COMMISSIONER

and-pastoral) from five acres to the maximum of eighty acres allowed by the amendments. This work involved many subdivisions of tracts heretofore surveyed, as under the old land laws many lands had been subdivided into 200-acre tracts. All necessary documents, forms, blanks, etc., pertaining to the opening of lands under the amendments have practically been prepared, all of which will be available for prospective homesteaders at the date of the publication of the first advertisement (set for August 9.)

Shortly following the approval of the amendments by the President, many applications for the opening of public lands were presented to the commissioner, practically all of which were either deficient or incorrect in some respects and practically not in a form capable of being acted upon under the land laws as amended. The commissioner immediately acknowledged the receipt of the petitions and wrote to each individual applicant, sending him the proper forms upon which to apply.

It is evident from letters and petitions received by the commissioner that the amendments are not clearly understood by the public at large. The commissioner has called upon the Attorney General for a construction of doubtful questions of meaning or interpretation which have arisen, and, recognizing the immediate importance of a thorough understanding of the land laws as amended, is preparing to issue bulletins on all questions that arise, and has also prepared for submission to the Attorney General a revision of the land law section of the Revised Laws of Hawaii to conform to the amendments of May 27. For reference purposes, the recent amendments have been annotated. This has entailed a large amount of work and some expense, but its present need cannot be overestimated. In order that the affairs of the land office may be conducted as expeditiously and smoothly as possible in view of the material change in procedure necessitated by the amendments, which can be brought about only by an intelligent understanding of the land laws as amended and by harmonious cooperation of all concerned. It is indispensable that the public should have at the earliest possible date a pamphlet showing the status of territorial laws as affected by the amendments.

Principal Exchange.
The principal exchange made during the year was between the Government and the Maake Sugar Company, involving lands on the island of Kauai, by which the Government and the company secured the other lands adjoining lands already owned by each, thus placing the lands in complete tracts. The main point of the exchange, as far as the Government was concerned, was to secure a good tract of contiguous land for homestead purposes. The Government received in the exchange among other lands, land to the value of $17,251.50 in Manoa Valley, Island of Oahu, required for the College of Hawaii.

Comparative Receipts.
Year ending June 30, 1909—Rents, $182,148.09; interest and fees, $3,141.85; sales and realizations, $47,765.79. Total, $233,054.73. Year ending June 30, 1910—Rents, $237,826.01; interest and fees, $3,195.84; sales and realizations, $74,901.18. Total, $315,923.03. The expenditures of the department for the year were $14,161.08, a decrease of $6,121.47 over the amount for the previous year, which shows the economic value of the consolidation of departments.

The receipts for the year amounted $68.30 over the amount for the previous year, the principal increase ($65,121.23) being in rents received from general leases.

The sum of $31,413.73 was set aside during the year for the construction of roads for opening up tracts for settlement purposes, an increase of $17,329.69 over the amount for the previous year.

The sum of $40,462.45 was turned into the sinking fund from proceeds of sales during the year, an increase of $11,921.41 over the amount for the previous year.

FRUIT SELLING IN LONDON.

The wholesale selling of the vast quantities of fruit that come to the English market from abroad is done in two ways. One is through so-called "brokers," although they are really auctioneers pure and simple, and the other is through "dealers," or private salesmen. The comparative merits of the two methods of selling are variously estimated, and the only sure way of arriving at a just opinion would seem to be by experience.

It appears to be true that the trend of the business today is in the direction of the private-treaty salesmen. Practically all the California seedless oranges sold in Great Britain are disposed of through the dealers, and the same holds true of Cape fruit, or "South Africans," as they are called.

The importance of London as a fruit market is becoming less every year. Of course, with its enormous population, it will always be a large market for its own needs, but as a distributing center, it is rapidly giving way to Liverpool and Glasgow, especially so far as the apple trade is concerned. The apple is by far the most important fruit coming to the British market. American apples are very popular, led by such varieties as the Newtown Pippin and the Hood River. The only objection urged is that of size. The most popular sizes are those ranging from 120 to 150 a crate, whereas some of the arrivals from Oregon and California run as large as 70 or 83 per crate. The English retail trade does not want the extra large apple. Fruit is sold by the pound, and the number of a fruit that can be obtained in a fixed weight plays a large part in its sales.

The best prices, however, are obtained for Tasmanian and Australian fruits. This is due not to any inferiority of the American varieties, but to circumstances of the apple market. Most of the American apples intended for the United Kingdom are shipped from the interior to New York or Boston, and put into cold storage, where they remain for about six months. If this were not done the English market would be glutted, and fruit would have to be sold at prices that would not pay the growers. Cold storage extending over a period of six months is not the best means of preserving the flavor of a fruit, and the American apple suffers. On the other hand, the Australian and Tasmanian crops being six months later than the American, the fruit comes direct from the orchard with its original flavor almost unimpaired. The commercial advantages of cold storage as a method of regulating the supply of fruit, and preventing the glutting of the market are becoming recognized in Great Britain; and, in the near future, the English crop, instead of being all sold off before the arrival of the American fruit, will overlap and seriously compete therewith.

The importation and handling of American fruit has become such an important industry that representatives of both auctioneers and private-treaty houses take yearly trips to the United States, visiting all the prominent fruit centers, and it should be an easy matter for growers to get in personal touch with them. English dealers and brokers who have recently returned from the western part of the United States express grave fears that there is imminent danger of overproduction of American fruit, to be followed inevitably by a glutted market, the possible result to be not merely a lowering of prices and a reduction of profits, but a drop that will mean a distinct loss to the American grower on this year's crop.—United States Commercial Agent Whelpley.

GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME.

As vacation days draw nigh it is meet that a place be selected at which a month or so may be spent with profit. There is much about Haleiwa to recommend it. From the point of view as a sanitarium there is no better place on the Islands. It has other advantages also, not the least of which is its proximity to the city. As a matter of fact one may be in the city and yet out of it when transportation and means of communication are considered. You may be in touch with the world during your stay at this delightful spot. And the cuisine, as Kipling says, "It's something for another story."

TERRITORY OF HAWAII—COURT OF LAND REGISTRATION.

TERRITORY OF HAWAII TO BANK OF HONOLULU, LIMITED; HAWAIIAN CARRIAGE MANUFACTURING CO., LTD.; JOHN BUCKLEY; CASTLE & COOKE, LTD.; JOHN McLEAN; JANE DOE WILBUR (wife of William M. Wilbur); THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII, by Alexander Lindsay Jr., as Attorney General, and by Marston Campbell, as Superintendent of Public Works; CITY AND COUNTY OF HONOLULU, by Joseph J. Fern, as Mayor and President of the Board of Supervisors; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by BENNY & CO., LTD., a Hawaiian corporation, to register and confirm its title in the following-described land:

Portion of R. P. 296, L. C. A. 116 to A. Paki, on the Southwest side of Queen street, Honolulu, Kona, Oahu, T. H.

Beginning at the East corner of this lot, and the makai side of Queen street, the co-ordinates of said point of beginning referred to Government Survey Trig. Station "Punchbowl" being 2748.5 feet South and 3792.2 feet West, and the true azimuth and distance from a Government Survey Street Monument at the intersection of Queen and Punchbowl Streets being 139° 50' 23.52 feet; thence running by true azimuths:

- 1. 68° 35' 113.9 feet along land of J. Buckley;
- 2. 148° 55' 55.4 feet along fence along Castle & Cooke, Limited;
- 3. 246° 25' 105.0 feet along L. C. A. 114 to Manuiki to a galv. iron pipe;
- 4. 221° 15' 61.4 feet along makai side of Queen Street to point of beginning, marked with a galv. iron pipe.

The lot contains an area of 6220 square feet.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Court of Land Registration to be held at the City and County of Honolulu on the 24th day of May, A. D. 1911, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness the Honorable W. J. Robinson, Judge of said Court, this 29th day of April, in the year nineteen hundred and eleven.

Attest with Seal of said Court: (Seal) M. T. SIMONTON, Registrar.

Madeira Embroidery Cotton

Local embroiderers have here-to-fore been unable to get the proper blue-white cotton in large skeins for the Madeira embroidery; we have now imported a quantity of this; sizes 18, 25, 35 and 50; price of large skein, 20c.

EHLERS.

Resembling a carpenter's bit, but provided with adjustable cutting points, is a new washer cutter that a Connecticut man has patented.
