CATHCART GIVES HIS ANSWER

M'DUFFIE HAD NO BUSINESS TO BUTT IN

"YES" AND "NO" ARE THE CANDIDATES

County authorities of Maui have written Acting-Governor Mott-Smith wanting to know how they are to conduct the voting on July 26, at the plebiscite.

They want to know if the Territorial rules apply and how many of the laws are going to be applied and how many are not going to be applied, just as if perhaps, some laws might be overlooked.

The Acting-Governor will make things clear on this score.

All laws apply which are not interfered with or modified by the joint resolution of Congress which ordained the plebiscite.

There is, to be sure, still some question as to what watchers are to be allowed in the voting booths, for the law calls for two of each party represented by the canditates in the field on any election.

Now the candidates in the field at the coming election are "Yes" and "No.'

Electors vote for "Yes" or they vote for "No."

"Yes" and "No" can't choose watchers, and it is up to the "parties" back of them. It is therefore up to the prohibitionists and the anti-prohibitionists to look out for their watchers of election n the booths and the election inspectors are the men to decide whether or not they qualify as watchers.

BIG OPENING NEW ORPHEUM

Besides the original musical numbers in "The Telephone Girl" several new and tuneful items have been added which promise to be popular here. According to the stage director Frank Blair, "The Telephone Girl" airs will be whistled on the streets by everybody who sees the clever and pretty comedy. One of the best numbers is "I'm looking for a Sweetheart" sung by Miss Olga Steck. This song created a furore wherever it has been done.

Miss Maud Rockwell, prima donna of the Casino Musical Comedy Company, is preparing for an invasion of Australia and New Zealand. With several flattering offers from managers in the Colonies made her the leading lady of "The Telephone Girl" will probably sail for the southern hemisphere at the conclusion of her engagement with J. C. Cohen.

Owing to the demand for seats for the opening week of "The Telephone Girl," reservations for the second week, which will inaugurate the opening of the New Orpheum, will be placed on sale next Monday or Tuesday. Every seat for the opening night has either been sold or reserved which will mean that the Casino players will be welcomed by a capacity house.

HEALANIS ARE PREPARING TO WIN

The Healani boat club boys last evening gave a splendid entertainment which included everything from high-diving by searchlight to real lemonade.

It was called a smoker, and was also a concert and an aquatic exhibition. In the absence of President Heilbron and Captain D. L. Conkling, a speech was made by a senior member, Attorney Lightfoot, who took for his text a famous poem of which the entire words are "Go on!" repeated effectively. He advised the Healanis to "go on;" there had in the past been too much "hot air," but a new spirit had awakened and he was sure the Healanis were now going on to victory, which would be shown the next time the Myrtles came up against them. The speaker congratulated the members on the many improvements they had made in the club building, chiefly with their own hands.

There was a violin solo by Karl, good songs by Gibson and Isbon, a magic musical exhibition by W. Hooper, funny stunts by Mike Paton, a lively four-round go between Dick Sullivan and Cornyn, whistling by Sam Walker of the Park theater and music by the Park band, to say nothing of several other joy doings, sandwiches, good fellowship, smoke, a large but select crowd, and a pose by the congregation for a picture by Perkins.

PROSECUTION TAKES STAND THAT RIGHT METHOD WAS USED IN ASSAULT CASE

City and County Attorney Cathcart in an interview this morning made to a Star reporter the following statement:

My attention has been called to an article in this morning's Advertiser relating to the case against Edward C. Lane, in which he was chraged with certain indecent acts with a nine year girl.

"Last Sunday evening Lane, according to the story told by the little girl, was guilty of certain lewd conduct towards her. A full investigation of the facts was made both by Deputy City Attorney A. M. Brown and Deputy City Attorney F. W. Milverton, and while the facts were disgusting, yet, in the opinion of the deputies and of myself, they were not sufficient to warrant a charge being placed against Lane of assault with intent to commit the crime of rape.

"Section 3195 of the Revised Laws known as the 'Vagrancy' law provides that any person who is lewd, wanton or lascivious in speech or behavior shall be punished by imprisonment of not more than one year, and the acts of Lane clearly coming within the definition, he was charged under this section, that being the highest charge that could be placed against him under the facts. Accordingly, yesterday morning Lane was so charged, and entered a plea of guilty, and on the request of Deputy Milverton was given by the court the highest penalty provided, namely, imprisonment for one year.

"On Thursday morning the matter came up in the police court, and at that time it was continued for one day. Mr. Milverton then informing Chief of Detectives McDuffie that no conviction was possible under the facts upon a charge of assault with intent to commit the crime of rape. Mr. McDuffie then insisted on a trial upon the higher offence, stating that public sentiment required it, and Mr. Milverton replied that he was not going to prosecute a man for an offence that the facts would not warrant because of public sentiment and requested Mr. McDuffie to prepare a charge against Lane as being a lewd and lascivious person.

"After these proceedings on Thursday Mr. McDuffie called the attention of the matter to F. B. McStocker, foreman of the grand jury, and to the Attorney General, placing a construction upon the law contrary to that arrived at both by myself and by Mr. Milverton. As soon as I learned that Mr. McDuffie had gone out of his way in this manner, I requested him to call at my office, and I asked him whether it was the fact that he had taken up the matter with the Attorney General and he said it was. I then said: 'That is all, McDuffie; I wash my hands of you.'

"Mr. Milverton then said: 'I told you this morning, Mr. McDuffie, that Mr. Cathcart, Mr. Brown and myself had gone into the facts thoroughly, and had come to the conclusion that we could not get a conviction on the higher charge, and you have no business to assume to construe the law coctrary to our advice.' Mr. McDuffie then left the office.

'Mr. McDuffie neither at this time nor at any other time told Mr. Milverton to 'shut up,' but left the office without another word. The statement of McDuffie that he so addressed the deputy is as false as the statement that I informed him that there would be no more prosecutions in the police court from my office. Such a statement was never made.

"When the case came up for disposition yesterday morning, Mr. Lorrin Andrews approached Mr. Milverton and stated that he had been retained by the father of the girl to prosecute Lane upon a charge of assault with intent to commit the crime of rape. Mr. Milverton informed Mr. Andrews that there had been a full investigation of the facts by the legal department of the City and County and that the facts, taking the story of the little girl to be absolutely true in every particular, would not warrant the placing of that charge against Lane. Mr. Andrews then inquired whether he might be permitted to prosecute upon that charge alone, and Mr. Milverton informed him that he would not. Mr. Andrews then made an attempt to take the matter out of the hands of our department by an application addressed to Judge Andrade, but Judge Andrade took the view that the matter rested entirely with the City and County Attorney, and refused to allow Mr. Andrews to interfere. As to the facts of the matter Mr. Andrews had made no investigation and knew absolutely nothing about them, or he certainly would never have requested a prosecution for the higher offence.

"When the charge of being a lewd and lascivious person was made against Lane he entered a plea of guilty, and Mr. Milverton thereupon made to the court a detailed statement of the facts in the case as they had come to him from the little girl and from the other witnesses for the prosecution. Neither Mr. McDuffie, Mr. Andrews for the father or mother of the little girl, who were in the court room, in any manner challenged the accuracy of these facts and Judge Andrade, at the conclusion of Mr. Milverton's statement, and as I have mentioned above at the request of Mr. Milverton, sentenced Lane to the maximum penalty provided by Section 3195.

"The attitude of our department has been never to prosecute a person out of malice where the facts do not warrant a prosecution, or to prosecute any person for a higher offence under the law than the facts will warrant, and this attitude has been taken by us in all cases and sometimes even against public sentiment.

"The statement that there has been friction between my department and the sheriff's office is absolutely untrue. We have worked harmoniously, and the feeling between myself and the officers of the police department has been very friendly. The sheriff himself, his deputies and his officers will, without exception I believe, say that my support of them has been constant and unqualified. Even McDuffie knows that in a late case in the circuit court I went to every justifiable length in order to protect the integrity of his evidence. My relations with the police department are still of the best; but, as McDuffie went out of his way to injure me, I must consider him as an open enemy instead of the secret enemy I am now informed he has always been."

SOCIETY

BY MRS. RIVENBURGH.

ALOHA!

Aloha, McRae. You have brightened our days
You've dispelled all the symptoms of sorrow,
We've forgotten our fears, twixt laughter and tears ?
We've forgotten the cares of tomorrow.

You're all gold, through and through, and you're genuine, true,
Our old town will seem lonely without you,
And for many a day after you've gone away
We'll be saying some nice things about ou.

And those gay Saturdays, with their bright matinees,
When the walls of the theater trembled
With real outbursts of joys from our girls and our boys
In a fluttering white sea assembled.

You made them all glad, so their hears will be sad—
To bid you farewell when you go,
To see you no more, whom they learned to adore
From the front, when they went to the show.

But you've all done your best,—you've proved true to the test,
Rest assured we shall ever remember
Here's Aloha always! Let us crown you with leis
With the hope you'll be back in November!

ELEANOR RIVENBURGH.

Although the summer is full upon us, and notwithstanding the fact that every steamer has been laden with human freight for the mainland and various other parts of the world, and even though most or at least a great per centage of the passengers has meant a society exodus, it seems the social calendar can still boast a respectable number of doings, and its filled pages during the past week have presaged considerable ennui for this weekend for many of our smart set.

Mrs. A. M. Brown entertained seventeen guests on Wednesday afternoon at a delightful surfing and swimming party at her beautiful seaside home at Waikiki, in honor of Mrs. Renjes and Miss Elsa Renjes who will leave very shortly for their home in Europe, and Miss Annie Graham, the daughter of Mrs. Hubert Vos of New York, who is at present the house guest of her mother, Mrs. Coney.

At four o'clock the autos and carriages filled with guests arrived and immediately prepared for the rare sport of canoeing.

Many matrons and maids were present and a few chosen members of the opposite sex. It was a most enjoyable afternoon, the weather being perfect and an ideal time ensued.

After an afternoon spent on the water, at seven o'clock the guests gathered on the broad, cool lanai, overlooking the lawn and sea, and sat vo tables prettily decorated in scarlet carnations and maidenhair fern where a delicious buffet repast was served. Bridge filled the evening.

Among those present were Miss Renjes, Miss Elsa Renjes, Miss Annie Graham, Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Miss Helen Kimball, Mrs. Gunn, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Messrs. Walker, and Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Those present were Miss Marjorie Allen, Miss Grace Robertson, Miss Lillian Robertson, Miss Ethel Spalding and Miss Julia McStocker.

Four tables were set on the spacious lanai, converted into a bowf greens palms and hanging baskets forming a oft and pretty setting for American Beauty roses.

The prizes were unique and handsome consisting of two time-pieces set in Russian leather cases, a Dutch silver bonbon dish and a Dutch silver souvenir spoon with a quaint Holland windmill thereon. The winners were Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Focke and Mrs. Arthur Brown.

One of the very pretty affairs of the past week was the dance given on Wednesday evening by the Kunalu Boat Club in honor of Mrs. Garrett and Miss Hazel Hoffmann. The interior of the boat house club rooms were lavishly decorated in green, potted palms and ferns, and festoons of green maile and mountain ferns, creating a cool and delightful atmosphere for the dancers, while the sea breeze fanned the participants.

It was a most enjoyable affair, the girlhood friends of Mrs. Garrett and Miss Hoffmann responding happily to the functions given in their honor. A Hawaiian Glee Club provided the music for the evening and at eleven o'clock a delicious supper was served.

Among those present to do honor to Mrs. Garrett and Miss Hoffmann on this occasion were Misses Hazel Hoffmann, Florence Hoffmann, Kathr Stephens, Violet Makee, Harriet Lucas, Lydia McStocker, Marie Lawrence, Agnes Wickstrum, May Frazier, Anna Tucker, Sarah Lucas, Margaret Catton, Constance Restarick, Sturdevant and Fitzgerald, Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Kenyon and Mrs. Johnstone; Messrs. The luxuriant grounds surrounding the seashore mansion of Mr. and Mrs. James Castle at Waikiki were gay indeed on Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock when Mrs. Harold Castle was hostess at a charming lawn party for about 50 of her friends. The afternoon was ideal as far as weather was concerned, and the beautiful and fashionably gowned ladies under the immense expanse of spreading shade trees on the velvet lawn was a lovely picture.

At small tables placed on the green sward tea, coffee and punch were served the guests after having been graciously received by the hostess and her mother.

Mrs. Harold Castle looked very lovely in a gown of turquoise blue satin and wearing a satin hat of the same shade elaborately covered with blue plumes. Mrs. C. Hedemann, her mother, was modishly gowned in lavender shaded satin with a becoming large picture hat in black. Mrs. Gustave Schaefer presided over the punch, and Miss Irene Fisher gowned in Alice blue voile and wearing a black picture hat served tea.

Mrs. Herman Focke was a charming hostess on Tuesday when she entertained about twenty-five guests at an elaborate luncheon, in honor of Mrs. Renjes, Mrs. Rees and Mrs. Dunning. The table was set out in the spacious palm enclosed lanai, beneath hanging basket of maidenhair fern and quiant Oriental baskets of lavender morning glories tied with bows of tulle in the same delicate shade. The centerpiece consisted of a mass of these blossoms and the cloth was concealed by them, with streamers of liberty satin and tulle.

A round of social gaieties characterized the last week in Honolulu of Dr. and Mrs. Hackett and Miss Williamson who for the past five weeks have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams. During their visit to the islands the trio have made scores of friends, each endeavoring to vie in hospitality with the others.

On Monday, Dr. and Mrs. Hackett, entertained at a charming luncheon at the Moana Hotel and surfing party during the afternoon. La France roses graced the center of the luncheon table and those present were Dr. and Mrs. Hackett, Miss Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Miss Ada Lycett and Mrs. Charles Osborne. The afternoon was spent in canoeing and surf riding a most enjoyable day resulting.

On Monday evening Dr. and Mrs. Hackett were hosts at a handsome dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Moir, which they gave at the Moana hotel. American Beauty roses arranged as a centerpiece graced the table and the place cards represented Hawaiian scenes.

On Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. Hackett and Miss Williamson were the complimented guests at a handsome diner given by the gentlemen comprising the "Wahine Kapu Club." The table was graced by a beautiful centerpiece of red carnations and maidenhair, scattered here and there over the table. Red shaded candelabra shed a soft warm glow over all, and the place cards were equestrienne figures done in water colors in compliment to Miss Williamson who is an accomplished horsewoman.

Those present on this auspicious occasion were Dr. and Mrs. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams, Miss A. Lycett, Messrs. M. M. Johnson, Victor Hurd, Roscoe Perkins, George H. Humphries, Jack Withington, Mr. Crune and C. B. Wright.

On Sunday evening Miss Williamson and Dr. and Mrs. Hackett were honored with an elaborate farewell dinner, that evening being chosen as it was Mrs. Hackett's birthday. The dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams, and was very beautiful in every detail. Lavender was chosen as the color scheme, that being Mrs. Hackett's favorite shade and the dining room was a bower of maidenhair ferns and palms with lavender orchids interspersed.

The guests were seated round the large table which was made very dainty and beautiful by a large centerpiece of orchids and violles scattered over the handsome doilies and centerpiece embroidered in lavender violets, and each lady and gentleman's place being adorned with a corsage bouquet and nosegay of these fragrant blossoms.

The favors were both humorous and touching, being tiny suit cases to whose handles were tied tiny lavender satin bows and wee bunches of violets, bringing home the fact of the honored guests' departure three days hence. The place cards were humorous sketches appropriate for the occasion and were incentives for much merriment.

After dinner, during which an elaborate menu was served, the guests repaired to the drawing rooms where music was enjoyed, the latter part of the evening being spent in motoring by moonlight to every point of interest about the city and surrounding country. Among those present on this enjoyable occasion were Dr. and Mrs. Hackett, Miss Williamson, Miss Ada Lycett, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. Mer'e Johnson and Mr. Charles Osborne.

An article on the educational influence of the comet in the Boston Transcript says—referring to a dispute between two friends, wherein both were right, as to whether a comet each recollected was in 1858 or 1861: "Perhaps they have gained a historic background for our present visitant by discovering that it was Halley's comet which caused the Harvard observatory to be founded, in 1843—the design being thus to enable us fittingly to receive such distinguished guests." The fact here related has a happy parallel, and perhaps one with a bright omen for the College of Hawaii, in the founding of the local college's observatory at Kaimuki expressly in anticipation of Halley's comet. Hawaii indeed shows better than Harvard in the parallel. The Harvard observatory was the result of hindsight, but the Hawaii that of foresight in respect to Halley's comet.

SPANISH WAR POST MORTEM.

Justice William Day of the United States Supreme Court, has contradicted the statement lately made by Senator Depew of New York, in an interview that has been reprinted in this paper, respecting the genesis of the Spanish-American war. In brief the statement of Mr. Depew was that President McKinley knew of the possibility that Spain would consent to part with the sovereignty of Cuba in order to avert war with this country in the spring of 1898. Justice Day was Secretary of State in 1898, in which position it is natural to believe he was entirely familiar with all the negotiations with Spain, as well as personally cognizant of everything that had been done by President McKinley to avert war. Justice Day having carefully read the interview dictated the following comments upon it:

"The statement of Senator Depew, as reported to the Public Ledger, greatly surprises me. It has never before been intimated, as far as I know, that President McKinley ever received information from any source before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war that Spain was willing to relinquish her sovereignty over Cuba. I have always understood that such willingness was developed in the negotiations for peace which closed the war culminating in the signing of the protocol of August 12, 1898, in which Spain relinquished all claim of sovereignty over that island.

"President McKinley communicated to Congress in his message of April 11, 1898, the result of negotiations with the Spanish government looking to the betterment of conditions in Cuba and a peaceful solution of the differences between the two governments, concluding the message with a statement of the decree of the Queen Regent of Spain, directing a suspension of hostilities in order to prepare and facilitate a peace. I am sure that in this message Congress was fully advised of the state of the negotiations and all that was known or accomplished up to that time.

"The diplomatic correspondence as published in the foreign relations of 1898 contains a full statement of the correspondence between the United States and Spain preceding the war. This record has long been published and open to inspection and must speak for itself."

Friends of Mr. McKinley in Washington are reported in a despatch to have generally resented the intimation in what Senator Depew said that President McKinley was weak enough to hold back information whereby war might have been avoided and embark on hostilities in accordance to popular outcry. They present a narrative of events leading up to the hostilities, showing that negotiations for avoiding war continued even during the week the President's war message was awaiting action in Congress, as they had been during the week between the preparation of the message and its transmission to Congress. Nevertheless, and in spite of Justice Day's contradiction, Senator Depew at last accounts stuck to his story, declaring in answer to a question that there was no doubt Mr. McKinley surely did know of the possibility of a peaceful settlement with Spain.

Vice-President Hobart has been brought into the dispute by a quotation from his biography, which represents him out driving with President McKinley—who was greatly worried; wanted peace, but Congress and the country seemed bent on war—when he advised his chief to submit the matter to Congress, and thus "forestall any action by the Senate to declare war against Spain." He then added, impressively, "I can hold them back no longer." This idea of the Vice-President's holding back the Senate, where he was but the presiding officer, with a vote only in case of a tie, is ridiculed by the Washington Star in an article concluding thus:

"It has been said that the Spanish war saved the McKinley administration, that but for the war the Dingley tariff law would have swamped the Republicans, brought in a Democratic House in 1898 and Mr. Bryan as President in 1900. That is to be doubted. But, the Cuban question existing, had Mr. McKinley in the end refused war, he would have been swept from office by the largest vote ever thrown against a presidential candidate in this country, if his party had had the temerity to renominate him, which is doubtful."

Philadelphia has discovered a wooden block pavement that is represented as superior to any other pavement. Its cost is approximately the same as the price named in the Gilman bitulithic paving contract for Fort Street, the execution of which has been blocked by the mayor's veto.

Delegate Kalanianaole's last "touch" of Uncle Sam for the benefit of Hawaii, before starting home, was one of the most brilliant strokes of his career. That $350,000 to place the selected Federal building site outside of all practical objection is a big thing.

Sad that it should be attempted in the national capital to give Oklahoma, so young and fair, infection of the leprosy of graft.

Virtue is its own reward, but none the less precious with a bonus "on the side." Richard A. Parr, deputy surveyor of the port of New York, will receive $100,000 as a reward for his services in uncovering the sugar frauds in the customs. Chiefly through Parr's efforts the United States recovered $2,135,486.32 from the American Sugar Refining Company, and his reward will therefore be about 5 per cent of the total sum that was turned back to the Government. The reward will have to be paid out of the "moiety fund," which is authorized by congress for contingencies of this sort. The announcement was made at the Treasury, after a talk between Secretary MacVeagh and President Taft. Attorney-General Wickersham had already passed upon Parr's claim, but MacVeagh wished to have the approval of the President.

CATS AND PEOPLE

I've heard the cats above the ceiling turn loose a raft of frightful squealing, at dreary midnight's hour; they seemed to say: "Though rocks may thump us, we'll still kick up our beastly rumpus"—they made my blood turn sour. I got my gun and said: "A load'll convince them that they cannot yodel all night upon my roof; I sent some buckshot catward winging, but still the brutes kept up their singing, for cats are reason-proof. You can't convince a blamed old tabby its voice is bum and weak and flabby, and harsh and flat and raw; it seems to say: "I beg your pardon, but I'm the famous Mary Garden, and also Ellen Yaw." And there are sundry human critters, who jar me like a dose of bitters, who leave me sore and pained; they come and tell me ancient stories, as stale as last year's morning glories, and think I'm entertained. I say to some heart-rending feller: "You are the punkest story-teller that reprobation earns; and if you spring another fable I'll break your wishbone with a table, so help me Tommy Burns." You'd think he'd leave me to my sorrow, but no! he comes around tomorrow, another yarn to spring, another hoary tale to garble, persistent as the cats that warble, and think that they can sing!

DAUGHTER OF CHIEF JUSTICE BEATTY SUCCUMBS AFTER RETURN FROM ISLANDS.

Mrs. A. B. Wright, only daughter of Chief Justice W. H. Beatty of the supreme court, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her father, 2409 Octavis street. Her death was a sudden shock to numerous friends in this city who believed that she had partly recuperated during her stay in Hawaii.

Accompanied by her father, Mrs. Wright returned from Honolulu on the steamer Sierra Tuesday. She was taken ill on the voyage and on the arrival of the steamer was taken in an ambulance to a private hospital.

Mrs. Wright was born in Nevada 31 years ago and brought to this state when 1 year old. For many years she attended private school in San Francisco.

A KAMAAINA PASSES AWAY

WAILUKU, June 24.—George D. Schraeder, an old resident of Wailuku, passed away Wednesday morning, June 22, from the effects of a second stroke of paralysis received Monday night last. On recovering consciousness the day following he evidently realized the approach of the grim reaper, and asked for and received at the hands of Rev. Father Maximim the last rites given to those of the Catholic faith to which church he belonged.

George D. Schraeder was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1739, and emigrated to the United States in 1856 remaining in New York city till 1863, in which year he married Mrs. Schraeder.

In 1868 the pair came to San Francisco arriving three days before the great earthquake so graphically described by Mark Twain in his "Roughing It," which somewhat shook their faith in the stability of the Golden State, and they returned East going by stage to Omaha thence to New York by railway. Coming back to San Francisco in 1872 he engaged in the meat business until 1879, when he removed to Honolulu where in partnership with George Raupp they opened the German Meat Market, remaining in business there until the year 1893, when after a brief trip to the coast Mr. Schraeder came to Wailuku.

TUMOR REMOVED FROM THE BRAIN

A most difficult and critical operation was performed by Dr. J. R. Judd upon Guy F. Maydwell, attorney of Holualoa, Hawaii, at the Queen's Hospital on Wednesday. It was quite successful, the patient now doing well.

Mr. Maydwell had been suffering the loss of sight and was becoming paralyzed on one side. His arm was powerless. The case was diagnosed as one of abnormal pressure on the brain, but the exact spot was only hit upon by the surgeon through deduction from the nerves affected.

A portion of Mr. Maydwell's skull was raised and laid back like a door, when a tumor about the size of an orange, pressing upon the brain, was exposed. It was of bulk equal to one-seventh that of the brain. The excrescence was removed and the segment of cranium put back in place. The operation took nearly two hours and was attended by considerable bleeding, but the patient rallied in due time and yesterday evening was reported much improved. He already felt his eyesight returning to the normal.

LIGHT SALE BUT MARKET BRIGHTER

This has been another light day in stocks ,although the stream of inquiries keeps up and in some instances new strength was perceptibly shown. Hawaiian Commercial, for instance, was strong at $40.75 bid and $41.00 asked. This state of affairs is due to the remarkably fine crop showing of this year and the equally good outlook for the future. Moreover, there are street rumors of an extra dividend of fifty cents a share, to begin next month.

Between boards 20 and 40 Oahu sold at $32.50, followed by 5 on the board at the same. At the close of today's session $32.375 was bid and $32.625 asked for this stock.

A sharp advance was noted in Honokaa. Between boards 100 shares had sold at 19.125, but on the board a sale of 10 shares was made at $19.50. At the close $19.375 was bid and $19.625 asked.

On the board this morning 5, 25 and 10 Olaa sold at $5.125, after which the same was bid for more and $5.25 asked. McBryde was $5.625 bid and $5.75 asked. Both stocks were in demand at these figures.

A sale of 5 shares Waimanalo was made at $249.50, this being the first transaction in that stock in quite a while.

GOOD WEATHER NOW.

C. Brewer & Company received mail advices by the Mauna Kea this morning from Hilo that there had been a let-up in the rainfall and that excellent weather was now prevailing. Harvesting was going on rapidly and satisfactorily.

HAWAIIAN COMMERCIAL.

Hawaiian Commercial stock has strengthened considerably since the session of the board this morning, due to heavy and urgent buying orders from San Francisco, where $42 is being asked for it. Early this afternoon $41.25 was being freely offered for the stock with prospects of its going higher.

LIGHT ON DEALS IN THE PHILIPPINE LANDS

Particulars of the A. F. Thayer land deals in the Philippines have reached Washington, and the matter has been taken up officially by the Government. The following from the Washington Star of June 12 is interesting reading:

Friar lands are being leased to favored persons in the Philippine Islands, including one official and the nephew of another, at from 8 to 20 cents an acre, acording to a report sent to Congress yesterday by the War Department, in response to one of several resolutions introduced by Representative Martin of Colorado.

The information is contained in a report prepared by Director Sleeper of the Philippine land office, and it involves in the transactions Executive Secretary Frank W. Carpenter of the Philippine commission and E. L. Worcester, a nephew of Dean C. Worcester, member of the commission. The report says:

"It is said that Edward L. Poole, who purchased the San Jose estate in Mindoro, represents Mr. Welch, but the purchase was made in his own name."

Mr. Welch, according to Mr. Martin, is an associate of Horace Havemeyer, of the American Sugar Refining Company.

The report states that A. F. Thayer, "representing Mr. Dillingham," holds leases for 4,901 hectares of Philippine lands, which include 3,287 hectares on the Calamba estate. A hectare is two and a half acres. Mr. Dillingham, according to Mr. Martin, holds large sugar interests in Hawaii that are amalgamated with the so-called sugar trust. Mr. Thayer, "representing Mr. Dillingham," the report adds, also, has applied to purchase 1,200 hectares of Santa Rosa estate, all of which land is now vacant.

The report shows a special lease to Emilio Aguinaldo of 1,050 hectares on the Imus estate and of 2,067 hectares on the Tala estate to Frank W. Carpenter. All of the special leases, reports the Philippine government, "are for the express purpose of extending cultivation on unoccupied tracts of friar lands on which the government is paying 4 per cent interest a year."

"Frank W. Carpenter, the executive secretary of the islands," said Representative Martin yesterday, "is shown by this report to have leased to himself 5,000 acres at 8 cents a month per acre, with a right to all the rest of the estate as fast as it becomes vacant. These leases are really options to acquire.

"E. L. Worcester, the nephew of Secretary of the Interior Dean C. Worcester of the Philippine government, the department in charge of the government lands, has acquired 3,000 acres for twenty-five years at 20 cents an acre a year. All that is good land. E. J. Poole, who bought the San Jose estate for the Havemeyers, is now shown to be buying public lands in Mindoro for two California corporations. I have other information that goes to show that other officials of the Philippine government, including the interior department and the public land bureau, have sold themselves Philippine lands."

DECLARES A WAR IN SEA RATES TO NEW YORK

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Cutting athwart the plans of Bates & Cheseborough for the enlargement of their clipper line service to New York by the Strait of Magell an, the American Hawaiian Steamship Company announces that it will put two steamers on that route and take freight to New York at less than sailing-ship rates.

The ugly nature of the traffic war which is initiated by this announcement is illustrated by the fact that the two steamers which the American-Hawaiian Company announces as additions to its fleet were secured by overbidding Bates & Cheseborough for the charters.

The clipper line of sailing-ships operatedd by Bates & Cheseborough independently of the railroads has been taking freight to New York for $7 a ton, against $8 by the Panama-Pacific Mail service, and on average of $9 (taking canned goods as a basis) by the American-Hawaiian Tehuantepec service.

As the business of this line grew, Bates & Cheseborough had sought to secure charters of the steamers J. L. Luckenbach and Lyra to add to their fleet. They made a bid for the charters which Cheseborough describes as "dignified and all that the circumstances could warrant."

It was right there that Manager Dearborn, of the American-Hawaiian Company put a crimp in the plans of the independent line by overbidding it for the charters of these two steamers and announcing that they would be operated on the Magellan route by the American-Hawaiian Company, and carry freight to New ork at $5.50 and

AUSTRALIA ALSO HAS A NAUGHTY SUGAR TRUST

Judging from the tone of Australian papers, the Antipodal continent also has its sugar trust, and the real or fancied monopolists are just now coming into some of the disfavor which seems to have fallen upon the head of the bigger trust in the United States. The Sydney Bulletin publishes the annual statement of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, and then proceeds to pick it to pieces in a manner far from polite.

The report shows this company to have the enormous capital of a little over $15,000,000, as based upon their own statement. But—The paper charges the company with sinking enormous amounts in various sorts of "funds," for the purpose of hiding the true basis of profit in the sugar monopoly and adds: It is an amazing record.". The attack continues in this wise:

But the practical question for the investor is—Is the future going to

THE HONOLULU OIL WELL IS WINNER

A few days ago a report reached here that the Honolulu company's new oil well near Buena Vista, California, had spouted up in great shape. Further particulars arrived yesterday, one paper making the following statement of the antics of the gusher:

"The Honolulu Oil Company's new well on section 4-11-23, in the Buena Vista hills, which came in with a big shower of light oil some days ago, has an exceptionally heavy gas pressure, estimated at 1800 pounds. When the oil sand was reached the oil was thrown out in a dense spray. High pressure fittings have been ordered to handle the product."

This oil prospect is owned largely by Honolulu men, some of them being connected with the establishment of H. Hackfeld & Company. This well is the first locally owned to make a noise like big money.

MEXICO NOW HAS TOO MUCH MONEY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex,—June 12—Because there is too much idle money in the republic, Mexican banks have inaugurater a somewhat novel method of forcing it into the industrial and development market. The measure employed in the simple one of declining to pay interest on idle band deposits. The pioneers in this move is the National Bank of Mexico, a government institution; the Central Bank of Mexico, and the Bank of London and Mexico.

Is is claimed on good authority that the inactive funds in the Mexican banks amount to over $85,000,000, and that this will be added to considerably except it is possible to find an outlet for some of the cash or get depositors to withdraw their money for the purpose of investment.

In short, Mexico seems to be approaching a crisis due to overprosperity in certain circles. A great deal of the money accumulated was derived from the sale of large tracts of land, acquired for the greater part by Americans. The tendency of this has been to throw a great deal of money into the country without taking anything out of it.

In the meantime the credit of the government has become better than it ever was before, so much so in fact that foreign financiers have offered to convert the country's 5 per cent foreign gold debt into a loan bearing only 4 or at the most 4 1-2 per cent. Should this be done a lively rise in the silver market may be looked for and Mexico as the biggest producer of silver, would again benefit.

ANTI-PROHIBITIONISTS.

WAILUKU, June 24—John H. Wise, editor of the Keauhou, arrived in Wailuku Saturday evening last and made a short speech on Market street against prohibition.

Senator Coelho was the first speaker and held the crowd for an hour and a half, speaking mostly of the work he had done in the legislature the past years, and also against prohibition which he denounced as a scheme of the missionaries to deprive Hawaiians of their rights and force the country to a government by commission.

ORIENTAL TOUR OF COMMERCIAL MEN

The Portland Oregonian supplies the following additional information concerning the tour of China by Pacific coast commercial delegates, but makes no mention of Honolulu's distinguished representatives to be:

The excursion to the Orient by representatives of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast will leave San Francisco on the steamship Korea on August 23.

A report giving the details governing the organization of the party has been submitted to the Portland Chamber of Commerce by Willis H. Booth, president of the associated bodies, and William L. G. Gerstle, vice-president and chairman of the committee on arrangements.

It has been found necessary to limit the representation from each commercial body to five, with the alternative that if the wives of delegates are taken the total number from each organization will be limited to six, including the women.

As there are nine commercial bodies belonging to the asociation the party will therefore consist of a maximum of 54. It has also been provided that a limited number of children may be taken but must be left at some treaty port in China in the care of nurses or governesses, as they will not be taken into the interior.

In addition to the members of the party a stenographer will be taken, and at Shanghai two interpreters, supplied by the Department of Commerce, will join the excursionists. The itinerary will include visits to about 200 commercial organizations in China.

The party will disband at Hong Kong November 7, and the return will be by any of the Pacific Mail steamships to San Francisco. The round trip has been fixed at $337.50, but an additional cost will be involved by anyone who may return by the northern route.

The association is preparing to issue an elaborate souvenir booklet giving the itinerary, description of the points visited, and the personnel of the party, with photographs and short biographies.

The commercial bodies that will be represented are those of the Pacific Coast ports from San Francisco north to Seattle, with the addition of that of one interior city—Spokane.

It is not yet known who will represent the Portland Chamber of Commerce in the party.

SAFETY POWDER BUCKS THE BUCKS

CORNING, (N Y.,) June 14.—Clarence Buck and his son, Bernard, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the powder factory operated by the Buck Manufacturing Company at Coudersport, Pa. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

The elder Buck was the inventor of a so-called safety powder, which was manufactured at the Coudersport plant by a secret process carefully guarded. Only a few days ago Buck had told the secret of his process to a brother. Yesterday he took his son into the mixing room of the powder mill to explain the process to him. It is supposed that something went wrong with their manipulation of the ingredients, and that the fire started in the mixing-room. All the employes of the plant escaped. The bodies of the two Bucks were found after the fire was extinguished, burned beyond recognition.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETE FOR CLUB'S HOUSE WARUING

Tennis players and tennis enthusiasts will have an opportunity this afternoon to witness some exhibition matches on the Neighborhood courts, which have been arranged by the committee in charge as a fitting way to celebrate the opening of th enew club house that will be thrown open to the public for the first time.

Sixteen of the best lady and gentleman players of the city will be matched against each other, and judging from their record this past season they will furnish splendid exhibitions of the popular game.

The first match of the afternoon between Greenfield and McKeever the two Ewa cracks and Castle and Nowell, should be well worth going miles to see. All four players are well known to the tennis public, and before the match is over the gallery will be treated to tennis of championship form.

Greenfield and McKeever are two of the fastest players in the territory and their Ewa followers feel confident that they will be able to bring back fresh laurels from the champion of Hawaii and the champion of the Manoa club.

Castle and Nowell have won every thing in sight this year, although they were not paired off in the championship double tournament.

The second match of the afternoon between Steere and Singlehurst representing the Manoa Club and Wall and Prosser the Neighborhood club should be almost as interesting a match as the first one, in spite of the fact that none of the players are considered to be quite in the same class as the former four.

Steere and Singlehurst recently won the double championship of the Manoa Club by defeating Nowell and Schmidt, and their fellow club members want them to uphold the honor of the club by defeating the two Neighborhood cracks.

The third match between Gray and Captain Low versus the champion Cooke team should be a fast match from start to finish, as everyone who has followed tennis this year knows what the four players have done.

Low and Gray are a hard combination to defeat, and the present double champions will have to play better than they did against Castle and Low if they want to win.

The fourth match between Mrs. Ethel Coulter and Miss Burnham and Mrs. T. Clive Davis and Miss Lucy Ward, should result in a match that will be fought for point by point. Every one who has followed Mrs. Coulter's return to the championship class knows what she is capable of doing when forced to exert herself, and her partner Miss Burnham will give her the necessary support all through the sets.

Mrs. Davies and Miss Ward although not in cchampionship form, can be relied upon to give their opponents plenty of work if they play the way they usually do. If time will allow, the winners of matches two and three will play the best two out of three sets for the inter-club championship.

Great pains have been taken by the ladies of the club to entertain the stronger sex that are expected to be present, and from all reports the house warming this afternoon promises to be a complete success in every way.

Tennis players and those interested in the game are cordially asked to be present at what promises to be the most interesting tennis exhibition ever given in Honolulu. The committee consisting of Messrs. Wall, Nowell and Greenwell deserve much credit for their efforts in arranging the tennis this afternoon, and with good weather the pretty grounds of the club should be taxed to their utmost.

GAMES ARE DOUBTFUL.

In addition to the teams that will play in the international baseball series with Waseda that start next Sunday afternoon, the teams composing the Military baseball league are anxious to play mid-week games with the visitors, but on account of financial trouble it is dountful if they will be arranged.

The management of Athletic park where the six weeks series will be played, are not willing to allow the Waseda players to play with any other teams outside the league, unless they are assured of receiving a part of the gate receipts which the soldier players are at present unwilling to consent to.

On account of the heavy expense in bringing the team and providing for them when they arrive, the athletic management do not feel that they should allow the visitors to play unless they are considered when the money is counted, which does not seem to be exactly right when the same people have expressed themselves very plainly on the subject of baseball for money. For the sake of the sport, and to stimulate interest in the game among the younger players in the city, let the Military league players play with the Waseda providing they are willing to play. The question of money for playing baseball in Honolulu has been the cause of the big league disbanding, and the quickest way to stop further interest in the game is to wrangle over the division of gate receipts.

The Waseda team will be the drawing card for the extra attendance during their Saturday and Sunday games but the playing of mid-week games at the league grounds have absolutely no effect on the money that will pour in at Athletic park, so by all means let the other teams have a chance to play with the crack team from Japan that will arrive here next Saturday.

WEEK END BASEBALL.

Today and tomorrow the baseball fans will have plenty of chance to witness baseball, as eight games will be played in the two days.

The regular scheduled games in the Military league this afternoon will be Marines vs. Fort Shafter and Fort Ruger vs. Hospital Corps. The Marines and "stretcher carriers" feel certain that they will annex the honors, although the other teams are just as sanguine. Both games will be played at the league grounds, the games starting as usual at 1:30 and 3.30.

Tomorrow the Guards will journey down to Leilehua and will play two games with the league leaders. The two games scheduled is the result of the meeting held on Thursday afternoon. The Guards are very anxious to win the game as they are at present fourth in standing, but the "horsemen" are not going to be headed if they can help it.

Manager Thompson is taking down a strong aggregation of players, who he thinks will be able to bring back the scalps of the old Indian fighters.

One game will be played before lunch, the other being called in time to allow the town players to get the afternoon train home.

Tomorrow morning at Athletic park the regular games in the Oahu Junior league will be played, the teams that will play being the Mu Hocks vs. C. A. C.'s and Asahis vs. Palamas. Judging from past playing the Mu Hocks and Asahis should be winners.

The big games in the afternoon at the regular time and place will be J. A. C.'s vs. Marines and Portuguese A. C. vs. the Chinese A. C. To predict the outcome of these games is almost impossible, but the general feeling among the fans would seem to indicate that the Japanese and Chinese will be returned winners.

Tomorrow's games in the plantation league will be Ewa vs. Waianae, and Waipahu vs. Aiea.

POLO PRACTICE TODAY.

A number of polo players are expected to be on hand this afternoon at Moanalua, for the purpose of playing a practice game in prepration for the game at Leilehua next Saturday.

If enough players appear on the field this afternoon to make up three teams, several periods will be played between each two so that a team can be selected to go to Schofield barracks next week to uphold the honor of Honolulu.

Walter Dillingham who returns next week on the Siberia will probably get in the game at once as will Bob Shingle and John Fleming

The prospects look very bright for Honolulu this year on the polo field, and it would not surprise a good many people if Maui, Kauai and Hawaii were beaten by the home team.

FOUR BALL FOURSOME.

A large number of golfers of the Honolulu Golf Club are expected to be on hand tomorrow morning at Moanalua, for the purpose of taking part in the four ball foursome tournament which is one of the set fixtures on this year's golf calendar.

Handsome prizes will be given the winners, and some good scores are expected to be turned in. Arrangements have been made for bringing the players from the end of the car line, for which a moderate charge will be made.

Entries for play will close at ten o'clock on the course.

BIG SHOOT TOMORROW.

At nine o'clock tomorrow morning the majority of members of the Hawaii Gun club will participate in the semi-annual shoot for the championship of the club.

Judging from the scores made in the weekly shoot, some interesting shooting will result tomorrow before the prizes are won,

Shooting will be continued the entire day with the exception of the time set for the luncheon which promises to be the best ever arranged by the caterer of the club.

Ladies as well as non-members are cordially asked to be present at the shooting and lunch.

GOOD TIME EXPECTED.

Although the officials do not expect any world's records to be broken some fast time is looked for in the bicycle races scheduled for tomorrow morning at Kapiolani park under the auspices of the Japanese Bicycle Association. The first race, a fifteen mile free for all, has attracted ten of the best riders in the city, for which five prizes will be given.

The second race a ten mile for Japanese only, promises to be well contested as some of the best men in the city have entered.

Twelve riders have entered for the free for all ten mile race, prizes being awarded the first five men to finish.

The junior five mile race has brought out eighteen entries which should make the race a very interesting one.

The last race on the program an open three mile event for the winners of the ten and fifteen mile races should be hotly contested, as the title of champion goes with the first prize.

The first prize in each race will be a bicycle, which should stimulate the riders to special effort to win the coveted trophies.

RESULT DOUBTFUL.

The baseball game this afternoon at Athletic park between the Punahou Alumni team and the nine representing the U. S. S. Cleveland should draw a large crowd as both teams have supporters who want to see their team win.

Every one has seen the Puns in action in their school days but no one but the sailors in Captain Rodman's fleet have seen the Cleveland aggregation in action.

Both teams have been practicing faithfully for the game, and as a result good ball should be played. The game will be called promptly at 3:30.

RETURN GAME TODAY.

Twenty-two players representing the Honolulu Cricket Club and Bishop's Bank, will meet on Makiki field this afternoon in the second cricket game between these teams this year.

The "money counters" are certain that they can turn the tables on the veterans this afternoon, and before the game is over the spectators are likely to see some good playing. The club team expect to have their strongest players on the field including Buchly, Anderson, Catton, Morse, Ayres, Beardmore and Bailey.

The game will be called at two thirty sharp, and during the afternoon the refreshment committee will see that none go either hungry or thirsty.

ANOTHER BOXING SHOW.

Jack McFadden, undefeated lightweight of Hawaii, intends to have another boxing entertainment at Aloha park next Saturday night, providing enough exponents of the fistic game can be secured.

Jack McFadden has made the game popular this season by his shows, and judging from the material on hand, he should have little trouble in arranging a feast of boxing that will draw the crowd.

Sarcone and Gans are certain to be selected as one of the teams, as the bugler from Camp Very is anxious to meet the conqueror of Johnson.

Johnson or "Spider" Owens may be seen in action against Sailor Simmons, while Pat Cornyn will meet some one to be decided upon later.

Hoao wants a go with any man his weight, and possibly some one will come forward and accommodate him before the articles are signed before McFadden.

Further details will be published next week in these columns.

SMOKER A SUCCESS.

The members of the Healani Boat club and their invited guests were treated to an enjoyable smoker last night at the club house near the Channel wharf.

Songs, boxing, speeches and a dainty buffet supper made everyone feel perfectly at home.

Dick Sullivan and his brother gave an interesting four round boxing exhibition which ended in a no decision by referee Paton. Mike Paton amused the guests present with some of his entertaining monologues which nearly brought down the club house with the cheering and applause that lasted several minutes.

Gibson, Hesse, Kahl, Mayne, Lightfoot and Hale were warmly applauded for their efforts.

Good fellowship reigned until last car time, the guests being very reluctant about leaving the affair which they pronounced an unqualified success.

DELANEY'S OFFER.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Bill Clark, the "Belfast Chicken" of other fighting days, received an offer today from Billy Delaney, of San Francisco, to box a preliminary of four rounds at the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Clark is 84 years old. His opponent is to be Jem Mace, 79 years old. Delaney offers each of the former pugilists their expenses to San Francisco and $500. Clark and Mace, according to Clark, had a rough fight in the Empire Theater in New York back in the 70s.

ROLLER DEFEATED.

SEATTLE, June 10.—Zbyszke, Polish wrestler, defeated Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle in two straight falls in their match here last night. he time of the first fall was one hour and fifty-two minutes and of the second nineteen minutes.

LONG AIR RACE.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The prospects of realizing the proposed New York to Washington aeroplane race, now being promoted by the Aero Club of America, depend largely on the entry of a biplane of foreign make. According to the conditions adopted at the recent meeting of the Aero Club at Washington it is necessary for two makes of biplanes to enter the contest. Local members are decidedly skeptical about the probability of the Wrights entering the race, but yesterday the prospects for an early announcement of definite plans were greatly enhanced by the news that a company of aviators have purchased a foreign machine guaranteed not to be an infringement on the Wright patents, and that it will be shipped to this town within the next ten days. This machine, it is understood, will be entered in the contest, and the trouble now anticipated obviated.

The Aero Club of Pennsylvania communicated with Dr. A. F. Zahn, secretary of the Aero Club of America, yesterday asking that any word as to the intentions of the Wrights should be sent to the local club so that they can communicate with the purchasers of the foreign machine. It was also suggested by the local club that in raising the $20,000 purse for this contest the amounts to be subscribed by each city involved should be graded according to the value of the race to the city. It is suggested that New York, being the starting point only, should be required to furnish only $3,500, while Philadelpnia might be required to raise $4,500; Baltimore $500 and Washington, being the landing point and finish line, $6000.

DONAHUE SOLD.

BOSTON, Mass., June 10.—The catching department of the Philadelphia American league baseball club has been strengthened by the purchase of "Pat" Donahue from the Boston American league team. Donahue has not caught any championship games for the local team this season and remained at home when the Boston club went west two weeks ago. This was Donahue's third season in Boston.

Donahue played in Honolulu two years ago with the baseball team brought here by Mike Fisher. Before Donahue left Honolulu he was presented with a gold watch fob by the many friends he had made while playing for the All Hawaii team.

JEFFRIES IMPROVING.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., June 4.—Much to the disappointment of visitors, Jim Jeffries allowed his fondness for mountain climbing to lead him away from the boxing ring today, although he had previously planned to do nine rounds—three with each of his sparring partners. When the time for the sparring came it was discovered Jeffries had set off up Mount Ben Lomond, leaving Jim Corbett to attend to the entertainment of visitors.

Jeffries' jaunt followed a strenuous morning of training. He was in high spirits.

"I feel as strong as a bull," he said during a rest spell in the gymnasium. "I just want to tear things to pieces. I can feel myself rounding into the same condition that used to come to me in the old days. If I were to box today I'd surely hurt a few of the boys, because I feel like cutting loose to see how hard I can wallop."

The fighter did six miles on the road as a starter, then pounded the bag and labored at the weights as though he delighted in the work. He wound up by defeating Corbett two out of three at hand ball, which added to his glee and in his dressing room he frisked around like a colt.

During one of the hand ball games Jeffries lost his footing and slid to his knees, stripping a little skin from his knee.

A tacit announcement by Johnson that he will make public the first of next week a change in management at his camp was the chief news at the beach today. Johnson was inclined to be mysterious, but admitted that it would be agood guess to name Billy Nolan as the successor of George Little.

It has been rumored for a week that Johnson and Little were at outs. One thing is probable if Nolan is to be the manager, and that is he will run the camp to suit himself and will be manager in fact as well as possessor of the title.

Although Johnson was scheduled to box this afternoon he changed his mind. He said his sparring partners had been worked too hard this week, and that he would prefer to save them for the Sunday crowd. Accordingly, in the afternoon, although there were many people who expected to see him in action, the negro drove off in his automobile. He was out on the road in the morning for the usual twelve miles. On that trip he was accompanied by Tom Flanagan, George Cotton and Doc Furey.

JEFF PAYS GAMBLING DEBT; SUIT QUASHED.

RENO, Nev., June 13.—Through his legal representative, James J. Jeffries today settled the gambling debt contracted with Stout & Miller, gambling house proprietors of this city, on the evening after the Hart-Root fight here four years ago.

The case was called in the superior court of Nevada county, California, for June 15, before a jury.

As his presence at Nevada City on the date mentioned and for several days thereafter would have seriously interfered with his training for the fight wit Johnson, the bigs fellow's attorney stated today that he had decided to pay the note for $5,000 given at the time the debt was contracted, together with interest and costs of the suit.

The weather is inviting and the cool breezes one encounters on the way to the famous resort, whether he goes by train or machine, are welcome for their invigorating effects. The hotel will be illuminated Saturday night and will be special preparations in the dining room for the accommodation of the guests The dances at Haleiwa are always well patronized because they are a departure from the routine of such affairs and the change into the country is always pleasant.

DISCLOSES ATTEMPTED BRIBERY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Congress adjourns today, but the closing hours of the session were marked by a tremendous sensation when Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, disclosed what he interpreted to be an attempt to bribe him in connection with legislation affecting from $3,000,000 to $16,000,000 as fees for services rendered by Oklahoma attorneys to Indians. In his statement to the senate he involved one senator and one representative and two former senators, but declined to give their names. An investigation by the senate is extremely probable. He announced that he had been offered $50,000 to withdraw his opposition to the McMurray contracts, for the sale of Indian lands in the Senate of Oklahoma.

NEW YORK, June 25.—It is doubtful whether Porter Charlton, husband and confessed slayer of his wife, formerly Mrs. Mary Castle Neville, will be tried for murder in New Jersey on the ground that the state has no jurisdiction. Dispatches from Rome indicate that the Italian authorities will not ask for his extradition. The family may insist that Charlton be sent to an asylum as an insane person.

NIGHT BANKING PAU.

NEW YORK, une 4.—On Tuesday the Night and Day Bank, Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, announced that on and after June 15, instead of the all-night service that the bank has offered since it began in 1906, the bank will be open every business day from 8 a. m. to 12 o'clock midnight. In a notice sent out to patrons, President Samuel S. Campbell said: "Observation and study for the past two years of the all night service offered by this bank have convinced the directors that the bank's patrons can be fully served in shorter banking hours."

A NOTE OF WARNING

During the past few days the demand for berths on the Mauna Kea for July 2 has been greater than the most enthusiastic boomer would have wished for. Greater, even, than the rush for Kaimuki lots and the room clerks in the Inter-Island office have had their talents as fixers taxed to the limit. There are some berths left and if half of those persons who have expressed a desire to make the trip settle it in their minds to do so it will be up to the ones who have not reserved their accommodations to get busy.

It is to be a most satisfactory trip. The sales of berths are to be kept within the real berth accommodations of the steamer for the reason that the management of the Inter-Island company does not intend to have a lot of complaints come into the office by the first mail after the fifth of July. Twenty-five dollars for the round trip is dirt cheap. The time at the volcano will be sufficient to allow passengers to visit all the points of interest, for they get to the crater early Monday and remain until the next afternoon, the steamer leaving Hilo at 4 p. m.

FIRE IN HOLD OF STEAMER ALASKAN

SAN DIEGO, June 17.—Shortly after the steamer Alaskan reached port here this afternoon smoke was seen issuing aft from the hold. Captain Bennett had left the ship, and was on his way to attend a local theater, when the fire alarm summoned his return. By 8 o'clock in was discovered that the fire in the ship's hold was burning furiously. The local Fire Department was summoned, and at 10 o'clock four streams were playing on the flames. On account of the intense heat, the firemen were unable to enter the hold, but are sending water through the hatches.

Captain Bennett, in a statement, said that it was impossible to determine what part of the cargo is burning as it is impossible for any of his men to get near the place where the flames are raging.

He predicts that the fire will burn all night, while firemen say it may burn all day tomorrow. The Alaskan is the largest of the American-Hawaiian steamers plying between this port, San Francisco and Salina Cruz. The cargo consists of valuable goods consigned to Los Angeles and San Francisco merchants.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW MONEY-MAKING MACHINES.

After more than a year of study and experiment the mechanical experts of the U. S. bureau of engraving and printing have perfected two remarkable new machines which will, to a great extent, revolutionize the manufacture of currency as conducted by the Treasury Department at Washington. When a full complement of the new inventions has been installed, on or before July 1 of this year, the innovation will have the effect of displacing more than one hundred of Uncle Sam's employes of Uncle Sam's money factory and saving the government about $140,000 wages alone. This economy is due to the fact that the new machines are largely automatic in action. As a secondary consideration, only a little less important, the operations of money manufacture will be so simplified and concentrated by the new equipment that 70 machines now in use will be dispensed with entirely and there will be a great saving of floor space.—July Popular Mechanics.

ROOSEVELT DAM NEARING COMPLETION.

The Roosevelt dam, the greatest engineering work in connection with the Salt river irrigation project in Arizona, which ranks first among the works of the United States reclamation service, will be completed in July, and the July number of Popular Mechanics contains an illustrated article describing the structure and the locality it is to benefit. It states:

"This wonderful structure of sandstone and cement, costing nearly $9,000,000, rises 284 feet above Salt river. It is 1,080 feet long on top and 170 feet thick at the base. Its foundation covers one acre of ground. Placed by the side a 20-story building, it would rise ten feet above it, while its length on top would be more than two city blocks. Across its top will be a roadway 20 feet wide.

"The reservoir created by the Roosevelt dam is the largest artificial body of water in the world. Its capacity is sixty-one billion cubic feet, and if its water were spread over the State of Delaware it would cover the entire surface of the state a foot in depth. Another comparison of its capacity, made by the government engineers, is that it would easily feed a canal 3000 feet wide and 19 feet deep from Detroit to San Francisco.

TEACHING OUR BLUEJACKETS TO SWIM.

Rear Admiral Schroeder while training the men in his fleet down in Guantanomo bay, has discovered that some 2,500 of them don't know how to swim, and he reports to Washington that he has taken measures to remedy this defect in their nautical education.

It seems rather remarkable that sailors, with large amounts of water always conveniently near, should lack an art which so many landsmen possess, especially as it is an art of which a sailor is at any moment likely to be in more or less desperate need. It is a fact, however, that seamen as a class, swim badly or not at all, and the reason is not far to seek for when one comes to think about it, a ship in motion is about the worst thing in the world from which to go in swimming, and the sailor's opportunities for taking to the water, except by an accident are much less numerous than those of the men ashore.

Moreover, old sailors have been known to argue that since for them falling overboard usually means death, whether they can swim or not, it is better to lack a knowledge that only serves to prolong a hopeless struggle with the merciless waves. That, of course, is bad logic, but it has just enough of truth in it to create something of plausibility to the claim.—July Popular Mechanics.

RUGBY TEAM GETS GREAT RECEPTION

SYDNEY, N. S. W., June 13.—The combined American university team of Rugby footballers arrived here today and was formally welcomed to the commonwealth. The team was met by President Calvert of the New South Wales Rugby union. At the reception held later in the day President Calvert welcomed the team on behalf of the union and said that the tour was more than that of an athletic contest, and would considerably augment the already good feeling existing between the two great countries.

The American consul also spoke along the same lines, commenting on the fact that this was practically the first American team to go on tour to play football games, and expressed confidence that they would give the Australians a good run for their money.

Manager Burbank in replying for the team stated that Sydney was to American footballers of the Rugby code what Mecca had been to the Mohammedans. He did not want to say that his team would defeat the Australians this time, but declared they had come to learn the game and, win or lose, he was certain that their opponents would be satisfied that they had a good set of sportsmen as competitors.

Reference was also made to the ill effects of professionalism entering into athletics of any description, and after the usual congratulatory toasts had been given the meeting adjourned. The representative New Zealand team was also welcomed at the same time.

OLDEST TENNIS PLAYERS.

Taomas White, the keeper of the Royal Tennis Court at Hampton Court Palace, died recently in his 74th year, says the London Times. Mr. White, who was the oldest tennis player in England and probably in the world, was able to take an active part in the duties up till about six months ago.

A native of Cumberland, Mr. White early learned to play the old game of tennis in a court at St. James street, Haymarket, and had taken part in many notable tennis matches both in this country and in America. The last match he played and won was a handicap at Manchester in October, 1892, in which he had to meet some of the best profesional exponents of the game. On this occasion his son, Alfred White, who for 17 years was keeper of the Duke of Fife's court, who has played with the King there, at Sheen Lodge, Richmond Park was second to his father in the match.

Thirty years ago Mr. White was appointed to be the keeper of the famous old tennis court at Hampton Court Palace, which is believed to have been buil't by Henry VIII, and in its time it has been the scene of many an interesting match in which English and foreign monarchs have taken part.

Instead of taking a garment down to the hot stove to be pressed, you can have the iron right in the sewing room and do the pressing there.

It will save many steps and much time and enable the sewing to go on without interruption, for the iron will be ready for use as often as you need it.

ROYAL REMAINS REMOVED

Impressive and beautiful ceremonies attended the removal last night of the remains of rulers of the Kalakaua line from the mausoleum in Nuuanu to the new vault close by, living high chiefs and chiefesses honoring the memory of the royal dead, and wearing the ancient insignia of their rank.

There was a great crowd present, chiefly Hawaiians, Queen Liliuokalani presiding.

The general arrangements were in the hands of John F. Colburn, representing Prince Kuhio and the Kapiolani Estate; Col. Curtis Iaukea, acting for and on behalf of Her Majesty, Queen Liliuokalani; ex-Governor Cleghorn and Superintendent of Public Works Campbell, for the Territory of Hawaii.

The manner in which the bodies were to be placed in the crypts was left largely to Princess Kawananakoa, widow of the late Prince David Kawananakoa, who visited the mausoleum and tomb yesterday afternoon, and watched the preparations.

The caskets were arranged in open view. Seated in the center of the main hall were Her Majesty, Queen Liliuokalani; Princess Kawananakoa; ex-Governor A. S. Cleghorn and daughters; Mrs. James Boyd and Mrs. James W. Robertson; Acting-Governor and Mrs. Mott-Smith; Hon. W. O. Smith, president of the Senate; Superintendent of Public Works and Mrs. Marston Campbell; Col. Saml. Parker; Mrs. C. S. Holloway; Mrs. John Colburn; Mrs. Walter Macfarlane, Mrs. Robert Shingle, Miss Beatrice Campbell, Mrs. Frank Woods and Mrs. Mana, attending upon the queen.

The caskets were removed in the following order:

Kapaakea, father of King Kalakaua.

Keohokalole, mother of the king.

Governor John Dominis, husband of Queen Liliuokalani.

Lelelohoku, brotner of the king.

CASTLE EASILY DEFEATS JORDAN

Alfred Castle, champion single tennis player of Hawaii, successfully defended his title this morning on the Pacific club courts by defeating Jordan, champion of Stanford University the score being 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

In spite of the early hour set for the match a large gallery were present to see the match. Castle by steady service, accurate back hand placing and volleying managed to tire the Californian out, although the college champion forced him to the limit in each game.

Jordan's service was very erratic, his style being very much like McLoughlin who played here last year but nowheres near as effective. His back hand strokes proved to be the best in the set that he defeated Castle, the score being 6-3. During this set Jordan passed Castle a good many times on the right court, but failed to continue the good playing during the third and last set which Castle won easily.

A SMALL BLAZE.

An alarm of fire was sounded a little after eleven o'clock this morning from the box on the corner of Alapai and King streets, but when the department arrived in record time it was found that the smoke coming from a boiling pot of tar had caused a passerby to send in an alarm. No damage ws done to the house where the tar was being boiled by a Japanese.

ADULTERATED BOOZE BARRED ON HAWAII.

The County Board of License Commissioners met this morning to consider the issuance of license for the ensuing year. The most important matter was the notice given by the Board that it would pass a resolution similar to that passed on Maui, prohibiting the selling of adulterated or rectified liquors on this island under pain of the revocation of the licenses of anyone so doing. They also gave notification that hereafter only one license would be allowed to one firm or individual.

Protests were received against a number of saloons in the outside districts and in Hilo protests were made against the Serrao Wholesale House, the Union Saloon, the Mooheau Saloon and the Mauna Kea Liquor Store. The first three were protested against on acount of the sale of adulterated liquor, the Mooheau Saloon also being charged with allowing gambling. The Mauna Kea Liquor House was protested against on account of the alleged sale of liquor from a wagon. This concern is owned by a Japanese named Shimamoto.—Hawaii Herald.

PARADISE PARAGRAPHS

BY WILL SABIN

According to the cable dispatches U. S. Senator Gore was offered $50,000 for his vote against a land measure. By such information are we adding to our statistics on attempted purchase prices:—

U. S. Senator—$50,000 offered; no taker.

Honolulu Supervisor—$1,600 offered no taker (Aylett is a caretaker for the capitol, not the capital).

Apparently a U. S. Senator is supposed to be worth thirty times a Honolulu supervisor.

Honolulu has the best bunch of vaudeville talent, at the present time, that ever graced this village.

The musical slap-stick artists at the Art; the serio-comic team at the Empire; the singing trio at the Park, with the emphasis on Sis Hopkins' chewing gum hair sprouts; the Jean and Rabbit team song and dance, or tongue and toe team, who stir the auto wheels and keep the Townies busy jumping to pick up their gloves and hand them their bonnets and shawls; and the rest of the amusement-furnishing artists and artistes who have of late made Honolulu something of a city instead of Sleepy Hollow—they all deserve pats on the back and encores galore, Billiken bless 'em!

Talking about Jean and The Rabbit, they come out in new clothes every day. They are expected to stay in town until their wardrobe gives out. They each have fifty-seven dresses, also fifty-seven admirers; but that's not their fault; they were born that way.

Joel Cohen, alias Representative Cohen, alias Prohibition Joe, alias New Orpheum Joel, alias Senator Cohen, has imported a bunch of players, kickers, dancers, swingers, catchy performers, chorus candies, star actors, leaders, tragedians, comedians, serio-comics and famous actorines and actorets.

Good boy, Joe! Here's hoping he will have full houses and that the stupid town won't leave empty seats toward the end of the season as it did with the most excellent McRae people, who, by the way, have just finished giving us the best season of the "legit" that Honolulu ever undeserved.

The trouble with Honolulu is that it goes to see a good show as long as its clean boiled shirts and frilled millinery holds out, and then, when Honolulu hasn't money left to take its best clothes out of the wash, Honolulu stays at home and sucks its thumbs and reads the Pottie's Remedies Gazette, The Secret Service, The Bungalow Chimes, The Fliend, the Angular Kirk Carbuncle, The Restarick Review, or The Raw Cry, instead of going out in its everyday clothes to be elevated and amused by real actors.

Honolulu is to a great extent an unappreciative little pig, stuffing itself with taffy until it's sick and then "enjoying" the cobbiwobbles at home.

Selling tickets for any moving picture show, or any show for that matter, when there are no seats available, should be prohibited. It is a violation of the law of decency, and a demonstration of short-sighted hoggishness. In the last few days certain places have deliberately sold tickets to dozens of naval men and others when it was well known to the management that the house was full. Payment for admission entitles the ticket purchaser to a seat.

It is contrary to law to block the sidewalks, and yet on King street, between Bishop and Alakea, there are always to be seen half a dozen iron safes on the sidewalk, day and night, threatening abdominal bruises to anyone suddenly approaching and not seeing the black metal strong boxes.

Since Roosevelt left Africa the African veldts are Roose-veldts, and the difference between Teddy's campaign hat and a lady's chantecler hat is that the former is a Roose-felt while the latter is a rooster-felt. The land commission, created under the recent Hawaiian Organic Act amendments, is actually saying "We would rather have good men as homesteaders and home-makers than have much money for our public lands!"

The spirit that we longed for at last "has came."

Oh, what a change, my brethren!

At last there is actually a chance for an honest man to get an honest acre at an honest price through an honest system!

Incidentally, don't you know, Governor Walter Francis Frear (Doctor of Laws, by the grace of Yale), is partly responsible for the recommendations which resulted in the Organic Act amendments which have brought about this state of affairs. Frear's really a good hombre, when you know him, with all his little stiffness. He's the best governor we ever had.

Town Talk

BY THE MAN AROUND TOWN

Yale has made Governor Frear a Doctor of Laws. He has to doctor a good many of them when the legislature sits, and it's cure or kill with him, too.

Nothing succeeds like success—in bringing a baying pack at one's heels. Jack Atkinson, as immigration commissioner in Manchuria, has been delivering the goods with the regularity of the phases of the moon. Not his fault if some of the people he has sent out were misled by mischief-makers into causing a little trouble on arrival, or that false leaders smuggled themselves into his parties at or after their organization. The fact stands that he has despatched to Hawaii as likely a class of future citizen settlers—people to "man the land," as his own phrase would describe them—as has ever entered these islands in similar circumstances, providing only that they can be kept here long enough to become attached to the soil. If Russian immigration be handled at this end of the line as well as thus far it has been at the other, the name of Atkinson will be gratefully remembered by future generations of that blood in these islands as that of the man who directed their forbears into so pleasant a land. Well paid for his services he may be, both in money and in thrill of travel amidst strange scenes, and no thanks are due to anyone who does what he is paid for. Yet if he does it nobody has any right to flout him for taking his wage. Least of all should he be made the victim of irresponsible muckrakers plying their craft behind his back.

Hawaii is fortunate in having grand juries that are not afraid to look for fire wherever smoke is seen.

If only those who believe that anyone is the better for using intoxicating drink vote no to prohibition, those who live off the business of selling it will find on plebiscite election night they have not enough friends to form a consolation party.

The Star will not for long, it would appear, be forgiven by its morning contemporary for anticipating the latter in serially reproducing "Uncle Sam's Cook Book" for a feature of the weekly magazine section. Leastwise a contributor to the Sunday edition of that paper has not ceased anguishing over the scoop from the publication of the first instalment until now. The Star man should play the good Samaritan to his gastrically distressed confrere by printing a course of diet for the relief of a chronic case of journalistic stomach ache. Papa Wilson in Washington, if apprised of the emergency, would, no doubt, set his cookery experts at work again to produce the matter. It would make a useful supplement to the cookbook for others, as the sufferer probably lacks originality in visceral pains as much as in ideas.

Is ever an attempt made, or going to be made, to compel the drivers of drays, wagons and horse vehicles generally to observe the rules of the road within this municipality? The conduct of some of them, Asiatics in particular, in driving on the wrong side or in the middle of the road is one of the most conspicuous nuisances permitted upon the public highways. Not merely is it an annoyance to others using the road, but it is a menace of serious accident. Autoists and drivers of other vehicles are perforce compelled to break the rules themselves in order to pass the offending ones, and where the traffic is in anywise great there is constant danger of bad pinches from the cause in question. A few examples made in the police court would put the fear of the law in the stolid breast, besides aiding to replenish the municipal treasury to the advantage of the good roads cause. Be it remembered that all surplus of money over expenditures provided for goes to roads, while when there is a deficiency it is the roads that suffer deprivation of funds. Therefore it is most fitting that they who violate the rules of the road should not be allowed to escape the penalties that go to road maintenance.

But there is a true story in town, better than the above (true) story. Out at Fort Shafter a military cat had six kittens. Before they could enlist, five of them were drowned. The old cat concentrated all her affection on the kitten left to her tender care, hugging it under her wings and combing its sleeky fleece with her affectionate bill. But the last kitten died and the mother cat was disconsolate until, yesterday, she was set to catch a young rat as it was released from a trap. She caught the baby rat and adopted it, giving it the place in her feeling feline heart formerly occupied by her kitten. The rat is well and returns the cat's affection and cat and rat are doing nicely, thank you.

An offer from Professor Brigham of Bishop Museum to buy the mismated but happy pair, has been indignantly refused by the humane soldiers of Fort Shafter.

OUR OWN JOEL'S NAME IS IN PRINT

The Wholesalers and Retailers' Review (liquor) of San Francisco, has the following:

Honolulu and all the Hawaiian Islands may go dry on July 26. Startling as this would be, it is by no means improbable. Honolulu brewery stock is selling at 12, a drop from 24.

To have a market which consumes nearly 1,000,000 gallons of California wine each year suddenly killed dead is a serious matter. Were any good result to follow prohibition, then indeed there would be room for argument. But when the only persons to be benefitted would be a few hired lecturers and skilled contribution collectors it seems a pity to inconvenience the many to fatten the pockets of a few.

Realizing the keen interest taken in the matter by the Pacific Coast trade, The Wholesalers' and Retailers' Review presents the following digest of the situation, in which it has been greatly aided by the Hon. J. C. Cohen, a member of the Hawaiian legislature.

As is often the case the legitimate liquor merchants of the Hawaiian islands are now suffering for the sins of a few ruffians who never should have been given licenses in the first place. Their saloons became centers of disorder, and when their licenses were revoked they wanted to appeal their cases. This being impossible under the law, these licenseless saloonists began a campaign to change the law. This started a fight which rapidly developed into a war.

The prohibitionsts sent for John G. Woolley, a professional orator who ran for president on the prohibition ticket in 1896. Woolley responded at once, there being plenty of contributions in sight, and reached Honolulu nearly a year ago.

Fourteen thousand voters live in the Hawaiian Islands. Most of them are kanakas. As a race the kanakas like to attend meetings, and, moreover, they like to take part in them. Woolley's sensational speeches warmed up the native orators. The kanakas attended in crowds. Woolley says they will all vote for prohibition. Perhaps they will, but Mr. Cohen says they will not.

The Portuguese vote is very heavy in the islands, and this will of course go as a unit against a dry regime. The Japanese, who consume much wine, cannot vote as a rule.

Honolulu is unfortunate in being dominated by interests, the personal heads of which happen to be fanatical prohibitionists. It was a common saying for many years that no man could do business in Honolulu unless he belonged to the Central Union Church.

If the drys win the election on July 26, it is is presumed that the legislature will pass a prohibitory law next autumn. If the wets win, the trouble is not over by any means, as the drys are figuring on forcing the Republican party to put a prohibition plank in its platform. The drys are very strong financially; they control the daily newspapers, and it may be that they can force the Republican leaders to stand for a dry plank. As the Democrats in Hawaii are few and far between, the "drys" think they have two chances to win.

At present there are about fifty saloons in Hawaii, and as the license runs as high as $750 a year, blind pigs are numerous.

JOEL C. COHEN.

The churches in the islands occupy their usual attitudes: The Roman Catholic, much the strongest church numerically, takes neither side. It preaches against the sin of intemperance, but does not advocate legislation as a cure-all for evil habits. The Episcopal Church takes a similar stand. Leading the vanguard of the fanatics hurling abuse and invective at all who disagree with them, are to be found the Methodists—as is usually the case.

As is generally the case, the liquor merchants are quarreling among themselves. Hackfeld & Co., and Schaefer & Co., have withdrawn from the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association, while the Retail Dealers' Association lacks support in some quarters. Nevertheless, all of them are fighting the common enemy, and while all the newspapers except the Bulletin are prohibition organs, the liquor interests expect to win the battle.

and about seventy-five or eighty guests were invited to the dance. At seven thirty launches began plying to and from quarantine island laden with laughing young people, whose songs fell on the moon list sea and merriment reigned supreme. It was a jolly party that formally gathered to pay their respects to the guest of honor, bringing her congratulations and many beautiful flowers and leis.

The dancing pavilion adjacent to the home of Dr. and Mrs. James was a bower of palms and festooned vines great national flags draped about the entrance and a veritable fluttering sea of pennants overhead. Added to this were any number of gay Japanese lanterns which improved the soft effect of the greenery and presented a truly picturesque pavilion for the merry dances who participated in terpsichorean joys to the strains of a Hawaiian quintette club.

At eleven o'clock a delicious supper was served at the residence of the hosts which also had been elaborately decorated in potted palms, ferns and gay flags, the guests being seated at a long table which was a lovely sight. In the center of the table rose a tall centerpiece of scarlet carnations and maidenhair beside a monster birthday cake with streamers of maile festooned from the red-shaded chandelier to each chair. At each place lay a name card, depicting a cake with candles and a favor of a carnation lei. All over the table were scattered carnations and ferns, while shaded candles topped off the daintiness of the ensemble.

Among those present to partake of Dr. and Mrs. James' hospitality were Miss Mary Grote, Dora Grote, Amelia Grote, Pearl McCarthy, Louise McCarthy, Esther White, Ediith Light foot, Beatrice White, Kathleen Walker, Sophie Walker, Sophie de la Nux, Zalida de la Nux, Evelyn de la Nux, Claire Berry, Edith Smith, Hester Smith, Marie Beerman, Augusta Beerman, Clara Smith, Marion Cunningham, Rose Cunningham, Mae Carden, Hadie Otremba, Elizabeth Danielson, Charlotte Danielson, Clarissa Tinker, Helene von Arnswaldt, Miss Young, Messrs. The dinner dance at the Pacific Club on Thursday evening was one of the brilliant affairs of the season, and society turning out en masse for "Ladies Night" and filling the luxuriously appointed club rooms with beautiful women of the smart set and their handsome modish gowns, which add such a note of color to a fashionable assemblage of guests.

All the rooms of the Pacific Club on this occasion were thrown wide to the visitors and were embanked in palms and ferns, beautiful La France roses in tall vases here and there nestling among the greens. The stairway was outlined in young bamboo and the halls were ablaze with lights and stately palms. In the dining hall the individual tables with their snowy attire, soft shaded candelabra, flowers, rich silver and cut glass created an impressive feature of the evening and twenty-two dinner parties were gathered round them.

Among those who entertained at dinner prior to the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Irwin Spalding who presided at a table round which were gathered Captain and Mrs. Chapman of Fort Shafter, Lieutenant and Mrs. George Cleveland Bowen of Fort Shafter and Mrs. Manuel Garrett. La France roses formed a charming centerpiece, and candelabra of old rose silk with monogram place cards completed the appointments. Mrs. Chapman was very handsomely clad in a robe of white chiffon heavily embroidered in wistaria, and wearing diamonds. Mrs. Garrett's brunette beauty was enhanced by an imported gown of apple-blossom pink and white, brocaded silk, while Mrs. Bowen resembled some princess in a fairy book, with the ravishing beauty of her golden hair and large blue eyes enhanced by a confection of embroidered pale blue chiffon over blue satin, and bordered round the hem of the gown, the decollete neck and sleeves by a rich design of palest pink moss roses.

On Tuesday evening an exhibition of fancy dancing was given in the makai ball room of the Alexander Young Hotel by Mrs. Mary Gunn, whose pupils contributed to make the evening an artistic success. The ball room, which was well filled, was prettily decorated with draped flags and young bamboo which outlined the entrance, the national colors being draped above the side windows and across the stage.

Mrs. Gunn was handsomely gowned in a pale pink Messaline satin, artistically trimmed in gold thread. All the numbers during the evening were greeted and rewarded by warm applause, the parents of the children and their numerous friends being present.

Perhaps the prettiest number on the program was the rose drill wherein a dozen daintily dressed little maids, to a poem read by Mrs. Gunn and Mendelssohn's spring song, assumed symmetrical poses, concluding with an intricate drill.

One of the best dancers on the floor during the evening was Miss Henrietta Smith whose "Tommy Atkins" dance was very graceful and greatly appreciated. She wore a white dress with a red military cape and a hobby little cap of red and gold.

"Cupid's Telephone," by Adeline and Lucy Aflaque was a big hit and the "Japanese Love Song" by a score of little Jap-Jappies in national attire, who posed to the reading of the song by Mrs. Gunn, was very catchy.

The "Joleo Espagnol" by Margaret Center was pretty, and the shuffle "buck and wing" by little Helen Center won great applause. This child, so popular with local gatherings, wore a dainty little knee skirt of pale pink silk, with pale pink rose buds and forget-me-nots woven into a coquettish wreath, which enhanced her beauty.

Edith Kibling in "Beautiful Venice" looked very sweet, wearing a costume of pink and green ribbons terminating in bells. Bunches of pink and green flowers tipped her shoes and her hair and she was the center of much attention. Another pretty feature of the evening were the two tiny pink cupids in fleshlings with spangled satin trunks and gauzy wings.

Following was the program:

Mr. and Mrs. George Potter entertained four guests at dinner prior to the dance at the Pacific Club on Thursday evening. American Beauty roses made a beautiful centerpiece, with pink shaded candelabra and place cards in water color scenes completing the arrangements of the dainty table.

Those who partook of Mr. and Mrs. Potter's gracious hospitality on this occasion were Judge and Mrs. S. M. Ballou, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman of New York. Mrs. Ballou wore a very stunning evening gown of black satin elaborately trimmed with mousseline, while Mrs. Sherman was strikingly attired in a high Irish point lace frock, and wearing a large lace hat to match. Mrs. Potter was exceedingly lovely in a gown of white silk crepe made Empire and wearing long strands of pearls.

Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Murray entertained four guests at dinner at the Pacific Club on Thursday evening prior to the dance given on "Ladies Night." The table was prettily decorated in yellow cariopsis and smilax and the place cards depicted the same. Those who were entertained in this group were Captain Rodman of the U. S. S. Cleveland, Mr. Thompson, Mr. William Roth and Mrs. Byron Baird. Mrs. Baird looked exceedingly charming in a white lace robe over pale pink silk and wearing a display of elegant pearls, while Mrs. Murray was handsomely gowned in pale blue satin elaborately trimmed in silver passementerie and fringe and wearing in her abundant dark hair and on her bodice several American Beauty roses which rendered her most attractive.

There was a dance at the Young Hotel last evening given by the management of the Young, Moana and Hawaiian Hotels in honor of the captains and officers of the U. S. S. Chattanooga and U. S. S. Cleveland.

One of the very pretty dinner tables at the Pacific Club on Thursday evening was that at which Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cockburn entertained four guests. These were Mrs. Bottomley, Miss Helen Kimball, Mr. Horton and Mr. Short.

The gowns worn at this table were very handsome and attracted much flattering comment. Miss Helen Kimball was beautifully attired in a gown of soft white silk, profusely adorned with Rose point lace, while Mrs. Bottomley's gown was of white brocaded satin, a creation of shimmering satin embroidered in sequins and pearls. Mrs. Cockburn wore a modish gown of cream Housaie cloth, with a bertha of real Limerick lace, and a very effective corsage bouquet of deep red Jacqueminot roses.

Another group round a dinner table at the Pacific Club on "Ladies' Night" consisted of Miss Irene Dickson, Miss Ada Rhodes, Mr. Oliver Lansing and Mr. Arthur Mackintosh who were the guests of Mr. Cecil Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Weight entertained a merry group of guests at their table ,which was abloom with yellow flowers and ferns. Those in the party were Mrs. Fuller, Miss Ada Koepke, Mr. George Fuller and Mr. E. A. R. Ross.

Dr. Herbert and Mr. Vetlesen made very hospitable hosts at a table round which were gathered Dr. and Mrs. Johnson of Fort Shafter, their niece, Miss Allen, Lieutenant Chilton of Fort Shafter and Mrs. George Herbert.

REPORTS OF DUN

industry, but evidence of improvement in western distribution are rather sharply in contrast with the reports of slow trade recently received. Warmer weather is the key to the better crop, and trade reports received this week from the West, Northwest and Southwest, while cool, moist conditions along the Atlantic Coast, now disappearing, have been a bar to the trade and crop developments in the East.

Relatively best reports come from Western cities and towns, while country trade, though better, is slower to respond, as farmers are busy work hitherto delayed.

Short time is evident in nearly all lines of textile manufactured cotton goods, still reflecting the stress of high prices for raw material and arrested demand for goods. The percents of idle looms and spindles ranges from 25 upward.

Short time is also witnessed in woolen goods manufacture. Buyers at wholesale still display caution, and business as a whole in textiles is characterized as of a peddling nature. In Pig Iron production still outruns consumption and prices are weak. Finished lines show effects of restricted buying, based on reports of lowered costs. Despite reports of lessened improvement work and the laying off of men by important railroads, there are evidences of moderately good buying of rolling stock.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending June 16th were 178, against 189 last week; 213 in the like week of 1909, 254 in 1908, 165 in 1907 and 173 in 1906.

Business failures in Canada for the week number twenty-seven, which compares with thirty-six last week and twenty-six in the corresponding week of last year.

Wheat, including Flour exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending June 16th aggregate 1,085,507 bushels, against 1,700,055 last year. Corn exports for the week are 133,035, against 239,689 last week, and 42,980 in 1909.

Dun's Review, also of June 18, contained the following:

Crop news continues encouraging, the Iron and Steel market improves while foreign trade now shows an excess of exports; and in those three important particulars the business outlook is distinctly better.

There is further improvement in Iron, with increased inquiry at the leading producing centers More orders have been placed for Pig Iron and the tonnage already booked for delivery during the second half of the year is heavy. Existing quotations are considered very low and in consequence there is less disposition by the consumers to defer purchases. A large amount of business is announced as having been placed by the railroads and other important interests, which strengthens the steel making division. There is increased demand for wire products and indications point to a good season's business.

Merchant pipe manufacturers are busy.

The primary Dry Goods market still reflect light trading, but agents handling cotten goods lines are holding prices generally firm. Jobbers in Western markets have been shading prices at clearance sales to reduce stocks preparatory to stock taking, while announcement is made by a large Eastern house that the usual semi-annual clearance sales will be omitted because costs of replacement are above current prices. Printed goods are selling in small lots, but Western advices state business promises to be better next month. There is more inquiry for denims and colored goods.

New orders for fall footwear continues small, and the situation is generally unsatisfactory. Trade in leather continues dull.

Down at Hot Springs, Ark., the visitors have all sorts of complaints, but it is a subject of remark that the great majority of them have some trouble with stomach and bowels. This may be partly attributed to the heavy medicines.

Naturally, under the conditions, the question of food is very prominent.

A young man states that he had suffered for nine years from stomach and bowel trouble, had two operations which did not cure, and was at last threatened with appendicitis.

He went to Hot Springs for rheumatism and his stomach trouble got worse. One day at breakfast the waiter, knowing his condition, suggested he try Grape-Nuts and cream, which he did, and found the food agreed with him perfectly.

After the second day he began to sleep peacefully at night, different than he had for years. The perfect digestion of the food quieted his nervous system, and made sleep possible.

He says: "The next morning I was astonished to find my condition of constipation had disappeared. I could not believe it true after suffering for so many years; then I took more interest in the food, read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," and started following the simple directions.

"I have met with such results that in the last five weeks I have gained eight pounds in spite of hot baths which take away the flesh from anyone.

"A friend of mine has been entirely cured of a bad case of indigestion and stomach trouble by using Grape-Nuts Food and cream alone for breakfast.

"There is one thing in particular—I have noticed a great change in my mental condition. Formerly I could hardly remember anything, and now the mind seems unusually acute and retentive. I can memorize practically anything I desire."

FOR THE BIGGEST FLEET ASSEMBLED UNDER ONE FLAG

(Special Washington Correspondence Manila Cablenews.)

By a program adopted by Secretary of the Navy Meyer, on recommendation of Rear Admiral Wainwright, his aid for operations, and made public today, the United States Navy will begin a reorganization afloat on July 1 which will result within two years from this date in the biggest and most formidable fleet ever assembled under one flag of any nation. On July 1, the fleet wil number but sixteen battleships, as at present, but it will include the four newest and biggest ships of the Navy, with the Delaware and North Dakota, just placed in commission. One year later, on July 1, 1911, it will include 21 battleships, with the Florida and Utah added, and also a division of four of the largest armored cruisers. On April 1, 1912, the fleet will be made up for the closing year of the Taft administration, with 21 battleships including the Wyoming and Arkansas, the two 26,000-ton ships just laid down, with the four armored cruisers. The commander-in-chief, it is hoped, will be made a vice Admiral of the Fleet, with a vice admiral, if possible, in command of the second squadron and a rear admiral in command of each division. The organization will be such that each division, while operating under the directions of the Admiral of the Fleet, will operate much of the time entirely independent of any other division. The fleet will be maintained on the Atlantic coast, with an annual foreign cruise, which will take it, within the Taft administration, entirely around the globe.

If the desired personnel increase shall not have been obtained, the scheme wil be carried out by putting on the shelfall of the older gunboats and cruisers, in order to provide a sufficient number of officers and men for the battleships. This would result in greatly crippling the Pacific fleet, since two cruisers are to be withdrawn from the fleet of eight armored cruisers already in those waters. Most of the gunboats to be sacrificed will be those on the American Pacific coast and in the Philippines. In two years from the present time, according to the schedule of fleet building, which has been carefully drawn up in table and diagram, there will not be a single battleship, cruiser or gunboat in service that took part in the Spanish-American war. The entire Navy which defeated Spain will be on the shelf. The best of the older ships, however, including the battleships, will be held in reserve so that with a fleet of 25 powerful vessels plying the Atlantic seas, there will be a second fleet, in reserve, of 11 battleships—afleet which will be then as powerful as the entire Navy was 12 years ago. If sufficient increase can be had, a second fleet of these ships will be organized, possibly to be added to the six cruisers now on the Pacific coast, thus making an armored fleet of 16 ships in the Pacific.

On July 1, next, the fleet will be reassigned to home yards, so that all ships of a division will be at the same yard. For the first year, the four big yards will be given all the fleet ships—Norfolk, Philadelphia, Boston and New York, only the newly formed special armored cruiser squadron being assigned to Portsmouth.

According to the schedule, as adopted and printed, the re-organization of the fleet on July 1, next, with the home yards, will be as follows. The first division to New York yard as follows. The Connecticut, flagship, now at New York; the Delaware, now at Norfolk; the North Dakota, now at Boston, and the Michigan, now at New York. Second Division to Norfolk, as follows: The Louisiana flagship, now at Norfolk; the South Carolina, now at New York; the Kansas, now at Philadelphia, and the New Hampshire, now at Portsmouth. Third Division, to Boston as follows: The Georgia, flagship, now at Philadelphia, the Nebraska and Rhode Island, now at New York and the Virginia, now at Norfolk. Fourth Division, at Philadelphia, as follows. The Minnesota, now at Norfolk; the Vermont, now at Boston, the Mississippi and Idaho, now at Philadelphia.

On July 1, next, these will be a reserved fleet of 12 battleships some of which will be out of commission, being overhauled, as follows: The New Jersey, at Boston; Maine, at Portsmouth; the Missouri, at Norfolk; the Ohio, at New York; the Winconsin, at Portsmouth; the Illinios, at Boston; the Alabama, at New York; the Kearsarge, and Indiana, at Philadelphia; the Messachusetts at New York; the Kentucky and Iowa at Norfolk. These ships will be reassigned to yards as soon as overhauled.

On July 1, a special armored cruiser squadron will be organized as follows: The Tennessee and Washington, now at Puget Sound, and the North Carolina, and Montana, now at Norfolk, assigned to the Portsmouth yard. The North Carolina and Montana are now en route from Norfolk, and the Tennessee and South Dakota from the Pacific coast, to Buenos Ayres to attend the opening of the Argentine Contennial Exposition in May. In June they will proceed to Santiago Chili, where they will be joined by a division of the Pacific fleet, to attend the opening of an industrial exposition there. The division which will join them will be composed of the Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Washington. The South Dakota and Washington will exchange places, the Montana, North Carolina, Tennessee and Washington returning to Puget Sound.

On July 1, 1911, the organization will be as follows: Connecticut, flagship, Florida, Utah, Deleware, North Dakota, and Michigan, forming first division, New York yard; Second Division, Norfolk yard, the Louisiana, flagship, South Carolina, Kansas, Vetmont and New Hampshire; Third Division, Boston yard, Georgia, flagship, Nebraska, New Jersey, Virginia, and Ohio; Fourth Division, Philadelphia yard; Minnesota, flagship, Mississippi, Idaho, Maine and Missouri. Fifth Division; at Portsmouth yard; armored cruisers; Tennessee, flagship Washington, North Carolina, and Montana. By April 1, 1912, the Missouri and Maine will be shoved to the reserve fleet, and the 26,000 ton ship Wyoming as flagship, and with the Arkansas, Florida, Utah, Deleware and North Dakota forming the first division, at the New York yard. All six of the Dreadnaughts, and Improved Dreadnaughts, accordingly, will be in the first division.

THE YOUNG MAN AND CITY JOB

There are, in the United States, probably something like one million young men whose eyes are directed more or less longingly toward that glittering, golden business Lorelei, the New York job. New York, with its fascinating dash and rush and buildings towering into the skies! A New York job, with its big pay, and untold chances for rapid advancement and more, much more, consequent pay and glory. What an alluring combination to the young fellow still in college; or to the youn fellow dissatisfied with life on the farm; or to the young fellow discontented with the slow-moving business opportunities of his home town. What a pretty, enticing picture! But let us look on the other side.

Clerking will bring the young man anywhere from seven to ten dollars a week at the start. Eight dollars would be a very fair average estimate. And, in chronicing these figures, the clerkships in the average shop are chosen as standards for judging. If the young man gets a job in the wholesale house downtown—an office job—he will be started at about eight dollars a week, although, obviously, if he commands a knowledge of bookkeeping or stenography, his pay will start at a figure nearer twelve dollars.

Wall Street, with tis lofty sound, is another lure. If the young man—a stranger—gets a job in Wall Street, he will start in at about six dollars a week, although the figure may be listed at eight dollars in some instances. And the subsequent "raises" will take consderable time to reach the fifteen, to say nothing of the twenty, dollar. There is a lot of money in Wall Street, undoubtedly—but it isn't in the young man's first job.

If one of these young men gets a job on the office staff of an insurance company,he will start in at a salary of eight dollars a week, this figure, too, being a fair initial criterion of the remuneration he will receive from simlar jobs with other big companies. A job with an engineering firm pays not more than six to ten dollars a week at the start, but if the young man has ability his opportunity for advancement to twenty dollars a week will be open and comparatively easy. Again, in this case, the young man with an engineering education is not considered. If the applicant obtains a job in a lawyer's office he will receive eight or ten dollars a week.—Harper's Weekly.

DICKINSON'S COUNTRY PLACE.

"Secretary of War Dickinson owns the finest country estate in the whole of Tennessee," Henry Allen, of Nashville, Tenn., told a Washington Post reporter.

"This is the famous Belle Meade stock farm, just outside of Nashille. It is an immense estate—several hundred acres of the finest blue grass land in the country. Belle Meade is one of the great show places of the State, and, indeed, of the South. It has been held intact for five generations. General Harding, a North Carolina pioneer, settled on the land, soon after the battle of New Orleans, nearly 100 years ago. He was one of General Andrew Jackson's officers at the battle, and Old Hickory was a guest many times in the great Belle Meade mansion. General Harding's son-in-law, of General W. H. Jackson, held the estate for many years after the former's death, and finally it came into possession of Secretary Dickinson.

"Belle Meade has been noted as a stock farm for nearly a century, and many of the most celebrated running and trotting horses have been produced there. The original mansion is still standing. Secretary Dickinson spends much time there when he is in Nashville.

TAFT THE LEADER

The tariff, it seems, is to be the main issue in the autumn elections. In the decidedly previous "key-note" oratory in the House of Representatives it has received the "imprimatur" of both parties, given as officially and authoritatively as either party can at present give or do anything. Mr. Payne took the defensive-offensive solely in behalf of the measure that bears his name, and which was originally his handiwork. Mr. Champ Clark's defensive-offensive reply accepted the challenge, and the succeeding orators on both sides continued the exchange along the same lines. In fact, the only thing one finds to generate a suspicion that the tariff may not really be the leading and controlling issue is precisely this extraordinary unanimity on the point. It would not be unlike the unconventional American people to get something else in their heads and refuse to play follow-my-leader in the matter. But the truth is there has been precious little leadership in the matter on either side. The American people themselves, the voters on both sides are responsible for the resurgence of the tariff issue. The leaders on both sides have for years been running away from or holding back from it. The special session was called in the hope of getting rid of so quickly that other things might supersede it in popular interest before the elections. Mr. Bryan and his Democratic associates on the stump two years ago cannot claim the credit for forcing it. An instinct, natural enough, however unwise, had doubtless from the outset of his career made against his stressing an issue so distinctively Cleveland's. Certain of the Western progressives apart the only leader who was a recogaized leader at the time of its insurgence and who deserves credit for a pronouncedly receptive attitude is, we continue to feel, President Taft. However else he may go down in history, he will go down as the man who on this issue, when the cloud no ger than a man's hand appeared on the horizon, neither failed to see it nor bought an umbrella.—Harper's Weekly.

GARAGE AND AUTOMOBILE NEWS

VON-HAMM YOUNG'S GARAGE BUSINESS

Information has been received by the Von Hamm-Young Company that up to June 3, ninety-four per cent. more Packard cars had been sold than last year. Although a large output has been aimed at, this enormous extra sale will make it hard to secure the cars at no distant date.

Mr. McCorkle, an expert in the work of recharging batteries, has arrived from the coast to enter the employ of the Von Hamm-Young Company at the Alakea street garage. As soon as the new garage on King street is finished Mr. McCorkle will have a department in it himself.

During the week just closing a fine Cadillac touring car was sold to A. W. Eames, of Wahiawa, and an Overland was shipped to Carl Waldeyer of Lahaina, for a Maui customer.

Manager Bodge, of the Von Hamm-Young garage, is off for the Coast on a combined vacation and business trip. He sailed in the Wilhelmina and will be away several weeks.

The Von Hamm-Young Company continue to receive many inquiries concerning the splendid Stevens-Duryea cars, which are due to arrive here in the next few days. These machines have given splendid satisfaction, being particularly well adapted to the road conditions of the Islands. Every owner of a Stevens-Duryea is a satisfied person.

Inquiries for the ever-popular Packers continue unabated, and the list of sales to arrive is piling up. The 1911 Packards will be along soon now, and they are sure to create a big sensation in automobile circles.

VALUE CADILLAC SYSTEM IS SHOW

Says an exchange:

While automobile makers vie with the Cadillac Company comes someone another in the stories of out puts oversold, and van efforts to catch up with orders, a report from what as a relief.

Incidentally it shows the degree of perfection to which the Cadillac system has been elevated.

"The Cadillac factory is neither behind in its orders, nor is it oversold to any appreciable extent," says Sales Manager E. R. Benson. "We do not do business in that way.

"In the first place, our orginization is so perfected and our capacity so carefully calculated and certainly fixed that we know exactly what we can do ever day and every week and every month throughout the year.

"As we build practically the entire car under our own roof, we are not put to the necessity of depending upon a lot of parts makers here and there. Thus we are enabled to make up, at the beginning of the season, a schedule which accounts for the building and disposal of every individual one of the thousands of cars we pplan to build, straight through that season. We know what cars are to go to certain dealers on certain dates; and it is only in rare instances—as when some time ago—that we do not meet this schedule without the slightest deviation.

"Another feature of our business that enables us to do this is the dealers. Cadillac dealers are financially responsible and are of the class who know their busness and upon whom we can depend to carry out their contracts. They are in close touch with the factory plans; and, knowing that we shall adhere the year, they have no incentive to accept business which cannot be handled.

"It would have been easy for us to oversell and get behind with orders, for we have received more than seven thousvand applications for the Cadillac agency—a fact in itself a tribute to Cadillac methods. That means that fully half, if not more than half, the automobile dealers in the United States have asked for the right to sell Cadillac cars."

HAWAIIAN GARAGE.

Except for a deluge of shop work and a lively rent business, operations at the Royal Hawaiian garage are practically at a standstill, and will probably remain so until the arrival of new cars next month. The delay in the shipment of these cars has been very disappointing to the garage people; but the heavy demand for them in the east made the delay unavoidable.

MAXWELL CARS IN EASTERN EVENTS

NEW YORK, June 4.—That the Maxwell Model E, thirty horsepower, fourcylinder car entered in the Glidden Tour, will be handled capably, is assured in the selection of the veteran driver, W. L. Walls, of Philadelphia, supported by Charley Fleming as mechanician.

Of the many notabe feats performed by Mr. Walls, perhaps the most conspicuous was that in counection with the Army Dispatch Test to demonstrate the practicability of the motor car as a dispatch carrier. He left New York City accompanied by only one person, and drove the 1500 miles to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, in thirteen days, under the hardest possible conditions, arriving in Chicago ten minutes ahead of the leader of the International New York to Paris Race. This phenomenal feat was performed during the month of February, under conditions which made the gain of six days over the international racers a memorable event in automobile annals. Mr. Walls drove night and day for one stretch of seventy hours and did not let go the steering wheel.

Fleming drove a Maxwell in the 1907 Glidden Tour, and will be remembered as chief experimentalist of the Maxwell plant at Tarrytown, New York.

Jesse Illingsworth, of Dallas, Texas, will drive the Maxwell Model G, thirty horsepower, four-cylinder car. As mechanician for Barney Oldfield he achieved no little distinction. His reputation as a driver, however, was attained by his driving the famous Packard Grey Wolf. He enjoys the distinction of figuring in more hill climbs and endurance runs than any other driver.

CHALMERS CARS IN GLIDDEN TOUR

DETROIT, June 10.—The Chalmers cars for the Glidden tour were shipped to Cincinnati Wednesday afternoon. The Chalmers entry includes three contesting cars in competition for the Glidden trophy and two pilot cars.

The Chalmers party leave for Cincinnati Friday night. Drivers and mechanicians are under the direction of Contest Manager H. L. Bill, the same as last year. The following is the personnel of the Chalmers party:

Car No 3, Joseph W. Gardham, driver, H. E. Fredrickson, observer, Ora Tuttue, Detroit's best known motorcycle policeman and W. S. Broderick, passengers.

Car No. 4, Joe Matson, the famous racing driver, will handle this car; Joseph Mayl, observer, passengers, H. L. Bill and Lee Anderson.

Car No. 5, Wm. Bolger, who drove a Chalmers "Forty" in last year's Glidden tour, driver; Theo. Regner, observer; E. G. Westlake, of the Chicago Evening Post, and E. L. More, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, passengers.

Pilot car No. 1, will be driven by Ralph Robbittalle with Jas. Riker as mechanician. Chas. Steinhauer, of the Cleveland Leader, will ride in pilot car No. 2. Dal H. Lewis, official pilot for the American Automobile Association, will, of course, be an additional passenger in the pilot car.

Pilot car No. 2 will be driven by J. R. Aude, who was mechanician for Joe Matson in most of his important races last year.

HOLDS RECORD AS NON-WASHED CAR

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—In constant use for two years, driven 29,463 miles, and never washed but three time in its life, is the record of a Cartercar at Buffalo, N. Y. Louis Engel Jr., the agent in that city, believes that this beats all records for a non-wash endurance contest.

The machine was turned in on a new Cartercar by Dr. Carr of Buffalo, who had used it in his practice. A record had been kept of the time spent in repairing and it totaled but fourteen hours for the period of two years. The original spark plugs were in the car, and, according to the statement, had never been removed

ASSOCIATED GARAGE.

Manager Hall, of the Associated Garage, reports a rather dull week in the matter of sales, although a number of deals have practicily been closed of cars to arrive. One sale during the week was a fine Chalmers-Detroit "forty" to John McGuire, of Hawaii.

Shop work at the Associated remains brisk.

The proposed lines of the new Bishop sereet extension will take off twelve feet or more of the side of the Associated Garage, seriously crippling the efficiency of the building. An effort may be made to secure a strip of land on the Waikiki side of the garage for the purpose of re-enlarging.

Six new Hudson cars will be due to arrive here very shortly.

TEN CARS RETAIN PERFECT SCORES

SHEFFIELD (Ala.), June 16.—The run of the Glidden tour cars today from Nashville added further to the list of casualties which have sharply reduced the perfect score list in the Glidden and Chicago cup competitions. Rough going from Louisville to Nashville yesterday resulted in a number of penalizations which were not announced until tonight, and the 119-mile journey today brought forth a number more.

The revised list shows only ten cars out of a total of twenty-six competing machines which retain perfect scores. Eight of these are competing for the Glidden cup and two for the Chicago.

The cars which still retain perfect scores are two Premiers, Chalmers No. 5, Maxwell No. 7, Cartecars No. 8, Glide No. 10, Ohio No. 11 and Cino No. 15 in the Glidden, and the Lexington and Maxwell in the Chicago.

MOTORS ARE REAL ESTATE BOOSTERS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Advance reports on the official census indicate that property values everywhere are on the increase. The statistics show a large percentage of advance in values. Real estate men attribute this largely to the automobile. They say it has exerted a greater effect upon real estate values than any other modern invention. Not only are values in city property rising, but farm lands as well, are becoming more valuable.

In the city the demand for salesrooms, garages, ect., has accomplished wonders in boosting rentals, while on the outskirts, the steady buying of land for factory sites and extensions has had almost a similar effect.

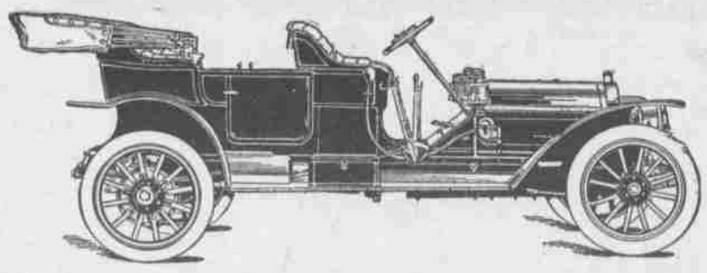
People can live farther out in the country than they could before the automobile came into general use. Farming values have gone up, and hundreds of places located within a radius of twenty-five miles of cities have found ready purchasers in men who use automobiles as their regular means of transportation.

Reports from the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, O., show that a larger percentage of their cars are sold to suburban purchasers than to city people. Farmers are buying thousands of their cars this year—for business and pleasure. The automobile has become an essential part of the complex life of today, and it is absurd to regard it as purely a pleasure vehicle. It has revolutionized the delivery service of the cities and proved a potent factor in the world's progress.

THREE POINT SUPPORT—UNIT POWER PLANT

Stevens-Duryea Motor Cars 1910

MODEL "Y" six cylinder forty horse power seven passenger touring car

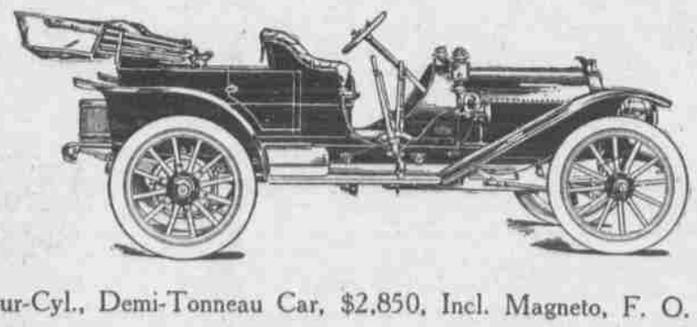


Price, $4,000 in standard finish a d equipment top with sip cover $150

MODEL "X" Four-Cylinder Touring Car, $2,950 incl. Magneto, F. O. B. Factory.

The testing of Stevens-Duryea Motors before being assembled in chassis represents the highest degree of perfection of method. The equipment is most complete to note condition and accurately define the power and flexibility of a power plant for motor cars. A test as to adjustment is first made with motor running at both minimum and maximum speeds. An additional run of ten hours under loads varying with the model of engine being tested, is given before motor is taken apart and examined by experts.

Every cylinder, piston, ring, bearing, valve and gear is most critically inspected. The same exhaustive test to which motor section of (unit) is subjected is applied to the clutch, transmissions and universal joints of complete power plant. After being reassembled, motor is run as near as possible under conditions to which it will be subjected in road use.



Model XXX Four-Cyl., Demi-Tonneau Car, $2,850, Incl. Magneto, F. O. B. Factory.

Standards are adopted for each model and every Power Plant has to attain these in the final crucial test. It is this exhaustive initial test that insures to Stevens-Duryea Motor Cars a Power Plant that under any condition of running is uniformly efficient.

After the motors are tested on the blocks they are assembled in the chassis and again rigorously tried out by experts on the road, where all adjustments are made. The car is then put through the paint and trimming shops, after which it is again tested on the road for the final trial. Every detail of adjustment and equipment must reach the highest standard before complete car is considered ready for delivery.

THE UNIT POWER PLANT ON THREE POINTS OF SUPPORT IS A STERLING EXAMPLE OF THE HIGHEST CLASS DESIGN AND MANUFACTURING SKILL.

be the same as the past? The huge disclosed and undisclosed profits of the company are, of course, made out of somebody. In other words, the community pays so much for sugar, and another £353,000 a year or more to provide a sugar company's profits. Still, no matter who ran the business, the community would have to pay some of that £350,000 (or whatever the profit is—it is certainly a great deal more than £350,000). Is this company getting more than a fair thing? That is the question. Taking the value of the net assets, according to the company's own balance sheet, it was seen just how that the disclosed profit was at the rate of over 11 1-4 per cent., even reckoning in investments and short-dated loans among the assets. The profits from the business itself may therefore be reckoned at fully 12 1-2 per cent. per annum on the assets used in the business, after deducting liabilities. Is 11 1-2 per cent. a fair thing for a business such as this to make? If it is more than a fair thing—if the company is using its practical monopoly to squeeze extravagant profits out of the people—then, sooner or later, it is going to get into trouble. And the bigger the profits are likely to get, and the more attractive therefore to the investor, the bigger the danger there is from State intervention. The company pleads that it is not treating the public harshly—that it keeps the price of sugar a shade below the price in the markets of Europe. "The policy we have maintained for many years,' the chairman said at the meeting, "is to keep our rates a little below those ruling in other markets, as they are at present." This was in reply to critics who had blamed the company for the recent advances. It is just as well for investors to realise at once that that reply will not be considered good enough. It is quite possible that coal is dearer in Kamschatka than it is in Lithgow; but if the Lithgow people wanted to charge £2 a ton on the spot because coal is £2 a ton in Kamschatka, they would be laughed at. That is the situtution also so far as sugar is concerned. And, anyhow, if the consumers got no advantage from being next door to the sugar fields, the people to deprive the consumers of that advantage should not be the refiners and middlemen—they should be the producers. Nobody can say whether trouble will strike the Sugar Co., or if it does, how much will strike it, but the risk must be taken into account.

SELF-RESTRAINT.

An Unusual Incident Takes Place on Fort Street—A Man Faints But Quickly Recovers.

EDITOR STAR:—A most unusual incident took place at the intersection of Fort and King streets on Thursday morning last, at the hour of 8:45, an incident so out of the ordinary that I make haste to mention it. As the Punahou car came to a stop at that corner, it was noticed that an automobile was coming along King street from toward Nuuanu street. This was nothing unusual. Such things happen every few minutes. But now the unusual thing happened. The man sitting in front of your reporter on the Punahou car, noticing the auto, with a nice-loking young lady chauffeur holding the wheel remarked, sotto voce, "It's a shame that such a young girl should be allowed to drive an automobile like that. Look, now, she is going to drive right in here between these passengers and the car, and someone will get—"

When he fainted. The auto had come to a sudden stop. Yes—actually stopped right there by the angel in charge of it. To let the passenger get off the car. The man quickly recovered, and with the crowd got off the car and passed unmolested to the sidewalk. "Well, did you ever!" was all he could say. Instead of brushing past, right through the passengers an auto had actually wait d for them to get off the car. Then the chauffeur gently lifting her little foot off the brake, the auto passed on up Fort street and out of sight. Now, Mr. Editor, an incident like this is unknown in Honolulu, such self-restraint entirely new to most of us, and I can't help taking this opportunity to mention it. Being too astonished to look for the number of this auto, I must ask the angel (if this article comes to her notice) kindly to send her address to 16 Merchant street, and I will see that the $15 fine paid into the district court last week by Quinn, who came near doing the same thing, is handed her.

A PASSENGER.

Julia Ward Howe, has entered upon hey 92d year, and is one woman who is not ashamed of her age.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A PRESENTATION AT THE VATICAN

A slight gesture from the master of ceremonies bade us all kneel, and the long-awaited figure entered—a sad-faced man arrayed in a simple white robe, expressionless of feature, but giving a striking impression of sweetness and intense weariness combined. He walked slowly along the line, holding out to each pilgrim as he passed a listless hand, on the fourth finger of which was the ring of St. Peter. At first glance he appeared the embodiment of age and of physical weakness, and it must be confessed that the impression was disappointing; but as he came nearer, and one was able to look more closely into his saddened eyes, one discerned in them not so much of weakness as of loveliness of character, strength of soul, touched by a strange pathos that brought with it the conviction that the people of his beloved city of Venice, among whom as Giuseppe Sarto he had once dwelt, had loved him for reasons that were good. One longed to be able to rise up and give him a more affectionate and no less reverential salute than the cold formal greeting to the golden signet prescribed by the etiquette of the ceremony. I pressed his hand with a sincere and earnest feeling of reverence for his office and of respect for the man, and was surprised to find as a little lump manifestetd itself in my throat and a suspicious moisture dimmed my eyes for the moment that I had awakened rather into an intensity of sympathy for the prisoner of the Vatican than of awed reverense for the successor of the Apostle. There was, indeed, no lack of the latter quality, but the former was from the heart, and I am glad to feel that that is truly the American of it. In spite of the splendor of his surroundings and the loftiness of his station, one could not escape the conviction that the office carries with it not only responsibilities which are onerous and exacting but involves as well such sacrifices of life and liberty as would stagger most men, even those rigorously trained for a life of sacrifice as the Church trains its priests. I have sometimes thought it would be pleasant to be the King of England or the Emperor of Germany or the President of the United States, but I looked upon Plus X with no feelings of envy in my heart.

After His Holiness had passed us by we were bidden to rise and follow in his train, which we did; directly in his train, in fact, for upon the return to the Sala Dell' Consistoro it so happened that our position in the line gave us the position of honor. In a remarkably short time he had passed before the whole group of visitors. Many of these, as I have already intimated, had apparently come merely to gratify their curiosity to see the head of the Roman Church, but others were there for purposes affecting the repose of their own souls, for more than one man and more than one woman, with faces streaming tears and an anguish of mind ill concealed, implored indulgence, for what I know not, as His Holiness passed along; and in every case with a kindly gesture, and a glance full of noble benignity at least, solace was granted. It was altogether most affecting, and when, at the close of the greetings, the Holy Father raised his hand to bless all present, "according to their need and intention," I went down upon my knees not because the etiquette of the hour required it, but because I wanted to; and when I rose up and went silently back to the noisy city I felt that the blessing asked had been received, for I was happy and the world seemed the sweeter and the brighter for the existence of such a man as Pius X.—John Kendrick Ba ngs, in Harper's Weekly.

ARREST OF UNITED WIRELESS HEADS

Ten days ago the cable told of the arrest in New York of the heads of the United Wireless Company, a concern whose "phony" stock was recently being offered for sale on the Honolulu market. The following are the particulars of the arrest received in the mail of yesterday:

NEW YORK, June 15—United States postoffice inspectors raided the handsome Broadway offices of the United wireless telegraph company today and caused the arrest of Christopher C. Wilson, president of the company; Samuel S. Bogart, first vice president, and William W. Tompkins, president of the New York selling agency, who, officers of the wireless company say(was formerly their fiscal agent, but ceased to represent them.

Chief Inspector Mayer subsequently gave out a statement in which he charges that, although the company had been running at a loss, the price of its shares had been advanced by manipulation to fictitious values and that individual officers of the company had sold out their stock to the public at profit estimated in one instance at between $3,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Wilson was released on $25,000 bail and Bogart on $10,000 bail for appearance July 12 before a federal commissioner. Tompkins was arrested at his farm near Manopac Falls, N. Y. and brought here for arraignment. He could not find $10,000 bail and spent the night in the Tombs.

The specific instance of alleged fraudulent use of the mails was given as the mailing of a letter March 3, 1910, to Michael O'Brien of Waterbury, Conn.

DECLARES A WAR

$6 a ton, which is less than the sailingship rate made by Bates & Cheseborough on the same route, and fully one-third less than the American-Hawaiian Company itself charges on its Tehuantepec service.

"There can be no legitimate traffic motive for this action of the American-Hawaiian Company," said Cheseborough. "We know what it means, and anyone who has kept in touch with sea rates to New York will at once understand that it is done only as an attack no our independent service.

"Since we have been operating our line of sailing ships by the Straits of Magellan, San Francisco shippers have not only been benefited by the opportunity offered by this service, but it has had an influence on all freight rates between New York and San Francisco.

"The American-Hawaiian Company abandoned the Magellan route when they entered into contract with the Mexican Government for the use of the Tehuantepec route. Their return to this route now is simply an attack on us. The contracts were made for these charters by the traffic department of the American-Hawaiian Company in New York at a time when its operating department here is having difficulty in getting full cargoes for its ships on the Tehuantepec route, and there was no traffic necessity for its chartering additional ships."

The Lyra is the steamer which is bringing Gus Spreckles much-advertised cargo of Eastern sugar to this Coast, and the Luckenbach is also on her way here with a cargo secured by Bates & Cheseborough, which firm had sought to secure both steamers to add to their own service.

Both ships have been posted at the Merchants Exchange for New York cargoes by the American-Hawaiian Company. For the time being San Francisco shippers are thus offered a cheap rate and one that would be very attractive could it be maitained. But Bates & Cheseborought assert that the move is made, not with the intention of making this rate permanent, but to drive the independent line out of business and leave the field clear for the Pacific Mail, American-Hawaiian and the transcontinental railroads.

"The abnormal nature of this offering," Cheseborough says, "is evident from the fact that the American-Hawaiian Company is virtually putting these ships on in competition with itself."

Allen M. Sutton, of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, when asked last night to explain the meaning of the chartering of the two vessels, said they had not been purchased. He admitted that they had been chartered to take cargoes for New York and Philadelphia by the Magellan route this summer, but he refused to state just what would be the policy of the company after it had used the ships for this one service.

Sutton said that so far as he knew, there was no effort on the part of his company to indulge in a rate-slashing war wth the Bates-Cheseborough people; that the vessels were not chartered with any desire of embarrasing the other company, and that instead of reducing rates to meet the sailing-ship competition over the Magellan route, the company would charge current rates and steamship rates instead of sailing-vessel rates.

On the question of whether the company really needed this additional floating stock, Sutton beeged to be excused from making any statement.

WAKING UP TO OPPORTUNITY.

We have been told, in a line that has become famous, that opportunity knocks at our door but once. The young and vital West has quarreled with this and a California poet has written a poem which is also winning fame, in which he says that we wake to opportunity every morning. But isn't there some further grains of wheat to be threshed out of this matter?

A resident of Seattle bought in the early days of the town a lot of ground for $250. The town grew rapidly and after several years had passed a corporation decided they wanted his lot for a building They asked his price. "Seven thousand dollars," he said, "now. But if you do not take it now, it will be higher." They laughed at him and went to find a lot elsewhere. But none suited so well, and they returned. His price was $7,500. Again they departed, but returned, and this procedure went on until the owner finally was paid $10,000.

The West, you say, is the land of opportunity. But listen. In a small town of New Jersey, a little town of not 5,000 inhabitants, a bank clerk bought some shares of the bank stock at $50 per share. Ten years or so afterward he had an offer to go to a bank in another town and he sold his stock for a small-sized fortune. Here was a most unpromising place, one would think, to find opportunity. But it was there.

Opportunity is all about us. It is not in the faraway West, nor in the busy metropolis. It is right at our elbow—on the farm, in the factory, in the store. The real point is for us to wake up to it. And we must not only wake up to it, but be able to see if it is the opportunity for us to sieze.

Many an ambitious woman in a large store has opportunities all about her. But she cannot make them hers. Theorists would say this is not true, but the woman who has had actual experience in the business world knows otherwise. Many a woman has over her a manager who unscrupulously appropriates all her clever ideas and suggestions and hands them over to the firm as his own. She is helpless. She has no opportunity of meeting the firm. It would be fatal to her position to complain. Again, she may have a manager so negligent or indifferent that the suggestions she offers never produce results. It is like pouring water into the sands of the desert. It disappears, that's all.

What shall she do? Remain there, hungry to seize these opportunities which are to her as forbidden fruit? Rather, she should study the situation impartially and calmly. If she sees no possibility of making headway, no likelihood of a change of management, then she should take her wares to a better market. Originality and initiative are always in demand. If she can furnish the goods, she needs not be afraid but they will have takers. Let her go elsewhere. Opportunities are thick and hers is the power to see and seize them.

A girl in the advertising department of a large store had an alluring offer from a publishing house to write a series of books for girls. She didn't lose her head over it. She took a long look ahead. After the books what? If she stayed in the store, what? The book proposition looked the best at the moment, but the future in the store promised the most in the long run. She stayed. She is now the store's foreign representative with her office in Paris and all Europe for her hunting grounds.

It is not only a matter of seeing the opportunities about you but of calmly and judicially deciding w' is your opportunity. It means a long look ahead, a keen analysis of one's self.

Four friends, saleswomen in a store, looked abuot them for an opportunity to advance. They saw it was not their present business. They could expect nothing more in the course of time but possibly a few dlars more of salary and that was problematical. Eventuallp the would be displaced by younger women. They clubbed together, took up one of the tracts of land Uncle Sam is irrigating in the West, and today, four happier, healthier, more prosperouse business omen it would be hard to find.

Waking up to opportunity is, after all, only getting out into the world, finding your work and doing it with heart and soul.

HANDCUFFS ANCIENT AND MODERN

In Virgil is to be found the first recorede instance of the use of handcuffs, says the London Globe, for the poet tells that Proteus was first fettered and rendered powerless by Aristaeus, who apparently knew that even the gods themselves were not proof against ths form of persuasion. In the fourth century, B. C., an army of victorious Greeks found several chariots full of handcuffs among the baggage of the defeated Carthaginians, and it is highly probable that the ancient Egyptians had some contrivance of the kind. The word is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "handcop" whence evidently comes the slang term 'copper." In eraliest Saxon days "handcops" were used for nobles and "footcops" for kings, but in the 14th and 15th centuries the wrd is supplanted by the terms "shack bolt" and "swivel manacle," and the instruments themselves were as cumberson as the names by which they are known.

Up to the middle of last century there were two kinds of handcuffs in general use. One, known as the "flexible," was very like those which are still in use; the other, called the "figure eight," was used to restrain violent prisoners. It was so fashioned that the captive could not move his hands, and was universally dreaded, for the pain caused by a limb immovably confined is almost unbearable. A simple but powerful device for securing prisoners was the twister, now abolished owing to the injuries it inflicted. It consisted of a chain with handles at each end; the chain was put around the wrists, the handles brought together and twisted until a firm grip was obtained. The least struggle on the part of the captive and the chains bit deep into his wrists. Of the same nature, but made of wire, is "la ligote," while in an emergency whipcord has proved perfectly satisfactory.

The manner of use is as follows: Take a piece of whip-cord and make a double running knot, tie one noose around the prisoners neck, then, making him put his hand in his pocket, lash the cord around the body, bringing it back to slip it through the noose again. The prisoner is perfectly comfortable, so long as he does not attempt to take his hand out of his pocket. A still more efficacious method was once employed by a London constable. Being without his handcuffs, and having nothing which could possibly take their place, he simply took his knife and cut off all the prisoner's brace buttons. This absolutely prevented rapid flight, and gave the man something to do besides.

The handcuff used in some parts of Eastern Europe is most primitive. It consists of a V shaped piece of metal, in which the wrists are inserted, the open ends being then drawn together by means of an across-hook, which must be kept taut the whole time. The most handy form of cuff which is in general use at present comes from America. It is lighter and much less clumsy than the old "flexible." It is no easy matter to clap the bracelets on a person who is struggling violently. Inventors should turn their attention to the subject, for much remains to be done before the fighting prisoner can be quickly and strongly secured without harm to himself or his captor.

As one readily realizes, a manacled man has been provided with a very formidable weapon; yet such is the case, for he has but to raise his hands and bring them down heavily on the head of his captor to stun or even kill him. For this reason dangerous prisoners are generally handcuffed with their hands behind their backs. The police also have to reckon with the fact that all handcuffswill notfit every prisoner, being often either too large or too small. If they are too large they provide a knuckle-duster of great efficiency.

"THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR."

Harold Trowbridge Pulsiter recently won the Lloyd McKim Garrison prize at Harvard with this poem.

With a thunder-driven heart,
And the shimmer of new wings,
I, a worm that was, upstart;
King of Kings.

I have heard the singing stars,
I have watched the sunset die,
As I burst the lucent bars
Of the sky.

Lo, the argosies of Spain,
As they plowed the naked brine,
Found no heaven-girded main
Like to mine.

Soaring from the clinging sod,
First and foremost of my race,
I have met the hosts of God
Face to face.

Blot the tempest and the gale,
Where the white moon-riven cloud
Wrapt the splendor of my sail
In a cloud.

When the ghost of winter fled,
Swift I followed with snow,
Like a silver arrow sped
From a bow.

I have trailed the summer South
Like a flash of burnished gold,
When she fled the hungry mouth
Of the cold!

I have dogged the ranging sun,
Till the world became a scroll,
All the oceans, one by one,
Were my goal.

Other winged men may come,
Pierce the heavens, chart the sky,
Sound an echo to my drum
Ere they die.

I,alone, have seen the earth,
Age-old fetters swept aside
In the glory of new birth,
Defied.

COOK'S FRIEND SUES PEARY

BERLIN, June 8.—Adolph Francke, who was associated with Dr. Frederick A. Cook in Arctic exploration, has brought suit against Commander Robert E. Peary in the sum of $10,000. The amount is estimated at half of the value of the furs and walrus and narwhal teeth whch Francke bought of natives in the Arctic regions under an agreement htat they should share the proceeds half and half.

According to Francke's complaint, Commander Peary found hm seriously ill at Etah owing to a fall on a glacier, and took advantage of this circumstance to demand the entire collection as the price for transporting him to America. Francke claims that he acted from compulsion, and says that Peary set aside a part of the collection to present to ex-President Roosevelt.

The papers in the suit were served on Commander Peary this evening. He refused to take them when they were handed to him by a deputy, and the officer laid them on the table in the presence of a witness, calling the commander's attention to the fact that this was a legal service.

Earlier in the day, when the report of a court action against Commander Peary was beng noised about, the commander sought out the American Ambassador, David Jayne Hill, and submitted the case to him. He declared later that he left the matter in the Ambassadors hands. He declined to make any further statement about the suit.

Commander Peary gave a lecture tonight to a crowded house. He leaves for London tomrrow.

A GERMAN EDITOR'S VIEW OF ROOSEVELT

Writing on "Theodore Roosevelt the Great," in the Berlin Zukunft, Maximilian Harden, the German editor who has become famous because of his exposure of the vices of the "Round Table," says that the twenty-five presidents from Washington to McKinley combined made less noise than Roosevelt.

Herr Harden says that Roosevelt is Achilles and Homer in one; that not only is he a hero, but that he is the chronicler of his own deeds; that "in Cuba and the Philippine archipelago" events "not even of hero Hobson was so much said and published as of the rough-riding Colonel."

"He organized his fame," continues Harden. "Today he secures for Uncle Sam an imperial destiny. Tomorrow he summons forces of public clamor against the great corporations, the presidents of which he curses as public plunderers and malefactors of great wealth—although himself pilloted by the trusts through the shoals of popular elections. A day later he promises to humanity a higher civilization and to the people of the United States health, sanity, and purity of public life. Dawns a day on which there is nothing to report of his personal doings, then at least something the universal one's daughter must appear in the public prints.

"A demagogue of imposing shape, he is never troubled by scruples or doubts. He grasps a situation instantly, judges infallibly, and assumes, with a courage never before seen in the new world, the air of a victorious imperator.

Estimated from a distance, no considerable result of his fifty years of life appears. He has not cleansed the Augean stables of the union. Hhe has not cut off a single head of a corporation hydra. By terrifying the capitalists he has thrown his country into a crisis the results of which are still being felt."

ATCHERLEY HAS 'FRISCO GOING

LEPERS DEMAND HONOLULU MAN AND OFFICIALS ARE IN A QUANDARY.

The San Francisco Call of June 16 contains the following:

Dr. John Atcherley and the lepers occupied the attention of the board of healthy yesterday for three hoursinto signing it. and at the end of the discussion the members adjourned without deciding what they were going to do. Preside- Eaton, who declared he was on the fence on the question of permitting or preventing treatment by Doctor Atcherley of patients at the isolation hospital, conducted a rapid fire investigation of Doctor Atcherley, asking him many questions, but seldom pausing for reply.

Health Officer McNutt declared that the petition unanimously signed by the lepers that Doctor Atcherley be restored to them was really the work of one or two, the rest b"ing cajoled

WAR SECRETARY TO TOUR WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 16.—It was learned today that when Secretary Dickinson left Washington tonight he was off for a tour of the world. The objective point will be the Philippine islands where he will spend five weeks familiarizing himself with conditions. On the steamer Siberia, on which he will sail from San Francisco for the Philippines via Honolulu and Japan, he will be accompanied by Mrs. Dickinson, his son, J. M. Dickinson Jr., General Clarence R. Edwards, Mrs. Edwards and daughter ,Miss Bessie Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Lincoln R. Clark, confidential clerk and George Long a messenger.

The Secretary will inspect Pearl Harbor and the fortifications at Honolulu July 4th. The Secretary's party is due to arrive at Yokohama July 15th and will be in Japan until July 20th, going over land to Nagasaki, where they will sail for Manila. About five weeks will be spent in the Philippines on an inspection trip.

The party is scheduled to leave Manila on September 6th, returning via Hongkong, Peking and the Trans-Siberian Railroad to Moscow, thence to Warsaw and through France, taking the steamer at Cherbourg about October 8th or 10th. They will arrive in New York about October 15th.

William Flagner, interceding for 17 year old William Meyers, confined as a leper, said he had visited the hospital and all the inmates united in the wish to have Doctor Atcherley back.

Former Health Officer Herbert Gunn counseled the board that it would be against medical procedure to allow Atcherley to treat the lepers by medicines and formulas unknown to the profession.

Eaton said it was not a question of professional eth'cs, but of the board's responsibility for the lives and health of the lepers under its charge.

Miss Frye, who for the last 12 years has visited and cared for the colony, asked Doctor Eaton why the lepers should not be permitted to have the chance of Doctor Atcherley's treatment when they wish it, and "when you admit you are helpless to aid them and they are helpless of healing."

Dr. Frank Tillman said he "saw no reason why Doctor Atcherley should not be permitted to try the experiment of giving the lepers his treatment. Nothing has been done for these unfortunates in the 12 years past, and surely if they die under the treatment they will be none the worse off."

STUDENTS ENDORSE TRUST THUNDERERS

Verily the poor "trusts" are having a hard time of it. Fighting for life in America, beaten from pillar to post in other civilized lands, they have now been treed by a lot of Filipino school boys, who have left the shade of the palms long enough to take a stab at them. The following from the Manila Cablenews tells about it:

Two hundred and fifty Filipino law students held a "mass" meeting at the Opera House Sunday morning, denouncing the trusts in general and the sale of the Mindoro friar lands to the Havemeyer syndicate in particular, and after seven of them had drawn up and signed a grandiloquent protest to Congress in the name of the Filipino people, the special committee on the stage and the body of the house joined in "playing assembly," a difference of opinion as to the advisability of including in the message of protest the names of the congressmen who started the investigation giving the youngsters a chance to exercise their budding talents as future lawmakers.

A reporter on the staff of La Democracia had "heard of a tendency of American politicians to look for cheap popularity." He suspected that too much prominence given their names in connection with the protest might enlarge the size of Messrs. Martin and Slayden's craniums to proportions not warranted by the facts in the case. He was in favor of cutting out their names.

Enrique Mendiola rose in opposition to the newspapermen. It was up to the Filipino people to show their gratitude to the valiant champions of their interests. He was willing to take chances on the swelled heads.

The audience took sides freely and for over an hour the wordy combat raged. Parliamentary and unparliamentary phrases, such as "I object," "sit down" and "shut up," came thick and fast.

When it became apparent that the adherents of La Democracia were losing ground, a fat Chino mestizo occupying a proscenium box got up and shouted: "What are we here for, anyway? Are we here to give thanks or to protest? We want nothing but our rights as guaranteed by the Philippine Bill." His remarks were received with a demonstration similar to the noisy greeting accorded Osmena at Malolos. The question was put to a vote and the "grateful" faction headed by Mendiola had it by a big margin.

Senor Liquete, at one time of La Decocracia, and now of Lo Vanguardia, was one of the speakers of the morning. Senor Liquete thought that political control of the islands and the commercial advantages of the Payne Bill were sufficient compensation to Americans for the sacrifices entailed by their effort on behalf of the Filipinos. They should not reach out for more. He deplored the collusion between government and capital. His remarks, on the whole, were moderate and were received with moderate applause. The law students who followed Sr. Liquete were outspoken, but prompted by their legal training, kept on the windward side of the law in their denunciation of the octopus. It was left to Sr. Maravillas, a student of medicine, to lay bare with the scalpel the gangrene spot of our civilization, the trusts. When, at the close of an impassioned harangue, he shrieked: "We Filipinos would die rather than submit to the slavery of the American trusts," the very foundations of the Haahim play house shook with the plaudits of the frantic audience.

A representative of the progresistas read a resolution of that party endorsing the stand taken by the law students. The latter extended a vote of thanks to the "standpatters" on the subject of national independence who this time, however, had read the will of the people aright.

Cadillac costs less for up-keep than any other automobile

Remarkable record submitted by 75 Cadillac "Thirty" owners in New York metropolitan district who have driven their cars 398,884 miles at a total cost for mechanical repairs of $53.21, averaging 71 cents per car.

Equivalent to 16 times around the world—398,884 miles—at a total repair cost of $53.21!

That is the amazing record revealed by statistics just compiled from the experiences of 75 Cadillac "Thirty" owners in New York city and vicinity.

It is doubtful if the entire history of travel and transportation—steam, electric or gasoline—can show a case of parallel economy.

There was in this instance no special striving to attain a minimum.

The 75 owners went their separate ways with their 75 Cadillac "Thirty" cars, each without reference to the other.

They took no special precautions, but drove where they pleased, when they pleased, how they pleased, without the slightest idea that their experience was to be made a matter of record.

At the close of 1909 statistics were collected and compiled from the signed statement of the 75 users.

It was found that the 75 cars had traveled a total distance of 398,884 miles, or a distance equivalent to 16 trips around the world.

Forty-six of the owners had no expense cost whatever—not a single penny—in spite of the fact that some of them had driven their cars as much as 18,000 miles.

The highest individual repair charge for the entire year was that of one user, whose car cost him— for special reasons which did not reflect upon the construction in any way—$10, the distance it carried being 9,000 miles.

Eleven of the others expended during the year from 25 cents to 50 cents. The average distance traveled was 5318 miles per car, yet the average repair expense was less than 71 cents each.

The signed statement of these 75 users showed further than the average gasoline consumption for the touring car was one gallon for each 15 miles of travel and one quart of oil for each 175 miles of travel. The Demi-Tonneau car showed an average of 17 1-2 miles for each gallon of gasoline and 200 miles for each quart of oil. Some users obtained 20 or more miles for each gallon of gasoline but the figures first given are averages.

There is no disguising the fact that this record has proven a revelation even to automobile manufacturers themselves.

It proves beyond a doubt that the Cadillac company has always maintained, that the elements in motor car construction which are absolutely necessary to economy and immunity from repairs are, scientific design, standarization, accuracy of workmanship and correct alignment. Also that necessity for repairs is the result of poor design, inaccuracy of workmanship, ill-fitting and incorrectly aligned parts.

A year or more ago they proved before the Royal Automobile Club of London that three Cadillacs could be torn down, all the parts thrown in a pile; a portion of these parts discarded and new ones substituted, and the three cars built up again from the heap of parts to run with absolute sweetness and without so much as an iota of looseness.

For this the Cadillac was awarded the Dewar Trophy.

And now comes another demonstration which simply emphasizes the fact that the convictions of the Cadillac company as to the essentials of a long-lived, serviceable and economical car are correct.

Cadillac measurements are finer in a greater proportion of essential parts than those of any other car in the world—finer than the costliest cars made.

PATIENCE

By LADY COOK, nee TENNESSEE C. CLAFLIN.

Patience is an excellent virtue, and one of those most difficult to acquire. Woman possesses it in a far greater degree than man, and this has been one of her compensations for long ages of servitude. It was necessary to her to endure or die, and she has learnt to endure. Yet, in the face of all the difficulties and trials which beset us through life, the wrongs and injuries, the diseases and disappointments which are incidental to all, patience is essential to everyone, irrespective of sex.

We admire courage always, but seldom admire passive fortitude. But courage may be a mere animal instinct, and usually is, whereas patience is a high intellectual quality and is the fruit of reason or religion. Chaucer wrote, in his "Persones Tale": "The Philosophers sayth that patience is the virtue that suffereth debonairly all the outrages of adversitee, and every wicked word." What armour, then, can be so effectual against the disasters of Fate as this Godlike gift of enduring calmly?

The fretful, fussy individual is contemptible to others, and a misery to himself. Whenever a woman is destitute of this most womanly quality of quiet endurance, nature or education has robbed her of a distinguishing virtue of her sex, and she becomes one of those sour and querulous creatures that are able to drive any man from house and home unless he has the patience of Job.

Its cultivation, therefore, is of primary importance, and should begin at the earliest stages of life. But when we see how young infants are permitted, by the indulgence of foolish mothers, to defy them and their nurses, to struggle and scream and kick in paroxysms of passion whenever they are thwarted, and habitually disobey as they become older, we need not wonder that, with such a training, they should grow up without self-control and be subject to criminal outbursts.

So long as parents neglect their duties to their offspring, so long will wretchedness and vice roll on, and many a man whose evil passions control him would be tempted, if he knew all, to curse the irrational fondness of the mother who bore him.

The origin of our word denotes its meaning: "Patiens," suffering, or learning, that is to say, calmly. We have lost the old English verb, "to patient," which was in vogue down to Shakespeare's time. "Patient yourself, Madame," says Titus Andronicus. Ours is a sterling, solid word, which has sustained its signification for ages, and has seen good service in the life of humanity.

The martyrs for philosophy and religion, to say nothing of others, gave notable examples of its meaning when they cheerfully endured all the agonies that tyrannous intolerance could inflict upon them. "The virtue of the best Pagans," says Lecky, in "History of European Morals," "was perhaps of as high an order as that of the best Christians." And the patience of Pagan philosophers under persecution was no way inferior to that of the followers of the Cross. Both have proved thousands of times over how sublimely men and women can suffer and die when sustained by this noblest of virtues.

"Pound the body of Anaxarchus, for thou dost not pound his soul," was said to the tyrant of Cyprus by the philosopher when brayed alive in a stone mortar with iron hammers to satisfy a mean revenge. "Follow God," was one of the most frequently-repeated of Platonic maxims. "A god (what god I know not) dwells in every good man," said Epictetus. And Marcus Aurelius adds: "Offer to the god that is in thee a manly being, a citizen, a soldier at his post, ready to depart from life as soon as the trumpet sounds."

Another teaching of the Stoics was "the duty of the most absolute and unquestioning submission to the decrees of Providence." "To weep, to groan, is to rebel," said Seneca. "To fear, to grieve, to be angry, is to be a deserter," said Eurelius. "Remember," wrote Epictetus, himself a cripple, "that you are but an actor, acting whatever part the Master has ordained. If He wishes you to represent a poor man, do so heartily; if a cripple, or a magistrate, or a private man, in each case act your part with honor. . . . God does not keep a good man in prosperity. He tries, He strengthens him, He prepares him for Himself."

When Anaxagoras, the preceptor of Socrates, Pericles, Euripides, and many other famous pupils, was condemned to death because of scientific research, he ridiculed the sentence, and said it had long been pronounced upon him by Nature. He refused to have his corpse borne to his own country, for, said he, "the road that leads to the other side of the grave is as long from one place as the other." Nor were these mere precepts, for he, like numbers of the Stoics and Epicureans, had renounced wealth and honors for practical philosophy.

Epicurus himself taught that "all good and all evil consist in feeling, and what is death but the privation of feeling?" and Cicero declared that "all virtue is in action." "The proper study of a wise man," said a great modern philosopher, "is not how to die, but how to live. . . . There is no subject on which the sage will think less than death.". When Antonius Pius was dying, and the tribune asked him for the password of the night, the Emperor replied "Aequanimitas!" (patience).

Action, feeling and resignation form the three components of the worthiest life, but the crown of all is patience: to know how to endure and how to wait; to render the mind superior to all accidents of time or place. The imagination of the most imaginative race never conceived anything grander than the lonely Titan chained to Mount Caucasus with an eagle from year to year ever gnawing his vital organs. Beaten by tempests and chilled by the eternal snows, he lifted his eyes and voice in calm defiance of his unjust persecutor, and patiently awaited the hour of his deliverance. He stands today in the records of Pagan genius, as a giant type of mortal endurance.

But if we turn our eyes to Calvary, in the reign of Tiberius, we perceive a still grander and more human example. He who had renounced all things from His love of humanity, Whose whole life had been spent in innocence and beneficence and the highest exercise of patience, condemned for blasphemy by the impure lips of those He wished to save, hangs bleeding on the Cross; but, in that hour of supreme torture, His patience rises above His pain. "Father," He cries, "forgive them, for they know not what they do!"

Doctors Called To Harem

The attitude of the hanoums to medical practitioners has changed much of recent years, says the Constantinople correspondent of the Lancet. Twenty or thirty years ago no Turkish woman would ever have submitted to a physical examination by a doctor. All he could have persuaded her to do would be to show him her tongue through a rent in the yashmak or let him touch her pulse from behind a heavy curtain, and in presence, of course, of an Argus-eyed eunuch or old female slave.

Any attempt to apply a stethoscope to the chest would have been spurned as an impertinent presumption of Western "barbarism." No matter how severe the illness the medical man could not go beyond certain strict limits of Islamatic usage and traditional custom. Even in cases of imminent danger to life these scanty limits were never allowed to be overstepped, and the belief in the incantations of a priest and the house reemdies of old, ignorant and superstitious women held unlimited sway, and was always greater than the faith in the efficacy of medical skill and science.

This is now changing and changing rapidly. There are, of course, still many exceptions where antiquated views and conceptions are fanatically adhered to and practiced, but these become rarer and rarer with each advancing year. Many Turkish women will now when ill voluntarily call on a medical practitioner and never hesitate to submit themselves to a thorough physical examination.

The general public opinion on these matters among the Turks is fast altering for the better, and only in very rare cases is there now any difficulty at all raised as to letting the hanoum submit to an examination with stethoscope or other instrument.

The Lure of The Moving Picture

The educational phase of moving picture making is engaging attention. One manufacturer recently made a film called "The Fly Pest," teaching in a startling way the danger to health caused by careless exposure to the pest of food and drinkables. This film was a success because it was interesting aside from its educational value. Another New York manufacturer is now at work illustrating the subject of milk supply and expects to make this instructive and also interesting.

Men in the business told of remarkable enterprises in other lines of picture making. One firm has had an outfit in South America for four months and expects to show, as a result of the work there, many films which will popularly instruct regarding the people, industries and scenery of that country. Still another firm is just now arranging to send an outfit of camera men, stage managers and actors by special train over the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railroad through to the Pacific ocean, illustrating the industries and scenery en route by means of picture plays into which the scenery and industries will be naturally introduced.

"We find," said one authority, "that on the screen of the moving picture theater, as well as on the stage of the legitimate theater, the play's the thing, after all. The most popular films are those that tell a good play story, drama or comedy. The demand for such plays is, of course, great, and it is developing a new branch of the art of writing, the telling of a story which can be lucidly explained by silent actors. It is not the play of the pantomime; it is written as if to be spoken, yet must be intelligible without words, and also without the 'business' of the pantomimist. It is not an easy task, evidently, but more and more writers of recognized ability are engaging in it, and no doubt they will develop the art into rules. The licensed manufacturers meet the writers half way certainly; they who have large and well equipped plants provide competent players, experienced stage managers, scene painters and costumers. Their end of the business is at present further advanced than is the writing end; but there are hopeful signs that authors will soon produce work as finished in its way as is the work of the mechanical and staging departments.—Interview in New York Sun.

Philadelphia's Wood Pavement

Market street is one of the broad central thoroughfares of Philadelphia. It is sixty-one feet in width, and the part which was to be repaved ran from the Schuylkill river to Delaware street. At each end was a section where the grade was too steep for a smooth pavement. The area that was paved with wood was 85,000 square yards, which made the largest single contract for wood block paving that has yet been let in this country.

It is the belief of the promoters of this pavement that in quality this job reaches the high-water mark and that Market street now has the finest pavement that has ever been laid in an American city.

The foundation is six inches of concrete. Many of the New York city pavements are laid on four inches of concrete and are considered satisfactory. The extra two inches, however, makes it certain that there will be no changes of contour through the settling of the foundation. A one-inch sand cushion was spread over the concrete, and the block laid thereupon with the grain of the wood vertical and grouted with cement after being rolled into true contour by a ten ton roller.

The wood which was used was longleaf yellow pine. After thorough seasoning, the wood was put into a cylinder, heated and subjected to a vacuum treatment which removed all moisture and sap from it. Creosote was then admitted into the cylinder, and injected into the blocks by great pressure until the blocks had absorbed all the creosote that they would take up. This treatment carries creosote clear to the heart of the block, destroying all organic life, and making decay absolutely impossible. The blocks used on the market street job were four inches in depth, as contrasted with the three and three and a half inch blocks frequently used elsewhere.

What the life of this pavement will be is problematic. It is certain, however, that it will last much longer than any other pavement that has ever been devised, not excepting granite blocks.

The traffic on Market street is very heavy, and has greatly increased since the new pavement was laid. The effect of traffic on the blocks, however, is practically negligible. The end of the fiber of the wood will be impressed slightly and matted down, obliterating the joints. This will take about four months, after which there will be no further deterioration.

The concrete foundation will grow stronger with age, and the wood will grow harder the longer it is pounded. On account of the elasticity of the wood there will be no pulverization, as with stone or asphalt. The fact that the subway underneath carries pipe galleries makes it certain that the streets will not be disturbed for excavations, so that this source of future damage is probably safely disposed of. The price of the pavement was $3.49 per square yard and the contractor was Edwin H. Vare of Philadelphia.—Engineering Magazine.

High Prices

Albert S. Bolles, the lecturer on Commercial Law and Banking at Haverford College, contributes an important and timely article on "Rising Prices: Their Causes, Consequences and Remedies" in the June number of The North American Review. He shows that the tariff—that is, the reduction or abolition of duties—does not necessarily bring relief, though it may in some instances. After discussing all phases of the situation, he urges the moral argument and says:

"It may be a long time before men will make exchanges on the basis of equivalents. It is no less certain that society cannot permanently endure wherever a small number possess such a clear and obvious advantage that in every exchange they can get the best of the bargain. Wherever this has happened the masses have been overcome by despair and the foundations of society have opened. It is not in the nature of man to remain content and thrive under such conditions; nor will he thrive here. The mutual advantages arising from the division and exchange of labor, which are the foundation of industrial development, cannot be set at naught without impairing the national life and character. For a long period our protective system has been favored, nourished by the belief that ultimately the cost of production would diminish and consumers would reap the benefit from the costly sacrifices required to grow and garner the promised fruitage. At last, belief has changed into realization. Through the marvels accomplished, especially by labor-saving inventions and improved modes of transportation, the cost of production had been greatly lessened and prices had fallen. But suddenly the cheaper products, so long desired, so briefly purchased and enjoyed, have been put for a time, perhaps for a very long time, beyond the consumer's possession. The gain promised to him in the beginning has been withheld without reason; everywhere he feels that a colossal trick has been played on him, and evil results are appearaing with painful clearness—disorganization of business, rapid diminution of exports, growing unrest and increasing disappointment of the masses. No prophet is needed to foretell the outcome that must follow from these great changes."
