Maui Liberty Loan Quota Half Filled

About $180,000 Subscribed In First Week—Quota Is Over $300,000—Some Districts Had Poor Start Through No Fault Of Their Own

Estimates made up to noon today indicate that Maui's 4th Liberty Loan drive has in the first week yielded over half of her quota. This quota, estimated from the territory's quota of $6,765,050, as wirelessly from Honolulu yesterday, will be from $300,000 to $204,000.

Chairman Worth Aiken, at noon today estimated the Maui subscriptions are something over $180,000. Hana, Kula, and Molokai have not yet been heard from for any amount.

Subscriptions By Districts

The following were the figures reported from the various centers this morning:

Baldwin National Bank . . .	$22,200
Puunene	33,000
Wailuku Sugar Co.	33,250
Wailuku Bank	20,000
Lahaina District	40,000
Pala	16,000
Makawao	10,800
Hale	3,500
Hana
Kula
Molokai
Total	$178,850

The list of the Honor Roll—those who bought bonds on last Friday and Saturday—totals 1327 names, though there will doubtless be a few more when the outside districts report.

Chairman Aiken states that owing to an unexpected delay in delivery of the notices of appointment of workers, some parts of Maui really did not know until a day or two afterwards that the drive had started, and hence did not get in on the Honor Roll, or but poorly. He expects that these sections will come forward with especially strong subscriptions before the end of the drive.

$138 Per Subscriber

The average purchase of bonds amounted to about $138, according to the best estimates available at the present.

A very large proportion of the bonds subscribed for were of the $50 denomination, but there were some very substantial purchases, according to reports from the committee. A surprising number of plantation laborers subscribed for $100 or more, pledging their full bonus earnings at the end of the plantation year for the purposes.

Much Interest Shown

There has been much more interest shown in this bond issue than in any of the previous ones, and it is being better advertised. It is being talked by 4-minute speakers in the more important theaters, and every district and plantation, almost, has some special way of bringing the matter to

West Maui Filipinos Form Educational Club

On Saturday evening at Puukohli a large number of the people of the camp were present for the inauguration of the new "Filipino Friends Instructive Society", which is the rather impressive name given by the Filipinos to their new organization.

Ernest Brecht, the head luna for that side of Pioneer Mill Company's plantings, was the first speaker in English. He gave the audience an excellent talk about war savings, the Liberty Loan, and the need of saving to win the war. He was followed by Rev. Rowland B. Dodge and Robert A. Judd, who spoke words of encouragement to the people, and urged them to be faithful to their ideals which their president, Regino Domino had told them were the principles of their society. Mr. Dodge informed the people that he had had a letter from Dr. Wm. H. Fry, the superintendent of Methodist Missions, in which he said that very soon a new Methodist minister would be installed on the Lahaina side of Maui for work among the Filipinos.

Motion pictures, soda water and ice cream added to the entertainment of the evening.

Hana Folk Say New Road Will Wash Away

Complaint comes from Hana regarding the location of the new road which the territory has started to connect with the new wharf now building at that point. The work was laid out by surveyors of the public works department, and is being done by between 50 and 75 convicts from the Oahu prison.

The objection to the road is that it is built upon the sand of the beach where it will be almost impossible to prevent its washing out when the sea is high. It is said that a road above the sand is entirely feasible.

Extra Maui's Quota Is Surprise

Maui's quota for the 4th Liberty Loan is $450,150.

This information was received by W. O. Aiken by wireless from Honolulu headquarters this afternoon after the MAUI NEWS had gone to press. It is a surprise inasmuch as it is practically $150,000 more than had been expected.

Hawaii's quota is $400,000; Kauai's, $364,800; Oahu's, $5,550,000. Total for Territory, $6,764,950.

High School Parents Association Formed

Visiting Committee Will Keep In Close Touch With School Work—New Principal Due Next Week—All Schools Open On Time

Although the schools of Maui are still short some 8 or 9 teachers all pupils are being cared for, either through doubling up of classes or by substitute teachers. The end of the first week of the school year is declared to show everything running smoothly.

The department has recently secured the services of L. L. Summers, of California, to take the principalship of the Hamakua High and Grammar school, succeeding Wilbur S. Beeman. It is understood that he left San Francisco the middle of this week and he is expected to arrive here the latter part of next week. An item in a Honolulu paper announcing his arrival in Honolulu was an error, as at the time it appeared he had not left the mainland.

Mr. Summers comes highly recommended. He is said to have had 18 years experience as an instructor. The failure of Mr. Beeman to return at the last moment is responsible for the vacancy's not having been filled sooner. It is stated that Mr. Beeman had trouble in getting booking from San Francisco, and when he found he would be late cabled to the department that he would not come at all unless the rule by which he would lose his pay for the first half of September, were waived. This was refused, and steps taken at once to secure a successor.

Substitutes At High School

The enrollment at the Hamakua high and grammar school yesterday was 116, and there will be a number of other pupils to come in the first of the month who have been working on the plantations during the first two weeks of the term under permits granted the members of the boys' working reserve. The school will be larger this year than ever before.

Cockett--Robinson

Miss Louise N. Robinson, of Pala, and Lt. Christopher K. Cockett, formerly of Puunene, but now an officer in one of the national guard regiments stationed at Schofield Barracks Oahu, were married last Saturday afternoon in Honolulu, according to information received by Maui friends this week. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John L. Hopwood, associate minister of the Central Union Church. The witnesses were John A. and Harriet L. Noble.

The bride, who is a charming girl with a wide circle of friends on Maui, was formerly an employee of the Baldwin National Bank, Kahului. Lt. Cockett was formerly a machinist of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co. He is at present acting as company commander of one of the guard companies.

Maui Music Club Hears Gounod Music

The Maui Music Club held its first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sam Baldwin, on the Haleakala Ranch, and was greatly enjoyed by the 25 or more members present.

The program, which was the first of a series of studies of Gounod and his works, was as follows: Life of Gounod . . . Mrs. A. C. Bowditch "Galla" . . . (Mary Hoffman Kunewa) . . . (Mrs. L. P. Jones) Reading on Amelia Gall-Curel . . . Reading on Amelia Gall-Curel . . . Mrs. E. E. Doyum Gall-Curel Records

Draftees May Vote Says Supreme Court

The territorial supreme court today handed down a decision holding that draftees in the army have the right to vote the same as is specifically provided by law for national guardsmen when in service.

The news was received this afternoon by County Clerk W. F. Kaee in a wireless message from the city and county clerk of Honolulu.

It means that at least 128 Maui men now in Oahu army posts will get to vote at the coming primaries, and maybe 50 to 75 more. Between 1000 and 2000 men in the territory are affected by the ruling.

The territorial attorney general's department held that the draftees could not vote under the law, but Kaee and other county clerks decided to carry the matter to the supreme court for decision.

Candidates Back From Hot Work On Molokai

The republican candidates for the legislature returned last evening from Molokai where they spent several days explaining to the voters why they jointly and severally should be urged to represent Maui county in the territorial law making body. The trip is reported to have been a great success. Speeches were made at various points on leeward Molokai, and then the party hit the trail on foot down the pali to the Settlement where they had obtained permission to spell-bind the leper voters.

H. W. Rice, candidate for the senate was with the party and made his speeches in Hawaiian. He is reported to have put his ideas across all right even if he had to draw on the Chinese, Japanese and haole languages occasionally to help him out.

The party made the trip to Molokai and back in Harry Baldwin's yacht "Ibers", which covered the distance to Puukoo in about 3 hours.

Two Hurt When Auto Capsizes--Three Escape

When the steering gear broke on the Ford car he was driving, last Saturday morning, John M. Brown, of Wailuku, was pinned beneath the car which overturned, his mother was badly hurt, particularly about the shoulders and back, and his daughter badly bruised. Brown's wife and another young girl who were also in the car when the accident happened, were unhurt. Brown himself was uninjured but was forced to remain in a very uncomfortable position for some time until Peruvia Goodness, the county automobile inspector happened along and lifted the car sufficiently for him to crawl out.

Brown was formerly a teacher at Camp 1, but is this year acting as assistant vocational instructor under R. C. Bowman.

More Island Boys Have Lately Landed In France

Mrs. Frank Sylva this week received a post card from her brother, William M. Eckart, a private in the Headquarters Detachment of the 34th U. S. Engineers, advising that he had arrived safely in France. This is the first information received that this unit, which contains a large number of men from the Islands, had sailed for France. It spent some time in training in California, Louisiana and New York. It is probable that the boys landed in France about the first of September.

BURGLAR TWICE ROBS HARRY GESNER'S GARAGE

A burglar last week entered the Harry Gesner Garage on two separate nights, on one occasion stealing a valuable camera and on the other getting away with between $5 and $10 in cash. Entry was effected by breaking the fastening to the door. The police have thus far made no arrests, although it is understood that one or two suspects are under surveillance.

In reporting the employees of The Bank of Maui, Ltd., who subscribed to 4th Liberty Loan bonds, the name of P. H. Ross, manager of the insurance department was unintentionally omitted. Mr. Ross was among the first to subscribe, and his name must necessarily be included as The Bank of Maui, Ltd. was 100% on the Honor Roll.

Y. M. C. A Drive To Follow Liberty Loan

Committee Named To Handle Work On Maui—Campaign Authorized By Government—Maui's Quota Is Set Of $17,000

At a special meeting of the Maui Chamber of Commerce, last Monday afternoon, a committee was appointed to have charge of the Y. M. C. A. drive for funds, which will probably start on Maui about the middle of next month. Maui's quota is $17,000, but it is probable that an effort will be made to raise twice this amount.

It is known that the association will need a great deal more than was at first thought on account of the much more extensive work which recent events have called for.

The following men were named by President H. W. Rice to be associated with him on the committee: H. K. Dunnean, Kahului; R. B. Dodge, Wailuku; F. P. Rosecrans, Pala; Ed. Walsh, Puunene; C. A. MacDonald, Lahaina; John Chalmers, Hana; Dr. C. P. Darnley, Kula; E. J. Walker, Hamakua.

The drive, which is authorized by the federal government is for a total of $132,500,000, of which $100,000,000 is for the Y. M. C. A., $15,000,000 for the Y. W. C. A., $15,000,000 for playground association and camp service at the front; and $3,500,000 for the library association.

Hawaii's share of all this is $170,000. Liberty Bonds will be accepted instead of cash in any amount.

It is understood that the sugar interest will probably tax this year's crop 12 1/2 cents per ton towards this fund, which will make up approximately half of the Islands' quota.

Foresters Attend Patriotic Service

Service at St. Anthony's Church, in Wailuku, last Sunday was well attended, the occasion being special High Mass in honor of the boys who have joined the flag. The members of the local order of Foresters attended in a body, about 150 being in line. Major Bal was master of ceremonies in the line of march.

The special church music was excellent, and Rev. Father Justin was assisted by Fathers Ambrose and Bruno. The Church was beautifully decorated, this feature having been in the hands of Brother Charles. An impressive sermon apropos to the occasion was delivered by Father Bruno, and many tender hearts could scarcely conceal their emotions.

After the service the members of the Foresters again marched to the school, led by A. H. Sylva, Chief Ranger of Court Valley Isle No. 9239, who carried the local order's service flag. The gathering was addressed by Sheriff Crowell, Major Bal and Brother Frank. The stirring speech made by the last mentioned struck a key-note, and in less than five minutes a nifty little sum was raised for the Red Cross. Bro. Frank counting approximately $75.00. The members gave three cheers for the Order of Foresters and dispersed resolved to have church service more frequently in the future.

Child Struck By Auto Is Very Badly Hurt

Fulmeno Eslanada, a 7-year-old Filipino boy, a resident of Puunene Camp 3, is in the Puunene hospital with a broken thigh, a concussion of the brain, and other injuries, sustained Fulmeno Eslanada, a 7-year-old Filipino being struck by an automobile driven by Gitehi Arakawa, a Japanese of Kahului, and driver of a rent service car.

The accident occurred about 11 o'clock last Sunday morning, when the child, who was fishing in the ditch with a number of companions, suddenly ran across the road directly in front of the machine.

Arakawa was arrested but was later released on his own recognizance pending the outcome of the child's injuries.

Duarte--Sylva

At the St. Ann Chapel, Wahee, last Sunday afternoon, occurred the marriage of Miss Adelaide Henriette Sylva to Mr. John Gomes Duarte, of Wailuku. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Justin, in the presence of some 40 invited guests. Miss M. R. Medeiros was bride's maid and Mr. August Enos acted as best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sylva, of Wahee, while the groom is foreman of the Weekly Times.

Joel Cox Tells Of Hills Of Bergundy

Former County Engineer Draws Delightful Pen Pictures District Of France Unravaged By War—Is Building Quarters For Sufferers

Joel B. Cox, former county engineer for Maui, who resigned his position a year ago to go to France to take up relief work in France, is writing some exceedingly interesting letters to his parents, Prof. and Mrs. I. M. Cox, of Honolulu, concerning his work and his surroundings. The following is from his diary and gives a fascinating glimpse of conditions in the Burgundy mountains, where the French are preparing to care for their unfortunates. It is in the construction of these hospitals or sanitariums that Mr. Cox is engaged.

Montceau-les-Mines, August, 1918. "Saturday, August 4, was a wonderfully perfect day, cool and clear. We are high here, over 200 meters, with much higher mountains around, and there are a good many rainy and cloudy days, but when we do have nice weather it is glorious. In the morning we walked down the canal, a most lovely walk under splendid trees and around broad green curves. There is a peculiar beauty and peacefulness about such French canals as this one, winding in and out with the valley contours, all cool, and green under its arching poplars, with neat little locks and lock tenders' houses, occasional picturesque bridges across it, and the unhurried canal boats. The boats are sometimes drawn by horses, sometimes by donkeys as big as small dogs, and sometimes by men. It is a funny but not an unusual sight to see a man and a donkey hauling together, hitched tandem.

"We expected Cross on Monday, but no one came. Dann arrived in his place the next morning, much to our delight, having been delayed by a railroad wreck on the line from Paris. He was newly married and quite beaming with happiness, and he told us that Trew's vacation in England was for the same purpose.

"M. Durand, chef des Industries du Department, met us at breakfast and we had a most satisfactory interview. He is most cordial and businesslike. Monday and Tuesday were spent on plans for the Cite de la Saule. I like the plan that he has made, with a five way etoile on the crest of the hill and curving roads over the steepest parts and a fine straight vista from the main road toward the etoile and beyond toward the high hill of Sanvigny.

"In the late afternoon we walked down the canal and met a French girl who had lived for four years in Wisconsin and Illinois. There was also a delightful little girl of 'donze ans' who told us all her history and that of her family and asked for ours in return. She had a great time with our ages and guessed that I was twenty-one!

"Wednesday was mostly spent at work with Dann on his plan, making a work of art to show the Prefet. In the afternoon just before dinner, which is at 7:30, we walked up around the Chateau des Plessis, which is a handsome reconstruction with magnificent estate.

"Thursday we went to Macon to see the Prefet. We left Montceau-les-Mines in a Peugeot. It was rated at only 10 horse-power but made remarkable time with the driver we had. He was a boy of 18 in the Class of 1920 and ready to report for his service with the colors in a month. He was a good driver, knew it, and enjoyed showing off. We made one kilometer in 54 seconds by my watch, and his best speed was generally made through a town (speed limit nominally 10 km par heure). The way he went after the poultry along the way was a caution. He rolled them over backwards, scraped the feathers off them, took a whack at the bill of a lame duck, and generally disturbed the peace of the community. The ride was one to remember. It was a grey day with swirling mists around the mountain tops, and the depths of the valleys were made all the more apparent thereby. All the first part of the way was a typical mountain road, steep and winding, up over the divide between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean drainage, and then down a narrow little valley to the wilder valley of the Guya. The country was thickly covered by a heavy growth of small forest, mostly hardwood, and the curves of the winding road gave splendid glimpses of mountain scenery, with steep slopes, wooded summits with cloud wreaths, and narrow twisting valleys. We passed the picturesque town of Gourdon, and clustered around its strange church with the great square tower, and on the very topmost point of a steep isolated hill. From St. Vrainy-su-Guya in the valley of the Guya we took a road different from the national highway that is the most common route, over the divide into the still wider valley of the Grosne. This took us through two of the quaintest old villages imaginable, with the main road just wide enough between the houses to get through, and crooked as anything could well be, having a different direction past each house. These villages are exactly as they have been for ages, with quaint dark stone-roofed houses, and old people to match.

"Up the valley of the Grosne we went through historic Cluny, with its enormous abbey, now a National school of Artes et Meliers. Then came an even more fascinating part of the ride, over the rocky, vineyard covered hills to Macon. It was not a country of predominating wildness in woods and mountains, like the earlier part of the way, though the mountains were still there, and rougher and rockier than ever, with great rock escarpments forming huge vertical cliffs in which some of the

German Teachers May Teach

A number of teachers in the public schools who are registered as German alien enemies are being allowed to continue their classes, according to Superintendent Kinney. All, however, have taken a pledge of loyalty to the United States, and are believed to be unquestionably in sympathy with the United States in the present war. Most of them, Mr. Kinney says, were children when they left Germany, or are German subjects through having married Germans.

Mr. Huber stated that under the law any citizen has authority to make arrests of liquor law offenders when such offense is committed in their presence.

RED CROSS NOTES

Washington has cabled an allotment of 15,000 property bags to be made by the Junior Red Cross auxiliaries of the territory, and shipped by October 15. Maui has been allotted 1000 of these bags. The material was cut out on Tuesday morning and the bags are now in the hands of school-keeping Junior certificates. This is the first definite order the Junior Red Cross has ever received from Washington and every effort is being made to have it ready in time.

Mrs. A. Lewis, Jr., of Honolulu, has just been appointed Supervisor of the Junior Auxiliaries of the Territory.

huts merged like those of Arizona cliff dwellers. But every inch of the soil between the rocks was cultivated, and the vines were covered with the grapes that make this one of the most celebrated wine regions of France. The towns were very old, but larger and more prosperous, and the country was dotted with magnificent chateaux on the commanding sites. One chateau especially is the finest I have yet seen, probably built about the 14th century and unmarred by renovation. Its great outer walls rise from the rocks of a promontory high above the valley, and its fine cluster of walls, roofs and towers seems to have grown out of the rugged hill and to be a part of it.

"We had a most pleasant audience with the Prefet, an energetic and important person about five feet high. He was most businesslike and cordial at the same time. The interview was most satisfactory, and all will go well in that quarter, I am sure.

"After seeing the Prefet we walked about Macon, a city with more of what is old untouched than any that I have yet seen. Whole streets of ancient houses are left, as quaint and picturesque as ever, and there are old churches that are a delight.

"When we got back to Montceau, Hobbs found a telegram calling him to a week's work at Nevers, and he and Dann left on the afternoon train, so that I have been alone since.

"I have been to tea at the home of M. Montagne, one of the engineers I first got acquainted with, and spent a most delightful evening with him and his family. They are refugees from near Lens, where he held an important mining position. His wife and a fine family of boys from 18 down make a most interesting and delightful family. They are Protestants and invite me to go to church with them.

AT THE THEATERS

Mary Pickford in "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley"

The story was written by Belle K. Maniates, scenarized by Frances Marion and produced under the direction of Marshall Nolan.

This is the most amusing picture that Mary has done. It is full of wholesome philosophy. One of the scenes of the picture is that showing Chinatown, of San Francisco. Mary has the title role and lives in the tenement home with her jolly, tender-hearted mother and her small brothers who are messengers and news boys. She obtains the job of scrub-girl, at a theater and her fiance, Terry McGowan, is the pride of the alley and the bartender at the Midway saloon. Terry is temperance, however. Gordon Phillips, a wealthy young man, while on a slumming expedition is injured in a brawl, and Amarilly takes him to her home and nurses his wounds. Terry becomes jealous. After Gordon's recovery Amarilly is given the job of caring for Gordon's studio and when her brothers are stricken with scarlet fever, she is given a permanent home with Mrs. Phillips. After the quarantine has been lifted, Amarilly's mother is received at the home of Mrs. Phillips, which visit results in humorous scenes and proves to Amarilly that the Alley gang can never mix with the upper crust.

Alice Joyce and Marc MacDermott in "A Woman Between Friends"

The tragedy in the lives of two young American artists in Paris, as told by Robert W. Chambers, the best known writer of modern fiction, and pictured by Vitagraph. Alice Joyce with Marc MacDermott in chief support, is featured in this latest work of Chambers.

In this picture, Marc MacDermott, condescended by critics to be one of the most talented character actors and leading men on the screen, is seen for the first time opposite Miss Joyce in the leading male role. Mr. MacDermott has been seen on the screen since the five-reel picture came into vogue as the feature of motion picture exhibitions. He was with the old Edison Company, and played leads with Mary Fuller when she starred in Edison pictures. He has been seen to advantage in many Vitagraph successes, and is admired by thousands of picture-going people for his fine work before the camera. Miss Joyce is known to the millions and needs no introduction. In this her late picture she presents the role of a flower girl drawn into a tragedy by her adoration of a wronged husband. The scenes are laid in Paris.

June Caprice in "Miss U. S. A."

In a red, white and blue story, full of patriotism and the spirit that, at present, prompts all Americans to think first of their country. June Caprice, the winsome, little Fox star, appears at the Orpheum theater next week. The production is as patriotic as its name suggests. Unlike any other role which Miss Caprice has interpreted before the camera, that of Capitola Black, does not offer the opportunity for Miss Caprice to appear in tattered clothes. Heretofore in nearly all her pictures, the little star has been seen in one or more scenes in the role of a poor, little girl, romping in the tenement districts in rags. In her latest production Miss Caprice is given the opportunity to interpret strong, emotional characteristics, and she does so with all the ability of the screen's most talented emotional actress. The scenes of the play are laid in Virginia, soon after the United States declared war on Germany.

"The Guilty Man"

In the broad sense, the motif of the "Guilty Man" has to do with the awakening conscience of a human soul—soul of a man who has done woman the greatest wrong that could be done to her. The hypothetical question contained in the story is this: If a woman, deserted by the man she trusted, brings a child into the environment of evil, squalid misery, is that child to blame if she is goaded to crime? The author's answer is found in the title of the production.

The first part of the picture was the ideal love affair of Marie Dubois and Claude Lescuyer, a promising young lawyer. Having been deserted by Claude, Marie marries Flambeau, a cafe proprietor, narrow-souled and cruelly indifferent to the finer instincts of his wife.

The turning point comes when he tries to marry the child, barely grown to womanhood, to a brute. It is then that Marie turns on her husband and Claude, the girl, to save her mother's life, fires the shot that killed her stepfather. At the trial, it is learned that the prosecuting attorney is no other than the girl's real father. How he comes to realize that he alone is responsible for this crime and how his better self gains the ascendancy, is shown in a thrilling manner in the "Guilty Man," which was directed by Irvin V. Willat, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince.—Adv't.

"Either the civilian must go short of many things to which he is accustomed in times of peace, or our armies must go short of munitions and other things indispensable to them"—Lord Kitchener.

Fair Retail Prices On Maui

September 11, 1918.

The Maui Fair Price Committee, appointed by the United States Food Administration, issues the following list of retail prices which are deemed to be reasonable to both consumer and dealer.

The difference in prices given are intended to allow for the difference in cost to merchants in different localities on account of freight, deliveries to customers, etc.

The list is based upon cost figures submitted by dealers in all parts of the county and is subject only to changes which may have occurred in wholesale prices since the above date.

SPECIAL NOTICE—The Fair Price Committee has had some few complaints that they have been charged higher prices than indicated in the Fair Price List. The Committee will be glad to have complaints of this kind with all particulars concerning the transaction. When possible a dealer's charge slip should be sent.

MAUI FAIR PRICE COMMITTEE, U. S. Food Administration, Wailuku.

---a car to be proud of, at a price you can readily pay

Chevrolet cars are built for men who want a car to be proud of without paying excessively for it.

They embody those features of refinement and the mechanical perfection which make the high-priced cars desirable.

The Chevrolet price makes it possible for you to realize ownership of a thoroughly high-class car that not only is within your means as to initial cost, but keeps within your means on upkeep.

Every Chevrolet is equipped with a valve-in-head motor. Every Chevrolet is built heavy enough to keep to the road, no matter how fast or hard the going, yet is light enough to be easy on tires. Every Chevrolet is fully equipped—electric starter and lighting system, one-man top, demountable rims, extra tire carrier, tilted windshield, speedometer, robe rail, foot rail—everything that comfort and convenience dictates—no "extras" to buy.

The Chevrolet itself proves all we say for it. Let us demonstrate a Chevrolet for you.

TO OUR READERS

As a poor measure the Federal government has greatly restricted the manufacture of printing papers. Newspapers have been called upon to reduce the quantity of paper heretofore consumed by 15 percent or more. To do this it has been necessary to either reduce the size of publications or to cut down circulation, or both. Many newspapers have raised their price for both subscription and advertising, and all are required by the federal trade board to cut off most of their free exchange circulation and other "dead-heads."

The MAUI NEWS is accordingly sailing very close to the wind these days. It is printing very few extra copies. If you expect to get extra copies you will do well to order them in advance. Also if our bills for subscriptions seem unduly insistent, please remember that the government has tabued free papers and bases our circulation on paid-up subscriptions. We have not yet considered advancing our rates and hope we shall not be obliged to, but we can make no promises in this connection.

AMERICANISM FOR REVENUE ONLY

There is mighty little likelihood that Hawaii will be permitted to bring in Chinese laborers even if there were no local opposition whatever to the plan. The Congress must first amend the Chinese exclusion law which has been in effect for nearly 40 years, and unless such can be done while the Pacific Coast, the labor unions of the nation, and the Japanese are not looking, it stands a poor show.

But there is a very appreciable opposition to the plan right here in the Islands, that will be manifest when the matter comes up in Washington.

The interests which dominated the Honolulu chamber of commerce to swing that body's influence in favor of the Chinese immigration, stand squarely on the ground that "business" is the only thing that counts. Oriental labor can deliver the goods as field laborers better than any other, is the postulate. Nothing else is required. It is the line of least resistance.

E. Faxon Bishop, speaking before the Honolulu Ad Club, and naturally for the sugar interests, after repeating the worn-out fallacy that "the white man is not constituted to labor under tropic suns", consigns the ideals of more than a quarter of a century to limbo by a clever reverse-english as follows. He says—

"For thirty years past, and particularly in the score of years since annexation, we have heard the exalted and laudable theories regarding the Americanizing of Hawaii by the establishment of the American farmer. These ideals we all subscribe to. It is born in us to stand for the principle, but show me where in these years we have made any substantial progress; show me where in Hawaii any agricultural project of any commercial magnitude has been successful without the use of the Oriental toiler."

Has Mr. Bishop proved his case? Is the Americanizing of Hawaii but a dream which it is time to recognize as such? Has Hawaii exhausted her resources to solve the labor problem? Are we, in any event, worse off for laborers than other parts of the country? And if not, are we less patriotic?

Hawaii has made notable progress toward digesting the formidable mass of human material into a first class American product, but she cannot stand another influx from the Far East for yet a while if she is to succeed fully. Hawaii's fate for the future may soon be again in the Congress' hands. Is our weight in the matter to be solely one of dollars and cents?

WATCH OUT FOR PEACE PROPAGANDA!

Evidence accumulates daily that the greatest of German peace drives has started. Cable reports of disaster and gloom that is overwhelming the people of the central powers may be true, and bring joy to the Allies, but they are painted just a little too blue to be convincing. Besides they reach us in waves of such concentration as to create instant suspicion.

The war is not over. It will not be finished this year. Many high authorities do not believe that next year will see the complete breaking down of Germany's strength. The Hun is whipped as far as ultimate outcome of the war goes, and the German high command now knows it. But the fighting will not be over for a long time yet unless the Allies are overcome by the new peace-gas attack and consent to an armistice.

Germany is keen for such a peace. Seeing how the cards are running she is more than anxious to mix the cards and call the game off before it is played out. Her hope now is to save as much as possible from the wreck, and she knows that the longer peace is delayed the less she will be able to claim.

The time of real danger for the future of the world is now near at hand, and the menace is not now on the battle fronts of Europe but behind the armies of every Entente nation. It is the poison of the Hun peace propagandist, of the domestic pacifist that must be fought by the civilians at home.

We dare not accept an incomplete victory and no victory will be complete until the enemy hoists the white flag and makes an unconditional surrender. There must be no letting down. Army building must be pushed at full speed. The Liberty Loan campaigns must gain more steam with every victory heralded.

The war is not over but it has reached the point where we may forsee the end and strengthen our arm for the final crushing blow.

THE SONS OF HERMANN—A DISGRACE

It must have come as a shock to most persons, as it did to us, to learn that the Germans in the territory have been able to keep up their propaganda organization, the "Sons of Hermann" running full blast all this time since the United States entered the war. The organization was in the limelight about a year ago, and the impression seems to have been general that "sons" had discretely disbanded as did practically all German organizations in the United States about that time. But they did not.

There has been a lot of noise made about the proposition to permit a few high school pupils to continue the study of the German language because of the college entrance credits they will lose otherwise; and a great too-do is kicked up because a few unfortunate women who have German antecedents, want to earn their living as teachers in the public schools. But all this time a Hun organization, whose own charter declaration is openly un-American, and whose officials have been under deep suspicion as individuals in the community, is permitted to exist up to the present time! The Honolulu vigilante corps ought to disband in shame and start all over again.

Sure, Germany has already lost the war—but the Allies haven't yet won it. Buy Liberty Bonds.

OUR BANKS SAFE UNLESS GERMANY WINS

Some months ago there was a real run on the Maui banks due undoubtedly to German propaganda among the more ignorant classes, particularly of the Portuguese race. The story was that the United States government was about to seize the deposits of all foreigners in local banks. The scare soon blew over, and most of the money withdrawn from the banks at the time has been redeposited. It is of interest to note that the same propaganda is now being spread over the mainland. The following has been sent out by the treasury department to counteract the canard:

"There seems to have been a very insidious propaganda carried on, obviously by secret agents of Germany, to the effect that savings banks deposits are to be confiscated. It is difficult to believe that any person in America would credit such a report for an instant. Secretary McAdoo says that the absurdity of these statements is manifest, but in order to allay the fears of a few who might be alarmed by such reports, he repeats officially that these rumors are wholly baseless.

"There is but one thing that will in the least put in danger of confiscation the savings of the American people, whether deposited in savings banks or other banks or invested in Liberty Bonds or any other investments, and that one thing is a German victory. It is not the American Government that our people should fear, but the German Government, and with the American soldiers fighting as they are in France and the American people supporting their Government as they are in America, the American people, their liberty, their rights, and their savings are safe.

"The United States instead of confiscating or endangering the savings and other property of its people is defending them and theirs with all the irresistible might of this invincible Republic."

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH OUR SCHOOLS

The organization of a parents' association in connection with the Maui high school is one of the best ideas that has developed on Maui in many a day. If it is properly diligent this organization will be of inestimable benefit to pupils, to the school authorities, and to parents alike. A tactful visiting committee whose members will drop in on the various classes at such frequent intervals that their presence will be taken as a matter of course, will do much towards stimulating a high standard of endeavor on the part of teachers and pupils alike.

The idea is one which might well be widely extended. If parents in every community could be induced to take a closer personal interest in their schools it would go far towards solving some of the educational problems of the present. If it did no more directly than to bring school teachers more closely in touch with community affairs outside of the school routine, it would be of tremendous value. Most teachers under present conditions lives in too much isolation from world activities around them. They should be leaders in the best sense in community life, but seldom are. Yet this might be brought about by a more general interest in their problems by the public at large. The Hamakua-poko experiment will be watched with deepest interest.

If you got your name on the Honor Roll by subscribing for a dinky $50 bond when you might have invested $500 without straining yourself very much, you are not in the same class of patriot as the apprentice boy who pledged his wages for the next 8 months in order to get one bond of the lowest denomination. The only redeeming feature is that you still have time to get to hating yourself so much that you will go out and buy enough more bonds to square yourself with your conscience.

The federal government will soon begin the collection of about $8,000,000,000 in taxes under the new revenue bill now being framed. This is about a sixth of the annual income of the United States. The taxes we pay today is today's part of the war cost. The Liberty Bonds that we buy is the part of the cost that the country agrees to pay in the future.

There is nothing so frightfully formidable about Maui's quota of $300,000 odd. It is really but $10 or less per head of population. If it were a properly gilded brick instead of the best investment in the world it would probably be quite feasible to find 200 or 300 men who would try to hog the whole issue.

The federal government is strongly recommending that buyers of Liberty Bonds take registered bonds rather than coupon bonds. The coupon bonds are negotiable and should they be stolen or lost are in great risk of not being recoverable. Registered bonds, however, are absolutely safe.

Because some sections of Maui got a bad start in the 4th Liberty Loan drive is no reason for believing that the Valley Isle will make a poor showing at the finish. Maui has the habit of going over the top in all she undertakes. The 4th Liberty Loan will be no exception.

"Heaven, hell, or home by Christmas!" is the latest slogan of our boys in France, according to a letter just received from the front by a Maui lady. It is one that ought to make the Hun feel sick in the stomach.

There are actually a good many people in Hawaii who are more interested in the war news than in the fact that John Wise et al. are running for the legislature.—Star-Bulletin.

Your neighbor is giving his life. How then can you refuse to lend your money in the same cause?

Why are some people so desperately afraid that the 4th Liberty Loan Honor Roll figures may be published?

The biggest strain comes in the last of the race. Buy more bonds!

Date of Bazaar Changed
To the Editor of Maui News:
Will you kindly permit me to call the attention of your readers to a change of date for the Bazaar of the Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd. The date settled upon by the Guild many months ago was October 12th. That is the closing day of the 4th Liberty Loan Drive. For patriotic reasons the officers of the Guild have changed the date of the Bazaar to Saturday, October 19th. They would like your readers to note the change of date.

Correct Lubrication for the Valve-in-Head Type Motor

The Valve-in-head-type engine illustrated here, like all internal combustion engines, requires an oil that holds its lubricating qualities at cylinder heat, burns clean in the combustion chambers and goes out with exhaust. Zerolene fills these requirements perfectly, because it is correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude

ZEROLENE
The Standard Oil for Motor Cars

It Keeps the Engine Young!

Experts agree in recommending ZEROLENE because it keeps the engine young,—full-powered, smooth-running, and economical in fuel and oil consumption.

The majority of motorists are now using ZEROLENE, because they have learned by experience that there is no better oil to be had.

Correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude, ZEROLENE gives perfect lubrication with less wear and less carbon deposit. Less wear because ZEROLENE keeps its lubricating body at cylinder heat. Less carbon because, being made from asphalt-base crude, it burns clean and goes out with exhaust.

ZEROLENE is the correct oil for all types of automobile engines. It is the correct oil for your automobile. Get our lubrication chart showing the correct consistency for your car.

4th LIBERTY LOAN

OUR DEAD

By R. W. C. Wallace Petty.

We know that they would come—those long casualty lists. It was a fact written on Friday, April 6, 1917, by the hand of the inevitable. When we voiced our protest as a nation against the ruthlessness of the Hun by hurling our regiments in olive drab at the war machine of the German general staff, we knew that the toll of our loyalty to a world's liberty would ultimately be paid in the crimson coin of national sacrifice. During these last days of exaltation, when victory has crowned the heroic efforts of our troops, there has been lurking in the background of our minds the sadder realization that soon we should know the cost,—soon we should have the account placed before us written in the scarlet letters of blood. And yet, in spite of the sorrow of it all, what a wonderful story it is! We know that those boys of ours would acquit themselves like men. We knew the fiber of their souls, the courage of their spirits, the determination of their hearts. And when our allies refer to the American "contempt for death," and the marvelous "audacious courage" of our forces, we are not surprised. We are simply humbly grateful that a land of freedom has produced a type of men who hold liberty above life and fear tyranny more than death. Posterity will know better than shall we what a boon came to the world when our armies marched against the cruel Hun. It takes time to shape perspectives. And tomorrow will write the epic of heroism that today is being enacted upon that gory stage on western front.

True, it is hard to realize that many of those boys who went away with serious smiles upon their faces will not return. In the very prime of their lives, before the sun of existence had slipped to the meridian of high noon, they dropped their tools and shouldered their muskets to hurry to the defense of the dearest heritages of our humanity. They did not bargain about the cost, they did not hesitate in the face of the price. God had called them; the world was in jeopardy; the Brotherhood of Man had been assaulted,—that was enough. They have gone to make the world a safe place for decent men and women to live in. They have gone,—that is the great fact.

And those who return not will live on in the institutions for which they gave their lives. They are not dead. They have simply "gone West." Heads erect, faces steadfast set toward the enemy of society, they marched fearlessly into the sunset, and on over the rim of the sunset into the Land of Eternal Sunrise. My brethren, the sprig of acacia is our comfort today. We know that just beyond the dugout and the barbed wire lies the House of Many Mansions. The field of Honor borders on the Fields of Asphodel.

Just around the corner from the Hell of War is the Heaven of Infinite Peace. They are not dead; for of such is the kingdom of Heaven. But there is a serious question that will not down in the mind of every honest man as he stands before the altars of the nation, red with the sacrificial blood of our boys. What am I doing to help in these times? Brothers, these men have died for us. They have given their lives for our freedom, made the supreme sacrifice for our liberty. Are we worthy dying for? Surely these are days when every true son of God ought to be searching his heart to see if its motives are pure and its aspirations lofty. Selfishness and self-indulgence are always sins; today they are crimes against God.

Shame on the man who whines about any little hardship that this war may have laid upon him! Shame on the man who is selfish of his dollars when the boys are so prodigal about their lives! Shame on the man who complains about giving and bearing his share in the maintenance of our troops! A thousand shames for the man who is yellow in his loyalty, who is hesitating in giving wholehearted, full-souled support to the prosecution of the war waged in the defense of human rights!

These casualty lists bring with them a demand for renewed consecration by us still at home. They call for new oaths of allegiance from the folk of the second-line defense. Over the green mounds that mark the resting places of our sacred dead we vow that we will never stop until the last wrong is righted and the last crime avenged. We will carry on,—carry on till over the world shall come a breaking dawn of a better, happier day; carry on till peace can be had with honor and till the criminal of the nations has been punished; carry on till those ideals and principles for which our boys have died shall be made safe for posterity, and dethroned tyranny shall be relegated forever to the scrapheap of time.

To do less is to prove false to every tradition of our American life; to desert every principle for which we as a nation have stood through all our history; to violate our obligations to God, shirk our responsibilities to humanity, and break faith with those silent heroes who today slumber in the long sleep somewhere in France. 'Oh! awful, sweetest life of mine, That man and God both serve in blood and tears. If on myself I dare to spend This sacred thing in pleasure, lapped and reared, What am I but a hideous idol smeared With human blood?'

—Masonic Standard.

As to food the Allies have no reason to fear the future, while the enemy dare not look into the coming winter without a shudder.

—Eat thou honey because it is good. Proverbs xxiv-13.

Our Island Contemporaries

McCandless As A Campaigner

In everything except politics one positive is worth a thousand negatives but in politics the rule works backwards. For instance, it was easy to tell that Hughes' campaign was a failure. The voters did not come to hear him and those that did come went away unmoved. On the contrary, Bryan in all his campaigns drew huge crowds, liberal with their applause, but when the votes were counted Bryan was not present. It was the same with Hearst, the last three times he ran, whether for Governor of New York State or Mayor of New York City. The people came to hear him, but they refused to vote for him.

The people are coming to hear McCandless, but will they vote for him? Nobody can tell. McCandless is a much more effective campaigner than Raymond. He mauls the King's English until the sympathetic auditor winces for the shrieking syntax; many of his arguments support analysis poorly; he wanders into irrelevancies such as the number of potatoes the staff of the Advertiser may have been supposed to eat in the course of a busy lifetime; but he "puts it over"; he makes his personality carry past the edge of the platform into the audience; he interests and amuses his hearers. For a man whose counterfeited presentment more resembles an angry mud-turtle than anything else in the animal kingdom, he contrives to wear a surprisingly amiable and engaging countenance in the flesh. And he is adroit and plausible. The slight of hand by which the Oahu bait read emerges from his bar of tricks as part of the campaign to make the world safe for democracy is really a little masterpiece of legerdemain.

On the mainland, the stump is merely an excuse for getting into print. For every voter who listens to a political speech a hundred read it, but in the Islands the composition of the electorate is such that the contact between the candidate and the voters is much more intimate. Such as it is, the Territory probably is the last surviving stronghold of political oratory. More voters listen to the candidate than read his speeches in the newspapers—or are able to read them. All of which still further complicates the calculation.

McCandless is running strong. Whether he will poll strong, the primaries will tell us.—Hilo Tribune.

Measured By Its People Honolulu will be no bigger than the men and women who make up the city.

If they are small in spirit, in vision, it will be small. If they are narrow in outlook, it will be confined in growth. If they are petty, it will be petty. If they are generous in temper, progressive in industry, broad-gauged in methods, it will be generous, progressive, broad-gauge.

The city inevitably reflects the people in it. On one of the American coasts today there is one city outstripping a competitor because the first city has a greater ability to get its leaders together, putting aside their private interests. The city which shakes off the fetters of narrowness in social relations, prejudice in politics, and selfishness in business, is bound to grow.—Star-Bulletin.

Commendable Record Hawaii's draft work has gone smoothly along without a suspicion of a scandal and with remarkably little friction. The draft boards have been of a caliber to command respect, and even their differences of opinion have been amicably and intelligently adjusted. In Porto Rico, by way of contrast, charges so grave as to amount to a scandal have been lodged against the selective draft officials because, it is alleged, well-to-do young men escaped military service. A report has been sent to Governor Yager.—Star-Bulletin.

Less Glass On The Roads Since the advent of prohibition there has been a most commendable falling off in the amount of broken glass scattered along the public highways to the undoing of auto tires and drivers' patience. Perhaps it was only a co-incidence, the broken bottles and the intoxicating drink which they contained, and perhaps it is also only a coincidence that the prohibition of the latter has entailed a falling off of the former, but it is a natural inference. At any rate the change is a welcome one whatever the cause.—Garden Island.

The Thing That Counts It is not so much a question whether there are or are not teachers in the public school who are officially listed as alien enemies. Many a person is an alien enemy through no fault of his or hers. It is a question, however, whether the teachers—enemy aliens or just plain fools—are now harboring or have harbored Pro-German sentiments. If they have they should be thrown out of public employment immediately. Our schools, of all places, are not where we want pro-German thinkers or piling prejudices. Today it is what a person thinks and says, not what his percentage happens to be.—P. C. Advertiser.

No extra allowances of sugar for the purpose of wine making, even for sacramental purposes will be permitted by the sugar division of the United States food administration for Indiana. Neither will individuals be privileged to buy extra amounts, as for canning, in order to make wine.

You can't eat your sugar and give it to the soldiers too.

KING versus DEMOCRACY

By Rev. J. Charles Villiers, Church of the Good Shepherd.

"And Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold I have hearkened unto your voice in all that ye said unto me, and have made a king over you."

These words are from a chapter in the Old Testament in which the story is told of the beginning of a new epoch in the national life of Israel. Up to that time, after their deliverance from Egyptian servitude, Israel had been not exactly a democracy, but a simple, self-governing nation, led by specially appointed rulers, who were known as "Judges". Of these judges, three were men of outstanding character and ability, Moses, Joshua, and Samuel, Moses was Israel's first leader, and it was he who started them well on the way toward a form of self-government. He was succeeded by Joshua, who gave them wise and serious instruction in the essential principles which they must uphold if they were to develop a national life worthy of their traditions as "God's chosen people".

Samuel was a worthy successor to these two great men; a man faithful of word, and works. When the die was cast, and their king chosen, he told Israel that not by such a choice would they avoid and escape the things which under the simpler form of government they had known, they had found irksome to them. God would still pursue them with the discipline of his loving kindness, and with the measuring-rod of his eternal justice. A nation, he said, becomes great not because it is ruled by a king, but because it is controlled by principles of righteousness. Therefore, if Israel's choice of a king resulted in their renunciation of responsibility to God, it would go ill with the nation, and the burden of its vanity would become unbearable.

It requires no great stretch of imagination for one to see in this transition and new epoch in the national life of Israel some lessons for today. The causes which led Israel to choose a king were various, but chief among these was the desire for power. Not only did they wish to be like the nations around them, they wanted, in truth, to be bigger and more important than other nations. To use a phrase which which in these days we are familiar, they wanted "a place in the sun". To form a correct notion of the kind of ruler they sought we must clear our minds of all ideas of what we now understand as "constitutional government", in which the king is restricted in his powers by the parliament of his people. Israel had not the faintest notion of such a ruler. A king to them was one whose sovereignty was absolute, whose authority, and whose word, was final law. Few are the nations so ruled today. But there still are a few nations whose monarchs enjoy a monopoly of rights, and who are considered by their people as above the law; accountable to no earthly power.

One of these imperial rulers said some time ago, "There is but one master in this country; I am he, and I will tolerate no other". It was the same imperial ruler who said to an American Ambassador: "I will stand no nonsense from America". He is fond of quoting, so we are told, the old Roman adage, making it read: "The will of the king is the highest law".

It is this conception of imperial sovereignty which has brought the civilized world to its present plight. It is often said that every modern war can be traced to commercial selfishness. That is not true, except as commercial selfishness is a factor in personal and imperial ambition. The present war is traceable to a lust for an expansion of territory and world power. Said a leader of German thought, in the early days of the war, in 1915: "Germany is now to become mentally, and morally, the first nation in the world". "Not to live and let live, but to live and direct the lives of others, that is power. To bring people under our rational influence in order to put their affairs on a better footing,—that is more refined power", said another leader of German thought,—one of the founders of the Pan-German League, Maximilian Harden, editor of "Die Zukunft", who wields a powerful pen, said, only the other day, that "the soul of modern Germany is dominated by the idea of bondage", and that the imperative word of its imperial ruler is, "Down on your knees!"

If the German people are willing to submit themselves to such humiliation, the rest of the world has no reason to resent it. But when the German Emperor seeks to bring the rest of the world to its knees before him, it is a different matter.

There are nations which have very different ideals, and rather than these ideals should be set at naught, and trodden underfoot by those who oppose them, they are ready to shed their blood, to preserve them. They have no wish to impose their ideals on nations unwilling to receive them. But they believe in human rights, and will fight for them that they be not lost. They have no confidence in the German philosophy which says that "war is beautiful", and "war is the noblest and highest expression of human activity", and they are not willing to exchange their God-given birth-right for a mess of pottage, nor are they willing to be made so many links in a chain held by the iron hand of autocratic power.

Permit me to quote from a letter which I received a few days ago from one who has spent nearly three years on the battle front. He is writing of the present need of man-power on the scene of action. He says: "I feel that no young fellow can, out of respect to himself and those that come after, afford to stand clear of this war. The thing is too stupendous; too all-important. Everything on earth depends on its outcome. Its right or wrong, God or the Devil, and we have got to decide which. There's no half-way; no compromise. The war is the only thing that matters now, everything else fades into insignificance, and no man can afford to pass by on the other side". He is right. America and her Allies are not only fighting for Democracy, they are fighting for Theocracy,—a government of the people, by the people, for the people, under the leadership of God. We sometimes say that Democracy is the will of the people. It is. But true Democracy is the will of the people moving in the direction of the will of God. Only as Democracy is alive to the voice of God can it escape political corruption. A Democracy without spiritual outlook, without moral ideals, without human sympathy and love, will meet with temptations which it will not overcome.

Now we cannot by the nature of circumstances, by reason of age, and so forth, all go forth to battle, but in some way or other, we can all have a part in various ways, in pushing the war to a successful issue for the cause of liberty and right. Most of us can buy Liberty Bonds, or War Stamps, even though we may have to make personal sacrifices to do so. Our national ideals are not militant. We of America, and our Allies, are not fighting because we are actuated by unholly pride; but because we dare not, and cannot be recreant to the principles of liberty, right, and justice. Because these are the principles for which we are fighting we can come to no terms with the enemy until the conflict is settled by the victory and triumph of the Allied Armies. There can be no compromise, therefore, we must all do our duty in every way we can.

When it comes to winning the war sugar is a less-essential. So less talk.

ARE YOU TROUBLED WITH ANTS?

THEN USE

TALBOT'S Exterminator

NON-POISONOUS

TALBOT'S ANT EXTERMINATOR is a standard article and there is no question as to its effectiveness. This can be proven beyond question by watching the results of operation, but no matter how good a remedy may be, lack of interest or carelessness in its application necessarily detracts from results; for this reason we emphasize that you follow directions on package and the destruction of the ant colony is guaranteed.
