H.C. & S. Co. To Rescue Lights Again Shine

Island Electric In Hands Of Receiver Pending Foreclosure Suit—Sugar Company Leases System While Receivership Lasts.

R. A. Wadsworth received a wireless message from the Hawaiian Electric Co., this morning advising him that a letter was following on the Manoa. However, up to press time this afternoon, the expected letter had not materialized. The communication undoubtedly has to do with the proposal of the Honolulu to enter the local electric field, and is therefore of general interest. The wireless gave no clue as to the nature of the letter.

The new 150 horsepower diesel engine and generator, so long promised for the Island Electric Co., arrived this morning on the Manoa. With the company in the hands of a receiver, and foreclosure proceedings under way it is uncertain what will be done with the new machine. The matter will probably be taken up in a day or two by the 2nd circuit court. The engine is consigned to the Island Electric Co., but comes with a big lot of charges against it. It is possible that no steps will be taken toward installing it until after the company is discharged by the court.

Wailuku and Kahului once more have lights. Moreover they are better lighted than they have been for years.

The current comes from the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., as was indicated in last week's Maui News would probably be the case during the existence of the receivership of the Island Electric Co. This will be for at least two months and possibly much longer depending upon how fast the foreclosure suit instituted on behalf of the bondholders can be worked through the courts.

The foreclosure suit was filed with the clerk of the supreme court Thursday of last week by the trustee, Wade Warren Thayer, and the papers in the case reached Maui last Saturday morning. Judge Burr in chambers at once took the matter up and appointed J. C. Blair, the manager of the Island Electric Co., as receiver to handle the property under the court, fixing his bond at $10,000. The formalities of the bond were quickly arranged and Mr. Blair began his duties as officer of the court.

Judge Burr also issued an order under which the receiver was authorized to purchase electric current from any available source in order to supply the customers of the Island Electric Co.

During the time the company's plant is incapacitated, and Mr. Blair at once opened negotiations to this end with the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co.

H. C. & S. Co., Leases Wires

The sugar corporation on Tuesday came back with a counter proposition to lease the distribution part of the Island Electric's equipment at a nominal rental of $75 per month, and this was agreed to by the court. The result is that the community is for the time being customers of the H. C. & S. Co. The rental of $75 per month is 6 percent per annum of a valuation of $15,000.

Current from the new source was turned into the lines between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night, but the system apparently was not equal to handling a full voltage load and a fuse blew out shortly afterwards. This was located and replaced about 11 o'clock and was followed by a similar blow-out. But things are working smoothly now and consumers are rejoicing in what is perhaps the best service they ever had.

Future In Doubt

While the emergency has been met as above outlined, it by no means solves the difficulties which the community has been up against; for with the discharge of the receiver when the foreclosure case ends the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co.'s services will presumably end. The Island Electric management may by that time have been able to get another engine on the ground, but it is doubtful whether or not it can be in much better shape than it is at present.

Of the foreclosure may result in the ownership of the plant being ac-

Rain This Week Worth Money To Plantations

The rain which fell generally on central Maui on Monday and Tuesday of this week came when most badly needed and has resulted in great benefit to all growing crops. While the volume of precipitation was not extraordinary in any section, it came without wind and was so evenly distributed over 24 hours that it did a maximum amount of good.

On the plantations it relieved the strain of pumping water and put the fields in good shape for several weeks. Out through the pineapple section where the dust has been bad for weeks and where the crops were beginning to show the effects of the drought, the rain was equally beneficial.

Little or no rain fell at Kihel or at other points on the leeward side of the island. It is understood that the rain put some water into the Kula pipe line which had been practically dry. However Kula, for the most part has been having frequent showers for some time past and except for the shortage of water for domestic purposes has not been seriously suffering.

Maj. Seabury Short Back From Siberia

Spent 2 Years In Red Cross Service In Far East Came Back By Way Of Europe—Out Of Service And Here To Stay

Maj. Seabury Short, who for the past two years has been in the service of the American Red Cross, most of the time in Siberia, returned home this week. He is out of the service and hopes to find a position on Maui within a short time. He was with the Wailuku Sugar Co., at the time he left for war work.

Mr. Seabury has had a varied and at times exciting experience. After leaving Honolulu where he worked for several months in the army posts, he was detailed to Vladivostok, and that place was his base for a long time, although he was in the interior of Siberia a great deal of the time helping to relieve the terrible distress due to the internal warfare between the Bolsheviks and other elements.

He did not come home via the Pacific but came back by way of Europe and the United States, thus making the trip entirely around the globe. He is looking well and says he enjoyed most of his experiences.

quired by other owners. This new owner might be the Hawaiian Electric Co., the proposed Maui Electric Co., for which some $70,000 of stock has been subscribed, or it may be some outsider not yet heard in connection with the project.

Nothing From Honolulu Co.

In this connection nothing definite has been heard from the Hawaiian Electric Co., which was supposed to make some kind of a definite proposal to the people of Maui nearly 2 weeks ago, but which has not done so yet. Also no meeting of the so-called Wadsworth committee has since been held, nor has a meeting of the subscribers of the Maui Electric Co., been called as yet.

It was understood at the last meeting held about 3 weeks ago, that the matter should be put up to the subscribers for definite decision as to what course should be pursued, and this probably still will be done.

Bond Did Not Come

Robert E. Bond, president of the Island Electric Co., whose name appeared upon the advance passenger list of the Manoa, did not arrive. It is scarcely expected that he will come down from the coast, although such is barely possible.

Burr May Be Disqualified

When the matter of the foreclosure comes up for adjudication it is probable that Judge Burr will consider himself disqualified, inasmuch as he is a patron of the Island Electric Co., and also, in keeping with the rest of the community must have pretty strong opinions concerning it. Should this be the case it will probably result in a judge from some other circuit being sent over to try the case.

Forest Fire Menaces Ditch Trail Section

Fierce Fight In Night To Save What Is Normally Wettest Part Of Maui—More Than 100 Acres Burned Over.

For perhaps the first time on record fire threatened a large part of the Koolau district forest reserve last week. As it was an area of between 100 and 200 acres was burned over. That the fire did not sweep to the top of the mountain, doing irreparable damage, is due to good fortune and to hours of desperate work by a gang of about 30 men of the East Maui Irrigation Co., under direction of W. P. Pogue.

Nothing could better demonstrate the character of the drought which had existed on east Maui than the fact that this wettest of Maui forest sections could be menaced by fire. The blaze started in the Nahiku section near the head of the ditch system, and on the lower side of the road, on Thursday afternoon of last week. It originated in a fire built by some workmen while clearing out brush for a fence.

The fire spread with great rapidity, being carried for 500 feet or more time after time by sparks. The moss in the ohia trees was so dry that every tree quickly became a gigantic torch as soon as a spark fell upon it. Mr. Pogue, who was called from his home at Kailua, made the 20 miles or more over the ditch trail on horse back in 2 1/2 hours, and took personal charge of the fight to prevent the blaze from spreading. He describes the fire as the most spectacular thing he ever saw after darkness fell. Every tree appeared to drip fire, according to his description of the burning moss falling from the boughs.

The fire leaped the ditch and apparently the whole mountain side was doomed, but with the dampness of night, aided by the work of the fire fighters, it finally went out. Much difficulty was experienced in preventing a resumption of the blaze the following days as the soil was so dry that the humus and roots burned under the surface, and efforts to smother the fire with earth were thus frustrated.

Most of the area burned over was on privately owned land below the ditch, but some 25 acres of government reserve above the ditch was also burned over. Mr. Pogue describes the fire fighting at night as most terribly difficult, owing to the denseness of the jungle, a statement readily believed by anyone who is familiar with that section of Maui.

A new almost instantaneous hose coupling is operated by pushing or pulling knurled sliding sleeves which join or separate bevel locking jaws.

Mystery Shrouds Visit Of Attorney-General

Attorney-General Harry Irwin was on Maui from Saturday morning until last Monday night on some investigation concerning which he declined to talk when seen at the Grand Hotel. The fact that it is understood that he will return to Maui next week, for which time the grand jury has been summoned, adds to the speculation as to just what is in the wind.

Various county officials, who might be expected to know, profess ignorance as to the head prosecutor's business here, declaring they were not taken into his confidences. But the impression still is strong that something is about to break.

SPECIAL TRANSPORT FOR TEACHERS JULY 5 IS PLAN

If plans of the department of public instruction materialize a special transport for teachers will leave Honolulu on July 5, and return toward the end of August. This is the announcement of Superintendent MacCaughy. Applications for passage, he said, would be considered in the order of the period of service of those who make them, those who have been in service longest getting first choice.

A new combination tool includes a vise, anvil, emery and buffing wheel, drill and pipe vise.

Maui Teachers Not Opposing Longer Day

Maui Principals' Club Upholds Plan Of Department For Half Hour Increase—Points Out Maui Request For Full Hour More 4 Years Ago

If there is any deep resentment on the part of the Maui school teachers against the proposed adding of half an hour to the public school day, they have kept it pretty well to themselves, according to Supervising Principal H. M. Wells. That there probably are some teachers who feel aggrieved, he admits, but they are certainly in the minority.

This matter of the lengthening of the teaching time was discussed at considerable length at the annual meeting of the Maui Principals' Club, held in Wailuku last Saturday morning. As a result of the discussion the secretary was instructed to address a letter to the superintendent of public instruction assuring him that the club not only approved the proposal of the board but calling his attention also to the fact that the principals of Maui, 4 years ago, asked to be allowed to add a full hour per day to the teaching time; for the reason that they believed better work could be accomplished. The request at the time had been disallowed.

Longer Control Advocated

In discussing the views of the Maui principals Mr. Wells stated that the modern view is that children should be under supervision a much greater portion of the time than at present, though this does not mean that they should be given any more book work or indoor exercises than at present. When the time for cutting out of the Japanese language schools arrives, he said, the public schools should be in position to take over the care of the children from early in the morning until late in the afternoon while the parents are at work. This all contemplated extended and supervised playground work, vocational training, etc.

But of course, Mr. Wells explained, such a program calls for more teachers, though it will also remove much of the objectionable strain on teachers and pupils alike because the teaching period may then be spread over a longer period.

Getting Ready For Fair

A committee was appointed to take up the matter of getting the necessary space assigned for the school exhibit at the county fair next fall. It was the opinion of the principals that the schools will make a showing next fall that will far exceed any previous efforts.

The meeting being the annual one the election of officers for the coming year was held resulting as follows: E. A. Brown, president; Miss Lida Crickard, vice-president; H. A. Wade, secretary-treasurer.

Say Maui Cannery Are Seeking Labor In Hilo

Endeavors are being made to have a large number of boys and girls again visit Maui during the long vacation this year and take up work at the pineapple canneries at Haiku as they did last season. That the youngsters can earn good money and, incidentally, have a very enjoyable time at Haiku, is the report of those who watched the experiment of last year.

That quite a number of boys and girls will be induced to proceed to Maui and take up positions with the canning company for the vacation term is assured, say those who are studying the matter. — Hilo Post-Herald.

PREFERENCE RIGHTS DON'T APPLY HERE

Governor Charles J. McCarthy has received advices from the department of the interior to the effect that resolution No. 29, approved by the President last February, providing that discharged soldiers, sailors and marines have the preference right of homestead entry, does not apply to Hawaii.

Both the transmitter and receiver of a telephone invented by a Frenchman can be hidden in a flower vase, table ornament or other inconspicuous object.

Pineapple Canneries Prepare For Big Pack

Within another week the new pineapple cannery of the Baldwin Packers, at Lahaina, will be practically completed and ready to handle the coming crop. This is well ahead of the season and insures that there will be no loss from inability to take care of the fruit which is expected to begin coming in to or three weeks.

The new Pauwela Pineapple Co.'s cannery building at Kulaha, in the Haiku district, is now entirely under roof, the boilers and engine in place, and the concrete floor is being laid. Work is being rushed with all speed and it is hoped to have sufficient machinery installed to handle a considerable part of the crop soon to be ripening unless this occurs earlier than normal.

The Haiku Fruit & Packing Co.'s rebuilt plant is still not fully completed, but is sufficiently so that the management feels confident of being able to take care of all the fruit that will be offered. It is now operating a part of its plant several days a week taking care of the scattering fruit which is coming in.

American Legion Is Planning Big Fourth

Three Days' Celebration In Honolulu Promises To Be Biggest In History Of Islands—Spectacular Show To Raise Budget Fund

HONOLULU, May 31—Honolulu is looking forward to the biggest community Independence Day celebration she has enjoyed in many years. Under the auspices of the American Legion, the combined military forces on Oahu are planning to stage a spectacular three-day program beginning Saturday afternoon, July 3 and continuing until Monday evening, July 5. Monday of course will be the real holiday this year since July Fourth falls on Sunday.

The thousand cadets from Annapolis Naval Academy are to arrive at Honolulu on Saturday, July 3, and the Saturday evening celebration at Kaplani park will have these attractions: Yokes as its stellar attraction. Plays are under way for a base ball game between the "Middies" and a picked team of men from the army forces on Oahu.

The Saturday afternoon program will also include a polo game, probably between the five All-Hawaiian players and the 17th Cavalry five. It is expected that Tom Driscoll and a number of well known mainland players will participate in the polo series this summer and that they may be on hand July 3rd.

The Sunday program, to which no admission will be charged will consist of a huge patriotic celebration at the grandstand in the park. It will be military in flavor but include, besides the reading of the Declaration of Independence, singing by a mixed choir of four hundred voices. The national salute of forty-eight guns will be fired at noon.

Mondays big program will begin at 9:45 a. m. It includes mounted wrestling, guidon race, dismounted tug-of-war, polo pony race, drill by Kamehameha mounted drill by 17th Cavalry and wall scaling contests.

The afternoon program will consist of Cossack race, 100-yard dash, tug-of-war, Roman race, machine gun contest and a thrilling series of bombing raids, bombing formations, attack on observation balloon, aerial acrobatics and similar stunts by men of the aerial force from Luke Field.

Not least of the day's attractions will be the hot quick luncheons dished out by army cooks from rolling field kitchens. These will be served to the public during noon on Monday at about cost. The army chefs guarantee that no matter how many thousand people demand food, all will be served, and within a few minutes' time. They say that when forced to it, they can serve customers at the rate of thirty a minute to each wagon.

Life Saving Corps For Maui Is Formed

Chief Aim To Boost Aquatic Sports—Will Work For Public Bathing Beaches—Plans Formulated At Dinner Gathering.

At a dinner held at the Grand Hotel on Saturday evening, the Maui Life Saving Corps was organized, to be conducted under the auspices of the First Aid Department of the American National Red Cross. Officers elected at the meeting were the following: W. A. Robbins, president; H. S. Bush, vice-president; C. S. Childs, secretary-treasurer; F. A. Lufkin, captain; Carl L. Bowker, instructor. Mates: Alfred Rego; Sevath Boyum, John E. Walker, E. Butler Smith, Joseph Sousa, Rev. Wm. Tate, Gerald M. Phelps, H. W. Rice.

The name by which the new organization will be known is "The Maui Life Saving Corps," the headquarters of which are to be in Wailuku. It is intended that the corps do all in its power to boost swimming and all other aquatic sports. One of the plans discussed at the meeting was the carrying on of an active campaign for the establishment of public bathing places at Kahului and Lahaina. With this end in view the cooperation of other organizations is to be sought. School children are also to be given swimming lessons, if this can be arranged, in order that the necessity for public bathing facilities will be made more apparent to the parents and to the general public.

Active Work Planned

Every other month full corps drills are to be held at Lahaina and Punone, and during the alternate months sectional drills will be held by the Punone and Lahaina sections of the corps, these meetings to be called by the president.

Those who have already passed the tests are as follows: Men's senior tests—John Walker, H. S. Bush, H. W. Rice, Sevath Boyum, W. A. Robbins, C. S. Childs, Alfred Rego, F. A. Lufkin, Gerald M. Phelps, E. Butler Smith, Joseph Sousa, Rev. Wm. Tate. Nils Tavares has passed the tests but has not yet finished the written work. Boys' junior tests—Walter Walker, Eddie Dickens, James Nicoll. Women's senior tests—Lucy Lee Robinson, Mrs. E. F. Deinet, Frances Gardner, Janet R. Todd, Grace Walsh, Helen Walls. Thelma Boyum, Bernice Carl, Olive Patterson, Dorothy Johnson. Girls' junior tests—Frances Baldwin.

Woman's Auxiliary Soon

The next step in the direction of life saving organization will be the formation of a ladies' auxiliary corps. A great many women are anxious to get into this corps, and enough have already passed the tests to make it a very successful organization.

Those present at the dinner were: W. A. Robbins, H. S. Bush, C. S. Childs, F. A. Lufkin, Carl L. Bowker, H. Rice, Alfred Rego, Sevath Boyum, John E. Walker, Joseph Sousa, Rev. Wm. Tate and Gerald Phelps.

HONOLULU BROKER DIES OF BURNS

William Simpson, connected with the Bishop Trust Company as a broker, died at the Queen's Hospital at 10:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning. While attempting to turn out a gasoline lamp on May 22 at the country home of Arthur Rice, Kailua, Oahu Simpson, was fatally burned. For 10 days he lingered between life and death at the Queen's Hospital before death came.

Simpson was born in Keith, Scotland, in 1881, being survived by two sisters and a brother who reside in the homeland. He came to the Islands in 1904.

| Palas   | 3              | 1  | 2  | .333 |

The feature of last Sunday's ball games at the Wailuku park was the contest put up by the Asahis and the Wailuku Athletics in the latter part of the afternoon. The score was 5 to 4 in favor of the Wacs, but the winning run was not scored until the last half of the last inning. Added to this that the Japanese scored 3 of their 4 runs in the first half of the 9th, thus putting them one run ahead, and the possibilities for an exciting climax are apparent. And the excitement was there a-plenty.

In the first game of the afternoon the Lahainas went down to defeat before the Palas with a score against them of 7 to 1. But the game was a good one for all that. The Lahaina bunch put up their usual brand of good ball, but the Palas were playing right up to the scratch, and in an almost errorless game won out. The real turning of the game lay with the pitchers. Foster Robinson being in his old time form and allowing the west Mauitites but 3 hits, while the Palas in their turn took 14 from the Lahaina's twirler. From the standpoint of the fans the game was first class.

'Foresters' Show Is Big Hit Of Season

A crowded house witnessed the singing performance of the Foresters' minstrel show at the Kahului theater Wednesday night, and judging from the paroxysms of mirth throughout the evening the show made one of the biggest hits of the year. The performance is being given for the purpose of helping out the building fund of the lodge, it being the intention, as previously announced in this paper, to erect a handsome new home in Kahului on a site already secured.

Joaquin Garcia was interlocutor of the good old fashioned type, and made a hit; as did also Sheriff Clem Crowell, Charles Rose and Dr. Maples, who did "heavy" stuff to the great delight of the crowd.

The Do Rego sisters, who have gained quite a reputation recently with their clever stage dancing and singing scored another success.

Others members in the cast who handled their parts well are—Frank Crockett, John E. Garcia, John M. Medeiros, Manuel S. Deponite, Wm. Mangles, Carrie Freitas, A. Alohika, A. A. Reis, and Father Almeida.

Trail And Mountain Excursion Big Success

The Honolulu Trail & Mountain Club's excursion to the top of Haleakala, last Saturday, was a success in every way, and the big crowd returned home by the Mauna Kea from Lahaina on Monday night tired but enthusiastic over their experiences. There were in all 62 in the party, including several Maui folk.

Except for the fact that some of the members got scattered from the main party in the fog on the way down and caused some uneasiness until they finally turned up, there was not an untoward incident reported.

The party arrived by the Claudine on Saturday morning after a very smooth trip from Honolulu, as a result of which they were in fine spirits. After driving by automobiles to the Grand Hotel where they were provided with provisions for the trip, they started for Olinda in machines. About noon they set out for the summit, some mounted on horses and some on foot. They reached the top about 5 o'clock and witnessed a particularly splendid sunset. The following day some of the members went down into the crater. A few returned to Wailuku but the majority spent the second night on the mountain and started down about 8 o'clock Monday morning.

The weather, which has been threatening, continued fair for the party until they neared Wailuku where they ran into rain.

No small part of the success of the undertaking was due to the efforts of the chamber of commerce committee consisting of W. O. Aiken, F. B. Cameron and W. A. Baldwin, which had had the rest house cleaned out, the bedding aired, and some two dozen additional mattresses sent up. Although the crowd taxed the capacity of the rest house, everybody appeared to have suffered no serious inconveniences, and so far as could be learned there were no complaints made about any part of the trip or the arrangements.

MAUI TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From Maui News, June 2, 1900.)

The Dora Blum has one of the new boilers for Spreckelsville new mill on her deck. It weighs about 25 tons.

Native fishermen caught a huge shark in their net last Tuesday morning. The monster is said to have been longer than their canoe but it was safely landed and was later on cut up and the fish was sold to Japanese.

A grand concert will be given by the Wailuku Public schools on Thursday, June 7, commencing at 7:30 p. m. This promises to be one of the best entertainments that Wailuku has had for many years. Miss Nape the special music teacher has spared no pains to have the several classes thoroughly drilled on choice selections including solos, concert singing and tableaux to say nothing of Ten Little Sunflowers, and the Broom Brigade.

The foundations are laid and the framework is erected for a business block owned and erected by Hon. A. N. Kepolikal on his lot at the corner of Main and Market Streets. The building will have a frontage of 80 feet on Market street and 32 feet on Main street. The corner will be occupied by Lovejoy and Company as a wholesale liquor house. Mori, a former prominent Japanese merchant of Kahului will occupy the opposite end of the building as a store. The Maui Labor Bureau will also have offices in the building. Mr. Ikuwa, a Hawaiian has the contract for the construction of the building.

On last Saturday night, Judge and Mrs. W. A. McKay entertained quite a number of guests at a enchre party. The beautiful grounds and the lanses were lit up with Chinese lanterns producing a real fairy land appearance. After the games were concluded and the prize distributed, the guests were treated to an elegant supper.

Sheriff Baldwin and Judge J. W. Kalya have been examining the Iao Valley roads with the view, if practicable, of extending a branch road from Market street on the Waihee side up to connect with the present road running up the valley. The two roads will meet just above the first crossing.

MAUI FORESTERS TO INVADE HONOLULU IN FORCE

Maui is to be represented by a very large delegation at the Foresters' Merry May demonstration next week, which begins next Wednesday and continues until the following Saturday night. The big show is to be staged at Aala park and the Honolulu Foresters declare that it is being prepared on a scale to put the recent Shriners' Happyland in the shade. The Maui crowd will go down on Monday night and also on Wednesday, for the last two days of the show.

HONOLULU RACES POSTPONED

A wireless message from George Cooke, received by Dr. Fitzgerald on Wednesday, advised that the big June racing meet of the Hawaii Polo & Racing Club, which was to have opened tomorrow in Honolulu, had been postponed for a week, owing to the labor shortage which had prevented the grandstand and other fixtures at the Kapiolani track from being finished in time. Instead of June 5 and 11 the events will be held on June 11 and 19.

Scouts Start Drive For Funds Tomorrow

Need $2000 For Camp Equipment And Other Expense—Brief Summary Of What Scouting Means And Why You Should Help.

(Contributed)
The Maui Boy Scouts will start their drive for funds tomorrow June 5th, and continue for six days, or until June 10. The object of the drive is to raise a central fund of $2,000 with which to buy camping equipment, to carry a stock of uniforms, and to pay the other general expenses of carrying on the scout movement. Every man, and a good many women on Maui, will be asked to contribute something to this fund if the plans of the Maui council are carried out.

The county of Maui is to be districted for purposes of solicitation, and members of the council, scoutmasters, assistants, and boy scouts will each have a district to look after.

The Boy Scouts of America has for its aim to be of assistance to the parents of all boys in helping to train the boys to be manly, courteous, helpful and skilful. It is a movement that parents welcome because it supplements their own training for the boy in a way in which they often cannot reach him. The boys take to scouting like a duck to water because it shows them how to get the most fun out of life and yet not get into trouble.

The things that scouts are to do, as laid down in the Scouts' Handbook, appeal to every mother and father. The first injunction to scouts is "Be Prepared." Most parents' time is occupied in getting their boys to be prepared for the great adventures that they are to meet when they are thrown on their own responsibility. "Be Prepared" underlies the whole boy scout program. Does he go to school? The Scout code teaches him to be ready and know his lessons. Does he go to work? He should be prepared to do that work the best it can be done if he wants to be a good scout. And so it goes through everything.

Boy scouts are also taught to be of value to the community in which they live. Every scout must subscribe to the scout oath as follows:

- On my honor I will do my best—
1. To do my duty to God and my country, and obey the scout law;
  2. To help other people at all times;
  3. To keep myself physically strong mentally awake, and morally straight.
- The Maui council has planned to have ten soliciting districts on the Island, in charge of certain people as follows:
- Haiku, L. Hebert; Hamakua, F. A. MacCaughy; Paia, John McLaren; Makawao, John McLaren; Keahua, Foster Robinson; Puunene, C. C. Campbell; Kahului, Wm. Engle; Wailuku, Sheriff Crowell; Waihee, Ed. Soper; Lahaina, B. O. Wist; Honolulu, D. T. Fleming.

Boy scouts and others will solicit under these district leaders. Solicitors will be known by an arm band with the words, "Boy Scout Solicitor" on it.

Aiken Quits As Sub-Agent Land Office

Will Step Out July 1 Because He Can't Afford To Give His Whole Time To A Part-Time Job—Held Place Nearly Quarter of Century.

Worth O. Aiken, sub-agent of public lands for Maui, has sent in his resignation to Land Commissioner Charles T. Bailey, to become effective at the end of the present fiscal year, June 30. Coincident with his dropping the land agent job Mr. Aiken will again join the Bank of Maui as cashier of the Paia branch, a position which he held until about a year ago. Mr. Aiken has been in the service of the Islands government for about 28 years, during 24 years of which he has been sub-land agent.

The real reason that Mr. Aiken is quitting his job, he tells the land commissioner, is that he cannot longer afford to hold it under present conditions. The last legislature raised the salary to $200 per month, but stipulated that the sub-agents must devote their entire time to the job and might not hold any other position. After trying it a year under this restriction Aiken feels that he doesn't want it any longer. He indicates that he feels that the legislature tinkered with the law with the deliberate purpose of forcing him out and making a place for some political hanger-on; a procedure well calculated to show the small appreciation of politicians for long and faithful service.

Mr. Aiken's 28 years of public service has been under the Hawaiian monarchy, the Provisional government, the Republic, and finally the territory.

Corpus Christi To Be Big Celebration Next Sunday

The celebration of the Corpus Christi feast, which is to be held next Sunday at St. Anthony's church, promises to be of more than usual interest and impressiveness. The ceremonies will begin with low Mass at 6, 7, and 8:30 o'clock. There will be a High Mass at 10 o'clock.

Following the High Mass a procession of the Blessed Sacrament will start. It will be accompanied by the Puunene band under the direction of Father Francis. After the procession a fair and luau will be held, the proceeds of which are for the fund being raised for new altars in the church.

At the 7 o'clock services the sermon is to be in English and be conducted by Rev. Father Stephen, of Honolulu. At 8:30 o'clock Father Phillip, of Lahaina will officiate and the sermon will also be in English. The High Mass at 10 o'clock will be celebrated by Father James, of Makawao, who will preach in Portuguese.

Congressmen Abandon—Criticism of the proposed trip of Congressmen to Hawaii and Manila aboard a transport has caused more than 100 to withdraw their acceptances, according to a cable from the Washington correspondent of the Star-Bulletin to his paper. ## GEORGE IS A POOR LEADER

One hears complaint, here on Maui, about the high cost of fish and the arrogance of the fish dealers. There are also kicks about charges for other products. Instances are related of obviously unwarranted prices being demanded; and everybody knows that it is difficult to get even the commonest garden vegetables and such as are occasionally to be had are of inferior quality and excessively priced.

Yet talk and growling is all it amounts to. Everyone agrees that something ought to be done, but when it comes to getting it done it's a case of let George do it.

In Honolulu the women have been instrumental, through concerted action, in getting a free public market started. Already this institution is credited with having reduced the price of fish from 4 to 5 cents per pound and made available much produce that was not before to be had. A lot of producers who had had no outlet on account of the close combination of the Japanese and Chinese stall keepers, have been enabled to sell their products at a satisfactory profit to themselves and at the same time at lower cost to the consumer.

There are stories current of the fish dealers' hui here on Maui refusing to buy catches of fish from native fishermen when there was a chance of the market's being overstocked and the price reduced. There are always the tales of the ridiculously low price which independent fishermen have been compelled to accept for their fish from the combination, and in which the public never shares.

Central Maui could undoubtedly put an end to these extortions. But it will need some action on the part of someone with more pep than George. It will require a real concerted effort on the part of the people interested; and it will need a measure of purely public spirited work on the part of one or more persons in getting something started.

District Attorney Huber has told Maui people that the county supervisors are in a position to curb the fish profiteers. But the supervisors are not likely to get busy unless the matter is brought to their attention in some very direct and forceful way. There is every reason to believe that they then would be of a lot of assistance.

But the point is that until the situation becomes so bad that people are practically forced to pull together, nothing is likely to be done—except to pass the buck up to George.

THE THREATENED "GAS" SHORTAGE

Unless predictions of those best in a position to know are altogether wrong, Hawaii motorists are not only going to pay 50 cents a gallon for gasoline before the summer is over but will have a hard time to buy the product at any price. The supply has been short for months past, and with the opening of the auto tourist season on the mainland it is said there will be no where near enough to go around.

Maui has pointed the way out of this difficulty through the making of motor alcohol from waste molasses as has been in successful operation for nearly two years on the Maui Agricultural Co.'s plantation. It is said that the actual cost of such product is not much over half of the present price of gasoline, and that it furnishes more power and mileage per gallon.

The only trouble is that we have not enough of it. The danger we face is that the gasoline will play out before the plantations, or some one else, is in position to supply the substitute.

If the teachers of Hawaii are wise they will certainly squelch the noisy ones among them who are opposing the department's plan to lengthen the school day by half an hour. The teachers want more pay and they ought to have it; but they must not forget that a lot of sir folk like legislators and tax payers never have been able to see the man or woman who works 190 days per year and 4 or 5 hours per day should receive as much as if he worked 300 or 315 days per year and from 8 to 10 hours per day. The more enlightened part of the public is beginning to appreciate that the best teachers that money can buy are the cheapest; but the spread of this idea is not helped by a vociferous carping that teachers are being overworked.

Robert W. Babson, a statistician of national fame, in a recent published article said:

"The general impression is that there is only one solution of our financial problems, and that is a financial crash which will cause prices to tumble. People are not buying what they should buy; are not making what they should make, and are not purchasing things that will increase the permanent wealth of the nation. I am bullish on bonds. Bonds are the only thing I am bullish on. If a good many men would liquidate their businesses; put the money in real, good bonds and then spend two, three, or five years playing golf, they would have more money at the end of five years."

Liberty Bonds are a good buy now.

The Waiakea homesteaders, at Hilo, are up in arms because the Waiakea Mill Co., which entered into a contract to do the hanahana part of their homesteading, is said to be neglecting the cane. The Governor will probably be appealed to. Things have certainly come to a pretty pass when a poor homesteader not only has to live for several years upon his land but must be harassed all the time for fear a greedy corporation will not look after his interests properly. There are a lot of hardships about homesteading that, the average person doesn't know anything about.

The prices charged for okolehao suggest that A. Mitch Palmer ought to get after the bootleggers for profiteering—Advertiser.

And that's no bunk. Considering the practical no reference on the part of the police and the extremely moderate license fees in the name of fines when an arrest is occasionally made, the price asked for booze is simply outrageous. The moonshiners are getting worse than the fish mongers.

San Francisco doesn't seem to swallow the steamship combine's boost of passenger rates with the same complacency our Chamber of commerce showed as it gulped them down and tried to smile. They are people up there who aren't afraid to say what they think. Also some people who think.—Advertiser.

Modern educators are looking askance at the summer vacations and Saturday holidays. They say a child gains nothing by doing nothing and may lose much through lack of proper guidance. And yet some teachers in Hawaii are crying to heaven against teaching for 5 hours a day.

Every teacher (who isn't too old) who feels the way about their jobs that a lot of them seem to feel, ought to quit just as soon as they can ease into another place. It would be mutually beneficial. And there never was a better time to find that new job than right now.

Query.—How can a merchant cut prices from 20 to 25 percent if he has only been taking a legitimate profit before?

One member of the board of dental examiners handed the Governor his resignation about two weeks ago and a week later the other two members followed suit. All of which smells like a good story, but the Honolulu newspapermen perhaps have bad colds.

Governor McCarthy has backed up the school department in its decision to lengthen the school day by half an hour. The Governor's decisions are generally sound and this one is no exception.

The Honolulu chamber of commerce's steam roller, which was more or less disabled for a number of years, seems to be in splendid working order once more.

THE STORY OF AN ORGAN

Editor Maui News, Dear Sir:

Over thirty years ago a pipe organ was shipped from New York to Maui. It was installed in the church at Makawao and was from the beginning the pride of the island. Folks came from all parts of the island to hear its deep tones and its melodious music. Organists came from Honolulu to play it.

Thirty years is a long time in these days. Finer, larger and more modern pipe organs are now common in the islands. But a good pipe organ, like a good violin, grows sweeter and richer in tone with the passing of the years. Through long years this one has poured forth its volume of music to lift the voices of the congregation heavenward. It can still sound the praise of the Lord in a worthy manner.

This veteran gave way to the fine new organ in the new church at Makawao and was, by the generosity of certain ones who loved it, installed in the little church at Kahului. Here it is a big asset to the service of worship.

Now, the old organ deserves attention from the people of the community. True, it is old-fashioned. It is still operated by bellows pumped by a small boy, but was all very well in the old days—before the days of electricity. But such treatment is hard on any organ. Even the water motor once used at Makawao must have sorely racked its constitution.

It is due to this venerable servant of the Lord that it be relieved from the jars and knocks and bumps incident to being pumped in the old way. Give it a modern source of air, an electric blower, that it may, without inward agony, give forth the full power and unalloyed sweetness of its music. Let its years of service be prolonged far into the future with the peace and the comforts that old age merits and that modern methods can bestow.

This organ will be the center of a musical program in the Kahului Union Church next Sunday evening. All the people of the community are invited to enjoy the music and to do their part toward making the organ up to date.

Yours truly,
A FRIEND OF THE ORGAN.

THE NEED OF EXPRESSION IN SCHOOL WORK

By H. M. Wells, Supervising Principal for Maui.

The following paper was read at the meeting of the Maui Principals' Club, held last Saturday in Wailuku.

The Great Teacher said, "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." But it is not the mouth alone that speaks out of the full heart; the same is true of other media of expression. It is true of the hand that writes, that paints, that carves, that makes; it is true, also of the facial muscles that soften in pity or harden in wrath; of the whole body, even, that speaks a language that words cannot compass; of all these it is true that out of the abundance of the heart, they speak.

Expression is the outward manifestation of an inner fire. It is the flaming forth of a thought, tinged with emotion. Without emotion, without the desire to give something, without the will to do something, there can be no expression. The task of the teacher, then, is to kindle the emotion, which shall flame forth into the child's own expression, not to furnish ready made expression for the child to copy, to imitate, to memorize, and then to discharge.

Original expression has an effect upon the child's mind that is educative, creative, productive. He who puts forth his best effort, he who reaches toward his highest ideal, in his attempt at making, whether he be creating an immortal poem, or whether he be simply making a table in the shop, or growing fine vegetables in his garden, if it is the expression of his highest ideal along those lines, he has, in its creation, created himself. He has added something to the upbuilding of his character. On the other hand, all copying, all conscious imitation of another's work, unless it be recognized as necessary for the sake of technique, tends to divert to camp, to stultify the mind.

There is a form of imitation that we all indulge in. Of none of our thoughts can we say that it is entirely original. Of none of our efforts can we claim that it is altogether our creation. We are all, in a sense, plagiarists. From some source, at some time, all that we imagine to be original, came to us from our environment. This sort of copying, however, since it is unconscious imitation, has all the creative force of expression.

There is a world of difference between the conscious, labored modulation of voice drilled into class for show, and the unconscious imitation by that same class of the voice and gesture of a beloved teacher. It is the direct copying, the conscious imitation that dwarfs the mind, that degrades the soul.

Complaint is made that our young people cannot speak correct English. Can it be that the fault lies in our methods of teaching? Is it not because we give them so little practice in real expression? We keep them so busy copying and memorizing and parroting our thought, that their own thought never reaches the surface. They rarely speak from the heart except in their mother tongue. They have little practice in thinking English thoughts. Whenever they do chance to express themselves in English, it is through the medium of their own language. They think in a foreign language and then translate into broken English. Most of their so-called "expression" is the result of a struggle to remember formal sentences that they have copied and memorized. It is not their thought, at all. But the thought of another that they are parroting. We are on the wrong track, if we think by such means to arrive at a goal of perfect English, no matter how we hedge the way with drills on Grammar, formal English and lists of incorrect forms.

In some way we must rouse an interest in our pupils that shall give the full heart then we must give free rein to expression, encouraging with sympathy every attempt to exercise their feeble powers of speech.

One drawback with Oriental pupils is their extreme reticence. They are so fearful of ridicule and correction that, in order to "save their face," they either say nothing or else hide their poor English behind an inaudible murmur. How to bring them "out of their shell" is a problem.

Certain it is that by the memory route we are getting nowhere with the Oriental. We not only fail to give them a command of English but by fostering an already overworked Oriental trait, we fail to train them in the direction of independence and alertness of thought and action, that characterizes the typical American.

But we shall get nowhere by riding rough shod over the sensitive natures of our pupils. Only by kindly sympathy can we expect to gain their confidence and get them to express themselves freely. The rosebud uned page by their own efforts, as well as power over the mechanics of reading they should be placed more on their own initiative. Less time need now elapse between the first telling of a story by the teacher and the reproduction by the pupils. Less time, also need elapse between the first telling of a story and its expressive reading by some pupils of the class. The teacher now substitutes little by little the reading of matter to be subsequently read by the class, in place of the telling of stories, for the simple reason that how the class will need to read some matter that is not of such dramatic interest. Not all the subject matter of readers consists of stories.

The general principle still holds, however, that some time should elapse between the reading or telling by the teacher, and the reading or telling by the class. These should never be direct copying or imitation except where necessary for the sake of technique. You will never get soul by imitation, and we must remember that all expression comes from the full heart, that is, from the soul.

Pupils should now be encouraged to read stories outside of class and tell them or read them to the class for their entertainment. One school has inaugurated a story telling contest. The one who finds the best story and tells it the most dramatically, visits another class along with his fellows, and tells his story for the entertainment of all. In this same school, children from the lower grades go back and forth to one another's rooms and tell their stories. Every effort is thus put forth to induce dramatic work in story telling. Work of this kind should be confined to pupils of nearly the same grade, as older pupils do not appreciate the efforts of the younger ones, and vice versa. A similar plan might be adopted for the encouragement of dramatic reading. When expressive reading is appreciated by the school as a whole, our battle for expression will be half won.

Expression As Related to Story Work

Maui teachers have been working for a year on a form of story work in primary grades that is "different." The following are some of the principal features of the story hour:

1. The teacher gets into intimate touch with her class by gathering them about her in a group. She then stands or sits directly in front of them, where there can be a mutual watching of facial expression.

2. The teacher centers her attention on telling the story in a dramatic way. She does not, at the same time, draw or do anything else but tell stories.

3. The teacher tells at least one complete story each day. There is no mutilation of an artist's work, the story is never divided into "scenes."

4. The teacher repeats some stories day after day. She repeats oftentimes the pupils' favorite stories.

5. No reproduction or expression is required the first time a story is told, nor is any desirable. The pupils must get a story "by heart," which means that they must learn to love the story as well as to get its thought before any expression should be allowed.

6. Their first expression play (not work) may be with chalk, pencil, or scissors, or it may be by dramatization. Whatever its form, it should be, so far as possible, the pupils' expression, not a copy of the teacher's expression. (By "copy," here, I mean direct copy. Of course they will imitate the teacher's voice, modulation, drawing and other expression of the thought of the story, but it should be an unconscious imitation, not a direct copying.)

7. All oral reproduction must be voluntary. There must be no urging, no pumping, no drudgery about it. There will need to be little or no prompting on questioning. Experience shows that pupils will tell quite long stories without a break. Of course there will be some errors in English, but the habit of free expression is worth far more at this age than perfect English, at the expense of spontaneity.

8. There should be no writing of selected sentences on the blackboard, no copying of sentences, no heading, at this time. The time thus saved enables the teacher to cover many more stories than the course of study requires. When pupils have sufficiently mastered the art of heading, through phonics and word drill, they should read from a book, some of their old friends of the story hour.

Expression As Related to Heading

This suggests a profitable correlation of story work with reading. We should have, in these grades, several sets of supplementary readers, and the stories from these should be treated, as above, some weeks before the story is read. These stories should be not in choppy sentences, but the real classics. They should be presented as stories, not in the exact words of the book, but so as to preserve the real spirit of the story.

In this way we may hope to preserve for the child a real joy in reading while developing, with good speed, his ability to read. We should also be able to develop real expression in reading, in place of the sleepy word calling of today. Word calling and reading should be entirely divorced from each other, just as much as arithmetic is separated from hygiene. No pupil should be allowed to stand up and read before his fellows till he has thoroughly mastered both the thought and the mechanics of the lesson. Thought, in the primary grades will be mastered through a proper handling of the story work, as shown above, and the mechanics will be taught through systematic phonics combined with word story. If the lesson must be gone over in class in order to make sure of all the words, let it be by heading the lesson backwards, that no bad habits of word calling be formed, instead of expression in reading.

As pupils advance in grade, different methods should be adopted. No method can be made to fit all grades. Gradually as the pupils acquire the power to get thought from the printed page by their own efforts, as well as power over the mechanics of reading they should be placed more on their own initiative. Less time need now elapse between the first telling of a story by the teacher and the reproduction by the pupils. Less time, also need elapse between the first telling of a story and its expressive reading by some pupils of the class. The teacher now substitutes little by little the reading of matter to be subsequently read by the class, in place of the telling of stories, for the simple reason that how the class will need to read some matter that is not of such dramatic interest. Not all the subject matter of readers consists of stories.

The general principle still holds, however, that some time should elapse between the reading or telling by the teacher, and the reading or telling by the class. These should never be direct copying or imitation except where necessary for the sake of technique. You will never get soul by imitation, and we must remember that all expression comes from the full heart, that is, from the soul.

Teachers' Summer School To Be Most Interesting

HONOLULU, May 24—Perhaps not in as an exciting setting as that at Kilauea last year, the Territorial Summer School session of 1920, to be held in the McKinley high school from July 7 to August 18, inclusive, will have a greater breadth of educational interest than that of 1919, according to the outline of lectures, classes and special conferences which has been sent out by the department of public instruction in the form of an illustrated pamphlet.

Although all the regular classes such as those at Kilauea last year will be included and extended, the summer school in Honolulu this year will have many interesting diversions from a formal program by reasons of the plans which have been perfected for industrial education trips through plants and establishments in the commercial life of Oahu. It has been arranged to have teachers taken in classes through sugar mills, canneries, iron works, dairies, newspaper offices, banks, wholesale establishments and the like, under the guidance of trained officials in each branch of industry.

All Adults Welcome

The summer school will be open to all teachers in the public schools and to all other qualified persons over 18 years of age. There will be no fees or charges of any kind except for necessary text books, note books etc. Each person attending the session must make personal arrangements for board and lodging as there will be no dormitory or meal service in connection with the school.

As announced in the pamphlet, there will be three ideals dominant in the summer school program.

They are professional improvement through high-grade educational courses, lectures, conferences, debates and discussion; Inspiration through addresses and meetings and social contact with fellow workers, and Recreation through games, playground exercises, field trips, concerts and good times generally.

The sessions each day will be as follows:

8:00—8:30 General assembly, singing and special features.

8:30—9:15 Classes.

9:15—10:00 Classes.

10:00—10:15 Recess.

10:15—11:00 Classes.

11:00—11:45 Classes.

11:45—1:30 Noon Period.

1:30—3:00 Afternoon classes (to be scheduled as necessary. It is planned to have most of the class work in the morning, leaving the afternoon open for physical exercises, playground, drill, shopwork, primary handwork, excursions, and other special features.)

The Faculty

THEATERS

Dorothy Dalton gives new evidence of her right to be named among the most talented emotional actresses of the screen in "Black Is White." The picture is from George Barr McCutcheon's novel.

Miss Dalton is Margaret Brood, retiring, modest, wife of Jim Brood, whose jealousy of her love for even their son finally influences her to leave him. Taking up her residence with Theresa, her invalid sister, Margaret takes advantage of a situation at the latter's death and becomes the gay butterfly adopted daughter of a French count. Here her husband meets her, but does not see in her his former wife. He falls in love with her and she marries him again in order to be near the son. After some difficulties happiness comes to them.

Dorothy Dalton will be the central figure of "Ten of Diamonds" when she is the dance hall girl, joyous, reckless, yet with a sense of moral equity. One night, while she is telling her fortune over the cards in a dim corner of the basement cafe, a man of the upper world enters. He makes her a peculiar proposition during the course of the evening. As a result, she is transplanted from the field, reeking atmosphere of the "joint" to a luxurious home on Fifth avenue, where she is carefully fashioned into a "lady."

The play is a high colored, dramatic creation with Miss Dalton at her best. The cast includes among the principals Jack Livingston, J. Barney Sherry and Dorcas Matthews. The story is by Albert Cowles.

"The Great Northwest"

A former member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police is the author of Triangle's picture, "The Law of the Great Northwest." He is Ralph Westfall, recently added to the Triangle, scenario staff.

There are thrilling incidents in this picture. And they are all taken from personal experiences of Mr. Westfall while he was enforcing law and order in the Alberta country.

The picture shows a reproduction of a trading post such as maintained throughout the Canadian forests. This set was erected at a cost of several thousands of dollars on the property recently added to the original Triangle tract at Culver City. It consists of a big log building which represents the company store, where valuable furs were exchanged for the necessities of life, several log cabins, the homes of the factor and his aides and a unique little church, also built of logs, fir trees and shrubbery.—Adv.

DRY LAW FIGHT IS ON IN HONOLULU

Honolulu is the scene of the latest attack on the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution providing for nationwide prohibition. Yasuo Sasaki was accused of violating the terms of the act and when brought into the U. S. District Court his attorney filed a demurrer attacking the constitutionality of the law. Today Judge Poindexter took the demurrer under advisement. In the demurrer Sasaki's attorneys contend that the National Prohibition Enforcement Act was designed to become effective contemporaneously with the 18th amendment of the Constitution, but declare that the latter has never gone into effect for the following reasons: "The amendment was never proposed by two-thirds of both houses of Congress nor ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states or by convention of three-fourths thereof, as provided in the Constitution. Because the amendment is unconstitutional since it is an exercise of police powers and not subject of constitutional enactment."

INVITATION TO JAPAN APPROVED IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, May 29—Suggestions made by Frank A. Vanderlip, the New York banker, when here a few days ago en route to the mainland from Japan that Hawaii invite leading Japanese business men and financiers to Hawaii for a conference were given hearty endorsement today by Governor McCarthy and President Abe Lewis, of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Vanderlip urged that such a conference be held in the hope of smoothing out the misunderstandings among the Japanese who are in the Territory. President Lewis announced that he would appoint a committee to prepare a comprehensive plan of advertising the islands along the general boosting lines which have been talked over at meetings of the Chamber of Commerce. The plan, he announced, would include the ports of Hilo and Kahului, and would embody general information of the entire Territory.

Miss Dorothy Brook, of New Zealand who visited her aunt, Mrs. W. Leslie West, in Wailuku several years ago, is expected to again visit Maui shortly, according to information received by friends. She will probably accompany Louis von Tempisky and daughter on their return from their trip to New Zealand.
