MOTHER LOVE SUPREME

Mrs. McCandless Fights For Son

A mother's love for her son, her determination to fight against his imprisonment, and statements by both parents that they believe the boy has not been fairly treated by the police, have resulted in a legal move that promises to reopen the George McCandless case.

Young McCandless was sentenced to four years in jail last Saturday morning. He was arrested late Friday afternoon after a spectacular career in which joy-rides and bad checks figured, according to the police, with equal prominence.

Within a few hours after his sentence, the mother had begun her fight for an investigation of the boy's sanity, and as published in the Star-Bulletin last Saturday, she took the ground that an inquiry should be made into his mental condition. Publication in this paper of statements made by the police regarding the youth was followed by action on the part of the parents.

This morning both the father and the mother declared to the Star-Bulletin that they believe their son was "railroaded" to jail; that he had no opportunity to engage legal counsel, that the police did not ascertain that he is a minor, and that he was sentenced to a jail term even while the parents were trying to start an inquiry into his mental condition.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. McCandless of 1563 Nuuanu street, today engaged Attorney Leon M. Straus as counsel and Straus filed a complaint in the circuit court asking that a hearing be had on the mental competence of the young man.

That the stand taken by the parents is entirely unwarranted is the attitude of the police, and Chief of Detectives McDuffie denies flatly that there is any suspicion of "railroading" connected with the arrest, trial and sentence of the youth. The statements made by the parents and the police are at absolute variance in many important details and both sides back up their statements with allegations that contradict at essential points.

The parents say that from his previous knowledge of the boy's actions, Chief McDuffie must have known that he was not of sound mind. In addition to the declarations of the parents that the youth is not mentally responsible for his misdeeds, and that he was not given a fair trial but was whisked through court before the parents could act in his behalf, they state that George McCandless is only eighteen years of age, and that therefore his commitment to the prison is against the law.

Mr. McCandless said this morning that the first they heard of their son's arrest was about 7 o'clock Friday evening. At that time McDuffie, he said, rang up Mrs. McCandless and informed her that he "had her son." He did not tell her that the lad's trial was set for the next morning, and she presumed, as a matter of course, that the hearing would be put off until she had ample time to engage an attorney for her boy. However, Mr. McCandless says they lost no time in getting busy. He rose early the next morning, he says, and before breakfast went to the home of Dr. N. B. Emerson, police surgeon, where he made an appointment with the latter to meet him at the police station at 9 o'clock that morning to examine the boy on the question of his mental competency.

The father says that he arrived at the appointed place in good time, but that Dr. Emerson was about a half hour late. When they proceeded to the jail, Mr. McCandless says he was met by his boy who broke out with: "They have sentenced me to four years, father."

"That is the most unjust thing I

NO FIGHT ON COMMISSION IS FORESEEN

Chairman Mott-Smith of New Public Utilities Body Says He Doesn't Expect Attack

CORPORATIONS ARE NOW FILING RETURNS

Question of Jurisdiction Up in Certain Cases, but General Validity Accepted

That the public service corporations of the territory will not question the validity of the public utilities act passed by the last legislature, and that on the contrary they will show good faith in working with the new commission, is the belief reached since September 1 by Chairman E. A. Mott-Smith.

The first days of September have been crucial for the commission, and the commissioners. Sometime ago the chairman sent out letters to all the corporations that might fall within the meaning of "public utility" asking them for a statement of their business. Upon this statement is to be based the public utility fee, one-fortieth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the stock and bonds issued by such public utility and outstanding on December 31 of the preceding year.

If the public service corporations are to oppose the work of the commission, it is in the returns to these letters that the first signs of a fight are looked for. Hence the anxiety with which the commissioners have been looking for answers to the letters, replies being due on September 1.

This morning Chairman Mott-Smith said that there has been no sign of opposition, and that several of the corporation returns are already in, among them such important public service corporations as the Oahu Railway and the Mutual Telephone company.

"The corporations with whom the commission must deal are showing every intention of acting in entire good faith," said the chairman this morning. "They are making the statements I asked for and we shall, upon fixing the size of the fee under the provisions of law, mail them a bill for their payment.

"There are several questions yet to be settled, of course. Certain corporations do not believe that they are acting as public utility corporations in this territory under the meaning of out act. It will require some investigation into their business to determine this, but they are quite willing for the investigation to be made.

"Where corporations are convinced they should not pay this fee, that they are not affected by the act, they will naturally contest in case we insist on the fee being paid. However, this contest will not hinge primarily upon the validity of the law, but upon the interpretation of the law in determining its scope.

"I believe that the law is going to be accepted as valid and that no contest will be raised on these grounds. The public utility corporations will cooperate with us, I am satisfied."

There has been considerable gossip lately to the effect that an attack would be made on the general validity of the act. This will not be known until later. Many corporations have not yet indicated their course, and the optimism of Chairman Mott-Smith is based on the evidences of cooperation so far shown.

HARBOR BOARD STRONG IN BELIEF OF ITS SECURITY

TERRITORIAL ORGANIZATION TAKES ISSUE WITH CLAIM THAT WAR DEPARTMENT MAY TAKE OVER THE QUEEN STREET WHARF WHILE FEDERAL OFFICIALS HOLD AN ENTIRELY OPPOSITE VIEW

With the application for a new five-year lease already on its way to Washington for the approval of the secretary of war, the territory is in no danger of losing that section of the Queen street bulkhead known as the Emmes wharf site and owned by the federal government, according to statements made this morning by Superintendent of Public Works Caldwell, members of the board of harbor commissions, and Frank C. Poor, clerk of the board.

These statements were made in the discussion of an article published this morning to the effect that the army is in possession of and is the owner of the larger end of the new Queen street wharf, covering an area of 30,000 square feet and with water approaches on two sides. It was further stated that up until August 18, 1913, the strip of land in question was held by the territory under lease from the United States government, but on the date in question the lease expired and the land reverted to the war department with all improvements. The harbor commission and the superintendent of public works are blamed for having built a wharf at the expense of the territory upon a military reservation, saying that these two offices either knew nothing of the five-year lease from the federal government, or ignored the fact that the lease was soon to expire.

Facts Known Long Ago.

The original lease for that section of land known as the Emmes wharf site was obtained by the territory from the United States government in 1903, it being granted by the secretary of war under an act by congress, approved July 28, 1892, which authorized him to lease public property in certain cases, the lessees to improve the property. In compliance with the terms of the lease, the territory was to pay the government a rental of $12 a year, and under the act, the land was not to be leased for more than five years at any one time. In 1908 the territory renewed the lease for another five years, and when that ran out last month, another was drafted. This last lease was submitted to the governor a week ago, according to a statement made by Superintendent of Public Works Caldwell this morning, and without doubt is on its way to Washington at this time. That the board of harbor commissioners was aware of the expiration of the lease may be plainly seen from the fact that the new lease was drawn up in the office of the board by Clerk Frank C. Poor, who was authorized by the board to do the work.

The lease was then submitted to the governor who, in turn, is supposed to have sent it on to Washington.

In addition to the lease, the following letter, signed by J. W. Caldwell chairman of the board of harbor commissioners and superintendent of public works, was submitted to the secretary of war through the office of the depot quartermaster at Honolulu, August 23:

"We beg very respectfully to apply for renewal of lease on the United States military reservation, known as the 'Emmes Wharf Site,' which prior lease expired on the 18th inst. Permanent improvements in accordance with the terms of the prior lease are now practically completed and only await final acceptance by the territory from the contractors. Since the control of landings and wharves of the territory will be under the jurisdiction of the board of harbor commissioners, we would respectfully request that in renewal of this lease, the board of harbor commissioners be substituted in place of the department of public works, as the party of the second part. We enclose herewith copies of two prior leases, and the proposed renewal, which if satisfactory to you we would thank you to have executed and return."

That part of the new lease, relating to the land and its uses by the army, is as follows:

"And it is further covenanted and agreed that the vested rights of the United States are in no way vitiated or interfered with by the concessions herein given; that during this lease such parts of the wharf's sheds or storehouses as are erected upon lands included in said reservation shall be available for use, free of charge, by the quartermaster's department, when required for any military purpose, the commanding officer of the Hawaiian department to be the judge of the necessity for such use; that sub-lease of said property, or of the privileges herein granted, is to be made by said lessees—all permissions from the lessees to use the same to be from month to month and terminable at will of said lessees; and that the construction herein permitted shall be subject to the supervision and approval of the quartermaster, United States Army, in local charge.

"And it is further agreed that upon relinquishment, expiration or revocation of this lease the party of the second part—the territory—shall remove all property, except said permanent improvements, which it may

RELEASED, REARRESTED

Fugitive from Matteawan Freed on Habeas Corpus Writ, New York State Winning Fight--Now Before Immigration Officials and May Be Deported as Undesirable

[Associated Press Cable]

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Sept. 3.—A victory for New York state and a serious defeat for Thaw and his attorneys was the outcome of the hearing yesterday on the application for a writ of habeas corpus and the decision today.

The writ was sustained after argument before Judge Globensky and Thaw loses his fight for delay. He was freed and immediately taken into custody by the immigration authorities. After his arrest he was conveyed to Coaticooke for an immediate hearing before the immigration officials, being charged as an undesirable alien.

Judge Globensky was much agitated during the final stage of the hearing on the habeas corpus writ, and in giving his decision. He held that Thaw was illegally confined, and that Police Chief Boudreau, who applied for the writ of habeas corpus on the ground that there was a question as to the legality of the arrest and detention, had a right to demand Thaw's release.

Harry Thaw himself appeared as if stunned when the writ was sustained. His counsel, who have been confident that they would win in getting a long series of delays before Thaw was released, were stunned.

Naval Board Would Build Great Drydock At Pensacola

[Associated Press Cable]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—The naval board today made public a recommendation that the Pensacola, Florida, naval station be reopened, and that a gigantic drydock be constructed, capable of taking the warships on the Caribbean for repairs.

The board says that this is the only first-class site available, that the move is desirable for a time of peace and such a drydock would be absolutely necessary in case of war.

Underwood Confident Tariff Differences Will Smooth Out

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—Chairman Oscar W. Scores On Drew Caminetti

[Associated Press Cable]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 3.—The government today rested its case in the trial of F. Drew Caminetti, son of the state Democratic leader, on the charge of white slavery similar to that upon which Maury I. Diggs has already been convicted.

One of the features today was an admission drawn from young Caminetti that he had told the district attorney immediately after his arrest that he had promised to marry Lola Morris, the girl he took from Sacramento to Reno. He testified, however, that he made this statement in an effort to shield the girl.

WEAVER MAKES REPORT ON THE WATER CASE

The legal opinion of P. L. Weaver first deputy city and county attorney, on the right of the superintendent of public works to charge the city and county for the water used by it, was given out this morning. After pointing out many errors apparently made by the superintendent incident to rendering the municipal officials a water bill, such as giving them notice and properly signing the bills, Mr. Weaver concludes his opinion with the statement that the suprintendent is within his rights under the statute in seeking to collect for the water. Though he finds fault with the statute and the manner in which the superintendent had proceeded under it, he ends his opinion by quoting Shakespeare by incorporating Portia's decision, "The law allows it, and the court awards it."

In criticising Act 138, which delegates to the superintendent of public works the right to control the water system, make all charges, etc., pending the transfer, Mr. Weaver uses the following language:

"Apart from the merits of the question put to me, I am inclined to criticise Act 138, which places the sovereigns, that is, the United States of America, the territory of Hawaii, and the city and county of Honolulu, a municipality of considerable dignity, in the same class as a private citizen operating a soda water stand, so far as a water privilege is concerned. Certainly units are of a sufficient dignity to be given a different classification, even if one forgets the varying and important public needs for water, which could not be felt by a public citizen."

This report has been handed to the roads committee and will be used in settling the matter with the superintendent of the water rates.

SUPERVISORS' ACTION MEETS WITH DISFAVOR

Declaring that the Beretania playground is absolutely essential to the welfare of the children who reside in its neighborhood because of its central location, Spencer Bowen, headworker of the Beretania Settlement and one of Honolulu's strongest advocates of playgrounds, this morning voiced his protest against the report made last night by the roads committee of the board of supervisors, which was to the effect that Aala Park be turned into a playground to take the place of the one now located at Smith and Beretania streets.

The report of the roads committee, made to the supervisors last night and adopted, is as follows:

"Your committee on roads, bridges, parks and public improvements to which was referred communication 371, relative to the playground at Smith and Beretania streets, begs to report that it has given this matter due consideration and fails to see any way that this board may relieve the situation other than purchasing the property. The property at the present time is leased by the Bishop Estate to the Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Association for a monetary consideration. The association has gone to considerable expense purchasing and installing fixtures, etc., for the amusement of the children, and if it is necessary that the grounds should be taken over for other purposes your committee would recommend that the association be allowed the use of a section of Aala Park. The committee is heartily in sympathy with the work carried on by the association and would very much like to see the continuance of same, but if it will become necessary for the city and county to finance same, or to assist financially, we would recommend that this matter be referred to the ways and means committee for information as to funds."

That Aala Park, the selection of the roads committee as a playground to take the place of the one at Beretania and Smith streets, would be entirely inadequate for use as a place of recreation for the children in the neighborhood of the Beretania Settlement, is the grounds upon which Mr. Bowen has based his protest. He brings out

MANY CLASS 'A' MEN IN 2D INFANTRY

The classification of the enlisted men of the 2nd Infantry according to the plan of General Funston, is about completed, and it is found that the regiment has a high percentage of Class A men, who will be entitled to the special privileges going with this rating. Nearly 60 per cent of the entire enlisted strength is Class A.

Yesterday Colonel French called the company commanders together, for a final report on classification, and gave them his interpretation of the order recently issued. In regard to Class B men, Colonel French believes that the intent of the order is to keep these men out of Honolulu, rather than to keep them strictly within the limits of the post, and Class B men of the Second Foot will therefore have the run of Moanalua and adjacent points This is good news to the B men, who feared that they would have to stay strictly inside the gates, and the result is a general good feeling throughout the regiment.

KEALOHA IS LOSER ON 3 BIG POINTS

Although the supreme court denied Attorney C. H. McBride's plea in abatement in the Kealoha impeachment proceedings yesterday afternoon, the preliminary fight, to prevent the hearing of the impeachment, is not yet ended and will be renewed September 20, when the attorney general and McBride will present oral arguments on a demurrer.

The supreme court yesterday held against Kealoha's counsel on the three important points of his contention, but informed him that one of these could not properly come in the form of a plea of abatement. As a result, McBride is to bring forward the third point on a demurrer, which he has promised to file on or before September 16, and on this the argument will be made September 20.

The supreme court, in an oral decision, expressed the opinion that the three petitions presented by the attorney general are identical in form and therefore may be regarded as one, and that, as such they contain beyond dispute the required number of signatures, even though three of the signers may have asked to have their names withdrawn.

McBride's second point, that the signers had no personal knowledge of the facts set forth in the petition, is overruled.

His third main point is that the petitions have not been sworn to. The court rules that these are not matters for a plea in abatement and not to be passed upon in the present instance. The attorney general's demurrer to the plea was sustained.

Attorney McBride, who was present when the oral decision was given, immediately noted an exception to the ruling and gave notice that he will file a demurrer on or before September 16, asking that it be set for hearing September 20. His request was granted.

The principal question, it is understood, to be argued at that time will be whether the signers must take oath when attaching their names to the petition calling for impeachment. This means that the case is to be delayed several weeks longer and that the actual impeachment hearing will not be reached before the latter part of the month at the earliest.

LIGHTFOOT MATTER IS DISCUSSED

Members of the special committee of the bar association, appointed some weeks ago to investigate the charge made against Jos. Lightfoot by Claudius McBride met at the offices of City and County Attorney J. W. Cathcart this morning. The members of the committee are Senator Albert F. Judd, A. D. Larnach and J. W. Cathcart, the latter being chairman.

For an hour the members of the committee were in conference. What decision, if any, was reached could not be learned. It was stated by one member of the committee that he did not believe a report would be handed in to the bar association for several days at least. He added that it was probable that a large amount of work was ahead of the committee.

Sentor Judd has just recently returned from a month's sojourn on Hawaii, and Mr. Larnach has been on Maui. Mr. Cathcart has expressed his wish to leave for a fortnight's vacation within a few days, and in view of these facts, it is not considered likely that a report will be made by the committee at once.

Before the meeting Senator Judd stated that as he had been away for a month he did not know the exact status of the committee's work. Mr. Cathcart or Mr. Larnach did not wish to discuss the progress of the investigation.

RAILROAD MAN LOSES LIMB IN ACCIDENT ON LINE

Ben Aylet, employed as a brakeman on the Oahu Railroad, met with an accident at about 2 o'clock this afternoon, that will result in the amputation of his left leg a short distance below the knee.

Aylet was riding into the yards on a freight train and was jarred off the top of a freight car, falling underneath the train in such a position that the wheels passed over his leg. The injured man was rushed to Queen's hospital immediately, where every effort was made to save the injured limb.

POLICE THINK ESCAPE HAS NO CHANCE

If Chun Duck Soon, the Korean convict, carries out his oft-repeated threat to first get even wtih certain territorial and municipal officials and then make good his escape to another island or leave the territory, he will have to accomplish almost a miracle, according to the police authorities.

A net has been spread for the apprehension of the fugitive. All steamers in the Inter-Island service are watched at the time of departure. Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, and a corps of picked men have divided into several posses and are following all sorts of clews that come into the office in person and sent to headquarters over the telephone.

A careful watch is maintained upon all steamships in the trans-Pacific service, with a view of blocking the attempt upon the part of the much-wanted criminal to seek freedom from pursuit by departure for the orient or to the mainland.

In the meantime an accurate description of the Korean has been forwarded to all the police and detective agencies on the mainland as well as those located at important points along the China and Japan coast.

Reports continue to come into headquarters to the effect that Chun Duck Soon or some one that closely resembles the Korean, has participated in a series of petty burglaries. From Kalihi came word yesterday afternoon that a tin of sardines and several loaves of bread had been stolen. There was nothing to show, upon investiga-

SEVERS THROAT WITH PENKNIFE; IS FOUND DEAD

William Cameron, residing in a boarding house at Hotel and Punchbowl streets committed suicide some time last night, according to the belief of the police, by severing his throat from ear to ear with a small penknife. The body was discovered this morning by A. M. Ulich, another boarder.

Cameron is said to have been a resident of Honolulu for some time past and was a well-known character around town. No motive for his suicide can be ascribed by the police.

J. K. EVANS MAKES TWO POSSIBLES AT CAMP PERRY

Word was received in Honolulu yesterday to the effect that J. K. Evans of the rifle team of the Hawaii National Guards, who participated at Camp Perry for the national event last month, scored a "possible" at the 1000 yards range and also a "possible" at the "surprise" at 600 yards. In the latter case the target was in sight for three seconds.

IMPROVE SECOND CLASS SERVICE.

Additional space as well as improved accommodation, it is predicted, will be found in several of the Pacific Mail trans-Pacific liners which cater to the second-class or intermediate passenger traffic.

Before the Siberia sailed for the orient yesterday afternoon, the statement was made that the installation of far better quarers for second-class business would be forthcoming on the big liners at least, with a possibility that similar action would be taken with respect to the smaller vessels in the service.

At the present time there are only two classes, first and steerage, in the Pacific Mail boats, the latter class being divided between Asiatics and Europeans. The change is made in response to a need for accommodations that will correspond with second class rail transportation. The company has now interchange relations with all the transcontinental railroads and a second class that is not steerage has been found necessary to equalize the rail and water accommodations.

Kiyo Maru Now Due.

Castle & Cooke, local representatives for the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, expect the freighter Kiyo Maru daily. This vessel is proceeding from Hongkong and Japan ports to Central and South America, and has 700 tons of Oriental cargo for discharge at Hilo. The present plans call for the vessel remaining at Honolulu only for sufficient time to enter and clear and then steam for Hilo. It is not intended that the Kiyo Maru enter this harbor but that she will ride at anchor off the port.

HARBOR NOTES

The Oceanic liner Sonoma, sailing from Honolulu for San Francisco on Friday afternoon will carry the next mail for the mainland.

Over one hundred passengers have been booked for the mainland, in the Matson Navigation liner Wilhelmina, to sail on September 16.

There is a possibility of the Pacific Mail liner Nile being dispatched for San Francisco on or about ten o'clock Sunday morning, September 7.

A cable received here is in effect that the Japanese liner Shinyo Maru with mail and a large delegation of Asiatic passengers, arrived at Yokohama from Honolulu on last Monday.

Six hundred cabin passengers have been booked for the coast at the agency of C. Brewer and Company, by passage in the Oceanic liner Sonoma, due to sail on next Friday afternoon.

Sailing from Port San Luis on last Monday with a full shipment of fuel oil consigned to the local branch of the Union Oil Company, the steamer Lansing is expected to arrive here on or about September 10.

The local agency for the Canadian Australian line has been advised that the steamship Marama, en route from Sydney to Vancouver, sailed from Suva yesterday, and is due to arrive at Honolulu at an early hour next Tuesday morning.

A decided break in what should be a satisfactory mail schedule from the mainland to the islands now exists. The Matson Navigation steamer Honolulu, sailing from San Francisco yesterday, will bring the next mail. This vessel is due here on next Tuesday morning.

OFFSPRING WAS RAILROADED, IS PARENT'S BELIEF

have ever known," declared Mr. McCandless this morning. "That was the first I knew of his trial. I had no idea that he would be tried for several days. I thought of course they would give us plenty of time to have the boy examined to show that he is an irresponsible.

"They rang up our home about 7 o'clock Friday evening. My wife went to the phone; it was McDuffie speaking. He said to her: 'I have your son.' No mention was made of the time of the trial. We all assumed that it would not be for several days. However, I lost no time in getting to Dr. Emerson, but he got to the station too late."

Louis C. Halverson, who has lived with the McCandless family in their little brown cottage at 1563 Nuuanu street for a number of years, was unequivocal in his statement that McDuffie wanted to railroad the lad and for that reason caused the trial to be rushed through.

"I guess he wanted to have done with the boy," added Halverson.

The latter gave many instances this morning to show that the boy has been mentally incompetent for years. He said the boy would break down a door rather than enter it, deliberately turn on the gas and allow it to escape through the house, or spend large sums for barley for which he had no use. He said that he would deliberately break a window, and do countless acts to show that he was not in a normal mind. Young McCandless showed many of the signs of a kleptomaniac, he says.

Mrs. McCandless says she will never give up until justice is given her son. Realizing that her son is non compos mentis, she is determined that the courts take this fact into consideration in dealing with him, and she is bitter against the prosecuting officers in not giving her an opportunity to act before sentencing her boy.

"George was arrested Friday night," she said, "and McDuffie telephoned to me saying that he had my son. But he did not notify me that he would be tried the next day, therefore I was given no chance to defend him. The boy is only eighteen years, mentally unbalanced and therefore should have had an attorney. His father went down early next morning to secure a doctor but his trial was over. I also went and was surprised to hear that he was already sentenced."

The mother says that her son has evidenced signs of mental incompetency since he was thirteen years old. About that time he was taken to Dr. J. R. Judd for an examination, which resulted in letters being sent to the reform school, where the boy was confined for some time, to keep a close watch on him and if "they saw anything wrong with the boy" to notify his parents.

The boy's conduct was apparently fairly good at that institution, for it is shown that he was soon released from the reform school on condition that he attend the Honolulu School for Boys. He was accordingly sent to that school and his parents believed that he was getting along nicely. But something of the kleptomaniac inclinations observed by Halverson in him asserted themselves before long, and as a result when he left the school it was discovered that he had stolen about $60. This money had come into his possession by being sent for supplies for the school. Toward the last of the term he fell to the temptation to take the money though it was not discovered until some time after he left the institution.

Physician Suspects Unsoundness of Mind.

Following a conference with Mrs. McCandless this morning, Dr. George Herbert said that in his opinion—one based upon the account of the youth's life as given by the mother—the action in attempting to establish him as legally incompetent is manifestly well taken and justifiable.

"From what I know of the case the boy has never been of sound mind. From earliest youth he has committed queer acts which a sane person would not do. This last offense—one which could culminate in bringing him nowhere else than in the jail—is the act of an incompetent, in my judgment."

Dr. Herbert has asked Mrs. McCandless to have her attorney confer with him in the matter.

When Chief of Detectives McDuffie was informed this morning that the parents of McCandless were expressing their opinion that the boy had been railroaded, the detective said that he had informed the woman on Friday that her son's trial would be held the next morning and that she had replied that she wished to "wash her hands of him."

"She said she wanted to wash her hands of him," said the detective this morning. "She had every opportunity to appear at the trial. But she didn't want to. We even had to send out for her when we wanted to examine the boy. Dr. Emerson, the police surgeon, examined the boy. I don't know what conclusion he reached."

"Was he examined before or after the trial?" the detective was asked.

"After," was the reply.

The action of Mr. Straus in filing his complaint may mean that Judge Robinson will sit as a referee on the sanity issue. If the evidence produced is sufficient to convince him that young McCandless is insane, he is authorized by a statute to issue an order on the commission on insanity directing them to take charge of the boy. In that event the youth will be put in the insane asylum.

That George McCandless may be considered a defective person yet possessing sufficient responsibility to answer for his misdeeds, was the gist of an opinion offered this morning by Dr. N. B. Emerson, Police Surgeon, who, upon the request of William McCandless, father of the boy, was called upon to make an examination of the youth, immediately following his conviction upon a series of charges of gross cheat.

"I found that young McCandless might be considered as a defective person, and believe that the boy was close to the border line, yet I concluded, following my examination as to his sanity, that the lad possessed sufficient responsibility to be called upon to answer for his offenses," said Dr. Emerson.

McDuffie's Statement.

Mrs. McCandless, mother of George McCandless, was apparently indifferent to the fate in store for her son, following his arrest, charged with uttering a sheaf of worthless checks, according to a statement made this morning by Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie.

"I called upon Mrs. McCandless, immediately after we had placed the boy under arrest," said the Chief. "I related to her the series of offenses in which the lad figured. She then told me that the boy had been a source of constant worry and trouble to his parents for the past four years, and that they had now given up hope of his reformation.

"She further added that she did not care to make any effort to fight the cases against her son, but was willing that the law should take its course."

the point that for years past the park has been used as a playground for adults, and that small children can not and never will be able to get a chance to play there.

"The putting of apparatus on a playground without having first supplied a trained worker to organize the play of the children, is almost a waste of money," declared Mr. Bowen this morning. "It is considered one of the most important essentials in mainland playground work that a trained instructor be on the grounds to map out the work, and a playground without a director is almost as bad as no playground at all. It becomes a gathering place for gangs, and, with no one to direct them, the children are beset by all forms of evil.

"In order to make Aala Park a success as a playground for children, it would have to be divided up and fenced off, and a separate place set aside for small children, larger children and adults. Then, you cannot centralize playgrounds to any extent. The children will not stand for it. Aala Park is too far away from the Beretania Settlement, while the present playground is right in the center of the neighborhood. This one is the only one which the children of the settlement have access to, and should Aala Park be substituted for it, it would mean that the children would have to walk a long distance before they could get there. And they would soon balk.

"I feel that the present Beretania playground is absolutely essential to the welfare of the children of the neighborhood, and some day in the future, when buildings are erected on the land, we will be forced to buy the land, tear down the buildings, and constitute it into a playground once more. If the city does not keep the playground there now, it will in later years have to stand the expense of making one there."

In rural schools in Missouri girls are organized into "pick and shovel clubs" under the direction of the National Congress of Mothers, to aid in the good roads movement.

HARBOR BOARD IS STRONG IN BELIEF OF ITS OWN SECURITY

place on said premises within such time as the secretary of war may indicate, and upon its refusal, neglect or inability so to do the secretary of war may cause the same to be removed at the expense of the party of the second part; and no claim for damages against the United States, or any agent or officer thereof, shall be created by or made on account of such removal."

Frank C. Poor, clerk for the harbor commissioners, said this morning that a representative of Major B. Frank Cheatham, department quartermaster, called upon him shortly after he drew up the new lease, requesting that a few changes be made in the wording of the instrument. These changes are set forth in the following letter, submitted by Poor to Superintendent Caldwell:

"During your absence on Hawaii, and at a regular meeting of the board of harbor commissioners, Vice-Chairman McStocker handed me the lease on the Emmes wharf site, with instructions to read it over and draft a renewal of the same to the secretary of war. Pursuant to these instructions, I drafted the lease and a letter to the secretary accordingly, but have since been called upon by a representative of the local quartermaster department in connection with the same matter, requesting that the words 'upon reasonable notice' be stricken out, and after the word 'purpose', the following be inserted: 'The commanding officer of the Hawaiian Department to be the judge of the necessity for such use.'"

The Emmes wharf site, the property of the federal government, cuts through the Waikiki end of the Queen street bulkhead wharf, and has a frontage of approximately 89 feet on both Queen street and the waterfront, and has a water approach at but one point. The entire wharf, including the Emmes sight, is about 800 feet, sufficient to allow two large vessels to dock at the same time.

Lease Submitted to the Governor.

"The new lease was submitted to the governor at least a week ago," said Superintendent Caldwell this morning, "and in my opinion there is absolutely nothing to the story which appeared this morning. The new lease will go through and things will continue as they always have. The territory is subsidiary to the United States government—not a State—and I do not think that the government would do anything which would mean the taking away of the wharf."

Another member of the board of harbor commissioners said this morning: "The board of harbor commissioners knew all about this matter a long time ago and the matter was threshed out at a meeting of the board at which were present representatives of the press. A committee of the board took the matter up with the proper authorities and the recommendation was made by the army men by which the territorial government might acquire title to the property. Not only the section mentioned, but also to other lands which have, gradually, been acquired by the federal government. According to the recommendations the territorial government could reacquire title to all the lands which have been taken over at different times by the national government.

"If any error is to be charged it is against the legislature is naming the Superintendent of Public Works as head of the Harbor Commissioners; this arrangement is not practical for the reason that the frequent changes make a continuity of executive ability impossible.

"No responsibility can be attached to the present Superintendent of Public Works or any of his predecessors. He simply is in an unfortunate position made necessary by the legislature.

"I don't believe any army officer made the statement credited to him this morning," continued this member of the board "for the simple reason that he would thereby have contradicted himself. First he said that the U. S. government was not in the hold-up business, and later that the present conditions would enable the government to secure better terms in exchange matters.

"The board has relied on the belief that the government was not in the hold-up business, and as a consequence has allowed it numerous privileges.

"The Progressive party is peeved because the commission recommended to the government that the army, pending the ratification of these exchanges be allowed to occupy the fish market until the acquisition from the government of the naval reserve, which, naturally, would become the property of the army. This recommendation was made under the belief that the water front property would be of continuing value to the public, while the property of the board of immigration is of questionable value owing to the uncertainty of the tariff, legal technicalities, of taxes, of the labor question, or for sundry other reasons."

That negotiations between the territory of Hawaii and the war department at Washington for a renewal of the lease on the land now occupied by the new Queen street bulkhead wharf are in progress, was learned this morning.

The original strip of property acquired by the United States government on August 18, 1899, according to proclamation made at that time, covers an area bounded by 480 feet on the Waikiki side, 59 feet on the makai side, 497 feet on the Ewa side, and 114 and five tenths on the Mauka side, said a government official.

Another interesting feature connected with the Federal ownership of the strip, is that the land in question is said to extend completely across the slip way leading not only to the Queen street wharf, but also to the Waikiki side of the Hackfeld wharf.

As one official commented this morning, "Uncle Sam can at any time step right in and block the entrance to that portion of the berthing space which would bar all vessels mooring at either of these places. A glance at the official harbor chart also reveals the fact that the Federal government land reaches to a point where it takes in a considerable portion of the outer end of the Hackfeld wharf.

Conservative figures, made by Uncle Sam's officials, place the cost of that portion of the Queen street wharf said to be erected on federal property at anywhere from $110,000 to $130,000. Measurements place the area now covered by the wharf structure at about 26,500 square feet. With the present cost of building wharves in this territory place at between four and five dollars a square foot, the amount given will easily assume a large figure.

In going over the harbor chart, it was also brought out by the federal men that the city and county government in the course of attempting to straighten out Queen street, at the point where it abuts the wharf, a considerable strip of the military reservation was preempted. Should for any reason the Federal government decline to renew the lease, and take over its property, over one half of Queen street could be enclosed, and the general public barred from using it as a ...ghway leading to the upper end of the harbor.

The war department is forbidden to enter into any leases of land for a longer term than five years. When the property was turned over to the government in 1899, following the annexation of the Republic of Hawaii, a five year lease followed within a short time to the new territory. No difficulty was experienced in securing a renewal when the original lease had expired.

Marama Has Room for Many.

There is an abundance of room aboard the Canadian-Australasian liner Marama, now on the way from Sydney to Honolulu, according to a cable received this morning at the agency of T. H. Davies and Company. The vessel is due here one day late, owing to bad weather it is presumed. The Marama can accommodate all passengers so far booked for British Columbia at the local agency. Between thirty and forty travelers have applied for transportation in this vessel.

Niagara Carries Many Travelers.

The Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara from Vancouver and Victoria, and due to arrive on next Wednesday, is understood to be well crowded with passengers in all classes. A dozen travelers have been booked at the agency of T. H. Davies and Company for Australia. The vessel will take a berth at the Alakea wharf.

Hall in from Garden Island.

The last of an accumulation of sugar on Kauai is arriving in the city these days, the steamer W. G. Hall returning from the Garden Island bringing 4700 sacks of the product. This vessel also brought other lines of island products such as fruits, eggs, chickens and sundries. The Hall met with fine weather, favorable winds and seas. The vessel is listed for departure at five o'clock tomorrow evening.

The British steamship companies, Royal Mail and Pacific Steam Navigation, intend to exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

NO HONOLULANS IN TRAIN WRECK IN CONNECTICUT

No Honolulans were in the terrible wreck at Wallingford, Connecticut, yesterday, when nineteen lives were lost and scores injured.

Though several Honolulu youths, students in eastern colleges, are believed to have been on the Bar Harbor express, returning from a camping trip in New Hampshire, none was injured, according to the Associated Press.

The anxiety on the part of Honolulu parents, following the receipt of the news of the wreck and the lack of details, caused the Star-Bulletin to cable this morning to the Associated Press office in San Francisco asking if any local people were in the wreck. The Associated Press immediately cabled back: "No Honolulans in injured list."

Among the local boys who have been camping this summer and were believed to be returning to their schools yesterday, are Harry F. Lucas, of Yale, son of Jack Lucas; Rex and Ran Hitchcock, of Harvard, and Alfred C. Young, son of Jesse Young. Several others may also have been on the camping trip, but now it is practically certain that none was on the ill-fated flyer that was telescoped by the limited and that they escaped injury.

Timely Aid

When one's digestion is "out of fix" a good, straightforward test of food is worth much.

Many who have suffered from stomach trouble have discovered that a dish of and milk and cream is not only easily digested, but actually assists in the digestion of other food.

Grape-Nuts

The power of proper food—the kind the stomach will digest, and at the same time yields nourishment — is almost unlimited.

THE BEST TEACHER.

Experience Still Holds the Palm.

For real, practical reliability and something to swear by, experience—plain old experience—is able to carry a big load yet without getting swaybacked.

A lady recently found some things about food from Old Experience, a good, reliable teacher.

She writes:

"I think I have used almost every breakfast food manufactured, but none equals Grape-Nuts in my estimation.

"I was greatly bothered with weak stomach and indigestion, with formation of gas after eating, and tried many remedies for it, but did not find relief.

"Then I decided I must change my diet and see if I could overcome the difficulty that way. My choice of food was Grape-Nuts, because the doctor told me I could not digest starchy food.

"It has been a great benefit to me, for I feel like a different person since I begun to use it. It is wonderful to me how strong my nerves have become. I advise everyone to try it, for experience is the best teacher.

"If you have any stomach trouble—can't digest your food, use Grape-Nuts food for breakfast at least, and you won't be able to praise it enough when you see how different you feel." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in packets.

JURIST BUSY BUT CALENDAR STILL IS FULL

Although the entire criminal calendar was called in Judge W. J. Robinson's division of the circuit court this morning, involving more than 125 criminal cases, only fourteen were definitely settled by being either dismissed or given a definite date for trial. The balance will be taken up again next Saturday morning for disposition.

Nine cases were nolle prossed, four set for hearing, and one, that of Joe C. Enos, accused of assault and battery, was settled by giving the defendant a suspended sentence after he had entered a plea of guilty. All the murder cases remain to be disposed of.

The cases nolle prossed are: Albert Machado, assault and battery, complaining witness is dead; Hana Aka and Maggie Naopala, theft; Hee Park, carnal abuse of a female child under twelve years of age; P. Kua, embezzlement; Osawa, permitting minor to enter a billiard hall; Fanny Munson, assault and battery; Edward Parker, assault and battery, two cases; T. Miyakawa, using obscene language; Pulu Akaka, assault and batterq.

The cases set for trial are: Henry Aki, assault and battery, Sept 12 at 8:30 a. m.; Young See, selling merchandise without a license, Sept. 9 at 10 a. m.; Alfred Castillo, first degree burglary, Sept. 16 at 8:30 a. m.; Pedro Orado, first degree burglary, Sept. 17 at 8:30 a. m.

Morning on 'CHANGE

The rise of Ewa one-quarter of a point was the only feature of the stock and bond exchange this morning. The sale of five shares of Ewa was reported as being made between boards, the stock going at 17.50. In the transactions made during the session no new prices developed. McBryde went at 2.50 and Oahu at 13.50. The sales were all small.

One of the surprises of the street has been the sudden demand for Honolulu Consolidated Oil, and its consequent gain. It is reported that the stock is bringing 1.35 in San Francisco, assessment paid; and it is known that several hundred of the shares have been sold here at prices considerable over a dollar. One sale of a few hundred shares was made at 1.10, and it is understood that it is now well advanced over that price.

The reason given for the sudden gain in the stock, which has been made in spite of a ten cent assessment, is the good physical condition of the company, and the bright prospects of it being in a position to pay dividends soon. The reason for the assessment, as given, was to discharge an encumbrance on the property.

BLOW FROM GOOSE CURES PARALYSIS

[By Latest Mail]

LOS ANGELES. — Arthur J. Reddington, a Lamanda Park rancher, suffered from partial paralysis of the arms and legs for several years and was considered incurable.

As Reddington was hobbling along the boulevard near his ranch recently the electric horn of an automobile frightened a flock of geese. One flew across the road and struck Reddington full tilt on the back of the neck.

Reddington instinctively threw up his hands to his neck. When he recovered his composure he found he had also recovered the complete use of all his limbs.

According to a recent estimate made by the sugar bureau of the government of Taiwan (formerly called Formosa), the production of centrifugal sugar for the season 1913-14 will be 205,121 tons. This will be an increase of 100,000 tons over the crop of last year, which was partially destroyed by the typhoons of August and September.

That the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company is not within the jurisdiction of the territorial public utilities commission is now the conviction of Chairman Mott-Smith, of the commission. In response to his letters sent recently to concerns believed to be in that category, the chairman yesterday received a communication from the steamship corporation stating that its business is entirely confined to interstate traffic, carrying neither passengers nor freight between inter-island points in the territory.

PIGS GORGE CANDY AS CHILDREN ENVY

[By Latest Mail]

CINCINNATI.—The Refuge Home Farm, a municipal charity for homeless children, has a fine lot of thoroughbred pigs, which are to be gorged daily with chocolates and other choice confectionery, as a result of recent raids by the food inspection division of the Health Department.

Today the refuge farm wagon carted to the farm, for their delectation, nearly 1,500 pounds of milk chocolates, 3 000 pounds of peanuts, 850 pounds of shelled cocoanuts, 15 barrels of sugar and about 20 barrels of other odds and ends, including flavoring extracts used in making candy. These represented some of the condemnations made at several candy factories last week.

Dr. Blume, chief food inspector offered it to the pigs through Dr. Otto P. Geier, Superintendent of the Department of Charities and Corrections. The chocolate and peanuts have rare fattening qualities, Dr. Blume pointed out to Dr. Geier.

For instance, one and one-quarter pounds of chocolate, he said, are equal in fattening qualities to a bushel of wheat. The refuge farm pigs were in clover today, and the children looked on in envy.

CIVIC BODIES TO HOLD MEETING TODAY

A postponed meeting of the second annual civic and commercial organization conference committee will be held at three o'clock this afternoon in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, at which time it is expected that a complete program for the entire conference will be drawn up.

The two principal items in the program are the entertainment of the visiting delegates and the order of business for the two days on which the conference will be in session. Aside from the drawing up of skeleton plans, nothing definite was done by the committee at its last meeting, and complete reports will undoubtedly be presented this afternoon by the committees on entertainment, program and finances. With regard to finances, it has already been decided that the visitors will pay their own expenses. The various supervisors and county engineers, however, who have been specially invited to attend the confernce, will have their fares paid from their homes to Honolulu and return. These persons have been invited principally to take part in the discussion of ways and means for better roads for the territory, a subject which will be one of the most important and interesting to be brought up.

It is believed that from the report of the chairman this afternoon, the committee will be able to ascertain the number of delegates who will attend the convention, letters asking this information having been sent to the various commercial organizations on the other islands some time ago. The offer of the promotion committee to cooperate with the joint arrangement committee in entertaining the delegates will also be brought up for discussion.

WEDNESDAY..... SEPTEMBER 3, 1913

It is in this life alone we can learn lessons of patience and self-denial, for there are no sick-beds to watch by, no sufferers to soothe, no mourners to comfort in the mansions of the Father's house.—George Macdonald.

DON'T SACRIFICE THE CHILDERN'S PLAYGROUND

In adopting a committee report adverse to the leasing of the Beretania playfield, the board of supervisors displays a peculiar idea of the function of a city playground.

The ample lot at Beretania and Smith streets, now largely used by children of the neighborhood and equipped with simple facilities for outdoor play, is owned by the Bishop Estate and the growth of business in the neighborhood has resulted in leasehold offers that the estate is now considering. This means that the playfield must be abandoned. Spencer Bowen, whose intelligent and enthusiastic devotion to settlement work and playground development is well-known, asked the supervisors to take up with the Bishop estate some plan to lease this playground to the city.

Last night the city fathers adopted a report adverse to the proposition. They say that the city is not in a financial position to lease the field.

The most surprising part of the report is that the supervisors suggest that a portion of Aala park be used for the playground and this suggestion betrays a strange lack of knowledge as the subject of playgrounds.

The playfield in this crowded section of the city is designed for the use of the little folks; for the recreation and amusement of children down to the size of babes-in-arms. It is these city tots, just beginning to thrive and develop, who most need fresh air, green grass and gentle, wholesome exercise close at hand. Boys and girls of larger growth can go to the baseball diamonds, the parks, the bathing-beaches for their exercise, but the little folks cannot, and they must be kept off the streets dangerously-crowded with traffic and must not be shut up in walled and paved courtyards or driven into foul and reeking alleys.

But Aala park is not the place for them. At Aala park, every afternoon and on many mornings, two and three baseball games are in progress at the same time. Men and boys are playing all over the big field. There is no room for the youngsters from two to eight years of age, and there is positive danger for them if they play near the baseball diamonds. There is no room for their mothers, or for their sisters,—those small guardians whose care of babies scarcely younger than themselves is one of the pathetic sights of crowded city life.

It will cost as much to cut up Aala park, to wall off a playground, to equip that playground and to supervise it adequately, as to obtain a lease on the Beretania lot. And the result will not be so desirable. Honolulu needs more playfields in this congested center—not less. Aala park should not be cut up; the ball-fields should not be decreased in size.

Last Saturday night a moving-picture show was given at the Beretania playfield. Twice that evening it rained hard, yet more than a thousand people attended the show. There were hundreds upon hundreds of children, scores upon scores of their fathers, mothers and older brothers and sisters. It was a powerful illustration of the popularity of the playfield's attractions.

It is to be hoped that the supervisors will reconsider their decision, reopen the question and let public sentiment have more of an opportunity to be heard. Meanwhile, it is quite time for some of the many men and women who are really interested in playgrounds to come forward and support the unselfish fight that Mr. Bowen is now making practically alone.

THE MEXICAN POLICY

President Wilson's calm and dispassionate Mexican policy seems to be having its effect even earlier than was hoped. Of course Gen. Huerta will not subside without a kick or two, evidences of his Latin-American temperament that are not to be taken very seriously. In the meantime, Wilson's immovable determination not to intervene has won him such friendship abroad that Huerta cannot find sympathy by turning to the Powers.

So far as the passive part of Wilson's policy is concerned, that promises well. Its ultimate success will probably depend upon his ability to carry out the active measures he proposed in his special message. Chief of these is the enforcement of strict neutrality, and to enforce neutrality Uncle Sam must guard the entire Mexican border and put a stop to the wholesale importation of arms and ammunition by both the principal Mexican factions.

If Uncle Sam can establish an effective patrol on the borderline and stop the filibustering expeditions that have been running into Mexican ports, Wilson's non-intervention policy will receive its greatest moral backing—the assurance that he is able to carry out his practical measures.

Meanwhile, it is noticeable that the American press in general is backing up the president. There is no clamor for war; even the yellow journals, while grossly exaggerating the friction between the two administrations, are not shrieking for intervention. The prudent and adroit course mapped out by Wilson has commended itself very generally in the United States and has quite evidently been favorably received abroad, for Washington has been given every assurance that the Powers will uphold the American administration.

SCORE ANOTHER FOR THE AFTERNOON NEWSPAPER

The rapid changes in the San Francisco newspaper field furnish another conclusive proof of the advantages enjoyed by afternoon newspapers over their morning competitors. The Call, for more than half a century prominent in Coast journalism, has been bought by Mr. M. H. de Young and on September 1 was merged with the Chronicle, Mr. de Young's splendid newspaper property. Almost on the heels of this news comes the announcement that F. W. Kellogg and John D. Spreckels will publish the Call as an afternoon newspaper. The significance of this is that San Francisco loses a big morning paper and gains a bigger afternoon paper. The afternoon field is already supplied by two aggressive five-cent dailies, the Bulletin and the Post, and by the News, the one-cent Scripps-McRae daily. Yet the Call proposes to enter this afternoon field and does not doubt that there will be business enough to justify the move. That "business", of course, means very largely advertising business. The local and foreign advertisers recognize the unique advantages of the afternoon newspaper, and the Call feels confident of enough revenue to assure its success as a high-class afternoon paper. The evening daily, going into the home to be read during the family's leisure hours, is the paper with which the discriminating advertiser places the majority of his business, and every change in the world of journalism only goes to prove this now unquestioned fact.

There is quite enough variance between the stories told by the parents of George McCandless and those told at police headquarters to warrant further examination into the facts. The Star-Bulletin has no sympathy with any attempt to shield a criminal behind the plea of insanity, but the case of an 18-year-old boy whose actions in the past have been such as to raise the question of his mental condition deserves something more than the extremely limited investigation possible in the few hours between his arrest and the imposition of his four-year sentence.

One of the remarkable things about the gubernatorial situation is the number of people who have spoken for tickets on the Pinkham bandwagon and are now only waiting for it to start to take up their reservations.

"Sunny Jim" McCandless says that Pinkham's confirmation is not possible. Which is precisely what a large number of people said about his appointment.

Persons wishing a little excitement now have the opportunity to get it along the Rio Grande. The filibustering is fine.

Now that winter is coming on, they are beginning to talk about smashing the coal-trust again.

Doesn't seem to be any rush on the part of public corporations to pay that fee to Mott-Smith.

Is this the supervisors' slogan:—Thousands for salaries and automobiles, but not one cent for playgrounds?

Too bad they don't kidnap Thaw and keep him out of sight for about ten years.

Duck Soon no doubt appreciates just how Thaw feels about it.

MORE ABOUT THE POSTOFFICE.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: The local postoffice seems to be very much in the limelight of late regarding a number of delinquencies that are calling for all kinds of "kicks" from the people of this city. It is possible that in some instances the people are in the wrong, and expect a little more than the postoffice laws allow, but from a seventeen-year experience as a postmaster in a fairly-sized town, I am inclined to think that there is a lot of bluff being exuded by some of the employes of the postoffice for the purpose of saving them some work.

The local postoffice seems to close its window on the least provocation, and sometimes when there seems to be no provocation. I don't believe that the local postoffice had any right to close its window last Monday at all, an action that caused a roar from the businessmen of the city, and rightly. This is only one instance of numerous similar closings, and the legality of the act, and of many others that seem to be against the proper conduct of a postoffice, can be settled by application to the postoffice department at Washington for a copy of the postal laws and regulations. With this book in hand there could be no question between postmaster and public.

The carrier that is delivering the mail in the Kaimuki district has warned people there that he will not deliver mail to them unless they install a mail box at the street line of their property. I have an idea that no such law can be found in the postal laws and regulations, and I think that is carrying the "joke" a little too far. My home is not thirty feet from the street, plainly numbered, on an open street with no dog or other animal to prevent the delivery of a letter, and I think that I would look into the matter very closely if a mail carrier refused to deliver a letter there when the house is in a carrier district district. Not only must he deliver the letter but he must acquaint those in the house, should there be any one at home, with the fact that he has delivered a letter at that address. If my memory does not deceive me, the carrier must wait a reasonable time for an answer to his alarm on the door and deliver the letter to the person answering the door before depositing it under the door when no one answers.

If I am informed right, the delivery in the above mentioned section, and also in Manoa, is a city delivery, not a rural free delivery.

All this talk by carriers about "a man being too mean to nail up a box or can for his mail don't deserve any," and all other gaff of a like nature is not in the book and is pure bluff.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—SUNNY JIM: That's a case of mistaken identity, that McCandless you said was to make his home in California. I'm not that fellow. I'm not going to make my home in California. This is my home and Honolulu is my headquarters. Don't forget that. Do you think I would leave Honolulu for good and all, and take "my residence", in California or any other place on earth outside of Honolulu. Not on your lovely Honolulu life. This is home.

OLD NAVY MAN IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of A. A. Jacobson, U. S. N., the sailor who fell from the high fence enclosing the navy dock Monday night, fracturing his skull, was held yesterday afternoon. Jacobson was buried in the Nuuanu cemetery, with full naval honors. Funeral services were held at Williams' undertaking establishment, and at the cemetery, Canon Ault officiating.

The board of inquest which investigated the circumstances of Jacobson's death, composed of P. A. Surgeon W. M. Kerr, Lieutenant L. M. Stevens, U. S. N., and Lieutenant H. S. Green, U. S. M. C., reached a verdict that the man came to his death through a fall from the fence, and that death, which was caused by a fracture at the base of the skull, was almost instantaneous.

Jacobson was a native of Norway, and his nearest relatives live in that country. He had been almost 30 years in the United States Navy, and had a fine record as an able seaman. At the time of his death he was a member of the crew of the commandant's barge.

The tax appeal court's decision, sustaining the figures of the assessor setting the value of the Humuula Sheep Station Company's holdings at $125,000, has been appealed by the company which yesterday filed the papers in the case in supreme court. The company had returned a valuation of $100,000. Holmes, Stanley & Olson represent the appellants.

Mrs. Martha Rupp, New York suffragette leader, has signed an agreement with her husband agreeing not to attend any outdoor suffrage meetings nor speak in public for the cause.

Miss Elsa Peterson Married

A wedding of interest to Honolulans was that of Miss Elsa Peterson, daughter of Mrs. Charles Peterson, to Mr. S. T. Hoyt of Aiea plantation, on Saturday last at high noon. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride on Magazine street by the Rev. W. B. Oleson. The event was a very quiet one, only relatives and intimate friends being present. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Welles Peterson. Her bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Peterson, Miss Jeannette Sharp and Miss Hazel Gear, while her sister, Miss Helen Peterson, served as maid-of-honor. The bride's dress of white linen was beautifully embroidered by hand and trimmed with fine lace. With it she wore the conventional wedding veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and sweet peas en cascade. The bridesmaids wore dainty frocks of pink and blue, and carried showers of roses.

Immediately after the ceremony, an informal reception was held, after which the bride and groom escaped to spend their honeymoon in a place as yet unknown. They will then take up their residence at Aiea, where they have a charming little bungalow.

Mrs. Hoyt is an island girl of great popularity. She was graduated from high school in 1906, after which she took a four years' course at Stanford. Mr. Hoyt is also a college student, having been graduated from New Hampshire university in 1910.

Henshaw-O'Connor.

The wedding took place in Oakland last week of Miss Irene Patricia O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. O'Connor, and Mr. Tyler T. Henshaw. Although marked with simplicity, the wedding was nevertheless very beautiful, with its setting of amaryllis and woodwardia fern. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by the Rev. F. X. Morrison, pastor of St. Joseph church in Berkeley. Mrs. Beverly Wilder was matron of honor, while little Misses Jean Andie and Eleanor Davis acted as flower girls. Mr. Andrew Burke of San Francisco was best man. After a honeymoon spent in the Mendocino mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Henshaw will reside in San Francisco, where the former is engaged in the practice of law. Mrs. Henshaw is a graduate of the University of California, and is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Henshaw is also a graduate of the university, with an additional year at Harvard. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Upsilon fraternity. His father is Judge Frederick Henshaw of San Francisco.

Miss Roberta Haslett is to be the only bridal attendant at the wedding of Miss Bessie Yates and Ralph Brooks High, Wednesday, September 3d. High will have his brother, William H. High, as groomsman. The ceremony is to take place at sunset at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Yates, on Prince street, and only relatives of the couple will be in attendance. The wedding supper following the ceremony will be served on the lawn underneath the trees in the Yates garden. Both Miss Yates and Miss Haslett are members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at Berkeley, and are very close friends. High is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William High of Piedmont and a brother of Miss Helen High, one of the most popular girls in the younger set in the hillside district.—Chronicle.

From Honolulu comes an account of the wedding there August 12 of Miss A. Gwendolyn Blair and Edward Dekum. Canon Ault performed the ceremony in St. Andrew's cathedral. Miss Louise Lucas was the maid of honor and Miss Virginia Watson and Miss Kate Gill were the bridesmaids. Jackson R. Myers was best man. Mrs. Dekum is a southern girl, but has lived for the past few years in Honolulu, where she has a large circle of friends. Mr. Dekum is a son of the late Frank Dekum of Portland, but has lived in Honolulu for the past fifteen years, connected for the greater part of the time with the Advertiser. After September 15 Mr. and Mrs. Dekum will be at home at 2841 Nuuanu avenue.—San Francisco Examiner.

A romance begun in the academic halls of the University of California will terminate this afternoon in the marriage of Miss Gertrude Rosenthal to A. B. Shaw, Jr., of Los Angeles. The courtship began in 1912, when Mr. Shaw was instructor in the department of agriculture, and studying law in the graduate school. Miss Rosenthal was a freshman, and the meeting took place at one of the many college dances.

The groom-to-be is practicing law in the southern metropolis.

Judge Graham will perform the ceremony, the interesting feature of which will be the best men and bridesmaids, who are twins. Misses Marguerite and Madeline Ritchie and the Calkins twins will assist the bride and groom respectively.—Chronicle.

GIRL REFUSES $2400 JOB AS AUDITOR OF A CITY

[By Latest Mail]

LONG BEACH, Cal.—Miss Eva Bibeau, deputy city auditor, gave the city council its biggest surprise when, actuated by loyalty to her former superior, Lewis W. Shuman, who has resigned as city auditor, she refused to be appointed to his place.

She has served six years as deputy auditor. But in an open war between the city council and Shuman during his term as auditor, over the fixing of the city assessors, Miss Bibeau stood with Shuman against her friends in the council.

When it was announced by the city council that it wanted Miss Bibeau to succeed Shuman, Miss Bibeau wrote a letter refusing the $2,400 job.

While the Tokyo (Taisho) Exposition to be held March 20 to July 31, 1914, is primarily for the empire of Japan and its colonies, exhibits from foreign countries will be accepted as specimens. While the space set aside for foreign exhibitors is not large, it is believed by the exposition managers that they will be able to accommodate all those who wish to participate. The date on which foreign exhibitors may apply for space expires on October 30, 1913. The Japanese exhibits will be classified into fourteen departments.

STAGE IS SET FOR 'TRAVELING SALESMAN' TO ARRIVE TONIGHT

Familiar and good friends in the theatrical world will greet Honolulans tonight when Virginia Brissac and the World's Fair Stock Company begin their engagement at the opera house. Everything points to a prosperous run here and everything is ready for tonight's opening bill.

Have you ever sat in a little country station, with six feet of snow outside, on Christmas day and waited for a train sixteen hours late? If you have, you can perhaps imagine Bob Blake's feelings. Bob is the hero in "The Traveling Salesman," the initial offering of Virginia Brissac and the popular World's Fair Stock Company."

The many interesting things that happen to Bob on this particular Christmas Day form the basis of a very gripping story. He gets off at the wrong station, meets a very charming girl, falls in love with her, saves her from being swindled by a designing capitalist, eats an impromptu dinner with her, sells several bills of goods. Bob is a traveling salesman, you know, plays poker, cheers up his friends who are downcast at not being able to spend the holidays at home, and performs other innumerable acts of kindness.

Mr. Joe Cox, stage manager for the World's Fair Stock Company and an expert in his line. Mr. Cox staged the first production of "The Bird of Paradise."

However, there are many interesting characters in the play besides Bob, and no doubt many people will recognize types they have often met in the States. One of the most famous scenes in the play is the poker game in the second act, when the five traveling men play poker and drink tea, I mean whisky and soda, out of tea-cups, prohibition town, you know. "The Traveling Salesman" enjoyed a run of two years in New York and will be revived in Chicago this fall with the original cast. In selecting this as an opening play, Mr. Wray had in mind the fact that Honolulu is very partial to comedy, not as a steady diet, but occasionally, and he was also swayed by the fact that "The Traveling Salesman" would give the different members of the company an excellent chance to show what they could do.

Miss Virginia Brissac will be seen as Beth Elliott, the small town operator, a part that will give her ample opportunity to display her ability. While she is not called upon to do any heavy emotional work, she plays in a delightful comedy vein throughout and has been favorably compared to the original in the role. John Wray is seen as Bob Blake, the traveling salesman, and his work in Honolulu is too well known to need much comment. It will suffice to say that he has never had a part that suited him better. The rest of the large cast, numbering some twenty-two people, is all seen to advantage and as to the production, Artist Tacall and his assistants have turned out some really beautiful work. A packed house will no doubt greet the opening performance Wednesday evening at the Hawaiian Opera house. "The Traveling Salesman" will run up to and including Saturday night. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. "The Gamblers," by Chas. Klein, author of "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Third Degree," and other successes will be presented beginning Monday evening, September 8. This is Mr. Klein's very latest play.

PROMISED FOR THE PLAYHOUSES

Scene from "Cleopatra," now being shown at the Hawaii.

EMPIRE THEATER

Conveying a powerful lesson as well as being the means of entertainment, the big feature photo-play production, presented tonight in three reels of film, under the title of "In the Grip of the Demon," offers a specialty along the line of moving pictures seldom brought to the city.

The picture is rated as one of the best in the extensive repertoire of the M. H. Newman Company. The evils of intemperance are seldom more vividly portrayed before the amazed spectator than through the thousands of feet of film. The drama enacted at the Empire theater this evening is in every way a magnificent production and one in which some intensely interesting situations are cleverly handled. Underlying all is a theme showing plainly the train of sorrows and woes attendant on a continuous indulgence in intoxicants. The picture in its entire presentation points to a moral.

The remainder of the Empire program will include some late releases from the mainland, all of a high order and varied in their scope.

HAWAII THEATER

Tonight closes "Cleopatra" at the Hawaii theatre and so successful has been this Newman attraction that the management has closed with Impresario Newman for an additional week, beginning tomorrow night. New features which just arrived from the mainland will be shown, among them being "The Black Mask, or Saved in Mid-Air," "Society Life in Paris, or the Apache Dancer," and "The Harem Captive," one of Pathe Freres' French masterpieces, the scene of which is laid on the burning Sahara deserts. In order to accommodate the big crowds there will be three shows given each night commencing at 6:45.

SUPERVISORS REFUSE TO LEASE BERETANIA STREET PLAYGROUND

Road Committee Reports Favorable to Movement but in Opposition to That Particular Property — Suggests Use of Portion of Aala Park for Same Purpose

Members of the road committee held the center of the stage at the meeting of the supervisors last evening, and practically all of the new business brought before the body came from that committee, through its chairman, Lester Petrie. Reports and resolutions were introduced calling for the appropriation of large sums for road and bridge improvements and met with a favorable reception at the hands of the other members.

One of the reports from that committee asked $1000 as an additional fund for oiling streets of the city to lay the dust. Another report from the same committee recommended that the board leave the matter of the Beretania street playground alone, and not lease the property of the Bishop estate at Beretania and Smith streets, as requested by Spencer Bowen of the playground association. In its report the committee went on to state that it was entirely in sympathy with the playground movement, believing that playgrounds are a great benefit to young children, but that it could not see its way clear to advise the supervisors to lease the Bishop property for that purpose. It suggested that a portion of Aala park be converted into a playground, and referred the financial phase of such an undertaking to the ways and means committee. The report was adopted.

The following is a summary of the business of the meeting:

Report from ways and means committee, giving month's disbursements for schools. Adopted.

Report from public expenditures committee, giving itemization of regular monthly appropriations for public purposes. Adopted.

Report from roads committee, recommending that Beretania street playgrounds be not leased or purchased by city and county; recommending that portion of Aala park be converted into playground; and referring financial element in the proposition to ways and means. Adopted.

Report from ways and means committee, recommending the lease of school-house in Kalihi valley, now used as such, at rental of $15 a month, term six months. Adopted.

From roads committee, recommending appropriation of $800 for construction of Atherton road, Manoa. Adopted.

From roads committee, stating that out of appropriation of revenues of the road department there has accumulated $1200; and asking that this sum be turned over to the fund for maintenance of roads. Adopted.

Report from roads committee, recommending that three clerks in roads department be given equal salaries, which requires salary of John Lewis by raised $25 a month. Adopted.

Report from roads committee, recommending that $7000 be set aside from permanent pavement fund for asphalt macadam pavement on Beretania avenue, from Emma street to Punchbowl. Adopted.

Letter from Admiral C. B. T. Moore relating to pipe line from Puuloa to Pearl Harbor; and transmitting letter of authorization for such pipe line from bureau of yards and docks. Referred to roads committee.

From fire and police committee, recommending contract for construction of kitchen at Makiki fire station be given to J. R. Davis for $498. Adopted.

From roads committee, recommending appropriations for replacing certain bridges. Adopted.

From roads committee, asking further appropriation of $1000 for oiling streets of Honolulu, and for $1000 for continuance of Waialae road and entrance to Kaimuki fire station. Adopted.

From roads committee, recommending acceptance of Lord-Young Engineering Company's bid for belt road building in Waialua district; bid $16,500. Adopted.

From roads committee, recommending appropriation of $3500 for repairs to bridges in Waialua district. Adopted.

Petition from twenty-five property-owners of Atherton and Hunnewell streets, for grading of streets. Roads committee.

Resolution from Supervisor McClellan, introduced, appropriating $40,400 out of permanent improvement fund for certain bridges and roads. Passed first reading.

From Supervisor Pacheco, moving that Electrician Frazee be instructed to purchase fire alarm boxes to extent permitted by resolution, by which $4,000 is set aside for that purpose.

Adjourned until Sept. 12, 12 m.

LOCAL COLLEGE TRAINING BOYS AS SURVEYORS

Much importance has rightly been attached to the work of the trained surveyor in the development of such a country as Hawaii. In the past the local surveyors have received their technical education at mainland institutions, but now the courses offered by the College of Hawaii in surveying and civil engineering will obviate this.

Three courses are given in surveying proper, in addition to numerous related courses. The surveying courses extend over a period of three collegiate years, being preceded, in the freshman year, by a thorough foundation course in mechanical drawing.

The first course is plane surveying, supplemented by lectures and drafting room exercises. The use of the chain, tape, compass, transit and level, and practice in the manipulation of these instruments in the field, the drafting room work includes practice in the computations that the surveyor is called upon to make, and plotting from original notes.

The second course comprises recitation and field work, covering the various methods of making topographical surveys, including the theory and use of the plane table, stadia, sextant and solar attachment to the transit. Students are required to make and reduce observations illustrating the methods of base line measurement, triangulation and precise leveling.

The third course is railroad surveying, construction and economics. Field work and recitations, covering the methods of establishing grade lines, laying out circular and transition curves, the reconnaissance, preliminary, and location surveys for a railroad; earth work computation, maps, profiles, plans of structures and estimates.

The equipment of the college for this work is thorough and modern.

The drafting room equipment includes a number of first-class adjustable tables and desks, fitted with all accessories, complete for work; also an extensive outfit for blue printing, and many special instruments, such as parallel attachments for tables, railroad curves, splines, protractors, plainmeters, special scales, drafting machnies, and computing instruments. The library of the college contains a special section on the general subject of mechanical drawing, which is accessible at all times for student use.

HIS WIFE GLAD TO SEE MARSHALL AT WORK

[By Latest Mail]

WASHINGTON. — Vice President Marshall, Mrs. Marshall and James M. McIntosh, an Indiana banker, went to the Chevy Chase Club for dinner last night in the automobile furnished by the government for the vice president.

On the way back about 11 o'clock the car broke down in one of the darkest places in the road. The lights went out with the crash and the vice president and Mr. McIntosh built a fire in the road to give the chauffeur light to work. The break was a bad one and finally Messrs. Marshall and McIntosh had to back into a corn field to get fodder for fuel.

It was close to 1 o'clock in the morning when the patched-up machine came puffing up to the Shoreham and the vice president's face was black from blowing on the fire.

"But," said Mrs. Marshall, "it was delightful out there in the dark to see Mr. Marshall and Mr. McIntosh work as they did to keep a light."

NOT READY TO MEET EASTERN POLO PLAYERS

Information That Cooperstown Team Plans to Invade Hawaii This Year Causes Consternation

Hawaii is faced with a polo invasion this winter. Mainland papers have from time to time carried stories to the effect that one or more crack eastern polo teams were coming to the coast for the winter season, and that a journey to Hawaii was on the schedule, but the first authentic information to this effect comes in a letter from Major Collin G. Ross to Walter F. Dillingham, which was received a few days ago.

Major Ross, who is secretary of the Coronado Country Club, and a well known polo expert, writes that he has recently returned from eastern polo centers, and that he was informed that the crack Cooperstown polo team, winner of many big events, was to come to Hawaii in November, play here for a month or six weeks, and then return to California for the winter tournament circuit.

The Cooperstown team is composed of Von Stade, Rumsey, Beadleson and Stevenson, and is rated almost as high as the famous Meadowbrook four that defended the international cup.

Locals Not Ready.

This news has thrown consternation into the local polo camp. At any other time these visitors would have been as welcome as the flowers in May, and would have been given a welcome and reception of the true Hawaiian brand, but it would be next to impossible to get together the polo men two months from now.

The polo season is closed, or practically so; the Oahu club's stables at Moanalua will be shut down after the present series with the cavalry, and the string will be turned out with the exception of a few green horses which will be worked throughout the winter in preparation for next year. Walter Dillingham, prime mover in polo, and captain of the All-Hawaii team, expects to leave for the mainland in a short time, to be gone several weeks. Altogether, November is about the worst time imaginable for polo in Hawaii.

Plans Made on Coast.

"It looks from this letter of Major Ross as though Malcolm Stevenson and Perry Beadelson were really going to carry out the enthusiastic plans they talked over when we were all on the coast last spring," said Walter Dillingham this morning. "At that time they asked if we could change our playing season to give them a chance at us on our home grounds, and we said certainly, that we would do anything to get them here. It was understood, though, that we would have plenty of notice, for polo isn't a game that can be gone into hap hazard, and the pony question has to be considered months in advance. In fact, the tentative plan was for the eastern team to come here in 1914, so that the All-Hawaii team could return with them to California for the 1915 season. Besides, our ponies have been in training for more than a year, and have had quite enough polo. Three of the best of them, Carry the News, Helen C, and Dandy, that the Hawaii players lent for the international matches, haven't been sent back to us yet, and this also is an important consideration, for to meet an invasion of this kind, we would have to call on every available high-class pony.

Ponies Played Out.

"Another thing that makes the proposed visit inopportune," said Dillingham, "is the ground question. It would be very much better all round to play these games at Kapiolani Park than at Moanalua. Such a series of games would create a lot of interest in Honolulu, and there are thousands of polo enthusiasts who would go to see the matches if they could reach the field by trolley. Moanalua is a beautiful location, and has been a boon to the polo men, but the field has limitations from a playing standpoint. All we need to make a first-class field at Kapiolani is water. Give us an adequate supply, and in six months we can have a top notch playing surface."

It would be a great thing for polo here to have a field as accessible as Kapiolani. More than three thousand dollars have been spent on filling in the field, piping it for water, and planting grass. The water that was expected was not forthcoming, and the field has never been finished. There is talk now of the supervisors sinking a well, and providing an adequate water supply for the polo field, which would be one of the greatest attractions of the park.

Field Damaged.

The field has been given some rough usage, but it is not seriously damaged, and with rolling and plenty of water should round out in good shape. The military tournaments that have been held from time to time have played havoc with the turf and water connections. The artillery exhibition drills resulted in breaking the covers of some of the sunken hydrant covers, and smashing pipe connections, damage amounting to several hundred dollars being done. One end of the field is now being used for baseball, but of course, if water is supplied, and the field turned over to the polo club as originally promised, none of these abuses will be permitted, and a groundkeeper will be on hand at all times to see that the field is used for polo only.

In the meantime, the local players are waiting more definite news of the proposed invasion. Walter Dillingham is in communication with Frank Baldwin of Maui, and if direct word comes from Stevenson, the locals will be in a position to give their answer.

WORLD'S RECORD MILE PACED BY DIRECTUM I

[By Latest Mail]

GOSHEN, N. Y.—By pacing a mile in 2:02¾ in the final heat of the 2:09 pace here, August 20, Directum I, the sensational pacer owned by James Butler of New York, established a new world's record, reducing the mark set by himself at Monroe last week by one and a half seconds.

This new mark equals the time made by Uhlan, the champion trotter, two years ago. It was announced that owing to the accident that Uhlan met with on Tuesday afternoon, when he struck his quarter boot in rounding the turn, the champion would be unable to go against his record of 2:02¾ today.

MAISEL, COOK AND WILLIAMS MAY FORM NUCLEUS OF FAST TEAM FOR FRANK CHANCE

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK.—Frank Chance's recent purchases in his further attempts to build up his dilapidated and downtrodden Yankees aroused the hope of loyal fans here that the team might be on a better basis next season, instead of tail enders, as they are at present. It was predicted that the Highlanders would make a stronger showing on their present last swing around the western circuit. The purchase of Fritz Maisel for $12,000 and two players from the Baltimore team of the International League, and the acquisition of Williams and Cook materially strengthen the cellar dwellers. The sale of Maisel was the talk of the baseball world. Picked up in the sand lots of Baltimore in 1910, he became one of the best infielders in the minor league. His rise to major league caliber was meteoric. This little player is very fast on the bases, and his fielding is sensational. Both Cook and Williams are fast men, and handy with the bat. They are making good for Chance.

GREENFIELD AND CASTLE PAIRED

On account of the rain, only one match was played off in the doubles tennis championship tournament yesterday. On the Pacific courts, Castle and his new partner, F. E. Greenfield, of Ewa, defeated Guard and Littlejohn in an interesting four-set match, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

This match caused all sorts of complications before it was finally settled. Originally Castle was to have paired with Lowrey, but the latter was injured Sunday, and unable to play. Then Castle phoned to Ewa to see if he could get a substitute partner, and Eklund came up. He and Castle beat Guard and Littlejohn, but Eklund had already figured in the tournament and been defeated, and it was manifestly absurd for him to play a second time. The committee threw out the match, but with the consent of the opposition, allowed Castle to pair with Greenfield, and the match was re-played with the result above noted. Of course the whole proceeding was highly irregular, and Guard and Littlejohn would have been well within their rights to claim the match by default, when the team drawn against them was unable to take the courts.

California hospitals claim that it is a practical impossibility to live up to the eight-hour labor law for women, inasmuch as not only the nurses but the patients are subjected to hardships on account of it.

READY FOR GOLF EVENT

Country Club golfers are working hard in preparation for the tournament next Saturday that will mark the opening of the new 18 hole course. The understanding is that no one is to play the course until tournament day, so that everyone gets an even break at the new holes.

It is believed that a record golfing crowd will turn out to take part in the tournament, which will be medal play handicap, and several sets of drawings will be made, to accommodate players who arrive at different times, and to avoid conjestion of the links. The first pairings will be made at noon, and at half hour intervals until 3 o'clock drawings will be made. No entrance fee will be charged, and the tournament is open to all club members.

The club has put up a handsome suit case and a kit bag for the best and second net scores, and Wall and Lougherty have put up a cup for the best gross score.

A rear-end collision between two St. Louis and San Francisco passenger trains at Newburg, Mo., resulted in the injury of twenty-eight persons. None of the injuries was serious.

Assistant Superintendent Oneal of the United States mint at San Francisco, was overcome by the heat while traveling across the desert and is in a serious condition at Ogden, Utah.

POLO TEAMS IN SECOND CONTEST

The second teams of the Oahu and Fourth Cavalry polo clubs are meeting this afternoon at Leilehua, on the cavalry-artillery field, in the second game of the series. The first game played last Saturday at Moanalua was won by the Oahus, 14 to 2¾.

Captain R. W. Shingle has made some changes in the local team, in order to give more players a chance to get into the game. Today Oahu will line up with C. Lucas, A. Magoon, G. Macfarlane and R. W. Shingle in the saddle.

The game is scheduled for 3 o'clock and it is expected that a number of Honolulu enthusiasts will make the trip to Schofield to witness the match.

ENGLAND HAS NEW HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

Since the defeat of Bombardier Wells, the heavyweight champion of Great Britain, by Gunboat Smith in New York, the Britishers have been casting about for another "white hope," one who will be able to "stand the gaff" and weather the storm when it comes to body punishment, and from information at hand they have unearthed another "hope" in the person of Dick Smith, the amateur champion of England.

Dick has decided to throw in his lot with the professionals. Born 27 years ago, Smith possesses all the necessary qualifications for a "white hope," and may go further than some of the blasted hopes. He stands 6 feet 1 1-2 inches, weighs about 190 pounds and has a very satisfactory record. Of his 49 contests he has wop 45, lost three and drawn one.

Formerly a soldier, he followed Bombardier Wells as champion of India. As an amateur boxer he has done remarkably well, having won the championship of Great Britain in 1911-12-13, while a member of the London police force.

He probably will not take on Bombardier Wells and Georges Carpentier for his initial efforts as a professional, but one of the lesser lights. Professional and amateur boxing are vastly different things on the other side of the Atlantic, as many amateurs have found on taking the plunge into the professional waters.

The referees view things from an entirely different standpoint, and a 20-round contest with 3-minute rounds under professional rules takes a bit of negotiating. Under amateur laws boxing contests are not allowed of longer duration than six rounds of two minutes each, but for the championships and most interclub competitions the bouts are limited to three rounds.

Amateur referees are very strict in upholding the rules of the game, and some of their antics would not be tolerated by professionals for one minute. Clinching is barred and a boxer is liable to be disqualified for a second offense after having been once cautioned.

Then again, amateurs are forbidden to receive any advice during the progress of a bout, and any instructions that the second may have for his boy has to wait until the round ends. Under amateur rules boxing is kept very clean, which is more than can be said for the professionals.

Therefore the entry of Dick Smith (namesake of Gunboat) will be watched with interest, even by followers on this side of the big pond.

NOTHING IS LOST

Webster says "That is LOST which cannot be recovered."

The fact that your ring keys, dog, purse, or other personal property has disappeared is no sign that it is lost.

The easiest way to recover it is to tell all Honolulu about it through a "Lost" want ad.

The saying "Losers weepers, finders keepers" does not obtain in Honolulu where the finders are anxious to return what they find.

Often the offer of a small reward helps quick returns.

You may phone the ad and have it charged if you so desire.

Fort Shafter Notes

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

FORT SHAFTER, Sept. 3.—News of the assignment of two new second Lieutenants, graduates of this year's class at West Point, was received yesterday, Lieutenant Charles Bishop Lyman of Hilo, and Douglas Taft Green, of Chicago. Both of these young officers are spending their three months graduating leave at their respective homes and are ordered to leave for their new station on September fifteenth. Lieutenant Lyman having won signal baseball honors at the Academy will be a great addition to the regimental team.

The "murder store" at Kahuiki, in which the Chinese storekeeper, and his young wife were brutaly murdered by four blood-thirsty Filipinos a few months ago, has been shifted from its location at the foot of Government Hill to a place in rear of the street railway terminal, and will be repainted and remodeled, and used as a sub-exchange, where candies, tobaccos, soda water and soft drinks will be sold, besides being used as a waiting room.

Lieutenant Homer N. Preston has been relieved from duty as Post Range, Signal, Ordnance and Engineer Officer, and regimental librarian by Lieutenant Sharn, so that he can take advantage of two months leave of absence in the states. He expects to join Mrs. Preston in California, where she is looking after her daughter, Mrs. Reed, of the Second, who was sent home very ill a few weeks ago.

Company K, second infantry, started on a hike to Kort Kamehameha yesterday to see the big guns, hydroaeroplanes, etc.

Most of the men are recruits and the trip is to be made for the purpose of hardening them for the coming maneuvers which take place next month.

Several of the post people were fortunate enough to be invited to one of the most enjoyable parties of the season Sunday, when Mr. Warren Wood with his mother chaperoning, gave a yachting party from the city to Pearl Harbor, Fort Kamehameha, and return.

1st Lieutenant Philip J. Lauber, has been relieved from duty with Company H, second Infantry, and will depart on the first available transport to the states, and avail himself of two months leave of absence, already granted, which he will spend in the east.

Lieutenant Joseph A. McAndrew, now absent attending signal school at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, has been transferred to Company "B" second infantry from Company H, and Lieutenant Booth from Company "B" to Company H.

The regimental detachment under Lieutenants Mathews and Crockett will make a trip up to Kalihi pali today, where advantage will be taken of the opportunity to teach the men the art of individual cooking.

Captain Elentheres H. Cooke and Lieutenant Lindsay McD. Sylvester have been detailed as member of the general court martial relieving Captain Benjamin H. Watkins and Lieutenant Joseph C. Kay who have charge of the construction of the new cantonment.

Captain and Mrs. W. K. Gibson entertained at a very delightful dinner Monday evening, having as guests Lt. and Mrs. Jackson, Miss Cooley, of New Orleans, Major Williams, Lieutenant Campanole and Miss Fisher, of Los Angeles.

The survivors of the lost steamship State of California have reached Seattle on the Northwestern.

OVER-NIGHT FEDERAL WIRELESS

To the Advertiser:

Declaring that the supremacy of federal courts to State Courts is due because law and justice prevail rather than because of mere sentiment, and delivering what was considered as a veiled slap at Secretary Bryan's "Confession as to the cost of living in Washington," former President William Howard Taft this afternoon delivered an address before the American Bar Association on "The Selection and Tenure of Judges."

Arguing against election of the judiciary, Professor Taft declared:

"The most difficult problem in popular government is to determine a satisfactory method of selecting members of its judicial branch. There can be but one answer to the query, "Can I get the best judge by election or appointment?" The selection can be readily popular without resorting to an election.

"The chief executive elected by the people to represent them in executive work does, in appointing a judge, execute the popular will. He can search among members of the bar."

Smuggling of arms is being carried on in a determined and bold manner by friends of both the federal and constitutional forces in Mexico despite one of the most extensive blockades ever attempted on land by the United States army.

Both Factions at Work.

The Huerta forces, apparently taking no chances on a shortage of arms and ammunition in the event of continued trouble, are now resorting to the tactics followed for so long by the rebels. For several hundred miles along the Rio Grande and the line dividing Texas and Mexico the United States now has soldiers stationed patroling. The customs officers are also aiding in the work.

Despite assuring reports from Washington that the crisis in Mexico is at an end, the belief is persistent that intervention will be found necessary and orders for an invasion of the troubled country south of the Rio Grande may be issued at any time.

An armistice between the warring factions of Mexico until after the elections in October, amnesty for all persons now engaged in the revolution, and a signed pledge by Provisional President Huerta that he is not a candidate for President, and that he will hand over the government to the candidate for President receiving the highest number of votes at an election where every citizen will be given the right to vote without coercion.

This, in brief, is believed to be the contents of an ultimatum now being contents of an ultimatum now being prepared by Provisional President Huerta, to be issued shortly, and for a time at least restore peace to Mexico.

This phase of the Mexican situation would not be discussed in the state department today, but the fact that it was given out that negotiations are now a a standstill, and President Wilson is awaiting the next move by Huerta, would indicate that the report has much foundation.

That ships outfitted in Seattle and San Francisco by American capital are taking at least half of the furs obtained in the Canadian Northwest and that this will continue until transportation facilities on Canadian territory are greatly improved, is the statement made by J. K. Cornwall, head of the Northern Trading Company of Edmonton. Cornwall says Canadians cannot compete with Americans because of transportation difficulties. He quotes figures and advocates the establishment of a purely Canadian fleet of steamers to trade between the Pacific coast and the Arctic.

What is believed to be but the beginning of wholesale prosecutions of members of a smuggling ring that has existed along the Pacific coast for years, came last night with the return of fourteen indictments in San Francisco by the federal grand jury against alleged members of the ring. Of this number ten are former employes of the customs department. They are charged with smuggling opium.

The number of American refugees now gathered at Vera Cruz, waiting an opportunity to be taken out of the country, has reached about seventy-five. Envoy Lind, as yet undecided as to whether to return to the City of Mexico, is aiding in caring for the Americans here. It is expected that a vessel will arrive tomorrow to take the Americans aboard.

Announcement of his engagement to marry Margaret I. Miller, a beautiful Cherokee Indian maiden, now in California, was made today by James Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete, and a member of the New York team of the National League. The couple will be married in October, the exact date to be decided later.

Natives who arrived at Papua, New Guinea, today from the interior brought word of the murder of John Henry Warner, German-American minerologist, who was searching unexplored sections of the island for radium. Warner was killed by cannibals.
