

Records Are Smashed In Great Carnival Swimming Meet

'FRISCO BOY BEATS DUKE IN 50 YARDS

Bob Small Ties World's Record in Defeating the American Champ by Inches

KAHANAMOKU MAKES NEW 100 STRAIGHTAWAY MARK

Hangs Up World's Figures with Ease — Miss Ruth Stacker Takes Fifty Yards for Women, Miss Legros Second — Coast Entries Make Fine Showing — Hui Nalu Victorious in Relay

One world's record broken, one world's record equaled, one world's record established, and four Hawaiian records, bettered was the net result of the Carnival swimming meet this morning, held under the auspices of the A. A. U., which will make the records official. With no wind and the water in the navy slip as smooth as glass, conditions were ideal for record breaking, while the entry of six speedy swimmers from the Pacific Coast provided inter-sectional rivalry that has been lacking in former meets.

The real sensation of the day was the defeat of Duke Kahanamoku in the 50-yard event, by E. R. Small, formerly of Pittsburg, but now a San Franciscan. Small covered the distance in superb style, winning by less than three seconds, which equals the world's record held for several years by Wickham, of Australia, and breaks the American and Hawaiian records for straightaway in open water, of 28 seconds flat, held by the local champion. As Small and Duke passed under the wire almost arm for arm, the pair trod water and exchanged salutes, while the crowd gave the new champion a great reception, first for his win against the hitherto unbeatable Hawaiian, and again when the record breaking time was announced.

"Someone had to win," said Duke, when he climbed onto the penton and congratulated his rival, "and I don't feel a bit bad about being beaten in world's record time."

Probably the most exciting race of the day was the relay, in which Duke just managed to beat out George Cunha, after the latter had a start of several yards. Duke put up a superb race, and it is a pity that he was not officially clocked for the lap, as he seemed to be swimming it in faster time than in the 100 yard race. The Coast swimmers showed their good sportsmanship in this race, for they were not allowed to enter as representatives of any one club, being a pick-up organization. However, it was agreed that if they won they would take the cup, although the Olympic Club would not be credited with the points. They were not over-anxious to swim, but went in so as not to disappoint the crowd. Both McWood, who swam the first lap, and Schultz, who swam the third, got off the course and lost considerable distance. Leary swam a magnificent lap as No. 2, making up all the distance lost by McWood, but Small couldn't catch the flying Duke on the final sprint.

The mile was another spectacular race, as to second place. Walter Pomroy won by more than 100 yards, lapping both Keaweamahi and Bushnell, his only opponents, on the twelfth lap. The former kept about six yards ahead of Bushnell until 1600 yards had been covered, when the latter spurred and for 160 yards held level with his opponent. The finish was like the end of a 50 yard sprint, instead of a mile grind.

Duke wasn't pressed very hard in the 200, winning by eight yards from George Cunha. Lincoln Johnson, the game San Francisco man, who can swim about twice as fast with only one leg to kick as most people can with both pedal extremities, was a good third.

The swimming of Miss Ruth Stacker in the 50-yard event for girls was splendid. She won as she pleased, with Miss LeGros second and Miss Lane third. Miss Kibling got off the course before she had gone a dozen strokes. Miss Stacker's time was 1-5 of a second slower than her own American record of 31 seconds flat, but she seemed to be swimming in better form than last year, and in the Views of Big Crowd at Harbor Races, Stars Speeding Through Water, and Some Winners

A perfect morning and ideal water conditions greeted spectators and contestants at the harbor races this morning. The two large pictures show the crowd at the navy slip. The lower one shows Duke Kahanamoku speeding far into the lead in the 440-yard swim. At the upper right is Miss Ruth Stacker, winner of the 50-yard race for women, and below is Champion Kahanamoku and his smile. The Hawaiian champion was hard-pressed this morning and for the first time in many a day lost a sprint race. The Mid-Pacific Carnival races proved a great success and will be probably repeated, perhaps with Australian entries, at the 1915 Carnival.

NEW RECORDS.

50 yards straightaway—E. R. Small (U), 23 3-5 sec. This breaks the Hawaiian record of 24 sec. held by Kahanamoku, and equals the world's record held by A. Wickham, of Australia.
100 yards straightaway—D. P. Kahanamoku, 54 4-5 sec. This breaks Kahanamoku's own world's record of 55 1-5, and is within one-fifth of a second of the world's tank record, held by the same swimmer.
880 yards—Walter Pomroy (O), 13 min. 24 sec. This breaks the Hawaiian record of 13 min. 26 4-5 sec. held by Vincent Genoves.
One mile—Walter Pomroy (O), 26 min. 49 1-5 sec. This beats the Hawaiian record of Frederick Wilhelm, of 27 min. 45 sec.
400-yard relay—Hui Nalu team, 4 min. 5 3-5 sec. This probably establishes a world's record, as the distance and conditions are unusual.

JAPANESE LANTERN PARADE BIG EVENT OF THIS EVENING

Along the streets of the city this evening the Japanese lantern parade will be seen. It bids fair to be one of the most interesting and unique features of the program. The committee of Japanese who have managed this affair have gone into it on a large scale, and its success is a thing assured.

In addition to the march with lanterns, there will be several prettily decorated and illuminated floats entered by Japanese. The paraders will assemble at Aala park, marching up King street to Palace square, crossing through and turning back to King street, from there returning to Aala park.

WHITE WOLF AND BANDIT FOLLOWERS MURDER 1300 —ARE NOW SURROUNDED

PEKING, China, Feb. 21.—Reports made here by the military authorities now trying to hunt down White Wolf, the Chinese outlaw, say that on January 29, when the bandit and his men sacked Lieuchow, they massacred 1,300 men, women and children, including the father of a rich Jesuit. They still hold two foreigners for ransom.

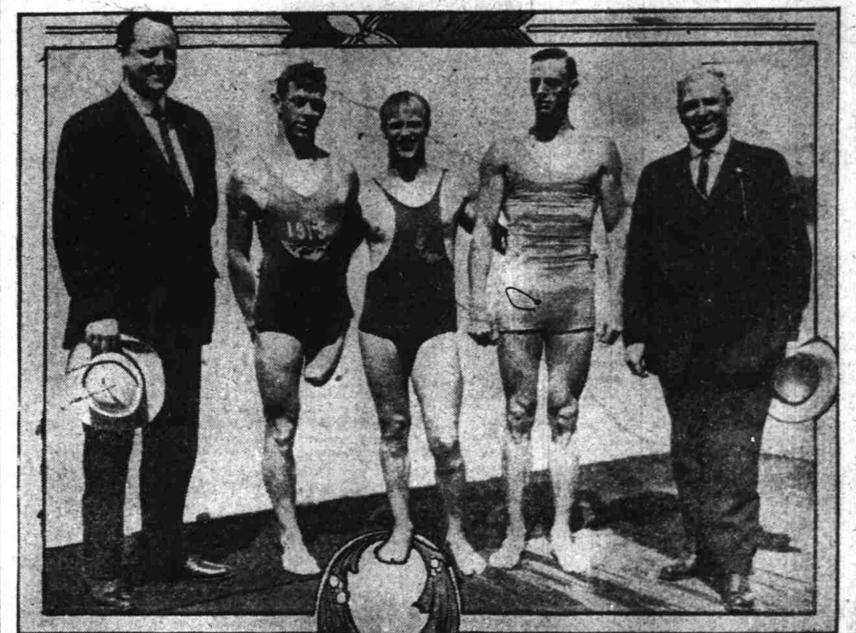

Twenty-five thousand regulars are now surrounding the bandit and his men in a strongly entrenched position but the regulars show every disinclination to move on to the attack. The bandits have modern rifles and are ready to die before being taken.

6 CALIFORNIA COUNTIES FLOOD-STRICKEN; WITH ALL COMMUNICATION HIT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—As a result of the floods, the cities and towns of six counties of southern California are now without light, power, telegraphy or telephone service and the trolleys and railroads are almost entirely at a standstill. Five persons are dead of exposure and prostration and many orchards and businesses are an absolute loss.

The government's estimate of 13,589,171 bales of cotton ginned to January 16 exceeded all expectations, notwithstanding the fact that private estimates forecasted ginnings of approximately 13,550,000 bales.

BRITAIN IS AROUSED BY 'EXECUTION'

Killing of William Benton, British Subject, by Mexican Rebels, Raises Storm in Empire

AMBASSADOR ORDERED TO INVESTIGATE FULLY

Foreign Office Wants to Get the Fullest Details—May Mean Aggressive Action

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 21.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Great Britain's ambassador at Washington, was today given emphatic instructions to obtain fullest details as to the killing of William Benton, British subject and wealthy Mexican landowner, at Juarez last Tuesday by rebel soldiers. The news of the "execution" and its sensational developments of protest from American citizens and others partially acquainted with the facts has created a storm of comment throughout the British empire.

It is likely to arouse public opinion to demand that the British government take a more aggressive stand to protect its subjects in the southern republic.

The London Standard this morning says that Benton's execution emphasizes the fact that some kind of international compulsion will soon be necessary to stop the Mexican government in the city of corruption and cruelty.

Official utterances are moderate and cautious, as well as markedly friendly to the United States.

The way is now open for the diplomats of the affected countries to discuss the canal tolls question.

Reason for Changes. It is small wonder that both parties in Great Britain should be devising new land policies, if for no other reason than because of the alarming decrease in the agricultural population of that country. In 1851 the percentage of males engaged in agriculture was 22.5 of the entire population of England and Wales, whereas in 1901 it had fallen to 9.5 per cent.

Fame of British Engineers. The work done by British engineers in far-off colonies has given them a well-deserved fame, but few in the United States, whether engineers or laymen, understand that works that can rank with the best in British Colonial engineering history have been performed by American engineers in the Philippines.

Yesterday and Today. There was a time not very long ago when brocades with their large conventional designs, were used solely by the interior decorators for upholstery and draperies.

Japanese Enter Coal Competition. Competition for mastery in the coal market, which has been going on between the Mitsui and Mitsui Bishi companies, is reported as now very keen.

Fight Awakens Much Interest. The shipping competition between the Nippon Yusen and the British India Shipping Company on the Calcutta line is still maintained.

Coronium Very Elusive. Coronium, according to this morning's dispatches, is "the excitement of the moment" in scientific circles, but the occasion of the London Daily Citizen's excitement is by no means obvious.

Wear a Lei. An especial point made at the first meeting of the decorations committee was that every man, woman and child on the streets the day of the Floral Parade should wear a lei.

Miss Ruth Stacker. I'm glad the swimming is all over. But then, ish-ga-bibble! "George Washington" will be the subject of Bishop Restarick's address at the Sunday evening sermon. The Bishop will also preach at the morning service.

SEVERAL BADLY HURT IN EARLY MORNING PALI AUTO ACCIDENT

A party of sixteen Japanese and Chinese, from Koolauloa and Koolahopo on the windward side of the island, figured in a serious automobile collision and smashup early this morning, the upper Pali road being the scene of the accident that sent four badly injured occupants of the machine, rendered unconscious by the impact, to the hospital for treatment.

At an early hour this afternoon it was stated that while the injuries inflicted through crashing of a glass windshield were exceedingly painful, no serious results would follow.

Automobile number 1352 loaded with a merry party of holiday visitors was proceeding along the Pali road in the direction of Honolulu when in reaching a point several hundred feet above the city and county 643 is alleged attempted to pass.

By eye-witnesses to the disaster it is stated that 643, containing a party of Japanese, after making several unsuccessful attempts to get by the other machine, ran into car 1352, the front end of car 643 receiving much damage, in addition to the smashing of fenders and guards, the glass windshield was shattered into fragments, much of the glass inflicting cuts and bruises upon the helpless occupants of the car.

Special Officers Chilton and Ferry are conducting a rigid inquiry into the accident with a view of instituting prosecution.

SAMUEL R. DOWDLE OF MAUI PASSES AWAY AT LEAHI HOSPITAL

Samuel R. Dowdle, for 18 years past a resident of Maui, died about midnight last night at the Leahi hospital, where he had been for several months past. The remains were cremated, the funeral service being held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Masonic temple. Interment will be on Maui. The deceased was about 49 years of age, and is survived by a mother and several brothers and sisters living in Oakland. Mrs. C. C. Campbell of Punahoa is also a sister. Mr. Dowdle was an architect of ability, and most of the more important buildings on the island of Maui are from his designs, one of the most recent being the new home of Harry Baldwin at Ohiwa. About a year and a half ago the wife of the deceased was killed in a runaway accident, under peculiarly distressing circumstances.

Charging embezzlement of church funds to the amount of $374.05, a warrant yesterday was sworn out by Rev. W. K. Poal, pastor of the Moanalua and Kalia Hawaiian church for the arrest of Motalo Kajahunani, treasurer of the church. On account of his having been found sick in bed, Kajahunani was not taken to the police station. He stated at first, it is said, that he had no church money in his possession, but later it is said he admitted he had $354.90.

Owing to an error in failure to obtain bookings it was thought early in the week that the swimming team from San Francisco would be unable to leave for their homes until week after next, but it was learned today that accommodations probably can be obtained for them on the Wilhelmina, leaving next Wednesday. That vessel will be filled to capacity, however, largely by the homeward-bound delegation of Elks.

SPRAINS WRIST SIGNING CHECKS FOR $35,000,000

[By Latest Mail] ALBANY — "My wrist is sprained," said John J. Kennedy, state treasurer, to some friends with whom he was dining at the Teapeyck.

"Met with an accident?" "No, just from signing checks. One was for $19,000,000, payable to the Manhattan Bank of New York; another was for $8,000,000, and then others for little sums—a mere matter of $10,000,000. Oh! My poor wrist."

Then the state treasurer explained that the checks, totaling $35,000,000, were to take up short-term notes issued by the state last year in anticipation of a recent bond sale.

PERSONALITIES

MRS. EDWARD B. BLANCHARD of Haku, Maui, is spending the Carnival Week in Honolulu with her husband.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

On account of being a legal holiday there was no session of the stock and bond exchange today. A meeting of the members of Harmony Chapter No. 4, O. E. S., has been called for 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Masonic Temple.

Opposite the Star-Bulletin office, upon the Wicke homestead roof, a beautifully timely sight is seen, being the huapala vine in full blossom. The bloom is yellow, one of the carnival colors. "Huapala" means "sweet-heart."

Special services will be held in Central Union church tomorrow, both in the morning and in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to both visitors and townfolk to be in attendance. Musical programs have been arranged for both services.

All records for meals served in the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria were broken last evening the occasion having been the third "ladies' night." Manager Floyd Emmans had prepared a tasty menu and a Hawaiian orchestra dispensed music throughout the dinner hour.

On the ground of non-support, Mrs. Frances Ellsworth has filed a petition in circuit court asking a divorce from William D. Ellsworth, the contractor. They have been married since August 11, 1881 and have five children, four of whom have reached their majority.

A joint meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies of Kaunakapili and Kawalahao churches has been called for 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the latter church. The morning and evening services at Kawalahao church tomorrow will be conducted by Dr. Justin Emerson.

Business on the stock and bond exchange has been very light during the past week. The festive spirit of the Carnival is no doubt responsible. The exchange was closed today and will not be opened again until Tuesday, legal holidays for those two days having been declared by Governor Pinkham.

FORT STREET JEWELER VICTIM OF ROBBERS WHO SECURE FIFTEEN WATCHES

Fifteen gold plated watches that reposed in the display window of Frank H. Kruger, a Fort street jeweler, were found abstracted at daylight this morning, while police officers were making their round of the business district.

A ragged hole about 10 inches in diameter pierced the plate glass through which the thief secured his booty.

The window is declared to have been intact shortly after one o'clock this morning when an officer passed the premises. It was during the earlier hours of the morning when the lower portion of Fort street is deserted that the theft was committed.

A large rock was found lodged in the midst of a collection of watches, ornaments and smaller articles of jewelry when Captain of Detectives McDuffie was called to the scene. The officers have a very slender clew upon which to run down the perpetrators. Kruger stated this morning that a $150 watch, resting in a leather case, was overlooked by the burglars. The jeweler estimates his loss at about $200.

William Palmer, colored, an enlisted man belonging to company H, 25th infantry was taken to central police station this afternoon pending further investigation by Captain of Detectives McDuffie concerning his connection with the robbery of the F. H. Kruger jewelry store at an early hour this morning. Placed under arrest at the same time by Special Officer Rothman of the detective department were William Frost and P. Velasco, a Filipino. Upon the person of Palmer was found a new gold-plated watch similar to the 15 missing from the show window. Velasco is held for having a second timepiece in his possession of similar design which he claims he purchased for 75 cents from a man who he claimed answered the description of William Frost. Three watches are now at the police station, while information now at hand is expected to result in the recovery of others.

SIBERT MAY BE CHOSEN TO BUILD ALASKA ROAD

[By Latest Mail] WASHINGTON—President Wilson has decided, it is reported, to appoint Lieutenant-Colonel William L. Sibert, United States engineer, a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission and second in authority to Colonel Goethals in building the Panama canal as engineer in chief of the Alaska government-owned railway which is to extend 1000 miles and cost $40,000,000.

Secretary of the Interior Lane wanted Colonel Goethals put in charge of building the railroad, but Goethals is said to have intimated he did not want the big task and suggested that Sibert be appointed. The bill as it passed the senate provides for the use of canal machinery. The house is expected to pass the bill by a big majority.

PRONOUNCED GO-E-THALS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The name of Col. George W. Goethals, first civil governor of the Panama Canal Zone, is pronounced GO-e-thals. At least that is what he was called at West Point, and the way they say it in the army. The accent is on the first syllable. The "o" of the second syllable is pronounced like er—as a person sometimes responds when he does not understand a thing said to him and wants it repeated. The second syllable is more or less sturred and subordinated.

SPECIAL ORDERS REGULATE USE OF NEW ARMORY

Special orders No. 15, relating to the use of the new national guard armory, have just been issued by Adjutant-general Jones, N. G. H. They are as follows:

"2. The gallery thus reserved shall be divided into box spaces by partitions and draped and decorated by the person or persons to whom the use of the hall is granted, at their own expense, and without expense to, and in such manner as, the adjutant-general may designate.

"3. Such number of seats in said boxes as may be designated by the adjutant-general, with an equal number of tickets of admission to the hall, shall be furnished to the adjutant-general without charge therefor, by the person or persons to whom the use of the hall is granted.

"4. One box reservation containing six seats will be made for Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani and party.

"5. One box reservation will be made for the governor and party.

"6. Box reservations will be made for the National Guard of Hawaii.

"7. No nails, screws or tacks will be permitted to be driven into the wood work of the building, without permission first had in writing from the adjutant-general, nor will any paint or preparation be placed on the woodwork or walls, or any preparation be placed on the floor other than powdered wax.

"8. The janitor shall be paid a fee of not less than $5.00 for the extra work and labor incident to the use of the hall. Where no charge is made for rent, the sum of $7.50 will be paid to the armory board for the electric current, etc., used. These charges are per diem charges. All charges for the use of the hall shall be paid in advance.

"9. No alcoholic liquor shall be sold or furnished in the armory.

"By order of the governor. JOHN W. JONES, The Adjutant-General."

GOVERNOR SUES TO DISINCORPORATE TOWN [By Latest Mail] SALEM, Ore.—Governor West has instructed Attorney-general Crawford to bring suit, disincorporate Copperfield, the Baker county village which has been kept under martial law for the past three weeks, following the closing of the saloons there by state forces. "If being established to the satisfaction of this office," says the governor in his letter to Attorney-general Crawford, "that until taken from them by the military authorities of the state, the government of the town of Copperfield, Ore., was in the hands of a lawless element, which was using the charter as a shield for vice and as a protection against criminal prosecution, I hereby request that your office kindly take the steps provided by law in order that the act of incorporation may be voided." To be seventy years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A FLAW IN THE PRIMARY LAW?

Some of the Republican leaders have discovered what they believe to be a serious flaw in the direct primary law passed by the legislature in 1913. Inasmuch as Republicans of the territory will assemble in this city on February 24 for the purchase of adopting new party rules to conform with this primary law, the discovery of the apparent discrepancy is important. It should be carefully considered by legal authorities within the party.

The discovery, in brief, is that the following section of the new law appears to be invalid:

"Provided, that any candidate receiving the votes of a majority of the registered voters of the district in which he is a candidate shall be thereby duly and legally elected to the office for which he is a candidate at such primary."

This provision is commonly known as the "one election" provision. If it is invalid, no matter what the size of the leading candidate's vote at the primaries, he would be compelled to run again at the general election.

The reason for believing this section invalid has been given to the Star-Bulletin as follows: Section 14, Chapter II, of the organic act provides:

"That a general election shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, 1900, and every second year thereafter."

Section 13 of the same chapter provides: "That no person shall sit as a senator or representative in the legislature unless elected under and in conformity with this act."

It is therefore asserted that election of senators and representatives at any other time than on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of election year is invalid, as under the organic act legislators chosen except on the prescribed date have no right to sit as members of the territorial body.

The organic act further provides that the territorial legislature shall have the right to alter or amend any part of the election laws of Hawaii, but various students who have pondered over the problem say that the restrictive provisions quoted above have not been changed.

It is possible that the passage of the primary act itself, with the section first quoted concerning the candidate receiving a majority of all votes cast, operates to amend the election laws. This view is not held by those who believe that the primary act contains the serious flaw.

The question is one that may require a court decision to settle with any degree of satisfaction. It might well be made the subject of consideration prior to the coming Republican convention and discussion during the convention.

BEET SUGAR HARD HIT

The beet sugar industry of the United States cannot long survive under the Democratic free trade tariff bill, declares the San Francisco Chronicle and goes on to point out the following facts as proof of its assertion:

"Two factories in this state will not operate the coming season and have caused all land which they own to be sown to grain. The very large world crop of 1912-13 so reduced the margin of profit in beet sugar that only our most fortunate factories made any money in 1913, and it is said that another large crop is in sight. This would not of itself cause any factory in this state to close down, but with a certainty of closing after this year two of our factories have concluded to quit. The others will continue in the hope that the free sugar provision of the tariff will be repealed. With the cost of beet sugar from 50 to 75 cents above that of imported cane sugar—both refined—the continuance of beet sugar production is impossible. The Louisiana cane sugar industry is also ruined and Hawaiian sugar companies have ceased paying dividends in order to be able to pay debts when the crash comes.

"This is a veritable disaster. Our beet sugar industry has been one of the most potent factors in improving our methods of agriculture, now acknowledged to be a matter of state and national importance. It is only by the very best agricultural practice that sugar beets can be raised at all. On beet sugar land rotation of crops is imperative and the soil, after beet culture, is in a condition for a maximum yield of other crops. The industry was growing rapidly in this state and its ruin is an agricultural calamity.

"More than that, it deprives thousands and thousands of farm laborers of work which they have been enjoying and upon which they were counting. Concede that these have been largely Asiatics, that condition was temporary. We are expecting a great influx of European laborers, who are accustomed to intensive cultivation of land, and the most promising outlook for them, and for us, was the opportunity to engaged in sugar beet culture."

THE RADIUM SHORTAGE

Public attention to the cancer problem has centered itself with almost passionate vigor upon the case of Congressman Bremner of New Jersey, who died recently in spite of the use of $100,000 worth of radium by eminent surgeons at Baltimore.

Almost everyone has heard of radium as a possible cure for cancer; few realize that nearly the entire available supply in this country was called into use in the Bremner case. There are only two grams in the United States, and a gram is worth $120,000. Except for the amount collected at Baltimore to be tried on the dying congressman, the rest is widely scattered.

This is the situation that impelled Secretary Lane to recommend that radium lands be withdrawn from public entry and developed first with the idea of securing all of the precious chemical possible.

Colorado claims enough radium-bearing ores to supply the world. The Colorado commissioner of mines says that in his state there are 480,000 acres of ore from which within the next five years 200 grams of radium may be produced. Colorado believes that it should be allowed to handle its own ores and is opposing federal regulation.

PERU FOR RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

As in many other Latinized countries, Peru's recent revolution was founded partly on a desire for religious freedom.

Involved in the revolt and election was the issue of an amendment to the Peruvian constitution in order to guarantee freedom of religious worship to all citizens. Article IV of the Peruvian constitution now reads: "The nation professes the Catholic religion, Apostolic and Roman, and the state protects it and does not permit the public exercise of any other."

Senator Bezada's proposal to strike out the last ten words obtained great majorities last fall in both branches of Congress; there were only three votes against it in the senate to thirty-six in its favor; and only four in the chamber of deputies. If congress ratifies and confirms this action and the new president approves it, the battle will be won. "The church has strongly opposed the bill," says a Lima newspaper, "but so far without effect. The foremost newspapers of the republic are, almost without exception, for the measure, and the university students have made a number of demonstrations in its favor."

If President Wilson can persuade Congress to repeal the Panama canal tolls bill, he will successfully have bridged a yawning chasm in his party ranks. With Senator Kern on his side and Oscar Underwood keeping hands off, Woodrow will come mighty near doing it, too.

Winning or losing, the San Francisco swimmers are good sports and Hawaii hopes to have them back next year for an even greater swimming carnival.

The rain falls on the just and the unjust, but let's hope it keeps off both for two days more.

Torreon is to be a neutral zone in Mexico. Innocent bystanders will be invited to occupy it.

Almost time for another explosion of ananases in South America.

To the Ad Club: "We thank you, sirs."

ORGANIZED CHARITY.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Sir: After writing the communication to you published in your issue of the 28th inst., the following article appearing in the issue of the Outlook of January 14 came to my notice. It has a sufficient bearing on the subject to make it exceedingly interesting. It would appear that the plan could be amended to suit local conditions and prove of great value in view of its wide scope.

Thanking you for your valued space,

Very truly yours,

B.

THE CLEVELAND FOUNDATION.

An interesting plan, suggestive to many a community, has just been put forth for the city of Cleveland by Mr. Frederick H. Goff, president of the Cleveland Trust Company. Mr. Goff has long been seeking to find a way in which the trust companies of the country may be helpful in gathering up and in making useful what he calls "the wealth that often goes to waste."

A man of very large means—a Rockefeller, an Altman—creates a private "foundation" to administer a part of his surplus funds for the benefit of mankind. Now, persons of more limited means are often quite as anxious as Mr. Rockefeller can be, or as was Mr. Altman, to better the world by a wise use of wealth, whether small or great.

In order to be wisely used, the funds remaining after family distribution from the estate of those who are not multi-millionaires or millionaires at all may not be worth the expense of a privately owned "foundation" with its self-perpetuating board of trustees. Instead, this surplus often goes, bequeathed by generous but not always far-sighted persons, to some particular charitable or educational institution or institutions which, however worthy now, may not remain so.

To insure efficient perpetuation intelligent investors know that they should not build upon possibly crumbling foundations, or upon the possibly poor vision of advisers who think that they can read the future.

What would satisfy those who would make all surplus wealth intelligently fruitful to the community, no matter how small the wealth? According to his just published plan, Mr. Goff would suppose, he is something like this: "A corporate trust plus a sensitive civic conscience."

His trust would assist charitable and educational institutions, whether supported by private donations or by public taxation; would promote scientific and other educational research; would care for the sick, aged, or helpless; would improve conditions of living, and especially would provide recreation for all classes; and, finally, would exist for such other charitable purposes as best make for the physical, mental and moral improvement of the people, regardless of race, color, or creed.

How is such a trust to be administered? Mr. Goff's plan for Cleveland is as follows: A board of trustees of five members. Two to be elected by the directors of the Cleveland Trust Company. One to be chosen by the mayor. One to be chosen by the presiding judge of the court having jurisdiction of the settlement of estates in Cuyahoga county (in which the city of Cleveland is situated).

One to be chosen by the presiding judge of the United States district court for the northern district of Ohio. All the members must be residents of Cleveland. They may be men or women. They must be interested in welfare work. They must possess a knowledge of the physical, educational, civic, and moral needs of the community. Officeholders are barred from service. Not more than two trustees may belong to any one religious denomination. Thorough provisions are made for publicity in the administration of the trust, and for investigation and action, should any ever be required, by the proper public authority.

Thus is provided a means by which generously disposed Clevelanders may be assured that the residuum of their estates will go to the community's betterment. Such a plan appeals to the head of the community of Cleveland, its mayor, the Honorable Newton D. Baker, writing to Mr. Goff, says: "The central thought in this great undertaking is not so much the gospel of the responsibilities of wealth as it is the gospel of the opportunities of wealth, and I am at a loss in my thinking to know whether you have done more in your plan for society by creating a fund which will minister to its needs than you have by pointing out the loss society sustains when its young and educated members are dwarfed in their energies and ambitions by inheritances of wealth greater than their reasonable needs can require.

"The whole plan has my hearty indorsement, and I look forward to its development as a new, wholesome, and helpful movement in the building of a higher city on a sounder citizenship."

Another Clevelander, the Honorable James R. Garfield, ex-secretary of the Interior, thus writes to Mr. Goff: "You have now provided a means for the wise use of money that otherwise would almost inevitably be wasted or devoted to the selfish personal use of immature or incompetent persons."

"The publicity features of the plan appeal to me immensely, as I am confident that full publicity will surely lead to the growth of a sound, intelligent public opinion which will wisely guide the use of such a fund as will be created under this instrument."

Mr. Goff's idea ought to interest our trust companies and our communities alike. Indeed, it may lead to a "community trust" in each community.

The distribution of wealth has been called our gravest economic problem. To meet us the present distribution is, to say the least, unsatisfactory.

The Cleveland foundation points out one way to a redistribution, at least of surplus wealth, back to the community where it was acquired, a redistribution in which the public has voice and vote.

'BLUE SKY' LAW OF MICHIGAN KILLED

The Michigan "blue sky" law has been declared unconstitutional in a decision handed down by the Federal Court sitting at Detroit. The decision is unanimous and very sweeping.

The court in rendering its opinion said it is an act beyond the police power of the state, in violation of interstate commerce, and does not come within the "due process of law" provision of the United States Constitution.

The Michigan "blue sky" law became effective August 15, 1913, following the tide of similar legislation passed in sixteen other states.

The Investment Bankers Association of America took an active part in opposition to this law. Upon the day it became effective the association through A. B. Leach & Co., N. W. Halsey & Co., Continental & Commercial Trust and Savings bank, and Lee, Higginson & Co. was granted a temporary injunction restraining the Michigan Securities Commission from proceeding with the enforcement of the law.

Under this law the state was given power to hold up sales of bonds for 30 days. One other objection was the power given the state to inspect the books of the bond house rather than those of the issuing corporation.

The decision is far reaching in its effect upon the bond business of the United States, and settles the right of a state to regulate the business of a bond house outside of a state to do business in the state.

POPE PIUS TO ANNUL BAN ON THE TANGO

[By Latest Mail]

PARIS—Pope Pius personally initiated a revival of the old Venetian dance "Furiana," after the Cardinal Vicar had banned the Argentine dance said Le Temps.

The Pope summoned a young couple belonging to a princely Roman family before him and bade them do the tango. Afterwards the Pope said: "It's one of the dullest things imaginable. If a sinner were compelled to dance the tango as a penance he would be treated harshly."

Forthwith the Pope decided to annul the papal ban on condition that the name of the dance be changed. "People of your age must dance," he said, "but why adopt such ridiculous, barbarous contortions?"

Thereupon he called in two Venetian domestics, ordered them to dance the "furiana," which is like the Brazilian maxixe, and praised its gracefulness.

The meeting of the members of the Promotion Committee, scheduled for 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, has been postponed until next Friday afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, Stangenwald building.

FOUR PASTORS BALK AT BILLY SUNDAY'S TERMS

SEATTLE.—The pastors of the four big downtown churches—the First Presbyterian, First Methodist, First Baptist and Plymouth Congregational—have refused to submit to the demand of Evangelist Billy Sunday that they close their churches during the period of his revival services here, should he come. The pastors of these churches, all men of national reputation, in expressing their unwillingness to close their churches during the proposed revival, say that Sunday is doing a great work, but they cannot give up their work, even temporarily, to make room for him. It is believed that the unity revival services will be held without the aid of Sunday. The time set is March 29th to April 12th. It was proposed to rent a huge tabernacle for the meetings if Sunday had not imposed such difficult conditions.

A. H. FORD REQUESTED TO AID IN DRAWING UP PLANS FOR TOURIST BUREAU FOR AUSTRALIAN STATE

By ALEXANDER HUME FORD.
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 25.—I have studied the indoor and outdoor workings of Australasian government tourist bureaus until I begin to realize how much there is for me to learn and it is putting it mildly to say that I felt flattered when the premier of the most populous Australian state, for its size, asked me to assist in drawing up plans for a government tourist bureau for his state.

Everyone in Victoria whom I approached told me that it was impossible to ever separate the Victorian tourist bureau from the railway department. I knew then that it should be a simple matter, for the reason that no one had tried it. I called on the commissioner of railways, Mr. McClelland, and after half an hour's conversation found he was quite willing to aid in divorcing his tourist bureau from the railways on condition that the state take it over and make a separate appropriation. J. C. Boyce, in charge of the bureau, was almost enthusiastic on the subject, but every one was certain that the premier, William A. Watt, would not listen to any such suggestion. I called on Mr. Watt and was informed that he could see me but for a moment. The moment stretched into an hour as the premier became interested in the plan. Mr. Watt wishes the tourist, and most of all the immigrant, from America.

Shortly after the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club was organized in Honolulu, I got my old friend and once partner, George Girling of Chicago, to organize a club there. While Premier Watt was in London, Girling and the Chicago Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club had official invitations sent him from nearly every state governor of the west, and from nearly all the chambers of commerce in the west and in the east, to deliver addresses on his state, Victoria. Premier Watt promptly cancelled his passage home by way of the United States and Honolulu, and returned by way of Suez.

"Why I could not have delivered that many addresses in a year," he said to me.

"No," I replied, "but I think you are convinced now of the service the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club can be to the countries across the Pacific."

Will Visit America.

He saw the point and intends to visit America to deliver a number of the addresses before the chambers of commerce. We found that we had many aims and objects in common, and it did not take the premier long to grasp the idea that the tourist is the forerunner of the immigrant, and that a tourist bureau can advertise a country abroad as no immigration bureau can possibly do. So he enthusiastically agreed to support the plan for a separate government tourist bureau for Victoria that would work along the lines being pursued by the tourist bureaus of New South Wales and South Australia, and I was requested to co-operate with Percy Hunter in drawing up a plan. The great difficulty Mr. Watt foresaw was in securing the man to carry on the bureau. Victoria has been compelled in its immigration work to borrow from New South Wales a part of the services of Percy Hunter, and South Australia is also eager to secure his co-operation and advice. The few men in Australia who are good outdoor and indoor men, stand at the head of everything in the commonwealth.

Premier William A. Watt is still a comparatively young man. Without a question he is the cleanest and most straightforward worker that I have met in Australasia. He is a man that I believe is destined to be the great national leader in Australia. He is honest and sincere, and the people know it. Two months ago as premier, he introduced bills that he knew would not be supported by some of his men, but he knew the bills should become laws for the good of Australia. Several of his party deserted him and a new leader was called to form a new parliament. But at the end of a week the new leader announced that he could not succeed. Again Mr. Watt was sent for and he has organized a party now that will stick by him through thick and thin, for what is best for Victoria. He has the confidence of all parties because he is absolutely sincere and straightforward, and more than a mere party leader.

The tourist bureau in Victoria is really an adjunct of the railways, with splendid offices on Collins street. The improvement of the mountain resorts and seaside resorts has been undertaken and carried out by the railway department, but there are portions of Victoria as beautiful as anything in Australia, far away from a railway, and these the railway department could not be expected to spend money upon. The interesting thing about the Victorian Railways is that its commissioners are all men born and bred in Victoria. Mr. McClelland, the present commissioner, under whose direct supervision is the tourist department, is a man who has risen from the ranks. He has helped to develop the Victorian railways until their service is the best in Australasia, and he has largely assisted in carrying forward the plan to have the railways built so that no grain country will be more than 10 miles from a railway station.

I had intended travelling from Sydney northward by way of New Guinea to Java, but as I wished to investigate the possibilities of the 35 day cruise around the Pacific, and this can be done only by utilizing the southern and longer route, I booked passage on the Indarra for Fremantle, West Australia. The Indarra is a vessel of 10,000 tons and has a swimming tank of solid cement and tiles, in which my assistant, Joseph Stickney, disports himself daily, for it is a 10 days' trip from Sydney to Fremantle. Young Stickney is learning first-hand how tourists' bureaus are run, and then take care of the tourist. It is a wonderful game, and the boy shows a natural aptitude in learning it. Usually I do the talking, but the first thing I know, my listener is discussing surf-board riding with Joe and telling him all about how the tourist should be taken care of, and as Joe has had two months' experience in Chaffin House, which is the New South Wales university where the tourist men are educated, he can usually hold up his end of the conversation. Joe is usually invited to the banquets and lunches at which I am supposed to make the talks, and everyone is eager to learn his mission, to give him information, and automobile rides to see the country, and this is as I wish it, for Joe is doing more to advance my plea for a system of cadets to be moved around that Pacific than any argument that I can put forth, for he has a pleasant personal acquaintance with the personnel and workings of all the tourist bureaus of the South Pacific. Welcomed in Melbourne.

In Melbourne the Indarra stops for two days, and we were lunched by H. J. Manson, the New Zealand trade commissioner to Australia, and an enthusiastic supporter of the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Movement. He pledged that the New Zealand tourist bureau would be represented in the Pan-Pacific pavilion at the exposition, T. E. Emmett, the Tasmanian commissioner, pledging his island, where the independent tourist bureaus, through the assistance of the railway department, will soon be consolidated into a regular government tourist bureau. D. B. Edward of the office of external affairs for Australia, pledged the support and cooperation of the commonwealth, and Henry Stead, editor of the Review of Reviews, announced that his magazine would stand behind the movement in Australia, while the press announced that it would give its hearty support and is doing so. In Adelaide, where we stopped for a day, we met the premier and were entertained by the government, ministerial automobiles being placed at our disposal. A. H. Day, the aggressive power behind the South Australian Railways, is responsible for having had the government tourist bureau divorced from the railway department and have appropriations of its own, with Victor H. Ryan in charge. Mr. Ryan has certainly shown how the tourist can be taken care of. Adelaide is not very much larger than Honolulu, yet the monthly reports show that the tourist pays thousands of dollars through the bureau to be taken care of within a radius of a few miles of Adelaide. The bureau has great automobile busses called char-a-banes which go out over the lofty range of mountains twice a day, and always crowded. The bureau is also developing beautiful parks beyond the city where tea-houses are built and placed on a paying basis.

Eager to Learn
It is interesting to see how eager the live tourist bureau men throughout Australasia are to know what the other tourist bureaus are doing, and from each one that I have visited I have learned and made notes of many things that are done better there than anywhere else in the world. At the request of the Australasian tourist bureaus, it is probable that the Hands-Around-the-Pacific Club of either Sydney or Honolulu will arrange for annual conventions of tourists, state railway and steamship men, to agree upon and work out definite plans for the care of the tourist and immigrants to the Pacific and Australasia.

At first I found the railway men rather shy in taking any part in the general movement, there being a chief railway commissioner in New South Wales who was considered a splendid type of obstructionist. Fortunately his term has just expired and there is general rejoicing throughout the commonwealth, as Sydney is the main doorway to Australia, and this commissioner by refusing to co-operate with the other state railways, did much to discourage the tourist from seeing as much of Australia as he should. In New South Wales I published several articles showing how America and other countries gained through co-operation, and some of the newspapers of Sydney, including editorials, endorsed the stand I took for generosity on the part of the New South Wales railways. At present I might say that I have friends and co-workers among the big railway men of Australia, willing to pull together with the steamship companies, tourist and immigration bureaus.

In Sydney I was aided by the steamship people, and we completed an organization for working hand in hand with the railways and tourist bureaus, and we now have our organization of tourist bureau men to work with the others.

Australia in Front.
The world has a great deal to learn from Australia in the matter of taking care of the tourist and the immigrant. When all Australia works together as a unit instead of each state separately as at present, I believe that some wonderful results will accrue. Already the advance guard of American irrigation farmers has arrived, and some of its members are on their way back to America to bring others.

Will Help Honolulu.
The combination rates we are now making, with the assistance of the transpacific steamship companies, the coasting steamship companies, which own the largest coastal steamers in the world, and the state railways, I believe will do much to induce a great tide of travel by way of Honolulu to Australasia, and thence around the Pacific. At present the low rates I have secured from the Union Steamship Company apply between Sydney and Honolulu, but Mr. V. A. Sproul, the Sydney agent of the Oceanic Company, and one of our enthusiastic workers, is trying to put through a plan that will bring the Oceanic in line with the Union Steamship Company, making the excursion tickets inter-changeable, and adding general features that will greatly benefit the tourist. J. H. C. Stuart, the Java representative in Australia, and the Sydney representative of the Royal Packet Steam Navigation Co., all Joe and I are just a little homesick for "Aloha" land, and we often wonder if the surf is running high at Waikiki.

ST. LOUIS COLLEGE STUDENTS REVERE WASHINGTON'S MEMORY

In celebration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the students of St. Louis College held patriotic exercises at the institution yesterday afternoon. The assembly hall of the school was prettily decorated with the national as well as the Carnival colors, and the program consisted of readings, essays and music of a patriotic nature. One of the features of the afternoon was the singing of the national hymn by the 700 persons present. Prior to the conclusion of the program, a message was received from Ben Hollinger, president of the Alumni Association, congratulating the soccer team as the 1914 champions. The college band concluded the program with the "Star Spangled Banner."

heavy laden with letters from him to his government, the steamship companies and the railways, and he assures me that Java wishes to be in line with and included in our Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement.

I am visiting West Australia in anticipation, and I believe that in anticipation of the completion of the transcontinental railway across Australia, now under course of construction, that West Australia will organize an absolutely independent government tourist bureau. At least I shall take this matter up with them in Perth, and urge it most earnestly as with Victoria and Tasmania coming into line, West Australia can not afford to be without a strong and powerful tourist bureau.

Going to Japan.
After a few days in Perth I expect to set sail for Java, Singapore and Japan, to learn what I can of their methods and how they succeed in enticing and entertaining the tourist.

So far the kind reception that I have received and the generous words always spoken of the Mid-Pacific Magazine and its efforts to make the advantages of the Pacific lands, known abroad, have been most inspiring and encouraging, but with it all Joe and I are just a little homesick for "Aloha" land, and we often wonder if the surf is running high at Waikiki.

World gives the reason why. A sub-station foreman on an electric line in Northern Indiana was explaining the details of some work to his men in a recently completed substation, in pointing out a joint in the high-tension wiring, hat in hand, the rim of the derby came into contact with live wires. A circuit was completed from the high-tension line through the small steel wire in the rim of the hat and through the man's body to the ground, thereby causing a shock which proved fatal. Soft hats have no metal wire in them, and that is why they are so popular with electricians.

Agitating General Strike

Encouraged by the example of the Belgians, some of the Prussian Socialists are once more agitating a general strike to bring about the reforms in the electoral machinery. In particular they want to abolish the obnoxious three-class system of voting, which even Bismarck, in a moment of irritation, allowed himself to denounce as the most absurd that had ever been promulgated in any country. Devised to give the semblance of manhood suffrage while maintaining unimpaired the complete dominance of the landed aristocracy, the three-class system has been a stumbling block in the way of Democratic progress. The fact that no rearrangements of election districts has taken place in Prussia since 1860 is a further irritant, since it works, together with the three-class system, to deprive the industrial masses and the lower middle classes in the rapidly growing cities of anything like adequate representation.

The government offered to make certain concessions in 1910, but the proposed modifications of the three-class system were declared by the Social Democrats, the Liberals and the Poles to be farcical; the Socialists would accept no compromise and the problem remains. The Social Democrats stand for universal, direct and equal suffrage, with proportional representation. The kaiser is quite as firmly committed to the status quo, since any restricting would inevitably have the effect of increasing the power of the Socialists, who elected 110 out of the 397 representatives in the Reichstag in 1912 and came within a few votes of electing a representative in the palace district of Berlin. —Chicago Record-Herald.

R. O. MATHESON TALKS TO AD CLUB URGES ADEQUATE DISPLAY AT FAIR

[The following talk on "Just Advertising" was delivered by R. O. Matheson, editor of the Advertiser, before the Honolulu Ad Club this week and proved one of the most interesting of the many talks before the live-wire organization.]

Gentlemen: This club has had very many excellent addresses on very many subjects, but it is a long time since the Honolulu Ad Club had anyone suggest that he arise with a few remarks about advertising. Of course, practically everything that has been said here has its advertising application, because advertising includes a great deal, from silk skirts to a world's cruise by a battleship fleet; but just plain, everyday, so much an inch per insertion advertising has not been brought before you since the advent of Long John Silver.

Ed. Towse described the Ad Club to an inquirer as a club where they talk about everything on earth except advertising. This is true so far as it goes. I agree with Mr. Towse in what he said, but not in what he meant. The Ad Club teaches advertising without words; it talks advertising all the time without saying very much about it.

Before my regeneration, that is before I was bereft of my three dollars and elected to membership in the Ad Club, I addressed what was then the Ad Club, a collection of some thirteen men eating a 35-cent lunch at the Palm and ready to fight with anyone over anything. I had been invited to talk to the club on the subject of billboards, but I found after I arrived at the Palm that I was to be made the subject of a drumhead court-martial. I made my little talk; was talked back at, and the session was fairly lively. But I lacked everything that the club has now in the way of good-fellowship, mutual boosting, the getting-to-know-you, that has made this organization an undoubted force not only in Honolulu but in practically every part of the territory. And that evolution came through advertising. The Ad Club wandered away from home and suddenly found itself within the Hilo spotlight. It was up to the club to justify itself or get off the earth. It rose to the occasion. It commenced to advertise its presence in Hilo and it kept growing with a sense of its own importance as the advertisements started to pay. But that is an old story—only another proof that advertising pays.

Now, I believe that I am about the first one to appear before this club to talk about advertising from the viewpoint of the editorial rooms of a daily paper, and, if in touching this subject I make a reference to the Advertiser I trust that you will not put it down to my desire to boost my own particular game, or advertise the Advertiser unduly. I simply wish that the moral that adorns my tale may be a moral that I know something about. Prior to coming to Honolulu I was owner, publisher, editor, typesetter, job printer, collector and collector of a newspaper, and I know a little about the business office end of newspaper advertising. But that is the end that the majority of you are most familiar with. You advertisers meet the ad collector and hear his promises of what position you are going to get, what extra pains will be taken to place your paid space next to the liveliest news story in the edition. You are promised anything I ask for, almost, and then, when you sign the contract, the real trouble commences. While one solicitor was selling you a certain space, another solicitor has been selling someone else the same space, and when the two get back to the office they discover that the editor has decided to use the whole of that particular page for some special story for which the staff photographer is out setting the pictures.

What's to be done? A newspaper is not like a hot of cloth, from which identical yards may be measured off. It is not like a bushel of potatoes, that can be picked over until all the big ones are on top. However much the necessity may be, there is only one page one and only so many columns to the page. So someone has to give way. Frequently it is the editor. Sometimes it isn't. When he does give way, there are still the two advertisers to talk to, with a practical certainty that one or the other and sometimes both get on their ear at the very suggestion of giving way before necessity. If the advertisers in the ordinary newspaper only knew how much trouble is taken to adjust all these little things within the four walls of a print shop, there would be less hard feeling when the ad you write comes out on the upper right-hand corner of page three when you expected it on the lower left-hand corner of page two.

Then there is the advertiser who retains the impression that because he pays for advertising space he should have something to say concerning what is printed in the paper in the way of news and editorial expression. This impression is fostered by the magazine muckrakers who have recently begun to tell about the venal press and the way that big advertisers muzzle reporters and editors. In Honolulu there are not many advertisers who venture into the editorial rooms and venture to give instructions concerning news that must not appear. The Honolulu press is unhampered; the friction between editorial rooms and business offices is practically absent. And this is as it should be, because the more independent the editorial staff of a newspaper may be, the more highly is the paper regarded by the reading public and the more weight does it give to the advertising announcements in its pages. The better looking, the better written and the more honest with its readers a newspaper is, the better advertising medium it becomes.

And this brings me to the point I want to make before the Honolulu advertisers, which is this: Give the Honolulu papers the same chance to make a good appearance as is given the metropolitan papers of the mainland. Do not insist upon hard and fast rules of position. Take any big and powerful mainland newspaper and turn over the first three or four pages. You do not find those pages given the preference by advertisers, because the doing so makes that page the less attractive to the reader you want to please with your advertisement. Position, in my opinion, is highly overrated by the average Honolulu advertiser. Mainland advertisers have learned that in this age people read advertisements wherever they are in the paper. That is why you will find great merchants paying thousands of dollars daily for places in such publications as the New York Herald and the Los Angeles Times in sections which contain nothing but advertisements. In Honolulu, if two page announcements happen to get together, one or the other advertiser would refuse to pay for his space, or at least make a vigorous objection. But, if such display is not good, how about the experienced advertisers who use the magazines, with 30 and 40 page displays, one after the other, without a break? People read your advertisements and they will read them all the more if you give the editorial staffs and the composing room foremen the chance to make the whole paper artistic typographically and interesting from the news point of view.

I suggested once to a prominent Honolulu merchant that the Honolulu papers would be worth much more to the advertisers if the advertising rates were doubled and each advertiser used just half the usual space. I thought I had made my point clear, that relatively speaking none would suffer and the paper could give more news and use more illustrations, but the only effect my suggestion had on the advertiser was to paralyze him at the idea of any paper talking about doubling rates.

So much for the local editorial staffs, who are working to make the advertising in their respective papers pay, and who only want the cooperation of the ones who foot the bills to make the advertisements pay better. There is another question of advertising in which all Honolulu should be interested—in which all Hawaii is interested, and that concerns the question of properly advertising the territory at the San Francisco fair. The governor tells me, as late as yesterday, that he has not yet made up his mind whether the finances of the territory will allow the expenditure at San Francisco, that is, the legislature authorized. Now this is an important matter, a matter of advertising that should interest this club keenly. As advertisers, I believe that you appreciate the benefit that a suitable Hawaiian building and a suitable Hawaiian exhibit at the fair will bring us. My personal opinion is that it would be the height of folly to withhold the appropriation or any considerable part of it. One hundred and thirty thousand dollars, which is H. P. Wood's estimate of what the expense of the building and exhibit will be, is a lot of money but a mere bagatelle in comparison to what results we may expect from the expenditure of it. The territory has to economize, I grant you. But there are ways of saving that amount of money in the government of these islands every year. Let us insist on economy, but do not let this club let the opportunity pass to tell the governor that cutting off the Panama money is not economy, is not good business.

The tourist land nearest to us in the most ways is Bermuda, the little British island. I note that within the last month that island has voted to pay a subsidy of $80,000 a year for 10 years to the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, for which the line will put on a new tourist steamer between New York and Hamilton, Bermuda, and guarantee to bring to the island each year 22,000 more tourists. The Bermuda government is to build another great hotel and lay out a new golf links for these thousands. The steamship company agrees to give a freight rate lower than that now in force and to provide 50,000 cubic feet of chill room accommodation to handle the Bermuda fruit exports. Bermuda is a crown colony, with a white population of 7000 and a negro and Indian population of 10,000. Hamilton, the capital city, is smaller than Hilo.

On the north we find the Canadian government appropriating $600,000 for the San Francisco fair and spending every year $200,000 in printer's ink alone in the United States. The result is that nearly 1,000,000 Americans have gone north and have taken into Canada million after million of American dollars. Does it pay Canada to advertise? It certainly does, and it will pay Hawaii in even greater proportion, because the ones attracted north go with comparatively little money, while the ones who come to Hawaii come with yellow-lined pockets, ready to spend if we can only give the visitors a chance to spend.

I have no formal resolution to offer, but I suggest, Mr. President, that this club does go upon record in this matter of the San Francisco fair. We need the business that some real advertising on the Coast can bring us. The Promotion Committee is doing wonders with the funds at its disposal, but to do justice to Hawaii with a trifle like $8000 a year is like trying to bale out the Pacific ocean with a teaspoon.

HAWAII OF OLD RECALLED BY THE 'SEWING CIRCLE'

Presentation Harks Back to the Days Before Gold Craze in California

A breath and a scene of old Hawaii, the Hawaii as the missionaries knew it years ago, before the cry of gold was heard in California, was enjoyed yesterday afternoon when the "Missionary Sewing Circle" was presented at the Old Mission house under the auspices of the Friend.

The performance was as simple and impressive as the life of the missionaries themselves in the early forties. The parts were all taken by descendants of missionaries, with costumes faithful to the day and the people they depicted. It avoided any attempt at the spectacular, and its strength and impressiveness may be traced to this fact.

The exhibit of relics, associated with early missionary life here, which has attracted large crowds to the Old Mission home, has been highly appreciated and the place was kept open until 1 o'clock today. Miss Agnes Judd, head of the museum committee, has worked very hard for the success of the exhibit; she has been assisted by Miss Emily Wartner of the Friend.

HAWAII MISSION WORK CLEARLY OUTLINED BY REV. JOHN W. WADMAN

In a brief but highly interesting address, Dr. John W. Wadman, formerly superintendent of the Methodist Mission of Hawaii, yesterday afternoon at the session of the ninth annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church set forth in detail the work which the local missions under the jurisdiction of that denomination have accomplished during the past nine years. The rest of the afternoon was given over to a discussion of the Korean mission work.

At the morning session Bishop Naphtali Lucock delivered an address on the subject "Responsibility of the Pastor" and at nine o'clock this morning spoke on "Personal Consecration." The bishop will conduct the services in the Methodist church tomorrow, both in the morning and evening, and at the close of the morning service will ordain two new pastors, a Japanese and a Korean. The conference will come to a close Monday afternoon.

Wonders of Century

The wonders of this century are steam and its infinite application, unifying the world by railroads and steamships; electricity, belting the earth in instantaneous communication by the telegraph and cable and the wireless; the Suez Canal, which will bind the North and South American Hemispheres in mutual interdependence and immensely productive, political relations and make the Pacific ocean the highway of nations; the inventions and discoveries which have multiplied power so that production can take care of increasing populations better than ever before, and the advances in medicine and surgery, which have found out the sources and removed the terrors of plagues, diseases and fractures, which for ages have devastated and tortured mankind. Education has been popularized and brought within reach of all at the expense of the state, with increasing liberty and opportunity. But the greatest wonder of all is the United States of America, which has passed its one hundred and twenty-fifth year, a few bones. Hunting parties are unchanged in its constitution and in-

SOCIETY LEADER AGAINST CHANGE IN COSTUME OF JAPANESE WOMEN

S. Sheba, editor of the Nippu Jiji, the local Japanese newspaper constantly in receipt of letters from prominent Honoluluans, other than Japanese, giving their views on the much-debated question as to whether or not the Nipponese women of Honolulu should continue to wear their native dress or adopt in its place the garb of the Occident. These letters have been turned over to the Star-Bulletin for publication.

A local society leader writes as follows: "Your article in last Saturday's issue of the Star-Bulletin regarding the projected change of style in the dress of the Japanese women, arouses, I venture to assert, protest. Artistically, it would be a great mistake; I see no advantage in its change. It would indeed detract from Honolulu a certain picturesqueness, which the kimono-clad Japanese women in our city create." Another writer signing his—or her—letter "conservative," writes: "You ask for an expression of opinion as to whether the Japanese woman of Honolulu should give up her present dress and adopt the European costume. No, by all means, no. The kimono and obi are distinct, artistic and in harmony with her figure. If she gives up her national dress and adopts the corset and the ever-changing fashions of the Europeans—and the Americans—she loses the individuality which she now has, and will be lost in the general run of women of all nationalities, and in this crowd she will not appear to advantage, as her form is not such as to carry to advantage the existing styles. May the pleasing lines of the natural Japanese woman's figure never be ruined by the corset."

LITTLE FRENCH GIRL DEVoured BY WOLVES

[By Latest Mail] PARIS—The long-continued cold, especially in the central districts of France, is bringing numbers of wolves, frantic with hunger, out of the woods. A little girl at La-Cocquille, near Perigueux, was devoured by wild animals, the searching party finding only a torn pinafore and its one hundred and twenty-fifth year, a few bones. Hunting parties are unchanged in its constitution and in-

The temperature in Paris has shown a slight improvement, the mercury standing above the freezing point for the first time in many days. In the country districts the cold is growing more intense and the weather bureau promises no immediate hope of higher temperatures.

The cold is likely to prove disastrous, as many farmers have sown late wheat, and it is feared that crops in many places will be destroyed.

THE NEW BUICK SIX MODEL B-55

The Buick Six is new in its design, but old in the experience of its makers. Throughout, it is founded upon the principles of sound construction, that ten years have proved of unalterable worth.

It fulfills all that six-cylinder construction promises; it combines the valuable qualities of other cars of this type, while affording in its Overhead Valve motor a feature that distinguishes it from any other Six whatsoever.

This Buick Motor gives a compactness of design, a surplus of power and an economy of operation that make the Buick Six, in a way, revolutionary in six-cylinder construction.

The Buick Six Touring Car is a finished automobile, the sign and symbol of an owner of individuality.

OAKLAND ELKS ARE GUESTS AT INFORMAL DANCE

Visitors from Oakland Circle Island—Off for Hilo This Evening

An informal dance in honor of the Oakland Elk visitors in the city was given last evening at the Elks' Club, following the regular lodge session. Music was furnished by the 1st Field Artillery band under the direction of Bandmaster Brinley. A large number of the wives of members of the Honolulu lodge were present to meet the visiting Elks and their ladies. During the ritualistic session early in the evening, the Honolulu lodge was presented with a magnificent set of antlers, beautifully mounted and inscribed, and a beautiful silk flag embroidered: "From the Pacific Coast Elks to Honolulu 616."

WATER CARNIVAL AND PYROTECHNIC DISPLAY PROVE MOST ENJOYABLE

Bands to the number of half-a-dozen playing, at the same time, different tunes in apparent harmony; a blood-curdling piratical craft, almost denuded of lights and stripped for action; a wealth of gaily illuminated Japanese sampans, canoes, yachts, launches, outriggers and canoes go to make up a combination that is but seldom seen and heard at one time; however, such was the treat dished out for the pleasure loving public of Honolulu and the city's guests from around the world on the harbor front last night. The grand water carnival and pyrotechnic display was an immense success and great credit is due to Chairman Jack Young of the committee which had charge of this interesting event, also to William H. Wilson, pyrotechnic expert, for the beautiful firework display. Mr. Young, who had expended many hours in preparation of the event, saw his work bear worthwhile fruit and undoubtedly feels well repaid for the energy expended. Promptly at 8:30 the gaily illuminated water crafts commenced a procession around the harbor, parading in front of the grandstands which were filled to overflowing, and affording the judges an opportunity of making decisions that must have proved difficult, besides allowing the audience a splendid view of the carnival. Chairman Young, in an undecorated tug, was everywhere, keeping the course clear for the entries for the event, a task that frequently proved difficult. However, nothing but words of praise for his efforts, the efforts of the decorators of the crafts and the efforts of the firework exhibitors were heard from any of the crowd. All were well pleased. The judges included Mrs. James S. McCandless, Mrs. Arthur Wall, Lieut. N. W. Campano, Hachiro Arata, Japanese acting-consul, and Mr. Nagata and their awards were: Japanese Sampans—Aloha, first; Cherry Blossom, second; Red and Blue, third. Prizes, $50, $25 and $15 respectively. Yachts—Hawaii, first. Prize, $25. There was no second or third prize. Launches—Galileo Isbell, manned

Honolulu is having a satiety of band music these days, though the appetite still seems to be strong. Besides the music played in connection with the various events, each of the half dozen bands now in the city have given a number of concerts in various places. There are two concerts scheduled for today, one of these being arranged by the 25th Infantry band in compliment to ex-Queen Liliuokalani. This will take place this afternoon after the Floral Parade, at the queen's home in Washington place, Beretania street. Bandmaster King has arranged the following program for this event: March—Garland Entree. H. L. King Overture—Der Frelschutz. Weber Valse Lento—Charme d'Amour. Edwin F. Kendall Serenade from Ballet "Les Millions d'Arlequin." R. Delgo Selection from G. Verdi's opera "Ere-nani." Ar. by T. M. Moses Tohoni Paraphrase—Auld Lang Syne. Rose Tonight Milner's orchestra will play on the Young hotel roof from 9 till 11, the program arranged being as follows: March—Hands Across the Sea. Sousa Overture—Light Cavalry. Suppe Danza—Passionara. Sancho Selection—King Dodo. Pixley and Luders Waltz—Bad'ner Mad'in. Karl Komzack Berceuse from Joselyne, for violin. Godard Intermezzo—The Floral Parade. SAN FRANCISCO BOY BEATS DUKE IN THE 50 YARDS opinion of the San Francisco swimmers can win easily from any of the girl performers on the coast. 440-Yard Race. With the crack of the pistol the four men starting in this event hit the water as one and got away at what appeared to be a leisurely pace. Duke, at the extreme Ewa side of the course, seemed to travel without effort and with little noise, his feet making no splash and arms working rhythmically. On the opposite side of the course, however, a hot contest at once became apparent, between Lincoln Johnson, the famous one-legged champion from the Coast, and "Hanawaki" Kruger, the Healiani entry. Side by side these two soon began setting a very fast pace, the Coast man taking the lead and being the first swimmer to make the first turn. In advance of the world's champion, Johnson made his speedy turn and getaway, gaining materially on Kruger. Before the second lap was half completed Duke's long, swinging strokes began to tell and he quickly went to the front, reaching the starting point fully 10 yards ahead of Johnson. Kruger was virtually even with Johnson at this turn. At the third turn Duke had gained about 5 yards more and Johnson had made his lead definite against the Healiani boy. At the last turn the world's champion had advanced his lead to nearly 20 yards, Johnson was five yards ahead of Kruger, and the three held these places back to the 40-yard lead. There was doubt throughout of the tussle between Kruger and the visitor, Johnson, and the latter's final spurt was greeted with cheering. It was a popular victory for him, even though he did not beat Duke. 50-Yards for Boys. Eight youngsters started in the first race of this event. Several beat the starter's gun two or three times before all finally got away and were warned that another false start would result in penalties. Finally they started quite well together, Kruger of the Healianis taking the lead and holding it until the last few yards, when he weakened and Clarence Lane, the speedy entry from the Palama Settlement, came up on him, finishing in a dead heat. This was one of the prettiest and most exciting events of the meet. 100 Yards. As usual in this event Duke seemed to be "loafing" along up to the 50-yard mark, George Cunha taking the lead up to that point, with Small, the speedy San Francisco swimmer a shade behind Cunha. From that point the positions changed rapidly. Cunha, who started in the middle of the course, pulled over to his left, some a quarter of the way across the width of the course and finishing virtually in Kahanamoku's course. While he was doing this the champion picked up and began ploughing the brine, moving so rapidly that he left all the others yards in the rear. Small also travelled sideways slightly but showed a burst of speed toward the finish that enabled him to slip the finishing board a fraction of a second in advance of Cunha. Small's time was more than three seconds slower than Duke's over this distance, the former finishing in 54 4-5 seconds, bettering his own world's record, made here last year, for the open, salt water course. 100 Yards for Novices. Several men beat the gun, necessitating a second start and on the second try got a rather ragged start. Hay Wodehouse, a lanky Healiani boy built much on the same lines as Duke Kahanamoku and who shows much the same action in the water, quickly took the lead and held it throughout, finally finishing nearly 10 yards ahead of R. Hollinger and Allen Cunha, who slapped the finishing board a fraction of a second apart. This was a Healiani Club victory, all three winners coming from that organization. These points do not count in the meet, however, because it was a novice race. 50 Yards. Six men started in this race, but almost from the start it was evident that the real test was between Duke, Small and George Cunha. Duke showed more speed at the start than in his earlier races, but Small got a lead on the crowd by a magnificent leaping start and held it, though Cunha was at his shoulder up to the 25-yard line. The latter slowed down slightly again at the very finish. Duke was a length behind at the halfway mark, but put on a great burst of speed, finishing so close up on Small that the event was nearly a tie. 80-Yards. From the start this was conceded Walter Pomroy's race. Fred Arnold and George Keaweamahi, both Hui Nalu entries, were the only other contestants, both using the crawl stroke, Pomroy, the Coast man, made use of the over-hand, or trudgeon, stroke, with a powerful scissor kick that drove him through the water at great speed. By virtue of this stroke he was able to watch his course, travel in a straight line and to observe the progress of his competitors. He was in no danger at any time, however. He was yards ahead of Keaweamahi at the end of the first lap, and though he then seemed to slow down and take affairs easier, his lead increased. He never once altered his stroke, finishing about 70 yards ahead. Keaweamahi was about 30 yards ahead of Arnold. For the thousands of spectators who watched the meet the weather conditions could not have been better, though it was possibly a trifle cool for the speeders when they came up panting and dripping from their strenu-

At a conservative estimate 4500 persons witnessed the championship aquatic event. They arrived slowly and leisurely, and it was not until the meet was nearly half finished that the bleachers were comfortably filled. In point of accommodations the local harbor has never experienced a meet equal to that held today, for though probably 1000 spectators stood along the bulkhead, witnessing the contests free of charge, they did so by choice, for most of them might have found seats inside. They lined the bulkhead along the street in front of the naval slip, standing eight, 10 and 15 deep, and the gates were thronged with others who sought to gain entrance, until the meet was nearly finished. As a colorful spectacle the meet was unexcelled by any former event of its kind ever held in Honolulu. Bright-hued parasols and modish gowns could be seen throughout the length on two sides, the full distance of the swimming course. As in the former events on the Carnival program, the automobile section lined the street, while the owners attended the meet, extending for blocks, up Richards street as well as along both sides of Ala Moana road.

FORCED TO DELIBERATE ON OWN INDICTMENT

(By Latest Mail) ST. MARYS, W. Va.—James Severn was indicted on a charge of disturbing religious worship by the grand jury on which he was serving. He was forced with others to deliberate over his own indictment. Lawyers declare it is the first time in history that such an event has taken place. Severn later pleaded guilty to the charge at the trial before Judge Woods and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs, and to undergo three months' imprisonment. The imprisonment was suspended on condition of Severn's good behavior. When a young widow makes up her mind to marry again the man she spots hasn't the ghost of a show.

DIVORCED WIFE ACTS AS SECOND TO 2 IN DUEL

(By Latest Mail) EUREKA, Cal.—Max E. Hoppengamer and Thomas D. Hukhn, mining men, fought a pistol duel near here, in which Hoppengamer was shot three times and is dying. Hoppengamer's divorced wife, the only witness to the duel, acted as second for both men. The men met on the banks of the Klamath River. The cause of the fight is unknown here. When Mrs. Hoppengamer gave the signal for the duellists to fire, Hukhn pulled the trigger three times in rapid succession. Hoppengamer's pistol had missed fire and he could make no reply. His divorced wife rushed to his side as he fell and bound up his wounds. Hukhn immediately came here and surrendered to the sheriff. Thinking over our own faults makes us talk less about other people's.

Washington's Birthday In the Churches

At the request of the Mid-Pacific Carnival Committee a number of churches have arranged special services for tomorrow for the benefit of the many visitors in the city, and fittingly to celebrate the anniversary of Washington's Birthday.

There will be addresses appropriate to the day, and special music at all the services.

Visitors to, and residents of, Honolulu--- the churches bid you welcome

THE MODEL CHURCH

In connection with the Church Advertising Campaign which is now being conducted in the local papers the following poem will be very appropriate. This poem has had a wide circulation over the whole civilized world. It pictures the comfort, hope and inspiration which a man may get from a real gospel service in the modern church.

Well, wife, I've found the model Church! I worshiped there today; It made me think of good old times, before my hairs were gray. The month house was finer built than they were years ago; But then I found, when I went in, it wasn't built for show.

The sexton didn't seat me "way back by the door"; He knew that I was old and deaf, as well as old and poor; He must have been a Christian, for he led me boldly through The long aisle of that pleasant church, to find a pleasant pew.

I wished you'd heard the singing—it had the old-time ring— The preacher said with trumpet voice, "Let all the people sing;" The tune was "Coronation," and the music upward rolled, Till I thought I heard the angels striking all their harps of gold.

My deafness seemed to melt away, my spirit caught the fire, I joined my feeble, trembling voice with that melodious choir, And sang, as in my youthful days, "Let angels prostrate fall, Bring forth the royal diadem, and crown Him Lord of all."

I tell you, wife, it did me good to sing that hymn once more; I felt like some wrecked mariner who gets a glimpse of shore; I almost want to lay aside this weather-beaten form, And anchor in the blessed port forever from the storm.

The preachin'! well, I can't just tell all that the preacher said; I know it wasn't written, I know it wasn't read; He hadn't time to read, for the lightnin' of his eye Went passing 'long from pew to pew, nor passed a sinner by.

The sermon wasn't flowery, 'twas simple gospel truth; It fitted poor old men like me, it fitted hopeful youth; 'Twas full of consolation for weary hearts that bleed, 'Twas full of invitations to Christ—and not to creed.

The preacher made sin hideous in Gentiles and in Jews; He shot the golden sentences straight at the fittest pews; And though I can't see very well, I saw the falling tear, That told me hell was some way off, and heaven very near.

How swift the golden moments fled within that holy place! How brightly beamed the light of heaven from every happy face! Again I longed for that sweet time when friend shall meet with friend, Where congregations ne'er break up and Sabbaths have no end.

I hope to meet that minister, the congregation, too, In the dear home beyond the skies, that shines from heaven's blue; I trust that I'll remember, beyond life's evening gray, The face of God's dear servant who preached His Word today.

Dear wife, the fight will soon be fought, the victory be won, The shining goal is just ahead, the race is nearly run; O'er the river we are nearin' they are throughin' to the shore, To shout our safe arrival where the weary weep no more.

—John H. Yates.

KIDNAPER OF INCUBATOR BABY RECEIVES PARDON

(By Latest Mail)
TOPEKA, Kas.—F. H. Tillotson, a detective, who in 1909 kidnaped Marion Bleakley, the famous "incubator baby," has been pardoned by Governor Hodgen. He was under a sentence of from one to five years, but was at liberty on bond pending hearing of an appeal to the United States supreme court. Marion was born in a St. Louis hospital in 1904. She was so small she was taken to the world's fair and placed in an incubator. Mrs. Barclay adopted her. Mrs. Bleakley, who had believed the child dead, began a fight in the courts for the girl. The United States supreme court ended the contest when it dismissed the case, and Mrs. Bleakley legally gained possession of the child.

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap dries your scalp, causing dandruff, then hair falls out—Try this next time.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, every application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.
Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.—advertisement.

 it to the Holy Land. He has written teresting account of what he has seen.

PART I.
 Jerusalem, Palestine, Jan. 3, 1914.
 Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin,
 Sir:—To fill some spare time I have,
 I write you these few lines from Jerusalem; and I hope they will prove of interest to your subscribers.

By far the most important place in the Holy Lands, where I have the pleasure to travel at the present time, is without any contradiction the city of Jerusalem, less on account its great antiquity and remarkable history than because of its association with Christianity.

But if anyone imagines Jerusalem to be an up to date modern city, he will be surprised to learn, that it has no tramways, no electric light or gas plant, nor even a telephone system, and what is worse than all, no water works. Outside a few ancient wells, worked by hand in the old-fashioned way, the people here have absolutely no water but what they catch in cisterns from the roofs of their houses during the short rainy season of three to four months. A 4 inch main, however, laying bare outside of the city walls near Jaffa gate, carries water from the pools of Solomon between Bethlehem and Hebron, a distance of about 8 miles, for the exclusive use and supply of the Turkish government and garrison-stationed here.

The once well known brook of Kidron, spoken of in the Scriptures has ceased to exist, its bed is dry and is used as a vegetable garden. It is therefore no wonder that the people always were and are dirty here, and seldom, if ever, bath.

Jerusalem is estimated to have a population of about 50,000, and is divided into 6 districts, each one named after the class of people inhabiting it. The streets of the holy city have with the exception of David Juffa, Christian street and Vin Oolo-rosa, no names, and all of them are, excepting David and Juffa streets, crooked, narrow and badly paved, if so at all, and like all thoroughfares in Turkish cities I have seen, exceedingly dirty, ill-smelling, and in the rainy season almost impassable. However, being built on high grounds, about 2500 feet above sea-level, the climate here is fairly healthy, and in summer delightful, but cool enough during the rainy season in winter to warrant warm underwear and a good overcoat and even fur.

Outside of the walled city there are some fine buildings and houses, occupied mostly by foreigners doing business in the city.

The first attention of the travelers coming here is generally given to either Morish hill or the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Both places would be of equal interest, and importance, provided there were positive proofs as to their identity and that they really are what they are claimed to be.

One is almost certain that Morish hill is the location of the former great Jewish temple, because the topography of a mountainous country is not easily changed. But no such proofs can be furnished in favor of the present site of the Holy Tomb and Golgotha, accepted (but not by everybody) as the true spot on which Christ suffered death, and was laid to rest, and this circumstance diminishes the interest the place would otherwise have.

The same uncertainty exists in regard to many other places, which are shown and accepted as sites of events and occurrences in connection with the life of Jesus and other matters, not alone in Jerusalem but all over Palestine. However, not being a scientist or an anthropologist, it would be waste of spare and time to express my opinions regarding them. Therefore rest intending to fill an issue of your paper, I shall confine my remarks to just a few of the most important and interesting places I have visited.

Morish hill is undoubtedly the center of interest in Jerusalem. It is an elevated walled plateau of 33 acres in area, made accessible by 8 gates. The principal one, mostly used is the "cotton gate" reached through a very long, ugly looking, vaulted passage, about 12 feet wide, lined on both sides with narrow stalls, used in earlier days, before they were abandoned and became the dumping grounds of rubbish and dirt, by cotton goods merchants, and hence the name. But at the time of Emperor William's visit, a few years ago, the Turkish authorities, ashamed of existing conditions, ordered them all closed, as the best and cheapest way to hide from his (the emperor's) view the accumulated filth and dirt contained in them, and they have remained so ever since.

Outside of the Mosque "el Askar," situated at the southwest corner, and the large Mosque of Omar, built on what was formerly the site of the great Jewish temple, it is entirely bare.

The Mosque of Omar is a large octogonal-shaped stone building, the interior of which is finished in beautiful artistic mosaic style but contains nothing but a large natural bare rock, about 40 feet in diameter, visible through the high, iron lattice work enclosing it, but not accessible. It is the summit of Mount Morish and said to be the spot on which the Holy Altar of the great temple once stood, and where Abraham was commanded by the Lord to build an altar, and sacrifice his son Isaac, and is therefore held in high reverence by all, even the Moslems.

A large empty cave underneath this "Sacred Rock" is supposed to hide below its stone foundation the treasure of King Solomon, estimated at $40,

000,000 sterling. It was the secret search after this supposed treasure by Parker and Wilson, two Englishmen (who had an understanding with the Turkish government and bribed the guardian of the Mosque) that caused a great disturbance amongst the Moslems, and came near to create here a massacre of the Christian population a few years ago.

On the outside wall, west of el Ak-sar mosque, is the washing place, where the Jewish people, men, women and children, gather every Friday afternoon for repentance and prayer to Jehovah to restore to them their kingdom and the holy temple grounds. It is a sad sight to look upon this distressing scene. Though permitted to do so no Jew will ever voluntarily enter the temple area for fear of unknowingly defiling by his presence the holy site, (which is not exactly known) and thereby commit a grave, almost unpardonable sin.

On Mount Zion side in the entrance southwest corner of Mount Moriah, about 40 feet below the surface, made accessible by a flight of stairs, are the excavated stables of Solomon, used by the crusaders, and said to hold 30,000 horses, but in my estimation no more than about 3000.

Near St. Stephen's Gate, just outside of the temple area, is the "Pool of Bethesda," where Jesus healed the lame one, who was unable to enter the pool, and a little from it the basilica of Santa Lima, indicating the site on which the house of the "Virgin's" parents stood.

A short distance from St. Stephen's Gate beyond a bridge, leading over the gulch, or valley of Kidron, at the foot of the Mount of Olives, is the historical garden of Gethsemane, a very small, well kept square, surrounded by a high wall. Within are a few very old olive trees, said, by the monks in charge, to have grown from the roots of the identical trees, growing there during the time of Christ.

Returning to the walled city through the aforementioned gate of St. Stephen's, not far from the Pool of Bethesda, in the Via Dolorosa, is shown the site of the former palace of Pilate, now covered by a chapel, and still a little further along in the same street, the traditional rich man's house and the place where poor old Lazarus used to sleep on a big stone in a cold stone corner, a hard resting place, indeed.

In the Church of the Holy Sepulchre everything is so mixed and congested, that a little sound reasoning will condemn the whole of it as an imposition. There are seen within a radius of of about 100 to 125 feet, a dozen and more things, having little or no connection with one another. Entering the church one sees, fronting the door, about 30 feet inside of the "Stone of Uction," where Jesus' body was laid, after being taken from the cross and where it was prepared for the tomb. On the right is the Mount Calvary or Golgotha, and the left, somewhat further towards the center of the church, the real "Tomb, or Holy Sepulchre" (enclosed in a beautiful shrine of marble and other costly material).

The "Tomb" is separated from the "Chapel of the Angel," a kind of ante-chamber, also of fine workmanship, and costly material, by a door through a thick, solid rock, a side of the sep-niche.

The sepulchre itself is a small, plain room in dimensions of about 5x8 feet, containing nothing but a large, coffin-like stone box with a stone cover over it, which is said to be the real sacrophagus in which Christ was laid to rest; it is regarded with the greatest reverence and kissed by all devout Christians who enter. In the rear of the Holy Sepulchre in a large rock cave are the tombs of Arimathea and Nicodemus, and in front of it, about 20 feet away, in the Greek orthodox chapel, a large, round stone, with a Greek cross on its surface, marking the center of the world, is shown. On the left side of the Greek chapel is the Column of Flagellation; the prison of Christ and the spot where Peter denied the Lord, besides many other things, all immortalized in an ostentatious manner by shrines and altars of costly construction. How all these things could have happened in such a small space is very mystifying to me, and I believe to most people who can see,
 reason and think.

A short distance out of Jaffa gate
 on a small hill opposite Mount Zion, is shown the field of blood, so-called because it was bought with the money received by Judas for his betrayal of the Lord, to be used, as the Scripture says, as a burial place for poor strangers. It is now owned by a convent, in which are a number of open stone vaults filled with human bones.

On Mount Zion, once covered with stately buildings and the spacious, magnificent palaces of the mighty kings of Israel, nothing is felt to remind the traveler of its former glory.

Besides the Citadel, the House of Santa Anna (the high priest before whom Jesus appeared after his arrest), the Tower of David and his tomb among those of many other late Jewish kings, marked by an imposing monument, called the "Tomb of David," nearly all dating from the time of the crusaders, who have left signs of their invasion all over Palestine, there is only the beautiful German Catholic cathedral, yet in construction, that is worth a visit.

On account of the Floral and Lantern Parades on Saturday the train scheduled to leave Honolulu at 3:20 p. m. will not leave until 4 p. m. An extra train for Ewa Mill and way stations will leave Honolulu at 3 p. m.—

SOCIETY

Mrs. Frank Batchelor entertained at a thimble tea last week in honor of Miss Iwailani Ripley who leaves very soon for the mainland where she will be married. Among the guests were Miss Ethel Carter, Mrs. A. O.
 Linneman, Mrs. R. Moore, Mrs. J. Bel-ser, Mrs. F. Clegoarn, Mrs. J. L. Whitmore, Mrs. F. D. Chandler, Miss Tokio McInerney and others.

Local friends are in receipt of invitations to the wedding of Miss Ruth Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
 Eli Hutchinson of Ygnacio valley, and Martin William Joost of this city. The wedding took place at the home of John Scott Wilson, the retired capitalist, at 3634 Washington street, on February 16 at 7:30 p. m. The young couple left the following day for Honolulu.—Martinez Standard.

Next Thursday (the 26th) will be the date for the last of the army relief bridge parties at the Young hotel.
 An unusually fine musical program will be rendered on that day during the tea—this having been a feature of all the bridge parties. In the receiving line and pouring tea will be Mrs.
 J. B. Reinters, Mrs. George Hicks,
 Mrs. Bert Huntington, Mrs. Francis
 Hinkle and Mrs. Norris Stayton.

The younger folk of Honolulu were very regretful over the departure of Mrs. G. M. Lear and her charming young daughter who have taken such an active part in the gay doings of the social world during the past few months. Mrs. and Miss Lear have been domiciled at the Pleasanton for the winter and during their visit have made many friends in the islands.
 They sailed on the Mongolia this week.

Mrs. Pisk, formerly Miss Clotilde Grunsky of Stockton, is giving a farewell tea this week in honor of Mrs. H. E. Banham, who is leaving soon to make her home in Honolulu.
 Mrs. Banham was formerly Miss Floence Bugbee of Stockton. Her husband, Rev. R. E. Banham, once secretary of the local Young Men's Christian Association, died last fall in Sonomo county, and Mrs. Banham will make her home near his three grown children, two daughters and a son, all of whom are settled in the Hawaiian city.—Stockton Independent.

Arrivals of interest to service folk this week are Colonel and Mrs. W. E.
 Ellis, who will be stationed at Fort Ruger, Colonel Ellis being detailed to the place now held by Major E. J.
 Timberlake. Until the departure of the Timberlakes on the March transport, Colonel and Mrs. Ellis will occupy quarters at Fort de Russy, after which they will move to Fort Ruger.
 Mrs. Ellis was in the receiving line on Thursday afternoon at the Army Relief bridge party. Both Colonel and Mrs. Ellis are great favorites with service people and will no doubt be popular additions to our local smart set.

Mrs. Sarah Newcomb received a few friends on Monday evening to view the Punchbowl eruption from her lanai at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.
 Music whiled away the hour before the spectacle and refreshments were served later. Among those who rendered delightful numbers were Prof.
 and Mrs. A. B. Ingalls and Mrs. Walter Kendall. Those present were Admiral and Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, General and Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Col. and Mrs. F. H. French, Mrs. O'Brien, Miss O'Brien, Col. W. C. Rafferty, Col. and Mrs. J. B. Macdonald, Miss Lila Macdonald, Major Julian Penn, Mrs. Walter Frear, Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs.
 George Appel, Prof. and Mrs. A. B.
 Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown,
 Miss Charlotte Hall, Miss Mand Mc-Kenna, Lieut. T. Camp, Mr. and Mrs.
 Walter Kendall, Lieut. L. Watrous and
 Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hosmer.

PINEAPPLE VIEWS
 A series of interesting views of the pineapple fields and industry is displayed at the Hawaiian Promotion committee rooms. The work is artisically mounted and is from the studio of R. K. Bonine. The collection is very interesting and will well repay a visit.—advertisement.

HOSTESS AT BRILLIANT AND BEAUTIFUL RECEPTION AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

SELDOM has such a beautiful affair been given in Honolulu as the reception by Mrs. Robert W. Shingle on Wednesday afternoon at the Country Club for Mrs. Melvia Shingle of Berkeley, Mr. Shingle's mother. The hand of Ernest Parker was discerned in all of the decorations. They were not only beautiful — lavishly beautiful — but very unusual and elaborate. On the broad lawn where the reception was held, brick-red African daisies were used in riotous profusion. These were arranged in graceful baskets and tied with tulle of the most wonderful, oddly-blending colors — soft blues and browns and yellows, shades of orange, green and amethyst — huge bows of it harmonizing with subtle misty effect of a rainbow waterfall. In the dining-room where tea was served at small tables a treliswork of malle was built about the windows. Great bowls of roses and ferns were arranged about the sides while on each table was a dainty gold basket filled with sweet peas and tied with opal-tinted tulle bows. At the foot of each basket were massed quantities of purple-headed violets and maidenhair fern. A stringed orchestra added the last harmonious effect with its quaint Hawaiian melodies softly caroled throughout the afternoon.

Receiving with the hostess and her guest of honor were Mrs. George Beckley and Mrs. Walter Macfarlane. Mrs. Shingle's gown was exquisite — a creation of white brocade satin with an overdress of gold lace which in turn was lined with green chiffon. The skirt had one of those French little apron-front effects of black tulle caught in the back with a cluster of reddish blossoms. Her hat was of black velvet with beautiful white agrettes. Mrs. Melvia Shingle wore a handsome gown of Alice-blue brocade with gold lace and fringe. She wore smart gold slippers and a beautiful gold hat trimmed with bird of paradise plumes. Mrs. Beckley was very smart in a frock of rose-pink brocade and charmeuse with a hat to match. Mrs. Walter Macfarlane was in a soft shade of amethyst brocade with a amethyst hat. Among the guests a number of strikingly beautiful gowns were observed. Mrs. E. D. Tenney wore a lovely costume of white charmeuse with dull beaded pinstriping and an exquisite coat of black chiffon. Mrs. Helen Noonan wore a handsome gown of black charmeuse with a large black hat. Mrs. Irwin Shepherd was charming in a gown of taupe colored chiffon with a green Persian border and a becoming green hat. Mrs. Nelson Lansing was in Yale blue taffeta made with bouffant hips and rows of little ruffles. Her sister, Miss Ethel McLain, was stunning in American Beauty charmeuse. Mrs. Frank Woods' appearance was very stunning also. She wore a gown of black charmeuse trimmed with red and gold pinstriping. The train was made with the smart little three cornered effect, each corner ending with a tassel. Her hat was of red with plumes to match. Mrs. William Lymer wore a modish costume of white taffeta with black fur. Miss Ethel Bishop was in blue. Mrs. M. E. Grossman wore an imported gown of gray blue charmeuse with a brocade coat of subdued Persian effect. Mrs. James McCandless was charming in white over pink with a pretty white hat trimmed with plumes. Mrs. E. J. Timberlake was stunning in black charmeuse with a black picture hat. Mrs. George Apple was in blue silk crepe sprigged with flowers. Mrs. Thomas Lucas was in black. Mrs. Maudie Phillips wore a charming frock of ecrú color with touches of old rose and a hat to match. Mrs. St. C. Sayres was in white with a becoming white hat. Mrs. Walter Kendall was in pink with touches of lavender and a chic little hat of black lace trimmed with agrettes. Mrs. George Wallace was in white with a hat of pink chiffon. Mrs. E. Bishop wore a handsome costume of purple velvet. Mrs. Robert McDowd was very attractive in her gown of white with touches of black. The skirt was made with a minaret overskirt of lace. Mrs. F. J. Center wore a handsome gown of gray charmeuse brocade with velvet. Mrs. E. J. Bodge was in amber color. Mrs. J. C. Haynes wore a becoming gown of white linen. Mrs. L. L. McCandless was in taupe chiffon with suggestions of Persian coloring in the border. Mrs. C. A. Brown wore black with touches of blue and yellow.

On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. Shingle were hosts at a delightful dance, the occasion being their anniversary, which fell on that day. Sixty or more couples tripped the light fantastic over the excellent country club floor until the wee sma' hours. Toward midnight a delicious supper was served, and the healths of the host and hostess proposed.

All Schofield at Carnival. (Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Feb. 20. —The Carnival has taken most of the garrison to Honolulu, the masculine part of it anyway, and there is not much entertaining when the men are absent.

Last Saturday evening Lieut. and Mrs. Neal gave a very attractive dance in the hall of the Spanish-American War Veterans. The guests were masked and in costume, many of which were original and the characters well carried out. Mrs. Whyoung not only looked the part, but really almost was one of the leis sellers on Hotel street.

Mrs. Robert W. Shingle

Lieut. Gano was an itinerant preacher to the life, and delivered a characteristic sermon to the delighted audience at the height of the evening. Captain O'Shea was an inimitable old apple woman, Colonel Meneber a Hawaiian woman in black "holoku." Mrs. McKinlay wore a very dainty colonial costume. Mrs. Nalle a gypsy dress. Lieut. Rieffer a black and white tuxedo. Mrs. Siner was a bewitching little Japanese. Mrs. Jones, queen of hearts, Mrs. Donaldson a black and white yama-yama. Mrs. Black, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Parker were Chinese women. Lieut. Maxwell and Miss Winans, twin Dutch children. Miss Carpenter, a school girl. Mrs. Sturgis, little girl. Lieut. Beard, clown. Lieut. Andrews, romper boy. Capt. Ennis, cook. Mrs. Ennis, French maid. Captain Frankenberg, cook. Mrs. Kieffer and Mrs. Hopkins, typical moving-picture girls on the western plains.

The Cavalry-Artillery Auction Bridge Club closed another tournament on Tuesday, with Mrs. Rienzehausen and Miss Mason, the prize winners.

Dr. and Mrs. Danner were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Siner for the week end.

Major and Mrs. Cruikshank gave a dinner on Saturday, entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Kimball of Haleiwa, and Lieut. and Mrs. Naylor.

Mrs. Glassford will be a guest of Capt. and Mrs. Benjamin Watkins of Fort Shafter, for the latter part of Carnival week.

Mrs. Preston and Mrs. Hardaman entertained at auction bridge on Wednesday at the Cavalry Club. The prizes were a silver sugar basket won by Mrs. Kieffer, a silver tea pot tile won by Mrs. Donaldson, and a silver smelling salts bottle won by Mrs. Sherwood.

Mrs. Robert Cheney gave a delightful luncheon on Thursday for Messrs. James Beard, Gano and Nalle.

Mrs. Bailey gave a delightful auction party last Saturday at Castner, entertaining about forty ladies. Mrs. Topham won first prize, a carved ivory fan; Mrs. Kennon, second prize, a pair of shoe buckles; Mrs. Roe, third prize, a five-pound box of candy.

The families of Major Harrison, Captain Scherer and Captain Holbrook are spending the week camping out, near the cavalry encampment in Honolulu.

evincing by the large and enthusiastic attendance at Tuesday's affair at the Young — this, too, in spite of so many counter attractions. The dancing world deeply regrets that the one to be held next Tuesday is the last of the dainties and cherishes the fond hope that Mrs. Gunn will start another series.

Carnival Ball. After everything has been said and done the best Carnival affair from a social point of view was the masked ball on Thursday night at the Armory. Of course, everyone turned out for it — ever since the splendid masked ball given by the Elks on New Year's Eve, people have been looking forward to this night and planning their costumes. Scores more were seized with the carnival spirit at the last moment too late to concoct any fancy dress, and perseverance wore evening clothes with perfumed masks. The Armory was strung with hundreds of American flags, no other attempt at decoration being made. Music was furnished by two bands, Kaaf's stringed orchestra of 20 pieces and Berger's band vying with each other to see which could render the most excellent refrains.

Although perhaps not as elegant as the ones worn on New Year's eve, the costumes worn at this affair embodied all the spirit of the Carnival — from the innocuous yama yamas, Pierrots and Pierrettes to the stately Indian and Japanese princesses and the Goddess of Liberty. First prize for the handsomest lady's costume, a suit case, was given to Mrs. Charles Oudan, who represented a silver fish. Her dress was of shimmering silver tissue, with a silver spangled head-dress. Mr. Samuel Searle received the first award for the men — also a suit case — his costume being that of a Grecian warrior. Miss Gladys Peet, a tourist from St. Paul, Minn., was given a nickel coffee percolator as second prize. She wore a Turkish costume of gray silk with Oriental trimming. Mr. C. D. Wright was awarded the second gentleman's prize — a triple shaving mirror. His costume was that of a Chinese mandarin of the twelfth century, of black satin handsomely embroidered, with a bee-hive shaped hat. First prize for the best dancers was awarded to Miss Abbona, who represented a Spanish girl, and Mr. E. Keven, who unembarrassedly impersonated a convict. Their prizes were a cut glass pectively. Miss Ivy Beasley, as a scare-crow, was considered the most original and a costume representing protection, the most comic. There were many ingenious dresses and a few very beautiful ones. The masks were especially ridiculous — the more hideous they were, the more satisfaction derived by the wearers. It gave one a queer feeling to behold a grinning skull at the top of an otherwise normal body, gazing at you perhaps with a languid expression that chilled to the heart. Abnormally long noses served as a perfect disguise for some, others whitewashing their faces for a mask. A few fair damsels donned the raiment of the sterner sex on this privileged occasion and tripped blushing about with their French heels as a dead give-away. Five hundred or more persons joined in the revelry which lasted until 1 o'clock. Observed among the dancers were Lieut. and Mrs. H. G. Nichols, Lieut. and Mrs. Frank Apple, Capt. and Mrs. George Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Agee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L'Hommedieu, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lansing, Miss Ethel McLain, Mr. Martin Grune, Dr. L. E. Hooper, Lieut. W. N. Derby, Lieut. Bothwell, Mr. Stanley McKenzie, Lieut. Charles Little, Mr. Bert Clark, Miss A. Orrison, Lieut. and Mrs. H. French, Miss Betty Case, Miss Lila McDonald, Miss M. Harrison, Miss Katherine Winans, Miss Florence Hoffman, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Nora Swansy, Miss Sybil Winter, Mr. Watson Ballentine, Lieut. Russell Maxwell, Lieut. John Hineman, Lieut. James Uilo, Miss Helen Alexander, Mr. Sidney Carr, Mr. David Anderson, Mr. John Macaulay, Mr. E. J. Botts, Miss Botts, Dr. and Mrs. Jay D. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. George Angus, Lieut. Charles Lyman, Mr. Guy Buttolph, Mr. Charles Herbert, Miss Ethel Bishop, Miss Esther Kopke, Mr. Albert Horner, Mr. R. Purvis, Lieut. W. E. Dorman, Mrs. Alice Hayward, Mr. Dave Larson, Mr. Robert McCarrison, Lieut. L. M. Silvester, Miss Sara Lucas, Miss Myrtle Schuman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bottomley, Lieut. Albert Lyman, Misses Botomley, Miss Marjory Carr, Mr. C. D. Wright, Mr. J. Peet, Miss Gladys Peet, Mr. Will Cooper, Mrs. Charles Oudan, Mr. Jack Atkinson, Mr. R. Searle, Miss Abbona, Mr. E. Keven, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson, Miss Ivy Beasley, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford High, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. Alfred Wakefield and others.

Bridge Party at the Young. The third of the series of bridge parties given by the artillery ladies of the Army Relief was held on the Young hotel roof garden on Thursday, an even larger crowd being present than at the previous two affairs. The prizes were dainty tea cups from Wichman's and Wall & Dougherty's, pretty enough to lend a zest to the gay competition. During the tea hour the two little Spanish proteges of Mrs. Mary Gunn gave songs and dances, one in their native costume and one in Siamese dress. In the receiving line were Mrs. W. E. Ellis, a new arrival at Fort Ruger; Mrs. W. F. Frear, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. C.

such dainty articles as French bouillottes, and fat, festive balloons of all colors. Exhibitions and fancy dances were given for the entertainment of the guests, professional services having been secured for the occasion. A quintet played and between courses and after supper the guests danced. Among those present were Miss Lurline Matson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dowsett, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Misses Jane Hotelling, Betty Case, Marie Tyson, Mary Lucas, Harriet Lucas, Wilhelmina Tenney, Jessie Kennedy, Nora Sturgeon, Violet McKee, Beatrice Castle, Mary von Holt, Agnes Buchanan, Mildred Robertson, Nora Swansy, Lady Macfarlane, Alice Macfarlane, Messrs. Mrs. Wilder's Cabaret Supper. After all expenditure of money alone will not make a party an unalloyed success—it is the time and thought in working out the little details, the ingenious ideas that come only after careful study, the practical understanding of one's guests. The cabaret supper given by Mrs. Arthur Wilder on Wednesday evening for Miss Lurline Matson combined all of these qualities with the added stimulus of youth and good spirits. It was pronounced the most delightful affair of many moons—the novelty was alluring. The guests were seated at small tables as in a cabaret. These were adorned with small gold baskets of flowers bearing the place cards as well. Favors were distributed at intervals during supper and included

MRS. ARTHUR WALL was hostess at a large and very beautiful luncheon on Valentine's day in honor of her niece, Miss Muriel Howatt. A color scheme of red and white was used all through the house and on the small tables where luncheon was served. Red hearts of all kinds were strung about the rooms—big hearts, little hearts, fat hearts, thin hearts, whole hearts and even broken hearts, all significant of the day and of the announcement of Miss Howatt's engagement to Theodore Cooke which came later. This came in a most tantalizing manner to the guests, who thought they smelled a mouse on beholding the table laden with hearts and lovers' knots of red tulle. At first they thought it would come in the envelopes which were used as place cards, but upon being opened they were found to contain a pretty valentine. Then came many and mysterious telegrams which only bore messages of good cheer. At last, however, upon leaving the table, announcement was made, and the attractive young bride-to-be showered with good wishes. The marriage will be an event of early summer. Among those present were Miss Muriel Howatt, Mrs. Fred Smith, Miss Alice Cook, Miss Leatrice Castle, Miss Allee Hopper, Miss Eliza Hopper, Miss Helen Girvin, Miss Sara Lucas, Miss Florence Hoffman, Mrs. Herbert Doyett, Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey, Miss Louise McCarthy, Miss Aileen McCarthy, Mrs. George Renton, Miss Violet Atherton, Miss Laura Atherton, Miss Esther Kopke, Miss Rennie Catton, Mrs. Arthur Rice, Miss Marjory Gilman, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Mary von Holt, Miss Nora Sturgeon, Miss Margaret Waterhouse, Mrs. Montague Cooke, Miss Margaret Peterson, Mrs. Philip Rice, Mrs. A. W. James, Jr., Miss Bertha Kopke, Mrs. John Buel Guard and Mrs. Frank Hoops.

Mrs. Cartwright's Tea.
One of the most original and delightful affairs that have been given in Honolulu in many a year was the "fashion tea" given by Mrs. Bruce Cartwright, Jr., at her home in Liliha. The guests were prepared for something unusual when a fortnight ago they received unique little invitations written in French to 5 o'clock tea and a discussion of the styles. Upon their arrival, they were one and all made speechless—with amazement and laughter—at the appearance of their hostess, whose costume might have stepped out of Vogue, so ludicrously exaggerated it was. A description of the "toilette"—the gown made of a lace curtain and a mosquito net with the fish-tail train from between the ankles and a brood skirt, the wig of fashion's latest whim, anklets blue in color, the pearl earrings and jewels to match made of ping-pong balls, the ultra smart cigarette connected from two long wires and fluffy topped powder puffs—is quite beyond possibility of pen. One can only say that it was one of the cleverest bits of dressmaking ingenuity seen in a long time. Each guest was given a sketch of a woman and a lead pencil with which to draw on her costume. As can be imagined the results were highly amusing. Prizes were offered for the most original, most chic, most suitable for the climate and for a number of other things. Upon comparing the sketches, however, the judges found it so difficult to come to a decision that a prize was given to every one—each prize having to do in some way with a modish wardrobe. Delicious refreshments were then served. Among Mrs. Cartwright's guests were Mrs. Clifford High, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey, Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. Norma Adams, Mrs. William Lymer, Mrs. W. I. Thomas, Mrs. Benjamin Marx, Misses Sara Lucas, Mary Lucas, Helen Girvin, Eunice Pratt, Eloise Wichman, Mary von Holt, Rose Herbert, Jessie Kennedy, Sylvia Pirvis, Rennie Catton, Florence Hoffman, Agnes Buchanan, Hunter, Ethel Bishop, Belle McCriston, Margaret Waterhouse and others.

Mrs. Tenney's Tennis Tea.

Bodrero, Mrs. Senni, Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Scott, Capt. and Mrs. William Matson, Mrs. Barbara Low, Miss Marie Tyson, Miss Jane Hotelling, Mr. Valentine, Miss Valentine, Major and Mrs. J. T. Stockton People in Hawaii.
The society folk of Stockton are following with keenest interest the movements of some of their members, who are at present visitors in Hawaii. The following clipping was taken from the Independent of that city:

ful visit in the Hawaiian islands that they have decided to remain there during the month of February. If they had adhered to the original plan they would now be on the briny deep, as they had intended leaving Honolulu Tuesday. The big flower festival of the Hawaiian Islands begins on the 14th of February and the visitors decided to stay and enjoy it.

Mr. Carl Rothenbush, who is en route to the Orient, arrived in Honolulu on the 17th of January and soon after his arrival there, gave a delightful dinner at the Hotel Moana and entertained as his guests the Stocktonians and Lodiens who are visiting in Honolulu. Among those at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lorenz and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hutchins of Lodi,

Mrs. P. B. Fraser and Mrs. J. D. McDougald, and a Mr. and Mrs. McSeely of Vancouver, whose acquaintance the host made on board the steamer going over. After dinner the group sat on the veranda until midnight without wraps, showing how balmy is the winter night of the islands.

Mrs. Brown's Luncheon.
Mrs. William Matson was the raison d'être for a large and very beautiful luncheon given on Tuesday by Mrs. A. M. Brown at Waikiki. The guests were seated at small tables, each one bearing an attractive floral offering of scarlet lilies and ferns. After lunch the party motored to "Kukulanani," where they attended Mrs. Tenney's tennis tea. Invited to meet Mrs. Matson were Mrs. Barbara Low, Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. E. J. Timberlake, Mrs. Charles Adams, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mrs. Senni, Mrs. Bodrero, Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Will Whitney, Mrs. Ranney Scott, Mrs. A. Rentiers, Mrs. Mary Gunn, Mrs. John Walker, Mrs. Sam Wilder, Mrs. R. J. Buchly, Mrs. Hyde-Smith and others.

Coming Silver Anniversary.
Dainty silver crested invitations delivered during the week to society folk were motifs for many thrills of pleased excitement. The Tenneys are splendid hosts, their affairs being the best word in elegance and brilliancy. Therefore the legend borne on the silver inscribed cards is evoking much pleasant anticipation:
"1889-1914
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davies Tenney request the pleasure of your presence at the celebration of the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of their marriage on the evening of Thursday, the fifth of March at nine o'clock, Kukulanani."

Mrs. Dillingham's Luncheon.
Mrs. Montgomery Macomb who leaves next month for Washington, D. C. was the motif for a very beautiful luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Harold Dillingham at her home on Beretania street. Other guests included Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Miss Marion Scott, Mrs. Geo. Davies, Mrs. Charles Adams, Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Mrs. Will Whitney, Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. L. Bodrero, Mrs. Senni, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. Walter Dillingham. The luncheon was served in buffet style which always signifies delightful informality.

General and Mrs. Macomb's Dinner.
Dainty pink roses and pink shaded candelabra to match made a very effective decoration for the table when General and Mrs. Macomb entertained at dinner this week. This is among the farewell entertainments of the Macombs who will leave Honolulu within a few weeks, to the great regret of the social world. On this occasion their guests were Admiral and Mrs. C. B. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Prosser, Major M. De Laney, Col. W. C. Rafferty, Col. and Mrs. S. D. Sturges, Col. and Mrs. J. B. McDonald, Capt. H. C. Williams, Judge and Mrs. Will Whitney, Mrs. George Jamerson, Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mrs. Hubbard and Col. and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds.

The picture appears on this page today of Miss Lurline Matson, daughter of Captain and Mrs. William Matson. Miss Matson's engagement to Mr. Will Roth of Honolulu was announced last week. She is now visiting in Honolulu and is extremely popular.

Hermann Krusi Having a Continuous Round of Pleasure.
Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Krusi and Miss Priscilla Krusi, who are due here from the Hawaiian islands within the coming week, are having every attention shown them by the island residents. Yachting, motoring and swimming occupy the days and dinners and luncheons and every sort of entertainment fill in the remainder of the hours of day and evening. The Alamedans find a delight in everything and will bring home some interesting details of their stay in the picturesque land of the tropical growth and shining beaches and soft breezes. Other Californians are tasting of these delights and the Alameda colony will be enlarged by the group which sailed on the Matsonia Wednesday.—Alameda Times.

Mrs. Baldwin's Reception.
A large and very beautiful reception was given on Tuesday by Mrs. H. A. Baldwin at Hamakua, Maui, for Mrs. W. D. Baldwin, a recent addition to the Maui colony. The house was attractively decorated with flowers, ferns and tropical shrubbery. The banquets were abloom with bowls of marguerites and purple headed violets, white delicate pink roses and ivory colored calla lilies were used in the reception and dining rooms. All through the house were exquisite baskets of maidenhair fern, the wide stairway being banked on either side with them. In the receiving line with Mrs. Baldwin were Mrs. W. D. Baldwin and Mrs. H. P. Baldwin. Assisting in the receiving and entertaining of the guests were Mrs. S. E. Taylor, Mrs. J. C. Fitzgerald and Miss Mary Couch. A very delightful musical program was rendered during the afternoon, a number of the girls from the Maunaloa seminary singing several quaint Hawaiian melodies. Mrs. Louise Chisholm Jones' songs were considered a rare treat. Dainty refreshments were served by even daintier little lassies all dressed in pretty pink sashes and hair bows. Among these were Misses Thelma Boyum, Frances Baldwin, Rita Rosecrans, Olive Lindsay, Dorothy Lindsay, Ruth Lindsay, Bessie Lindsay, Annie Walker, Alice Walker, Bernice Carol, Dorothy Foster, Virginia McCenkey and Lois Murdock.

The gowns worn by the ladies present were unusually beautiful and plainly show that Maui is not allowing its Honolulu sisters to excel when it comes to fashions at least. "The Mayor of Tokio."
All society turned out on Wednesday evening to witness "The Mayor of Tokio" performance, everyone so imbued with the Carnival spirit that they rejoiced at the opportunity to sit on the improvised benches while our newly-acquired Arctic breezes nipped their ears and played havoc with the temperatures of their toes. Such minor inconveniences were completely lost sight of in sheer enjoyment of the little opera, the scenic effects of which were wonderful beyond description. The audience was kept in a constant lit of laughter by the clever dialogues and stage play, not to mention several little episodes that were not on the official program.
A number of the smart set took advantage of this opportunity to entertain at theater parties and the boxes were all well occupied. Among those noticed in the latter were Mr. and Mrs. George Carter, General and Mrs. M. Macomb, Colonel and Mrs. I. V. Kennon, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Murray, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. M. C. A. Boys Enjoy Hikes Around Island of Oahu

The accompanying pictures show groups of members of the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association in camp and on the trail on the windward side of Oahu. The center picture is that of R. M. Cross, secretary of the employed boys' department, who has been instrumental in arranging from time to time series of round-the-island jaunts.

"Hike around the island next Saturday."

So reads the sign on the bulletin board in the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association at least once every week. It is needless for the secretaries to make an inquiry in order to ascertain if there will be enough boys to make the trip worth while, for hiking has become such a popular feature with the youngsters at the "Y" that a mere notice as above is all that is needed to call out a crowd.

It would be hard for a person who has never taken one of these hikes to try to describe them. Glenn E. Jackson, extension secretary of the boys' department, who has been in the lead from the start, and who generally heads the hikes, in company with Secretary Roland M. Cross, describes them as follows:

"Promptly at 10 o'clock we are all ready to go, having gathered at the Y. M. C. A., and we start off through the streets toward the country. We are headed straight across the island, so our way leads up Nuuanu street and it is steady climb from the trail we reach the Pali. The road leads up a beautiful valley. High, steep mountains flank either side. They hang close over us and the heavy vegetation makes the entire scene a great, green amphitheater. After a while we come to where waterfalls are tumbling down toward the valley. They rub the side of the mountains with their white stripes of water that flash downward to the great reservoir below which is one of the many which supplies Honolulu.

"After an hour we come in the vicinity of the Pali, and we know it because of the increasing wind. And here is where the stranger receives his first surprise, for he sees water running uphill. The wind, blowing up the side of the mountain, strikes the waterfalls with such force that it turns the water, and it runs back over itself. When the quantity becomes so great as to overcome the force of the wind, gravitation prevails, and it comes tearing downward again. But the sight of the water running uphill is never to be forgotten.

"The wind increases. In fact, it is stronger than usual, for this happens to be a windy day. The boys who have been this way before cast knowing glances ahead and tell the new boy he is to have an experience when he goes around the point of the Pali. And soon, with a turn in the road, we are at the Pali, the nature marvel of the Hawaiian islands, and said by many to be the most wonderful sight in the world, for all at once the road seems to end in a precipice several thousand feet deep. And what a view! Stretching innumerable miles ahead lies the rolling Pacific, green near the shore but fading to that dark, foreboding blue on the horizon. But our attention is taken by the scene below, for there, stretched out for miles, lie the fertile fields of Oahu. The green-ribbed fields which seem to predominate are the pineapple patches. We notice how the rows seem to change on every hillside. We look north, and the mountains seem to close down upon the sea, making one vast amphitheater.

"Soon we are on our way again. About noon we reach the bottom of the Pali and stop beside an icy stream for our luncheon. Every boy opens his knapsack and brings out the sandwiches which are carried for the first meal out, for they will keep fresh and it saves the time of cooking on the road. Twenty minutes is the time allowed for lunch, and soon we hit the road again. We pass by an old, tumbled-down building and the boys tell me that it used to be a refuge house for Hawaiians who had committed a crime. Here they could flee and be protected until the priest came to adjudicate the matter.

"About 6 o'clock it gets cooler, and we hasten on for there is yet two miles ahead. At 6:20 we stop at the water's edge and pitch our tent, dig trenches and otherwise prepare a proper camp. Supper is soon under way. While the fire is burning and coals are being prepared upon which to cook, the boys put on their trunks and soon one splash after another tells that if you would find the inmates of the camp you will have to dive into the sea. Supper consists of the balance of the sandwiches, fried potatoes, canned salmon, oranges and hot cocoa.

"And then the evening around the camp fire. The rolling ocean plays a heavy bass to the voices which soon are uplifted in song. Most of the boys are Americans, but they can sing the wondrous Hawaiian songs, and one after another they sing. Sometimes I lie and listen, and at other times I can not help but join. Eight o'clock comes and heads began to droop. Then I tell them the story of the great Rang, the Red Man. Soon the little testament is read, a prayer is sent up for the protection and guidance of the Great Father, and then the whole camp is asleep under the stars.

"And, as the sun is foretold by the reddening sky, someone wakes. Then none else can sleep, for with a war whoop, he tears down to the beach and the splash is the alarm clock which brings tousled heads from every tent, and a moment later all are in the surf.

Soon the little testament is read, a prayer is sent up for the protection and guidance of the Great Father, and then the whole camp is asleep under the stars.

"And, as the sun is foretold by the reddening sky, someone wakes. Then none else can sleep, for with a war whoop, he tears down to the beach and the splash is the alarm clock which brings tousled heads from every tent, and a moment later all are in the surf.

"Then breakfast is over and the dishes are washed. Then to games we go. First, we must have a football game, and the feature of these contests are the long, wide end runs which end up in about three feet of water with the man underneath blubbling like an inverted jug of water. The referee holds his breath, dives underneath, looks around, locates the ball, puts his foot on it and cries "third down; three yards to go."

The center dives under, but his hands on the ball, the quarterback makes a noise like a duck and, with an upward rush, the ball comes out and is passed to the backs who, not satisfied yet that the middle of the ocean is reached, carries it out farther and falls on it himself, going down in disgrace and salt water.

"Foot races follow, first on the sand and then in the water. Swimming relays end up the sports after a while, but later in the day we frolic in the sand banks.

"The day is full of such sports and evening comes too soon. But not before we have borrowed an old Hawaiian's net and gone fishing. Now this is no 'fish story,' but true as gold. As witness of which I will soon possess pictures of the catch. The net was taken unshored by two boys who projected it from shore outward. Then the rest of the crowd with sticks drove the fish toward it and, when it was closed in and dragged out onto the shore it was a sight for sore eyes and fish-hungry kids. We did this about five times and had two pails full and three strings of them. The fish average about a foot long, and for supper we just ate fish and bread. We also added coconuts brought from nearby trees.

Then, about 8 o'clock, after it is all dark, we go crabbing. This, to me, is the outstanding experience of the whole trip. We carry a large reflector light. The squad starts down the beach, one carrying a large pail and the others their net. For it takes some nerve to catch these biting, clawing brutes. But as we run along the smooth sand, when they are by the hundreds, and when they hear us coming, what scrambling, running and yelling. Some drop what they appear to pick up, but the more experienced soon begin to pile the crabs into the bucket where a heavy cloth holds them in. On and on we run, all the time getting them. Little round holes up on the sand tell where some of them 'afe in hiding and we dig them out. A Hawaiian boy shows me how he could always catch them and never be hurt. It is the same principle used to feed a horse from the hand. And, by hitting him on the back with the palm and drawing back of the hand, the fingers would close on the body and without any chance for Mr. Crab to get a hold.

When the capacity of the pail is overcrowded, we all hie back to camp, yelling like Comanche Indians, and the whole bucketful goes into the cauldron of boiling water left behind to heat up. And in ten minutes the crowd is chewing and relishing the best of all meats, the crab meat.

The next morning stakes are pulled and the home journey is started. An easier pace is taken and every one feels fresh, so the way home seems shorter. Of course an added consideration is the lighter load, for the provisions are a nil quantity now.

CHALMERS MODEL 24 IS ECONOMICAL IN UPKEEP

In considering economy of up-keep on an automobile there are three important features to look out for. First, the car's ability to stand up, that is, the ability to give service with minimum wear and tear on parts.

Second—Economy on tires. Third—Economy of gasoline consumption. The first is by far the most important consideration. If a car was absolutely perfect there would be a minimum of wear and tear on parts; therefore, the nearer perfect it is, the lower the repair bills become. Tire bills come second in up-keep expense. Many change from one tire to another, claiming that each is poorly made and blaming the tire company when in reality their machine is at fault. In many cases the rear construction of the machine is so heavy that the tire is worn out by weight. In other cases the other extreme is found and the rear construction is so light that the car bounces around and slippage causes the wear.

The even and right construction of weight is one of the Chalmers' aims. The tests have been designed to get the weight so evenly distributed that the wear is reduced to the minimum. Then there is the old gasoline bugaboo. The question of gasoline consumption has been harped upon so strongly by many manufacturers that the average buyer regards it too seriously. In reality it is the smallest of up-keep worries.

The really economical car, and we think we have it in the Chalmers Model 24, is a car with not only a low fuel consumption average, but with many far more important points to keep down the bills.

PACKARD MOTOR TRUCK SALE ON THE INCREASE

The steady increase in motor truck sales has made necessary a substantial addition to the force employed in the truck shops of the Packard Motor Car Company. Several large orders have contributed to the increased activity for the month of January. An order for 24 heavy duty Packards was received from the Loos-Wiles Eisenit Company of New York. This is one of the largest orders for motor trucks placed in recent months

SAYS HE IS SON OF STRATHCONA

Brookline Man Claims Share of the Canadian Baron's Big Estate

[By Latest Mail] BOSTON. — Asserting that he is the son of Baron Strathcona and Mountroyal, late high commissioner for Canada, James H. Smith of Brookline, will take steps, it is said, to obtain recognition of his interests in the vast estate. Smith refused to discuss the subject, but his wife said counsel had been engaged in presenting his claim to the executors of Lord Strathcona. Mrs. Smith added that no court action would be instituted unless friendly overtures were without avail. She said there was no doubt that her husband was the legal son of Lord Strathcona. "He is a full brother to Mrs. Margaret Charlotte Howard of London, who is recorded as Lord Strathcona's daughter and heir," she said. "Mr. Smith was in constant communication with his father." The Smiths and their three children live in a comfortable but unpretentious house on Strathmore road.

AUTOMOBILES SHIPPED IN CARLOAD LOTS

Trainload shipments of motor cars are being made from Flint, Michigan, pretty nearly every day now. One Buick special left January 27 for the Nebraska-Buick Company at Lincoln, Neb., and two more followed Monday, one for the Tanberg Auto Co. at Eau Claire, Wis., and one to the Hokanson Auto Company at Madison, Wis. This Hokanson shipment is the second to go to them within the month. The first train of the Buick trainload season went to the Howard Automobile Company at San Francisco. There were 88 carloads in the train, a total of 418 Buicks. This was followed by a 35 carload train to the Hokanson Auto Company, at Denver. A few days later the first of a three-trainload order went to the Pence Auto Company at Minneapolis. The Pence order is for 1,500 motor cars to be shipped in three special trainloads of 50 cars each. A trainload of 50 cars went to the Leyman-Buick Company at Cincinnati, January 23, and another of 30 carloads to the Ohio Buick Company at Cleveland followed by only a few days. The Nebraska-Buick train of 50 cars which left Flint January 26 is the first of an order for three 50-car trainloads. The Buick-Doston Company of Boston has ordered one special trainload of 44 carloads for Boston retail trade, a

JOKE CAUSES DEATH OF EASTERN BANKER

[By Latest Mail] MAHANOV CITY, Pa.—A joke, a glass of water and hurried exit from a room caused the tragic death of C. L. Adam of this place at Barnesville hotel. When Adam laughed at the joke, the water started a fit of coughing. He arose hurriedly from the table and rushed for the outside, but instead opened a door into a cellar, and went plunging headlong to the cement floor below. His neck was broken. Death was instantaneous. Adam, who was vice-president of the Merchants' Trust Company, was one of a party enjoying a chicken and waffle supper at a hotel.

DES MOINES—According to Judge Brennan of the district court, it doesn't make much difference to Lloyd McClanahan what he drinks so long as it comes done up in a whisky bottle. Judge Brennan reached this conclusion after McClanahan's son had testified that he made a concoction of cat-sup, vinegar, pepper and other ingredients and put it in a bottle where his father could get it. "Did he like it?" Judge Brennan asked. "I don't know whether he liked it, but he drank it," replied the boy. On the strength of his testimony Mrs. Sadie McClanahan was given a divorce on the ground of habitual drunkenness.

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY FOR DEVELOPMENT OF SMALL FARMS

By ALLAN HERBERT
Minister of Agriculture Under the Monarchy

Small farms for the perpetuation of diversified agriculture is a subject which the residents of these islands certainly take a deep interest in, and one upon which the future of this territory depends. But this interest needs organization and cooperation. Cooperation is the German farmer's stronghold, and it is of various kinds; for instance, the cooperation of the banks. Steam plows, drainage and irrigation may also be considered along this line. Cooperation has formed the key to their success, and has started and saved many a poor farmer.

Merich Balfessen, mayor of the town of Flammersfeld, Germany, started this system. His object was to rescue the small farmers from the oppressive grip of the money-lender, in which undertaking he succeeded so marvelously that the Prussian government sent a special commission to examine and report on his methods.

It is of importance to this territory that the truth should be told—and as honest men we should not be afraid to tell it—regarding the actual conditions here and the opportunities for a white immigration. A large number of Asiatics are coming to these islands, mostly as laborers for the purpose of working on the plantations engaged in the sugar industry, but who subsequently find their way to our seaports and enter into serious competition with the American and European artisans and small tradespeople.

Looking over the whole field of Hawaii's marvelous and varied industries, I have an unshaken faith in the future prospects for our agricultural industries. What if there should be a few croakers, a ne'er-do-well kind, who cannot make a success of anything in life? Says the Anaheim Gazette:

"J. Bayha informs us that this season's chili crop of this section will bring the growers $80,000. He estimates that 250 tons of dried chilis have been forwarded to market, the price paid being $350 a ton."

We all know that in Hawaii the chili pepper trees grow like so many weeds. If there is such an extensive market for this product, why could not its cultivation become a local industry?

Family Gardens.
It will surprise anyone who carried on a rapid succession of planting in these islands to see how much desirable food may be obtained from a very small area. A garden of say 75 feet square will supply enough vegetables, except potatoes, for a large family and will require but a small amount of attention each week.

Oyster Farming.
Oyster farming is another industry which I would recommend as one of great profit and possibility. The oyster is subject to improvement by cultivation, and is an industry which may be successfully carried out on a small scale, and with little capital. An area of shallow water is the one essential. The whole secret of oyster culture is the furnishing of proper bodies on the bottom of the pool for the attachment of the young and by planting seed oysters upon the bottoms which are helpful to their growth.

The conditions are thus made more favorable for a larger number to reach maturity. As under natural conditions, the young oysters fasten themselves so close together that the growth of one involves the broadening out and destruction of hundreds of others. At Pearl Harbor today there are a number of natural oyster beds, and hundreds of tons of empty shells. The oysters no doubt were packed so closely together that they could not lie flat, but grew vertically side by side, thus preventing them from opening their shells, and later exterminating them. Each growing oyster doubtless had fastened itself to the free end of a dead shell, and today you may find a pile of five or six shells thus united.

The history of the oyster beds of all countries deal principally with their deterioration and destruction. Consul Canavaro tells me that in his country today the oyster interest is one of the most important industries and gives employment to thousands of persons. Millions of dollars of capital are invested therein, he says.

Oysters are swimming animals and they are discharged into the water in countless numbers to be swept away great distances by the currents. While I was in San Francisco recently, a shipment of 15,000,000 young oysters, which had been reared on the Connecticut beds, arrived there.

Edward J. Nally, vice-president and general manager of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, says that in connection with the Western Union the company will soon start its trans-Pacific wireless service at 33 1-3 per cent reduction from existing cable rates. The agreement between Marconi Company and Western Union announced April 19, 1912, provided "for extension of Marconi system from Pacific coast to Hawaii, China, Japan and Philippines."

Survivors of El Dorado Abjure Matrimony on Desert Island

[By Latest Mail]
SAN FRANCISCO.—"Why didn't we marry and settle down on Easter Island?" pondered a big, bronzed, blue-eyed seaman, one of the seven survivors of the wrecked schooner El Dorado, who have just arrived at San Francisco.

"Hub, you tell us," "But," it was urged, "that's how it always turns out in the books." "Books, hey!" chimed in another of the castaways. "Once I read in a book that a cat played a fiddle and a cow jumped over the moon, but I don't think that ever happened."

Someone commented on the fact that seven fine-looking bachelors seemed to have overlooked a good opportunity, but a laugh was the only response from the group.

"Perhaps women are scarcer on the island than folks on the mainland have been led to believe," another bystander ventured.

"Ach, der was plenty of womens all right enough," one of the survivors said. "Der was too many womens. Womens appear to be der trouble down here. A man marries and den he gets divorced and marries annoder woman. Some men have been married dozens of times. We don't want to marry because der was none of der womens what suited us."

"We had a good time while it lasted, didn't we Carl?" another member of the group chided his companion on the left. "Perhaps it was a lucky thing that the British steamer Knight of the Garter came along and picked us up. We were five ad a half months on the island and there is no telling what have happened in another month or two."

"Sure," came the shout from his fellows. "We might all have married and been elected chiefs."

COMMERCIAL ITEMS

To date $15,000,000 of the $40,000,000 crop moving funds originally deposited last autumn in banks of agricultural sections has been returned.

Several large Chicago banks, instead of waiting for definite dates on which funds were to be returned, are voluntarily returning them in advance.

BERLIN.—Annual report of Hamburg-American line shows company earned $15,000,000 in 1913, an increase of $2,000,000 over 1912. A dividend of 10 per cent was declared.

The government's estimate of 13,589,171 bales of cotton ginned to January 16 exceeded all expectations, notwithstanding the fact that private estimates forecasted ginnings of approximately 13,550,000 bales.

F. W. Swanzy has returned from Hawaii where he inspected the several plantations represented by The Davies & Co. He returns pleased with the condition of the crops, though Hamakau plantation expects to have a rather short 1914 crop, the others give splendid promise.

Almost one-third of the main tunnel of the Waihole Water Company has been completed according to J. A. McCandless. Five of the laterals are finished, with 22 still remaining to finish. The large amount of water encountered has been the cause of slight delay. It is now siphoned out.

NEW YORK.—Total dividend and interest disbursements for February, 1914, are estimated by Dow, Jones & Co. at $98,000,000, compared with $93,000,000 last year. Up to the present, dividends declared payable next month by New York city banks and trust companies and various corporations of the United States aggregate $44,006,999, based on a total capitalization of $2,310,539,987.

Trading on the New York exchange in stocks Thursday of last week totaled 783,938 shares, the largest five-hour day trading since June 12, 1913. Trading on the stock exchange Thursday in bonds totaled $7,310,500, the largest five-hour trading day since Oct. 13, 1911, when $8,514,000 changed hands. The record trading for five hours was made on Nov. 11, 1904, when $15,085,500 changed hands.

Women's Problems

BY LOUISE CONWAY

Suffrage for woman is the most agitated question of the day, and by all the peoples of the world.

Why do we need suffrage, and why the cause for the need?

Has not woman by Divine right the greatest power given humanity?

Has she not the right and privilege of wifehood and motherhood, the training of the boys to be the men for the world's great work?

For what greater right or privilege can woman ask? Does it not lie chiefly with her what men shall do? Is she accepting and fulfilling her trust?

If she fails in her work where shall we place the blame?

What can you expect of a man who begins life handicapped with a weak constitution, a love for personal pleasure and a general disregard for morality? Lacking all good that every man should possess as his rightful heritage.

Whose the fault and why? Every child should receive the truest, noblest and lasting principles of life with his parents, especially from the mother who bears him and who for many years should be his closest, most loving and sympathetic companion. Yet, how many of our women today who are clamoring for "woman's rights" are willing to assume the "rights" they have now?

Rights controlling all other rights. Alas, but very few. Why? Simply because they are either too lazy, too indifferent or have lost their womanliness in their love for worldly pleasure and admittance.

How many of our women today have gone mad over dress, gambling, the modern sensual dances, the reading of erotic novels which inflame the mind, thus depriving them of any feeling of moral responsibility. All of this leads to the dissipation of all the original goodness that is claimed for woman as the being created to elevate man. Yet she is boldly clamoring for suffrage.

With women in this demoralized physical and mental condition our political situation would be in even worse condition than it is today. Nothing so bad but that it could be worse.

Shame upon the woman of today. The only wonder is that our men do not turn upon us and cry us shame for being such irresponsible, pleasure-loving, frivolous creatures.

What would our dear old home-loving and home-making grandmothers say could they live today and see all of woman's work that is left undone. I fear they would wish to deny their sex.

In most all matters we must judge by appearances and results. You have only to look about you any day as you less they as children have been taught by a pure, loving, gentle, earnest woman to live purely, exercise right thinking, obey parents, respect womanhood, and give due reverence to their elders.

What happier, greater, or more noble work could we desire or need? It is impossible for us to command respect and equal political rights with the men unless we as women command it by pure and honest lives.

What greater duty to the nation can women have than to train the children that they may live—that for very love of us they will make laws which will protect all womankind.

If our children are so reared shall we not then have good, honest men in all positions of trust? It cannot be otherwise because honesty and truth have become the man's life. Then will there be no need of graft; in fact man will have no desire but for honesty in business and all his affairs.

Woman's adaptability and love of honest living will enable her to live well within any given salary—extravagance will be an unknown quantity with the true woman. She will not have time nor desire for the mere frivolities of life. Her pleasure will be in the true happiness of all about her; in the developing of the beautiful and strong character of her children and the welfare of her husband.

What is the value of life if not in the real and vital, good and pure? Ask yourself as a woman of pleasure what satisfaction do you really derive from this unnatural excitement—inflaming the mind by trashy novels, gambling and sensual dancing?

True, you may receive the attentions of many men, but in all this do you gain the homage of one true heart? No, a thousand times no!

No matter how worldly and base a man may be he will ultimately turn to the pure, earnest woman for the best influences in his life, and for the comfort and rest his soul desires.

Men will gladly accord us our every right when we have won it and when we do our part of life's work with earnestness and love.

The mentality and morality of the future men and women depend upon us as individuals—what shall we make them? In all conscience let us give them strong, healthy bodies, pure minds and a noble purpose in life.

There is one aspect of the question of woman suffrage which has been very little discussed or debated upon—woman was created primarily to be the helpmeet of man. If she has forgotten this in her aspiration to be his "equal" and to avenge on the men of this generation, by her attitude of war-like independence, the real or fancied wrongs of centuries past, when this idea held sway, it is more than possible she has ceased to be a "helpmeet" and has become a doubtful luxury. This may account for the many women living the abnormal life of single loneliness and the well-filled ranks of bachelors in name only. Again let me ask, what greater rights can we have or expect than the rights God has already bestowed upon woman?

Then let us rise in the strength, beauty of pure womanhood, that all man may call us blessed.

There will be no rights withheld from women when they prove themselves serious in the fulfillment of the peculiar duties and privileges which secure the home, as the primary training ground for those who are to run the race in the world. But see that the primaries are not neglected, for man has been given no choice nor chance to substitute his work for ours.

What can we expect of our men un-

HAITIEN REBELS DEFEATED.

CAPE HAITIEN, Haiti.—The government forces advancing on this city by order of the new president, Oreste Zamor, to take the city from the control of the rebel organization which has dominated the town since the bitter pre-election campaign, met the rebel forces outside the city yesterday and completely routed the revolutionists, who fell back to the defenses they had raised in the town. It is evident that the rebel leaders are panicky and are preparing to flee.

At the beginning of the battle a detachment of marines was landed from the American battleships in the harbor and is now patrolling the streets without molestation by the rebels. The various consulates are crowded with refugees, fearful of a battle when the advancing government forces storm the city proper. If the rebels remain to make a fight.

CONVICT ATTACKS WITNESS.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Frenzied because he was denied his application for probation, Ralph R. Patterson, who is serving a sentence of seven years in San Quentin penitentiary, yesterday attacked and severely injured the complaining witness against him and who vigorously opposed the granting of probation. The assault took place in the corridor outside the court of Judge Dunn before whom the hearing was heard. While leaving the court room, Patterson eschewed the chief witness against him, broke away from his guards and viciously attacked his believed enemy, using the iron with which his wrists were manacled effectively. When taken to a hospital the victim was found to be suffering from severe lacerations of the scalp and slight concussion of the brain.

ance. The dead are Thomas S. Wadsworth and M. B. McElhoen of Vancouver, B. C., and R. L. Lee of Bremerton. Following the shooting the terrified passengers on the train held out their purses and they were all taken by the bandits. The highwaymen made their escape without a shot being fired at them.

TRY CAMPING OUT AT HOME

There is a splendid, restful and cozy idea that the overworked housewife who is obliged to spend the summer at home may carry into operation. Camp out in your own house. The only reason it seems difficult to keep the house up through the summer is because most homemakers live up to their cold weather standards. A little entertaining of a formal character goes on in the summer it is really unnecessary to keep the house in dress up costume.

Suppose you try this camping out plan during the warm weather, taking down all the curtains and draperies; also taking up the carpets. Spread light rugs instead, and if curtains you must have let them be of white or some kind of net, preferably fishnet. Those of the latter material are more durable, although less dainty, than the swiss hangings.

Put linen covers on the chairs, unless they are of wood or wicker, or better still, put the heavier chairs out of commission entirely and replace them with wicker or wooden ones.

It adds to the cool appearance of the home if growing or cut flowers are placed about the rooms where they will sway in the lightest breeze and suggest coolness even when the mercury is highest.

Leave all the windows closed until toward evening—that is, in rooms where the light is not essential—and you will be surprised to notice how inviting and seemingly cool the town house may become.

The meals in summer, too, can be on the picnic order. On very warm days a luncheon eaten picnic fashion will be more appealing and at the same time less difficult to prepare than one served in the regular way. No table need be set, and paper napkins and plates can be used; consequently there will be only silver and cups to be washed.

HAT OF ROYAL BLUE BRAID

A RATHER unusual hat in royal blue novelty silk braid has the brim slashed on the left side; then it is folded over so as to form a double brim effect on one side. A high ostrich mount is placed here with the fues falling between the parts of the brim.

NEW FLOWER BASKET FOR THE PORCH

THE LATEST WICKER JARDINIÈRE.

This basket, evolved from wicker, is the latest receptacle for the growing pot of flowers that decorates the up to the minute porch. The shape is very graceful, and the wicker tones in well with the veranda furnishings, which are usually of this material.

How to Meet The Screen Question

WHAT perennial summer question, the porch screen, is not only with us, but rather overdue, but in many households this problem has not been met. Every one knows that porches and lawns are robbed of much of their power to please unless the owners have wisely provided their homes with the right kind of screens.

The vast majority of steel wire screens, however, have long since lost their usefulness and passed away. "Screens," says the House Beautiful Magazine, "are exposed to all kinds of weather and are pushed and pulled, jammed and knocked and probably receive the hardest wear of any fixtures in the house. They should, therefore, be well made and of most enduring materials and should be handled patiently and reasonably."

The first cost of screens should never be considered. Rustless wire only should be used, for few house owners have time or patience to repeatedly paint or repair them. The sturdiest and best of frames should be provided with corners securely mortised. Then one may expect that with reasonable care screens will last. One will not be subjected to that discouraging annoyance of finding one's screens worn out just when the first warm days make it necessary that windows be protected at once.

There is a rustless wire to be had made of steel heavily galvanized, and there is solid bronze wire. The latter is most durable. All screens made of it, when the frames are properly built, will last forever. Many screens are now made with metal frames, a very satisfactory and permanent way to make them.

For outside swinging casement windows there are screens which open in by means of a clever window opening device, which need not be opened to open the window. For ordinary windows there are half screens (protecting the lower sash only) and whole screens, which protect the whole window, permitting the sash to be opened top or bottom. These screens are very much better for this very reason.

Manufacturers have worked out modern screens very cleverly. Many are now made which can be applied without even a screw, little hooks and loose joint hinges or buttons being used instead.

Screen doors must be carefully made to stand hard usage. The right kind, made by experts, are easy to procure anywhere. Trained screen makers know all the little practical points, too, which come to them with years of experience—the right kind of wire, the right kind of frames and the right kind of fit and the right kind of hardware, all information of much value to the house owner."

Coffee Seltzer.

Make in the proportion of one cupful of very strong coffee, well sweetened, and one bottle of seltzer. Serve cold.

LINGERIE BOWS.

PASTIDIOUS women have long been tired of the lingerie garments that are studded for baby ribbon in all possible places, but the touch of color which the ribbon gives is introduced by single soft bows. On the newest French nightgowns there are two large buttonholes to be found at the front, and through these is passed a soft wide ribbon which is tied in a bow. This is much less troublesome than threading ribbons through slots or stitching on a made bow.

over thin frocks of embroidery and lace. The jacket is made of Copenhagen blue cotton matelasse with blue ball buttons as trimming.

RAG RUGS FOR THE PORCH.

RAG rugs dyed to match the chairs or in a color which harmonizes with them are the best porch floor coverings of cheap quality. Of course there is nothing more desirable for this purpose than grass and fiber rugs of good quality, but these do cost money. Last summer an economical young woman bought cheap matting, cut it in appropriate lengths, turned under the ends and bound them with wide green braid and applied a stenciled design in red and brown to each end of the rug. For about a week the rugs looked well; then the stencil began to wear off and the matting began to show footmarks, and before a month had passed the rugs were not fit to use.

Packing the Summer Wardrobe

IF you are packing two, three or perhaps a half dozen trunks for your summer outing trip you may appreciate valuable hints given by an expert packer.

The usual result of poor packing is discovered at the end of a journey, when the contents of the trunk are all huddled together in a heap in one end or other of the trunk.

A heroic remedy for such conditions is first to pack your trunk or trunks, as usual, taking all the care you can; then have some strong handed man take hold of one end of each and deliberately upend it after the manner of expert baggage smashers. It will break your heart almost to pieces to witness this sight, remembering your delicate chiffon waists, frocks and other things, but it will prove a blessing in disguise if you open each trunk and see just what has been thrown about in a damaging fashion and remedy the evil before you leave for the trip.

It has been said that a trunk cannot be packed too tightly, and this is true when it is of a moderate size. But if a huge old timer of a trunk must needs be used it will be too heavy and therefore will get all kinds of hard knocks en route.

If you find a lot of empty corners in your trunk fill them with crumpled paper if you have nothing more to pack. Most women unfortunately have an idea that a trunk will hold just a little more even when they have decided that not another article can go in, not even another tie or pocket handkerchief. Giving the trunk a good "shaking down" beforehand will enable one to carry something that otherwise would have to go into a crowded suitcase or hand bag.

For short trips nothing is so valuable as the well made telescope. It holds sufficient for a ten days' trip, does not muss up things, will hold a great deal more than a steamer trunk, and if a good one made of Japanese matting with leather corners and stout straps is selected it will be light to carry even when full. It is easier to carry, too, than the ordinary suit case, which bothers a woman almost to death and is the bane of mankind with its protruding and intrusive corners and impossible height, too tall to go under the Pullman, too big to set in the aisle and always in somebody's way, besides being too heavy to carry.

FOR THE LAUNDRESS.

WHENEVER done much or little ironing will do well to have a holder of the following sort: Get a piece of pliable asbestos cloth, 4 by 6 inches, and stitch it carefully between two pieces of soft, rather thick stuff, a little larger than the asbestos, to allow for turning in. Asbestos, which transmits very little heat, will save the hands from that scorching, tender feeling which is the unpleasant consequence of using an ordinary holder.

BANANA DISHES GOOD FOR SUMMER DAYS

WHEN other fruits fail, as they do every once in awhile, the housewife may fall back upon bananas. A tempting banana dessert for a warm day is the following charlotte: Dissolve two heaping tablespoonsful of gelatin in cold water and add to it a pint of grape juice. Set the dish containing this mixture in ice water and stir until it begins to thicken. Add a pint of stiffly beaten cream when the grape juice and gelatin are as thick as custard and remove it from the ice water. Cover the bottom of a mold with thin slices of banana and pour in a thin layer of gelatin mixture. Chill it quickly by plunging the mold in ice water or standing it on ice; then add another layer of banana and another of the gelatin. Chill again. Repeat this process until the mold is full. Chill it on ice for several hours. Turn from the mold and serve with whipped cream and sliced bananas.

Another good warm weather dish is made with bananas in this way: Peel four ripe firm bananas and cut them in thin slices. Chop walnuts to fill a cup, season with salt, pepper and the juice of half a lemon and mix with the banana slices. Serve on a bed of watercress with French dressing.

THE HALL BEAUTIFUL

A REMODELED ENTRANCE HALL.

THE hall in most houses of modest pretensions is not a thing of beauty. It is generally a dark, cramped and wholly unattractive passage-way. The illustration shows what can be done with such an entrance hall when a good architect has remodeled the stairs and built in a seat at the end of the landing that also serves for holding odds and ends of wearing apparel.

The woodwork has been treated by white paint, with an ivory creamish finish, the top of the staircase banister, of course, of dark wood, in this instance mahogany. A good shade of rather dark green oatmeal paper is hung on the walls, and the polished hardwood floor is covered with rug of the summer sort in green and white tones. The mahogany console table, chair and grandfather's clock complete a very pleasing hall ensemble.

YELLOW STYLISH ON THE TABLE

Baskets, and again baskets! Such are the features of table and house decorations of all sorts for the winter of 1913-14.

There is a natural association between flowers and baskets which has lent great impetus to the vogue for the latter, and which will probably prolong the fashion indefinitely.

All through the winter houses will show baskets of plants, speciality flowers to fit into square, round and princess-shaped baskets, made of birch bark, willow, woven wood and other suitable materials and lined with silk.

Some one color predominates in these groups of bright-hued plants, as, for instance, gold, red, pink, bronze or a scheme of white and green or blue and gold. Such baskets form a sort of permanent gift and decoration, since the plants are strongly grown and do not perish, as the still popular decorative and gift plants—asturias—do.

Then, too, the careful grouping of colors in the plant collections makes each group suitable for some one scheme of decoration so that these useful and popular holiday gifts form an important part of the seasons house decorations in many homes.

Plants of the same variety, mingled with ferns and flowers, are used for decorations in the hollow center tables now so much employed for large dinners. The inconvenience of obstructing floral adornments at such affairs led to a more general use of hollow center tables, where the table is built in a circle around a bed of flowers and plants that are looked down upon where they are sunk in the hollow with just enough foliage and blossom extending above the cloth to lend charm to the table.

Yellow is the leading fashionable color for table decorations this winter, and pink is very popular and becoming increasingly so. Both colors light up well and are very decorative, while pink is so becoming to the complexion of guests and so easily associated with the color schemes of rooms that it never entirely loses popularity and has generally been the season's favorite table color.

Red is a popular table decoration and is conspicuous in winter, especially throughout the holidays. For dinners at this time a novelty of the season has been to have both pink and red on the same table.

In the way of favor decorations two fascinating novelties have been introduced; one consists of princess baskets filled with dried German heather (delicate ferns), and the other Dresden "crinoline dolls" with sprouting skirts, made of little flowers, and which may be afterwards be used as decorations or pin cushions.

The German heather has a very tiny blossoms in close sprays, and the effect of the delicate crimson or pink sprays is bright and pretty. Clusters of heather are tied on the handles of the baskets with pink or red satin or white gauze ribbon. Nothing more decorative could be well imagined. Both red and pink baskets are used on the same table, placed as favors by the plates, even when the centerpiece is of holly or poinsettias or both.

Red carnations with white Scotch heather are fashionable for centerpieces. Bright "winter berries" are used in connection with this arrangement.

All new style centerpieces are very low, and greens will be arranged flat and protruding from the corners.

"He never knew pleasure who never knew pain" has been construed by many people to mean that persons who have never had headache have never known the pleasure of getting rid of it by the timely use of "Shac," which quickly gives relief. Insist on "Shac."—advertisement.

A bill, requiring labels bearing a skull and crossbones, on all beer bottles, will be introduced in the New York assembly.

COLORS THAT YOU SHOULD WEAR

Fashion has brought in such an infinity of odd tones, and shades for her spring contribution, most than harsh and more or less trying to wear, that a bit of advice concerning the suitability of certain colors for certain types will not be amiss. Few women can wear all colors to equal advantage and it is the exceptional one to whom some particular color is not especially congenial, so to speak, and once she finds this, she should not hesitate to indulge in it.

THREE WAYS OF EARNING MONEY

As aids to women who would earn money, the Chicago Tribune gives examples of what can be done in these letters from correspondents:

In the larger towns and cities clay modeling has for some time been an established part of the manual work in the public schools. Even the first graders do some of it.

I had a friend who saw her opportunity there. She had a small kiln and knew a little about firing china. She made it known that she would fire the clay objects that the children molded in school. For simple things she charged 5 cents and for vases and candle sticks that the older children made she charged as high as 15 cents. But she always had all she could do. Some times she would glue the objects, too, and charge extra for that.

She stacked the kiln evenings and then it would only require a look now and then to see that everything was going right.

A friend who does a thriving business along the line of hand illuminated mottoes, calendars, and blotters has found a ready sale for her waste paper baskets, which she makes of shingles. These baskets are simple in construction. Each of the four sides consists of two six inch and one four inch shingle. The thin edge of the shingle forms the base of the basket. The two six inch shingles are placed over the four inch shingles so that at the base they overlap by two inches and at the top one half inch. The shingles are fastened together with small brads. After the basket is assembled and the bottom is cleaned in, the outside is calculated to harmonize with the color scheme of the room in which the basket is to be used and stenciled with a design in a contrasting color. My friend gets $25 each for these baskets.

For a number of years I added to my income by acting as a correspondent for a daily paper published in a city about 100 miles from my home town. I lived in a county seat of some 6000 or 7000 inhabitants, furnishing enough interesting news items to make it worth while for the paper to employ a local correspondent.

The work was interesting and not difficult for one with a common school education, the ability to write briefly but lucidly, and the necessary hustle to get the news promptly. As the paper was an afternoon paper, it was possible to mail communications on an evening train and have them reach the city in time for the next day's edition. In case of an important item the long distance telephone was used.

Photographs of notables and unusual happenings are always acceptable, and these are easily obtained.

matter of selection. Finally, remember that the distribution of color has much to do with its becomingness. Very few women can afford to wear a color close to the face, hence, the advantage of a transparent yoke.

PIONEER WOMAN TO AID PROHIBITION CAUSE

CHICO.—In order to devote her entire time to the California "dry" fight, Mrs. Annie E. K. Bidwell, noted pioneer, philanthropist and temperance worker, and widow of General John Bidwell, leased all the farming and orchard lands of the famous Rancho Chico to Benben Heston, her ranch foreman, for a term of years and Fred Hamilton, a local orchardist.

She will close up the Bidwell mansion and leave to conduct the campaign in Northern California, the first of the vice-presidents of the recently organized California Federation. General Bidwell was a candidate for President and his prohibition ticket.

FIFTEEN MEN WHO NAME THE GEOGRAPHIC FEATURES

Is Pittsburgh spelled with a final "e" or final "h"? Suppose the question comes up as a wager. Where would we turn to find there an authority to whom we could apply for a statement that would be final? In Washington there is a group of fifteen men representing all the departments of the government which have to deal with geography, whose word in this respect is considered law. They constitute what is officially known as the United States Geographic Board, in reality the court of last resort for disputed geographic names. What they say of the names of places in the United States, the spelling of those names, the use of hyphens and other marks is final and we must use them as the board dictates if we wish to be considered correct.

Thus if we wish to decide the wager concerning Pittsburgh's terminal letter we turn to the board's official report and read that the city of Pittsburgh was chartered in 1816, its name being spelled without the "h"; that the "h" appears to have been added by the post office department, and it was through that action that local usage appears to have become divided. Some newspapers print Pittsburgh, while some use Pittsburg, but the board, after weighing all the details, has decided that the city's name shall terminate with an "h". The board was established in September, 1890, because it was desirable that uniform usage in regard to geographical nomenclature and orthography obtain throughout the executive departments of the government, and particularly upon the maps and charts issued by the various departments and bureaus. All unsettled questions concerning geographical names which arose in the departments were to be referred to the board and the decisions rendered by it were to be regarded as standards.

The board had its powers increased later on by President Roosevelt, who added the duties of determining, changing and fixing the names of places in the United States and insular possessions, and thereafter all such names were referred to the board before publication. When the board was first created by President Harrison its membership numbered ten. Later it was increased to fifteen. The terms of service have always been indefinite, the members being selected so as to represent every department of the government which publishes the names of places in the United States.

In order to administer its affairs the board elects its own chairman and secretary, together with an executive committee of five members. Dr. Henry Gannett of the geological survey at present directs the business of the board, assisted by Charles S. Sjoane of the census bureau.

The present official organization came into existence because it was seen to be a much needed body. Prior to its formation there was an unofficial organization of 10 members, who represented each department of the government. What they found concerning the geographical names of places in the United States was a condition of chaos that brought dispute, chaos because they found several names and several different ways of spelling, dispute because each department would not recognize the authority of the others in prescribing a particular form of spelling. In fact, there was no established authority, and government publications came out with spellings of several ways for the same place. One of the greatest instances of this kind is the name of the village of Sinsinawa, in Wisconsin. There are 10 different ways of spelling this name, which also produce the same pronunciation. In the government publications it is seen in six different ways, while the post office department uses another, one-half the population another, differing also from that used by the other half, and the railroad comes in with still another style.

If a state or county is to be named, the legislative body of that state bestows those names, while for municipalities the state gives the name used in the charter. But the board is now left an entirely free hand in naming the places of lesser importance. Hieretofore uncharted bodies of citizens, rivers, lakes and mountains and various other features received their names from several sources.

Thus, what is now known as the Wet mountains in Colorado was originally the Cuerno Verde mountains. The original name was given by Spanish explorers because the mountains were green. After the treaty the name was translated into English and the mountains became known as Greenhorn. Later on they were called the Wet mountains, because there was so much moisture connected with them, and the name became so general in use that the board adopted it as the official one. Thus the former names of places in our country came from explorers, early settlers, surveyors, the post office department and the railroads. Hence, those who had to deal with the conditions became keenly alive to the need of some authority.

The task of the present board has been enormous, and it has taken about a score of years to bring order out of chaos. The policy of the board is to establish the name of a place which has been most used locally, where it has seemed impossible to depart from the corrupted use and return to the original. Thus it is considered impossible to change from Port Townsend, the original name of Port Townsend, Pysht to Psyche, Ozan to Aux Anes, or Low Freight to Leau Frais. The latest orders of the president give the board authority, so far as government is concerned, to examine newly discovered features and decide upon their names. There may be a

ENTIRE CHICAGO STIRRED BY 'GO TO CHURCH' CRY

Thousands Attend Services for First Time in Years—Great Campaign a Success

The Chicago Daily News of January 31 carries a story which tells in a graphic manner the results of the great church-attendance campaign recently carried on in the eastern city.

Thousands of men and women will worship tomorrow in Chicago churches, some for the first time in decades.

The number of those who will leave their homes to attend services tomorrow morning for the first time in years is phenomenal, but it is safe to assume, backers of the movement assert, that the city will present the appearance of a community stirred with religious fervor.

"Go to Church Sunday"—that is the call that is speeding over numerous telephone wires today as a result of the determination of the pastors that no one shall be allowed to forget the day is close at hand.

"Please come to the church at 10:30 o'clock this morning. We are located just three blocks east of your home and the sidewalks have been swept all the way."

"Slippery or impassable sidewalks may keep some faint hearted people at home," said Mr. Fegert on his notice.

"Good news is coming in every minute," said Mr. Fegert. "Charles Langman of the Langman Teaming Company just telephoned me that a man who has not been to church in 20 years has informed him he is going."

One of the biggest overflow meetings is expected to be held in Naperville, Ill. Naperville is credited with having the first "Go to Church" Sunday of the country over a year ago.

Twelve churches will participate in a "Go to church Sunday" parade to be held this afternoon in the vicinity of North Halsted street and Fullerton avenue.

One "Go to church Sunday" parade was held last night. Members of the Wicker Park Methodist church organized their parade in front of the church at North Robey street and the Evergreen avenue and marched to the accompaniment of music by a brass band in the district bounded by West North avenue, Milwaukee avenue, West Division street and North Western avenue.

Transparencies are used bearing mottoes such as the following: "Young Men—Go to Church Sunday." "Some to the Wicker Park Methodist Episcopal Church."

SPECIAL PATRIOTIC SERVICES IN CENTRAL UNION TOMORROW

Musical Programs Are Arranged for Both Afternoon and Evening

The services at Central Union church on Sunday, the 22nd, will have an appropriate patriotic flavor and will also recognize the Carnival by offering programs of especial interest for both morning and evening exercises.

The evening service takes the form of a "Carnival Musicals," with a varied and interesting program prepared by Choir Director Ingalls.

RELIGIOUS SHOWS LATEST SCHEME ON THE MAINLAND

The very latest institution in this city to make a bid for patronage through the medium of newspaper advertising is religion, and it is most gratifying to state that encouraging reports of increased attendance at divine worship during the recent Sundays are being made by the various churches interested.

And again Honolulu wants to spruce up and get in touch with the latest along religious advertising lines. The churches of several mainland cities are holding religious shows at certain theaters on Sundays.

It is stated that this latest religious move is of much more interest to those who seldom hear the "word" than any of the late reform methods and devaluers that are honest in their endeavor to lead the way to the pearly gates, but have, to a certain extent, failed to grasp the heart strings.

TITLES OF EXILED KING AND BRIDE IN DISPUTE

LONDON—Another little difference between Buckingham Palace, over which Queen Mary presides, and Marlborough house, of which Queen Mother Alexandra is mistress, has arisen, this time over the titles by which the deposed King Manuel of Portugal and his bride are to be known officially.

When the exiled king and his bride were entertained by the queen mother recently, the Court Circular, issued from Marlborough house, described them as "King Manuel and Queen Augusta Victoria." This was interpreted as a sign that King George had officially sanctioned this description of the royal couple, and the press, following as it invariably does the fashion set by royalty, published it as a fact.

One "Go to church Sunday" parade was held last night. Members of the Wicker Park Methodist church organized their parade in front of the church at North Robey street and the Evergreen avenue and marched to the accompaniment of music by a brass band in the district bounded by West North avenue, Milwaukee avenue, West Division street and North Western avenue.

Transparencies are used bearing mottoes such as the following: "Young Men—Go to Church Sunday." "Some to the Wicker Park Methodist Episcopal Church."

FRED B. SMITH RESIGNS FROM Y.M.C.A. WORK

Noted Evangelist Will Enter Into Business as Partner of Big Eastern Firm

The announcement of the resignation of Fred B. Smith as religious work secretary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, has been received with great regret by the brotherhood in Honolulu, as well as the many other local persons who knew him.

On March 31st Mr. Smith rounds out 25 years of association service and enters a co-partnership in Christian business relations as assistant to the president of the H. W. Johns-Manville Co., one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the country.

Why Go To Church?

Because the church is the tabernacle of the Most High and God asks you to worship him there. Because the church has always been the symbol and place of worship. Because He specially promises to meet you there.

Because when you stay away from church you abandon the Lord's Supper and trample under foot his dying request: "This do in remembrance of me!"

Because it is disobedience to the Word of God: "Forsaking not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is."

Because you owe something to the minister in the way of moral support. If you stay away, you say to everybody that you do not care for the ministrations of the church, and you weaken and belittle his work.

FEARS OF RIOT WHEN BANK CREDITORS MEET

CHICAGO — To guard against possible disorder at the meeting of creditors of the defunct Tonka (Ill.) Exchange Bank at Tonka, Judge Carpenter in the United States district court has instructed that deputy marshals be present.

Teacher—Can you multiply concrete numbers by concrete numbers? Small Boy—Yes, ma'am. Teacher—Well, suppose you were to multiply a dozen apples by eight ounces of meat and three ounces of raisins, what would the product be? Small Boy—Mince pie.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children. Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

The signature of Dr. J. C. Watson guarantees genuine Castoria. Physicians Recommend Castoria. "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria In Use For Over 30 Years.

FAIR, FLIPPANT FORGER BOASTS OF CONQUESTS

TACOMA — Arrested in a Tacoma residence on a charge of having passed fraudulent checks to the amount of nearly $1000, Mrs. Bessie Pesch, wanted in Seattle and other cities of the Coast, delayed the trip to the city jail for some time while she saw to it that her hair was tidily done and her hat poised at the right angle.

Mr. Smith's contribution to the association has been incalculable. He has done heroic work. For 15 years, since he came with the international committee, he has stood for a bold, virile and manly type of evangelism that has made an impress on the movement clear, deep and strong.

Because you are not dealing fairly with your brethren and sisters, leaving them to carry your part of the church work as well as their own.

Because you owe something to the minister in the way of moral support. If you stay away, you say to everybody that you do not care for the ministrations of the church, and you weaken and belittle his work.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I had hardly been able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHEA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

INSANE COOK SCORES MAYOR HARRISON'S WIFE

[By Latest Mail] CHICAGO.—Ernest Krause, believed by the police to be insane, obtained entrance to Mayor Harrison's home and after frightening Mrs. Harrison, was arrested. Krause formerly was employed as chef by the mayor's family at their summer home. It was learned that Krause had been telephoning to the residence and insisting on talking to Mrs. Harrison. Krause rode to the mayor's home in a taxicab. At the door he asked for food and was invited around to the kitchen. While the maid was preparing the food he began to sing. Mrs. Harrison recognized the voice as that of Krause and telephoned to the police. He was released from an insane asylum about three years ago.
