GAS COMPANY PLANNING TO BUILD BLOCK

Business - Apartment House To Be Located at Miller and Beretania Streets

DRAWINGS SUBMITTED AT ANNUAL MEETING

$100,000 Is Proposed Investment—Satisfactory Report Made by Manager

One hundred thousand dollars may be spent by the Honolulu Gas Company within a short time for the erection of a handsome apartment and business block at the mauka-Ewa corner of Miller and Beretania streets.

Drawings of the proposed building were submitted this morning at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the company, and by a unanimous vote it was decided to delegate the power of carrying out this project to the board of directors.

The drawings are for a three-story structure, the first floor for the gas company's offices, the second and third for apartments. The property at Miller and Beretania streets was recently purchased by W. R. Castle, president of the company. It was stated this morning that it is planned to use this property if it is decided to erect the structure.

The growing business of the company, it was stated, makes it almost necessary for larger quarters to be secured. It seemed to be the opinion of the stockholders that an apartment house in the city, located within easy walking distance of the central part of town, would be popular and profitable.

The same officers and directors were elected to serve again. They are: W. R. Castle, president; F. J. Lowrey, vice-president; A. N. Campbell, treasurer; A. L. Castle, secretary, and D. L. Withington, director.

The report of the manager showed that during the past year there was an increase in receipts of $21,000, or 19.5 per cent. The net profits were $30,000, after paying all necessary expenses and writing off $11,000 for depreciations. This enables the directors to declare a 6 per cent annual dividend. It was stated that this dividend will be paid in quarterly installments.

The gain in consumers was given as 788, making a total of 3699. The company expended $101,000 in permanent improvements. It is planned to equal this sum or exceed it in the coming year.

More than seven miles of gas mains were installed, bringing the total mileage to 53. A new gas compressor and a steam turbine pump have been ordered for the works. Additional automobiles are to be bought to take the place of horses in order to give the consumers better and quicker service.

The sense of the meeting was that good service must be maintained and given first consideration at all times. H. L. Strange, manager, stated that prospects for business in 1914 were exceedingly bright, and that he expects an increase this year in receipts and number of consumers in excess of that for 1913.

The directors did not state when they would pass definitely on the building project, but it is expected that they will take it up soon.

HARRY LAUDER TO BE ENTERTAINED BY AD CLUB WHILE IN CITY MONDAY

Scotch Comedian To See the Sights of Oahu and Be Guest of Boosters' Luncheon

Hoot, Mon! Harry Lauder, the best that Scotland has in the line of comedians, as judged by the mammoth section of the box receipts turned over each week to the braw Scotch laddie and his manager, William Morris—not from the land of oatcakes and heather—will tarry in Honolulu enroute to Australia next Monday and will be the guest of the Honolulu Ad Club.

The Ad Club has issued the invitation and the man who spurred Judge Wilder's off of $1500 to perform in Honolulu has said that he will be in the hands of the Ad Club next Monday—Harry Lauder and Mrs. Harry Lauder. The acceptance of the Ad Club invitation was received last night by J. A. Dunbar and George B. Curtis, the committee in charge of the Lauder entertainment.

"If Mrs. Lauder included, accept invitation," wireless Harry. "Mrs. Lauder unanimously included. Will meet all at boat," replied J. A. Dunbar over the airwaves.

Messrs Dunbar and Curtis prepared a tentative program of entertainment this morning, which will be followed

TOURIST CROP CULTIVATION BY AN EXPERT

J. B. Bryan of Rochester, N.Y., Gives Pointers That Strike Home

INAUGURATED MALIHINI CHRISTMAS TREE IDEA

Publisher Tells How to Get the Tourists Here and How to Keep Them

Hawaii, seen through the eyes of a friend, who has been far enough away to gain perspective, is interesting, and likewise instructive. An inspection of this kind has been made by J. B. Bryan, a prominent publisher of Rochester, N. Y., who is spending the winter at the Moana hotel. The islands have a firm friend in Mr. Bryan, but his liking hasn't blinded him to the local opportunities for improvement, and he comes forward with some good, solid suggestions and pertinent comments. Mr. Bryan was here five years ago, and was the originator of the Malihini Christmas Tree, now an institution. He is vice-president and general manager of the Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Co., a Rochester concern that does an enormous business, and he is therefore able to apply business methods to one of the big Hawaiian industries—the tourist crop.

"Undoubtedly there is publicity work done here, and some of it very good, but there is also a lot of it left undone," said Mr. Bryan, when pressed for his views by a Star-Bulletin reporter. Let's take my own case, for example. I was here five years ago and became fairly well known. I went away, and from that day to the day I returned I received nothing that would serve to remind me of Hawaii as a place to revisit. I came back because I knew the place, and because I did not care for the sort of climate California is providing this winter, and I don't say that it would have made any difference in my previous winter trips, even if I had received reminders of Hawaii, but they might serve to jog the memory and re-kindle the interest in some cases. This follow-up work is very important and I think it might be a good thing for your promotion committee, or whatever body has charge of publicity, to keep a list of those who have visited here, and try and get them to come again.

"Speaking of the California climate reminds me of another advertising channel that is being neglected. This has been one of the most unpleasant winters Southern California has ever experienced. Deluges of rain and lots of cold weather, and hundreds of tourists have been so disgusted with it that they have turned around and started for home or for Florida. Now I don't believe that more than 5 per cent of the discontented knew anything at all about Hawaii. This climate is almost ideal, and a lot of those people should have crossed the Pacific instead of turning back. There must be some way that California tourists can be reached.

"Here is another point. Some of the California and Florida resorts keep on hand very handsome souvenir folders, not the ordinary printed affair but something really artistic, and quite expensive. Guests are urged to

JUDGE WILDER MAKES ANSWER TO W.O. SMITH

'Did Mr. Smith Object to His Brother-in-law's Appointment in 1904?'

The Star-Bulletin has received the following communication from Judge A. A. Wilder: "Honolulu, T. H., March 14, 1914. "Editor, Honolulu Star-Bulletin. "Sir: In yesterday's issue of your paper, Mr. W. O. Smith says: "I am not pleased with the president should, under the circumstances, make any appointment to the supreme bench other than to reappoint Justices Perry and De Bolt. To displace two competent, tried and worthy judges simply because they are not members of the political party in power, is, in my opinion, a great mistake and is not consistent with the principles of good government."

"In 1904, when Justice Perry, after four years of conscientious, faithful and honorable service in the supreme court, was replaced by Mr. W. O. Smith's brother-in-law at the suggestion of a Republican governor, did any one hear that Mr. W. O. Smith was not pleased, and that it was not consistent with the principles of good government? What did he say about it in the Bar Association?" "In January, 1905, when Mr. Justice Hatch resigned, who was it that suggested to the same Republican governor that that was a time to rectify a wrong and put Justice Perry back on to the bench but myself, a Democrat? Did Mr. W. O. Smith appear on the scene and talk about principles of good government? It seems that every time a Democrat is appointed to office Mr. W. O. Smith rises up and contends that such an appointment is not consistent with the principles of good government. Apparently he is too old to learn of the change, politically, in the United States.

SECOND APPEAL FOR FUNDS IS MADE BY CHINA

Vivid Pen Picture of Ravages of War Is Received in Letter from Relief Committee

SUFFERING IN NANKING SECTION IS REDOUBLED

C. K. Ai, City Mill Company, Is Designated to Receive All Local Donations

A vivid picture of war's ravages in the young Republic of China has been furnished Honolulu in a letter sent from the city of Nanking by the Nanking relief committee.

Making the second appeal for funds, the Chinese committee now shows that the suffering in the Nanking section has been redoubled by the recent rebellion. C. K. Ai of the City Mill Company has been designated to receive the funds in Honolulu and it is hoped that the response will be generous.

The letter says: "The Nanking relief committee appeals to you to cooperate with us in our effort to secure $100,000 to relieve those in our city who are suffering from the consequences of the 'second rebellion.' We suggest that you invite representatives of the various Christian denominations of your city, both Chinese and foreigners, and also non-Christian gentlemen who may be interested to form a committee for raising this money.

"Five months ago, Nanking was a peaceful, prosperous and hopeful city. Wealthy men were enjoying the luxury of their homes; tradesmen were conducting a good business; teachers were having their summer vacations; officials and employees had work and the means of livelihood; widows and all dependent classes had their usual means of support and were content.

"But the pendulum has swung back. Through no choice of her own, Nanking was made the headquarters of the late rebellion. The people of Nanking had little sympathy with the uprising, but it has ever been true in war that the innocent suffer most from its ravages. In this instance, Nanking certainly suffered vicariously for the nation at large. Following the rebellion came those terrible days of looting, when revenge was meted out with a merciless hand; and the blight of this fair city was too awful to be imagined. When one looks out over the places where rich men have been made paupers; where the educated classes have been rifled in a night of the frugal savings of a life-time; where the merchants have lost their all; where the widows and fatherless have been robbed of their mite, including the dishes from which they ate, the bedding they need to keep them from the cold of the winter, and in many cases, even the clothes from

UNEMPLOYED PROBLEM EXPECTED TO RIGHT ITSELF IN TWO MONTHS

PLANTATIONS NOT AT PRESENT ABLE TO ADD LABORERS

Increased Pay-roll of Canneries Looked Upon to Aid in Helping Unemployed

That the present labor situation in Honolulu, although considered acute at the present time from the fact that Spaniards, Russians and Porto Ricans to the number of several hundred have drifted into the city and have been unable to secure work, will be materially relieved within two months was the prediction made by the Territorial Immigration Board at a meeting at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, after listening to a detailed report on the present conditions from Ralph A. Kearns, territorial immigration commissioner.

A canvass of the several plantations has shown that those companies, in many instances, now have what might be termed an over-supply of labor, and it has been reported that at this time they do not feel that they can take on any more help for that reason. However, owing to the constant circulation of labor, and the increased number of persons which soon will be needed in the factories and pineapple canneries, it is the opinion of the board that two months will practically put an end to the present serious condition.

Mr. Kearns was requested by the

PINES ON LIST AS HOST FRUIT THROUGH ERROR

Pineapple growers will rejoice today at the news that pines are not to be classified as a host fruit. Governor Pinkham received a cable from Secretary of Agriculture Houston this morning in which he stated that the inclusion of pineapples in the preliminary draft of quarantined fruit was an error, and that the error was corrected some time ago.

This message came in response to one sent by the board of forestry and agriculture, after a hearing with local pineapple growers, in which a vigorous protest was made against including pines with host fruits and vegetables in the quarantine list.

A host fruit is one to which the Mediterranean fly is attracted and on which it lays its eggs. It was stated at the meeting of the board of forestry and agriculture that it was an established fact that the fly does not touch pineapples, and that to include the fruit in the host list was very unfair. The message received by the governor, signed by Secretary of Agriculture Houston, reads: "Inclusion pineapples in preliminary draft an error long since corrected."

This clears the matter up and means the end of the only objection the local board had to the proposed new quarantine list. A public hearing will be held on it in Washington March 19.

The growers favor the inspection of pines before they are shipped to the mainland. And this inspection, both of pines and bananas, will be made, it is stated, at the expense of the federal government.

VILLA, AMBITIOUS TO RULE MEXICO AS PRESIDENT, NOW THRUSTING CARRANZA ASIDE

Outlaw Leader of Rebel Army Beginning to Run All Essential Affairs of Revolution — Won't Stand Interference by Carranza — Said to Have Killed Bauch Because He Didn't Like Looks of His Hat

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., Mar. 14.—Intimates of Gen. Pancho Villa, the outlaw leader and now head of the rebel army, assert that Villa is openly ambitious to be the next president of Mexico. He has insisted on remaining in supreme command of the army, which he holds is not under the orders of Carranza unless the orders are approved by himself. He will not tolerate Carranza's interference in any of the essential moves of the revolution and has even recently taken it upon himself to handle most of the foreign correspondence and interchange of statements with the United States representatives.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14.—Efrago Baca, once a candidate for Congress from New Mexico, testified before the senate committee on foreign relations today that Bauch was executed because Villa didn't like the looks of his hat. "Carranza dreads Villa," said Baca. "He won't sleep in the same room with him. Villa knows this and has Carranza largely in his power."

Senator Says Page Ought to be Muzzled or Else Recalled

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 14.—Senator Chamberlain of Oregon made a sharp criticism today of Walter H. Page, ambassador to Great Britain, because of Ambassador Page's remarks about aggression of European powers on the American continent. "Some means ought to be found to seal the lips of our ambassador to Great Britain or in justice to the American people he ought to be recalled," declared the senator formally.

Herrick that the French nation will appreciate it if permission were granted to commemorate the French pioneers in the building of the Panama Canal by the erection of a monument on Panama soil.

Federal League Has 50 Million

CHICAGO, Ill., March 14.—That the new Federal League, the "outlaw" organization, has immense capital with which to fight organized baseball was shown today when President James Gilmore made public a list of backers of the league. The list shows that the Federal organization's resources are fifty million dollars. Several millionaires are represented in the stockholders of the league of the various clubs.

IRRIGATION IN NUANU DISTRICT MAY BE STOPPED

With only about 34,000,000 gallons of water in the four Nuuanu reservoirs combined, probably the smallest amount they have contained in several years, Superintendent J. W. Caldwell announced today that irrigation must be sternly checked, if not cut off entirely, throughout the district supplied by this system. The drought of the last few months has resulted in a serious situation for local water consumers, particularly those supplied by the Nuuanu system, and rigid care must be exercised, says the superintendent, to prevent an absolute drought in at least a portion of Honolulu.

Irrigation may be stopped entirely among those patrons who are using water for irrigation under the old rate system and those using meters who have not yet obtained the meter placards from the department, while others employing the meter and the notice cards are asked to exercise as much economy as possible. Arrangements may be made shortly to handle a part of the Nuuanu district with the aid of the high-lift pump of the Beretania station. It is announced that the new Palolo reservoir is not yet in condition to take its place in the water works system, the Honolulu Planning Mill, contracting builders, having encountered difficulties and as yet been unable to make the big container hold water. The recent test of the reservoir proved disappointing, the water rising outside the wall as rapidly as inside, and the job has not yet been accepted by the territory.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED. Invitations were received in Honolulu today from Hilo, announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Stewart Forrest and Robert M. Lindsay, which will take place on Saturday evening, April 4th, at quarter to eight o'clock, in the First Foreign Church of Hilo. A reception is announced at 8:15 o'clock following the ceremony. The bride to be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Forrest, of Hilo, and Mr. Lindsay is head luma for the Waialea plantation. Both of the young people are popular in a large circle of friends in Hilo, and have friends in Honolulu who will be much interested in the coming event. Circuit Judge W. L. Whitney heard argument this morning on Attorney C. C. Bittling's motion to set aside the default judgment entered against Harry Rosenberg in the suit brought against the latter by Goo Yee to recover for several tins of opium. The opium was sold the Chinaman by Rosenberg and later confiscated as contraband by the federal authorities.

off their backs; one instinctively shuts his eyes on the scene. "Had the disasters closed with these, Nanking could have recovered herself. But confidence was destroyed, business was suspended and the empty stores remained empty or nailed shut; schools were not opened and the teachers had idleness forced upon them; rich men who had not already fled, left the city and took all their possessions with them. Nor was this all. During all this time, and adding to all this distress, the water in the wells was getting low and ponds were drying up. Days lengthened into weeks, and weeks into months, and still we have no rain. Poor people are paying from 10 to 20 per cent of their income for the use of necessary water, thus increasing the cost of living.

DEATH OF MISS WHITE BRINGS SADNESS TO HER FRIENDS ON MAUI

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] WAILUKU, Maui, March 13. — The sudden death in Honolulu of Miss Sarah White of Lahaina brought sadness to her host of friends. She was one of the most popular young ladies of the old capital. For several years she had taught in the Lahaina kindergarten and was very much liked by both little people and parents. As the daughter of the Rev. D. W. K. White, pastor for many years of the Waihee Church of Lahaina, she was well known throughout all Maui by the church people and members of the young people's societies. For some time she was organist of the Waihee church, and played at the Hale Aloha services on Sunday afternoon most acceptably. She was 23 years of age at the time of her death. At 3 o'clock at Hale Aloha at the first service before the burial of the body a hymn was sung by the Lahaina boys, and prayer was offered by Rev. Collins G. Burnham, the board's agent for Lahaina. Immediately after the body was carried to the Waihee Church, where an address was delivered in Hawaiian by Rev. S. Kapu, and one in English by Rev. Mr. Burnham. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. L. B. Kaunabelwa of Wailuku. At the grave Rev. Mr. Kapu read the committal service and offered prayer. Many beautiful flowers were sent from all parts of the island.

address envelopes containing these souvenirs, and hand them in at the desk, where stamps are put on by the hotel. Each guest then becomes a publicity agent for the place, and the literature reaches people who are also in a position to travel. I don't think the hotels to stand all the expense of high-priced literature, for the tourist is a source of income to the entire city. The Promotion Committee might well afford to foot the bill, I should think. "Suppose now that your tourist has finally arrived here, what does he find? The good God himself put the finishing touches on his handiwork when he made Oahu, so the people who live here haven't any real reason to sit back in their chairs and brag about it. It is up to them to supplement nature with things: of man's making, and of these the first and foremost, from the tourist standpoint, is good roads. The roads were bad when I was here five years ago. With one or two exceptions they are worse today. Take your points of interest. Diamond Head—Impossible. Punchbowl—as much as your life is worth to try and navigate the road. There is a good road from Moanalua to Schofield Barracks and beyond, but leading out of the city itself is one of the poorest apologies for a highway I have ever had the misfortune to be bumped over. I have been told that it is hard to get your local politicians to see the advantage of good roads. If that is so they must be very narrow minded and unobserving, for good roads is a straight business proposition that a child should be able to understand. The sort of tourist that this island wants is the man who brings a motor car, or who hires one by the week after he gets here, so that he and his coin can circulate freely. I fear that the man who brings a car or who hires one, doesn't get the proper interest on his investment. Roads are the season.

"Now, then, let's jump from roads to soldiers. I'm keen on first-hand information, and I have picked many a soldier up and given him a lift in my car, for the pleasure of talking with him. The enlisted man doesn't like Oahu, wants to get away, and when he does get away will knock the place. This applies to the great majority, I think. The principal reason for this dislike is the wearing of the uniform at all times. Civilian clothes for men on pass would be a good thing, but of course that's something that is up to the war department, not Honolulu. However, the army is an enormous source of income to the islands, and it's up to the residents to give some return. I have been told that the bottom would drop right out of things if the troops were withdrawn, and with a $200,000 a month payroll, I can well believe it. This being the case, the people here should do their best by the enlisted man. Make him feel welcome in the town, and give him something more in the way of amusements. The soldiers are fond of dancing. How about a big public dance hall, centrally located?

"As for amusing your wealthy tourist, don't bother about that. He will amuse himself, for the people who come to Hawaii do not expect and do not want the sort of social whirl that they get in Florida. They want to be left more or less to their own devices, and they want some degree of quiet. Which reminds me that every party of joy riders thinks the evening incomplete without at least one trip by the Moans, with the muffer out, the siren shrieking, and every body aboard singing at the top of his or her voice. I like music and a good time as much as anyone, but there is a limit, and I think that too much hoodlumism is permitted on the public streets at night. "Your stores are excellent, and the merchants have to keep such a large stock on hand, being so far away from the markets, that I don't believe their prices are too high. The tourists don't kick on this score, for they can get what they want. "Some of this talk has been straight from the shoulder, but you asked for my opinions, and I have given them freely, frankly, and with the best of feeling for Hawaii. I hope to come back again, and when I do I sincerely hope that I'll see a bigger, better Honolulu and a bumper tourist crop."

PLEASANTON MANAGER ENDEAVORS TO LEARN SENTIMENT OF VOTERS

Oahu Trustees Protest Against Liquor License for Hotel Near College

E. G. Duisenberg, manager of the Pleasanton hotel, who is considering making an application to the board of license commissioners, for a license to serve liquor at the hotel, sent out a circular letter to the registered voters of the fourth precinct, fourth district of the precinct and district in which the hotel is located—today, giving his reasons for wishing a liquor license for the hotel, and the use to which he plans to put it.

The letter is a counteraction to the protest made by the trustees of the Oahu College, which is published below. Commenting on his circular letter, Mr. Duisenberg said: "I have sent a copy of the following letter to each of the registered voters of the fourth precinct of the four representative district, territory of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii, setting forth my purpose in making application for a hotel liquor license for the Pleasanton hotel. "If after a thorough canvass I come to the conclusion that it is the sense of the neighborhood that liquor should not be sold at meals in a hotel of the type of the Pleasanton, I shall gracefully acquiesce.

"The report that we plan to erect a building in the grounds in which to serve drinks is absolutely untrue. We have no such plan. If a license is granted me, the liquor will be served in the main building to guests and in the main building. "Liquor Voted. The letter is as follows: Gentlemen: As manager of the premises located at the corner of Wilder avenue and Punahou street, known as the Pleasanton Hotel, I am about to make application to the board of liquor commissioners of the city and county of Honolulu, for a hotel license for the Pleasanton Hotel. I have secured the consent of property holders in the manner provided by statute, and the support thus given me has been so ample as to justify the filing of the application.

Under the statute relative to the granting of liquor licenses, the board is required to deny the application in the event a majority of the registered voters of the precinct in which the property is located protest against granting it. I have been given to understand that a petition or protest is now being circulated amongst the voters of the precinct in which the Pleasanton hotel is, with the view of having the application denied. I deem it but fair that every voter to whom such a petition is presented for signature, shall be fully advised as to the reasons which prompt the application, and the purposes for which a license will be employed should it be granted, before any protest is signed by the voter. The only method I can employ to impart this information is by means of this letter.

The Pleasanton hotel caters to both home and transient trade. During the tourist season that hotel has done much to relieve the scarcity of hotel accommodations; during all seasons it has been a fairly popular hotel for Honolulu people. To some extent it is run on the same plan as the Moana, the Alexander Young, the Hawaiian and the Seaside. It would seem to me but fair that, within conditions and restrictions to be imposed by the board of liquor commissioners, made necessary by its location as a residence district, it should receive liquor privileges similar to those exercised by the other hotels named. In making application to the board, should my application be granted, I shall most readily agree to any conditions prescribed by the board. I will see to it that any privilege granted me shall not be abused; that in exercising it, no resident of the community shall be offended; and that in all things I shall scrupulously follow the directions of the board. Should any voter of the precinct be on principle opposed to traffic in liquor, I shall not ask him to refrain from making the protest. Should any voter of the precinct believe that liquor should not be sold within that precinct, I shall not ask him to withhold his protest. All I ask is that no voter of the precinct shall sign the protest with wrong ideas as to the use to which the privilege granted may be put.

The Pleasanton Hotel is more or less a business proposition. Naturally I have endeavored to conduct it profitably for the owners. I, myself, believe that it may be more successful should the guests be afforded privileges as to liquors accorded guests in other hotels subject to the restrictions to which I have made reference. May I ask you to carefully consider the matter before you sign any protest against the granting of the privilege asked for. Yours respectfully, E. G. DUISENBERG.

Protest from College

Following is the text of the protest entered by the trustees of the Oahu College, against the granting of a permit for the sale of liquor at the Pleasanton Hotel. The protest of the college trustees reads: "The Pleasanton hotel is planning to apply to the license commissioners for a liquor license, and has been for some time and is now circulating a petition to secure the names of the property holders and lessees in favor of this. The signatures of a majority of the property holders and lessees living within a radius of 1000 feet of the premises on which the hotel is located must be secured as a prerequisite to the granting of a license. "The plan of the manager of the Pleasanton is to erect on a site near the tennis courts a clubhouse containing billiard and pool rooms, social rooms and bar. This is across the street from the main Oahu College building and within a block of two churches. "The trustees of Oahu College object most seriously to the granting of a liquor license to the Pleasanton hotel. "They believe that enough, and more than enough, liquor licenses in Honolulu have now been granted and that the license commissioners should be supported in their efforts to limit the number of licenses. "They regard such a place licensed to sell liquor at the very gate of the college as a menace to the school and to the students who attend it. This bringing of the open drink place to the very doors of our homes, schools and churches is intolerable to every parent who seeks to protect his children. "Its open door and attractive surroundings will meet the eye of every boy who attends the school and bring to him a temptation which in its very nature is tubic and dangerous. "It is sure to bring into a quiet residential section the usual accompaniments of drinking—attendance of 'joy riders,' night disturbances and carousals. It will make us uncertain of our boys and threaten the safety of our women and children. "It is useless to assert that the hotel will impose conation, or submit to conditions that others may impose, which will assure its respectability. With the best of intentions such conditions are impossible to maintain. They are not consistent with the sale of liquor which is the purpose for which the license is sought. Respectability is an argument for a liquor license which deceives nobody. "The trustees of Oahu College therefore urge every person who as owner or lessee within the 1000 foot distance is eligible to sign a petition in this cause, to sign the petition against the granting of this license. Copies of this petition for signature may be had from A. F. Judd, secretary of the corporation, Judd building; Bishop Trust Company, Waterhouse Trust Company, Benson, Smith & Co., Hollister Drug Company and Chambers Drug Company. "As a moral protest against this license, the trustees further ask every former Punahou student, Punahou parent and every other public spirited citizen who is opposed to granting it to sign and tear out the following protest and mail it at once to President A. F. Griffiths, Oahu College, Honolulu, Hawaii.

board to make a report as to what is being done in the matter of investigating the cases of and assisting those people who now are out of employment. He reported that, during the early part of the period comprising the past six weeks, in many cases, work had been secured for the unemployed. But during the last three weeks, he continued, it has been almost impossible to obtain positions. He spoke enthusiastically of the work which the Associated Charities is doing along this line saying that, in a number of cases, it had given him considerable assistance. Feeling that he should exhaust all efforts to get the unemployed on plantations, Mr. Kearns reported that 10 days ago he addressed a letter to E. Faxon Bishop, president of the Planters' Association, calling the latter's attention to the large number of people who had, without apparent reason, come to Honolulu, in many cases from plantations, saying that it had been found difficult to secure other employment for them except plantation work. He asked Mr. Bishop, he said, if it would not be possible to again have these people distributed among the various plantations.

In reply to the letter, Mr. Kearns reported that he received a letter from Royal D. Mead, director of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association bureau of labor and statistics, stating that at the present time the plantations had, in many cases, a surplus of labor and were not able to take on any of the unemployed in Honolulu. The board came to the conclusion that, for the present time, the only thing that could be done would be to see that the unemployed were not in absolute need, and to give them such relief as would be proper. The members agreed with Mr. Kearns in his statement that, while the condition today is serious, the constant circulation of labor, and the demand which soon will be made by factories and pineapple canneries and plantations for more help, were not able or so will see the situation greatly relieved.

In connection with the employment problem, Mr. Kearns took up with the board the cases of several Russians and Spaniards who, through sickness, have become incapacitated for work. He asked the board to consider the matter of having these persons repatriated.

An employer of help is always willing to offer his hand to an applicant who has the good taste to appear in an ALFRED BENJAMIN suit. Such taste constitutes a strong recommendation for the man who wants a good job.

'THE COMING HAWAII' SUBJECT OF VOLUME BY PROFESSOR FROM JAPAN

"The Coming Hawaii" is the subject of a book written by Joseph King Goodrich, formerly professor in the Imperial University at Kioto, Japan, which now is being issued from the press of A. C. McClurg and Company of Chicago. Mr. Goodrich visited Hawaii some time ago, and during his stay here collected the data for his work with the assistance of the Promotion Committee, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. The book is the latest addition to the Hawaiian literature—both historical and current—now in circulation at home and on the mainland. When complete, the volume will contain 35 illustrations from photographs. Beginning with the coming of Captain Cook and even earlier navigators, the history of Hawaii is briefly told. Description of the character and life of the Hawaiians and the new comers follows, and full space is given to the attractions of the islands for tourists and settlers. The products, business and possibilities receive abundant mention, and the volume is a timely addition to the "World Today Series" of which Mr. Goodrich is the author.

A SURVEY OF AMERICAN BUSINESS

According to mainland advices on finance and trade, the weather conditions throughout the East act to some extent to cause price fluctuations in the open market, and especially has this been true of the past few weeks of "climate," ranging from zero to any place below, accompanied by storms that have impeded railway traffic and the distribution of merchandise. During the cold snaps there has been a notable increase in the movement of footwear and heavy apparel, and fuel has also climbed a few notches. But throughout it all there has prevailed a tone of optimism.

The demand for wool is on the increase with a corresponding boost in prices. The iron and steel interests report booking more business during February than in January. Railway earnings for February fell 3.3 per cent below the receipts of the same month last year.

There has been enough new business to enable the mills and furnaces in the manufacturing towns of the East to increase operating schedules.

The movement of general farm staples shows a decidedly firm undertone. There has been a general upward tendency for all grains, especially corn and wheat. As far west as the Middle States they have felt the effect of the recent storms on the general trade movement, but withal there is a buoyant feeling that not even storms can stop the coming good times.

In the Southern States there has been a continual growth of confidence in all lines of trade, both wholesale and retail. A series of clearance and bargain sales have successfully reduced some of the overstocked shelves and warehouses. The hotels are reported full and trade brisk.

Chicago reports a gratifying progress of trade notwithstanding that outdoor activities have been somewhat impeded by recent cold weather. St. Paul reports that business is good, there is a general feeling of optimism, and the general trade is such as to indicate a coming favorable situation throughout the Northwest.

From Portland, Oregon, comes the word that although there has been no great increase in the volume of business for the first two months of the year there is a very confident feeling that a gradual improvement of conditions will materialize as the season advances.

San Francisco shows a slight decrease in her exports as compared with the same month last year. The trade for January was valued at $7,808,000, a decrease of $1,230,000 from the same month last year and $1,040,000 less than in 1912. Of the total last month, $54,570,000 represented the foreign trade, the remainder going to domestic Atlantic ports and the Hawaiian islands.

Taken altogether there seems to be a feeling from coast to coast, and including these islands, that if businessmen rub hard enough on the cloud, the silver lining will show through.

NEITHER NECESSARY NOR ADVISABLE

A liquor license for the Pleasanton Hotel may properly be opposed for at least three reasons that are entirely non-personal:

First, the location of the hotel is practically at the entrance to Oahu College and the sale of liquor so near the college, even under the most rigid of safeguards, cannot but be dangerous to the boys and young men of the college. The authoritative report that the hotel intends to erect a sort of club-house in the hotel grounds, thus tending doubly to attract the collegians, adds weight to the objections based on the location of the proposed licensed buffet.

Second, the hotel is in one of the best residence districts of the city, noted for cleanliness and order. It is certain that there is serious objection toward the invasion of residence districts by liquor licenses, even if under the form of hotel permits.

The quick protests forthcoming within the last few days show that the people of Honolulu do not want licensed buffets or bars in the residential sections.

Third, if the Pleasanton Hotel permit is issued, the license commissioners must either take the attitude of discriminating between certain hotels or else of throwing down the barrier and allowing every hotel and boarding-house in Honolulu to run a bar not only for the convenience of its guests but for the profits from public sale. If the hotel in question is given a liquor license, there are half a dozen others, several not far away, which are entitled to the same privileges. They pay the same hotel license fee to the county; they may wish the same treatment. Can the license commissioners refuse them? Not without discrimination. And if they are not refused, bars can be opened throughout the city.

The commissioners have already taken the attitude that in good public policy the number of licenses to sell liquor in Honolulu should not be increased. There are plenty now. The hotel enjoys a good business, justly deserved by its reputation. The manager is held in good esteem. We do not believe, and the community does not believe, that liquor-selling privileges are either necessary or advisable.

THE "BLACK EYE"

President Kennedy of the Inter-Island company, not long ago drew attention to the "black eye" that commercial Honolulu has received because of its high port-charges and he paid particular attention to the excessive cost of water to shipping. He stated that these high charges are becoming widely known in the shipping world and cannot but tend to give Honolulu a bad name.

The board of harbor commissioners and the superintendent of public works have made various plans to reduce the cost of water to shipping but much larger reductions are still to be made. That Mr. Kennedy did not overdraw the picture is shown by the fact that in one city at least whose overseas relations with Honolulu are important there has recently been severe criticism of the local charges. Harry G. Stone, a Seattle businessman, after a visit to Honolulu, returned to the Northwest port and is quoted by a Seattle paper as saying:

"Honolulu is looking forward to closer commercial relations with Seattle. I heard a good deal of comment on the matter of watering vessels at Seattle. There when a vessel is supplied with 50,000 cubic feet of water the bill presented is $724; to the same amount in Seattle a steamer has to pay $26.20. For 100,000 cubic feet of water, which some vessels take, the bill in Honolulu is $1460, compared with the Seattle price of $44.20. They have a private company supplying ships for 50 per cent of the government price, and, if necessary to help bring ships there, this price will be cut to one-quarter that charged by the government. When the city takes over the waterworks next July the price will likely be cut to a reasonable one.

"Seattle's fame with respect to the economy and superiority of its water supply can be said to be world-wide."

The attitude of some of the supervisors, already almost fainting at the thought of the "lemon" to be handed them with the transfer of the waterworks, does not give much assurance that the charges will be greatly lowered!

PA OLA CAMP

Elsewhere today is printed the appeal sent to the people of Honolulu on behalf of Pa Ola Day Camp by the Men's League, which for several years has carried on this effective agency in the campaign against the dread "white plague," or tuberculosis. The people of this city hardly need to be reminded of the terrific toll taken by tuberculosis. Every fifteen days there comes to the newspapers of Honolulu a statement from the board of health giving the mortality statistics for the previous half-month. Again and again the deaths from tuberculosis will outnumber deaths from all other causes ten to one, and it not infrequently happens that every death during the fifteen days has been caused by the ravages of this disease. It is a hard fight and a long fight that must be waged in Honolulu, and Pa Ola Day Camp is one of the outposts to hold which the resources of freely given money and energy must be marshalled. The appeal of the Men's League should be promptly answered.

Looks like Uncle Sam will have to stand the loss on the Pearl Harbor drydock collapse. Why not? Hasn't the government got plenty of money?

DIPHTHERIA WELL UNDER CONTROL, BUT ONE DEATH

Though there are 62 cases of diphtheria in Honolulu at the present time only one death from the malady has been recorded, according to the report of Dr. J. S. B. Pratt at the meeting of the territorial board of health yesterday afternoon. He stated that the difficulty in controlling the spread of the disease in the Kakaako district, where most of the cases exist, is due to the fact that it is in such a mild form that the patients acted as carriers for several days before they were found by the inspectors and placed under quarantine.

The board denied the application of Chang Tan for a permit to construct a cesspool for a home built by him in the McInerney tract. He will be required to wait until the new sewer now being laid in that district is completed, and to make use of it.

The matter of granting Libby, McNeill & Libby permission to lay a 12-inch sewer from its new cannery to Kailua bay was referred to a committee which will confer with the public works department concerning the proper location for the outlet. Dr. Sagamura, who had passed the necessary examination, was granted a license to practise medicine in the territory.

Dr. Pratt stated this morning that everything indicated the epidemic was well under control. So far, he says, he has found but two active "carriers." In the other cases he is able to show that the disease has been contracted from other diphtheria patients. More than 85 per cent of the cases are in a small district, mainly on Kawaiahao street, Second and South streets. There are five cases on and directly off Kawaiahao, seven off Philip, three off Hanalei, four off Queen and four off Hotel, and the same number off Smith and Beretania. Japanese and Portuguese make up the greatest number of the cases. At the Castle Kindergarten, a couple of cases were found, and the place shut down while fumigated. The fact that the diphtheria is coming in light forms and that there is a very surprising absence of "carriers" made Dr. Pratt conclude that a rigid quarantine was not necessary. His inspectors, however, have been doubly busy, examining the pupils of different schools, removing those who show signs of diphtheria, fumigating, etc.

"I hold the changes in the weather recently accountable for the epidemic," stated Dr. Pratt. "It has changed from warm to cool, with the result that many persons have caught cold, rendering them easily susceptible to the disease." Dr. Pratt added that he believed both the Castle Kindergarten and the Westley Home would be opened Monday. There were two cases found in the latter place, and tests are being made today to determine if the patients have recovered.

proximate cause of plaintiff's injury was the negligence of the defendant in failing to furnish a reasonably safe cable for use, is not a question of science or legal knowledge, but a question of fact for determination by a jury."

In his dissenting opinion Associate Justice Perry says: "While concurring in what is said in the foregoing opinion on the subject of the assumption by plaintiff of the risks incident to the lack of a guard rail and a platform at the head of the coal conveyor, I respectfully dissent from the view that the question of proximate cause should have been submitted to the jury and from the conclusion that a nonsuit was incorrectly ordered."

"There is no doubt that what is the proximate cause of an injury is ordinarily a question for a jury; but when the facts are all undisputed and the inferences necessary to sustain the plaintiff's case are not legally deducible from those facts, the question is solely one of law for the court. In the case at bar the question was, in my opinion, one of law for the court."

Concluding, he says: "In my opinion the plaintiff failed to show that the defendant was guilty of any negligence which could have been properly found by the jury to have been the proximate cause of the injuries complained of and the motion for a nonsuit was properly granted."

LITTLE INTELLIGENTS

—SUPERVISOR M. C. PACHECO: You may look to see the supervisors get very busy from now on.

—SIDNEY R. JORDAN: Me engaged to be married? Why, there's nothing to it. I just bought a share in a new automobile, though.

—ROBERT CATHCART: They are not fooling me any more with fake cable messages or telephone calls. They are trying; but not succeeding.

—GENERAL CARTER: I saw considerable of Honolulu when I was house-hunting yesterday, and the more I see of the town the better I like it.

—PURSER PHILLIPS: Old Kilauea is brightening up to a considerable degree and visitors to the crater are rewarded by witnessing an interesting spectacle.

—MAJOR COE: Fort Kamehameha is getting to be a more attractive post every day, and when I return from Guam in a couple of months I expect to see the place even more improved.

—TOM CHURCH: I don't know where the city and county gets the water which it uses on its streets, but it might be better if clean salt water from the harbor were used for that purpose.

—J. A. URICE: The first meeting of the salesmanship class at the "Y" last evening was a pronounced success. There were three live addresses and all the members have gone into the work with keen interest.

—SPENCER BOWEN: The office of the Associated Charities still continues to be besieged by persons seeking employment. The work is going slowly, but nevertheless we are able to secure a job or two now and then.

—E. A. MOTT-SMITH: The initial hearing of the public utility commission's investigation of the Inter-Island yesterday afternoon was in every way a success. A good start was made and, at the present rate, the commission is going to make progress.

—W. LILIENTHAL (master German steamer Menes): This is my first visit to Honolulu, though I have heard much of the islands and have often hoped for an opportunity of visiting the port. Incidentally, the Menes is making its initial visit to an American port.

—C. H. DICKEY: The Civic Federation has no complaint to make on the action taken by the Associated Charities on its plan to provide work for the unemployed. I think, however, that if the unemployed were put to work where the federation suggested, the present situation might somewhat be relieved.

The deeper a man is in debt the less he cares for expense.

TRAVELLER SAYS
 TOURISTS SHOULD STOP IN HAWAII

(By FRED GRUNDY.)
 [Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
 From "A Trip to Australia. By a Plain Man."

"As a sight-seeing trip the journey to Australia is fairly pleasurable if one is determined to endure many discomforts with a smile. The run from San Francisco to Tahiti is the longest and most tiresome, requiring about 15 days. All that is to be seen during that time is sky, sea and flying fish. The mountains of Tahiti are a more than welcome sight to the weary tourist. The natural beauty of the island is great, but one is so delighted to set his feet on solid land that he feels like he had found a veritable Eden. In all the South Sea Islands, and throughout New Zealand and Australia the tremendous force of the ancient volcano and earthquake are seen on every hand. To the stranger they are wonderful. Aside from these things and the remarkable natives, there is not much to be seen that cannot be seen in even more wonderful form in our own country. Probably in the near future much larger, faster and more comfortable steamers will be used in the Australian service, and the annoying inspection rules now prevailing greatly modified. The trip will then become a fairly pleasant one for those who wish to entirely escape the rigors of our winter season. Until these changes are made, I would not advise any one to take it, unless he is looking for trying discomforts.

"A majority of those making this trip return by way of Honolulu. When this point is reached one may well stop and rest a few weeks. He is again under the Stars and Stripes and feels at home. The scenery on the Hawaiian is well worth seeing. The climate is delightful, and at Honolulu all the comforts to be obtained anywhere can be obtained at prices that are not extremely high. But here, I find, the steamer agents play a few "tricks that are vain." In purchasing a ticket at Frisco for Australia and return via Honolulu I was positively assured by the agent that it would be accepted in full payment for return passage to San Francisco from Honolulu. Here the mild-mannered agents informed me that I would have to come across with $37.50 more in order to reach Frisco. This little contribution, they declared was for super-extra accommodations which my Frisco ticket did not provide for. I would advise those purchasing tickets at Frisco for passage to Australia and return via Honolulu to procure with

JACK LONDON WILLING TO RUN FOR PRESIDENCY AS PROHIBITIONIST

Also, He Would Accept National Secretaryship of Socialist Party if Requested

[By Latest Mail]
 SAN FRANCISCO — Jack London announces that he will accept the prohibition nomination for president of the United States if it is tendered him.

Eastern prohibitionists feel that London's name would be a big factor in their campaign since the widespread popularity of his "John Barleycorn." Charles Terry White, prominent prohibitionist of Chicago, declares that the party is seriously considering the California novelist as their standard-bearer.

"Of course I'll accept the prohibition nomination if they want me. Why not? I also have been mentioned for national secretary of the socialist party. I'll accept that, too. I'll accept them all, why not?"

London has just returned from a trip to New York, where he went to protect his moving picture interests—which he did.

"Ever notice a bunch of chickens being fed?" commented London. "One of them grabs a piece of meat and away he goes with it. All the others start after him. Well, I grabbed a good chunk of meat called moving pictures, and every other chicken in the United States was after me. I got away with it, all right. But I had to run like the devil."

"Yes, I'm bound to the moving-picture business for life. Its like matrimony. All I possess, dear moving-picture business, is yours. No, I'm not going to write any original scenarios, nor anything just for moving-picture use alone. But everything that I have written or may write—novels or short stories—is contracted for by the company with which I am connected. Bosworth is in the north now, filming some of my Alaska stories. I expect to make in the neighborhood of $800,000 out of the movies in the next two years. Pretty good chunk of meat? Yes; but I don't know whether you better tell about it or not. Perhaps it's an indiscreet statement. All the relatives of all the men I ever bunked down with, all over the world, will be on my trail."

"New York? New York is getting less and less American. Every time I go there I notice it. This time it struck me that about the only place in New York where you can find an American now is outside a theater—outside—between half-past eight and eleven. If you staid out there, then them an iron-bound contract, secured by a deposit, that said tickets are good and sufficient for the entire return passage."

'GO HOME,' SAID
 VOICE AND MAN

go home!"

The Spanish man, one of the "unemployed," who was receiving treatment in one of the wards at the Queen's hospital, after having paid no heed to a Rapid Transit conductor's warning not to get off the car backward, sat up in his cot and listened as the two words floated down the corridor to him. He never had been in a hospital before and the continual stillness of the place frightened him. Seeking information, he turned to his Porto Rican friend who occupied the adjoining cot.

"What was that?" he inquired. And the Porto Rican friend answered:

"They said 'go home.' Maybe they mean you. You'd better go home."

And, as there were no white-clad nurses in the immediate vicinity, the Spaniard arose from his cot, donned his clothes and stole from the big hospital building. Out on the road he hailed a passing hack. Then, with 50 cents which it is said the Spanish consul had given him to buy food some time before, he enjoyed the luxury of a ride home.

EMPIRE THEATER

The feature picture offered at the Empire theater for the afternoon and evening performance today will be a two-reel photo play of strong plot and abounding in action with a distinct flavor of the far west. "The Tragedy of Big Eagle Mine," is one of the late releases from a foremost producing company on the Pacific coast. The story told by the camera is dramatic with many startling situations.

Comedy films are plentifully interspersed at the week end bill at the Empire. "Just Kids," is predicted to take one back to days of childhood, and as a farce is well up to the standard.

The unfolding of the story as depicted in the picture entitled "The Lion's Bride," is declared a masterful piece of work and makes a strong appeal to those seeking the sensational along the line of motion photography.

George Spaulding's delegation of merrymakers who are holding forth at the Bijou are perfecting themselves in the side-splitting musical comedy, "The Man Who Looks Like Me." A host of pleasing songs and dances are introduced in the skit which will be offered patrons of that house beginning next Monday evening.

The supreme court yesterday set aside the default entered against the Advertiser by Circuit Judge Robinson in the $25,000 libel suit brought against the newspaper by R. E. Bond of Walluku. The case now will be heard on its merits by Judge Robinson.

Spencer Lowen, manager of the Associated Charities, stopped work for a few moments this morning to relate the foregoing story. It is an example, he said, of the many problems of the unemployed which the charities now is striving to solve. The charities explained Mr. Bowen had considerable trouble in persuading the Spaniard to go to the hospital, but the most distressing part of it came when, after the association considered its troubles over, the man picked up his belongings and left, thinking, as his Porto Rican friend had told him, that he was to "go home" and go at once. The hospital authorities reported that the Spaniard had left without permission, and expressed a willingness to help bring him back. And it took a lot of persuasion to get the Spaniard to return to his cot in the ward.

In connection with this story, Mr. Bowen pointed out that the Spanish of Honolulu now are doing everything possible to help those countrymen who are out of work and who, in many cases, have large families and little or no funds. One man, he said, who has a wife and six children, recently rented a house consisting of five rooms and a lean-to, and took in a man and his wife and four children. He then proceeded to take in others until now 18 persons are occupying the house. The conditions, says Mr. Bowen, are not what might be called perfect, and he intends taking steps to see if the situation cannot be relieved.

The people now occupying the house are receiving the special attention of the charities and, as Mr. Bowen said, the organization believes that it can secure employment for those who are able to go to work.

"This incident goes to show how eager the Spanish are to help one another," said the Manager. "At present there is little apparent relief in the employment situation, but the association thus far has been able to place several persons each day."

On account of the increased work of the charities, at the first of the month the present office will be moved to the more spacious quarters on Alakea street formerly occupied by Dr. W. C. Hobdy.

MEN'S LEAGUE RAISING FUNDS FOR DAY CAMP

Fight Against Tuberculosis Is Greatly Aided by Pa Ola Institution

The fight against tuberculosis in Hawaii, through the instrumentality of the Men's League of Central Union church, was renewed yesterday when the league began its sixth annual campaign to raise funds for Pa Ola Day camp.

The following letter, sent to members of the league and interested citizens, explains the campaign fully:

"On Banyan street, Palama, near Kaumakapili church, is situated the Pa Ola Day Camp, in charge of intelligent attendants, and last year there were 50 tubercular cases cared for during the day and taught not only to care for themselves but how to protect others from infection.

"As you no doubt know, this Pa Ola Day Camp is maintained by support from the Men's League. On account of limited funds they have been able to take care of but 10 cases at a time, the facilities are ample to take care of 20 cases, and it is the only place in Honolulu where tubercular children can be treated.

"It will pay you to visit this camp, and in that way learn directly of the wonderful results that are being obtained in this work. Already this year three cases have been discharged as cured, and during 1913 the record shows 2978 hospital days.

"Dr. W. C. Hobby, who is closely identified with these matters, and one of our best authorities, speaks of the day camp as follows:

"I have just heard, and with much pleasure, that the Men's League has decided to continue its support of the Pa Ola Day Camp. I am familiar with the work of this institution, and have been since its inception. The statistics show that from a curative standpoint it has been of great value to this community and I believe its aid to the community as an educational factor can not be over-estimated. Its patients learn how they acquired the infection and are taught how to keep from infecting others, and this information they spread through their friends and families to the untold good of the community."

"The Men's League have voted unanimously to continue its support and in order that it may be possible for the camp to do larger work this year, the committee believes that the league, together with outside friends, should endeavor to raise funds sufficient to provide up to the full capacity of the day camp. At least $4000 will be necessary to accomplish this.

"We believe it will not be necessary to make any further argument as to the importance of this work, and we are writing you to ask whether you would not make a contribution toward the fund. Where can you contribute to better advantage, or help a more practical cause? The committee hopes to receive something, no matter how small, from everyone. This is a matter of the most vital importance to the entire community.

Kindly send subscriptions in the enclosed envelope to Frank L. Hoogs, treasurer, at the Bank of Hawaii.

"Respectfully,
"ZENO K. MYERS,
"JOHN R. GALT,
"FRANK L. HOOGS,
"Committee."

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—Mrs. ALONZO E. LAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work.

In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

SUGAR CANE 40 FEET HIGH IS BOAST OF OAHU

Manuel Caldera Has Clump Only 24 Inches Below Figure and Still Growing

Sugar cane 38 feet in length is certainly some cane, even for Hawaii, but Manuel Caldera, at his home on Pauoa road, near Luso street, is prepared to convince the skeptical that such length cane can be grown, and also that he is likely to have over 40-foot cane before he is through.

In Mr. Caldera's yard is a clump of cane of the Lahaina variety, which he planted 17 months ago. It contains some eight or ten stalks, all of which are today 38 feet long or more. Curious to see how tall the cane would grow, under proper care, Mr. Caldera set up a 2 by 4 pole by the clump and to this has tied the cane as it grew. A ladder also fastened beside the pole makes it easy to prove his statement as to the height of the cane. And this height, moreover, does not include the leaves which extend several feet higher than the stalks. The cane has not yet blossomed, and is still growing and its owner confidently expects that it will pass the 40-foot mark before it has finished its growth.

ADMISSION SERVICE IS COMPLETED BY STANDING COMMITTEE

As a final step in the action which Central Union church took two weeks ago when the members of the congregation, at an open meeting, voted not to require assent to the creed from those who hereafter unite with the church, the standing committee has voted to recommend to the church the adoption of a new service of admission, which has been printed in pamphlet form and distributed among the members for their consideration.

The action taken by the church made it necessary to revise the form of admission, and the recommendations of the standing committee will be brought before a meeting of the members of the church Wednesday evening, March 25. The new service has been prepared in such a way as to provide for those who are joining for the first time, and also for those who come to Central Union from other churches. The confession, as set forth in the new service, is as follows:

"You do now confess your faith in God your Father, and your purpose to love and obey Him; with the Bible as your guide you will follow Jesus Christ, His Son, your Lord and Saviour; you accept the leadership of the Holy Spirit in your life; and you dedicate yourself to the service of your fellow men."

Fortunes In Food Products

The fortunes that have been made, the dividends paid and now being paid to the owners of food products and food product specialties would surprise the average mortal because of the lack of knowledge on his part regarding the very profitable nature of the business.

A few packages of a product sold monthly through only half of the grocery stores in America yields a profit to the owners little understood by the layman. Such a sale spells large and permanent profits to the shareholders.

"Grant's Hygienic Crackers" have been introduced on the Pacific Coast only and a profit-showing, dividend-paying business developed.

Although no effort has been made to sell goods in Honolulu several grocers already carry the crackers in stock and have been selling them for two years or more.

The manufacturers are now preparing for an active campaign in the East and to provide additional funds for the work have authorized the sale of $50,000 worth of six per cent Gold Notes with which we are temporarily giving a bonus of 25 per cent in the fully paid stock of the company.

The nature of the business is such that tariff changes, currency disturbance, labor troubles, hard times, etc., have no effect on the sale of the product.

The Gold Notes are sold in denominations of $100, upward, and a bonus of 25 shares of stock is given with each $100 worth sold. The company has been on a profit-showing basis for 50 months and with $50,000 additional money the profits for 1914 will be large.

The company is a going, growing enterprise having the emphatic endorsement of its home commercial bodies. It owns its real estate, plant and equipment free of debt. No floating indebtedness. No money due any bank. No borrowed capital. No large salaries to pay. No preferred stock.

The Gold Notes yield 6 per cent interest payable semi-annually, dating from day of issue. The bonus stock is the common stock and should, within five years, pay from $1. to $3. per share annually.

So safe and carefully managed in the enterprise that applications for the Gold Notes will be accepted by the:

- First National Bank, Oakland, Cal.
- State Savings Bank, Oakland, Cal.
- First National Bank, Berkeley, Cal.
- West Berkeley Bank, Berkeley, Cal.
- Berkeley Bank of Savings and Trust Co., Berkeley, Cal.

For more specific information regarding the enterprise, progress made, future prospects, etc., write us for "Data F." It's free.

Visitors to this section, from Hawaii, are cordially invited to call at our office, visit the factory, and fully investigate the enterprise.

Our instructions are to crowd the sale of these Gold Notes, because the campaign is scheduled to start early in April. Write for "Data F." today.

Under the auspices of Theodore Roosevelt Camp No. 1, the United Spanish War veterans will be hosts at a dinner in the Moose hall this evening.

GEN. EDWARDS IS GUEST AT DANCE AT SCHOFIELD

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, March 12.—In compliance to the commander of their brigade, the 1st and 25th Infantry tendered a reception and dance at the 25th Infantry amusement hall at 9:30 last night to Brig.-gen. Clarence R. Edwards.

The large and handsome hall was profusely decorated with flags and flowers for the occasion, and the 1st Infantry band furnished its usual sprightly program of dance music, following a few introductory medley selections from popular operas.

In the receiving line were Col. Geo. K. McGunagle, commanding the post of Schofield Barracks, General Edwards, Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon, wife of Colonel Kennon, and Mrs. C. E. Tayman, wife of Major Tayman, 1st Infantry.

Governor Pinkham with his staff arrived at 10 p. m. and paid his respects, leaving again for Honolulu after a short visit.

Among others present were Brigadier-general McComb, Col. D. L. Howell, 1st Infantry; Col. L. W. V. Kennon, 25th Infantry; Colonel and Mrs. W. D. Beach, 4th Cavalry; Colonel and Mrs. S. D. Sturges, 1st Field Artillery; Lieutenant-colonel and Mrs. C. T. Menoher, 1st Field Artillery; Lieutenant-colonel and Mrs. J. B. McDonald from Honolulu. Over 100 couples enjoyed the dancing program which consist of 20 regular and four extra dances. A number of the younger set from Honolulu came out, returning after the dance in autos.

COMMERCIAL ITEMS.

Alexander & Baldwin gave notice this week that dividends will be reduced from 75 cents to 50 cents a month beginning with April 20. Such a reduction had been expected by the "street."

Alligator pear season is opening. Reports from the different districts indicate that the crop this year will be very good. The marketing division of the federal experiment station plans to do a big business with the fruit this season.

Automobile insurance companies doing business here have had a run of bad luck. In the last few weeks damages to automobiles covered by insurance have amounted to several thousand dollars. A few of the machines were destroyed by fire.

The Hawaiian Canneries Company is expected to begin work on its cannery to be located at Kapaa within a short time. It is understood that the machinery will be of the latest model, and that some of it has just been invented, and not so far introduced here.

Plans with an application for a building permit for the new branch factory of Libby, McNeill & Libby, which will be located at Kalihi, were filed this week. The plans call for a building costing in the neighborhood of $75,000. The labor item alone will be about $23,500.

To protest against including pineapples in the list of host fruits and vegetables, pineapple growers of the island met Thursday afternoon with the members of the territorial board of forestry and agriculture. A message was sent to Washington stating that pines were not properly a host fruit.

The absolute necessity for the strictest kind of economy in running the government was brought out at a meeting of the board of equalization yesterday when representatives of several sugar companies appeared. The representatives of the companies appearing declared it was not only necessary for the government to enforce a rigid retrenchment policy, but likewise necessary for the plantations.

The woman with beef trust ankles might at least omit the noisy hosier.

MAYOR OF TOKIO CAST TO ENJOY SUPPER-DANCE

The members of the cast of the "Mayor of Tokio" will enjoy a supper-dance on the Young Hotel roof garden next Wednesday evening, the affair being one that was arranged during Carnival week but postponed on account of a lack of funds. This deficit has been made up through a vaudeville performance, given by the talent that took part in the three productions of the "Mayor of Tokio" and plans for the dance are about complete.

It will be necessary for those who intend being present at the dance—and it is expected that the entire cast will be on hand—to call at the Honolulu Music Company and receive admission tickets. Each lady in the cast will be allowed to invite an escort and each gentleman is expected to escort a lady. The decorations will be along the line of the scenery in the play and the affair promises to be a most delightful one.

MAJORS WOOTEN AND COE OFF TO ISLAND OF GUAM

Major W. P. Wooten, corps of engineers, and Major Frank Coe, C. A. C., were departing passengers on the troopship Thomas at noon today. As announced in the Star-Bulletin some time ago, these officers are ordered to Guam, to consider the defense problems of that island. They will remain over one transport, being absent from Hawaii about 50 days.

During the absence of Major Wooten, Lieutenant Frank Besson becomes department engineer. Captain George Taylor assumes command of Fort Kanehameha.

Major-general Carter is catching up the threads of his new command, and will be a busy man for the next three weeks, going over problems and policies with Brigadier-general Macomb, before the latter's departure for the mainland on the April transport.

General Carter has decided to take over General Macomb's house on Betaniana street. He and Mrs. Carter will remain at the Young Hotel until the Macombs leave.

First Lieutenant J. G. Pillow, senior aide to General Carter, has taken over the duties of librarian of the department, and is in command of the headquarters detachment. 2d Lieutenant J. D. Reardan, also of General Carter's personal staff, is designated as inspector of small arms practice, relieving Cary I. Crockett.

The reception and dance given last night by the infantry officers at Schofield Barracks in honor of General Edwards was one of the pleasantest affairs ever given at the post. Even the spacious infantry amusement hall was taxed to capacity to accommodate the dancers. Everyone had a good time and stayed late.

SUPERVISORS GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS, SO SAYS M. C. PACHECO

"I believe the board of supervisors is at last getting down to business," said Supervisor M. C. Pacheco this morning. "I believe the supervisors are beginning to realize that something must be done, and are ready to go ahead and do it as well as they can."

"They are going to finish up the traffic ordinance at once. I believe it will pass as it stands now, with the exception of the pedestrian sections, which I am going to fight. I do not believe we are ready for these sections now; Honolulu is not large enough and the greater part of the population is not educated up to them. The sections provide that a pedestrian crossing the street must do so at a regular street crossing. If he crosses at other places he does so at his own risk. This is too drastic, I think."

HAWAII HARDWOOD LUMBER COMPANY ELECTS OFFICERS

The Hawaii Hardwood Lumber Company held its annual meeting of shareholders yesterday, and elected officers for the ensuing year. The following are the officers elected: James B. Castle, president; Georg Rodiek, vice-president; H. K. L. Castle, treasurer; L. H. Petrie, secretary; F. B. McStocker, auditor; directors, R. Ivers and T. M. Church.

The report of the business of the company during the nine months since incorporation was very encouraging. Under the able management of Sam Johnson, a large amount of product has been manufactured at the company's Pahoia mill. Gross sales of over $125,000 are reported, showing a net profit of about 6 per cent.

The company has sold a number of large orders for ohia flooring in California, and has received many more orders than it is in a position to fill. The outlook for the future of the business is reported to be very good.

RECORD BROKEN WHEN WIRELESS MAST IS BUILT

That there is keen competition among those groups of men who, in several parts of the globe and including Hawaii, are employed by the Marconi Wireless Company in erecting the great steel masts which will mark the company's round-the-world chain of stations, may be seen from the fact that, according to information which reached the Star-Bulletin late yesterday afternoon, the construction crew at Koko Head believes now that it holds a world's record for the length of time required in complete a mast.

The construction crew at Koko Head, of which Fritz Bidder is foreman, recently erected a 325-foot mast in three days and two hours, seven men having been used on the job. The mast is composed of 30 sections, each 10 feet high, and including 25 feet of top mast. According to the men on the job, the record time includes not only the erection of the mast, but the completion of the guy wires and stays as well. The San Francisco record, say the builders, is five days for a similar mast, and it is said, at the time this record was established, there were nine or 10 men engaged in the work.

Memory of Kamehameha III Ever Will Be Dear Unveiling of Bronze Tablet to Mark Centenary

REVIEW OF LIFE AND EFFORTS OF BELOVED MONARCH OF HAWAII

By DANIEL LOGAN
Of Kamehameha III the late Dr. W. D. Alexander, historian, said: "His memory will ever be dear to his people for his selfless patriotism, for the liberal constitution which he granted them, and for the gift of the right to hold lands in fee simple. His reign will also be memorable for the unexampled progress made by the nation and from its wonderful preservation from the many perils which beset it. He loved his country and his people. He was true and steadfast in friendship. Duplicitous and intrigue were foreign to his nature. He always chose men of tried integrity for responsible offices, and never betrayed secrets of state, even in his most unguarded moments."

In reviving the celebration of the natal day of Kamehameha the third—or rather making it enthusiastic and emphatic, instead of languid and perfunctory as heretofore—the patriotic organizations taking hold of the duty are doing honor to themselves and their country. The word country here may well be expanded in meaning to embrace the great nation of which Hawaii now forms a part, for the beneficent island monarch whose memory will be burnished anew on Tuesday next was, for some time before his death, striving to bring about what he foresaw was to be the "manifest destiny" of his beloved island realm—in incorporation in the great American commonwealth. His reasons for this policy showed that neither ambition nor treachery was its instigation. Troubles from without had clouded his long reign and, although he did not permit them to thwart an internal administration so enlightened and energetic as to place the little kingdom on a plane with the great nations of the world in civilization and progress, he realized that conditions beyond his control existed which made the end of his sovereignty inevitable. His career may be likened to a thunderstorm. Amidst the terrifying reverberations from the overhanging clouds of hostile foreign diplomacy flashed the vivid lightning of wise domestic policy, making a rain of wholesome laws and edicts to descend upon the islands.

Birth and Accession.
Kaukaeoou was born on March 17, 1812, at Keaoua in the district of Kona, island of Hawaii. His father was the renowned king and conqueror, Kamehameha I, and his mother Keopoukani, daughter of Kivaoa, son of Kalipoua of Kau. On the day before her death his mother, while conversing with the celebrated chief, Kalaimoku, said: "I wish that my two children, Kaukaeoou and Kalia, (daughter) should know God and serve him, and be instructed in Christianity. I wish you to take care of these my two children, see that they walk in the right way, counsel them, let them not associate with bad companions." The earliest education which the young prince received was at Kalia from the Rev. A. Thurston and Thomas Hopu, the latter a native who had been educated in the United States. In Honolulu he studied under the Rev. Hiram Bingham. His father died on May 8, 1819, and his mother on September 16, 1823. Toward the end of that year Kamehameha II (Liholho) embarked for England, where he died in 1824. His body was brought to the islands in the British frigate Blonde commanded by Lord Byron in 1825. About May in that year Kamehameha III (Kaukaeoou) entered upon his reign, but under the political guidance of a supreme ruler or kuhina nui, until March, 1833, when he declared to the chiefs his wish to take into his own hands the islands for which his father had labored, the powers of life and death, and the undivided sovereignty, which he did, confirming Kinau (Kaahumanu II) as kuhina nui, in the 20th year of his age.

On February 4, 1837, he wedded Kalia, daughter of Nalikekulu, who survived him at his death on December 15, 1854. Being childless the king adopted as his son and heir Alexander Liholho, who reigned as Kamehameha IV.
Character and Policy.
From a semi-official obituary notice in the Polynesian shortly after his death, the following notes on his character and career of Kamehameha III are abstracted: "His memory is, and must ever be, dear to his subjects, for the free constitutions which he voluntarily granted to them in 1840 and in 1852; for his support of religion and patronage of education; for his conferring upon them, and upon foreigners, the right to hold lands in fee simple, and for his willing abandonment of the arbitrary powers and right of universal seigniorial lordship. There is scarcely in history, ancient or modern, any king to whom so many reforms and benefits can be ascribed as the achievements of only 21 years of his reign. Yet what King has had to contend with so many difficulties arising from ignorance, prejudice, scanty revenues, inexperience and ineptitude as has his late majesty King Kamehameha III? It was only in 1844 that his majesty had the assistance of a responsible legal counselor and of a secretary of state; only in 1845 that a practical separation of the departments of government was attempted, and a cabinet formed."
Kamehameha established and endeavored to maintain inviolate a set of principles, these being here briefly stated: That the monarchy in the Hawaiian Islands is indispensable to the preservation of the king and chiefs, and the natives, and it is the duty of the ministers, in all their measures, to have a single eye to such preservation; that the king's administration must be enlightened and just, both to natives and foreign residents, and, chiefly through missionary efforts, the natives should be advanced in education and knowledge until qualified to handle affairs of government—the study of proper books and training under foreign ministers being commended as further means of advancement; that the foreign ministers hold their commissions only by the grace of the king, and agree to surrender them at the will of his majesty in favor of native subjects whenever these become properly qualified; that being recognized as sovereign by the representatives of Great Britain, France, the United States and Belgium, the king must have the assistance of all his ministers and officials in maintaining the dignity and respect due to his position, comporting themselves at all times so as to do honor to his appointment and credit to themselves; that it is the duty of ministers to discourage all republican tendencies and suppress attempts to degrade the king to the rank of a mere superior chief, as calculated to undermine his influence and authority and place the islands in subjection to white men; that the subjection of the islands to white men would lead to the extinction of the native race; that the ministers ought to promote the numerical increase of the natives and their happiness and health by encouraging religion, education, and the arts and sciences; that the co-operation of the Christian missionaries should be admitted toward these objects, but that they shall not interfere with the purely political concerns of the king's government; that equal rights and privileges should be allowed to all foreign nations; that the revenue necessary to the support of the king's government, religion and schools, and to reward public services, should be raised without such heavy taxes as would oppress the natives and shake their industry; that the faith of all treaties, covenants, contracts, engagements and even promises should be religiously observed; that a constitution and code of laws be provided, adapted to the genius of the nation, to the climate and soil, the manners and customs, and the numbers of the people.

Kamehameha the Third

Records of the recommendations he made to the legislature, and reports of ministers and the chief justice are mentioned as showing the principles were faithfully carried out and so effectively that the progress made in the last decade of his reign unquestionably surpassed that of any other nation during the same period of time. All the reforms effected have been achieved without the creation of a national debt and without one violent convulsion. Revolutionary violence cannot plead the example of any country bordering on the Pacific where life and property are more secure than they have been here under the reign of the late king, where foreigners enjoy greater privileges and where, like this country, foreign commerce (excepting spirituous liquors) pays a contribution to the state of only five per cent ad valorem."
Kamehameha III was described in

TUESDAY, NATAL DAY, WILL BE OBSERVED BY DAUGHTERS OF HAWAII

A handsome bronze tablet, appropriately inscribed and set in a block of granite, will be unveiled at the old Kawaiahaou church at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of March 17 in observance of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Kaukaeoou, the third of the Kamehamehas, known to his people as "Ka Mōi Lokomaikai," or the beneficent king. The plans for this unique observance were formulated at a meeting of the Daughters of Hawaii some months ago and it is under their auspices that the services will be held at the church Tuesday.
The daughters have made a fitting choice in selecting the old Kawaiahaou church as the setting for the services. No more appropriate place could have been chosen, perhaps, from the fact that around the historic structure is woven a myriad of tales still dear to the heart of the kamaaina. Since his death, the anniversary of the birth of the famous king has been observed throughout the territory each year, but this season the Daughters of Hawaii, with the assistance of their many friends, have laid plans for a celebration a little more elaborate than has been the custom in the past.
The committee in charge of the exercises at the church Tuesday is composed of Mrs. Eben Low, chairman; Miss Lucy Peabody, Mrs. Emma Nakuna, Mrs. Edgar Henriques, Mrs. Caroline Robinson, Mrs. F. M. Swamy, Mrs. L. A. Coney and Mrs. C. F. Hart. Queen Liliuokalani and High Chiefess Elizabeth Keekaaniua Pratt have consented to unveil the tablet.
The service will be opened with the singing of hymns, following which will be the unveiling. One of the features of the program will be the chanting of the ancient Hawaiian prayer of life, which, because of its great sacredness, has never been put into writing. But has been handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation. There will be other sacred chants, a few of which rarely are heard, one of which will be the genealogy of Kamehameha III. Stephen Desha of Hilo has been invited by the Daughters of Hawaii to be present at the exercises and deliver the address of the occasion.
On the first steamer leaving for the Big Island after the ceremony, the tablet will be taken to Keaoua, Kona, and inserted into the historic lava block known to all kamaainas as the "Kaukaeoou Stone," which marks the birthplace of Kamehameha III.

formation relative to the king's attempts to end the troubles of his kingdom by honorable annexation to the United States. L. Severance, U. S. commissioner, began the negotiations with the king for that purpose, which were continued with vigor by his successor, D. L. Gregg, who actually negotiated a treaty. All the while the king was ready to trade with some other power in the event that the United States would not accept the islands. It is related that General Miller, the British commissioner, reluctantly admitted that the convention between France and Great Britain, of November 28, 1843—following the restoration of the Hawaiian flag by Admiral Thomas of the British navy after the cession of the islands to Great Britain forcibly dictated by Lord George Paulet, captain, some months before—debarred his government from accepting a protectorate over the islands.
In the years 1850-1854 there was a large immigration from California and many of the newcomers joined the opposition, which planned to reconstruct the government and then turn it over to the United States. A would-be filibustering gang of about twenty-five suspicious characters came down in the year 1851 in the ship Gamecock. During the voyage they rifled every mail bag, throwing the letters overboard. On arrival they found they had been deceived as to the feeling of the natives. They were closely watched and nothing out of the way happened. "The king strongly favored annexation," Alexander says in one of his papers, adding that he "was deeply grateful for the constant and generous friendship of the United States and for the benefits which his people had received from American citizens."
When the Gregg treaty had been completed, the crown prince remained at Hawaii to avoid signing it. General Miller delivered a tirade against annexation to the king's face, while Gregg fretted at the delay in the conclusion of the treaty. He issued a reply to the concluding statement in the proclamation of acceptance of protection from the three powers, namely: "My independence is more firmly established than ever before." The commissioner denied that the United States had any intention of entering into any tripartite protectorate of the king's government, or that his and Captain Donnell's offers should be taken as equivalent to a permanent guarantee of his independence. Crown Prince Liholho arrived on December 1 from Hawaii, and it is stated on good authority that he agreed to sign the treaty and that December 12 was set as the date for the ceremony.
In writings left by Mrs. Laura Fish Judd, relict of Dr. Judd, which had been left out of her book published in 1880 for prudential reasons, it is stated that at this crisis the king was "more eager than ever" to complete the business, when he was suddenly taken ill and expired in five or six days. Mrs. Judd, in the posthumous paper quoted, states positively that the king had determined long before this to dispose of his crown, which had become one of thorns, to the highest bidder. When he sent the last embassy to the United States, England and France after the French spoliation, he furnished Dr. Judd with powers, to which were affixed the royal signature and seal, with instructions to make the best bargain possible for the disposal of the sovereignty of the islands, in case of failure in negotiating his treaty with the governments to which he was accredited. "I have seen these documents," Mrs. Judd wrote, "and the knowledge that such unlimited power was delegated to my husband frightened me with his responsibility. I was glad that he did not make use of them."
"A project for annexation to the United States, alike honorable to both parties, was drawn up by Judge Lee, at the command of the king, and when approved was placed in the hands of the minister of foreign affairs with orders to negotiate with the American commissioner a treaty upon this basis."
As the reasons for his action the king mentioned the decrease of the natives "at a fearful rate," the liability of the governments of the blood royal, the absence of reliable protection against the repetition of such treatment as he had received from Lord George Paulet and Admiral de Tromeelin, and the fate of his neighbor Queen Pomare of Tahiti, made a subject of France in her own dominions—a fate that he had escaped only through wiser counsels and the good offices of the United States. He further deplored the fact that all the honorable positions in the kingdom were held by white men, also that the lands of the people were being lost to them under mortgages at rates of interest "fearfully ruinous." He was confident that honorable terms might be obtained from the United States, whereby the young princes should be amply provided with means with which to gratify their tastes for luxury and foreign travel, without losing their prestige of birth, rank and wealth. "The Hawaiians were not to be slaves through new masters, as some ill-disposed people tried to persuade them, but special stipulations would leave them under the laws entitled to the rights of American citizens."
"The king was so impatient he urged Dr. Judd to charter a schooner privately and go with him to the coast, thence to Washington, where he would close the bargain in person. Dr. Judd assured him that much as he favored the measure of annexation, he could aid it only as it was openly, honorably and unanimously approved."
Celebration of Centenary.
On Tuesday afternoon next, March 17, the centennial anniversary of Kamehameha III will be observed by the unveiling of a tablet to his memory in Kawaiahaou Church. Interesting ceremonies will mark the event, including the rendering of ancient chants. Later the memorial tablet will be taken to Keaoua and there inserted in the historic lava block, known to Hawaiian antiquarians as the Kaukaeoou stone, marking the birthplace of the royal author of constitutional government in Hawaii.

'SUNNY JIM' READY TO LEAVE FOR ATLANTA, BOOSTING ALL WAY

Aloha Temple's Representative to Big Shriner Meeting Will Distribute Leis and Pines

James S. McCandless leaves in the Korea next Tuesday as the representative of Aloha Temple to attend the Imperial Council meeting. Noble McCandless bears the distinction of having been elected last year, at Dallas, Texas, to the office of imperial outer guard, and he is in line this year for the position of imperial captain of the guard, and it is hoped by the members of Aloha Temple that "Sunny Jim's" promotion will continue step by step, until he attains the highest position within the gift of the order, imperial potentate.
This is an honor which will not only reflect glory on Aloha Temple of Honolulu, but also on the Territory of Hawaii. These positions in the imperial Nobles of Aloha Temple, which he accompanied him, will serve in their headquarters at the Hotel Anseley to all the visiting nobles and their ladies, who always make the annual reception given by the members of Aloha Temple one of the most popular functions held during the session of the imperial council.
Mr. McCandless expects to leave San Francisco on April 20 and to be in St. Louis by the 25th of April. There the officers of the imperial council are to be the guests of Moonlight Temple, on their 28th anniversary at which time they will dedicate their new temple, which will be one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States.
The members of Aloha Temple, who expect to make the pilgrimage to Atlanta, will travel from San Francisco as the guests of Islam Temple on their special train. The California Shriners, Islam Temple of San Francisco, Al Malakiah of Los Angeles, Aschmes of Oakland, and Al Bahar of San Diego, will each have a special train, and they will travel by different routes across the continent, and all meet in Chicago. From there they go on to Atlanta and will all travel over the same route, visiting the principal eastern cities, where the bands of the four temples will mass and give concerts, and the Arab Patrols of these four temples will amalgamate and give their spectacular drills in the different cities visited. This united pilgrimage of California Shriners is undertaken for the purpose of securing the meeting of the imperial council of the Shrine for San Francisco in 1915, and they are enthusiastically united to bring this event about. The California nobles will arrive in Atlanta on Sunday, May 10, where they have engaged an entire hotel, and have secured permission of the hotel's management to change its name, for one week, and it will be called the California Hotel during their stay in Atlanta.

The session of the imperial council opens on Tuesday, May 12, and usually occupies two days to carry on the business of the order. The elections for officers takes place on the second day of the session. The visiting nobles will then be entertained by the members of Yaarab Temple of Atlanta, which entertainment usually occupies the entire week. Atlanta expects to welcome between forty and fifty thousand nobles at this meeting.

DR. KELLEY TO GIVE HIS FINAL SOILS LECTURE

The fourth and last lecture of the series on soils, by Dr. W. P. Kelley of the Hawaii Experiment Station, will be given at the College of Hawaii at 11 a. m. Monday, March 16.
It is Dr. Kelley's purpose to discuss soil toxins in their relations to fertility. The beneficial effects of crop rotation have long been observed, but no thoroughly satisfactory explanation of all the facts connected with rotation has ever been made. It is generally recognized the world over that the rotation of crops is essential to the permanent maintenance of soil fertility, but for some time the explanations given have been considered to be inadequate. Growing out of this condition the soil toxin theory was proposed. It is an interesting hypothesis and in this lecture will be discussed the work done along this line by foremost scientists. The practical lessons taught will be pointed out, as well as some of their bearings on local practices.
A brief summary of the more practical points in former lectures will be brought out together with a brief discussion of what is known concerning the practical question of maintaining soils in general and Hawaiian soils in particular.

SERVICE AND OAHU MEET IN FINAL BATTLE

If Soldiers Win They Will Take Championship — In Case of Victory Oahus Must Play Asahis

The big game of the inter-island baseball series will be played tomorrow, when the All-Service and Oahu teams meet at Athletic Park.

The soldiers go into the game with four straight wins to their credit, and if they can manage to annex the long end of tomorrow's score, they will have won the inter-island championship, and the trophy that goes with it.

Manager Dave Deaha of the Oahus stated this morning that he had nothing new to spring in the way of players, but that his regulars were in good shape, and that they would fight to the last man for victory.

Lawson will do the hurling for the soldiers. He pitched Thursday against Punahou, and should be in best form for tomorrow.

If the Service team wins, the inter-island series is over, but if the soldiers lose, they still have a chance to be first place, as the Oahus will have to play a postponed game with the Asahis to complete their schedule.

EXERTION FATIGUED HIS BRAIN

Thought It Was Impossible to Overcome Premature Old Age.

A friend's advice may be cheap, but it does not pay to ignore it, particularly when your nerve power is impaired.

Anyone suffering from premature old age will take hope from the words of a gentleman, who says "Some months ago, I was recommended to try Persian Nerve Essence by a friend."

I was in a state of mental debility. Any exertion made in matters of mercantile calculation fatigued my brain, my memory nor my heavy and slow walk which I had at that time, not corresponding to my age.

Persian Nerve Essence is a dependable remedy for nervous prostration or exhaustion, debility or inactivity of the nerves. It has brought happiness, strength, vigor, and vital power to young men prematurely aged and to the middle-aged and old who have suffered from a breakdown of mental and physical vigor.

The action of the oriental properties of Persian Nerve Essence is almost magical; the bright eye, the elastic step, the clear and active brain, the courage, strength and comfort they impart, are almost immediately apparent.

One box of Persian Nerve Essence is frequently sufficient; in obstinate cases it may be necessary to take a full treatment of six boxes to obtain the best results.

DICK CAVILL DIDN'T TEACH DUKE TO SWIM

Honolulu, March 3, 1914. Sporting Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Dear Sir: We have read many times in our local papers clippings and letters from the Cavill brothers—most particularly from Dick Cavill—remarks which are entirely untrue.

I wish to have you publish the true facts about Dick and our Duke. On Duke's first trip to the states I was his manager. We arrived in Pittsburgh on the 16th of February, 1912, and made our headquarters at the Pittsburgh Natatorium, as the guests of Mr. Freeland, who could not do enough for our boys.

So Dick Cavill never instructed Duke one full minute, nor did Duke see him swim more than three lengths of the tank.

While Duke swims the crawl, Dick Cavill never had the leg motive power that Duke has, and I doubt if you will find anyone who has. Cavill saw Duke get cramps the first race he swam in Pittsburgh, when he told me the boy had a "streak of yellow."

Very truly yours, LEW G. HENDERSON.

MCGRAW BOOSTED U.S. SOLDIERS; PEEVED BRITONS

It's all over now, and reports which resounded here by mail told of the banner crowd at the Giants-White Sox game in London, and of the fact that the king actually did attend, and that he became an ardent baseball fan.

LONDON—Threats of declaring a boycott on the game of baseball to be played here on Thursday next between the New York Giants and the White Sox are being made freely here today.

McGraw's stand regarding the superiority of the American soldier was given in an interview published in a London newspaper. He spoke without reserve and gave his reasons for his statement.

This aroused a storm of protest, chief of which came in an editorial in the Pall Mall Gazette, a London daily, which, among other things, stated that McGraw was "impertinent."

Catcher Wilson Jumps From Giants To Feds After Rub With McGraw

WILSON

Catcher Wilson of the New York Giants is reported to have jumped to the Federal league. According to Chief Meyers, who recently reported to the spring training grounds at Marlin, Tex., Wilson accepted an offer to play with the "outlaws" because he was not satisfied with the way McGraw was using him.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL PLAYERS OFTEN SUCCEED IN POLITICS

[By Latest Mail] NEW YORK.—That college football, with its rigorous training, necessity for self-control and ability to surmount repeated setbacks on the part of its players, is particularly fitting for a successful political career later in life would appear to be indicated by the number of famous players who have achieved positions of prominence in both state and nation.

There is seldom an election of importance in which some football players are not elevated to public life by the voters of one or another political party. These former knights of the gridiron are selected or appointed to all kinds of political positions, and almost without exception discharge the duties of their offices in an extremely satisfactory manner.

Senator Lee, a Princeton Forward. The recent election of Blair Lee as United States senator from Maryland recalls to mind the long list of former players who have won public recognition of similar nature. Lee, who was a famous forward at Princeton in the late '70s, playing the position of "next to end," now known as tackle, followed the footsteps of many other Princeton, Harvard and Yale players.

Robert Bacon, late ambassador to France, was an old Harvard captain and halfback; James S. Harlan of the United States Interstate commerce commission, is an old Princeton forward; Lee McClogh, late treasurer of the United States, a former captain and halfback at Yale; William H. Lewis, recently assistant attorney-general of the United States, an old Harvard center; S. H. Thompson, the present first assistant attorney-general of the United States, and William W. Roper, the present surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, both Princeton ends; ex-Congressman Lucius I. Liddents are discussing the interview. It has an ominous sound that may mean a boycott at the game to be played here Thursday at the Chelsea Cricket Club grounds.

DETROIT TEAM OF '87 COULD BEAT CHAMPS

BOSTON.—Charley Gansel, the old-time baseball catcher, who is seriously ill at his home here, commencing the Detroit 1887 team that won the world's series from St. Louis in that year, says that it could have defeated Connie Mack's wonderful machine of last summer.

"The team with its strong lineup had their star pitcher Getz on the box, Bennett or Charley Gansel behind the bat, the great 'Dan' Bronckers on first, Richardson on third and Jack Rowe shortstop. The outfield consisted of Sam Thompson, Ed Haniau and Larry Twitchell.

"There wasn't a weak spot on it, and I honestly think we could have beaten the Athletics as they played last year, because we were a better hitting team," says Gansel. "Our pitchers were as good as those of the Athletics, and in every other department we could have held our own."

The salary limit at that time as fixed by the league was $2400 a year, and only a few of the best players drew down that amount. For his work that year Gansel received $1800, an average figure for a good ball player of his day.

Each man on the Detroit team got $500 in addition to his regular salary as his share of the world's series money, and the St. Louis players got something less. Gansel picks Charley Bennett as the greatest catcher of all time.

"I've never seen his equal, and I've seen them all," said the old veteran. "If he had a weakness, no one ever discovered it. He was almost a perfect catcher."

When it comes to pitchers he contends John Clarkson and Charley Radbourne were as good as Manky, Joe Wood or any of the other stars of that day. With all respect to his old teammates and the great stars of the generation ago, Gansel admits that the great "Ty" Cobb and Walter Johnson, king of the pitchers, probably stand in a class by themselves as the greatest players of all time.

Judge Parsons Makes Strong Plea for Reform in Court Procedure

Judge Charles F. Parsons of the fourth circuit court, in delivering a charge to the new grand jury in Hilo, criticized at some length the present judicial system. In no uncertain manner the jurist scolded the reversal of decisions on technicalities and the employment of petty subterfuges to defeat the ends of justice. The charge is full follows:

Gentlemen of the grand jury: Your roll-call is reminiscent of former times. With few exceptions your members have served, not once but many times and at least five of your number have acted as foremen of other grand juries. The proceedings of the grand jury room and the rules governing these proceedings are as well-known to you as they are to the prosecuting officer and the Court.

What is to be said to you today relates not so much to your powers and duties as grand jurors, as it does to certain legalized abuses which you, the trial jury, counsel and court may aid in remedying. I refer to abuses made possible by a system of technical procedure, which coddles criminals, which hampers inquiry into essential facts, which is dilatory, expensive, frequently productive of absurd results, and which is still retained despite the protests of litigants, press, public and judges who are its interpreters. The unsatisfactory working of the system has been shown in many instances but seldom more clearly, so far as examples in this circuit are concerned, than in two sets of cases which have occupied much of the time of the court and different juries for more than two months past. In the first instance, the defendant was a county officer charged with false certification, forgery and embezzlement; in the second there were two defendants charged with larceny in the first degree. After the commitment of the county officer the authority of the judge to act in any manner was tested in a proceeding before the supreme court. Then the grand jurors were challenged individually and collectively. Indictments were found in 17 cases. To these indictments pleas in abatement were interposed and demurrers were filed to the pleas in abatement, which were followed by demurrers to the indictments. In the false certification and forgery cases the demurrers were sustained and the defendant was discharged, without any legal possibility of inquiry before the jury then in session as to whether he had or had not committed the graver of the offenses charged. In the five embezzlement cases the demurrers were over-ruled and the defendant was required to plead. He plead not guilty, and his plea upon trial proved to be a technical one, for one of the defenses relied upon was that the proof showed that he had come wrongfully into possession of property which the indictment charged had been "entrusted" to his keeping. The defendant availing himself of his constitutional privilege, did not testify, from which fact under the law no inference of guilt could be drawn. No testimony was introduced contradicting the evidence of the prosecution. The trial lasted six days. Upon authority of a few cases apparently approved in a dictum of the supreme court of this territory, the jury was charged in effect that the alleged wrongful acquisition of the money by the defendant could not avail him in a criminal action for its subsequent misappropriation, if it appeared that he collected the same under pretense of being authorized so to do by the county. The jury was also given 20 instructions requested by the defendant. After several ballots the jury returned a verdict of guilty, which verdict was excepted to by the defendant as being contrary to the law, the evidence and the weight of the evidence. Exceptions were taken to adverse rulings during the trial, and the case is soon to be taken to the supreme court.

In a case so closely contested, extending over a period of six days, error is practically certain and reversible error is not improbable. If the latter is found the judgment will be subject to reversal without reference to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. The second set of cases referred to are known locally as the Hamakua Cattle Stealing cases. Two men, one of them a butcher who had stolen cattle many times before and who is now serving a sentence for two such offenses, and the other a plantation employee well acquainted with the derelictions of his associate, at dead of night took from the plantation pasture, without the knowledge or consent of the owner, a dairy cow and heifer, the property of the plantation, valued at $135.00. The animals were slaughtered. Their loss was discovered and their hides were found in the possession of the butcher and identified on the following day. These facts were proved and were undisputed in each case. The plantation employee said that he believed the cattle to be property of the butcher; the butcher said that he believed them to be the property of the employee. Each claimed to have been misled by the misrepresentations of the other. After two trials consuming four days each, after two days' trial and, and nine hours deliberation in the case against the butcher, the jury reported a disagreement and a mistrial was entered. The case was afterwards nolle prosequi. After the trial of the first case special venirees were required to produce qualified jurors. At different times there were in attendance from fourteen to forty-four veniremen, who were each paid $3.00 per diem. Their fees while in attendance upon these cases aggregated $1,006.00 and statutory witnesses' fees amounted to $311.80 more. Counting the value of the time of the Government officers engaged in different capacities in the trial of this case, the acquittal and discharge of these two defendants has cost public approximately $1,700.00 in the Circuit Court alone, to say nothing of the amount which it has cost the defendants.

While these cases are perhaps extreme illustrations of the excessive cost of criminal litigation, they are, in a measure, typical. Since the 1st day of July last there have been disposed of before juries in this Circuit sixteen criminal and one civil cases besides 134 cases without juries, including equity, probate, divorce and other Chambers cases. Of the $7,000 appropriated for Court expenses a balance of only about $1,400.00 remains to carry us through the fiscal period; a sum insufficient to pay for another year's experience like that of the Cattle Stealing jury waived, remain to be tried during that period.

Part of the blame for this state of affairs is unquestionably due to the jury system. Many of the jurors listed for this year have never served before; several were excused for statutory disqualifications; a few were men of experience, but against a large proportion of these latter peremptory challenges were exercised. The result was what might have been expected. The testimony of witnesses was not in all cases skillfully sifted and weighed. The specific issues of fact were too often lost sight of in the consideration of immaterial matters and legal rules apparently were not always applied to the facts found. The outlook, however, in this regard is not necessarily discouraging for former years have demonstrated that with repeated exposure untrained jurors may develop into experts. If this process is repeated and no substantial injustice results we can well afford to regard with complaisance the cost and the few unwarrantable acquittals which accompany it, in view of the educational effect which the experience shall have had upon so large a part of the public.

The principal cause of the condition complained of and others equally deplorable, is our archaic procedure. Devised originally to alleviate the barbarities of the law of England, adopted here where these barbarities have had no considerable place and retained long after its abandonment in the country of its origin, where the last reason for its existence has ceased to be. Some of the technicalities of our criminal and civil procedure have no counterpart in the laws of England or her Colonies, or in the laws of any country of Europe, but so firmly entrenched are they—certain of them being constitutional guaranty and others behind Statute and decision—that their dislodgment seems almost impossible. The task is one which is engaging the energies of some of the ablest men of the legal profession. The American Bar Association has taken up the work, as have also the Bar Associations of different States and these bodies have been ably assisted by the press, the magazines and College lectures. "The World's Work" is now publishing a series of articles by George W. Alger, entitled "Swift and Cheap Justice" and the lectures of Moorfield Story and Frederick N. Judson have recently been issued in book form by the Yale University Press under the titles "The Reform of Legal Procedure" and "The Judiciary and the People," respectively.

Among the reforms advocated are the following:
1. Simple indictments;
2. The right of the trial judge to charge upon the facts;
3. The right to comment upon the defendant's failure to testify in his own behalf;
4. Reversal upon appeal for errors affecting the merits only;
5. Final judgment in appellate court instead of order remanding for new trial;
6. Findings of fact instead of general verdicts by juries.

Each of the proposed reforms above enumerated, with special reference to the above-named authors' views, will be considered briefly without any attempt to deal at length with the obstacles, real or fancied, to the adoption of such proposed reforms.

1. Indictments
"To accomplish its purpose," says Mr. Storey, "criminal procedure should be simple, prompt and effective. The guilty should feel that the arm of the law is sure and strong. Today the law as administered throws around the criminal a protecting wall which may have been necessary when the power of the English crown pressed despotically upon the subject, but which is wholly unnecessary today. It is the community that now needs protection against the criminal, not the innocent man who must be saved from unjust prosecution. Today it is said with a certain bitter truth that the only man whose life is safe is he who has been convicted of murder."

"What are the difficulties?" The detection and arrest of the criminal are for the police, and with the difficulty which beset these the courts have little to do. We will assume that the accused has been caught and the evidence laid before the grand jury. The first step is to find an indictment, and to this the defendant is required to plead.
"Now the whole object of an indictment is to inform the court, the jury and the prisoner of what the charge against the prisoner is. As a rule no one knows so well as the accused exactly what he has done, and what the indictment means. There is no reason why the indictment should not state the charge in the simplest and most direct language, as for example, why an indictment for murder should not be in as few words as the following:

"The grand jurors charge that A on the 1st day of March at Boston in the county of Suffolk did commit murder by killing B."

"A form substantially like this is now used in England and her colonies, and there is no crime which can not be charged with equal brevity. Such an indictment informs the accused of exactly the charge against him, and accomplishes every purpose of an indictment. If it is insufficient and he wants further information in any case, he can be given the right to move for specifications, and in a proper case the court would grant them, or the prosecution should be allowed to amend, but whenever the jury is impelled all questions as to the nature of the charge should be regarded as finally settled.

"Under the practice which now prevails almost everywhere in this country, the indictment is used as a trap for the prosecution and a bulwark for the defense. The ingenuity of the state's attorney is taxed to the utmost in the effort to be sure that his indictment complies with every technicality, while the defendant's counsel exerts every faculty to find a flaw in his opponent's statement, so that instead of trying the guilt or innocence of the prisoner, the trial too frequently is reduced to a question as to the necessity of a few absurd words in an indictment. The so-called 'flaw in the indictment' is uniformly the resort of a convicted criminal. If the trial ends in an acquittal, either by order of the court or verdict of the jury, the prosecution can not appeal, since the defendant can not twice be placed in jeopardy. It is only after a trial in which all the evidence has been sifted and the question of guilt or innocence thoroughly argued, a trial in which the defendant has known exactly what he was charged with, and where the verdict has been so clearly right that either the defendant's counsel has not asked the trial court to set it aside, or the motion has been made and denied, that the appellate court is asked to reverse the judgment, not because the defendant is not guilty, and not because he has not been fairly tried, but because an indictment sufficient to inform everybody of the charge has or has not contained a few idle words. Too often, though no one has been prejudiced by the omission, the court lets the guilty rascal go, not because justice requires it, but for no better reason than to preserve a particular fashion of speech."

2. Instructions.
In England and other countries and in the federal courts it is the practice for judges to sum up the evidence

PACKARD MAN SAYS 'BARGAIN' TRUCKS NOT UP TO STANDARD

"The lines are being drawn more closely about the so-called 'bargain' truck," says C. R. Norton, truck sales manager of the Packard Motor Car Company. "By a 'bargain' truck I mean one sold at a price so reduced as to necessitate sacrificing an essential factor such as quality and ability of the truck, service to the customer or profit to the dealer. And no purchaser can possibly feel secure when the price does not provide for all of these requirements.

"Even granting that the 'bargain' truck might possess ability, still service and a legitimate profit for the manufacturer and dealer remain to be accounted for, because even the best truck must have service, and anyone remaining in business must have a profit. It is not reasonable to suppose, nor will anyone who thoroughly studies the subject admit, that all three characteristics can be obtained in the 'bargain' truck as well as in the maximum service truck.

"In one respect at least, the truck business is not any different from any other business; that is, you get what you pay for. When you enter the cut-price field, you have to stand yourself against the fictitious, abnormally high 'list price' on the one hand, and the 'bargain' truck on the other. In the first case the prices are listed at high figures with the avowed intention of being able to offer big discounts, and on the other hand, the plan is to make the price so attractive that you will buy, thinking you will get that for which you are not even asked to pay."

and to charge juries in regard to its weight and credibility. In Hawaii there is a statutory provision to the effect that the judge shall, in no case, comment upon the character, quality, strength, weakness or credibility of any evidence submitted or upon the character, attitude, appearance, motive or reliability of any witness sworn in the case. At the close of the evidence it is the custom, under statutory provision, for counsel to present to the judge requests for instructions which are passed upon, usually in the absence of the jury, and are then read to the jury as the instruction of the court. In some of the circuits of the territory it has not been the practice of the judges to give instructions other than those requested by counsel. The judge, by statute, is prohibited from making any oral comment upon or modification of the instructions requested. The result is unsatisfactory. The instructions of each party are frequently for the purpose of giving to its side of the case as favorable an appearance as possible. It must be apparent that a large number of instructions (there were fifty-three requested in a recent case) given to the jury on behalf of one party must create in the minds of untrained men a wrong impression as to the law in the case. The federal practice is being strongly endorsed in many of the states.

3. Comment Upon the Defendant's Failure To Testify.
The defendant in a criminal case is protected by constitution and statute from giving evidence which would tend to incriminate him, nor may any inference of guilt be drawn from his failure to take the stand in his own behalf.
Quoting again from Moorfield Storey: "The constitution provides that 'no person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself'. Originally the criminal could not testify at all, but statutes have given him this right, and have coupled it with the provision that if he elects not to take the stand no argument shall be made or inference drawn against him on account of his refusal.

"The practical absurdity of this provision is illustrated by the charge given by a very able judge in Massachusetts, who was asked to instruct the jury that no inference could be drawn from the fact that the defendant did not take the stand.
"Yes," he said, "gentlemen, that's the law and we are all bound to obey the law. If the legislature were to pass a law that when you walk down State street and see the shadow of the old state house thrown across the street, you are not to infer that the sun is shining, you'd be bound to obey it, gentlemen, and so you're bound to obey this law."

"Another judge of our state said with much truth, 'When the common law undertook to find a fact it began by excluding from the room all the persons who would be likely to have any knowledge of the subject', to wit, the parties to the suit and all persons interested in the question to be tried. The rule which I am discussing is a conspicuous example of this absurd principle. The accused of all men in the world knows better than any one else whether he is guilty or not, and if the object of the criminal law is to detect and punish the guilty, why should he not be asked to tell what he knows? If he incriminates himself, can there be better evidence of guilt? Why shouldn't he incriminate himself? Eye-witnesses may be mistaken, circumstantial evidence may be misused, but the testimony of the accused against himself can be relied upon in any but the most exceptional cases."

GOSSIP

GOV. L. E. PINKHAM was the guest of honor at a charmingly appointed dinner on Thursday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter at their home in Nuuanu Valley. The table was decorated with lovely long-stemmed violets from California, possessing a spring-time fragrance which our own modest blossoms seldom attain. Covers were laid for Governor Pinkham, Admiral and Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Mrs. Myers of New York, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mott-Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones' Dinner.
Few people have been so extensively feted on their return home as Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Jones, the shortness of whose visit necessarily crowds everything together in breath-taking haste. They themselves were hosts at a very beautiful dinner on Thursday night at the Country Club. The table was decorated with flame-colored lilacs caught with tulle bows of seafoam green. At each place were individual baskets of white petaled daisies with great yellow hearts. Between courses and after dinner the guests danced, trying the maxixe, castle walk and all the newest steps. Among those present were Judge and Mrs. Alexander Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Love, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lombard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis, Miss Bull, Miss Roe, Major and Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Arthur Smith and the host and hostess.

General and Mrs. Macomb's Dinner.
The Macombs are lavish entertainers and their affairs are always marked with a cordial hospitality combined with perfectness of detail which make them thoroughly delightful. On Monday of this week they had a dinner for General Clarence Edwards, General Macomb's successor, at their home on Beamania St. Their table was decorated with pink roses, a band of them encircling the edge. The candle shades were dainty pink silken affairs made to represent roses. Besides the guest of honor, General Edwards there were present Mr. and Mrs. George Carter, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder, Miss Marion Scott, Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Major H. Williams, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Case Deering.

Capt. and Mrs. Carpenter's Dinner.
General and Mrs. Montgomery Macomb were the complimentary guests at a very charming dinner given by Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter on Thursday evening at the Country Club. The table at which covers were laid for 20—was set on the lanai and decorated with red African daisies. An unusual but most attractive effect was gained with yellow-shaded sandalsticks and bows of yellow tulle.

Mrs. Brown's Luncheon.
A farewell luncheon for Mrs. James McCandless, who is leaving for the coast next week, was given yesterday by Mrs. C. A. Brown at the Country Club. The table was decorated in yellow and green. A graceful centerpiece of golden cornucopias was surrounded by individual baskets of maidenhair fern, each tied with knots of tulle and satin ribbon. To these were fastened tiny yellow lanterns bearing the names of the guests. After luncheon the afternoon was given over to bridge. Among those who enjoyed Mrs. Brown's hospitality were Mrs. McCandless, Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. E. Shepherd, Miss Dorothy Allen, Mrs. Charles Atherton, Miss Violet Atherton, Mrs. Maudie Phillips, Mrs. H. F. Wichman, Mrs. G. F. Bush, Mrs. Ormond Wall, Mrs. L. A. Thurston, Mrs. Willard Brown, Mrs. C. B. T. Moore and Mrs. A. Lackland.

Exodus of Social Favorites.
British Consul and Mrs. J. B. Rentiers will sail for the Philippines via the Orient on the Hongkong Maru on March 24. The Rentiers have been immense favorites among Honolulu's smartest set since their arrival a year ago. Mrs. Rentiers entertains lavishly and with that easy grace of hospitality which marks the perfect hostess. Their departure in the near future is being greatly deplored by all who know their worth of course that in what one expects of friends in the service, here today and gone tomorrow. Usually Honolulu survives these partings admirably—seasoned no doubt by long experience in the service world. Of late, however, so many of our genuine favorites have departed hence that society's customary sang froid and "I should worry" indifference have been seriously disturbed. The general exodus was started last month when the Funstons sailed. Then came the departure of the Timberlakes and the Marquarts who have been stationed in the islands long enough to be called kamaaina almost. The Rentiers sail in two weeks, followed in another fortnight by General and Mrs. M. M. Macomb. Small wonder that the social world is lamenting sorrowfully at the havoc thus created in its midst.

Mrs. McCandless' Luncheon
The Country Club was the scene of a very pretty luncheon on Thursday when Mrs. James McCandless entertained—this, by the way, being one of the last of her affairs for awhile, as she leaves on Tuesday for the mainland. Her table was very attractive with its dainty basket of sweet peas in the center and corsage pieces at each place of sweet peas and violets. Among her guests were Mrs. H. F. Wichman, Mrs. Frank Halstead, Mrs. A. Lackland, Mrs. C. Atherton, Mrs. A. Haneberg, Mrs. F. J. Lowrey, Mrs. C. A. Brown, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Wall, Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. E. Shepherd, Mrs. Tom Wall and Mrs. Maudie Phillips.

Morning Music Club Recital
A standing joke about the Morning Music Club—a dignified and otherwise much respected organization—is that it nearly always meets in the afternoon. This was the case on Wednesday, when it met at "Old Plantation," the home of Miss Lucy Ward, for its regular monthly recital. The meeting was an especially interesting one, the program consisting of original compositions by the members. All of these showed considerable talent and were really a revelation of what our Honolulu musicians can do. Following is the program given: instructed to dress it according to pictures in Vogue. The most smartly dressed doll would be given first honors. Miss Dredge proved to be the clever prize winner, with Miss Alice Hoogs second. The prizes were a lovely corsage bouquet of violets and sweet peas, and a daintily embroidered handkerchief.

Solo and Quartet from the light opera, "The Mail and the Martiner" of Edgar P. Newcomb—Soprano, Mrs. Charles L. Hall; quartet: Mrs. J. P. Erdman, Mrs. E. A. Mott-Smith, Mrs. C. S. Weight, Mrs. Howard.

Among those present were the Misses Beatrice Dredge, Rose Herbert, Mary von Holt, Pauline Schaefer, Ruth Soper, Eloise Wichman, Daphne Damon, Helen McLean, Margaret Center, Helen Rees, Margaret Whitney, Alice Hoogs, Marjory Gilman, Laura Atherton, Ramona Marx, Hazel Buckland and Dorothy Guild.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis' Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis were hosts at a very beautiful dinner on Monday evening at the Country Club, covers being laid for 20. A mauve and pink color scheme was used on the table with charming effect. Alternate baskets of pink roses and long-stemmed purple violets were linked together with misty rainbows of mauve and old rose tulle. Place cards and favors were in the same pastel tints.

Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane's Supper Dance.
Captain and Mrs. William Matson and Miss Lurline Matson were the incentives for an informal but delightful supper dance given on Monday at Pearl City. The affair was more or less impromptu—the guests motoring to the peninsula at twilight armed with a picnic supper and a quiet net. The evening was, of course, given over to dancing. Included among the guests were Captain and Mrs. Matson, Mr. and Mrs. Faxon Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mr. Paul Isenberk, Mrs. Helen Newman, Miss Juliette Matson, Wilhelmina Tenney, Violet McKee, Harriet Lucas, Marie Tyson, Jane Hotelling, Lady Macfarlane, Alice Macfarlane, Valentine, and Messrs. Stanley Kennedy, Alan Lowrey, George Fuller, Will Roth, W. Pfleger, Hobie Walker, Sam Walker and others.

Mrs. Stavton's Bridge.
Mrs. W. E. Ellis, wife of Colonel Ellis of Fort Ruger, was the occasion for a large and very attractive bridge tea given on Wednesday by Mrs. Norris Stavton at her quarters at Fort de Russel. Progressive auction was played, highest honors going to Mrs. Clarke of Schofield Barracks, with second to Mrs. A. P. Matthews, and third to Mrs. A. Davidson. Mrs. H. F. Nichols captured the consolation. The prizes were attractive pieces of Canton china. Invited to meet Mrs. Ellis were Mrs. John S. Johnston, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. F. W. Phisterer, Mrs. Phisterer, Sr., Mrs. George Hicks, Mrs. H. F. Nichols, Mrs. Frank Appin, Mrs. Francis Hinkle, Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. W. P. Ennis, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. R. J. Buckley, Miss Estelle Healy, Mrs. F. S. Besson, Miss Myrtle McDonald, Mrs. Herbert E. Ellis, Mrs. J. Austin, Mrs. Charles D. Winn, Mrs. L. H. McKinlay, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. George Tackabury, Miss Harriet Lucas, Miss Mary Lucas, Mrs. D. M. Appel, Mrs. Scovey, Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Warren Hannum, Mrs. Cleveland C. Gee, Mrs. J. Matheson, Miss E. Nisbitt, Mrs. W. R. Davis, Mrs. C. H. Brown, Mrs. C. Waller, Mrs. Bert Huntington, Mrs. Charles Baker, Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Mrs. F. M. Swamy, Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs. Arthur Davidson, Mrs. F. B. McStocker, Miss Julie McStocker, Mrs. A. P. Matthews, Mrs. Frederick Barker, Mrs. D. E. Case, Miss Betty Case, Mrs. Birch O'Mahaffey, Mrs. John Garden, Mrs. F. P. Reynolds and Mrs. John Mather.

Col. McGunnege's Dance.
A large and very beautiful dance was given by Col. George K. McGunnege on Tuesday evening at Haleiwa Hotel. The living rooms were thrown open for dancing—for the first time in many years they said—while the lanais were reserved for refreshment tables. The large room with the lily pond was decorated in red. Hundreds of large double hibiscus were banded on the tables and ledges and even around the edge of the pond. The lights were shaded with red paper, casting a soft, beautiful glow upon the room, palms were used profusely and in other rooms great bowls of white Shasta daisies. The 1st Infantry band furnished music for the occasion. The guest list included 200 or more of service folk, many motoring all the way out from Honolulu to attend.

Mrs. Green's Reception.
A very pretty reception was given on Thursday by Mrs. H. S. Green, wife of Lieut. Green of the Marine Corps, in honor of Mrs. J. T. Myers and Miss Katherine Green. The former is leaving very shortly for Mare Island where her husband, Major Myers, has been ordered. The latter is a sister of Lieut. Green and will be their house guest for several months.

Mrs. Jay D. Whitman, Mrs. W. C. Wise and Mrs. W. K. Naylor presided over the punch bowl. Later in the afternoon a buffet supper was served—a banquet being requisitioned—the remainder of the evening devoted to dancing.

Mrs. McCandless' Dinner.
A charming basket of pink and white ladyslippers with veiling fronds of maiden hair formed the centerpiece for Mr. and Mrs. John McCandless' dinner on Monday. Place cards and favors matched in hue. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ashford, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bockus and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Love's Musicale.
Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Jones of New York were the motifs for a very charming affair last Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Will Love entertained at a musicale at their home at Kahala. The occasion was marked with informal simplicity—which the wise ones will tell you is a bigger factor toward enjoyment than at the details in the world. The artistic bungalow overlooking the sea was trued with gay Japanese lanterns, both inside and out. There were bowls of flowers placed about and palms and ferns. Fifty or more guests assembled to meet Mr. and Mrs. Jones and to listen to the delightful musical program which followed. Mrs. Alexander Lindsay sang several numbers very charmingly. Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard played and sang, and Mr. Will Love rendered two selections on the violin. The most enjoyable numbers partly because of their entire unexpectedness, but mostly because of their artistic finish and grace were the two dances given by Mrs. Howard toward the end of the evening. They came unannounced. Mrs. Fred Waterhouse read the pretty tale of Hans Anderson's "Mermaid," who was given feet in place of her tail that she might be with her lover, the prince. Suddenly the lights were turned out and a spotlight thrown on the water. There, coming out of the surf, timidly and not without pain from her newly-acquired feet, was the mermaid—Mrs. Howard—an alluring nymph with flowing locks, clinging sea blue draperies and spangled scarf. She approached the lanai hesitatingly, uncertainly—then suddenly burst into the exhilarating music of the sea. The dance was wonderful—full of grace and poetry—holding the spectators spellbound with its fanciful beauty and charm. The little dancer revealed herself as an artist whose creative ability may fittingly be compared with Maude Allen, Isidore Duncan or Ruth St. Dennis. The second dance—the dance of the snake charmer—was a more grotesque thing, interpreting as it did, an Indian fakir, who, from long association with snakes, had absorbed their identity. Costumed in a long robe of purplish blue with a long, straggly wig of waxy black hair, the snake charmer danced, the writhing arms representing the serpents themselves. At the end there was a long, sibilant hiss, conveying the sinister attitude of the snake toward mankind—an artistic touch artistically executed. Color was added by the dull beating of the tom tom by Miss Hazel Kellogg, arrayed in the brilliant costume and turban of an Indian girl. Both interpretations were revelations to Honolulu folk, who little suspected that they had a danseuse of such talent and finish in their midst.

Honolulu's Prominent at Yale Junior Prom.
Social circles will be interested in the news of the Yale Junior Prom, which took place on February 3, and at which several Honoluluans were prominent. A special dispatch to the New York Herald from New Haven says:

"In a Japanese garden, the Yale Junior Promenade of 1914 was danced tonight and it was as brilliant an affair as any of the preceding proms. The decorations, Japanese from one end of the armory to the other, eclipsed those of previous years, but the attendance was not quite as large as some of the promenades of the past. An avenue of giant Japanese cherry trees in bloom extended along each side of the armory, the branches arching toward the center, where they supported vines of wisteria, also in luxurious bloom. Wisteria adorned the sides of the hall. Silk and lace curtains, chrysanthemum colored draperies and hand colored floral Japanese panels along the sides of the armory helped to make the effect a most pleasing one. Far in the distance at the left was seen Fujiyama, the sacred mountain of Japan, and at the right the mountain city of Nikko with a Torii standing in the foreground."

"Mr. Joseph Walker, 3d, of New York, and Miss Mary Alexander, also of New York, led the grand march, which started soon after nine o'clock. They were followed by Mr. Harold Pumpelly, Yale's well known drop kicker and baseball player with Anita Carrington, of New Haven. Mr. Walker was floor manager of the promenade and Mr. Pumpelly chairman of the committee. Following were the other members of the Prom Committee with their partners. There came more than 500 couples. Forty-six dances were in the program."

Mr. John Lyons, known in New Haven as the "tango policeman," was an interested spectator, and he was there in his official capacity as supervisor of dancing, but he saw nothing objectionable. The tango was danced a great deal. The hostesses were Virginia Phillips, Castle walk, with the usual number of cranes, all had their turn, and while nothing event bristled and one-ups showed on the program, the latest steps in dancing were executed.

"Owing to a faculty ruling there will be no dance next and following dances in the Taft hotel this year as there was a year ago. The following was the menu for supper:

Hot Bouillon.
Finger Rolls.
The Luncheon.
Chicken Patties.
Assorted Sandwiches.
Ice Cream.
Assorted Fancy Cakes.
Lemonade.
Coffee.
Anollina's.
Miss Doris R. Taylor of Honolulu came here for the dance, she is the guest of Mr. Alfred C. Young, a member of the junior class, who also is a resident of Honolulu. Miss Taylor has the distinction of having come the greatest distance to attend the promenade of any of the guests."

Miss McStocker's Informal Dance.
Miss Julie McStocker was a delightful hostess last evening when she entertained in honor of Miss Myrtle McDonald, the house guest of Capt. and Mrs. Norris Stavton, who is leaving on the Lurline Tuesday for her home in San Francisco. The evening was passed informally with dancing. Among the guests were Capt. and Mrs. Stavton, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lansing, Miss Myrtle McDonald, Miss Ethel McLain, Miss Sara Lucas, Miss Harriet Lucas, Miss Rose Herbert, Miss E. Nisbitt, Miss Florence Hoffman, Lieut. L. McD. Silvester, Dr. Leo Mudd, Dr. Harry Seiber, Lieut. N. Campanole, Lieut. Robert Guthrie, H. Reeseman, Mr. Charles Herbert and Mr. Harry Hoffman.

Dr. and Mrs. Adams' Poi Supper.
One of the largest and most beautiful affairs of the week was the poi supper given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Adams on Tuesday at the Outrigger Club. The decorations were very unique and called forth many admiring comments. The large lanai on the lawn was surrounded by palm branches and greenery, a canopy of the same being overhead. From this canopy were hung hundreds of electric lights concealed in dilly United Japanese lanterns. The tables were set along three sides of the room, the guests being seated only on the outside that they might see everything that took place. On these long tables were strewn ferns and flowers according to Hawaiian fashion while at each place were leis of maile and ilima. The place cards were hand-painted calabashes and native fruits. In addition there were mischievous little kiewpies with leis around their necks. At the fourth side of the room, was an outrigger canoe filled to overflowing with coconuts, pineapples and other Hawaiian fruits. Surrounding this, and caught to the various up-rights were whole coconut palms—diminished in height of course to fit into the low-ceiling room—with clusters of the nuts growing upon them. During the supper—which consisted of fish, poi, hot lanai and all the Hawaiian goodies for which Mrs. Palmer is famous—a quintet played, at intervals, Madame Puahi and a group of hula girls did different forms of the graceful Hawaiian dance. There was regular dancing, too, in which the guests joined both before and after supper. The moon was at its best that night, shining brilliantly down upon the dark waters of the lagoon and the restless waves that washed along the beach. Nature loaned her aid in making it a perfect affair. Noticed among the guests were Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Judge and Mrs. A. Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Swamy, Major and Mrs. W. Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Judge and Mrs. Will Whitney, Miss Beatrice Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. E. Tenney, Mrs. Hyde-Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. George Davies, Mr. and Mrs. George Potter, Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. George Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Col. W. C. Rafferty, Lieut. N. Campanole and others.

Among those who passed through on the Mongolia this week was Mrs. Lily Pauline Frost of Riverside, Cal., who will be remembered by many in Honolulu from her visit to the islands five years ago. On her return from the Orient, Mrs. Frost expects to remain in the islands several weeks before proceeding homeward.

Schofield Society
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, March 12.—On Sunday evening Colonel and Mrs. Kennen were hosts at a delightful buffet supper for about 85 officers and ladies of the post. Mrs. Rees, who has accompanied Colonel Rees here on a short inspection trip from San Francisco, was the guest of honor and the raison d'etre of the party.

On the same night, Captain and Mrs. Chitty also gave a buffet supper in Colonel McGunnege's honor. Other guests were Colonel and Mrs. Menoher, Major and Mrs. Harrison, Major and Mrs. Van Poole, Captain and Mrs. Fair, Captain and Mrs. Apple and Mrs. Holbrook, Mr. Wallace, Captain and Mrs. McAskey, Miss McDonald, Captain and Mrs. Bunker, Captain and Mrs. O'Shea and Miss Holcomb.

Tuesday there were a number of dinners given before Colonel McGunnege's beautiful dance at Haleiwa. Captain and Mrs. Apple entertained Major and Mrs. Van Poole, and Captain and Mrs. Parker, Captain and Mrs. Chitty were dinner hosts at the Haleiwa hotel for Lieutenant and Mrs. Milton, Lieutenant and Mrs. Lyler, Lieutenant and Mrs. Cullum, Lieutenant and Mrs. Cooke, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Kleffer. The same evening the Misses Dorothy and Gladys Peet gave an attractive dinner at the Moana for Colonel and Mrs. Sturgis, Lieutenant and Mrs. Cheney, Captain Williams and Lieutenant Reeser.

The garrison of Schofield Barracks was invited to Colonel McGunnege's dinner at Haleiwa and almost all accepted and enjoyed greatly the beautiful evening drive, the attractive hotel, the excellent music of the 1st Infantry band and the most of all, Colonel McGunnege's gracious and charming hospitality.

Friday, the two infantry regiments of Schofield—the 1st and 25th—gave a large hop and reception in honor of General Edwards, the new brigade commander. A number of dinners occurred before the hop, the parties later attending in body. Miss Hortense Short entertained for the Misses Alexander, Case, Winans, Lieut. Campanole and Haridge of Shafter, Mr. Clark of Honolulu, and Lieut. Enyart, Huntley and Schofield field.

Thursday evening the special vaudeville production composed of selections from "The Mayor of Tokio," was given in the cavalry amusement hall by a number of the principal members of the cast. Those who did not see the original production in town were made the more regretful through enjoyment of the attractive sketches they were given here.

The duets between Mrs. Crane and Mr. Anderson and Miss Jones and Mr. Warren were particularly enjoyed, while Mr. Warren's monologue almost literally "brought down the house." Mrs. Hayward's attractive songs and dancing, with her unusually pretty chorus as background, made one wish that were the beginning of the evening instead of the grand finale.

Lieut. and Mrs. Neal entertained in honor of the Misses Wilson, Bull and Sherman by giving a riding party up Kolekole pass, for a sunset picnic. Later the party returned to the post to Capt. Hopkins, where Miss Wilson and Lieut. Samuelson, who are accomplished violinists, delighted their hearers, and finished a very pleasant evening. The party comprised the Misses Wilson, Bull and Sherman, the Misses Langry, Winans, Short and Hopkins and Lieuts. Daly, Richards, Lyerly, Rousseau, Deshon, Goetz, Robertson, Samuelson, Owens, Richards, Dorman and Capt. Williams.

Miss Katherine Winans was hostess at an unusually pretty dinner on Monday, given in honor of Miss Angus. Mrs. Cruikshank's niece. The guests were seated at small tables and included Miss Helen Alexander of Honolulu, Miss Betty Case, Miss Lila McDonald, Miss Ruth Harrison, Miss Gertrude Hopkins, Miss Hortense Short, the Misses Gladys and Dorothy Peet, Lieutenant and Mrs. Taylor, Lieutenant and Mrs. Nalle, and Lieutenants Watrous, Hineman, Maxwell, Carr, McCulloch, Falser, Richards and Huntley, and Mr. Clark of Honolulu.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Hall gave one of the prettiest auction parties that has ever been given at Schofield, entertaining about fifty ladies of the garrison. Mrs. Allen, guest of Mrs. Bailey, won first prize, a handsome brass jardiniere. Mrs. Gardiner won the second, a large Canton china platter, and Mrs. Jordan was given the consolation, a mayonnaise bowl of Cantonware.

Col. and Mrs. Kennen will entertain in honor of General Edwards.

BOULET

Less Majestic.
This is idle gossip of the worst and we warn the reader who disapproves of such things to skip on to the next article without perusing these lines.

Now that Lent is really with us and society is eschewing dances and other such frivolities, our Lady Fair is seeking quieter pastimes—catching up back sleep at night, going in for tennis, golf and informal teas by day. Of course it is at these affairs—demure Lenten parties—that one hears the truly spicy bits about the higher-ups, gossip of the smart set and of those not so smart as well, secrets that every one knows, croaks from the family skeleton—all the absorbing ins and outs of this mundane sphere with varied forecasts for another. Echoes of this have reached our ears with the clatter of tea cups and tinkle of ice in the glass. Some of it—as told at a recent thimble tea—we repeat, not without trepidation. One must take it or leave it as one sees fit—we do not claim that it is authentic.

They said many things—these drinkers of Colong—concocting a certain society woman of resolute character who allows nothing to interfere with the success and pleasure of herself and daughter. They went so far as to say that when daughter was lacking in swains to escort her to functions of any kind, mother telephoned the various young men of town and demanded the reason why, insisting their company at the occasion. They said that an attractive young tourist now visiting in Honolulu on a matrimony bent, and, having looked the field over, carefully, has decided to concentrate on a blonde young man of supposedly lengthy bank account. They said that on a recent engagement being announced, there was one fair maid in town taken completely by surprise—having had every reason to expect possession of that particular solitude herself. They said that a certain service lady who left many months ago kept up her rather extensive wardrobe on her bridge winnings—but that she was not the only one to accomplish this, by a dozen or more. That the engagement of a prominent young couple will shortly be announced, he having at last proposed after long hesitation. That a well known young lady of histrionic ability will not donate her services to any cause without composition. That at a recent dance the guests insisted on remaining for breakfast, though the hosts would fain have retired. That a certain fair lecturer was indignant and greatly pained at not having been entertained by the ladies of the smart set, deeming it due her in consideration of various letters of introduction. They said a great deal more, of course, with specific details, but this perhaps is all that it is wise to repeat.

Birthday Surprise Party.
A very charming affair took place on Saturday evening last at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Carey, the occasion being the doctor's birthday. Mrs. Carey had planned a surprise in his honor which was successfully carried out. On returning home in the evening, he found the house in darkness; suddenly the lights were turned on and the doctor was greeted by music, laughter and the congratulations of many friends.

The broad lanai, decorated with bowls of purple asters and ferns, was used for impromptu dancing to the strains of a Hawaiian orchestra. The dining room was a bower of greenery, baskets of maiden hair ferns banked the buffet and sideboard while fragrant red roses and red-shaded candles lent a touch of color.

A color scheme of green, pink and red was carried out in the reception room. The piano was banked with ferns while huge bowls of red roses and pink asters were placed here and there throughout the room.

During the evening, Mrs. Charles Crane sang and Mrs. G. Schrader gave several piano selections. Refreshments were served on the shaded front lanai.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crane, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Schrader, Mr. and Mrs. A. Richley, Mr. and Mrs. A. Blom, Mrs. Charles Raven, Mrs. J. Duggan, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Heine, Miss Harris, Miss Claire Berry, Miss Psyche Berry, Miss Alvina Blom, Miss Anna Farrell, Dr. J. H. Farrell, Mr. George Arnold and Mr. C. McEachern.

Engagement Announced.
Those who remember the fair Enid Gregg who visited at Fort Shafter will be interested in the following announcement of her engagement taken from the San Francisco Examiner of March 7:

"Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Gregg Jr. yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter Enid to Stuart Haldorn, formerly of Butte and now of this city. No date for the wedding has yet been set.

Miss Enid Gregg, San Francisco society girl and well known in Honolulu. Her engagement has been announced.

and attracting unusual attention in Paris by her striking type of beauty and her cleverness as a dancer and as a singer of amateur productions, in which she was wont to participate for society's amusement.

"Her suitors have come from all parts of the world, but found little comfort for their hopes of capturing her heart. Frequently Miss Gregg's name has been mentioned in connection with rumored engagements, but nothing came of them.

"Stuart Haldorn's advent in San Francisco society was followed less than two years ago by his noticed infatuation and the almost simultaneously displayed disposition on the part of Miss Gregg to accept his suit. For months at all the principal social assemblies and festivities Stuart Haldorn has been Miss Gregg's constant escort. Reports had them engaged several months ago, but Haldorn and his future fiancée, while not openly denying them, tactfully endeavored to disabuse the minds of their friends that a betrothal was contemplated.

"Stuart Haldorn is the son of Mrs. James A. Murray, whose husband is one of the wealthiest mining and realty operators on the coast. The Murrays reside at the hacienda overlooking Monterey bay, which was built by Hugh Tevis for his bride, shortly before his death."

College Club Meeting.
About a hundred and twenty-five ladies assembled at the Pleasanton on Tuesday to attend the open meeting of the College Club and listen to the delightful musical program provided for the occasion. Mrs. Hicks' Bridge.
Mrs. W. E. Ellis, wife of Col. Ellis who recently arrived in Honolulu to take the place of Major E. J. Timberlake, was the complimented guest at a very attractive bridge given by Mrs. George Hicks of Fort Ruger at the Country Club on Thursday. The prizes were bizarre Japanese baskets filled with white Shasta daisies, won after the afternoon's competition by Mrs. Ellis herself and Mrs. Sarah Newcomb, Mrs. D. M. Appel and Miss Myrtle McDonald. Dainty refresh-

King's Daughters' Benefit Concert.

Announcement has been made that Mrs. A. B. Ingalls, the talented Honolulu violinist, will give a concert at some date shortly after Easter for the benefit of the King's Daughters' home. The date is to be announced later. Mrs. Ingalls will be assisted by Mrs. Robbins Anderson and Mr. Paul Isenberg, vocalists, and the Woman's Stringed Quartet, with Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard at the piano. The concert will be given at the Opera House and as those volunteering for the program are all favorably known in musical circles, a large attendance and a considerable realization for the worthy cause may be confidently expected.

Capt. and Mrs. George S. Gibbs of Fort Shafter are entertaining this evening at bridge in honor of Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick E. Black, who have recently joined the post.

Mrs. Wichman's Bridge.
A large and very delightful bridge party was given on Wednesday by Mrs. H. F. Wichman in honor of Mrs. J. B. Rentiers who leaves in a few weeks for the Philippines. The attractive Wichman residence on Victoria street was further enhanced with large baskets of ferns, bowls of pale pink carnations and exquisite flowers of all kinds. The prizes were boxes of dainty stationery and were won after an afternoon of gay competition by Mrs. Frank Halstead, Mrs. Robert Lange, Mrs. A. Lackland, Mrs. A. Hocking, Mrs. W. C. Hobdy, Mrs. Irwin Shepherd, Mrs. M. E. Grossman, Mrs. H. Lombard, Mrs. Faxon Bishop and Mrs. Z. K. Myers. Tea was served at 5 o'clock, after which many resumed their playing. Mrs. Waterman's Bridge Luncheon.
The Country Club was the scene of a very charming affair on Monday when Mrs. Emil Waterman entertained at a bridge luncheon for the members of an auction club to which she belongs. The table was decorated with huge shaggy chrysanthemums of golden hue with favors of a similar color. The place cards were little hand-painted scenes of Dai Nippon. After luncheon the time was given over to bridge, prizes eventually being awarded to Mrs. W. H. Babbitt, Mrs. W. Stanley and Mrs. Robert Lange. These received sets of hand-painted place cards as trophies. Mrs. Waterman's guests were Mrs. H. F. Wichman, Mrs. J. P. Rentiers, Mrs. A. Hocking, Mrs. W. Stanley, Mrs. W. H. Babbitt, Mrs. A. Honoluluans who have met Mrs. George Marsily, who is visiting in the islands as the guest of Mrs. William Stodart of Beckwith street, will be interested in hearing of honors recently bestowed upon her husband. Clipping from the San Francisco Chronicle gives the following account:

"George J. G. Marsily, who for many years past has filled the functions of consul for the Netherlands in this city and who resigned a couple of months ago, has been honored by Albert, king of the Belgians, with the appointment of Knight of the Crown of Belgium, and by Marie Adelaide, reigning grand duchess of the grand duchy of Luxembourg, with that of Officer of the Order of the Crown of Oak.

He latter is one of the oldest orders of knighthood in Europe and much coveted. Marsily received these two distinctions during the past week, and is also Knight of the Order of Orange-Nassau, bestowed upon him some years ago by Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands for special services rendered, and is consequently the possessor of two royal distinctions bestowed upon him by the only two reigning woman sovereigns of Europe—Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide of Luxembourg.

JUDGE PARSONS MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR LEGAL REFORMS

One can imagine circumstances in which the accused may say what he does not mean, or may criminate himself unjustly. True, and we can cite cases of mistaken identity, cases where innocent men have been convicted upon circumstantial evidence, may even cases where the defendant's own confessions have proved false, but we do not on that account exclude the evidence of eye-witnesses, the admissions of the accused, or circumstantial evidence. Nothing human is perfect, no testimony is infallible, but of all evidence which tends to establish the defendant's guilt, his own is least likely to be unreliable. He may, and in most cases does lie to save himself, but never if he knows it to accuse himself.

"This rule in question, originally adopted to save the subject from the tyrannical power of the crown when men were persecuted for religious opinions, for political offenses, for writing or speaking the truth, is preserved, though the reason for it has long disappeared. The danger now is, not that innocent men will be convicted, but that guilty men shall go unwhipped of justice."

4. 5 and 6. Reversal Upon Verdict, Final Judgment in Appellate Court, and Findings of Fact:

These three subjects will be considered together. They are embraced in a bill drafted by the American Bar Association and now before Congress. The bill relates to practice in the federal courts and provides as follows: "No judgment shall be set aside, or reversed, or new trial granted, by any court of the United States in any case, civil or criminal, on the ground of misdirection of the jury or the improper admission or rejection of evidence, or for error as to any matter of pleading or procedure, unless, in the opinion of the court to which application is made, after an examination of the entire case, it shall appear that the error complained of has injuriously affected the substantial rights of the parties. The trial judge may in any case submit to the jury the issues of fact arising upon the pleadings, reserving any question of law arising in the case for subsequent argument and decision, and he and any court to which the case shall thereafter be taken on writ of error shall have the power to direct judgment to be entered either upon the verdict or upon the point reserved, if conclusive, as its judgment upon such point reserved may require."

Through the efforts of the State Bar Association similar laws have been enacted in the New England states, in New York, in New Jersey, Ohio, Wisconsin, Kansas, Oregon, and, by constitutional amendment, in California. The U. S. supreme court has shown itself to be in sympathy with this reform by its recently adopted equity rules. "This amendment to the law by statute, constitutional amendment and rule," says Mr. Alger, in the January number of The World's Work, "indicated above, does not fairly express the full measure of this particular reform. Influenced by public opinion, the courts in other states in which no such legislative reform has taken place today are disregarding technical errors which they would have found serious 10 years ago. Indeed, there is no real need for these statutes amending the law, except, as the Chinese say, 'to save the face' of the courts. The trouble from which these statutes give them an excuse for escaping was one of their own devising. It is more dignified, however, for the courts to declare in the states in which these statutes have now been enacted that they are complying with a new statute than to say frankly that they had heretofore done wrong in magnifying the importance of technicalities by which they had created a vast number of precedents. Equity Rules. "This amendment to the law to mend their ways and do right."

Quoting from the same author in the February number of The World's Work: "A new note is being sounded. A few judicial utterances which sound that new note may not be inappropriate. Take, for example, a recent case in the supreme court of Wisconsin, in which, after overruling a number of its own decisions and refusing to follow the United States supreme court, it held that a defendant who remained silent waived his right to arraignment and plea. The fact that the record on appeal did not disclose that he had been arraigned and asked to plead guilty or not guilty, the court declared, did not affect his substantial rights. The court says: 'Surely the defendant should have every one of his constitutional rights and privileges, but should he be permitted to juggle with them? Should he be silent when he ought to ask for some minor right which the court would at once give him, and then when he has had his trial and the issue has gone against him, should he be heard to say there was error because he was not given his right? Should he be allowed to play his game with loaded dice? Should justice travel with leaden heel because the defendant had stored up some technical error not affecting the merits, and thus secure a new trial because, forsooth, he has waived nothing? We think not.'"

"Perhaps it is due to discouraging decisions like these that the percentage of appeals in criminal cases is far smaller in Wisconsin in proportion to the number of convictions than it is in Iowa. At least this is the reasoning of the attorney-general of Iowa.

would have found serious 10 years ago. In a decision rendered in 1909, its supreme court declared, in refusing to grant a new trial for a defect that was found in an indictment: "This court proposes to give to the people of this state a just and harmonious system of criminal jurisprudence, founded on justice and supported by reason, free from the mysticism of arbitrary technicalities. This standard will control our decisions, it matters not what or how many other appellate courts may have decided to the contrary."

In regard to Special Verdicts

Section 1802 of our revised laws provides that in civil cases, except in instances named, "the court, by the consent of parties, instead of directing the jury to give a general verdict, may direct the jury to answer any questions of fact stated to them by the court for that purpose, and in such case the jury shall answer such questions and shall not give any verdict, and on the finding of the jury on the questions which they answered, the court shall enter the verdict, and the verdict so entered shall be as effectual and shall be open to the same objections and modes of attack (if moved against) as if the same had been the verdict of the jury."

This provision, admirable so far as it goes, has not been invoked in recent years, if indeed, it has ever been invoked in this circuit and beyond doubt the reason for its neglect is that it is only available "by consent of the parties." The right to render a general verdict frequently obscures the real issues and gives play to prejudices which should have no part in the deliberations of the jury room. Again quoting Mr. Storey: "The way to avoid the influence of these prejudices is to make the jury decide the real issues involved. When the jury is required to answer direct questions, they are forced to consider the real issues of facts, and the verdict settles the facts once for all. The court can then order a verdict one way or the other, and let the appellate court, if it does not confirm the ruling, order such a judgment upon the findings as the law requires. The province of the jury is to find facts and assess damages, and to this province they should be limited. If the jury were regularly asked in accident cases such questions, as: 'Was the defendant negligent?' 'If so, in what did the negligence consist?' or if the claim is that the plaintiff did not exercise due care by omitting some precaution or doing some careless thing, the judge were to submit the question whether he did do the thing or omit the precaution suggested, the jury would in fact deal with the questions, which, in theory, they must decide in order to reach a verdict, but which, in practice, may or may not receive their attention. Were this system adopted the parties would not be compelled to try questions of fact again, because the judge at the trial, armed with his views of liability upon these facts. One trial would suffice to establish the facts, and a verdict upon them could only be set aside for flagrant errors in omitting or excluding evidence which bore upon these issues."

"In dealing with questions of evidence, the Appellate Court should be given liberal discretion to sustain the verdict where it is reasonably apparent that the admitted or excluded evidence ought not to have changed the jury's conclusions, or that the judgment of the court below was in itself just. Remembering that the trial judge may always set aside an improper verdict, and that the case rarely reaches the appellate court until the power has been invoked, the slight chance of injustice arising from an error in dealing with evidence committed both by the trial judge and the appellate court is infinitesimal as compared with the injustice done by the present practice, and the delay and expense to which not only the parties but all litigants in the same court are put to by repeated new trials."

No better summing up of the situation can be found than in the words of Professor Judson, found in a copy of his work on a page to which the volume readily opens. "The situation in this country in our judicial procedure is the more intolerable, and indeed indefensible, when we consider that it is now recognized by the students of historical jurisprudence that extreme technicality is a sign of an undeveloped system of law, in which legal rights are subordinate to the procedure to enforce them, when the substance is secondary to the form. Centuries ago the main business of the courts was in ascertaining rules that litigants should follow, and this extreme technicality and formalism in the early days of society was a step, but only the first step, towards a rational system for determining controversies. It is better than private war. That is the determination by chance and wager of battle was an advance upon that primitive state where men took the law into their own hands. We now recognize that the demand for simplicity in procedure does not spring from ignorant reformers and radical iconoclasts, but is a progressive step in the rational advance of a progressive jurisprudence. Forms were regarded with superstitious reverence in the early stages of society, but we now recognize that the simpler the procedure the better it serves its purposes. It does not mean that accuracy and precision of statement in judicial procedure shall be any less important than they are now, or that a clear and concise statement of facts in issue will not always be effective. Substance and not form, however, must be of the first importance. It does not mean that we shall substitute haste and want of consideration for deliberation and judgment; but it does mean that our judicial machinery must be so modeled that justice can be literally brought home to the people, and that busy men can afford to litigate the complicated question arising in our complex industrial life."

In Hawaii the hope of a remedy for at least a portion of the evils com-

POLYGAMY FOUNDER

ALLEGED WHITE SLAYER
SEATTLE, Wash.—Rev. Bart Dahlstrom, founder of the religious sect known as "Heiligs," which believes in and preaches polygamy, was convicted here yesterday in violation of the Mann white slave act in transporting Miss Edna Englund of Tacoma from Fresno, Cal., to the state of Washington. It was developed at the trial that Reverend Dahlstrom lived in his home with three women, two of whom were Miss Englund and her sister and the other a woman who claims she was actually married to the preacher. Reverend Dahlstrom, who is said to come originally from North Dakota, was arrested on complaint of Miss Englund, who claimed that she entered Dahlstrom's home on his promise that he would marry her. Miss Englund lived in the home with the other two women some time and with the knowledge of the relationship of Dahlstrom to her sister as well as the other woman.

MEXICAN SOLDIERS MUTINY

CITY OF MEXICO.—Gen. Florencio Alariste, commanding an army of a thousand men at Jexulla, in the state of Morelos, was killed yesterday by his own men, who mutinied under the leadership of four lieutenants.

Other higher officers of the command who made their escape hurried to neighboring villages, organized a punitive expedition, returned to Jexulla and whipped the mutineers. The rout was complete and the majority of the mutineers who surrendered into the hands of the hurriedly organized reprisal army were executed.

plained of lies in prospective legislation, in a genuine attempt on the part of trial courts to reach the merits of cases before them as best they may under whatever procedure the law provides. It lies in the assistance of counsel in presenting to juries only such matters as the jurors have a legal right to consider and in abstaining from pleadings intended for delay and objections, which do not go to the merits of cases. It lies in the training of juries to disregard immaterial matters and to understand that a proper verdict, whether general or special, means in the end the answering of certain specific questions of fact presented by the evidence and stated by the court, and above all else, it lies in an appellate procedure, either provided by statute or adopted without legislative enactment which, to paraphrase Mr. Wigmore, makes an appellate hearing a search for justice rather than a quest for error.

BUSINESS GOOD IN STOCK MARKET DESPITE THE LOW PRICE OF SUGAR

Several Declines Noted, Most of Which, However, Are Merely Fractional

The past period has witnessed the price of sugar go down to almost a record low-point. Quoted at 3.01 Tuesday, it fell to 2.95 Wednesday and remained there for the balance of the six-day period closing Friday. Despite this fall, however, dealing was fairly good in stocks, the proceeds from the sales being only slightly less than in the period before. For the six-day period closing Friday the stock proceeds were $17,198,724, 1568 shares being sold. In the former period the proceeds were $20,395,493, and the shares sold, 1190.

This, with the fall in sugar taken into consideration, is considered as a fair showing. There were several declines in the stocks, but most of them were fractional. The dealing was divided among 33 different stocks, Olan being the heaviest seller, 885 shares changing hands. It stayed at 1 throughout the period. Mutual Telephone was next, 174 shares going, all at 16.75. It closed in the former period at that price. Hilo Com. was next, 105 shares selling, all at 3, a quarter point loss over its closing sale price in the period before. Pines stayed at 36, 89 shares were bought. Seventy-five shares of Oahu Sugar changed hands, the first 15 shares at 14.62 1/2, the next 44 at 13, and the final sale was made at 11. Ewa lost a quarter point, the first ten shares of 45 dealt in going at 15.25, the balance at 15. Brewery gained. The first 15 sold went at 19.12 1/2, the next and last sale, of 5 shares, went at 19.50.

There was one deal in Honolulu, and no new price developed. Twenty-five shares were sold, all at 2.50. Fifty shares of Waiwala sold at 85, an unchanged figure. Of Kahuku 35 shares changed hands, all at 13.50. At its former sale it went at 14. Waiwala remained at 55. Fifteen shares were bought. There was a fractional loss in Hawaiian Commercial; of the 35 shares dealt in the first 15 sold at 22.50, the balance at 22.37 1/2. Haku dropped to 80. Five shares were sold. At the sale made before this it had risen suddenly to 100.50. The decline was as sharp as the gain.

A number of bills on which there is still a question, is preventing the officers of the Mid-Pacific Carnival, Ltd. from closing its books and making a full statement of its management of the last carnival, held in February. S. M. Lowrey, the treasurer, stated today that the corporation proposes to close its books to any new accounts on the first of next week, and that if there are any claims still outstanding that the company does not know about, they will have to be presented at once, or it will be necessary to have them turned over to the next year's committee, which will make it uncertain when they can be paid.

The company will hold its annual meeting some time in April, at which time a full report of the year's work will be made, and the management for next year's big event elected.

COMMERCIAL ITEMS

The Rapid Transit & Land Company is expected to expend a large sum of money before the year is out in improving the system. Some double tracking may be done. It is estimated that $300,000 will be spent in improvements by the company.

Rhubarb may be worth while growing on a moderate scale in Hawaii according to the territorial marketing division, which has found a ready market for several shipments which have recently been made to it. A price of 5 or 6 cents per pound has been secured for it.

There will be a smaller rice crop than usual this year, according to statements now being made by Chinese growers. For some years, almost from the date of the exclusion act the crop has been on the decline. The grain is better than it was in the years before, but much less land is under cultivation.

Work has been suspended temporarily on the north tunnel of the Waiwala Water Company. The reason for the suspension is the enormous flow of water which has been encountered, and until this is disposed of so that it will not interfere with the work, operations will not be continued. It is stated that the flow amounts on some days to 25,000 gallons.

CHESTER J. HUNN TELLS OF RAPID GROWTH OF PINEAPPLE INDUSTRY

Is Leading Horticultural Product of Hawaiian Islands, Declares Horticulturist

The surprisingly rapid growth of the Hawaiian Pineapple industry is well shown in a paper which was prepared by Chester J. Hunn, assistant horticulturist of the U. S. experiment station, for the annual meeting of the American Pomological Society, held in New York some weeks ago. Mr. Hunn's paper follows: While the production of sugar is the principal agricultural industry of Hawaii, the pineapple has assumed the position of the leading horticultural product of these islands. On such a basis, I deem the production of pineapples of sufficient importance to warrant devoting the complete report of the Hawaii sub-committee to this one subject.

A resume of the customs' reports for the past three fiscal years, ending with the month of June, shows the following valuation of pineapple and pineapple products exported to the United States:

1911—Fresh fruit, $40,411; canned fruit, $2,020,800; juice, $224,131; total, $2,285,342. 1912—Fresh fruit, $50,316; canned fruit, $2,567,364; juice, $128,362; total, $2,746,042.

The enormous strides made in the development of the pineapple industry is worthy of notice. The exportation of pineapples was begun about 1901. The number of cases leaving Hawaii for the ensuing years was as follows:

Year	Cases
1901	2,000
1902	6,000
1903	9,800
1904	25,500
1905	51,200
1906	84,300
1907	186,700

Ground was broken this week for the new cannery of Libby, McNeill & Libby, which will be located at Kailua. The work of erecting the cannery is being rushed with all speed, the desire being to get it done as soon as possible to give plenty of time to prepare for the summer pack. Temporary buildings will be put up that canning may begin within a week or two.

1911—Sugar, $56,704,656; bananas, $99,917. 1912—Sugar, $49,961,509; bananas, $122,754. 1913—Sugar, $36,607,820; bananas, $150,907.

The total valuation of the sugar exported as unrefined, refined and molasses, and bananas, the second leading fruit product of these islands, for the same period of years is as follows:

1911—Sugar, $56,704,656; bananas, $99,917. 1912—Sugar, $49,961,509; bananas, $122,754. 1913—Sugar, $36,607,820; bananas, $150,907.

Total value of fruits and fruit products, 1911, $2,356,448; 1912, $2,880,617; 1913, $3,858,060. Percentage of pineapples, 1911, 95.3 per cent; 1912, 95.6 per cent; 1913, 96.9 per cent.

The number of cases leaving Hawaii for the ensuing years was as follows:

Year	Cases
1901	2,000
1902	6,000
1903	9,800
1904	25,500
1905	51,200
1906	84,300
1907	186,700

The canners have reduced the number of gallon tins of pineapples per case from 12 to 6 tins each, during the past two years. The number of cases exported for the years 1912 and 1913 is slightly greater than if figured on the previous basis. Taking the exportation of 1913 as 100 per cent, the exportation of cases of pineapples shows a growth of from 1 per cent to 100 per cent in 11 years. This does not include shipments of fresh fruit or of pineapple juice.

This rapid growth has, in part, been made possible by the extensive advertising campaign conducted by the Hawaiian Pineapple Packers' Association. Last year, this association expended $36,000 as an organization and reached a maximum in 1909 with the sum of $85,000. The general aim of this campaign is to educate the housewife throughout the United States and Europe so that the pineapple will not be considered a luxury but one of the staples as are canned peaches and other fruits. The propagation and culture of the pineapple has been treated at length in various publications and at this time it will be sufficient to state that it takes from 18 months to two years to mature a crop of pineapples. The Hawaiian Pineapple Packers' Association, composed of nine corporations, will have 6291 1/2 acres in bearing in 1914. They are planting 2367 additional acres this year. This does not include the independent planters and homesteaders who will have approximately 6000 acres in pineapples by the end of this present year. Under Hawaiian conditions, the first plant crop will produce on the average 12 tons of fresh fruit per acre. On virgin soil, a yield of 17 or 18 tons is not excessive. The first ratoon crop will produce up to 12 tons per acre and the second ratoon from two to eight tons per acre. Ten tons per acre is considered a good average for all the land actually bearing pineapples.

The improvements in the methods of canning pineapples and the machinery used for that purpose, are very marked and since there is but little general information available on such subjects, I am taking the liberty of describing the operation of a Hawaiian cannery. The pines are received from the fields in boxes and landed on the railroad platform. Here the crown of leaves is removed and the fruit is separated into sizes, each size being adaptable to a special sized machine. The fruit is conveyed on trucks to the peeling machines. The individual pines are placed on a linked conveyor which carries the fruit to a hopper directly over the peeling knives. Here a side arm forces the pine against four knives which split the rind into four sections, to the depth to which the pine is to be peeled. The pine is at the same time forced against a circular brass cutter, the peeled portion passing through this cutter into a hopper. The peelings, which are quite thick because of the deeply embedded eyes of the pineapple, are passed over a series of small sharp knives which remove the surplus flesh. This pulp is canned as crushed, shredded or grated pineapple. The remaining peelings pass on to the juice extractor presses.

Returning to the cylindrical-shaped peeled fruit, one sees them drop one by one into a set of revolving cylinders. Each fruit is firmly held so that a revolving knife removes the base peeling of the fruit; a second knife removes the top and finally a central punch coring machine removes the cores. These cores are conveyed to a series of knives which cut them into sections, which are preserved and marketed to the glace fruit manufacturers.

The peeled and cored fruit is conveyed to tables where laborers, wearing rubber gloves to prevent their hands from being eaten by the acid in the pineapple juice, remove the few eyes which penetrate deeper than the peeler will cut. The fruit then passes on to another hopper from which it drops into a curved cradle on a plane with, and is pushed through a series of knives which cut the fruit into slices. These slices drop on a conveyor from which the laborers grade and fill the cans.

A slatted carrier which holds a dozen cans of fruit is placed under a series of spouts and each can is filled to the top with cane juice syrup. The filled cans are then run through a steam exhaust chest where the liquid is heated to 160 or 180 degrees Fahr. This drives out all the air in the can which is immediately capped by a machine by a pressure process which avoids the use of solder. The capped cans were formerly cooked for 35 minutes in vats of boiling water but by keeping the cans in motion by a linked conveyor in a live steam chest, the time of cooking has been reduced to 10 minutes. When cool, the can assumes a dented condition which is desired by the canners since it denotes a vacuum and careful preservation.

The cans of pineapples are stacked away in the storage room. When ready for packing, the cans are run through a vat of lacquer and distillate to prevent rusting in transit. The cans are then labelled by machine or by hand, packed and shipped.

There are several interesting by-products of the waste pineapple. The juice is all saved and treated by a secret process and it is later marketed as pineapple juice. Some attempt has been made to convert the surplus juice into vinegar and alcohol. As yet these processes are not complete successes. A chemist has recently been working on the waste peel. The acid of the expressed juice is neutralized by the addition of a chemical preparation. This juice is filtered and concentrated to a pineapple syrup, which, if practical on a commercial scale, will eventually reduce the sugar bills. There is also a chance that citric acid may be separated and that the refuse matter be used as a stock food.

U. S. Commissioner George A. Davis yesterday discharged Manuel Espinda of the local mounted police patrol, and Evalzina Pihana, who were apprehended several days ago by the federal authorities on a statutory charge. The evidence against them was found insufficient to hold them to the federal grand jury.

PALAMA SETTLEMENT REPORTS SHOW SCOPE OF WORK IN ALL DEPARTMENTS DURING PAST YEAR

The extensive work done by the several departments of the Palama Settlement is shown by the reports submitted at the annual meeting of the trustees of the Settlement held last Monday. Every report shows that during the past fiscal year, the scope of the work in each department has materially been broadened, and those in charge predict that 1914 will be even a more successful period.

The reports are published herewith in full:
Boys' Work Department
I take pleasure in presenting this report of the eighth year's work of our boys' department.

The boys' building here is very much of a center of attraction, a great social home, a place of social and educational opportunity. Here are being developed orderly, social groups of lads who, for lack of this provision, would have become predatory gangs.

Activity is said to be the keynote to most of the "boy problems," and the real leader of boys, whether he be the leader of his gang or the adult social worker, is the one who can lead the gang in doing something. A boy, in his leisure time, seems to gravitate naturally towards any place where there is, as he expresses it, "somethin' doin'." If the "somethin' doin'" happens to be bad, there is grave danger that the boy will become bad; if, it happens that the "somethin' doin'" is wholesome, educational and ennobling, then the boy will usually respond and grow into a useful citizen.

Therefore, our endeavor is to see to it that there are lots of varied activities of the right kind.
The activities carried on during the past year may be grouped into two divisions, viz: (1) Those provided for members of the Settlement. (2) Those provided for the boys of the whole neighborhood.

1.—Boys who are members are organized into clubs, graded as follows:
1. Small Midgets (under 60 lbs.).
2. Big Midgets (under 80 lbs.).
3. Juniors (under 95 lbs.).
4. Allegro Brotherhood (over 95 lbs.).

5. "E and A" (self-governing).
6. Young Men's Club.
Each of these groups is again subdivided into teams, which strive against each other for championship honors, engaging in such games as basketball, indoor baseball, soccer, cross-country running, swimming, volleyball and dodge-ball, etc., etc.

The Young Men's Club remains a unit for inter-settlement competition. For four years now they have retained the indoor baseball championship of the island.

Two other self-governing clubs have been organized during the past year—the "E and A," and the Allegro Brotherhood, and both are strong and growing stronger. Each group, under adult supervision, manages its own affairs, appoints its own officers and committees, etc.

"The E and A" has a paid-up membership now of fifty-one, and the program for its weekly meeting is somewhat as follows:

- 45 minutes—Forum for the discussion of civic problems, etc.
- 45 minutes—Military drill and tactics.
- One hour—Team games, swimming, etc.

The Allegro Brotherhood is a group of 35 vigorous adolescent boys, and their program is one of strenuous team games, military march and calisthenics. Early this year they resolved themselves into the Allegro Minstrels for the purpose of raising funds wherewith to equip their club-rooms, and they gave what was for them a very fine minstrel show.

The 1st Palama Patrol, Boy Scouts of America, has recently been reorganized, and is "going strong." Our boys made a good showing on the occasion of the recent Scout Rally out at Moanalua. Now they are ambitiously at work building their own scout-house, the lumber, etc., being provided by the kindness of Mrs. Charles Adams, and the leadership by Mr. Hoyt of Kailani School.

Other activities for club members include daily use all the year round of the games and reading rooms, swimming tank and showers, hikes and camping trips, senior club dances and motion picture shows twice monthly.

The best feature of the Palama clubs—and it is especially true of the senior clubs—is that they are not only organized for mutual development and pleasure, but are bands of young men who can be counted upon for service. They stand ready at all times to serve the Settlement and the neighborhood, and their help is very real.

Not the slightest attempt do we ever make to organize along race lines; we bar no race, no color, no creed. All our clubs are mixed, and to the humanitarian, the citizen of the world, it is gratifying to observe the happiness of the results obtained.

2.—Neighborhood activities. The Settlement workers recognize a responsibility not only for boys who are enrolled as members, but also for the boys of the whole Palama district. A particularly fine opportunity for service presents itself at the Kailani School, with its thirteen hundred children. Recently we have organized a physical training department there, made up of representatives from the upper classes, and they are to promote inter-class athletics.

Last fall a swimming campaign was conducted for six weeks, with the slogan, "Every boy in Kailani School to swim." At the end of that time 90 boys who could not swim at all before were able to swim at least 50 feet.

Two aquatic meets, one cross-country race, and many indoor baseball, volley and dodge-ball games have been arranged for the Kailani School boys, with the hearty co-operation of the school principal.

Last summertime the whole Settlement plant was thrown open during the school vacation to all boys, irrespective of Settlement membership. Schedules of games, hikes, swims, etc., were arranged, closing with a track and field meet.

Stereopticon lectures and motion picture exhibitions have been given periodically, to which the whole neighborhood was invited.

Still another opportunity for helpfulness to the children of the tenements will be ours in a few weeks' time, with the formal opening of our playground, which will afford opportunities for healthful recreation to hundreds of Palama's boys and girls. All these varied activities of the boys' department would not have been possible but for the enthusiastic co-operation of the other workers of the Settlement, and the willing labors of many business and professional men and women who have given of themselves for the benefit of Honolulu's boys, her men of tomorrow.

Respectfully submitted,

W. R. HUMPHRIES.

In comparing the annual reports of the district nursing department for the years 1912-1913, I was surprised to find that the nurses had treated more patients in 1913 than in 1912, namely 20,915-cases as against 13,020 for the previous year. The record also discloses that 182,656 treatments were administered.

These are the results in spite of the fact that in the work of the year just passed, the ideal has been, not more patients, but more efficient service. Not to be content with the dressing and bandaging of their wounds, and looking after their small ailments, but to extend further and teach them how to care for themselves and their sick. In this way, in the event of their moving where there are no district nurses they will be able to do many of the small things that are such a comfort to the sick, such as giving a bed bath, and changing the bed linen without moving the patient out of bed. They are also taught to prepare suitable food for a sick person.

Many of our patients are most willing to learn, and when once shown the correct way take much pride in showing their friends and neighbors. During the past year, our records show that the nurses have paid 5029 district calls. Those are calls where actual nursing care has been rendered, either giving treatment ordered by the attending physician, or giving a bed bath, preparing suitable nourishment, and instructing the relatives or friends in the care of the sick person.

The work being done in the city schools is the part I would enlarge upon, were I possessed of more eloquence. To me, it is the part most worth while. Not only do we attend to the health of the children but we have a splendid opportunity of instructing both children and parents as to the need of cleanliness, not only of their bodies, particularly their hands,—but also of their homes and yards. Reaching the parents in this way, they accept suggestions and instructions from us that they never would otherwise.

Much has been done in tubercular work in the past year but much remains to be done. Not until we have hospital accommodation for every tubercular patient who will not obey instructions and who is a menace to the community, will we have the situation at all under control. One case may illustrate the point I wish to make. A woman in an advanced state of T. B. lived in a small dark room without even a window, with two small children. These children slept in the same bed, and used the same dishes. In fact, the elder of the two, a little girl of seven years, took care of her mother and prepared what food they had to eat. This woman absolutely refused to go to the hospital until just a few weeks before she died, but not before she had infected her husband and both the children. We took the children into the Day Camp and cared for them. A few weeks ago, they were pronounced free from T. B. and are now attending school. The father refuses all treatment, and at present has the children sleep with him. There is only one outcome to be expected from these cases: The children will be reinfected by the father. All of this might have been prevented if the mother could have been compelled to go to the hospital.

Our dispensary work has increased by 2000 patients in the past year. This work has been handicapped by our not having a physician in attendance. The greatest need in the district nursing department is a physician who will give some part of his time to the supervision of the nurses. The Pa Ola Day Camp has during the year cared for 50 patients, who have been taught how to care for themselves, and thus avoid being a danger to others.

Respectfully submitted,

E. L. CRAIG.

Head Nurse.

Report of Girls' Work for 1913.

At the close of the school year, the program of summer work was made as different as possible from that of the winter. Out of door activities were emphasized. Trips were taken and afternoons spent at the public baths. The swimming tank was kept open most of the time. The gymnasium and sewing classes were carried on informally, with the idea of bringing the children out, rather than of accomplishing any definite work. Story hours were held. The music classes were continued. Weekly neighborhood parties were held, and sometimes the use of the swimming tank was given to individuals for private parties. Moving pictures were shown once a month. The Sunday school was conducted regularly. As much visiting as possible was done throughout the district, and efforts at extension were made by informing parents of the settlement activities, and encouraging them to allow the children to attend. They were frequently as solicitous of their children's welfare as those of our own race.

Towards the close of the summer, it was found that the girls' club room ten in use was inadequate. It was decided that the cottage on the playground was especially adapted to their needs, and it was put in readiness. The cottage provides a reading room, a room for the music pupils, a kitchen for domestic science, and a room for club meetings and gatherings of all kinds. The having of a club house for the girls supplies a real need and is much appreciated.

The summer's work closed with a field meet with events and prizes for both boys and girls. With the opening of the public schools, the c'asses and clubs of the Settlement began their regular work.

Paid membership was required, and an annual fee of 10 cents was charged for all under 14, and 25 for all over. The charging of even a small fee gives the member a sort of proprietary attitude toward the settlement and, too, what is entirely free is not appreciated.

An exhibition of gymnasium work will be given on Thursday evening, March 12, and any interested are invited to come. The swimming tank has been used a great deal, and renewed interest is being shown, owing to a Palama girl's having come third in the Carnival races.

The sewing class has an average attendance of 50, which could easily be 150 if teachers could be found. Volunteer help is needed because the Settlement can't afford to pay many workers. At least a dozen volunteer workers could easily be used.

The music class includes about 23 girls from nine to 15 years of age. Those having no other access to a piano are allowed to practice at the club house. At the end of the year the class will have some part in the closing exercises.

The older girls' social club was organized in September with 10 members and now includes 28. The name "Lares Penates League" (L. P. L.) was chosen because the object of the club was to encourage interest in household affairs. The girls spend an hour at the club house every week, and each brings her own sewing. In addition to the above mentioned purpose, there is also the idea of promoting friendly association and good fellowship. Other activities such as tramps and a camping trip are planned. A trip to Pearl Harbor took place February 28th.

The average age of the L. P. L. girls is 18. For the girls of 14 and 15, a Camp Fire Club is now being organized.

In addition to the girls' clubs there are the monthly Mothers' Meetings. These have been in charge of Mrs. Rath and have been especially good. Programs have been arranged for, with the help of the mothers of each nationality. On Friday evenings, March 6th, the Japanese mothers provided the program.

There are other activities of the Settlement which include the women and girls. The Sunday School is one. Then there are the moving pictures shown every other week and the neighborhood dances on alternate weeks. For the latter music will soon be provided by a Settlement orchestra now being organized. A Dramatic Club is preparing a play to be given at the close of the year. The playground is being made ready for use. Steps have been taken to make it as attractive as possible.

The records show an enrollment of 155 paid members. This includes only those who have been actually registered in the Settlement. Double the number have been irregularly connected with the Settlement in one or another of its activities, but no record of attendance of unenrolled members has been kept.

LAURA J. TOPHAM,
Director of Girls' Work.

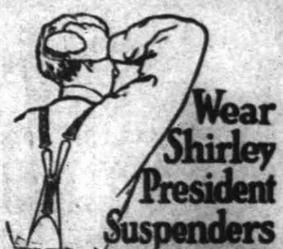

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap dries your scalp, causing dandruff, then hair falls out—Try this next time.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.—advertisement.

If this car is honest, there isn't an automobile in existence that compares with it in value.
That it IS as honest inside as it is beautiful outside, the name Studebaker guarantees.
The fact that it is MANUFACTURED to an extent exceeded by no other car of even higher price clinches the question of internal value.
And despite its beauty, despite its internal excellence, despite its seven-passenger capacity, despite its electric starting and lighting system, it is THE LOWEST-PRICED "SIX" ON THE MARKET.
In the face of such obvious and overwhelming evidence of value—how can you consistently pay a penny more for any other car than the price of this Studebaker SIX?

Make Your Own Blouses

ALMOST any girl who can use a needle at all can make her own blouses and trim her own hats nowadays, because blouse styles are simple and hats very scantily trimmed.

For blouses you can get little net or lace guimpes and undermeats to match, and these simplify matters tremendously, for the neck and sleeves are very important and troublesome parts of blouse-making ordinarily.

Or you can use the pretty and easy V shaped cut at the neck, and a charming way to finish this is by using a double tulle or net frilling with a ribbon fastened between the two frills, with ends that tie in front.

Double ruching or frilling is expensive, but you can make it at home quite satisfactorily if you join two bands of single frilling.

For the sort of ruche described the single frilling should be basted with the plaits in place close to the inside edge and unpicked from the little band of net or muslin that holds the net in place.

The two frills should then be basted together and joined under a little strip of net stitched down in place. The ribbon is folded or softly crushed and fastened along this strip of net. The long ends form a tie that covers the front opening. Be careful to have your V neck loose. Nothing is uglier than one that pulls tightly round the neck and never use a ball and socket fastener at the neck or any other place where there is much strain. A hook and eye are far more satisfactory at these points.

NEW EARRINGS.

LONG drop earrings are being discarded by the smart women, for as is the way with so many fashions, they have been reproduced in all kinds of cheap forms until constant repetition wears out the design.

Now stud earrings are in fashion, particularly those made from large single pearls of fine quality or solitaire diamonds, the latter being mounted with extremely light platinum settings that greatly improve the brilliancy and good appearance of the stones. Other jewels, such as rubies, sapphires and emeralds, are being treated in the same manner with excellent effect.

PICTURESQUE HEADGEAR.

SMALLER than ever are the toques of the latest fashion, and more closely than before do they enframe the face, being tilted very much on one side, even sometimes partly covering one eye. Sir Joshua Reynolds would have been surprised to see a woman thus pushing the hair well down over or beside one eye, just as seen in most of his portraits. Has any one ever noticed what expression this arrangement lends to the countenance? And what charm to a pair of beautiful eyes!

What Children Will Wear Next Spring and Summer

NO matter whether one is opposed to or in sympathy with "the new woman movement," there are certain points in its favor which must be conceded by every fair minded person. One of them is the system that has been worked out of the hit or miss domestic arrangements by the "up and coming" woman into household economic harmony, and

There are charming washable materials in the shops which in texture are not new, but which in coloring and finish seem more alluring than ever. Scotch plaids, perennial favorites for children's serviceable frocks, are out in undreamed-of combinations of color. In these new effects, as all through the fashion world, there is strong evidence of the cubist and futurist influences in an effect in the island of Martinique. He laughed a low laugh and pulled out of his pocket a photograph of the picture. On the back was written "Girl at the piano." I have been studying the thing ever since to find the girl. But to return to our muttons, the small girl's cubist plaid frock will be perfectly intelligible to the beholder. It will have one of the new "cut" hems of plain material in harmony with the color scheme. These cut hems are something entirely new, both a growth-up and children's costumes and have the same effect as the turned up cuff of a man's trousers leg.

A delightful little white pique frock designed for spring wear is made in a one piece kimono slip effect. The neck is round and collarless and finished with an eyelid embroidery about two inches deep. At either side of the front, probably a quarter of a yard apart, are two slits commencing at the normal waist line and extending six inches down the skirt.

From under these slits are two pieces of four inch Roman ribbon, which cross, forming a kind of pannier at the side of the skirt. The ends are crossed in a bow at the back.

Speaking of saabes, they are all sorts of attractive ways on the new frocks. One very simple, though "frumpy," model had a wide sash of old blue velvet put around full width at the waist line. Exactly in front an end of the velvet was looped over the belt, which reached quite to the hem of the dress, where it was finished with a silk tassel.

The frock itself was of sheer white batiste with low necked baby waist and scant, straight skirt. The new feature besides the sash arrangement was the tiny vest of lace, which began in a V from the round neck and spread out, fanlike at the waist. The sleeves were short, cap affairs.

One of the new coat models is chic in its extreme. The fabric used is peache peche cloth in a lovely shade of gray. The skirt, or, rather, one should say skirts, which are rounded circular in shape, are like mother wears, are hung from a yoke made in one with the sleeves. The coat fastens down the depth of the yoke with black silk cords wrapped about black velvet buttons. The high neck and sleeves are trimmed with bands of black velvet.

Illustrated are other smart new models for frocks and coats that are sure to be liked by the home seamstress.

Hold Your Shoulders Up

HINTS come from Paris that the ingenu slouch, by whatever name it goes—the drooping figure—is doomed to pass the way of all the fashionable figures of the past, so the girl who has let her fine, straight back get curved and her broad, full chest get flat must set about holding herself up again. You might as well be in the vanguard of the upright figure, even if you have just learned to carry off the fashionable slouch gracefully, without suffocating yourself by contracting your chest.

At the time that the drooping figure first became fashionable some theatrical manager dubbed it the "ingenue slouch," it is said. It was adopted by all the chorus girls of Broadway, New York, and he had good opportunity to study it at first hand.

Doubtless some equally observant theatrical manager will find some good name for the upright figure if it really does become fashionable. There is no telling what that name may be, but it will be descriptive if it lives to be popular.

The only way to get any sort of figure, drooping or upright, is to practice holding your body in the required position. Most of us are born straight, fortunately, and if we practice deep breathing we can expand our chests and force our lungs into their rightful grooves without much difficulty.

JUST WHAT TO DO.

THE addition of a tart apple or two to the cranberries improves the flavor.

When buying nuts avoid the moldy out bait. They are generally made up of the cheaper nuts.

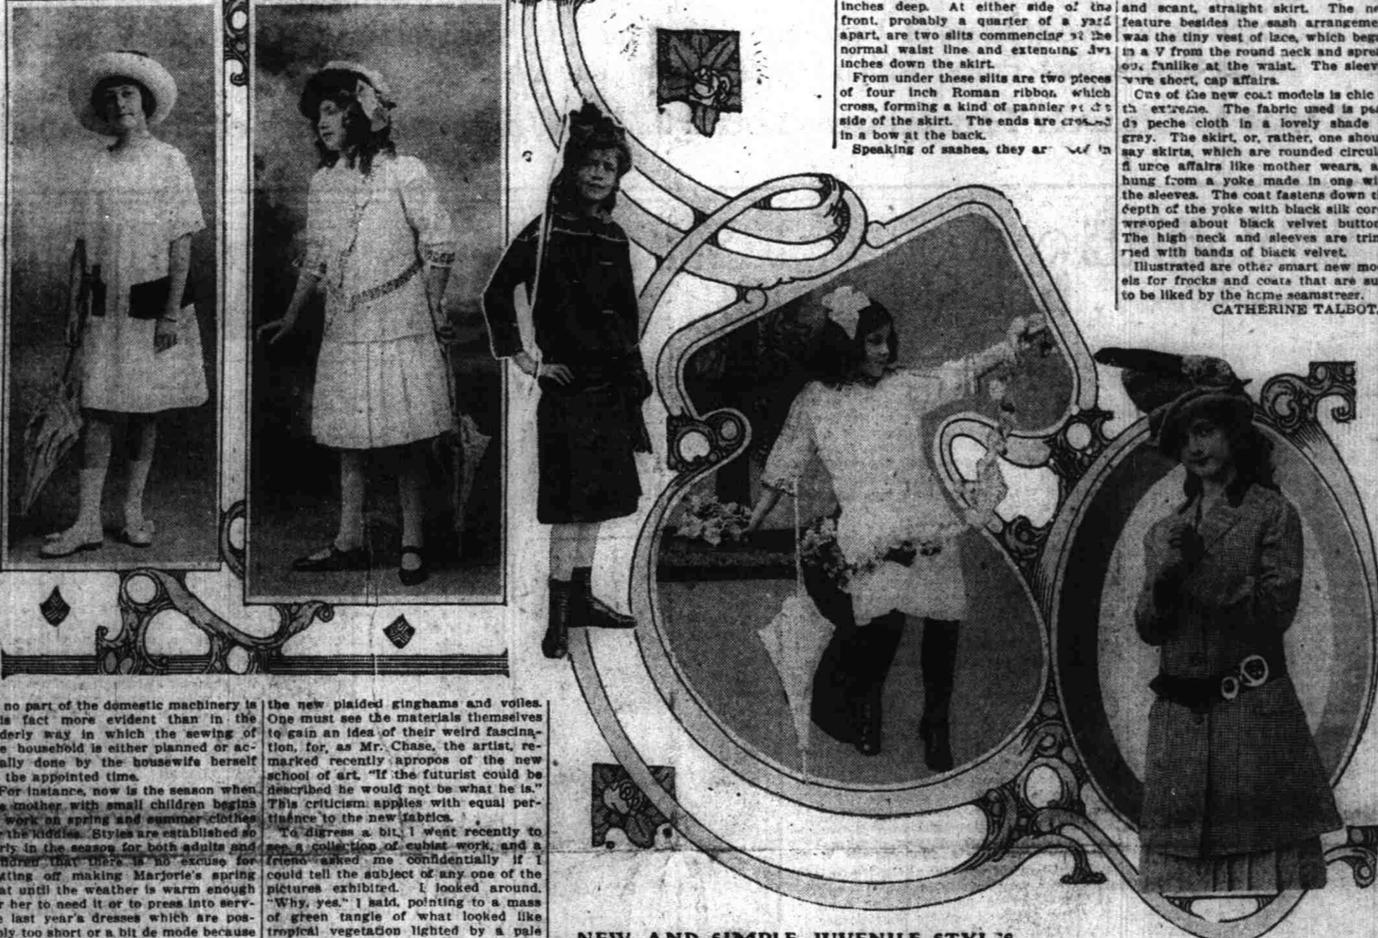

Foamy handkerchiefs and socks can be whitened by soaking them overnight in a bath of cold water and ammonia. Will remove grease stains from white goods. Boil the spot and let it dry; then wash with hot soap-suds.

Try rubbing the silver every day with a dry handkerchief. It will not only be cleaned with silver polish nearly so often.

Save all the old toothbrushes. They are good for many things, from cleaning combs to cleaning marble and the Dresden ornaments.

NEW AND SIMPLE JUVENILE STYLES

In no part of the domestic machinery is this fact more evident than in the orderly way in which the sewing of the household is either planned or actually done by the housewife herself at the appointed time.

For instance, now is the season when the mother with small children begins to work on spring and summer clothes for the kiddies. Styles are established so early in the season for both adults and children that there is no excuse for putting off making Marjorie's spring coat until the weather is warm enough for her to need it or to press into service last year's dresses which are possibly too short or a bit de mode because new ones have not been provided.

the new plaided gingham and voiles. One must see the materials themselves to gain an idea of their weird fascination, for, as Mr. Chase, the artist, remarked recently apropos of the new school of art, "If the futurist could be described he would not be what he is." This criticism applies with equal pertinence to the new fabrics.

To digress a bit, I went recently to see a collection of cubist work, and a friend asked me confidentially if I could tell the subject of any one of the pictures exhibited. I looked around. "Why, yes," I said, pointing to a mass of green tangle of what looked like tropical vegetation lighted by a pale ray of the sun. "I have seen just such

HAIR MODISHLY ARRANGED

Hair looped on the neck, on the back of the head or on the top is equally modish. A coiffure very appropriate for a girl with an oval face and black, glossy hair is one in which the hair, brushed straight back from the forehead, is pulled low on the neck beneath a wide Spanish comb. A fine contrast to this severity may be furnished for evening occasions by the ornament, large and almost sudden in its effect. From a head of draw-back tresses may spring in the back high ornaments, held in place around the head by a modest encircling band. The woman with gray hair may set it off by a garland of mauve orchids, and tulle. A mode for the younger woman is a panache of white ostrich waving two feet or more in the air and attached to a foundation of dull gold lace.

The high coiffure is very much on the lines of the hairdressing in vogue in the early 18th century, and therefore the pictures of the fair ladies of those days are being eagerly searched for styles that can be modified for present-day usage. One mode that has been recently copied with great success is that of the headdress favored by Mile. de Fontages. Her pictures show her with smoothly brushed tresses bound rather closely to her head and encircled with a tiny wreath of roses, while in the very center of the front are arranged four upright loops of transparent material, stiffly wired into position. This style is now being reproduced exactly, so that we get the small floral or jeweled circlet centered by loops of colored tulle to match the rest of the toilet.

Another novel headdress, also seen in an old picture, is a closely fitted cap of black tulle, held in place by a narrow band of black velvet while the rest of the material is gathered up toward the back of the head, bound round with a velvet or jeweled band, and the surplus arranged in a huge butterfly bow, a remarkable effective form of headgear for those whom this rather trying style happens to suit.

One of the latest and most popular hair ornaments, composed of an inch-wide band of vivid blue velvet sprinkled with blue, green and paste jewels that holds in place two long peacock feathers, the eyes and the quills of which are studded with diamonds.

USE OF PLAIDS IS ON INCREASE

The growing preference for plaid in one's costume has spread rapidly. There are waistcoats of plaid silk which touch off a somber suit of dark blue serge or black or green duvetyne, in an acceptable way. Plaid pockets are placed on dark skirts, and for summer wear there are plaid cottons, not the well-known gingham, but novel materials that are cool and often transparent.

If one has a spring suit that is a trifle cool for some days between March and June, the plaid silk waistcoat serves well under a coat that shows it. Women who can not stand the coat open in the way some coats have of drooping to the waist line before the first button is fastened will find the soft waistcoat that fastens to the collar a real protection.

That idea has been well worked out during the winter with vests, single breasted, of chamolite or duvetyne. Brocaded ones were worn with the suits calling for dressy accessories. The flowered silks make good choices for the spring suit if one does not care for plaid, and it is an acquired taste for adults.

The double tunics with the close knife plaiting are wearable again. Cl-not invented the model and it was so widely copied by the wholesalers that it flooded the country within two months of its appearance. Now that Cheruit has invented a boxplaited tunic for spring wear, the Callot model will be revived.

This new tunic is something on the order of the Russian blouse, for it is quite certain that the land of the czar has not lost its sartorial influence, as interpreted by Leon Bakst and the dressmakers. The Cossack hat is with us as strongly as ever; so is the long blouse and the ornate girdle. All the "east lends itself to us, however, through the Russian influence.

There is the Japanese collar, for example, which the extremists will tell you is entirely out of fashion. But is it? One sees it on many good gowns, though possibly not in its original interpretation. The most unknown feature of fashion that Japan is given credit for having put upon us is the ornamental crest at the back of the coat or the blouse. The monogram of the stranger is embroidered between the shoulders of the outer jacket when the garment is made in that country. You may have noticed this display of handwork on the gen-

HOMEMAKING IS NOW THE MODE

It is no exaggeration to state that in New York city alone 100,000 girls and women are now studying homemaking—not perfunctorily, but with the greatest attention and interest. They get results, and their skill shows for itself. When they bake a cake or make a pie or pudding, everybody can see how well or ill they have done, so they determine to do well. Their hands move briskly before their white aprons, their eyes shine with eagerness under their white caps.

And there is nothing exceptional in the New York situation. San Francisco is doing the same thing, and so are Boston, St. Louis, Chicago and all the big cities, likewise the little cities and, moreover, the towns. Homemaking is the mode now, the most up-to-date thing there is; girls who want to keep in the fashion must learn the old, old arts made new by having new names attached to them—and must learn them thoroughly.

The whole country, from east to west and from north to south, has awakened to the value of this teaching and is extending and emphasizing it. Never was seen a more far-reaching reform or one with more important consequences.

Now the American girl emerging from the high school knows how and can do everything about her home. She has been practicing it under the eye of a keen expert for years. Incompetency in the kitchen will not impose on her, nor indignation there terrify her—she is sure of her ground. She can slip into an apron and prepare the meals for the family without feeling that such skilled labor is either a hardship or a degradation.

The butcher must doff his hat to this newest woman. She knows what is best as well as he. She buys to advantage and can plan a week's meals so as to reduce waste to a minimum. She is also a match for the grocer and the milkman.

Girls who go out into the world of industry and commerce to earn their livings, as a rule do not stay there. Their average time in such employment is not more than five years. Whatever else they do, and however well they may do it, their real life business is homemaking. There they best serve themselves and the com-

CELEBRATING A WOODEN WEDDING

Perhaps the jolliest of all the wedding celebrations is the one marking the close of the fifth year of wedded happiness. It is known as the wooden wedding. The homely and ludicrous decorations, together with the wooden gifts, all tend to produce a very informal affair. In fact, it would be out of place to attempt to make it in any way a formal occasion. Fun should hold carnival. Invitations may be written on thin slabs of wood or on pieces of birch bark, simply asking a friend to come and spend the evening.

If it is to be a mixed party, that is people of different ages, progressive games form the easiest means of entertainment. Tallies are punched, and prizes are given. The prizes should be of wood to carry out the scheme. There is a wide choice for selection in wooden boxes for handkerchiefs, gloves for kitchen use, and in picture frames, tabourets, birch-bark fern dishes or wooden objects decorated with pyrographic work. A wooden chafing-dish set consists of the wooden spoon and fork, which makes a very good prize, as does also a wooden salad set.

Decorations for the room and table may be made from shavings. A fringe of these is sewed around the edge of the cloth or made into flowers with the aid of fine wire and then colored. Clothpins may be used to round the edge of the cloth or centerpieces, and the tiny ones that come with a child's washing set can be used to fasten small sprays of flowers to tiny wooden tubs holding candies, nuts or leas. Using these small pins around the edge of wooden butter dishes, some odd and pretty effects can be obtained, and they make fine receptacles for olives, pickles, nuts or bonbons.

A wooden chopping-bowl filled with fern and red carnations makes an appropriate and charming centerpiece. Two large wooden spoons tied with ribbon should have a conspicuous place in the decorations.

Another scheme of decoration, particularly appropriate, where the host has the "farm bug," is to build a circular enclosure in the center of the table with clothespins (the small ones being used) in the form of a fence. The inside of the circle represents a farm and is stocked with wooden animals from a Noah's ark. Wooden tubs holding a red or pink geranium plant in bloom are placed at each corner of the table. A tiny wooden hobby-horse is presented to the host, with the idea that he start in and "ride his hobby," while the hostess receives a small churn or spinning-wheel.

Wooden plates and wooden butter dishes are used in serving refreshments. Forks and spoons of wood may be obtained if desired.

In serving refreshments, one should still carry out the idea of an informal affair, and not attempt anything elaborate. Sandwiches with chocolate, cake, and cream or fruit gelatines are all that is necessary, but if one cares to have something hot and a little unusual, one may serve Vienna rolls, hollowed out in the form of a basket and filled with creamed oysters or creamed chicken. The rolls are cut out with a sharp-pointed knife and heated before putting in the filling.

How long is it since you provided the proper nourishment for your immortal nature; since you lifted your aspirations heavenward? The spiritual spark within you has a hard struggle to live when you overlay and almost smother it with so many material concerns.

An hour in church once a week offers at least one chance for the spiritual in you to assert itself, to move outward, in reverence, in adoration toward that Power which broods over all our lives.

CENTRAL UNION NOW HAS BROAD ACTIVITY SCOPE

Meetings and Classes Draw
Many Persons--Malihini
Night March 15

The church plant of Central Union church certainly is active these days and its usefulness is by no means confined to Sundays. On many evenings of the week one will find three or four meetings being conducted simultaneously in the Kiloahana building, the parish house, and the various rooms of the main edifice. "Student's Night" last Sunday brought out an audience that filled the church and gallery. Of course, the majority of the 740 attendants were students and faculty of the various schools, but exclusive of these there were some 250 others present--a very encouraging number for an evening service.

The Christian Endeavor Society has been holding some very interesting services Sunday at 6:30 p. m. in the parish house and the one scheduled for March 15 promises to be of even unusual originality and merit. "Malihini Night" is the subject announced and a special invitation is extended to all young people who are strangers in the city to attend. Kamaainas, too, will want to be on hand to hear what the newcomers have to say about Honolulu, its church and social life, its attitude toward strangers, its opportunities, its privileges and its disadvantages--if any such there be. It is hoped that all the oldest members of the society will be present to recall their own malihini days, to benefit by the suggestions received, to speak from their own point of view, and most of all to extend the heartiest kind of a welcome to the recently received members and visitors.

THREE NEW BISHOPRICS FILLED BY KING GEORGE

LONDON. -- It is announced that the king has been pleased to approve the following appointments: To be bishop of Sheffield, the Rt. Rev. L. H. Burrows, bishop suffragan of Lewes. To be bishop of Chelmsford, the Rev. J. E. Watts-Ditchfield, vicar of St. James-the-Less, Bethnal Green. To be bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, the Venerable H. B. Hodgson, archdeacon of Lindisfarne. The three bishoprics thus filled were constituted under a recent act of parliament and were formally proclaimed by his majesty at the last meeting of the privy council.

The new bishop of Sheffield was educated at Charterhouse and New College, Oxford, where he took his M. A. degree in 1884. He was vicar of Wrexham, Surrey from 1886 to 1888, and of Godalming from 1888 till 1904. From 1904 till 1909 he was vicar and rural dean of Croydon and in 1909 became bishop of Chelmsford. The bishop of Chelmsford was educated at Victoria University, Manchester, and at the London college of divinity. In 1897, he became vicar of St. James-the-Less, Bethnal Green. He was rector of St. Andrew's, Cambridge University in 1909 and 1912, and was lecturer in pastoral theology there in 1912-13.

Mr. Watts-Ditchfield has been a member of the Bethnal Green board of guardians since 1899. Among his published works are "Fishers of Men" and "Here and Hereafter." The Venerable H. B. Hodgson, who is now bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich was educated at Shrewsbury and Oxford, where he took a first class in moderations in 1876, and a first class in literae humaniores in 1878 while in 1881 he took his M. A. degree. From 1885 to 1886 he was headmaster of Birkenhead school. He was vicar of Staverton, Northants, from 1881 to 1885 and of Thornbury, Gloucestershire, from 1886 till 1897, when he became vicar of Berwick-on-Tweed. In 1904 he became archdeacon of Lindisfarne.

The Sunday evening service will take the form of the monthly musical service which is so thoroughly enjoyed. The program is especially interesting in that it displays the double quartet choir in a variety of musical combinations, showing the full strength of the organization and also giving opportunity for a number of effective smaller groupings. The quintet, "O Holy Saviour" is a particularly beautiful composition.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, in an address before the Sunday Evening Club, in Chicago, recently declared that Death is a misnomer. He said that he could not believe that his friends who have gone out of this life are really dead. To his way of thinking, what we call death is really a resurrection, that the two are but different ways of spelling the same thing, that the one is the dropping off of the body and the other is the rising of the spirit. Of the two worlds in which we live, he said, the material passes and the immaterial lives on.

The Sunday Morning Bible Class, which meets in the Kiloahana building every Sunday at 10 o'clock, in the course of a series of lessons which Mr. Ebersole is now giving on the miracles of Jesus comes tomorrow morning to the discussion of this whole question of the significance of death. Some exceedingly interesting viewpoints and testimonies are to be presented in line with the views expressed by Doctor Abbott in the quotations given above.

The method which is used in conducting this class makes it possible for those to attend occasionally, who do not find it possible to be there every Sunday. Each lesson is presented as a unit and to assist those who attend in following the line of thought a mimeograph outline of the day's lesson is put into the hands of each one present.

A most cordial and urgent invitation is extended to all who read this notice and who are looking for light upon this ever-present problem of Death to attend the class tomorrow morning.

A cordial invitation is extended to all strangers and visitors in the city to attend these services.

WOMEN'S CLEANINGS

The March party of the Young Women's Christian Association is to be an especially enjoyable one. It will be in the nature of a musicale and will be held at the home of Mrs. W. D. Westervelt. An excellent program is being prepared and the affair is open to members of the association and their friends both men and women.

"Malihini Night" is the attractive subject for the next meeting of the Christian Endeavor of Central Union church. Miss Hazel Kellogg is to be the leader and the trials and tribulations of the malihini are to be discussed. Also, the malihinis are going to make suggestions as to ways of helping other newcomers to avoid these trials.

A crying need of the Young Women's Christian Association is for more rest room for employed girls who come in at the noon hour tired and needing to rest. There are a few couches provided, all there is room for in the present quarters and it is not unusual between the hours of 12 and 1 to see three girls at once stretched out on each of these couches.

The girls who live at the Homestead are a very industrious lot. Miss Esther Erickson gave a sewing party a few evenings ago for Miss Barnes at which the Homestead girls were guests and in the evening they hemmed two dozen tea towels. They were so enthusiastic that their hostess found it difficult to get them to stop long enough to partake of the refreshments she offered.

The class in domestic science has only four more lessons in its course. The last two of this course will be lessons in serving and any who may care to enter for these two lessons may have that privilege by conferring with Miss Barnes. The last lesson was a pastry lesson and was one of the most thoroughly enjoyed of the entire course. Several girls carried their pies home with them to prove to their families that they are really learning.

DR. SIDNEY GULICK TOTELL RELATIONS OF JAPAN TO U. S.

Will Travel Through America
as Result of Request from Christian Forces

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, who is well known in Honolulu, and who for 50 years has been engaged in mission work in Japan, has been asked by the leaders among the Christian forces of America to travel throughout the country speaking in the interest of better relations between Japan and America. Under the caption "A Christian Ambassador from Japan," a mainland paper says:

"This is not to ornate a title to apply to Rev. Sidney L. Gulick, D. D., now speaking in leading cities of America and Japan that shall ward off all possibility of warfare and unite the two nations more strongly than ever before in the pursuit of worthy common aims. For Dr. Gulick speaks, not simply out of a personal experience in Japan of over a quarter of a century, but in a sense as the representative of the Christian sentiment of the country, both that of foreign missionaries laboring there and of the native churches. He came to this country on a furlough less than a year ago, when excitement was intense in California, and since his arrival in one way and another has sought to allay the heat of controversy and to induce not only Californians, but Americans as a whole, to understand the issues at stake, to realize the strength and the justice of the feeling in the Orient which protests against discrimination in the treatment of immigrants, as well as to put forward the Christian method of solving, not only the perplexing Japanese problem, but of averting the dreaded Yellow Peril."

THE MIRACULOUS POWERS OF JESUS.

What would be called a miracle in one age becomes in another an ordinary occurrence. Twenty-five years ago the sending of a message thousands of miles through the air to some friend on some far away shore would have been declared impossible. Since it has been demonstrated by repeated experiments we all accept it as true although we cannot now fully understand how it is accomplished, or how the transmission takes place.

Just so recent discoveries and experimental findings in the science of mental healing are affording at least a partial explanation to many of the so-called miracles of healing of Jesus. Now the question remains whether it may not be that the time will come when man in his earnest pursuit of knowledge will not discover other laws, not yet known, in accordance with which Jesus worked his other marvels.

This whole question is being thoroughly discussed in the Sunday morning bible class, conducted by Rev. A. A. Ebersole in the Kiloahana Building, which is just now taking up for study a group of Jesus' miracles. All young men and young women interested in these questions are invited to come tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and enjoy the benefits of the class.

WOMEN'S CLEANINGS

The course in commercial law began last Tuesday evening with 12 men enrolled. There is room for three more students.

Right after the Carnival, the association jumped in with a big program of man-building activities, and as a result the building is buzzing with busy men.

At a meeting of the membership committee Wednesday noon, 29 new members were recommended and plans made to launch a series of campaigns for increasing the present membership.

Captain Steunenberg's lecture in Cooke Hall Thursday evening was the usual popular success. His unique way of presenting things, the interest of the story told and his illustrations of the Custer battlefield made the lecture a decidedly good one.

Since the association has taken over the massage department in the basement and made use of some special advertising, there has been a marked increase in the business. The officers expect that the new 25-cent reduction will prove a popular feature with the athletes.

The salesmanship class is the most promising feature which the association has put forward in a long time. It has received the endorsement of many of the local leading business houses, which are making arrangements for their clerks to take the course of 20 lessons.

The house committee is planning new office arrangements for the business secretary and the educational secretary. The space now used by the refreshment counter will be converted into two offices, and the spa moved nearer the billiard room. The checkers tables will be moved to the music room.

In connection with the Ad Club's proposed trip to Kaula, A. E. Larimer, secretary of the men's department will visit the Garden Island to interest the Kaula men in taking out-of-town memberships in the association. The feature of an out-of-town membership is that the holder has a place to use as a social center when visiting in Honolulu.

NATIONAL LINES ARE BEING LOST, DECLARES BISHOP
[By Latest Mail]
TOLEDO, O.—The man of the future will be a composite being with characteristics of every nationality in his makeup; national boundaries will be as imaginary lines as the equator; nationality is becoming merely a shell of political form—this is the belief of Bishop Charles D. Williams of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan, expressed in an address at St. Paul's M. E. church before a large audience of members of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and others.

Bishop Williams talked on the "World Challenge to the Church." "Two wonderful things are taking place right now," said the bishop as reported by the Blade. "First there is a wonderful shrinking in the world of space and time. Modern facilities carry people in all parts of the universe. The telephone and telegraph make communication quicker and easier. The second wonderful thing is the expansion of the higher life of the world. God is mingling the nations of the universe today until every city has within its confines representatives from every clime."
