RUMOR NEW HOTEL HERE, BACKED BY ST. FRANCIS FOLK

Manager James Woods Will Arrive Next Month; Reported to Look Over Situation

HOSTELRY WOULD BE "BUILT FOR HAWAII"

Interests Said to Have Fairly Definite Plans for Character of Construction

Tentative plans are afoot for a new tropical hotel in this city, probably at Waikiki beach, backed by San Francisco capital, according to the definite statement brought from San Francisco by Honolulans recently returning.

The St. Francis hotel interests, in which the Crocker millions predominate, are understood to be behind the plans. James Woods, manager of the St. Francis, will arrive here within a few days, and while he says that his trip is for a vacation, taken because he has long wanted to come to Hawaii, the tip is out that he will look over the ground with a view to recommending the erection of a modern hotel built particularly for the Hawaiian climate.

Woods will be accompanied by Chief of Police White of San Francisco, a warm personal friend. Woods is a police commissioner of the Bay City.

Alva B. Wilson, assistant manager of the hotel, has fairly definite plans in mind for a hotel such as is said to be contemplated here. It is understood that the St. Francis people had given some consideration to the Seaside hotel premises, but the recent action of the Territorial Hotel Company in getting control here has put this out of the question.

The rumors that have been current for years concerning the possible disposal of the Irwin and Castle residence sites at Waikiki has now been revived, also the report that the George Beckley premises may be considered. But there have been so many reports of this nature that local businessmen are inclined to be skeptical of action.

STABLES BURNED BUT BABY SAVED IN QUICK FIRE

In a fire which broke out within the Union Pacific Transfer Stables on Queen street this morning about 10:30 o'clock the stables themselves, the cottage of John Correa, who is employed by the company, and wagon sheds and small buildings in the stable yard were totally destroyed.

If there had been sufficient water in the mains in that vicinity when the fire department arrived a large part of the property would have been saved, according to E. A. Jacobson, one of the proprietors. Chief Thurston did not deny this. Mr. Jacobson said the department engines arrived in record time but found no water to work with.

"When we first connected our hose at the hydrants we found practically no water," declared the chief. "It was several minutes before I could notify the water department to throw on some pressure. All this time the flames were blazing fiercely with nothing whatever to check them."

During the whole fire the chief said he did not have sufficient pressure to fight the flames. Three lines were running at first but there was not enough water for the trio and one was taken off.

Besides Mr. Jacobson, C. A. Raven, now on the coast, and John T. Wirud are interested in the business.

Four horses which were released before the flames spread dashed to liberty and safety.

Edward A. Jacobson, who is president and manager of the transfer company, placed the loss in a rough estimate at the scene of the fire today at between $8000 and $9000. This was soon after the fire broke out. Chief Thurston put the loss at about $1000. All of the horses in the barn were saved, but several wagons and a large quantity of hay went up in flames.

Correa's loss is complete. His house, furniture, everything he called his property is gone. "This is all I have left," he exclaimed in a broken voice today, pointing to the working clothes which he wore.

Boy Found Safe.

Yet Correa and his wife are happier than they thought, for their little four-year-old boy, Herbert, is alive. It was believed for a time this morning that he had perished in the house.

Mrs. Correa was busy washing in the rear of the cottage, which stood alongside the stables. The last she saw of the boy before the fire started

SEEK TO EJECT WAIALUA FROM HUGE ACREAGE

Agricultural Company Defendant in Action Begun By Bishop Estate Trustees

Action to eject the Waialua Agricultural Company from 14,685 acres of land situated at Kawailoa, this island, was begun today with the filing in circuit court of a suit in ejectment by the trustees under the will of the late Bernice Pauahi Bishop.

The trustees, plaintiffs in the case, are W. O. Smith, S. M. Damon, E. F. Bishop, A. F. Judd and A. W. Carter, the action having been instituted for them by the law firm of Holmes & Olson.

It is alleged in the complaint that the plaintiffs are the owners in fee simple of 14,685 acres of land at Kawailoa, now leased to the Waialua Agricultural Company for a long term of years. The action is based on an allegation of breach of covenant by the agricultural company.

Under the terms of the lease, it is understood, the plantation was to cultivate the land in question to its utmost degree of productiveness, and also to its utmost acreage. It is the contention of the trustees of the Bishop Estate that the agricultural company has failed to live up to this provision, and that a large portion of the land in question now remains uncultivated or not highly cultivated.

The complaint alleges "that the plaintiffs claim the right of immediate possession of and title in fee simple to the piece or parcel of land above described by purchase; to wit, by devise under the will of the said Bernice Pauahi Bishop."

Continuing, the complaint alleges "that the defendant herein has unjustly and contrary to the law and the rights of the plaintiffs herein, entered into possession and occupancy of the said parcel of land."

It is understood that the lease in question has yet approximately 20 years to run. According to an attorney for the plaintiffs, the trustees contend that from the outset of the lease the agricultural company has failed to cultivate certain portions of the land in question in the manner covenanted and that certain other portions have been left unused.

The trustees, in concluding their complaint, pray for restitution of the land with costs.

The Manual of Hawaiian Securities shows that the Waialua Agricultural Company has 37,783 acres of leased land and 4017 of fee simple land. Of the leased land 8273 are described as "cane land" and 29,510 as "pasturage, etc."

INTEREST CHARGE UPON INHERITANCE TAX WAIVED

Circuit Judge Whitney has issued an order to the effect that the levy of 10 per cent a year, imposed by Section 1327 of the Revised Laws, 1915, for non-payment of inheritance tax, be not charged or imposed as regards the estate of the late Annie T. K. Parker Smart, valued at approximately $3,000,000.

The order was issued as the result of a motion filed by the law firm of Thompson, Milverton & Cathcart, attorneys for the Trent Trust Company, administrator of the estate, in which it is set forth that, owing to delay and complications arising from the probate of the will of the late heiress, it was impossible to settle the affairs of the estate within the prescribed 18 months.

Late News At A Glance

Wesley Thompson Confirmed

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—J. Wesley Thompson was confirmed by the senate late this afternoon as circuit judge for the island of Hawaii.

C. S. ALBERT.

Thompson's nomination has been held up for weeks owing to protests sent from Hawaii. The protests were based on the ground that no change should be made in the Hawaii circuit bench and that Thompson's work here as assistant district attorney did not prove him of sufficient caliber for the position.

TAG DAY MAY NET $1800.

Up to 1 o'clock this afternoon the tag day workers for the British Red Cross had collected $1048.58 from 45 boxes. At this time there were yet 57 boxes to be heard from.

According to James A. Rath, between $1500 and $1800 are expected by this evening. Aside from the regular sale of tags more than $100 has been received in donations.

One feature of today's work was the receipt of three separate gifts for the American Red Cross, toaling $125, and amounting to two $50 gifts and a $25 gift. The first gift was a cash payment. Givers in each case stated that the money was to be turned over to the American Red Cross work.

SLOT MACHINE OPERATOR IS ARRESTED.

A. W. Beeson has been arrested by the police upon complaint of Deputy Sheriff J. W. Asch that the defendant is placing gum slot machines in various stores in Honolulu, contrary to the laws against gambling. There is a difference of opinion whether the machines are for gambling or not. Beeson was arraigned in the police court and trial set for May 26.

UNLAWFUL PRACTITIONER GUILTY: APPEALS.

Found guilty in the police court this morning of practising medicine without a license and fined $200, K. Tamashiro filed notice of appeal. A similar case of Furusawa was set for hearing in the police court May 27.

Tamashiro was arrested May 18 in Waipahu by Harry T. Lake, detective in the count attorney's office. It is charged that last July a young Japanese woman, Matsuki, died as a result of Tamashiro's illegal practise.

Furusawa was arrested May 19 by Mr. Lake on a similar accusation, although no fatalities were charged. He was taken in Wahiawa.

DENY "THE CHEAT" IS TO BE STOPPED.

The Star-Bulletin was informed over the telephone this afternoon that owing to the protests made by the Japanese Association of Hawaii the Consolidated Amusement Company would stop the showing of "The Cheat" at the Liberty theater. Some Japanese object to this film-play because it shows love scenes between a Japanese and a white woman, which they consider creates racial feeling and prejudice.

Manager Pedrick of the Bijou said, when the report of stopping the bill was told him, that no such agreement has been made and "The Cheat" will be shown tonight. He further said that the editor of the Nippu Jiji had called on him this afternoon and assured him many Japanese liked the play on account of the work of the Japanese actor, and had no objection to its being shown here.

ANOTHER EXTRA DIVIDEND RUMORED.

This afternoon it was reported on the street, and apparently on excellent authority, that Waialua Agricultural Company will declare next month another and further extra dividend. The amount, according to this report, will be 70 cents a share.

KAHULUI HARBOR TERMED DANGEROUS.

That the harbor at Kahului, Maui, has become shallow through rapid filling so as to be dangerous to vessels arriving and departing from there was pointed out today by Chairman Charles R. Forbes at the meeting of the harbor board.

Forbes declared that conditions have reached a state where delay is dangerous to vessels and urged clearing out the harbor if possible under the board's discretion.

"If a vessel should have to pull out on account of rough weather, it would be put in a dangerous plight," he said.

J. E. Sheedy of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company said he had measured the harbor and that he considered 6000 yards' excavation would be sufficient. This would necessitate an expenditure of about $1800 at least.

On motion by T. M. Church, passed by the board, the chairman was authorized to prepare plans and specifications for the work with a view to calling for bids.

NEW LAVA FLOW REPORTED TODAY FROM SAME VENT

North Fork Stream Stopped Mile and a Half From Honomalina; Honolulans Sleep Beside Still Hot Rocks; Sign of New Activity

[Star-Bulletin Special by Mutual Wireless]

HILO, T. H., May 24.—One and one-half miles from the government belt road at Honomalina, the lava flow from Mauna Loa has stopped.

The north fork of the three streams slowed up and halted after coming down from the 7000-foot level. People have been on the flow and it is still hot.

It is reported this morning that there are signs of further activity up the mountain. This may mean a new flow. Otherwise the excitement is finished for the present.

J. W. Waldron, Thornton Hardy of Honolulu, accompanied by Tom Martin, Hawaiian, went to the 6500-foot level and saw the fountains of lava playing from the new vent. They slept all night alongside the south flow, which had stopped.

A fresh flow is reported at 9 o'clock this morning from the same outbreak, and it is now flowing toward Papa.

MAJORITY VOTE IN COMMITTEE FOR BRANDEIS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—By a vote of 10 to 8 the senate judiciary committee voted today to report favorably the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis as supreme court justice. The committee and its sub-committee have held many hearings, owing to the charges involving Brandeis' fitness.

The vote today was on strict party lines. All the Democrats voted to approve the nomination, the Republicans voting against it.

WASHINGTON SKEPTICAL ABOUT STORY THAT VON BUELOW WILL ARRIVE ON SPECIAL MISSION

FORMER CHANCELLOR FREQUENTLY REFERRED TO AS MAN WHO MIGHT BE SELECTED FOR PRELIMINARY PEACE NEGOTIATIONS—VERDUN BATTLE REDOUBLES VIOLENCE—SLAUGHTER HORRIBLE

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Congressman Padgett, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, reported from his committee today the naval appropriation bill, carrying $241,000,000. The report says that this is an increase of $91,787,287 over last year's bill, and that the increase has been made necessary "to place the navy in a better state of preparedness."

Senator Gilbert Hitchcock of Nebraska, who offered a resolution in the house requesting Secretary Lansing to give information on what attitude England is taking concerning the shipment of supplies to Poland, was upheld by the committee on foreign relations, which reported to the senate this afternoon recommending the passage of the resolution.

The senate leaders have agreed to a virtual cessation of business during the national conventions. The house will take similar action probably.

LONDON, Eng., May 24.—That Prince von Buelow, former chancellor and later ambassador at Rome, is proceeding to Washington on a special mission from the Kaiser, is the announcement given out today by the Exchange Telegraph Agency. The news service says that diplomatic circles are authority for the statement, and that von Buelow will succeed Count J. H. von Bernstorff, now German ambassador at Washington.

(Note:—Prince von Buelow has frequently been referred to as the man who might be selected by the Kaiser to conduct preliminary peace negotiations on behalf of Germany should they be undertaken).

Washington Doubts Von Buelow Story

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—State department officials heard with interest but with skeptical attitude the story that Prince von Buelow is coming to Washington on a special mission from the Kaiser. They doubt the accuracy of the story. No reason is given for a possible contemplation of displacing von Bernstorff and naming the former chancellor to take his place.

ITALY MAY BE INVADED ALONG NORTHERN BRESCIA

ROME, Italy, May 24.—Austrian activity on the Trent and Trieste fronts slackened today. The cessation is interpreted as evidence that Austrians are finding it necessary to replace their losses. Reinforcements for them are arriving and apparently an invasion of Italy is planned along Northern Brescia.

PARIS, France, May 24.—A despatch from Rome says that a shell has destroyed the largest munitions depot in the town of Roverto, for which the Austrians and Italians are fighting, and that the town is in flames.

Verdun Battle Today Bloodier Than Ever

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]

PARIS, France, May 24. — The fourth month of the battle of Verdun finds the fighting today fiercer, bloodier, more determined than at any previous times.

Under an incessant hail of big explosive shells, infantry charges and counter-charges are taking place today almost incessantly. Every foot of terrain is bought or lost by the death of many men, sacrified against bayonet or cannonball.

The Germans this morning succeeded in taking a portion of Cumieres and a small part of a trench east of Douaumont. Before and after their desperate attack the battle has been raging with unexampled violence.

The Germans are using every resource of men and weight of gunpower to retake the fort of Douaumont, which position they lost to the French after an appalling battle.

All day yesterday and all day today the battle has ebbed and flowed at an appalling cost of men.

One of the combatants at Douaumont, returning to the rear after a day of fighting, said that the trees of the forest have been so stripped by shells that they resemble telegraph poles. "Not for a second," he said, "do the guns cease roaring or the men cease falling."

SAY TEUTONS MAKING ATTACKS TO PREVENT CONCERTED ALLY MOVE

ROME, Italy, May 24.—Military experts here declare that the purpose of the Germans in launching their great attack at Verdun, and of the Austrians in taking and keeping the offensive on the Italian fronts, is to prevent an extended simultaneous attack of the Allies on all the German fronts.

This concerted plan, say the experts, was about ready to be started when the Teutons gathered their forces and took the offensive first.

GREEK STEAMER SUNK BY AUSTRIAN DIVER

TARRAGONA, Spain, May 24.—Twenty of the crew of the Greek steamer Istros arrived here today in life-boats. The Istros was sunk by an Austrian submarine.

CHINA BESTOWS DECORATION FOR AID TO SUBJECTS

Consul Rodiek and Secretary Schroeder Helped Send Home Crews of Refugee Ships

Services on behalf of Chinese subjects left in Honolulu by hundreds when the German refugee steamers sought haven here to avoid the Allies' sea-patrol have won for German Consul Georg F. Rodiek a decoration by the Chinese government.

The Star-Bulletin yesterday published the story that the Peking newspaper Sun Ten Shipao carried the news of Consul Rodiek's decoration by President Yuan Shih-Kai. No clue was given as to the kind of services the German consul in Hawaii had rendered, and when the Star-Bulletin asked the consul about the matter, he said: "It's news to me."

So it was, in fact. It was to have been kept for a surprise, the Star-Bulletin learned today, until the time when the decoration itself should have arrived.

Three other decorations are also on their way. One is for Consul Rodiek's secretary, H. A. Schroeder, and the other two are for Li Kwang Heng, Chinese eleve consul, and Wang Kan of the consular staff. Mr. Schroeder receives a sixth-grade decoration, as does Eleve Consul Li Kwang Heng, while Mr. Wang Kan receives a seventh-grade order. Consul Rodiek's order is of the fourth grade.

In the fall and winter of 1914 more than 300 Chinese were put ashore in Honolulu when the German steamships fled here for refuge. Many of them came from the Chinese coast or south seas, where the Chinese were shipped.

Put ashore here there was considerable difficulty in arranging for their passage home. They were neutrals and entitled to go back to China. In straightening out the difficulty, Consul Rodiek and Mr. Tsz-ang Woohuan, the Chinese consul, worked for many weeks and the crews were sent back in a number of shipments.

When Dr. Wellington Koo, the new Chinese minister to Washington, passed through here, he asked Consul Woohuan concerning the handling of this problem of the Chinese subjects and was told of Consul Rodiek's work. It is presumed that he sent from Washington to Peking an account of the matter, and that this led to the decorations.

President Yuan conferred similar decorations upon French, British and Dutch officials for their services in aiding Chinese from various possessions to get home after the outbreak of the war, so that the decoration of the German consular officials here is, Mr. Woohuan comments, part of a broad plan of recognizing those who aided the Chinese subjects as neutrals.

Consul Woohuan already is possessor of a sixth-grade decoration, bestowed a number of years ago in China in recognition of his services to the government.

CONVOCATION OF MISSIONS OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

A large number of delegates from the various islands is expected to be in attendance. The meetings will be public and Bishop Henry Bond Restarick has expressed hope that local residents will show their interest by attending.

AUTO DRIVERS ARE PUT RIGHT BY SUPERVISORS

Portion of Kalakaua Avenue Declared Closed, But Autoists May Still Use It

Motorists may drive Ewa on the makai side of Kalakaua avenue from the entrance of Kapiolani park to Ewa road hereafter without fear of arrest for driving on the wrong side of the street, for the mauka side of the road was officially closed by the supervisors last night. Not that the man in search of sport will be barred from an exciting ride over the bumps on the mauka side, for there will be no barriers placed in the roadway. The step was taken only as a means of exempting from arrest autoists who prefer the smoother portion of the avenue.

E. W. Sutton and L. J. Warren, who have both been arrested for running on the wrong side of the road and released by the police magistrate, appeared before the board and complained of the condition existing. It was first proposed to scarify and repair the road in preparation for the traffic of Kamehameha Day, but there was opposition to money being spent on temporary repairs as the board is planning to lay permanent pavement.

Supervisor F. M. Hatch introduced the resolution closing the road and it carried without a dissenting vote.

Upon recommendation of the prosecution the cases of A. R. Cunha, E. W. Sutton and E. G. Duisenberg were dismissed in police court this morning.

Speaking of the action of the supervisors in officially closing part of the avenue, Deputy Sheriff J. W. Asch said:

"That ought to close any controversy or doubt there may be about the matter. Of course, my men will not arrest autoists on the lower side of the avenue where it has been condemned, but they will continue to do so in other places.

Judge Monsarrat said he had nothing to say about the matter and that he would give all cases their due consideration when they were brought before him.

ASSASSINATION PLOTS BARED BY CONFESSION

(Special Cable to Nippu Jiji).

TOKIO, Japan, May 24.—At the trial of the conspirators in connection with the Count Okuma plot held yesterday in Tokio, W. Fukuda, one of the leaders, confessed that he had planned against the life of Count Okuma and several noted men of Japan.

In his confession, Fukuda stated that a plot was laid to kill Prince Yamagata, one of the elder statesmen, Y. Mishima, a member of the house of lords, K. Ichika, minister of interior, who was responsible for the recreation of Count Nogi, Y. Ozaka, minister of justice, and others.

The funeral of an aged Hawaiian woman, Waiaman Ai, was held this afternoon at Williams' undertaking parlors. She was 90 years old and died yesterday in Palolo valley. She was a member of the Kaahumanu society.

ELECTION UPON BOND ISSUE IS PLAN SUGGESTED

Possibly the board of supervisors may decide not to wait for legislative primaries in September for submitting the municipal loan proposition to the voters.

At an informal conference between the mayor and Supervisors Logan and Hatch of the finance committee at the city hall today noon it was agreed that the public interests would be served by holding a special election on the bond question. Between two and three months' time would thus be saved, which was felt to be an important matter, since, before an affirmative vote of the people can be given effect the matter will have to be presented to the president of the United States for his approval.

This view of the matter will be put before the board of supervisors at the adjourned meeting Friday night.

he was at play within the cottage. He was not located until after the fire had been put out by the city engines, and in the long hour that the firemen fought the flames his parents were frantic with fear and dread of his loss.

The sound of snapping flames along the side and roof of the barn was the first warning that Mrs. Correa had of the fire. She ran at once to the interior of the building to find the keeper, August Freitas, who was at work in the harness room.

As soon as Freitas learned of the fire he yelled to her to send in word by telephone to department headquarters, and himself rushed to get out the horses. His quick work saved them all.

Mrs. Correa ran across the street to a neighbor who owns a telephone and got word to the fire department, which had engines on the way at once. The stables were situated between Kawaiahao and Queen streets, next to Cummings street, which meant a long run for the firemen over rough roads. They arrived too late to save the stables, but prevented the further spread of the flames. A ditch on the Ewa side of the stable yard and a wind from the opposite direction also prevented the fire from spreading further.

As the firemen worked with axes and hose residents of the neighborhood in the near vicnity of the fire struggled frantically removing household goods from their homes.

Portuguese and Hawaiian women, overcome with the excitement of the scene and the report that a baby had been lost, embraced each other for comfort and moaned and wept.

August Freitas told the Star-Bulletin today that he has no idea of how the fire started.

"The first I knew of it was when Mrs. Correa came screaming it to me," said the aged keeper. "I was in the harness room and the first glimpse told me it had gone too far to stop with a bucket. I told her to get word up town, and myself ran to loose the horses and lead them out."

According to Mr. Jacobson the burned building was not owned by the Union Transfer Company, but leased from the Schuman Carriage Company, Ltd.

The building was very old, a one-story frame structure with tin roof, and not very valuable. There was no insurance. Mr. Jacobson said that most of the property of value, such as teams, harness and wagons, had been saved.

Chief Thurston said he thought the loss would not be over $1000.

The city was startled by the seldom-heard "double alarm" sounded by the Hawaiian Electric Company's big whistle, and by the speeding fire-trucks and galloping horses. Many autos rushed spectators to the scene. The police were on the spot early and did good work in stretching fire-lines and keeping back the curious crowd.

PROPOSED BOND ISSUE TO HAVE CIVIC HEARING

First Steps for Submission Are Taken After Report of Water Committee

Agitation for a $750,000 bond issue for Honolulu is under way. Last night Deputy City Clerk Eugene Buffandeau was instructed to request the Chamber of Commerce, the Ad Club, the Rotary Club and other such bodies to set a date at which the supervisors might appear before them and discuss the details of the proposed issue. Then the city attorney was instructed to prepare the form of question that must be submitted to the voters and to do the other preliminary work connected with the election. It is proposed to hold the bond election this fall simultaneously with the legislative primary election.

There was but one committee report on the mayor's message recommending the issuance of the bonds, although it had been referred to all of them two weeks before. Included in Supervisor Arnold's motion to start a speech-making agitation of the question was the suggestion that "we all get busy and do something on this. It has hung fire for three months now and if we are to be ready to address these clubs we must have some facts."

The water and sewer committee was the only one to come forward with a report when the bond issue message was called as a special order of business last night. It had a long tabulated statement prepared by Harry Murray, manager of the water and sewer department, showing the streets where sewer and water main extensions are needed and the portion of the street on which they are needed, the size of main or sewer that should be installed, the distance in feet and the estimated cost. The total cost of needed water main extensions is figured at $357,392, sewers $560,000 and a filtration plant for Nuuanu water $150,000, making a total of $1,067,392.

Murray suggested in a letter accompanying the tabulated report that in allotting any part of the proposed bond issue to his department the bond proceeds be kept in the general fund to be expended for improvements on streets on which the frontage tax laws may be put into operation—in other words, when the property owners of a district pave their streets the city should instal a water and sewer system.

DO THIS FIRST—YOU!

You know, and every physician knows, that when any sickness has passed, whether it be throat trouble, organic disturbances, contagious diseases, or even a severe cold, a relapse is feared, because sickness robs the system of Nature's resistance and leaves it subject to lingering germs.

Drugs never build up a worn-out body—only food can do that, and the first thing to take after any sickness is the concentrated, blood-making oil-food in Scott's Emulsion, which feeds the tissues, benefits the blood and strengthens both lungs and throat.

Physicians prescribe Scott's Emulsion after sickness. Nurses everywhere advocate it. Scott's is pure medicinal food, without alcohol or drugs.

STRENGTH SHOWN IN SOME STOCKS, SALES SMALLER

Pioneer and Oahu Continue to Lead Advance and Waialua Falls Away Some

"Generally a strong market, but a little bit spotted in that it is strongest at two or three points," was a description of the stock market given this morning before the session of the exchange had been held.

Pioneer and Oahu at that time appeared to be closely held, while Waialua and Ewa were more freely offered than yesterday. Olaa and McBryde were still commanding considerable attention and were quoted at yesterday's prices, 21⅞ and 14¾ respectively.

There appeared to be nothing new in the way of developments as to any of the stocks and even rumor had little new to offer, but the strength was there in the sugars. Mainland copper stocks were reported as not so strong, the weakening tendency resulting from a decline from top price of the metal, the last quotation received here being 29 cents on Monday.

It was after the session that the suit in ejectment by the Bishop estate against the Waialua Company, mentioned in another column of today's Star-Bulletin, was filed. Some reports that suit was to be filed were considered responsible for the free offering of the stock of the company. Before the session on comparatively small transactions it sold down to 37¾, a decline of ½ from yesterday's high.

Oahu rose to 40¾ and Pioneer was steady at yesterday's highest, 53½.

There was a considerable falling off from yesterday in the volume of transactions, the total number of shares dealt in being 3136.

Commissioner J. N. S. Williams told the commission yesterday that he will leave on Friday for Victoria on the Makura. He will be on the mainland about six weeks. There will be another meeting of the commissioners at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

"Citizenship and the Law" will be the subject of a paper which Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson will read at a meeting of the Men's Club of St. Andrew's cathedral at the home of Dr. W. L. Moore, 916 Green street, this evening. A musical program will be presented and refreshments will be served.

STUART GRANTED 60-DAY ABSENCE

Attorney-general Gregory, in a letter to Circuit Judge T. B. Stuart yesterday, granted the latter a leave of absence for two months with the provision that it terminate at any time during that period when the jurist's resignation might be accepted.

In a statement given the Star-Bulletin today, Judge Stuart explains several things regarding his resignation, which now is in Washington, D. C. Among other things, he points out that the resignation was directed to President Wilson, and not to the judiciary department.

His statement is as follows:

"My resignation was directed to the president and not to the judiciary department. I know that some steps have been taken concerning it, but do not know what has been done. It is in the hands of others to manage, and matters move slowly in Washington.

"My resignation will surely be accepted when it is reached. There are no strings to it. I consider myself out of the way of any one who desires to apply for the office.

"I received a letter from the attorney-general yesterday granting me 60 days' absence from the first of June with a provision (in accord with my own suggestion) that it should terminate before the 60 days expired in case my resignation was accepted before that time."

At the luncheon and meeting of the Ad Club this noon, President W. R. Farrington named the following committees to serve for the ensuing year:

Advertising Technology — L. Van Anderson, H. G. Jewell, A. L. Andrews.

Music—A. E. Larimer, G. J. Boisse, A. L. Andrews, R. C. Brown.

Civil Convention—L. W. de Vis-Norton, E. M. Ehrhorn, F. Q. Cannon, H. H. Williams, R. E. Lambert, J. D. Levenson, Sonny Cunha, E. Schwartzberg, J. M. Moragne, Hugh Howell, J. A. M. Johnson.

"Sugar and pineapples are not the only assets of Honolulu and Hawaii," said Miss Lillian Janes, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Pacific coast field in a talk at the luncheon.

Selecting "The Y. W. C. A. as a Community Asset" for her topic, Miss Janes outlined the various plans of the association and showed a number of reasons why the community should look upon the association as one of the principal assets.

"I was charmed when I reached Honolulu, and I knew that I would be welcomed here. The ukulele has done much to make the people on the mainland think of Honolulu. This instrument has won its way into the hearts of Californians, and all those who play it feel a pull inside that beckons them to Hawaii.

"I am confident that the Y. W. C. A. has proved to be an asset in every community. It is a world wide organization and stands for something in every section of the country. Girls traveling alone can be assured that they will be taken care of wherever there is an association.

"The Y. W. C. A. is adaptable to the needs of the vicinity. There is no certain pattern. We have a pattern for San Francisco and one for Honolulu. This system has proved to be a successful one. Young girls learn that the Y. W. C. A. is working at all times for the interests of all. It is a sisterhood where all stand together, and although many do not realize this, nevertheless it has been proved.

"Efficiency in the business classes is one of the assets of our association. The girls learn to make their own hats and shirt waists, and can be counted on to do their share in the advancement of best interests in the community.

"Our work on the Zone and at Angel Island has marked the association as one capable of taking care of any problem that is to be faced. Honolulu will soon have a worker who will assist in looking after the girls from the Orient the same as in other sections.

"The association is a lighthouse that stands as a security to the young girl. It is this first and a life saving station after. The association gives the girl the benefit of having something to work for,' she concluded.

The program opened with a trombone solo by Ferd W. Behling, who favored the members with two selections. President Wallace R. Farrington then read a communication regarding the railroad situation amendment, which was voted upon and passed. Charles R. Frazier reported that the committee had secured $561 for a Hawaii float in the Philadelphia parade at the time of the meeting of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

An Ad Club meeting at the Central Union church will be held June 11, at which time Rev. George Laughton, pastor of the First Foreign church of Hilo, will speak. A. L. Andrews was named as chairman of the musical committe, and J. Morton Riggs was named as chairman of the general committee to arrange for the meeting on the evening of June 11.

Mrs. Rose Janowitz, who has pleased the Ad Club members before with selections, sang two solos this noon, which were much appreciated. She was accompanied by "Sonny" Cunha.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—HON. W. W. MORROW: From what I have thus far seen of the city I certainly am favorably impressed with Honolulu. If I have time I expect to visit the Volcano.

—JOHN A. DOMINIS: At the rate divorces are now being filed in the circuit court the month should close with at least 30 in the docket. Six in one day is the record so far.

—HENRY W. KINNEY: Very few mainland teachers will be employed in the public schools of the territory during the coming school year. There seems to be plenty of local material, and this, of course, will be given first choice.

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 24, 1916.

UNCLE JOE, AMERICAN

The New York World thus comments of a congressman whom, as a politician, it dislikes heartily:

Joseph G. Cannon has been sometimes a demagogue and usually an extreme partisan, but he has never been a partisan against the United States. Some public men of his own and adjoining States who have felicitated "Uncle Joe" upon his eighty years might well imitate his method of standing pat in this respect.

References is made, among others, to Congressman Mann, whose recent attitude has been a puzzle. The World has hit one of the keynotes of Uncle Joe's nation-wide popularity—he is an American through and through. He casts votes in Congress neither for the Central Powers nor for the Allies, but for the United States. He speaks not as an adherent of either side, but as an American. If neither side is pleased, it makes no particular difference to Uncle Joe.

TWO SIDES OF THE SHIELD.

When Federal Judge Howe of New York sentenced Lieut. Robert Fay of the German army to eight years imprisonment for conspiring to destroy munition ships clearing from American ports, he said:

"According to your testimony you committed a grave crime against Germany by deserting your post and country, where you were engaged in lawful warfare, to come here where you have committed still graver crimes against this nation, for the purpose of helping Germany in the war.

"Too many things have been happening in this country since the war commenced. This court is going to convince you and thoroughly warn others that this country is not a proper place in which to carry on the war and that our laws are still binding notwithstanding the war in Germany."

This puts the case very well. Those Germans and German sympathizers who thought they could with impunity carry their war into the United States should now be thoroughly disillusioned. The German government certainly cherishes no illusions on this score now—witness the recent warning sent by von Bernstorff to German consuls in this country. How much easier it would have been, how much the Germans would have kept of American sympathy which they forfeited, if at the beginning of these dynamite and arson plots their officials had taken an uncompromising stand against the conspirators and conspiracies!

The other—and brighter—side of the shield is shown in this despatch from New York:

NEW YORK, May 2.—A demonstration of loyalty to America is one of the purposes of a great meeting to be held under the auspices of the United German-American Societies and the Austro-Hungarian Societies at Sheepshead speedway June 4. The day will be designated as "American Liberty." The demonstration is intended to be absolutely American and its organizers hope that Americans of no matter what ancestry will take part.

To remind the people that many Germans have proved their loyalty to this country a series of floats representing many famous Americans of German parentage, such as Molly Pitcher, Von Steuben, De Kalb, Pastorius, Muehlenberg, Carl Schurz and Franz Sigel, will be shown. A troop of German veterans of the civil war will march in the parade and a living American flag will be composed of 1600 girls in uniform.

American flags will be distributed to those present and the program will conclude with the singing of the national anthem and a general salute to the tSars and Stripes.

That is the sort of allegiance due the United States, and the only sort of allegiance which can stand the test in a time of national danger.

THE PASSING OF A BOSS.

George B. Cox, the Cincinnati politician whose death occurred Saturday, was of the type of bosses which American politics produced by the hundred twenty years ago and which changing conditions are now fast eliminating.

The smashing of graft-rings; the eradication of party patronage and "special privilege" for corporations; the enactment of direct primary laws and corrupt practices acts, have sounded the knell of bossism. Cox's power has been over for years and he has been on the ragged edge of criminal prosecution.

Yet he had many humanly likable qualities and some remarkable ability.

Early in his political career Cox was elected to the city council. That, however, was the only elective office to which he ever aspired. He found the inner circle conferences of his party far more to his liking than the open work of the platform. As leader of the Republican party in Hamilton county, he selected his chief lieutenants August Hermann, now chairman of the National Baseball Commission and president of the Cincinnati Baseball Club, and Rud Hynicka, who later became closely associated with Mr. Cox in the theatrical ventures. In the division of authority between these two, Cox assigned Hermann to the city of Cincinnati and Hynicka to Hamilton county outside of Cincinnati. For years the word of these two men in their separate fields was final.

In 1884, during the Blaine-Cleveland campaign, Cox's circle of influence widened. At that time the Republicans declared for protective tariff and the idea appealed to Cincinnati as a rising manufacturing city. Cox was awake to the possibilities, formed the famous "Blaine club," and asked to be allowed to direct the congressional campaign. In this political fight he won, Hamilton county giving Blaine a substantial plurality.

Cox's work in connection with the candidacy of William Howard Taft for the presidency, occasioned surprise among political observers. When the former president was Secretary of War, he delivered an address at Akron, O., supporting Myron T. Herrick for governor of Ohio. In this address he took occasion to say that if he voted that year he would cast a straight Republican state ticket, but would not support the Cincinnati city ticket placed on the ballot by the Republican organization. This was construed as a direct slap at the Cox organization, but contrary to expectations, Hamilton county was solid for Taft when he was a candidate for president a short time later and it was known that Cox used his influence in swinging the state for Taft.

Chairman Kitchin of the House ways and means committee proudly says that the "second of the administration's preparedness measures, the navy bill, will pass the house by June 3." Only in a political sense is this bill an administration measure. The whole country knows that only a little more than a year ago the president was utterly against pronounced naval increase, and that in his message at the opening of the present Congress he deferred to Secretary Daniel's views and virtually indorsed the Daniels' program. That program has been thoroughly upset by the recent congressional developments. A bigger navy is to be created—and created in a hurry. Now that circumstances have forced an alteration of view, the administration, through its floor men in Congress, is trying to take the credit. President Wilson's conversion is so recent that during his speaking trip from Philadelphia to St. Louis he progressed from a navy which should be not less than second (this was in Philadelphia) to "a navy incomparably the greatest in the world" (this was in St. Louis).

Judge Wilder is quoted in California papers, to which he evidently gave a statement, as saying he will lodge charges against Governor Pinkham in Washington. Our recollection is that he has already lodged several sets of charges; that he returned from Washington months ago saying the president and Secretary Lane planned to displace the governor; also that he said he was willing to be a candidate for the position. Others who were in Washington while Wilder was supposedly getting his "inside" information came back with the absolute assurance that the governor has the confidence of both the president and the secretary of the interior. Wilder will probably next be heard from at the St. Louis convention, where he will endeavor to get an anti-Pinkham plank in the Democratic platform or something equally as fantastic. Anything to discredit the governor—any straw in the sea, any port in a storm!

The belief that Germany is ready to make peace is strengthened by the Kaiser's action in summoning Prince von Buelow to an interview on a matter "of extreme importance." The former Chancellor of the Empire is one of the few German statesmen who have ventured to disagree with the War Lord and say so; and it is an open secret that he disapproved greatly the policy which led to the present conflict.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Reports that L. L. McCandless may seek the mayoralty ought to remind voters that the territorial campaign is drawing near and leaders who can lead are scarcer than ice on the new lava flow.

It is not the sixteen years since Manila, but the 300 years before, that call for more preparation for independence.—Washington Post.

"Bryan to Head Grape-Juice Ticket," says a headline. What about Henry Ford and the Gasolene Ticket?

This may not be withdrawing from Mexico, but the difference is not perceptible to the naked eye.

Letters on TIMELY TOPICS

This paper will treat as confidential signatures to letters if the writers so desire, but cannot give space for anonymous communications.)

APPRECIATION.

St. Peter's School,
May 23, 1916.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin:

Sir: In behalf of St. Peter's school I wish to express hearty appreciation of the publicity you so generously gave our work in the production of the Chinese operetta, "The Feast of the Little Lanterns," thereby aiding in its success.

Yours very truly,
JESSICA ALLEN PASCOE.

AN OPEN LETTER.

(To a member of the Advertiser staff in answer to an editorial of Saturday, May 20, 1916.)

Sir: What manner of man are you that you slander the dead. The dead who died for Ireland, and why have you the audacity to do it openly? Is it because with true "Latente" instinct you realize that "there is safety in numbers," or is it because England is the land of your love, or because Pearce, Connolly and the rest have displayed a strength of nationality and patriotism of which you, sir, may be utterly incapable.

Any fair-minded man—"not a hater of the Irish"—will grant at least that these men, who died defiantly espousing the cause to which they had pledged their lives, felt that they had a nationality worth dying for, and the declaration of independence for which they shed their blood in an endeavor to perpetuate was worthy of the sacrifice. Following is said declaration:

"The Provisional Government of the Irish Republic to the People of Ireland:

"Irishmen and Irishwomen, in the name of God and of the dead generations from which you received the old traditions of nationhood, Ireland, through us, summons her children to her flag and strikes for freedom. having organized and trained her manhood through her secret revolution organization, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, and through her open military organization, the Irish Volunteers, and the Irish citizen army.

"Having patiently perfected their discipline and resolutely waited for the right moment to reveal itself, she now seizes that moment, and, supported by her exiled children in America, and by her gallant allies in Europe, by relying on her own strength, she strikes, in full confidence of victory.

"We declare the right of the people of Ireland to the ownership of Ireland and to the unfettered control of Irish destinies to be sovereign and indefeasible. Long usurpation of that right by a foreign people and government has not extinguished that right, nor can it ever be extinguished except by the destruction of the Irish people.

"In every generation the Irish people have asserted their right to national freedom and sovereignty. Six times during the past 300 years they have asserted it in arms. Standing on that fundamental right, and again asserting it in arms in the face of the world, we hereby proclaim the Irish Republic as a sovereign, independent state, and we pledge our lives and the lives of our comrades in arms to the cause of its freedom, its welfare and its exaltation among nations.

"The Irish Republic is entitled to, and hereby claims, the allegiance of every Irish man and Irish woman. The republic guarantees religious and civil liberty, equal rights and equal opportunities to all its citizens, and declares its resolve to pursue the happiness and prosperity of the whole nation, and of all its parts, cherishing all the children of the nation equally, and oblivious of the differences carefully fostered by an alien government, which have divided the minority from the majority in the past.

"Until our arms have brought the opportune moment for the establishment of a permanent national government, representative of the whole people of Ireland and elected by the suffrage of all her men and women, the provisional government hereby constituted will administer the civil and military affairs of the republic, in trust for the people.

"We place the cause of the Irish Republic under the protection of the Most High God, whose blessing we invoke upon our arms, and we pray that no one who serves that cause will dishonor it by cowardice, inhumanity or rapine. In this supreme hour the Irish nation must, by its valor and discipline and by the readiness of its children to sacrifice themselves for the common good, prove itself worthy of the august destiny to which it is called.

"Signed, in behalf of the provisional government,

"THOMAS J. C. CLARKE,
"S. MacDIARMAD,
"E. CEANNT,
"JAMES CONNOLLY,
"JOSEPH PLUNKETT,
"THOMAS MacDONAGH,
"P. H. PEARCE."

Those last men who died for Ireland were acclaimed by the highest principles, and even the London Times gives them credit for the humane and well disciplined manner in which they fought. This account says:

"Civilians were not molested in the streets, and much of the firing was of blank cartridges. There was an effort to show that the movement was entirely military in character and directed only against the government, not against the populace. There was little looting, and only about 10 or 20 shops were entered. There was no violence against private persons and as long as you did not wear a uniform you were as safe walking in Dublin streets as in the streets of London.

"This shows a remarkable difference from the Larkin transport riots two years ago, when it was not safe for anybody to walk in the streets for fear of violence. During last Monday's and Tuesday's trouble the populace could go where they liked. There was barbed wire around the postoffice, but the sentinels made no effort to prevent people who wished to from crowding under the barriers.

"On the other hand it was made clear that anybody in His Majesty's uniform would be shot at sight.

"Another illustration of the rebel's excellent organization was the fact, that although food was commandeered from a big hotel, it was paid for."

Now, sir, will you still insult the intelligence of the citizens of Honolulu by expecting them to believe that all that the rebels did was to snipe Red Cross workers, loot and burn and fire dum-dum bullets? You call the rebels "the scum of the Irish nation." Well, sir, there were Tories in America in the old days who believed that the rebels under Washington were also "scum."

I fervently hope that if ever America is assailed by a foreign foe we shall have the same kind of scum to rally around our Star Spangled Banner of freedom as rallied around that flag in '76.

There are men occupying high positions in America today who feel that it was an awful blunder to break away from the stepmother country, and these men would sacrifice American independence in order to go to her aid now, but, thank God, there are millions of true Americans (some of them descendents of the "scum of '76 and '98" inspired by the same noble motives as "the boys who fought mit Siegel") who think otherwise.

On Saturday, August 9, 1902, in the city hall, Dublin, Mr. John Redmond said:

"In Ireland there is neither liberty, prosperity nor loyalty. There is oppression and poverty and justifiable disloyalty. We submit to the English usurpation of the government of Ireland, but we do so because we have no adequate means of successful resistance. We are still an unconquered race and all the might and gold of England cannot impose her yoke on the hearts and spirits of the Irish people."

Now, sir, who is the traitor? Is it Patrick Pearce, who died for the cause he espoused, or is it John Redmond, the arch-hypocrite, who was sent to parliament to champion the cause of a people he has since betrayed?

As a diplomat you would be a glorious failure. I fear that I have trespassed too much already upon valuable space, but I shall be very sorry not to have a reply from you to this letter. I would welcome it so that I could lay a few interesting and telling facts before the good people of this community. I now challenge you to a written debate "On the right or wrong of Ireland's claim to national emancipation," if the Star-Bulletin will grant me sufficient space. I feel that you will refuse because you will not be able to maintain your present attitude with credit either to yourself or your paper. A much easier and more natural course would be for you to sneer, instead. A refusal to accept this challenge, however, will be taken as a display of weakness, and one who earns his livlihood with his pen should have strength and force enough to defend his slanderous and vituperous assertions. So come on, now; let's clear the air a little.

JACK D. CLEARY.

HIS OBJECTION TO BRITISH RED CROSS DAY

Honolulu, May 24, 1916.

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: It was with great interest that I have read the objections voiced to British Red Cross Day by an American in yesterday's Star-Bulletin, and in my estimation he hit the nail fairly and squarely on the head, not once, but several times; but one reason and a very important one for not contributing to their support he did not mention, and that is the inhuman and barbarous order of the British government to refuse to let any Red Cross supplies reach Germany.

Even the necessary milk is by them denied to reach the German and Austrian babies yet the British Red Cross will make an appeal for "humanity sake" to the world at large to contribute money for the British and their allies and provide funds for their wounded and cripples.

Any one, may he be a German, a neutral, or one of the allies, or even wear the uniform of the U. S. army or navy, may help to replenish the exhausted war chest of the bankrupt Allies.

Our boys in Hoe should feel proud indeed that the kind-hearted British Red Cross Society will accept their hard-earned money and treat him as one of their own favorite nation, as long as they are willing to part with their good, honest American dollars to carry on their hopeless cause.

What assurance have we, that once the money is in the hands of the British government it will not be used for the purchase of ammunition or other war supplies, or what is the difference if, by using our money so contributed, they save their own money needed for the support of their wounded and buy war supplies with the money thus saved?

Hoping that you will find space in your valuable paper for above remarks, I am,

Yours truly,
CHAS. WAGNER.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

GEORGE K. LARRISON: Our first coast defense company is moving right along. I look for a good turnout on Thursday afternoon.

ROBERT C. LYDECKER: I find it mighty interesting work to gather up these old court records. Some of them go back before the time of the Mexican war and show much of the old life in Hawaii.

CHAS. R. FRAZIER: We want ideas. The Ad Club delegation to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs at Philadelphia wants ideas regarding a suitable float to put in the night pageant.

—CHARLES R. FORBES: Territorial prisoners at work on the Keeaumoku road on Hawaii seemed to be well situated and doing a good job of it. I visited the place on my recent trip there and was much interested in it.

—BERTRAM G. RIVENBURGH: I'm glad I found my dog. It was like a funeral around the house all the time she was gone. It may have been she read the ad in the Bulletin, but I doubt it—she is too young to read the papers.

WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE OF HONOLULU ARE VISITING IN SAN FRANCISCO.

MILLS CLUB TO MEET.

The Mills Club of Honolulu will meet at the home of Mrs. A. J. Campbell tomorrow. The president is Mrs. C H. Kluegel.

This club is an expression of one phase of the "Mills College" life. There are seven organizations of this name in existence, the oldest, twenty-six years, is in San Francisco, and holds the honor of being the second women's club formed and organized in that city. The members of this society are limited to the graduates and nongraduates of Mills seminary and college. The seminary has developed into the college and they are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary After June third the milestone will be passed and they begin another period under a new regime. Under the guidance of one of California's most intellectual women, one who has won the admiration of all that have had the privilege of meeting and knowing here, there is a bright outlook for the western women's college in California.

The Mills Club of Honolulu is well represented on the campus and in the halls of Mills College. Miss Mabel Wilcox sent by this organization is proving worthy of the honor bestowed upon her by her friends in Hawaii. All Mills' organizations congratulate the Honolulu Mills Club.

The following program will be presented at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow:

Piano Solo—"Renouneau" by Goedart, Mrs. W. Furer.

Address—"The Life of the Historical Tree," Miss H. Kimball.

SEWING GROUPS MEET.

Gathering at their respective places of meeting throughout the city the 16 neighborhood groups into which the Women's Society of Central Union church is divided for needlework and sociability, held their last monthly meeting for the season last Thursday afternoon, work not to be resumed until some time in October.

These circles, organized originally with no other idea in view than to better promote acquaintance and sociability among the society's members or those who would enjoy becoming its members, have each in its way accomplished a considerable amount of work along altruistic or charitable lines. One of the Manoa groups is making 40 guest towels, each in a different design, which will be one of the very attractive and novel table features of a small sale which will be handled in the fall for the benefit of the flower mission. Several of the circles have been engaged in sewing on the little garments cut and furnished them by the infants' outfit committee of the society, which supplies layettes for some of the little "butterfly babies" whose mothers have been either too poor or too ignorant to provide proper clothing for the little newcomers.

Another of the Manoa circles has spent its time making much needed garments for the children of the Salvation Army Home, while the Kamehameha group has interested itself in making baby kits for some of the foreign relief work carried on by the Red Cross Society. Another group has interested itself especially in the fortunes of a poor family whose needs are far in excess of its resources, and the ladies are busy each month sewing for these people.

One of the Manoa circles has spent part of its time making garments for some Hawaiian people in its own district and two others have sewed on children's garments for the use of the Associated Charities. Previous to the cherry blossom fete several circles spent one afternoon making articles furnished them by the needlework committee of that affair.

Among the well attended circles last week was the Manoa group entertained by Mrs. S. W. Smith, Mrs. Elizabeth Frazier and Mrs. Charles Frazier at the residence of Mrs. Frazier, Jr. Twenty-three ladies were present. Each member of the circle has agreed to make at least two articles which will be sold in the fall for the benefit of the flower mission. It was decided to hold this sale at the home of Mrs. J. L. Young in Manoa and it will probably take the form of a garden party. At the conclusion of Thursday's meeting the hostess served delicious ice cream and cake and afternoon tea, after which the ladies said farewell for the summer.

Circle No. 9, which includes many of the Makiki women, was entertained most delightfully by Mrs. Percy M. Pond at her home on Kewalo street. Nineteen members were present and rags for the seventh rug were sewed at this meeting. Mrs. Warren exhibited four new rag rugs recently completed by the circle, two being orders. Mrs. Warren, the circle chairman, made a brief financial report which shows that the circle has taken in $20 from the sale of four rugs and will receive $5 more in October for the fifth, to be delivered at that date, thus leaving two rugs, one a dainty pink and white one, and one in soft blue tones, still to be disposed of by the circle; 90 cents from the sale of leis is also recorded.

This circle finances the courtesy committee of the Women's Society and next year will probably devote some of its earnings to the furnishing fund of a proposed new building, which may be erected in the future for church uses. Mrs. Madsen will entertain this circle at its first meeting in the fall and at that time each woman is asked to bring silk scraps to be used in the making of an all silk rug.

Mrs. Arthur F. Griffiths has filled the position of general chairman of the circle most efficiently, keeping a watchful eye over the various groups, arranging for hostesses, etc. As Mrs. Griffiths is leaving this summer for a year in the East, her work will be taken up by Mrs. Doremus Scudder in the fall.

Others than those already mentioned, who acted as hostesses to their respective circles last week were Mesdames R. D Williams, William Stoddart, Marsilly, A. J Gignoux, R. S. Johnstone, W. D Westervelt, Maud Taylor, Vincent Genoves, Wilbur J. MacNeil Doremus Scudder, C. B. Andrews, R. E. Corcoran, C. C. James and the Misses Crumpton and Downer.

HONEYMOONERS HERE.

A honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands will be enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Eustace, who sailed a few days ago. Their wedding took place in Boston on April 24 and was one of the important social events of the Easter season there. The bride was formerly Miss Gladys Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzroy Kelly of Boston. Wyatt Eustace also formerly made his home in that city, but for the past year has been living in San Francisco, and he and his bride will reside here on their return from their honeymoon. He was one of the ushers at the marriage of Dr. George.—San Francisco Chronicle.

NOTABLE ARRIVALS.

For the next few weeks the ultra-fashionable set will be very gay, so many affairs having been planned in honor of Mrs. Templeton Crocker of San Francisco and her friends, Mrs. Frederick Kohl and Mrs. Eugene Murphy, who accompanied Mrs. Crocker here for a visit, and Miss Marion Zeile, who came on the same steamer with Mrs. Harold Dillingham, whose house-guest she will be.

WEDDING OF WIDE INTEREST.

The possibility that the battleship Kansas, now at League Island, Philadelphia, might be sent to sea at a day's notice in the present crisis in national affairs, lent wings to the wedding of Ensign John Herbert ("Babe") Brown, famous navy football player and member of Walter Camp's All-American team of 1913, to Miss Nellie R. Janvier, daughter of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Maryland.

Accompanied by "Big Bill" Hollenbeck, the famous Pennsylvania fullback, the couple drove in an automobile to Elkton, Md., Saturday, procured a license and were married. Then they returned to Philadelphia and were found Saturday at the Bellevue-Stratford, where were marshaled a host of football players and naval officers who are friends of the bridegroom.

"You know we did not exactly elope," explained the pretty bride, "because the wedding was to have taken place in June anyhow, but Mr. Brown is assigned to the battleship Kansas and she is under orders to steam on 24 hours' notice, so we just decided to get married right away."—Washington Star.

RETURN FROM HONOLULU.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtlandt Bishop returned a few days ago from Honolulu and were at the Fairmont until yesterday, when they left on a motor trip down the coast. They brought a large touring car from New York and made several automobile trips in the Hawaiian Islands. The Bishops will return to San Francisco for another visit before going to their eastern home.—San Francisco Bulletin.

✣ ✣ ✣

Mrs. Harold Snow (Miss Anita Flahaven) left recently for New York, where she will join her husband, Lieut. Snow, United States navy, who will be stationed on the Atlantic coast during the summer. Mrs. Snow and Miss Muriel Boxton, who is also in New York, have been enjoying several motor trips together. They motored with a party of friends to Boston, where they were the guests of Lieut. Snow's relatives.—San Francisco Chronicle.

✣ ✣ ✣

Mr. and Mrs. Gaillard Stoney and Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Holmes are having a delightful motor trip in Southern California. They have been stopping at Beverly Hills for the last week, but left Saturday for Coronado. En route they will stop at several other watering places.—San Francisco Examiner.

✣ ✣ ✣

With June little more than a week away, bridal plans are interesting more than one girl. Having weddings take place on Saturday as a matter of course does not constitute the only innovation that brides of the present season have adopted.—San Francisco Chronicle.

✣ ✣ ✣

Mr. Ernest Parker, who is to be the high priest in the Zarastura ballet at the June Fantasy, is to wear a wonderful creation to fit the part he is to take. Much time has been spent on the construction and furnishings of this garment.

Jack and Carter Galt will be home from college on June 20 for the summer holidays. From June 1 on every steamer will bring home a few of the younger set who are away at the various Eastern colleges and school.

Mrs. E. C. Webster of Kamehameha schools left on yesterday's steamer for her home in New Haven, Conn. Mrs. Webster will be gone for three months visiting relatives.

✣ ✣ ✣

Helen, Margaret and Kathrine Jones are not coming back for this summer, planning to spend it on the coast of Maine. They will be greatly missed, for they surely are popular generally.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane have asked a company of friends to a dancing party at the Country Club on Saturday evening, complimenting Mrs. Templeton Crocker.

COAST SOCIAL NOTES

Capt. J. M. Reeves, U. S. N., who was in command of the U. S. S. Oregon during the exposition period, has been ordered to Mare Island for duty as captain of the yard. His family has resided at San Rafael for a year or so.

Capt. Reeves and his family are now established at Mare Island and are being cordially welcomed by the navy set there. Capt. Reeves was given a farewell dinner on board the Oregon this week and presented with a handsome memento by the crew.—San Francisco Examiner.

Rear Admiral Richardson Clover, U. S. N., has arrived from Washington and was at the St. Francis for a few days prior to going to Cloverdale, where he will be joined later in the season by Mrs. Clover and the Misses Clover, who will, following their custom, spend the summer there at their country place, which adjoins that of Mrs. Henry J. Crocker.—San Francisco Examiner.

✣ ✣ ✣

Surgeon and Mrs. Percival S. Rossiter entertained at two dinners recently at their quarters at Yerba Buena island in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hull of Santa Barbara. The guests at the first dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Hull, Capt. and Mrs. Philip Andrews and Passed Assistant Surgeon William H. Halsey and Mrs. Halsey.

On the following night the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hull, Paymaster and Mrs. Roland W. Schumann and Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Wallace Bertholf.—San Francisco Examiner.

✣ ✣ ✣

Col. Alfred M. Hunter, U. S. A., and Mrs. Hunter and Capt. George T. Perkins, U. S. A., and Mrs. Perkins are being entertained at a series of affairs, formal and informal, prior to their departure on the June transport for Honolulu, where they are to be stationed indefinitely.

Capt. and Mrs Jairus Moore will give a dinner for them Wednesday at Fort Scott.

Last night Lieut. and Mrs. John G. Hotz gave a dinner for Capt. and Mrs. Perkins. The other guests were Mrs. Martha Pratt Donnellan, Lieut. John Pratt, Maj. Joseph Wheeler and Capt. Henry C. Merriam.

Miss Marguerite Muller, the attractive sister of Lieut. LeR. Hollis Muller, will be hostess tomorrow evening at their home in honor of Col. and Mrs. Hunter and Capt. and Mrs. Perkins. Other guests will be Capt. Clarence Clapp, U. S. A., and Miss Dorothy Deane.—San Francisco Examiner.

Col. John T. Knight, U. S. A., and Mrs. Knight and their family will arrive in a few weeks in San Francisco from the Philippines and will be stationed at Fort Mason.

The family is well known here and will receive a warm welcome from many friends. Mrs. Knight is a daughter of Gen. S. M. B. Young, who was for many years in command of the western division of the United States army.—San Francisco Examiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Templeton Crocker plan to sail for Honolulu this month, leaving next week. On the same boat will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham and Mrs. Fred Kohl. Although it is not positive as yet, it is hoped that Miss Marion Zeile and perhaps Miss Marion Newhall will be of the party as guests of the Crockers. Mrs. Henry Foster Dutton is still there and has no plans for returning as yet. The soft, mild climate has done much for Mrs. Dutton's health and she is delighted with life there. Mr. Dutton will join Mrs. Dutton there later. As this is all a coterie of the most congenial friends, one is safe in making the guess that Honolulu society will be much enlivened by their sojourn.

Meanwhile, the Dillinghams continue to be feted. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Wood gave a dinner party for them a few nights ago, and tomorrow, Miss Marion Zeile has a dinner and theater party for them. Mrs. Horace Hill entertained at a smart luncheon for Mrs. Dillingham a few days ago.

Mrs. William H. Crocker is to be away until after the national convention in Chicago. Mr. Crocker, who is a national committeeman to the Republican convention, is taking the keenest interest in politics this year, and so is Mrs. Crocker. She hopes to attend this much-talked-about convention on her way home from New York with Miss Helen Crocker. Miss Ethel Crocker accompanied Prince Poniatowski, her uncle, to Paris.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Mrs. William G. Irwin has opened her home at Burlingame and gave one of the handsomest luncheons of the season on Thursday, as a courtesy to Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who is leaving in a few days for New York. Mrs. Reid is not positive whether her much-anticipated trip to England has to be given up this year, but the chances are that she will not be with the Honorable and Mrs. John Ward and their children, as she had hoped. Mrs. Reid is very devoted to the Wards' children—her grandchildren—and delights in being a part of the London season. Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, who have a place on the Hudson, will be in Newport for the summer, instead of in England, and they will entertain Mrs. Reid for part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Whitman (Jennie Crocker) and their four children will be here in June, occupying the Crocker home in Burlingame. Mrs. Whitman's nieces, the Misses Harrison, will be here again this summer, according to present plans.—San Francisco Chronicle.

HACKFELD'S HAVING NEW LAUNCH BUILT FOR LOADING SUGAR

An interesting launch is being built at San Francisco, according to the San Francisco Examiner, for Hackfeld & Co. of this city, to be used in loading boats at the island of Maui.

It is 38 feet long by 10 feet wide and has a long iron strap running along the keel and up through the deadwood at each end. The ends of the strap are forged into loops.

This launch will be carried on the deck of steamers, loaded, sent ashore, hoisted up the cliff, unloaded and returned to the steamer in the same way. She is equipped with a 35-horse-power Union engine and is being built by Harry Anderson. She will be finished in a week and brought over here soon afterwards.

SYDNEY MEN TO RUN STEAMERS TO COAST?

A new steamship line to ply between Sydney, Australia, and Portland, Ore., is being planned by three wealthy paper men to carry newspaper and other freight to the southern port, according to the Portland Telegram.

These men are J. C. Connolly, publisher of the Morning Herald of Sydney; Harry Southouse, a wholesale paper dealer of Sydney, and H. R. Williar, a San Francisco paper exporter. They have put the proposition up to the Hawley Pulp and Paper Company to furnish them with a minimum of 500 tons of news paper a month and if that company can turn out the paper for them they will put the steamers on the run in a few months. Their present plan is to call at Portland every 30 days. The steamers, of course, would carry other freight than the paper, and if the proposition goes through it will relieve the present congestion of freight now piled on the coast city wharves. It would also help this port, as the steamers would have to stop here for coal and take and leave freight.

ENDAU COMPANY GETS EXPERTS IN TIMBER HANDLING

Albert Waterhouse Returns From Trip to Purchase Sawmill and Secure Men

Albert Waterhouse, who will leave in a few days to take up his new post as manager of the Endau Development Company's large interests in Johore, Malay, returned from the mainland yesterday after securing saw mill equipment and engaging the services of expert timbermen and mill engineers to handle this part of the company's activities.

He brings back news that the company has secured the services of Dan D. Wilder as lumber mill superintendent, and an expert logger named Judy as his assistant. Both men will arrive here in June to be joined by Mr. Waterhouse and they will continue their journey by the Tenyo Maru of June 16.

"Mr. Wilder comes with the highest recommendations," said Waterhouse this morning. "He had been sent out by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, big sawmill manufacturers, to erect a mill and break in a Chinese crew for the Borneo Company, the largest company in the teak business in Siam. Consequently his ability and experience are of the exact kind for us. We closed a contract to take charge as lumber mill superintendent, and he has had wide experience in cutting timber, both hard and soft, in the middle states and northwest and in British Columbia. Judy, who comes with him, has been in the lumbering business for 30 years.

"The sawmill equipment has been purchased and started from Seattle by shipments and these will be completed by September, so that we should get started pretty soon. Incidentally, what breaks my heart is the fact that freight rates are so high that the freight rate is 30 per cent of the cost of the equipment!"

Waterhouse goes to Johore under a five-year contract. Whether he will return on leave of absence during this five years is uncertain. His headquarters will be at Blair Harbor, Johore, and the Endau Development Company has the only deep-water harbor of any big-timber company operating in that part of the country.

EXTENSIONS OF CAR LINES ARE OBJECT INQUIRY

Supervisors Seek to Learn Their Power to Compel Action By Company

Has the city the power at present to force the Rapid Transit Company to make extensions? This question was submitted to the road committee at last night's meeting of the supervisors.

A letter from the transit company was read at the meeting saying that the bus line had been removed from Kalihi Valley as the road was in such poor shape it could not be run. Supervisor Hatch was on his feet as soon as the letter had been read. "This is a grand opportunity, a grand opportunity to ascertain whether or not the city has the right to force the extension of the company's lines up the Kalihi Valley," he declared. "So far the community has sat still and let the company do as its pleases. Now let us try and enforce our rights. I move that this matter be referred to the roads committe and it be directed to take some action, if possible, towards forcing the Rapid Transit Company to perform its share of caring for the transportation of the public of Honolulu. The attempt to run a heavy bus over a mud road has not been very satisfactory. Let us see if we can't get street car tracks up the valley."

Every member of the board was with him in a minute. One after another they expressed their accord with the views of Supervisor Hatch, and the motion was passed.

DR. NEGORO TO PUBLISH PAPER

The Japanese Association of Hawaii has been very active for more than a week by canvassing for new members, and has now almost 1000 new members. The association intends to publish a newspaper as its organ, but this hope is reported abandoned and the general secretary, Dr. G. Negoro, will publish a newspaper within a short time. His type and machinery are already imported from Japan, Japanese said today.

KAHULUI BREAKWATER BECOMES PART OF BILL

The $250,000 for Kahului west breakwater has been allowed by the United States senate and is now a part of the rivers and harbors bill, according to a cablegram received by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. This was predicted by the chamber's representative in Washington some time ago.

THREE MATTERS ARE DEFERRED BY SUPERVISORS

Board Discusses Phases of Affairs at Length But Waits to Take Action

Action on the purchasing agent ordinance, the appropriation from the waterworks fund for the water investigation commission and the appropriation for the city attorney's investigation fund was deferred by the supervisors last night.

Supervisor Hatch took advantage of the occasion when the proposal to appropriate money from the water works fund for the investigation commission was submitted to the board to say that the commission had been a little unbusinesslike in its dealings with the finance committee; that it had not brought in a detailed statement of the uses to which the $3000 asked was to be put but had said that there was a liberal allowance for contingencies. At his suggeston the matter was referred to the finance and water works committees jointly.

At the last meeting the request for additional funds was left to be considered when the budget for the next fiscal period is made up. A proposal that the water department advance the money at once has been submitted since then and has the approval of the water committee and Harry Murray, manager of the water works.

Discussion on the need of the attorney's department for $300 to meet investigation expenses was the occasion for a sharp exchange of criticism between Supervisors Hatch and Arnold. Hatch asked that action be deferred as there was some question as to the propriety of the expenditures. Arnold arose and suggested that as the attorneys were conducting important work in investigating the activities of quack doctors the appropriation be passed.

Hatch resented the implied criticism of his committee and said so. Asserting that there was a principle involved he declared that he would take all the time he thought necessary before reporting the matter. Arnold warned him that he would introduce a resolution appropriating the $300 at the next meeting and the matter was closed. A few minutes later the two were warmly advocating another measure together and apparently had forgotten their tilt.

Supervisor William Larsen said during the discussion that the police force and detectives ought to be able to gather all the evidence needed and W. T. Carden, deputy city attorney, explained that as the police were well known to most of the criminals of the city it was almost impossible for them to gather evidence in many cases.

The purchasing agent ordinance amendments were deferred without discussion.

As a book and as a play, "The White Sister" created a sensation. Filmed for the screen by Essanay, with Viola Allen in the title role and Richard C. Travers as leading man, it will be the sensation of the motion picture world. The director has caught the heart throbs of a woman and used them with the subtlety of genius in making the world's greatest motion picture.

Six reels are required to tell the story of "The White Sister"—six reels that are crowded every moment with the hurrying events of a great life drama. The pictures are superb. There is nothing missing, nothing wanting in this most beautiful and wonderful of motion pictures. Every part is perfectly cast, every scene perfectly played.

NO NUUANU DAM WEAKNESS FOUND YET, IT APPEARS

An hour of technical questions and answers occupied the hearing last night by the special advisory committee of engineers upon the safety of Nuuanu dam. With Chairman F. B. Smith leading the way, questions were put to Fred G. Kirchhoff, engineer for the city water works, George Moore, tender at the dam, James T. Taylor, engineer for the Oahu water investigation commission, and Harry Murray, superintendent of city water.

Kirchhoff's testimony was the most interesting as well as the most technical of the evening. He has made several examinations of the dam and the pipes and gave the results in engineering terms last night. In general he held that while there is some lekages through the pipes, and possibly through the dam structure itself, the leakage is not enough to make the dam unsafe.

Chairman Smith, Ed J. Lord, Carl B. Andrews, R. Howland and Superintendent of Public Works Forbes did the questioning. They were particularly trying to find out whether the water known to be leaking through the dam comes through inability to close the pipes or through the dam structure; also whether faults in the wooden-stave pipe necessarily constitute a menace, or whether the concrete covering may remain intact. The answers, while indicating that the concrete pipe is probably all right, were not conclusive, and it was noticed that Ed Lord made the comment that a good deal of water is running to waste even with the valves closed, possibly indicating serious leaks through the dam structure.

Chairman Smith appeared to take the view that nothing has yet been found to indicate structural weakness or danger in the dam.

The committee will make another visit to the dam Sunday and crawl through the main pipe. At a later hearing it is expected that T. F. Sedgwick, the water expert who claims that the leakage is such that the question of the dam's safety is involved, will be called for testimony.

STAR ATHLETES WILL ENTERTAIN AT OPEN HOUSE

Elaborate preparations are being made to make the open house and entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening a big success. The orchestra which furnishes the music held a final rehearsal Monday evening and over 60 boys who will take part in the athletic exhibition worked out in their various events.

Superintendent Fred Anderson will bring a large delegation of boys from the Waialee industrial school to put on the finest exhibition of pyramid work ever seen in the islands. The boys have been training for two months under the direction of Samuel W. Robley, assisted by two of the teachers at the school, L. W. Fagg and Chris Benny.

Special apparatus for the horizontal double bar exhibition by four men from the German ship Gefer is being unloaded from the Matsonia today. These men are experts in the German Turnverein work and their exhibition should thrill the spectators Friday evening.

A cafeteria dinner will be served from half-past five until half-past seven with music by a quintet club in the lobby. This dinner is open to ladies as well as men. Bowling and billiards will be thrown open to the men and women who attend the open house.

The concert and athletic exhibition begins in the games hall at half-past seven. A small admission charge will be made to defray expenses of the boys' clubs, and the public is invited. The complete program is as follows:

CANNOT DEPRIVE FEDERAL COURT OF JURISDICTION

In Admiralty Cases, Legislature Has Not This Power, Judge Clemons Decides

That the local United States court cannot be deprived of its jurisdiction as a court of admiralty by any act of the territorial legislature, and particularly by the Workman's Compensation Act "purporting to abolish common law remedies in personall injury cases," is the summary of a decision handed down by Federal Judge C. F. Clemons today, overruling an exception to a libel for injuries filed by Kim Hong, a Korean, against the Inter-Island steamer Claudine.

The question decided by Judge Clemons was raised in an exception filed by the attorneys for the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, in which it was sought to have the libel suit dismissed on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction to hear the case for the reason that the Workman's Compensation Act provided for the remuneration for persons injured, as in the case of Kim Hong.

"The constitutionality of the act has not been raised," says Judge Clemons in his decision, "and in any event need not be considered, for any such question would be quite immaterial under the view above expressed."

One of the grounds set forth in the respondent's exception was with regard to the plaintiff's waiver of all rights to libel the ship in admiralty "by accepting hospital and medical attendance and care and payments for cost of maintenance made by the claimant under the provisions of said act."

COMPANIES NOW LIABLE FOR MEN UNDER CONTRACT

Supreme Court Decision One of Most Important of Year, W. T. Carden Thinks

Plantations and other large corporations who let out part of their work on contract are held liable for injuries to employes of the contractor under a decision of the supreme court handed down Monday afternoon, deciares W. T. Carden, deputy city attorney, who handled the case for the industrial accident board. The decision was on the reserved question submitted to the court by the board in the matter of the claim for compensation of Ichijiro Ikoma against the Oahu Sugar Company.

Ikoma was employed by a Japanese contractor who was constructing the roadbed for a plantation railroad in Kipapa gulch. While holding a drill for another laborer a piece of steel flew from it and struck him in the eye, destroying his sight. The court held Monday that the sugar company, not the contractor, was liable under the workmen's compensation act. This is the first decision that has been handed down on any phase of the act.

"It is one of the most important decisions of the court in the last year," declared Carden. "It will affect hundreds of cases. It gives a broad scope to the act.

'If the decision had been the other way round it would have been easy for the plantations and other large employers of labor to contract out of a large part of their liability. The small contractors who do a good deal of the work for the plantations are irresponsible generally and a claim against them would be almost worthless. Now the workman is assured that justice will be done, that he will have a claim that can be enforced in case of injury."

SAYS NEW SLOT MACHINES ARE FOR GAMBLING

Captain of Detectives McDuffie has investigated in detail two gum "nickel-in-the-slot" machines which have recently made their advent in Honolulu. Mention was made of them Monday in the Star-Bulletin.

The captain says that although the law is partially observed the machines are purely gambling devices and should be prohibited. There is one in a Fort street tobacco store and another in a cigar stand on Nuuanu street.

"You get a piece of gum with every nickel you play," said the captain, "and you can't play the chips back. You are encouraged, however, to play when you don't want gum with hopes of extra chips which may be used in trade. The proposition is an evasion of the law for if a person wanted some gum he would pay five cents for a real package."

Whether action will be taken against those who own the machines and make a business of placing them in various stores will be determined by the county attorney who asked McDuffie to investigate.

COKE'S PAY ON LEAVE BOTHERS UTILITY BOARD

Whether a leave of absence granted to Senator James L. Coke, attorney for the public utilities commission, should be with or without pay was the question which bothered that body yesterday afternoon for a considerable portion of a brief meeting.

Mr. Coke has been in the employ of the commission for only two months, and Commissioner J. N. S. Williams pointed out that it was hardly in keeping with custom to grant him the $250 that his vacation period would bring.

Finally Commissioner A. J. Gignoux thought of the Wahiawa Water Company question, which, he said, will depend largely upon the way certain questions are to be decided in California. The suggestion met the approval of all, and Mr. Coke was asked to gather data on the California board —with pay. He will sail tonight on the Sierra for San Francisco.

Commissioner Williams expects to leave next Friday on the Makura for Victoria. The commission adjourned at 2:30 o'clock to meet at 1:30 o'clock next Thursday afternoon.

LOCAL COMPANY COMPARED WITH BEET SUGAR CO.

Interesting Comparison As to Earning Abilities Made By San Francisco Writer

The following article, which is of interest in the islands, where sugar is the all important industry, appeared in the San Francisco Examiner in its issue of May 12:

Despite the dictum that "comparisons are odious," a short analysis of the present technical and market conditions of the American Beet Sugar Company, and the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company, may possibly prove of use to discriminating investors.

The likelihood that the comparisons may prove useful is strengthened by the fact that the American Beet Sugar Company produces annually about 25,000 tons of sugar more than the Hawaiian Commercial, yet does not possess nearly so good a dividend record.

Yesterday morning the common stock of the American Beet Sugar Company sold at New York around 73½, practically record figures for the issue.

The company has outstanding $15,000,000 of its common stock, and $5,000,000 of preferred stock.

On the latter dividends at the rate of 6 per cent have been paid annually since the formation of the company. The dividends on the common stock have been intermittent, the initial disbursement being 1¼ per cent in November, 1911.

On April 29, 1916, the company declared 1½ per cent on the common stock—the first dividend since November, 1915.

In addition to its stock issue the company has a small issue of bonds outstanding.

Rather more than 85,000 tons of refined sugar annually is the company's record of production. Some of the lands planted in beets are not owned in fee simple by the company, but are leased for a term of years.

As for the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company, its stock sold yesterday on the local Exchange at 55. This company is capitalized at $10,000,000 with only one form of stock, and it has no bond issue and no floating indebtedness. It owns its plantations, which are situated in the Hawaiian Islands, absolutely. Up till January 1, 1916, it has disbursed in dividends more than $13,400,000.

Its production this year will approximate 60,000 tons of raw sugar.

Including the dividend declarations, payable June 5 next, the company's dividends since the first of the year will aggregate $2.50, including extras, and in the opinion of well informed sugar men, the total dividends for 1916 may quite possibly amount to $7 or $8 in the aggregate—the exact amount depending upon the maintenance of the price of raw sugar at something approximating its present level.

Investors in sugar stocks may draw their own deductions from the foregoing comparison.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Representative Hay has introduced a bill creating a national council to mobilize the industrial resources of the nation for use in the event of war.

Canadian Unveils Intrigues of Court

JOHN MURRAY GIBBON.

FEW, other than those who have lived the life of art's inner Bohemia, realize what wire pulling goes on behind the scenes in selecting the artist who is to paint royalty's picture. Sargent, the great American portrait painter, declined because the British monarch refused to place his time at the artist's disposal. Sargent wished as many sittings as he deemed necessary—two or perhaps twenty-two or even 202—but the king would not be commanded. Another iron bound rule is this: No artist can paint royalty if scandal has so much as even breathed his name. Genius must be far beyond reproach. This cuts ambition like wheat before the reaper. The coveted honor is eagerly sought because it spells success—blazoned big and permanently. The wire pulling is often bitter and determined.

Authority for the above is John Murray Gibbon, who knows the world's art centers as the mariner knows his home port. A quiet but observing Canadian, Gibbon has just given London something besides the war to think about in the latest product of his pen, "Hearts and Faces." "I am sure," said he recently in New York city, "that there are some in London and Paris art circles who will not thank me for flooding them with calcium light. I may even be called to duel if I retrace my steps in Paris."

Full of shrewd, pointed description and biting irony, Gibbon's "Hearts and Faces" has invited the world to gaze upon the intimate life of several persons internationally famous and well known in the daily life of the British metropolis. The book has been brought to New York to be published.

Gibbon's life reads like a romance. He was born in Ceylon, the son of a titled Scot; educated in Glasgow; given a degree, "Cum Laude," at Christchurch (where King Edward was schooled), Oxford; admitted to classes in German universities and to the art schools of Paris and London, including the famous Langham; edited for a time Black and White, one of London's big magazines; elected an officer of the Circumnavigators' club because of his globe trotting achievements; author of several historical books and now on the threshold of new conquests in a field but recently entered.

Gibbon lives in the quaint French Canadian village of St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, and is making a record for himself as an official of the Canadian Pacific railway.

FOUND GOATS IN HUGE DROVES ON LITTLE ISLAND

Crusoe Had Nothing On Us In Goat-Hunting Line, Declares Atkinson

Robinson Crusoe and his goat-hunting expeditions on the island home had "nothing on" the band of National Guardsmen and territorial forestry officials who returned yesterday morning from the island of Kahoolawe, according to Capt. A. L. C. Atkinson, who acted as captain of the men.

Several goats were brought back to Honolulu, and one especially fine young fellow has been taken to the armory yard to become the mascot of the guard. He was tied up in the rear of the armory this morning, getting used to his new quarters.

So thick were the goats in one place that Percy Deverill, who was in the midst of them when they ran, yelled and waved his arms excitedly lest the rest of the hunters mistake him for a goat and bring him down.

Describes Interesting Hunt.

"We went in the Claudine to Maui," said Capt. Atkinson in telling of the trip, "and from Lahaina to Kahoolawe in the little sampan Heeia Maru, property of the Oahu Shipping Company.

"Eben Low and Forester Charles Judd, who had gone on ahead to prepare things for our coming, had sent the boat for us. We arrived at Kahoolawe just before daylight, and came nearly going ashore on the rocks, as the water was rough.

"After a breakfast of bacon, coffee and potatoes, we started out under the leadership of Mr. Low for the top of the island, 1400 feet high, and known as Brown's Hill. We worked around the north end and back to the cove at Kuuheeia at 6 o'clock that evening. We had killed a total of 95 goats that day and were tired, but supremely happy."

On the second day the party took the flagship Heeia Maru and headed for a sand beach near the extreme south end of the island. Low again guided the hunt and Capt. Atkinson commanded the firing. Some of the goats were lassooed and brought down to the camp alive. Of these there were probably 80 or 100. The rest were killed in the open.

Dispose of Live Goats.

These captured goats, which were all young, were later distributed to the natives at Makena and Lahaina.

The third day was spent in shooting and fishing, and some big fish were landed, according to Atkinson. The party left the island yesterday at 1:30 o'clock. Three returned here on the Heeia Maru, the rest coming in this morning on the Kilauea.

Those in the party were: C. S. Judd, Eben Low, A. L. C. Atkinson, W. S. Rycroft, E. R. Jackson, P. E. Spalding, P. G. H. Deverill, Gordon Scott, L. P. Scott, R. E. White, Fred Waterhouse, A. A. Engelhard, W. L. Emory, K. P. Emory, Lorrin Thurston, Jr., and "Kou, the Korean." J. L. Frield went as far as Lahaina, but had to return in time to be in Honolulu for work Monday.

Through the good offices of neutrals an arrangement has been made for the establishment of regular postal communication with the heads of families in the German occupied parts of France.

MAY SHOW NEED IN HONOLULU OF DETENTION HOME

Hutton Would Rent House and Demonstrate Work; Let Legislature Decide

W. H. ("Dad") Hutton, boys' probation officer, is sure now that he has a plan by which will be solved the detention home problem.

"My idea is not to touch a cent of that $7500 appropriation for a home," he said today. "What I would like to do is rent a place and then demonstrate Honolulu's need of a detention home. Then, when the legislature meets again, show it the work that has been accomplished and find out what it is going to do about it."

"Dad" Hutton also points out that $7500 is not enough for a detention home in Honolulu. He figures that between $12,000 and $15,000 would be necessary for an adequate plant. He now has several houses in view which would make good temporary homes and he may rent one of these and begin work within a few days.

"I have exceptionally good support in this work," he says.

The city of San Francisco now is constructing a detention home which will be nine stories high and which will cost approximately $161,000, Hutton says.

ALGAROBA TREES THICK ON ONCE BARREN ISLAND

Growth of algaroba trees in the last 10 years upon the island of Kahoolawe from which place members of the board of agriculture today returned, leads A. L. C. Atkinson, commissioner, to declare that prospects are exceedingly good for foresting much of it.

Kahoolawe seems to have been for a long while a curse and a byword for many people, but Atkinson says that the island deserves a very much better reputation than it now has. People go along the lee side in passing it, he says, and therefore fail to see the brighter and greener portions.

Commissioner Atkinson said today that the board is now considering the plan of appointing Eben Low as ranger, providing he will keep a man on the island all the time to guard against fires and warn off trespassers.

Mr. Atkinson favors taking steps at once toward reestablishing herbage on the more barren parts of Kahoolawe, which are swept so hard by the strong trade winds that blow across it. He suggests fencing portions of the land from sheep and goats, putting on horses to help distribute the algaroba seeds, and constructing good-sized reservoirs to conserve the rain water that falls so plentifully at all times.

"It is really wonderful how the algaroba trees have grown in the last 10 years, though," says the commissioner. In many parts of the island there is also a plentiful supply of pili and green manienie grass.

Territorial Forester Charles Judd, who made an investigation of the island with Mr. Atkinson and went to help in superintending the goat shooting which is mentioned in another column of this paper, took along several tree seeds which he planted as an experiment.

JAPAN ASKS SKIPPERS TO LOOK OUT FOR LONG OVERDUE FREIGHTER

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 24.—The Japanese consulate has issued a request to all skippers sailing from this port to keep a lookout for the Japanese freighter Seiko Maru, which sailed from Seattle for Yokohama on March 22 and is long overdue. She was reported passing Tatoosh on her way out and has not since been sighted. The Seiko Maru carries no passengers, but has a full crew and a valuable cargo. She has not yet been tolled for at Lloyds, but rates for her reinsurance have gone up to 75 per cent.

SLAYDEN DEFENDS TARDY MEMBERS OF TEXAS GUARD

Threatened Court Martial of Militiamen Brings Strong Protest From Solon

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—The war department has under consideration the matter of ordering the trial by court-martial of 116 members of the National Guard of Texas who refused to be amongst those guardsmen mustered into the federal service on the call of the president. Whether this or any other action will be taken has not yet been determined.

The question came up on the floor of the house yesterday, when Representative Slayden of Texas defended the guardsmen. "Under three per cent of the total enlistment of the Texas national guard failed to obey promptly the summons of the president to duty," said the Texan.

"It must be remembered that many of the Texas national guardsmen are working men, with families to support and other personal affairs to prevent an immediate response to an unexpected summons."

War Secretary Opines Commander Lost Trail and Decided to Come Home

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—In a statement yesterday Secretary of War Baker denied that the war department had issued orders to Col. Sibley to withdraw his command from Mexico, and added that he believes the move was made because Sibley and Maj. Langhorne had lost the trail of the bandits who had raided Glenn Springs, Deemers and Boquillas and consequently were compelled to come back.

IN WAR ARENA

FIGHTING GROWS HARDER ON EASTERN FRONT

LONDON, Eng., May 24.—On the eastern front, where the Germans and Russians are facing each other, the spring fighting is growing in volume. In the region of the Pripet river positions the Russians yesterday reported that they have repulsed repeated Teutonic attacks. The Russians report having occupied Serbecht.

In the Asia Minor fighting the Slavs continue their strides west and south, driving the Turks before them. They announced last night that after a series of battles they have succeeded in dislodging the Turks from the slopes of the Taurus mountain range, and have moved onward toward Mesopotamia.

AMERICAN SHIP PICKS UP CREW OF TORPEDOED BRITISHER

LONDON, Eng., May 24.—Captain Cooke of the American steamer Camino, has reported by wireless to the American consulate here that he has picked up at sea the officers and crew of the British steamer Ross, which had been sunk by a German submarine on April 25. The Camino is on her way from Havre to New York. The British sailors had been at sea in their small boats for nearly a month before they were rescued.

GOVERNMENT TO HANDLE GERMAN FOOD SUPPLY

BERLIN, Germany, May 24.—According to a statement by the North German Gazette Germany has an adequate supply of food to afford nourishment to the population whatever may be the duration of the war, but national necessity requires that the supply be handled and distributed by the government alone. The food supply will be largely vegetarian from now on.

BRYAN IS PROSPECTIVE PROHIBITION CANDIDATE

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless]

CHICAGO, Ill. May 24.—William Jennings Bryan may yet be a presidential candidate for the fourth time, the leaders of the Prohibition party in conference here having discussed the likelihood of securing the commoner's consent to becoming the party's candidate for the White House, in the event of the Democratic party refusing to include a plank for national prohibition in the platform to be adopted at St. Louis.

WILL FORMALLY OPEN WAIAHOLE TUNNEL PROJECT

Directors of Company, Stock Exchange Members, Businessmen to Attend

In the presence of directors of the Waiahole Water Company, members of the Honolulu Stock Exchange, and representatives of this city's banks and sugar houses, the Waiahole tunnel will be formally opened Saturday, and water will pass through the big project from end to end, for the first time.

Early Saturday morning water from Kahana will be turned on, to reach Waiahole, the tunnel's north portal, by 10 o'clock in the morning. Although the amount of water depends on the volume of rain falling in that vicinity between now and Saturday, with a low flow there should be 50,000,000 gallons passing through every 24 hours. The system was designed to handle 125,000,000 gallons in that space of time.

Officials of the Waiahole Water Company have made public the itinerary of the excursion to the tunnel. Invitations have been issued to the directors, representative bankers and sugar firm officials, and members of the stock exchange, so that 40 or 45 men will see the first water come leaping through the big pipe lines, and witness the system become a reality.

Guests are requested to leave Honolulu not later than 7:30 a. m., Saturday, as the tunnel train will leave Waiahole station for the north portal at 9 a. m. sharp.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the waters from the various tunnels and intakes will be turned into the main tunnel, and immediately after that the visitors will return to Waiahole by train, proceeding from there via the Pali road to the adit of tunnel M at Wahiawa, where the water will arrive at approximately 12:30 p. m.

Lunch will be served at Wahiawa at 1 p. m., while directors and employes of the Waiahole Water Company will make the entire trip as described. A guide will be stationed on the government road near Kipapa gulch to direct auto drivers to the proper roads for reaching the adit of tunnel M.

Mrs. Catherine Reddington, aged 100, died at her home at Pittston, Pa. She had been a smoker of strong tobacco since girlhood.

'A FULL HOUSE' FILLS THEATER WITH LAUGHTER

In poker terms "A Full House" is hard to beat. The same assertion might truthfull be made of the present offering of the Lytell-Vaughan Players, which takes its name from that pretty poker hand and is indeed "A Full House" of merriment. There is no particular redeeming feature to this farce-comedy except that it is an almost continuous laugh. For those desiring nothing but the serious the Bijou is not the proper place, but all those desiring an evening of jollity should by all means visit the Bijou tonight, the last time "A Full House" will be presented.

Evelyn Vaughan in the role of an eccentric comedienne is rather a novelty, but that is the role assigned to her in this particular bill, and so well does she handle the part of the servant maid who has Sioux City wished on her as a birthplace and has an idea that Sioux City has got New York cheated for the "big time," that her most ardent admirers have difficulty in locating their favorite. Miss Vaughan works through the first act, handling the majority of the "laugh producers" before many in the audience are quite sure she is on the stage. Bert Lytell appears as a burglar, Henry Shumer as a policeman—and he makes a good one. E. D. Hales is an English butler and his contortion of the "mother tongue" is a scream.

For the last half of the week the company will return to the drama, "Polly of the Circus" coming under that category. It is a drama, according to all reports, that leaves a good taste in the mouth—something rare in the dramas of the present day. It is a drama filled with sentiment in which is shown that the circus and the church are mighty closely related.

Every artifice of the stage manager is put forth in this production to simulate the idea of a genuine circus, in which the charming Polly is queen of favorites.

The death in South Africa of O. C. Montagu-White, who during the Boer war went to the United States to enlist sympathy for the Boers, is announced. Death was due to eating poisonous fungi, which were mistaken for mushrooms.

Scene from "Polly of the Circus," in which the Lytell-Vaughan Company is expected to score one of its biggest successes.

NATIONAL NOW HAS VAUDEVILLE

Bob Cooke and Dot Oatman, in an American vaudeville act billed as the "Classy Comedy Couple," harmonious singers and crosstalk artists, who are returning from a thirteen weeks' tour of the Tivoli circuit in Australia, have been engaged by the National theater and will make their initial bow to a Honolulu audience Friday evening.

The act traveled as a headliner on the Tivoli circuit and comes with high recommendation. It is well dressed, in fact, one of the best-dressed vaudeville turns Australia has seen. The chatter is lively and strictly up to date, and the songs include the latest Broadway "hits." One of the latter which will interest Honolulu people is "When Sunday Comes to Town." One of the act's best features is a burlesque of the well-known movie serial, "The Perils of Pauline."

Another vaudeville turn of high quality which is to be presented at the same time is Herman, a musician who plays the piano accordeon. Playgoers who heard the two piano accordeonists at the opera house a little more than a year ago will remember that wonderful music an artist can get from that strange instrument. Herman is an artist of that kind. He is well known on the vaudeville stage of the mainland.

The National presents one of the sensational photo-plays of the season this evening. It is Viola Allen and Richard C. Travers in "The White Sister." Viola Allen has been seen in this great production on the legitimate stage of nearly all big cities in America. In its silent form much realism of scenic effect and narrative details have been given that of necessity could not be offered in the stage presentation.

TONIGHT IS LAST OF 'THE CHEAT'

For the last time tonight "The Cheat," the photo-dramatic offering that has caused wide comment in Honolulu, as elsewhere, will be shown at the Liberty theater, "the home of Paramount pictures." Fannie Ward and Sessue Hayakawa, in the leading roles, do some exceptionally fine screen acting, the former taking her place in the forefront of diminutive dramatic artists. The latter is well-known as the leading Japanese actor of America.

The subject of "The Cheat" is not a new one in dramatics, with the possible exception that it is rather a novelty to have the "affair" between a white woman and a Japanese. The plot is a new version of the old "triangle." The woman, a typical social butterfly, is living beyond the means of her hard-working husband and in order to cover her losses at cards she invests a trust fund of $10,000—it was intended for the Belgians—in a stock that proves worthless; she loses the money and when exposure faces her she appeals to the Japanese for aid. He gives the aid, but strikes a "bargain." The woman is to visit him in his rooms the following evening. She does, but in the meantime has secured the $10,000 from her husband and comes to repay the money, not to keep her side of the "bargain." Infuriated, the Japanese brands the woman with an iron brand. She shoots him and escapes. Her husband is accused of the crime, tried and found guilty. Then comes the thrilling climax in which the woman confesses to the shooting and in justification she exhibits the brand. The crowded courtroom is soon a seething mob, bent on the destruction of the Japanese. It is one of the most thrilling mob scenes ever screened.

LESSON TAUGHT IN 'WORMWOOD'

"Wormwood," Marie Corelli's masterpiece of fiction, with a most substantial foundation in fact, has been adapted to the silent drama and is now being exhibited at the Hawaii theater. As it was popular as a novel so is it popular as a photo-drama, being filled with situations and scenes that are hair-raising in their tensity.

The Fox Film Corporation has out a bunch of "scouts" always on the still hunt for the "biggest and best" subjects for picturization. Such a scout undoubtedly arranged with Miss Corelli for the picture rights of this work, this vivid picture of the curse of absinth. Further than picturing the absipth evil "Wormwood" carries a plot that is well above the average adapted to the pictures. The story is that of a young banker, engaged to marry the daughter of one of the noblest families of France. A priest is a frequent visitor at the home of the girl and she falls deeply in love with him.

She makes a confession of her guilt to the man she is about to marry and he, staggered by the blow, seeks solace in a quiet park. He is met by an eccentric artist with whom he is acquainted and the latter suggests a cafe. An absinth is ordered,— the first for the banker. Soon the green-eyed monster has him in its power and, as the day of the wedding arrives he makes no move to stop it, finding solace in the cursed drink until on the wedding day and at the altar he refuses to marry the girl, denouncing her as the castoff sweetheart of the priest. She becomes an outcast, the banker a degenerate absinth fiend who sees the woman he once loved cast herself into the river.

NEW ANGLE OF SOCIETY SHOWN

"Unlike Other Girls," a feature comedy-drama to be presented at the Empire theater today, establishes an entirely new standard of plays which have to do with domestic difficulties and life as followed in high society circles. Pauline Bush, a general favorite with patrons of the movies, takes the part of the girl who by her clever wit completely foils the directorate of a big corporation. Miss Bush occupies the center of the stage in a series of sensational scenes. The plot has much originality. William Clifford displays realism in his interpretation of the lawyer, through whose influence an attempt has been made to put through a number of questionable deals. Love, romance and political intrigue are cleverly intermingled in the story. There is just enough comedy in the play to carry it through to a successful conclusion.

William Addison Lathrop is the producer of a splendid farce, "Getting Rid of Auntie," which comes to the Empire today. Mary Anderson, Harry Fisher, Kate Price and a score of artists make good in the comedy. "Alexander the Great," noted monkey, declared a truly wonderful animal, is featured in an uproarious laugh-fest. This picture is a novelty.

PICTURE TROOP CONTAINS SOME SHINING STARS

Relative to the moving picture company, which arrived on the Matsonia from San Francisco, the Chronicle says:

"Headed by J. P. McGowan, director, and Helen Holmes, star, a party of actors, actresses, camera men and the usual satellites of a motion picture company, arrived here yesterday on their way to Honolulu, where they will devote three weeks to the filming of a sensational five-reel feature, amid the tropical splendor of the Islands for the Mutual Film Corporation.

"McGowan and Miss Holmes, who in private life is Mrs. McGowan, are connected with the Signal Film Company, which is a subsidiary of the Mutual. Miss Holmes has been featured in a number of notable films, depicting railroad scenes, among them "The Girl and the Game," and "Whispering Smith." The latter has just been completed and will be released in the near future. She was star of "The Hazards of Helen."

TELEPHONE COMPANY MAY SOON AMEND BY-LAWS

Amendments to its charter and by-laws providing for a change in date of the annual meeting from September to February will be acted on at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Mutual Telephone Company to be held June 1 at the company's offices. Heretofore the September meeting has been adjourned subject to the call of the chair and then always called in February, as the company's books are closed at the end of the calendar year. This has caused considerable inconvenience to some of the stockholders and the amendments, which will have to be submitted to the governor and treasurer for approval, are designed to do away with this.

Some minor changes in the bylaws affecting the reissuance of lost stock certificates will also be made.

Yesterday's results—M Company 7, L Company 6. A Company 3, D Company 1.

[SpecialStar-Bulletin Correspondence]

FORT SHAFTER, May 24.—In spite of the drizzling rain which was falling when the first game of yesterday's double-header at Shafter was called over 600 fans turned out and were rewarded by seeing two exciting games. In the first game M Company beat L Company to the tune of 7 to 6, thereby securing a stronger lead in the battalion, and A Company made its initial appearance and humbled D Company by a score of 3 to 1, thereby depriving the latter company from first place, for the present, at least. Both games were especially interesting on account of the great rivalry between the various organizations, and the rooters had plenty of opportunity to give vent to their cheers, as both games scintillated with brilliant plays.

The first game scheduled was the one between M and L Companies, and was hard fought from the time the first batter strode to the plate to the last put out. Jones, on the mound for M Company, was wild in the first inning and issued free transportation to Ostendorf, the first batter to face him. The latter promptly scampered to second and was safe on a close play; Felton, the next man up, was also passed, and it looked as if L Company was to garner a bunch of tallies. Jones, however, tightened up and caused Rhodes to send a sky-scraper to Dupre, who promptly copped it, none of the runners advancing.

Hebner Waves.

Hebner then punctured the breeze on three consecutive offerings, and while he made his final swing at the pill, Ostendorf took a notion to steal home, but was flagged ten feet away from that station. Better base running and an opportune hit would have changed the complex of this game right here. M Company scored two runs in their half of the first. Minty was safe on Pike's error, an easy chance, promptly pilfered the keystone sack and scored when White slammed a hot one to deep center for three cushions. Jones was an easy out via the third to first route, but Rains strolled, swiped second, and with these two on, "Dad" Coakly pushed a nice single to center, scoring White. The next man up expired without much suffering. L Company did nothing in their half of the second, but M Company promptly plucked another tally when West singled, advanced on a passed ball, reaching third on Minty's sacrifice and scored on White's timely single. This was White's second opportune hit of the game.

In the third L Company corraled two more runs after two were out. Felton strolled, Rhodes sloughed a single to center and through slow figiding reached second, and Ostendorf third. Hebner obliged with a clout to left center, scoring the two, but died on Zilinski's out. M Company went out in one, two, three order. L Company could not do anything in their half of the fourth, though Pike and Luther singled and Ostendorf walked, but as two were out and the next man an easy out, nothing doing in the scoring line.

M Company came back strong, getting four runs. Herr singled, pilfered second, Dupre lined out one ticketed for a sack, advancing Herr to third, and White, next up, obligingly responded for the third time, this time with a two-sacker to left, scoring Herr and Dupre, then Kirk slammed a triple to left, scoring White, and later scored on Sweeney's fumble of Jones' push towards first, scoring four runs, for a total of seven. M Company could do nothing after this inning. L Company threatened to tie the game, or possibly win it in their half of the fifth, when they scored four, Rhodes reaching first when West juggled his liner, advanced to second when Hebner was passed, Zilinski then safe on an attempt to catch Rhodes at third, a fielder's choice, the latter scoring when Zimninski was passed. Sweeney, next up, cracked out a one-sacker to left, scoring Hebner and Zilinski, advanced to second on a steal, and when Pike's slow one was fumbled Zimninski scored, giving L Company four runs for the inning and a total of six for the game. However, L Company again threatened in the seventh, when Luther and Ostendorf singled after two were out, but the next man up popped up an easy one for the third out.

White's batting was a feature of the game, he gathering a single, double and triple on four trips to the plate. West, Rhodes, Hebner and Luther also were there with the stick, while Zimninski, Rhodes, Kirk and Minty contributed fielding stunts.

A Close One.

The second game, D and A Companies, was a hard fought contest. D Company resorted to every trick in their repertoire to avert defeat and threatened in the seventh, thanks to the assistance of the umpire (today, by the way, being the first occasion of any complaint having been heard against the indicator handler, the work so far being uniformly satisfactory). D Company, however, has won three straight and was out to make it four, and the boys wearing the gray could hardly be blamed for going after everything in sight, but there should be method to it, not the tactics of the sand lots.

A Company, in its initial appearance today, played a steady game and showed themselves familiar with both the offensive and defensive ends of the game, and are bound to cut a figure in this season's race, if they continue to serve the brand of ball they did today.

A Company was first to bat and Fowler skied to Milton. Brown singled and advanced to third on Herrington's one-base hit to center. Corello then laid down a neat sacrifice, scoring Brown, but Black (some color scheme) grounded out Medina to Milton, for the third out, preventing further scoring. D Company could do nothing in its half of the first though the first two men up reached the initial sack—Bennett on Herrington's error and Vickers on a drive to center—but could proceed no further as the next three batsmen were easy prey to Herrington's offerings.

A Company came back in the second with two runs when Doren reached first on Medina's error, advanced to third on Watson's clout to left, Proctor flying out. Trotten then fanning, Watson stealing second in the meantime, after which Fowler banged one to deep center, scoring Doren and Watson. Brown then fanned for the third out. D Company scored its lone tally in the second, when Bischoff reached first on Herrington's error, advanced to third on Tucker's crack to left for a sack, and scored on Bennett's safety to left for a sack.

A Company could do nothing with Peed's offerings after th third inning but two men reached first, one of these by error. In the third D Company got two on the paths when Bischoff and Milton singled, but the next man up could do nothing. In the fourth they also got two on after two were out, Vickers and Jackson singling, but the necessary punch was not there to bring them home. In the seventh they threatened seriously to break up the game, not by ball playing, however, but when Jackson dropped one a few inches in front of the plate, assumed he was out and departed for the bench, not, however, before being touched by the catcher, but on reaching his home bench somebody gently whispered to him that the catcher had failed to touch him and he rambled to first claiming he was safe. The umpire apparently was not on the job and let him have his way, out this spurred A tribe and the next three men were retired in succession, giving A Company a 3 to 1 victory, much to the crowd's edification, who were fairly impartial towards both teams up to the Jackson incident. Both pitchers twirled good games, four bingles being made off Peed and 10 off Herrington, but the latter had the better support and was able to put the brakes on when the enemy threatened. Proctor played a good game for D Company, while Tucker made several good stops of hot ones at third. There were no long hits to feature the game.

A. A. U. SWIMMING DATES ANNOUNCED BY RUBIEN

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Frederick W. Rubien, secretary treasurer of the A. A. U., has announced that the championship committee has awarded the national women's indoor swimming championships as follows:

Two hundred and twenty yards to the Hygeia Swimming Club, Atlantic City, May 29.

Fifty yards to the Philadelphia Turngemeinde June 3.

One hundred and fifty yards, back stroke and fancy diving, the Southern Pacific Association, Los Angeles, date to be decided later.

The 100-yard swim was awarded some time ago to the Arrow Swimming Club of San Francisco and will be held in Sutro Baths on July 4. The Philadelphia Turngemeinde will conduct a tryout at 100 yards on June 3 to decide the best girl swimmer of that section.

WHITE AND MITCHELL TO MEET ON MAY 29TH

MILWAUKEE—Charlie White of Chicago and Ritchie Mitcheli of Milwaukee, lightweights, were matched to box 10 rounds here on May 29, the weight to be 135 pounds at 5 o'clock. A previous contest between them was called off because Mitchell was suffering from blood poisoning.

Ponies Have Made Good Showing in Polo

STANFORD STILL CLINGS TO RUGBY GAME; STUDENTS VOTE TO RETAIN SCRUM

The recent vote taken by the Stanford, student body favoring the retention of Rugby football means that the big annual classic against the University of California is deferred for at least another year and is the cause of genuine regret among the followers of intercollegiate athletics.

Supporters of the American game have found considerable solace, however, in the fact that the vote was a close one, the Rugby adherents not having a heavy preponderance in numbers which many thought existed in favor of the English game. With practically all of the Pacific Coast universities and the majority of the schools back again in the American fold, there is considerable conjecture as to the quality of the playing schedule that the Stanford football authorities would be able to make. For its "big game" Stanford now has no choice but the University of Santa Clara, the only other college still adhering to the imported game. The contests between these two institutions always have been one-sided affairs, as was the case last year when Stanford rolled up a big score, blanking the Santa Clarans.

The University of California, according to its football authorities, has returned to the American game for good, and in substantiation of this has engaged a number of high-priced coaches to instruct the men in the game. It is believed that as soon as the game has been picked up again the coaching staff and present heavy financial outlay will be reduced to normal.

Simpson also broke the Missouri Valley record in the broad jump, setting a new mark of 23 feet 6¾ inches. Missouri won the meet, 68 to 41.

Simpson took five first places, scoring 25 points for Missouri individually. Kansas won five firsts and tied for one, and Missouri took eight firsts and tied for one. In the mile relay Missouri won by 25 yards.

WASHINGTON CREW WILL NOT GO TO HUDSON FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE RACE

SEATTLE, Wash.—The University of Washington eight-oared crew, which won the Pacific Coast intercollegiate rowing championship from Stanford University in a three-mile race on Lake Washington April 7, will not go East to participate in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson next month.

This was decided by the committee of businessmen who have been supporting aquatics at the university. Word was also received that none of the Eastern crews would accept Washington's invitation for a race on Lake Washington this summer.

The Washington crew is in training for the race with the University of California eight May 27.

MORAN AGREES TO ENTER RING WITH JACK DILLON

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Jack Dillon has been matched to meet Frank Moran.

Manager Murbarger wired from New York that Dillon and Moran will hook in a 10-round battle at Washington Park, Brooklyn, on June 24, and that Jack's share is to be $10,000, with the option of 25 per cent of the gross receipts, a share in the motion pictures and training expenses.

Murbarger stated that Moran's share was to be $20,000 flat.

THEY ARE COMING BACK TO COAST FROM MAJORS

CINCINNATI, O., May 15.—Infielder Bill Rodgers will be released to the Portland club tomorrow. This was announced tonight after word was received that Shortstop Bob Fisher had been secured by the Reds from Los Angeles. President Hermann of the Reds authorized the statement tonight that Rodgers will return to Portland at once. Rodgers says he is glad to go back. He will leave for Salt Lake to join the team in a day or two.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—Rodgers will be given his old place as second baseman and captain, according to Judge McCredie. Vaughn will be shifted to short and either Ward or Hollocher will be released.

Luther Cook, Yankee outfielder, has been released to the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League, and Urban Shocker, pitcher, to the Toronto International League. The club also announced that Charles Mullin, substitute first baseman, and William Piercey, pitcher, will be released to minor league clubs in the near future.

MISS CONAN BREAKS CENTURY SPRINT MARK

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—The breaking of one record, for the 100-yard dash, marked the annual field day at Vassar college. Miss Deith Conan of Boston, Miss., set the new mark of 12.4 seconds. The record was 13 seconds flat, held by Miss F. James since 1904.

BIG RACE MEET FEATURES JUNE SPORT EVENTS

Entries Will Close on June 1; Work Being Rushed to Completion on Improvement

Although it is more than a week before the entries for the big race meet are announced, the interest is at a fever heat and horsemen are making their predictions now as to the outcome of the various events staged for June 10 and 12 at Kapiolani Park.

A string of runners will arrive from Maui soon and more will come from Kauai and Hawaii. H. A. Baldwin will send over 12 of his best stock, there will be one from the S. A. Baldwin ranch, two from Frank Baldwin's ranch, four from Angus McPhee's stables, one from the von Tempsky ranch and two Japanese horses said to be fast.

Kauai Horses Due.

Kauai will send four racers from the Spalding ranch, one from Waimea and two Japanese horses. Hawaii will be represented by Sumere, Gaiety, Myrtle and Candy Girl. The latter horse is owned by a Japanese and is picked to figure prominently in the speed events.

Among the horses on Oahu which will be featured are Yellow Girl, owned by Walter F. Dillingham; Oneonta, owned by Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham; Young Lady, Harvester, Harold D. and 22 horses from Schofield Barracks. In addition there is expected to be a number of other entries before the books close.

Ready on June 1.

Men are working overtime on the stands and track, and, according to John S. Grace, everything will be in readiness by June 1. The swimming pool is being rushed to completion and the tennis courts are well along the way. With carpenters, laborers, horsemen and attaches at the track, Kapiolani Park has been a busy place.

The interest in the polo pony races and in the polo ponies appears to be increasing, as many spectators journey out to the Kapiolani Park stables each day. Among the ponies there at the present time are Kapihi Girl, In and Out, Helen C., Indigo and Genesee. These ponies will not be ready for competition for some time and it is believed that the polo championships will be later this year.

LOUIS MENDONCA AND GEORGE PERRY WERE BIG "FUTURES" IN PLAY

The fast third team of the Royal school defeated the second team of the Central Grammar school to the tune of 8 to 7. Chin Chin was on the mound for the Grammars. At first he boasted that the Royals were to easy for them. These youngsters took the stick and hammered Chin Chin's ball all over the field. In the fifth inning three men were on bases and Ah Yim came up and took the bat and batted a home run, knocking the bal over the fielders. Louis Mendonca, the catcher, and George Perry, the pitcher, were the "future" of the game, George Perry striking out 20 men.

Score by innings:

Grammars .....0 0 0 0 3 0 2 2 0— 7
Royals .....4 2 1 4 4 1 2 0 *—18

Line-up:

Louis Mendonca, c.; George Perry, p.; Frank Correa, 1b; Tony Perry, 2b; Louis Goeas, 3b; Ah Yim, ss.; Silva, c. f.; Vise, r. f., and John Taxia, l. f.

WASHINGTON HAS WIN IN INDOOR LEAGUE AT Y. M.

Chinese Players Defeat Triple A Stars in Fast Game in Games Hall of "Y."

In one real fast game the Washingtons bested the Tirple A's at the Y. M. C. A. last night. From the start it looked like a pitchers' duel and that is what it was. Lum Dunn in the box for the Washingtons pitched his fast and shifty article of ball. Against him Lane, younger at the game, did much better than was even expected, as he put down several by the S. O. route before being relieved by Bent.

In Bent, Dunn found a real rival and the Washingtons fanned right and left for a spell. In fact, only two runs in his four innings were gathered off Lent. The Washingtons excelled, however, in base running and continually took chances that netted them unearned runs.

Open the Gates.

As in all fast indoor games, the spectacular had its inning. In the sixth, with two down and two on, the Washington at bat, a real hot one was driven straight at the pitcher. It bounced out of his hands and continued to the second baseman. He in turn managed only to partially slowen the pill and the journey was continued to the center fielder, Nelson, who nabbed it. In the second inning Auerbach, who relieved McGuire at short, stopped two hot ones that nearly knocked him down.

The final score of 9 to 5 was a fair indication of the merits of the two teams. The Washingtons have a very fast and well seasoned team. Two-thirds of them are from the All-Chinese team and know the game thoroughly. Any team feels good to merely hold them down and the other teams will complete the series with this in view.

At a meeting of the captains last night the schedule for May and June was ratified. It is as follows:

May 30.—Washingtons vs. Athletics.
June 2—H. A. C. vs. Athletics.
June 6—Triple A vs. Athletics.
June 9—Washingtons vs. H. A. C.

The score by innings last night:

Washingtons ...1 0 0 2 4 0 0 2 0—9
Triple A .....0 0 1 1 0 0 3 1 0—5

Triple A—McGuire, Bent, Hoopli, Kahn, Decker, Kruger, Lane, Auerbach, Cooper and Nelson.

Umpires—Meinecke and Jackson.

FRITZ MAISEL OUT OF GAME.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Fred Maisel, center-fielder of the New York American League club, sustained a broken collarbone when he fell in chasing Graney's home run in the sixth inning of today's game with Cleveland, it was announced by the club tonight, and will be unable to play for a month.

IN THE REALM OF THE FEMININE

Once-Upon-a-Time Stories
By Kate Marcia Forbes

BILLIE, A DEAR DEER.

When Mama and Auntie were little girls we had a sister who was a big, grown-up young lady. One day a man came to tell Big Sister that there was a present for her in a big box down at the express office. Big Sister said, "Who sent it to me and where did it come from?" The man only laughed, and would not tell her anything except that it 'came from Texas, and that it was something alice."

Now, Texas was far, far away and it would take two or three days riding on the train all the time and never getting off to get there. Big Sister had a friend who had gone to Texas to run a big ranch, where they raised hundreds and hundreds of moo cows—oh, many more than you ever saw.

Grandpa took the horse and wagon and went away for the big box. Mama and Auntie felt sure he would bring home a dear little calf, and when he got back we ran out to the barn as fast as our legs would carry us. Big Sister and Grandma came too, and when they saw the box Grandma said, "Oh, isn't it a little beauty? The darling little fawn."

Mama and Auntie were looking at it as hard as we could, for we had never seen anything like it before. It wasn't half as big as a little calf and we didn't know what a fawn was until Grandpa told us it was a baby deer.

Grandpa gave it nice warm milk to drink and let it run all around the yard and sleep in the barn. There was a big, high picket fence all around the place and Billie, the deer, couldn't get out and no bad dogs could get in to tease or hurt him.

Billie ran and kicked up his heels and did nothing but eat and play and grow. Pretty soon a pair of beautiful horns grew on his head, not like a moo cow's horns, but they were twisted and had branches like the limbs of a tree. A cow's horns never come off, but a deer gets a new pair every year. The old pair come off and new ones grow on and each new pair is bigger and prettier than the pair which came off.

We never dared to leave a door open for Billie would walk right into the house, and he would even try to crawl through a window. One day Grandma heard an awful smash in the dining room; she rushed in and there was Billie! Somebody had left the front door open and he had walked down the hall into the dining room and eaten all the tomato and cucumber salad that was on the table for lunch. He had liked it so well that he was licking the dish (which, you know, isn't good table manners), and he licked it so hard he pushed it off the table with his nose and broke it all to pieces. But he got punished for being such a piggy-wiggy and for stealing and for breaking the bowl, because the salad gave him a dreadful tummie ache and he was sick for two days.

Billie grew so tall and could run so fast and jump so high that he could soon jump over the fence any place. He often used to jump over and run away for miles through the streets, with every loose dog in town chasing him and barking. Billie had lots of fun. He knew he could get back over the high fence any time he wanted to, and be safe; but the dogs couldn't jump over, as it was five feet high. Billie would shake his head and paw the ground and say "Baa, baa" to the dogs. With a toss of his horns and a kick of his heels away he would run like the wind, and when he got tired would come home, jump the fence and go quietly to eating grass. The dogs would run so fast behind him that they would never see the fence until they bumped into it and fell heels over head. Then they would lie down and growl all kinds of mean things to him in dog talk and he would just shake his head and say "Baa, baa."

But Billie grew bigger all the time, until he got to be tall as a big man, and when his old horns were about to come off he would get very cross and chase people, so that no one but Grandpa or Grandma dared come into the yard. Mama and Auntie could not play out if Billie was loose, so Grandpa gave him to the city park. They built a big, big fence which he could not jump over and on Sundays all the little boys and girls in town used to go out to see him and take him apples and peanuts. He lived in the park many years, and Mama and Auntie have a big framed picture of him and a pair of his horns that came off.

Sing—And Be Beautiful

I ADVOCATE SINGING as a beauty exercise for several good reasons—for one, because the needed practice develops the throat, the chest and bust, and even the upper arms. Have you ever seen a professional singer whose chest and shoulders were not beautiful?

The regular deep inhalations of breath, their enforced holding, the frequency of deep breathing, of course, are responsible for this. Besides, this breathing strengthens the throat, making you less liable to throat trouble, though of course making it necessary to guard against any colds or chills.

For another reason—a good singing voice almost always means a charming speaking voice. You cannot take singing lessons very long and keep a sharp or a nasal tone. As you learn to use your voice, it becomes rich and flexible—you can give emphasis to your words and your remarks by the very tones and variations of tones that you will unconsciously use.

No one ever heard of a good singer going into consumption—unless it was brought about by some peculiar combination of circumstances. A singer must have well-developed lungs—that's why. A singer must have a good digestion, hence she will have a clear skin, and a good color.

Learn to sing! If you have not the time for regular lessons, try to sing as you go about the house, whenever you can. Never sing in shrill tones—this rasps the voice. Keep your tones as low as you can. Listen to them, and try to improve them. Get a book on breathing and learn how to breathe properly while you sing.

This, too, will react on you, and by making you more charming will make you more beautiful.

Questions and Answers

If Miss D. B. will send an addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send her the recipe for blackheads. Broken veins in the nose are always cured through electric treatment. You would not be successful with it yourself.

* * *

Do you approve of a hair tonic for a child of less than two years? Her hair is thin and short.—Mother.

Singing makes the mouth firm and strengthens the throat. It fills out the shoulders and the bust as well

Reply—Her case is not unusual. The only thing that I would suggest would be to rub into the scalp a little red vaseline or some cocoanut oil, if the hair is very dry; otherwise, I would do nothing but keep a perfectly clean scalp for her and let her play outdoors without a hat, except when the sun is very hot.

ILLICIT STILL RAIDED BY LIQUOR INSPECTOR

J. Iokewe, a Hawaiian, was arraigned in police court yesterday morning, accused of selling liquor without a license. A warrant was out for another, Niauhue, on the same charge and also resisting arrest. Iokewe and Niauhue were placed under arrest in an old "swipes" mill in Kalihi Monday afternoon by William Fennell, liquor inspector, and his assistant, Ben Jacobson. After a rough and tumble fight with Jacobson, while Mr. Fennell had gone for his car, Niauhue escaped. Bail has been set at $100 for Iokewe and his trial will be Thursday.

BEFORE ADAM

By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

The opportunity came to the Chatterer one day when I was alone in the nest. My mother and the Chatterer had gone away together toward the blueberry swamp. He must have planned the whole thing, for I heard him returning alone through the forest, roaring with self induced rage as he came. Like all the men of our horde when they were angry or were trying to make themselves angry, he stopped now and again to hammer on his chest with his fist.

I realized the helplessness of my situation and crouched trembling in the nest. The Chatterer came directly to the tree—I remember it was an oak tree—and began to climb up. And he never ceased for a moment from his infernal row. As I have said, our language was extremely meager, and he must have strained it by the variety of ways in which he informed me of his undying hatred of me and of his intention there and then to have it out with me.

As he climbed to the fork I fled out the great horizontal limb. He followed me, and out I went, farther and farther. At last I was out amongst the small twigs and leaves. The Chatterer was never a coward, and greater always than any anger he ever worked up was his caution. He was afraid to follow me out among the leaves and twigs. For that matter, his greater weight would have crashed him through the foliage before he could have got to me.

But it was not necessary for him to reach me, and well he knew it, the scoundrel! With a malevolent expression on his face, his beady eyes gleaming with cruel intelligence, he began teetering. Teetering!—and with me out on the very edge of the bough, clutching at the twigs that broke continually with my weight. Twenty feet beneath me was the earth.

Wildly and more wildly he teetered, grinning at me his gloating hatred. Then came the end. All four holds broke at the same time, and I fell back downward, looking up at him, my hands and feet still clutching the broken twigs. Luckily there were no wild pigs under me, and my fall was broken by the tough and springy bushes.

Usually my falls destroy my dreams, the nervous shock being sufficient to bridge the thousand centuries in an instant and hurl me wide awake into my little bed, where perchance I lie sweating and trembling and hear the cuckoo clock calling the hour in the hall. But this dream of my leaving home I have had many times, and never yet have I been awakened by it. Always do I crash, shrieking down through the brush and fetch up with a bump on the ground.

Scratched and bruised and whimpering, I lay where I had fallen. Peering up through the bushes, I could see the Chatterer. He had set up a demoniacal chant of joy and was keeping time to it with his teetering. I quickly hushed my whimpering. I was no longer in the safety of the trees, and I knew the danger I ran of bringing upon myself the hunting animals by too audible an expression of my grief.

I remember, as my sobs died down, that I became interested in watching the strange light effects produced by partially opening and closing my tear wet eyelids. Then I began to investigate and found that I was not so very badly damaged by my fall. I had lost some hair and hide here and there. The sharp and jagged end of a broken branch had thrust fully an inch into my forearm, and my right hip, which had borne the brunt of my contact with the ground, was aching intolerably. But these, after all, were only petty hurts. No bones were broken, and in those days the flesh of man had finer healing qualities than it has today. Yet it was a severe fall, for I limped with my injured hip for fully a week afterward.

Next, as I lay in the bushes, there came upon me a feeling of desolation, a consciousness that I was homeless. I made up my mind never to return to my mother and the Chatterer. I would go far away through the terrible forest and find some tree for myself in which to roost. As for food, I knew where to find it. For the last year at least I had not been beholden to my mother for food. All she had furnished me was protection and guidance.

I crawled softly out through the bushes. Once I looked back and saw the Chatterer still chanting and teetering. It was not a pleasant sight. I knew pretty well how to be cautious, and I was exceedingly careful on this my first journey in the world.

I gave no thought as to where I was going. I had but one purpose and that was to go away beyond the reach of the Chatterer. I climbed into the trees and wandered on among them for hours, passing from tree to tree and never touching the ground. But I did not go in any particular direction nor did I travel steadily. It was my nature, as it was the nature of all my folk, to be inconsequential. Besides, I was a mere child, and I stopped a great deal to play by the way.

The events that befell me on my leaving home are very vague in my mind. My dreams do not cover them. Much has my other self forgotten, and particularly at this very period. Nor have I been able to frame up the various dreams so as to bridge the gap between my leaving the home tree and my arrival at the caves.

I remember that several times I came to open spaces. These I crossed in great trepidation, descending to the ground and running at the top of my speed. I remember that there were days of rain and days of sunshine, so that I must have wandered alone for quite a time. I especially dream of my misery in the rain and of my sufferings from hunger and how I appeased it. One very strong impression is of hunting little lizards on the rocky top of an open knoll. They ran under the rocks, and most of them escaped, but occasionally I turned over a stone and caught one. I was frightened away from the knoll by snakes. They did not pursue me. They were merely basking on flat rocks in the sun. But such was my inherited fear of them that I fled as fast as if they had been after me.

Then I gnawed bitter bark from young trees. I remember vaguely the eating of many green nuts with soft shells and milky kernels. And I remember most distinctly suffering from a stomach ache. It may have been caused by the green nuts and maybe by the lizards. I do not know. But I do know that I was fortunate in not being devoured during the several hours I was knotted up on the ground with the colic.

My vision of the scene came abruptly

He Was Afraid to Follow Me Out Amongst the Leaves and Twigs.

as I emerged from the forest. I found myself on the edge of a large clear space. On one side of this space rose up high bluffs. On the other side was the river. The earth bank ran steeply down to the water, but here and there in several places, where at some time slides of earth had occurred, there were runways. These were the drinking places of the folk that lived in the caves.

And this was the main abiding place of the folk that I had chanced upon. This was, I may say, by stretching the word, the village. My mother and the Chatterer and I and a few other simple bodies were what might be termed suburban residents. We were part of the horde, though we lived a distance away from it. It was only a short distance, though it had taken me, what of my wandering, all of a week to arrive. Had I come directly I could have covered the trip in an hour.

But to return. From the edge of the forest I saw the caves in the bluff, the open space and the runways to the drinking places. And in the open space I saw many of the folk. I had been straying, alone and a child, for a week. During that time I had seen not one of my kind. I had lived in terror and desolation. And now, at the sight of my kind, I was overcome with gladness, and I ran wildly toward them.

CHAPTER IV.

Then it was that a strange thing happened. Some one of the folk saw me and uttered a warning cry. On the instant, crying out with fear and panic, the folk fled away. Leaping and scrambling over the rocks, they plunged into the mouths of the caves and disappeared, * * * all but one, a little baby, that had been dropped in the excitement close to the base of the bluff. He was wailing dolefully. His mother dashed out. He sprang to meet her and held on tightly as she scrambled back into the cave.

I was all alone. The populous open space had of a sudden become deserted. I sat down forlornly and whimpered. I could not understand. Why had the folk run away from me? In later time, when I came to know their ways, I was to learn. When they saw me dashing out of the forest at top speed they concluded that I was being pursued by some hunting animal. By my unceremonious approach I had stampeded them.

As I sat and watched the cave mouths I became aware that the folk were watching me. Soon they were thrusting their heads out. A little later they were calling back and forth to one another. In the hurry and confusion it had happened that all had not gained their own caves. Some of the young ones had sought refuge in other caves. The mothers did not call for them by name, because that was an invention we had not yet made. All were nameless. The mothers uttered querulous, anxious cries, which were recognized by the young ones. Thus, had my mother been there calling to me I should have recognized her voice among the voices of a thousand mothers, and in the same way would she have recognized mine among a thousand.

This calling back and forth continued for some time, but they were too cautious to come out of their caves and descend to the ground. Finally one did come. He was destined to play a large part in my life, and for that matter he already played a large part in the lives of all the members of the horde. It was he whom I shall call Red Eye in the pages of this history—so called because of his inflamed eyes, the lids being always red, and, by the peculiar effect they produced, seeming to advertise the terrible savagery of him. The color of his soul was red.

He was a monster in all ways. Physically he was a giant. He must have weighed 170 pounds. He was the largest one of our kind I ever saw. Nor did I ever see one of the Fire People so large as he, nor one of the Tree People. Sometimes, when in the newspapers I happen upon descriptions of our modern bruisers and prizefighters, I wonder what chance the best of them would have had against him.

I am afraid not much of a chance. With one grip of his iron fingers and a pull he could have plucked a muscle, say a biceps, by the roots, clear out of their bodies. A blackhanded, loose blow of his fist could have smashed their skulls like eggshells. With a sweep of his wicked feet (or hind hands) he could have disembowled them. A twist could have broken their necks, and I know that with a single cruch of his jaws he could have pierced at the same moment the great vein of the throat in front and the spinal marrow at the back.

He could spring twenty feet horizontally from a sitting position. He was abominably hairy. It was a matter of pride with us to be not very hairy. But he was covered with hair all over, on the inside of the arms as well as the outside, and even the ears themselves. The only places on him where the hair did not grow were the soles of his hands and feet and beneath his eyes. He was frightfully ugly, his ferocious grinning mouth and huge downhanging under lip being but in harmony with his terrible eyes.
