

RUSSIAN HORDES PREPARING TO LAUNCH VAST OFFENSIVE

SMALL CHANCE IS SEEN FOR KUHIO'S "HOME RULE" BILL

Complications Loom Up on Plan to Elect Governor and Secretary

By C. S. ALBERT
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 22.—A governor and a territorial secretary will not be elected by the people of Hawaii for some time to come.

A bill for the accomplishment of that end has been introduced in the house by Delegate Kalaninui. There is no possibility of its passage at this session of Congress, which expires by statutory limitation March 3 next.

Three reasons exist for this declaration:

1. There is not sufficient time in which to consider and secure action on such a measure. The brief time remaining must be given over to revenue, railroad and appropriation legislation.

2. Much opposition would arise immediately because Alaska must be included in whatever arrangement is made for Hawaii. The situation would become complicated and cause great delay.

3. The question of patronage would be a vital feature in legislation of this nature. It would take the governorship plum away from the appointive power.

Plans to Boost Bill
It is true that preparations have been made to boost this bill for all there is in it. Pressure will be exerted to obtain favorable action before adjournment. This, in effect, is a futile task.

Text of Bill
The bill presented by the delegate follows:

"That the executive power of the government of the Territory of Hawaii shall be vested in a governor, who shall be elected by the qualified electors of the Territory of Hawaii in the manner hereinafter set forth. He shall hold office for four years from the first Monday in January succeeding his election and until his successor shall be elected and qualified. He shall possess all the qualifications now required by law to be possessed by the governor of the Territory of Hawaii and all powers now by law vested in the governor of the territory shall be vested in the governor thus chosen."

"Section 2. That there shall be a secretary of the Territory of Hawaii who shall be elected by the qualified electors of the Territory of Hawaii in the manner hereinafter set forth, who shall hold his office for a period of four years from the first Monday in January next succeeding his election and until his successor shall be elected and qualified."

CONFLICTING STORIES OF BOYS' MURDER STILL PUZZLE POLICE; NET TIGHTENS ON LAD OF 16

Two views of "murder shanty" far up Makiki valley, the isolated spot where little Kama Kanoa, 9, and his brother George, 13, were murdered with axe-blow some time yesterday morning. In the upper picture Captain of Detectives McDuffie is seen coming from the doorway, with Detectives Swift and Silva nearby. The lower picture shows the shanty on the steep hillside, in which the boys were killed while their mother was absent from home for a short time. One theory of the police is that 16-year-old Keawi Keawekane, a neighbor boy, apparently half-witted, stole to the home in the mother's absence and killed the boys. The police admittedly have comparatively little evidence on which to base their theory.—Photo by Star-Bulletin staff representative.

Youth, as Possible Murderer, is Held; Axes Unexplained

Their Presence in "Murder-Shanty" of Makiki Valley Proves Knotty Problem
Confronted with conflicting stories and few tangible clues, the Honolulu police today are facing the unsolved problem of the double murder in upper Makiki Valley yesterday morning. Suspicion—but suspicion without confirmation—points to 16-year-old Keawi Keawekane, Hawaiian, as the possible murderer of little Kama Kanoa, 9 years old, and his brother, George, 13.

MANY OFFICERS OF OAHU MUST LEAVE

MILITARY LAND EXCHANGE AIDED

Copies were received here today of a bill introduced in the house on December 18 by Congressman Dent of Alabama, member of the military affairs committee, authorizing the President of the United States to exchange lands set aside for military purposes in the territory of Hawaii for private land. The bill follows:

SCHOOL SURVEY PROJECT RESTS WITH GOVERNOR

His Request Necessary to Secure Such Action, Asserts College Club

Disapproval of the project by both the governor and the department of public instruction has brought to at least a temporary standstill the campaign begun recently by the College Club to secure a federal school survey for the public schools of Hawaii, one of the officers of the club has informed the Star-Bulletin.

"We feel it is best that the College Club gracefully take a back seat for a while," this officer says. "We do not feel discouraged and believe that in time plans for the proposed survey will materialize."

The club is contemplating no further action at present. It has reported to the governor and the school department urging that both request the national survey bureau at Washington, D. C. to make the survey here. But it is pointed out by club officers that the national bureau will consider no survey proposal until so requested by the governor and department.

GOVERNOR NAMES COCKETT FOR MAUI

Ranchman Appointed Supervisor and Loan Fund Commissioner

Governor Pinkham today announced the appointment of Patrick Cockett of Maui to succeed Dr. J. H. Raymond on both the Maui board of supervisors and the Maui loan fund commissioner.

Raymond resigned from both jobs and it was in connection with his resignation and reappointment, following his failure to be elected to the senate, that he gave out an interview stating that he had quit politics and bitterly criticizing the governor. Reports from Maui some days ago had it that Dr. Raymond favored Ben Lyons, a well-known Maui Democrat, and that Lyons was supported by the Democratic committee of the Valley Isle. Governor Pinkham, commenting this morning on the Cockett appointment, said that he had given it earnest consideration and felt that Cockett was the best man available, that he would make good as a supervisor and his appointment would meet the favor of a great many Maui people.

CITIZENS MUST WORK HARD FOR FEDERAL BLDG.

Marshal is Informed That No Preliminary Plans Have Yet Been Drawn

Unless the Chamber of Commerce and citizens of Honolulu get into immediate touch with the treasury department, request the drawing of preliminary plans and urging their speedy despatch to Honolulu for approval, Honolulu's proposed new federal building on the Irwin site may not be built for three years or more.

This rather startling information was given U. S. Marshal Jerome Smiddy while he was in Hilo for the weekend, by a representative of the government in the Crescent City, who is in close touch with the erection of the federal building there.

The government representative declared in no uncertain terms to the marshal that, contrary to local belief, no preliminary plans for the Honolulu building have yet been drawn, and he advised the marshal that, if Honolulu desires its building immediately, the chamber and the people must work to hurry the department along with the plans.

CONTRADICTORY STORIES OF BOYS' MURDER ARE PUZZLING TO POLICE

turn late yesterday when the mother of the murdered lads, growing calmer, gave the police an almost entirely different story from that she first told them when she arrived at noon and found her half hysterical with the bodies of the brutally slain lads.

Her first story and that of the Keaweke neighbors told of two men seen leaving the house shortly before the bodies were discovered. When this version was told the developments were not such as to direct more than general suspicion against the 16-year-old neighbor boy. Late in the evening, when the police again questioned the mother in detail, she was much calmer and then came out the story which has tightened the net around Keawi Keaweke.

Keawi is suspected because of some unexplained actions the mother noticed when she was returning to her home and also because of a half uneasy, half defiant demeanor the police found when they questioned him.

The mother's second story also cleared up another point. Her first story was that she had been visiting during the morning at the Keaweke home, while her two boys were at their own little shanty up the hillside. The second story now is that she was visiting at another house, that of a Hawaiian family named Kamaka. The Keaweke home is about half way between the Kamaka house and the Kanoa shanty.

If this is the case there is nothing except the assertions of the boy, Keawi, and his mother to prove that he was at his own home (the Keaweke place) and did not visit the Kanoa boys during the morning.

Two Axes Prove Puzzle

The sticking point in all conceivable theories so far advanced has been the presence of the two axes, neither of which George Kanoa, father of the boys, ever saw before, he says. Both were found near the murdered boys, the large axe still sticking in the smaller boy's head.

Efforts of the police department are centered today in an effort to trace the ownership of these axes. It is suspected that at least one of them was the property of the Keaweke family, as no axes were to be found at that home yesterday, although there was considerable split wood about the place.

The boys' bodies have been taken in charge by the county for burial. The inquest is at 10:30 tomorrow.

Story Told by Mother

The mother speaks virtually no English. Her story—the second story—as told to Detective Sergeant Kellett late yesterday and translated by him for the police records, is in effect as follows:

Family Arise Early

At 4 o'clock in the morning Kanoa and the oldest boy, George, aged 13, and another boy, brother of Keaweke, who is under arrest, got up and left for town. George went to their former home in Moiliili to bring home some of the family's personal effects.

The mother and the smaller boy, Kama, aged 9, arose about 7 o'clock, had breakfast and went down the hill to the Kamaka home, near the Makiki road. There they joined George when he returned from Moiliili about 8 o'clock.

Boys Go to Home

The mother and her two sons visited at the Kamaka place for about an hour until a Chinese peddler who supplies that district came by, when she bought two sacks of poi and sent her boys with the food to their home, telling them to return and transfer their belongings later.

The Kanoa family had spent only one night in the cottage where the tragedy occurred, having moved there just the day before from Moiliili.

When her sons did not return for some time Mrs. Kanoa wondered what was the trouble and sent Kamaka, the Hawaiian man, to call out to them. He went as far as the Keaweke home (about half way) and called to the boys. When he received no answer he came back to Mrs. Kanoa instead of going on to the house, and told her something must be wrong as they did not reply.

16-Year-Old Keawi Appears

Thinking that possibly the boys had gone back to sleep, Mrs. Kanoa immediately started for home and a short distance past the Keaweke home she was joined by the young fellow, Keawi Keaweke, now under arrest, who appeared to her to be excited but who merely said that he was going swimming down to the beach with the boys that morning and would go along with her.

Keaweke's first suspicious move came when he suddenly cried out, according to Kellett's interpretation of the mother's story, as they approached the Kanoa home:

"Look, quick! There's some one running away from your place with an axe!"

Mrs. Kanoa says she looked but saw no such person and learning that something had happened to her boys, tried to hurry towards the house but was restrained by Keawi who, she says, tried to induce her to go back. When she refused to do so she says he darted on ahead and sprang into the house.

Heard Guter Sounds

Mrs. Kanoa was now nearly out of breath from the climb up the steep slope and could go little faster. She heard a strange sound as if some one were jumping up and down on the board floor inside her little cabin. She made a rush to the door and saw Keaweke with his hand on the axe that was stuck in the smaller boy's head. He said afterwards he was trying to pull it out. Seeing the mother looking at him he sprang out, clutching her by the arm and cried: "Let's call the police!"

Deputy Sheriff Asch was the first to arrive and after him came McDuffie. Together they questioned the boy, who first said he had seen some one leave the house, later said the SETTLEMENT OF PUUNUI TONIGHT?

After several weeks' delay the board of supervisors will be called upon at its meeting this evening to decide on an outlet for Puunui district. The two principal outlets being discussed are Circle Drive, backed by the City Planning Commission, and the residents of Puunui, and Hawaii street extension, backed by the Country Club, George Sherman and Henry Holmes.

At present the board seems about evenly divided with a leaning towards Circle Drive. Robert Horner does not want either but has a plan of his own which is a modification of Circle Drive. Larsen has come out flat-footed for Hawaii. Hollinger refuses to say but it is expected he will vote for Circle Drive as will Arnold. Logan does not care for either street but at the showdown will probably side with Arnold. Both Hatch and Ahia will not talk but their feelings seem to run towards a straight road.

Since the last hearing two weeks ago both sides have been preparing diligently for the fray this evening and it will have gone before in any indication, it will be anything but a peaceful session.

Hotel Street Plans Also

Another important matter which is scheduled for this evening is the proposed plan of widening Hotel street at Puunui. Because everybody's eyes have been turned towards the Puunui fight this project has received scant attention and it is not known whether any protest petitions have been circulated. However, if the plan already brought before the board is objected to, George Collins, county engineer, has two alternative plans ready. The assessment per front foot is high and for that reason there may be a few protests.

The board will also be asked to pass on the bids for city supplies for the next six months. They were opened last Friday and have been tabulated by the purchasing agent. The bids for the burying of the city's indigent dead will also be up for acceptance.

COCKETT NAMED BY GOVERNOR

The Maui Weekly Times, which prints this information, adds that there is some support for H. Mossman as a successor for McKay and it is understood that the Maui county Democratic committee has endorsed Mossman. On the other hand, Maui people in general are paying strong tributes to Magistrate McKay for his ability, energy and impartiality.

Patrick (Pia) Cockett for many years has been manager of the Cornwell ranch, and since it was taken over by Harold W. Rice he has remained. Mr. Rice, who was in town today, says that Cockett will continue with him.

THOMAS DUE HERE AT DAYLIGHT SATURDAY

According to wireless advices received from the army transport Thomas, now on her way here from San Francisco, that vessel was out 1164 miles from this port at 8 o'clock last night. It was stated today at the quartermaster's office that she will probably dock at Navy Pier No. 2. S.S. is due at daylight Saturday.

Patrick J. Duggan, a game warden of Croton-on-Hudson, was seriously injured when he fell between the platform of two cars at the Dyckman street subway station.

A $2,000,000 postoffice building is to be erected at St. George, Staten Island.

VIOLATORS OF TRAFFIC LAWS ARE ROUNDED UP BY POLICE OFFICERS

The police are now waging a vigorous war on violators of various traffic regulations. Transgressions include driving too fast, operating without licenses and carrying too many passengers, also of operating auto for hire without the proper permit to do so.

The police court calendar this morning was made up largely of these cases. Motorcycle Policemen Ferrera and Branco were responsible for the arrest of most of the defendants, who were rounded up yesterday afternoon on country roads.

William Rathburn, Miyoshi, A. Y. Chong, Yan Quong and Wong Tong were fined $10 each and T. Muramoto $8, for over-loading; J. Inouye and K. Nishimura were fined $10 each for not possessing a license to carry passengers for hire; Lloyd Burns, arraigned for driving a motorcycle while under the influence of liquor, pleaded not guilty and will be heard January 10; S. Umehara was sentenced to five days in jail for heedless driving; C. Ah Fong will be heard January 16 on a similar charge; Mee Chong will be heard January 10 and C. B. Cooper, Jr. has been committed to the juvenile court.

Chauffeur Examiner Robert Lillis is assisting the police in their work and declares motor traffic on Oahu will shortly assume a stricter tone.

BOY LOSES EYE IN FIGHT WITH HERON

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Fred Hoffman, 15, of Lake Donkonkoma, E. I., had an eye put out by a heron he caught on the meadows near his home.

The boy spied the bird standing after the custom of herons, on one leg and apparently sound asleep. He sneaked up and grabbed the bird by its main support. The heron, awakened, fought desperately and in the hand-to-foot struggle darted its beak into the boy's eye.

In spite of his pain, young Hoffman hung to his captive and carried it home, where it was put in a cage. He is so proud of his catch he says he doesn't regret the loss of a mere eye.

RUSSIA HAS NEW RED LETTER DATE

ROME, Italy.—Russian women have added another red letter day to the already overcrowded calendar. They will keep it on July 29, old style, by doing no business, but going to church in processions to thank God for what they think is the greatest blessing their sex has received these many centuries. July 29 is the anniversary of the day on which Czar Nicholas issued his ukase forbidding the sale of vodka and other strong drinks throughout the huge Russian Empire.

The drink prohibition law has quite altered life for the working class women in Russia. Money formerly spent on drink is now spent upon clothing and schooling for the children, on newspapers and on war-loan investments. The Russian workman no longer counts Monday as a holiday; he cannot get drunk on Sunday. The gutters of Moscow, Petrograd and other large cities are no longer encumbered, on saint's days and Sundays, with the forms of dead drunk workmen.

True, the czar's revenue has lost the $200,000,000 which his subjects spent on vodka. Financial experts were afraid of the ukase because of this enormous income from liquor. Count Witte never had the courage to restrict the sale of vodka. "Russia cannot live without it," he used to say to the critics. But this is one blessing the terrible war has brought upon the Russian Empire, with its 145,000,000 subjects.

On the very day the czar ordered mobilization (July 29, 1914) he forbade the sale of vodka. And from that day the appearance of Russian towns and villages has quite changed. Crime has decreased; children look better because they get better food. "Contractive unions are increasing by leaps and bounds; there is a perfect rush for all kinds of popular reading matter; and family life is much improved. Women are no longer beaten by drunken husbands.

The provincial council of the Province of Moscow lately sent out questions to the heads of villages in that province asking what the peasants really thought about the drink prohibition ukase. The answers came, showing that while all women praised the ukase, a small minority of the men condemned it. "When the war is over and the heroes come home we hope the czar will annul this ukase, because we want to get drunk when the heroes come home," wrote the men from one village. But even the men in most cases favor prohibition.

PORTUGUESE OFFICER'S TRIBUTE TO BRITISH SOLDIERS' NERVE

LONDON, Eng.—The Lisbon correspondent of the London Morning Post says that O Seculo publishes an interview with the Portuguese military attache in London, Captain Ferreira Simas, who, at the invitation of the war office, visited the British front.

Captain Simas notes the constant superiority of the British artillery over that of the enemy, and of the British aeroplanes, of which he saw twenty together, "like a flight of great birds," whereas he searched the heavens in vain for a German. "Under fire, the soldiers," he says, "have their hair cut, shave, wash, and quietly read the newspapers. Some even sleep in this infernal din. A little further on, where a horse has been killed by a piece of shell, two soldiers, pipe in mouth, are calmly loading great beams of wood. At an artillery observation post, established in a very dangerous position in front of heavy batteries, two artillery officers are making their observations and transmitting them by telephone. A third, an infantryman of about twenty, was engaged in an English novel. Everything goes on in the greatest calm, as if it were a matter of some great importance. The wounded come from the trenches without a cry of pain or a complaint. Never have I seen such indifference towards death, such gaiety in the midst of suffering."

CANON AINGER'S MISTAKE.

In his recently published book, Sir Henry Lucy tells a story of the late Canon Ainger. The canon was very fond of children, and set out one night to attend a party given by children for children. "Don't announce me," he said to the servant. Leaving his coat and hat downstairs, he quietly opened the drawing-room door, where the buzz of voices announced the presence of company. Dropping on his hands and knees, he entered, making strange noises distinctly resembling the neighing of a horse. Aware of a dead silence, he looked up, and found a number of adult guests assembled for an 8 o'clock dinner regarding him with surprise, not unmixed with alarm. The children's party was next door.

American battleships will reach their limit of size when they displace 70,000 tons, the house naval committee was told by the engineering chiefs of the navy, and only then because a great ship could not pass through the locks of the Panama Canal.

Two persons were injured when a southbound Madison avenue car collided with an eastbound cross-town car at 53rd street, New York.

GERMAN RATIONS TOLD BY PAPERS

BERLIN.—Interesting figures regarding the rations of German soldiers at the front are printed in the current newspapers. Of meat the men at the front are given daily 250 grammes of fresh meat, or 150 grammes (about 5 ounces) of smoked meat or 150 grammes of canned meat. The meat ration, however, may be varied by giving 600 grammes of salt water fish or an equivalent of pickled fish. To the meat or fish ration are added potatoes and other vegetable foods, the latter in the form of a daily ration of 125 grammes of rice, or 250 grammes of legumes or 150 grammes of canned vegetables which may be replaced by 1500 grammes of potatoes. There is also an allowance of 25 grammes of salt per day with 25 grammes of onions or other seasoning substances.

For the making of hot drinks, the soldier gets regularly, each day, approximately 25 grammes of roasted coffee or three grammes of tea with about 17 grammes of sugar. He is allowed 65 grammes of butter or marmalade or similar substance for use with his bread ration which consists of 750 grammes or 500 grammes of biscuits baked with egg, which can be preserved for an unlimited time and which is always held in stock.

LORD HALDANE'S TAILOR A REAL "PHILANTHROPIST"

LONDON, England.—Lord Haldane confided to his colleagues and the public in the house of lords that he always gets 15 per cent off his tailor's bills by paying cash (says the Daily Mail).

The court was discussing what in various circumstances might be considered harsh and unreasonable interest on money loans.

Lord Haldane, after giving the information that his tailor always allowed 15 per cent discount for cash, said he had known 25 per cent charged for credit, and in the case of some smart young gentlemen that was not at all unreasonable. He had never heard any complaint about the 15 per cent.

Mr. Pollock, K. C., one of the counsel in the case, replied that he did not think it was usual to allow so much as 15 per cent.

Lord Haldane—I always pay cash, and I know I have never had less than 15 per cent.

"War economists who only get 10, 5, or 0 per cent discount from their tailors are naturally anxious to discover Lord Haldane's tailor," one of the speakers said recently. "Where that tailor's spiritual home may be I know not, but I cannot believe that his business abode is in Saville Row, Sackville street or Bond street. The utmost discount I have ever obtained was 10 per cent."

THE SOLDIER'S HEART: IMPORTANT DISCOVERIES

In connection with national health insurance the British medical research committee has just issued its second annual report. One of the subjects to which prominence is given in the report is the "disorders of the soldier's heart." It is stated that the scheme arranged by the committee at the University College Hospital for the investigation of cardiac disorders of military importance has been continued. A military hospital had been set apart for the reception of cardiac cases, and the medical staff had been engaged in daily work of observation and study.

Soon after the hospital was opened the medical officers decided to introduce a system of exercises for the patients, graded in severity, and in their last stages including route marches. The primary object of these graduated exercises was the testing of the capacity of the soldier for their work. The exercises proved to have important curative value. In addition to the immediate military importance of the work, many results of the intensive study made possible by the concentration of many cases under the most expert observers had given good opportunities for considerable gain in knowledge. The therapeutic effort of rest had been tested and found definitely prejudicial to improvement or recovery, while the action of digitalis had also been fully investigated. It was proved that this drug has no effect on controlling the heart rate or other symptoms in cases of irritable heart, and is valueless as a remedy in this condition.

The report proceeds: "The present wide use of this drug in the army medical service is accordingly to be deprecated. It is useful only in the cases of soldiers suffering from other forms of heart disorder, on account of which they should not be retained in the service. Among other pathological studies which are in progress or are completed may be mentioned those upon the influence of tobacco on the circulation in the patients, upon the relation of the thyroid gland to the condition of irritable heart, and upon the relation of the condition to heart strain and heart dilation."

ALCOHOL AND SHOOTING

Experiments made by the Bavarian Ministry of War have shown that even a slight amount of alcohol exerts a very unfavorable effect upon rifle shooting. Tests were made with the firing of over 30,000 shots, and it was found that men who had been given 40 grammes of alcohol, or about a pint and a half of beer, registered from three to 10 per cent less hits than those who had taken no intoxicants. The effects of the alcohol were first visible about half an hour after drinking.

TO LIE NEAR 5 HUSBANDS HER DEATHBED DESIRE

LA CROSSE, Wis.—To be buried in her own private cemetery in a corner of her farm near the graves of her five husbands was the last wish of Mrs. Emma C. Van Sickle, who died here recently.

Over the graves of the husbands are tombstones erected by the wife's own hands. One has this verse inscribed upon it: "Clinty, my heart clings to thee, love."

In heaven I hope to meet above, You was ever true and true to me. So was I to you, Emma C."

Another reads: "Peter, died Jan. 12, 1854, aged 53 years. By Emma."

The other three stones are small and the inscriptions brief. One reads "D. C. V." Another, "P. D. C." and the third, "P. E."

They will be used particularly for railroad work and the loading and unloading of trucks, of which there is a shortage.

SAYS DAD IS NO LONGER MASTER IN MODERN HOME

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Prof. James E. Cutler of the sociological department of Western Reserve University, said in a lecture that "love alone as a basis for marriage is vulgar and low." He told a class in the East End Baptist church that the prevalence of the love basis in America is one of the most potent of divorce causes and that other countries that are thus rapidly becoming disillusioned about love.

Professor Cutler referred to the average well-to-do woman "as one of the inclined to become a 'fixure' of the ornamental variety, and he insisted that housewives should be capable of earning money as well as proficient at spending it.

He pointed out that women now have a new status, that of wage earners. Many domestic troubles arise, he declared, from the fact that Americans fail to see changes wrought by modern social conditions and expect women to live according to standards which have vanished.

"The traditional type of home in which the father was a patriarch, a master of the family," he said, "is gone. Modern conditions have brought about work for women in stores and factories. When a girl who is accustomed to working in a shop or store gives up her position to get married she finds far much leisure in the home. Of course, she is dissatisfied and discontented."

MOIST AND DRY AIR

It is generally recognized that persons with corns or sufferers from chronic rheumatism can prophesy the approach of rain, but it is not generally known that there is a very good scientific reason to account for this. When the atmosphere becomes charged with water a definite effect is made on all surface swellings, or sores, which become painful and tender. Evaporation is arrested, and the lungs discharge less moisture, thus throwing additional work on the kidneys. People who suffer from kidney disease are consequently very sensitive to changes in the moisture of the air. On the contrary—or, perhaps one should say, complementary—the dry east wind causes an increased evaporation of moisture from the skin, using up in this way a large amount of animal heat. And those persons who are unusually sensitive to east winds will thus understand why it is that no amount of extra clothing protects them satisfactorily from the miserable feeling of physical depression brought about by the dryness as much as the actual coldness of the air.

NEW LIEUTENANTS GET ASSIGNMENTS

Orders announcing the assignment of approximately 120 new second lieutenants appointed from rank of privates, corporals and sergeants, were received today from Washington. Eight of the orders affect the Hawaiian department either by transfers to or from local regiments. These eight are as follows:

Edwin Allen Martin, appointed from corporal, Troop A, 3d Cavalry, assigned to 4th Cavalry; Frank G. Ringland, from corporal, 25th Company, General Service, Infantry, assigned to 4th Cavalry; Martin C. Heyser, appointed from mess sergeant, Co. G, 23d Infantry, to 1st Field Artillery; Patrick L. Lynch, from sergeant, Headquarters Company, 6th Field Artillery, to 9th Field Artillery; C. W. Cutchin, musician, 2d Infantry, to 1st Infantry; L. A. Welch, from corporal, Quartermaster Corps, to 1st Infantry; Charles A. McGarrigle from sergeant, 2d Infantry to 32nd Infantry; Charles M. Crooks, from sergeant, 1st Infantry, to 25th Infantry.

The local officers will report to the department commander for duty.

FORBES' APPEARANCE AT WASHINGTON IS SORT OF I-TOLD-YOU-SO SURPRISE

Surprise was expressed in capital circles today at the telegraphic news that Superintendent of Public Works Forbes is in Washington.

Governor Pinkham, however, was not among those who showed surprise, though he said plainly that Forbes is not in Washington at his request nor on any business for him.

"Mr. Forbes has never visited Washington on business for me, though he has taken on data and information for my use in Washington," he said.

When Forbes left there were hints, some of which the newspapers published, that he was likely to turn up in Washington, and it was known that he had considered a visit there, though his trip, he emphasized, was purely for his health.

Wilbur C. Woodward, acting superintendent of public works, said today that he had had no information that Forbes would go to Washington. The same statement was made by A. J. Gignoux, utilities commissioner. A special wireless received last night stated that the superintendent is now in Washington.

GIRL DIES IN FIRE TRYING TO RESCUE WEDDING GOWN

WICHITA, Kan.—Five inmates of the $300,000 Kansas Masonic home, which burned here recently, were known to be dead. A score or more others are injured, but it is not believed seriously.

It has been impossible to identify any of the bodies recovered, so badly were they burned. One of the bodies is supposed to be that of Miss Gertrude Weigle, 22, waitress, who was to have been married on Christmas day. Miss Weigle escaped from the fire, but remembering that she had left her wedding dress in her room, rushed into the burning building after it. She is believed to have been trapped in the room.

HOW TO SPEAK ENGLISH.

LONDON, Eng.—Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson acted as judge at the annual examination on speaking verse, held by the Poetry Society at London University recently.

"We have inherited a glorious and rich language," said Sir Johnston, "and it is our business to speak it without affectation, and without any sort of mannerism. We ought not to be led away by the affectations of the times, but be clear and definite."

There was a tendency, he continued, to speak the words "which," "where" and "whereas" as if they were written "wich," "wera," and "wera." Instead of giving snap to them by pronouncing the "h" as the Irish did. Listening to a Scot, one could get a great deal from him, the "r's," for example, which the Englishman often dropped altogether. The Irishman spoke English with great elegance, and one could also learn much from him.

"Those who wish to study elocution and correct and good speaking," went on Sir Johnston, "should listen to the educated Frenchman and notice how beautifully he handles and carresses his words. They are spoken lovingly, as if he delighted in his words."

The carelessness of English people in speaking was due, he said, to ignorance and affectation, in imitating other people, who we thought were speaking smartly. We ought to put all these things out of our minds and speak naturally.

SOLDIERS' DEBTS

The British secretary of the war office recently issued the following for publication:

"As applications continue to be received in the war office and by commanding officers from tradesmen and individuals for assistance in the recovery of debts due to them by officers and soldiers serving in the army, it has been found desirable to inform the public that the military authorities have no power to enforce payment and they are unable to assist in the recovery of private debts. All persons who give credit to officers and soldiers do so at their own risk.

KUHIO INTRODUCES BILL TO WAIVE BRAKE RULING ON PLANTATION CANE-CARS

Delegate Kuhio introduced in the house on December 18 a bill to relieve the railroad in Porto Rico and Hawaii from the provisions of the safety-appliance acts requiring the use of power brakes on cars used exclusively for the transportation of sugar cane.

The bill is: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the provisions relating to power or train brakes contained in the act entitled 'An Act to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroads by compelling common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes, and for other purposes,' approved March 2, 1893, and in the acts in amendment thereto, approved April 1, 1896, and March 2, 1903, shall not apply to trains operated upon railroads in Porto Rico and Hawaii composed of cars exclusively used for the transportation of sugar cane."

D. Embalsado, a Filipino, has been arrested by the police on a charge of impersonating a federal officer and turned over to the government authorities. He was taken in Aala Park Sunday by Policeman F. K. Kaunwal. A cheap star badge, reading "Lieutenant Hawaii Police," was found on the defendant.

TEMPERATURE STAYS LOW DURING WHOLE OF NIGHT

While last night was not the coldest of the past 12 months, the fact that the thermometer stayed low all night was probably the reason so many people snuggled under their blankets and wondered if there would be frost on the laws this morning. The mercury registered a minimum of 65 degrees. This minimum lasted for the greater part of the night, according to weather observing officials. At 8 o'clock last night the thermometer registered 69 degrees, then sank lower and stayed around 65 for most of the remaining hours. It came back to 69 again by 8 o'clock this morning.

THE WEBB-KENYON LAW UPHELD.

King Booze's army lost another citadel yesterday when the Webb-Kenyon law was held constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

The liquor interests have fought the law long and hard and they have lost. Furthermore, several allied pieces of legislation—all directed toward keeping liquor out of "dry" territory—will probably also be adjudged constitutional, the Webb-Kenyon act having been upheld.

At least three state cases have been pending before the supreme court, all more or less connected with the Webb-Kenyon fight. Two West Virginia and one North Carolina case awaited decision with the federal case. West Virginia has a law which makes it illegal for any person in that state to receive, directly or indirectly, intoxicating liquors from a common or other carrier. The law does, however, permit a small amount of liquor for "personal use" to be brought in by the user.

These three cases depended largely on the decision of the Webb-Kenyon law. The Webb-Kenyon act was passed to make effective state prohibition measures by preventing liquor shipments from "wet" states. It went into effect in March, 1913, having been passed over President Taft's veto some months previously. It provides, in brief, that shipment of intoxicating liquors from one state to another "which intoxicating liquor is intended for any person interested therein, to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used—in violation of any law of such state—is hereby prohibited."

Counsel for the liquor interests has contended that the statute is void if it delegates to states the federal right to regulate interstate commerce. President Taft and Attorney-General Wickersham held the act unconstitutional, and therefore Taft vetoed it. Before its passage it had been attacked but Congress was determined to put it through, and its approval now by the supreme court therefore comes as all the greater triumph for the essential integrity of moral legislation.

The law was before the supreme court once before, in a Kentucky liquor case, but its validity was not in question, the Kentucky case involving another point. In many inferior federal and state courts where the statute has been considered, judges have upheld it, but the supreme court stamp of approval is none the less a victory for prohibition whose effect it is difficult to exaggerate.

HERE BALLIN'S OFFER.

The following dispatch is significant: LEIPSI, Germany, Jan. 6.—Manager Albert Ballin of the Hamburg-American line in a statement which was made public today, says:

"I would despise the statesman who for the sake of German ships now held in American ports permits himself to be restrained from using an instrument guaranteeing victory over England," speaking of the submarine warfare.

In other words, says Manager Ballin, don't be deterred in use of the submarine by the fact that many German vessels in American ports might be seized if the United States and Germany break relations.

Manager Ballin's words are hard to interpret otherwise than as a veiled threat that Germany should not hold herself to the pledges she has given America if for the use of submarines. Only if Germany violates those pledges is there possibility her ships may be seized.

Though the Hamburg-American manager says, in effect, "Go to it—never mind our ships," yet the scores of German ships in neutral hands will come in very handy for Germany after the war, when it comes to picking up the remnants of her shattered overseas trade.

WAR'S STAGGERING COST.

One of the leading financial institutions of New York has become so vitally interested in the international European struggle, that it has issued a booklet on the cost of the war to date, and by deductions and comprehensive calculations, finds that if the war continues until next August, the amount of money that will have been spent in direct military purposes amounts to seventy-five billion dollars.

Likened to astronomer's figures, it is no child's play to conjure up a mental blue print of amounts of such magnitude, and a few comparisons might be of interest, giving a line on what war really amounts to, in dollars and cents.

From the same source as gives the approximate cost of three years' battling, the information is forthcoming that if the war continues until the end of July, it will have cost three times as much as the combined cost of the Napoleonic war, the Civil War, the Franco-Prussian war, the Boer war and the Russo-Japanese war. This total will also represent a sum twice as large as the total indebtedness of every nation in the world, as that debt stood two years ago.

It will also represent an amount nearly eight times greater than the combined deposits with the 7000 national banks of the United States. If this great war debt could be represented by gold, it would make a pile seven times larger than a similar pile composed of all the coined gold of the world.

By comparison with figures, easily obtained, we find that the vast sum credited to the cost of the present war, would build, equip and defend two hundred Panama canals.

The figures quoted above are but the actual military cost in connection with the war. What about the destruction of property, both ashore and afloat, not taking into account the loss to the world of rising young manhood, from countries across the seas as well as from war's contiguous territory? It is almost beyond power to estimate the loss that has been sustained by the world, through the stagnation of manufactures, occasioned by the enlistment of some twenty-two million men.

One might go on indefinitely citing material and speculative losses to be added to the billions now debited to man's inhumanity to man.

IT WAS TRUE:

A wireless arrived from Honolulu last night to the effect that the nomination of Judge James L. Coke for the territorial supreme bench has been sent in. This may be true, but it does not seem likely. Jim was appointed third circuit judge of Honolulu only a few weeks back and entered upon his duties as such on Dec. 11. If it be true, we shall expect to hear the news of the nomination of Jim as governor of Hawaii in the near future.—Maui Weekly Times.

H. Gooding Field does well to draw attention to the possible dangers to the food and game-fishing in Hawaiian waters of establishing a big tuna-canning plant on Hawaii. The opinions of experts on Hawaiian fishes should be heard. The territory does not want its waters drained of the fish which now make them famous and are bringing anglers from all over the world. Nor does the territory want the food-supply of the poor man imperilled. The legislature will soon be in session, and the subject can then be thoroughly gone into. If the promoters of the tuna-canning plant can convince investigating committees that their operations will not menace the fish-supply of Hawaii, well and good.

Do the Americans who are praying that Germany's peace terms be accepted consider it just that Belgium should receive absolutely nothing for all she has suffered and that Turkey should receive no punishment whatsoever for the massacre of hundreds of thousands of Armenian Christians?—Charleston News and Courier.

The pier work in Honolulu appears to be a rotten mess and some people say that it was all figured out before hand so that alterations would make the contract a paying one in the long run. There can be no excuse for inspectors who slipped up on their duty and then lied about the whole matter.—Hawaii Herald.

Villa says that if General Pershing would only get out he would bounce Carranza in a jiffy, and Trevino says that if our soldier boys would hike north across the border, Carranza would make short work of Villa. We are, at least, keeping the peace some place.

Speaking about stock-market "leaks," why doesn't Washington probe the mysterious way in which "Brokers Row" in Honolulu gets its information? Here is a chance for a sensation many a Washington lawmaker would like to corner.

Berlin revives the controversy as to whether German or French soldiers first crossed the line into Belgium. In view of what has since happened this new discussion may be mildly described as academic.

REFERENDUM IS NOW SUGGESTED

While the Oahu senators and representatives in their meeting Monday evening took no definite action relative to anti-saloon legislation at the coming session of the legislature there was some discussion of the matter and it was then passed over for reason that it is legislation affecting all parts of the territory and not merely Oahu and that the meeting was called to consider legislation that would apply to this county alone.

It becomes more and more evident that despite party platform liquor legislation will be considered at the coming session. Democratic party leaders when seen on the subject have said that there will be no such legislation by that party as it will stand by its platform declarations on the subject, but despite this there appears a probability that some of the legislative members will have opinions of their own.

A proposal heard today is for a referendum to the voters of liquor legislation, to thus take something of the form of local option. Manuel C. Pacheco said that he believed some such plan would be the probable outcome of proposed legislation.

THE RIGHT-OF-WAY PETITION

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin: Sir: Since some prominence has been given the petition for the re-establishment of the old right-of-way through the Country Club grounds, I think I had better explain the scheme. It has nothing to do with the Puunui Improvement Club, though it does not clash with the latter's campaign. It is the work of a number of private individuals seeking temporary relief while the interminable scrap over Circle Drive goes on.

Tab was kept on the street traffic and the golf links, and it was observed that when the traffic was heaviest the links were deserted. The Country Club only makes general use of the links on Saturday afternoon and Sunday and a little playing takes place after 5 o'clock on week days when there is light enough; at all these times there is practically no business traffic. Such proving the case, it was calculated that while the Circle Drive scrap was going on temporary relief for the district could be obtained by opening up the old right-of-way through the grounds as it was before the Country Club came. It would not in any way interfere with the play. It is a better route for market travel, but probably would be abandoned unless the Honolulu public demanded its retention after Circle Drive were opened, on account of the better grade of the latter.

To make the plan more workable an amicable agreement could no doubt be reached to close the right-of-way on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, when golf was being played, as at such times those who had to go mauka would be quite willing to go the long way around. I am sorry the Circle Drive matter was again referred to the City Planning Commission. I have always held that it referred to the commission to reconsider its decision, after the thorough manner in which the question was gone into, was an act of gross discourtesy. The fact that the commission was willing to look into the matter again, even though it refused to change its decision, showed a disinterested consideration which was more than either the supporters or opponents of Circle Drive were entitled to.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—CHARLES F. CHILLINGWORTH: It is remarkable how many people have spoken to me about the proposed saloon elimination bill. Many of them, who have heretofore been ardent liquor advocates, admit I am right.

—W. P. FENNEL: Closing the saloons will be one of the finest things that ever happened in Honolulu, but the city will have to get busy and give the men who find their amusement in the barroom some place to go, something else to do.

—PHILIAS POIRIER, Moana Hotel: When the Matsonia and the Great Northern arrive the end of this month we will have some idea what a crowd is. We have had almost twice as many requests for reservations this year and we have accommodations for over a hundred more than last year to meet their desires. But we will be jammed to the doors.

MAUNA LOA HAD STORMY VOYAGE

Seas that washed over the wharves and prevented landing or taking on cargo were experienced on the outward trip of the inter-island steamer Mauna Loa, which arrived this morning from Maui and Hawaii ports.

Purser Henry K. Sheldon's trip report tells a graphic story of the tempestuous weather met on the outward trip, as follows:

"We experienced a strong northeast wind and rough seas crossing the channels. Along the Kona coast met with light wind and heavy southwest gales. Unable to make landings at Napoopoo and Hoonaka due to seas washing over the wharves, cargo being carried to Kau and landed on the return trip. Blew a gale and rough seas while at Punaluu and Honououliuli, weather there interfering, delaying unloading and landing of cargo at these ports. On the return trip Purser Sheldon reports light winds and smooth seas, with rain squalls along Kona.

Passengers, brought by the Mauna Loa, whose run will be taken Friday by the Kilauea for one trip, were 45 cabin, four way cabin, 56 deck and 22 way deck, total 127.

Freight arriving this morning was heavy, including 2640 bags of Diamond sugar, 698 of kona coffee, 141 pieces of koa lumber, chickens, pigs, oranges, livestock, beef, bananas, wool, a bull, hogs, hives, postskins and about everything else that went into the original ark.

Purser Sheldon also adds that the Kilauea, being weather-bound a week at Punaluu, Hawaii, finally landed all machinery safely and left for Hilo.

Sugar reported on hand at Honououliuli is given as 927 bags. There were 791 bags left in the warehouse after shipment. The schooner Muriel is at Mahukona yet.

Good news for Honoluluans who have been waiting for new automobiles to arrive is furnished in the announcement today by Manager John H. Dreyer of the shipping department of Castle Cooke, the local Matson agency, that 40 motor cars are on board the Mauna Loa for Honolulu. The freighter was due to leave San Francisco today with a capacity cargo for Honolulu.

With 5500 tons on board for other island ports, the motor schooner Annie Johnson left San Francisco Saturday for Hilo, Kapaemahu, Hana and Hanalei. A large portion of her cargo consists of explosives. The schooner will load a full cargo of dynamite at Hana and Mahukona and take back to the coast.

The new Matson flagship Maui, leaving San Francisco March 7 and arriving here March 15, will come on the Wilhelmina's schedule. The Wilhelmina will remain in San Francisco to take the Lurline's schedule, leaving for Honolulu March 27 and arriving here April 3.

At 7 o'clock tomorrow morning the steamer Sonoma will arrive at port from Sydney and Pago-Pago, after a long and late because of bad weather encountered on the voyage up from the Colonias.

The liner will dock at Pier 6 about 7:30 and steam for San Francisco around 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, taking what mail accumulates between 10 a. m. when the Matsonia leaves and the latter hour.

Passengers for Honolulu coming on the Sonoma are six first class, three second and three steerage. Mail is also large and cargo 20 tons. Going out the liner will have about 450 tons of freight and a few passengers from this port, about six first class, six second and three steerage.

Health papers of the Tenyo Maru report 53 cases and 45 deaths from cholera in Hongkong for the two weeks ending December 9. The passenger removed from the Tenyo Monday suffering from the disease, Mrs. Hanson Clarke, is believed to have contracted it in that port.

WILTS SEES HIS SON FIRST TIME

"Who is the happiest man on the waterfront today?" asked Capt. W. C. Curtis, assistant harbor-master, of Capt. William R. Foster, harbor-master, this morning.

"The happiest man is Chief Officer Rudolf Wilts of the Pommeria," unhesitatingly replied the harbor-master. And he is, because his wife arrived today on the Matson steamer Lurline, coming from their old home in Bremerhaven, Germany, and bringing their two children, one 5 and the other 3 years and 6 months old.

Wilts has two reasons to be happy today. The first is his wife's arrival, the second that he saw for the first time this morning his second son, Frithjof Wilts, who was born in Bremerhaven August 27, 1914, just eight days after the Pommeria sought refuge in this port after the European war began and British cruisers were hunting down and capturing all German shipping they could find in the Pacific.

The Pommeria's chief officer had no idea his wife was coming here from Germany until a letter from the steamer's agents in San Francisco arrived on the Matsonia last week. Later Mrs. Wilts sent a cable saying she and the children were coming on the Lurline.

KOREA MARU BRINGS 21 TOURISTS TO ISLANDS; IS RECORD NUMBER

As an indication that tourists going to Japan and China are beginning to realize the desirability of seeing the islands thoroughly before going on to the Orient the Korea Maru brought 21 stopover passengers to Honolulu from San Francisco today, the largest number any T. K. K. liner has left here in a year or more. She will steam from Yokohama at 6 o'clock this evening.

There are a number of Japanese notables aboard the Korea, which arrived at port at 9 o'clock this morning and had her passengers walking ashore from Pier 7 at 10:45, after the Tenyo had left for San Francisco. The Korea waited for the Tenyo to go out in order to get her berth, which is better than Pier 6, which the Korea had been slated for Monday.

Many Notable Japanese

The Japanese men of prominence aboard include General M. Fokouda of the Imperial Japanese Army; Lieut.-Col. K. Ohashi and Lieut.-Col. Ueda. All three have been in Europe, some of them at the front. Baron Y. Togo is also returning from a tour of the Allied countries, of the war zone.

Bigger Job for Clark

Kent W. Clark, who was purser of the Korea when she passed through here last month on her first voyage as a T. K. K. boat, is on board today as a passenger. The smiling and efficient Kent has a bigger job. He is going to Japan to assume the management of the Oriental Hotel, Kobe, the first of a string of hotels to be owned and operated in the Orient by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha. The purchase of the Oriental was announced by the Star-Bulletin six weeks ago, the news being learned from passengers on the Shinyo Maru.

Chapman New Purser

The Korea's new purser is W. A. Chapman, for whom Honolulu waterfront men have much aloha. He has returned to the T. K. K.'s employ and has just as much dignity and courtesy as ever. Mrs. Chapman will live in San Francisco. They were married about a year ago, Chapman resigning his position at the time.

Captain T. Ota, the Korea's commander, reported a fine voyage from the coast. Mail arriving in the liner was heavy, 741 bags, a week's accumulation, the first since the Matsonia a week ago today.

Through passengers are 75 first cabin, 20 second and 124 steerage. Joining the liner here will be 29 cabin and 200 steerage. There is room for 352 steerage.

Treasure Million Dollars

Cargo for the Orient is heavy, 5800 tons of general merchandise. Treasure in the strong boxes is about $1,000,000, for banks in Japan and China.

TENYO TAKES 10 FROM HONOLULU

Taking 10 layover passengers from this port for San Francisco, the T. K. K. liner Tenyo Maru, Capt. H. Stanley Smith, steamed for the mainland at 9 o'clock this morning. The postoffice despatched 56 bags of mail for the states on the liner.

Stopover passengers leaving here on the Tenyo included five who laid over from the Pacific Mail liner Venezuela, Dr. N. E. Dittman, Mrs. P. Larson, Mrs. J. Murphy, Miss A. Volain and Mrs. B. Hodgson, and five from the Siberia Maru, Dr. D. G. Bafferty, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Churchill, C. H. Churchill and A. G. Churchill.

The Tenyo brought to Honolulu from the Orient Monday afternoon 18 first class passengers, three second and 182 Asiatics, 15 bags of mail and 1721 tons of cargo. The liner was worked all night by Messrs. Hamilton & Renny's stevedores to permit her to leave this morning. Cargo for San Francisco from the Orient is large, 497 tons, of which 2000 are for overland points.

Seven Japanese stowaways are on the liner. They are kept busy working their way around the Pacific and will probably be taken back to Yokohama, where they started from.

MATSONIA TAKING 8500 TONS OUT

Nearly 8500 tons of cargo will leave here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for San Francisco, when the Matson liner Matsonia, Capt. Charles Peterson, will steam from Pier 15 for the coast.

Sugar will comprise most of the outgoing freight. It will be 7000 tons, most of it from Honolulu and some from other islands, brought by inter-island steamers and put aboard from them alongside the liner Monday and today.

Canned pines will amount to 15,000 cases. There will be 4000 bunches of bananas, 500 tons of molasses and considerable miscellaneous cargo.

Passengers booked with the local agency, Castle & Cooke's shipping department, to date, are 130 cabin and 45 steerage, about two-thirds the number she can accommodate when necessary.

HARBOR NOTES

Some time today the schooner William Olsen sails for Willapa Harbor.

Wharf Supt. Henry L. Rely of Pier 7 has returned to work after being laid up 11 days by a sprained ankle.

Next mail from San Francisco and Los Angeles will arrive at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the Hill liner Great Northern, due at Hilo at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The O. S. K. chartered freighter Shimo Maru, here Monday with 840 tons of cargo from the Orient for this port, was formerly the P. & O. liner Japan. She has been under Japanese registry for five years.

Officers of the British steamer Eurymachus, here Monday for bunkers, said other vessels of the Blue Funnel line are to come here throughout the winter. They said one of the 12,000 or 14,000 ton boats will be sent from Europe with cargo from New York to the Orient, via the canal and Honolulu.

From the way the Korea Maru speeded up entering the harbor this morning while the four K submarines were passing this port on their regular 30-hour endurance run, it looked almost as though the liner was afraid she would be torpedoed if she didn't get out of the way.

Advises received by C. P. Morse, general agent here for the American-Hawaiian line, say the freighter Mexican will leave Philadelphia for the islands March 5. She will take the place of the Minnesota, which is now on route as a substitute, pending completion of work on the larger boat. Only two boats will be used to carry island sugar to San Francisco for transshipment by rail to eastern refineries. They will be the Mexican and Texan, both 12,000-ton steamers.

STOWAWAY SWIMS ASHORE; CAUGHT

Evidently not choosing to arrive in the usual manner and walk down the gangplank, George Burns, 27, a stowaway, jumped overboard from the Matson steamer Lurline at 10:45 this morning while she was entering the harbor, just crossing the reef, about a quarter of a mile from shore, near Fort Armstrong.

Burns had difficulty in getting to shore with all his clothes on, but managed it. His spectacular escape did him little good, however, because the police were at once notified and rounded him up. He is reposing in the city jail this afternoon and will be given another free ride, this time back to San Francisco, when the Matsonia leaves tomorrow morning.

Burns was found in a first cabin stateroom after the Lurline had left San Francisco. He acted as though he owned the vessel and was doing a great favor to the steamer by riding on it, according to officers of the Lurline this afternoon.

The liner brought 19 cabin passengers and a big cargo. Capt. Arthur L. Soule reported a fine voyage. Purser George F. Roberts said cargo for Honolulu was 6527 tons. The livestock included 55 rams brought to Honolulu from Wellington, N. Z., via San Francisco, for A. W. Carter of the Parker ranch on the Big Island.

SALES FEWER BUT MARKET STRONG

With dealings smaller in listed securities the local stock market continued generally firm and strong today. Sales between boards were 1378 shares and at the session 181, while bond sales were $21,500.

Oahu and Maui were the only shares to show fluctuations. The former sold at 16 1/2 and the latter advanced from 20 1/2 to 21. Other sales were Pioneer 40, Waiatus 31, Ewa 32 1/2, Inter-Island 195 and Hawaii Railway A 8 1/2. Bond sales were $5000 Olan 6s at 110, $15,500 Telephone 5s at 106 and $1000 Hawaii Railway 5s at 95 1/2.

In unlisted stocks Engels Copper was once more the feature and continued its sharp advance from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 and 6 and then was quoted at 6 and 6 1/4. Madera was little traded in sales being at 40 cents and the quotation 30 and 35 cents. Oil receded 15 cents to $4.10 in the absence of new advices as to developments for a settlement of patent controversies. Mineral Products dropped back 5 cents to $1.05. There were no sales of Mountain King or Tipperary.

HARBORS COMMITTEE INCLUDES KALIHI JOB IN BUDGET ESTIMATE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 9.—An appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement of Kalihi harbor, Oahu, Hawaii, was added by the rivers and harbors committee of the house to its budget yesterday. This is in accordance with the recommendations of the United States army engineers in Hawaii, who, in a recent report, urged that Kalihi harbor be dredged and made available for vessels, and that it be connected with Honolulu harbor by means of a canal.

The committee was firmly established in a report, following the uncertainty of shifting political conditions complicated generation. He numerous offices in the old a number days.
