MO'I KANE
IRA KANAMU KEKAUALUA

MO'I WAHINE
KEOHOKULANI MOIKEHA AKAU
On February 12, 1874, David Laamea Kamanakapuu Mahinulani Lumialani Kalākaua was elected king.
He was described as being "Hawaiian to the core"; "a gentleman of education and breeding, suave and intelligent."

He was a natural-born musician of great talent; a composer of Hawaiian chants and meles, and a master of almost any musical instrument he ever touched. This gift seems to have been a liberal endowment of other members of his remarkable family.

In 1863, he had married Julia Kapiolani, granddaughter of Kaumualii, King of Kauai, and widow of Chief Benjamin Namakeha. As a royal couple, they were childless.

One of Kalākaua's first concerns was the establishment of a line of succession to the throne. He gathered more closely into his court those of his brothers and sisters who were still living, even though their diverse rearings had cast them into roles more like friends and acquaintances than blood kin.

He appointed his brother, nineteen-year-old Prince William Pitt Leleiohoku, as heir apparent. He had been adopted by Princess Ruth. On April 10, 1877, twenty-two-year-old Prince Leleiohoku died of rheumatic fever.

Thirty-six-year-old Lydia Kamakaeha-O-Kinau became Princess Liliuokalani. She had been given at birth to Chief Paki and his wife Konia. She was appointed heir apparent after the death of Prince Leleiohoku. She was married to the Governor of O'ahu, John Owen Dominis, an American and they had no children. She became Queen after her brother, King Kalākaua, died in San Francisco on January 20, 1891.

The King's youngest sister, twenty-one-year-old Miriam Auhea was named Princess Likelike. A sister of exceptional beauty, grew up in the Hilo area of the Big Island of Hawai'i. Her husband, Archibald Cleghorn was a Scot.

1875 was a good year for King Kalākaua. The King's sister Princess Likelike gave birth to Princess Kaiulani on October 16. She was named heir apparent by Queen Liliuokalani in 1891. The beautiful Kaiulani was schooled in England.

Oh, what a king he was! "Hawaiian to the core."

HE MELE HULA NO KA MÖT KALĀKAUA (A Hula Chant for King Kalākaua)
(KANE DIVISION)

Ka 'owē mai nei e ka ua Lihau i ka walelau pali. Kanikina 'ana mai o ke aloha Ho'opu'mehana i ka' u poli. Nani wale au 'e 'ike nei i ka ki'owai kapu a ho'i.

E moani lehua i Hi'ilawe  I hanua mai e ke Kēhau.
Kūnī i ka wai o Kapu'a.
Waʻi hoʻonanea a nā manu
Kolonahe mai ana ke 'ala
O ka' u pua o ka wēkū.
Ua kini ua lau ke aloha
Ua mano ka lehua o ke kino.
Ka' u kino Kāhiko i ka 'ōhu
I ka noe hālī mai uka.
Eia la e hālī mai 'oe
Nētenē pono mai i ke alo.
Puana 'i a ke kula
No ka hiku kapu o ka lani.

The cool and gentle Lihau rain sighs on top of the cliffs
The arrival of the loved one from the east
Warming my breast
Beautiful is the sight of the forbidden pool belonging to someone else
The lehua waft to Hi'ilawe
Breathed by the Kēhau
You and I at the water of Kapu'a
Water where the birds pass the time away
Pleasantly blowing hither is the fragrance
Of my flower of the summit
Multitudinous is the love
Four thousand is the count within the body
My body beautifully adorned by the fog
In the spreading mist from upland
Here it is, return again and again
Move right up to the front of my body
Tell the refrain that bursts forth your name
For the seventh sacred one of the heavens (Kalākaua the seventh monarch of Hawaii)

AUHEA WALE 'OE, E KALIKO
(WAHINE DIVISION)

By Kekaulike, younger sister of Kapō'anā. Kekaulike was also known as Kinoaikī.

Auhea wale 'oe, e Kaliko
E ke ko'olū a'oe ka lehua.
Ho ka lehua 'ale 'ane'i
A i honi Kāwili aku wau.
Ke ho'onaunā a'oe nei kou
I ke onaona la o ia pua
'A' u i kui a i lawa.
I lei no' u na ka hikina.

Where are you, o Kaliko - (Kaliko, the new bud or leaf)
O companion of the lehua flowers
Extend (ho mai) the fragrance to this place ('i 'ane'i)
And I shall have smelled it caressingly.
You continue yours - (kou-your nature or character)
In the soft fragrance of that flower
Of which I strung amply (lawa, sufficiently)
As a wreath for me by the east (na ka hikina, by the one from east)
For the sun which arrived at Cape Kumukahi (Kumukahi, one source)
Adorned by Ha'eha'e (Ha'eha'e, a wife of chief Kumukahi)
Kawela (the hot, a noted land) that is at Kuaokalā (Back of the Sun, by Ka'ena Point)
That casts dazzling light (hulili) on the smooth lava
Red-faced (ho'o, hono) is the flower of the lehua
Beautiful at the plain of Malama (Luhiehu, attractive)
Drenched (ho'o'pū 'ia, soaked, wetted) by the rain
Growing to protrude and felch the water of the upland (au, to jut out)
Of the uplands is the bird-snaring woman
There is no gum that does not stick
The waving (ani) of quivering leaves (lau kapalili)
That remain without birds on the summit
I dance, you give answer (e ū mai)
For the seventh sacred one of the heavens (Kalākaua the seventh monarch of Hawaii)

KAULANA KASPAROVITCH
Hula Director

DANCEWORKS
SIMEON DEN
MARIE TAKAZAWA
Directors

LEHUA DANCE COMPANY opened its doors over two years ago under the directorship of Kaulana Kasparovitch. He started his professional career in 1971 and has danced actively in numerous shows such as Pauline Kekahuna's Hauoli Group, Tavana's, Le Boom Boom Follies, Polynesia, as well as across the world dancing and acting as leader and choreographer. He has since retired as a dancer and is teaching full time and choreographing classical hula as well as new works in dance.

DANCEWORKS opened its doors in 1983 under the co-directorships of Marie Takazawa and Simeon Den. Marie Takazawa returned to Hawai'i after enjoying an extensive career on broadway. Prior to moving to New York, she performed with the Hawaii Dance Theatre under the direction of Carl Wolz, Dances We Dance with Betty Jones and Fritz Ludin, and The Jazz Factory with Pam Sandridge. In 1978 she joined the Uncompany directed by Lynn Sinonson. That same year she began performing with the national touring company of The King and I. She is currently co-directing The Jazz Factory. Simeon Den returned to Hawai'i after ten years of professional theatre experience in New York City on Broadway, performing in the original production of Pacific Overtures, the Yul Brynner revival of The King and I, a year on tour with Lena Horne, film production work on "Fame", and Danscompany, under the direction of Joyce Trisler. He was trained at the Alvin Ailey School and Martha Graham's School of Contemporary Dance.
