Death of the Treaty—A Parody.

1
I am dying, Hawaii, dying
Ebbes the golden life tide fast;
And the dark and awful future
Scares me with its dreadful cast;
Let thine arms, Hawaii, enfold me;
Hush! thy sobs and bow thine ear;
Listen to the great dark secret,
Thou, and others, now may hear.

2
Though I robbed the States of millions Wrenched the dollars from their sight,
And I drained their very life blood
By the clause which made my might.
As their custom-guards surround
me,
Anxious to break my unfair claims,
I must punish like a felon,
Die! yes, conquered by my Thanes.

3
Let not eastern servile minions
Scorn the treaty now so low;
'Twas not the Japanese who killed
me—
'Twas the planters struck the blow.
They, who pillowed on my bosom,
Turned aside from honors ray,
They who drunk with gold successes
Madly threw their chance away.

4
Should the base plebeian rabble
Now assail my name at home,
Where Queen Liliuokalani,
Weeps within her widowed home.
Seek her! say the Gods bear witness,
Altera, Augurs, circling wings,
That the time is quickly coming,
When she'll mount the throne of Kings.

5
I am dying, Hawaii, dying,
Hark! the Senate's eager cry;
They are voting now to kill me,
But I'll fight them ere I die:
Too late! no more within the cane
field,
Shall the Thanes triumphant
swell
Pluto, and Missionaries guard thee!
Planter, Hawaii, farewell.

Mice as Engineers.

Mice are good engineers. In digging holes for telegraph poles one of the workmen became greatly interested in watching the ingenuity and perseverance of a mouse which had fallen into one of the holes.
It was 4½ ft. in depth and 20 in.
in diameter. The first day the little prisoner spent in running round the bottom of the hole and trying to find means of escape. The second day he got over his hysterics and settled down to steady business.
He began systematically to dig a spiral groove round and round the inner surface of the hole with a uniform ascending grade. He worked night and day. As he got further from the bottom he dug little pockets where he could lie and rest.
The interested witnesses kept it well supplied with food. After a while the mouse struck a rock, he tried to get under, around, and over
the obstacle, but without success.
He, therefore, reversed the spiral,
and finally reached the top.

eyes making under wear when you

ANNEXATION, AND THEN—?

It is amusing to read the so-called annexation organs at the present time. The Star wants to celebrate. They are always willing to "celebrate" in that establishment even when no occasion offers. The Advertiser takes the Star to task, and tells the celebrating crew that there is not yet any reason to become hilarious, and that it is wiser to register and vote on a sure thing than celebrating something very uncertain. The Bulletin as usual stays on the fence, unwilling and unable to express an opinion until the annexation cat has made his jump.

What the loud-mouthed blather-skites who hurrah for annexation on the steps of the Post Office would gain if the impossible scheme should become an accomplished fact we fail to see. The executive quintet would drop into obscurity and be deprived of their salaries, which they have drawn with marvelous regularity. Dr. Dole would retire to the private practice of an ordinary lawyer, and we doubt that he could secure a position of pound-master even when offices of the "territory" or "county" become the gift of the people. Cooper would of course go back to San Diego, King to his wharves and Smith to his office, which he has certainly not neglected while burdened with public business. The "army"—God bless it—would be out of a job, and our colonels, majors, etc., would have to take up their old business as mechanics, bookkeepers, and ink-slingers.

But, behold! Skilled labor would become much cheaper than now, while rates of living would be the same as now. Field labor would be more expensive, and our dear planters would be the first to feel the change.

The country would be overrun with carpet baggers, ruffians and adventurers who would believe the wonderful fairy tales about Hawaii disseminated by Fitzgerald and his unscrupulous prompters, and in a few years misery, crime and despair would reign supreme in this Paradise of the Pacific.

The Hawaiians would be driven to the wall and treated like Indians or negroes, happy if a reservation even were granted to them. The Japanese of Hawaii would continue in their successful competition with other nationalities, protected by the American-Japanese treaty and the whole people of these benighted islands would realize that a jump had been made from the frying pan into the fire—a fire that eventually would consume the people now living here and make the Paradise a Hell.

We have been permitted to read a letter from a gentleman in California from which we condense the following: You will note that the Examiner admits that there are doubts as to the annexation treaty going through the Senate, except, perhaps, as a county of California. I wonder how this will suit annexationists down your way. Having some advantages in the securing of information I should say that there are great doubts as to the passage of the treaty through the Senate. Again, I have no idea that the Administration will commit themselves to such a policy. You will be an unfortunate community should annexation become a fact. You may depend upon an influx of a class of people not at all desirable; men who are always looking for an Eldorado, and women too. Of course there will be many bright, capable young fellows who will soon elbow out of employ your less capable and untrained men, if for no other reason because they will take a smaller wage. Your storekeepers and small traders will find themselves facing a competition before which they will go down sooner or later. I should judge that your islands would be a paradise for drummers and local representatives of Eastern houses. You will be sure to develop a Boss Rainey and a Boss Kelly and all the other detestable features of your political life. The scheme should give you pause.

It is absurd to believe for a moment that the Hawaiian people will be ignored in the matter of annexation and that the Hawaiian flag will be pulled down at the bidding of a handful of selfish upstarts who are shortsighted enough to take a temporarily financial gain for perpetual prosperity. A protest to the civilized world will arise against the proposed steal of this country. We refuse to believe that any administration of the United States, any true American, or any fairminded man or woman can lend their hand and help to such a cowardly, base act as the annexation of Hawaii, against the will of her people, would be.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

When annexation comes all will register under the American system, and then the Opposition will get their work in on the present incumbents in office.

The Episcopalians of South Kona sent their Jubilee offerings to the poor of East London. A donation to the British hospital of Hilo or Honolulu would have been more thoughtful and appropriate.

If any of THE INDEPENDENT'S readers have laid any money on annexation we advise them to hedge or be sorry. There are other letters in town from other writers that corroborate the tip we received from Washington.

The Corporation of Dublin has won doubtful notoriety in the eyes of the world by refusing by a vote of 22 to 11 to present any address on the occasion of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. It is not reported that they had shillelaghs and "mountain dew" for breakfast.

There are indications that the Konia street is to be repaired shortly, and stones and black sand in piles are now added to the difficulties in passing the street caused by the disgraceful sidewalk which the Road Supervisor will not or dares not have repaired. After a few necks are broken the authorities may look into the condition of Konia street and do something. If the broken necks should be Japanese another "claim" may be filed.

"Straws show which way the wind blows." We are forcibly reminded of the force of this homely proverb by the attitude of some of our hope-to-be American citizens. On the day the Australia arrived they were betting odds that annexation would be announced on the arrival of the next mail from the Coast. On Wednesday they were betting even that annexation would be a fact within sixty days, while yesterday an even bet could only be had on annexation before New Year's Day. Just where they stand to-day we have not heard. Singularly enough the men who staked all on annexation on the 17th of January, 1893, are fearful that annexation may come. And then, what?

The Irish World dignifies "our best government" with the title of an "Oligarchy-Republic" and "sugar growing filibusters." It need scarcely be said that the leading Irish paper is opposed to annexation, and is fighting it vigorously. Annexationists may remember that the Catholic influence in Congress is stronger than that of the A. P. A. with Judd and Sturdevant combined.

Which of our intelligent officials is in charge of the job called street-cleaning? We would like to introduce the gentleman to the storekeepers and citizens in general who have an interest in our main thoroughfares. Every day at the hours when the streets are filled with people appears the sweeping brigade, gathering manure and filling stores and throats with a goodly quantity of Honolulu dust. Let the scavengers do their work in the night.

Now that we are to be annexed in a few weeks, according to the organs of the Annexation Club, it will seem unnecessary to give lessons in etiquette to Mr. Dole, who will no longer be the Great and Good Friend of President McKinley or the crowned monarchs of Europe. Allowing, however, the possibility of annexation not materializing next week, and the Doctor being obliged to attend a few social functions, we humbly suggest that when a President of the most democratic Republic drives in state with his wife, his uniformed Adjutant-General does not sit on the front seat next to the licensed hack-driver, but he follows in another vehicle close to the carriage conveying the President and lady. When the President (king, emperor, etc.) appears officially without his wife or ladies of his family, his adjutant-general or other high official rides in the carriage, seated next to the high muck-a-muck. It is a small matter of course but it is painful to all who know the established rule of etiquette to witness the funny antics of our new regime. If it were the intention of trampling the code of etiquette under Hawaii's democratic heel, why in the name of common sense keep up the fuss and feathers, the uniforms and titles and the general monkey show of the so-called degenerate monarchy?

In pace para bellum. In the time of peace prepare for war. You can't fight without light, and when our reservoirs are dry you can't rely upon our electric lights. Semi-occasionally they will leave us in terrible darkness and at most inopportune moments. Take our advice before the Jubilee and 4th of July celebrations, and inspect our DIETZ LAMPS. One of our large square barn lamps will reflect as much light over your garden grounds as a locomotive headlight, while our little corner lamp is just the real exquisite necessary for the lanai. A tubular street lamp is a gem for the lamp post or your gate, and will prevent many accidents. Use your common Kerosene oil for the above and don't be scared about the oil famine, we have plenty. Then for your interiors we have some beautiful CHANDELIERS, two, three or four burners, to suit any taste, also some exquisite HALL LAMPS in which you can use oil instead of flickering candles, and standing ornamental or PIANO LAMPS of every size, shape and price. Come and inspect them and don't trust to the fickle moon or electric light.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

Teachers Present a Petition for the Reinstatement of Mr. Scott.

Professor W. D. Alexander presided over the meeting of the Commissioners of Education yesterday. Prof. Richards addressed the Board in reference to the certificates of Kamehameha School, and Mr. Lightfoot as to the night schools. It was decided that the night schools should be kept open. Mrs. Fraser was appointed temporarily to Mr. Armstrong Smith's position. Resolutions of respect to the late R. W. Meyer were adopted. A petition in favor of the retention of J. F. Scott signed by 71 teachers was presented.

At Central Union Church.

Prof. Yarnley has arranged special music for both services at Central Union Church for Sunday next. They will be in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. Montague Turner who will sing for the last time in that church. Among the choice selections are: Prelude, violin and organ adagio by Beethoven, Prof. Yarnley and Mr. Ingalls; Anthem by Mendelssohn, by Mrs. Montague Turner and Mrs. Halstead and chorus obligato; Response by Weber, by the Choir; Offertory, from "Ruth and Naomi" by Topliffe, Mrs. Montague Turner; Anthem, "Oh, Come, Let Us Sing" by Tours, by the Choir; Response, "Evening Shades" by Schubert, by the Choir. Miss Beckwith will also assist.

The Queen's Kindness.

The Queen, hearing that Mrs. Charlton, who is in her 83rd year, had been at her Coronation, and was anxious to see H.M. during her Diamond Jubilee year, granted her the entree at the last drawing-room so that she might receive her personally. The old lady, who walked with a stick, was very graciously received by the Queen, who gave her hand to Mrs. Charlton to kiss. H. M. has also given instructions that a seat is to be reserved at Buckingham Palace for Mrs. Charlton for the Jubilee procession. The Charltons, of Haleside, Northumberland, are one of the oldest Roman Catholic families of England. Mrs. Charlton, who, despite her age, takes great interest in all current events, retains her memory to a remarkable degree, and recollects seeing H.M. as Princess Victoria, when only 15, at a ball at York, dancing with the then Lord Morpeth.

Shaving in India

The nappy, by which name the native barbers of India are known to Tommy Atkins, visits his company (each company in a regiment has its own nappy) about 4 a. m. daily, with his lantern and implements, by the aid of which he is enabled to commence operations; for which purpose he carefully approaches the cot of his first victim, and gently rouses the occupant to a sense of what is about to take place; this usually disturbs the occupants of the next two or three cots, and in the incredibly short space of about 20 minutes he will have completed the circuit of that bungalow, and probably shaved between 20 and 30 men, not one of whom has had to move from his bed during the operation.

Mother of 32 Children.

A Vienna medical weekly paper says that Marianna Hehn, wife of a spinner of Neulerchenfeld, a suburb of Vienna, though only 40 years of age, is the mother of 32 children, 26 sons and 6 daughters. The children were born as follows: 4, 3, 4, 2, 3, 2, 3, 3, 2, 3, and 3, or 11 births in all. The mother has nursed the whole of her children. From her 15th year to the present time she has suffered almost every week from an attack of epilepsy, but none of the children have up to the present been afflicted with the disease. Marianna Hehn was one of 4 born together (3 boys and herself), and her mother had altogether 38 children.

Shirts and Collars in all qualities, can be had at bottom notch prices at Kerr's.

Tracked Through Dreams.

In 1751 an Irish murderer was convicted largely upon dream evidence. One Rogers, a Waterford publican, dreamed that he saw a man murder another in a particular green spot on the summit of a neighbouring mountain. On the following day he described both men he had seen in his dream with perfect accuracy, which he did to many of his companions. One of the men was exceptionally strong; the other, who committed the crime was weak and small. Rogers prevailed upon the parish priest to accompany him to the spot, which was easily found, but which bore no traces of a death struggle. On the following day, however, two men entered the public house whose appearance tallied exactly with those in the dream vision. When they rose to leave Rogers begged the one whom he expected to be murdered to remain, but unavailingly. After the man had left he nearly fainted from fright, and in the end persuaded a neighbour to accompany him to the green spot on the hill, where, sure enough, the tragedy of the dream had been enacted in real life. The murderer was tracked and captured, and Rogers was the principal witness against him. His description of his dream was so vivid that the prisoner immediately acknowledged his guilt, and stated that he killed his companion with 8 stabs, exactly as pictured in the dream.

Oldest Bank in the World.

Mr. Melville-Rolfe, British Consul at Naples, gives an interesting account of the history and present position of the Bank of Naples, which is, he says, the oldest bank in existence, for the Monte Vecchio of Venice and the Banco San Giorgio at Genoa, both founded in the 12th century, have ceased to exist, as has also the Bank of Barcelona, founded in the fourteenth century. The Bank of Naples was founded in 1539, and is a State Bank with a considerable capital to which no one lays any claim; in other words, it is a joint stock bank, but with no shareholders.

W. W. DIMOND'S

JUST A GLANCE

In our windows and you will get a fair idea of the assortment of styles of Jewel Stoves and ranges which we carry in stock; there are more inside, not enough room in the windows to show samples.

You will get an idea of the general design of the stoves by looking at them and if you are interested in cookery, any of the clerks in the store will explain about warming ovens, draughts, dampers and everything else connected with Jewel stoves, the acknowledged superior of any stove manufactured in the United States.

And there are other things interesting; one is the matter of purchase plan: The idea of taking old stoves in part payment and accepting instalments for nearly all of the balance. No one else does that in Honolulu and our customers seem delighted with the plan. We have a long list of commendatory letters from persons now using the Jewels.

Death of the Treaty—A Parody.

I am dying, Hawaii, dying
Ebbs the golden life tide fast;
And the dark and awful future
Scares me with its dreadful cast;
Let thine arms, Hawaii, enfold me;
Hush! thy sobs and bow thine ear;
Listen to the great dark secret,
Thou, and others, now may hear.

2

Though I robbed the States of millions Wrenched the dollars from their
sight,
And I drained their very life blood
By the clause which made my might.
As their custom-guards surround
me,
Anxious to break my unfair claims,
I must punish like a felon,
Die! yes, conquered by my Thanes.

3

Let not eastern servile minions
Scorn the treaty now so low;
'Twas not the Japanese who killed
me—
'Twas the planters struck the
blow.
They, who pillowed on my bosom,
Turned aside from honors ray,
They who drunk with gold successes
Madly threw their chance away.

Should the base plebeian rabble
Now assail my name at home,
Where Queen Liliuokalani,
Weeps within her widowed home.
Seek her! say the Gods bear witness,
Alters, Augurs, circling wings,
That the time is quickly coming,
When she'll mount the throne of Kings.

5

I am dying, Hawaii, dying,
Hark! the Senate's eager cry;
They are voting now to kill me,
But I'll fight them ere I die:
Too late! no more within the cane
field,
Shall the Thanes triumphant
swell
Pluto, and Missionaries guard thee!
Planter, Hawaii, farewell.

NEMESIS.

Mice as Engineers.

Mice are good engineers. In digging holes for telegraph poles one
of the workmen became greatly interested in watching the ingenuity
and perseverance of a mouse which
had fallen into one of the holes.
It was 4½ ft. in depth and 20 in. in diameter. The first day the little prisoner spent in running round the bottom of the hole and trying to find means of escape. The second day he got over his hysterics and
settled down to steady business.
He began systematically to dig a spiral groove round and round the inner surface of the hole with a uniform ascending grade. He worked night and day. As he got further
from the bottom he dug little
pockets where he could lie and rest.
The interested witnesses kept it
well supplied with food. After a while the mouse struck a rock, he tried to get under, around, and over
the obstacle, but without success.
He, therefore, reversed the spiral,
and finally reached the top.

ANNEXATION, AND THEN—?

It is amusing to read the so-called annexation organs at the present time. The Star wants to celebrate. They are always willing to "celebrate" in that establishment even when no occasion offers. The Advertiser takes the Star to task, and tells the celebrating crew that there is not yet any reason to become hilarious, and that it is wiser to register and vote on a sure thing than celebrating something very uncertain. The Bulletin as usual stays on the fence, unwilling and unable to express an opinion until the annexation cat has made his jump.

What the loud-mouthed blather-skites who hurrah for annexation on the steps of the Post Office would gain if the impossible scheme should become an accomplished fact we fail to see. The executive quintet would drop into obscurity and be deprived of their salaries, which they have drawn with marvelous regularity. Dr. Dole would retire to the private practice of an ordinary lawyer, and we doubt that he could secure a position of pound-master even when offices of the "territory" or "county" become the gift of the people. Cooper would of course go back to San Diego, King to his wharves and Smith to his office, which he has certainly not neglected while burdened with public business. The "army"—God bless it—would be out of a job, and our colonels, majors, etc., would have to take up their old business as mechanics, bookkeepers, and ink-slingers.

But, behold! Skilled labor would become much cheaper than now, while rates of living would be the same as now. Field labor would be more expensive, and our dear planters would be the first to feel the change.

The country would be overrun with carpet baggers, ruffians and adventurers who would believe the wonderful fairy tales about Hawaii disseminated by Fitzgerald and his unscrupulous prompters, and in a few years misery, crime and despair would reign supreme in this Paradise of the Pacific.

The Hawaiians would be driven to the wall and treated like Indians or negroes, happy if a reservation even were granted to them. The Japanese of Hawaii would continue in their successful competition with other nationalities, protected by the American-Japanese treaty and the whole people of these benighted islands would realize that a jump had been made from the frying pan into the fire—a fire that eventually would consume the people now living here and make the Paradise a Hell.

We have been permitted to read a letter from a gentleman in California from which we condense the following: You will note that the Examiner admits that there are doubts as to the annexation treaty going through the Senate, except, perhaps, as a county of California. I wonder how this will suit annexationists down your way. Having some advantages in the securing of information I should say that there are great doubts as to the passage of the treaty through the Senate. Again, I have no idea that the Administration will commit themselves to such a policy. You will be an unfortunate community should annexation become a fact. You may depend upon an influx of a class of people not at all desirable; men who are always looking for an Eldorado, and women too. Of course there will be many bright, capable young fellows who will soon elbow out of employ your less capable and untrained men, if for no other reason because they will take a smaller wage. Your storekeepers and small traders will find themselves facing a competition before which they will go down sooner or later. I should judge that your islands would be a paradise for drummers and local representatives of Eastern houses. You will be sure to develop a Boss Rainey and a Boss Kelly and all the other detestable features of your political life. The scheme should give you pause.

It is absurd to believe for a moment that the Hawaiian people will be ignored in the matter of annexation and that the Hawaiian flag will be pulled down at the bidding of a handful of selfish upstarts who are shortsighted enough to take a temporarily financial gain for perpetual prosperity. A protest to the civilized world will arise against the proposed steal of this country. We refuse to believe that any administration of the United States, any true American, or any fairminded man or woman can lend their hand and help to such a cowardly, base act as the annexation of Hawaii, against the will of her people, would be.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

When annexation comes all will register under the American system, and then the Opposition will get their work in on the present incumbents in office.

The Episcopalians of South Kona sent their Jubilee offerings to the poor of East London. A donation to the British hospital of Hilo or Honolulu would have been more thoughtful and appropriate.

If any of THE INDEPENDENT'S readers have laid any money on annexation we advise them to hedge or be sorry. There are other letters in town from other writers that corroborate the tip we received from Washington.

The Corporation of Dublin has won doubtful notoriety in the eyes of the world by refusing by a vote of 22 to 11 to present any address on the occasion of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. It is not reported that they had shillelaghs and "mountain dew" for breakfast.

There are indications that the Konia street is to be repaired shortly, and stones and black sand in piles are now added to the difficulties in passing the street caused by the disgraceful sidewalk which the Road Supervisor will not or dares not have repaired. After a few necks are broken the authorities may look into the condition of Konia street and do something. If the broken necks should be Japanese another "claim" may be filed.

"Straws show which way the wind blows." We are forcibly reminded of the force of this homely proverb by the attitude of some of our hope-to-be American citizens. On the day the Australia arrived they were betting odds that annexation would be announced on the arrival of the next mail from the Coast. On Wednesday they were betting even that annexation would be a fact within sixty days, while yesterday an even bet could only be had on annexation before New Year's Day. Just where they stand to day we have not heard. Singularly enough the men who staked all on annexation on the 17th of January, 1893, are fearful that annexation may come. And then, what?

The Irish World dignifies "our best government" with the title of an "Oligarchy-Republic" and "sugar growing filibusters." It need scarcely be said that the leading Irish paper is opposed to annexation, and is fighting it vigorously. Annexationists may remember that the Catholic influence in Congress is stronger than that of the A. P. A. with Judd and Sturdevant combined.

Which of our intelligent officials is in charge of the job called street-cleaning? We would like to introduce the gentleman to the storekeepers and citizens in general who have an interest in our main thoroughfares. Every day at the hours when the streets are filled with people appears the sweeping brigade, gathering manure and filling stores and throats with a goodly quantity of Honolulu dust. Let the scavengers do their work in the night.

Now that we are to be annexed in a few weeks, according to the organs of the Annexation Club, it will seem unnecessary to give lessons in etiquette to Mr. Dole, who will no longer be the Great and Good Friend of President McKinley or the crowned monarchs of Europe. Allowing, however, the possibility of annexation not materializing next week, and the Doctor being obliged to attend a few social functions, we humbly suggest that when a President of the most democratic Republic drives in state with his wife, his uniformed Adjutant-General does not sit on the front seat next to the licensed hack-driver, but he follows in another vehicle close to the carriage conveying the President and lady. When the President (king, emperor, etc.) appears officially without his wife or ladies of his family, his adjutant-general or other high official rides in the carriage, seated next to the high muck-a-muck. It is a small matter of course but it is painful to all who know the established rule of etiquette to witness the funny antics of our new regime. If it were the intention of trampling the code of etiquette under Hawaii's democratic heel, why in the name of common sense keep up the fuss and feathers, the uniforms and titles and the general monkey show of the so-called degenerate monarchy?

In pace para bellum. In the time of peace prepare for war. You can't fight without light, and when our reservoirs are dry you can't rely upon our electric lights. Semi-occasionally they will leave us in terrible darkness and at most inopportune moments. Take our advice before the Jubilee and 4th of July celebrations, and inspect our DIETZ LAMPS. One of our large square barn lamps will reflect as much light over your garden grounds as a locomotive headlight, while our little corner lamp is just the real exquisite necessary for the lanai. A tubular street lamp is a gem for the lamp post or your gate, and will prevent many accidents. Use your common Kerosene oil for the above and don't be scared about the oil famine, we have plenty. Then for your interiors we have some beautiful CHANDELIERS, two, three or four burners, to suit any taste, also some exquisite HALL LAMPS in which you can use oil instead of flickering candles, and standing ornamental or PIANO LAMPS of every size, shape and price. The following are the names of the Oahu College graduates of the Class of '97: Anthony Lee Ahlo, Albert Richard Cunha, Albert Eugene Horner, James Louis Horner, Caroline Adams Howland, Allan Wilkes Judd, Henry Pratt Judd, Edith Mabel Sunter, David Keola Kalauokalani, Lawrence Klindt Kentwell, Elsie Hart Wilcox.

The concert by Miss Ahsong's school at Pauoa last night was a grand success. The pupils showed in their various dialogues, recitation, acting and songs, the patient, and careful training they had gained. Miss Ahsong is to be congratulated on the success of her efforts, and it is hoped a repetition of the same in the near future in a more spacious hall will bring better receipts.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

Teachers Present a Petition for the Reinstatement of Mr. Scott.

Professor W. D. Alexander presided over the meeting of the Commissioners of Education yesterday. Prof. Richards addressed the Board in reference to the certificates of Kamehameha School, and Mr. Lightfoot as to the night schools. It was decided that the night schools should be kept open. Mrs. Fraser was appointed temporarily to Mr. Armstrong Smith's position. Resolutions of respect to the late R. W. Meyer were adopted. A petition in favor of the retention of J. F. Scott signed by 71 teachers was presented.

At Central Union Church.

Prof. Yarnley has arranged special music for both services at Central Union Church for Sunday next. They will be in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. Montague Turner who will sing for the last time in that church. Among the choice selections are: Prelude, violin and organ adagio by Beethoven, Prof. Yarnley and Mr. Ingalls; Anthem by Mendelssohn, by Mrs. Montague Turner and Mrs. Halstead and chorus obligato; Response by Weber, by the Choir; Offertory, from "Ruth and Naomi" by Topliffe, Mrs. Montague Turner; Anthem, "Oh, Come, Let Us Sing" by Tours, by the Choir; Response, "Evening Shades" by Schubert, by the Choir. Miss Beckwith will also assist.

The Queen's Kindness.

The Queen, hearing that Mrs. Charlton, who is in her 83rd year, had been at her Coronation, and was anxious to see H.M. during her Diamond Jubilee year, granted her the entree at the last drawing-room so that she might receive her personally. The old lady, who walked with a stick, was very graciously received by the Queen, who gave her hand to Mrs. Charlton to kiss. H. M. has also given instructions that a seat is to be reserved at Buckingham Palace for Mrs. Charlton for the Jubilee procession. The Charltons, of Hestley-side, Northumberland, are one of the oldest Roman Catholic families of England. Mrs. Charlton, who, despite her age, takes great interest in all current events, retains her memory to a remarkable degree, and recollects seeing H.M. as Princess Victoria, when only 15, at a ball at York, dancing with the then Lord Morpeth.

Shaving in India

The nappy, by which name the native barbers of India are known to Tommy Atkins, visits his company (each company in a regiment has its own nappy) about 4 a. m. daily, with his lantern and implements, by the aid of which he is enabled to commence operations; for which purpose he carefully approaches the cot of his first victim, and gently rouses the occupant to a sense of what is about to take place; this usually disturbs the occupants of the next two or three cots, and in the incredibly short space of about 20 minutes he will have completed the circuit of that bungalow, and probably shaved between 20 and 30 men, not one of whom has had to move from his bed during the operation.

Mother of 32 Children.

A Vienna medical weekly paper says that Marianna Hehn, wife of a spinner of Neulerchenfeld, a suburb of Vienna, though only 40 years of age, is the mother of 32 children, 26 sons and 6 daughters. The children were born as follows: 4, 3, 4, 2, 3, 2, 3, 3, 2, 3, and 3, or 11 births in all. The mother has nursed the whole of her children. From her 15th year to the present time she has suffered almost every week from an attack of epilepsy, but none of the children have up to the present been afflicted with the disease. Marianna Hehn was one of 4 born together (3 boys and herself), and her mother had altogether 38 children.

Tracked Through Dreams.

In 1751 an Irish murderer was convicted largely upon dream evidence. One Rogers, a Waterford publican, dreamed that he saw a man murder another in a particular green spot on the summit of a neighbouring mountain. On the following day he described both men he had seen in his dream with perfect accuracy, which he did to many of his companions. One of the men was exceptionally strong; the other, who committed the crime was weak and small. Rogers prevailed upon the parish priest to accompany him to the spot, which was easily found, but which bore no traces of a death struggle. On the following day, however, two men entered the public house whose appearance tallied exactly with those in the dream vision. When they rose to leave Rogers begged the one whom he expected to be murdered to remain, but unavailingly. After the man had left he nearly fainted from fright, and in the end persuaded a neighbour to accompany him to the green spot on the hill, where, sure enough, the tragedy of the dream had been enacted in real life. The murderer was tracked and captured, and Rogers was the principal witness against him. His description of his dream was so vivid that the prisoner immediately acknowledged his guilt, and stated that he killed his companion with 8 stabs, exactly as pictured in the dream.

Oldest Bank in the World.

Mr. Melville-Rolfe, British Consul at Naples, gives an interesting account of the history and present position of the Bank of Naples, which is, he says, the oldest bank in existence, for the Monte Vecchio of Venice and the Banco San Giorgio at Genoa, both founded in the 12th century, have ceased to exist, as has also the Bank of Barcelona, founded in the fourteenth century. The Bank of Naples was founded in 1539, and is a State Bank with a considerable capital to which no one lays any claim; in other words, it is a joint stock bank, but with no shareholders.

W. W. DIMOND'S

JUST A GLANCE

In our windows and you will get a fair idea of the assortment of styles of Jewel Stoves and ranges which we carry in stock; there are more inside, not enough room in the windows to show samples.

You will get an idea of the general design of the stoves by looking at them and if you are interested in cookery, any of the clerks in the store will explain about warming ovens, draughts, dampers and everything else connected with Jewel stoves, the acknowledged superior of any stove manufactured in the United States.

And there are other things interesting; one is the matter of purchase plan: The idea of taking old stoves in part payment and accepting instalments for nearly all of the balance. No one else does that in Honolulu and our customers seem delighted with the plan. We have a long list of commendatory letters from persons now using the Jewels.

FRENCH JUSTICE.

Entrapping Prisoners to Confess— Extraordinary Revelations.

A fresh and striking example of the infamous procedure employed by the French Judges d'Instruction to compel prisoners to admit their guilt was furnished at the trial of a man named Pellissier for murder. Since his arrest Pellissier has passed many months in prison—six in complete isolation. His mistress, who was arrested at the same time, was kept in custody seven months before she had to be released for want of evidence against her. Four months of her imprisonment were passed in solitary confinement. During this time she was daily visited by the Judge d'Instruction, who used every ruse to make her confess or declare her lover guilty. "I solemnly swear," she declared, "that I was offered 150 francs, immediate liberation, and a good situation afterwards if I would only swear that my lover was guilty. When I refused, they told me there was no use trying to deny it, for he had admitted everything himself." Do what they would, however, witness rejected all their advances, and was treated with extra severity in consequence.

The Counsel for the prisoner said that similar offers had been made his client if he would only say that the girl was guilty, whilst he, too, was told that she had made a full confession. These assertions created an immense sensation in the Court, and amidst a scene of great excitement the prosecuting Counsel rose and said that in view of the revelations made he would withdraw from the case.

The prisoner was at once discharged amidst the loud cheers of the spectators.

Sacred Hanoverians.

THE FAMOUS CREAM-HUED HORSES.

Queen Victoria's State carriage on the Celebration Day was, of course, drawn by the famous cream-hued horses that are known at the English Court as the "Sacred Hanoverians." They are very rarely seen by the public at large in London, save when take early in the morning for an airing on the Vauxhall-rd. Otherwise they remain immured within the precincts of the Buckingham Palace stables. The record of these beautiful quadrupeds and of their remote sires constitutes an integral portion of the history of the rule of the house of Brunswick and of Hanover. From time immemorial the members of the Electoral house of Hanover have always made use of white horses as chargers and as carriage horses, and it may be remembered that forms the principal heraldic emblem of the Hanoverian dynasty. The first teams of cream-coloured horses were brought from Hanover by George I. on his being promoted from Elector of Hanover to the position of King of Great Britain, and until Queen Victoria's accession to the throne their successors were supplied from the celebrated breeding stud Herrenhausen, near Hanover. Since 1837, however, when the Crown of Hanover was severed from that of England, the Royal cream-coloured horses have been bred at the stud at Hampton Court Palace. There is only one epoch during the last 200 years where the cream-coloured horses were discarded by the English sovereign. It was during the first decade of the present century. In 1803, Hanover was seized and occupied by Napoleon, and the French Emperor, who hated King George III., appropriated the cream-coloured stud at Herrenhausen in order to spite him.

A PRANCING WHITE HORSE

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY,

Napoleon had actually the audacity to have 8 cream-coloured horses harnessed to the gorgeous and much gilded State carriage in which he and Empress Josephine were drawn to Notre Dame to be crowned. This was too much for the infuriated English King, and in a paroxysm he ordered the cream-hued horses at the mews in London to be discarded in favour of black ones. This state of affairs continued until the downfall of Napoleon, at which period the British monarch claimed from the French Government the cream-coloured stud stolen by the Emperor in 1803. But every horse of that tint had mysteriously disappeared from France, and to this day it remains impossible to discover what became of them.

Chinese News.

An article in Longman's describes the sort of news and Imperial edicts of which the Peking Gazette—the Chinese newspaper and the oldest in the world—is made up. Here are some: "The worthy Viceroy X. Y. Z. of Sz Chwan * * * had repeatedly solicited permission to retire, and both our Imperial mother and ourselves had conferred presents of pills and ginseng upon him at various times. We now hear, alas! that he is no more. X. Y. Z.'s penalties during life are hereby cancelled. One thousand pounds are bestowed for funeral expenses, and the local officials will pay every respect to the coffin as it passes through their jurisdictions. * * * In this way do we delight to honor an upright and loyal servant. Governor X. reports a number of incompetents. The Prefect A. is an opium sot and too fond of actors; The Magistrate B. is a fellow of low and mercenary spirit. Let each be reduced one grade. The Prefect C. is no fool, but he is getting old and feeble. Let him retire on his present rank. The Magistrate D. is simply an idiot. Let him take charge of the local education department instead. When the eclipse of the moon takes place to-morrow let the proper authorities set up the usual howls and save the moon in due legal form."

Ned Doyle at the Cosmopolitan is recommending the celebrated Putnam's Blackberry Brandy, a tonic which is unrivalled, assisted by Jim Thompson formerly of the S. S. Australia an excellent "half and half" is served to the thirsty customers of the Cosmopolitan.

Buffalo Beer has proved its immense popularity at the Royal, Pacific and Cosmopolitan Saloons. The celebrated Pabst is also retained there in draft or in bottle. The interchangeable check system that has proved such a convenience to the patrons of these popular resorts is also in vogue.

One ounce of prevention is better than ten ounces of cure. The Empire boasts of infallible remedies against the varioloid. Wieland beer on draft beats vaccination, and Doctor Charlie Andrew presides over the finest stock of 'remedies' that can be found in town. All for medicinal purposes—and cash.

Jurors as a rule get out now-days very late in the evening. In the morning the wise men who have been drinking the ice water of the Supreme Court and eating dry sandwiches need something to clear their throats. That is the reason why the Pacific Saloon serves Rock and Rye every morning to the "rocky" who walk through the Rye.
