BOSTON'S WELCOME TO QUEEN KAPIOLANI.

There is a good deal of joke and banter about the good city of Boston's notions. Her society is accused of pedantry, and their devotion to the cause of genuine and thorough education is mocked at by flippant writers speaking of their "crotchets."

Boston may be a little particular and a little peculiar, and she has good reason to be so, but there is one thing pre-eminent in the good city and her society, and that is their intelligent, light-toned and appreciative hospitality. Other communities too often have regard to the wealth and position of the stranger, but Boston delights to honor individuals who have done well and who have deserved well of their fellow beings.

The influential and solid men of the "Hub" are ever ready to welcome and patronize true merit in man or woman, whatever may be his or her condition. But now they welcome a Queen, and it may be said that this welcome is an ordinary instance of commonplace ostentatious attention to wealth and position. However, let us observe the character of the welcome. The intelligent officials and society of Boston, in their demonstration towards Queen Kapiolani, have marked their appreciation of her rather as the mother of her people than as the Queen Consort of a Kingdom.

The attention of the people of Boston to Kapiolani was something warmer than an ovation to a Royal personage. The gentle, genial lady of the Pacific Islands is greeted by tens of thousands of people in this noble city, who knew something about her.

The journals of their city did not caricature our Royal Lady as a barbaric Chiefess, as done elsewhere, because their readers knew the good Queen too well. They knew the work of Christianization and education that has been going on in her country. They knew how completely the Queen and the Princess who accompanies her, have been partaking of and illustrating in their own lives this work of Christianity and civilization, and they knew that they were meeting educated and accomplished ladies in our Royal party whose refined and polite demeanor was largely owing to the Boston spirit of culture.

Boston knows Hawaii, and Hawaiians appreciate Boston; and the Hawaiian people with warm gratitude and a heart-felt "aloha" accept the generous and tasteful hospitality of the officials and people of Boston, which our Sovereign and people will be most happy to be able to reciprocate some day.

QUEEN KAPIOLANI
IN BOSTON.The Queen of the Sandwich
Islands Welcomed Yesterday.How the Distinguished Party Spent Sunday in the City.Attendance at the Park Street and Trinity Churches.Greetings Extended From the Governor and the Mayor.

(Boston Journal, May 9th.)

The first reigning Queen that ever visited this Republic, Queen Kapiolani of the Sandwich Islands, yesterday set foot for the first time in Boston, the city which sent forth the earliest traders and missionaries to redeem their realm. At 8 a. m. the train containing the Royal party stopped at the Dudley Street station, where a delegation of the Boston Reception Committee entered the car occupied by the Queen and tendered the welcome of the city, and ten minutes later a long line of Pullman cars rolled into the New York and New England station, where a squad of police were in readiness to restrain the eager sight-seers. The comments of those who comprised the gathering at the station indicated a sort of quiescent curiosity, showing that all were eager to catch the first glimpse of a real live Queen. "Yes, I am waiting to see my Queen," said a general ex-Senator. "I expect my wife on this train." By the time the party was ready to alight the curiosity of the community was crystallized, and even those who disclaimed any concern about royalty crowded to scan the visitors.

Presently two mature looking ladies, with olive complexion and strong, well-defined features, alighted from the train, clad in dark traveling suits. The Queen carried in her hand a bunch of saffron-hued tea roses, and Princess Liliuokalani held a large and somewhat wilted bouquet. Both looked somewhat fatigued after their long trip from the national capital, but greeted with a pleasant expression those who attended to pay the courtesies of the city. The Princess, who is the eldest sister of the King, and is the Heir Apparent to the throne, was clad in mourning on account of the recent death of a sister. Among those who composed the immediate party were Lieut. Gen. Hon. John O. Dominis, Hon. Curtis P. Iauka, Col. J. H. Boyd of His Majesty's staff, the Hon. H. A. P. Carter, Minister of the Hawaiian Islands at Washington, was not able to come on the trip owing to previous engagements. Gen. Dominis is the husband of the Princess, and is in charge of the trip on the part of the Royal party. The Hon. C. P. Iauka is Governor of Oahu, and is one of the most important personages of the Queen's suite.

In a few minutes after arrival at the station the entire party was brought in carriages to the Parker House, where a stalwart body of police from Section 2 formed a concave space, within which they entered, while the national Hawaiian ensign was hoisted from the flagpole to give token of the Royalty that had taken residence beneath the roof.

The Queen and Princess manifested their satisfaction when on being taken in the elevator to the second story they were afforded the first glimpse of the luxurious suite of apartments that had been provided for them by the municipal liberality and taste. The Queen especially gave a start of pleasurable surprise when her eyes encountered an almost speaking likeness of her husband, King Kalakaua, as the first object within the reception room. These were the apartments where the dainty Patti and the exacting Bernhardt had found an ideal abode, and as they were now enriched with the luxuriant efflorescence of the tropics evoked by Florest Thomas F. Galvan, with smiles, ferns, immortelles and also paintings of scenes in the Sandwich Islands, they were conducive to the comfort as well as the fancy of the company. Perhaps most significant among the adornments was the floral motto upon the wall, "Aloha Oe," which means "Love to Thee," the last word being peculiarly and solely appropriate to the Queen.

There was a suggestion of progress in the fact that one of the notable objects was a banana tree laden with the fruit which within the lifetime of Her Majesty was "tabu" to the religious idols. Near the reception room were a number of apartments for the personal accommodation of the Queen, the Princess and those most closely connected with the Royal party. All the apartments were very richly adorned with flowers, including huge pots of hydrangeas, mammoth mounds of tea and hybrid perpetual roses and long-flowered lilies. In addition to these there was the beautiful chapel window in the marble extension at the corner of Tremont and School streets was such as to make the place extremely inviting and to elicit expressions of pleasure from the Queen.

In reply to Landlord Beckman, who was promptly at hand, she sent word that she had had refreshment on the train, she did not desire breakfast until 9:30 a. m. At that hour the party, together with Messrs. Whall and Taylor of the committee, sat down to the lavishly furnished table in the dining apartments on the floor below, where the exquisite taste in the floral, as well as the gustatory arrangements, added zest to the repast. In the course of conversation the Queen expressed her appreciation of the courtesies which the municipality had thus far extended to her. It was understood that she was specially pleased with the article of welcome in her native tongue which she read in a Boston paper.

Soon after her arrival the Queen exchanged her traveling dress for a dark lavender costume of the Mother Hubbard pattern, which is so prevalent in her country. On being asked if she would go to church she asked, "Must I go?" in a tone which suggested that she was in doubt as to some special obligation which Boston ideas enjoined. Being somewhat fatigued, she did not attend Trinity Church in the forenoon, as was expected, but took needed rest in anticipation of the greetings from the Governor and Mayor.

The Princess, however, as she subsequently explained to a "Journal" representative, went to the forenoon service at Park-street Church on account of its first connection with missions to her native land.

Meanwhile Colonel J. H. Boyd, Aide-de-Camp on His Majesty's personal staff, was afforded an opportunity to visit the Boston works. Under conduct of a delegation of the Reception Committee he was taken on board the steamer Eity to Moon Island, where the discharge of sewage excited the wonder of the visitor. Subsequently visits were paid to the pumping station, and carriages were taken to Mount Hope Cemetery and to other points. The Colonel, in response to the "Journal" representative, stated that this was his first visit to Boston and that he was highly pleased with the cordiality of the reception, and from personal knowledge he could say the same on the part of the Queen and the Princess. He explained a badge which he wore on his breast as indicative of the King's acknowledgment of the fidelity of those who had manifested active allegiance to his cause at the time that he was chosen King in accordance with the Constitution.

At 12:30 p. m. Mayor O'Brien and Mrs. O'Brien called to tender their courtesies. After the exchange of greetings with the Princess, the Queen entered the reception room clad in a navy blue costume and bowed her acknowledgments of the courtesies tendered her. The representative of the "Journal" was here afforded opportunity for personal greetings by the Queen and Princess, whose salutations were quite gracious, the latter displaying much readiness in the use of the English language.

"Of course I have not had much chance to see the city, but I have been well pleased." Reference being made to the accomplishments in music and language which were credited to her, she said in a deprecating tone: "O, I am sure I do not deserve so much the compliments that you give me."

In regard to church she said: "I went to Park-street Church this morning, not only because it was nearest to us, but because it was the church which sent out the foremost missionaries to our Islands."

During the interview, Adjutant General Dalton was announced as the bearer of greetings from His Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts. The General, who was in full uniform, on being introduced by Chairman Whall of the committee, presented the following letter:

TO HER MAJESTY QUEEN KAPIOLANI: I give you my great pleasure in tendering you, by the bearer of this note, who is a member of my military staff, a cordial welcome to this Commonwealth of Massachusetts, of which I am the Chief Executive Magistrate.

I hope to be able to make your visit to this State both pleasant and profitable, and beg that you will command my services in any way that may seem to you likely to tend to bring about this result. I have the honor, with high respect,

OLIVER AMES, Governor.

The letter was interpreted to the Queen by Governor Iauka, of her staff, and at the close she bowed her acknowledgments. Subsequently Governor Iauka, in accordance with his desire, was taken in a carriage to Chestnut Hill reservoir and other places, his attention being specially elicited by a visit to an electric light establishment.

At 4 p. m. the Queen and Princess, appropriately escorted, attended service at Trinity Church. On entering at the chapel side pleasant greetings passed between them and the rector, Rev. Dr. Philip Brooks. They were escorted to the pew of the Hon. Robert Treat Paine, and listened with manifest interest to a very eloquent sermon by the rector. The scenes leaving the church were a counterpart to those that occurred during the visit of the Princess Louise to the same place, when throngs of sight-seers watched the carriages and the entering visitors. "The Queen has on a heavy black silk dress, with brocade bodice," was the characterization of the costume by a lady onlooker. The carriages were then taken to King's Chapel, where the party inspected with much interest the souvenirs of the olden time, the silver communion service presented by an English King, and the pews that were occupied by George Washington and Charles Sumner. A private dinner was had at 6:30 p. m., and in the evening the Princess with party attended Music Hall at the performance of "The Golden Legend," their entrance being greeted with applause.

Breakfast to the Queen.

(Boston Journal, May 10th.)

The rarest massings of flowers, rich and felicitously called music, and one of the most complete products of the culinary art ever given at the Parker House appealed to the eyes, the ears and the taste, while the representation of past and present chief magistracy of State and city complemented the dignity of the Royal guests from the Sandwich Islands yesterday when the Mayor's breakfast was tendered. The presence of ladies, and especially the bright conversation of such Boston literary men as Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes and William D. Howells, went far to make the affair unique among banquets of its character.

At 12:25 the city guests proceeded to the breakfast room, the Royal party waiting a short time, in accordance with the ceremonial of such occasions.

The list of guests at the tables was as follows: Mayor O'Brien, Her Majesty, Gen. Dominis, Mrs. Ames, on the right of the head of the table; Her Royal Highness, Gov. Ames, Mrs. O'Brien, on the left of the head of the table; Col. J. H. Boyd, Bishop Paddock and lady, Frederick O. Prince, Mrs. Charles Albert Prince, Gen. J. F. B. Marshall and lady, Hon. Leopold Morse and lady, Hon. William Gaston and lady, Hon. Henry L. Pierce and lady, Mrs. P. A. Collins, Col. C. H. Taylor and Mrs.

Taylor, Col. William Lee, Col. C. P. Iauka and lady, Hon. Alexander H. Rice and lady, Col. Leverett Saltonstall, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Hon. William Claflin and Mrs. Claflin, Mr. Eben D. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Beckley, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. F. Whall, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Barry, Mr. N. H. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, Lawrence Bond and lady, Rev. H. Bernard Carpenter and Mrs. Carpenter, Rev. N. G. Clark, Mr. W. D. Howells, Hon. Patrick Maguire, Mr. E. H. Clement and lady, Mr. F. A. Gilbert and lady, Mr. A. Shuman, Mr. D. J. H. Heelt, Mrs. S. Q. Cochran, Mr. D. G. Gilman and lady, Mr. James F. Hummel and lady, Rev. E. N. Boursaud, Rev. M. J. Savage and lady, Col. Jonas H. French, Hon. John F. Andrew and lady, Hon. John E. Fitzgerald and Mrs. A. M. B. Ellis, Hon. William E. Russell and lady, Gen. John M. Corse and lady, Mr. S. S. Sias and lady, Gen. C. H. Barney and Mrs. S. L. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. William Berkley.

While the party was proceeding to the banquet hall the Hawaiian national anthem was played as a march by Baldwin's orchestra, and proved quite inspiring to the Royal company. The banquet room was elaborately decorated, both as to the matter of bunting and floral adornments. Two long tables were set, with covers for about a hundred persons, and above these on all the adjoining spaces and walls were profuse festoonings, in which the national emblems were blended. At the head of the hall the wall was occupied with a large representation of the Hawaiian coat-of-arms and the characteristic greeting to the Sandwich Island Royalty, "Aloha Oe," around which were elaborate drapings, while at the opposite end was the word "Welcome" in vivid lettering. The tables presented a symmetrical and radiant appearance, with their wealth of floral and other decorations. One of the prettiest effects was that produced by the appearance of stuffed humming birds in the midst of flowers. After the offering of grace by the Right Rev. Bishop Paddock, the party sat down to the discussion of an extremely enticing bill of fare, the pleasure being enhanced by the series of selections from the orchestra. At the close, His Honor Mayor O'Brien said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—It may not be out of place to say that Boston has long been on friendly relations with the Sandwich Islands. As the Chief Executive of the city it gives me great pleasure to welcome to Boston Her Majesty and the Royal party. I hope their stay will be a pleasant one, and we shall do all we can to make it such." [Applause.]

Governor Iauka arose in response and replied in the Hawaiian language, which Colonel J. H. Boyd, of His Majesty's military staff, interpreted as follows:

Her Majesty wishes me to make her acknowledgments to you, sir, Mr. Mayor, and this distinguished company, for the very hearty manner in which you and they have planned to honor her.

She accepts very gratefully the compliment for herself, at the same time recognizing that it is paid as well to her husband, His Majesty the King of the Hawaiian Islands.

She is pleased to acknowledge the very generous courtesy shown to herself and Her Royal Highness the Princess and suite, to enjoy for a few days the bounteous hospitality of the city of Boston, the name of which has reached her Island home.

This finished the formal speaking, and the ladies retired to an adjoining parlor, where the Queen and Princess received the courtesies of those present, and listened to pleasing songs by Mrs. F. B. Whitney.

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE ROYAL PARTY.

Yesterday forenoon the Queen and party visited Quincy Market and environment, the Old State House, the Equitable Building and the Old South Meeting House.

In the afternoon, at the close of the courtesies incident to the breakfast tendered by the Mayor, the Queen, Princess, Mrs. Beckley and Mr. Gilman made a brief informal visit to the residence of His Excellency Governor Ames.

About 7:45 carriages were taken and the party proceeded to the Globe Theater to enjoy the performance of "Ruddygore," for which four boxes had been specially secured. The boxes were attractively festooned with bunting. Manager Stetson's box was occupied by the Queen, the Princess, Colonel Boyd and Chairman Whall of the Reception Committee. The opposite boxes were filled by the Mayor and Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Ames, and the upper boxes by members of the committee and the City Government. A rich bouquet of Jacquemont roses was presented to the Queen, Marshal Niels to the Princess and La France to Mrs. Beckley. The Royal party manifestly enjoyed the performance very heartily, and were themselves the objects of cordial manifestations by those in the auditorium. At the close the party passed out through the Hayward Place entrance between a file of police officers, and returned to the Parker House.

ECLIPSE

CHAMPAGNE!

EXTRA DRY.

WE ARE NOW PLACING ON THE market the ECLIPSE CUVES of 1879 and 1880, which for dryness and bouquet are unsurpassed, and are pleased to inform you that our efforts in producing a Champagne competing with the best Foreign Wines, have been appreciated, dispelling, in a great measure, the prejudice against pure native wines. The ECLIPSE will not only be found in every city in the Union, but has also found a market in the Republic of Mexico and on the Continent of Europe, where it is much appreciated by connoisseurs for its purity, lightness of alcoholic strength and exquisite bouquet and flavor.

WE GUARANTEE OUR

SPARKLING WINES

As absolutely pure, and they are par excellence the SPARKLING JUICE OF THE GRAPE. They are produced precisely as the high-grade French Champagnes, by fermentation in the bottle, REQUIRING TWO YEARS' CURE AND RACKING TO PERFECT, but differing from their foreign competitors in being neither strengthened with spirit nor flavored in any manner. We claim, and can substantiate our claim, that our Champagnes are the purest Sparkling Wines in the world, and quote from the report to a comparative analysis made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: "Of 200 samples of wines analyzed, nothing has been found on this continent equal to the ECLIPSE. Containing only the normal percentage of alcoholic strength in dry wines 10½ per cent., and only 6.51 of Saccharine, and no fictitious flavorings." As a stimulant the ECLIPSE bears the highest recommendation of the leading faculty of the United States, and wherever exhibited for competition with any other Champagnes, either foreign or native, its merits are attested by the highest awards.

We caution you against the impositions of parties East and on the Coast, who are foisting on the market a "gas" or charged wine, under the name of California Champagne. Remember, none are genuine except those bearing our name and brand, on both cork and label, and which are sold with the guarantee of absolute purity.

HONOLULU, May 7, 1887.

HAMILTON JOHNSON, Honolulu:

Dear Sir—I have made a chemical examination of the sample of Haraszthy "Eclipse" Champagne taken by me from your store, and find that this wine contains no adulteration whatever, the acid present being the natural acid of the grape, while the "bouquet" and gas present are such as would result from the natural fermentation of the wines. Yours very truly,

GEO. W. SMITH,

Of Benson, Smith & Co., Druggist.
