EDITORIAL NOTES.

The news from Washington received by the Australia furnishes strong confirmation of the correctness of the position taken by the ADVERTISER in an article entitled "A Republican Congress and Duties on Sugar." It will be noticed that the Senators and Representatives from California have decided, as we predicted they would, to make common cause with the Democrats in opposing any reduction in the duty on sugar. The Republican majority in both Houses is so very narrow that this determination on the part of the California delegation is likely to prove fatal to the whole scheme.

Advices by the Australia indicate a waking up on the part of the United States Government to the serious nature of the Samoan complication. If President Cleveland and his Cabinet have really come to a realization of the fact that they have a duty in the premises which has been heretofore neglected or shirked, such conclusion on their part has not come any too soon.

The reputation for manly courage and patriotic spirit, which the Samoans had already earned, is fully sustained by the tenor of the latest news. The pluck and promptness displayed by the Captain of the U. S. S. Adams appears to be the one bright spot in the whole business, so far as the record of the foreign forces is concerned. The matter has now reached a stage where something in the way of definite settlement will have to be reached at no distant day.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

San Francisco, January 2, per S. S. Australia.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Sugar Notes.

The year now closed goes into history as the one showing more changes in refined sugar in San Francisco than any one since 1850. There have been fifty-six changes in quotations as against thirty-two in 1887, thirty-eight in 1886, thirteen in 1885, seven in 1884, four in 1883, ten in 1882, twenty in 1881, and eight in 1880. Taking granulated as a standard it was quoted at 6 1/2 cents on January 1st, 1888. The fluctuations were small and all over a fraction of 6 cents until July 9th when the price was 7 1/2 cents. Eight cents was reached on July 12th, and prices then dropped to 6 cents on August 4th. The market again strengthened and on September 19th sugar was 8 1/2 cents a pound, which was the highest of the year, and 8 1/2 cents was again reached on November 23th.

The Chinese Question.

The discussion of the Chinese question has broken out afresh. The Examiner started the ball rolling just after Christmas by publishing interviews with fruit growers throughout this State, in which much fear is expressed that the State will not have sufficient labor to gather the crops next season. The Federated Trades and State Board of Trade have taken up the question and on January 4th they will have a general conference to decide how the demand for men can be met. The general opinion is that the fruit growers are needlessly alarmed. There are plenty of white laborers—men, women and children—in the State. The great question is how to get these people to the country, when wanted, and to accommodate them. The Examiner, after making itself for two days the mouth-piece of the numerically insignificant band of pro-Chinese apostles, hedged most completely when a protest was set up by the people at large. The sole outcome of this discussion is that the Examiner has been most completely sat upon and that the fruit-growers and ranchers have been convinced that they must take further steps toward providing decent accommodations for their hands. Under the present system the majority of farm laborers are vagabonds and are treated no better than horses, if as well. Not a few fruit-growers are going to provide better quarters for their men by the time that the next season sets in.

The Haytian Trouble Over.

The steamer Prins Mauritz arrived at New York on the 29th of December and reports that the Haytian dispute is over. The Legation was inaugurated President on the 10th. On the 20th the United States men-of-war Galena and Yantic steamed into the harbor of Port-au-Prince with shotted guns and ready for action. They demanded the instant release of the seized American steamer Haytian Republic. The Yantic's guns were trained on the city, while those of the Galena were pointed at the Haytian man-of-war Besancon. Legitimate finding that no delay would be tolerated protested and then commanded the steamer towed out to the position she occupied when captured. The crew were given passage to New York. The release was most opportunely, as Legitime had about concluded to sell the steamer to the Atlas Line. Rear Admiral Luce afterward visited Legitime and many peaceful speeches were made. B. C. Morse, owner of the steamer Haytian Republic, has submitted a claim of $500,000 to Legitime, $200,000 for himself and $150,000 for the detention of the crew and passengers.

The Race War in the South.

Almost daily accounts of trouble between the whites and negroes are telegraphed from the Southern States. A Walhala (Miss.) special of the 17th ult. says: "There was a terrible riot here last night and white men and negroes lie dead as a result. For a long time there has been much ill feeling between the whites and blacks at this place, and it has been aggravated by the appearance of the latter, and yesterday the two elements became involved in a quarrel which resulted in great loss of life. As nearly as can be ascertained a negro and a white man got into a quarrel because the negro would not give the whole of the road to the white man passing in opposite directions with teams. There was a fight and the negroes took refuge in a house and would not give up the man without a warrant day. A body of whites numbering 150 charged the house three times and were driven off. The negroes then took refuge in neighboring swamps. The whites hunted for them for three days, without finding any one with a gun or the man who would not give the road. It is impossible to get particulars, as the whites in the vicinity uphold their people and will say nothing about the fight nor permit anything unfavorable to be telegraphed away. The negroes are too thoroughly frightened to talk."

A bloody battle between whites and blacks is reported as having taken place at Tacketts Mills, Stafford county, Virg., Christmas eve, during a political discussion. This led to a wrangle between a white man named Bennett Hifen and a colored man. Both indulged in personalities, which resulted in a fight. A general riot was the result. Hifen was shot and instantly killed, and his colored enemy was also shot. Twenty people are reported dangerously injured.

At Monticello, Ark., on the 29th ult. a row grew out of an attempt to arrest a negro, and a general fight between whites and blacks was narrowly averted. It is reported that the negroes will attempt to release the prisoners. The whites are prepared for any emergency.

San Francisco News.

Charles F. Merle, agent of N. K. Fairbanks & Co., of Chicago, is missing and $90,000 of the firm's money has gone with him. He was also President of the California Bone and Fertilizer Co. and was a general broker as well.

The accounts are over and develop gross frauds. O'Donnell, the anti-Chinese candidate for Mayor, gained 322 votes, Pond (Dem.) lost 190 and Story (Rep.) lost 102. In the recount for Recorder, Russell (Rep.) gained 57 and McIntyre (Dem.) lost 5, and in the count for Superior Judge Bonestell (Rep.) had a net gain of 86 and Levy (Dem.) lost 50. A "snap" count was made by watchers at the time of the Bonestell-Levy contest from which it is believed that Phelps was elected to Congress in the Fifth District. The official returns gave the Democratic candidate, Clinie, a majority of 52 votes in a total of about 40,000. Phelps will contest Clinie's election.

During the year 1888, 456 divorces were granted in San Francisco, 134 being for desertion, 121 for extreme cruelty, 80 for failure to provide, 47 for neglect, 41 for adultery, 27 for intemperance, 10 for conviction of a felony and 5 for other causes.

Irvig M. Scott has notified Secretary Whitney of his acceptance of the conditions proposed by the department for an official steam trip of the cruiser Charleston, and that she would be ready within three weeks. The Charleston will have a six hours' trip at sea, to make which she will go two or three hundred miles westerly of the Golden Gate.

Joseph Durbrow, an old and well-known citizen, died at his residence recently, after an illness of about three years. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

Billy Boyd is again in jail and will be detained as a witness in the Ciprico fraudulent Chinese certificate cases. Boyd was about to go to Honolulu again when arrested.

On the night of Dec. 21st one of the boldest and most successful train robberies was committed near Clipper Gap, Placer County. The east bound overland train stopped at the station and was boarded there by two masked men who got on top of the express car. No one saw them but some tramps who did not say anything, supposing they were stealing a ride.

When the train started they let themselves into the express car by means of rope ladders, first covering the messengers with revolvers. While one man stood on guard the other helped himself at the safe, filling two sacks from the coin packages. Both men then dropped out of the car, jumping from the train while it was running up grade at about 12 miles an hour. No alarm was given by the express messengers until the train reached New England Mills. There is no clue to the men. Wells, Fargo & Co. belittle the loss, but the most reliable information is that the men got $53,000 in gold, taking all that they thought they could safely pack.

The California National Bank, which has its offices under the Palace Hotel, has suspended payment. At first the officers of the bank were not inclined to intimate that cashier F. E. Ramsden was not straight in his accounts, but later investigations prove that these imputations were without foundation. The suspension was made because the President, R. P. Thomas, a soap maker, and every one else about the bank, knew nothing of banking. The bank backed money losing concerns, notably the Panoramia in the United States here and in Los Angeles, the Lockspring Mattress Company, the Bijou Theatre and such ventures. The bank has deposits of $550,000 and its capital is $200,000 paid up. The concern will probably not resume, though it is believed that dollar for dollar of indebtedness will be paid. The heaviest stockholders are R. P. Thomas and E. R. Thompson who have more than half the stock.

The House of Representatives has passed the Morrow Post Office bill which appropriates $600,000 for the purchase of a site. The amount is considered too small.

The Southern Pacific Company will pay its taxes for 1888. The Company paid $521,670.70 on December 28th into the State Treasury. The total sum due is about $900,000.

Governor Waterman has removed the Registrar of voters, Ben. A. Prindle, and has appointed T. J. L. Smiley.

Leong Sing, who murdered his uncle Leong Chun on March 30, 1888, because he would not loan him money, was hanged in the county jail on the 28th. He did not realize that he was to die until taken to the scaffold, saying that the sheriff was trying to extort money from him and was trying to scare him. He died steadily as a Christian.

His neck was broken by the fall and his heart stopped beating in ten minutes.

The total eclipse of the sun was successfully observed throughout this State, Nevada and Idaho, and only a few clouds did the fog or clouds interfere. The belt of totality ran about 100 miles north of San Francisco and thence in a north-easterly direction. At all places the thermometer fell from 3 to 10 degrees. Chickens and birds went to roost, and the motion of birds ceased. The observers in San Francisco and other places saw Venus, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter and many stars, and Prof. Elkin of Yale College, who was stationed at Winnemucca, Nev., detected two comets close to the sun. The corona in all places was exceptionally fine and over 1,500 photographs were taken. At about 1:00 p. m. San Franciscans went to Cloverdale in Sonoma county and were abundantly repaid for the trip.

THE MINISTRY TO HAWAII.

A Perq. of Nevada-Sam Davis, a Carson Editor, Nominated. The Alta California humorously discusses the probabilities of the Republican nomination for Minister Resident here as follows: There is one office to be filled upon which the press of this Coast can well afford to unite. The Hawaiian Mission by common consent belongs to Nevada. That State has developed a tendency for Kanaka diplomacy that is not visible elsewhere. While other foreign relations bother us intolerably, we have been at profound peace with the Sandwich Islands ever since Nevada had them in charge, and there is an unbroken harmony in Honolulu, though the inter-pecuniary affairs of the Kingdom go through convulsions. We want this to continue, and therefore we want Nevada left in charge of the relations which Nevada has created and maintained, and therefore we want the press to do its country's service and journalism the honor of urging that Sam Davis, the Carson editor, be accredited as laborer to the Court of Kalakaua and as Minister to the Hawaiian Islands. The Republican papers have already broken ground upon the subject, but the work should be general and not partisan. Sam Davis is a Western man. He got his first baptism in printer's ink in frontier Nebraska, when that territory was uncertain whether it would ever be anything but a grasshopper pasture, and he has stuck to Nevada through all mutations with a vigor which is the attribute of genius. This office should seek him. In the lottery of politics the prizes drawn by newspaper men are few and far between. Journalists laboriously push him into the Hawaiian Mission. It is a week's voyage to Honolulu, and when the editorial convention of these States meets in the capital, we want a member of the guild to receive us and teach us how to sack potatoes and select the best bananas. The contributions of Sam Davis' pen have lightened and made jocund many an hour that else would have been hung in black. Let us pay in part the debt that is due him, and by a purely journalistic movement put this natural diplomat in a place that he will fit as perfectly as sage brush does the rugged mountains of his State. Pass the word along the line and make the politicians hear it, and when Sam departs for the field of his official usefulness we will give him such a send-off as will make the Golden Gate wish it was longer that it might feel for a greater space the delightful sensation caused by the passage of a genuine journalist, speeded by the good will of all the press.

SUICIDE.

The Chief Quartermaster of the Alert Commits Self-Destruction. William Daniels, Chief Quartermaster of the U. S. S. Alert, committed suicide on board ship yesterday evening by cutting his throat from ear to ear. The doctor came upon him just as he committed the deed, but the work was only too surely fatal for any countervailing measures. The deceased was a native of Sydney, Australia, where he leaves a family, and was forty-eight years of age. He had been a petty officer in the American navy many years, was esteemed a good and reliable man, well-liked by the officers and men, and the bearer of four good conduct medals. He must have been temporarily insane. The funeral will take place to-day at 3 o'clock.

PERSONAL.

Mr. F. Kentfield, an owner in the Planter's Line of packets, arrived by the Australia. Mr. Chris. Dunker, a California capitalist, is among the arrivals from the Coast. He was a schoolmate of Mr. Hare of our publishing department. Messrs. Henry Smith, J. H. Reist and A. W. Carter are gazetted as appointed respectively Clerk, Deputy Clerk and Second Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court, the two first-named being promoted from the two latter positions. Hon. H. A. P. Carter, Hawaiian Minister to Washington, has been appointed by His Majesty as First Delegate to the International Marine Conference to secure greater safety for life and property at sea, to be held at Washington. Mr. Li Cheung, the former reliable Chinese interpreter and translator of the Supreme Court, having returned from his visit to China by the Australia, is gazetted as appointed to his old position. He was much missed in his absence by the Court. Mr. Jas. G. Clever, ex-manager of the Bulletin, has his arrival noted in San Francisco by the Chronicle as "a Honolulu merchant." James would relish this variation from the hackneyed distinction of a "wealthy Sandwich Island planter" accorded most Hawaiians arriving in that city.

Obituary.

Mr. S. L. Shaw goes to California by the Alameda, on account of the death of his father, Mr. Isaiah Shaw, at San Jose on Christmas Day. Born in New Jersey in 1813, Mr. Shaw was among the early American settlers in Santa Clara county. He had been in business in Chicago, where he married, and in 1852 went by water to California. At his death he owned an estate of 183 acres. A San Jose paper remarks upon the fact that Mr. Shaw died the week before his death served upon a jury trying a criminal case, although over seventy-five years of age, and when another jury said he would stay to eat his Christmas dinner in the jury room before he should vote acquittal, the venerable septuagenarian responded that he should do likewise rather than vote conviction of the defendant who he believed was innocent. Mr. Shaw left a widow and seven children, three of the sons being residents of this island-S. I. Shaw, manager of the Pantheon Stables, J. W., manager of the Honolulu Dairy, and J. R., assistant to the first-named.

Matrimonial.

Mr. Wray Taylor, reporter of the Bulletin and organist in St. Andrew's Cathedral, quietly took unto himself a wife yesterday evening, in the person of Miss Amy Norton, who arrived only the previous night from the Golden Gate by the steamer Australia. The sly fellow had never published the banns in his list of engagements in the Bulletin, nor given his conferees any earlier intimation than a written notice after the event which appears elsewhere. All the same, the happy couple are herby wished unobstructed rays of bliss throughout their wedded career. Aloha!

THE FIRE INQUEST.

Verdict of Incendiarism-Tribute to Police Activity. The inquest on the Nuuanu street fire was concluded yesterday, the following verdict being returned: "That the said fire was in their opinion the work of some incendiary or incendiaries unknown to this jury." (Signed) C. L. Hopkins, Coroner; E. R. Hendry, Thomas E. Wall, H. Vierra. The jury have handed in the following minute for publication. It explains itself. We, the jurors on the inquest of the recent fire on Nuuanu street, desire to express our high appreciation of the prompt manner in which the policeman Solomon Pakia responded to the alarm, and the effective manner in which he put out the fire. And we would most respectfully recommend him to the notice of the Board of Underwriters for his commendable action as mentioned above. (Signed) E. R. HENDRY, THOS. E. WALL, H. VIERRA.

HAWAIIAN CAMERA CLUB.

The Amateur Photographers Organized-Objects of the Association. A number of the amateur photographers of this city met yesterday evening at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, and organized as the "Hawaiian Camera Club," with the following officers: President, C. Hedenann. Vice-President, George W. Smith. Secretary-Treasurer, A. W. Richardson. A committee was appointed to draft by-laws and report at a meeting to be held in two weeks hence. The objects of the organization are, generally, mutual improvement in the photographic art, the collection of views taken by amateurs, etc. Similar societies are in existence throughout the United States and in the Australian Colonies. Visitors from one to another are always made welcome, and the societies hold communication and exchanges with each other. There are about fifty amateurs in these Islands, which ought to be enough material to make the organization prosperous and useful. The public has an interest in it, as one function assumed by the Camera Club is the holding of exhibitions.

THE BADDELEY CAKE.

SCENE IN OLD DRURY AT 1 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING.

A Notable Throng Which Represents the High Bohemia of London—Telling the Story of "The Baddeley Cake"—The Dance Begins.

The curtain rises. Rises on a stage with a small white table in the center and long white tables on either side. Behind them, taking up the whole width of the stage, are a series of terraces, in bright yellow and black, reaching, it seems, to the ceiling at the back. On each terrace are white tables and black coat-waiters standing rigidly in line, who, as the applauding audience, low and smile and low and smile again. Under the many lights the salads and plates look appetizing, the banks of glasses glitter in crystal, and the dark green of the champagne bottles has a certain sparkling look. The scenery with which the stage has been boxed is taken from the famous "Arnor Scene," and the result is a picture to look at. The applause continues until Mr. Fernandez appears. Mr. Fernandez is an elderly gentleman with curling locks. He is the custodian of the Drury Lane fund, and by way of introduction he tells the story of "The Baddeley Cake."

It appears that 100 years ago the green room of Drury Lane was by sacred custom annually given over to feasting and merriment upon the recurrence of "Twelfth Night." In 1794 Robert Baddeley, a comedian to whom the little anniversary was especially pleasant, died. In his will he set apart £100 as a fund whose income should annually be used to furnish on "Twelfth Night" a bowl of punch and a cake to the green room. The request, Mr. Fernandez states, has been faithfully observed since Baddeley's time. Of late years, however, Mr. Augustus Harris, the proprietor of Drury Lane, had added to Mr. Baddeley's £100 a few hundred more of his own and invited his friends to join in the ceremonial. Mr. Fernandez goes further, talks about the pleasures which attach to observing the traditions of the theatre, of the pleasures of friendly meeting and other pleasant things, making altogether a clever speech of welcome. The audience like it and he bows and walks to the little table, takes up the carving knife and holds it—Dumplings are served—over a large round white cake with red and green icing in the center. This is the Baddeley cake.

THE CAKE IS READY. The cake is ready, but the audience is not. They wish first to hear from Mr. Harris. There are loud cries from the floor and the boxes of "Harris!" "Harris!" "Where is Gus?" and "Show up, old boy!" In response there mounts the stage on the left a man of medium age, medium height and medium stoutness. His hair is perceptibly thin on top, but his face is round and his brown eyes are bright and young and merry. This is "Gus" Harris, the famous "Gus," a merry maker in chief to all the children, young and old, of London, from Marlborough house to Hackney. He speaks easily and gives them all a modest off-hand welcome. His trust in the occasion is as pleasant to him as it is to him. He declines to say more, because the cake waits and the time has come to cut it. He invites them up and they come. They first pass the cake and seek each a bowl, because there is great a to the recipient in the Baddeley cake. Then they mount the terraces, line the tables and pack the stage until in a few moments old Drury's boards are a great high hill of feasting, laughing humanity in silks and bonnets, cloths reaching down to a wide prairie of the same below.

The champagne flows like water. It is not just, but simply cool. They drink it at the normal temperature in England, and value its bouquet, something to which the majority of champagne drinkers in America seem indifferent. There are endless bottles of it, and its consumption is greatly disproportionate to that of the coffee and the other delicacies on the menu in cream color and red. The scene from the summit is inspiring. The white shoulders and symmetrical figures of the women light up the terraces. The merry groups about the popular favorites here and there are centers of jest and laughter. Everywhere are seemingly notable faces. An English crowd, like an English street, presents a variety of physiognomy that the more cosmopolitan civilization of America should present, but does not for some reason seem to. Physiognomies are deceptive, too, here as everywhere else. Under a slender man of 85, who has a quiet, good humored look and who, from his easy manner, does not seem to be anybody in particular, and yet he is the eldest son of a duke. Near by is a tall young man, with magnificent facial outline, who you are sure is thoroughbred to a degree, until you are mentally paralyzed at finding him vigorously wiping glasses. He is a waiter, yet has a face that Crickbank would have given a price for. Some of the women are pictures—pictures such as only a Baddeley Cake in London town could bring in contrast.

A GROUP OF SOMEBODIES. Down in the center of the stage, with a group of sombodies in wall-to-wall to her graceful chat, is a slender girl in white, a medium blonde, whose coiffure is a careless arrangement of silken frizzes that helps the statuesque poise of her head. She has a prominent Greek nose, deeply set blue eyes, which give her an altogether spiritual look, and grace in manner which is marked. The corsage of her dress is high and modest. The white, soft folds of the waist and skirt are touched here and there with a trimming of white and black, she wears tiny bows of black silk in places, and her long gloves, reaching to the elbow, are of the same color. There is something altogether flower-like and pure about her, a touch of that infinite quality of "whiteness" which, whether it be vested in mind or dress, is distinctively the gift of some women. She is, apparently, much sought and very popular. She is Eva Southern, the daughter of our own Lord Dundreary, the alter ego of Billy Florence, the eccentric and much loved "Ned."

The dance begins. It is a waltz, the "Souviens Toi" of Walteufel, that floats upward from the Life Guard band. It is slow, sensuous and swelling, and fits the hour. All the younger women join in it. It is a gay scene, very gay, and it rapidly grows gayer and gayer. Mr. Harris' guests are enjoying themselves to their fullest capacity, and Mr. Harris, in his private office, with a groaning table and magnum of champagne going among his chosen few, is happily aware of it. The dancers take the stage and the still space. The place rings with laughter and music, and the popping of more corks. It rings hour after hour and the fun is general, and not until the yellow sun is beginning his daily struggle with the London mists do the great majority go forth to slumbers more or less disturbed by memories of the Baddeley cake.—London Cor. New York Times.

Islanders Going to Manitoba. The total population of Iceland appears to be threatened. A scheme has been set afoot in Manitoba to transport 75,000 Icelanders still remaining in their native country, together with their flocks and herds. This would be an exodus as complete as was that of the children of Israel from Egypt. There has been a steady flow of Icelandic emigration to Canada for the last fifteen years, yet the population is said to be still too large for the resources of the island. Several flourishing towns peopled by Icelanders are already found in Manitoba.—Chicago Herald

SHURMAN AT IT AGAIN.

The members of the Lynn Cycle Club took a trip down to Portland. The party comprised J. H. Young, J. H. Shurman, A. H. Carsley, E. G. Borgholte, J. F. Dow, J. Littlefield, A. W. Lewis and A. Wiswell. On their arrival in Portland, and after a good breakfast at the Peble House, the Portland Wheel Club took the visitors in hand for a run to Prouts Neck, a distance of some fourteen miles. On the way out the party passed Spurwick Hill, an eminence that has never been climbed by a cyclist. To the surprise of Portland men would ride down. This was very promptly agreed to, as the local men never been climbed more than twice in succession. So on Monday the party repaired to Shurman went at it and went up and down six times without a dismount. To say that the Portland men were dumfounded is putting it mildly. Shurman rode his Springfield Roadster. [Will some Portland reader kindly give us the grades of the Spurwick and Park Street Hills, and oblige? Ed. EXCELSIOR WORLD.]

We give you the facts. Draw your own inference. But remember our prices are moderate, our goods warranted against defective material and workmanship for one year; absolutely safe against headers, speedy and a good all around road wheel. CATALOGUE FREE.
