THE SUGAR MARKET.

So far as concerns the immediate interests of these Islands, the most important item of news by the Umatilla is the rise in sugar, the latest New York quotations being $6.55, with a decidedly upward tendency.

nouncing the men he has chosen for the various positions under the new administration. During the nearly four weeks which elapsed between the inauguration and the sailing of the Unatilla, the names sent to the Senate for confirmation were not numerous.

Robert T. Lincoln of Illinois, Minister to Great Britain. Marat Halstead of Ohio, Minister to Germany.

Whitlaw Reid of New York, Minister to France.

Allan Thorndyke Rice of New York, Minister to Russia.

Patrick Egan of Nebraska, Minister to Chili.

Thomas Ryan of Kansas, Minister to Mexico.

John Hicks of Wisconsin, Minister to Peru.

George B. Loring of Massachusetts, Minister to Portugal.

Lausing B. Mizner of California, Minister to Central American States.

Robert Adams, jr. of Pennsylvania, Minister to Brazil.

William L. Scruggs of Georgia, Minister to Venezuela.

John T. Abbott of New Hampshire, Minister to Colombia.

John F. Swift of California, Minister to Japan.

Albert G. Porter of Indiana, Minister to Italy.

Thomas W. Palmer of Michigan, Minister to Spain.

John D. Washburn, of Massachusetts, Minister to Switzerland.

John A. Egan of Illinois, Minister to Denmark.

Edwin H. Terrill of Texas, Minister to Belgium.

Mr. Halstead's nomination has been rejected by the Senate. All the others have been, or doubtless will be, confirmed.

Mr. Lincoln is perhaps best known as the oldest and only surviving son of Abraham Lincoln. He is believed to possess decided ability of his own, as well as much of his father's sterling traits of character.

Mr. Egan is an Irishman by birth. We are not aware of the length of his residence in his adopted country, but his citizenship is only of two or three years' date.

Mr. Ryan is a Representative from Kansas, and will resign his seat in Congress to accept his new appointment.

Messrs. Loring and Washburn have been prominent and influential men in their own State of Massachusetts, and have an excellent reputation in both public and private life.

The other gentlemen in the above list have all earned more or less distinction in political or professional life.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

S. S. Umaitilla sails on Friday. It was raining hard at midnight. Band at Thomas Square to-night. Monthly meeting G. A. R. this evening. Judge McCully sits at Chambers this week. The Supreme Court opens at 9:30 o'clock this morning. A warning notice to delinquent taxpayers appears elsewhere. Large crowd rewarded by grand music at Emma Square last night. A chance of steady work for a good shoing smith appears to-day. Hey, there! Morgan sells 100 bales California hay at noon this day. A brown bear that came by the Umaitilla with its keeper was an object of great interest about town yesterday. Mr. E. Hutchison, sculptor, is removing his studio to the floor in the McHenry block, along with Mr. Tavernier, painter. Miss Minnie Champ, who lived in these Islands two years, teaching school at Honolulu, Hawaii, died on February 22d at Detroit, Michigan. Lieut. Kipley, who arrived by the Alameda, swim ashore from the Vandalla. His uniform was torn to shreds but he did not receive a scratch. A sensational interview in a San Francisco paper states that England is negotiating for the purchase outright of one of the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. Frank Gertz has got ahead of Mr. Dillingham in introducing the locomotive. See how she smokes across the page, drawing an endless train, loaded with boots and shoes. Williams has on view outside his studio, besides pictures of the melancholy naval wrecks at Samoa, a rich series of Samoan views, including one of Malietoa's visit to the Kaimiloa. Yesterday's arrests were one each for taxes (1), furious driving, larceny, and drunkenness, and two (Chinese) for assault with a deadly weapon. The last two are charged with slaying a fellow-countryman on the arm with a knife. "Free gratis" is very cheap, even for a 450 Bulletin flysheet. If it had been also "for nothing," it would have been no cheaper. The people, however, were willing to reward the advertiser's larger enterprise. Dr. G. Troussau's catamaran was launched from his boat house at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She is named the "Albatross," and looks well in her native element. As she was slid up the ways the Eliza saluted her with three whistles and a gun was fired. Captain J. A. Johnson of the bark New-boy was here ten years ago in command of the bark Joseph Perkins, and made many trips between Honolulu and Puget Sound in the lumber trade, during nearly four years. He remembers very well the names of many Kamaainas. A Chinese hack driver named Akiana ran his carriage foul of Mr. W. M. Gilrath's brake, standing opposite Sprockel's block, yesterday afternoon. The brake was upset, and, in leaving the horse, the harness was damaged. Capt. Larsen took the hackman to the station, entering him for furious and heedless driving. BAR EXAMINATIONS. The Growing Crop of Lawyers—Six Out of Ten Succeed. Chief Justice Judd and Associate Justices McCully and Preston held examinations, on April 8th, of applicants for license to practise at the bar. J. K. Hanuna and S. Ankaui were examined for license to practise in all the courts of the Kingdom. Hanuna was admitted. Ankaui will have a chance some other day. J. Kala, P. K. Kaimakaohe, M. Kane and B. R. Hoi were admitted to practise in the lower courts. H. P. K. Muihulu, G. W. N. Kahaamakai and Peter Nowlin have the privilege of trying again. Charles Williams, J. W. H. I. Kile and S. D. Kewah filed applications but were not examined. John N. Kapahu was on April 4th granted a license to practise in the Police and District Courts. A Veteran. Captain John M. Cavarly, a son-in-law of the late B. F. Bolles, so long and favorably known in these Islands, has just completed his 14th voyage to Panama and back to San Francisco, and is in the service of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co., of which he is now the senior Captain on the Pacific side. Captain Cavarly sailed March 22nd in command of the S. S. City of Peking of the China line, to which he has just been assigned by order of Pres. George J. Gould. It is quite probable that his many friends in Honolulu may have in the near future the pleasure of a short call from Captain Cavarly while on the way to or from San Francisco. Public Moonlight Concert. The Royal Hawaiian Band will give a concert this evening at Thomas Square, commencing at 7:30. Following is the programme: 1. Overture—Two Blind Men. Mehl 2. Cavatina—Surprise Symphony. Haydn 3. Andante—The Pirate. Gounod 4. Selections—Waltz. Gounod 5. Aia Hiki Mai, Ipo Launa. 6. Reminiscence of Hawaii. 7. Polka. 8. Galop—Aerobats. Zilliox Hawaiian Band. The Hawaiian Gazette. The HAWAIIAN GAZETTE now contains ten full pages. Besides the news of the Samoan naval disaster, it contains Lieut. Cross's paper on the Samoan question in full. Local news is more complete than in any other paper. Official publication of judicial decisions is a specialty. Secure copies before the steamer Umaitilla sails on Friday. For sale at the office and bookstores.

THE SAMOAN DISASTER.

Graphic Account of the Wreck of the American Vessels by Lieut. Rittenhouse. The following extracts are from a letter to Mr. John H. Pate from Lieut. Rittenhouse of the Trenton, who, it will be remembered, was the eloquent orator of last Decoration Day in Honolulu, when attached to the Vandalla. It is the most graphic account of the disaster to the American vessels that we have seen. The letter is dated Apia, Samoa, March 20th: The steamer will bring you news of our disaster here. It is a terrible affair. The Trenton arrived from Panama March 10th and found the Vandalla and Nipise of our forces, the Adler, Olga and Eber of the Germans, and the Calipho of the English. A few merchantmen and small craft were in port. Politically, here, all was serene. It seemed as though everybody was waiting further instructions from the home governments. On the 15th, in the morning, bad weather began, and the Admiral prepared the ships for a gale, hoisted topmasts, sent down lower yards, got up steam, etc. Other ships did the same. The meteorology you know is no harbor whatever, no protection from northerly winds. Reef bound on the sides and nearly around. Edges of reef almost perpendicular. By 3 o'clock p. m. on Friday, the 15th (Australian time), the gale had developed. It blew fiercely, the sheet anchors were dropped and all went well. The only thing that occurred of notice was at 8 o'clock in the evening we lost a cable. We dropped another anchor and started the engines. During the night it blew a hurricane and the seas were terrific. But with engines going we held on hoping for a change in the morning. Morning came but the expected change was not in our favor. The fury increased. The vessels, however, were all in place but were riding uneasily. At about 8 a. m., Saturday, our wheel went with a crash, and we found the rudder broken. It was soon entirely useless. After that we began to make water, started the pumps on deck, put on all stumps in engine room, etc. Water came in through the haave pipes, which lead in on the berth deck. We checked it as much as possible. By noon our fires were out and engine stopped. All hands pumping and bailing. Could not reduce the water. The other ships were also in distress by this time. Lieut. Rittenhouse and his crew were on the deck, but the Adler had been thrown high on the reef on her side. Vandalla had dragged. Calipho had lost cables, shipped and started for sea in the face of the hurricane, nearly cutting us down as she passed out. She was just able to move ahead against the seas. We were helpless relying on our three cables. In the afternoon two of them parted and we began to drift. The gale was terrific and we were set over toward the eastern reef and our stern was not fifteen feet from it. A sort of undertow or current along the reef kept us from striking, but we expected destruction of the ship each moment. We sagged down toward the reef which vessel was doing well. She had a good berth. We held for a time, but knew we would soon be on her. Tried to get over an H gun, but it was too late, we backed into her, and were sent overboard. The first one side then the other. We then drifted by her and found danger again on the western reef. This was about dusk Saturday. Here again we expected to strike, and for a long time we moved on the reef so close that I could easily have jumped on it from the taffrail. The Vandalla and Nipise were near. The latter in a fair position on the bottom but clear of the reef. The Nipise sunk to her full length and every man and woman along the reef with lower masts standing filed with men. The Trenton dragged to the Vandalla, threatening to strike her, which would shake everybody off. We got lines to her before hitting her, and under way she was saved. Her main and mizzen masts fell before the men from the fore were rescued. The foremost stood. During this night it blew harder than ever. We were on the bottom and against the Vandalla. The only question was which would last the longer, the gale or the ship. The gale moderated by daylight, but the Trenton could not be saved here as there is no dock. I could see the hull could be floated. Water was up to her berth deck, and rising. We abandoned her that afternoon. Vandalla lost four officers and thirty-nine men. Nipise lost seven men. Trenton lost none. Captain Wilson, and others rescued from Vandalla, saved nothing but what they had on, and many were stark naked. It was the heaviest gale ever known on the island so I have been told. I fully believe it.

AN OCEAN TRAGEDY.

F. W. Rugg Kills a Sailor on the High Seas. Surrendered to the United States Ship Alert. The American bark Newsboy, 559 tons register, Captain James A. Johnson, was anchored in the stream at 6 p. m. April 8th, fifty-four days from Newcastle, N. S. W., via Kahului, Maui, with 1,024 tons coal for Messrs. W. G. Irwin & Co. Reports rough seas and squally weather from latitude 10 to 15 deg. S. Crossed the equator in longitude 147 degrees W., ten days ago. Arrived off Kahului early April 7th; laid off and on for two hours; weighed the pilot, and after receiving instructions, proceeded for Honolulu. On Sunday morning, March 3d, in latitude 27 degrees 32 minutes South, and longitude 164 degrees 35 minutes West, the chief officer, F. W. Rugg (well-known in Honolulu as having been captain of the Hawaiian bark Thomas R. Foster), who was on duty, called some of the men on deck. The Captain was in the cabin sleeping. A dispute arose between Rugg and a seaman named Andrew Paulson, a native of Denmark, aged about twenty-four years. The quarrel increased on both sides until an appeal was made to Rugg. Captain Rugg getting the worse of the fight, drew a revolver, with which he shot his antagonist dead on the spot. Captain Johnson was then called on deck and at his command Rugg, who surrendered peacefully, was at once put to irons and carefully watched till arrival at Honolulu. He was kindly treated during his imprisonment, expressing sorrow for his rash deed. Paulson's body was buried at sea. Soon after the Newsboy was anchored in the stream, an officer from the U. S. S. Alert, with a master-at-arms, two marines and several sailors, boarded the vessel. They took Rugg on board the Alert, there to be held in custody until this morning, when Captain Green will surrender him to Mr. J. H. Putnam, Consul General of the United States.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Chinese Horseman Almost Instantly Killed on Queen Street. About 2:30 yesterday afternoon a Chinese stable man named Achui met with an accident that resulted fatally in less than two hours. He was in the employ of James Steven and J. Kauhane, and had just taken a horse of Steven's out of Captain Cluney's yard, at Queen and Punchbowl streets. The horse was fractious and threw Achui off its back. He fell in the middle of Queen street, a few yards from Punchbowl street. His head struck the ground with force enough to break his skull. The poor fellow was picked up unconscious, bleeding at the mouth and nose, and with a visible fracture on the back of his head. Officer Kekono, who was on duty at the spot, had the injured man taken to the Station, from whence he was removed to the Queen's Hospital. There he died shortly before 4 o'clock. Deputy Marshal Hopkins, as Coroner, had a jury empanelled, who viewed the body, and an inquest will likely be held to-day.

The Postmaster General and Hawaiian Minister H. A. P. Carter signed a convention establishing a new limit of $100 for orders between the United States and the Hawaiian Islands. Under the new arrangement, the amount of money orders issued in the United States for payment in Hawaii was $4,508. On the other hand the amount of orders drawn in Hawaii for payment in the United States was $25,684.

Abraham Lincoln's Simplicity. (Hon. E. B. Washburne's Letter.) I was again in Washington part of the winter of 1849 (after the election of Gen. Taylor, and saw much of Mr. Lincoln. A small number of mutual friends including Mr. Lincoln made up a party to attend the inauguration ball together. It was by far the most brilliant inauguration ball ever given. Of course Mr. Lincoln had never seen anything of the kind before. One of the most modest and unpretending guests present, he could not have dreamed that like honors were to come to him almost within a decade. He was greatly interested in all that was to be seen, and we did not take our departure until after 3 o'clock in the morning. When we went to the clock and hat room Mr. Lincoln had no trouble in finding his short cloak, which little more than covered his shoulders, but after a long search was unable to find his hat. After an hour he gave up all idea of finding it. Taking his cloak on his arm he walked out into Judiciary square, deliberately adjusting it on his shoulder, and started on his way for his lodgings. It would be hard to forget the sight of that tall and spare man, with his short cloak thrown over his shoulders, starting for his long walk home on a capital that was so crowded in the morning without any hat on.

And this incident is akin to what related to me by the librarian of the supreme court of the United States. Mr. Lincoln came to the library one day for the purpose of preparing some law books which he wanted to take to his farm for examination. Getting together all the books he wanted, he placed them on a pile on the table. Taking a large handkerchief from his pocket, he tied them up, and putting a stick which he had brought with him through a knot he had made in the handkerchief, and adjusting the package of books to his stick, he shouldered it and marched off from the library to his room. In a few days he returned the books in the same way.

The Dyak as a Climber. The Hill Dyaks of Borneo are expert climbers. Mr. Hornaby, while collecting specimens of natural history, saw a Dyak ascend a large tapping tree, five feet in diameter at the base, straight as a ship's mast, and without the smallest limb or knot for 120 feet up. The man went up the tree to secure a bees' nest hanging from the under side of the lowest limb. The nest was simply a large, naked, triangular piece of white comb. A Dyak "ladder" had been put up the previous year, and reached from the ground to the branches. It consisted of seven twenty-foot bamboo poles held almost end to end alongside the trunk by sharp pegs driven into the soft wood about two feet apart. The pegs were driven first on one side of the poles and then on the other, and then the bamboos were lashed by rattans, which held them firmly about eight inches from the tree. These pegs served as the rungs of the ladder. The builder must have been a bold man, with nerves of steel. He was obliged to let the ends of the poles overlap a few feet in order to build the ladder with safety to himself. The completion of the ladder was most difficult. Clinging to the slight bamboo pole, 100 feet from the ground, he hoisted up the last bamboo, twenty feet long, drove in the peg, lashed the lower end of the pole to it, and then ascended that shaking bamboo to fasten it at the top. The Dyak honey hunter fastened to his back a basket to receive the honey. Making up his torchwood, with which to smoke the bees out of the nest and away from himself, he ignited it, slung it by a cord from his neck, so that it would hang below his feet, and started up the slender "ladder."

Hand and foot he went up, peg after peg, with a nonchalant ease which would have done credit to the most daring of sailors. Even that sailor would have been pardoned if he was a little shaky while climbing a tall factory chimney by the lightning rod. On reaching the lower limb, 123 feet from the ground, he took his torch in one hand, waved it to and fro, until it smoked freely, and then crawled out along the bare branch until he was in reach of the coveted nest. Examining it first on one side, and then on the other, he shouted down as cheerfully as if his climb had been nothing. "No honey!" Leaving the comb untouched, he descended, with a snarl, and reached the ground without the least remark. Youth's Companion.

What the Lick Telescope will do will depend on men who choose to use it. It will not make discoveries of itself. All that can be said of it is that it will place in the hands of painstaking competent observers the best means now in existence of scanning the heavens. If they do not turn the means to account, it will not be the fault of the telescope. In times past some small telescopes have made more important discoveries than stand to the credit of some of the large telescopes of our day. But this is not because the small instruments were better, but because in proportion to the progress of exploration the unexplored area of the heavens naturally diminishes. There is less to be discovered now than there was in the time of the older Herschel. Nor is it logical to deride large telescopes because Lord Rosse's great instrument has added little to its early nebular discovery. His telescope is powerful, but it is not exact or accurate, and every observer knows that exactness and precision in a telescope are even more important than power. Professor Davidson says that the Lick telescope will reveal stars of one degree fainter magnitude than can be detected by the instruments now in use. This would be no small gain. A corresponding increase in power ought to add to our knowledge of Mars, which is the planet of most immediate interest to observe on this globe.—San Francisco Call.

Neglect of the Hebrew Language. (Hebrew Record.) It is a very sad thing to him who loves the Hebrew language to see how gradually a knowledge of it among the Jews is decreasing. This was forcibly called to our attention recently, when, on attending several funerals, the chief mourner was not sufficiently acquainted with the Hebrew to repeat the eulogy without the assistance of the officiating rabbi. Parents need not strive to hush the accusing voice of conscience by saying there are too many other more necessary things to be learned in this age. The study of Greek and Latin is of no mind exercise, and, if for this reason alone, the Hebrew should be taught the language of his race.
