HEALTH REGULATIONS.

The attention of the public is called to the following regulations of the Board of Health:

1. No privy-vault, sink, or cesspool in Honolulu, shall hereafter be located or constructed within fifty feet of any stream, lake, pond, well or spring of water, nor within two feet of the line of any lot; nor shall it be made more than nine or less than six feet deep, or placed in such a position that it is not easily accessible for emptying and cleansing.

2. When deemed necessary by the Board of Health, the sides and bottom of any privy-vault, sink or cesspool shall be made either wholly or in part water-tight, so as to prevent any saturation of the ground about said vault, sink or cesspool; and when deemed necessary by the Board of Health, said vault, sink or cesspool shall be provided with suitable ventilating arrangement.

3. No erection or cover shall be made or put upon or over any privy-vault, sink or cesspool, until it has been inspected by the proper agent of the Board of Health and been approved as meeting the requirements of these regulations and of public health.

4. Any privy-vault, sink or cesspool already constructed in Honolulu, which has become a nuisance, or is in any way dangerous to life or detrimental to health, shall be removed, reconstructed or altered to meet the requirements of these regulations and of public health, as directed by the Board of Health or its agent.

5. The Board of Health or its agent may cause the emptying or disinfecting of any privy-vault, sink or cesspool that may be deemed offensive, or when required by public health, at the expense of the owner or occupant of the property on which the same is situated.

Persons violating the above regulations are liable to a fine of One Hundred Dollars as provided by Section 285 of the Civil Code.

W. G. ASHLEY, Secretary Board of Health.

A NEW BOOK ON HAWAII.

Hon. Rollin M. Daggett's book on Hawaii, which was undertaken during that gentleman's incumbency as United States Minister to this country, and concerning the expected appearance of which, more or less definite reports have reached us from time to time, is out at last. At the present time, only one copy has been received here, but we understand that an ample supply is expected to arrive by the next steamer from the Coast. Through the kindness of the gentleman possessing the one copy above mentioned, we have had an opportunity of examining the work and making a few notes relative to its general character and scope. We hope to be able to present a more complete review hereafter.

The appearance of a work of any considerable size and pretensions, devoted to any aspect of Hawaiian affairs, is always an event of legitimate interest to the intelligent portion of our community. We may say at the outset that Mr. Daggett's book is well got up and makes a handsomely printed volume of 522 large octavo pages, exclusive of a glossary. It is also fairly well illustrated, some of the cuts, especially of natural scenery, being very good, while others, particularly the portraits of some of the royal family, are less satisfactory.

The authorship is credited to the King, Mr. Daggett seeing fit to appear in the humbler character of editor and writer of the introduction. The title page reads as follows:

THE LEGENDS AND MYTHS OF HAWAII. THE FABLES AND FOLK LORE OF A STRANGE PEOPLE.

BY HIS HAWAIIAN MAJESTY KALAKAUA.

Edited and with an Introduction BY HON. R. M. DAGGETT.

Late United States Minister to the Hawaiian Islands.

Chas. L. Webster & Co., of New York, are the publishers.

Passing from the handsome exterior of the book to the more important matter of its contents, we find its literary quality to be of quite a high order. Mr. Daggett is a forcible and facile writer, with a picturesque style and the gift of making even comparatively dry topics entertaining. His journalistic experience has doubtless been of great value in developing a talent for popularizing, without vulgarizing, the subjects of which he treats.

The introduction, which comprises fifty-five pages, is devoted to a condensed historical sketch of the islands, with an account of the aboriginal manners and customs, modes of life, implements and manufactures, together with the ancient religion and the various divinities composing the Hawaiian pantheon. The author appears to have made a diligent study of the available sources of information on these topics, and his conclusions are based on an evident desire to make a fair statement of facts. There are no doubt those who will judge him to have shown a defective sense of proportion in the relative importance and value he attaches to some of the matters which come under consideration. If his conclusions are in any way colored by mental bias or preconceived notions, the defects of this kind are by no means conspicuous, and the authors are rare indeed who can treat of historical, or even of scientific subjects, without the "personal equation" coming more or less into play.

Considering Mr. Daggett's comparatively brief residence in this country, his lack of knowledge of the native language and of personal observation of native modes of life and expression, and his consequent dependence for information upon others, who were themselves liable to be more or less influenced in their statements by prejudice or interest, we think that the execution of this part of the book is creditable to the author's fairness and intelligence, as well as his literary ability. We speak of this matter the more fully, because it is the only portion of the work in which his authorship is avowed.

The remainder of the book is devoted to what purports to be a reproduction of Hawaiian legends and myths. Of the twenty-one stories comprising this collection, all but two have been previously published, some of them more than once, and in different forms. The two which now appear for the first time, so far as we are aware, are "The Iron Knife" and "The Sacred Spear Point." The other nineteen have been supplied with literary form and substance, and published at various times by Foruander, Ellis, Dibble, Jarves, Gibson, Alexander, Mrs. Beckley and others.

Most of these, however, have been entirely rewritten, and exceedingly well rewritten too, so far as their picturesqueness and readability goes. But, unfortunately, as it seems to us, the writer has seen fit to reconstruct the matter as well, making, in many instances, such changes, that however charming and entertaining as stories of savage tropical life, they fail to reproduce, in any true sense, the spirit of the mental and moral atmosphere of the originals.

Of the general principles upon which these myths and legends have been reconstructed, of the nature of the changes made, and of the apparent purpose and intended effect of such changes, we do not purpose speaking at present. Anything like a full consideration of these matters would open up lines of thought and invite the discussion of topics, which we cannot go into just now. Taken, however, as a whole, and not regarded from the standpoint of the scientific, or ethnological critic, the book may be fairly described as handsome, well written, interesting, and to a considerable extent, instructive.

LAUDABLE ORGANIZATION.

Mount Holyoke Alumnae Association of Hawaii—Resolutions of Sympathy With an Honored Member.

Among the numerous organizations that exist in Honolulu, is one known to its members as the Holyoke Alumnae Association of Hawaii. Its tenth anniversary was celebrated last Wednesday, when ten alumnae enjoyed a "feast of reason and flow of soul" at the home of Mrs. W. D. Alexander. The object of this Association, like that of the numerous Holyoke Associations scattered throughout the United States, is to stimulate interest in their Alma Mater, and to aid financially in keeping her in the front rank of educational institutions. The Association numbers nineteen members, of whom eleven reside in Honolulu, four on Maui, two on Hawaii, and two on Kauai. Four of these were pupils of Miss Lyon, the noble founder of the Institution, one of whom, Mrs. Malvina Rowell, was the first graduate who went to a foreign mission field.

Since its organization this Association has had the privilege of entertaining two honored members of the Mount Holyoke Faculty: Mrs. Julia E. Ward, for ten years the successful principal, and Miss Lydia D. Shattuck, well known throughout the United States as an enthusiastic botanist. Her many friends in the Islands will regret to hear that she is now in feeble health.

In view of the fact that one of the sisterhood, Miss Helen E. Carpenter, has lately resigned her position as Principal of Makawao Female Seminary, the alumnae at their last meeting expressed their appreciation of her long and faithful labors in the following resolutions:

Resolved, that the Holyoke Alumnae Association of Hawaii do hereafter, on record, their affectionate esteem and regard for the long life of benevolence and usefulness of their sister, Helen E. Carpenter, on these Islands, continued through eighteen years, in which time she has built up a large and flourishing institution of learning for Hawaiian girls, and has had under her excellent training and moulding influence many hundred pupils, and sent out many to form Christian homes, as well as to engage successfully in teaching their own people, and some to go as missionaries to the heathen lands of Micronesia;

Resolved, that in this failure of her physical ability to continue in this arduous work, we deeply sympathize with her, and pray our father to grant her many years in some quiet home-land, where she may still note the progress of the institution, and reap the fruit of her sowing.

The Holyoke alumnae have found these gatherings to be a necessity, if they would keep informed of the progress of the institution, for in the last ten years she has made such rapid advancement that only those who are keenly alive to whatever concerns her, could keep abreast of her foster-mother to-day. Mount Holyoke is now a College, with a course of study and power of conferring degrees like that of other colleges. The following extract is from the New York Mail and Express:

The Trustees of Mount Holyoke Seminary and College in a special meeting at Northampton, Mass., unanimously elected Miss Mary A. Brigham, of Brooklyn Heights Seminary, Brooklyn, N. Y., to be the first president of Mount Holyoke Seminary and College.

Following the granting of the college charter in March, 1888, a complete college course was introduced, and the diploma of a Mount Holyoke A. B. will now signify equal respectability in New York and elsewhere of solid advanced study, marked with the same stamp of thoroughness and genuine intellectual achievement which has always been connected with the name of Mount Holyoke. With so grand a model of Christian womanhood as Mary Lyon to head the long line of principals here for more than fifty years away in the old halls, the friends of the institution have felt that the task of selecting the first president would be no ordinary one. But the name which has been secured will arouse the enthusiasm and interest of all the friends of Mount Holyoke and will gain for her many more.

Miss Brigham is well known in educational, social, and benevolent circles in New York and Brooklyn as a woman of unusual mental power and executive ability, and of superior graciousness, refinement and tact. For years she has steadily refused some of the leading educational positions in the country. The first presidency of Wellesley College was urged upon her, and later professorships at Smith and Wellesley were at her disposal. For three years she was a teacher at Mount Holyoke, and was offered the principalship several years ago. At a half dozen other New England Seminaries, and in the West, and in New York City, her name has been honored as the choice for principal. Her best record is not in any printed words, but in the lives of hundreds of young ladies, whose first impulses to noble living and thinking have been learned from her precept and example. It has been recently said of her, "she is a woman who believes and teaches higher education in its best sense—not the education that quickens the intellect and deadens the heart, but that which quickens the heart and makes broad the soul."

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Geo. E. JOHNSON, by whom a petition for adjudication was filed on the 29th day of April, 1889, in said Court, in Bankruptcy, before Mr. Justice McCully.

The 29th day of April, 1889. Upon reading the said petition, and upon proof before me taken, I do find that the said A. Johnson has become a Bankrupt within the true intent and meaning of the Act approved on the 29th day of April, 1884, entitled "An Act to regulate proceedings in Bankruptcy in the Hawaiian Islands."

And I do hereby declare and adjudge him Bankrupt accordingly. And I do further order that the creditors of the said Bankrupt come in and prove their debt before such Justice of the Supreme Court as shall be sitting in Chambers at Aliolani Hale, Honolulu, on SATURDAY, May 4, 1889, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and noon of the said day, and elect one or more assignees or assignors of the said Bankrupt's estate.

And that notice thereof be published five times in the DAILY PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER newspaper published in Honolulu, in the English language. And that the said Bankrupt shall immediately file with the Clerk of this Honorable Court a schedule of his creditors and assets, as required by the said Act.

L. McCULLY, Justice of the Supreme Court. Attest: ALFRED W. CARTER, Second Deputy Clerk.

As the purpose of the writer is to lay before her readers some of the odds and ends of nature, the plan of the work is somewhat rambling, running by easy gradations from one subject to another and dealing with the popular phrase of each.

Standing by the Soldier. Circuit Judge McCallum, of Iowa, began his career at the bar characteristically. His first case was before a justice of marked morality, who was extremely harsh with criminals.

The man had stolen a cow, killed it, sold the hide, and taken the carcass home to his family, which was really suffering for the necessities of life. The prosecution, with a long line of witnesses, had made out a perfect case, and the brow of the justice was draped in ominous frowns when the prisoner was called.

The effect on the old justice was to arouse all his loyalty and indignation. "Enough of this," said he, bringing his hand down on the desk in front of him with a thundering thud.
