A private letter from Mr. E. P. Adams, of Boston, Mass., says that the position of American Minister Resident at Honolulu has been offered to Mr. Charles E. Perkins, of Hartford, Conn., and declined by him. Mr. Perkins is an uncle by marriage of Mrs. S. B. Dole of this city, and a prominent and successful lawyer. The fact that the office has been offered to him would indicate that a gentleman of well-known ability and fitness to represent the American nation at Hawaii.

OUR CLIMATE.

As an illustration of the suitability of the Hawaiian climate for outdoor labor and physical exercise, we may instance the baseball matches and horse-racing sports that are now at their height, although it is midsummer. Several of these games are being played each week, without any signs of fatigue on the part of the players, and unattended by the perspiration noticeable on the faces of those engaged in similar sports in the United States at this season. The Hawaiian Kingdom is within the tropics; but, the cooling influence of the northeast trade winds offsets the more direct effect of the sun's rays, and the heavy and sultry weather usual during midsummer in AMERICA IS SELDOM EXPERIENCED IN ANY PORTION OF OUR ISOLATED ISLANDS.

For these reasons we have great reason to be thankful for our climate, and to regard it as one of the Hawaiian permanent and profitable resources which will assuredly be the mainspring of future prosperity; whether we regard it as a means of enjoyment and a promoter of health, or as a chief factor in the growth of such products as form the basis of our foreign trade.

If there is anything more than another that Hawaii can boast of, it is its glorious climate; and we feel as if we could parade its excellence before the world, and challenge the best favored portions of the globe to produce its equal for beauty, utility, health or recreation.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

From our special correspondent. The coroner's jury in the death of W. I. Bishop, mind-reader, found that the cause of death was coma; that the doctors acted in good faith, though hastily. The doctors were then discharged.

The Corbett-Choyinski prize fight was begun on May 20th in Marin county, but stopped by the sheriffs after the fourth round. Corbett had the best of the fight as far as it went. Orlow W. Chapman of New York has been appointed Solicitor-General.

John C. Brandley, cashier of the Merchants' Bank at New Haven, Conn., is under arrest. He is charged with the embezzlement of between $40,000 and $50,000. The savings bank at Savannah, Mo., made an assignment. The bank had a capital of $18,000 real estate worth $25,000, and its deposits amounted to $7,500.

Chinese have made arrangements to develop the Lower California gold mines. Congressman Gay, a Louisiana sugar planter, is dead. The observance of Memorial Day in San Francisco was fitting and impressive. The military demonstration was one worthy of the occasion, and the many Grand Army men, military and veterans of the Mexican war in line made the parade one of more than usual interest.

W. R. Hearst, of the S. F. Examiner, has offered to pay the expenses of one of the public school children, and a teacher or parent, to and from the Paris Exhibition, the successful pupil to remain there for one month. An examination will be held to decide upon the winner. The Cunard steamship Servia, from New York for Liverpool, has arrived at Liverpool on fire. The flames were first noticed after the steamship had left Queenstown, where some fifty passengers left her. The fire was discovered in the fore-hold, in the cargo, which in that part of the hold consisted mostly of bales of cotton. The fire was kept under control until the steamship reached Liverpool. The passengers were then hurried off and the fire extinguished after much difficulty, without loss of life.

Johnston, Pa., has been visited by the worst flood ever experienced. The reservoir above Johnstown, which is the largest in America, burst its banks. It is thought that 1,500 people must have been drowned. No trains are running on the Pennsylvania Central and a number of towns have been inundated. While Gladstone was crossing Piccadilly street, at its junction with Berkeley he was knocked down by a cab.

A Madras cable says cholera is raging in a violent form in the Gangaw district. There were 1000 deaths in one week. Several large warehouses in Lubeck Harbor were burned and $600,000 worth of cotton and flax destroyed. Serious rioting took place at Belgrade. The trouble was due to the intense antagonism that prevails toward the Progressist party.

The village of Deutschmichen, near Sagan, Prussia, was completely destroyed by fire. Not a house was left standing. There was no insurance. A conflagration in the town of Podhajce, Galicia, destroyed 600 houses, a church and a synagogue, causing the loss of many lives. Twelve corpses have been extricated from the ruins.

The Earl of Zetland has accepted the Viceroyship of Ireland. The Valkyrie won three more races, beating the Irex and Yarran, all being with light winds and calms. In a fourth race the Valkyrie was beaten by both vessels. The course was from Harwich to South End. The Irex beat the Valkyrie about half an hour in a run of three hours. Severe storms prevail throughout France. Great damage was done in the departments of the Seine-et-Marne, Aube, Yonne, Haute-Soane and Ardennes. In some places the country is almost devastated.

A hurricane extending over a long range of the coast, has prevailed four days in New South Wales. The rainfall has never before been equalled. Railway traffic has been suspended and many landslides have occurred. A number of lives have also been lost. A private dispatch states that twenty inches of rain fell in four days and it was still raining on May 30th. Heavy storms have been raging three days in China. Immense damage has been done. A cable dispatch has been received from General Hypolite, the insurgent leader in Hayti, saying that he has defeated President Legitime, captured Port-au-Prince, and has declared himself Provisional President.

THE SAMOAN CONFERENCE.

Completes Its Work on the Plans Outlined by the American Government—The Text of the Treaty.

(From Our San Francisco Correspondent.)

A cable from Berlin of May 29th gives the salient features of the Samoan treaty. The leading clause in the treaty insures the absolute autonomy of the Samoan islands, guaranteeing to the natives not only a predominating influence in every governmental body, but restricting the treaty powers from representation in the Samoan council or ministry.

Secretary Bayard favored such a representation. The treaty further provides for a sort of advisory council to consult with the King, and to receive and collect native insurance whenever necessary. In view of the large commercial interests of the United States and Germany, each of these countries will be allowed a full-fledged member, but England's representative will act only in the character of an arbitrator or umpire when the German and American ministers fail to agree.

A land court or commission is provided by the treaty, whose business it will be to examine into the titles of Samoan real estate, settle the many disputed claims that foreigners have been setting up in Samoa, and generally to set at rest all questions of the ownership of land held by foreigners and natives of the islands. The conditions of the Government of the islands are provided for, and in this feature Secretary Bayard's proposition to the first Samoan Conference has been virtually adopted as a whole. The islands are to be governed by a native King and vice-King, elected by the Samoans. These two officials, together with the chiefs of the Samoan families or clans, will compose an upper house of the native Legislature. The treaty guarantees the restoration of the status quo ante and the rehabilitation of Malietoa as King of Samoa.

A separate coaling station is allotted to each power in which ships of war shall be at liberty to enter, to anchor and to remain there to take in supplies and to repair, and each Government shall be at liberty to make there, at its own pleasure, all such contrivances or arrangements as may be useful for ships of war and their officers and crews. It is agreed that each power may erect buildings on the shores of the said harbors for storing coal or any other supplies for ships of war.

The English commissioner left for London to submit the draft of the treaty to his Government personally. He expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied. During the latter part of the discussion England's influence was steadfastly thrown on the side of the United States. A synopsis of the articles composing the treaty, called by Mr. Phelps to the Secretary of State, shows that the American Commissioners have secured all that the State Department of the Government has been contending for, all that Secretary Bayard demanded at the conference held in Washington two years ago, and all that Secretary Blaine instructed his commissioners, Messrs. Phelps, Kasson and Bates, to insist upon.

The most delicate question the members of the commission were called upon to consider was in connection with the damages which Bismarck declared the German Government would exact of the Samoans for the losses alleged to have been sustained by German subjects at the hands of natives. The policy of the United States was made clearly apparent. While the commissioners were not prepared to resist in toto the demands that Germany may make upon the Samoans, yet an emphatic protest was ordered to be entered against any attempt upon the part of Germany to levy such indemnity upon the impoverished natives as shall, in effect, give the Imperial Government a practical mortgage upon the islands, thus enabling Germany to accomplish by this means that which she has thus far failed to do.

The subject of the formation of a native government for the Samoan islands was canvassed at some length before the commissioners left Washington. Their instructions on this point did not bind them to the proposition submitted by Bayard, upon which the conference split. Bayard's scheme of government provided for the election of a King and vice-King, and a council to be composed of native chiefs elected for life by the inhabitants. There was to be a minority, so to speak, composed of five members, the King and vice-King, both of whom should be native Samoans, and three Ministers, one to be nominated by each of the three treaty powers.

The scheme provided also for a legislature of two houses, the upper house to be known as the Iainua and the lower house as the Faipule. The upper house was to consist of a King, vice-King, three Ministers representing the three treaty powers, and chiefs elected for life by the people. It will thus be seen that Bayard's plan involved a preponderance of native influence. To this the German Minister objected.

Another important feature in the scheme of government was a land court or land commission whose business would be to examine into titles of Samoan real estate, to settle the many disputed claims foreigners are setting up in Samoa, and generally to set at rest all questions as to the ownership of land both by foreigners and natives of the islands. The German Minister favored the formation of a land court, but would have placed its machinery entirely in German hands. The commis-

Mr. Dillingham informs us that he expects to have a portion of the Oahu railroad opened for traffic by the 4th September next—one year from the granting of the franchise. A considerable portion of the bill has been ordered from Philadelphia, and arrangements have been made to have all these necessities to a grand opening handed in Honolulu before the date mentioned.

Mr. D. is not bound to open the line for franchise; but if he can open a considerable part of it by the 4th September next, he will deserve the thanks of the public for his great energy.

Earthquakes were experienced on May 30th in many towns on the main land of both England and France. Among the places included are Portsmouth, Havant, Cherbourg, Havre, Rouen, Granville and Caen. No damage was done anywhere.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements made, or opinions expressed by our correspondents.

Be Consistent.

Mr. Editor: In contrast to your gentlemanly remarks receiving the "Ka Oiaho" into the family of newspapers issued in this city, for which I thank you, your canine neighbor the Bulletin of June 8th, has been good enough, after three weeks since our first issue, to give us a touch of its disposition, by its incoherent and scurrilous remarks, assuming to dictate what we should do and say, and how we should say it, and in the very same article doing just exactly what it advises us not to do.

Referring to the past as he sees it through his optics, which is infallible and very proper, of course, as it emanates from these would-be Nestors of the Pacific, he says: "Good or bad, however, it can not be recalled, and only those who wish to write themselves down as Genuinages of the baser sort, will try to stir up dead issues. If 'Ohio' or 'I owe you,' or whatever its name, wishes to be useful, it must deal squarely with the questions of to-day, and let the day before yesterday care for the things of itself."

This is indeed wisdom, and such wisdom as is prompted by the mighty dollar, that a Hawaiian newspaper, edited by a Hawaiian, "must" drop the history of the past in its efforts to elucidate a subject which has a bearing on the Hawaiian people and their past history. We Hawaiians must drop the past, because it is unpalatable to us "demagogues" of the present. We must not speak of the courage, patriotism and loyalty of the Samoans, because, perhaps, (oh, my little soul!) it may infuse a little life in Secretary Bayard's said, into the (Samoans) Hawaiians. Examples of patriotism and manliness are virtues not to be held up to Hawaiians, but anything of an opposite nature would suit our soulless little friend the Bulletin better.

Such Sanatan characteristics of Zulu characteristics of courage and manliness because that is too real altogether and unpalatable for such make believes as we have had in the past. It is very evident that the author of the article referred to, whoever he may be, is a hireling, and differs in what newspapers over the world enslave. Columns in newspapers of praise and honor are given the Samoans for their conduct, for which we, in alluding to it as something to emulate and profit by, are censured. But we must excuse the "petty demagogues of a baser sort" whose voice and pen would be lost, like a note blown away by the country of his birth, he should have the temerity to offer such trash as we see daily in the Bulletin.

We can excuse our would-be friend, whose principles, are evidently governed by the extent of his pay, and no deeper than his pocket. I am afraid he is afraid of something, and I can appreciate and sympathize with him, and if he will pardon me, I would like him to be in the future. He advises others not to touch the past, and even things that occur every day; but he is continually saying something about the past, and the author of the Kaimiloa is dead, and about what he claims and him in a dirty, cowardly way about Nobles in the past. Consistent! Then what a jewel, and the Bulletin would be wise to keep and follow its own advice in the future.

J. E. Bush, Late from Samoa, Honolulu, June 10, 1889.

Hawaiian Evangelical Association.

The final session of this Association was held yesterday morning in Kamahele Church. The various committees appointed meet their reports. Every church but one had sent in their statistical report, which is a good showing for the indefatigability of the new secretary. The committee on rooting out the relics of the old heathenism is to make thorough investigations, and reports of the facts in regard to the native kahunas, worship of the amakias, superstitious fears of the old mythological evil spirits, in order to an intelligent comprehension of the facts, and some suitable united action for the Hawaiian ministers and churches next year. Kamahele Church wanted to send a begging committee through all the parishes; but the project did not meet with the approval of the Association. The burden of debt which it has assumed is its own and not a common obligation. The jubilee address of Judge Judd on the fifteenth anniversary of the publication of the whole Bible in Hawaiian, delivered at Kamahele Church on Sunday evening, to a large audience, has stirred up the enthusiasm of the Hawaiian to try and put a Bible in every family in the various parishes during the jubilee year. The annual vote of the parishes were passed and the Association adjourned to meet again on the first Tuesday of June next year. Mr. P. C. Jones has offered to pay for the board of ministers and delegates that must remain till next Tuesday, before they can take the steamers to return to their homes.

The most observed of the drivers are William H. Vanderbilt and Robert Bonner. The former is in bad health, but he has not missed an afternoon of the rare diversion.
