A SHIP OF ICE.

Among the arrivals from the Arctic ocean says the S. F. Chronicle, was the whaling bark Reindeer, Captain Baker, from Fox island. Captain Baker states that the whaling bark Young Phœnix, which was lost in the Arctic over a year ago, was seen again last May. The Young Phœnix left San Fran-Merchants, cisco in December, 1887. Captain Millard was in charge of her, and he, in company with the Fleetwing, Mary and Susan and the Jane Gray, was caught in the ice nine miles north of Point Barrow on August 5, 1888. He and his crew stayed with the vessel for three days, when, finding that they could do nothing to save the vessel, they abandoned her and made their way out of the ice to Point Barrow. The Jane Gray was afterward picked up by the Bear and brought to San Francisco, while the other vessels were reported

> A man named Leavitt has charge of the Pacific Steam Whaling Co.'s station at Cape Smith, which is nine miles to the southward of Point Barrow. He spent last winter in the ice. One morning last May he was astonished to see a ship standing out about a mile from shore, hemmed in by ice. He thought he saw a specter; but there was the Young Phœnix, just as she had been left when abandoned. Her deck was above the ice; from her houses and rigging depended icicles; two sails flapped idly in the breeze, while the rest were furled and frozen to the yards. She looked like a ship of ice. Leavitt went out to the vessel and found several articles, which he took ashore. The Young Phœnix remained in sight for several days and then drifted away, and has not since been seen.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

Per S. S. Hawaii, San Francisco,

November 27, 1889.

(From our special correspondent.) LYNN, Mass., Nov. 26.—Lynn, the city of shoes, was visited this afternoon by the greatest fire in its history, and, with two exceptions, the conflagration is the most disastrous that ever visited New England. The fire started about noon, raged over eight hours, devastated a square mile of the business section of the city and caused a loss estimated at Sugar.

The local market is slow and without change, the quotation for granulated being 734 cents and other grades in proportion. Receipts from all quarters are light and refiners are depending on stocks and the expected arrivals from Manila and Java until the new crop of Hawaiian comes on. The California Refinery looks to Manila for supplies and Havemeyer & Elder to Java.

Van Tassell's Death.

The news of the horrible death of the aeronaut in Honolulu bay Nov. 16th, created a great stir here where Van Tassell was known by thousands. The first inquiry that came was whether is was really Van Tassell who died. His wife, who lives in San Jose, inclined to the opinion that it was not, but was Joe Lawrence, a New Mexican, who traveled under his name, and accompanied him on his jaunts. Van Tassell himself, she says, was too heavy to make the parachute leap and has not done i for a long time. She also says the man must have been Lawrence because had her husband died, Lawrence would have sent her word. She thinks that Van Tassell intends to keep on to Australia and live there. Van Tassell's domestic relations here were not of the happiest. and on one occasion she made the air very sultry for him here. Lawrence was engaged to be married to a young lady of this city and is regarded by the few who know him here as an exemplary young man.

Malietoa Made King. Another dispatch has been received at London by way of Auckland regarding the rulers of Samoa. It states that Malietoa was re-instated as king amid great rejoicing on the 9th of November, the British, American and German representatives recognizing his authority Who is vice-king is not stated, but it is believed in London, Berlin and Washington that Mataafa has been recognized. If this is true it relegates Tamasese once more to private life.

vastly pleased with the trip and will now settle down to business. The recent action of the Catholic Congress in Baltimore in adapting high license as the remedy for the liquor evil has created a great stir all over America. The high license movement is greatly strengthened thereby.

Another Mormon sensation has been sprung. The Gentiles of Utah are resisting the naturalization of alien Mormons on the ground that no Mormon can be a good citizen because his first duty is to his church. They had many witnesses who swore that in the endowment house they were sworn to oppose the United States Government in all things. The result is that alien Mormons will have a hard time to be naturalized. A Mormon settlement has been made at McLeod, a small town in Manitoba, B. C., and there are indications of a large influx of

The story of Henry M. Stanley's latest march to the interior of Africa will, when told, form one of the most exciting tales of the great explorer's life. Stanley is still marching eastward and is expected at the coast about Christmas time. Advance runners have brought meager reports of his latest achievement. He went to the interior almost solely on his reputation with the natives that he bears a charmed life. They only stuck to him for that reason. He found Emin Pasha a prisoner and released him almost for the same reason. Emin and his two battalions of Egyptian soldiers were persuaded to accompany Stanley to the eastward. By the same runners Stanley sends word that an arm of the Albert Nyanza has been discovered which covers 20,000 square miles, and that a new mountain rivaling Kilimanjaro and Kenia has been seen.

MR. EDITOR: Any thoughtful observer The revolution in Brazil is over and of our present social condition and politithe republic is firmly established. Not cal complications must be conscious that there would be a very large public destablished. only is this true in Rio de Janeiro but in there are some imminent perils that may well excite gravest apprehensions of possible disasters. It is true that insensate folly often brings upon itself the danger that it dreads by its unreasonable alarm. But it is equally true that government will maintain order until self-conceited incompetency may "rush in where angels fear to tread," and so provoke its own doom. Between these visional government acknowledges all two extremes lies the path of safety which trust in an overruling Providence and earnest desires to do the right thing in the right way at the right time and to war Richmond and Tallapoosa have point out as the path of duty. Cajolery has seemed easier than instruction, and bribery or intimidation quicker and surer than argument and persuasion.

The new system, such as it is, seems to the Hawaiian a mark of honorable distinction; and he glories in the possession of it very much, as he once paraded high. In Halifax, England, there is Stamboul trotted a mile in 2:121/4 at | before his fellows with a malo and a Napa November 16th beating his own cocked hat as his sufficient attire. A record of 2:131/4 and coming within the World's stallion record and of winning Kingdom: constitutional Governments the bet of $5,000 made by his former are the institutions of enlightened this feeling among them.

But now that they have had the privilege of constitutional government, and had a foremost place in its administra-tion and ostensibly some large share of political power, any set back in position, or diminution of privilege is resented as an injury and a wrong. The barber's shears for cutting off the tangled and infested growth of hair, seem to them like an executioner's sword tor cutting off their head. They have not outgrown the Oriental idea of government, as being full submission to the will of the being full submission to the will of the wai an and the Anglo Saxon; how is it to be remedied? Consider their crude notions, also, in regard to the system of trial by jury. To be a juryman is to the ordinary Hawaiian a great event in his life. He will run in debt to get a best suit of clothes to appear in public with the dignity that befits his honorable position. He will consider it his duty to support the government every time, and to obey the exhortation of the Attorney-General to bring in a verdict of guilty against the prisoner. Or his suspicions may be aroused, that the trial is one of the tricky ways by which the foreigner is trying to get advantage of him, and as in the recent trials on Hawaii, acquit every Hawaiian hable to be imprisoned conceiving this imprisonment to be part of a scheme to deprive Hawaiian citizens of their privilege of voting. So, in acquitting Wilcox, the idea evidently was to get even with the foreigner; a rude idea of justice, surely; but what better can you expect from people that have not the first glimmer of any correct conception of this wholly alien system of trial by jury, or the principles that underlie our system of legal procedure? But why show them no sympathy because they do not see things as we do? We cannot claim that our intelligent merchants, even, are above class prejudice, when in face of the clear letter of the law, and the positive instructions of the judge, no Honolulu jury would declare that an acknowledged debt should be paid, as the law demands, three-fourths in gold | that length. coin, and only one-fourth in silver.

Our social fabric is not to go to rack and ruin because of the mistakes or misconduct of a few misguided folk, or of a tence or happiness is not wrecked, because of the folly or perversity of some child. But we do not "shoot the boy and save the calf," if there happens to be a wayward prodigal boy. It is the spirit of loyalty to truth and righteousness, of obedience to loving and wise sovereignty that we need to cherish and foster. In that spirit we shall surely come off more than conquerors over any foes that may threaten the national life and prosperity, by making friends and patriots of every resident and every citizen in this little Hawaiian Kingdom.

Is there no law in the land against Sunday work? Is there not good reason for such a law? And is there any reason why it should not be enforced against Sunday trains for either pleasure or business? If they are for business, it is work in every sense of the word. If they are recreation trains, they are still less a "necessity," while they occasion just as much work for the employees, and are just as disturbing to the quiet of the Lord's day. The running of steam cars is everywhere recognized as one of the most disturbing things possible to the quiet of any day.
