KOHALA NOTES.

A Fire Sweeps Away About a Dozen Buildings.

About midnight last night (28th) a fire started below the hall in Kaiopiki and swept away over a dozen buildings, including the old market place, several old closed stores, dwelling houses, and two or three shops that were in use.

Only eight buildings were left standing, among them were Ben Pangelinau's store and dwelling. His warehouse was burned. The wind was high and blew the burning cinders over a mile.

The cane took fire in two places a half mile distant, in the vicinity of the Union church, but was speedily extinguished by people who were on the watch.

Akina is thought to have been the heaviest loser, and Mr. Aseu lost some.

The hall and rooms beneath were owned by a Chinese society with which the two men above named were connected, but is said to have been insured for $2000.

It is reported that the keeper of the building has been locked up at the instance of the society to await an examination and give an account of the origin of the fire if possible.

The hall will be missed by the district, as it was a good sized one, and the only place available for public entertainments of any sort.

Kohala, Feb. 29, 1892.

Is the Election of Oahu Nobles to be Contested?

The streets were full of rumors during yesterday afternoon to the effect that the election of the gentlemen returned as Nobles for this island is to be contested in Court. Only two days remain in which a petition against their return can legally be filed. An ADVERTISER representative hurried from point to point upon the Gossip Exchange in search of news upon this subject, and learned the following pertinent facts: That the election will be contested; that it will not be contested; that the ground of contest is the alleged refusal of the Inspectors of Election in the 27th Precinct to permit a naturalized Hottentot to vote for more than six nobles. That the above ground of contest is all a sham, and the real ground is to give Johnny Bowler a "pull" for the vacant bishopric. That Johnny swears the bishop's billet is "a noice, clane, easy jab." That there's no real connection between the impending contest and the election of the next Pope. That some of the elected Nobles desire the election to be annulled, in order to restore their eligibility to fat Government offices. That Emeluth is at the bottom of the whole ruction, he having repented of his withdrawal as a candidate when it was too late to undo the mischief, and that the foregoing is probably tinged with unreliability. That there's nothing in the rumor of a contest. That if there be anything in it, our reporter could not find it out. That some one is romancing about this matter. That it is not the P. C. A.

5,000,000 WILL STARVE.

Dr. M'Connell Predicts Horrible Mortality.

The congregation of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church were startled yesterday morning by their rector's statement of the impending horrors of the Russian famine. Just prior to the service Dr. McConnell announced that the collection would be for the benefit of the Czar's starving subjects, and then went on to give a few facts learned, he said, from investigations of his own.

"There are from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 Russians," said the preacher, "who are now or will be suffering from famine as a result of the failure of the crops. With all that the civilized world can do to relieve the suffering, there will be from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 people who must absolutely starve to death. No earthly agency can save them."

Continuing, Dr. McConnell said: "Each of you in this congregation can now do something measurable toward saving human lives. I don't believe that ever again lives can be bought so cheap. I mean that the same outlay on your part can never again be so effective as now."

A very large collection was taken up after the sermon.

In view of the circular sent out by the Citizens' Relief Committee, an appeal similar to that of Dr. McConnell's was made from a large number of pulpits throughout the city and funds flowed in readily to the famine fund.—[Phila. Record.

THE DAILY

PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

SIX-PAGE EDITION

Be just and fear not;
Let all the ends thou aim'st at be
Thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's.

THURSDAY, : MARCH 3, 1892.

ONE of the strange features of the present election law is the provision that contested election cases are to be heard by a justice of the Supreme Court in the judicial district where the election occurred. This is a very inconvenient arrangement and should be changed. It is easier to bring the witnesses to Honolulu than to move the Court and lawyers to Kau to try a single case.

THE thanks of the ADVERTISER are due Dr. Marcuse for furnishing the facts incorporated in an article published this morning. The Doctor is not, of course, responsible for the form in which they appear. Special thanks are also due Mr. Preston for assistance rendered. The work at Waikiki is now drawing to its close, and Honolulu will soon have to mourn the loss of these two able representatives of German and American science.

THE resolutions passed at the meeting of the Liberal League the other night and published in the ADVERTISER this morning, show that it was merely an instinct of decency which led to the locking of the doors. The meeting was evidently held to give the party a chance to express its disgust because the capture of the Road Board had failed to make it rich, and to give rival candidates a chance to relieve their feelings by flying at each other's throats. The sounds which usually accompany a general "free fight" were already rising when the ADVERTISER reporter made his unsuccessful assault on the locked door.

THE ENOKA INQUEST.

A letter is published in another column from J. A. Mehrten, according to which it appears that the inquest held in the case of the death of Enoka was a thorough one. We are very happy to take Mr. Mehrten's word for it, but desire to call attention to the fact that as long as reporters are excluded from inquests and other public affairs, the newspapers cannot be expected to ascertain the facts. The ADVERTISER and Bulletin killed and buried a man who was sick at the Queen's Hospital lately. But when an ADVERTISER representative called at the Hospital he was able to learn nothing because it was not the practice to give any information after dark!

The Police Department is run on the Star Chamber plan, which would be very well if we were making old English history. As this is the end of the 19th century and not the beginning of the 13th century, such proceedings are an anachronism, and give rise to the suspicion that there is some mistake about the idea that this is a free country.

In this particular case the public will have to believe that the inquest over Enoka was thorough because Mr. Mehrten says so. They will have to believe that the evidence incriminated no one, because the same gentleman says that such is his opinion of the evidence.

EUROPEAN MAILS.

The Post Office at Washington has published a very interesting report, showing the amount of mail matter sent by the different lines, and the average rate of speed by each line and each steamer of each line. The figures show that the North German Lloyds have carried the lion's share of the mail, and more than twice as much as any other line. The Cunarders came second, and the White Stars follow. The two German companies—the North German Lloyd and Hamburg—carry together half of the entire mail.

When it comes to speed, the Hamburg steamers distance all competitors, the Furst Bismarck having delivered the mail in an average time of 169.4 hours; the Columbia and Normannia following with 173.6 and 177.5 respectively. Of the English steamers, the Teutonic, of the White Star line, heads the list with an average of 178.1 hours. It must not be inferred, however, that the Hamburg steamers really equal the speed of the Teutonic, although the actual difference in capacity is very small. The apparent superiority of the Hamburg line is due to the fact that its fast steamers do not run in winter, when the longest voyages are made.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Collision on Horseback Causes the Death of a Young Native.

The latest Hilo Record says that on the evening of February 3d, at Kukuihaele in Hamakua, a native by the name of Kawahaale was riding his horse furiously along the Government road, and came into collision with another man on horseback, and both men were thrown to the ground and injured. Kawahaale survived till the 9th, and then died. A coroner's inquest was held on the body, and verdict rendered of "died from furious and careless riding." No blame was attached to the other.

Minister Patrick Egan is thus described: A low-voice, quiet-looking person of small stature, past fifty, with plenty of gray hairs in his close-trimmed, reddish-brown beard and hair, restless blue eyes and feet. Mr. Egan is a neatly dressed man and a prohibitionist.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nott desire to thank their many friends for their kind attention during their late bereavement in the death of their son-in-law, Mr. D. R. Niccolls. 3012-1t.

MR. EDITOR: Referring to your editorial this morning on the death of Enoka I would like to state:

(1) That I held a searching investigation into the facts of the case;
(2) Witnesses were called;

(4) A thorough post mortem was made by Dr. Woods;
(5) All the circumstances were sifted with a view to fixing responsibility for the death and punishing the authors of it, if any;
(6) The inquiry made the fact clear that no one could be held criminally responsible for the death of this man. Yours sincerely,

Mortuary statistics throughout the United States, throughout the world are proofs positive that a majority of deaths are due to diseases consequent upon a disorganization of the stomach and digestive organs. The food we eat, the water we drink are important factors in keeping these organs in proper condition and should have the attention of everyone.

The present rainy season has a very bad effect upon the water in and about Honolulu and, with the liberal proportion of mud, presents a decided ecru tint. So far as colors go the stomach draws no lines but it does rebel when it has forced upon its delicate mechanism as much mud as water. Your medical adviser will tell you this without any desire, perhaps, to advertise our Gate City Stone Filters. Now you see what we're getting at. We want to sell you an article that will reduce, to a minimum, the quantity of deleterious matter taken into the stomach.

We don't believe there's another filter on the market that can show the same satisfactory results as the Gate City. Made from the natural stone, quarried near Atlanta, Georgia, it contains no chemicals, no machinery, nothing to be renewed. It has been recommended by several of the medical fraternity as being the very best filter extant.

Every well arranged pantry should have its spice container, but many of them are painfully lacking in this respect and, pickle, mustard and ginger bottles are brought into use in holding the very "Yarbs" that would be better if kept in boxes especially made for them. To have things in apple pie order should be the aim of every good house wife. You can't have them that way if you use bottles for spices. We have also boxes for bread and cake, either large, medium or small size and just what you need for keeping such commodities fresh.

What is more annoying to the reader after he has made a coup d'etat on an interesting novel and fixed himself in a comfortable position for reading, than to find he has to sit on a high stool or a step ladder to get the benefit of the funereal light the lamp shed? Nothing we think. Good burners don't cost any more than poor ones and you cannot expect to have good lights with poor burners, nor can you expect to retain your eyesight if you continue using inferior lamps. Our sales of lamps during the past year lead us to believe that the people who buy our lamps are satisfied with them, lead us to believe that our prices are lower than at other stores and that your judgment was correct when we selected the stock at the factory. If these facts did not exist we would have had a limited idea of what a lamp trade there is in this kingdom. But we have a pretty good idea and we are with you in profiting by the knowledge derived from the many calls for goods which the people know to be the best in the kingdom.

THE POLICE COURT.

Several Unimportant Cases Disposed of.

Kahele was charged with assaulting Ah Su. The complaining witness stated he was on Nuuanu street in deep meditation, and also leaning against a telephone pole. The defendant came along and without any provocation attempted to trip the witness. When the latter remonstrated with the native, he received a blow on the jaw that nearly changed his face. Several of Ah Su's cousins told the same story. Judge Foster fined Kahele to the amount of $18.

E. L. Marshall, a banana dealer, was charged with assaulting a Chinaman. The case was postponed until next Tuesday. It seems that Marshall and the Chinaman had trouble over a business transaction. During their heated conversation the Mongolian applied a vile epithet to Marshall, who, in turn, gave the insulting Chinaman a good thrashing.

The next case was that of six native boys charged with larceny of a lot of furnishing goods alleged to belong to a Chinese storekeeper. The goods were exhibited in the Court, and were claimed as the property of the prosecuting witness. After a great deal of evidence was heard, the judge announced that he would give his decision this morning.

Behind Locked Doors.

The following resolutions were passed at the closed door meeting of the International Liberal League held at Robinson Hall on Tuesday evening, March 1st:

1. Whereas, the gentlemen elect of the Road Board for the District of Kona, Oahu, came before a meeting of the Liberal Party and pledged their word of honor that if elected they would act consistently with the Liberal Party; and whereas the International Liberal League was thereby induced to support the nomination of Messrs. Dwight, Mahelona and Fernandez as already accepted by the Aoao Lahui Libarala.

2. Be it resolved, that the International Liberal League does now feel aggrieved at the course pursued by the Road Board, more especially in the matter of their subordinate appointment of lunas and others from the ranks of political opponents, in preference to capable men in want of work who are members of the Liberal Party.

3. Resolved, that it is the desire of the International Liberal League to meet the members of the Road Board and their supervisor in conjunction with the Aoao Lahui Liberala, to consider in meeting the differences at present existing between all concerned.

ADJOURNED MEETINGS.

Fire Companies Transact No Business Last Night Out of Respect to Their Ex-Chief.

No. 2 Engine Company held their regular monthly meeting last evening in their new hall. The members present passed the following resolution of condolence at the death of the late ex-chief, George Lucas, Sr.: "Whereas, it hath pleased God to remove by death the late George Lucas, ex-chief of the Honolulu Fire Department. Resolved: That this company record its regret at the untimely loss of one who was a staunch member of the department, and that the officers and members of this company sympathize with the family relations of the deceased in the hour of their affliction,"

The meeting then adjourned out of respect for the deceased.

No. 1 Engine Company met, and after appointing a committee of three to draft suitable resolutions on the death of the ex-chief, the meeting adjourned.

The following remark is said to have been recently made by Mr. Edison: "So far as the patents themselves go, I have stood an actual loss in experimenting, and in lawsuits of $600,000. I should be better off if I had not taken out any patents."

It is learned that a certain Mr Kane, of Halawa, Molokai, a notary public, was fined by Judge Kalauokalani lately for political corruption The sentence was three hours' imprisonment and his right of voting suspended for three years.

The Raymond and other tourists carried photographs of their enjoyable luau with them. J. J. Williams took the pictures. Mr. Williams has also placed on our table a picture of the crown, sword and sceptre of His late Majesty King Kalakaua, which is a fine specimen of the photographers' art.

At the closed-door meeting of the International Liberal League, held at Robinson Hall on Tuesday evening last, it was decided to hold a mass meeting of the Liberal Party at the Old Armory on Thursday evening, March 3d, and the Road Board and Road Supervisor are requested to come and state what plans they propose for our roads.

"August Flower"

What is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

STAR GAZING

Observations of the Astronomers At Waikiki.

Full Account of the Twin Observatories—The Year's Work Full of Promising Results.

While Honolulu is pursuing its usual dull round of business and pleasure, two quiet telescopes are turned every night upon the stars at Waikiki, and observations are being made almost until the stars begin to pale in the grey dawn.

The work in progress at Waikiki is of world-wide importance and the results of the labors of Dr. Marcuse and Mr. Preston will be a permanent contribution to the stock of human knowledge. A stage has now been reached when the results can be fixed. With a view to giving the public a look into the astronomers' workshops, the ADVERTISER detailed a reporter to the scene of interest, who was most courteously received by the genial star-gazers. The observatories, though twins, have quite a different interior, Mr. Preston's being full of instruments for work of a various character, while Dr. Marcuse's labors have been directed solely to the inquiry into the causes of the changes in latitude. The observatories were built by Harrison Bros., with an air chamber between the outer wall and the inner one of cloth. This was done after a plan devised by Dr. Marcuse, and results in a very cool as well as even temperature. It prevents the rising column of hot air, which, causing a tremulousness and outline in the light, makes accurate observations impossible.

The glass used by Dr. Marcuse is a zenith telescope made by Wanschaff of Berlin, and is perfectly adapted to its purpose. It is furnished with a Jena objective which is absolutely white, the most perfect lens of its size that can be made. The telescope is provided with two levels of a phenomenal delicacy, the fluid being sulphuric ether and the bubble the same ether volatilized. It responds to a microscopically small vibration. In July, 1889, Dr. Marcuse observed in Berlin a motion of the bubble in a similar level, which he attributed to an earthquake in Asia, as he was able to fix approximately the direction from which the impetus came. The next day telegrams brought the confirmation. The telescope stand is fitted with electric connections, and the observations are read off from the scale by a tiny electric lamp which would do for a doll's playhouse.

For the following lucid account of the investigations at Waikiki, we are indebted to the courtesy of Mr. E. D. Preston:

The latitude observations now going on at Waikiki were undertaken for the purpose of making a more exhaustive study of the motion of the earth's axis. German astronomers had recently detected a new movement of the pole from independent observations at several of their observatories, and in order to test certain theories in regard to the possible cause of the phenomenon it was proposed to make simultaneous observations on opposite sides of the world. The United States government was invited to join in the work, and, besides sending an observer to Honolulu, they enlarged the original plan by establishing stations at Washington and San Francisco. To the German government, however, belongs the credit of having first made a systematic study of the subject.

The motion of the pole is of course extremely small, and the effect is that here in Honolulu we are about fifty feet nearer the equator now than we were some months ago. This change does not, however, go on indefinitely, but the motion is such that the pole returns at the end of a year to nearly its original position. Besides this annual movement there seem to be reasons to believe that there is a secular change extending over a period of at least sixty years.

It is evident that if observations on opposite sides of the earth show opposite phases, that is to say, if the Hawaiian Islands approach the equator at the same time that places in Europe recede from it, there is a strong presumption that the phenomenon is not a purely local one, but results from a real motion of the pole, affecting all places on the earth's surface. Indeed this latter fact now seems to be conclusively demonstrated from the observations up to date.

The method of work consists in observing, on every clear night, a list of stars in pairs whose positions are very well known; preference being given, other things being equal, to ones that were observed in England more than one hundred years ago, and whose motion since that time is therefore well determined. The stars as far as they relate to the latitude work, were adopted in Berlin, and their selection was made the subject of careful study. In order to get the best possible result, certain relations must exist between the stars chosen, and this complicates the problem and makes their selection correspondingly difficult. For instance, in order that refraction may be small, nothing is taken beyond, say, 25 degrees from the zenith. In order that the image of the star be fine and well defined, only faint stars are admitted, and stars composing the same pair must be of about the same magnitude. Besides, if there is a certain relation between the distances of the stars from the zenith, the result is entirely free from any effect arising from an imperfect knowledge of the measuring apparatus. It is very desirable for several reasons to eliminate this effect. Then, again, the stars must not succeed each other too rapidly, in order that the measurements be carefully and deliberately made, nor on the other hand must they be too far apart. All these conditions should be satisfied at the same time, as far as practicable, which makes the selection of a perfect list of stars a somewhat tedious operation.

The great degree of refinement to which observations of this class are now brought, may be judged from the fact that although the observatories at Waikiki are only about thirty feet apart, this distance has a very perceptible effect on the result, and the observations continually show a difference of just this amount in the determined latitudes. However, for a study of the law of change of latitude, this is of no moment, for whatever the relative position of the points of observation they both change equally and verify the same law. The method employed, which is known as that of equal zenith distances, was first practically developed in the United States Coast Survey and is now universally adopted in work of this kind.

When the government at Washington was asked to co-operate in the Honolulu observations, it was seen that the occasion would be a favorable one for the study of several kindred subjects and the American representative in addition to the international latitude work was charged with researches in gravity, magnetism, meteorology, etc. One of the theories proposed to explain the changes of latitude was that of transfers of large masses of molten matter in the earth's interior. In order to test this it was decided to measure the force of gravity every night that latitude observations are made, and this is now being done at Waikiki with an accuracy capable of detecting changes no greater than the one hundred thousandth part of the quantity measured. Practically stated we may say that a body falling towards the earth passes over about sixteen feet in one second; if from some unknown cause the force of gravity should change so as to increase this distance by only one-five hundredth of an inch, this slight increase would be easily detected by the methods employed.

To arrive at these results it is necessary to have a very accurate means of measuring time. This is done by referring all comparisons to the movement of the stars whose passages across the meridian are registered electrically on a revolving cylinder. A button is pressed when the star crosses a spider-thread stretched vertically through the field of the telescope, and instantly the fact is registered on the chronograph. The exact moment of transit can easily be known to within one-hundredth of a second. During the entire evening a pendulum is allowed to oscillate under the influence of the force of gravity. Means are used by which the duration of one vibration may be known with no greater error than a few millionths of a second. The gravity investigations are made for the sake of discovering whether there is any change in the force from day to day, and not for the purpose of knowing what the actual force is; in other words, the question is not how far a body will fall in a second, but whether it falls faster at one time than at another.

The methods followed are similar to those employed on Haleakala in 1887, which gave such conclusive evidence in regard to the formation of Maui, and which bore out Prof. Dana's geological theories. The same operations will be conducted next summer on Mauna Kea, and will throw light on its density and internal structure. This way of weighing the mountains has been employed many times in recent years. During the last cruise of the U. S. S. Pensacola to Africa, investigations were made on many of the islands of the Atlantic, which gave the interesting result that they are all comparatively light. The same instruments that were used in the African work were employed in these islands in 1887 and were sent to the South Seas with the U. S. Solar Eclipse Expedition in 1883, so that a fair portion of the earth's surface has been studied by the same method which adds much to the strength of the result.

The present operations will close this fall but the complete discussion of the observations will require probably a year more so that the definitive results will not be known before the latter part of 1893.

The observatories referred to by Mr. Preston were those of Berlin, Pottsdam, Strasburg and Prague. It was at Berlin where Dr. Marcuse was working in 1889 and 1890 that he observed the first complete periodic variation in latitude which was confirmed by observers at the other cities named.

From these observations it follows that there was a variation in latitude in middle Europe. The task then was to ascertain whether this held all over the earth, or whether the variations in Europe were due to the operation of some local cause. The Central Bureau of the International Geodetic Association therefore decided, in view of these facts, to send an expedition to Honolulu which is almost exactly 180° from Berlin, to make simultaneous observations with those in Berlin. From these observations the true cause of the variation could be ascertained.

This result has been attained in point of fact. Dr. Marcuse's results are nearly completely worked out and forwarded to Berlin. They establish the fact that the position of the axis of the earth changes, producing a periodic motion of the poles. A change in latitude actually took place in Honolulu from last May until about September. Since that time it has practically ceased, showing that the motion is not constant. This one fact that a period of rest follows a period of motion is a fresh proof of the theory that the rotation of the axis is the cause of the change of latitude for the theory of physics leads us to expect a period of relative repose to succeed a longer period of motion. The motion of the poles seems to be complete probably in about a year. It seems that this is repeated three successive years after which a two year period of repose intervenes. In order to confirm this theory and ascertain definitely the law governing these motions it will be necessary to establish in the near future at least three points of observation about 120° apart and as nearly as possible in the same latitude, the observations to cover a period of not less than six years. When the work has been successfully carried out, it will be possible to tabulate the variation in the latitude of every place on the earth's surface for all times of the year. This precise knowledge of exact latitudes is absolutely necessary to precise astronomical observation. The work going on at Waikiki may be said truthfully then to deal with one of the most important astronomical problems of the century. The name of Honolulu, as well as those of Dr. Marcuse and Mr. Preston will, it is to be hoped, go down to immortality together.

A LIBEL.

When the leaves were beginning to turn in November, Henry Smith made the discovery that his watch had stopped, says the Minneapolis Tribune. He wound it up, tapped it gently with his knuckles and then shook it, but it ticked only a few minutes in a sickly way, and then it stopped again.

"It needs cleaning and a new balance staff" said the watch-repairer to whom he took it.

"You may do the work," Henry said. "How long will it take?"

"About a week," replied the watchmaker. "In the meantime you may carry this watch," and he handed out a small silver time-piece, to be wound with a key.

One week from that day Henry Smith again sought the shop of the watchmaker to get his watch. The proprietor of the shop assured him, smilingly, that the work was not yet completed, and told him to call in three or four days.

When Henry Smith called again he was told that the watchmaker had been very busy---so busy, in fact, that he hadn't done Mr. Smith's work. Another time was named for the completion of the cleaning and the replacing of the balance staff.

Days became weeks; weeks rolled into months, and still Henry Smith with lamb-like patience continued to call for his watch at stated intervals. He always received the same answer, unblushingly given, "not quite done." Christmas time came and went, and the old year was ticked out by a small silver key wind watch, which reposed in the pocket of Henry Smith.

He engaged in the practice of his profession. Success rewarded his efforts. He was much sought and had many engagements, all of which were faithfully kept on time recorded by a small key wind watch with a silver case. But in the midst of the press of his professional duties he still found time to call periodically for his watch. It was never done. And the months swelled into years.

Upon the occasion of one call he had been favored with a glimpse of his own timepiece. It had looked at him with its white face like some ghost of the dear, dead past and he had hurriedly turned and gone out.

Time wheeled on. Gray hairs began to appear among Henry Smith's locks, and still he continued to call at the watchmaker's with ironical persistency.

Occasionally he was accompanied by one or another of his children. Year succeeded year, and finally his grandchildren led the hoary headed, tottering old man on his ever-fruitless mission.

There is no need to trace this sad narrative to the last sad excruciating details. Suffice it to say that there was a denouement. An affair must necessarily be serious to have one. There was also a moral. A small silver watch that wound with a key was in it to the last.

The above is how things are NOT done at our establishment. Just a reasonable time required to put your watch in perfect order, and it is returned to you with a guarantee.

Try us and see.

Many a promising amateur has ingloriously failed because he used a poor developer. We have Hydrochinon Developer. You've used it before, perhaps; if not, try it and you'll be our customer ever after. A small quantity will develop a dozen or more plates. It can be used several times with good results. All you have to do is add water and you are ready for developing. We keep a supply of all the chemicals used in photography. We have a Kodak, too, with two rolls of film. It takes a picture a trifle smaller than a royal envelope.

Do you dye? If you do, Diamond Dyes are the only package dyes that give bright, distinct shades. They surpass all others in strength, brilliancy and durability. Perhaps you've forgotten about Night Tapers. You know what they are for, of course. Kerosene lamps, at best, need watching, and often explode even then with serious results. For an all-night light tapers are the cheapest as well as the safest.

INSURANCE DEPARTMENT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK,
ALBANY, N. Y., January 19, 1892.

Pursuant to statute, and by request of the Company's Board of Trustees, the undersigned, Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York, has caused an examination of the conditions and affairs of the New York Life Insurance Company to be made by the Deputy Superintendent of this department. * * *

THE COMPANY IS SOLVENT.

The most satisfactory result appearing in this report is the conclusion reached that this great and useful institution of our State, whose business interests and relations extend and are being advanced in nearly every State of our Union and in so many of the civilized countries of the world, and whose policy-holders therein may be named as legion, is beyond all question solvent, and it is the actual owner and possessor of a surplus of available assets and property exceeding its present liability by the sum of $6,038,136.33 accrued upon its general account, and $8,670,539.50 upon its Tontine accumulation.

Such a result was one most earnestly desired by this department. Those interested may be assured that this conclusion is accurate and trustworthy. * * *

This examination was made as of June 30th, 1891 and on that date we find that its assets and liabilities were as follows:—

A Few Hints to Bicycle Purchasers.

Before buying a bicycle and paying your good hard Hawaiian dollars for it, stop and consider a few points.

Consider how many different makes of bicycles, both American and foreign, there are on the market.

Consider how little the majority of purchasers know of the quality of metal used in the bicycle they are examining, and how much they must rely on the reputation on the manufacturer or dealer.

Consider how essential it is that a bicycle should be made of the best steel forgings, tubes and wire, and that the greatest of care should be use in putting the parts together to insure long life and ease in running.

Consider all these points, and then ask yourself if you are really a judge of a wheel, or if you are safe in taking the advice of a friend who, possibly, may not know any more about a wheel than you do.

After you have considered, and if you are able to decide to your satisfaction, then buy the bicycle that suits you. If you have any doubts, then be on the safe side and buy the bicycle that is mentioned by the greatest number of persons as the leading wheel,

The COLUMBIA is admitted by all to be of the highest grade and the leading bicycle. I have handled the Columbia from the first and my experience is that it is the most satisfactory wheel for an agent to sell or a wheelman to ride.

The advantages in buying a Columbia are:

First—You get the wheel that is recognized as the leading bicycle, being made of the BEST metal and shows best workmanship.

Second—You get the prettiest 1892 wheel.

Third—You get a wheel of American manufacture, and can easily replace parts.

You can obtain obtain parts of any wheel made by this company years hence.

Fifth—You can always sell a second-hand Columbia quicker and get a better price than for any other wheel.

Sixth—You will, at any time be given information regarding the care or repairing of the wheel purchased, by the local agent.

Have you found the Columbia Bicycle Agent?

What Is

The EDISON MIMEOGRAPH? It is not a talking machine, yet it can talk—on paper. There is no electricity about it but it will r duplicate letters, music, programmes, drawings, etc., with lightning rapidity. It is simple, compact, cleanly and cheap. Nothing to get out of order as in some machines. You can take 3000 copies of your own handwriting, or, if a type writer is used, 1500 duplicates, each as good as the original.

Every busy man should have one. The circular letter which you send out from your office will look like a personal one and the recipient will read it. Hundreds of users on these islands endorse it.

How much do they cost? That depends on the size. A small machine $15, and $22 will buy a mimeograph 9x12 inches, suitable for general use. They are fitted out completely with paper and ink ready for operating.

George Lucas, Sr., Died Yesterday Afternoon From a Lingering Illness

A Sketch of His Honorable Career—A Man Who was a Friend to Everybody—The Deceased's Motto was "An Honest Man is the Noblest Work of God."

Yesterday afternoon about twenty minutes past two o'clock death claimed an old and respected citizen in the person of George Lucas, Sr. The deceased had been ailing for some time with a complication of diseases, but heart trouble was the immediate cause of his death. The remarkable energy and vitality of the patient has been a source of wonder to his physicians, as death was expected some ten days ago.

The death of George Lucas, Sr., will be regretted by everybody in Honolulu. No citizen was better known than he He could count his friends by the score, and when he made a friend it was a friendship that would last forever. Many poor families will miss the generous benefactor who has helped them so many times while in trouble. There are few individuals in Honolulu who have done more in the way of charity and benevolence in proportion to their means than Mr. Lucas. There was not a bit of ostentation about the man, but, during his long, useful career, many persons have been assisted most generously by him. As a public spirited citizen, he was never found wanting. As a mechanic, a number of our most prominent buildings stand as monuments of his skill. While he was Chief Engineer of the Honolulu Fire Department, he made one of the most active and efficient officials this city has ever had. It was through his persistent efforts that the first two steam fire engines were imported to these islands, and when he retired from the office of Chief he still retained a deep interest in the department, and was made an honorary member of No. 1 Engine.

At the expiration of Mr. Lucas' term as Chief of the Fire Department, he was presented by the Department with a handsome gold watch, bearing the following inscription: "Ex-Chief Engineer George Lucas. From the Honolulu Fire Department, July 6, 1882." He was acting Chief for six months, as the Department was unwilling to nominate anyone else, and only did so because he refused to serve.

The deceased was a member of a number of societies, in which his absence will be severely felt. He belonged to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, being a member of Harmony Lodge of the same order; also of Oahu Lodge No. 1 Knights of Pythias, in which he held the highest office of Past Chancellor or Commander; also was a member of the Improved Order of Red Men, having held the highest office as Past Sachem. He was a member of Oceanic Council of the American Legion of Honor, an insurance society, in which he held an endowment policy for the sum of $5000, and he passed the highest office in this order. He belonged to the British Benevolent Society, and liberally subscribed to its funds, and himself personally often took a subscription paper around to help build up its depleted treasury. He was also a life-member of the Y. M. C. A. As an instance of the deep interest he took in lodge affairs, the following can be mentioned: In January, Harmony Lodge sent him a check for $200, being accumulated sick benefits. He returned the money to the lodge to be disposed of in some other manner. At the next meeting of the society a beautiful engrossed card of thanks was sent in return for his generous act.

Mr. Lucas was one of the leading originators of the Honolulu Library and Reading Room, making a handsome subscription of $250 in cash, besides rendering other valuable services.

The deceased leaves six sons and one daughter,—Hon. T. R., John, William, George, Albert, Charles and Eliza. The family residence on Nuuanu Lane was thronged with people last evening who called to express their sympathy for the loss of a dear old friend.

THE FUNERAL

Will take place this afternoon from the family home at 3:30 o'clock. The procession will move to St. Andrew's Cathedral where the services will be held. The funeral promises to be one of the largest ever held in Honolulu. The various societies of which the deceased was a member will be in line. The Honolulu Fire Department will attend to pay their tribute of respect to an ex chief engineer. The Hawaiian Band will lead the funeral cortege to the Nuuanu cemetery.

A USEFUL LIFE.

George Lucas, Sr., was born in County Clare, Ireland, on May 7, 1821, and was consequently nearly 72 years of age at the time of his death. His father was a soldier and one of the English guards that watched over Napoleon when that famous soldier was banished to the island of St. Helena.

He emigrated to Australia when he was about 20 years of age. He remained in the Colonies for several years, and while there met and married Miss Sarah Williams, the mother of his large family.

Shortly after his marriage Mr. Lucas, hearing of the gold excitement in California, set sail, accompanied by his wife, for San Francisco. On the voyage up the vessel stopped at Honolulu for about three weeks. Mr. Lucas liked the islands and intended then to return again. This was in 1849. The vessel continued her voyage, and arrived in San Francisco on the 24 day of January, 1850.

Mr. Lucas met with little success as a miner, and returned to San Francisco with the intention of entering the building trade. He prospered for about six years, when he met with a severe loss by fire. While living in San Francisco three children were born, of whom one died, the other two are still living and are Hon. T. R. and Charles Lucas.

Tiring of life in San Francisco, Mr. Lucas returned with his family to Honolulu, arriving on the 9th of July, 1856. He immediately went into the building business with Albert Wiggins, on King street, near Castle & Cooke's store.

One of his first tasks was to put a roof on the old Signal Station at Diamond Head. Another instance of his early handiwork can be found in the old stone bridge on Nuuanu street.

The energy and perseverance of the man brought its reward when about fourteen years ago he opened the Honolulu Planing Mill on the Esplanade. This mill is one of Honolulu's leading manufacturing establishments, and has always furnished employment to a large number of mechanics and laborers.

The following are a few of the buildings erected by the deceased: The Campbell block, Y. M. C. A. Hall, Knights of Pythias Hall, the old Gazette Building, Brewer Block and the Hawaiian Hotel. The carpenter and wood work for the Palace was also directed by him.

EVERYBODY EATS CRACKERS.

Everybody eats crackers and consequently anything relating to their manufacture and sale is of general interest. There was a time in the history of the business when crackers were all about the same. One brand was just about as good as another and none of them were good enough to be any great temptation to a delicate stomach. That time has passed. It was a good many years ago. The crackers of the present generation are as different as day from night. There are good crackers and bad crackers; fresh crackers and stale crackers; and of the whole lot, stale crackers are the worst.

There are some grocers in the country who sell stale, unpalatable crackers because they can get them cheap and make a big profit on them. They think their customers don't know the difference and by and by, when their cracker trade is all gone, and they don't sell a box in a week, they look surprised and say: "Funny how people's tastes change. People don't care for crackers any more."

Don't they though? People don't care for stale, unwholesome crackers, that's true, but they do care for a cracker that is pure and fresh, and altogether delightful as an article of food.

The American Biscuit Co.

has a manufacturing capacity of 800 barrels of flour daily. This enormous quantity it makes into a greater variety of goods than any other bakery in the United States of America, and yet is scarcely able to fill its orders. It is turning out more crackers to-day than it ever did before, and the trade is still growing. Why is it? It is simple enough. Their crackers are the best that are made. People who try them invariably want them again and the grocer who sells them always finds that they not only prove a good source of revenue to him, but make his store popular with the people.

American Crackers

are made by skilled bakers, of the very purest and best materials obtainable. They are sent out of the factory fresh from the ovens, and are never rendered unwholesome and unpalatable as well by being stored in a warehouse a month or two waiting for orders. The orders are always waiting for the crackers. Always ask for

American Crackers.

If you are not already familiar with them, try them and be convinced of the truth of all that has been said about them. You'll never regret it.

FIRST INTRODUCTION

Of Steel Plows Into This Country.

Perhaps some of our older residents will remember when the rolling lands of Makawao were covered with beautiful fields of waving grain, and the flour mill, where this wheat was ground, was situated on King street, on the site now occupied by the eastern end of our store, now filled with ship chandlery. Well, in those early days of the sixties, the only plows used on these Islands for cultivation of grain or cane were the old fashioned cast iron Eagle plows, No. 2 and No. 20. A little later the cast iron Paris plow or breaker was introduced into the cane fields and did good service for some years. One day a farmer came into our store and inquired for a steel plow, something that had never been known in this country. He had used them in the Western States, and said he knew they would do much better work in our soil than the rough iron plows used here. We immediately ordered two Moline Steel Plows which were soon put to use and did fair work, but were found too light for our heavy soil. We then made patterns for some heavier and larger steel plows which were made by the Moline Plow Co. These were a great improvement on the first, but many improvements have been made since about the year seventy, when these first steel plows were introduced. And now for a number of years, we have had the celebrated Hall Steel Plows and Breakers, cutting from four inches to sixteen inches. It is impossible to make any one plow that will be equally well adapted to all the variety of soil and climates on these Islands, but HUNDREDS of our Plows and Breakers are in use on all parts of these Islands and have given universal satisfaction, reducing in many instances the cost of the cultivation of cane where formerly the Paris Plows were used. We would call attention to our Double Mold Board or Furrow Plows. These are in use on almost every plantation and have taken the first prize over all competitors. We have not only the Best Steel Plows and Breakers, but can furnish extra Shares, Beams, Handles and Bolts when needed. Our line of Agricultural Implements also is very complete, comprising Plantation and Goose Neck Hoes, Shovels, Spades, Picks, Mattocks, Oos, Moline and Iron Age Cultivators and Planet, Jr. Horse Hoes, which we first introduced here. We have also Hall's Cane Hatchets and Cane Knives, made from our own patterns, well known by plantation managers. We keep all kinds of Garden Tools of the best quality. Reversible Road Scrapers, Iron Harrows, in sections, with steel teeth, Whiffletrees of all kinds, Collars and Hames, Log Chains, Trace Chains, Back Chains, Ox Yokes, assorted sizes, with wooden or iron bows.

If you want Engineers' Supplies for sugar mills you will find that we have the best of everything and the largest stock in town. Our Lubricating Oils for all purposes are unexcelled, and we have just received a fresh supply and more on the way. We keep in stock the best of pure Sperm Oil, Castor Oil, Olive Oil, Lard Oil, and Machine and Cylinder Oils of different brands to suit all tastes. Our stock of Engineers' and Blacksmiths' Tools and Supplies is very complete, and we are constantly adding to our large stock from the best markets in the world.

We nearly forgot to mention Rain Gauges. Every plantation should have one, and many private individuals also. The kind we keep are the best in use, and are recommended and used by Prof. Lyons, of the Government Metereological Department. We can supply you also with Barometers, Thermometers, or any other kind of ometers that a reasonable person could wish to use.

When we once get started we never know where to stop, but we will stop right HERE, and tell you next time about a few other things that we have, just to remind you.

A TRADE KING.

Something About the New President of the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the caucus recently held to nominate officers of the Chicago board of trade J. G. Steever was selected as the candidate for president. Charles D. Hamill was named as a members' nominee, and when the votes were counted, after one of the most vigorously contested elections in the history of the board, it was found that Mr. Hamill had won by a majority of 184.

The new president of the board of trade has been a resident of Chicago since 1848. He is a son of Dr. Robert Hamill, who was a well known figure to the older residents of the city down to the day of his death. President Hamill started life in a modest way. His first year's salary amounted to just fifty dollars. He was afterward successively cashier of a dry goods firm, bank clerk and paying teller. In 1864 Mr. Hamill became a silent member of a prominent pork packing firm. Just here an anecdote illustrating the man's high sense of honor may not be amiss.

C. D. HAMILL.

During the month of June, 1864, Mr. Hamill made a verbal agreement with a quartermaster of the United States army, giving the government an option on a great quantity of pork. Gold suddenly jumped 100 per cent. The quartermaster called for the meat, and Mr. Hamill unhesitatingly, but regretfully, complied with his part of the verbal contract, although by failing to do so he would have realized a further profit of $70,000 on the pork, on account of the sudden rise in gold.

Mr. Hamill has been connected since that time with some of Chicago's largest commission houses, and "the world has prospered him." He is a lover both of art and music, and is considered a good judge of fine etchings. He is the owner of a magnificent collection, which was almost miraculously saved from destruction at the time of the big fire. Mr. Hamill has been connected with the formation of several musical organizations, and it is principally as the result of his efforts that Theodore Thomas was induced to make Chicago his home. He it was who organized the grand musical festival which the great conductor went to Chicago in 1882 to direct. Mr. Hamill is vice president of a bank and has held scores of offices of trust and honor, but never one of profit. He has a large and interesting family.

Mrs. Maybrick's Grandfather.

Mrs. Maybrick, the American woman who is in prison in England on a life sentence for the murder of her husband, is the granddaughter of the founder of the city of Cairo, in Illinois. His name was Holbrooke and he died in 1858. His widow has recently died, and her daughter, Mrs. Maybrick's mother, the Baroness Von Rogues, of Rouen, France, is suing in the New York courts the trustees of the estate for an accounting. The baroness says she will use the money to pay the English lawyers who are trying to secure for Mrs. Maybrick a new trial.
