THE DAILY

PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

SIX-PAGE EDITION

Be just and fear not; Let all the ends thou aim'st at be Thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's.

TUESDAY, : AUGUST 16, 1892.

WE PRINT this morning a first installment of the evidence in the great case of the Waikapu Sugar Co. and the Hawaiian Commercial. It is derived directly from the notes of the official stenographer, which were not obtainable earlier, owing to the absence of the gentleman named on Kauai, and will be found of great interest to our readers, who will be able, as soon as the evidence is all before them to form for themselves some judgment on the merits of this complicated action.

WE LEARN from private sources that the cane borer has attacked banana trees in Hilo and Hamakua. The banana patch of the Hilo Boarding School is suffering very grievously, almost every other tree being affected. The ravages of the insect are destructive in the extreme, and a tree which is attacked very speedily succumbs and dies. Brazilian as well as Chinese bananas are invaded. It is astonishing that the cane borer should flourish in the arid and bitter juice of the banana, and so far as our informant has been able to learn, the circumstance is unprecedented. It would be interesting to know if such is really the case.

IN THE HOUSE.

Noble Marsden presented a resolution in the House yesterday which is certainly a step in the right direction. It calls for the appointment of a committee to inquire why so many of the deaths reported by the Board of Health are from a "cause unknown," and suggests as a remedy for the existing evil a law requiring that "no interment shall take place without the cause of death being established."

The shockingly large percentage of deaths from unknown causes has often been dwelt upon in these columns and requires no further comment now. It is gratifying that the matter is to be made the subject of legislative inquiry, and it is to be hoped that the committee will prosecute their labors with energy and hit upon something which will obviate the evil. One is not specially impressed at first blush, with the suggestion of the resolution. Is the rite of burial to be denied to people the cause of whose death remains unascertainable? This is a proposition neither rational nor hygienic. In the present state of science, a conscientious physician, be he never so skillful, cannot always certify to the cause of death, unless he confines himself to generalities.

If the suggestion of the resolution, however, requires some modification, it still contains the kernel of a sound idea, and this the committee appointed yesterday will probably in the course of the next few months expand into a bill.

Yesterday Rep. Ashford presented a report all by himself, as a minority of the committee on Bill No. 67. The object of this bill is to compel every male resident of the Kingdom of whatever nationality above the age of thirteen to be registered. Every such person is furnished with a certificate of registration, which must be renewed at regular intervals. Changes of employment, residence, etc., must be duly brought to the notice of the authorities. This system of registration, common enough in Europe, is very repugnant to Anglo-Saxons, and the idea of importing it into this Kingdom is so startling, though not now mooted for the first time, that the vigorous protest embodied in Rep. Ashford's report is nothing to be wondered at. Yet after all, is it not better for white men to submit to the irksomeness of such provisions than to abandon constitutional provisions which have been settled for centuries, in order to enable them to legislate against yellow men?

The consideration of the bill has been postponed until after that of the Constitutional Amendments, and we shall recur to the subject later.

B. FAY MILLS.

The San Francisco Bulletin of July 27 gives the following report of the recent meetings conducted by Mr. B. Fay Mills in Oakland: "By general agreement nearly all the business houses of Oakland were closed last Wednesday. This was the result of the meetings that have been conducted for some days by B. Fay Mills, the evangelist. These meetings have been held in a tabernacle specially constructed for the purpose, in which audiences have assembled twice a day, averaging not less than 3000 persons. At some of the meetings, so great was the crowd that nearly all the standing room was occupied."

The same paper referring to the above mentioned general closing in Oakland, says: "It certainly is an extraordinary occurrence when business is generally suspended in the middle of the week in any city on account of religious meetings. There were few non-concurring business houses. Probably no other evangelist in this country has ever brought about like results; certainly no one has ever before brought about a cessation of business in the middle of the week on this side of the country for religious purposes."—[Com.]

HOUSE NOTES.

The following correspondence took place in the House yesterday regarding the Registration bill. It contains food for thought.

Q. What do you think of this Dutch-Russian registration system? A. Is it not better to submit to it than to amend the Constitution in order to legislate against a class? Counter Query. Is it not best to do neither?

Noble Neumann stated yesterday in the House that the fact that Rep. Kamaoha opposed a bill was a strong point in its favor.

The native members calling "Ninan" as Noble Neumann rose to speak, the latter said, "That's exactly what I propose to speak on, something which very few of you do."

The suggestion is made that Rep. Ashford's report on the Registration bill be engrossed and delivered as a Fourth of July oration.

By a queer coincidence Petition No. 316 has just 316 signatures.

Ashford and Neumann had a deadly encounter in the House yesterday. The air was blue for a while, but when the smoke cleared away, it was found that both of the windy combatants were more frightened than hurt.

HE'S A FARMER CANDIDATE.

Record of Claude Matthews, Nominee for Governor of Indiana.

The Democrats of Indiana have chosen a farmer candidate for governor in the person of the Hon. Claude Matthews, of Vermillion county. Though he has held office hitherto and been a man of note in the politics of the state for many years, he is still distinctively a farmer candidate, and in a truer sense than most to whom that title is applied, as farming has been the business of his life.

He was born in Kentucky forty-eight years ago and received but a common school education, but habits of close observation and long association with active and intelligent men, as well as general reading, have so far supplied the defects of early education that he is a man of considerable culture. He removed to Indiana in early manhood, located in Vermillion county and soon became noted as a successful farmer and stock dealer. His standing with his neighbors was so high that he soon became a power in local politics, and in that close and very political state such local strength is never long neglected. He was nominated for the legislature in a county spoken of as "hopelessly Republican," and his unexpected success made him a power in the state.

In 1882 he was nominated for senator from the district composed of Parke and Vermillion counties, and though Parke usually has a Republican majority of 600 and Vermillion of 900, he cut this down about one-half. In 1890 he was nominated again for the same place, but before the campaign opened the state convention nominated him for auditor of state and he was elected. The fact that he then received the unanimous and enthusiastic support of the Farmers' Alliance no doubt had much to do with his recent nomination for governor.

His place in Vermillion county, in the loveliest part of the Wabash valley, is the ideal home of a gentleman farmer. It is also the home of a very practical farmer. Personally Mr. Matthews is one of those men of whom the Hoosiers say, "The nearer you get to him the better you like him." His tenants and employees are always his most enthusiastic supporters. He has been fairly prosperous in business, and his family and social life is pleasant and attractive. In conversation he is ordinarily pleasant, but as a speaker he is singularly effective, his style being plain, direct and incisive, with occasional touches of homely eloquence—in short, the kind of speech that is most effective among farmers.

The oil of grape seeds has been found to be so valuable for certain purposes as to warrant its extraction at considerable expense, and a new industry will soon be developed.

Hawaiian Hardware Co., L'd.

Monday, Aug. 15, 1892.

The movement to encourage tourist travel to this Kingdom is one of vital importance to every business man in the community and should receive their earnest support. Other sources of income having been legislated beyond our control by the United States we must throw open our gates to the tourist and induce him with clever pictures by pen and camera to visit us, and show him the greatest wonders of the world.

Properly managed the Bureau of Information would be of untold benefit to the Islands. But in addition to the establishment of a bureau in San Francisco arrangements could be advantageously made with Thomas Cook & Son for placing Hawaii on their list of tours. We speak from experience when we state that this firm has made more tourists comfortable in every nook and corner of the world than has been done by any other agency in the universe.

So much for the business men to attend to and they will probably do it all, but is it not possible for the Government to take a hand and help the merchant out of the difficulty. Switzerland, we are told, derives most of its support from tourist travel. The support must be weak when the president of the republic has only a $3,000 job. A country needs more than tourists to make it thrive. Twenty years ago the people of Jacksonville, Palatka, Green Cave and St. Augustine in Florida, lived during the winter months on Northern Consumptives and alligators, and in the summer they did nothing but "jist sot around and take quinine." Florida was a good place for invalids and occasionally one of them would take on a new lease of life. The success of the sanitariums along the St. John's river tempted the people of certain localities in Georgia and South Carolina to start opposition health resorts with the result that a large portion of that class of travel has drifted toward Thomasville, Georgia and Aiken, South Carolina.

But Florida had something beside its advantages as a resort for people with dislocated pulmonary organs. The ingenious Yankee saw something more than Alligators in the Everglades and to see was to act. Nearly all the swamp land in the State has been reclaimed and sold to farmers who now have thriving orange groves where miasma had been the only product. Through its tourist travel Florida has increased its land valuations forty millions of dollars in the last decade and placed the state on a financial basis. The reclaiming the swamp lands was the direct result of the tourist business and, had it not been for this the state Government would have sat down by its fireside and seen its obligations spring up, blossom and grow to a ripe old age and eventually become outlawed.

As a health resort the Hawaiian Islands are superior to Florida. Every-other-dayague and quinine which go hand-in-hand in Florida are comparatively unknown to us. As a wonder land we're recognized 365 days in the year as the "greatest show on earth." Here are two features which should tempt both health seekers and Kodak fiends. But in encouraging only these two classes what is the result? The invalids are made strong and then go home to spend their coin; the tourist lands and inquires for cheap rates and in a fortnight fades from view. True enough they spend money—and during the next year a great many of them will visit the islands going to, or coming from Chicago but it must be borne in mind that the World's Fair is not a permanent show. After that is over there will be a greater drop in tourist travel to Honolulu than there was in the sugar business, (and consequently every other business here) after the McKinley bill was put into operation. We must find relief through some more permanent channel and it is within the power of the wise men at the "big house" to help the country, the working man, the merchant and themselves. Here is the way:

There are thousands of acres of land in the Kingdom lying idle and the laws are such that they will continue so unless a certain resolution is passed. During the present week a bill will be introduced authorizing the disposal of certain of the crown lands in tracts suitable for the farmer. This done and the fact made known to the tourist we will in a few years, see the islands dotted with the houses of the small farmers—the backbone of any country. The product of these farms will add to our exports and make living cheaper for the working man. It will add to the revenue of the country through taxation and give us a class of citizens of whom the country may be proud. We may not see the direct benefit; it would be selfish if the legislation was simply for the present generation. Small farms have been a boon to the United States—they have done every thing for France. And we sell farming implements.

The imports of Hawaiian Sugar at San Francisco during the first six months of 1892 were 194,199,629 pounds, as against 216,173,538 pounds in 1891, the value being $5,384,566 and $8,996,060, respectively.

Lun Gee, a Chinese resident, has missed a cousin named Ah Tai for some time, and has arrived at the conclusion that the body of the murdered Chinaman found in the harbor last April was that of his missing relation.

In addition to Pulolo and Kekaio, the following convictions were made at the trial of the Lanai fiends: Kala, who was sentenced for thirty years; Keliikuewa and Keala, twenty years. The other five defendants were acquitted by the jury.

It is said that the natives at Kauai attempted to place leis on Pulolo, the Lanai murderer, after her sentence, but the authorities prevented them from doing so, as it was supposed they had a hidden purpose in doing this; perhaps to stick pins in her, and otherwise mutilate her.

There is a space of about five inches between the stone crossing and the ear track at the corner of King and Hotel streets on the side nearest Hammer's harness shop. On Saturday evening a hack horse caught a fore hoof in the spot mentioned and pulled the shoe off in trying to get free.

The great plantation consolidation scheme on Mani, that was so generally talked of a few weeks ago, does not seem to have fully crystallized yet. What a magnificent estate would be created by the merging of the Spreckelsville, Pain, Heiker, Walker, Waitika and Waioho plantations, thus bringing all the land and water of that rich section under one control and management. It would be the largest sugar estate in the world.

EAGLE-EYED SHELDON.

He Captures a Chinaman With Some Opium.

The Opium Committee No. 2, of which Hon. John E. Bush is the chairman, has secured the services of William Sheldon, the opium finder, to secure information and evidence for the committee, and also to capture a tin now and then of the contraband drug.

Yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, Sheldon assisted by Joseph McGuire, located some opium in a Chinese stable at Lele, and after a careful search about the premises, discovered two Chinese in a back room in the act of testing a tin of opium; one of the men ran away, and the other, Moy Kee, was placed under arrest and taken to the residence of Mr. Bush along with 36 tins of Hongkong opium.

The matter was placed before Deputy Attorney-General Creighton, with the result that the man will have to answer to a charge of "opium in possession."

But one tin of the opium was sent to the station, for the reason that Mr. Bush is afraid that by some mysterious means the stuff might be transferred into poi and tar.

William Cogswell, the artist, has a tooth in his lower jaw that he would not part with for ten thousand dollars, at least that is what he remarked yesterday afternoon in the Police Court when his suit for $45 against Dr. Lundy was being heard in the Police Court.

About one year ago the artist ordered a set of artificial molars and agreed to pay the dentist the sum of $85 for the same. The plates were finished and delivered and shortly after Cogswell paid $45 on account. He then took a trip to San Francisco and on his return recently told the dentist that the plates did not suit him and brought the suit for the return of the payment mentioned. This Dr. Lundy would not agree to and brought a counter suit for $40, the balance due for the teeth.

Dr. Lundy stated that owing to the nervous temperament of Cogswell the teeth did not have a fair trial and he presented expert testimony to that effect.

Judge Hopkins reserved his decision.

The steamer Kaala will bring about 1300 bags of sugar from Waianae on Friday for the bkt. W. H. Dimond.

The barkentine W. H. Dimond will probably finish discharging to-day. She will leave for San Francisco next Monday with a cargo of sugar and rice.

The bark Albert landed 400 pigs for Mr. McCandless and others at the O. R. and L. Co.'s wharf yesterday. She was moved to Brewer's wharf in the afternoon to discharge freight.

The barkentine Wrestler is coming down from the Marine Railway to-day.

The Fish Commissioners' steamer Albatross, which was ordered to assist the cruisers in patrolling the Behring Sea this season, is reported as about to return to San Francisco for repairs. At Oonalaska, it is stated, a board of survey condemned the boilers as being unsafe, ordered temporary repairs made and refused to allow the steamer to proceed north. The revenue cutter Corwin will carry out the special orders given the Albatross.

The boarding-house masters at San Francisco have notified captains of deep-water vessels likely to want crews in the near future that an advance of $40 to sailors will hereafter be demanded for each man shipped, instead of $30 as formerly. The combination is in good shape now to demand bounties, or "blood money," as sailors are not over plentiful.

Captain von Holms of the New-bern brought to San Francisco the news of the sinking of the steamer Don Juan off the coast of Mexico. All the passengers and crew were saved, but everything else went down with the vessel.

Testimony of the Sugar King, Claus Spreckels.

The Case Between the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Co. and the Waikapu Sugar Co. in which One Million is Involved.

The much-talked-of litigation between the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Co. and the Waikapu Sugar Co. is reduced to a bill for partition and accounting, brought by the former company against the latter, asking to have that part of the land which it has used exclusively set apart to itself, on the claim of a parole argument that this should be done, made between H. Cornwell and C. Spreckels, and ratified by the two companies; also asking that the Waikapu Sugar Co. account for its receipts of money from the leasing of the commons, offering to account to the Waikapu for similar receipts of its own, but denying liability to pay anything.

The case therefore comes to the question of fact as to the alleged parole agreement, and if none is found, to the question of law as to the kind of liability of the Hawaiian Commercial, i. e., is that company liable to account to the Waikapu company for profits made by its own enterprise and capital out of the common property used by it exclusively, or is it only liable for the rental value of such land?

The following is the Court Stenographer's statement of the evidence at the hearing of the case:

Testimony of Claus Spreckels (condensed), called for the plaintiff's side: (In answer to Mr. Hatch): I at one time owned a half interest in the Ahupua'a of Waikapu which was sold to me by the late Henry Cornwell. I think in 1878 or near that. There was some grazing land at Maalaea Bay, and sand hills, and the other was land which they called six weeks grass-lands, and then it would be barren. Towards Maalaea Bay was pasture mania grass towards the year through. There were no streams or water supply belonging to this land other than at Maalaea Bay, a windmill for pumping. The land is capable of producing nothing without water. At the time I purchased the land it was being used for grazing purposes by the late Mr. Cornwell. I gave him a kind of three years lease from the time I bought it as he said he could not get the cattle away. He had 1500 or several thousand cattle. The cattle have continued there to date; the land has not been fenced in. The land I bought from the late Henry Cornwell is 15,000 acres, and we have fenced in the neighborhood of 4500 acres that we have occupied. We have never occupied outside of the fenced land. I could not remember when that fence was built. The Waikapu Sugar Company have had the occupation of all of the land owned in common except that which we have fenced, and prior to that was Henry Cornwell's. They have had the entire possession of that portion, and our Company has never interfered with their possession in any way.

Q. How did it come about that you occupied separately? A. We had an agreement, a verbal agreement first, with the late Henry Cornwell that we should go ahead and fence in as much as we pleased on our side, but we should build the fences so as to keep the cattle out of the case.

Q. State whether or not you had any other agreement with the Waikapu Sugar Company with regard to that? A. I have seen Billy Cornwell there when I have been down there, and we have agreed about the same, as his father before him, that we should go ahead and plant cane as much as we pleased and give him the balance for pasture, but keep it in fence. This agreement was not in writing. It was mutually agreed between ourselves, both parties.

Q. Will you state whether there was anything agreed upon between you and Mr. W. H. Cornwell with regard to fencing the common? A. I have stated, I believe, before, that we should fence it in; that, as they had the cattle and we had the water, we should fence it that side of the commons and they should occupy the other side where there is more grazing land; we should build the fence. We had got the water from Waieae and from Haiku in our ditches for irrigating the cane, it was all water brought from a distance, none rising on the land itself. We had this agreement with W. H. Cornwell. After I bought the half interest the Waikapu was incorporated. W. H. Cornwell has been manager of Waikapu Plantation ever since the time Mr. H. Cornwell gave up managing. It would be impossible to state the time I made this agreement with W. H. Cornwell. Whether it was in 1882 or 1883 I do not remember. The agreement with W. H. Cornwell was before the Waieae ditch was dug. I don't think we had planted any crops or taken off any crop before that agreement. I had a written agreement with Henry Cornwell with regard to dividing the land.

Q. That memorandum makes no reference to how you should make a partition, did you make any agreement? A. Well, it was all verbal, saying that it would be the best that we should have on that side for our land and they should have on the Waikapu side that way, that was the idea verbal, not in writing. By our word I mean that towards Haiku. The exact line of partition was never agreed upon. We went there once to see whether we could divide it and took Monsarrat along, Macfarlane, Cornwell and I riding over the Plains perhaps a couple of hours; but it was not so very easy to divide, so we did not do anything. At that time there was some planted by me, and the land all fenced in. At no other time have I had any conversations with the manager or representative of the Waikapu Sugar Company with regard to dividing.

Q. State whether you have been interested in the Hawaiian Commercial Company, or had any control of its affairs in these Islands? A. Yes, sir; I have been a big stockholder in there, and am to-day. The company is controlled by me and my sons. We have never denied the title of Henry Cornwell or of the Waikapu Sugar Company to the remaining portion of this land. I have never been aware of any opposition to our occupying the portion which we occupy.

Q. Has the Waikapu Sugar Company ever asked to be allowed to occupy a portion of the land which you fenced? A. Well, we have agreed on that from the first that they should occupy that side with the cattle, and we should occupy that for cane and bring the water off. We never had any notice that the original agreement which we had made was no longer binding. No other effort to partition the land has been made since going there with Monsarrat, W. H. Cornwell and George Macfarlane. There has been no demand made by us for division. We have never been called upon to pay any rent for the portion fenced. I could not positively say how much of the land we fenced is good cane land. We spent considerable money getting big boulders out and places were gravelly and would not grow cane. The very best land is at Waikapu, Mr. Cornwell put a fence around it and calculated to plant cane but the water was salt. It is the finest land in the kingdom but there is no water, right here towards Maalaea Bay. The land unimproved you could buy it for half a dollar an acre, there being no water. There is some land down there, the same land, I know it didn't exceed a dollar an acre at auction. The land enclosed by the Hawaiian Commercial Co. I wouldn't buy at all if we had no water.

CROSS EXAMINATION. We have the water fixed so we can have it from Waieae or bring it up from Spreckelsville, so that it can reach any land we want. I think the water from the Waikapu streams could be made available on the same land just as well as from Halekalea. I don't remember when it was I made the property over to the Hawaiian Commercial Co. I think I bought into the Waikapu in 1878. I cannot state where this written agreement signed by Cornwell and myself has been kept since it was signed. I don't know whether it has been shown either to W. H. Cornwell or Geo. Macfarlane. The going up there with Monsarrat was before that agreement was made, when the late Mr. Cornwell had possession of the land, he could not very well sign an agreement when he had already sold and had nothing to do with it. If it appears by the records that the late Mr. Cornwell didn't own anything at the time he signed that instrument I cannot explain it and was not aware of that fact. I paid $20,000 for my half interest in the land, and I did so because I felt I could bring the water to it. I cannot state when our main ditch was completed. There never was any claim presented to me. I think on the Waikapu side there is more land and better land than we have for the cultivation of cane. We have inside of our fence in the neighborhood of 4500 acres that we have fenced off. On our side of the sand hills above the line of our ditch there is more than 4500 acres capable of being cultivated in cane; that above my ditch, which we call Crown Land, we have not fenced off. I have made no examination simply speak from what I have seen. I don't know as a matter of fact when Henry Cornwell sold to his son W. H. and to G. W. Macfarlane. My attention was not called to the fact that he had sold to them before he had sold to me. That agreement between Henry Cornwell and I, I cannot tell you where it was signed. I cannot tell you whether it was signed in Honolulu, Waikapu or San Francisco. I don't know the circumstances under which it happened or who wrote it out. At that time I had no conversation with Mr. Macfarlane about it that I know of, or W. H. Cornwell. I don't know if my transaction was entirely with the old man. The agreement with W. H. Cornwell—I don't know when that was. We never had any fuss about it, both being satisfied with the benefit they derived, they by running their cattle there and I by raising cane. We never expected any fuss to come out of it, and they had more benefit than I had. Macfarlane came to me and asked me if I would not please come over to Cartwright's office; he owed some money to Bishop and Cartwright. Mr. Williams, W. H. Cornwell, Cartwright, Bishop and Macfarlane were there. They thought that I ought to pay something for the land, and I explained plainly to them that I could not see it; if G. W. Macfarlane owed some money, when he could pay it, that was not my fault, that the land was only kula land; that I brought the water on at my own expense. It was not that Macfarlane was urging me to make a settlement by which an arrangement could be come to between us that there should either be a division of the land or an agreement as to the amount of land, the use of which was to be paid for; and that Cartwright and Bishop were referred to as to how much payment should be made. There was no such suggestion. Macfarlane had never before that time spoken to me of a division of the land. There was never any arrangement by which whatever land we took we should pay a certain rate, and what Waikapu took they should pay a certain rate for. He never asked me to make any arrangement of that kind prior to going up there that time. I don't know anything about a demand made by Mr. Macfarlane and Mr. Cornwell on my son in 1887.

and don't know of Mr. Cornwell's writing him a letter to that effect. On the Monsarrat visit we came to the conclusion that it was not a very easy matter to divide the land. We may have gone from the field to Kahului and had lunch. After lunch I don't know exactly what was done; it seems to me we were sitting down playing poker.

OYSTERS AND SEEDS

Are valuable for what's in 'em. Good and bad oysters look alike in the shell. Good and bad seeds often have the same appearance. Any one can tell a worthless oyster on opening it. The value of a seed must be determined by its growth. This makes its quality worth considering. You want seeds that will grow, and you want the product to be of value. There is but one guarantee; the reliability of the firm from which you buy.

Patronize Home Industry!

ROSES.

I have her roses for her breast, A red and white, to be loved's best...

HER INHERITANCE.

"If any relatives of the late James Handford, some time curate of Wiston, be still living, they may hear of something to their advantage by applying to Messrs. Dodd & Son, solicitors, King street."

Barbara Reed put down the paper with a jerk. "I wonder if that means me," she said thoughtfully.

"If you think it worth while go to Messrs. Dodd & Son and find out," suggested a sharp featured, elderly lady, who was stitching at the table opposite.

"Of course I will. Why, there may be £5,000 waiting for me there." "Or five pounds, more likely," supplemented the stitchee.

Barbara flushed as she left the room to get her cloak and bonnet and set out for home. She was the music mistress in Mrs. Stewart's school, and had been one of the most promising pupils in it before that.

Still, notwithstanding her obligations, there were times when Barbara felt strongly disposed to protest against that lady's authority, which was pretty much as it had been in the days when she was "quite a child."

"I am going home to deposit my music; after that I think of making a journey into the city, to King street."

"King street! That is an expedition." "Isn't it? But I have some idea of coming into a fortune, and that is the place I am to apply to."

Mr. Lawrence's face showed such genuine interest in the news that Barbara speedily told him all she knew, perhaps with a little unconscious exaggeration by way of justifying her first announcement.

"You will be sure and let me know the result of your expedition," he said earnestly, with a lingering clasp of her hand, as he left her at the corner of her own street.

"I shall be anxious to hear, and no one deserves such a fortune better than yourself."

In King street she ran full against a plain, rather commonplace young man coming out of one of the warehouses.

"Well, I hope you may get it, Miss Barbara. For myself, I've never had much faith in legacies since I wasted twenty-five shillings once in answering advertisements about one."

"That may have been a very different matter from this," returned Barbara stiffly. "I had better not detain you any longer, Mr. Grant."

"And that is the man Mrs. Stewart thinks is worth half a dozen of Alfred Lawrence," said Barbara to herself, as she walked into Messrs. Dodd & Son's office.

"It seems to be a decided virtue in some people's eyes to have coarse hands and shabby coats."

ferred in this case, and I am in no hurry for a few days." "Days!" echoed John. "A man in our office has waited years, and is likely to wait, so far as I can see."

Ten days later came the much looked for communication from Dodd & Son: "We are in receipt of Miss Reed's paper, and would assure her the matter shall have our best attention," etc.

Barbara flung it into her desk with a disappointed face. It was tedious to be obliged to wait in suspense like this. She would scarcely know how to get through the time but for Mr. Lawrence's attention and warm interest in the upshot.

John Grant's indifference, not to say skepticism, on the subject, threw up his rival's superior qualities in full relief; and yet there were times when Barbara felt just a little puzzled that Mr. Lawrence went no further.

With all his solicitude and looks that meant more than words, he never absolutely committed himself to anything more binding than the merest friendship.

"I can't ask him," she said one day under her breath, as she walked slowly home after one of these "accidental" meetings.

"But I do wish he would say straight out what he means or else stay away altogether. It makes one feel unsettled."

Poor Barbara felt more unsettled still before she reached home. It was a lovely summer evening, and fifty yards further on she was joined by another cavalier.

John Grant this time. She shrank back at first, half afraid of some jesting remark about the legacy, but she soon discovered that he had quite forgotten the matter.

There was something else on his mind, and he lost no time in saying very straight out what it was.

"I may not be able to offer you a fine house and luxuries," he said, "but I have saved plenty to begin in comfort, and I think we might be very happy together if you would only try. I have thought about it for the last two years, and worked hard to be able to tell you so."

Barbara looked up at him with genuine tears in her eyes. "I am so sorry," she said. "I never thought of such a thing—at least, not in earnest," as she remembered sundry remarks of Mrs. Stewart's.

"Besides, there's lots of other better girls you might find." "That is not to the point," he interrupted; "it is you, not other girls, I want. Try and think of it, Barbara. I don't want to hurry you, but let me have a line as soon as you can; it means a good deal to me."

For another week or two things continued to go in much the same fashion. Mrs. Stewart wore a chronic air of disapproval. John Grant was invisible.

Only Mr. Lawrence was to the fore with his sympathetic inquiries, but in some mysterious way Barbara began to find them irritating rather than flattering.

She got tired of giving the same response, "Nothing yet," and of hearing the same polite remarks about his concern and admiration of her. They did not go deep enough.

At last on Saturday morning, as she was setting out for Mrs. Stewart's, she met the postman, who gave her a blue, official looking envelope. Barbara stood still on the step, holding her breath as she opened it.

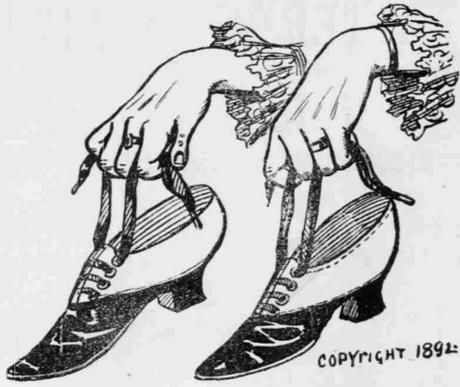

"Messrs. Dodd & Son's compliments to Miss Reed, and beg to inform her that Mrs. Elizabeth Drake has been proved the nearest of kin, and consequently heir-at-law to the £500 left by the late Mr. James Handford."

Miss Reed folded up the letter and put it soberly into her jacket pocket. She had scarcely realized before how much she had been counting upon it.

There was nothing left now but to put on a brave face and make the best of it. As Barbara crossed the hall to the schoolroom that afternoon she encountered Mr. Lawrence. He was standing at the table buttoning his light gloves.

She saw at the first glance that Mrs. Stewart had told him of her disappointment. She hesitated one instant, then went straight up to him.
