HOW GOLF IS PLAYED.

Game Consists in Driving Small Balls into Holes.

IMPLEMENTS USED DURING PLAY.

A Thorough Love of the Sport and a Reasonable Supply of Ingenuity Only Required—Only a Few Clubs are Necessary—Any Kind Country.

It is a great mistake to think that the game of golf is confined to a country of special topography, or to well laid out links prepared under the auspices of clubs and experienced golfers from England. Naturally, links which have been laid out by an experienced hand over territory suitable for the game will be better than others, but, practically speaking, any boy or man can make his own links and have many a good game of golf on them, if he has territory enough. If you are at the seashore, for example, you have the very best grounds for links in the sand dunes and the uplands that are usually within a mile of the beach. If you are in the mountains, there is a capital country at hand in all the irregularities which are always near mountains. If you are on farm lands, there are sure to be clumps of trees, little ravines and a dozen other varieties of depressions and elevations, all of which can be utilized. Only one thing is needed in all this, and that is, of course, necessary—a thorough love of the game and a reasonable supply of ingenuity.

Here is the whole principle in a nutshell: The game of golf consists in driving small balls over the country and sending them into a series of holes with mallets or clubs. He who goes the rounds of the holes in the fewest strokes wins. The number of holes or links may be seven, eight, nine, ten or more. They may be over any distance apart. If there are only four or five of these three or four times for one game. If you have eighteen, that is quite enough. Nine is a common number, giving the player eighteen holes in all—that is, nine out and nine back. As it is comparatively easy to "hole" the ball on perfectly level ground, the scheme is to secure a bit of country which offers obstructions, such as ravines near holes, or stone walls, sandpits, or anything of this nature. In other words, the more irregular the country, to a certain extent, the better the links.

You who are near the seashore should work somewhat as follows, therefore: Go out some day, taking along your American ingenuity, and start from some spot near the hotel. You must select a level bit of earth for a "teeing ground"—a place to start from. Perhaps two hundred yards away there is a deep sandpit. Here is your next spot. Take six inches of four-inch gas pipe and drive it into a level piece of turf or hard ground near the sandpit. Excavate the earth inside the pipe, and there you have a hole six inches deep and four inches in diameter. When the earth around the hole has been thoroughly rotted, you have the first hole and its "putting green." If, in making your stroke from the teeing ground, the ball goes into the sandpit, you have to drive it out by using the clubs, each stroke counting against you. The sandpit or "bunker" is, therefore, what makes the stroke difficult and brings out the skill of the player. Perhaps three hundred yards on there is a large mound of earth, or a stone wall, or a row of trees. Put the second hole six inches beyond this, and again the obstruction or "bunker" will serve its purpose. The distance may be anything from half a mile to three miles over the links. They may be in a straight line, in irregular lines or in a circle.

The game itself consists in hitting this small ball, which is nearly two inches in diameter, with one of the series of clubs from one hole to another over the course. You "tee off" at the start by making a little pile of earth, placing the ball on this with the hands, and thus securing an opportunity for a strong stroke with the club. After this the ball cannot be touched with anything but the club until it has been holed, except under certain conditions, when it counts against the player. This first stroke is, of course, a long drive, the object being to get as close to the first hole as possible on the first stroke. You may hit a fence, or get into a bunker, or strike a tree. The skill lies in not doing any of these things, but in driving the ball so that it will stop within a few feet of the first hole, if possible on the green. Then your object is to go into the hole on the next stroke, or in the next few strokes. Having once holed, take the ball out with the hands, make another tee and drive for the next hole. At the same time that you are playing, your opponent is likewise driving another ball from hole to hole. If you go the rounds of the links in ninety five strokes, and he does it in ninety-six or ninety-seven, or any larger number, you have won. There are other ways of counting which can be easily learned by one who becomes interested in the game.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that a dozen or more clubs are necessary. They are not, at first, at any rate. By and by, when you join a golf club, and play on well laid out links, with all the refinements possible, some of the extra clubs will per-

TOUR OF THE ISLANDS.

Hawaiian Band to Give Concerts on Maui and Hawaii.

May Leave on the Next Kinau—Play at Waialuku and Hilo—Remain for About Two Weeks.

There has been more or less agitation for several months in regard to the Hawaiian Band visiting the other islands on a concert tour. While Minister King was on Maui recently several influential citizens spoke to him about such a visit. The Minister was favorably inclined toward the proposed trip, and promised to have the attention of the Government called to it.

During Minister Cooper's trip to Hawaii he was approached on the same subject, and as a result, it is reported the band will probably leave by the next Kinau for Waialuku, Maui, and Hilo, spending two weeks on the tour.

Two or three years ago the band made a similar trip, and the people on other islands were particularly pleased.

THIMBLE BEE.

Meeting of Ladies' Society of Central Union Church Yesterday.

The Ladies' Society of Central Union Church met in the church parlors yesterday afternoon to indulge in a thimble bee. Owing to the rainy weather, there was not as large an attendance as was anticipated; but taking all in all the afternoon was a successful one. About thirty ladies were present and had with them their sewing. Various matters relating to work in the church were discussed.

A contribution of $37 was the result of the afternoon's liberal-heartedness, each lady giving as much as she thought she could afford.

The object of the Ladies' Society is to raise money for the various church socials and receptions, in order that refreshments and articles necessary for the proper preparation of the same may be fully supplied. The ladies have undertaken a good work and are fully able to continue it. The next meeting will be held in a few weeks, and it is sincerely hoped by the ladies that the number present and the sum contributed at that time will be doubled.

HAWAIIAN RELIEF SOCIETY.

Reorganized and New Officers Elected—Good Work Performed.

A meeting of the Hawaiian Relief Society was held yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. S. C. Allen, Alakea street, with the majority of the members present.

The society was re-organized and a re-election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. S. C. Allen, president; Mrs. James Campbell, vice-president; Mrs. F. W. Macfarlane, treasurer; Mrs. Graham, secretary; Messrs. A. A. Haalelea, J. O. Carter, Geo. C. Beckley, E. K. Nakuina, Robert Lewers, directors.

The by-laws as submitted by Mrs. J. O. Carter were read, approved and accepted. They will be printed in pamphlet form for the use of members.

In the by-laws is a section bearing upon the admission of new members to the society. In order to join the society a person must be proposed by a member and elected by a majority vote.

Members must pay annual dues of one dollar each.

A proposition was made and accepted that $125.00 be set aside to be used in the interest of needy Hawaiians at the discretion of the investigation committee of three. This sum must suffice for three months. The proposition was made to obviate the necessity of frequent meetings and to facilitate matters. The investigation committee will act for six months.

The treasurer's report showed expenditures of $85.00 from October 18th, 1895, to date. This was used in the support of four needy Hawaiian families, and in furnishing coffins for natives whose families were too poor to purchase them. One of the four families spoken of will be dropped from the list, as employment has been found by the male members. The other three will continue on the roll.

The work of the Hawaiian Relief Society in the past, and its present good working form, deserves the commendation of all who recognize true merit.

NEW PERFECTING PRESS.

First Editions to be Printed, Cut, Pasted

In the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands.

In Vacation, October 29, 1895.

Before JUDD, C. J., FREAR, J. and Circuit Judge COOPER, who sat in place of Mr. Justice Bickerton, absent from illness.

Z. S. SPALDING vs. THE ALLIANCE MARINE AND GENERAL ASSURANCE COMPANY, Limited. Z. S. SPALDING vs. THE SUN INSURANCE COMPANY, IN THE MATTER OF THE HAWAIIAN STEAMER WAIMANALO, THE ALLIANCE MARINE AND GENERAL ASSURANCE COMPANY, Limited, and THE SUN INSURANCE COMPANY.

vs. Z. S. SPALDING, Mortgagee, and C. V. DUDUIT, Owner.

The steamer Waimanalo was stranded on a reef off a place called Keawanaui on the island of Oahu, as the result of an accident to her machinery. She was abandoned by her master and crew, and the insurers, who recovered and repaired her at a cost less than half her agreed value. The insurers tendered her to the vessel and demanded the amount of their expenses upon her. This was refused. The master did not take adequate means to ascertain the probability of her becoming a total loss, nor did he make any desperate efforts to recover the vessel, as required by the terms of the policies.

Held, while admitting the law in Bradlee v. the Maryland Ins. Co. 12 Pet. 285, that "the right of abandonment does not depend upon the certainty, but upon the high probability of a total loss," the fact that the vessel was subsequently recovered and repaired is not conclusive nor is it the "best evidence" that the abandonment was not justified. It is, however, evidence that it was practicable to recover and repair her. Under the policies it was the master's duty to ascertain as far as possible the probability of the vessel being a total loss, and to take such steps as were necessary to save the vessel, and failing in this, to proceed to recover the vessel and repair and have a right of action to recover their expenses. The cost of recovery and repair not exceeding half the agreed value of the vessel the Sun Insurance Company is not liable under its policy. The Alliance Marine and General Assurance Company is not liable under its policy, the cost not exceeding the value of the vessel.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY JUDD, C. J.

The following stipulation was filed. In each of the above entitled cases it is hereby stipulated and agreed, by and between the parties thereto, acting by and through their respective counsel:

That the libel filed by said insurance companies against said steamer may and shall be considered as the answer of said insurance companies respectively to the libels filed against them to enforce payment of their respective policies of insurance on said steamer Waimanalo in the two first above entitled suits; and said libel of said insurance companies may further be considered as a cross-bill filed in each of said two first above entitled suits.

And that said three libels and suits may be heard together as one consolidated suit; and any and all evidence, affidavits, and depositions taken, or which shall be taken, and all proceedings had or which shall be had, in either of said suits shall be available for use and considered as having been taken and had in each of said suits.

And that the libels filed against said insurance companies respectively, in said two first entitled suits, may be considered as the answer of Z. S. Spalding and of Charles V. Duduit to the said libel of said insurance companies in the last above entitled suit.

The fact of the incorporation of the said companies and their power to contract is admitted and need not be proved herein.

Said companies are left to their proof of compliance with the law in regard to shipping corporations, and nothing in this stipulation shall prevent said Z. S. Spalding or C. V. Duduit from filing any other or further plea or answer.

We adopt the following statement of the pleadings and evidence made by the Circuit Judge from whom this appeal comes:

The libellant in the first two libels claims as mortgagee of one C. V. Duduit, the master and owner of the Hawaiian steamer Waimanalo, the sum of $100,000 from the Alliance Company and from the Sun Insurance Company $100,000 respectively, the amounts of insurance on the Waimanalo insured by the companies in the name of C. V. Duduit and duly assigned to the libellant by him, the libellant claiming that the steamer Waimanalo on August 14, 1895, was wrecked at Keawanaui, Oahu, by the perils of the sea and became a total loss. Each of the said companies contains the clause "in any case of loss payable to Z. S. Spalding."

In their libel the insurance companies claim (Sec. 4) that Duduit, the owner and master, at the time of the stranding, proceeded with his vessel to a bar harbor and open roadstead, to wit, Keawanaui, and at divers times to other bar harbors and open roadsteads in violation of the conditions of said policy of the Alliance Company. That (Sec. 7) on August 14, 1895, in the day time, in good weather, while Duduit was on board and in command, said steamer was stranded by running upon the reef or shore of Oahu at or near Keawanaui, Wailana, and very soon deserted and left her to her fate. That (Sec. 8) on information and belief, said stranding of the vessel was not caused by a peril of the sea, or by any of the perils mentioned therein, but that said stranding was the deliberate and willful act of said Duduit, acting as master, and done with the purpose of wrecking her; and that the act of said master and crew in deserting and leaving the steamer to her fate was not done in good faith, but was done in spite of the fact that at the time of such desertion said steamer was not in such peril as to be beyond the hope of rescue; and that information of such stranding being that information of said master came to the notice of the insurance companies after the repairs to the steamer had been contracted. That (Sec. 9) Duduit kept a vessel of the crew in possession of the vessel till August 15th and thereafter notified the agent of the companies in Honolulu of the stranding of the vessel, claiming a constructive total loss and proposing an abandonment of the vessel and demanding payment of the policies. That (Sec. 10) the companies refused to accept such abandonment and procured a survey of the vessel as she lay at Keawanaui, and annex copy of survey, and the survey recommended the floating and repair of the steamer; and a contract was made for floating and repair. That (Sec. 11) the steamer was floated, a second survey held and the companies caused her to be repaired. That (Sec. 12) they repaired and placed the steamer in condition for use and tendered the vessel to Duduit and demanded payment of him or security for such sums as should on adjustment be found to be due from him; and Duduit refused the tender and declined payment. That (Sec. 13) an adjustment was made whereby it was found that the companies were entitled to recompense for expenses of survey, floating and repairing the vessel, and that the companies were liable in $100,000 each for loss under general average under the policies. That (Sec. 14) on December 5, 1895, the adjustment was received and vessel tendered to Duduit and demand for amount, $100,000, due from him thereunder, and same was refused by Duduit. That (Sec. 15) they pray for attachment of vessel and for judgment for expense of floating, repairing and caring for vessel, and other prayers.

I find that the Hawaiian steamer Waimanalo, engaged in the coasting trade and freight in the Hawaiian Islands, left the port of Honolulu, her home port, at about 10 o'clock on August 14, 1895, on her coasting trip around the island of Oahu, and touched at Wailana and thence returned to an intermediary coasting landing at Keawanaui about 7 o'clock a. m. and arrived at Keawanaui between 9 and 10 o'clock a. m.; as she was coming up to her anchorage the engine stopped and owing to wind and current the vessel began to drift, and about 10 o'clock was struck by a screw of the cross head bar or rib coming loose and dropping off falling between the engine and jamming stopped the engine or rather to cause the engine to shut off steam and stop the engine. Anchors were immediately let go, but failed to hold and check the vessel and she went ashore. Attempts were made to get her off but failed and owing to the current, wind and waves she was further carried on to the coral reef, making it impossible from above and eventually abandoned by the master and crew after removing the freight that was on board for Keawanaui. Keawanaui is a port of call to land and take in freight for the island steamers such as the C. R. Bishop, Kaala, the Waimanalo and like vessels and small sailing vessels engaged in the coasting trade, and is open to the winds and currents. It is not an open roadstead, nor a harbor, but simply an anchorage place for such coasters and is in part protected by a coral reef, and when anchored near this reef at the usual anchorage there is a good depth of water and good holding ground for a vessel of the size of the Waimanalo.

Due notice of the abandonment was given to the insurers by the master and libellant. The insurers got the vessel off, through contractors, for the sum of $100,000. She was brought around to Honolulu, surveyed and repaired, and tendered to the insured. The tender was refused, and libels were brought; by the mortgagee, Spalding, against the two insurance companies to recover the insurance, and a libel was brought by the insurance companies against the vessel and owners to recover the repairs. In pursuance of a stipulation by the parties, the vessel was sold by the marshal and the money realized ($100,000) was deposited in the registry of the Court.

The Circuit Judge found a constructive total loss and a justified abandonment, gave judgment to the libellant, Spalding, for the amount of insurance contracted for and costs, and that the insurance companies were entitled to the proceeds of the sale of the vessel. On the appeal the insurance companies abandoned the contention that the vessel was willfully wrecked and lost by the master. On behalf of the libellant, Spalding, it is urged that the master was under the circumstances justified in abandoning the vessel and that in determining this question the Court must consider not what the actual result was but the condition the vessel was in, the peril to which she was exposed and the estimated probable cost of saving and repairing her, i. e., whether they would exceed one half her agreed value under the Sun policy and her total value under the Alliance policy.

The libellants, the insurance companies, contend that the insured failed to do his utmost to get the vessel off as was his duty under the policies according to the clause to "use, labor, and travel, and use all reasonable and proper means for the security, preservation, relief and recovery of the property insured," etc., and hence the insurers were authorized to proceed to recover the vessel and repair her, and the result showing that the damage was less than one half the agreed value, they were justified in tendering the vessel to the insured and, on refusal to accept her and to pay the charges, they can recover the same.

The insurers claim that the cost of weighing the vessel, bringing her into the port of Honolulu and repairing her amounted to $100,000 and deducting the one third off "new for old" as stipulated in the policy the amount is less than 50 per cent. of the agreed value of the vessel ($100,000) and so the insurers, the Sun Company, are not liable as for a total loss, nor, a fortiori, the Alliance Company.

Both insurance companies inquire for total and not partial loss. Under the Sun policy the cost of repair must be three quarters of the agreed value, in this case $75,000. In order to render the company liable, unless we find that there was an actual total loss. Under the Alliance policy the cost of recovery and repair must exceed the value of the vessel in the policy, i. e., $100,000, unless there was an actual total loss.

We agree with the general proposition urged by counsel for the insured that the act of a master of a vessel in abandoning her must be judged by the probabilities of total loss and complete destruction of the vessel as they existed at the moment of abandonment. The doctrine is formulated by Chancellor Kent as follows: "The right of abandonment does not depend upon the certainty, but upon the high probability of a total loss, either of the property, or voyage, or both. The insured is to act, not upon certainties, but upon probabilities, and if the facts present a case of extreme hazard, and of probable expense, exceeding half the value of the ship, the insured may abandon, though it should happen that she was afterwards recovered at less expense."

This expression of the law was cited approvingly by the Supreme Court of the United States in Bradlee v. The Mary-land Insurance Co., 12 Peters 285, and has been followed, we believe, in the Admiralty Courts without question. See Snow v. Union Ins. Co., 113 Mass. 323, Wallace v. Thomas & Mersey Ins. Co., 22 Fed. Rep. 61, Orient Ins. Co. v. Adams, 123 U. S. 52. We do not consider that the fact that the vessel in this case was recovered and repaired is conclusive nor is it the "best evidence" that it was practicable to recover and repair it. Orient Ins. v. Adams, id. 75. On the other hand the bare fact that the master thought that his vessel was in extreme peril and that the probable cost of her recovery and repairs would exceed half her value under the Sun policy, would not justify the abandonment. The evidence shows that no adequate means were taken to ascertain the probabilities. The Waimanalo had been driven by the surf over the sand spit and lay on her bilge and her position seemed critical, but no soundings were taken by the Master of the water alongside of her, no careful examination of the neighboring channels and reefs, and no plan matured by him as to how she could be recovered and brought into deep water, and no determined effort made for her recovery.

He called to his counsel Capt. Smythe of the "Wailana" and his estimate that the vessel should be abandoned is the only disinterested opinion that we have. Capt. Smythe, however, says that he stood on the shore some hundreds of yards distant from the "Waimanalo," that no soundings had been given him by Capt. Duduit or taken by him, and that if he had been told that there was eight and a half feet of water under her stern it would have made a difference in his judgment about the vessel should be abandoned. He made an estimate of the probable cost of repairs. As above stated, in a few days the vessel was righted by contractors of the insurers, her hole patched up, pulled over the reef into deep water and brought to Honolulu and repaired for less than half her agreed value. This, though not the "best evidence," is evidence that the abandonment was hastily and imprudently decided upon.

This is not the case where changed circumstances after an abandonment made it good faith, makes it practicable to recover and repair the vessel for a less sum than would make the insurers liable. Here the circumstances, so far as we can judge, had not changed. From a careful review of the very voluminous evidence taken, we are of opinion that the abandonment was not justified and that no sufficient examination was made by the master upon which to base his judgment, and no energetic means taken to recover his vessel. The insured were bound to do all in their power to save the insurers from any payment under their policies. The insurers did, in recovering the vessel, what the insured should have done, and were justified in refusing to accept the abandonment, and as they were not liable (the Sun Company) for a loss not exceeding half of the agreed value and the Alliance Company for a loss not exceeding the value, they are entitled to recover of the insured the amount of the expenses incurred by them in saving and repairing the vessel. The principles sustaining this right of action are fully discussed and settled in Commonwealth Ins. Co. v. Chase, 39 Pick. 142.

The decree appealed from is reversed and judgment ordered for the insurers, the amount of which is referred to the Clerk of the Court for computation and report. The libels of the insured against the insurance companies are dismissed. F. M. Hatch for the Insured; L. A. Thurston and Paul Neumann for the Insurers. Honolulu, Jan. 9, 1896.

ABOUT SALE OF OPIUM.

Statistics Regarding Importation and License of the Drug.

CONSUMPTION IN FORMER YEARS.

Acts, Repeals and Amendments from the Year 1859—Extracts from the Civil Code—Value of Opium Paying Duty During the Years of License.

The following information relative to the importation, licensing and sale of opium will be found of interest by all readers. Commencing with the year 1859 the Civil Code reads:

"A duty of 15 per cent ad valorem is placed on all opium and manufactures thereof." (Sec. 517, part 5, C. Code.) Sections 83 and 84 Civil Code authorized the Minister of the Interior to grant a license to any qualified physician or surgeon to import and sell opium for the term of one year.

Fee for Honolulu or Lahaina.....$40 For any other district..... 10 This license did not allow the sale of opium or other poisonous drug to any Chinaman or coolie, except upon prescription.

The act approved August 21, 1860, repealed Sections 83, 84, 85 and 86 of the Civil Code and authorized the Minister of the Interior to license not more than two persons residing in Honolulu and one at Lahaina to sell opium to Chinamen in those districts. The license to be sold at public auction. Upset price, $2000 each license. Bond of $10000 conditioned that the licensee will not sell or furnish opium or any preparation thereof except to Chinamen.

This act permitted licensed physicians to import, sell and furnish opium or any preparation thereof without special license. The following is a statement of licenses issued under this act. They seem to have been all issued for Honolulu. All except the first one, to Hanayip, stating that fact. The one to Hanayip is not located.

$123,709.63 This Act was amended Chapter XXXVIII limiting the license to one person resident in Honolulu, to import and sell opium to Chinamen for the term of one year in the District of Honolulu. License to be sold at public auction. Upset price $15,000.

This Act had no effect as— Aug. 8, 1874 an Act was passed (Chapter LXVI) to restrict the Importation and Sale of Opium to the Board of Health. This repealed all former Acts and the Board furnished to Licensed Physicians at cost.

This Act was amended Sept. 29, 1876, by inserting the words "or preparations thereof." Chapter XVIII Laws of 1880 increased the penalty from imprisonment to both fine and imprisonment. Chapter LXXIII of the Laws of 1885 authorized the Minister of the Interior with the consent of the King in Cabinet Council to grant a license to sell opium or any preparation of Opium upon payment of $50,000 for each year (for a term of 4 years).

The Licensee was required to give a bond in the sum of $10,000 conditioned that he would not sell, give or furnish Opium or any preparation thereof to any Native Hawaiian or Japanese, or to any other person who has not received a certificate from some physician stating that opium is the proper remedy for the disease from which the bearer is suffering. The Licensee to keep a record of all sales. The Licensee is authorized to import, upon the payment of the fifteen per cent ad valorem duty and also a stamp duty of one dollar for each half pound tin.

Under this Act a license was issued: Jan. 11, 1887 Chung Lung—$30,000.00 " 9, 1888 Chung Lung (3 months)— 7,500.00

The reason for issuing a three months' license is explained in the copy of letter as follows:

Copy. Department of Interior, Honolulu, H. I., Jan. 3, 1888. ALFRED S. HANWICK Esq. Attorney for Chung Lung.

Dear Sir:—I hereby acknowledge the receipt of your letter of Dec. 30, whereby you request upon behalf of Chung Lung that he be allowed to pay in $7500 for a renewal of his opium license for the term of three months, upon condition that he will at the end of such three months give up all rights under the four year license now held by him; second, that he will undertake to import no more opium between now and the end of such three months; and Third, that he will at the end of such three months export at his own cost all opium then remaining on hand which has been imported under this license.

In reply thereto I would say that the matter has received the careful consideration of the Cabinet, and with the understanding that this proposition is intended to cover also a release by Chung Lung, of all claim of every nature, which he may have against the Government, in connection with the opium license, your proposition as hereby set forth, is hereby accepted.

I remain your obedient servant, (Signed) L. A. THURSTON, Minister of the Interior.

Chapter XX of the Laws of 1887 repealed Chapter LXXIII of the Laws of 1886, and the several laws thereof repealed were declared expressly re-enacted.

Chapter LXX of the Laws of 1888. To restrict the importation and sale of opium or preparation thereof is substantially Chapter LXVI of the Laws of 1874. It did not obtain the signature of the King within ten-day limit.

Chapter LXVI of the Laws of 1880 amended the penalty clause, to read "Or imprisonment" instead of "and imprisonment" in both the first and third sections.

Chapter CX of the Laws of 1892. "An Act to provide for and regulate the importation, sale and use of opium and preparations thereof," repealed Chapter LXX of the Laws of 1888, and this Act was in turn repealed by Act 12 of the Provisional Government.

Receipts from license fees under the Opium Act of 1880 being, say, one license for fifteen years..... $123,709.63 Receipts from license fees under the Opium Act of 1886, one license 1 1/2 years..... 37,500.00 Total for, say, 16 1/2 years..... $161,209.63

The following statement of the value of opium paying duty during the years license was in operation is compiled from the reports of the Collector-General of Customs:

Table with columns for year and amount. Includes entries for 1860 ($1,624.03), 1861 (4,561.45), 1862 (4,885.69), 1863 (2,735.00), 1864 (2,214.55), 1865 (5,003.25), 1866 (5,738.35), 1867 (7,776.90), 1868 (5,049.74), 1869 (9,396.45), 1870 (7,049.67), 1871 (13,003.17), 1872 (11,888.32), 1873 (748.51), 1874 (316.65), 1875 (11,249.90), 1877 (59,331.79), 1888 ($156,199.39)

Import duties, 15 per cent ad valorem..... $23,420.89

In the detailed statement of goods paying duty 1887, the item of opium is given as follows:

Table with columns for item and amount. Includes entries for Opium (10,023 Pounds), Pills (11,500)

The opium for smoking purposes is usually imported in tins. It is possible that the pills could be prepared for smoking purposes after importation; if so, it was an oversight to have the law apply to "opium in tins" only.

Presuming that the stamp tax was applied to the item of pounds only, the revenue from that source in 1887 would have amounted to, say, $5011.

FIERY LAKE ON HAWAII.

Wonders and Magnificence of Volcano of Kilauea.

PELE AGAIN ASSERTS HERSELF.

In Shape the Crater Is an Inverted Cone—More Brilliant and Majestic Than Ever—Luxury and Comfort at the Volcano House—Grand Sight.

A writer in the current number of the Hilo Tribune, dated January 11th, describes the volcano of Kilauea as follows:

Today, in the gloaming of evening and in the gathering darkness, we have stood upon the bank of Lake Halemau-man (the house of everlasting fire) and gazed down 400 feet into the depth of this bottomless pit, and have seen there a lake of fire.

"On all sides round as one great furnace flamed, A fiery deluge fed with ever-burning sulphur unconsumed."

And it seemed as though we could almost discover "Floods and whirlwinds of tempestuous fire."

In its face of 200 by 250 feet of molten, burning lava, and its lurid light cast forth lit up the surrounding formations in all their ghastly and darksome caverns and craggy formations, all partaking so strongly of the infernal region. Reminders of the immense heat below were given to us by the hot air that burst forth from the cracks and crevices beneath and all around us.

Standing there we saw volume after volume of liquid, burning lava spouted into the air fifty and one hundred feet, as water is sprayed from fountains, continually rolling back and lapping up the red-hot mass, higher and higher, slowly but surely coming to the top and where we stood.

Surely the eternal fires below are not quenched. Pele is aroused and again asserts herself. The wonders and magnificence of Kilauea have not departed. Pele was only sleeping, gathering to herself new strength to give to the world a more brilliant and majestic display of the wonders of Hawaii than ever before.

The air was scorching us with its intensity. The burning lake of fire below boiled, bubbled, seethed, rolled and rumbled about, revealing in each succeeding moment new phases of wonderful formation and changing color. "And from this chasm with ceaseless turmoil seething, As if this earth in fast, thick pants was withering; And a mighty fountain momentally was forced Amid those swift intermittent bursts."

And this was midwinter in the tropics.

On return to our task and give to our readers the details of the return of the wonders of Kilauea. On December 7, 1894, the fires left the lake in the crater of Halemau-man in Kilauea, and since then no fire has been visible, though smoke and heat have been emitted frequently from the cracks around and in this crater. On the night of January 3, 1896, about 11:30 o'clock, light was seen in this crater from the return of the fire. Early Saturday morning Manager Lee of the Volcano House, and others visited the crater and found that the fire had burst forth on the east side, about 200 feet from the bottom of the crater, and had flowed down and filled the crater to this height and above. The action was violent and continues active, and gave evidence of a permanent return of the volcanic fires. Since then the flow has been constant and the filling up continuous, so that the top of the lake of lava is about 200x250 feet. This is the longest period of inactivity known, unless the one in 1850 surpassed it.

This crater is in the shape of an inverted cone, having a base about 1200x1500 feet and a depth of 650 feet. 250 of which is now filled up, leaving the face of the lake about 400 feet from the surface, and this distance is being diminished slowly.

Manager Lee, of the Volcano House, feels confident that there is plenty of ground to believe that there is a permanent return of fire. This crater is situated in the large crater Kilauea, which is about three by four miles in area, and is below the surface of the surrounding country about 600 feet. Lake Halemau-man is near the south side and is reached from the Volcano House on horse. The distance is near two and a half miles. The descent into Kilauea is tortuous, through trees and shrubbery, some places quite abrupt. You then cross acres of lava flow for over a mile, leave your horses and pursue your way on foot to the very brink of the lake, where a perfect view of the lake is to be had.

Mr. Lee intends at once to construct some seats and a shelter on this bank and to connect the place by telephone to his house, so that persons may view this lake at their ease at night, the best effects being then secured.

This property and its exhibition is all under the control of the Volcano Hotel Company, who have built, furnished and are now managing a fine hotel upon the north bank of Kilauea. It is the best hotel on the island for tourists or families. The scenery is grand, the air cool, the sulphur baths health-giving, the cuisine excellent, the management faultless.

It is the place for one to go to have a quiet time of enjoyment and at the same time enjoy the surroundings of luxury and comfort.

The tennis tournament, about which great enthusiasm is being manifested, will come off in the latter part of April or the beginning of May. An exciting time is looked forward to.

ISSUED TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS

W. R. FARRINGTON, EDITOR.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1896.

The war scare is over. According to advices by the Coptic the tenor of most of the papers in the United States has become extremely peaceful, and that war is deprecated.

It is the intention of the Government to adopt more personal supervision over the different branches of the Government service upon the other islands. The heads of departments will go on inspection tours and make themselves thoroughly familiar with the personnel of the force under them and the needs of various districts. Postmaster-General Oat has done good service in this direction already. The Marshal is visiting Kauai with a like object.

The Turkish rebellion seems to be growing. Now we hear that the Druses are up in arms. December 28th a big battle was fought between them and the Turkish troops, and 12,000 men were killed. Such a story, however, requires confirmation. The Druses are a turbulent, worthless set of vagabonds. The Turkish Empire seems to be in a very bad way. Poor Turk, he has been a sick man ever since 1854, and it seems as if dissolution cannot be far off now.

Dr. Bowie in an interview published today says that the disease we suffered from last August and September was not cholera, or if it was, it was bred in this place. The Steamship Belgia, according to this medico's view never introduced cholera or any other disease into the country. An interview with Mr. W. O. Smith, President of the Board of Health, which we publish today throws a very different light upon the subject. We are sadly afraid that Dr. Bowie's wish is father to the thought. The less Dr. Bowie says, the more he will shine. The evidence is overwhelmingly against him and so is the consensus of able medical opinion.

The Hawaii election will most likely go to Mr. Holstein. The ballots cast at Honoumuli contain one which is not legal and that was cast for Mr. Young. This would give Mr. Holstein the majority. Of course the matter will be properly stated before the courts. It does seem odd to any one unacquainted with human nature that the very plainest of written directions can be misunderstood. But human nature is prone to err and a good deal of it cannot understand very simple directions. In one way, it is to be hoped that the election will go to Mr. Holstein. The big island will be represented, and if the voters for Senator there don't like him they have only themselves to blame. They should have come out flat-footed and put up some man they did want. Dog in the manger policy isn't worth a tinker's oath in politics.

There are some sixty thousand acres of land lying between the Waimea and the Koolau range which would be excellent for farming purposes. By tunneling into the hills a good supply of water ought to be obtained, and then upon these rolling plains, fruits—such as limes, oranges and pineapples—could be grown. Potatoes and corn could be made a paying crop. Hay to supply the home market ought also to be raised. That land should be thrown open for settlement, and not kept feeding a lot of hogs and hoes. As we said before, it is men, women and children that we want—people who will buy dry goods, groceries and lumber; who will be thrifty, and who will make the present expense blossom forth with neat cottages and pleasant homes. Of course this is private property, but it would pay the property owner to offer inducements for a desirable class of immigrants to settle there.

INFLUENCE OF BOOKS.

Books, children's books, who cares for them? We do, and a great number of readers do. The subject of healthy literature for children and young people is one which may well exercise the minds of all interested in the "Coming Race." In this direction the committee of the Honolulu Library have shown commendable care. We have before us a list of sixty authors and over 400 books suitable for the young, which are accessible to this class of readers. The names include Aldrich, Hans Anderson, Boyesen, Mrs. Burnett, Church, Doyle, Eggleston, Grimm, Henty, Ingelow, Captain King, Kingsley, Kingston, Kipling, Macdonald, Mark Twain, Mayne Reid, Stockton, Stephenson, Tolstoi, Townbridge, Jules Verne, all of whom have written especially for young people. Besides these there are the standard authors like Scott, Dickens and Marryat, though the latter is perhaps a little coarse for the modern taste. But all these writers give bright stirring tales, not goody-goody mawkish stuff of the Mrs. Barbauld and Dr. Aiken type. Honor, chivalry, bravery, gentleness, truth, kindness, are all taught by them. They put a healthy ideal before our youth and what would life be without ideals. The characters of fiction are in many cases one's life long friends, whose company is pleasing to us, whose example is a guide to us. How many boys of a past generation have been influenced by the gentleness, goodness, and manliness of Masterman Ready. How many girls have based their ideals upon the characters in Miss Alcott's "Our Girls." From these we are led to the larger and broader paths of literature, and to maturer friends.

How necessary a good healthy style of reading must be is shown by the results of a course of vicious reading. Last month the State of New York was startled by a series of juvenile crimes. In one case it was a murder by a boy of fourteen. In another it was two youths engaged in burglary, and yet again it was four boys who deliberately wrecked a train near Rome. It has been shown that in all these cases the boys had all been reading the vilest literature, "eulogistic accounts of the exploits of train robbers, thieves and murderers of the Jesse James type." They lived in a false world of crime. Youth will live in a false world, an ideal world. We must be careful that that ideal should be a healthy one. This the Honolulu library and the Y. M. C. A. library are doing and their efforts should receive cordial support. They are really doing a great work.

We think that the advantages of the Honolulu library should be extended to some of the upper classes of the Royal, Kaula, and Puhukaina and other schools, free of charge, the nomination of the pupils to be with the Principal. This system has worked well with the pupils of the High School and Fort Street School. Encourage the children to read wisely and well.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

In our issue of January 13th, we referred to the decrease in water supply of the artesian wells and said that they depended upon the rainfall. A report has been brought to us relative to the wells on the Ewa side of the city which shows that since the late rainfall the wells have risen some ten inches. The Kamehameha School wells would not at that time run into the bathing tanks, the supply pipe being above the height of the column of water. Now the tanks can be freely filled, the water having risen above the supply pipe.

In this connection it seems not amiss to call attention to the fact that there is a law on the statute books with regard to artesian wells. It was passed in 1884 and appears as Chapter XLIX in the laws of that year. It provides that every artesian well then flowing, or that might thereafter be made on the island of Oahu, should be capped by the owner so as to give complete control over the flow of water. No person having the right to use water from an artesian well is to allow it to run to waste. Section 3, provides a penalty of fifty dollars for violating Sections 1 and 2 of the Act. We are credibly informed that the provisions of this Act have not been carried out and that there are uncapped artesian wells in the vicinity of Honolulu. We understand, however, that the Government is investigating the matter and that the law will be applied.

In Spain, France and Italy great attention has been paid to the control of artesian wells and legislation upon the point is quite voluminous. Wells in those countries are regarded almost in the light of public property and are legislated for accordingly. It is quite probable that a new law on the subject will be passed at the coming Legislature.

VALUE OF THE OPIUM LICENSE.

The question of license or non-license of opium is one which will play a considerable figure in the next Legislature. It is necessary, in order to argue upon the question intelligently, to understand what has been done in the past and what has been the experience of the Hawaiian Government in the matter of licensing opium.

The Civil Code, promulgated in 1859, put an ad valorem duty of fifteen per cent. on the drug. In 1860 an opium license was granted for the sale of opium to Chinamen in Honolulu and Lahaina, and this remained in force till 1874. This license was sold at auction. In that year the Act was amended and the importation and sale of opium was restricted to the Board of Health. For ten years the opium license was a constant bone of contention in the Legislature till, in 1886, the Minister of the Interior, with the consent of the King in Cabinet Council, was authorized to grant a license upon payment of $30,000. This brought about the celebrated bribery case in which the King was proved to have received seventy odd thousand dollars as an equivalent for giving his consent. It was about the last straw to the camel's back, and led directly to the revolution of 1887. The iniquity of that bill lay in the fact that, as far as the license itself was concerned, it could not be put up to auction, but the King and his Minister of Interior might make what they could out of it. It was a direct incentive to corruption.

The value of the license during the period from 1860 to 1874 increased from $2002 to $28,000, at which sum it was knocked down at auction to Messrs. Loo Ngawk and Aswan.

The probable amount to be obtained from a license will hardly exceed that sum, should the coming Legislature decide to pass a licensing bill. There would, in addition to the license, be the duty of 15 per cent. ad valorem, which, supposing as large an amount were at once imported as Chun Lung did in 1886, viz.: $59,000 in round numbers, would produce about $8850. It would not be safe to calculate, therefore, upon a much greater revenue from the sale of the drug than between $28,000 to $40,000.

That seems to be the position in a nutshell from the commercial standpoint. From the moral standpoint there is much to be said, which will bear argument later.

We publish the figures in full in another column. They are the work of Chief Clerk Hassinger of the Interior Department, who has shown his usual industry and accuracy in compiling them.

The election for a Senator to represent Hawaii having resulted in a tie, a new election will have to be held. Notice will have to be given for forty days before the new election can be held. The big island seems likely to be without a senatorial representative during the major part of the coming session.

"THE FINANCE OFFICE BIBLE."

The systematic account keeping in the Finance Department is a credit to the Minister and to his two able associates, Messrs. George Ashley and E. C. Stackable. Every morning the whole condition of affairs in every department of the Government is laid ready for the Minister's eye. He can tell at a glance what money has been expended, what received during the previous day. Thus, entering the department yesterday, it could at once be seen that there was a cash balance on hand of $119,357.93. The report ran as follows:

CURRENT ACCOUNT.

Finance Office.....	$ 94,817 41
Post Office.....	891 61
Custom House.....	16,859 61
Tax Office.....	756 10

LOAN FUND.

Finance Office.....	$14,045 30
Postal Savings Bank.....	68,319 46
Total.....	$82,364 76

Alongside of this resume there are daily reports from each department. Thus the post-office reports a balance on hand of $734.86, receipts January 15. Stamp sales $133.63, box rent $23, and general postage $0.02. In all, a cash balance of $891.61. The Custom House reports for duties on goods, storage, passports, pilotage, etc. The tax-assessor makes his daily return for all the taxes received. The Water Works reports for water rates, market and electric lights. The Land Bureau gives its land sales, rents, etc., and the Interior and Foreign offices report their daily receipts and expenditures.

The Postal Savings Bank also renders a daily account, which stood yesterday as follows:

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK.

Number deposits, 34.....	4418 55

125 certificates outstanding.....	148,962 49
P. M. G. notes outstanding.....	69,000 00
Total.....	$790,743 43

Everything is ready by 9:30, and the whole set of statements make what is facetiously called the "Finance Office Bible."

The exactitude and planning of details are entirely due to Mr. George Ashley, the Registrar of Public Accounts. The Finance Office is the pivot upon which the whole machinery of government revolves. That it should be so ably and simply conducted is a matter of great satisfaction. Without accuracy in keeping the accounts and without constant supervision of books in all departments grave errors could creep in. We are given to understand that the books of all the departments named are posted up to date. We doubt whether many private commercial enterprises are conducted as carefully as the Finance Department.

SPEAKING of the postoffice on Monday we mentioned that the senders were more frequently to blame than the officials who handled the mails. Statistics from the United States emphasize this statement. The Railway Mail Service officials handled in 1894 the huge number of 10,377,875,040 packages or letters and only made 1,166,682 mistakes, or one mistake for every 8894 packages. Whereas the senders, says Bradstreet, deposited in the mails during the year 10,907,151 packages which were not addressed to any postoffice, or so insufficiently, incorrectly or illegibly addressed as to render their delivery to the addressee impossible until information as to the intention of the senders was secured, and of these 4,244,846 could not be forwarded to the addressee because the intention of the senders could not be ascertained.

The question of cemeteries was treated of in the Board of Health meeting yesterday. The present cemeteries are crowded. A suitable place should be set aside for this purpose which cannot possibly contaminate our water supply, as the President of the Board of Health very justly says. But we are surprised that some member of the Board of Health did not suggest the advisability of erecting a crematory. A city of the size of Honolulu should have such an institution. It is cleaner, healthier for those who remain and move in accord with the progress of modern thought than the cemeteries which ought to be of the past.

A CERTAIN section of our Hilo fellow citizens seem to have a craze for decentralization, as they call it. What they really want is centralization of government in Hilo. We very much question whether the rest of the island of Hawaii wants to be run by a narrow Hilo clique. That in the past there may have been dereliction of duty on the part of the then government is possible. The country districts have not always been looked after as they should be. But the present Government has assuredly given every attention to the country districts, and the members of the government by frequent personal inspection make themselves well acquainted with what is actually needed by the districts. A man who knows the whole needs of a country is far more just in apportioning expenditures than he, who only is acquainted with his little local needs. As a fact Hilo has more than its share of the general taxation. Judge Austin's rejoinder seems to fit the case well. If the island of Hawaii were to set to work and pay all its own government expenses, it would have only $15,000 left out of its taxes for the many needed improvements, not in Hilo alone, but throughout the whole island.

THERE seems to be much dissatisfaction about the band not going to Kapiolani Park to play at the races. The contention is that the Kapiolani Park track has been leased to a private individual and therefore the band cannot be allowed to go. The fact is that the bulk of the public will be out at the races and it would be for the benefit of the public to have it play at the park. The argument doesn't hold together, for the band does sometimes play at private entertainments. The band is for the public and should play for the benefit of the greatest number.

Now that the new market is in working order it is about time that the Tramway Company should run a car there. The track is laid and a regular car would be a great boon to the public. This car need not be run for every hour of the day, but at such times as the public are likely to need it. We have been long expecting that the company would see the necessity of this change, but as it is apparently oblivious of a very great public need we venture to call attention to it. Not only would it be a convenience, but there is no doubt but that such a car would pay.

A VERY marked feature on the streets lately has been the number of drunken girls. This is a very sad sight and one which should call forth the earnest work of all those who are interested in the Hawaiian as a race. The liquor is not, as far as we can learn, consumed in the saloons, but is obtained from other sources. Our religious bodies should do their utmost to stop or mitigate this evil. In this direction the Salvation Army should be invaluable.

TODAY is the anniversary of the establishment of the Provisional Government—virtually of the Republic—a day to be long remembered in the annals of Hawaii. The Republic has vindicated itself before the world and stands today on a firm and steady basis—and on this basis it will stay till annexation to the Great Republic comes. Then we shall celebrate Annexation Day.

The recent panic in New York is reported to have been a very serious one. The losses are estimated at one thousand million dollars. The panic also affected the Continental Bourses and the London Stock Exchange.

Timely Topics

JANUARY 8, 1896.

STEADY GRIND—"I have learned from observation" says Chauncey Depew, "that three things surely happen to a man who works without relaxation. In the first place he becomes nervous, irritable and hard to get along with. In the second place the grade of his work falls off, and he is liable to err in his judgment. In the third place he dies suddenly." These remarks of the famous after dinner speaker we consider not only decided applicable in the sense in which they are intended, but in the way of a great many of the manufacturers that are constantly placing inferior goods on the market and claiming them as superior to the product of older and better known houses. This is especially true of cutlery. There are houses who place this class of goods on the market that are made up for show and sale only, but whose wear is warranted only until they have been once scoured. This is not the case with the goods of well known and established houses whose reputation depends upon the wear of goods.

They pride themselves on what they make being made of the best material that money and experience can turn out. The John Russell Cutlery Company have a reputation that is envied by many and equalled by few. Ex S. S. Australia we received a consignment of their high grade cutlery consisting of carvers (in cases), slicing, kitchen, butcher, hunting and cake knives, as well as complete sets for the dinner from the fish course to the desert. Agate Iron Ware is too well known to need any comment on our part. Suffice it to that we have "it" in Agate Iron Ware. The Bradley and Hubbard Company have been so rushed with orders that they have found it impossible to meet and turn out the work as fast as the orders were received. If you desire something new in these goods we can accommodate you, and the designs sent us are the newest of the new in both lamps and chandeliers.

BOAT RACES IN FUTURE.

Local Clubs Agitating for a Race Course in the Harbor.

Straight-away Course Mile and a Half to be Dredged—Subscription for the Purpose.

A proposition is now before the Myrtle and Healan boat clubs which, if carried out, will very materially affect all boat races in the future. Roughly stated, it is to arrange a straight-away course in the harbor obviating the necessity of going to Pearl Harbor to race, and of using the present unsatisfactory course out to the bell buoy.

Between the quarantine station and the cattle pen is a sand bar connecting the deep water of the harbor proper with that on the other side.

It is proposed to dredge this out and connect the two bodies of deep water, making room for a fine rowing course of a mile and a half in length, the only perceptible curve being about where the Bennington now lies. The dredging will be such as to make the water over the bar about two feet at low tide.

If the proposition can be carried out, there is a new era for boating in Honolulu. A course immediately in front of the wharves is all that could be wished for.

One of the greatest obstacles to the new course is the transportation of immigrants from the quarantine station to the mainland in carriages; this will be materially interfered with.

Enthusiasts in both the Myrtle and Healan boat clubs are working up the dredging matter, and will have it ready for presentation to their respective clubs in the near future. A subscription will be taken up among the merchants and public generally for the purpose mentioned, and it is reasonable to expect liberal contributions, as the measure will, if properly carried out, be of great interest to all concerned.

Nuptials of Miss Marie Afong and A. S. Humphreys.

The marriage of Miss Marie Afong to Abram S. Humphreys took place at the home of the bride, Nuuanu avenue, at 8 o'clock last night, Rev. Douglas P. Birnie officiating. Dr. C. B. Cooper acted as best man and witness for the groom, while Captain F. B. McStocker performed the same service for Miss Afong. Miss Lydia McStocker and Henry Afong were maid and groom of honor.

Chief Justice Judd gave away the bride. The wedding was private, none but the family and connections being present. After the ceremony a delightful supper was served in the spacious dining room. Music, dancing and a general good time followed. The presents received were numerous, useful, and showed a great deal of taste. Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys will live in the cottage on the Afong premises just above the family home.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The Court of Honor at the World's Fair—who that saw it ever can forget it? Surpassing the many other wonders by which it was surrounded it will be forever treasured by the millions who viewed it. Magnificent, artistic and sublime, it commanded the admiration of every beholder. Cherished in the minds of multitudes its glories cannot fade.

Upon its snowy peristyle flashed the motto, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

The truth about baking powders at the Fair was the award of highest honors to

Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

The award was conferred for superior leavening strength, purity and general excellence. The Jury of Awards was headed by the Chief Chemist of the United States Agricultural Department.

Since the World's Fair award—the gold medal—the highest testimonial given for superlative merit in baking powders, has been conferred on Dr. Price's at the California Midwinter Fair.

The unprecedented victories won by Dr. Price's at all the great fairs and its phenomenal growth in popular favor have established it as

ELECTION FOR SENATOR.

H. L. Holstein Arrives and Will Make a Contest.

H. L. Holstein, one of the candidates in the recent election for Senator on Hawaii, arrived by the Likelike yesterday. Mr. Holstein came down to contest the election and has employed attorney L. A. Thurston to look after his interests. The official returns as received by the Minister of the Interior show that an equal number of votes were cast for Mr. Holstein and Mr. Young. One vote cast at Honolulu for Young was not marked right and will, no doubt, be thrown out. If this is done Holstein will have a majority of one and consequently be declared elected.

The contest to be made by Mr. Holstein is not on personal grounds or because any degree of ill feeling prevails against his opponent, Mr. Young. On the contrary Mr. Holstein speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Young, but thinks the big island should be represented by a local man.

Mr. Young said last night that if he had known of the now evident desire of the people on Hawaii to be represented by a local man, the overtures made to him to be a candidate would have been refused. In any event he would not run again, if the election was declared a tie. Mr. Young spoke highly of Mr. Holstein and believed he would make a capable representative.

NEW SERPENTINE RACE.

Description of the Latest Game for Amateur Exhibitions.

The Local Athletic Club will Likely Introduce the Play Here—Said to be a Very Spirited Contest.

For a race of 100 yards, place ten flagstaves in line, the first ten feet from the starting point and the others ten feet apart, the last being ten feet from the goal. Each pole should be surmounted by a small flag, which will add to the beauty and interest of the scene. Now for the manner of running. Supposing the runners to have toed the starting-line with their left foot, the left knee should be bent, the body inclined forward, and the right hand raised above the level of the right shoulder. When the start is given, bring the right arm smartly downward; it will give you an impetus to make off. Pass the first staff on your left side, the second on your right, the third on your left, the fourth on your right, the fifth on your left, the sixth on your right, the seventh on your left, the eighth on your right, the ninth on your left, and finally, the tenth on your right. From here make the best of your time in getting to the winning post. This finishes the ordinary serpentine race.

A variation of the game is known as the rotary serpentine race, the object of which is to make a complete circle around each flagstaff. This, performed in an ordinary way, would make you giddy—a thing to be avoided. Observe, therefore, the directions laid down, and the result will be, instead, a pleasurable one. Start as before, passing the first staff on the left, encircle it by passing to the front of it, then, retreating backward, pass it on the left again. Running diagonally across, pass the staff on the right, encircle it by retreating backward when at the front again. Run across to the third staff and pass it on the left, encircling the staff backward as before, and then run across to the fourth staff. Pass it on the right. Follow out these directions with the remaining flagstaves, taking care to encircle each backward, and, in addition to the above directions, passing the fifth staff on the left side, the sixth on the right, the seventh on the left, the eighth on the right, the ninth on the left, and the tenth and last on the right. Then sprint to the winning post.

No one can be too loving, or sympathetic, or tender, or generous. All these gracious impulses are to be rejoiced in and cherished. They constitute the grace and beauty of character, and are the very well springs of human happiness. It is only when they lack the guiding hand of reason to direct them into safe channels that their natural and good results are changed into harmful ones.

Hugo Kawelo was arrested yesterday afternoon for obstructing justice. Mounted patrolman Ludlorf arrested a native at Kakaako for drunkenness and was in the act of taking him to the police station, when Kawelo and others snatched the man away from him. The patrolman went to the station, reported the matter and, returning with Captain Renken, arrested the ringleader.

The Hawaiian Electric Company's refrigerator will receive by the Alameda fresh California oysters, celery, Eastern and Coast cauliflower, salmon, butter, cheese, all kinds of fruits, etc. The company will also receive a lot of turkeys, chickens, etc., on ice. These will be received regularly and kept on ice.

IN THE BEGINNING Of the new year, when the winter season of close confinement is only half gone, many find that their health begins to break down, that the least exposure threatens sickness. It is then, as well as at all other times, and with people even in good health, that the following facts should be remembered, namely: That Hood's Sarsaparilla leads everything in the way of medicines; that it accomplishes the greatest cures in the world, and requires the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to the preparation of the proprietary medicine. Does not this conclusively prove, if you are sick, that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine for you to take?

"INFLUENCE OF BOOKS."

Advantages Offered Pupils in Public Schools by the Library.

EDITOR ADVERTISER:—In an article entitled, "Influence of Books," in this morning's issue of your paper, you say: "We think that the advantages of the Honolulu Library should be extended to some of the upper classes of the Royal, Kaulawela, Pohukaina and other schools, free of charge, the nomination of the pupils to be with the Principal."

It affords me pleasure to say that the measure you recommend was adopted by the Library Association several years ago, and has been in successful operation ever since. Any pupil in the Government schools, on the presentation of a proper certificate from his or her teacher, has not only the use of the reading-room and reference department, but the privilege of drawing books from the circulating department as well. Miss Burbank, the Librarian, takes great interest in this branch of her work. Boys and girls are not left entirely to their own crude fancy in the selection of books, but are guided and helped in choosing such reading as combines pleasure and profit. When necessary, the librarian uses the authority and discretion vested in her by refusing to give out any particular book that she is satisfied it is not desirable for the particular applicant to have.

It is understood to be partly in consideration of this service rendered the cause of public education that the Legislature has remitted certain taxes and charges for which private parties and business enterprises are liable.

Very respectfully,
C. T. RODGERS.

DR. BOWIE ON CHOLERA.

Emphatic Denial That It Was Brought Here by Belgic.

LOCAL DISEASE FROM FILTH.

President W. O. Smith of the Health Board interviewed—A Review of the Late Epidemic, Its Causes and Introduction—Board of Health Certain.

And now comes Dr. Bowie and emphatically denies that the disease prevalent here a short time ago was Asiatic cholera, but was a species of cholera with local origin from dirt and filth.

Dr. Bowie was physician on the Belgic which is said to have brought cholera to Honolulu, but he again denies and reiterates and repeats that the Belgic never had any cholera on board in her life, or more particularly from Yokohama to Honolulu at the time mentioned.

Dr. Bowie is a through passenger by the Coptic and is bound for San Francisco to join the Doric or return to the Belgic, the latter vessel being expected at the Coast some time in February.

PRESIDENT SMITH INTERVIEWED.

In connection with the above, President W. O. Smith, of the Board of Health, was interviewed and spoke as follows:

"The physicians and officials of the Board of Health are satisfied that cholera was introduced here by or through the passengers who arrived by the steamship Belgic, August 9th, and that the waters of the harbor became infected from the excreta of several of the passengers on that vessel who had cholera. One of the passengers died on the morning of the arrival of the vessel at this port. One was sick at the time he was removed to the quarantine station and vomited in the sea when being taken over. After reaching the quarantine station the sick man was taken with violent vomiting and purging, accompanied by cramps. He was immediately separated from the other immigrants. A young Chinaman accompanied him as nurse. The sick man died the next day, August 11. Upon the following day (August 12) the young Chinaman who had attended this case was himself taken suddenly ill and died the next morning at 9 a.m. (August 13th) after an illness of only fifteen hours. He was not seen by a physician, but his symptoms were described by Mr. McVeigh, the officer in charge of the quarantine station, as follows: 'Violent purging and vomiting, cramps in abdomen and extremities. He became rapidly emaciated and his body was cold.'

"There was overwhelming evidence that the waters of the harbor became infected shortly after the arrival of the Belgic, and not in a single case could the infection be traced to the provisions or freight imported. Affidavits taken of several of the Chinese passengers, one of them being an old resident of Maui returning to his island home, distinctly stated that two of the Chinese passengers who died on the voyage were affected in the same way as those who died at the quarantine station, viz: vomiting, purging and cramps. As a result of the evidence and circumstances of the case, there can be no question as to the fact that the steamship Belgic brought the disease of cholera here on that occasion."

NEWS OF THE VOLCANO.

More Active Than at First Reported—Will Soon Overflow.

Purser Matthews, of the steamer W. G. Hall, reports the volcano in a much more active state than was at first reported. Just previous to the departure of the Hall from Kailua, Manager Lee, of the Volcano House, telephoned the purser that the lake was rising very rapidly, and if it continued at the same rate for three or four days longer, would overflow the banks. In a private letter from Honolulu, L. S. Augst, well known here, writes in similar strain. He says Peter Lee is the happiest man on the big island and is ready to conduct parties to the lake, with the incidental remark that all who desire to witness the grand sight should avail themselves of the opportunity without delay.

The Alameda, due here tomorrow from the Coast, is expected to bring a large tourist party and several returning islanders that have not seen Kilauea in an active state. These will probably leave by the Kinau Tuesday. As before mentioned J. J. Williams is arranging an excursion to the volcano for the Kinau, a number having signified their intention of going by the steamer Tuesday.

Death of Ruth Richards.

The home of Hon. and Mrs. E. E. Richards, Hilo, was saddened on the 10th by the death of their only daughter, Ruth Evelyn, aged two years and seven months. The little one was ill only ten days. She was an exceptionally bright child and the joy of her parents. The blow was a severe one to the family and caused much bereavement to Mr. and Mrs. Richards and their large circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral was held the same afternoon, Rev. C. W. Hill officiating, and was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends.

GERMANS WILL CELEBRATE.

Music and Dancing and Banquet Next Saturday Evening.

Saturday, January 18th, will be a joyful one for the Germans of this city, as it will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the proclamation of King William I of Prussia as Emperor of Germany at Versailles by all the German sovereigns.

The subjects of the German Emperor in this city will celebrate the event in a becoming manner. At Independence Park pavilion the whole afternoon will be devoted to music, dancing and other pleasant occupations, full arrangements for which have not been made as yet. It is needless to say, however, from expressions heard on all sides that the occasion will be an enthusiastic one.

In the evening a big dinner will be given at the Hawaiian hotel to cap the climax to the proceedings of the day. The committee who are giving their attention to the matter is composed of Consul J. F. Hackfeld, F. A. Schaefer, H. Renjes, E. Suhr, G. Kunst and H. Schultze.

THE WORLD RUNS AWAY FROM US.

The other day we had a talk with a man who knew as little of the world around him as a baby. Yet he was a man of naturally fine intelligence. He had just been relieved from prison. Ten years ago he was incarcerated under a life sentence. Recently, however, circumstances had arisen which proved his innocence, and he obtained his freedom. But nothing seemed as before. He had been stationary while the world moved on. Many of his old friends were dead, and all were changed. A big slice of his career was lost, and worse than lost. Could he ever make it up? No, never. Besides, although he had committed no offence, the mere fact that he had been convicted of one, would always place him at a disadvantage.

Different as it is in all outward conditions long illness produces results which resemble those of enforced solitude. When compared to our homes by disease we are virtually out of the world. Friends may, and do, pity us; but they do not lie down by our side and suffer with us. Ah! no. They go their own ways and leave us alone. In the midst of company we are still alone. Enjoyment, food, sleep, fresh air, movement, work, etc., those are for them, not for us. Alas! for the poor prisoner whose jailer is some relentless disease. Who shall open the iron doors and set him free? "I never had any rest or pleasure." So writes a man whose letter we have just finished reading. "In the early part of 1888," he says, "a strange feeling came over me. I felt heavy, drowsy, languid, and tired. Something appeared to be wrong with me, and I couldn't account for it. I had a foul taste in the mouth, my appetite failed, and what I did eat lay on me like a stone. Soon I became afraid to eat, as the act was always followed by pain and distress. Sometimes I had a sensation of choking in the throat as if I could not swallow. I was swollen, too, around the body, and got about with difficulty owing to increasing weakness. "At the pit of my stomach was a hungry, craving sensation, as though I needed support from food; yet the little I took did not abate this feeling. My sleep was broken, and I awoke in the morning unrefreshed. For four years I continued in this wretched state before I found relief."

This letter is signed by Mr. Charles H. Smith, of 19, New City Road, Glasgow, and dated February 15th, 1895. Before we hear how he was at last delivered from the slavery of illness, let us listen to the words of a lady on the same theme: Mrs. Mary Ann Rusling, of Station Road, Merton, near Lambeth, in a letter dated January 3rd, 1895. Mrs. Rusling says she suffered in a similar way for over fifteen years. Her hands and feet were cold and clammy, she was pale and bloodless. She had pain in the left side and palpitation, and her breathing was short and hurried. No medicines availed to help her until two years ago. "At that time," she says, "our minister, the late Rev. Mr. Watson, told me of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, and urged me to make a trial of it. I did so, and presently felt great relief. It was not long before the bad symptoms all left me, and I gradually got strong. I keep in good health, and have pleasure in recommending to others the remedy which did so much for me."

Mr. Smith was completely cured by the same remedy, and says had he known of it sooner he would have been saved years of misery. The real ailment in both these cases was indigestion and dyspepsia, with its natural consequences. Throughout the civilized world its course is marked by a hundred forms of pain and suffering. Men and women are torn to pieces by it as vessels are by the rocks on which they are driven by tempests. So comprehensive and all-embracing is it that we may almost say that there is no other disease. It signifies life transformed into death, bread turned into poison. Watch for its earliest signs—especially the feeling of weariness, languor or fatigue, which announces its approach. Prevention is better than cure. But, by the use of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, cure is always possible; and poor captives in the loathsome dungeons of illness are daily delivered as the hand of the good German nurse swings open the doors.

Pictures for the Museum.

D. Howard Hitchcock, the artist, will paint a series of volcano pictures for the museum at Kamehameha. These will represent the changes of Kilauea since 1889 and will prove very interesting studies. The last picture which was on show in the window of the Pacific Hardware Co., was sent to J. D. Spreckels & Co., San Francisco, by the Coptic yesterday.

NEW YORK HAS A PANIC.

Losses Estimated at One Thousand Million of Dollars.

AMERICAN CLERGY AGAINST WAR.

Venezuela Bill Passed by Senate—Immediate Action Ordered to Protect Treasury Reserve—Free Coinage of Silver—War Feeling Dying Out.

The following important budget of news was brought by the Coptic on Tuesday:

There is a general disquiet in business circles, owing to heavy foreign selling caused by a semi-panic in the New York market, which has led to several prominent failures. President Cleveland, in a fresh message to Congress, states that the continued export of gold demands immediate action to protect the treasury reserve. The United States Senate has passed a resolution ordering the Finance Committee to inquire into the expediency of opening the mints to the free coinage of silver. The Senate has passed the Venezuela bill, which was brought forward by the House of Representatives. The losses caused by the recent panic in New York have been estimated at one thousand million of dollars, and the panic is ascribed to President Cleveland's policy with regard to Venezuela. The panic has reflected upon the London and Continental Bourses. The New York Tribune has entirely changed its note and urges peace, and pulpit utterances throughout America deprecate war. It is believed in Washington that there will eventually be a peaceful and honorable settlement.

WELCOME THE PRESIDENT.

Natives on Hawaii Show Respect by Holding a Mass Meeting.

An extract from a letter received from Kau by the steamer W. G. Hall yesterday, dated January 11, contains the following theme of interest regarding the movements of President Dole and party: "The natives in Kona were very highly pleased to see the President, and were to have held a mass meeting welcoming him to their district on Thursday or Friday. Had the natives known he was coming there would have been a large gathering on the wharf. This trip of President Dole will make him very popular with the natives. Several of the prominent natives have remarked as to his very congenial manner, making no distinction whatever as to the people with whom he talks, shaking hands with the poor and rich alike. It is a fact that many of the natives had an idea that he was puffed up with his own importance and disliked every kanaka, but their minds have been changed since seeing and meeting him."

HILO TEACHERS' UNION.

Quarterly Meeting Held at Hilo on the 10th.

ANNIVERSARY OF PESTALOZZI.

Society Sincerely Regret the Retirement of A. T. Atkinson as Inspector General—Interesting Program Carried Out—Vote of Thanks, Etc.

The quarterly meeting of the Hilo Teachers' Union was held January 10th at the Hilo Boarding School, in accordance with the invitation kindly given by Mrs. Terry last October. There are thirty on the roll, twenty-four of whom were present, besides the Inspector-General and eight guests, making thirty-three at the meeting.

Mr. Townsend opened with prayer. The members of the Program Committee were Mrs. Terry, Miss Weight, Miss Mattie Richardson. At Mrs. Terry's suggestion the roll-call quotations were taken from Shakespeare, as: "And often times excusing of a fault Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse."

Or, "All the year were playing holidays, To sport would be as tedious as to work."

Or, "Devise, wit, write, pen."

And many others brief and apt.

After reading the minutes the secretary reported the sending of a letter from the society to Mr. Atkinson, conveying their sincere regret that he had felt obliged to retire from the position which brought him so often among us, and expressing the hope that he would be able to keep on still with some active but not over-fatiguing duty with the Board of Education. The program was represented as follows:

Mr. Ray's class of nine walked in, five miles, from Papaikou, and had to walk back during the afternoon. They were volunteers, as one could hardly require a class to take such a journey.

The questions embraced a number of arithmetical subjects, including fractions, as: How many nails in shoes for four horses? Answers varied, because some thought a shoe had six, others eight, nails. How many apples must be cut up among six boys to give each boy two-thirds of an apple? etc., etc. The exercise took about half an hour.

Miss Coan presented a class of six in Fourth Reader. Their subject was the study of poetical forms under three or more heads. (1.) Poetical inversions and changes in word forms. (2.) Rhythm. (3.) Rhyme. Their definitions were accompanied by suitable examples and by scanning vocally and on the boards. They appeared self-possessed and gained some compliments for their efforts.

Miss Severance read a well-prepared paper on "Drawing," from Mr. Swain of Laupahoehoe. Though he was absent, he had provided some good illustrations on the board, and his work was very clearly and nicely arranged.

Miss Deyo, in her paper on "Closing Exercises," gave some excellent suggestions about the material to be used and the methods of preparing and presenting such material; select reading lessons the children like; try mental arithmetic for one exercise, as it is rather "taking"; teach carefully until pupils understand the words of songs, making reading lessons of them if necessary. As much as possible, however, keep the drilling of show performances out of school houses. Provide enough of show to entertain the eye among so many in the audience who do not well understand English, and who grow weary of recitations.

At the close of the reading Mrs. Terry invited the teachers to remain through the noon hour with her, and forthwith was produced, on dainty china, a delicious luncheon, including ice cream, for all of which our hostess received many thanks.

Miss West's class in Second Reader appeared next. They did well in bringing out pronouns to be used in place of various nouns presented in sentences, by the teacher. Mr. Townsend praised the method of placing the sentence, or illustration, before the children in advance of the explanation. In other words, working from the object to the result. Miss West also developed the proposition by placing objects in different positions and requiring an answer to her questions. "Where is my book, on your head or behind your back?" etc.

Mr. Maltere had a long and well-compiled paper, with many blackboard illustrations, on letter-writing.

After that came a surprise. The 12th of January is Pestalozzi's birthday. Mr. Townsend had expressed a wish that the teachers might celebrate it in some way, and when the head of the Programme Committee discovered that the Inspector had a paper on the subject, she persuaded him to read it. It was very interesting. The selection of subject matter and the impressive manner of reading showed the author of the paper to be an enthusiastic admirer of Pestalozzi, the man who led by love.

The question-box followed. Would you require pupils to correct careless work on the boards? Would you require a topic or heading to all the work pupils put on the boardside?

The meeting adjourned with a vote of thanks to Mrs. Terry for the entertainment in her pleasant home.

PHYSICIAN FOR NORTH KONA.

Permission Granted Chinese to Fish in Ponds Near the Prison—Sale of Fish at the Market—No More Business on Sidewalks—Garbage Boxes, Etc.

President Smith occupied the chair at the regular weekly session of the Health Board Wednesday. Present with him were Drs. Day, Wood and Emerson, Members Keliipio, Waterhouse, Lansing, and Health Agent Reynolds.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

Dr. Monsarrat's report of bullock slaughtered was read and filed. It showed 7,580 bullock slaughtered during the year 1895.

President Smith informed the Board in regard to the strike of fish-sellers at the new market. Those who had refused to pay for stalls had been made to vacate.

There was discussion as to whether dried fish should be sold without regulation. There was no law governing such sale. It was a question as to whether the public health would be protected by making the sale of all kinds of dried fish obligatory at the new market. The Chinese, after Thursday, will not be allowed to sell fish on the sidewalks, but there is nothing to prevent them from doing so inside of buildings. President Smith was opposed to the peddling of fish. Peddlers of vegetables will not be interfered with, as vegetables could not be eaten raw. It was not so with fish; the Hawaiians were in the habit of eating them raw. Matters at the market were in a slightly mixed condition, but would undoubtedly be straightened out before the next meeting.

Dr. Emerson was opposed to making any change in the regulations that would inconvenience the general public. Unless there was some good reason for the change, he would not favor it. Fish Inspector Keliipio was instructed to prevent the sale of any kind of fish that, in his discretion, was unfit for use.

In the matter of the petition of certain Chinese for privilege to fish in the ponds lying between the prison and quarantine grounds, Dr. Wood moved to remove all restrictions on fishing in the harbor and ponds. He was not in favor of fishing in the harbor; his motion was to get the restrictions placed on fishing during the late epidemic removed, then the Board could act as was deemed expedient on the question of fishing in the harbor proper.

There followed a general discussion as to the bounds constituting the harbor. President Smith said he was opposed to fishing in the harbor, and cited that fish fed on refuse of the harbor and might be the means of poisoning those who ate them.

Dr. Day quoted remarks made by Prof. Maxwell. That gentleman stated that fish fed on sewage contained poisonous matter.

President Smith hoped the motion to remove all restrictions on fishing would not pass. There was less chance of the ponds spoken of becoming contaminated than the harbor.

Dr. Wood said that as long as cholera existed in China and Japan, and vessels from those ports landed immigrants at the quarantine station and washed ship in the harbor there was danger of the harbor and surrounding ponds becoming contaminated.

As an amendment, Member Lansing moved that the request made by the Chinese be granted. This was carried.

Member Lansing thought the Board should take immediate action to have the ponds mentioned filled up.

Member Waterhouse called attention to the fact that surface water from rains was drained into the reservoirs up the valley.

Agent Reynolds was authorized to make a special investigation into the matter and report in detail to the Board, so the Minister of the Interior could be intelligently informed of the situation.

Agent Reynolds had informed the President of the crowded condition of the different cemeteries. More ground would soon be needed for burial purposes. President Smith said the question of providing a suitable burial ground with area sufficient and in such a place as to prevent contamination of the water supply would prove difficult.

He cited various places in different portions of the city. The Sanitary Committee was instructed to make a report of places where dead bodies were now interred, with recommendation for the future.

The President thought garbage boxes placed on the sidewalks waiting for the carts were unsightly and offensive. Agent Reynolds was authorized to inform the inspectors to see that this custom was discontinued.

The matter of tree-planting on Molokai came up. It was deemed desirable to send some person there and see to planting. Commissioner Marsden will be asked to furnish a reliable forester to go to the settlement, taking all necessary plants for the commencement of a nursery. The Board authorized an expenditure to cover expense of this.

Health Agent Reynolds was instructed to sell the windmill at the Kalihi experimental station, as it was no longer required there.

An additional odorless excavator was ordered purchased, at $390, with tires to be five inches wide.

The old immigration depot, which was used during the epidemic as a cholera hospital, was taken over permanently by the Board of Health.

A drain sufficient to carry off surface water on Kukui street was ordered constructed.

The owners of the property on which the old fishmarket stood and from that point to the King-street bridge will be notified that the same are a menace to the public health and must be filled in at once, or the Board will take steps to have it done.

Dr. Crane, who came to the islands recently, was appointed physician at North Kona, to date from February 1st. He was very highly recommended by Dr. Goodhue.

Dr. Herbert's biennial report of the Insane Asylum contained several recommendations. On account of Dr. Herbert's absence the report was referred to the Committee on Insane Asylum for report at next meeting.

Charles McCarthy, Kirk B. Porter and James Arundel joined Company D last night.
