MAUI NEWS.

STRAY SCRIBBLINGS.

Maui has been extremely dull during the past week.

Weather prophets for some time have been wagging their heads and suggesting storm, and we got it during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with a threatening kona wind during Tuesday. From Wednesday P.M. to Thursday A.M., less than twenty-four hours, the rain-gauge in Wailuku showed 1.81 inches.

Poison and its chemical analyses was the talk of Saturday, the 15th instant.

Mr. C. B. Wells, recently manager of Waihee, took charge of Wailuku Plantation on Thursday of last week.

O. T. Shipman, of Hawaii, made a flying visit to Haleakala Ranch during the same day.

There will occur a general meeting of the Union Rifle and Gun Club, at Kahului, on April 25th.

The Makawao Literary Association will hold a Tennyson evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ogg, of Paia, during Friday night, the 28th instant.

People are already beginning to abandon Maui for Chicago. Several depart by the next California steamer.

The Makawao Road Board are building a good thoroughfare across Maliko Gulch; they are at present working at the bottom of the ravine on the Hamakuapoko side, and expect soon to take up the Haiku slope.

To-night at the Wailuku Court House the Maui Annexation Club holds its second meeting. The Kahului R. R. Co.'s train will run from Paia to accommodate Makawao people, and will return after the assembly. The special business to be accomplished is the election of delegates to be dispatched to Honolulu.

Club lists have continued to be in circulation during the past week and many new names have been added.

Most of the Portuguese seem fond of the idea of this country becoming a part of the American Republic; many of their compatriots have visited America and give glowing reports of the prosperity of the country.

The Hawaiians in opposition continue to take around papers, soliciting signatures of men, women and children. The annexationists on the contrary are only adults 20 years of age and upwards.

Col. Spreckels' arrival on Maui is soon expected, and the announcement of his opinion is anxiously awaited by some.

Rasteis, not Rasters, is the name of the sailor who died on the Forest Queen last week.

PORT ITEMS.

On Wednesday the Claudine brought the news of distinguished arrivals in Honolulu, Messrs. Bishop, Spreckels, S. T. Alexander and W. Kinney. What these gentlemen advocate and what they are about to do has been the chief topic of gossip since then.

The Hawaiian bark Leahi, Nelson master, sailed for San Francisco on Wednesday the 19th inst. She took 14,150 bags of sugar, Paia, Haiku and H. C. Co.'s, as cargo.

The brigantine Consuelo, Capt. Jacobsen, arrived during the same day, with half cargo of merchandise. She made the voyage in 13 days. She returns to the Coast today laden with 6400 bags of Haiku Sugar Co.'s production.

Weather—Delightful to-day, after a rough spell.

As will be seen by a dispatch published elsewhere in this paper, South Carolina is going into the business of liquor selling, and after July 1st private firms must go out of the trade. The dispatch says little about the details of the plan, and they may be faulty. We believe, however, that in full State control is to be sought the present solution of the liquor problem.

The Portuguese demand for representation in the Councils of the Government is perfectly fair and reasonable, and it will undoubtedly be acceded to as soon as a vacancy occurs. The Portuguese have proved themselves an invaluable industrial element in the community and the cordial support of their 4000 votes is a large factor in the strength of the annexation cause.

The marked success of Saturday night's concert is a sign of promise for the time when Honolulu shall have an oratorio society. There is an abundance of talent for the solo parts, and when one considers the work done by the Kamehameha and Punahou Glee Clubs, the girls of Kawaiahao Seminary and the church choirs, it would seem that there can be no lack of material out of which to build up a good chorus.

The cantata given at Kawaiahao Church Saturday evening afforded one of the most delightful treats in Honolulu's musical annals. Miss Burgess had been training her chorus with painstaking assiduity for months, and when she was called away to the Coast a few weeks hence the work was carried on by the ever kind Mr. Berger. While the music of this cantata is unpretentious, it is very sweet and pleasing. The color effect of the manifold costumes was a delight to the eye, and we have never seen the church so exquisitely and yet so simply decorated. The performance should certainly be repeated, and no one with an eye and ear should miss it.

THE CENSUS OF NEW ZEALAND.

An elaborate report on the results of the last census of the colony of New Zealand, taken in 1891, has just been issued from the Government press, and is a model of what such a report should be. The Australian colonies lead the world in the completeness and accuracy of their statistics.

The total population of New Zealand at that date amounted to 668,651 persons, showing an increase of 48,176 during a period of five years. We regret to see a decline both in the marriage rate and the birth rate of that fine colony, which once led all the Southern colonies in these respects, but has now fallen to the rear. In regard to the occupation of its lands, New Zealand makes a very encouraging exhibit. There were in 1891 43,777 occupied holdings of over one acre each in extent, excluding pastoral leases, being an increase of 20 per cent. in five years. More than this, there has been a steady increase in the proportion of holdings to the number of adult males, from 21 per cent. in 1878 to 26 per cent. in 1891. This is quite different from the state of things in New South Wales.

The result of the Maori census is of special interest, as it shows that the decrease of that branch of the Polynesian race has been checked. The total Maori population in 1891 amounted to 41,993 persons, against 41,969 returned in 1886. As more than 100 Maoris perished in the Tarawera eruption, which took place after the census of 1886, it would seem that there has been a slight increase of that race. The total given above includes 4865 partly of Maori extraction. The number of males exceeded that of females by nearly 20 per cent.

The tendency to decrease, which is shown by the comparative paucity of children, is attributed to the following causes:

"An excessive infant mortality, caused by improper food, exposure, want of ordinary care and cleanliness; the constitutions of the parents debilitated by past debauchery; the practice of placing their sick in the hands of the native doctor or Tohunga (kahuna), instead of applying to the medical officer of the district; the sterility induced by wide-spread immorality among quite young females before marriage; the partial adoption of European habits and costume, and the continual reversion to the habits and costume of barbarism with a system rendered more susceptible to external influences, especially those of a humid and changeable climate, thereby tending to promote the spread of diseases, notably those affecting the respiratory organs; and to a certain extent the continual intertribal marriages, resulting in diminished fruitfulness and enfeebled constitutions."

All the above mentioned causes except the last have been at work among the Hawaiians with deplorable effects, but the improvement among the Maoris gives reason for hope to the friends and well-wishers of this amiable people. It is worthy of remark that the country Maoris who are occupying and cultivating their lands are increasing, while the city Maoris, who are more exposed to foreign vices, especially to drink, are decreasing in number. The moral is obvious.

A STATE SELLS LIQUOR.

South Carolina Goes Into the Trade on an Extensive Basis.

Charleston, S. C., April 5.—There will be no liquor or beer sold in South Carolina except by the State after July 1, 1893. Soon after the passage of the law at the last session of the legislature the liquor dealers of the State formed an association and employed counsel to test its constitutionality. These counsel to-day filed their opinion. The counsel advise the liquor dealers that they prepare to meet the law as valid and constitutional; that in view of the heavy penalties prescribed by the act they cannot advise them to continue selling liquor after July 1. The counsel say that the statute can only be tested after July 1, by the attempt of the State or any of its officers to seize liquors manufactured in any other State and sold here by anyone who has a license to sell liquor. Under the law the State will sell all the liquor and beer sold in South Carolina. Governor Tillman expects to buy the liquors either in Chicago, St. Louis or New York. The act appropriates only $50,000 with which to start business, but the Governor thinks the State can easily get all the credit it wants.

MONTE CARLO BUSINESS.

Larger and More Profitable Last Year than Ever Before in its History.

Nice, April 2.—The receipts of the Monte Carlo Casino during the year, which ended on Friday, were larger than in any other year of its existence. They amounted to 24,000,000 francs, and warranted the announcement of a dividend of 205 francs per share, the largest dividend yet declared. Five hundred franc shares are quoted at more than 2500 francs. The company proposes a plan for splitting every share into five shares, each of a face value of 500 francs, and redistributing the stock on this basis. A similar operation was executed by the company in 1884.

The principal feature of the year's gambling was the number of petty players. The number of English gamblers decreased greatly during the year, that of Russians and Americans increased considerably. German players were more numerous than ever before.

The phonograph is now located in the Thomas block, on King street. Mr. Stoeckle has a big collection of new records which cannot fail to please the general public.

The Anglican Church. Matters Episcopalian Discussed by an Onlooker.

Mr. Editor:—To a stranger arriving in Honolulu some three months ago, as I did, matters in the Anglican Church of Hawaii looked, to say the least, rather queer. The fact that there were two separate services at the Cathedral on Sunday struck me at once as being rather strange in a city no larger than Honolulu; but when, upon inquiry, I found out what I must necessarily believe to be the true state of affairs in the Church I was still more surprised. Surprised to find that the head of the Anglican Church in Hawaii should prove to be such a "meddling old woman" as he was reported to be, and still more surprised to learn that all the troubles of the Anglican Church in Hawaii should date from the inception of Bishop Willis' episcopacy.

Let the reader put him or herself in my place, and what do they see? They see a church divided against itself; three-fourths of the congregation under a minister of their own choosing arrayed against the other fourth under the head of the church itself; an incompleted building, dignified by the name of Cathedral, which in any other city in the world but Honolulu would be deemed a disgrace to denominate as such; two separate and distinct choirs in the same church, with more or less rivalry existing between them; and, worst of all, a general spirit of discontent pervading the whole congregation, leading, in many instances, to personal bickerings and hatred, and still worse, they would learn that this deplorable state of affairs has been continuing for a number of years.

Now, Mr. Editor, some one is to blame for all this scandalous state of affairs. I use the word "scandalous" knowingly, believing that it correctly represents the present condition of affairs in the Anglican Church of the Hawaiian Islands, and I believe it would be so termed by any gathering of Episcopalians in London, New York or elsewhere. I mean that the dissensions in the Episcopal Church in Honolulu, if fully known abroad, would be considered as scandalizing the whole church, and however much some members of the church may dislike to hear the word "scandal" from Bishop Willis' lips or mine, this proposition cannot be gainsayed.

The question naturally arises, "who is to be blamed for all this?" The invariable answer to me has always been "Bishop Willis." From conversations with members of the church, from perusals of the Bishop's numerous legal escapades, in which I find that he has always endeavored to do those things which he ought not to do, instead of the contrary, and from various other sources of information I am led to the belief that I was correctly answered and that Bishop Willis is to blame, and has always been so. That with him alone lies all the responsibility for the present condition of affairs.

While the state of armed neutrality which has of late existed in the church, went on and the Bishop made no aggressive move, matters were comparatively quiescent, but not by any means as they should be. But, of a sudden, the Bishop makes a new move and announces that the Second Congregation, or I may as well term it "the" congregation, must dissolve itself and either immediately incorporate with his own corporal's guard or stay outside the fold. Deliberately and with malice aforethought the Bishop issues an edict which he knows will result in intensifying personal animosity among the members of the church, bringing the Christian religion into shame and disrepute and reviving and adding additional scandal to a matter that was virtually ended as long as he did not interfere with it. And yet, as the head of the church, he is supposed not only to teach but practice Christianity as taught by the meek and lowly Jesus. What would Jesus Himself do in the case were He placed in the position of Bishop Willis? And what about the virtue of charity "that forgiveth all things."

The head of the Anglican Church in Hawaii seems to be so wrapped up in the mantle of his own righteousness that he occasionally, if not quite frequently, forgets to practice what he preaches to his poor tired-out and sleepy little choristers on Sunday evenings.

Well, the Bishop has thrown down the gauntlet and virtually declared war to the knife against the members of the church. One or the other must go to the wall, and it will not be the congregation. Desperate cases require desperate remedies, and I would suggest to the members of the Second Congregation that it was high time that Bishop Willis be given a good dose of the same medicine he is attempting to prescribe for others. I venture to suggest a few medicines which I think will be applicable to the Bishop's present splenetic condition, which has arisen, so I am told, from certain criticisms which have been made on his late attempt to "meddle" in politics. Bishops should never meddle in politics or any other matters which do not concern them. Some of them have lost their heads and others good fat jobs for doing it, and Bishop Willis is in a fair way to lose the latter if he has not already lost the former.

A petition might be gotten up by a special committee appointed for that purpose, signed by all the members of the church on the islands, and forwarded to the Archbishop of Canterbury, stating in full the true condition of affairs in the Islands, and the general dissatisfaction at the course of the Bishop, and requesting him to remove Bishop Willis, or to take such other steps as would result in putting an end to this scandal or controversy, to use a milder expression.

Another suggestion is, that the Board of Trustees close up the Cathedral until such time as the Bishop comes to his senses and acts decently; but I am afraid, from all I hear, that this remedy would take too long in acting to be productive of any practical or immediate benefits.

Still another remedy would be for the Second Congregation to secede from the Anglican and join the American Church. It represents nine-tenths of the intelligence, wealth and business standing of the Episcopal Churches in these islands, and would not want for a church very long: and if they started in to build one it would be finished and paid for in short order. This seems the most natural course to pursue; but annexation will settle this question, as it will many others equally as vexed, and Bishop Willis will not be the only one who will have to hunt fresh fields and pastures anew.

A final remedy, which might be tried in case his symptoms should grow more alarming, would be to petition the Court for the appointment of a guardian for the head of the Anglican Church. It is openly charged that on account of senility he is unable to properly officiate at the services and that he "mumbles" so much that no member of his congregation can understand what he says. I can stand a good deal, but, good Lord, deliver me from a bishop who "mumbles," and I believe that expresses the sentiments of a number of those who attend his services, not because they want to but because they consider it to be their duty to obey their pastors and masters and those in authority over them.

In conclusion, it may be asked what right I have to discuss church matters. The answer is that I have been confirmed in the Episcopal faith by no less a personage than Dr. Tait, late Archbishop of Canterbury, and at that time Bishop of London; that I take a lively interest in church matters, although I am not a regular attendant, and that I hope a little plain speaking at the present time may result in some practical benefit. At any rate, I have said no more than most people think. Geo. Manson.

We are now in a position as of old, to do any and all work in this line, and to guarantee satisfaction.

No work too intricate.

No watch too complicated for us.

The excellent reputation gained in the past for fine work and only such will be maintained at all hazards.

All the World's Fair Hotels demand a cash deposit before they'll look at you or book your name. The much-advertised Hotels may not be the choicest, but they'll get your money.

Join the Pacific Excursion Co., and avoid such risk. Our fee of $5 covers the cash deposit demanded by Hotels. We have 5 Hotels, which have been personally selected by our President, and can be recommended.

WHARF AND WAVE.

DIAMOND HEAD, April 23.—10 P. M.: Weather hazy; wind, light N.E.

The brigantine Consuelo arrived at Kahului last Wednesday, thirteen days from San Francisco. She was towed out to sea again with a full load of sugar for San Francisco by the steamer Claudine last Saturday evening.

The barkentine W. H. Dimond was docked at the O. S. S. Co.'s wharf on Saturday morning.

The barkentine S. G. Wilder, Captain T. H. Griffiths, arrived yesterday, nearly 12 days from San Francisco with general cargo. She arrived off port two hours after the arrival of the bark Ceylon, in consequence of which her turn to load sugar for San Francisco comes after the Ceylon, and may probably keep her waiting for sugar about one or two weeks.

The bark Ceylon, Capt. Calhoun, arrived yesterday, about 14 days from San Francisco. She is docked at Allen & Robinson's wharf.

The Wilder is anchored in the stream. She will dock this morning.

The bark Andrew Welch will finish loading sugar this morning. She will receive the Likelike's sugar to-day.

The barkentine Hilo will take in sugar from the Mikahala this morning. She will complete loading about Wednesday.

The Pele will likely come down from the Marine Railway to-day.

A Sea Captain's Recipe for Plum Duff.

Put your flour in the pan. You want some sour dough. Let it rise. Stir in some baking powder, according to how much you make, so much for a quart, and so much for a pint. You want a bag to put it in; an old stocking is better. Put the plums in the bottom of the bag. Cook it till done. Have the steward put the end with plums next the captain, and the end without the plums next the mate.—[Boston Transcript.

Girls from the Dressmaking Department of Kawaiahao Seminary may be employed to go out sewing by the day or week to do plain dressmaking or sewing.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Captain T. H. Griffiths is in town again.

Mr. A. Herbert has four furnished cottages at Waikiki to rent.

Two new Acts passed by the Councils appear in this issue.

An Act relating to the transportation of lepers appears in this issue.

The Hawaiian Lodge, F. & A. M., will meet this evening for work in the third degree.

The Hawaiian Band will give a concert at Emma Square this evening at the usual hour.

Payment has been stopped on a certificate issued by Bishop & Co.'s bank to Mary W. Crook.

August Herring will be tried on a charge of murder during the May Term of the Circuit Court.

A native writes that natives of Kealia and a part of Lihue have joined the annexation movement.

J. J. Williams, the photographer, will leave for Chicago on the Australia. He will be absent several months.

Messrs. H. P. Baldwin, A. Drier, S. T. Alexander and G. N. Wilcox were passengers on the Mikahala yesterday.

N. S. Sachs has just received a new line of Bengal silkaline draperies, which he is selling at 25 cents a yard.

To-day, at noon, Jas. F. Morgan will hold a pledgee's sale of stock; 120 shares in the Fashion Stables Company will be sold.

The new headquarters of the Annexation Club have been handsomely decorated with American flags and bunting.

S. Roth, the tailor, is holding a genuine closing out sale. He is making fine garments at very reasonable rates. Give him a call.

Judge Cooper will preside at the May Term of the Circuit Court. The calender is a lengthy one and many important cases will be heard.

W. H. Lentz is under arrest. It is alleged that he receipted a bill for $10 and appropriated the money which belonged to the Fashion Stables.

The U. S. S. Adams is daily expected to relieve the Mohican. On the departure of the flagship it is understood that Admiral Skerrett will take up his quarters on shore.

The HAWAIIAN GAZETTE (twelve pages) will be out to-morrow morning. It will contain all the news, and if you send a copy to your friends abroad they will appreciate it.

The new Central Union Church organ will be dedicated on next Saturday evening. A splendid musical programme will be rendered. There will be no charge for admission.

The members of Excelsior Lodge, No. 1, Harmony Lodge, No. 3, Pacific Rebekah Lodge, No. 1, and visiting members and their families are cordially invited to attend the anniversary celebration to be held at Harmony Hall on Wednesday evening.

The Hawaiian National Band will give a complimentary concert to-morrow evening at the Hawaiian Hotel to Mr. Lyons and the Raymond excursionists, prior to their departure Wednesday on the steamer Australia. Some favorite native songs will be sung by the boys.

The Hawaii Ponoi Dramatic Company drew a good sized audience to the Opera House on Saturday evening notwithstanding the counter attractions. The performance gave satisfaction. Several of the participants showed great improvement in their acting and at times real talent made itself apparent.

Several tourists got into a native's hack last Friday, and asked to be driven to the Bishop Museum. The native driver took them to Iolani College to introduce them to the Right Rev. Bishop Willis. On arriving at the college, and finding no museum there, the tourists requested the driver to take them to Kamehameha School.

Ka Leo says Capt. J. Ross returned from Kauai by the Mikahala yesterday. This morning's Ka Leo contains an account of his mission. The most startling news he tells is that the natives on Kauai have been threatened by their annexationist landlords to be driven away from where they now reside, together with their families and animals, if they refuse to sign the annexation papers. Mr. Ross will have hard work to prove the truth of this statement.

At Spreckelsville.

In speaking to a former employee of Spreckelsville, now in this city, he said that he had just returned from a visit to the place. During his stay there he found that nearly all the men there were in favor of annexation, but would not join the club because the manager opposed the scheme.

AN ACCIDENT.

A Surrey Overturned on the Tantalus Road.

On Saturday afternoon a surrey containing Rudolf Spreckels, Mr. Laidley, Mrs. Renjes and Miss Neumann was overturned on the Tantalus road while the party was returning to town. Fortunately none of the party were injured with the exception of Mr. Laidley who received a bad cut on one of his arms which he received by being thrown to the ground. The ladies were badly scared but otherwise they were uninjured.

The accident was caused by a portion of the harness giving away which allowed the pole to drop to the ground; the tip anchored itself in the earth and in a second the pole snapped, the horses got free from the vehicle and then it overturned. The accident happened on a wide portion of the road otherwise the surrey might have been hurled down an embankment with its helpless occupants.

Drivers who have been over the Tantalus road of late all complain that the driveway in some places is in a dagerous condition owing to washouts. The Punchbowl road is sadly in need of repair also.

Mr. C. Bolte has applied for letters of administration in re the estate of Rudolf Aschheim, who died intestate.

FOR ANNEXATION.

Meeting of the Portuguese Political League.

The Portuguese Political League, which was recently organized to boom annexation, held another meeting at the drill shed yesterday afternoon. There were about 300 people present. The meeting was called to order by J. M. Camara, Jr., who explained that the objects of the gathering was to elect permanent officers.

The following gentlemen were elected: J. M. Vivas, president; M. G. Silva, vice-president; J. M. Camara, secretary. A Central Committee of thirteen was also elected. After the election several members made speeches on the present political situation. They expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of annexation. The following communication was read to the people present:

HONOLULU, April 15th, 1893.

To the HON. S. B. DOLE, President of the Provisional Government.

SIR: Whereas the undersigned officers of Company C of the Volunteer Forces have given notice of intention to resign their respective positions to their commander, Hon. J. H. Soper, in consequence of the supposed neglect on the part of the party in power towards the Portuguese colony, who are unanimously in favor of annexation, whereupon they were requested by said Commander Soper to put in writing certain matters relating to the Portuguese colony in Hawaii. The said officers desire to say that since the overthrow of Liliuokalani the Portuguese colony appears to have been overlooked; they have had no voice in public matters, although they have from the first been active supporters of the Provisional Government. This state of affairs has created a great deal of discontent among them and needs redress. On behalf of the colony we must ask that a representative Portuguese be appointed to the first vacancy in the Advisory Council of the Provisional Government.

While we recognize that the Provisional Government is not established for the benefit of any particular class, we wish to call your attention to the fact that the Portuguese constitute a large proportion of the laboring classes of this community, and that they are dependent upon obtaining work for their subsistence. The last year has been a very hard one for them on account of dull times, and many of them are in actual destitution.

It is respectfully submitted that it would be wise to have a committee of the Advisory Council appointed to investigate the condition of affairs amongst the Portuguese and to recommend such measures as shall be deemed expedient to ameliorate the same.

We have the honor to remain
Your obedient servants,
J. M. CAMARA,
Captain, Company C.
J. M. VIVAS,
First Lieutenant.
A. G. SILVA, JR,
Second Lieutenant.

After the foregoing was read it was explained that the Government had received it in the proper spirit and that the Portuguese colony would receive recognition at an early day.

A PRISONER ESCAPES.

William Bruette While Awaiting Sentence Walks Off.

Captain Walker has been a turnkey at the Police Station for some time. He has not been a very careful official and for his neglect he is now locked up on a charge of allowing a prisoner to escape.

William Bruette, a sailor, was locked in a cell at the Station awaiting sentence on a charge of housebreaking. He was arrested on the 16th inst. for entering a house on the corner of Fort and Beretania streets. He stole $10 in coin and a gold watch. He was afterwards caught on board of the bark Katie Flickinger. When brought before Judge Foster for his preliminary examination, he pleaded guilty and was committed to the Circuit Court for trial.

His escape from jail was not discovered until 5 o'clock on Saturday morning when the cells were opened to give the prisoners something to eat.

When the turnkey came to the cell which had been occupied by Bruette he found the door unbolted and the cell empty. An alarm was sounded and search made for the missing man, but he could not be found. A bench was found upright against the prison wall, and, without doubt, it was used by Bruette to scale the wall. It is supposed that the prisoner jumped to the ground and escaped into Queen street, and nothing has been seen or heard of him since, although the police made a careful search.

Carelessness in bolting the cell door is supposed to answer for the escape of the man. Marshal Hitchcock made an investigation, and as a result, Walker is under lock and key to explain the matter before the District Court.

THE FLOWER QUEEN.

AN ARTISTIC PRODUCTION OF THE CANTATA.

A More Pleasing Entertainment Was Never Witnessed in this City.

This lotus-land of Hawaii, with its never-ending beauty and its boundless hospitality, well nigh makes reparation for the losses we must feel in being so far away from world-centers. Keenly do we realize our isolation from the myriad opportunities of cities for a broad culture, at the same time artistic, dramatic, musical and intellectual—opportunities which we try to replace in part by our amateur attempts. Of these many are ambitious, and some are attended by a measure of success, but for a long time there has been no artistic and musical affair more daringly attempted or more brilliantly executed than the cantata of the "Flower Queen," given Saturday evening in the Old Stone Church by the girls of Kawaiahao. It was a great event in the annals of the Seminary, being the first operatic music ever attempted. For weeks and weeks it had been anticipated, as early in the school year Miss Burgess began the daily drill which she so patiently and thoroughly continued until suddenly called home by sickness. She will be greatly missed in our little musical world, but it is most of all a matter of regret that she could not be here to see so rich a realization of her hopes and reap the well-merited reward of her labor. In her absence, Professor Berger, ever a good friend of the Seminary, has given his services for the drill of the last few weeks, declining any remuneration. It is a further evidence of the genial musician's goodness of heart that he willingly forfeited a lucrative engagement at the Opera House for the sake of helping in this benefit. Miss Kenwill has done valiant service in obtaining soloists and helping whenever help was needed.

The graceful costumes of the girls representing wild flowers of every hue were designed by the teachers, and were made of the cheapest possible cheese-cloth and cambric; they were fashioned under the direction of Miss Van Anglen and finished in the school sewing-classes. Besides the gowns, there were wreaths and festoons and bouquets of flowers to be made; but these and the dresses were all in readiness when the long-expected evening had come at last.

Through some misunderstanding as to the hour for beginning, the large audience had its appetite well whetted by the time of waiting, but its eyes could well feast on the decorations before them. The back of the platform was the very similitude of a green mountain wall with countless ferns clinging to every cranny, while at either side were seeming entrances to leafy grottoes or distant glades surrounded with the verdure of palm and spreading fern and waving jessamine. But all was green. Miss Winter was far too wise to detract from the refreshing coolness of the leafy bower by any further touch of color. But by 8 o'clock there was no lack of brilliant hues against this soft background of green, for from the leafy openings at the sides of the stage poured in the "flowers, the fair young flowers that come at the voice of spring,"—and in graceful grouping and pleasing harmony of bright colors, the cantata began in an outburst of girlish voices. The flowers had met in a secluded dell to choose a queen and were interrupted by footsteps, at which with some natural confession, they hied them to their forest glade to wait in silence. There, in pilgrim's garb, came Mr. Wakefield, as the recluse who was weary of the world, and sought repose in the mossy cell far from strife and care. A semi-chorus by the hidden flowers, which he could at first scarce believe he heard, bade him stay, and in a well-rendered recitative he demanded who they were. Then came the rose and lily (Flora Smith and Eliza Keleaa) who with timid modesty told him that he heard the music of the flowers from Nature's artless minstrels, and as they stepped aside, he acknowledged himself a willing captive to the flower spell, and gave place to the flowers again. With flutterings and swayings the chorus clearly sang "Who shall be Queen," and turned to look upon the first aspirant, the crocus, whom the audience recognized as Miss Nolte, and greeted with applause. In her trailing role of pale green with white flowers about the neck and caught in clusters on the front, she sweetly set forth her claims as the first flower of spring. The occasional interruptions by the full chorus, but a setting for her clear notes made this one of the most pleasing parts of the evening. Before her claim could be decided, in came the dahlia, with "her beauteous bloom," — Miss Rhodes, taller and slenderer for the high puffed sleeves of red abon long sleeves of spangled white, and the long dahlia-trimmed robe of red looped up over a skirt of the same spangled white. Her proud demand for queenly honors was met disdainfully, in spite of the melodious tones in which her claim was preferred.

Two little girls, Helen Desha and Abbie Kuhanu, as Heliotrope and Mignonette, came forward to proclaim to the imperious Dahlia that goodness and gentleness, with temper serene, were qualities for their Flower Queen. The quiet ease of the girls and the blending of their voices called forth a round of applause from the ever intent audience, who then gave heed to the plea of the Japonica. This was Miss Von Holt, who came forward in soft flower-trimmed white, bearing a bouquet in her hands. Soon the fine contralto was thrown into higher relief by a beautifully sung chorus, staccato and at the same time piano—a difficult combination for a chorus.

Who was coming next? Evidently the flowers were all expectation, to judge by the eager faces and questioning glances. And it was someone to honor, for they began to make low bows before a tall, queenly figure, robed in black, with Sunflower crown and garland. It was Miss Eva Parker, the Sunflower, and her charms won all until her song commanded instant coronation, when the mocking chorus laughed most scornfully at the poor, proud Sunflower, so soon humbled. The action, enunciation and time in this laughing chorus were so capital that it evoked tremendous applause. There was now a row of four candidates who stood in front of the chorus, adding to the flowery appearance of the scene, but the chorus turned from them to call for the Violet, the Lily and the beautiful blushing Rose. Violet Lima and Lydia Aholo in duet with sweet voices disclaim any pretensions to the sovereignty, and the trilling accompaniment, which we suspect was the Professor's own device, added to the sweetness and simplicity of the little song. Then came the Rose—all white but for a nosegay of pink in her hair and the green of leaves—and Miss Dale's appearance met the demands of Heliotrope and Mignonette, and never has she sung with more ease and real expression.

Miss Lizzie Parker, brilliant in white with red carnations, joined the group of aspirants. Mrs. E. C. Damon, in white with a bunch of tulips whose heads hung heavily on their stalks, sang a quiet recitative, calling all the flowers to vespers, and as she sang, the Poppy chorus entered. Waving their flower-tipped wands over the heads of the flowers they passed among the chorus until with nodding heads they leaned together in drowsy groups, then made their way off the platform. From the grottoes came a beautiful semi chorus, a night hymn, with a solo by the recluse, who had come forward again.

Part second was opened by a lively chorus, "Good Morning," and a call, "To the Choice," but Miss Ward, who was Hollyhock, interrupted them, modestly suggesting herself for Queen. And in truth, as she stood there, in clinging black lighted up with beautiful red "hollyhocks," she appealed with voice and mien to the chorus, and no less to the audience, who applauded enthusiastically. In response to the semi-chorus of would-be queens, the Recluse decided for the Rose, to the delight of the chorus. The heather-bells, a circle of tiny girls in lavender dresses, surrounded one sweet little mite, and with their childish voices sang the praises of the newly-chosen queen. In strong contrast was the burst of brilliant melody in the coronation march and the Andantino coronation quartette, during which the chaplet of white roses was successfully placed upon the new queen's hair. But far finer than either was the echo chorus, in which the strain was perfectly echoed by Miss Halstead and Eliza Keleaa. One might have heard a pin drop in the quietness with which the sympathetic audience awaited the clear, far-away, bell-like echo. After the Rose had acknowledged her gratitude to the Heavenly Ruler and the flowers, there was a sparkling chorus as the flowers for the last time went back into the trees, and a duet between Queen Rose and the Recluse, in which each voice sustained and enchanted the other.

The finale capped the climax of the whole. It was a full chorus of flowers, a semi-chorus of the queenly aspirants and solos by Rose and Recluse, each part of which was well sustained and harmonious with all the others. While perfectly distinct, Miss Dale's notes were silvery and sweet, and heard amid all the other tones. Prof. Berger's skillful directing kept all the parts in line, and one masterly stroke prevented a seemingly impending catastrophe near the end. But it closed in triumph as it had proceeded throughout.

As has been said, seldom has the Honolulu public witnessed a more successful entertainment. The best feature of it was in the work of the chorus, which was thoroughly prepared, unusually attentive to the leader, graceful in its action and generally correct in time and tones. The girls have always done well, and this time they did especially well. Mr. Berger directed, often playing a full accompaniment with one hand and beating time with the other, and Miss Halstead gave valuable assistance as stage manager, accompanist and vocalist. The soloists are to be congratulated on their well-rendered parts, especially as some of them were assigned only a week previous to the concert.

A little gathering in the Seminary parlors to "talk it over," and a merry supper in the dining-room, with the teachers and enough black coats to be social, made a pleasant ending to a very pleasant evening. It is impossible as yet to estimate the receipts, but the figures will be published when all the returns come in. Many have requested that the cantata be repeated, and there is a rumor that it may come off next Thursday.

A Pleasant Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright invited a number of friends to their hospitable home at Waikiki on Saturday evening last to bid farewell to Mr. Frank Barwick, who leaves on the Australia for an extended visit to the old country. The evening was spent in dancing, social conversation and singing. About 10 o'clock all sat down to a splendid collation which did honor to Mrs. Wright's powers in the housekeeping line. The party broke up at a late hour, all present joining in a hearty godspeed to Mr. Barwick and thanks to their hostess for an enjoyable evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Crozier, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Douglass, Miss Maggie Wright, Miss Crozier, Miss Cross, Miss Sharp, and Messrs. Goldworthy, Pierce, Mossman and Manson.

VIVAS TALKS.

HE TELLS JUST WHAT THE PORTUGUESE WANT.

Interviewed by an Advertiser Reporter.—The Story of an Ambiguous Petition.

It is well known that the Portuguese colony have felt for a good while that they were entitled to some representation in the Councils of the Government. Yesterday a meeting was held to discuss the matter. Mr. J. M. Vivas was seen by an ADVERTISER reporter who found him very willing to give all the information wanted.

"The officers of Company C made representation to the Government several days ago," said Mr. Vivas, "on behalf of the Portuguese colony. They were requested to state in more detail just what was wanted, and so we sent the letter which was read at the meeting. Friday we got an answer from the Executive Council stating that the matter had been brought before the Advisory Council and the Executive Council had been appointed a committee to look into the matter, and they would probably recommend that the first vacancy be given to a representative of the Portuguese colony."

"Did you name a candidate to the Executive?"

"We informed them that we would not press any name upon the colony but that the best way would be to call a meeting of the Portuguese Political League, which is a branch of the Annexation Club, and submit the matter to them. That meeting was held today, and the Club warmly approved the steps that had been taken, and designated the President of the League as their candidate. During the course of the meeting a communication came in, stating that another meeting was being held by P. A. Dias and M. A. Gonsalves at the place of business of the latter, for the purpose of making a different nomination. A petition to the Council had been circulated since 4 o'clock in the morning asking for the appointment of a Portuguese to the Council, leaving the name blank."

"Was the petition in the Portuguese language?"

"No, it was in English, and the signers were told that it was not for the appointment of anyone in particular, but simply asked that some Portuguese be appointed."

"Did you see the petition yourself, Mr. Vivas?"

"No; but I can bring a dozen witnesses who have seen it."

"What is the idea of this counter movement—personal hostility to you?"

"To some extent it may be; but I'll tell you my idea. They want to put a man into the Council who will sell out the opinion of the Portuguese colony by favoring a protectorate."

"Are they not annexationists themselves?"

Mr. Vivas thought they were, but that they had a plan on hand to put in a man who would jump either way if necessary.

"What is the sentiment of the Portuguese colony on annexation? Is it unanimous?"

"It is unanimous," replied Mr. Vivas heartily." The Portuguese are the only race which is undivided on this question. I only know of one who has expressed himself the other way, and he wants a protectorate, which the Portuguese do not want. They favor annexation because they know it will benefit everyone of them. And I want you to note particularly," continued Mr. Vivas, "that there is no ill-feeling or hostility among them toward the Provisional Government. They support it enthusiastically, and, by the way," added the interviewed as the interviewer retired, "Thurston is the most popular foreigner in the whole country with the Portuguese colony. They recognize the fact that he is a true friend of the laboring man."

MARCH TERM, 1893.

M. A. GONSALVES & Co. vs. WILDER STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

BEFORE BICKERTON AND FREAR, JJ., AND COOPER, CIRCUIT JUDGE.

(Judd, C. J., being disqualified, he having an interest in the defendant company, Circuit Judge Cooper sat in the case by request.)

A receipt was given by the defendant steamship company for goods forwarded by its steamer to be delivered at Paia, an inland place on Maui, the exemptions in the receipt being "dangers of fire and navigation or any other accident or danger of the seas, rivers or steam navigation, of whatsoever kind and nature." The goods were landed and destroyed by fire in the warehouse before they were forwarded to Paia. Held, that the exemption from liability for loss by fire, is limited to loss by fire occurring at sea, and does not attach to the land route.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY BICKERTON, J.

This matter comes here on questions of law reserved in this and two other cases, viz., E. O. Hall & Son vs. Wilder Steamship Company and A. W. Van Valkenberg vs. Wilder Steamship Company and were certified up by Judge Whiting, First Judge of the Circuit Court of the First Circuit. The reserved question reads: "Is the exemption from liability for loss by fire provided for by the annexed receipts, 'A,' 'B' and 'C,' or either of them limited to a loss occurring at sea, or does it attach to the whole distance therein named?" Exhibit B is the form of the receipt filed in this case, and is as follows:

"Honolulu, 14th July, 1891. Received from Gonsalves & Co., in apparent good order except as noted, on board Likilike the following packages, contents unknown, to be delivered at Paia, dangers of fire and navigation or any other accident or danger of the seas, rivers or steam navigation, of whatsoever kind or nature excepted, and with the privilege of re-shipping on steamboats or barges." Marked (PS in a triangle.)

Then follows a list of the packages, and the receipt is signed "Kibling." The question in this receipt is solely a question of construction, there being no evidence to be considered. We have to take the document and construe it. There can be no question as to the defendant company being a carrier by water; its name so indicates, and the whole phraseology of the receipt is applicable solely to marine carriage and marine responsibility. This form was undoubtedly intended to be used only for and to cover the water route. Is there one word expressing an exemption from dangers by any land route? No alteration is made (which could undoubtedly have been done) to cover the land route.

"Where common carriers by water in their bill of lading made at Toledo, Ohio, stipulated to deliver goods to consignees at Concord, N. H., the damages of navigation, fire, collisions on the lakes and rivers and the Welland canal excepted, it was held that this limitation did not extend to losses by fire on the railroads." Barter vs. Wheeler, 49 N. H., 10.

"The general words inserted in a maritime policy of insurance after the enumeration of particular perils, are as follows: 'And of all perils, losses and misfortunes that have or shall come to the hurt, detriment or damage of said goods and merchandise and ship, etc., or any part thereof.'

"These words it has been observed, must be considered as introduced into the policy in furtherance of the object of marine insurance. * * * They are entitled to be considered as material and operative words, and to have the due effect assigned to them in the construction of this instrument. * * * The meaning of the general words may be ascertained by referring to the preceding special words." Broom's Legal Maxims, p. 375-6.

"General words of exemption when used after a designation of specific exemptions and risks, will be presumed to include only those of a similar character unless a different intention is manifest." Hawkins et al. vs. Great Western R. R. Co., 17 Mich., 56.

The words in a receipt "any other accident or dangers of the seas" can only mean that the dangers previously enumerated are of the same kind; no other construction is logical. The obvious meaning of this receipt is, that exemptions contained in it were limited to the sea route.

We are of the opinion that the exemption from liability for loss by fire provided for in the receipt before us, is limited to a loss occurring at sea, and does not attach to the whole distance or to the land route. There is a stipulation made and filed by counsel in this case, that if the exemption is held to be limited to a marine loss, judgment shall be entered for the plaintiff.

Judgment may be entered accordingly for the plaintiff.

A. S. Hartwell for plaintiff; F. M. Hatch for defendant.

Short Sermons.

Agitation in favor of fifteen-minute sermons still continues in several parts of the country, and some of those who measure oratory by the yard and think it ought to be paid for after the same plan want to reduce ministerial salaries in the same ratio. That is an unfair movement. The preacher who can satisfactorily condense thought and language should receive twice as much money as he who stretches his discourse and the congregational patience almost to the breaking point.—Am. Ex.

Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands.

MARCH TERM, 1893.

A. W. VAN VALKENBERG vs. WILDER STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

BEFORE BICKERTON AND FREAR, J.J., AND COOPER, CIRCUIT JUDGE.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY BICKERTON, J.

This matter comes here on the same reserved questions of law as in the case of M. A. Gonsalves & Company vs. this same defendant. The shipping receipt in this case is in the same form as the one in the Gonsalves & Company case, with the exception of some slight alterations which in our opinion do not in any way effect the construction to be put upon it. We therefore adopt as the opinion of the Court in this case the opinion filed in the case of M. A. Gonsalves & Company vs. Wilder Steamship Company. There is a stipulation made and filed by counsel in this case, that if the exemption is held to be limited to a marine loss, judgment shall be entered for the plaintiff.

Judgment may be entered accordingly for the plaintiff.

THE RED SUNSETS.

Observers Who Attribute Them Principally to Solar Eruptions.

A note from Dr. Veeder of Lyons, states that he has received a letter from Dr. E. von Ryckevorsel of Rotterdam, Holland, upon the supposed connection between the eruption of Krakatoa, August 26, 1883, and the red sunsets. The doctor writes: "I saw them (the red sunsets), and my assistant saw them in Para, Brazil, just a month before the eruption. Do you think this conclusive?"

Without any knowledge of this observation and another, which will be referred to, the Democrat and Chronicle observer reasoned that the eruptions were not the principal cause of the red sunsets, but that the solar activities were chiefly instrumental in producing the observed phenomena.

After the essays upon the red sunsets had been published by Mr. Warner and sent abroad by Dr. Swift, they were reviewed in the English Mechanic. The reviewer then stated that the essay describing the solar eruptions as the principal cause of the red sunsets, was the most "sensible and scientific" of all. He also stated that the Astronomer Royal at the Cape of Good Hope had seen the red sunsets several months, we believe in January, before the eruption of Krakatoa, and had made drawings.

The observations of Dr. E. von Ryckevorsel and the Astronomer Royal at the Cape of Good Hope seem to be conclusive. But it will be very difficult to get the conclusions which were jumped at by various scientific men in regard to the instrumentality of the Krakatoa eruptions set aside. The solar theory is, however, on record, and promises to stand as the correct solution of the mystery.—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

HAPPY PITCAIRNERS.

They Neither Smoke Nor Drink and Enjoy Life.

Pitcairn island, where the descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty live in seclusion and primitive contentment, boasts of being absolutely free from the vice of drinking. The prohibition laws there touch not only liquors, but tobacco. A shipwrecked sailor named Coffin, who was cast ashore there a few months ago, had managed to save his dearly cherished pipe and pouch of tobacco. The chief magistrate of the colony promptly informed him that he must give up smoking if he wanted to enjoy their hospitality, and when he refused he was so effectually boycotted that he fled this ocean paradise by the first passing ship. Captain Bailey of the American merchantman Vigilant, from Japan, brings this story. He stopped at the island and traded trinkets for food with the natives, and found them happy and prosperous, though not a drop of rain had fallen there for two years, and the volcano over which their island lies had been giving ominous indications of activity.—[Detroit Free Press.

The Yost

WRITING MACHINE.

Years ago, Mrs. Yost built a typewriter, the Remington No. 2 and Caligraph which were good enough then. But the family has increased by thousands. Other folks have hitched on extensions to hold 'em. But it's the same old typewriter, same ribbon, same scales, same rickety print. We want something modern, and we get it in the NEW YOST, which rises superior to the difficulties of any ribbon machine. The ribbon blurs print, wears full of holes, clogs type, takes power to pull it along, weakens manifolding and costs $8 or $10 a year. Our ink pad outlasts twenty ribbons. Can be changed in ten seconds, and costs less than $2 a year. And as to permanent alignment the YOST is the only machine which accomplishes this much desired feat.
