JOAB AND AMASA.

Art Thou in Health, My Brother?

Senator Hoar was never happier than when he epitomized the Hawaiian situation by quoting the incident of Joab and Amasa. "Art thou in health, my brother?" inquired Joab, as he stabbed his neighbor just beneath his most important rib. There is the whole story of our recent statesmanship. In sending Mr. Willis to Honolulu, commended to his "great and good friend," the Provisional President of Hawaii, and in loading him with messages of affection and solicitude, the President gave, perhaps, the most faithful reproduction of Joab to be found in modern history. Amasa, in the person of President Dole, awaited his brother with rosette expectation. He heard the assurances of fraternal interest, he marked the light of honest love upon his brow, he warmed to the tender inquiry about his health, and all the while the smiling Joab, with the knife behind his cloak, was measuring him for the ordained stab. Art thou in health, my brother?

It is a real pleasure to be able to state that, at last accounts, Amasa was in excellent good health, and that Joab was still fingering his knife and wondering where that fifth rib could have gone. Whether he had forgotten his lesson or doubted the virtue of the weapon, or whether Amasa suspected something and kept his brother at arm's length, who shall say? But the coup de grace had not yet been delivered, and the sweetest thing in Christian diplomacy since the Mountain Meadow massacre hangs fire. It may be that our Amasa had heard of Joab and guessed what he held beneath his cloak. It may be that Mr. Willis had been inadvertently cast for the part and found it a trifle too—shall we say robust?—for his complexion. But, anyhow, Joab still lurks in the shadow and Amasa still takes his meals with relish and regularity.

The fact remains, though, that Mr. Hoar has caught the spirit of the episode and transferred it to canvas with truly startling fidelity. If Amasa lives today it is not Joab's fault. If civilization goes without that ugly stain borrowed from the blood and barbarism of the past, it is only because the Administration's plans have gone awry. "Joab and Amasa" had been billed for our delectation and the management really did its best. —Washington Post.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1893.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

The Hawaiian Gazette Semi-Weekly.

From the date of January 2, 1894, the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE will be issued as a SEMI-WEEKLY, its days of publication being TUESDAY and FRIDAY of each week.

While our subscription-list has been steadily increasing from year to year, we make this change solely in the interest of our patrons, and to keep up with the march of improvement, which demands a more frequent publication of passing events, in which our country readers are as much interested as our city readers.

Subscribers in foreign lands will also receive the benefit of this semi-weekly publication of the GAZETTE at the same rate as heretofore—Six Dollars per annum, postage paid.

This important change will furnish the best evidence that can be desired of the popularity and prosperity of the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE, which is the oldest weekly published in the English language in these islands, and now enters on its 29th year.

Mr. DAVIES should not be censured too harshly for telling the Hilo people that the Volcano road, etc., was constructed with Honolulu capital. He was merely trying to ingratiate himself with the district.

The source of the "Queen's constitution" which peers so mysteriously from the back pages of Blount's report, has excited much speculation. Mrs. Dominis has stated positively that she had destroyed the original and all copies. It is true that royal oaths are subjected to a very heavy discount, but as this one was sworn after all the connections with the throne had been cut, there seems to be no reason for doubting it, particularly as it was a very damaging admission. Someone who was familiar with the constitution undertook to reproduce it. This would of course have been impossible from memory, but it was done simply by referring to the constitution of 1864, from which the language of the new document was in a large measure taken. The constitution as printed in the report is accompanied by a statement certifying to its accuracy from Parker, Peterson and Cornwell.

CAUGHT AGAIN.

We publish in another column a letter signed Hawaiian-born American, which appeared a short time since in the Sun. It is from the pen of Prof. Alexander and exposes another of the disreputable literary tricks of Chas. Nordhoff. The latter lately sent another of his calumnious effusions to the N. Y. Herald, in which he pretended to quote from certain correspondents of his in Honolulu—learned, reputable and unimpeachable of course, as all of Mr. Nordhoff's correspondents are. Mr. Alexander thought there was a familiar ring about these citations, and he soon found them in Gulick's and Trousseau's contributions to Blount's report! What does this make of Nordhoff—a literary pirate, forger, or what?

It is not worth while however to quarrel over the tattered remnants of Mr. Nordhoff's reputation. What is interesting about all this is the picture which it discloses of the easy going, confidential intimacy which subsisted between Messrs. Trousseau, Gulick, Nordhoff and Blount. One quotes the other, and there is a general gleeful patting on the back. Trousseau furnishes his copy in duplicate to Nordhoff and Blount—and Blount it is to be presumed returns the compliment. The doctor secures an interview by Spreckels, which is a "big thing for our side," etc., etc. A conspiracy is proved here certainly, but it is not the one charged in the indictment. Here are four of the guilty parties, and no doubt there were two or three silent partners. The Sugar Trust, having no soul, was doubtless present by its attorney.

MR. BLOUNT TO MR. GRESHAM.

In a dispatch of Mr. Blount's, dated June 28, 1893, occurs the following paragraph:

In my dispatch to the Department of April 25 I said: "Mr. Paul Neumann is generally regarded here as a bright, plausible, unscrupulous person." I desire now to say that so far as the expression "unscrupulous" is concerned a better knowledge of public opinion satisfies me that I was not justified in its use. I deem it my duty to place this on the records of the Department.

The history of Mr. Blount's opinions in regard to the character of Mr. Neumann is a very interesting one. When the Commissioner Paramount first came here, he thought Mr. Neumann was engaged with Dr. Bowen and Mr. Sewell in a negotiation looking toward a surrender of the ex-queen's claims in favor of the United States Government. This did not suit Mr. Blount at all. He did not want the ex-queen to abdicate. He did everything he could to break up the negotiation. He even took the trouble to go to Mrs. Dominis and warn her that the United States had authorized no one to enter into any such negotiation. Mr. Spreckels had warned the commissioner of what was supposed to be going on and the latter practically acted at the instance of the sugar king. All these facts are disclosed by the correspondence, published with the report.

When Mr. Blount supposed Mr. Neumann to be engaged in these negotiations, and to be therefore promoting the annexation interest, he adopted the view that he was a "bright, plausible, unscrupulous" person. But later he found in Mr. Neumann an ally, and then he began to be troubled by the memory of his former words. How could a royalist possibly be an "unscrupulous" person? The error which he had fallen into—excusable enough as long as he supposed Mr. Neumann to be an annexationist—he now recanted, like an honorable man. The result leaves Mr. Neumann's character completely rehabilitated—bright and plausible, and, it is presumed, strictly, punctiliously scrupulous as well.

THE SAD CASE OF CHAS. T. GULICK.

One of the most charming of Daudet's many charming sketches is one which describes the favorite mule of one of the Popes. The peculiar thing about this animal is that he saved up a kick for seven years. Mr. Gulick reminds one irresistibly of this mule. He too has been saving a kick for almost exactly seven years. His case moreover is a much more grievous one than that of the Pope's mule. The Pope's mule had only one wrong to avenge. Mr. Gulick had several. What is worse, his later wrongs were more cruel, more aggravated, and harder to be borne, than the earlier. They form a series, rising to an awful climax. His first term of office was two years; his second two months, and his third two hours. Was there ever a more irritating, a more vexatious series of twos?

Those of Mr. Gulick's acquaintances who may be disgusted with the choice extracts from his writings presented this morning, should remember what his wrongs have been. His vindictiveness has a far better justification than that of the animal which Daudet has immortalized. He has kicked with more provocation, if not in a better cause. The mule had been maltreated indeed, but he had been stabled and groomed and fed, and saddled with a handsome cloth of velvet and gold. He had not been deprived of his gilt edged oats and turned out into the waste world. He was not stripped of the emoluments of office for seven lean and hungry years.

There is much to be said in extenuation, in Mr. Gulick's case, much to be set down in pity, not in malice. The vengeance of the Pope's mule, was effective, and he gave a loud bray of relief as he saw his ancient enemy go flying through the air. Not so with Mr. Gulick. His vengeance was abortive. He has misrepresented history and perverted fact, blackened the character of those of his own blood, maligned the living and calumniated the dead, and all to what end? Mrs. Dominis has not got her throne again, and the elaborate libel on everything which is of good report in Hawaii has brought, and will bring, nothing but shame to its author.

The case of Mr. Gulick is a sad one.

Death by Suicide.

David Munro, whose death is announced in the usual column, formerly resided in Kau, on Hawaii. He was there engaged as a sugar-planter under the firm of Munro & Myers, on the Pahala Plantation, Kau, from 1877 to 1883 or 4. About the latter date he went to Los Angeles, where he engaged in business as insurance agent, and was quite successful until the present year, when he became embarrassed and terminated life by drowning himself in Westlake, near that city, his pockets having been found loaded with stones. A note to his type-writer also stated his intention to commit suicide.

December 26, 1893.

The necessity for a large stock of holiday goods at this time is not as great as it would have been if the sugar magnates in the United States had not seen fit to bear the market. $2.90 is a low price, and the producers will find little pleasure in the quotation, not as much we think, as they would derive from an inspection of the lamps we received by the Alameda.

The fashion for both piano and banquet lamps has gone back to the handsome black wrought iron patterns and assortment this year contains some of the handsomest we have ever seen. One of them with a handsome onyx top, is a marvel of beauty and would be an ornament in the home of anyone; it bears the imprint of the artist's hand in every curve of the metal. Banquet lamps of the same material are less showy than the brighter metals, but infinitely richer and have an advantage in not being susceptible to the action of the climate; they cannot tarnish.

A large assortment of small bits in silver, chaste in design and inexpensive in price, makes them particularly suitable as New Year presents. To enumerate them all, would require more advertising space than we have at our command. Suppose you come and look at them.

It was a common rumor yesterday that the ex-queen had shown plainly that she was rapidly becoming disgusted with some of her principal supporters.

It is said that Sam Parker, accompanied by John F. Colburn and W. H. Cornwall, called on her ex-majesty a day or two ago.

Parker was courteously welcomed, but his two companions, it is reported, were received in a very chilly manner by the would-be ruler of Hawaii's destiny.

She gave Mr. Parker to understand, when the party left, that "when he chose to come in decent company, he would be welcome."

A delegation of three—Parker, Sam Nowlin and John Richardson—called at Washington square yesterday. They were probably arranging the details of the seizure of Hawaii that is said to be on the tapis.

How often it has been said by the croakers that there is no business, everything is dead, times are hard, and everything is going to the bad here in Honolulu, but the California Feed Co. are not built that way; we say business is good and getting better every month.

And to prove what we say we have had to take larger and more commodious warehouses. We have just completed arrangements with Mr. J. F. Colburn, whereby he gives up his old stand, corner Queen and Nuuanu streets.

We take possession on November 15th. Our old place at Lele is too small for our fast increasing business, hence the change.

We expect the Hawaiian bark Mauna Ala to arrive here again in a few days with her fourth full cargo of hay and grain bought by our Mr. J. N. Wright who will arrive on the bark.

We prefer to select our merchandise ourselves rather than have others do it, which means that we get better goods at a less price.

We thank our many friends for their liberal patronage for the past three years, and hope by strict attention to a business we thoroughly understand to merit the patronage of as many more.

We intend to keep a large, well selected stock of the very best hay and grain to be had in the California market, and we are going to sell it.

EXTRACTS FROM BLOUNT.

GULICK'S TURN TO SLANDER THE REVOLUTION.

Nothing Safe from His Malice—The Revolutionists Described as Convicts and Vagrants—Restoration Recommended.

Charles T. Gulick, three times Minister of the Hawaiian Crown, is one of the loudest mourners at the funeral of the monarchy. Blount's report contains two interviews from him, and a long statement containing about 1500 words, entitled "A Footnote to Hawaiian History." From this footnote are culled the following extracts:

Here is a description of the first legislature elected under the Constitution of 1887:

The mental and moral obliquities of the lawgivers were plainly outlined in their physical deformities, as seven-eighths of the whole number were either pigeon-toed, knock-kneed or bow-legged, and served as excellent illustrations of the well-known physiological principle or truth of the general harmony of mental and physical attributes.

This is his sketch of Kalakaua in contrast with the Thurston Cabinet:

The community, the public at large, soon realized that instead of being ruled over by one king, who, however injudicious he might be at times, never failed to realize that he was the first gentleman of the realm, they were being ruthlessly dominated by four kings, who were personifications of arrogance and boorish ignorance.

The Wilcox insurrection of 1889 is described by Mr. Gulick in a spirit of which the following paragraphs afford a fair sample:

When the news of the affair spread down our missionary friends were dismayed, and had no idea of what to do, as there seemed to be little inclination on the part of the public to help them out. However, their old facilities stood them in good service, and by 10 o'clock in the forenoon, by the time-honored trick of promises and coin, they got together a motley body of sharpshooters to attack the comparatively defenseless people in the Palace grounds. The attacking party occupied the buildings surrounding the Palace yard, and from safe point of vantage began a fusillade fatal to the maka, the missionaries themselves taking the greatest delight in "picking them off" as Dole and the others of his ilk who participated in the sport expressed it.

If the Hawaiian needed any further proof of the true sentiments cherished for himself by the descendants of the old missionary teachers, the savage audacity with which they seized the first opportunity to shoot him like a rat in a hole from safe cover would seem to have been sufficient to dispel any remaining doubt.

Mr. Gulick has, of course, a great deal to say about the revolution of 1893. What follows will give a fair idea of what he considers historical accuracy:

The revolutionary annexationists, in justification of their action, have raised the old cry of 1887, of the necessity of stable government, proper representation, honest administration, prevention of riot and bloodshed, maintenance of law and order, etc., when as a matter of fact there is not now, and never has been, the least danger of disorder or opposition to law except at the hands of revolutionists themselves. The rant in the speeches at their meeting in the Rifles' armory on the 16th of January, and in their "proclamation" and the mock heroic utterances of Wilder (see Two Weeks of Hawaiian History, pages 15 and 16) when he assumed the chairmanship of the meeting, are amongst the poorest examples imaginable of a stale herring drawn across a trail. There has been no fraud discovered nor malfeasance untraced, nor great wrong righted; on the contrary, thefts and spoliations have been committed under the very noses of the Provisional Government with apparent impunity, the probability that exposure would be disagreeable, as it would be likely to implicate more or less distinguished members of their own precious crew.

The bald fact stands out in plain view today exactly as it did in 1887, that the sole prompting motive of the missionary revolutionists was in both cases a lust of power, coupled with a desire to possess themselves of the property of another without giving compensation therefor, sentiments which they enjoy in common with the vulgar highwayman and his more gentlemanly prototype, the filibuster.

At 2:40 o'clock p.m. on the following day, January 17, 1893—nearly twenty-four hours after the American troops landed—thirteen white men, several of them lately arrived in the country and not entitled to vote, appeared in front of the Government Building, and the leader proceeded to read a proclamation deposing the queen and establishing a Provisional Government. The only audience to this function was composed of a few loungers in the corridors of the building. Near the close of the reading some twenty-seven armed men ran in from the back and side entrances of the premises and gathered around the thirteen men so mentioned, apparently as supporters of the movement. This supporting force was composed of vagrants and ex-convicts who were at that moment under police surveillance, deserters from merchant ships in port, and the like, only two or three being known as residents of the town.

The foregoing statement of facts can be easily supported by affidavits, if necessary, and would seem to show plainly that the movement can in no sense be justly termed a revolution, but was simply the action of a handful of filibusters, made possible only by the active co-operation of the American Minister and the American troops, and that the Hawaiian Government was at the time fully prepared and capable of regulating its domestic affairs, maintaining order, and giving ample protection to life and property within its borders. Consequently, as the defiance of Hawaiian laws, the deposition of the sovereign and the spoliation of the treasury were effected—in fact were only possible through the active agency of the American officials and troops, it seems but just that a full and complete restoration of affairs to the statu quo of January 16, 1893, previous to the landing of the United States troops, should be made with as little delay as possible, as each day's delay is adding to the legal and financial complications which will have to be met and composed by the Hawaiian people and their rulers.

CHAS. T. GULICK.

FOR BLOUNT TO EXPLAIN.

The Documents in His Report in Nordhoff's Possession While Yet Unpublished.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: As you are aware, the third installment of the materials collected by Col. Blount to serve as the basis of his report was given out by the State Department on the 25th of November. On the 21st and 22d of that month the New York Herald had published two letters by Mr. Charles Nordhoff, dated on the 13th and 14th respectively. In the former letter Mr. Nordhoff said:

I have before me a letter from one of the most prominent and trustworthy citizens of Honolulu—a citizen of Hawaii of many years standing, not an alien—who writes, etc.

This is followed by a long quotation taken verbatim et literatim from Dr. Trousseau's statement to Blount, which can be found on pages 284 and 285 of the State Department document, not issued to the public until Nov. 25. Further on Nordhoff says:

I ask you to insert here a letter I have before me from one of the best-known and most able and respectable lawyers in Honolulu, whose word or testimony in court no one would pretend to doubt there.

Then following a long quotation taken verbatim from the statement of Mr. C. T. Gulick to Blount, which is found on pages 108 and 109. Again, in Nordhoff's letter of the 14th he says:

On the point of Mr. Steven's action I quote here from a letter before me from a very prominent and respected citizen of Honolulu.

He then proceeds to make another quotation from Dr. Trousseau's statement to Blount on page 285. Further on he says:

On this head a thoroughly informed citizen of the islands writes me, etc. Again he makes a long quotation from Dr. Trousseau's statement (p. 279) containing the absurd contention that the wealth created by American enterprise in developing the natural resources of the islands ought not to be reckoned as American capital.

The malice and reckless disregard of truth shown by the two witnesses above cited by Nordhoff are so glaring as to destroy all their influence with intelligent readers.

But what shall we say of Nordhoff, who copied testimony furnished to Commissioner Blount in Honolulu, and five or six months after palmed off portions of it as extracts from pretended letters received by him from Honolulu?

His intimate relations with the Commissioner in Honolulu were well known, and we were not surprised to find that their views on Hawaiian affairs were identical.

But now it looks as if the Herald's correspondent, while concocting his letters, had had the use of the confidential statements filed with the American Commissioner. It is not to be supposed that Nordhoff would be restrained by any scruples from improving such an opportunity. But that either Col. Blount or his Secretary would be willing to connive at so dishonorable an act, is hard to believe, and a satisfactory explanation would be gladly received by a HAWAIIAN-BORN AMERICAN. New York, Dec. 4.—N. Y. Sun.

London to Have a World's Fair.

The Mayors of the leading cities and towns in Great Britain have received a circular signed by twenty-five members of the House of Commons and twenty-five other gentlemen, who have formed themselves into a committee to promote a scheme for holding an international exhibition in London. The scheme provides that the exhibition shall be on the largest scale. It will be held in 1896 or 1897.

The Illustrated Tourists' Guide

That popular work, "THE TOURISTS' GUIDE THROUGH THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS," is meeting with a steady sale both at home and abroad. Tourists and others visiting these islands should be in possession of a copy of it. It is a perfect mine of information, relating to scenes and attractions to be met with here. Copies in wrappers can be had at the publication office, 46 Merchant Street, and at the News Dealers. Price 60 cents.

Daily ADVERTISER, 50 cents per month. Delivered by carriers. Queen Lil, so far as known, is still Her Ex-celency.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

ANOTHER IMPROVEMENT.

A Semi-Weekly Edition of the "Hawaiian Gazette."

Commencing next Tuesday, January 2d, the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE and the ADVERTISER will both be enlarged. The latter paper, as has already been stated, will consist of eight pages. The GAZETTE, which is now issued weekly and contains twelve pages, will hereafter have a semi-weekly issue of eight pages each, appearing on Tuesday and Friday of each week. This will give sixteen pages a week, instead of twelve as heretofore.

This change is of great advantage both to subscribers and advertisers. The former will receive the news quicker than they did before, for very often there is a chance to send a mail to the other islands that with the weekly edition it is now impossible to take advantage of. As for the advertisers, they will receive just twice the advantages heretofore given. The GAZETTE COMPANY has always been in the lead and always will be in matters pertaining to improvement. To be the first in everything is its motto, and to that motto it intends to stick as closely in the future as it has in the past.

A PLANTATION CHRISTMAS.

The Employees of Kealia Given a Holiday—Wrestling and Horse Racing.

The plantation hands of the Kealia plantation, on Kauai, enjoyed a real Christmas holiday last Saturday. Work on the plantation was suspended, and during the day several sporting contests took place. One of the events was a wrestling match between two Japanese, from Kealia and Kapaa respectively. The Kapaa champion threw his rival in the first round, but he was worsted during the following rounds. The judges awarded the championship to the Kealia man. Several horse races also took place.

In the evening a Christmas dinner was given in the plantation restaurant. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Spalding, Mrs. F. P. Hastings, EX-prince D. Kawanakoa, Miss Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Blaisdell, Captain Haglund and officers of the steamer James Makee, Mr. and Mrs. Weir, Miss Weir, Mr. G. H. Fairchild and others. Dancing closed the festivities. On Monday the mill was at work again.

Has anybody yet reminded Grover Cleveland how Antonius lost the empire of the world through devotion to Egypt's queen? Queen Lil may not be the attractive beauty that Cleopatra was, but still it may behoove Grover Cleveland to take warning.—Oregonian.

Sensible Points About Tipping.

The greatest abuse of the tipping system in New York is in the fees to janitors and other servants connected with apartment houses. It has become a custom almost too strong to ignore in some apartment houses to pay the janitor, bell boy, elevator boy, etc., certain amounts every month or fortnight—this without any regard to whether the servant has rendered any particular service or not. The result of this indiscriminate tipping is quite natural—you get no particular service.

Not a few tenants of apartment houses have had an experience with janitors which makes blackmail preferable to the risk of the repetition of these experiences. As in the case of waiters, there are a good many annoyances to which tenants may be subjected which cannot be cured with a club and which do not even form a substantial basis of complaint. And they are not less aggravating because you can't get away from them or resent them. But to simply pay a man indiscriminately just because he is there is a plan which releases him from any obligation whatsoever.

I make it a rule and can recommend it after some experience to pay with reasonable liberality for any special service—that is, any service above and outside of that which the man is employed to render to every tenant in common. And I never tip such men on general principles—that is, indiscriminately. If an understanding to that effect is established at once upon going into a new flat, you will avoid all the trouble to which others are subjected and have at call those who are not only ready and willing, but eager to serve you. Begin at once to compensate liberally every person about the place who renders you special services and pay nobody else a cent. Follow this rule, and you will invariably get excellent service and plenty of attention. This rule will work equally well with the waiter if you are a regular customer.—New York Herald.

Small Demand For Shoes.

People have not been lavish in their purchases of shoes of late years. The surplus of them is undoubtedly smaller than usual, and yet the quantities distributed throughout the country have been sufficiently extensive to enable dealers thus far to meet all the requirements of their customers by simply buying a few stray lots here and there to piece out assortments. The accumulations are dwindling, however, day by day because there are more shoes being consumed than there are being manufactured.

When the clouds vanish from the commercial horizon, as nobody doubts they will—and it does not look reasonable they should obscure the prospect much longer—there will be greatly enlarged markets all over the land for shoes. But for the present there is not much to be done except to get under cover, if there is any shelter anywhere, and wait until the storm subsides.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

A FEMALE RABBI.

Miss Ray Frank, the Pioneer in a New Calling For Women.

Ray Frank is a young California Jewess who will soon have attained a distinction beyond that of any Hebrew woman since the days of Deborah, the prophetess. She is to be regularly ordained as a rabbi or preacher to a synagogue, an office in which she has never been a woman predecessor, for though Deborah preached to the Israelites there

There were no synagogues in her time. There have of course been noted women teachers since then, but there is a marked distinction between teacher and preacher in the mind of the Jew.

Miss Frank is already quite well enough prepared, from an ordinary point of view, to undertake the duties of the ministry and has had a flattering offer from some wealthy Jews in Chicago who desire to form a congregation with her as their rabbi, but she feels the need of further study before she is willing to be ordained. She is a graduate of the State University of California and studied Hebrew philosophy and theology at the Hebrew Union college at Cincinnati.

When the congress of religions was held in Chicago, Miss Frank, the youngest delegate present, was invited to open the proceedings with prayer, and those who heard her said it seemed as if she were inspired. She has already gained considerable fame as a lecturer and made two notable addresses in Chicago, one before the congress of representative Jewish women and the other before the Grand Army of the Republic on "The Daughters of the Republic."

Miss Frank began her career as a public teacher in the Sabbath school of the Oakland synagogue. She was very successful as a teacher of children and soon undertook a Bible class for older students, to which many of the adult members of the congregation were attracted. The synagogue had no rabbi then, and Miss Frank was invited to lecture before the congregation, which she did with great success. She is an excellent Hebrew and German scholar and has from childhood felt a strong inclination for Hebrew history and philosophy. Her name is Rachel, but she is much better known by the more familiar Ray.

HISTORIC MINING CAMPS.

They Are to Be Represented at California's Midwinter Fair.

One of the unique features of the California Midwinter fair is to be an old time Nevada mining camp of the days before the bonanza kings got in their fine work and gobbled the country up—the days, in fact, when those same bonanza kings were plain everyday miners themselves and lived in shanties and cooked and ate their own pork and beans just like the rest of the boys.

The veritable cabins that sheltered the kings in those ante-bonanza days are to be brought down from the gulches of the Sagebrush State and set up in Golden Gate park to illustrate from what humble beginnings colossal fortunes and United States senatorships may eventuate.

LOG CABIN PRINTING OFFICE.

The primitive miner's cradle are among the number which are promised to be forthcoming when the fair opens, and it has been suggested that they might be accompanied by some of the actual prospect holes dug by these bare-headed monarchs of the potential shovel, but there seems to be no certainty about that, and the attendant expense would probably be too great.

One thing is definitely settled, however, about this Nevada camp, and that is that the veracious Sam Davis of the Carson Appeal is to run an antique log cabin printing office and get out a regular screamer of a frontier weekly to be called The Sagebrush Selfcocker. It will be printed on a hand press, without any of the modern improvements, and will be filled with just such items and editorials as appeared in the columns of its prototypes of 40 years ago. Bret Harte, Mark Twain, Joaquin Miller and other pioneers in literature on the Pacific coast will be invited to contribute, but Sam Davis will ordinarily keep the columns full if he is not lynched too early in the game.

Room For a Few More Settlers. It is said there is room behind the Olympic range in western Washington for 5,000 homesteaders, in addition to the 4,000 or 5,000 already settled there. As yet the country is cut off from the outside world, is sparsely settled and is as much a wilderness as Kentucky was in the days of Daniel Boone.

Joseph Ruby, Son of Harry K. Ruby, of Columbia, Pa., Suffered From Birth With a Severe Form of Scrofula Humor

"Until my boy was six years of age he was from birth a terrible sufferer from scrofula humor. Sores would appear on him and spread until as large as a Dollar and then discharge, followed by others, so that the larger part of his body was one mass of sores all the time, especially severe on his legs and back of his ears and on his head. The humor had a very offensive odor, and caused

Intense Itching We cannot tell how that poor boy suffered in all those years. Physicians did not effect a cure. At last I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, as my druggist recommended it. In about two weeks the Sarsaparilla began to have effect. The sores commenced to heal up, the flesh began to look more natural and healthy. Then the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles he was entirely free from sores, having only the scars to show where they had been. These have all disappeared. We are unable to express our thanks for the good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done our little boy." HARRY K. RUBY, Box 356, Columbia, Pennsylvania.

THE NITHEROY'S DYNAMITE GUN.

The gun that is now attracting the whole world's attention is the pneumatic dynamite thrower mounted on President Peizoi's cruiser Nitheroy, formerly El Cid. Its work against the Brazilian insurgents at Rio Janeiro may revolutionize modern warfare. The gun weighs forty-three tons, and will throw a large quantity of dynamite three and one-half miles. The range of the big gun is regulated mainly by the amount of air let loose from the storage reservoir, where it is kept under 1,000 pounds pressure. The gun was invented by Captain Zalinski, U. S. A. It is believed that the Nitheroy, when she reaches Brazil, will seek the protection of one of the loyal forts and there, secure from the heavy projectiles of the Aquidaban, fire her dynamite projectiles at the rebel war ship.

A GREAT PLAN.

ANOTHER SCHEME ON FOOT FOR RESTORATION.

Hilo to be Seized, an Army to be Formed, and All to Go Merry as a Marriage Bell.

A new scheme has entered into the fertile intellect of the royalists. Disappointed in their attempt to oust the present Government from its position, and disgusted with the action of the United States, who were not willing to see a dissolute queen foisted on Hawaii, they have had the gray matter of their brains at work ever since the steamer arrived last Friday. This is the new scheme:

It is proposed to seize in some way, which, it is said, the leaders of the defunct party have already perfected, the town of Hilo, and to make that place the scene of the renewed grandeur of royalty. The town will be fortified, government offices established, and the royal gang is expected to go on undisturbed in its serenity.

As soon as the first part of this nice little programme is carried out, these embryo rulers intend to have an army. This is to be obtained from among the native population of Hawaii, and all those from the other islands who wish to follow the fallen fortunes of Mrs. Dominis. When this "army" is obtained, Charley Wilson is to have the honor of being its Generalissimo. Next to him in power, the valiant Mr. Cornwell is supposed to have been chosen.

When Wilson and his brave aid have licked the new troops into a condition of discipline, it is said that they will descend on the wolf on the fold; that they will wipe from off the face of the earth all men, to say nothing of women and children, who have the slightest kindly feeling for President Dole and his colleagues.

Just who was the author of this brilliant stroke of policy, is at present unknown. That it has some foundation, absurd though it may seem, is proven from the fact of its having come directly from a royalist, who in a moment of exhilaration at the bright prospects before him and his party, disclosed the facts of the coup that is supposed to be coming. The exact time for the bombardment of Hilo has not yet been set.

A Little Story.

There's a little story
Of a little Blount;
Not a bit of glory,
He was Paramount.
There's a little story
Of a little Blount.

How he went to Lili,
Offering a crown;
Most supremely silly,
When the queen was down,
Gracious, what a gillie,
From a country town.

How he went to settle
Questions he had fixed;
What a pretty kettle
He had slyly mixed;
He was in fine fettle,
He was likely fixed.

That's the little story
Of a little Blount,
Knocking out Old Glory,
He was Paramount;
That's the little story
Of a little Blount.

-N. Y. Sun.

If we are not greatly mistaken President Cleveland's Administration will encounter its greatest failure in connection with the Hawaiian Question.—Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

The probable truth is that Minister Willis found when he got to Hawaii that Blount had misrepresented the matter to Cleveland and Cleveland had misrepresented it to him.—Harford Post.

THE ROLE OF THE ROYAL PAGE.

A deposed queen sat brooding one day
O'er the fate that attends on the great;
She bemoaned her sad fate, and was
Vexed at the way
The "bad boys" had acted of late.

They had stolen her crown, on her throne
Had sat down,
And had cribbed all her powder and
Guns;
And they wouldn't obey when Grove
Said "get away
You bad boys—aren't you scared at my frown?"

There were guns everywhere, and
shouts filled the air,
Of "Down with the Lilly—let the Eagle fly high!"
The Bulldog may howl and the Lion
may roar,
But all rotten thrones shall be knocked into pie."

She groaned as she thought, "there are guns all around me;
Oh! who will revenge me on these horrid people?"
They've guns in the barracks and, it
now seems to me,
They've even stowed some in the opposite steeple.

"I must know if it is, or is not, so;
Where's my waiter-in-chief? He can tell.
What ho! Slaves! Attend! Quick, find me my Joe.
Wikiwiki, or I'll send you to sheol."

On the instant appeared a devoted slave
A small one, but brave—and he thought, I ween,
That for him 'twas glory enough to receive
A kick or a curse from a queen.

"Down! Down! On your knees!"
cried the royal sprig.
"How dare you stand on your tiny legs?
I'll make you dance the devil's jig,
If you dare approach me on your pegs."

His brain new pants the carpet pressed,
So quickly he seemed to take root.
"What's the errand?" whined he,
"I'll take no rest,
But, like a sky-rocket, I'll scoot."

The frown left her brow as she said,
"That's how
Loyal slaves should all learn to do;
I wish all the small fry could be here
just now,
To take a good lesson from you.

"Now trot right along, my nice little
man,
With this note to my Toady-in-chief.
He may give you a tip; so run as fast
as you can;
From my fears I must have quick relief.

"I give you no tip; 'tis enough, I
ween,
For so loyal a knight as you are,
To be first errand-boy to the Queen.
Your appointment shall be my first care.

"When my knight of big paunch and big head
Shall conduct me back to my throne;
And of me it ne'er shall be said:
'She forgot the devotion you've shown.'

"You shall have a red cap with a nice
band of gold,
And a jacket with nice, gilded stripes.
When your devotion's too big to be told,
You shall kiss my big toe—for dear
G. are my lips.

"You may now kiss my foot—I was washed only last week,
Then my mandate to Josephus carry.
'Tis he, and he only, with whom I
would speak;
So haste, nor, to play peg top,
tarry.

The little man ran as fast as he could;
But, when the service was over,
He said to the boys: "I do wish she would Go marry that pig-headed Grover.

"She treats me as if I were naught
but a child,
When, you know, I'm such a big
man.
By gum and I swan, to put it mild,
Longer stand it, I'm gormed if I can.

"Then, you see boys, somehow,
there's got into my head
An idea, and it rattles like peas in a cup.
The idea is this—with grief be it said—
The Queen and we fellers is all in the soup.

"Grover said it, and meant it, and to Lili was true;
But the Yanks are disgusted, his big head is busted—
C. G., B. and V. are in the soup too.
We're all up the spout—Restoration is dead.

"Queens don't smell quite so sweet
as they did,
Except to the Johnnies, who—well, don'tcher know?
They've got on their hands a bloomin'
kid,
And the beastly mess and the blasted
ado,

"Which the 'Bad Boys' have made about Guardy's pet, (Though who made him her guarddian as he's not yet her dad—
Nobody, here nor there, knows as yet)—
Has made the Bulldog whine and the Lion look sad.

"I vow I'll turn white and train with the gang
Who think royalty's dead. They're right, by jinks.
To forego my living will cause me a
pang;
But crownless queens are no good.
Yes, I'll pay for the drinks!"

The Temperance Crusaders Celebrate Their Natal Day on Saturday Evening.

On Saturday evening, December 23d, a meeting was held in the hall of the Y. M. C. A., in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the Temperance Crusade, from which sprang that world-known organization, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. J. M. Whitney, President of the Association in these islands, presided, opening the meeting with the Crusade hymn "Give to the Winds Thy Fears." Dr. Beckwith read the 141st Psalm, known as the Crusade psalm and offered prayer. A solo was rendered by Miss Wing, one of Honolulu's well-known singers. Mrs. Whitney then gave a brief history of those far-away Crusade days, which was intensely interesting, the more so from her having been an actor in the field.

Then followed Mrs. Leavitt, who gave her views of the work of the W. C. T. U.—the sober second thought of the Crusade. One of the most prominent features was the bringing forward of the women of the English-speaking world. At the beginning of the work there were only about six or eight women on the platform, while at present there are many hundreds, some of them our most eloquent public speakers. Another most hopeful outcome of the W. C. T. U. is that the children of the land are being taught in the public schools the scientific side, and in the Sabbath schools the moral effects of alcoholic drinks. Mrs. Leavitt is always interesting, and especially so in this address. Although the exercises were of a high order, there were but few to enjoy them, Christmas Eve proving an inauspicious time for a temperance rally.

A PRAIRIE NEW YEAR

HOW THE COWBOYS CELEBRATE ON THE WESTERN PLAINS.

Social Grades Are Unknown, and "Store Clothes" Confer No Distinction—Wild Turkey, Roast Shote and Possum at the Midnight Feast—Dancing the Fandangoo.

A few days before New Year's preparations are begun for the big dance which inaugurates the season's festivities on the western plains. The ranch where the ball or "fandangoo" is to be held is literally given over to the boys for the occasion, and they never fail to make the most of it.

Besides, this is the one opportunity of the year to spend money lavishly for the sake of a good time. An extra cook or two are hired, and supplies enough laid in to feed a small army.

A more heterogeneous mixture of edibles can scarcely be imagined—raisins, nuts, candies, canned meats and fruits, pickles, crackers—anything kept and recommended by the obliging and neighborly grocery man.

In addition to the store bought delicacies for the feast, the ranch cook distinguishes himself in the way of barbecued shote, game, "possum an taters," pies and cakes and the like.

As for the fandango, the preparations are few and simple. Beds and other space consuming pieces of furniture are removed from the rooms intended for the dance.

By 6 o'clock in the evening the guests begin to arrive, the boys having gone after the girls, on horseback generally, some of the "tony" couples coming in buggies, the high seated "piano boxed" vehicles of the west, with their double teams and general air of smartness.

The girls have their party dresses tucked up under their black calico riding skirts, some of them bringing waists, gloves and white kid slippers, done up in a bundle, to be put on after they arrive.

The music is furnished by negro fiddlers, whose repertory of old fashioned "breakdowns" is never improved upon nor ever falls short of its early charm and infection upon its hearers.

Perhaps you never saw a cowboy's fandango. Their style of dancing is peculiar to themselves. Like their horses' build and gait, it is made for hard and long service. It is a solemn, rhythmic sort of posing, the heels rarely leaving the floor, as much dancing being done with the arms as with the feet.

There is almost no distinction of classes or social grades in the west. Years ago, in the formative time of cattle ranching, the cowboy was a sui generis. His father and grandfather were cowboys, "day wranglers," "night hawks" and "cow punchers."

The western woman or "gal" is more typical. She may be the "boss" daughter, educated "on east," the "renter's" daughter, with only a smattering education from the free school, or the "hired girl," plucky, independent and "good as her betters."

In the same "set" there may be one man with a "store" suit on; another in his regular suit, consisting of blue flannel overshirt and leather belt, buckskin leggings or cottonade overalls.

The boys laugh loud, clap each other, hang their "gruns" on the wall while they are dancing, steal behind the house for their drink between sets, but they treat the girls like queens. No matter how rough their clothes, they generally have white hands and small, well clad feet. They will wear boots, but they have them made with high heels of fine leather, pointed toes and often red tops.

They revel in dancing. They are graceful, natural, muscular and active. Dancing to them is horseback riding in good company, under shelter and to the tune of a fiddle. It gives free play to their untiring, restless bodies and at the same time satisfies and delights their love of women's society and good fellowship.

These holiday dances last all night, their only breakfast being at 10 o'clock, when eggnog is served, and at 12, when the big supper is eaten. Then, with renewed vigor and spirits, they return to the floor. The fires burn low in the great chimneys, the kerosene lamps flicker and smoke, the fiddlers doze and play on mechanically; the girls languish, and even the cowboy himself feels the force and strain of protracted, time measured motion.

Not until the dull red glow of sunrise creeps over the dim prairies does the music stop.

The Illustrated Tourists' Guide That popular work, "THE TOURISTS GUIDE THROUGH THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS," is meeting with a steady sale both at home and abroad.

SIX MILLION MILES WE'VE SPED.

Once Again Old Mother Earth Has Rolled Around the Sun.

This is the beginning of a new year, and we have made a very long journey. Old travelers say that when a man gets lost in the wilderness he goes round and round in trying to go ahead, and he finds himself following his own tracks in a circle.

This is mighty curious to me. Who is doing it? This world has been going on this grand round for thousands of years, maybe millions of years, and is still at it.

I confess my ignorance and feel as humble as a dog when I contemplate the wonders and mysteries of creation. I don't understand how the corn grows, nor the flowers bloom, nor the birds hatch their young, and yet I realize that everything has been made for our good, our comfort, our pleasure.

I was popping corn last night for a little grandchild, and I know that in the grand design of Providence this little corn was created just to please the children and nothing else.

The evidences of design and care and love are all around us everywhere and in everything, and I cannot understand how a thoughtful man can be an agnostic or an infidel.

The custom of giving presents and particularly that of exchanging New Year's calls is essentially Chinese. The coincidence of these two rather peculiar acts of brotherly love coexisting in Holland and Scotland should furnish cause for thought.

It is an amusing spectacle in China to see the creditor mercilessly hunting down the debtor during the few days that remain. No one is exempt from the necessity, for in order to pay his own debts he must in turn collect what is due to him.

Besides this painful phase of Chinese Yuletide there are other preparations to be made for the fitting celebration of the great three day festival, beginning with the first day of the first month.

The red peach paper which has been removed from the doorway must be replaced, and therefore about this time the professional letter writer of the Chinese quarter takes his station on the street corner and is busily employed in writing sentences of good omen.

It is quite customary also to bring these red paper slips to the joss-house, where for a trifling fee they are stamped with the seal of the joss. Certainly it is worth taking some trouble with a little piece of paper which is to do duty for an entire year, for as soon as the slips have been prepared and stamped they are used to the doorposts against the time when the evil spirits shall return and make the last state of the man worse than the first.

The following superstitions in connection with New Year's are still firmly believed in various parts of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

On New Year's morning go to a well or fountain and leave an apple and noggay, and the water will keep fresh and be more wholesome all the year.

If a dark complexioned man crosses your threshold first on New Year's day, you will be prosperous; if a blond, unlucky, and if a redheaded man dire disaster will surely follow.—Selected.
