A WONDERFUL CELEBRATION.

What Honolulu Did On Its Government's First Birthday.

THE SPEECHES AND SPEAKERS OF THE EVENING.

Splendid Illuminations at the Executive Building—The Morning's Parade—Fireworks in the Evening—The Largest Crowd Ever Gathered Together in Hawaii Assembles On Palace Square.

The greatest anniversary in Hawaiian history has come and gone. January 17th, a day that will live in the memories of all loyal people in the group, a day that by us and our descendants will be considered a day of rejoicing and gladness, a day that will be celebrated by everyone.

The celebration of the day started early in the morning, and a regular 4th of July noise was heard from all quarters. Guns, firecrackers, bombs, tin horns and every other available instrument that would make a noise was used. At about 6 A.M. the "Antiques and Horribles" turned out. At 9:30 the parade of the military forces started and drew an immense crowd, estimated at at least 4000 people, who watched their evolutions with great interest. The reception of the President and Mrs. Dole was also a big attraction.

The raising of the big American flag on the flagpole of the American League also took place during the morning. In the afternoon the Band concert at Thomas Square attracted a large crowd.

But the crowning event of the day occurred in the evening. Palace Square was not only crowded, but it was absolutely jammed with a seething mass of humanity. Fully 7000 people were present at the evening's celebration, and they were amply repaid for their trouble in going. There has never been such a crowd on any previous occasion in the history of Hawaii, as assembled at the mass meeting last evening, and the fact that it was, in spite of the immense number, a most orderly gathering, is a matter of congratulation for the people of Honolulu.

The Executive Building and the grounds were a bower of loveliness. Thousands of lanterns were scattered about, suspended on trees, shrubbery, and every available point, while the building itself seemed covered with the soft radiance of innumerable lamps. Stretching from the ground on one side to the ground on the other, and extending to the highest point of the flagpoles on the Executive Building, was a row of delicately colored lanterns. At the top of each flagpole was a circle of lanterns. Across the entrance to the former palace, a row of brilliant red lights was extended. Each balcony was illuminated, and the whole building and grounds looked like a glimpse of fairy land.

All along the front of the grounds of the Executive Building a row of lanterns, lighted by incandescent electric lights, made a grand display. In front of the speakers' stand two long lines of flags of all nations were crossed. The stand itself was lighted by a number of lanterns, and decorated with American flags. A few chairs were placed in front of the stand, but the great majority of the listeners stood.

Before the speeches began, a great many fireworks were set off in the Executive Building yard. The display was magnificent, and is an immense credit to those in charge. There were firecrackers, sky rockets, dynamite bombs, red and green lights, and many other kinds of fiery illuminations, both before and after speech-making. They were fired from all parts of the grounds, and from the top of the building, and were greatly enjoyed by the thousands present. A more detailed account of the day's proceedings follows:

ANTIQUES AND HORRIBLES.

They Turn Out Early in the Morning and Enjoy Themselves.

The Antiques and Horribles made their appearance at 6 o'clock as advertised. All Fort street, between King and Hotel, was crowded with people, mostly little boys who were out early to see fun.

About 6:30 o'clock the procession started up Fort street. The caricatures were not horrible enough, and so created but little mirth and laughter. One of the characters represented Blount carrying a rat-trap on which were the words "Blount's Instruments." Much fun was caused by one of the antiques running through the crowd on a bullock. The take-off on Mrs. Vina King and Geo. Washington was poor. Satan made a good hit. About 7:30 o'clock the Antiques and Horribles, after parading through the principal streets, broke up near May's store on Fort street.

RAISING THE FLAG.

The American League's Huge Banner is Elevated.

The huge flag of the American League was unfurled to the breeze during the morning, accompanied by martial strains from the Band. The tall flagpole, with a big star on its top, looked rather bare before the big banner was hauled up, but when the wind caught the large folds of the flag, and the Stars and Stripes floated gracefully to the breeze, the pole was complete, and a cheer went up from the crowd that had assembled to see the raising.

THE PARADE.

The Troops Turn Out in Honor of the Day.

An immense throng of people watched the parade of the military on Palace Square during the morning. There were over 800 men in line, and the drill passed off in a manner most creditable to the officers and men of the different companies. Col. Soper received the troops, and after a short preliminary drill, they were handed over to Lieut.-Col. Fisher, who put them through the manual of arms. After this, the men were marched up Punchbowl to Beretania, to Fort, to King, to Nuuanu, and thence back to the barracks, where they were dismissed. When they arrived in front of the building of the American League, the new flag was saluted, while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner." The men were followed over the whole line of march by quite a crowd.

The following are the companies and the commanders who took part in the parade: Co. B, Captain John Good; Co. C, Captain Jos. Camara; Co. F, Captain Julius Asch; Co. D, Captain Hugh Gunn; Co. A, Captain Ziegler; and Co. E, Captain Wilder.

THE PRESIDENT RECEIVES.

A Few of Those Who Called at the Executive Building.

The reception held at the Executive Building was a great success, and was in many ways a marked contrast with those which were held in the palace under the monarchy. There was no stiffness, but an atmosphere of free and democratic good fellowship prevailed. The people came in freely, in their every morning dress, and were received by President Dole and Mrs. Dole, with the Vice-President, the members of the Cabinet and the members of the Supreme Court and their ladies, and also Judges Cooper and Whiting of the Circuit Court. Immediately behind the President were the officers of his staff, Col. J. H. Soper, Lieut.-Col. Fisher, and Major McLeod. Major Potter introduced the guests. Mrs. Dole was also assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mrs. Laukae, Miss Hopper, Miss Lowrey, Miss Parke, Miss Perry, Miss Von Holt, Miss Mossman, Miss Gilman, Miss Judd, Miss Wing, Miss Forbes, Miss Jones, Miss Hartwell, Miss Mott-Smith, Miss Helen Wilder, Miss Lita Wilder, the Misses Young, Miss Glade, Miss Atkinson, Miss Paty, Miss McGrew, Miss Hassinger, Miss Sorenson, Miss Hatch, Miss Tanner, Miss Afong and Miss Howland.

The reception took place in the large Council Chamber. It was undecorated except with bunches of chrysanthemums with which flower also many official button-holes were adorned. The stream of people came in double file, and flowed unceasingly from 11 o'clock until ten minutes of 12 after which it began to intermit. The halls and verandas of the Executive Building, as well as the Council Chamber, were thronged. Among those who called to pay their respects to the President and his wife were a considerable number of Hawaiians. One old, native from Manoa valley, presented Mr. Dole with a large bouquet. The incident was a very pretty and affecting one, and excited much attention.

A few naval officers were present in civilian dress. Royalists were conspicuous by their absence.

About one hundred of those present inscribed their names in the visitor's list, but owing to the large attendance hundreds went away without doing so.

Following are the names of those who registered:

PORTUGUESE PROCESSION.

Headed by the Band They Make a Fine Appearance.

Just before the speeches began, a large number of Portuguese marched down Richard street, headed by their own band. A large number of torches were carried, and also transparencies on which the following mottoes were conspicuous: "Progresso Uniao Liberdade," "No Monarchy in Ours," "P.G. and Portugee, We're the 400," "Liberty or Death," "Liberty and Union," "America is Our Goal," and others of a like nature. They took up their position on the corner of King and Richard streets, where they stood during the speaking.

THE SPEECHES.

What Was Said by the Speaker's of the Evening.

The immense throng that crowded around the speaker's platform long before the time set for the speeches to begin, was amply rewarded by hearing what followed. Eloquent eulogiums of the Provisional Government were applauded to the echo, and great enthusiasm was shown by the audience. Never has such a crowd been seen at a mass meeting in Honolulu. In the right hand part of the stand was the place reserved for the speakers and a few other prominent men. On the left, the press stand, occupied by representatives of the local press and the foreign correspondents.

Mr. Atherton, the Chairman of the evening, spoke as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS: The last mass meeting of citizens and others in this city was held on the 28th of November, 1893. It was called to protest against the action of Mr. Cleveland, and was large and enthusiastic. The protest was emphatic. Contrary to the expectation of Grover Cleveland, the publication of Gresham's letter bound together the men who had imperiled not only their lives but their property and their fortunes in an effort to establish a good, an honest and a strong government in Hawaii. The same men have come together again tonight, to do the same thing, and for the same purpose. We are here to celebrate the anniversary of the Provisional Government. It has been on trial for a full year, and in spite of prophecies it has stood firm and has been sustained by the best and the most trustworthy men in Hawaii. The future is in the hands of men whom we can trust. The Government is morally and financially sound, and upheld as it is by strong hands and willing hearts, it will be and prosper, and the providence of God shall be absorbed in the great American Union.

J. B. CASTLE—Fellow annexationists: It seems to me that there is but little to say, but that little should be said in tones to reverberate through the ages of Hawaii's future, in tones which will reach our children's children. These truths, citizens of the future State of Hawaii, others can emphasize better than I, but two thoughts have come to me. One year ago today noon, we stood on a platform with two planks—the abolition of the monarchy and absorption into the United States. On the 24th day of last month the Provisional Government drove the last nail in the coffin of Hawaiian monarchy. By the strength of our own right arms, and steadfast purpose, united in all that is essential, the last article of our platform will be accomplished, and our mother in Washington will take to herself her own. "All roads lead to Rome" was a proverbial saying in that great empire. In Hawaii every political highway and byway should lead to annexation. Our hope is in that. Every road leads to Washington. Standing upon this platform of one plank, all differences must vanish; all factions melt away. We wish no permanent government, nor anything else, which does not lead to annexation; no change which does not make for that; no republic but the great Republic. The question before us is simplicity itself. No man of clear brain and right heart will oppose union with that country which secures, by its system of equal liberty and equal laws, the best opportunity for the solution of every problem which can assail us in the century to come. We hear voices which might as well come from royalists: "You're not out of the woods yet." "You've not cut your chickens before they are hatched." Such words should come, if not from cowards, at least from men who have no faith in our cause. We celebrate the justice of our cause, and would do so still though a thousand restorations were to follow. I would write this day in our statutes and make it an eternal holiday, and in the future our children will thank God that there were men here who held to their purpose, and who never flinched. The 17th is a day of auspicious omen. It was the birthday of Kamehameha III., who, at the close of his life, wearied with an ineffectual struggle, fought for union with the United States. It is worthy of note that the influences against us then came from the slave power, as the only element which has caused delay now, has come from the party which upheld slavery in the United States. Gentlemen, I am done. I have made no preparation for tonight. This sea of heads, this illumination surpassing every other, are inspiration enough. There is one man in this city whom I envy. It is the anniversary of his wedding day, and when in the future his children gather around his knee, he will add to the patriotic memories of this holiday, those which cluster around the hearthside, and will bless doubly the 17th of January, 1893.

GEN. HARTWELL SAID:

The development of National liberty regulated by law is not the result of accident or chance. It is peculiar to no country nor clime; wherever there is a community in which intelligent honest and independent habits of thought and of action prevail, civil liberty is sure to come and abide. The day of the divine right of Kings and Queens has disappeared from modern civilization. But the supremacy of law is everywhere bound to assert itself, for it is the divine origin, in the Great Law Giver of the universe. On the 13th day of January, 1893, the Government of the Hawaiian Islands was that of a Constitutional Monarchy, under the Constitution which was established in July 1887. The head of the Government, the Queen, was not amenable to any law, except to the unwritten law which required her to govern herself in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution under which she became a sovereign, which she had sworn to observe, and under which she could legally remain a sovereign. If any official of the Government, whether in the Executive, Legislative or Judicial Departments, violated the law, he could be called to account, and the community had a remedy, more or less effective for such violation of its rights. What was the remedy if the head of the Government declined to be bound by the Constitution? When King John refused to govern himself by English laws, the barons of England, by the sword compelled him to sign and swear to the Magna Charta of Runnymede in the year 1215. The Right of Petition and the Right of Habeas Corpus followed, culminating in the glorious revolution of 1688, when William and Mary came over. All this is known to every school boy, as part of the history of civil liberty in the Great Republic of England. But how was it in Hawaii last January? The Hawaiian Runnymede had been passed in July of 1887, and yet the Hawaiian sovereign declined to keep her obligations. The result was that the system known as the Hawaiian Constitutional Monarchy no longer existed. It was like the removal of the keystone of an arch, the structure fell. It was then that citizens of Honolulu established a Provisional Government, in the presence of actual or impending anarchy. That was a conservative and not a revolutionary proceeding. The avowed and legitimate objects of that Government were to obtain and maintain the peace and order of the community with the United States of America. The latter object awaits the result of time and full consideration, and may depend upon events and contingencies yet to occur; but the preservation of law and order which thus far has been secured, is a simple necessity. For the continued accomplishment of that object, there will be ample scope for the wisdom and patriotism and moderation and charity of this community to display themselves. With the founders and supporters of the existing Government of Hawaii there is no place for selfish interest or personal aggrandizement. The strong common sense of the people is thoroughly enlisted in the cause of honest stable government. It will have nothing short of that, and it will have no other, for the end in view is, that "this shall be a government of laws and not of men."

PRESIDENT HOSMER: Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, and fellow citizens: At a banquet given to Prince Bismarck a few years before his retirement, he offered a toast to the three great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race, to the German Fatherland, to Great Britain and to the Young Republic of the West. While these three nations have taken the largest strides, and the Latin race has been less fortunate, it has an example of popular government in France, and the spirit of liberty still lives in Portugal. This community, with its mixed population, has seen fit to resist absolutism, and to create a purer form of government. For the last twenty years there has not been a stable government here, a government that commanded the respect of the civilized world. If we get annexation we will have a stable Government (A Voice). That's what we want; and that's what we will get. With annexation there will be a brilliant opportunity for every industrious man and prosperity will be within the grasp of all. The Niagara river will bring a flood of trade, and immensely enhance the importance of these islands. Annexation is manifest destiny, and we are bound to have it. During these troubles we have been fortunate in the possession of men who have been willing, at great personal laws and sacrifice to assume the burdens and responsibilities of public office. We want to assure them of our heavy support, and entire confidence, and they have it.

H. T. Waterhouse spoke briefly in Hawaii:

[Pointing to the motto ALOHA:] That is our foundation, to live in love to each other. The light has broken upon us—we have lived in darkness. Let us now embrace the light. The doors of the former palace were opened today for the people, and we are glad that that movement will enlarge the opportunities of the poor. Then go forward and secure liberty and prosperity.

W. O. SMITH.—I am to speak on behalf of the Provisional Government. I am sorry no one worthier has been found. (A Voice: You are good enough) Our feeling should be one of gratitude and pride. I am proud of the strong and brave men who have supported the Provisional Government for the past year. The speaker then went on to say a good word for the Hawaiians who had been quiet and orderly, submitting to the laws, although the meaning of the movement had been misrepresented to them, and they were mistrustful in consequence. Europeans would not have acted so under the same circumstances. It was necessary to have patience and forbearance with them. Matters of a public nature were difficult enough to deal with under any circumstances, but now this is more than ordinarily the case. The ordinary channels of expression through the ballot box have been closed, and there has been a powerful hostile influence from without to contend against. It is a matter of pride that thus far self-interest has been subordinated to higher considerations. Men have stood ready to make any sacrifices to support the great principle at stake. If anyone thinks it is an easy job to be wet nurse to a baby government, let him try it and see. The baby has been teething, has had the whooping cough and the measles, and lately it has been suffering with the colic, and then the grandmother in the United States wanted to come over and spank it. But it has lived through it all, and is a lusty and growing infant, and with your aid and support, another year will find it stronger. I have just a few words more to say. I don't know in just what form our future difficulties will arrive. Our grand object is the attainment of good government through union with the United States. We must subordinate personal ambition and self-interest to this one end, and then we will move on to success.

Some one in the crowd then proposed three cheers for President Dole, which were given with a will.

JUDGE ROBERTSON: I thank the Committee for giving me this opportunity to appear as a fellow annexationist. A year ago I was five thousand miles away, unconscious of what was taking place and unable to take part in resistance to the fatal act of the foolish Queen. Upon the 17th of the five Commissioners in the United States, I recognized the same spirit which told Kalakaua in 1887 to come down from his high horse, and in 1889 told Bob Wilcox to come out from his gasoline tank. I was pleased to hear that the boys of '87 were still in the ranks in 1893. I read a letter in the Star the other day in which a British sailor was offended at being called a boy, but I shall never feel insulted at being called "one of the boys." Old men whose voices are the voice of God, and when she violated the conditions and abused her privileges, the people had an inalienable right to take it away from her again. Many had hoped that she had learned something from the example of Kalakaua and believed that she should have a fair chance. The Supreme Court gave her a chance to choose her own Cabinet, and everybody knows how she returned the compliment in the constitution which she didn't promulgate. While we decline to return in our steps, we must be patient and considerate. The period is one of transition and trial, and the future will depend on our present conduct. With an Administration like the present, we may be sure that what the Government does will be for the best interest of the country at large, and that their efforts will be finally crowned with success.

WALTER G. SMITH said:

The 17th of January is a day which stands for a great deal that is inspiring in the political annals of the world. It was upon that day, in 1793, that the people of France condemned to death a despotic king and made liberty, which had been the dream of the philosopher, the possession of the subject. Then and there the republican movement in Europe, in spite of precedent and older activities, really began its onward march. Up to that era most of the people of the European mainland had been fixed in the belief that a State without a king and a church without a bishop, meant chaos and infidelity. The events which grouped about that January day brought them to their senses. The scales fell from their eyes when the king's head fell into the basket; and they saw that the divinity which had seemed to hedge the despot, had been but a figment of their own superstitious and inherited fears. It was then that the feudal principle in the politics of the world received a wound that was to defy all surgery. One hundred years after that great day in France came a day in Hawaii when the last independent sovereign in the western hemisphere lost her throne and the last recognized dynasty on this side of the globe was expunged from the calendar of princes. Thereupon the 17th of January gained the right to be known as one of the world's democratic holidays. It is the day from which an historical chapter in the contest of the subject against the crown, on both sides of the earth, transparently dates. Let what the day has witnessed for France, for Hawaii and for all men, approve the thought that it is a sign of normal times, the dawn of a future that kings and queens and potentates shall be no more; and that the reign of the people has begun. My friends, it builds up a man's political constitution to be a citizen of Hawaii in such an era as is now in the vigor and brightness of its prime. It is a privilege, so far as the principle is concerned, equal to that enjoyed by the fortunate men, some of them your ancestors and mine, who did duty at Faneuil Hall or behind the earthworks of Bunker Hill. I do not withdraw the comparison because Hawaii, in contrast with colonial America, is so small or because the forces with which you grappled, beside those which stood for England, were so weak and impotent; for it must ever be remembered that your defiance to the tottering Hawaiian monarchy lost no tone of sternness or of courage when you stood at bay to the President of the United States and the power which he misused. There is a hall or ehine in the annals of 1776 than the unwavering front which you preserved in your great emergency. There, on the one side, was the chief of sixty millions; here was an armed body of a paltry thousand; there was the strongest of modern powers, with its army and its fleets; here were a few lone rocks in the ocean without a fort upon its pinnacles and without a gun upon a deck; there was a great Government whose President had declared against us; there was a little band of men who said that she must pass over their dead bodies first; there in our harbor were the broadsides of a possible foe; here on shore was a battalion behind its sandbags! The odds were great; but the patriots of Hawaii took them; and if the American people, accused by that spectacle, had not placed themselves between us and all harm, I feel that here upon this soil would have been a new Thermopylae, not less consecrated to human courage than that which was the last of the memory of three hundred Greeks. It is not enough, fellow citizens, to look backward with pride, for we must look forward with courage. You destroyed a monarchy one year ago today; what are we to have in place of it a year from today or ten years hence? The problem of January 17th was easy to solve beside the problems that may be in store; problems which will tax the calmest statesmanship of the great man who is our President today; which will also tax the wisdom and experience of his Cabinet; the gladty and patience of our Councils. We have a party at home devoted to the lost cause and a moneyed influence abroad conspiring for control. We are in the midst of alien races and more alien creeds. There is a clamor of many tongues within our gates; the pressure of foreign Governments at the outer walls. Our enemies are powerful and insidious, and though some work secretly and others openly, all are united in the objects of the January revolution. It is for us to remain steadfast to those objects, no matter who or what may prove false to them; no matter who or what may conspire or oppose; no matter what self-interest may undermine; no matter who may come with the olive branch in one hand and a dagger in another. This is our highest public duty. There is but one political goal and watchword for us all and that is annexation. It is the beginning and the end of our political alphabet. It is the best hope of the Americans in Hawaii, and of thousands who are not Americans, except in principle, and it is the best that could happen to the natives. Whatever comes and whatever proposals of government may be made, we must be true to the objects of the revolution or we shall be undone by the forces now at work against us. But what, it may be asked, if annexation is long delayed—if the wait becomes one of years? What if we are left to work out our own salvation first? Fellow citizens, in that event, the best thing we can do is to work it out on the American plan and by the exercise of Anglo-Saxon pluck, and leave the rest to the ruler of all nations. I sometimes think that Providence may have a great political work for this little island community to perform before our common hopes may be secured and realized. It is in such small confines that God has set the mightiest forces of the world's affairs in motion. Events upon a narrow strip of sea shore, among the fishers and the poor, have swayed the world for nineteen centuries. Some of the brightest chapters of civilization and the strongest ones of philosophy and the most heroic ones of war, opened among the isles of Greece. Upon the narrow ledges of Switzerland a few plain people and a few plain rules did more for mankind in one unhappy day than all the empires. Among the sea-girt hills of Corsica was born the genius of Napoleon. In Hayti all men were once taught the might of a free people. Nor is this all! From those little islands in the northern seas where the British flag first reddened the dull air, the strongest tides of civilization have flowed for a thousand years in a continuous stream. You might take those islands and put them in the midst of one of the many great American lakes and they could not be seen from the shore; but their very name to the Zulu of the Cape, to the bushman of Australia, to the redman in the forests of Manitoba, to the high and the low all over the earth is the incarnation of one of the world's affairs. Surely the opportunity to do great things and useful things is not dependent upon the size of the theatre. It may be, for aught we know that Hawaii has some historical function to perform before her identity is merged into the greatness of the union. No man can foresee where and how the responsibility is to fall; but if it should be for us to spread ideas of free government through the thousands sent among us from the coast of Asia; if it becomes our privilege to inspire the same eagerness for liberty among them which the colonial Americans lodged in the minds of their French allies, and which the latter put to such good service on the 17th of January 1793, why that is a duty which all true Americans would be proud to perform as the best homage they could pay to the fatherland, to the flag they yet hope to see waving over the North American continent, and to the principles which they believe will some day dominate the world. Whether annexation comes now or is deferred for a generation, in either case there are American duties to perform on the Hawaiian Islands which our people will uphold with courage, administered with prudence and defend, if needs be, with their lives. And if such years are to come and stern duties befall, I am sure that none of us will forget that annexation is the end which must be sought, the object that must and shall be won. It is that which will give Hawaii diversified interests; fill the land with the latest means of modern progress; connect with the cable systems of the world multiply its population by a score; expand its commerce; give peace to all its people, and strengthen the authority of the American Republic in this great ocean. It is a privilege working for and one upon which courage and patience will not be wasted. Standing here upon ground consecrated to the pomp of monarchy to face with the derozalized h. of government, knowing no flag save that of the Stars and Stripes, we appeal to our countrymen to open their gates to us of kindred blood; but we pledge ourselves, if that cannot be, at least be worthy of the service by the work we shall do on this soil for the glory of American principles.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Some of the Happenings of Yesterday Briefly Reviewed.

Two large bonfires in honor of the day were made on the Peninsula at Ewa, by the Portuguese—from 7 till 8 o'clock.

The decorations of the Executive Building and grounds surpassed anything of the kind ever attempted.

Three thousand people grilled in the sun watching the parade.

The report of Judge Hartwell's and W. G. Smith's speeches in this issue is a verbatim one.

An old resident states that he has never seen as large a crowd in Honolulu, except possibly at the funeral of Kamehameha III.

One of the policemen on duty last night at Palace Square states that he had never seen such an orderly and well-behaved crowd.

The column was so long that when the head of the battalion reached the corner of Fort street and Beretania, one company was still on Kiehard street.

A number of the fireworks in the Executive grounds were "home-made."

The green and red lights that so beautifully lit up the grounds, made a scene not soon to be forgotten by those fortunate enough to see it.

The Portuguese procession was a great success.

C. S. Bradford deserved great credit for his arrangement of the speakers and press stand.

Notwithstanding the fact that orders were received by the officers of the men-of-war in port not to call, especially at the President's reception, number of them did so, though in plain clothes.

The fireworks that were being fired from the roof of the Executive Building, accidentally caught fire and went up in one big blaze. It was hard on the boys, but it was a beautiful sight while it lasted.

The flagpole of No. 1 Engine Company was gaily decorated with lanterns last evening.

In front of the engine house of No. 2 an evergreen banner was stretched across the street containing the word "Annexation." In the evening the flagpole and house were illuminated with lanterns.

INTO THE HARBOR.

Capt. Davies Gets a Cold Bath in the Harbor.

Tumbles in the harbor are getting to be the rule these days. Capt. Davies of the schooner Mahimahi had his turn Tuesday afternoon. He was going out of the harbor about 5 P. M. with the American flag flying at the peak. The captain was sitting on the rail admiring the stars and stripes as they floated in the breeze when he suddenly lost his balance and went over backwards, just as the schooner passed the Pacific Mail wharf. A native sailor sprang into the water after him and held the captain up until help arrived. The Claudine happened to have a boat in the water at the time and Philadelphia boys had one launched and over to the schooner inside of three minutes. The captain was picked up, a wetter if not a sadder man.

THREE CONVICTS MADE HAPPY.

The President Exercises His Pardoning Power Yesterday.

WO FULL PARDONS ARE GRANTED.

Commutation of Seven Years—Kaapuni and Christian Friest are Now Free Men—The Story of Their Crimes.

Two men, who have been suffering severe penalties of the law for their misdeeds, but have shown that they were repentant, and trying, to the best of their ability, to lead better lives, and to be, in the lowly sphere that they have occupied for years, an example to their fellow prisoners, were made happy beyond expression yesterday, by having their liberty given them. These men were Kaapuni, a native, and Christian Friest, a German. Ah Tuck, a Chinaman had his sentence lessened by seven years. The occasion of the release was the first anniversary of this Government's birth. It was thought well by the President and both Councils to exercise the power of clemency that is vested in them, and to release a few of the prisoners in the Oahu Prison. Those who were released, and the one who had his sentence commuted, were considered the best ones to have clemency shown them, as they have all been most faithful, honest, and well behaved since their incarceration.

The most important pardon was that of the native man, Kaapuni. He was sentenced about twenty years ago to be hung for murder. His sentence was afterward commuted to twenty-five years imprisonment at hard labor, and, taking into account the time allowance for good behavior, he had only a little over one year more to serve.

Kaapuni has been working at the Station house for some time past, and has been considered the most faithful "trustee" there. Yesterday, all unsuspecting, he was sent out to the prison and told that there were some things there for him to get back to the Station house.

On pretext or another he was kept at the prison until the Attorney-General and the Prison Inspectors arrived, when the convicts were all mustered into the courtyard of the jail. He was the first one called upon to have his pardon read to him. He had no idea of what was coming and apparently did not thoroughly understand the purport of the document which Marshal Hitchcock read in English. But when C. P. Iaukea, who was interpreting into Hawaiian, reached the part where it said that it was "granted unto Kaapuni a full and free pardon," the native, who had spent twenty years of the best part of his life behind prison bars, started, then looked incredulous, but at last, realizing the fact that there was no deception in the matter, but that from thenceforth he was a free man, the tears springing to his eyes he bowed his head upon his breast.

Christian Friest was next called up by Jailor Low and his pardon was read to him. He was not so expressive of his feelings as Kaapuni, but he, nevertheless, showed that he was deeply conscious of the fact that he was again a free man.

Ah Tuck, the Chinese who had a seven year commutation of sentence granted him, received the information with the stolidity of his race, but was wreathed in smiles as soon as the ceremony was over and he had received the congratulations of those present.

When the Attorney-General had concluded the reading of the pardons he made a short address to the prisoners, telling them that the pardoning power of the Executive was not intended to interfere in any way with the functions of the courts, but was now simply as a reward for good behavior in prison, and that each man had it in his power to reduce his time by obeying the laws of the prison. He reviewed the cases of each of the men pardoned, and pointed out how they had been rewarded for their good behavior. His remarks were translated into Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese and Portuguese by the interpreters present.

While the Attorney-General was speaking, the two pardoned men were seated on a bench alone. A turnkey brought them a suit of clothes, shoes and a hat, and as soon as Mr. Smith had finished, they went to their cells for the last time, to do once more the raiment of the outside world. When they came upstairs to bid good-bye to the prison officials, they were both much affected, and Kaapuni in particular could not restrain his tears. They were heartily congratulated by all the officials, and left the prison together.

The crimes for which the men were serving time can be told in a few words. A little over twenty years ago Kaapuni, who lived on the Volcano road, about ten miles from Hilo, was persuaded, through the influence of a kahuna, to assist two other young natives in the murder of an aged Hawaiian and his wife who were known to have a large amount of money in their house. This they did, in a most cold-blooded way, Kaapuni and another holding the old woman's arms while the third split her head with a hatchet. They then attacked the old man, and murdered him. The kahuna got all the money, about $1500. The murderers were all arrested. One turned States evidence, and escaped, while the others were both sentenced to be hanged. Kaapuni's sentence was afterwards commuted to twenty-five years imprisonment, but his companion had the original sentence carried out, and was officially killed in the prison yard.

Friest was convicted of an assault to murder and sentenced October 22, 1887, to eight years at hard labor. He had about one more year to serve.

Ah Tuck was serving a seventeen year sentence for manslaughter, of which he will now have about two years more, including his time allowance.

Friest's pardon read as follows:

I, Sanford B. Dole, President of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, Moved by just causes made known to me, and being advised thereto by the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Government, do hereby, in accordance with the power in me vested, grant unto Christian Friest, now in Oahu Prison, who was convicted in the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands on the 22d day of October, A. D. 1887, of the crime of assault with intent to murder, and sentenced at hard labor for the term of eight years and to pay one hundred and seventeen dollars fine and costs, a full and free pardon.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the Government of the Hawaiian Islands, this 17th day of January, A. D. 1894.

[Seal]. SANFORD B. DOLE. By the President: J. A. KING, Minister of Interior, S. M. DAMON, Minister of Finance, WILLIAM O. SMITH, Attorney General.

H. N. CASTLE : : : EDITOR

THURSDAY, : JANUARY 18, 1894.

THE celebration of the 17th of January was the most enthusiastic and successful festival ever held in this city.

A VICARIOUS APOLOGY.

A great deal of indignation is felt at the discourtesy, to use no stronger word, shown by the diplomatic corps towards the Provisional Government yesterday.

We feel no sympathy for this indignation, which appears to us quite unfounded. At the same time, it is so natural that it should be felt, and expressed, too, that we take the liberty of suggesting some considerations in explanation of the apparently extraordinary course of the American Minister.

In a nutshell, the truth is that Mr. Willis found himself in a dilemma. The entire sovereignty and independence of the Hawaiian Government having been fully recognized by the United States, the American warships should have fired a salute.

We think that the foregoing facts should teach us to be patient and forbearing in our relations with the United States Minister, and to withhold our judgments. Which ever way he turns he finds himself confronted with the bristling horns of a dilemma.

The whole situation is an extraordinary commentary upon the foreign policy which has brought things to such a pass. Mr. Cleveland disowning the acts of his predecessor is like the Pope who exhumed the body of a rival and cast it into the Tiber.

ing President Dole his "great and good friend" and then stabbing him under the fifth rib; between the open smiles of friendship and the secret acts of enmity, he has brought the diplomatic relations of the United States with this country into a tangle which it would take a greater than Solomon to unravel.

We are inclined to believe that the above suggestions contain a sound theory of the conduct of the American Minister. At the same time, any hypothesis can be at best but tentative and provisional. We are treading here diplomatic mazes, where all lights fail us, and precedents are not. Yet the theory indicated would seem to be as plausible as any.

In the meanwhile, in spite of the neglect of the United States Minister Plenipotentiary, the Provisional Government still lives and pursues its calm way unmoved. It has celebrated its anniversary, rejoicing. It has not only survived a year of trial, within and without, but it has grown stronger, wiser and better, and it stands today, secure in its strength, in the brightness of its hopes, in anticipations well founded upon the deeds of the past, leading away from despotism, pointing forward to the freedom of the American flag and remaining an abiding guarantee that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish in this outpost of civilization in the Pacific.

COURT NOTES.

No Court hearings on Tuesday. Summons were issued on Tuesday in the following cases:

H. R. Macfarlane vs. Ira A. Lowell, assumpsit. Carter & Carter for plaintiff.

Hawaiian Lodge, No. 21, F. & A. M. vs. F. H. Redward, action for the value of supplies agreed to be paid for by defendant as contractor. Carter & Carter for plaintiff.

Mrs. J. K. Iaukea vs. Wm. H. Cummings, claim for damage. This case is the outcome of an assault on plaintiff by defendant, resulting in defendant's being fined in the Honolulu District Court. J. L. Kaulukou for plaintiff; W. C. Achi for defendant.

Lucy Kila vs. S. K. Kila, ejectment. W. C. Achi for plaintiff.

Discontinuance was filed in the suit of Ruel Kinney, a minor, residing in Wai'alea, on this island, against Marshal Hitchcock, for the alleged wrongful detention of certain animals valued at $600, plaintiff being satisfied that such detention was done in good faith. J. M. Poepeo for plaintiff.

Lee Fat Seen is the person upon whom service was made of the summons in the case of William A. Dier, of Victoria, B. C., vs. Hop Yune & Co., of Honolulu. This is the case referred to the other day as being a remarkable one, for the reason that the value of a large amount of opium was endorsed on the back of the draft given by defendants on a Victoria firm called Tai Yune & Co. Summons were issued on the 12th, but it was not until the 16th that Hang Sam, the Chinese police officer, succeeded in finding the person upon whom service was made. C. Brown for plaintiff.

Certificates of appeal from the Honolulu District Court have been filed by the following defendants: E. A. Fortes, who was fined $15 for trespassing on land in Ewa owned by M. P. Robinson. E. Johnson for defendant.

Ah Hing, who was fined $50 for the unlawful possession of opium. P. Neumann for defendant. Chung Hing, who was sentenced to one month's imprisonment and to pay a fine of $50 for receiving stolen goods, viz, brass castings. C. W. Ashford for defendant.

Frank Ferreira, who was fined $5 for an assault on Samuel Ehrlich. W. A. Kinney for defendant.

W. H. Cummings, who was fined $10 for an assault on Mrs. J. K. Iaukea. W. C. Achi for defendant.

Ah Wing, who was fined $60 for unlawful possession of opium. P. Neumann for defendant.

Kurazoe Morioka and Utara Shigenaga, who were fined each to pay $30 for assaulting a countryman of theirs. P. Neumann for defendant.

These several appeals will be entered upon the calendar of cases to be tried at the next term of the Circuit Court.

A TIN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowrey Agreeably Surprised by Friends.

Some of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lowrey found out on Tuesday evening that they would celebrate the tenth anniversary of their marriage on the 17th. Putting their heads together, a surprise party was the result, and about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening that quiet family was suddenly startled by a resounding blast from many tin horns, and other din and clatter suitable for a tin wedding.

Book Your Orders At Once!

Messrs. Kohler & Chase of San Francisco have kindly consented to allow us the services of the leading man in their Tuning Department (for a limited season only) who will arrive in Honolulu in February.

We are now prepared to BOOK ORDERS for Piano Tuning and Repairing, same to be filled in the rotation as received.

Notwithstanding the extra expense incurred by obtaining this experienced man, the usual Honolulu prices will prevail.

THE PUBLIC will recognize the fact that this is an opportunity seldom offered them; the name of Kohler & Chase being a sufficient guarantee of the man's experience and good work.

N. B.—We beg to inform those parties who left orders with us for Mr. Benson to fill upon his return from Maui, that we have received information of Mr. Benson's departure for San Francisco last week.

IN PROBATE.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE of Ono Iuko, late of Honolulu, Oahu, deceased.

A document, purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Ono Iuko, deceased, having on the 12th day of January, A. D. 1894, been presented to said Probate Court and a petition for the Probate thereof and for the issuance of Letters Testamentary to Kealoaha Iuko having been filed by her, it is hereby ordered that MONDAY, the 19th day of February, A. D. 1894, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the Court Room of said Court, at the Court House Building in Honolulu, be, and the same is hereby appointed the time for proving said Will and hearing said application, when and where any person interested may appear and contest the said Will, and the granting of Letters Testamentary.

Dated Honolulu, H. I., Jan. 12, 1894. By the Court. GEO. LUCAS, Clerk. 3585-td

January 15, 1894.

It is said that one-sixth of plantation laborers' time is consumed in keeping their cane knives sharp. This we believe is owing to the fact that files are used for the purpose and a lasting edge is not put on the blade. The Frank Walcot Emery File must very soon supplant the file as a whet stone, because the effect is quicker and the result much more satisfactory.

Now that the plantation managers are working day and night to produce sugar and sell it for a shade less than it costs to make it, it is necessary for them to practice economy at every corner. We can help them materially in the matter of supplies, because our prices are considerably less than in other stores and the quality of the goods superior to the average run.

AN OCEAN TRAGEDY.

THE TERRIBLE FATE WHICH BEFEL THE CENTRAL AMERICA.

A Contest Between Angry Waters and a Bucket Line, in Which the Latter Lost a Cowardly Engineer—A Bird Guided the Ellen to the Rescue.

And who that remembers can hear without a thrill the name of the steamship Central America, which sank in a great storm on Sept. 12, 1857, with most of her officers and crew, nearly 400 passengers and $1,800,000 in gold?

The Central America was crowded with treasure laden from California on their way to New York. After leaving Havana on Sept. 8 she ran into a storm. The steamer began to leak, and Captain Hernden called upon the passengers to form lines and pass the buckets. Hour after hour the tempest howled, and the huge vessel groaned as the immense seas broke against her. Hour after hour the men with the buckets toiled for their lives; slowly the water gained on them.

The officers exhorted the bucket gangs not to pause for a moment if the ship was to be saved. The wind roared and the storm increased in fury. Every passenger stuck to his post and worked until he fell to the deck exhausted. Then the women offered to take the places of their worn-out, fainting husbands and brothers, but none of the men would allow it. As the horror of the situation gradually dawned on the minds of the women and children the air was filled with sounds of terror, but above the raging hurricane and the cries of lamentation rose the chorus of the bucket men:

Heave, oh! heave, oh! stamp and go.

We'll be jolly blather, oh!

All day long they sang this song and fought for life against the steadily rising water. Mrs. Easton, a bride on her honeymoon trip, passed bottles of wine to the heroic men to strengthen them in their desperate work. All night long the struggle was continued, and still the ocean gained inch by inch. The women begged, with tears in their eyes, to be allowed to help. They cheered the brave fellows and wept when they saw them fall to the deck with white faces and trembling limbs.

During the next day the peril of the steamer was increased by the lack of food and water. The hurricane tossed the sinking hull about and shattered her spars and masts. While the tired and sleepless men stuck to the buckets the women knelt and prayed to God for assistance.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon a sail was seen to windward. Guns were fired and signals of distress hoisted. The strange vessel, which turned out to be the brig Marine of Boston, answered the signals and tried to approach, but the gale blew her about three miles away.

Then the boats were made ready, and the women and children prepared themselves. They had to strip off nearly all their clothes and put on life preservers. Many of the women had gold, which they could not carry with them. Two of them went to their staterooms and took out bags of $20 gold pieces, which they threw down in the cabin, inviting the others to take what they pleased. The money rolled and jingled about on the floor, while the two weeping women explained that they were returning home to enjoy the fortune which they had made in California, and that they would be beggars if the ship was lost. None of the women dared to take more than two pieces of gold lest it might weigh them down.

The men still remained at their work, saying that they would remain on board until another ship arrived, as the Marine could not take all the passengers, and the women and children must be saved first. Among those heroes was Billy Birch, the famous minstrel.

Two of the lifeboats were smashed by the sea, but three boats were filled with women and children, many of the latter being infants. The last boat to leave carried the chief engineer. He solemnly promised the captain to return, but the moment he got into the boat he drew a knife and threatened to kill any one who followed him. Later on, when the women and children were put on board the Marine, the chief engineer, like the coward and liar he was, refused to return.

Now the sinking steamship was so low in the ocean that almost every wave swept her deck. Some of the passengers got into the rigging, while others tried to build a raft. Night came on. The storm continued to rage. The ship quivered and careened. Rockets soared up into the howling, angry heavens. Slowly the vessel filled with water, and the doomed host clinging to her deck and rigging prepared for death. There was no weeping and no shrieking, no wringing of hands. The captain stood at the wheel to the last.

All at once the ship, as if in an agony of death herself, made a plunge at an angle of 45 degrees, and with an appalling shriek from the engulfed mass she disappeared, and nearly 500 human beings were left struggling among the fierce waters. The scene was horrifying, and many who were saved afterward fainted at the mere memory of it.

A few held on to planks and spars all through the wild night, and as the day broke the Norwegian bark Ellen arrived and picked up 49 of the men.

"I was forced out of my course just before I met you," said the captain of the Ellen to the rescued passengers, "and when I altered my course a bird flew across the ship once or twice, and then darted into my face. A few minutes later the bird repeated its movements. I thought it an extraordinary thing, and while thinking on it in this way the mysterious bird reappeared, and for the third time flew into my face. This induced me to alter my course back to the original one, and in a short time I heard noises in the sea and discovered that I was in the midst of shipwrecked people."

Who shall say what power guided the flight of the frail messenger through the stormy air?—New York Herald.

ELECTIONS IN CORSICA.

The Loss of a Life or Two Apparently Not of Much Account.

The elections for the council general were going on all over the island of Corsica. The canton of Soccia comprises several villages, among others Guagno, noted for its famous mineral springs and also for the turbulence of its people. The elections took place in each village, and on the morrow the presidents of the several bureaux were to meet at Soccia for the formal declaration of the poll. In consequence of certain disorders that had already occurred, the mayor of Soccia issued an edict to the effect that none of the inhabitants of Guagno was to enter the village that day.

The inhabitants of Guagno chose to ignore this order, and 60 of them, all armed, and all angry that their candidate had been defeated, marched upon Soccia, headed by their mayor. Two gendarmes—not armed—had been placed at the entrance of the village and warned the advancing troops that they were to come no farther. The mayor of Guagno cried "Fire!" There was a general volley from his followers, and the two gendarmes fell dead. "They both bore excellent characters. One of them had been 24 years in the service, had been proposed for the military medal and leaves a wife and three children."

Such was the first account in the daily paper of Bastia. It occupied about seven inches of one column. The next day the editor had had time to reflect (or he, too, may possibly have had a significant warning), for in an article three inches long the account was somewhat qualified, and there was this important emendation, "It seems we were not correct in stating that it was the mayor of Guagno who gave the order to fire upon the gendarmes."

The third day there were just two lines, "In consequence of the unfortunate affair at Soccia it is probable that the mayor of Guagno will send in his resignation." That was all. I took in the newspaper regularly for a week, for I was curious to see how the affair would end, but there was nothing more—apparently no inquiry, no prosecution of the offenders.—Contemporary Review.

The Tower of Silence.

The Parsees will not burn or bury their dead, because they consider a dead body impure, and they will not suffer themselves to defile any of the elements. They therefore expose their corpses to vultures. One sees nothing but the quiet, white-robed procession (white is mourning among the Parsees) following the bier to the Tower of Silence. At the entrance they look their last on the dead, and the corpse bearers—a caste of such—carry it within the precincts and lay it down, to be finally disposed of by the vultures which crowd the tower.

Meanwhile, and for three days after, the priests say constant prayers for the departed, for his soul is supposed not to leave the world till the fourth day after death. On the fourth day there is the Uthanna ceremony, when large sums of money are given away in memory of the departed. The liturgy in use is a series of funeral sermons by Zoroaster.

Of superstitions the Parsees have had more than they retain. Connected with burial is the popular conception as to the efficacy of a dog's gaze after death. Dogs are sacred and supposed to guide the souls of the dead to heaven and to ward off evil spirits; hence it is customary to lead a dog into the chamber of death, that he may look at the corpse before it is carried to the tower.—Nineteenth Century.

Eccentricities in Palaces.

The King of Siam, who, according to late reports, has had a palace constructed which he can submerge in the sea at will and so live under water whenever he chooses, is not the only monarch who has indulged in eccentricities of this sort.

For instance, history has preserved the memory of the ice palace built by the Russian Empress Anne, who punished several of her dainty courtiers by compelling them to pass the night in this great chamber of state, where they were almost frozen to death.

The Czar Paul, ancestor of the present Emperor of Russia, constructed a room formed entirely of huge mirrors, where he spent hours walking to and fro in full uniform—a singular taste for the ugliest man in Russia.

One of the native princes of Java cooled his palace by making a stream fall in a cascade over the gateway, and the Indian despot Tippu Sahib placed beside his dinner table a life size figure of a tiger devouring an English officer, the roar of the beast and the shrieks of the victim being imitated by hidden machinery.—Harper's Young People.

Triple Pillar Saw Frame.

Among the recent mechanical constructions of note is a triple pillar saw frame, conveniently designed to occupy a space not much wider than an ordinary vertical log frame. In carrying out this plan the cross girder, which carries the saw frame and the crank shaft bearings, is in one piece, the whole being supported on three turned pillars, on which by means of screws connected by suitable gearing they are raised and lowered together. In order to limit the distance between the pillars as much as possible, the connecting rod is attached to the saw frame that is farthest from the crank shaft. There is a bell crank and flywheel at each end of the crank shaft, which enable the machine to work steadily at high speeds without excessive vibration.—New York Sun.

One For the Turk.

One of the stories that drifted out of the plaisance is of the mosque where prayers were said daily at regular intervals for the natives. A pious woman passing accosted a young Oriental and chatted with him, finishing with a nod toward his prayer house and the remark, "I hope you go to church every Sunday, like a Christian." "No," was the quick reply, "I go every day, like a Turk"—which must score one for the heathen.—New York Times.

ALMOST A MUTINY.

The Cabin of the Bark Margaret Witnesses a Lively Scene.

The bark Margaret, Captain Peterson, was the scene of something yesterday which promised to develop into a first-class mutiny. About 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon a drunken sailor entered the captain's cabin and began to belabor him with his tongue. The sailor was ordered to leave the cabin, but instead of doing so he directed his attention to a cabin boy standing near. The captain then drove the sailor out of the cabin, but the latter merely retired to seek reinforcements, and returned immediately with seven or eight other sailors who wore a very ugly and threatening look. The captain thereupon despatched the mate for the police, and at the same time he went aft himself and hoisted his colors upside down. Boats from the Philadelphia and Champion put off for the Margaret at once. On learning the facts the American officer recommended Captain Peterson to lay the matter before the United States Consul. The police arriving, the two ringleaders, Anderson and Gilbert Muir, were taken into custody.

THE SCHUETZEN LEAGUE.

A Celebration Held at Their Rooms Last Evening.

The International Schuetzen League had a celebration at their rooms last evening, in honor of the day. The rooms were crowded, and jollity and good fellowship were the order of the day. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and ferns, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. A committee of seven was appointed to wait upon the President to-day, to congratulate him and the Government on attaining the first birthday in so successful a manner, and on the celebration of yesterday. The committee consisted of Messrs C. Klemme, Cordes, Fetter, Buchgost, Schmit, Naileborn and H. Klemme.

Franklin Egg Coal

[ANTHRACITE.]

For household use or any purpose; burns clean and without smoke, does not black utensils of a kitchen with a 1/4 inch of soot; is invariably the Coal used by every house-keeper in the Eastern States and will go 50 per cent. farther than the ordinary American or Australian soft Coal. There is a trick in knowing how to use it which is easily acquired and after you get your hand in with it, you will never use any other. In bags at your door for $15 per ton, or if you can get your drayman to cart it to you in bulk, the price will be $13 per ton.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Hurrah for the Seventeenth! The Stockholders of the Peoples Ice Company meet to-day. It was reported last evening that Dr. Howard was seriously ill. The Councils meet at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The Kawaihau and Kamehameha schools had no holiday yesterday. It is now probable that the Mariposa will arrive before tomorrow.

Almost every office and store in town was closed yesterday in honor of the day. Sealed tenders for printing of the quarterly Finance report will be received until noon today.

R. W. Wilcox gave a luau on Tuesday evening, it being the first anniversary of his son's birth.

A library of Theosophical science and literature has been opened in the Foster block on Nuuanu street.

The passengers for the Colonies by the S. S. Mariposa today are C. A. McDowell, R. S. Stafford and Miss Stafford.

The International Schutzen League is rapidly increasing, and bids fair to become a very strong organization.

A special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Queen's Hospital will be held at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow.

The Schutzen Club took up a collection among themselves for Christian Friest, the man who was pardoned yesterday, and realized quite a sum.

The Band will play at Thomas square this evening, unless the Mariposa is in port. In that event, the concert will take place at the Hawaiian Hotel.

What a relief! No more buttons to sew on. Ask for the Mother's Friend shirt waist, the latest improvement. For sale at N. S. Sachs', Fort street.

C. B. Wilson, ex-marshal of an ex-queen of an ex-kingdom, called on his ex-sovereign Tuesday evening. He probably expected some orders as to yesterday's celebration.

The bark Martha Davis spoke the British bark Archer 98 days out from Liverpool, bound for Vancouver, B. C.; on Nov. 13, in lat. 59 deg. 42 sec. S. and long. 77 deg. 16 sec. W. The captain reported all well on board.

As Mr. A. H. Benson is leaving for the Coast, the Hawaiian News Company have concluded negotiations with an experienced piano tuner from the firm of Kohler & Chase, of San Francisco, who will arrive here early next month.

The diplomatic corp did not recognize the holiday yesterday. Minister Willis declined the invitation to attend the reception. No naval ceremonies were permitted. The officers were forbidden to attend the reception except in civilian's dress.

The Pilot's house at the boat landing was moved down to the east end of the P. M. S. Co.'s wharf on Tuesday morning. The house was placed on the O. R. & L. Co.'s 80-ton scow and the whole was towed down to the Mail wharf by the tug Eleu.

A half Portuguese named Alick Nichol, presumably while under the influence of liquor, fired a 38-caliber revolver at Carl Bamberger, a member of Company A volunteers Tuesday evening. Nichol was arrested yesterday and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

A number of Hawaiians gave a luau yesterday afternoon at the residence of George L. Desha, at Palama. Annexationists and royalists, with their wives, sat down to the luau, but politics were excluded. After refreshments the party indulged in playing croquet and social chat.

Most of the merchant marine in the harbor had their colors flying yesterday in honor of the first anniversary of the Provisional Government. The schooner Aloha was decorated with bunting from stem to stern, while the Colusa, Bangor and Mauna Ala were the only vessels which did not fly their colors.

A Capsized Boat.

Several men of the sealer Lilly L., now outside the harbor, tried to come ashore yesterday afternoon, and were capsized among the breakers. Boats were sent from the Philadelphia, Adams and Champion, and the men were all rescued. They were taken on board the American men of war, and given dry clothes. Capt. Thompson of the schooner desires to extend his thanks to those ships for their kindness to his men.

ALMOST SUICIDE.

Mrs. Ash Sends a Bullet Into Her Own Brain.

The vicinity of Hotel street was startled at 8:30 o'clock last night by the report of a pistol shot. It transpired that Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ash were having a little company of five people, besides several children, in their cottage on Hotel street, near the Arlington Hotel. Mrs. Ash spent the day at the Park, and when she came home late in the evening she appeared to be somewhat under the influence of liquor. A quarrel soon arose between the couple, and their guests abandoned the field, taking Ash's little girl with them. Mr. and Mrs. Ash were then left alone in the cottage and the difficulty between them assumed threatening proportions. The woman possessed herself of a pistol and threatened to shoot Ash, who thereupon beat a retreat. He had not gone far, however, before a shot was heard. Mrs. Ash had shot herself in the head, the bullet entering the upper right jaw and lodging near the left ear.

The injured woman was removed to the Hospital, where the wound was dressed by Dr. Andrews. About 11 o'clock last night Marshal Hitchcock and Deputy-Marshal Brown went up to the Hospital, intending to take down her statement, but the doctor thought it was not necessary. Dr. Andrews thinks the patient's condition a critical one, but believes she will recover.

No Politics in this, yet everybody should be in it, so Editors, Lawyers, Doctors, School Teachers, and even school children are invited to try their Columbian qualities in discovering the answer to the following proposition: From the word PHONOGRAPH there may be obtained by transposition of the letters therein and without using any of the letters but once, other words to the number of over sixty. There is now a key copy of all the words supposed to be obtainable, in the hands of the proprietor of the PHONOGRAPH PARLORS, Arlington Block, Hotel street. Every customer is supplied, on application, with a blank trial card and each word returned not listed, and which is contained in PHONOGRAPHE, will entitle the discoverer to a choice of six selections on the machine, free of charge. Anyone smart enough to get the list complete will be placed on the free list for one week, which means opportunity to listen to over 1000 selections. Trial tickets are given to each customer, free of charge. Call at the PHONOGRAPH PARLORS, ARRLINGTON BLOCK, and get one. The list of successful persons will be published on January 29th.
