STRONG MEAT ON HAWAII.

A New York Judge Gives His Opinion on the Subject.

NOAH DAVIS ROASTS RESTORATION.

A Careful Presentation of the Hawaiian Question from a Legal and Judicial Point of View—The Position of the Government Declared Impregnable.

The following paper, from the pen of Judge Noah Davis, formerly of the New York Supreme Court, was contributed by him to the columns of the Independent. It is very moderate in tone, and is one of the most convincing arguments yet made upon the Hawaiian question:

Ought our Government to overturn the Provisional Government of Hawaii and restore the ex-queen to the throne? Most emphatically No!

The revolution that brought the Provisional Government into being was caused by the queen's attempt, by usurpation, to destroy the existing Constitution and substitute arbitrary and despotic powers. This attempt authorized and justified her subjects to resist and depose her, and to substitute a new form of government.

This was done by her own people who proceeded to create the Provisional Government. Not a drop of blood was shed, not a blow was struck; but in the midst of the intense excitement, two hundred marines from an American vessel were ordered on shore to protect American life and property from dangers feared but not realized; and, doubtless, by the moral force of their presence they contributed to make the revolution a peaceful one.

The Provisional Government became complete in form. It was recognized as a Government by our resident Minister and by the representatives of other powers. It sought relations to it a Minister authorized to represent it as an existing power, and negotiated a treaty with it and submitted the treaty to the Senate. The present President had no doubt power to recall the treaty from the Senate; to refuse to ratify it, to decline to negotiate with or recognize the Provisional Government on whatever ground he chose; but he could not do those things by accrediting to it a Minister authorized to treat it as a lawfully existing power.

The moment he did that he recognized the Provisional Government as one which could be overturned or displaced by him only by lawful war. He sent his Commissioner "paramount" to present credentials to the Provisional Government and to recognize the "Great and Good Brother" who was its President. As such Commissioner he was accepted; and he entered upon the functions of the office with no disclosure of hostile intent.

If our Government had intended to recognize the deposed queen as the lawful ruler of Hawaii, it should have done so then by accrediting its paramount Commissioner to her Government; and no secret and concealed intent to recognize and restore her afterward by a quasi-corporation's name upon the causes of her dethronement can recall the recognition given to the existing Government, or its legitimate effects.

No Government, under such circumstances, can afterward say: "I came to destroy, not to recognize you, but to find cause for your destruction, and the substitution by my authority of your deposed predecessor in your place."

Had Blount disclosed to President Dole, when he presented his credentials to that "Great and Good Brother," that he came to learn whether it was his duty to displace by force the Provisional Government and reinstate the queen with all her power, what would have been the answer?

"That is war, and nobody but Congress can declare war. Take back your credentials."

But the concealment of the true character of the Commissioner "paramount" gave the President no greater power than his full and frank disclosure would have done.

From that hour there never has been a moment when our President could take any step to displace the Provisional Government except by authorized war; and our country knows no such war except one declared by Congress under the Constitution.

Again, on the return of his Commissioner "paramount" the President sent another representative (Willis) accredited to the Government of President Dole by open letters, and secretly to the queen without letters. His credentials were presented to the Provisional Government, accepted, and the Minister received. Here was a new recognition of the Provisional Government, which could not be recalled and the new Government displaced except by the power of war. The fraud of Willis in presenting his letters and concealing the true character of his mission, did not diminish their effect as a recognition of an existing and established Government.

If the true character of Willis' mission had been known, President Dole could have rightfully shown him to the door.

The unwritten "letters" to the deposed queen were also, in some secret manner, delivered to her; the queen came to the Minister and there learned from his mouth that the President's condition of her restoration to her throne was amnesty to all who had aided in dethroning her!

This was drawing her fangs too suddenly. She had gloated on her revenge too long to be thwarted by such a condition. "No," she cried, "I will behead them and confiscate their property. I accept no such condition;" and she left our Minister shrinking in horror from his master's queen!

Was there ever such a condition in all the complications of nations?

Here was the President loaded with a duty which, if it were one, he was bound to perform, if at all, without conditions. What business had he to say to the queen: "My duty is to restore you to your throne because my Government put you off it; but I won't do that duty unless upon condition that you will forego a large part of your queenly powers?" Thus keeping a poor deposed queen out of powers which her laws gave her as an independent sovereign, and off of her throne until she succumbed to his dictation as to what powers she shall not use.

Understand, I am merely discussing the question of the right of a great power that has wrongfully driven a queen from her throne, to refuse to restore her unless she will stipulate not to execute a part of the established laws of the kingdom.

From the moment of her refusal, it was our President that was dethroning the queen by his imposition of conditions!

In the light of common sense how absurd this monstrous farce appears, of our President undertaking to upset or destroy a foreign Government that his predecessor and he had over and over again recognized as an existing power, to be treated with as an independent nation, and in its place to set up a throne occupied by a queen who lost it through her usurpations which overturned the Constitution on which it rested.

There is no warrant in the laws of God or man to justify the President in his course. Nor is there the slightest reason why the Congress of this great nation should declare war to accomplish such a purpose, or give any sanction to the past or future intentions of the President.

We do not want Hawaii at the expense of any war. Our relations to her and hers to us must be peaceful and commercial; and while we cannot consent that any power of the world, except her own, shall possess or control her because of her peculiar position on our Pacific Coast, we will hold over her the perpetual shield of our long established policy toward all nations, known as "The Monroe Doctrine."

We are neither "setters-up" nor "putters-down" of kings or queens.

The Provisional Government of Hawaii under President Dole has shown itself under circumstances of supreme trial worthy of a seat among nations. Our plain duty is to recognize it by commercial and friendly treaties that shall secure its independence as a nation, and to us an ally that shall be a perpetual safeguard of our western coasts.

European Bounties on Sugar.

A gentleman well versed in the sugar business, speaking about the position of the sugar trade in view of the threatened legislation against it, said: "I received this morning a letter from one of the greatest Belgian sugar refiners, so-acting trade."

In it were cited the advantages the

THE FIRST CLUB ORGANIZED.

District One Gives the Union Party a Fine Send Off.

VOTERS HASTEN TO SIGN THE ROLL.

J. H. Fisher Elected President of the First Club Formed by the Union Party—A Strong Executive Committee Elected, But Nothing Cut and Dried.

The first meeting called to organize under the platform of the Union Party was held at the Government Nursery in the First District last evening. The meeting was called for 7:30, and at the appointed hour a considerable number of voters were assembled. The first thing done was to sign the pledge adopted in connection with the platform. It is as follows:

"PLEDGE.

"Declaring that I am opposed to any form of monarchical government in the Hawaiian Islands, and that I hold no allegiance to any organization which is not in sympathy with the Provisional Government and with the principles set forth in the platform of the 'UNION PARTY,' I, the undersigned, do solemnly declare in the presence of these witnesses that I will support the Provisional Government and will adhere to the principles laid down in the platform of the 'UNION PARTY' and embodied in the by-laws of this club.

Dated this day of 1894.

Witness."

After the signing of the roll the meeting was called to order by J. M. Magoon. He recited the proceedings which had led to the action taken, and stated the object of the meeting. A meeting of citizens had adopted a resolution calling for the adoption of a regular party organization. Under this resolution a committee of thirteen had been elected to draw up a platform and pledge. This had been done, and the platform and oath published in the papers, and this meeting was called to organize the loyal voters of both precincts of District 1, as part of the Union Party.

The first business of the evening was the election of a temporary secretary. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. J. M. McChesney being nominated, the former withdrew and Mr. McChesney was elected by acclamation.

The permanent officers to be elected were a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and executive committee of nine. Nominations for president being in order, Messrs. J. H. Fisher, Dillingham, Lansing, Hosmer and A. W. Carter were nominated, most of them declining as fast as their names were mentioned. The secretary was finally instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for J. H. Fisher. Mr. Fisher, who had declined the nomination four or five times, made the following brief inaugural address: "I am much obliged to you, gentlemen, for electing me to an office I didn't want."

Thomas Wright was unanimously elected Vice-President. The temporary secretary, J. M. McChesney, was made permanent. Nominations for Treasurer were extremely numerous, the names of Messrs. E. O. White, Charles Wilder, J. A. Magoon, Henry Davis, A. W. Carter, J. A. Gilman and W. C. Parke being put up in short order. Henry Davis declined on the ground that he was already Treasurer of three or four things and might "get the funds mixed," and most of the other candidates followed or preceded him. Mr. Lansing remarked that there seemed to be no office-seekers in district one. The "dark horse," W. C. Parke, finally won the day, and the Secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for that gentleman.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of the Executive Committee. Mr. Magoon favored postponing the choice of this committee until the next meeting of the club, as it was very important that the Portuguese and Hawaiians should have a proper representation, as there were a large number of both nationalities who would become members of the club. The matter ought to be carefully considered.

Mr. Kidwell did not favor postponement. He opposed any waiting for the men who did not come by the men who did.

Nominations being called for, the following names were placed before the club: J. M. Vivas, D. L. Naone, E. L. Hosmer, B. F. Dillingham, A. W. Keech, P. A. Dias, Henry Davis, Capt. Kidwell, Capt. Ziegler, L. C. Ables, A. W. Carter, F. S. Dodge, J. F. Brown, J. B. Castle, F. W. McChesney, C. F. Wolfe, C. H. Kluegel, Chas. Williams, T. F. Lansing, Geo. Robertson, Andrew Brown.

The name of Mr. Dias was withdrawn, on the ground that he was not yet a member of the club.

On motion of Mr. Magoon, the election was deferred until the next meeting of the club; but the motion was reconsidered, and the election was proceeded with. A number of the candidates withdrew, so that the list finally balloted upon was as follows: Messrs. Vivas, Naone, Hosmer, Keech, Dodge, Brown (J. F.), McChesney (F. W.), Kluegel, Williams, Castle (J. B.), Robertson, Wolfe and Ziegler.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following gentlemen as the Executive Committee: J. M. Vivas, F. A. Hosmer, A. W. Keech, Chas. Williams, D. L. Naone, F. S. Dodge, C. H. Kluegel, Geo. Robertson, F. W. McChesney.

Upon motion the next time for meeting was fixed for Saturday evening of this week at the same place at 7:30. Provision was made for the translation of the platform into Hawaiian and Portuguese. Future meetings are to be provided with Hawaiian and Portuguese interpreters. The platform and by-laws were adopted.

After three rousing cheers for the Union Party, the meeting adjourned. Following is a list of those who signed the pledge:

SOMETHING ABOUT STAMPS.

A Valuable Collection Owned by Baron Rothschild.

The following is taken from an exchange and it will be read with interest by local stamp collectors: As high as $1,000 has been paid for a single postage stamp. The greatest collection in the world is owned by the multi-millionaire, Ferrary, and is worth $500,000—that is to say, it would bring that amount at auction tomorrow. The collection of Baron Rothschild has been appraised at $200,000. These and one other in possession of an English millionaire named Tapelare are the three great collections of the world. It cannot be said that money spent in this way is unproductive, inasmuch as stamps are continually increasing in value. Rare stamps have doubled in value in the last eight years. There are at present about 1000 stamp merchants in the United States doing business on a capital of all the way from $100 to $100,000.

Chinese Laws.

A law the influence of which may be felt far beyond the dominions of the Emperor of China is now under consideration by the officials of the Celestial Empire. It is nothing less than a repeal of the old statute which forbids the Chinese to emigrate under pain of decapitation. Although obsolete, this ancient enactment is used by informers and the local mandarins as a means of extorting heavy tribute from returned emigrants in order that they may secure immunity from its penalties. The exactions and blackmail levied on these returning Chinese seem almost incredible; but there are several well-attested instances in which wealthy Chinese from Singapore have been stripped of their entire personal possessions before having reached their homes. It is estimated by the Chinese Consul-General, at Singapore, that of the 1,000,000 Chinese residing at the Straits Settlement at least one-half of them would immediately return home but for fear of these exactions. The new law might go far toward solving the Chinese immigration question. It is the wish of every Chinaman to go home to die, and many would doubtless depart each year if they could be protected against the official rapacity which is fostered by the existing law.—Exchange.

The Value of a Cable.

It illustrates the need of a Pacific cable that the news of the two most important events in the Hawaiian episode passed between Washington and Honolulu only after traveling backward round the globe some 21,000 miles in order to compass a direct distance of some 5000 miles. The news of the decision of President Cleveland to attempt the restoration of the queen reached Hawaii first by steamer from New Zealand, having traveled by telegraph under the North Atlantic and through the whole of Europe, Asia and Australia to reach the port from which the steamer sailed. Similarly, the first news that the Provisional Government refused to accede to the President's demands reached Washington by steamer from Honolulu to New Zealand, and thence by telegraph back over the same round-about route. A cable 2500 miles long, from Honolulu to San Francisco, would have saved 21,000 miles of telegraphic and steamship travel and about two weeks of time in each instance.—New York Sun.

For further particulars, apply to J. A. MAGOON, Attorney for Thos. R. and John Lucas, executors of the Will of Geo. Lucas, deceased, for themselves and John Nott. Dated Honolulu, February 23d, 1894.

The property covered by said mortgage being all and singular the following described personal property, situate and being at the shop and office heretofore owned and occupied by G. W. Lincoln, on the makai side of King street, in said Honolulu, consisting of

- 1. One iron tilting-top combination saw table and all saws used in connection therewith.
2. One set Dado cutters and head.
3. One grindstone, frame and pulleys complete.
4. One boring machine attachment for saw table and three emery wheels.
5. One steam engine and boiler and all shuffling, pulleys and belting attached thereto or used in connection therewith.
6. One large iron safe now in mortgagee's said office.
7. One desk and all other office furniture in said mortgagee's office.
8. One mortise machine and all chisels belonging to or used in connection therewith.
9. The lease by and under which said mortgagee holds the said premises. (The said lease has not very long to run, but may be renewed upon favorable terms by the purchaser for which arrangements can be made before the sale. The lease is a valuable one as the rents derived thereunder by the lessee should equal if not exceed the ground rent, leaving this large shop and mill practically rent free.)

National Cane Shredder

PATENTED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

The attention of Planters and Agents is called to the following letter from Mr. JOHN A. SCOTT, Manager of the Hilo Sugar Co., regarding the working of the National Cane Shredder, which he has just introduced into the Mill of that Company:

WAINAKI, HILO, HAWAII, January 22d, 1894.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to yours of the 16th inst regarding the National Cane Shredder furnished by the Hilo Sugar Co. of New York, and erected by the Hilo Sugar Co. this past season,

I would beg to say, that it has now been in operation day and night during the past three weeks working on plant cane, and also hard ratoon, and it is giving me the greatest satisfaction. The more I see of its capabilities, the better pleased I am that I put it in, as I am satisfied that it will repay the original outlay in a short time, in saving of labor, higher extraction, etc.

It is shredding from 350 to 400 tons of cane every 22 hours with the greatest ease, and it could shred a much larger quantity if necessary. It delivers the shredded cane in an even uniform feed to the three roller mill, which receives it without the intervention of any labor, and as the cane is thoroughly shredded or disintegrated it relieves the mill of a great deal of strain, thus reducing the liability of broken shafts, gearing, etc. There is a saving of four (4) men daily on the mill, as only one man is required to regulate the amount of cane delivered by the carrier to the shredder. It has increased the extraction from 4 to 5 per cent.

The economical use of steam is generally a serious consideration in adding new machinery, as in most mills the boiler power is taxed to its highest limit, as it was in this mill, and any increased demand necessitated an additional boiler. But I find that the shredder and the three roll mill engines combined use no more steam than the three roll mill engine did when working on whole cane, while doing better work and more of it, and owing to the uniform feed on the mill, the engine demands very little attention.

The Megass from the shredded cane makes superior fuel, and the firemen have less difficulty in maintaining a uniform pressure of steam than formerly.

I will be pleased to have a call from parties interested, as it is necessary to see the machine at work to fully appreciate its capabilities.

I remain, very truly yours, (Sig.) JOHN A. SCOTT, Manager Hilo Sugar Co.

Plans for erection of these shredders may be seen at the office of the Agents, where prices and other particulars may also be obtained.

THE HAWAIIAN MUDDLE.

Dole's Plan for a Hawaiian Republic.

An interview with President Dole, written by William Preston Harrison, was telegraphed on the 16th inst. to the Chicago Times from San Francisco and was printed that day. To the editor of the Times, who has been making a careful study of Hawaiian affairs, the Provisional leader outlined his plans for the establishment of a republican government for the islands. In response to a question as to what steps are to be taken for the formation of a permanent government President Dole said:

"We shall be working on our plans toward the establishment of a republic, but will take no definite action until Congress shall have definitely disposed of the question now before the House at Washington."

"Then no constitution has yet been drafted?"

"No, positively none, further than rough drafts drawn by members of the present Government and others in their individual capacity."

"If Congress rejects the annexation treaty, then what?"

"A republic will undoubtedly be established, but even then we will not act hastily, as the matter is one of the gravest importance to all parties concerned. We shall wish to have representative features in case of the establishment of a republic, and in the meantime the Provisional Government will continue to act as at present."

"How many houses will the new Legislature have?"

"There is no doubt that there will be two houses sitting independently of each other and not together, as under the monarchy."

"How about the necessary qualifications to be eligible for office?"

"The sentiment seems to be that the qualifications of the lower house should be very slight. Greater national qualifications will be necessary than were formerly demanded, both for voters and members of the House of Representatives. The mere ability to read and write, as formerly required, may mean nothing. My idea is that we should have a board of examination organized to pass on a voter's educational qualifications, and that a certificate should then be issued which would be good for all time. I refer to an educational certificate only. This would be especially necessary if the Japanese were allowed to vote."

"How about the Japanese question?"

"Nothing as yet has been decided, but the Japanese Government is pressing for the voting suffrage for their subjects here—not for all, as originally asked for, but for those becoming permanent residents of the Islands. With Japan it is largely a question of sentiment, as that nation objects to being termed Asiatic, as that term is now used. We have two treaties with Japan. One includes the favored-nation clause, another embraces what might be called the labor-convention clause—that is, in regard to the introduction of labor. We enjoy no treaty with China, although she has her consular representative here. The Chinese Government has never made any special request in regard to the Chinese subjects here, but nevertheless we may possibly include Chinese residents of the better class in the list of voters, provided they enjoy the necessary educational qualifications, as many already do."

"What, in your opinion, is the sentiment of the Chinese and Japanese toward the restoration of a monarchy?"

"The Japanese and Chinese engaged in legitimate enterprise are without doubt in favor of good, pure and honest government. Like business men of other nationalities, they would favor annexation or a good self-government for the Islands in case of such a decision. Gamblers, smugglers, and those interested in lotteries, would prefer a return of the old monarchy, of course."

"In regard to the upper house or Senate, what will be the qualifications?"

"That would be left also to popular ballot, I presume. Both as to voters and those eligible for the Senate, the qualifications will embrace a certain amount of taxable property and a specific legitimate income. Formerly to be eligible for the House of Nobles a man must have possessed $3000 worth of taxable property, an income of $600 and had to be 25 years of age. The same applied to the voter, except as to age, which was 20. We may raise the qualifications as to property and income in the future. The qualifications as to residence may be lengthened."

"Will the President be chosen by the Senate?"

"I think not. My belief is that he will be chosen by popular ballot. There will not, in my opinion, be any property restrictions applied to the office of President. Only age, probably 35 years or over, and a residence on the islands for a certain number of years, and educational qualifications. There is a difference of opinion as to the length of term of office. Some advocate four or six years without the privilege of the incumbent to immediately succeed himself. Others think the duration of office of President should be indefinite, and I am inclined to favor that proposition. In that event, as with the English Premier, upon a vote of want of confidence being passed by the House and Senate, the President must vacate his office, holding it only until his successor shall have been elected."

"How will the new constitution be proclaimed?"

"My belief is that a constitutional convention will be held, delegates to be chosen by those in sympathy with our present Government. This convention very likely will also include the members of the present Government. When assembled, the convention will agree on the new constitution, which will then be proclaimed by the executive. Among other things this constitution may embody a clause upholding the Provisional Government until the elections shall have been held. It has been suggested that there might be a clause empowering the present Advisory Council to become the upper house or part of it. There are fourteen members of the present Council. The balance of the Senate would then be chosen at the same general election when the members of the lower house would be elected. The terms of those Senators becoming such by now being members of the Advisory Council, would expire at the various intervals. This might be called a safety clause."

"When will this constitution probably be proclaimed?"

"Not until we receive final advices from Congress. The elections, I do not think, will be held for some time after. We have no intention of acting hastily, as the business community, as a rule, are satisfied with our present Government."

"Is there any danger of an uprising?"

"I think not. The new constitution will embrace a popular form of government, and that is what the natives are clamoring for."

"Suppose the new Government should be in favor of monarchy?"

"Such will not be the case. Besides the constitution would embrace a clause making it unconstitutional to return to or to advocate monarchy."

"Has any foreign power recognized the present Government as a government de jure?"

"Russia has. All other nations recognize us as a de facto Government. Until the new credentials to the French Commissioner shall have arrived I do not know what position France intends to assume."

"Suppose Congress assumes the attitude that the United States will wash her hands of the entire affair, leaving the Hawaiian Islands to take care of themselves, but looking toward the interference on the part of any other foreign power as an act unfriendly toward the United States, then what?"

"We should then feel that we could do as we pleased. We would not recognize the right of the United States to dictate to us. We would feel at liberty to deal with any foreign power as we might see fit, whether we should wish to make an exclusive commercial treaty, whether we should request annexation or a protectorate from any other nation. We feel that we have made a frank proposal to the United States for a political union. If she refuses we feel at liberty to look elsewhere for the same or any other course if we should so decide."

"How about the session of Pearl Harbor to the United States?"

"I am glad that you have asked me that question. The treaty made with the United States expires the latter part of this year. Upon the expiration of that treaty we need only give twelve months' notice to the United States to vacate, after which we would feel free to cede it to any other foreign power. I know that American statesmen unofficially have questioned this right, looking upon the session as a permanent one, but I think it was Secretary Bayard who in his official capacity took the ground that all obligations on our part end with the treaty now in force."

Union Party of the Hawaiian Islands

For the promotion of the best interests of all the people of the Hawaiian Islands and for the organization of a party having only this object in view, the following is adopted as a declaration of the principles upon which the organization to be known as the "Union Party" is to be established, and upon this platform we invite the co-operation of every friend of good government.

1st. REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT—The Union Party is unalterably opposed to any form of monarchical Government in the Hawaiian Islands, and declares its full allegiance to the Provisional Government, endorsing the proposal for a constitutional convention looking to the extension of popular representation in the Government.

2d. POLITICAL UNION—We declare our leading principles to be the accomplishment of a political union with the United States of America and the maintenance of a stable and honest government.

3d. PUBLIC LANDS—We favor such legislation as will promote the occupancy of all public lands, including those heretofore known as "crown lands," by small holders, and foster the development of various industries, believing it to be of vital importance that "many acres" should be for "many men."

4th. CITIZENS' RIGHTS—We declare that all citizens are equal before the law and we are opposed to monopolies or privileged classes, favoring participation in the government by every loyal citizen.

5th. LABOR—We favor such legislation as will substitute American, Portuguese and other European immigration, for Asiatic immigration, thus securing a class of immigrants for labor purposes which will ultimately be of permanent value to the country as settlers.

6th. PUBLIC WORKS—We favor the immediate establishment of a comprehensive system of public improvements that shall be of permanent value to the country and afford needed employment to the laboring classes, but we declare against importation of labor and material of any kind whatsoever for use on public works which can be obtained in the home market, and materials which must be obtained from abroad should be obtained through local dealers in open competition.

7th. PUBLIC OFFICES—We hold that no person should occupy any position of trust or profit under the Government who is not loyal to the same.

8th. PRISON LABOR—We oppose the employment of prison labor in any mechanical pursuits.

9th. TAX SYSTEM—We favor a revision of the tax system whereby all property, improved and unimproved, shall be taxed on an equitable basis.

dignation upon it. This is an average sample of the fairness which journals of the Nation's political stripe have brought to the Hawaiian question.

A HAWAIIAN SYMPOSIUM.

The New York Independent publishes a symposium on the Hawaiian question, to which contributions are made by a number of leading politicians, editors and clergymen. All, with a single exception, are opposed to the restoration of Liliuokalani. Probably these opinions, drawn as they are from different sections of the country, different parties and different professions, are fairly representative of the average sentiment of the country. Apart from the convincing nature of their utterances, the eminence of the men making them entitle them to the greatest weight.

We publish this morning the contribution made to this group of opinions by the Hon. Noah Davis, ex-Chief Justice of the New York Supreme Court. It is a calm and convincing statement of the rights of the Provisional Government.

KEEP THEM OUT.

The stream of doubtful and uncertain characters which is just now setting towards Honolulu from the outer world is a source of danger against which the Government should take prompt measures. It is not necessary to suppose that these men come here directly looking for mischief, or that they are deriving their maintenance from a royalist purse. It is sufficient to know that their antecedents are unknown, their purposes obscure, and their means of support invisible. The presence of such men in the community during these troublous times is a menace, and it should not be allowed.

The ADVERTISER is informed that the Government has this matter in hand, and bills are being prepared with the double object of enabling the Government to prevent doubtful characters from coming here, and to get rid of those who have already arrived. Every nation has the right to determine whom it shall exclude from its territory. This is a good time to have a stringent immigration law supplementing and fortifying the provisions of that which was introduced by Cecil Brown into the Legislature of 1892, and passed by that body. The United States has for some time protected itself by such laws, and the steamship companies which bring emigrants in contravention of their provisions are compelled to take them back again, besides being answerable for the expense of their arrest and detention. When Hawaii has passed a law, and the agents of steamers and sailing vessels on the Pacific Coast have received notice of its provisions and of the intention of this Government to enforce them, the undesirable immigration will cease.

To get rid of the undesirable characters already here will not be so easy a matter. At the same time a law can and should be passed, giving the Government the power to deport them, upon sufficient proof that they are vagrant or dangerous persons. In the meanwhile the Marshal has his eye on the crowd and the Government is ready to deal with them.

MR. EDITOR: Sir—Will you be good enough to publish the enclosed copy of a letter which I addressed today to President Dole.

In reply I was informed by the Attorney-General that the Government had not sought to give publicity to the matter, but that I was at liberty to use the copy of the letter which I had received.

I therefore enclose further for the favor of publication copy of a letter which President Dole has received from Mr. C. W. H. Sansom. I am, sir, Your obedient servant.

THEO. H. DAVIES.
Honolulu, Feb. 27, 1894.

SIR: I have received from Mr. C. W. H. Sansom, of Vancouver, B. C., (a gentleman who is entirely unknown to me) a note expressing his great regret at the published report of an investigation held here on the 6th inst., in which my name was coupled with his own.

Mr. Sansom informs me that he has written you upon the subject, and has given me copy of the letter.

I venture to hope that you will think it right to cause the publication of the letter in question, if it has come to hand. I have the honor to be, sir, Your obedient humble servant,

VANCOUVER, B. C.,
Feb. 16, 1894.

To PRESIDENT DOLE, Honolulu.

SIR:—Recent despatches in the papers state that Mr. Theo. H. Davies' name has been coupled with mine in an investigation held on the 6th inst., in Honolulu, and, to prevent such an act of great injustice towards that gentleman, I beg to inform you that he has nothing to do whatever with myself and the subject mentioned.

I remain yours truly,
(Signed) C. W. A. SANSON.

The beauty of Haviland China lies in its decorations and texture; its advantages lie in the fact that, (when bought from us), if you have a set there is no reason why it should not be complete. We sell you one piece or a full set, as you wish and we have duplicates in stock of every piece sold. You see the advantage over buying other kinds of China; if your cook or steward happens to break a piece you can procure another from us just like it. If you want to begin with a half dozen cups and saucers or the same number of plates it's agreeable to us because we know that it is the foundation of a full set that you will eventually buy from us. If you buy a full set at once we give you a discount of twenty-five per cent. from price charged in small quantities.

The popularity of the Jones Locked Fence is growing every day—not a week passes but some land owner feels the necessity for it and sends us an order: the economic fever is spreading with the fence and vice versa. Why shouldn't it? Unless it be a matter of sentiment where is the man who will not buy a superior article at a less cost when he can. You will not find him among the people who have acquired wealth and it's useless to look elsewhere because economy is not to be found in the vocabulary of the poorer people.

When there are indications of permanency in clear weather there will be a rush for paints, people will want to improve the appearance of their houses, Hendry's Ready Mixed is the best paint for use anywhere. It is cheaper in price, a better spreader and will retain its color and lustre longer than that which is compounded by a painter. We have sold a great many gallons of Hendry's Ready Mixed Paints in Honolulu and on the other Islands. Every one is satisfied.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1894.

The day of platforms and parties has come again.

An impression seems to be prevalent in some quarters that Mr. Davies has closed his epistolary activity. This is an error. His last word will be sent back by the pilot boat.

The grievance against the post-office of those persons who have been unable to get one-cent stamps will be ended this morning, and peace will reign again. All the stamps of the new issue will be on sale this morning.

There is no cause for alarm in the community on account of the alleged presence in it of an inchoate "Queen's army." The Government is strong in its military organization, in the guard of loyal citizens, and in the numbers and fidelity of its supporters. It is so amply able to take care of its enemies that we may be well assured they will never do anything overt enough to require its attention.

The Louisiana Lottery, which was supposed to have been driven out of the United States altogether, has succeeded in establishing a foothold in Florida. The New York Nation, which was indifferent or contemptuous upon the subject of the lottery in Honolulu, finds its establishment in Florida a scandal and expends a good deal of just in-

HOW THE NEW STAMPS LOOK.

Counterfeits of Them Made by the "Advertiser" Artist.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE STAMPS.

A New Electrotyping Outfit for the Office—When It Arrives Work Equal to the Best Will Be Turned Out at This Office.

The accompanying representations of two of the new series of postage stamps will give readers of the ADVERTISER a very good idea of the appearance of the originals. In order to get a better effect the artist has enlarged them one-half in dimensions.

The presentation of cuts in this journal is intended to be made a feature. The work is done by the chalk process, by Mr. Harry Roberts, an artist who has worked on many metropolitan dailies in the United States. His last position was on the San Francisco Post. The stereotype work was done by William Johnson, the foreman of the pressrooms of the GAZETTE Co. At present he is handicapped with a poor outfit, but this office has ordered an entirely new stereotyping apparatus and it will soon be here. The cuts will then show up better. As announced elsewhere, the stamps will be on sale today.

The following brief description of the new stamps is reprinted from this journal:

The series consists of one, two, five, ten and twenty-five cents, making a total value of forty-three cents.

The one-cent is a pleasing shade of yellow, and displays the Hawaiian coat of arms. The two-cent has the color known to dealers as sepia, and the design is a very pretty sea view of Honolulu, as like as such views generally are. The word Hawaii above and 2 cents below are in broad-faced white letters, which are very unique. The word postage is in a thin-faced letter printed in a dark color at the sides.

The five-cent is a light carmine stamp presenting the statue of Kamehameha I, in a horse-shoe frame, fringed with palm and taro leaves. The ten-cent stamp displays a handsome white star in the center, peeping out from among cocoanuts and palms. The last of the series is light blue and presents a very fine cut of President Dole.

The designs were the work of Mr. Holdsworth, and do him great credit. The stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Company.

THINKS IT A FAKE.

A Canadian Interviewed on the Subject of the Queen's Guard.

Mr. Hambly, in conversation with an ADVERTISER man last night, stated that he regarded the matter of the Vancouver enlistment as largely a fake. He did not believe that many of the men who had come down had had anything to do with the Riel rebellion. He thought that probably most of them had drifted here in search of work.

Mr. Hambly took part in the suppression of the Riel rebellion himself, being stationed with other troops at Calgary. He has been a resident of Honolulu for some time, and holds a position with the People's Ice Company.

WHERE IS JIM BROWN?

He Is in Great Demand About This Time.

"Jim" Brown, a local hackman, is a much-wanted man. He has not been seen since 1:45 o'clock yesterday. He put up his hack about the time mentioned and then disappeared as though the ground had opened and swallowed him. His fellow drivers are at a loss to locate him, but several of them stated last night that he suddenly made up his mind to take a trip to Maui and that he took passage on the steamer Kinau.

It is understood that Brown is an important witness in the Cartwright divorce case now before the courts. It is stated that he consented to appear on the plaintiff's side and that his evidence was of a damaging nature. He has evidently changed his mind for some reason. The officers are trying to locate him in order to serve a summons on him; but, if he has gone to Maui, there is very little chance of his appearing in the witness-box unless the case is put over until he is found and brought before the court.

There are two other recreant witnesses wanted also. They are out of sight for the present, but it is thought they are hiding in the city somewhere. They are two young half-castes named Rose and Ena Young. They are wanted also to give evidence for the plaintiff. They took a trip to Kauai some weeks ago, and were on board of the C. R. Bishop when that vessel was wrecked. They were reached by a court summons, and returned to town some days ago, and now they cannot be found.

JANUARY STEERAGE ARRIVALS.

About 132 Men Arrived During the Month Mentioned.

The "Canadian Suspect" scare has caused the authorities to take extra precautions, and with that end in view additional guards were distributed about the government buildings yesterday. A great many people have laughed at the idea of men coming to this country with ulterior motives, but there seems to be something in the story, as the police claim to have evidence enough to warrant them in believing that there is something wrong in the wholesale arrivals of steerage passengers.

During the month of January there were 132 such arrivals, and most of the men are now walking about and apparently not worrying about the fact that they are idle.

The police have been locating the men as fast as possible, and they have discovered that about sixty men are living in a lane which runs off Hotel street. Another batch of twenty-five are living quietly in a house on Fort street. Of course, these people are under the strictest surveillance, and the moment they attempt to make an unlawful move they will be called down by the police. The latest steerage arrivals are not considered dangerous, as most of them are Portuguese who have returned from Portugal with their wives and families. In the Arawa's lot of fourteen there were but four single men and little danger is feared from them.

THEY'RE AFTER HIM.

The Chinese Have a Fancied Grievance Against Mr. Morgan.

The Chinese colony, for some reason, has taken offense against James F. Morgan, the councilman and well known auctioneer. Political reasons are said to be the cause of their resentment. They are to get even for a fancied wrong by carrying into effect a custom patented in Ireland, and known as the "boycott."

Mr. Morgan was informed of the fact yesterday by a Chinese friend, who told him that Chinatown was decorated with placards requesting all Chinese not to do any business with the auctioneer under pain of being punished in some manner.

Mr. Morgan is not losing any sleep over the alleged boycott, and at the same time he is at a loss to know just how he queered himself with the Chinese. The nearest approach to a solution of the affair is that a committee, of which Mr. Morgan was chairman, recently reported in favor of a bill that called for the deportation of any future Chinese immigrants who would not resign contracts to work in the fields as laborers.

THE LAY OF THE SCARLET KING.

Oh, a rollicking thing is a chessboard King! I have never a care in the world. The duties of state do not bother my mate, I ride like Fate in the shape of "checkmate."

A HEROINE.

When Floyd Gardner and his wife decided to leave home for a few days, for the purpose of making some necessary purchases, they did it with many misgivings. Little Crow and his band had been committing some recent depredations several miles away, but had been followed by two regiments of government troops and driven over the Dakota border.

A few hours after they went away a strange sultriness was apparent in the atmosphere. "What makes the light so queer, sister?" asked Harvey, standing in the open door.

Katherine went to the door and looked around. Twelve or fifteen miles to the north a belt of wooded country—the Great Wood of Minnesota—rose clear against the horizon, while in every other direction the prairies stretched away in undulating slopes, yellow with goldenrod.

A close, sultry atmosphere surrounded them, a dead calm, only relieved by an occasional puff of hot wind that passed by and left the same dead calm as before.

Beulah, the colored woman, came to the door and stood looking off to the west, her hand shading her blinking eyes. "Laws! Miss Katherine, dat ar colt an whinnin' right smart. Kain't he be gwine to die on us, honey? Yer paw tuk a good look at him las' ting fo' he lit out, shuah?"

She waddled along slowly, for the day was warm and Beulah was fat, toward the lumber shop, or stable, where the colt was kept at night, being tethered on the open prairie during the day in sight of the house. Katherine, more swift of foot, flew on before and quickly gained the summit of the gradual ascent on which the barn was built.

Her hand was on the latch and she was about to enter, when on the distant horizon she saw a sight that held her motionless with sudden terror. The Indians were coming!

Away to the northwest an irregular line of horsemen were riding directly down upon them, and though at that distance she could not distinguish clearly she knew by their peculiar mode of riding that they were not white men. For one moment her heart sank in terror, the next her resolute spirit asserted itself.

Save themselves they must, but how? Foolish old Beulah, clever enough at concocting choice dishes over the kitchen range, was an added burden in this emergency. Could Katherine take the children with her on the colt's back and ride with them to the nearest cabin? What in such a case would become of Beulah?

She and her brothers might gain the sides of the ravine near by unobserved and hide securely in the caves along the sides, but there was Beulah.

"If papa were only here," she thought, and with the thought came, like an inspiration, a suggestion of a hiding place. She turned to Beulah, who had just waddled up to the stable. "Untie the colt and turn him loose, Beulah"—she spoke rapidly and with authority—"and then hurry back to the house and help me put the children and some things we shall need down in the cistern. The Indians are coming."

"Great day in de mawnin'" exclaimed Beulah, turning a sickly gray and sinking a mass of quivering flesh, to the ground.

"Get up; they'll catch you," screamed Katherine in Beulah's ear, but she might have talked to stone as well, so stupefied was the poor creature with fright.

"I'm going to leave you here," added Katherine in the hope of rousing her, and started for the house, when Beulah, out of sheer terror, gathered her wits together and ran clamorously after.

The cistern had been newly plastered and was yet a little damp, but no water had been conducted into it. "Go down that ladder," commanded Katherine, pointing to the ladder that had been left in the cistern by the workmen, and Beulah, not without difficulty, and indeed not without danger, since it had been constructed for no such weight as hers, obeyed. Katherine dared not take time to run to the top of the knoll for further observation. Every moment was precious.

A blanket and a pillow, a tin pail containing bread and cold meat, a pail of water that her father had brought from the distant spring that morning, were hastily let down to Beulah, and, last of all, the boys were helped down, and Katherine herself was about to descend when a breath of hot wind swept across her face.

She recognized now that the keener instincts of the colt had told before. The prairie was on fire!

In that moment intense mental agony took possession of the brave girl. The fire was coming straight toward them; of that there was no doubt. What could she do? She climbed swiftly up the ladder and looked around.

A large zinc covered board, formerly used to put under the kitchen stove, was standing near, leaning against the house. This she dragged to the mouth of the cistern and pulled it nearly over the opening, and was rejoiced to see that it was large enough to cover the entire space except a few inches on each side.

Then she ran to the kitchen and got some matches. "I must try back firing," she said. "It is our only chance either to save the house or ourselves, but can I do this before the Indians get here?"

Fear nerved her trembling hand as she scratched a match and, stooping down, applied it to the grass a few rods away from the house.

A puff of wind extinguished it before the grass caught fire. Another and yet another shared the same fate, her hands shaking so that she wondered how she held the light. Another attempt was successful, and she saw a feeble blaze run along the ground at her feet. Again and again she applied the fire, until a light, thin flame extended for about 20 yards each side of the house. This she knew would soon burn over and give the coming flames nothing to feed upon, while the light fire she started would not be sufficient to burn the house or stable.

She glanced around before again descending into the cistern. Nothing was in sight except a wall of smoke, black at the base, red above and blue with the writhing, curling vapor that swirled and spread above till it was absorbed in the atmosphere.

"Perhaps the Indians have gone to the ravine for protection," she thought; "if so, it is well we did not try it."

The air was growing hotter; the wind, fed by the combustion of the advancing flames, was blowing the fire in the yard closer every minute. There was a dull roaring beyond, where the high wall of fire rolled like fiery breakers, gathering force with each breath of wind. Clearly she could delay no longer.

"Help me pull up the ladder, Beulah," and this removed, she sat down with her feet over the edge of the cistern and dropped into the strong arms held up to catch her.

"Don't pull me down; I must pull the board over," she gasped. And this task accomplished, she sank down exhausted beside her brothers.

Harvey had been reciting to little Bruce the most blood curdling tales of Indian atrocities, and, frightened at the pictures he himself had conjured up to frighten his brother, sat with his head bent forward upon his knees, sobbing loudly.

Bruce threw his arms around Katherine's neck, too frightened to speak or utter a cry.

"Katy," he whispered, his breath coming in quick gasps, "are they coming, and will Little Crow scalp us and burn us at the stake, with little burning splinters stuck all over our bodies?"

Harvey, brought face to face, as it were, with the realization of his own bloodthirsty fancies, gave an agonizing howl.

"Hear 'em roar!" he cried. "O-o-h, why don't papa come? What did he go and leave us for?"

"It is the roar of the fire," his sister answered, with white lips; "it is coming nearer; but don't be afraid and don't cry, for it cannot touch us here."

The tide of living fire swept over them; the air, almost excluded from their cramped quarters, grew hot and suffocating; they could hear the crackle of the lurid flames, and a spark or two fell upon them through the crack overhead. But this fire was slight compared with the flaming wall, 12 or 15 feet high, which roared louder and still louder as it came leaping, crackling on.

This large fire, finding nothing to consume, thanks to Katherine's foresight in "back firing," divided, when it came to the spot already burned over, and swept each side of the cabin.

But the air was full of flying cinders; great clumps of grass were taken up by the wind and blown in every direction, sometimes falling down through the opening, where they were promptly caught and extinguished by Beulah, who had slowly recovered her wits.

"Laws, chile, dem chunks boun ter burn de house plum down ef dey shin roun dat way. Neber seen sech befo', and I's jes' clar riled at 'em, honey."

"You must hold me up, Beulah, and let me take a look out," said Katherine.

What a sight met her eyes! To the right, to the left, as far as she could see, a black ashen plain extended. Gone were the goldenrod and the prairie grass, with its heavy heads of seed nodding in the wind. On every side only ashes, that rose in dense clouds with every passing gust, except here and there a dimpled hollow where the fire still smoked and smoldered.

But the house was still standing. With a glad cry she called out, "Beulah, the house and stable are saved! Now we will get out of this hot place."

"but where are the Indians now?" Harvey. "Guess we don't want to get scalped, do we?"

Sure enough, where were they? In her exultation at escape from a nearer danger, Katherine had almost forgotten the greater one. She swept the horizon with her keenest glance. In that murky atmosphere the view, usually an extensive one, narrowed itself to closer boundaries. But so far as she could see no moving object met her view.

"They must have been driven west of this point by the fire," argued Katherine, shading her eyes with her hand.

Katherine knew that military defense had been provided by the government after a sickening loss of life among the settlers, and that Little Crow and his followers had thus been driven over the Dakota borders. But she did not know that predatory bands were making occasional detours from the main route of retreat about the less thickly settled parts of the country, stealing, murdering and kidnapping, and that less than a mile away a band of these murderous wretches were hidden in a prairie slough or ravine, which they had made a safe retreat by "back firing," waiting for night to fall before they descended upon the little cabin to wreak their bloodthirsty instincts upon its inhabitants.

Beulah now proposed that Katherine should go up and put down the ladder for her to climb out into more comfortable quarters.

"Seems like I done beat out by all dis yer catwampin, an I's jes' a-pinin' fer a cup o' tea, honey. De water's yere all handy, an I'll jes' take a few cobs from de stable fer a fire, an it'll be ready quick'n ye can bat yer eye."

But, alas! in the first movement that she made Beulah overturned the pail, and once on terra firma the difficulty grew more pressing. They must have something to eat, for it was past mid-afternoon and they had had nothing since breakfast.

"I'm not afraid. Give me the pail," said Katherine boldly, and started on a swift run toward the spring.

At the top of the ridge she paused a moment, and seeing nothing ran on. But the moment she took another step she knew by the light covering of ashes that the heaviest of the fire had not passed over the ground, and it must have been backfired. While she paused, uncertain what to do, a fearful yell sounded close to her ear, and a burly Indian, hideous in warpaint and feathers, grasped her from behind, leaped into his saddle and with another yell to his pony rode away like the wind, followed by his band.

Fatigued with the excitement of the day, Katherine, strong and brave as she was, succumbed to the sensations of deadly terror that possessed her. She made no sound, for fear choked the shrieks upon her lips. She had no resistance, but, white and helpless with fright, she felt herself dragged with brutal force to the pony's back and borne with incredible swiftness across the prairie. Sick with a deadly faintness, she sank into insensibility.

When she regained consciousness she was in an Indian camp. There were loud, hoarse shouts and savage yells as rifle balls whistled through the air. The ponies of the Indians, tethered close by, tugged and tore at their fastenings. There were shrill cries of dismay from the squaws and warwhoops from the braves as they hurried about in vain attempts at defense from a sudden surprise.

Then a voice called, "We've got 'em this time!" and Katherine was wide awake now, for in those tones she recognized a voice, loved always, but never so welcome as now—the voice of her dear father.

"One night more and they would have escaped us," said Mr. Gardner, as he held Katherine in his arms, trembling and sobbing, and oh, how happy! "And if we'd taken the north trail instead of the south on our way to town we shouldn't have met the troops who were in pursuit of the wretches. As it was we turned back under their escort, and when I found that my brave girl had been carried off captive I rode on with the soldiers. Thank God, my child, I find you safe!"

Katherine is a woman now, with children of her own to whom she sometimes tells this true story of the Sioux uprising of 1872.

"But, mamma," cries little Bruce, whose eyes and hair are so like those of the baby brother she remembers so well, though he has slept under the waving grass in the prairie cemetery these many years; "but, mamma, why didn't you fight back?" And with these words the incipient warrior nestles sleepily in her arms, to dream of impossible Indian fights in which he is the chief actor.—Montreal Star.

An Incident of Keneaw Mountain. In the course of the battle there occurred a pathetic incident showing that "blood is thicker than water." At one place on the mountain the dry leaves and brush began to burn, and the creeping flames encircled many a poor fellow lying helpless and in agony on the ground. The Confederates at that portion of the line were ordered to cease firing, and then one of their officers called to the Federals and offered to suspend hostilities long enough to allow the removal of the disabled. While the Union soldiers bore their comrades to the rear, the Confederates looked on, and then the fighting was renewed.—Blue and Gray.

"Mocking Catching." An actress who has played for several years the part of an old and crooked woman in a play that has had an extended run is obliged to give up the role for a curious reason. She finds that she is growing one-sided and to have a pronounced stoop that does not vanish when she leaves the stage.—Exchange.

Knew What to Say. I didn't hear it myself, but I know a man who says he was present when a Mrs. Newry said that when she visited Pompeii she "went right up and looked down the creature," explaining that as she wasn't Irish she didn't see why she should speak with a brogue and say creature.—New York Recorder.

Three Japanese have been arrested for keeping restaurants without the necessary license.
The Board of Health will hold the regular weekly meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock.
C. J. Lyons says that the storm is over, but that there are plenty more of them coming.
The steamer Warrimoo is due today from the Colonies en route to Vancouver and Puget Sound ports.
C. A. Spreckels, Rudolph Spreckels, W. E. Bond and others departed on the Claudine yesterday for a trip to Maui.
A committee of three was appointed last night to decorate the headquarters of Company B, of the National Guard.
The Wailuku Sugar Company will hold a special meeting this morning at 10 o'clock at the office of C. Brewer & Co.
Mystic Lodge, No. 2, K. of P., will celebrate the anniversary of the Pythian Period, at their Castle Hall, this evening.
The Misses Albu have returned to town. They will appear at Mr. Plunkett's benefit. The programme will appear in due time.
All persons having claims against the estate of C. A. Dogan are requested to present the same to United States Consul-General Mills.
F. H. Miller has resumed business and can be found at No. 154, Fort street. He is ready to paint signs, houses or anything else in his line.
C. Stoeckle the phonograph man, accompanied by W. B. Ash, left for Hilo yesterday. They intend to give public exhibitions with the phonograph.
C. B. Wilson is credited with saying on last Saturday that the ex-queen would be restored within nine days. This is a continuation of the old story.
Postmaster-General Oat has decided to put the new issue of stamps on sale this morning. No heavy sales of surcharged stamps were reported yesterday.
Some Japanese white mice were exhibited yesterday at W. S. Luce's store, and attracted a great deal of attention. The owner is anxious to dispose of them.
The Minister of the Interior will sell a parcel of Government land on Hawaii today. The sale takes place at noon, in front of the Executive Building.
A party of twenty-five Raymond and Whitcomb excursionists are booked to arrive here on the return of the Australia. Mr. C. H. Lyons will pilot the party as heretofore.
The Hawaiian Hardware Company have a new advertisement in this issue. It tells about Haviland china, the Jones locked fence, and several other popular inventions.
The public was somewhat inconvenienced by the fact that the one-cent stamps were all sold out; but happily the difficulty is over, as the new issue will be on sale today.
J. Cassiero, the man who stabbed the two police officers, will be examined on the 6th March, providing that officer Kaouli will be able to appear against him on that date.
E. P. Becker, who has been connected with the GAZETTE Company for some time, will leave for San Francisco today. During his stay here he has made many friends by his gentlemanly bearing.
The Sans Souci Hotel people have had a number of photographs of the place encased in a large and handsome frame. It will be sent to the Midwinter Fair. The Sans Souci is now the favorite bathing resort along the Waikiki beach.
The fund for the benefit of Officer Kaouli and the widow of Kauhane was increased by seven dollars yesterday. William T. Brigham paid $5 of the sum mentioned. The fund now amounts to $120.50. Send in your name for a small amount.
The Councils of the Government will hold a meeting tomorrow, when it is expected that something will be done toward electing a man to fill the vacancy made by the promotion of Mr. Hatch. It is understood that Mark Robinson will not allow his name to be used in connection with the office.

The Shuetzen Club.

The International Shuetzen Club held a meeting last evening. The meeting was a short one owing to the fact that some members of the club, including the President, had to attend at the Government nursery to assist in organizing a district club of the Union Party. Four new members were elected and eight proposals for membership were received some of which were from well-known Portuguese residents. After a number of bills were ordered paid, the meeting adjourned.

Kawaihau Concert.

The grand concert to be given at Kawaihau Church on Saturday evening, is for a laudable object, viz.: the benefit of the Kawaihau Seminary. The school chorus will render several numbers, but the main attraction will center in Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Turner, who have kindly consented to sing. Tickets are fifty cents each, and can be obtained at several stores in town. There should be a full house on this occasion.

Two Important Bills.

The Executive Council is engaged in the preparation of two bills which will probably be presented at the meeting of the Councils tomorrow. One of these bills provides for the deportation of dangerous characters, while the other will be a stringent immigration law of the type in force in the United States.

Election of Officers.

Company B held a meeting last evening and elected the following officers: Thomas Wall, formerly 2d Lieutenant, to the Captaincy; Oscar White, formerly 1st Sergeant, was promoted to 2d Lieutenant; Charles Atherton was elected treasurer.

WHARF AND WAVE.

DIAMOND HEAD, Feb. 27, 10 P. M.—Weather hazy; wind light south.

The German bark Nautilus is about loaded with sugar and it is expected she will depart for San Francisco tomorrow.

No passengers are booked to leave on the Warrimoo.

The departure of the Kilanea Hou was delayed last evening by the unexpected arrival of 5000 feet of lumber for Hawaii ports.

The Arawa brought about 400 tons of freight for this port. It was chiefly grain and feed.

The Canadian-Australian steamer Warrimoo, which is due today, en route to Vancouver, will carry a small shipment of bananas for Tacoma and Portland.

Bos'n Ben and several others were busily engaged yesterday decorating the stern of the Australia.

The Likieko will leave again tomorrow afternoon. Her present cargo of sugar will be transferred to the S. C. Allen.

The Australia will depart on Saturday with a heavy cargo of sugar and about 6000 bunches of bananas. She will not carry any rice this trip.

The departure of six island steamers made things lively yesterday along the water front.

The brig Consuelo recently left Kahului for San Francisco with a cargo of sugar valued at $22,007.85.

COURT NOTES.

Twentieth day of the February term. Judge Whiting yesterday occupied the second courtroom to hear a divorce suit, and Judge Cooper was on the bench in the first courtroom, where four jury convictions were secured.

Following are the four cases in which verdicts of guilty were recorded: Provisional Government vs. Ah Loy, burglary. Sentenced to one year's imprisonment at hard labor.

Provisional Government vs. Li Mau, unlawful possession of opium, being an appeal from the Waialua District Court. Found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50. W. R. Castle for defendant.

Provisional Government vs. Sheu Tin, opium selling, appeal from the District Court of Honolulu. Found guilty and sentence deferred until this morning. W. R. Castle for defendant.

The Cartwright divorce case was partly heard by Judge Whiting in the second courtroom. To be continued this morning. F. M. Hatch and W. A. Kinney for plaintiff; C. W. Ashford for defendant.

Appeal certificates in seven cases have been filed in the District Court of Honolulu; five criminal and two civil.

Warrant for the arrest of B. R. Foss has been filed in the clerk's office, signed by the Minister of Foreign Affairs. It is awaiting the Marshal's return on the same.

BOUND FOR THE VOLCANO.

The Kinan Departs Without Miss Helen Wilder. The season for visitors from abroad is now fairly opened and it is expected that business at the Volcano House will be rushing for some time to come.

One of the largest parties which has left this city for the crater left yesterday afternoon on the Kinan. There were about twenty-six people all told in the party.

There was a large crowd of people on the wharf to see the vessel depart, but owing to an interesting circumstance she did not get away until 2:30 o'clock.

About 2 o'clock a summons was served on Miss Helen Wilder, who intended to leave, to appear at once before the Circuit Court as a witness in the Cartwright divorce case now before Judge Whiting.

Miss Wilder had her baggage removed from the vessel, and the Kinan departed without her.

Hydrographic Map.

The hydrographic office of the Navy Department has started the new year with the issue of the first number of a pilot chart of the North Pacific ocean for January, 1894.

Its purpose is to illustrate the character of the monthly publication which has been planned by the hydrographic office for the benefit of the maritime people of the Pacific coast.

The estimates of the Secretary of the Navy for the next fiscal year contain an item of $10,000 for the publication of the chart, and if Congress should grant this sum it is proposed to issue on the first day of each month an edition showing graphically such information of timely interest and warning to mariners as can be collected from the reports of incoming navigators.

It will represent for the succeeding month, by reduction from the series of observations that have been for many years collecting at the Navy Department, the winds and currents to be expected, the region of prevailing fog and rain, the normal states of the barometer and thermometer, the feeding grounds of whales and seals and the most advantageous routes to be followed by sail and by steam.—Ex.
