Statement of Pioneer Building and Loan Association.

The semi-annual statement of the Pioneer Building and Loan Association of Hawaii for the term ending December 31, 1894, handed in to this office by Mr. A. V. Gear, its energetic Secretary, shows the financial affairs of the Association to be in a particularly satisfactory and flourishing condition. Among the salient features of the Secretary's report are noticed the following items of interest to the public:

Receipts for term, $22,849.33, of which amount $17,400 was borrowed by its members under the admirable co-operative terms provided in the by-laws of the Association.

The total amount loaned to shareholders is as follows: On real estate, $74,050; on stock of the Association, $6600; total, $80,650. The capital stock is $82,773.42, and reserve fund, $1517.09. Dividends earned during the year ending, December 31, 1894, equal 13 1/2 per cent on capital invested.

The tenth series of stock is now open, and shares may be obtained from the Secretary until Feb. 28th. The officers of the Association are: Theo. F. Lansing, president; S. B. Rose, vice-president; A. V. Gear, secretary; J. G. Rothwell, treasurer; who with the following constitute the board of directors: A. W. Keech, J. H. Fisher, J. J. Lecker, Geo. E. Boardman, Henry Smith, all of whom are well and favorably known to the community. A prosperous and useful future is predicted for this growing financial institution.

RE-ORGANIZATION.

Citizens' Guard To Be Divided Into Officered Divisions.

Under the plan adopted for re-organizing the Citizens' Guard the body will consist of four divisions, each in charge of a lieutenant. The divisions will be divided into three squads, each in charge of a sergeant. Squads will consist of three details, each in charge of a corporal. The first division will be that now assigned to Lieut. Geo. P. Castle; second division to Lieut. C. B. Ripley, including Masonic Temple corps and relieving King street bridge squad; third division will be made up of members of commands of J. V. Simonson, Geo. H. Greene and a new one to be formed; fourth division will consist of squads under T. B. Murray, W. P. O'Brien and Mounted Patrol. This division is for special duty, and will report at police headquarters. The squads in the outer districts, including Ewa, Koolau, Kabuku, etc., will be separate and independent, reporting directly to the marshal, and officered as may be deemed necessary. They will be designated as Citizens' Guard Ewa, Citizens' Guard Koolau, etc., etc. The changes mentioned will be effected without delay, and add materially to guidance and service. The command will remain under F. B. McStocker as captain.

YOUNG TEMPERANCE WORKERS.

Meeting of the Loyal Legion Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Over forty-two members of the Loyal Legion, a society of young temperance workers, gathered together yesterday afternoon in the parlors of Central Union Church and spent a very profitable hour in the consideration of topics bearing upon their work.

During the meeting Mrs. Jordan, who is so well known among the temperance workers of this city, spent quite a little time in teaching the members of the society a little song called "Down With the Saloon."

Dr. Hutchins, pastor of Central Union Church, made a few instructive and appropriate remarks on temperance and temperance workers.

Miss Mary Waterhouse was elected president of the society and Mrs. Arthur Wood, secretary.

The society expects to have a most profitable year, and the number of members present yesterday seem to justify such a view.

Teachers' Meeting Tonight.

The monthly meeting of the Teachers' Association will be held this evening at Y. M. C. A. Hall, commencing at 7 p. m. An address will be delivered by E. L. Brown, of the California University. Short addresses will be made by Professor F. A. Hosmer, A. T. Atkinson, Dr. Lyons and Theodore Richards. Musical selections will be furnished by the Misses Castle and Richards.

COLD SHOULDER TO REPUBLIC.

Cleveland Administration Continues a Policy of Indifference.

ADMIRAL WALKER CALLED AN ASS.

What the New York Tribune Has to Say Regarding the Attitude of the United States Toward the Hawaiian Republic—About Warships, Etc., Etc.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Some new and interesting information relating to the present attitude of the administration toward Hawaii has come to light. This intelligence will heighten public condemnation of the President and Secretary Gresham, and further demonstrate their stubbornness and lack of patriotism in dealing with a matter of so great importance to this country. The course of the administration in Hawaiian affairs, as is well known, has been opposed to the best interests of the United States from the start. It was bad enough to regard the report of "Paramount" Blount as fairly representing the Hawaiian situation, and later to conspire against the existing Government of the islands for the restoration of the dissolute Liliuokalani. The past schemes of the administration have been farcical in character, and fortunately ineffectual in execution. They have served, however, to show the bias and weakness of the administration.

Having failed so disastrously in their monarchical programme, and incidentally improved England's position at the expense of the best interests of this country, it seemed only reasonable to expect that Mr. Cleveland and his Secretary of State would see the folly of their past course and adopt one more in accord with American sentiment and requirements. Information at hand shows that the administration's present policy in Hawaii is to be one of absolute indifference and contempt. This negative policy, if the course determined upon can be dignified by such a word, is as injurious as were the previous active schemes against the welfare of the Provisional Government. Its effect will be to invite disorder, to further foreign cupidity, and to induce, perhaps, actual interference by foreign powers in the affairs of the islands. Mr. Cleveland has decided that Hawaii is to be ignored completely, and any and all moral and physical support to the existing government is to be withheld, whatever may be the change in the situation. Hawaiian affairs would not take the turn the President wished them to take some time ago, and he will now give to the islands the executive "cold shoulder." This country is to manifest no special interest in President Dole's government, and neither directly nor by implication is it to show evidence of concern in the success or failure of the Republic.

THE LATEST ORDERS TO WILLIS.

Hawaii is no nearer the United States, politically, according to the Administration's present attitude, than Japan, which, as is well known, is now in disfavour at the Cleveland "court." President Dole and his Government are to receive no encouragement from the President, but in fact are to be treated with less consideration than any other foreign power with which this country has intercourse. If the Republic endures, the fact will probably excite regret in the hearts of Mr. Cleveland and Secretary Gresham, Liliuokalani's staunch adherents. If it falls, there will be no lamentation. In either event the Administration will extend neither sympathy nor encouragement to the young Republic. The snub is premeditated, and is to be deliberately administered, regardless of consequences. That is to say, just now, when the Republic needs, and in accordance with the time-honored policy of this country, has a right to expect, the friendly solicitude of the United States, kindly sentiment and watchful interest are to be withheld as completely as in the case of Japan. It will be remembered that some time ago Mr. Cleveland's "great and good friend," President Dole, was informed that this country recognized the Republic. Mr. Dole was not told then, nor has he since been told by the President or Secretary Gresham, that the United States is concerned in his Government's stability and prosperity, and that this country would view with grave concern any interference in the affairs of Hawaii by foreign powers. Diplomatic relations with Hawaii, as carried on through Minister Willis, are hereafter to be strictly formal in nature. According to his latest instructions, Mr. Willis is to keep the State Department advised as to what goes on in Hawaii, but he is not to manifest any special concern or sympathy, whatever happens. Secretary Gresham, in framing his recent dispatches, has been careful not to say to Mr. Willis that the Administration regards the Hawaiian question with contemptuous indifference, but he has clearly indicated that Hawaiian affairs are of no special interest or importance. In these dispatches Mr. Gresham intimates that there is a possibility to be considered of the return to power of Liliuokalani. In that event he directs that Minister Willis is to offer no protest or in any other way to indicate that the United States is opposed to another revolution in the islands.

It has been wondered for some time why there have been no United States naval vessels at Honolulu. Since the early part of September, when Admiral Walker's flagship, the Philadelphia, left that port, no ships have called there except for supplies. Commander Folger, with the Yorktown, stopped there for stores while on the way to China last month, but only remained at anchor long enough to take on coal and provisions. The Charles- ton also visited Honolulu on her cruise to Eastern waters, but on the same errand as that of the Yorktown, and her stay was equally brief. Since the departure of the Philadelphia several English ships have gone to Honolulu, and remained for a fortnight or more. In fact, it is the exception when one of Great Britain's cruisers is not near the capital of the Islands. It is said at the State and Navy departments that there is no necessity for sending vessels frequently to Hawaiian waters, and the idea of keeping a vessel at Honolulu has not been seriously considered and will not be entertained unless Congress should adopt a resolution on the subject. In explanation of the President's attitude State department officials say that under the present policy it would be absurd to have vessels at Honolulu. Hawaii is to this country as any foreign power, no more so less, and with equal propriety the United States could keep a fleet or a single ship at London or Shanghai, they say. It is also said that if a vessel were to remain at Honolulu it would appear to the people of Hawaii that this country is apprehensive as to the situation in that quarter, and ready to take a hand in any disturbances that may arise, when in fact the United States is wholly unconcerned. One official less discreet than others who have spoken on the subject, said today:

"It is not the business of this country to bolster up a lot of schemers in maintaining a Government they robbed from the rightful owners. Dole and his followers say they are on a stable footing. Let's see if they are. Anyhow, no ships are going to Honolulu, except occasionally, just as they would visit other foreign ports where we have commercial interests."

Asked if the recommendations of Admiral Walker on this point were not regarded as important, the official said: "No. Walker is an ass." The failure of the Administration to maintain a naval representation at Honolulu is, of course, a part of the general programme agreed upon of indifference and contempt in Hawaiian affairs. Mr. Cleveland is sorely irritated at the failure to his earlier Hawaiian schemes. His monarchical programme miscarried because of natural conditions in the islands which he did not understand, and not as a result of acts of omission or commission on his part. Public sentiment would not permit of further efforts in the direction of restoration, so a policy has been agreed upon which will bring about the results actually desired without activity at Honolulu on the part of the President.

It is generally believed that the Republic is on a stable footing. It would certainly be so if the United States would openly support it, and express its best wishes for its prosperity. One word from Mr. Cleveland through Mr. Willis would put an end to the ambitions of Liliuokalani, as well as of Great Britain. That word has been left unsaid, and the ex-queen continues on the alert.

She may be counted upon to lose no opportunity to keep alive the present disorders existing in the islands. Mr. Cleveland and Secretary Gresham are aware of this fact, as is well known. Mr. Willis has conveyed the intelligence in numerous dispatches, and Rear-Admiral Walker, in a vigorous way, imparted the same information in his report recently made public. With this intelligence before him, the President now declines to withhold all friendly interest in President Dole's Government and treat Hawaii with utter indifference and contempt. Thus the affairs of the islands are left to take care of themselves. Liliuokalani may go on with her plotting to overthrow the Republic, and England may give aid to her schemes without exciting protest or causing intervention by this Administration.

THE MILITARY COURT.

Yesterday Was Devoted to Considering Cases Already Heard.

Quite a number of people assembled at the Executive building yesterday morning to be present at the session of the Military Court. The crowd was drawn on account of a rumor to the effect that the ex-queen was going to be tried. The spectators were disappointed, however, as it was announced that the court would not sit during the morning, in order to give the members a chance to finish up some business.

The court was cleared until 1:30 o'clock. When that hour arrived the court had not finished its deliberations, so the courtroom was cleared until 10 o'clock this morning.

Five cases will be called today. It is understood that the ex-queen will be one of them.

Patronize Home Industry.

Good morning! Have you tried Aloha tooth powder? is the greeting of the Hobron Drug Company. They guarantee their powder to be a perfect dentifrice. It has a pleasant taste and does not contain any harmful ingredients. Every purchaser of a bottle is given a handy map of the Hawaiian group as a premium. The map is about 8x10 inches in size and gives a person a good idea where they are at.

Taken to Jail.

Yesterday morning a Chinaman and Japanese belonging to the schooner Norma were arrested and taken to the police station. It was suspected the two men knew something about the landing of opium about the islands somewhere. In the afternoon the Chinaman was liberated, but the Japanese is still in durance vile.

ONCE A BRIEFLESS BARRISTER.

Thurston Lived on Crackers and Cheese and Wins a United States Senatorship.

John M. Thurston, who has been selected to succeed Charles F. Manderson as United States senator from Nebraska, has been a resident of three states during his 47 years of life. He was born in Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 21, 1847, and at the age of 7 accompanied his parents to their new home in Madison, Wis. He was educated in Madison, Beaver Dam and at Wayland college and was admitted to the bar in 1869.

At the age of 22 he removed to Omaha, hung out his shingle and began his by no means short career as a briefless barrister. Omaha was then a city of about 15,000 inhabitants and contained more legal talent to the square inch than any other city of its size in the country. In the face of a most discouraging paucity of clients the young lawyer persevered in his attempts to build up a practice. He attended strictly to what business he had during the day and slept in the office at night, so that clients rarely tried his office door in 1869.

JOHN M. THURSTON.

His lander was usually well supplied, however, for he would buy a box of crackers and a slice of cheese and live on them until they were gone.

In 1873 he entered politics and was elected councilman. Two years later he was city attorney and in 1875 a member of the legislature. In 1880 he was a presidential elector and carried the vote of Nebraska to Washington to be counted for Garfield. He was chairman of the Nebraska delegation in the Republican national convention of 1884 and seconded the nomination of John A. Logan. In 1888 he was temporary chairman of the Republican national convention, and his speeches in these two great gatherings gave him wide fame as one of the most graceful, eloquent and convincing orators in the Republican party.

The same year the once briefless barrister was appointed to the high office of general solicitor of the Union Pacific railroad at a salary of about $12,000 a year, which he will resign in favor of a salary of $5,000 a year (and mileage) when he enters the United States senate. Nebraska, like Kentucky, is liberal with titles. In 1875 Mr. Thurston was a candidate for judge of the district court and was defeated, but he has since been called "Judge." He is also "General" Thurston, doubtless because he is general solicitor of the Union Pacific. No other reason exists, it is said.

HE PAINTS WITH HIS TEETH.

The Wonderful Career of Bartram Hiles, the Armless English Artist.

Bartram Hiles does not paint with his teeth because he is eccentric or because he desires notoriety. He paints with his teeth for the simple but potent reason that he has no arms. When he was 8 years of age, he was run over by a street car, and the accident caused the amputation of both arms above the elbow. Instead of bewailing his fate and abandoning all hope of doing anything to aid himself, he began to study art with a vim, and in two years had so thoroughly mastered the plan of holding his pencil between his teeth when he drew that he was placed in the first class of the second grade of free-hand— with him it was free teeth—drawing in the National school at Bristol, England.

When but 16 years of age, he exhibited a study of a swan's head at the local art academy, and the drawing was surprisingly well done for an artist so cruelly crippled. He continued to study faithfully and was rewarded in 1890, when he won a scholarship open to the United Kingdom. The scholarship continued for two years, was worth about $500 and was offered by the National Art department of South Kensington. Since then Hiles has won numerous other honors with the aid of his brush and his teeth. His designs for a fan and a finger plate won for him two bronze medals, and a water jug and ewer that he painted in five hours captured the silver medal in 1893 at South Kensington, where he also was classed in the first division, owing to his skill in modeling in clay with his lips.

A picturesque sunset effect by Hiles has been hung at the gallery of the Royal Society of British Artists, and last year the Royal academy accepted a frieze. He is of a cheerful disposition and does not seem to miss his arms. His lips and teeth have taken the place of these members. He writes with his lips, and by means of their aid even lights a cigarette. Another crippled artist who does wonderful work is Charles Felt, the armless painter of Antwerp. Felt was born armless and holds his brush between his toes. He is a figure painter and is now about 65 years of age. Hiles is much younger, confessing to but 28 years.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1895.

The Bulletin is taking advantage of recent events to remove the plasters from old sores. We are sorry that it should thus cause itself discomfort, but so far as we are concerned we shall allow the dead past to bury its dead, and if the Bulletin wishes to resurrect its skeleton we shall offer no objections.

The recognition of the invaluable part played by the native police during the late insurrection, in the form of a subscription to a fund to be divided among the members of the force is eminently fitting and commendable. Too much cannot be said of the quiet, unassuming but always efficient work of the native police.

THOSE FILIBUSTER SHIPS.

The United States congress has made many demands to bring Hawaiian affairs to light, and the next advices from the Coast will doubtless tell of another interesting chapter in the official correspondence in regard to these islands, which up to date has not come to public notice.

Soon after the expose of the royalist plot published in the ADVERTISER during the month of October, the United States government was apprised of the possibility of filibuster ships being sent from the western coast to aid in an insurrection at Honolulu. This has never been published in the correspondence placed before congress, and thus far there is no knowledge in this country that any action has been taken to avert such a movement on the part of any person or persons within the United States. In many respects it is a matter of minor importance, yet the people of Hawaii are mightily interested in just what form it will be brought out, and what disposition will be made of it when once in the hands of representatives of the American populace.

"LEAKS" ARE NOT RUMORS.

The publication of what purports to be a "leak" on the part of those having a knowledge of the findings of the Military Commission is nothing more or less than an accusation of a breach of faith. If the people are to take the statements published last evening as truthful, there are those in whom the Government have placed confidence who have proven themselves irresponsible and unworthy of the trust placed in them as citizens of Hawaii conducting themselves for the best interests of the governing powers.

It was manifestly proper that the findings of the Military Commission should be kept secret until every witness had been examined and every guilty man put to trial. Whatever truth or falsity there may be in the statements thus published, the matter is of too grave a nature to be made public without the sanction of the Commander-in-Chief.

Findings, which might not find favor among a certain class, if made public, must, of the nature of the present situation, be accompanied with the danger of seriously embarrassing that body in carrying out its work to a successful end.

A "leak" is vastly different from a rumor, though the former may have no more foundation of truth than the latter. Any one giving publicity to a rumor characterized as a "leak" is subjecting every man who had a knowledge of the action of the Commission to the despicable suspicion of having been untrue to the confidence placed in him as a man of honor. It is true that not only the prominent Government officials but the members of the Advisory Council and certain newspaper men are conversant with the decision of the court.

The fact is, no sentences have been passed upon any criminal connected with the recent uprising; and, furthermore, no official of the Government has authorized the publication of any statement in connection with what has thus far occurred in the secret sessions of the Commission. In view of the unpleasant situation in which more than one man is placed by bearing the stigma of possibly having "leaked," it seems that the least that can be done is to ferret out the one who has been guilty of casting suspicion upon honorable men. As to the truth or falsity of the statements made we have nothing to say; the question is, who is it in our midst that is devoid of honor?

Timely Topics

February 4, 1895.

The outlook for the sugar industry in the United States is at least blue and how it is to be made brighter is beyond the ken of the average man. The nation cries out against any further tariff tinkering, the farmer uses his voice against the bounty and the sugar producer of Louisiana has grown hoarse in denouncing free sugar as an insult to American industries. Verily the producer and the legislator are between "the devil and the deep blue sea." Nor is sugar the only staple that is sailing in troubled waters; closely allied to it is the meat industry, between the United States and Europe there has been a sort of interchange of commercial relations that has been considered, generally, mutually satisfactory, but, if the United States will not sweeten its coffee with German sugar Uncle Sam cannot expect Uncle Fritz to gorge himself on American spareribs. In this instance retaliation works harder on the United States than it does on Europe. How long can the American producer continue selling sugar at a half cent a pound under cost of making? And where is the remedy except in cutting off the production and planting the fields with something more profitable. There's no help in legislation; to add to the duty would make the situation worse for the legislators through the power of the trusts that would be worked against them. Influence cannot be brought to bear upon the European governments to reduce the bounty because the interests of their people are at stake and must be protected. Take off the duty and the position is worse because the day of bounties to the producer of any particular article in the United States is buried with the dead past. We would suggest that the matter be submitted to the committee on dehorning hydraulic rams, in the American Congress and let them find a relief.

The Claus Knives are without question the best thing in the world for cutting warm bread or cake; best because of the facility with which they go through the materials. For young married ladies who persist in baking their own bread these knives are particularly recommended because all weighty effects are removed by their use.

A fish scaler for a quarter is one of the best investments you can make because its use saves time. Besides the scales are more thoroughly removed from the fish than with a knife.

We have received another invoice of the large size Pansy Stoves. We consider this the best wood or coal stove on the market because it is a quick heater, and uses very little fuel. We've sold thousands of them and every one has given satisfaction. The price is easy for an article as good as this. The Dietz Oil Stoves will arrive within the next two weeks. If you prefer using oil to wood or coal the Dietz is the best stove we have ever seen for the purpose. If you contemplate buying a new oil stove wait and examine the Dietz. It will broil, fry or bake as well as the best coal stove you ever saw, perhaps a little better.

JUST A FEW WORDS

on a subject which we know will interest every one: For years we have done the fine watch repairing in Honolulu.

Difficult work of every description which had formerly been sent to the Coast, was first properly handled in our Repairing Department. Such work as repairing complicated watches of every description; demagnetizing; making by hand any lost part of a complicated watch; in fact any difficult work pertaining to the repairing of fine watches is our special forte.

The number of watches which find their way into our Repairing Department after having been through the hands of numerous EXPERTS (?) is beyond belief. Whilst we are at all times ready and willing to do every conceivable kind and condition of a job—would it not pay you better to bring your watch to us in the FIRST PLACE and be assured of an honest amount of work at a reasonable price, rather than take it from one to another, causing you delay and annoyance, to say nothing of the greater expense?

We Charge Less

than you have been used to paying for inferior work right along.

As a matter of fact, the EXPERT (?) who cleans your watch with a pair of bellows and a crow-bar for 50 cents makes more money than the honest workman who does an honest job and charges an honest price.

Because your watch is returned to you running fairly well, it is no criterion that it has been properly repaired. The great annoyance attendant upon the repairing of a watch, is that 99 out of 98 cannot tell if the work is well done—but are satisfied if the watch is keeping somewhere near the correct time.

Who can see the jewel protruding half way out of the plate, or worse, sunk down through the plate, fastened in with a little glue, or hammered in with a sledge. How often the EXPERT grinds off the broken staff, sinks the jewel a little lower, tells you he has put in a new staff and charges you a little less than the price and you go on your way rejoicing. But some day you will discover the fraud, such work cannot last long. It is dear at any price, which you soon discover to your sorrow.

Moral: Make no mistake; take it where you know it will be well treated and that is the Repairing Department of

OLD HICKORY'S HOME

GENERAL ANDREW JACKSON'S COLONIAL HOUSE AT NASHVILLE.

Redeemed From Destruction by the Ladies' Hermitage Association—Full of Art Treasures and Historical Souvenirs—A Touching Romance—A Fitting Souvenir.

[Special Correspondence.]
NASHVILLE, Jan. 8.—No visit to Nashville is complete without a drive to "The Hermitage," the home of "Old Hickory." The superb old manor is a perfect treasure house of antiques and is crowded with historic associations. The mansion, a fine specimen of colonial architecture, with its huge pillars, broad porticoes and spacious rooms, is approached by a driveway bordered on either side by a row of stately pines. Across the antique porticoes shaded owns from the swaying branches drift. The great carved door opens, and you enter the vast old style hall, long and broad enough for a modern ballroom. Its walls are adorned with paper of gorgeous coloring, which represents scenes and incidents in the life of Telemachus. This paper was bought by General Jackson in France in 1827 and is yet in an excellent state of preservation. The pictures still hang as Jackson left them. There are two fine portraits of Mrs. Jackson by Earle and a most interesting portrait of the general himself, taken by order of the French government five days before his death. A quaint winding stairway leads to the upper rooms. Huge old fashioned claw footed mahogany sofas, chairs and tables furnish the halls, giving it a hospitable air. The drawing room, with its antique, yellow keyed, spindle legged piano, its faded velvet hangings, its inlaid and ormolu tables, its bronze and gilt candelabra, its quaint mirrors, its pictures and busts of the general, is delightful with its stately old time air of dress parade. Indeed the whole house is packed with the mahogany and rosewood, the mother of pearl, the damask and silver of those good old days and is calculated to drive a connoisseur quite hopelessly wild.

Dining Room, Library and Bedroom.
The dining room shows a curious mantle, decorated with tall silver candelabra, over which hangs a fine portrait of Jackson. Here, too, you may see a magnificent silver service, presented by Lafayette, and a beautiful piece of silver, the gift of DeCatur.

In the library is a wilderness of curios, medals, coins, pipes, swords and snuff-boxes as well as the general's books, a collection numbering many hundreds, most of which contain his autograph. There is a letter from Thomas Jefferson and an exquisite porcelain miniature of Mrs. De Witt Clinton, presented by herself and accompanied by a letter couched in the romantic compliment and high flung persiflage of that day. There is a small panel from the floor of Napoleon's room at Longwood, St. Helena. A candle found in Cornwallis' tent at the surrender of Yorktown and sent to Jackson with the request that he light it upon every recurring 8th of January, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, is an interesting souvenir. There is a penholder made from a portion of the tree under which Washington first unsheathed his sword in defense of American liberty. There is Washington's office chair, and another chair presented by the wife of Chief Justice Taney.

Perhaps the most interesting room in the house is the general's bedroom, in which he died. It is preserved just as he left it. The curious high posted bedstead, the easy chair and footstool, the dressing table, all partake of association with one of the most picturesque characters of American history. In this room is another of those quaint hickory mantels which are found throughout the house, made and stately in shape and execution as old time manners. Here is preserved a quantity of General Jackson's personal effects, jewelry, clothing, his watch, seal, cornelian ring, topaz breastpin, gold pen and pencil, tobacco box, walking stick, slippers, dressing gown and a marvelous bead regalia presented by Sam Houston of Texas.

Interesting Relics.
In a large empty room on the ground floor is the general's carriage, made from a portion of the old ship Constitution. The sword presented to Jackson by the citizens of New Orleans is another souvenir of interest. In cupboards and closets are stored away many rare old bits of faded finery. There is the full set of pearls and topaz presented by New Orleans women to Mrs. Jackson. There is a beautiful pink brocade worn by Jackson's wife's niece, beautiful Emily Donelson, at the court of Berlin. This lovely girl was a great favorite of the general and was mistress of the White House during her uncle's administration. She is said to have strongly resembled Mary, queen of Scots, and to have possessed much of the fascination of the White Rose of Scotland. The gown which she wore at the first inauguration ball is a precious and coquetish relic. It is of amber satin brocaded with violets and garnished with lace and pearls. It was a present from Jackson, and even at that day was described at great length in every newspaper in the country. The wedding dress of Mrs. Sarah Jackson, the wife of the general's adopted son, is also preserved. This lady was a Philadelphia belle and beauty and went to the altar in an exquisite robe of white silk and tulle. This costume has been worn as a wedding gown by brides of three successive generations.

The mansion and grounds are under the care and control of the Ladies' Hermitage association of Nashville. The property was purchased some years ago by the state from the adopted son of General Jackson, with the proviso that his wife remain there during her life. When she died, the general assembly of the state assigned the house and tomb and 25 surrounding acres to the Hermitage association to improve and preserve in lasting memory of the hero of New Orleans. When these patriotic and energetic southern gentlewomen who formed the association took possession of the property, they found ruin and decay everywhere prevalent upon the noble estate. The old log cabin where the general lived for 15 years before "The Hermitage" was built was a total wreck.

A Noble Work.
But these southern ladies, with their soft voices, indolent manners and languid airs, can be energetic enough over any object upon the welfare of which their hearts are set. It was not long before the mansion was newly roofed, the rooms repaired, fences up, outbuildings put in proper shape and the old log cabin fully restored, even to its kitchen fireplace, the favorite resting place of "Uncle Alf," the ancient negro body servant of the general.

At the tomb one pauses to read the orate enumeration of the virtues of Jackson's wife. The story of their love was a romance. Jackson fairly worshipped her and during his momentous career never wholly emerged from the influence of her personality. He wore her miniature on his heart until his death, and no matter what his cares, responsibilities or amusements he never slept until he had read a chapter in the Bible she left him when she died. Mrs. Jackson was a woman of great piety and cared nothing for the honors of this world. When Jackson was elected president, his wife said to those about her: "For Mr. Jackson's sake I am glad. For my own I never wished it. I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God than tell in that palace in Washington." Her influence over Jackson was profound, as shown by the following anecdote. Old Hickory was an expert in profanity. When occasion required, he simply paralyzed his hearers by the originality, variety and picturesqueness of his swearing. During an exciting political campaign and just after Mrs. Jackson had confidentially told a guest that she thought the general was disposed to be religious, and that but for the approaching presidential election she earnestly believed he would join her church, he suddenly burst into the room with an opposition newspaper in his hand, cursing like a house afire. He swore until he was actually out of breath, when his gentle wife, who had at first been stunned by his oaths, arose, and approaching him looked him steadily in the face and simply exclaimed, "Mr. Jackson! The great warrior who had always conquered was immediately subdued by this mild adversary.

A Touching Story.
Rachel Jackson was a wonderfully beautiful woman, and her portraits show a face of winsome and innocent loveliness. The throat is full, the lips sweet, the brow well shaped and the eyes large and beautiful. A cap of soft lace covers the dark curls which fall over her shoulders. In her youth she contracted an unfortunate marriage. Mrs. Robards was accused by his foes of having by his attentions to Mrs. Robards broken up a happy home. This, however, was not true. Robards was a man of whom very little good could be said. His wife was sprightly, cheerful and very beautiful. Robards' jealousy was terrific. Jackson, who was a good companion, of agreeable address and admired by women, soon felt the fury of this jealousy. Matters growing more and more unpleasant, Mrs. Robards at length left her husband. This was in the spring of 1791. Robards applied to the Virginia legislature for a divorce, which was granted, provided the supreme court should see cause for a divorce. It was reported and became the general belief in Nashville that Robards had obtained a divorce. Thereupon Mrs. Robards, who had been living in Natchez with the family of Colonel Stark, returned to Nashville and was married to Jackson. After they had been married two years Robards obtained a divorce in a Kentucky court. Jackson at once realized that he had been married two years to a woman who was legally another man's wife. To make their union legal they were married the second time.

These unfortunate circumstances, the suspicion and scandal naturally arising from them, marred their happiness, and, it is said, really broke the gentle, loving heart of Rachel Jackson. The popular story is that while she was making preparations to go from "The Hermitage" to Washington the poor lady received the rude shock which led to her death. She was like a mother to every servant upon the estate, and wishing to leave all comfortable for the winter made a trip into Nashville to buy supplies and clothing for her dependents. Worn from her shopping, she went into a hotel parlor to rest, while she waited for the coach which was to take her back to "The Hermitage." Suddenly she heard her own name spoken in an adjoining room, coarsely and cruelly handled about, while her character was fiercely assailed. Motionless, as if turned to stone, she sat listening to the accusations which had been circulated during the presidential campaign, and which her chivalrous and tender husband had carefully concealed from her. She was seized with spasmodic disease of the heart and died soon after. Parton says that she had known of the slanders long before. That may be true, yet undoubtedly the rudeness and brutality of the attack may have hastened the end.

Personal Feeling.
Jackson's grief was agonizing, and he seemed to live only to revenge her wrongs. Possibly during no other administration of the government has personal feeling played so important a role in official appointments as in the offices filled by Andrew Jackson. It was enough for him to have the slightest suspicion that an officer of the government had failed to espouse his wife's cause. Such a one was quickly removed. Even upon her tomb is a reference to this sad story. "A being so gentle and so virtuous stander might wound, but could not dishonor," is inscribed there, bearing the touching testimony of the staunch loyalty of the heart of "Old Hickory" even beyond the grave.

Jackon belongs neither to party nor section. He belongs to the country. The tough, garrulous and knotted hickory was an appropriate and knotted hickory was a persistent and fiery soldier who lives still in the memory of his countrymen, and whose voice yet sends its clarion call from out the mists of the past, crying, "The Union must and shall be preserved."

A RELIC OF THE PAST

THE SUNDIAL BEFORE THE OLD COURTHOUSE AT ST. LOUIS.

Views of the Janitor—A Man Who Is as Quaint as the Dial Itself—Fine Paintings That Cost a Right Smart Heap—The Past Linked to the Present.

[Special Correspondence.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—Although this interesting old city is gradually ridding itself of many of the peculiarities that have heretofore stamped it as more of an old time southern than a modern western town, the transformation is still far from complete, and it is this very survival of an occasional feature of other days that renders the place entertaining to the curious visitor.

Standing within a 4 by 5 foot inclosure of iron fence, near the white painted old courthouse, for instance, is an iron post, topped with a broad, flat, circular plate. Rising from the center of the plate is a triangular projection, and there is an iron hinged cover attached, evidently intended to be closed when the weather is bad. Such a contrivance is a rare sight nowadays anywhere, but it would have been a poor sort of town indeed five or six decades ago, especially in the southwest, that was without one, and no one would have been at a loss regarding its use. But there is not a day in a twelvemonth these modern times, so the courthouse janitor told me today, that some stranger does not inquire curiously about the one in the St. Louis courtyard.

"But of course," said he reflectively, pulling his chin whisker and turning his quid of shagged plug in his cheek, "thead's not many but what knows it's a sundial when they comes to examine it. It's a fine dial, that. You see, it's running just as good as it did when it was first put theah. And many's the fine gentleman, with his kid gloves on, that steps up to that theah old dial, sub, at noon and sets his gold watch by it. They all know, sub, that, notwithstanding a sundial is old fashioned, they ain't no going back on sun time, sub."

"They use to be two sundials to this heah co'thouse. You kin see the post of the othah one out theah on the othah side of the yab. But the dial part is gone forevah, sub. You see, they's a pow'ful lot o' boys heah in St. Louis that hain't got no bettah business nights and Sundays than to pound co'thouse dials with rocks and things jest to destroy them.

"When the othah one was teah down, sub, I up and kicked. Yes, I did. I told the county authorities that if they wanted to have any sundial left at all they'd haff to be a watchman heah nights and Sundays. You see, the city p'lice is cahless about county prop'ty, and they prob'ly wouldn't do nothing to nobody, not if they even cal'd off the co'thouse itself, sub, let alone just smashing a sundial or two. I got the watchman heah after a ha'd fight, sub, and, as you see, I've saved one of the dials. But me and my watchman, we has to watch out mighty sha'p, I reckon."

This delightful janitor's name is Griffin, and he is quainter even than the old dials. In person he resembles our Uncle Sammel, save that, instead of being thin and angular, he is round and stout and ruddy. When I first saw his face, I was almost surprised because his trousers were not striped red and white and his vest was not blue and star spangled. His office is in a big bare room in the basement, where he sits most of the time in a thronelike chair on a raised daislike platform alternately chewing shaved plug and smoking natural leaf tobacco. He must have a right smart "pull" of some sort, or at least be in what in Chicago and St. Louis is called the "push," for when during our chat today a county official entered and pleaded for a feather duster for his office the custodian of the building consulted certain memoranda before replying. Then he said slowly and impressively while he carefully shaved off enough plug for a fresh quid:

"You've had one feathah dustah a'ready this month, Mistah Jones. I can't spaih you no mo' till next month. You must use the dustahs on youah boots in youah office, Mistah Jones, the way you git away with them."

The official bowed himself timidly out of the presence, and the janitor explained to me that he had four "reel good grounds" for anxiety.

"I'm worried all the time about the way them officials, in p'ticuh the younghah ones, uses up the county supplies. I'm afraid the boys'll break the remaining dial. I'm in doubt lest the county'll see fit to teah this grand old co'thouse down and put up a great big steel frame modern building, and I hate to see the paintings in the doom go to ruination."

It should be explained that perhaps the most interesting feature of the courthouse is the mural decoration of the rotunda.

"If you'll examine them theah paintings, sub, you'll observe that they were once very fine. They cost a right smart heap of money, sub, when they was painted. It was a German gentleman that done them, sub. I disollect his name, but he was a reg'lah old mastah, though, as you can see foh yo'sel'. Now they are all peeling off, sub, and the ch'icest works of art in St. Louis is a-falling to the floor of the doom in dust to be trampled undah the feet of men."

The janitor is right in what he says about the pictures, for they were painted by Carl Wilmas, whose paintings of Indians have long been considered really great works of art.

IN PROBATE.

DECEMBER TERM, 1894.

Petition to Revoke Probate of Will.

BEFORE JUDD, C. J., BICKERTON, J., AND CIRCUIT JUDGE COOPER.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF A. AKAHU (W), DECEASED. L. KEAWEHAKU, PETITIONER, AND TRUSTEES ESTATE OF B. P. BISHOP, RESPONDENTS.

(Circuit Judge Cooper heard the case in place of Mr. Justice Frear, absent on account of illness.)

No appeal lies to the Circuit Court at Term from an Order of a Circuit Judge at Chambers refusing to revoke the Probate of a Will.

An appeal to the Circuit Court at Term was dismissed by the Court; Held: That an appeal from the order was not the proper method of bringing the case before this Court, it being a Term matter the question should have been presented on a bill of exceptions.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY JUDGE COOPER.

The petitioner L. Keawehaku, filed his petition in the Circuit Court praying that the Order admitting the will of decedent to Probate be revoked. The case was heard on its merits and the Judge at Chambers refused to revoke the order and dismissed the petition. The petitioner thereupon noted an appeal to the Circuit Court at Term, which was met by a motion on the part of the respondents asking that the case be stricken from the calendar on the ground that there was no provision of law whereby the case could be tried by a jury. The Circuit Court granted the motion and dismissed the appeal. The petitioner then filed a notice of appeal to this Court and the respondents now claim that the case is not properly here, for the reason that his remedy was not by appeal but by bill of exception. We find that the contention of the respondents is correct. The order complained of was made by the Circuit Court at Term and the method of bringing such a case to this Court is by bill of exceptions and not by general appeal. The case not being regularly before this Court the appeal might be dismissed upon that ground alone, but we go further even at the risk of inserting what under the circumstances might be strictly termed dictum and find after an examination of the whole proceeding that the appeal to the Circuit Court at Term was properly dismissed.

The law of 1864 authorizing the trial of issues of fact in matters of probate and administration by a jury does not afford the petitioner any relief in this case. The validity of the will had been passed upon and an order admitting it to probate had been entered by a Court of competent jurisdiction. The filing of the petition for revocation, did not raise any question of fact that could properly be tried before a jury. Undoubtedly, the Probate Court had the right to revoke the order upon a sufficient showing, but whether or not such course should be followed was a question of law based upon the facts presented at the hearing on the petition. The Court declined to grant the petition and such a decision was reviewable only by an appeal to this Court, which would have raised the same points as were tried by the Circuit Court.

The correctness of the decision of the lower Court in declining to grant the prayer of the petition is not before us; the only matter that can now be decided is whether the petitioner had a right to appeal to the Circuit Court at Term, and this we have decided in the negative.

J. M. Poepeo for petitioner; F. M. Hatch and Mr. Ashford for respondents.

That part of the proceedings in which the services of a well known interpreter was required did not find favorable comment. That most important personage was dubbed as an "offensive missionary interpreter."

One of the specials was refused admission into the Salvation Army barracks last night. The matter was referred to Marshal Hitchcock, who informed the special he was not to hunt for suspects among members of the army or those who attended their meetings. If it was desired to see any one therein the special was told to await until the party came out.

The two Portuguese arrested Sunday night on suspicion of being the parties from whom the signal lights were captured by Manuel Costa, a fellow countryman, have been released after a careful investigation by the authorities. The action taken by Costa proved to have been on account of personal spite. He is now locked up and will so remain for some time.

WHARF AND WAVE.

DIAMOND HEAD, Feb. 4.—10 P. M.—Weather, clear; wind, calm.

Four island steamers left yesterday. The Mokoli is on the Marine Railway.

The steam dredge is still busy at Brewer's wharf.

The steamer Mokoli will leave at 5 p. m. today for Lahaina and Lanai.

The British ship Glanivor is ready for sea and will probably sail today.

The Likelike began discharging her cargo of sugar at the O. S. S. wharf yesterday.

The Rob Roy has returned from Waianae where she was sent to relieve the schooner Haleakala.

The Andrew Welch, R. P. Rihet, Robert Lewers and S. N. Castle are all taking on sugar.

The bark Velocity has a cargo of general merchandise from Hongkong for Chinese merchants here.

The work of loading and discharging sugar yesterday was stopped for an hour on account of the rain.

The German bark Lina will probably sail today for Hongkong. She will take sixty Chinese passengers.

The steamer Kaala while hauling up alongside the Iwalani yesterday smashed a boat belonging to the latter.

Purser Kelly of the Iwalani will take Purser White's place on the W. G. Hall on account of the latter's injured arm.

One of the wagons of the Pacific Hardware Company collapsed at Brewer's wharf yesterday. General weakness of one of the wheels was the cause.

The tug Elen brought in the bell buoy for repairs yesterday afternoon. The buoy, on account of the light weight attached beneath, was upset Friday night.

The Velocity did not discharge yesterday. It took the custom house officials a good part of the afternoon to go through her. She will begin discharging today.

The steamer Kaala returned to port at 11 o'clock yesterday, having left for a circuit of Oahu two hours previous. It seems that while off James Campbell's place her pump broke down necessitating her return.

The Andrew Welch is now at Wilder's wharf. She took 400 bags of sugar from the Waialeale, the same number from the Claudine yesterday and while at Dillingham's wharf, nearly 5000 bags from the Ewa Sugar Company. She will finish loading today and will probably sail for San Francisco tomorrow.

Keep your friends abroad posted on Ha waiian affairs. Send them copies of the ADVERTISER & GAZETTE

THE TUG'S PRIZE.

She Returns To Port With a Schooner In Tow.

The tug Elen arrived yesterday morning with a prize in tow. The tug left port at an early hour with Capt. King, a number of sharpshooters and a piece of artillery on board. They went in search of a mysterious schooner that was reported as hovering off different points on this island.

The Eleu had not traveled far before a strange sail was sighted. The vessel afterward proved to be the sealing schooner Jane Gray, twenty-nine days from San Francisco, bound for the Japan seas. She was in distress. Her captain asked for a towline and two hours later came into the harbor. Captain Funcke reports that on January 15th he ran into a storm which caused his vessel to spring a leak. She will be repaired here and will sail for Japan about Thursday.

ROBBED BY MOORISH PIRATES.

Captain Lauro, of the Bark Scutola, Writes of His Experience.

Satisfaction will be demanded by both the United States and Italy from Morocco for the recent boarding and robbery on the high seas by Moorish pirates of the Italian bark Scutola, bound from Philadelphia to Naples with a cargo of refined petroleum loaded at Point Breeze, says the Philadelphia Record. The attention of the Department of State has been called by the Italian Government to the outrage, and it is believed that the pirates were soldiers who, being unable to get their pay from the Government, decided to rob passing vessels as their only way to get money.

Captain Lauro, who commanded the Scutola, writes to friends in this city that not only was his vessel pillaged, but that his crew were bound hand and foot by the Moors, who were armed with swords and rifles. He states that in a calm, while ten miles off the northerly coast of Morocco, gun shots were heard from approaching boats full of black pirates. They had long guns slung over their shoulders and swords at their sides. Seeing that resistance was useless, because of the number of boats that surrounded the Scutola and the number of men in them, no attempt was made to stop them from coming over the vessel's side. Once aboard they ordered the bark anchored over a shoal spot.

After tying the hands and feet of the crew, the vessel's cabin was robbed of everything. Four boatloads, or nearly 2000 cases of oil, were taken, and the crew was ordered to await the pirate's return. Fortunately, they succeeded in freeing their limbs, and with the assistance of a fair wind bore away for Almeria, in Spain, where the facts of the case were reported to both the United States and Italian Consuls. The loss by the robbery will have to be paid by the underwriters.

Remainder of Rain Record for December.

Table showing rain record for December by location: Hana, Maui, Olowalu, Koele, Lanai, Punahou, Oahu College, Kulohakaha, Kapolani Park, Nuuanu Avenue, Lihue (Grova Ranch), Lihue (Molokoa), Hanalei, Makaweli, Waiawa.

Scientific Research.

The scientific editor of the New York Independent says in a recent issue: "The Hawaiian Islands, as the result of recent exploration, have been found to be richer in animal life than was formerly supposed. As the result of a year's investigation by the British Association, through its committee, it has been found that of birds there are seventy-eight species, of which fifty-seven are peculiar to this group. All the land and fresh water shells are peculiar, and of 1,000 species of insects 700 are not found elsewhere. It thus seems that these Islands have by no means been populated from the continent, but have been centers of independent creation."

National Cane Shredder

(PATENTED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.)

Mr. John A. Scott, Manager of the Hilo Sugar Company gives the following wonderful record of the working of the NATIONAL CANE SHREDDER, which was erected by their works at the commencement of the crop just harvested:

"During the past week the Hilo Sugar Company's mill exceeded any of its former records by closing the 125 hours grinding with an output of 3004 tons. This is fully 10 per cent. more than the best work of former years.

"The three roller mill being 26 in. by 54 in. and the two roller mill 30 in. by 60 in. The first mill doing this amount of work in an efficient manner and with great ease, compared with work on whole cane, owing to thorough preparation of the cane by the National Cane Shredder, recently erected by the Company. And by its use the extraction has been increased from 3 per cent. to 5 per cent. on all kinds of cane, and in some cases 80 per cent. has been reached; the average being 75 to 78 per cent., according to quality.

"I continue to find the megass from shredded cane better fuel than from whole cane. The shredder has been working day and night for seven months and has given me entire satisfaction, having shredded during that time about seventy thousand tons of cane, and a large part of it being hard ratoons.

"The shredder and engine require very little care or attention."

Plans and specifications of these shredders may be seen at the office of

Wm. G. Irwin & Co. L'd.
