SECRETARY SAYS LAW ON POINT OF TIME IS MERELY DIRECTORY

Democrats Hold a Powwow at Maemae.

DAVID WELCOMED OVER THE PALI

Liliuokalani was Present at a Big Luau at the Prince's Residence.

One of the biggest pow-wows of the present Democratic encampment in Hawaii was held last night. All the braves wore feathers in their hair and laid claims to many scalps.

After the meeting at Maemae the throng went to Walkiki stopping en route at the Royal Mausoleum, Nuuanu valley, where songs were sung over the dead.

At David's residence in Walkiki a luau was spread under the trees and 5,000 fellowship occupied several hours.

The Democratic meeting at Maemae was opened last evening at 8 o'clock by candidate C. W. Booth. He spoke briefly as follows:

"We have come here to-night not with a band and gin and other attractions. If it is a proper thing to do that I could, I can get the band and boxes of gin. But you all know it is not a proper thing for us to do, it is like bibbing. You are not ignorant. I ask you as a favor to vote for the Democrats and I ask it not behind your backs but before you."

Sam Kaaumoana said: "The main question we must consider is our liberty now and hereafter. We must recover our rights which have been taken away from us. We have only a small privilege now—the ballot—and with that we can vote against those who took away our rights. The prices of calico and meat, etc., are high today on account of the Republican party."

Hon. J. O. Carter was the next speaker. He said in part: "I want to say that this first election under the new conditions is in my opinion an important election. I want to say that every Hawaiian voter should consider well what he is doing. I would not allow anyone to direct me as to whom to vote for and I do not want to tell anyone for whom he must vote. We should leave out of our talks and debates personal things unless they explain our own motives."

"When this election was first talked of the Democrats came to me and asked me if I would take a part in it. I said, 'Yes, I would take part as a Democrat.' After I was named as Democratic candidate, then the men of the Independent party came to me and asked me to allow my name to go on the Independent ticket. It was a difficult position but I reasoned that I was an Independent as a Senator or as a Representative, but if I should want to express myself before the United States I must either be a Republican or a Democrat."

E. C. MACFARLANE—"You should vote for David. He is a representative of the monarchical idea. His election will mean that the Hawaiians resent the outrage placed upon them by the United States."

UNCLE SAM—"Well, now, Eddy, don't you think that sounds kind of funny from an American citizen?"

WHY WALTER M. GIFFARD WILL VOTE FOR SAMUEL PARKER FOR DELEGATE

W. M. GIFFARD, vice president of Wm. G. Irwin & Co., in an interview with an Advertiser reporter yesterday, stated that he was fully convinced that the Hawaiian people could make no mistake in the coming election by selecting Samuel Parker as their Delegate to Congress.

at liberty to close immediately at 5 o'clock. On the other hand, if at 5 o'clock there were no voters in line they would also close the polls, as it would show that even if there were other voters yet to cast their ballots, there was ample time for them to do so without keeping the polls open for a longer period.

In further support of his argument Mr. Cooper says that if there were at 5 o'clock duly qualified voters standing before the booths who had not been able to get within them, the polls should be kept open for a sufficient period to give them an opportunity to vote until an interim occurred in which no qualified voters were present and waiting to vote.

QUESTIONS ASKED COOPER. The following questions were propounded to Mr. Cooper yesterday: 1. The law prescribes that there shall be but three polling booths in each precinct. It also prescribes that polls should close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

If it is good law to ignore one section of the law, why is it not equally good law to ignore the other, and allow booths enough so that everybody could vote within the prescribed period?

"Mr. Parker is a man who is ever willing to devote his energies and means toward the advancement of this interest, and will no doubt work in this direction when opportunity affords."

THE BOARD OF HEALTH

Business Transacted Yesterday.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED

Dr. Garvin Will Serve as Executive Officer for a Fortnight More.

The Board of Health yesterday considered and acted on a number of routine matters. The resignation of Plumbing Inspector Duffy was accepted. Engineer Kane was appointed assistant plumbing inspector. Duffy's successor has not yet been chosen. The resignation of J. D. McVeigh as agent of the Board of Health was accepted. Dr. Garvin's resignation was read and an effort was made to table it, but on Dr. Emerson's motion it was accepted. Dr. Garvin to serve until his successor is appointed. Dr. Garvin said he hoped that this would be within two weeks.

Dr. Cleveland, examining physician for the girls' schools of Honolulu, reported that she had vaccinated 123 pupils and that all the teachers but one had health certificates. She said there were few absentees and the children were in a better health and better dressed than last year. A letter was read from Bishop Willis relative to a complaint by the health officer about the closets at Iolani College. Bishop Willis contended they were in sanitary condition. Dr. Garvin said they were not, and he also said that most of the private schools of the city needed to be stirred up to put their premises in better condition.

A letter was read from citizens in Puna, Hawaii, complaining of the absence of attention by Government physicians. It was ordered that a communication be sent to the district physician at Puna calling attention to the fact that it was alleged that certain portions of the district were without medical attention and asking for an explanation.

Dr. Garvin, executive officer of the Board, reported on the water conditions at the new cemetery at Pearl City. The site of the cemetery was approved last year by the Government, conditionally that a proper disposition be made of the water which issues from a large spring in the grounds. It was feared that some of this water might be used for domestic purposes and breed disease. Dr. Garvin reported a reservoir had been built holding 55,000 gallons, and that the cemetery company assured him that all the water would be used for irrigating purposes. The reservoir surrounds the spring.

Dr. Garvin said the conditions were apparently satisfactory. Dr. Wood said that if later the water was found contaminated it would have to be pumped to sea. Dr. Cooper moved that the executive officer's report be acted upon favorably, which was done.

A petition was received from residents of Kahala for sanitary regulations. Drs. Cooper and Emerson and Attorney General Dole were appointed a committee to draw up such regulations for Kahala and other outside towns.

F. S. Porter addressed to the Board a letter asking for an exclusive franchise for a number of years for removing dead animals from the streets of Honolulu. He offered to provide the necessary wagons and to do the work at the Board's price. Dr. Garvin said that the Board of Health had its own dead animal service which was satisfactory. Porter will be so informed.

A letter was read from George H. Robertson, of the American Sugar Company, complaining that the vegetation on the leper settlement side of the Fall on Mokolai was being burned by the vandals of residents, and that the forests were in danger. Superintendent Reynolds of the leper settlement said that there had been no burning of unnecessary vegetation, that fires lit had never spread, and that there was no danger whatever of the forest being destroyed.

Some time ago Government Physician Davidson, at Lahaina, Maui, was asked to report on the application of residents there for permission to build over and about the Lahaina canal. Dr. Davidson's report was read yesterday. He said that the canal was a marsh with no inlet or outlet and no apparent current. The water came from underground springs and slowly percolated to the sea. He said that the marsh was no menace to health now, but it would be wrong to allow houses to be built over it. The Board passed a resolution that no buildings should be erected within fifty feet of the canal.

Dr. W. H. Schwalle sent in his resignation as Government physician at Kaunakakai, Molokai, which was accepted.

A letter was received from Dr. McConkey of Puna, Maui, asking for the Board's orders as to the treatment of pupils in the public schools who were absent on the days he came to examine them. He wanted to know whether these children should be debarred from school until they had been examined. It developed that there is a rule of the Board of Health to the effect that no child shall be permitted to attend school unless with the Government physician's certificate, and that the teacher was subject to a penalty of $5 for permitting such attendance. Dr. McConkey will be informed of the rules in order to carry them out.

Dr. Garvin reported that the slaughter houses in Iwile were still in an abominable condition and that nothing had been done to make them sanitary.

The Board of Health then went into a secret session from which the newspaper reporters were excluded, many concerning the transactions of which nothing has leaked out except the appointment of Engineer Kane.

A VILLAGE BLACKSMITH SAVED HIS LITTLE SON'S LIFE.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan county, New York, says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so had have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. character, whereas the provision in regard to the hour of closing the polls is DIRECTORY, Section 46 reads: "The inspectors shall prepare at each polling place a suitable compartment or space in which shall be placed, at a point convenient for voters, the two ballot boxes herein provided for. Section 47 provides the details of the methods employed in arranging the interiors of the booths. The latter paragraph of section 70 says, "When the purpose of marking his ballot, no other person shall, except as provided in section 72 hereof, be allowed to enter the compartment or be in a position from which he can observe how the voter is marking his ballot."

AS TO DISTURBANCES. "As to question number 2, which refers to probable disturbances, I don't see why that should necessarily be so. The whole ruling is based purely upon the necessity of the case, and should the polls be closed during the day, the inspectors would not continue the hours, but would close at 5 o'clock. IT RESTS ENTIRELY WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE VOTERS.

"Now for number 3, taking in the 12 o'clock limit. The day upon which an election is set is along decided in a mandatory, and cannot be changed over from the day to another. Consequently the time limit is midnight. "Number 4. This has been felt to be a violation of the mandatory provisions of the law, whereas the prolonging of the hours in which to allow the voters to cast their ballots, is directory."

POINTS TO CONSIDER. Mr. Cooper stated three situations had arisen with reference to the coming election. First, the closing of the polls by the inspectors at any time after they are satisfied that all the voters in their precincts have voted. Second, the closing of the polls at 5 o'clock in case there are no duly qualified voters present offering to vote. Third, the keeping open of the polls beyond 5 o'clock if the inspectors are not being continuously occupied, and if at the specified hour for closing there are still others present who desire to vote and have the legal right to do so.

"For instance, if in precinct 1, Fourth District, all the voters have cast their ballots by 3 o'clock, and the registration lists show no other voters entitled to cast ballots, the polls can be closed at 3 o'clock. "If in precinct 2, Fourth District, voters have been standing in line all day, and no interims of any consequence have occurred from sunrise to sunset, then the judges, under Mr. Cooper's ruling, could prolong the hour of closing until the lists had been exhausted, or until an interim occurred which would prove to them that there was no hindrance in the way of other voters coming to the polls and voting. "If in precinct 3, Fourth District, there should be a large number of voters in precinct 2, and yet during the day there had been several stretches of time wherein the voters did not avail themselves of the opportunity to vote, then the judges would have the right to close the polls at 5 o'clock.

THREE BALLOT BOXES. "There will be three ballot boxes, instead of two, as provided for in the rules and regulations governing elections. One for Delegate to Congress, one for Senators, and one for Representatives. "That is another directory provision," said Mr. Cooper. "The better for the Delegate to Congress is perfectly in line with the reasoning of the rules. "I have prepared the following brief upon this question which I believe sustains my position thoroughly. In one of them the New York Circuit Court of Appeals took the stand that if voters are in the polling room when the hour for closing arrives, and they are legal voters, they can cast their ballots without prejudice. The brief in full reads as follows:

Constitutional and statutory provisions for the conduct of elections are either mandatory or directory, and a violation of a mandatory provision will avoid the election without regard to the motive of the persons guilty of the violation and without inquiry into the effect of the result of the election, but in case of a directory provision the election will not be set aside unless the disregard of the provision has been proved. In the result of the election. When the election is fair and honest, courts will not disfranchise the voters unless compelled to do so by the peremptory requirements of the law.

Directory provisions are such as are not of the essence of the election, but are enacted as a guide to the officers of the election. As to what requirements are mandatory and what are merely directory, the cases are not all in agreement, and it may be difficult in some cases to determine from the authorities into what class a provision falls, but it may be said that the tendency of the courts and also of legislative bodies is not to hold a provision mandatory unless it is clearly of such a character that its violation will tend to prevent a correct determination of the result of the election, unless it is declared in the law that its violation shall render the election void. This is true even if the language is prohibitory as to officers or even if its violation may subject the offending officer to penal liability. (6 Am. & Eng. Enc. 225.)

If the polls are kept open after the proper hours to permit legal voters to vote when there was not time enough to receive all the votes within the proper hours, and no illegal votes are taken, it would seem as though all the votes should be counted, and it has been held that the requirement to close at sunset is directory only. (6 Am. & Eng. Enc. 222.)

The closing of the outer door of the room where an election is held, at sundown, and then permitting the voters within the room to vote, will not render the election invalid unless it is shown either that legal voters were excluded by closing of the door or that illegal votes were received after sundown. The provisions of the statute as to time of opening and closing of polls is directory. (8 N. Y. Court of Appeals 67.)

Failure to observe merely directory provisions of the election law will not invalidate an election where no legal voters are deprived of their votes and no illegal voters are permitted to participate, and no uncertainty is thereby cast upon the result. (108 Ill. 370, Schuler vs. Hogan.)

A departure from the mode of holding an election as prescribed by statute which does not deprive legal voters of their right to vote, or permit illegal voters to participate in the election, or cast uncertainty on the result, does not affect the validity of the election. (Parin vs. Wimbers et al. 120 Ind. 521.)

Statutory provisions requiring the polls to be opened and closed at certain hours of the day are not generally mandatory, and in the absence of fraud and injurious consequences a failure to comply with them will not

A MONSTER RALLY BY REPUBLICANS TONIGHT

REPUBLICANISM WILL PROVE ITS STRENGTH at the drill shed tonight in a monster rally preceded by a torchlight procession which will include all the features of previous parades and inaugurate new ones. The Central Committee of the Republican party has been hard at work all week in conjunction with the precinct and party organizations to prepare for the event, which from a spectacular and educational standpoint, will be one of the finest political treats given the citizens of Honolulu.

In the procession will be the uniformed companies which Major Zeller has drilled with military precision, the uniformed organization from the Honolulu Works, the Young Men's Republican Club and various smaller organizations from K. Ihi, Palama and Manoa valley.

Walter Dillingham will have command of a troop of Rough Riders, who will make an imposing addition to the long line of Republicans. Flambeau torches have also been made and a flambeau company organized. The latter has been drilled, and will arouse enthusiasm.

All the candidates on the Senatorial and Representative ticket intend to march with the "boys," with Hon. Samuel Parker at their head. Plenty of fireworks, red fire and other paraphernalia will be used with a lavish hand. The procession is scheduled to start promptly at 7 o'clock from the drill shed.

At 8 o'clock W. C. Achi, chairman of the mass meeting in the drill shed, will call the meeting to order. Arrangements have been made for seating as many of the people as possible. Berger's band and the Tuxedo quartet will be in attendance and render selections between speeches. A section of seats for ladies and their escorts will be reserved by the committee in charge.

Following is the list of speakers and the order for the rally: R. D. Williams, Marie by Tuxedo Quartet, Jonah Kumahae, Music by Band, George A. Davis, L. L. Naone, Music by Quartet, Sam Parker, Music by Band, T. McCants Stewart generally, of itself, render the election void. (Pain on Election, section 369.)

"The strongest case of all appears to be in the New York Court of Appeals case," continued Mr. Cooper. There the doors of the polling booth were closed at sunset, and all those inside the room were allowed to vote, notwithstanding the hour had long past. The court said the hour of opening or closing the polls was simply directory. The law generally seems to be that directory rules or laws may be set aside without interfering with the validity of election, provided that no legal voter is thereby deprived of his franchise, nor any illegal voter allowed to vote, and that the result is not made indefinite."

WAY OPEN FOR ABUSES.

W. O. Smith Takes Issue With Secretary Cooper.

Editor Advertiser—Secretary Cooper's position seems to be that certain provisions of the law governing elections are mandatory, and some directory; and the ground is taken that the provisions as to the hour of closing the polls is merely directory.

The statute governing the case provides: "The polls shall be opened by the inspectors at eight of the clock upon the morning of the election day, and shall be kept open continuously until five of the clock in the afternoon of said day, unless all of the registered voters of the precinct shall have voted their votes previous to that time, after which the polls shall be closed and the votes counted as herein provided."

This provision is held by him to be directory only, and need not be performed to.

But the provision that only one voting shelve or compartments shall be provided at each polling place is held to be mandatory.

The distinction would appear wholly arbitrary, and merely a matter of opinion.

If the strict letter of the statute be departed from, it would seem to be safer, and attended with much less danger, to permit the construction of more than three shelves or compartments within the polling place, to be used within the hours named, and under the safeguards provided by law than to permit the voting to continue by the night after the time limited by the statute.

If the latter is permitted, great abuses may arise. Some polling places are kept open long after others have been closed, and the opportunities for fraud multiplied.

The safe course is to conform with the statutes, and if the result shows that the provisions are inadequate, allow all to vote who are entitled to do so, then the law should be amended. To depart from the requirements of the law is dangerous.

BRAVES BLITHE

seems to me that the Democratic party has since '92 been more disposed to do what is right for the Queen than the Republican party. That is the reason why I am a Democrat. You all know that it was under President Harrison that the first treaty to annex Hawaii was passed upon.

QUOTES SCRIPTURE. "I am advised that the Republicans of Hawaii have set about in every way to obtain your votes. I do not know, because I am not among you. But I am told they have unlimited money and they are making many promises to you. Now, there is not a man, woman or child that does not know the old story of Jacob and Esau. You know how Jacob obtained the birthright of Esau by deception. I think the Republicans are like Jacob. How did he get his blessing? He put on goat skins and went to his father, and the father said this is like the skin of Esau, but the voice is that of Jacob. A party that will try to deceive you, a party that will deprive you of your suffrages with gin, is not a party to be trusted. You are all men grown, you are educated; you all have been taught what is right. Now I want you to do what is right. Of course, in an election every one tries to get up something to attract the people and get their votes. The Democratic party took the white ribbon. It was the legitimate thing to do, because Prince David is at the head of the Democratic ticket. What did our Republican friends do with their ribbon? They took the voice of Keoni Kooli. Now, if the life of the land is preserved in righteousness, I want to ask you how righteousness has been maintained for the last seven years. You were taxed but you did not have your rights."

MACFARLANE HOT AGAIN. E. C. Macfarlane followed Mr. Carter and spoke as follows: "While I am personally a stranger to you, I nevertheless feel I am not unknown, having been born here. I come to you tonight as a Kanaana because I think my past record entitles me to be heard and I think that my words will have some weight with you. I was the first one to sound the piau of these people in the Legislature of 1892. Subsequently ministers of the Queen, who were greedy of place and power, led the Queen to the brink of a precipice and left her in the hands of others."

"This was the opportunity of these people, and this allowed them to ACCOMPLISH THEIR HELLISH CRIME. It was the Republican party that was at the bottom of this mischief, and it was the Republican party that deprived you of your Queen, your country and flag, leaving you an outcast. "On the other hand, what has the Democratic party done for Hawaii? I am a Democrat because the Democratic party is the best friend of the Hawaiians. Mr. Carter has told you that it was a Republican president who brought in the first treaty of annexation, but it was a Democratic president who took it out, and it was the majority who fought against it."

HINTS AT COERCION. "Mr. Carter has told you that it was a Republican official who took down the flag, but do you not remember that it was a Democratic representative, Blount, who put it up, bringing tears of joy to your eyes? I think those are arguments which will induce the Hawaiians to support the Democratic party."

Mr. Macfarlane then stated he had received a letter from a friend in the States in which it was stated that he (the friend) did not esteem Hawaii highly if the election could be bought here with money which had also been subscribed locally.

"I tell you," he continued, "every time I see anybody wearing the yellow ribbon it makes me feel it should not be used in this way. I do not think any self-respecting Hawaiian would wear them. I cannot understand how some of these people who are working with a pledge which he would not sign. They also came to me with a money consideration which I scornfully rejected. I do not think you approve of their action," said Macfarlane.

Macfarlane then complimented S. K. Pua for his capabilities, and also said that Prendergast and Kanua were both good men to have on the Democratic ticket. "It is an unfortunate circumstance," he said, "to have them nixed up with Wilcox, Boyd and Markham. "This Legislature is very important, because it is the first Legislature to shape the destinies of Hawaii. It would be a grievous mistake to send Wilcox to Washington. If Wilcox wants to serve you he had better stay here. I think he is attracted by the $5,000 salary. Both Carter and myself went to him to have him run here on the legislative ticket, but he wanted to go to Washington."

RUSH AND DAVID. John E. Bush followed. He said: "We have received the Territorial act from the United States. The Constitution of that country instructs you to vote for a delegate, Senators and Representatives. Wilcox claims that he gave you this franchise. While the matter was being considered Wilcox was at Seattle, and while there he published the story of his sons and wife being royal. He did this simply to pave his way for the crown lands claims. When Wilcox was at Seattle, he gave you the franchise. He said that it was the Republican party who gave you the franchise." Bush then went on to reiterate what Macfarlane had said of Republican money being sent here from the Mainland to carry on the election. While Bush was complimenting Prince David, the latter appeared, having just arrived from over the Fall. Every one present rose and gave him three rousing cheers. Bush then concluded his speech.

Judge Wilcox Lets Offenders go on Account of the Bad Weather.

Yesterday in the Police Court Schofield, Maki, George Vyemara, A. Lubeck and F. Correa were charged with being a common nuisance in that they did ride their bicycles upon a sidewalk. Defendants pleaded guilty and urged the Judge to let them off on account of the bad weather. Judge Wilcox delivered a second series of sidewalk homilies and reprimanded and discharged the offenders.

Yokiyama was sentenced to six months on the reef for enticing two Japanese women to live at his resort at Palama. During the past few months a vigorous effort has been made to put a stop to the immoral traffic in Japanese women, but heretofore most of the cases have fallen through on account of lack of direct evidence. Yesterday two of Yokiyama's victims told on the witness stand the story of how defendant brought them to Honolulu and his subsequent treatment of them.

The women came to Hawaii as contract laborers, staying first on a Maui plantation. Then Yokiyama persuaded them to accompany him to Honolulu, ostensibly in the capacity of cooks. In a short time defendant forced the girls to live at his resort and to turn over to him their earnings. Yokiyama made no defence and his attorney, F. M. Brooks, moved for a dismissal on the ground of lack of evidence. The motion was denied and Judge Wilcox dealt with the defendant as stated above. The case, which is a test one, will be appealed on legal grounds.

Other cases disposed of were: Pasquale, profanity, discharged; Kilonia, assault and battery on Kaliko Kikoo, $5 and costs; Ah Man, opium in possession, $50 and costs; Iokepa, Joe Alapal, drunkenness, $2 and costs.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

A serious condition of affairs exists in several precincts in Honolulu.

The polls are by law open from eight in the morning till five in the afternoon. The same law provides that there shall be only three voting shelves or compartments in which voters may mark their ballots.

In one of the precincts there are over 500 voters. The time provided by law within which all of these men shall vote is limited to 50 minutes, or a little more than half a minute to a voter.

Four separate ballots, containing the names of all of the candidates will be given to each voter. The first ballot contains three names, and he must put a cross opposite one of them.

The second ballot contains three names, and a cross must be put opposite one of them.

The third ballot contains nineteen names, and the voter must put a cross opposite six of them.

The fourth ballot contains eighteen names, and he must put a cross opposite six of them.

There is nothing on the face of the ballot to indicate to which party a candidate belongs, all of the names being arranged alphabetically. Even if a man is well acquainted with the candidates and wants to vote a straight ticket, he will have to exercise close care and attention to do so.

Even the brightest of men will have difficulty in doing this within half a minute. Many of our voters are unfamiliar with this method of voting, and it will be physically impossible for them to mark their ballots intelligently in less time than several minutes.

Those who are familiar with this method of election say that the most rapid average voting practicable is one voter in each compartment every three minutes.

With three compartments, this would give only sixty an hour, or 540 in nine hours, allowing nothing for stoppages or delays. This means the disfranchisement of nearly half the voters of the precinct.

It is not human nature that four or five hundred voters should allow themselves to be disfranchised through no fault of their own, simply for lack of an opportunity to vote, if there is any possibility of getting at the polls.

This will lead almost inevitably to a scramble and presents a situation eminently fitted to breed trouble.

It is intolerable to permit the disfranchising of voters in this way if there is any possible method of avoiding it.

Secretary Cooper has made a study of the question and has expressed the opinion, supported by a considerable array of authority, that although the law specifically says that the polls should be closed and the count of votes proceed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, this provision is "directory" only and not "mandatory."

He admits that if it were mandatory the polls could not be kept open after 5 o'clock.

This is treading on delicate ground. Whether a law is mandatory or directory turns largely upon the opinion of the person construing the question.

If a given law, in the opinion of such person, prescribes the positive, direct and only method of doing a certain act, and that method is of the essence of the object of the law, then it is mandatory, and no other method of carrying out the law will suffice.

If, on the other hand, he is of the opinion that the method prescribed by law or of doing the act was simply by way of general direction, and that the particular method indicated is not of the essence of the law, then it is directory, and some other method of carrying out the object of the law may be lawfully followed.

Secretary Cooper claims that the section directing the closing of the polls at 5 o'clock is directory only, and that the polls can lawfully be kept open until 11 o'clock that night, if he expresses the opinion that the section of the law prescribing that only three voting compartments shall be used, is mandatory, and that no more compartments can be provided.

Whether either of the provisions in question is directory or whether they are both mandatory, is a question of law and precedent, and snap judgment should not be delivered thereon. The question has only been before the public for a day, and there is a whole week in which to arrive at a decision.

From the brief examination possible since the question was presented, we are inclined to believe that the clause prescribing closing of the polls at 5 o'clock is far more mandatory than that prescribing the number of voting compartments.

The time of closing is so vital to the results of an election that we can see no reason why, if the inspectors can extend the number of hours for voting they cannot extend the number of days. Each marks but a division of time.

On the other hand, the number of voting compartments is but an incidental detail in the procedure by which the choice of the voters is indicated. If there are four, five or six compartments, provided each one enables the voter to vote secretly, there is no possible variation of the result, or interference with the main object of the law, which is to let all voters who are entitled to; while keeping the polls open after 5 o'clock is liable to lead to all kinds of fraud. For example, in the precinct cited above, only about half of the voters will have voted at 5 o'clock. It will be nearly or quite 12 before all of them have voted. Many of the precincts are quite small, and the vote of nearly all of them will be known and declared by 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening, giving a strong indication of which way the general vote is going. This is a direct incentive and premium to exercise bribery on the voters who still have ballots to cast. If the vote is close, there will also be a direct invitation to create a disturbance so as to prevent a change of the status, especially if one party or the other has already polled a large proportion of its vote. Again, if the election is close, there will be a strong incentive to bring in false persons of names on the list.

Whether mandatory or directory, keeping the polls open after 5 o'clock is a dangerous proposition, and the election authorities should adopt this course, if at all, only as a last resort.

MR. MACFARLANE'S EXPLANATION.

Mr. Macfarlane complains that the Advertiser, although giving his speech in full in another column, commented editorially upon certain of the sentiments expressed by him.

An editorial is not the place for quoting a whole speech when that speech is given entire elsewhere in the same paper.

The meat of the sentiment expressed by Mr. Macfarlane was that voters should elect Prince David, "because he represented the monarchical idea;" and second, that they should vote for him to show that Hawaiians resent the outrage perpetrated upon them by annexation.

These two sentiments were selected from a number of other choice gems and referred to editorially.

Mr. Macfarlane complains that in the editorial he was quoted as having stated that the outrage had been committed by the United States, whereas he said that it was committed by the United States through the Republican party.

This is splitting hairs. The charge is against the United States. The medium through which it acts cuts no figure in the matter.

As a matter of fact, every man in this country who knows how to read and write, knows that among the strongest annexationists were leading Democrats, and that annexation could not have been consummated but for Democratic votes.

Mr. Macfarlane is welcome however to all the comfort and satisfaction that he can get out of his explanation. The fact remains that he, an American citizen, running for an office created by annexation, appealing to American citizens possessing the franchise through annexation, specifically asks their votes for the purpose of proving that by annexation the United States Government perpetrated an outrage.

Not content with this, and not content to allow to pass by in silence that which the Advertiser had not referred to editorially, he reiterates over and over again that he wants Prince David elected "as a stinging rebuke" to William McKinley in particular for the damnable outrage he has committed. Are Mr. Macfarlane's party and the other candidates on the Democratic ticket ready to stand by this declaration?

William McKinley is now the President of the Government of this country, and the overwhelming indications are that he will continue to be so for four years more.

Under these circumstances will it not be the height of folly to elect a man to go to Washington, the very appearance of whose face there is intended to be a "stinging rebuke" and a standing indictment against the President for having committed a "damnable outrage"?

Is it not a foregone conclusion that, whatever little influence Prince David might have possessed in Washington, these mouthings, uttered without rebuke in the presence of the leaders of that party, will destroy that little?

There are a few people in this country, and Mr. Macfarlane appears to be one of them, who have yet to learn that the object of an election is to accomplish something in the future. Their policy is like that of a dog who, after gnawing all the meat off a bone, buries it, and then at periodic intervals digs it up and gnaws and growls over the tissueless morsel for the sheer pleasure of gnawing and mouthing.

Mr. Macfarlane is a worthy representative of the Democratic party, in the particular wherein it differs most from the Republican party. The former devotes itself to denouncing and chewing over old dead issues, while the latter is busy with the future and constructive legislation that will be beneficial to future as well as present generations.

THE ADVERTISER'S NEWS SERVICE.

In a communication published in this issue, Mr. E. C. Macfarlane charges that the Advertiser seeks a partisan advantage in editorially quoting a portion of his Monday night speech.

That his charge is unfounded is proved by the fact that in his letter he quotes from the Advertiser's full stenographic report which was published in another column of the same issue.

If the Advertiser had sought any "partisan advantage" or to misrepresent Mr. Macfarlane, it certainly would not have simultaneously published what he admits was his exact language.

The Advertiser throughout this campaign has reported as fully and accurately as its staff and the space at its command would allow, the meetings of Republicans, Democrats and Independents, treating the same with absolute impartiality both as to space and position in the paper. The Independents have no newspaper published in English, and the Democrats none worthy of the name. The Advertiser has many readers among both. As a matter of news, these readers, as well as the other readers of the paper, are entitled to accurate information as to what is going on; and however much the Advertiser may differ with Mr. Macfarlane, Mr. Wilcox and Mr. Emmelhuth, and favor the election of Mr. George Carter, Mr. Achi and Mr. Robertson, and the other members of the Republican ticket, the paper treats them all with absolute impartiality and reports their addresses with all possible accuracy.

There is no foundation for Mr. Macfarlane's charge, and he owes this paper an apology for having made it.

As proof of the fairness of this paper to Mr. Macfarlane, his communication is published herewith on the editorial page.

MACFARLANE TRIES TO EXPLAIN.

EDITOR P. C. ADVERTISER:—May I ask you to give space in your columns to your stenographic report of my speech at Kakaako on Monday evening, the paragraph to which you take editorial exception, which reads as follows:

"This was the foul blow of the Republican party. How can you give your allegiance to any other party than that which has been your trust and best friend. You should vote for your ally. HE IS A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE MONARCHICAL IDEA, he stands today as the exponent of the Hawaiian people. His defeat will mean that the Hawaiians are indifferent as to the fate of their country, and on the other hand, his election will mean that the HAWAIIANS RESENT THE OUTRAGE placed upon them by THE UNITED STATES at the hands of the Republican party.

"If you would be true and loyal to your Queen and your country you will see that the ally is elected, and his election will be a stinging rebuke to the Republican party, and to William McKinley in particular, for the damnable outrage he has committed."

My remarks distinctly placed the outrage of 1893 at the door of the Republican party; but in the following paragraph you distort my utterance to the extent that the outrage is laid at the door of the American people as a whole. You will pardon me if I say that you seek a partisan advantage to render me obnoxious to loyal Americans. Your editorial remark are as follows:

E. C. Macfarlane is one of the gentlemen who has been boomed by the split ticket advocates as a good man who ought to be elected regardless of party.

At an obscure Democratic meeting in Kakaako on Monday night in advocating the election of Prince David, he said: "You should vote for your ally. He is a representative of the monarchical idea. His election will mean that the Hawaiians resent the outrages placed upon them by the United States."

There's true blue Americanism for you. For a man who is seeking American votes for election to an American office, the above sentiment seems peculiarly appropriate. Mr. Macfarlane should be remembered on November 6th by every one who believes in representative government.

As for Prince David, we do not believe that he seeks nor wants any such miserable un-American support.

Your readers may judge between us as to the fairness of your treatment of a political opponent.

Respectfully yours, E. C. MACFARLANE. Honolulu, Oct. 31, 1900.

OF CURRENT INTEREST.

Doesn't Need to be Labeled.

There is not a single word on New York's latest campaign banner, which floats at the head of Wall Street, to show that it was set up either by a Republican or a Democratic organization. There is no picture of McKinley or any of Bryan upon it. But it contains, in conspicuous lettering, two paragraphs quoted from a speech made by Mr. Bryan. One of these quotes Mr. Bryan's remark warning anyone who believes that the gold standard ought to be maintained against voting for him, and the other is a line from one of Mr. Bryan's speeches announcing that he stands right where he did four years ago on the money question.

These two sentences are all that are upon the banner. Democrats cannot complain of them, for they are quotations from Mr. Bryan's speeches. To all outward appearances it may be a Democratic banner, but everyone knows it isn't.

Notable Engineering Feat.

The driving of the Great Northern Railway tunnel through two miles and a half of solid granite in the Cascade range of mountains is one of the most notable engineering feats of the century. Boring was started at each end toward the center, and so accurately that the engineers' calculations, that at the meeting point the difference of alignment was scarcely one inch. This cutting through refractory material was accomplished in forty-five months by 500 men, operating thirty-two compressed air drills—a veritable miracle wrought by modern machinery.

Two Headings.

J. M. Barrie's story of how an editor, receiving a dispatch that the Zulus had had "taken umbrage," headed the article "Capture of Umbrage by the Zulus," has been paralleled by a Western editor. Shortly after the anti-Semitic riots in Austria, a slight shock of earthquake was felt in the vicinity of Vienna and a cable dispatch stated that there had been "seismic disturbances" near the Austrian capital. The editor headed the item: "Outbreak Against the Jews."

Tired of the Name.

Years ago an Illinois town named one of its avenues after a prominent citizen, who at the time was foremost in all good works, a pillar of the church, and superintendent of a Sunday school. Unhappily, he swindled many people and committed forgery subsequently, and is winding up his varied career in the penitentiary. Now the good people of the town are laboring to have the street's name changed.

Must be Shapely.

One of the greatest essentials with regard to the recommendation of a London footman is not only his height, but the size and form of his legs. To suit the needs of those who have not been gifted with a well formed leg the livery makers supply artificial calves, which pad out the leg to a respectable size. A pair of these pads costs about 5 shillings.

Truss Advice

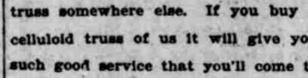

We advise a celluloid truss because it wears longer than the other kind and is more comfortable to wear than a leather covered one. It may seem odd that we advise you to buy a long wearing truss, thinking we like to sell as many as possible. We do. The only trouble is that people have an uncomfortable habit of blaming a Druggist for the short comings of a leather covered truss. Then they buy the next truss somewhere else. If you buy a celluloid truss of us it will give you such good service that you'll come to us when you need another.

CAMERA CAUGHT SPOOKS AND HOW THEY WERE MADE

HE WAS A CONFIRMED APOSTLE of spiritualism and had made strenuous efforts, during the course of our acquaintance, to convert me to his bizarre belief. On the occasion of our last meeting he invited me to accompany him to his apartments, saying that he had had a spiritualistic experience which he was anxious to relate to me.

Having a little time at my disposal, and knowing my friend to be an unusually interesting conversationalist when discussing his favorite theme, I acceded to his request and we proceeded together to his rooms. Arrived there he unburdened himself as follows:

"I have, as you are aware, long been interested in occult things, and much experimenting along that line has led to examination and finally to my acceptance of those elusive phenomena which are grouped together with much that is foolish and much that is fraudulent, under the common heading of spiritualism.

"The incident which I am about to relate occurred a week ago in a house in town where a few ardent spiritualists are wont to gather every now and again for the purposes of discussion and experimenting.

"On the occasion of which I am writing, the services of a paid medium, a native girl, were employed. Our experience had shown us that to work on these subjects without a medium was an futile as for an astronomer to make observations without a telescope. We were all unanimous about the undesirability of a paid medium for it was obvious that she would feel bound to return some result for money received and that the temptation to fraud would be an overpowering one. No phenomena can be relied upon which is produced at two dollars an hour. No one else was obtainable, however, and it was a case of using a paid medium or nothing.

"Following our custom, we lowered the lights in the room and drew up our chairs to the square table which stood in the center of the studio. The light, while subdued, was sufficient to allow us to see each other quite plainly.

"At the request of one of the party, the lights were entirely extinguished, he giving as a reason for his suggestion the explanation that the force with which we were to deal was a vibration of ether, as is also light.

"It cannot matter to you who I am. I am one who has lived as you are living and who has died as you will die."

"Who are you?" "It is I."

"When will it be advisable to make the test?" "Any time and any where."

"Others put various questions to the voice and received answers until finally the spirit was broken, the lamps relit, and the meeting broke up."

"Such was my friend's startling story, told with the implicit earnestness of a man whose convictions will brook no questioning.

"I am an unbeliever in the phantasies of spirit-rapping, table-tipping, mystic music and other so-called spiritualistic manifestations, and accordingly attributed my friend's unique 'experience' to an overwrought imagination or to frequent and lawless conferences with a gin bottle.

"The next day I visited Davey, the photographer, related my friend's strange experience to him as having been my own, and asked for his opinion in the matter of spirit photography. He agreed with my friend's astral acquaintance of the previous evening and stated that if there were any spirits about he could undoubtedly photograph them. He further declared his willingness to make the experiment then and there.

Then he let me into the secret of how shadowy photographs impose upon deluded spiritualists. They take three or four boxes of plates and expose one box on children, a second on women, a third on men and a fourth maybe on a sheet-wrapped skeleton; then the plates are placed, the boxes revealed and the photographer awaits his victim. The plates are exposed on a black background and the person who plays the role of spirit is thrown out of focus, so that a ghostly effect may be obtained, and the figure is made unrecognizable. The vivid imagination of the victim in nine cases out of ten leads him or her to declare that in the apparition in the proof they can recognize the features of some lost loved one. When a person wants to be photographed with an attendant spirit, the photographer sounds him or her as to whether it is the spirit of a man, woman or child that is desired produced, and when this has been ascertained the rest of the fraud is easy. A suitable "posed" plate is selected and the portrait taken in the usual way. The previous exposure on the plate is of course developed with the picture proper.

This is exactly what had taken place in my case and my simulated ignorance as to the identity of the spirit I told Davey. I had spoken with on the night before, made it very easy for him to warrant that he could produce a spirit with his camera which he thought would satisfy me.

"One day," said Davey, "an old man came to my studio and asked if I could photograph spirits. He showed me a number of photographs of this description which he said he had paid for. I told him they were all fakes but he was so sure that I could photograph the spirit of his dead wife, that I decided to show him how he had been swindled. Telling him to wait a little time in another room, I dressed up a woman expertly, wrapped a shawl around her head, and having thrown her out of focus, exposed a plate. Then I called the old man in and took his picture. When the plate was developed, the shadowy form of a woman leaning over his shoulder was plainly discernible.

"The old man was not at all surprised when shown the negative, and said that he recognized his wife. When I told him how the spirit had been created, he would not believe it and offered me five dollars for a copy, which I did not accept, but presented him with the copy.

"That's a fair specimen of credulity, and there are tens of thousands as bad or worse, as a perusal of the spiritualistic columns of the Mainland dailies will abundantly testify."

I was satisfied. Mr. Davey of course thinks today that I approached him on the subject in a spirit of sober earnestness, and chafed greatly at the time I saw into the matter of fooling I at least broke even with the genial photographer. The question if astral phenomena can be reproduced by photographic process will doubtless from time to time find its way into the public prints. My opinion on the matter is that when scientific investigation proves conclusively the existence of spirits, the supply of ghost-taking cameras will be found to equal the demand.

HALLOWE'EN WAS WELL CELEBRATED

The Rebekahs Gave a Dance in Progress Hall Last Night.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in an appropriate manner by Pacific Rebekah Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., by a dance given in Progress Hall. The ladies of the lodge and their friends of the lodges which claim membership only among the sterner sex, were present in large numbers, and the dance went merrily on until the midnight hour was tolled in the neighboring church steeple, when by all the traditions, ancient and modern, All Saints' Day begins.

The good things to eat with which Hallowe'en is associated were conspicuous, and the lancers and other square dances were enjoyed by the wearing of paper caps and the cracking of paper bonbons. These took the place of the traditional apple-biting competition over tubs of water.

More than a hundred couples were present. The Rebekahs were splendid entertainers, and the music of a native orchestra put the dancers on their nettle. Many pretty ball costumes were worn. The hall was decorated with banana plants and sprays of foliage.

The floor committee was composed of the following Odd Fellows: Brothers A. F. Clark, H. H. Williams, Sawyer, Gorman, Reception Committee: Sisters S. Williams, L. Dee, M. Smith, H. Schuman and Elean Clark.

SEWER SYSTEM NEARLY READY

Kukui District is to be Protected From Storms in the Future.

The contractors, Vincent & Belier, have nearly finished their construction of the sewer system. It is expected it will be ready today to turn over to the Government. Just a few bits of work will have to be looked over and finished up. The outfall is not completed. The engineer in charge, Mr. E. Edwards, says the actual work is completed, but the system cannot be operated just yet.

Mr. McCandless, Superintendent of Public Works, about a month ago notified the Board of Health that the work of connecting the sewers could be undertaken early in November. Just as soon as Engineer Edwards notifies the board that work may be begun, the housekeepers will have to install the plumbing. This will consume several months.

Road Supervisor Campbell will guard, as far as lies in his power, against further damage from heavy rain storms and floods. On Kukui street, between River and Nuuanu streets, the Government is now having constructed a 400-foot cement storm drain pipe. This pipe will tap the district bounded by Fort, Kukui, Beretania and Vineyard streets. These are the districts, it will be remembered, which suffered so severely from the recent storms.

CLERK CROWELL DEPUTY SHERIFF

Goes to Koolau and H. C. Mossman Takes His Place in the Department.

H. C. Mossman, formerly a messenger in the office of Attorney General Dole, has been appointed to the position of clerk in the office of High Sheriff Brown to fill the vacancy made recently by the resignation of Clerk Crowell on account of ill-health.

Attorney General Dole, in speaking of the appointment, said yesterday: "I believe that an occasional word of well-earned praise tends to promote good public service, and am glad of an opportunity to mention H. C. Mossman. He came into my office a few weeks ago to do the work of a messenger and has been so courteous, capable and reliable that I am sure that he will be a valuable addition to that capacity. He has left today to take the position of clerk in High Sheriff Brown's office."

Crowell, who retired from the High Sheriff's office, goes to Koolau as Deputy Sheriff, to fill the office left vacant by the resignation of Frank Fahia, who is now a candidate for the House of Representatives on the Republican ticket. This resignation was handed in some time ago and Mr. Crowell offered the position immediately, although he was then desirous of leaving police work altogether on account of continued ill health. He leaves for Koolau on November 3. Deputy Sheriff McGurn will act as Deputy Sheriff of Koolau in the interim. Mr. Crowell's friends congratulate him on his advancement.

DUFFY OUT OF HIS JOB

Health Board Accepts Resignation.

NO TIME WASTED OVER IT

Ferreira Says Inspector Tried to Coerce Him Into Patronizing Trust.

Plumbing Inspector Duffy has lost his job. His resignation was accepted by the Board of Health yesterday and the fat sinecure is lost to Duffy forever. Civil Engineer Kane, who has been assistant to Engineer Edwards in charge of the new sewer work for the Government, has been appointed assistant to the plumbing inspector who will be named to succeed Duffy.

It took but a moment for the Board to wipe Duffy's name off the slate once it was brought up. His letter of resignation was read when yesterday's session of the Board opened, a motion was made that it be accepted, was heartily seconded, and Duffy was out in the cold world to hoe his own row.

Duffy will get into business for himself at once. That is he will come out into plain view as a contracting plumber and whereas in the past, while an employe of the Board of Health, he has thrown work into the hands of his friends, he now will hustle vigorously for himself.

Duffy has been repeatedly charged with attempting to coerce householders into patronizing those whom he desired to favor. A glaring example of this came to light yesterday when E. G. Ferreira came to the Advertiser office and told of his experiences with Duffy.

Mr. Ferreira has a house on Keeaumoku street near Wilder avenue. He went to Emmeluth to buy some plumbing goods. That firm refused to sell unless they were given the job to put in the work. At the Pacific Hardware Company they told him they would sell the goods to him through a member of the trust. If they sold to him they would be liable to a fine by the association of which they declared themselves a member.

"I first went to Emmeluth because I had done some work for me," said Ferreira. "I asked for figures on a patent closet. They gave me the figures but said they would not sell to me unless I would agree to let them have the job of installing it. At the Pacific Hardware Company I was told I could buy the closet through one of the members of the trust, but they could not sell to me personally as they would be subject to a fine by the association of which they were a member.

"Then I went to Sing Chan Company on King street. They had a closet outfit, the price of which was $8 more than asked by the trust firms. However, I made up my mind to buy it even at the higher price as I had intended giving the job of placing it in my house to a Portuguese friend of mine who was both a plumber and a tinner, and had at one time worked for Emmeluth. He was not, however, a member of the plumbers' trust. This plumber I could get to work for me for $3.50 a day and although the price of the closet was higher at Sing Chan's, I figured that I could make a big saving in labor.

"I sought Plumbing Inspector Duffy and asked for a permit to do the plumbing. He asked me who was going to do the job. I told him of my Portuguese friend. Duffy then told me that if I had the fixtures put in by my friend he would have it all torn out.

"I tell you what you can do, get the work done by England or Gehring & Butzke, they'll do it all right," said Duffy to me. I told him I would rather pay the $8 extra for the closet and save money on the labor by employing the Portuguese plumber. I told him I could save about $40 all told that way. He said he would not permit me to do that. He did not refuse to give me a permit, but said he would refuse to accept the job when done. Then I said, "Well, I guess I cannot get it done that way, I suppose?" He said, "Of course not."

"He was very pointed in telling me to have the work done by England or Gehring & Butzke. The result has been that I have been compelled to get the work done by other parties who belong to the trust."

MISTAKES WILL BE SET ARIGHT

Board of Registration Will Sit on Election Day for Errors.

Voters whose names are on the wrong precinct list will be permitted to vote on election day by having the mistakes rectified by the Board of Registration. The Board will sit on election day and up to the time of the closing of the polls will set aright the errors that may have crept into the lists. Lorrin Andrews, chairman of the Oahu Board, said yesterday:

"The Board has been sitting six hours every day getting up the official lists of voters and doing other work connected with the election. We expect to finish this tomorrow. After that we do not expect to sit, unless business calls us together, until election day. Then we shall be in session all day.

"If a voter finds his name on the wrong list all he has to do is to notify any member of the Board. A meeting will then be called at once and the error corrected. The Board will certify to the inspectors that any particular registered voter's name is entitled to be on the list of registered voters for the precinct where he resides. On this certificate the inspectors of election will put the name on the list and the voters can vote. This can be done at any time before the closing of the polls, and the voter need not lose his vote simply through a clerical error or mistake in transcribing. The Board has full power to make all needful corrections."

FAIR WOMAN POET COMES TO RESIDE IN HONOLULU

MRS. FREDERICK WINSLOW Hankey, wife of the well known Honolulu lawyer, who has come here to live, is a poet, musician and painter of more than ordinary merit. She was a child of genius and gave extraordinary promise of talent when but a baby. When other children of her age—five years—were playing with their dolls, she was composing poetry, or picking out melody from the keys of the piano. She wrote a play when but eleven years old which was produced in her convent.

Mrs. Hankey's nom de plume, Marie Winslow, is the joining together of her second name with that of her husband.

Labouchere, editor of London Truth, has accepted some of Mrs. Hankey's poems, and she is known in London. She is the possessor of a letter from the talented and erratic editor, in which he pays a high tribute to her latest contribution to his magazine.

The North-west Magazine has this to say regarding her poetry: "Among the younger artists and poets of the Far West is Mrs. W. F. Hankey, who is better known to the public as Marie Winslow. She is a resident of Seattle, Washington. For a long time she has been charming the public with her sweet Irish poems, one of which was published by us in a recent number. Some of these poems have been set to music and have proved very popular."

"Mrs. Hankey, whose picture is given in this issue, possesses a striking personality and is much admired in social as well as literary circles. She is gifted with a fine Irish wit, is a brilliant conversationalist, and inherits through her mother's family the fair complexion, golden hair and dark eyes which distinguish the Castilian type of beauty." As an example of her bright wit one might quote the following anecdote, which went the rounds of Seattle. A well known man there in introducing Mrs. Hankey to some literary people, said: "Allow me to present to you Mrs. Hankey, the Rhododendron of Washington State."

Quick as a flash came the retort courteous: "I am not so brilliant as that. I am only a shamrock." How many know that St. Patrick explained the mystery of the trinity by the little flower—the shamrock? That is the common explanation of its adoption as Ireland's most cherished emblem. Following is Mrs. Hankey's poem on the shamrock, which was freely copied into many prominent papers in the States:

THE SHAMROCK.

Some tender leaves of clover,
Lie low at my feet today,
And they speak to my yearning heart-cords
Of an island far away;
Where their sister-bloom grows ever
Thru' the greenness of the year,
Where about its leaves twine mem'ries
To an Irish heart most dear.

I think of childhood's morning,
Of the path to the barren's shade—
Of the wreath of clover blossoms
That my childish fingers made—
Of the tender, wee, green shamrock
That I plucked with childish love,
And communed with the birds and flowers
In the scented, dewy grove.

When I sang with the lark at morning,
As it soared to the distant sky,
And as I sobbed with the ring-dove
Lest in fear it would moaning die;
When I raised the yellow cowslips
That were pressed by the fairies' feet,
As they danced in the odorous meadow
To the elfin music sweet.

When I list 'neath the hawthorne branches
For the sound of the fairies' ring,
As they paused in their merry revel
By the side of the magic spring,
That dear to my childish fancy,
With its tender nursery lore,
Held secrets ever bubbling
From the depths of its liquid store.

And now, though the June o' life's roses
Are scenting the happy years,
I turn with tender yearning
To that time with its April tears;
And its May of happy laughter
That lies where the shamrock green
Grows back on the turf in Erin
With the years that come between.

Those days with their childish dreaming
And these on an alien shore
That have given my life a meaning
It had never known before.

So tender leaves of clover
That lie at my feet today,
I kiss your verdant freshness
For your sisters, far away
In my home, where the blue waves glisten
As they sweep the Irish strand,
My home where the shamrock's growing.

MRS. F. W. HANKEY, "MARIE WINSLOW."

My far, green, native land,
Bright pearls lay pressed to my throbbing breast,
And my waves kept them shining clear.

Till men in their quest of gain came far,
To war with the strength of my deep;
Now white bones rest, where my pearls
once pressed,
And 'tis thus why I moan and weep.

And still another endearing Irish poem which has been set to music of Mrs. Hankey's own composing, is this:
MY COLLEEN DHU.

My colleen dhu has Irish eyes
That shine so darkly bright;
My colleen dhu has dusky hair,
Like ebony clouds of night;
My colleen dhu has rosy lips,
Through which shine teeth of pearl,
And dear to me is colleen dhu,
My dark-haired Irish girl.

My colleen dhu has heart of gold,
That knows no thought of guile;
My colleen dhu has tender grace,
And such a winsome smile,
Her form the sculptor's dream might be,
From feet to waving curl;
Ah, life to me is colleen dhu,
My dark-haired Irish girl.

My colleen dhu is waiting long
Beside the Irish sea,
My colleen dhu with faithful heart,
My bride that is to be,
Oh, dusky clouds of wavy hair!
Oh, gleaming teeth of pearl!
I love but thee, my colleen dhu,
My radiant Irish girl.

Marie Winslow is an Irish woman.
America was her adopted country, and she was a very little girl, indeed, when first New York harbor loomed upon her childish sight. Naturally she has no distinct memory of the event. At fifteen years of age she married Mr. Han-key, and she is still a young and handsome woman.

"I had a funny experience crossing the ocean to come to Honolulu," said Mrs. Hankey. "Through my carelessness in merely signing my name without the customary prefix of 'Mrs.,' I was placed on the passenger list as 'Miss Hankey,' and addressed by the same appellation. Do you know, that was the first time in my life I ever was 'Missed!'"

"I passed from my convent to marriage (I was then fifteen) and I was just plain 'Kathleen' before that period."
Much has been written regarding
Mrs. Hankey's talents and beauty, but it is reserved for me to speak of her charm of manner—the cordial, graceful, gentle manners of the Irish gentlewoman
MRS. WESDON COYNEY.

HOT TIMES IN HONOLULU

An Account of the Riot of 1852.

THE BRAVERY OF DR. JUDD

Mrs. E. K. Wilder's Interesting Narrative in the Humane Educator.

In the early fifties the whaling interest was at its height in the Pacific, says Mrs. E. K. Wilder in the Humane Educator for November published yesterday. The harbor of Honolulu was sometimes so completely filled with whale ships on their way to New Bedford, that one could walk from one vessel to another all the way from the water front to the harbor entrance.

The crews of so many vessels made up, as they were, of sailors from all parts of the globe, many of them of the most hardened type, were very much in evidence at that time. As may be imagined, it required no little tact and decision on the part of the marshal to keep a floating population of three thousand "jolly tars" in order. Once on land the mariner must be allowed to enjoy himself in his own way and any interference was looked upon as an infringement of his rights. The police, under the supervision of the late Mr. Parke, who held the important office of marshal during some of the most stirring events at the islands, in their efforts to preserve law and order were regarded by the sailors as their natural enemies. The riot of 1852 was but an outcome of this state of feeling and revenge, not only against the police, but the whole government, was the idea of the unruly mob at that time. It all happened in this way: A sailor having been arrested for disorderly conduct and drunkenness, and locked up with several companions in one of the cells of the Fort, became during the night very unruly, tearing up the bricks of the floor and throwing them around with great violence. Crazy with drink, he was not easily suppressed, and the jailor, in his efforts to quiet him and to shield himself, struck the man a blow which resulted in his death some hours later. The news of this event was like a bombshell thrown in the fleet. Greatly excited and enraged, the sailors in a body demanded the life of the jailor, threatening revenge upon the town if their wishes were not complied with. Finding that their threats made no impression on the marshal, who insisted upon the law taking its course, they became riotous in their conduct. Taking possession of the police station, turning out the officers and seizing what arms could be found, they set fire to the building. Other buildings soon followed, among them the harbor-master's office, and indeed, the whole fleet narrowly escaped burning. Had these ships, packed with oil from the north, caught fire, the conflagration would have been a sight to remember always. Feeling the need of some liquor, the mob took possession of a saloon on Nuuanu street, happily saloons were not as numerous in those days as they are now) turning out the proprietors and helping themselves freely to what they could find.

Dr. Judd in those days was a prominent man in the Government. Besides being Minister of Finance, he had great influence with officials, as well as the King himself, Kamehameha III. He was singled out therefore by the mob as the one on whom they could wreak their vengeance and they forthwith decided to attack his residence "Sweet Home." It was a dark night and past midnight when a friend sent warning to my father that the mob were on their way to his house. I well remember being awakened out of a sound sleep and being told by my mother of the danger we were in, and that as the eldest of the children I must take the others, seven of them, and go over as quickly as possible to Mrs. Johnstone's—she lived where Mother Parker now lives on Judd street. There was no moonlight, and creeping along through the taro patches, where Eskbank now stands, was not very easy work. It was more difficult for my grandmother to find her way, however, and to be routed out in the dead of night than for us "children." The dear old lady wore a wig in those days and never went out of her room without it, but in the hurry and confusion it was forgotten, and such was the force of habit, she was more troubled, as I remember, by the loss of her wig than from fear of the mob. My mother charged us as we left the house not to allow Mrs. Johnstone to light a lamp and we all tried to impress upon the good soul what my mother had said, telling her it might draw the rioters to the place, but she still insisted upon striking every match she could find, unable to realize all at once the situation. My brother Frank, however, (the late Chief Justice) stood faithfully by her and as each match was struck, blew it out, so no harm was done. By this time several of my father's friends had reached "Sweet Home." They came armed and to render what assistance they could. Before arriving at the house some of the rioters had dispersed, having turned aside to seek revenge in other quarters. The remainder of the mob on reaching the gate called loudly for Dr. Judd. Though strongly urged not to leave the house and thus expose himself to the violence of these men, my father, being of a determined disposition, after quietly saying that "we could but die once," walked fearlessly out to the gate. His courage in so doing was not without effect, and when in answer to the muttered threats of "Hang him," he replied in a firm tone "What would you hang me for?" the effect was instantaneous. Instead of offering violence, the leader of the mob stepped forward and stated the grievances of the men. To all he had to say my father listened with patience, reasoning with him, assuring the men that justice should be done and finally persuading them to disperse, and happily for us, the mob, who had brought tarred ropes with them to wind around the house before burning it, also rope to hang my father with, went away without having carried out any of their threats.

All this time we young people did not know what was taking place and I can well recall the thrill of joy with which I heard my father's voice calling to us from downstairs to "Come home, that all danger was over." Old Governor Kekuanooa had been unwilling up to this time to call out the militia, but soldiers were ordered out in the morning and perhaps their presence did as much towards restoring quiet and order in the town as did Father Damon's preaching and influence, and that is saying a good deal for them.

It may be interesting to know that one of the sailors who joined the mob on this occasion, afterwards studied for the ministry. He not only visited Honolulu and attended the funeral of Dr. Judd, but as a clergyman took part in the exercises. Who can say that "Truth is not stranger than Fiction."

A HONOLULU MAN

Talks of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

When an incident like the following occurs here at home it is bound to carry weight with our readers. The public statement of a reputable citizen living in this city leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mr. James C. Stevens, of this city, informs us: "I was troubled with an ache in the small of my back for a long time, and such was the condition of things until I tried some of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which I obtained at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. A short treatment gave me the desired relief, and I am satisfied that they are a good remedy for backache and deserve to be recommended."

Mr. Stevens is one of our own citizens. Is not such testimony stronger than that of someone living in America?

Does your back or side ache so that it is hard to stand straight? Do you have headaches, nervousness, frequent thirst, hot, dry skin, or shortness of sleep? Are your eyelids distended or breath? Evil forebodings, or unsettled sleep? Are your eyelids distended or feet and ankles swollen and have you lost flesh? Are the secretions from the kidneys thick, dark colored, and do they deposit a sediment? Kidney disease is insidious and if you leave any of these symptoms you should treat them at once. Delay may mean you you can't be cured.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and store keepers at 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

BABY PULL-BACKS

It is strange that babies get on so well as they do; there are so many pull-backs! But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is a wonderful help.

Begin with a little. Too much will upset the stomach. Increase, but keep under the limit. The limit is upsetting the stomach.

It rests a tired digestion; it does not tax the stomach at all; it lets it play—little stomachs like to play.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 429 Post Street, New York.

The best cough drops are drops of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The next time you take cold, dose yourself with a lot of home remedies and dilly-dally along until your cough is deep-seated and you are threatened with pneumonia or consumption. That's one way, to be sure.

Here's another way: Take

at bedtime and be all right the next morning. Isn't this the better way? Then continue the Cherry Pectoral a few days until your throat and lungs have completely healed and all danger of future trouble is past.

Another grand thing about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is that it cures hard coughs, the hardest kind of old coughs, even after all other remedies have failed.

Put up in large and small bottles.

When it hurts your lungs to cough, then apply one of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plasters directly over the painful lung. It will quiet the pain, remove all congestion, and greatly strengthen.

CAN'T BUY ALCOHOL

Only Physicians Have Privilege.

DECISION BY HUMPHREYS Holds That Legislature had Power to Forbid Sale to Others Than Doctors.

It is up to the Supreme Court now to decide whether the sale of alcohol to physicians alone and not to other individuals is to continue. Yesterday Judge Humphreys fined Benson, Smith & Company, $1 and costs for being guilty of this offense.

A. G. M. Robertson for the company attacked the validity of the statute on the ground that by providing against the sale of alcohol the legislature had deprived ordinary individuals who might desire to make use of alcohol for ordinary domestic purpose of the opportunity to purchase the spirits.

Liquor dealers protested for they were compelled to pay a high license for the sale of beverages less harmful than alcohol and so a bill was introduced into the legislature to forbid the sale of alcohol save to physicians.

In rendering judgment Judge Humphreys said that it was to be supposed that Congress was capable of expressing its intentions, and these were to be gathered from what was said rather than what was unsaid.

The design and intention of Congress, in his opinion, had been to leave this matter to be regulated and controlled by the municipal authorities of the Territory of Hawaii.

A fine of $1 and costs was inflicted and Mr. Robertson immediately noted an exception and the case will undoubtedly land in the Supreme Court.

In speaking of this auspicious opening of so well known and old established a firm as Hart & Co., Ltd., which also carries on a large candy and bakery business, a general description of the new premises will doubtless be of interest to the general public.

The entire basement of the new building will be utilized as a candy factory, which will be in charge of Mr. J. Schutte, an experienced candy-maker lately arrived from San Francisco.

The ice cream parlors, which are on the ground floor, covering about six hundred square feet of floor space, are a marvel of luxury and elegance.

Although the furnishings are extremely rich and in good taste throughout, there is perhaps nothing more striking in the whole establishment than the massive, yet artistically designed soda fountain, the "Honolulu Special," specially manufactured for Hart & Co., Ltd., by the Kade Hygienic Soda Fountain Company of Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

The counters are of quartered oak with dark blue Vermont marble tops, and surmounted by beveled plate glass showcases, which are lined with plate mirrors at the back and on the bottom.

Business on the waterfront is gradually assuming more healthy proportions and things are by no means as dull in the harbor and alongshore as they have been for many days at a time during the last two or three months.

Among the vessels now in port none are larger than the American ship Kennebec, Captain W. F. Lewis, which arrived from Newcastle yesterday morning. She is a ship of 1936 tons and with a great carrying capacity. The Kennebec was 52 days on the voyage from Australia; needless to say, she brought coal.

The next largest vessel now in port is the C. E. Moody, 1915 tons.

The American ship Star of Russia, Captain Mortenson, sails shortly for the Sound. She came here from Newcastle on October 2nd, with 2856 tons of coal and is at the Railway wharf. The Dominion, also at the Railway wharf, will sail for the Sound. Lewis Rodd is her commander. She arrived from Newcastle on October 3rd.

The American schooner Mary E. Foster, Captain Thompson, which brought a million feet of lumber from Port Biakely on October 11th, cleared yesterday for the Coast. The bark Alden Besse, Charles Potter, captain, is on the berth for San Francisco; she takes sugar. Bark Irmgard, Captain Schmidt, cleared yesterday for San Francisco. She has a load of sugar.

The American ship Helen Brewer, Captain A. F. McKay, which arrived from New York on October 29th with 2653 tons of general merchandise, is at the Irmgard wharf discharging.

The American bark Edward May, L. C. Hanson, master, which arrived from San Francisco on October 21st with 2000 tons of general cargo is destined for San Francisco with sugar.

Schooner Helene, Christianson, master, will also carry sugar to the Coast. She arrived here on October 22nd with 2000 tons of general cargo. The Mohican, which arrived here with the Helene, will take sugar to San Francisco, too, early this month.

Schooner H. D. Bendixon, Olsen, master, is unloading lumber which she brought from the Sound on the 22nd of last month.

The American ship Emily F. Whitney, Captain Brigman, is discharging general cargo from San Francisco. The Klilikat, Captain R. D. Cutler, is landing lumber from Port Ludlow. The bark Ceylon, Captain Miller, lately arrived from Laysan Island, is discharging fertilizer at the Railway wharf.

Schooner Robert Lewers, Captain E. Underwood, has almost a million feet of lumber for this port, and the ship C. F. Sargent has 2000 tons of coal. The Golden Shore has also coal and the bark S. G. Wilder, now at Emmes wharf, has a large general cargo to discharge.

The American bark S. N. Castle, which arrived on Tuesday from San Francisco, has already started to unload. With the above vessels and the George Curtis and Martha Davis in port, to say nothing of the Enterprise, for sale, and the Sebastian Bach, Kalmia and others in Hoodoo row, the harbor is by no means dead.

A large number of vessels are due from Newcastle during the near future, many vessels are on the berth at San Francisco for the Hawaiian Islands, and, during the next few months, vessels are scheduled for this port from New York, Savannah, London, Antwerp, Bremen, Hongkong, Nagasaki, Hakodate and nitrate ports.

There are over twenty deep-water sailing vessels in port at the present time. On November 1st of last year, there were just nineteen. The Edward May, Mary E. Foster, George Curtis and Charles E. Moody were here at this time last year together with the Abbey Palmer, R. P. Rithet, Iolani, W. G. Irwin, Bertie Minor, Occidental, S. C. Allen, Chas. R. Wilson, Lucelle, Theobald, O. M. Kellogg, John A. Briggs, Woollahra, R. W. Bertlett and Great Admiral. Of course the tugboat Iroquois was here. The United States cruiser Newark, Captain McCalla, was also in port a year ago today.

LOOKING FOR PAY DAY.

The customs men expected to be paid yesterday. Yesterday was alleged to be pay day, but no wages were forthcoming and the inspectors are in sore straits. It is a fact, well known to all who know the customs men, that many of them are forced to borrow money to live until their money is delivered to them. The consequence is that the customs force, to a large extent, is the helpless victim of usurers. These leeches charge them ten per cent per month on all moneys loaned, but the boys need the money, have to have it, and so are compelled to be victimized. Many of them are married men and all are steady, conscientious, economical, industrious fellows, who can ill afford to pay ten per cent of their salaries, when their pay is not forthcoming, to the ever ready usurers.

INTERNATIONAL MARITIME LAW.

The International Maritime Conference meets at Paris. The questions to be considered at the conference are: First, the limited liability of shipowners. Second, the rendering assistance at sea, with which is involved that of salvage and the obligation of standing by after collision. Third, the question of jurisdiction in collision cases. The British and American committees are of the opinion that the principle of limited liability should cover cases where damage has been done to dykes, quays and similar fixed objects, thus recognizing the soundness of the principle embodied in Mr. M'Arthur's act passed by the British Parliament in the session should not cover the owner's liability for the wages of the master and crew. But the other sub-head of inquiry, which refers to the case of the master not executing the engagements undertaken by the shipowner, or by himself on the shipowner's behalf, is found to be a little too complex to answer off-hand. The British idea is that the limited liability principle should be admitted in cases where, without the default of the shipowner himself, the engagement is broken by the negligence of the master or crew. The Americans seem to agree to this view of their British colleagues, but they also extend the principle to the case of maritime torts as well as to that of such maritime contracts as have been indicated. Both British and Americans would give jurisdiction to the courts of the country where the colliding vessel may be found, or where the owner can be served with process. But the Americans suggest that where both parties are non-residents it should be allowable to decline jurisdiction, while the British delegates urge that any question of competence in the manner most conducive to the exercise of jurisdiction. All except the United States are of opinion that a uniform law of salvage for all maritime countries should be reached. The reason which the United States puts forward for its view is that already the laws are so nearly in accord that it is not worth while to disturb them.—Journal of Commerce.

SHIPPING ITEMS.

The City of Peking is due from San Francisco tomorrow. She will bring a week's later mail and news.

As was announced in yesterday's Advertiser, the steamer Helene goes to Laysan Island commanded by Captain Freeman. She sails, probably, tomorrow.

Captain Hubbard, formerly master of the barkentine S. N. Castle, which arrived here from San Francisco on Tuesday, has finally retired from the sea. Captain E. O. Nelson, who was last in the W. H. Dimond, now has charge of the Castle. Captain Hubbard made over a hundred trips in the S. N. Castle between here and the Coast.

During the past week, says the New York Maritime Register of October 10, the following vessels were classed and rated by the American Bureau of Shipping in the "Record of American and Foreign Shipping": American bark Rebecca Crowell, American schooner C. B. Clark, American three-masted schooner Nelson E. Newbury, American three-masted schooner City of Baltimore, American three-masted schooner William H. Shubert, British brig Ocean Belle, American three-masted schooner Almeda Willey, American three-masted schooner John W. Dana, British three-masted schooner Britannia, British three-masted schooner Clifton and the British schooner Mapleleaf.

One of the two dredges being built by the Maryland Steel Company for the Metropolitan Dredge Company, New York, was launched on October 2 from the ways of the builders at Sparrow's Point. The dredge was christened Thomas. It is the largest seagoing, self-propelling dredge in this country, and her owners will employ her in dredging the new East Channel of New York harbor, for which they have received the Government contract. Her dimensions are: Length, 300 feet; beam, 52 1/2 feet; depth of hold, 25 feet. The engines are triple-expansion, with cylinders 19.25 and 45 inches in diameter, with a piston stroke of 28 inches. The dredging apparatus, which includes a 48-inch centrifugal pump and suction pipe forty feet long, are in the forward part of the dredge. The hull of the Thomas has a sufficient capacity for 25,000 cubic feet of soil, and an hour is the time required to load.

BALLAD OF THE FOK'SLE.

I've sailed as far as the winds dare blow, And I've bunked a while in many a port; The ships may come and the ships may go.

I've always found the time to court, And I've learned one thing, and I swear it's true,

That old or young or black or white, If you're good to her she's good to you—

For a woman's square if you treat her right.

Then ho! yo-ho! for the boundless blue! And ho! yo-ho! for the harbor light!

If you're good to her she's good to you— For a woman's square if you treat her right.

I've not been half what a sailor should, But the lads are a careless lot of men, For the gales they blow us away from good.

And seldom they blow us back again, Yet never I've met with a sailor lad Who was true to his lassie day and night.

But he found her waiting, good and glad— For a woman's square if you treat her right.

Then ho! yo-ho! for the boundless blue! And ho! yo-ho! for the harbor light!

If you're good to her she's good to you— For a woman's square if you treat her right.

When the winds are low and the watch is long, And our ship's asleep in a lazy sea, I weave me many an idle song, For those who were better than I could be.

As I sing the words I swear are true, That old or young or black or white, If you're good to her she's good to you—

For a woman's square if you treat her right.

Then ho! yo-ho! for the boundless blue! And ho! yo-ho! for the harbor light!

If you're good to her she's good to you— For a woman's square if you treat her right.

A Perfect Diamond...

Is destined to be a thing of the past before many years have rolled away, as the mines are surely giving out.

It has been generally supposed that the enormous rise in the price of diamonds was due to the war in Africa, or to the manipulations of the combine there, but developments have shown that this was an error.

It is now positively known that perfect diamonds, and in fact diamonds of every quality, are found only in very small quantities. Perfect stones are almost entirely unknown.

It is therefore an absolute certainty that diamonds will reach an enormous figure, and WILL NEVER GO BACK AGAIN, unless new fields, the location of which is now unknown, are discovered.

There can be no safer purchase today than diamonds rightly bought.

Through a fortunate liberal purchase of diamonds more than a year ago, we are selling some sizes of diamonds in Honolulu at twenty per cent lower than dealers in New York are selling them at WHOLESALE, and in every case are far below Coast prices.

You may think this is business brag, but the assertion is nevertheless true, as we can fully prove to you.

So long as present stock lasts we shall not raise the price, giving you the benefit of our good fortune. You will be surprised at the size of the stock, including some very fine gems of large size.

Now, we don't expect you to come rushing in to lay in a supply for the winter, but we would appreciate your making comparisons and give us an opportunity to show how and why we are right, when it comes to diamonds.

FOUND GOLD IN ALASKA

Hero of Nome Comes Here.

HAD A PERILOUS TRIP

Former Superintendent of Education Wirt is on Transport Conemaugh.

Aboard the United States Army transport Conemaugh, now in this port, there is a man who has but a short time ago come through some most interesting experiences in Alaska. He is L. L. Wirt, now quartermaster's clerk on the transport and who was only a short time ago superintendent of education at Cape Nome.

For two years Wirt was in Alaska with his family, attending to educational matters. On January 1st of this year, wishing to go to Washington on business relative to the establishment of a new mail route to Nome, and other matters of importance, Wirt left his family at Nome and traveled a distance of 1,250 miles to Kodiak by means of dog sledges, snowshoes and a skin canoe, thence by steamer to Seattle and so to Washington.

The long journey from Nome to Kodiak was fraught with every danger, hardship and discomfort that the bitter cold North has to offer. Blinding snowstorms, bitter winds, cold and hunger, anxiety and loneliness are terms which give but a poor idea of the actual sufferings one endures traveling overland in Alaska in mid-winter.

Wirt was accompanied on his perilous journey by Captain Worth, commander of the steamer Meteor of the Alaska Exploration Company. They started with provisions and nine sledge dogs. When they reached the Shelikof Strait they had but one dog left. The others had been frozen to death or had died through over-exertion and scanty food.

It had not been for the friendly Indians along the trail, Wirt and Worth would have succumbed to the trying conditions. As it was, they were practically saved from death on several occasions by the timely help of the Indians, whose villages were scattered along the route.

Where it was possible, the sledge was used, but just as often it was necessary to travel on snow-shoes, and sometimes the two lonely men made as much as sixty miles a day in this way.

When they got to Shelikof Strait the sledge and last remaining dog had to be abandoned and the journey to Kodiak finished in a skin canoe. Not only was this part of the journey the most dangerous and risky but it was characterized by an event that was not in the least anticipated. In the first place, a large skin canoe was obtained from the Indians and two Indians engaged to paddle it over the one hundred miles of water between the mainland and Kodiak.
