Hamakua Notes.

HONOKAA, Hawaii, Dec. 13.—C. H. B. Fowler, sugar boiler at Honokaa mill, has returned from a six months' business and pleasure trip to his old home in England. Honokaa and Paauhau are the only mills in the district still grinding. There will be no interval to speak of between the two crops. A. J. Wilson, principal of Kapulena school, is in the hospital at Honokaa, a very sick man. His school is closed for the rest of the term. Rev. C. W. Hill will hold services in the Lyceum at Honokaa on the 23rd inst. This will be the only Christmas service held in Hamakua and a large congregation will no doubt be in attendance. Rev. Hill will minister unto the people at Honokaa once each month for the coming year. Diptheria and mumps are said to prevail among the children at Honokaa and Paauhau, one death at least being caused by the former disease. Mr. Caivert is the new sugar boiler at Paauhau, succeeding Wm. Petersen, who has held the place some fifteen years. Mr. Petersen comes the boiler at Honokaa plantation in order to give his children the benefit of the Honolulu schools. Dr. Buffet, late of Nova Scotia, has located at Kukaiaui for the practice of his profession. He succeeds to the practice of Dr. Stowe, the latter intending to practice in Honolulu in the future. A. Lidgate and wife have returned from a visit to the Coast improved in health. Mr. A. J. Watt and Mr. A. Black and their brides are at their homes in Honokaa and Kukuihaele, respectively, since last week. The teachers of Hamakua held a meeting in the school house at Honokaa on the 12th inst. and are said to have had an interesting program. The next meeting will occur in February. Soft and mellow is Spruance, Stanley & Co.'s "O. F. C." whisky.

SOMETHING NEW IN CURES.

A Complete Wetting Cures a Man of Rheumatism.

He is a seasoned warhorse in politics and the hero of many a campaign. He tells what happened to him last Monday night.

"I had been to my man's house and fixed up a little deal that promised well. On my way home I was in a block of vacant lots when the cloud burst."

"Cloud burst?" from a listener. "Yes; cloud burst. More water fell in five minutes than at any time since the deluge. I thought at first that a water main must have exploded. I had to throw my umbrella away to keep from drowning. I waded, floated, tread water and went with the tide, for temporary rheumatism in both legs kept me from running. The first port I drifted into was a drug store and the storm quit as soon as I escaped. "I hustled home and my wife immediately ordered me to take a big dose of quinine and whisky. Five minutes later I hurried upstairs and had a catch-as-catch-can with myself, for every stitch on me stuck like a porous plaster. I thought three or four times I would lose the contest, but finally won out and soon had on a warm, dry suit. "Now, you'd naturally think that after such an experience my rheumatism would be worse. Not a bit of it. I believe the confounded thing can be drowned, for I haven't felt a twinge since. But you can't tell. The fact that I tossed the quinine through the back window may have had something to do with it." Years ago Major Patterson was traveling on the railroad through Western Kansas when he fell into conversation with a congenial St. Louis man, who remarked that he had an excellent scheme for hiding his money. "I simply put it under the sweatband of my hat," he said, "and no robber in the world would ever think of looking there for cash." With that he pulled off his hat and showed where he had $250 "planted" as he described. About an hour later the train was suddenly halted while it was turning a lonely ravine and in a few moments a masked man entered the car and began to systematically loot the passengers. Two other robbers kept them off with shotguns from the doors. The fellow reached him the moment he looked up coolly and declared he had less than a dollar in his pocket. "If you'll leave me that and my watch," he said, "I'll tell you something I know: That fellow in the next car has $250 under the sweatband of his hat." "All right," said the robber, "keep your watch and chicken, and he proceeded to confiscate the passenger's cash. When the train was all over, the marauders departed the St. Louis man to around, bursting with rage and indignation. "That was a dirty, low-down trick!" he roared, "and I'm going to hold you accountable for every cent of my money!" "I expected you to be a friend," replied the major, quietly. "Here is the amount. You see, I'm a United States army and I have a letter of $40,000 in this valise by my side. Under the circumstances I felt justified in temporarily sacrificing your $250 to divert attention. I shall expect it up to the Government as vestry-pense in transportation of funds."

HER DEATHS ARE JOINED IN MYSTERY

The girl had said she could not go to her home in Seattle, to spend Christmas, as she had given all her money to Mr. Bennett to invest for her. She seemed to have much confidence in him, and said that he was to make money out of her money for her. Being reserved and quiet, she was not much given to discussing her affairs, and during the ten months she was in the employ of the Neumanns they learned very little about her, except that she had come to Honolulu from Seattle, and that she had been with Bennett before she came to this city. She was of a happy disposition, and was very popular among the servants and with her employers. It was said by someone who knew Miss Schneider and her lovable disposition that Bennett showed a great deal of interest in taking his own life. His death was regarded as a sequel to the death of Miss Schneider.

Mr. Neumann is of the opinion that the girl must have been clandestine meetings between the two, as Bennett was called during Mrs. Neumann's absence, and probably then upon receipt of a telephone message from Miss Schneider. The evening previous to her death she had gone out to see her money, according to a statement of one of the servants, who said he had heard her say so.

CAREER OF THE SCOUT.

The following is a sketch of the career of the scout published in the Advertiser on March 30, of this year: Frank P. Bennett, the famous scout of the United States Army for more than twenty years, the friend and companion of such noted plainmen and Indian fighters as Buffalo Bill, Wild Bill (Hickok), "Jack" Stillwell, Amos Chapman, "Old" Jones, and in fact nearly all the scouts who made thrilling history during the Indian campaign from 1867 to 1885, has been a familiar figure on the streets of Honolulu for nearly two years. Dressed in a white linen suit, wearing a cowboy sombrero of large proportions and high, and laced tan boots, his appearance on the streets has caused many to take more than a casual glance at him. But few knew that the scout who sombrero was a man whose history has been a checkered one and beset from early manhood by the perils of Indian campaigning on the frontier life.

better satisfied to wear his broad-brimmed sombrero of the plains, the earmark of the frontiersman, than to don the more civilized Panama hat. A stranger passing him in the street would not imagine that this unassuming man has sent many a redskin to the happy hunting grounds, and has led in many a fierce affray in the mountains and plains of the great west.

His career has hardly been less readable than that of Buffalo Bill or Kit Carson, and he also, like them, has been an integral factor in assisting to redeem a large expanse of country from the rule of the tomahawk. He has followed the Indians of all tribes from Dakota to Mexico, his last great experience being in connection with the capture of the noted Apache chief, Geronimo.

Born in Minnesota when the region west of the Mississippi was still the home of the wild buffalo and savage Indian, he became, as a mere lad, an expert hunter and a sharpshooter whose bullet seldom failed to go straight to its mark. Few living persons have passed among as many thrilling experiences. A hole, the size of a ten-cent piece on the side of his head, marks the spot where an Indian came nearly ending his career. This was at Fort Lyons, Colorado, just after the troops had whipped a large band of Northern Cheyenne Indians. After the fight the scout went out among the dead and wounded. One of the wounded savages feigned death, and awaiting an opportunity when the scout was off his guard, shot him through the head. The surgeons prophesied his death before the following morning. He lay in the hospital for nine months, however, before ultimately recovering his strength and regaining his faculties. A large scar on his shoulder shows the mark of a bullet as it plowed its way through the flesh, and the lead which remains in the scout's body, while in his side is a reminder of the redman's unerring aim.

It would be difficult to name a trail in Indian Territory, Northern Texas, New Mexico or Arizona, which Captain Bennett has not followed in his pursuit of his chosen calling as a scout on the frontier. He carries the highest recommendations signed by Generals Crook, Miles, Forsythe, McKenzie, Colonel Morrow and other noted army leaders against the Indians, which speak in the highest terms of his unquestioned ability and daring. His career has run almost parallel with that of his friend, "Jack" Crawford, the "Poet Scout."

It is not often that a man has an opportunity to read his own obituary and also see his photograph as he appeared just previous to his death, yet Mr. Bennett has experienced this novel sensation. "It was in 1885," said Mr. Bennett, referring to the incident which led to the report of his death being telegraphed East; and the publication of his photograph and obituary in Frank Leslie's Weekly of June 27, 1885. "I have been in a number of scrapes during my life, but that one down in Arizona was a little the closest shave of all. Old Geronimo had broken away from the White Mountain Agency and was heading toward the Mexican line. I was notified by courier to locate the chief's whereabouts, and I started at once from camp to reconnoiter the country and look for Indian signs. One man accompanied me. As we approached a rocky gorge we advanced without any hesitation, having seen no evidences of redskins in the neighborhood.

"Just as we were fairly off the plain a volley of rifle shots burst from behind the rocks. My horse quivered and as he fell my companion and his horse sank in the agonies of death. I saw at a glance that I could do nothing for my comrade, and before my horse touched the ground I sprang from the saddle and took refuge behind the rocks on the left of the canyon. Six bullets had passed through my clothing without drawing blood. With a carbine and two revolvers I was able to keep the bloodthirsty devils at bay until dark. Every time I saw anything like an Indian projecting from a rock I let fly, and they served me with the same kind of medicine. As soon as it was dark I crawled from rock to rock, being then on an equal footing with the enemy. Eight miles away I found several prospectors in camp. We went back to the scene of the fight, but they had left the canyon. In the meantime a party of wood-choppers had passed along the trail and found the dead man and the horses. It was from their report that the announcement of my untimely death was made."

Speaking of the sufferings which scouts and plainmen had to endure during the early days of the opening of the great West, Mr. Bennett said: "One incident will never die in my memory. On a trip in the middle of summer from Camp Supply to one of the forts in New Mexico, I lost the trail and wandered for three days on the desert without a bite to eat or a drop of water to drink. My horse soon yielded to the terrible heat and my tongue protruded from my mouth as dry as a piece of paper. The agonies which I endured were indescribable. Had I allowed my mind to wander for a moment, I certainly would have perished.

"By picking a course and, guided by the sun and stars, I finally came upon an old buffalo wallow, where the water oozed up in spite of the sun's terrific heat. The water saved my life, although it was the bitterest liquid I ever tasted in my life. The dose was so strong that afterwards two government mules died from drinking from the same pool. It was a standing joke with General Forsythe that Bennett was 'stronger than a government mule.'"

In Arizona, New Mexico and other parts of the Southwest Mr. Bennett assisted in the burial of more than 300 persons—men, women and children—who were massacred by the savages. At the foot of the mountain on the way to California is a narrow defile through which formerly passed the overland stage. A single grave at the side of that pass contains the bodies of thirty-six emigrants, whose bodies were found by Bennett and his party of scouts.

General Crook, one of the most noted cavalry leaders and Indian fighters, says of Bennett: "I know Captain Bennett well, personally; for several years he served as chief of scouts in Arizona and New Mexico, where, among hardships and privations beyond the conception of any man who has not been called to face them, he showed himself always trustworthy, intelligent and brave to a fault. I can give no endorsement too strong to express my high regard for this man and his character; he being in this respect a perfect twin to Captain S. G. Fisher, another noted scout."

The discoveries made in the gold and silver regions of the West have been participated in by Mr. Bennett. This was more agreeable business than trailing Indians, though even in this he met with many thrilling adventures. He was a pioneer in Alaska, and the early gold discoveries in Colorado were only incidents in his career.

This noted scout is one of the famous survivors of a race of hardy frontiersmen whose numbers are rapidly decreasing. The life of the scout has materially changed since the early '70s. In those days railroads were few, the great West was sparsely settled, forts and garrisons of troops were abundant from the Mississippi river to the Rocky mountains. The scout was a courier, and spent much of his time in speeding upon fleet horses between the chain of forts, often pursued for days by hordes of Indians on the war-path, picking his way by night through narrow defiles in the mountains. Wounded, constantly exposing their lives for the safety of others, carrying dispatches under galling volleys, the scout became a man whose name became a household word along the front-tier. Buffalo Bill, "Old" Jones, Amos Chapman, "Dutch" Schilling and Captain Bennett form a small band of survivors of the great array of daring spirits who fought under Custer, Crook and Miles.

For placing the praise of the capture of the Apache chief Geronimo where it belonged, Captain Bennett gained the displeasure of certain high officers in the army and a lengthy discussion was brought out on that account. Captain Bennett contended that Lieutenant Gatewood should be credited with the honor of the old chief's capture. Certain officers who were connected with the campaign had forestalled Lieutenant Gatewood's brave act by taking all the glory to themselves. For stating the facts as they really were, Captain Bennett fell temporarily into disrepute. The facts were soon learned, and Captain Bennett resumed his former standing in the army.

Lieutenant Gatewood's exploit is one of the most famous in the annals of Indian campaigning. When the old, wily chief was run into the mountains Lieutenant Gatewood volunteered to interview him, as he was a man respected and feared by the Indians, and was personally acquainted with Geronimo. Taking four men, the officer located the Indian camp. Leaving his revolver and saber behind, the officer alone made entry to the camp and demanded a "talk" with the chief and his unconditional surrender. He was received and then held for some time while the chiefs hemmed and hawed as to whether the surrender should be made. Lieutenant Gatewood calmly awaited their decision, which was finally given in the affirmative. Geronimo was brought to the army headquarters without bloodshed.

Mr. Bennett favors the placing of the Indian Bureau of the Interior Department at Washington under the control of the War Department, believing it would be a big step in the right direction toward keeping the Indians under better control.

THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser

WALTER G. SMITH - - EDITOR. MONDAY DECEMBER 17

Any charter committee is good enough which understands that the city does not want a charter and would be better off for several years without one.

The Young Woman's Christian Association is doing a quiet but most useful work in this city. Its effort to give young women who work the advantage of a common meeting-place in a home atmosphere has had the best results.

There are just two theories behind the charter movement. One is that municipal government would embarrass or minimize the functions of the Territorial government. The other is that the deal would make new salaries offices to fill and give some of the taxpayers a chance at fat contracts.

Worried Proprietor—What, ho! minion. Minion—Your slave waits.

Worried Proprietor—Calliff, for three months my stock in the Daily Blunderbuss has been hawked at a discount of ten per cent. Villain attend! Not a purse-prod plutocrat would buy, though one said he would take the plant off my hands and pay ten per cent of the deficit. Write scribe as follows: "The Daily Blunderbuss is on a paying basis and has come to stay."

The big cities that fought so hard seventeen years ago to have their names attached to the first cruisers of the new navy have been sorry for it since. Such ships as the Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco and Philadelphia are inferior to the Olympia, New Orleans and Minneapolis, to say nothing of the New York, Brooklyn and the lately authorized armored cruisers.

LAND AND SETTLERS.

We have considered the facilities which Oahu might have under a wisely directed land system for the support of the small proprietor, but this is not all the story. There are other islands of the group, each one of them affording a most diversified field for the minor forms of agriculture—places which, like the Kona district of Hawaii, can produce crops of exceptional quality and quantity for which a profitable home market exists.

The good that would flow from such a policy is manifold: First—It would steady the social conditions, enlarge the responsible middle class and lighten the electorate, which, as it stands, is in need of a closer fellowship with American ideas.

Second—It would build up large towns on each island, thus giving people, however far removed from the older centers of the group, the enjoyment and advantage of urban conditions.

Third—It would make the cost of living cheaper. Because of thousands and tens of thousands of upland acres lying idle or merely used for grazing the price of vegetables, fruit, eggs, poultry and "green truck" is from two to four times more than it is in San Francisco. The best celery may be raised on some of the islands, yet we import celery at 25 cents a bunch from San Francisco.

Fourth—It would prepare Hawaii for statehood. It is the unwritten law not to admit territories as states where an alien sentiment sways a great part of the electorate. That is why New Mexico and Arizona, where Mexican sentiment is yet strong, have knocked in vain at the doors of statehood for a generation.

Fifth—Finally white men of American citizenship are needed to nurse and preserve white American institutions here which may, without them, become tinged with alien ideas and prejudices. Let us not be like the South was before the war and is to some degree yet—a barony of vast estates, with servile labor and the middle class white man at a discount. Let us, instead, be like the North, where Americanism is the dominating note and where the small proprietor is the most familiar and useful factor in the common citizenship.

BLUNDERBUSS EXPLODES.

The paper which discovered that George Carter was defeated by a "heavy vote" in the late election, despite the contrary showing of the returns, now lets its genius for knowing things that are not so apply to the land issue. Hence this diverting series of blunders:

The giant stroke which shall do all of these things is a question of state, a thing of beauty and a joy forever if it happens to work, and that is the inaugural address of Sanford B. Dole as Governor of the Territory. It is aware and above the treaty of annexation and the public land laws of the United States of America, all of which are of about the value of so much white paper. The point is that when Congress passed a very explicitly worded resolution that the lands of Hawaii should be those insignificant and ill-informed male servants of the American people did not know what Mr. Dole's inaugural address was going to be. He could have told them but he probably did not want to say much at the time or to let them know that he was going to have Mr. McKinley appoint him Governor. But that does not make any difference, for as long as the inaugural address has been delivered, the treaty and the land laws will have to stand aside.

It happens that the "treaty of annexation" which our blunderbuss contemporary imagines to be identical with the joint resolution of annexation and the Territorial Act came to nothing. Every Island school boy in the upper grades ought to know so much of the recent local history of our times and to be aware, furthermore, that the "public land laws of America" do not apply here. Sec. 73 of the organic law says:

"That the laws of Hawaii relating to public lands, the settlement of boundaries and the issuance of patents on land commission awards, except as changed by this Act, shall continue in force until Congress shall otherwise provide."

The changes made are partly in phraseology, partly in regard to the time limit of leases, the exclusion of land reserved by executive order for Government purposes, etc. In no respect has the administration of our public lands been turned over to the United States Land Commissioner, and the income from sales and leases is set apart for the benefit of the inhabitants of the Territory. If the "treaty" and the American land law were set aside, as they certainly were, Congress is the guilty party and should have the reproof of our scattering contemporary rather than Governor Dole.

A correspondent who may not have seen the Associated Press dispatch about the reasons for Russell B. Harrison's summary retirement from the army sends the following letter:

Editor Advertiser: Your editorial the other day I think does an injustice to Russell B. Harrison. At the beginning of the Spanish war many young men, "sons of their fathers," secured commissions. The city of Indianapolis alone furnished three of these, viz: Wm. E. English, Harry New and Russell B. Harrison, each being commissioned as captains and assigned to staff duty for the reason that none of them knew Spanish. General Lee, who was killed in the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, does not show that he goes out under a cloud. He belonged to the volunteer establishment and served in Cuba, and the military establishment now in Cuba consists almost if not entirely of regular troops. General Lee, whose staff Harrison served, being relieved from Cuban command and ordered home. The fact that Harrison's father was against him proves nothing, for all Hoosiers know the ex-President has been against all his children ever since they opposed his second marriage, and has no spoken word to any of them since that event, and has left no stone unturned at any corner to do them dirt. R. B. may not be the soldier his father was, nor even a Napoleon or a Grant, but he deserves credit for serving his country, and being mustered out of the volunteer establishment need not be considered a "cloud." All the volunteers must be mustered out soon now. A HOOSIER.

Of course the matter is not very important and this journal merely mentioned it in passing, but that young Mr. Harrison missed his vocation when he went into the army is tolerably well attested. However, it was creditable in him to enlist and quite in keeping with the high traditions of his family.

Undoubtedly if some of "the people who hold office here before the advent of Judge Humphreys had adopted the social and official ethics of Arizona" they would not be as wealthy as they are today.—The Arizona Kicker.

Probably not. What they hadn't spent in saloons they might have lost at draw poker.

Music for Libraries.

Some of the principal public libraries in the country have added music to their circulation departments, and with marked success. The idea is spreading now to the libraries in the smaller cities. Seattle has just adopted it, beginning with 200 books of vocal and instrumental music. In the Seattle, as in the other libraries which have adopted this feature, the aim is to encourage the taste for good music. Scores of the most popular oratorios and light and grand operas are the chief feature.

MY SUMMER AMID ROYAL PALACES

By Mrs. T. De Witt Talmage.

NO SOONER had I stepped ashore from the Oceanic than the question was asked me for publication: "You have had abundant opportunity this summer of studying royalty in Europe. What do you think of it in comparison with Republican simplicity?" As this question has come to me the third time, I proceed to answer it, though somewhat reluctantly.

Yes, we have had an opportunity of seeing the inside of palaces, and communing with princely and imperial households, such as has seldom been granted to persons unofficial. The publication of my husband's sermons in all the languages of Europe for many years, seemed to open every door we might wish to enter. And the first remark I desire to make, in reply to the question as to the contrast between republican simplicity and royal manners, is that there is no contrast at all. The higher in station the more unpretending the personage. It is the people who are afraid of losing their place, or who are struggling for something higher, that take on airs. The higher the prince or princess the emperor or empress, the more unconventional. Republican simplicity is no more marked than royal simplicity.

While the "show-rooms" of palaces may be bejeweled, and richly upholstered, and embanked with lustrous statuary, and aglow with masterpieces of painting, the "living rooms" of European potentates are for the most part as plain as the rooms of people ordinarily prosperous. While the tourist, catalogue in hand, is permitted to pass through sleeping apartments which were once occupied by some Marie Antoinette, or Napoleon, or Maria Teresa, and the pillows of the couch and the canopy are ablaze with splendor, for the most part the sleeping apartments are as unpretending as a hundred homes in the same city of Berlin, or Vienna, or St. Petersburg, or Copenhagen. While the banquet of a king or queen might easily swamp what we would call many thousands of dollars, and the gleam of the chalice and the flash of the plate are something to be remembered for a lifetime, the ordinary breakfast or luncheon or dinner of a palace is as plain as ordinary cutlery, and tablecloth, and ice-pitcher can make it. The breakfast-room at Stockholm where King Oscar and his queen sit, morning after morning, is probably as simple as the breakfast-room of many of those who read this sketch. When Emperor Francis Joseph invites any one to dine with him at Vienna, he sometimes apologizes for the plainness of the meal. Mr. Gladstone, who was in some respects a king, called the repast to which he invited my husband at Hawarden "a few snacks."

The pomp of royalty is seen on great occasions, but no persons, however highly born, can always walk on stilts. The vast expense of princely and imperial households is in the support of official attendants, who must be ready to respond at the first call, though that call may not come more than once a year, or once in five years. Hundreds of horses must be ready, though some of them may never be harnessed for service except at a royal marriage, a coronation, or an imperial obsequy, and those occasions are very far apart.

The conversation of these people is surprisingly familiar. The Empress of Russia, without any hesitation, expressed to me the preference she had for the Chinese above the Japanese. She said: "The Japanese may pretend to be friendly, but they stab you in the dark." She cannot forget that when Nicholas, now her husband, was traveling in Japan, he received a ruffian stroke that felled him senseless, and that now, when the Emperor is excited or overworked, that Japanese wound of many years ago still disturbs him.

The Crown Prince of Denmark, in style and language that we are familiar with in our own homes, said to us: "Come, let me show you into my den," and then took us through his study. And the Crown Princess said to me: "Come, let me show you my garden. You will find it as quiet as though it were many miles from human habitation, though only five miles from Copenhagen." With what simplicity the Dowager Empress of Russia showed us her pictures and asked us about where we had been, and invited us to come again on the morrow. Simplicity reigns in all the high places we were permitted to visit. But one must go abroad in order to fully appreciate home life in America. There are more happy people in our country than in any other land. Great palaces and royal families, however kind and benevolent and exemplary, imply a multitude of people with not enough to eat or wear or shelter them. I had rather live ten years in America than thirty in any other country. While there is no contrast between republican simplicity and royal manners, there is a contrast, wide and awful, between our country—where every healthy and industrious man can make a comfortable living—and monarchial lands, where poverty is the common inheritance of the people. Thus much have I learned from my journeyings this summer in the capitals of Europe.

KAISER'S PERSONAL GUARDS.

Some interesting particulars are published of the manner in which the safety of the Emperor is assured during his frequent journeyings. It may be remembered that five of the Berlin secret police were ordered to Cadix during his majesty's recent stay. One of the officials went about as a carpenter, with a rule in his hand. The second lay by the side of the roads disguised as a tramp, and partook freely of the contents of a gin bottle filled with tea. The third wandered about the country as a journeyman. The superintending official rode about on a bicycle dressed as a tourist, and in this garb gave the necessary instructions to his subordinates without causing any suspicion. These officials, of course, were well known to the police and gendarmes of Elbing. In the neighborhood of Tilsit, Dantsic, Marburg and Rominten also, the secret police adopted similar disguises to conceal their identity.—Berlin Correspondence London News.

TALKED TO YOUNG MEN

Rev. Silas P. Perry At The Y. M. C. A.

ASKED THEM TO WORK

Exhorted His Hearers To Labor for the Cause of Christianity Here.

Rev. Silas P. Perry addressed a meeting of young men at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association building. The minister made an earnest appeal for the acceptance of Christianity, and called for the best efforts of those already within the church to influence the unconverted.

For his text he chose a verse from the twenty-fourth psalm, "Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up ye everlasting doors, and the King of Glory shall enter in."

Beginning his address with an explanation of the biblical exhortation he pleaded earnestly with his audience to heed it. "There may be men among you," said he, "who are like an oyster imbedded by the sea; how, clinging to its shell, it opens to let in the nourishment, and then closes up, giving forth nothing. There may be men like this among you; men that open to let in the light of the gospel, but receiving it, close up, and send forth no light to their fellow men."

"And there may be men among you like the sponge, forever taking in and giving out, throwing open the portals that the light of Christ may enter in, but giving forth what he has received to his fellow men. It is this kind of man that brings good to humanity, open up your portals, Oh my brethren, and let in the King of Glory. And be not selfish, but send forth that which you receive."

"Be like the mountain stream, that receives the heavenly showers, pure and blessed, distributing its waters to beautify and fertilize the land."

"There are men, there may be some among you, who would like to open their doors and lift up their gates just a trifle. They would like to let in enough light that they may wear the cloak of righteousness and seem glorified on the outside, but they wish to be worldly within. They wish to have the light, but they wish also to keep some of the worldly things that have grown dear to them; they are filled with habit and controlled by habit, and they want to hold on to temporal things. They want to give only a part to God, but this will not do. Men are divided between God and the world. They must renounce the one or the other."

"Therefore I say open wide the portals, and let in the King of Glory, for great shall be the reward. There were men in biblical history who thought to try this thing, of giving themselves partly to God. We are told in parable that they put their new wine into old wine skins, but the new wine fermented and was spoiled. There are men who think to live on in sinfulness until the end is near, and then offer up their old parched hides, crumpled and blackened with sin, for the reception of the new spirit."

"What you want to do, my brethren, is to give your young lives, not to delay for the glamor of temporal things, but to throw open your portals now, and be glorified. Do not strive to hang on to things that are worldly, and at the end to give up the poor, useless remainder to God. You can not put a new patch upon an old garment, for the old cloth will tear away."

The sermon was heard by about thirty young men.

AN ARMY RUINED BY ABSINTHE.

Some sensational facts concerning the prevalence of absinthe drinking in the Swiss army have lately been published by Dr. Chatelain, a military doctor on active service. He states that out of the 200,000 men who have passed under his care within the last four years, 24,000 were suffering from the effects of absinthe in a greater or less degree. Official statistics, he adds, also show that 12 per cent of the male population over twenty-one years of age of the fifteen largest towns in Switzerland are every year the victims of absinthe, and the vice is spreading to an alarming extent.

Dr. Chatelain advocates the passing of a bill for the control of the sale of absinthe—Geneva. Correspondent of the London Express.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks By Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide killing the dandruff germ leaves the hair to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide.

"Mr. Hardcase," said the minister, "I saw your son in a saloon yesterday." "Did you?" replied Mr. Hardcase. "I hope he had the politeness to ask you to have something."—Philadelphia Record.

A TIE GAME AT PUNAHOU

The English and Scotch Teams Even.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

Excellent Work of Both Sides Applauded by a Good Crowd Saturday.

The Association football match at Punahou last Saturday was as fine an exhibition of the popular English game as could be desired.

England and Scotland opposed each other for the first time since the formation of the two clubs and a stubbornly contested game ended in a tie, the score being one all. L. G. Blackman shot the goal for the Britishers and Fiddes scored for the Hoot Mons. Nothing was scored in the second half. The Scots were first on the field, their costume of blue shirt, white pants and thistle badge making a very effective appearance. The English team showed up somewhat late and when the game started were four men short. Cheek and Gibbs not turning up at all. Sinclair, Moss and Kitcat played substitute for England's delinquent warriors till they arrived.

England won the toss and elected to defend the town goal. The superior weight of the Scotch team soon made itself felt and they were the first to score, Fiddes doing the trick. England made great efforts to equalize and were reinforced by the arrival of Stokes. The weariness of the rose badge forced a corner, which proved unproductive. England continued to press and Blackman finally scored with a clinking long shot. The rest of the half was very even. Half-time score:

ENGLAND 1.
SCOTLAND 1.

The play in the second half was of an extremely vigorous nature and of better order than during the first half. England had somewhat the better of the tussle but there were no additions to the half-time score when the final whistle blew.

NOTES OF THE PLAYERS.

ENGLAND.
Bob Anderson, the skipper, kicked well. D. W. Anderson played a powerful half-back game. Bottomley kicked with judgment. Cockburn is fast becoming an aggressive forward. Osborne covers plenty of ground and does much work. Fenwick in goal did what little work fell to his share, well. McGill is rapidly becoming a reliable back.

SCOTLAND.
Lennox is a very useful half. Kay is a good outside right. Guild shows improving form.

ENGLAND.
Blackman a tower of strength in the forward division. Lansdale plays a good game but is apt to be slow. Davies is one of the best of a good forward line and gets away quickly. Irvine is useful. Parish did good work. Stokes is invaluable at center half. Seymour did well. Harvey is getting into form. Soper is the mainstay of the English defense; plays a vigorous game and is a powerful kick.

The English team wants practice; the forward line could do great things with a little more combination.

At the conclusion of the game Dr. Smith, the president of Oahu College, called for cheers for the two teams, which were heartily given. Dr. Smith watched the game throughout and took great interest in it. He expressed a very favorable opinion of Association football.

At Makiki, Iolani Past and Present played a hard game which resulted in a tie of one all.

ISLANDERS ON THE SEA

From Samoa To Hawaii In Canoes in 1192.

MYSTERY OF NAVIGATION

Natives' Primitive Charts the Secrets of Which are Rigidly Preserved.

Far in the South seas where the ships of civilization touch only incidentally lives a people who may fairly be called the most intrepid mariners in history, says the Washington Star. Living ever within sight and sound of the sea, they have come to forget mankind's instinctive fear of it. They swim almost as naturally as they walk. In their frail-looking but scientifically constructed boats they make voyages such as to stagger belief, voyages that cover thousands of miles of ocean. In long centuries of sea-following they have evolved a science of navigation incomprehensible to us, but, judging from its results, perfected to a high degree. Their history is full of long ocean wanderings in which whole fleets took part, and these accounts cannot be brushed aside as myths, for there is ample evidence to support them. Today the little craft make their way confidently through the perilous seas where the occasional foreign ship with all the equipment of science goes with fear and trembling.

All the South Sea Islanders are wonderful navigators, but at the present time the inhabitants of the Marshall Islands bear the palm for skill and daring. Their type of craft is an unequal catamaran, one hull being much smaller than the other. This small hull is on the port side and is connected with the main boat by a sort of platform, securely lashed. It serves to keep the boat from overturning and also to hold it to the windward when tacking, for these craft make their way against the wind. The sail is like our familiar leg-of-mutton sail, the gaff, however, being curved and running almost perpendicular to the deck. The mast is stepped amidships and can be easily unstepped. Steering is done with a paddle. In a large boat many paddles are carried for use in case of gales so severe as to render the sails useless.

HOW THEY NAVIGATE.

No Marshall Island ship would venture on a long voyage without its star gazer, chart reader and navigator. The navigator has charge of the handling of the ship; he is the executive officer. If it is a chief's boat the chief himself is in command, but he must be guided by the directions of the chart reader and the star gazer, who are the most important persons aboard. Between them they map out the course, determining it from the stars, the chart, the currents and the movements of fishes and birds.

Mr. Brigham of the Bishop Museum is authority for saying that formerly the Polynesian Islander had a rude compass, for they made frameworks of sticks, looking for all the world like complicated kite frames, which were kept in possession of the craft called "Makaalawa," or astronomers. These frames were the compasses of the South sea sailors. Set on the bow of the canoe and oriented correctly, they plainly told the pilot how to steer. Little is known as to the construction of them. Nowadays the islanders can get the mariner's compass and maps and charts of European make. In the more remote parts, however, they still depend upon the old charts, which are perhaps the most curious specimens of cartography extant.

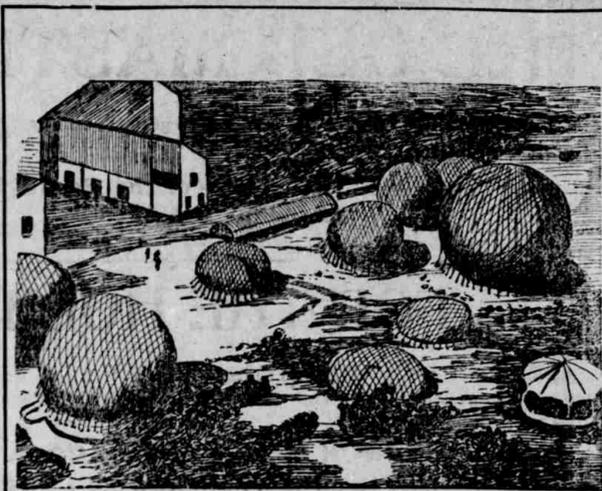

These charts are made of splints of cane tied together, and at intervals little shells are attached. At first view the impression is that the shells stand for the islands, but their meaning is far more subtle. The trade winds and the ocean currents move with great steadiness in the equatorial region. If you were sitting in a low canoe and had trained nautical ears you would hear a ripple against one side of your craft, but not on the other, and this would declare your course.

But, further, when this steady, moving ocean current strikes the shallow water it is arrested in front of an island, but moves on past the ends, making a curve in the ripple. Each island makes its own curves and when these curves meet there are cross lines of ripples resembling the pattern on the back of the watch. These are called "dunungs," and shells are tied at these points on the stick charts, as buoys are marked by the lighthouse board of the hydrographic office.

SECRETS RIGIDLY PRESERVED.

Capt. Winkler of the German navy, who assiduously studied the Marshall Island charts for years and who was intimate with Chief Lofak, says that the greatest secrecy is observed about the use of these charts. There is no coast survey or hydrographic office to furnish copies for a few cents to any navigator. If there were, some fine morning the chief might rise up and find a lot of his canoes and people gone. The extreme mystery has always prevailed concerning them and only selected persons are trained in their use. Captain Winkler says that generally a whole people undertook a journey under guidance of the chief and his pilot in a flotilla consisting of from 25 to 30 canoes. One canoe was pilot boat and the expert navigators all gathered on this one, the others following in line. The man on watch had to sing while on duty so that the others might know that he was not asleep. Thus the fleet would make its way along the highways or trails from one archipelago to another, far out of sight of all land, for many days at a time, but always knowing their location.

About the year 1192 one Paao, a celebrated navigator, astrologer and priest in the Island of Samoa, conducted a company from that island to Hawaii in a large, open, double canoe, without

AERO CLUB PARK AS SEEN FROM BALLOON.

This odd looking picture is not a field of huge mushrooms. It is the reproduction of a photograph, taken from a captive balloon, of the Aero Club Park, near Paris. The picture was taken just prior to the start in the recent balloon competition. A prize was offered, open only to veteran aeronauts, the points upon which it was to be awarded being the distance traveled and the duration of a continuous voyage in the air. The prize was won by the Centaure, a balloon of 1,616 metres capacity, which landed, after a voyage of 35 hours and 35 minutes, at a point in Russia, 1,304 miles distant from the starting place. The largest balloon entered in the competition was the St. Louis, with a capacity of 3,000 metres.

decks. He had no compass, his sails were of the most primitive kind and a large part of the time the crew were compelled to use their paddles. In 1492 Columbus made the voyage from the Canaries to America in well-built vessels with decks, using the mariner's compass. He missed South America, sailed almost twice as far as was necessary and landed on San Salvador, now Watling's Island. The distance from the Canary Islands to South America is about the same as that from Hawaii to Samoa, that is, not far from 2,500 miles. On this showing Paao seems to have been quite as adventurous and successful an explorer as Columbus. How in the world he could have started on such an undertaking with any assurance of success has troubled the minds of students of Polynesian life for many years. Dr. N. B. Emerson says that Paao was in possession of his unspoiled senses—and that means a great deal. Paao met in Hawaii his own Polynesian kindred, whose ancestors must have sailed over the same track; but all memory of their journeys is lost.

It is not quite certain whether Paao's canoe was a dugout or a built-up craft. The Hawaiian type is shown in the picture of Queen Kaiulani's pleasure yacht, now in the United States National Museum. It is a dugout, with outrigger. A built-up form would resemble the Marshall Islanders' canoe; but the principle is the same, the object being to enable the navigator to keep his vessel upright in the ocean and to go against the wind.

VOYAGE OF THE "SWARM-OF-FLIES."

Paao's voyage was begun under unfavorable auspices. One day Paao's brother accused Paao, Jr., of stealing fruit. The father killed the boy then and there, in the presence of the uncle, cut him open, and finding no fruit in his stomach, was crazed with rage. Did he murder his brother? No, that is not the Polynesian fashion of showing anger. He made up his mind to get as far away from Samoa as wind and water would carry him. To this end he constructed a large double canoe and just as it was finished an incident occurred which hastened his departure. Seeing the son of his brother drumming offensively on the new canoe, Paao killed him, sacrificed his body to the god of canoes and buried it in the sand underneath. Soon after this the father, hunting for his son, came upon the new canoe. While admiring her fine lines he noticed a swarm of flies about a block of wood. Removing this he discovered the body of his son. So he named the canoe "Swarm-of-Flies" in contempt.

"Swarm-of-Flies" was one of the large, sea-going, double canoes, in which the two hulls are held at a certain distance apart and parallel to each other by three cross-pieces called iakas. All the joining on the craft was done, not with nails and pegs, but with scannit, braided cord made from the husks of the coconut fruit. The hulls were covered with deck mats fore and aft to keep off the waves. She was rigged with a shifting mast and triangular sail of plaited pandanus leaves. The mast and sail were so set that in stormy or rough weather they could be unshipped, folded together and lashed to the iakas, or cross-pieces. And then Paao and his crew had to depend upon their paddles. "Swarm-of-Flies" had seats for forty paddlemen sitting two on a bench. A raised platform in the middle of the canoe was walled and roofed with mats and that was the captain's quarters. The voyage of "Swarm-of-Flies" is said to have been disagreeable, owing to the winds and storms raised by Paao's brother. But what is most wonderful in this connection is that the canoe was accompanied, guided and protected by a school of fishes.

OTHER SOUTH SEA VOYAGERS.

Among other navigators of this period were Paumakua and Kaula, who visited every land known to the ancients, the former bringing back to Hawaii from a distant region two white men. One of the most famous of these navigators was Moikeha, who figures as a great explorer. With his brother he sailed to the Marquesas, but there a quarrel arose and with true Polynesian instinct Moikeha picked himself up and returned to Hawaii for spite. The distance traveled could not have been less than 5,000 miles. His son, Kila, when a boy, made a canoe of bulrushes, in which he explored the Wallua river; he was also an expert surf rider and was taught geography, navigation and astronomy. Arrived at manhood he became a great sailor and made the round trip between Hawaii and Tahiti, traveling about 5,000 miles over seas. These old navigators had gotten so far in the economy of long voyages as to have devised a perfectly seaworthy craft, built to hold from two to fifty persons each and admirably rigged for sailing. Dried breadfruit and other desiccated foods were economical rations for long voyages.

Not all these journeys were successful. There are melancholy traditions in the Islands telling of tribal expeditions which set out and were never again heard of; victims probably to the furious hurricanes of the Pacific. Nor have all the more modern voyages turned out well. In 1830 a Marshall Island flotilla of 100 canoes set out and all save one were destroyed. As late as 1860 a fleet of thirty-five canoes sailed from Jaluit, but was heard from no more. Doubtless these brave and venturesome mariners have paid as heavy a price in human life as any of the civilized races whose explorations have broadened the world.

THE BEST OF LIFE.

Not till life's heat is cooled,
The heading rush slowed to a quiet pace,
And every purbled passion that has ruled
Our noisier years at last
Spurs us in vain, and weary of the race,
We care no more who loses or who wins—
Ah! not till all the best of life seems past
The best of life begins.

To toil for only fame,
Handclappings and the fickle gusts of praise,
For place or power or gold to gild a name
Above the grave whereto
All paths will bring us, were to lose our days—
We, on whose ears youth's passing bell has tolled—
In blowing bubbles, even as children do,
Forgetting we grow old.

But the world widens when
Such hope of trivial gain that ruled as lies
Broken among our childhood's toys:
We win to self-control!
And mail ourselves in manhood, and there rise
Upon us from the vast and windless height
Those clearer thoughts that are unto the soul
What stars are to the night.

COURT TERM AT LAHAINA

Maui Circuit Finishes Its Labors.

ONLY ONE CRIMINAL CASE

Four Defendants Pleaded Guilty and Were Sentenced--First Grand Jury Indictments.

(Special Correspondence.)

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 15.—The December term of the Second Circuit Court convened at Lahaina, came to an end Wednesday and the trial jurors were paid off and dismissed, having been in attendance since December 5th. Of the five true bills of indictment found by the Grand Jury but one case came to trial, the four defendants in the other cases being so overawed at the findings of the Grand Jury that they all pleaded guilty.

In the fifth case—"Territory of Hawaii vs. Ah Fu and two others, assault with a dangerous weapon"—the jury found Ah Fu, Ah Fook and Ah San guilty of simple assault upon the person of Jos. Paiko of Kaanapali. The fracas occurred in a Lahaina restaurant October 24.

One of the four cases in which the defendants pleaded guilty was, "Territory of Hawaii vs. Man Poon, alias Wai Tai alias Nai Wai, burglary and attempt at felony." This crime was committed at Kahului during the night of September 4, 1900. Man Poon broke into the store of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company and carried away twenty or thirty sets of clothing, several gold-filled and silver watches, etc., concealing the major part of his plunder under the grand stand of Kahului race track. Another was Territory of Hawaii vs. Doyo, larceny, second degree. Doyo was the former yardboy of George Hons, Esq., of Wailuku, and pleaded guilty to purloining sundry articles of clothing belonging to his employer.

"Territory of Hawaii vs. Kaula, assault with a deadly weapon." The crime occurred in Wailuku October 23. Kaula, on two separate indictments, pleaded guilty to assaulting his wife and his mother-in-law with a hatchet. But few of the fifty cases originally on the calendar ever came to trial. During the two days' session of the Grand Jury the attorneys spent their time in compromising and settling cases out of court. Then bail was forfeited in four cases and two cases in which Judge Kaula was disqualified were continued until next term of court.

Complimentary mention should be made of the new method of selecting jurors irrespective of class and race; the only qualifications demanded being that jurors must be 21 years of age or over, must be able to read, write and speak the English language fluently, and must be American citizens. During the past term at Lahaina the jury thus selected proved the best of as good as the best that ever tried cases on Maui, the Hawaiians acting with fully as much dignity, discretion and judgment as the foreigners.

GENERAL NOTES.

One hundred and seventy dollars were realized by the sale of fancy articles at the Literary held at Paia Foreign Church parlors during the evening of the 6th.

Tuesday, Mrs. F. F. Baldwin of Paia gave a pretty luncheon to Mrs. H. At Baldwin of Hamakua, who recently returned from a visit to Honolulu. Ten ladies were present.

During the afternoon of the 13th the Ladies' Thursday Club of Makawao met at the residence of Mrs. Taylor of Hamakua.

Dr. E. I. Moore of Honolulu, who is at present making a brief professional visit to Hana, will soon depart for the Coast.

Dr. Rossi of Rome, Italy, who has been sent to Hawaii by the Italian authorities to study the educational system in vogue here, was, during the week, the guest of Manager D. C. Lindsay of Paia and Manager W. J. Lowrie of Spreckelsville. During the 13th he made a tour of Kula on horseback in company with Mr. Lindsay.

Miss Richards of California is the guest of Mrs. J. J. Hair of Hamakua.

Mr. Philip Frenar of Honolulu has been recently appointed at the B. D. Baldwin's Hamakua.

Mr. Kohler, bookkeeper of Lahaina plantation, is slowly recovering from a severe attack of blood-poisoning.

During the 11th, a most shocking accident occurred at Ulupalakua. The 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Emily Saffery was drowned in a cistern at her home. About daylight in the morning while her mother was sleeping the girl went out to gather some kindling wood with which to build a fire, and while returning to the house she stepped on the cover of the cistern, the boards of which, being very old and much decayed, gave way, letting her into the water beneath. Being unable to swim she was drowned before she could be rescued. The mother when she got up missed her daughter and after much search finally found her dead body in the cistern.

MISSING CHILD RETURNS.

Emily Limaholo Carried Off on Ke Au Hou Through Carelessness.

The relatives of little Emily Limaholo, who have been much worried over the disappearance of the child for a week past, are rejoicing on the safe return of the little runaway girl. Whether her week's absence was intentional or the result of carelessness in remaining too long on board the out-going vessel does not develop.

It is said that little Emily went with a friend, Mrs. Johnnie Cookley, to see her off on the steamer and that she was directed by Mrs. Cookley to go ashore. When the Ke Au Hou was off the wharf it was found that the child was still on board, but as there was no time to stop and put her ashore, she was taken along to Waimea, Kaula, to the home of Mrs. Cookley.

As soon as the little girl was missed her grandmother, with whom she lives, became alarmed and informed the authorities, thinking that the child had been kidnapped. A warrant was sworn out, charging a woman named Martha with kidnapping. The warrant was forwarded to Kaula for service, but by the time it reached there the little girl was on her way back. She was brought here on the steamer Kaula Saturday and returned to her grandmother. It is said that little Emily evinced a desire to remain on board the Kaula and not to return to her relatives. The warrant of arrest is still in the hands of the police.

DEATH RECORD.

Grim Reaper Gathers Harvest of Three Friday and Saturday.

The Secretary of the Board of Health recorded three deaths on the list for Friday and Saturday, two adults and a child, one on Saturday and two the preceding day.

Mahtou, aged two months, a Japanese, died Friday, December 14, at Kewalo, near the ice works, of acute enteritis; Hr. Hoffman attending physician.

Kapano Nahini, aged 23, Hawaiian, died Friday, December 14, of gangrene of bowels from hernia; Dr. L. F. Alvarez attending.

Kaahanui, aged 20, Hawaiian, died at Jack's Lane, Niihau, on Saturday, December 15, of pneumonia; Dr. L. F. Alvarez attending physician.

GUARDING THE CZAR.

Tedious Experience of an American Woman in Poland.

The attempt of nihilists to assassinate the Czar by blowing up the train on which he was traveling was read with much interest by one gentleman whose wife was compelled to forego her dinner a few weeks ago on account of the preparations made to guard the railroad track over which the Czar was shortly to pass. The gentleman told of the incident yesterday as his wife described it in a letter just received.

"In July last," said the gentleman, "my wife sailed from New York to visit her sister in Poland. After spending a few weeks with her sister she set out on a journey, 150 miles farther north, to visit other relations. Her sister and brother-in-law took her in their carriage fifteen miles from their home to the large town of Bjelostok, on the railroad between Warsaw and St. Petersburg, where she was to take the train. They intended to have a pleasant afternoon of it and to reach Bjelostok an hour and a half before the train arrived, so that they might have a good dinner together. But before they reached the town an incident occurred that illustrates the practice of scattering soldiers along the track when the Czar is about to pass in his special train on any of the railroads in the Russian domain, as was mentioned in the account of the plot to kill the Czar.

"My friends were blissfully ignorant of the fact that his imperial majesty was on his way from St. Petersburg to his hunting forest about twenty miles south of their home. This vast estate, known as the Bjelovej forest, is one of the finest game preserves of Europe. It is filled with every sort of game known in Russia, and is the only place in Europe where a few specimens of American bison are kept. The forest was formerly owned by a wealthy citizen of Russia, but was purchased by the present Czar's father and is kept exclusively as a hunting ground for the members of the imperial family.

"Well, my friends had arrived at the outskirts of Bjelostok when they suddenly saw a great scurrying of cavalry and infantry on both sides of the track and within a few rods of it. As they approached the soldiers an officer saw them and trotted toward the carriage with hand uplifted, crying: 'Stop!'

"'What's the matter?' asked our brother-in-law.

"'His majesty is coming and you must stay here till his train passes.'

"'When the train due?'

"'Don't know. Stay where you are. It'll be along presently.'

"'Can't you let us cross over to the station?'

"'No, sir.'

"There was nothing to do but to wait, and it was a hungry and uncomfortable hour and a half they spent there, nursing their wrath inwardly, but outwardly patient and composed as became two subjects and one ex-subject of the ruler of Russia. There were no special privileges for residents of America, and my dismayed wife saw the prospects of dinner vanishing, for there was no eating house within reach, as the track and the lines of soldiers extended just outside the town. Just as they began to wonder if his imperial majesty would ever come there was a sudden roar up the track, the soldiers became all alert, and the special train with its precious freight sped by on the wings of the wind. Then the agony was over, the Czar had had safe transit as far as my wife's party were concerned, and they whipped up to the station just as the north-bound train drew in. There was not a minute to lose, and my wife started on her way with a few sandwiches in her lap, though she would have given the Czar's hunting forest for a hot dinner and a big one.

"I was amused by our sister's rather conclusive reply to a gentle moan from my wife during that tedious time of waiting:

"'Well, all I've got to say,' mused my wife, 'is that the business that calls me north is just as important to me as the business that calls the Czar south is to him.'

"'Oh, yes; that's all very well, but—still, I think that the sword is more powerful than your argument.'

DR. PACHECO'S DANDRUFF KILLER

A GREAT PHYSICIAN SAYS: "75 per cent of all diseases and sickness is caused by the pores becoming clogged, thus shutting up in the blood the poisons and impurities which Nature intended they should eliminate." SEATTLE BEER - AT THE - CRITERION SALOON.

Not a single sail was sighted all day yesterday by the lookout at Diamond Head; no vessels entered the harbor except three of the Island steamers—the Claudine from Maui ports, the Mikahala from Nawiliwili and the Iwalani from Kukuiahae.

Nor did any ships leave port. The harbor was as quiet as could be and a Sunday peace, accentuated by the absence of the coming in or going out of ocean steamships or deep-water sailing vessels, held the waterfront in its gentle grasp.

The tug Fearless lay idle all day at her berth at the Navy wharf, the tug Eleu did not move from her moorings at the end of Wilder's wharf and the waterfront was for the most part forsaken by all who usually have business there.

On a few of the Island steamers lying at their wharves some of the crew were on deck entertaining friends, enjoying the music of the guitar, mandolin or ukelele and singing pleasant songs to while away the welcome hours of rest. Here and there, in out-of-the-way places, near the coal piles, in the lumber yards or in some corner on one of the wharves, sad to relate, quiet games of "seven-eleven" were in full swing, while those of the waterfronters who were not recreating in other parts of the city were comfortably ensconced in easy chairs on the decks of their vessels or where, on week days, they are in the habit of performing their labors, smoking reflective pipes and reading or dreaming the idle hours away.

There are always a great many people who make the waterfront a promenade on Sundays and it is not at all uncommon to see persons decked out in their Sunday best, taking a walk along the front, looking at the various ships, going aboard some of them and enjoying themselves as much as if they were on a jaunt in the park or witnessing some grand procession. To these people, the majority of whom are employed all the week in the stores and business houses and around town generally, anything to do with the sea has a charm that entertains and is the source of a great deal of genuine pleasure. They find in the visiting of vessels from all parts of the world a delight which is as much of a recreation to them as it is to a sailor to walk around a town after a long voyage at sea, taking in all the many different sights which a city affords.

Courting couples are sometimes to be found on the waterfront, on Sunday afternoons and affectionate pairs may often be seen wandering along the wharves, gazing out to sea and discussing the future with an earnestness betokening their utter indifference to everything else that is going on around them.

Now and then the white wings of graceful little yachts relieve the monotony of the harbor and pleasure parties in row boats often seek pastime on the waters of the bay.

CLAUDINE FROM MAUI.
 The Claudine, Captain Lane, arrived in port from Maui and Hawaii ports at an early hour yesterday morning with a large number of passengers and the following freight: One horse, 49 hogs, 146 bundles of hides, 167 bags of corn, 273 bags of taro and 284 packages of sundries. Her passengers were:

Geo. Weight, wife and two children, W. H. Bailey, W. H. Bailey, Jr., Mrs. W. F. Mossman, Miss B. Mossman, Miss Scooby, Miss A. Wodehouse, J. J. Hogan, J. L. Thompson, C. B. Cottrell, Jno. Josepa, Thos. Clark, Dr. Frear, Miss N. S. Richards, Mrs. Davis, Misses Schaefer (2), W. A. Smith, Chank Kim, wife and child, B. H. Zablau, N. Zablau, Mrs. Hose and two children, H. R. Wood, F. J. Cross, Wm. White, C. H. Johnson, W. Pohina, W. Kaula, Capt. Murray and wife, Mrs. Josepa and two children, Mrs. Martinson and three children, W. E. Smith, J. P. Silver and wife, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. J. H. Nui, Miss H. Awana, A. F. Tavares, K. Tadagi, Mr. Clancy, Mr. Cody, R. A. Wadsworth, D. H. Kahaula, H. Hugo, O. R. Wilkins and wife and 53 deck.

MIKAHALA FROM NAWILIWILI.
 Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning the Inter-Island steamer Mikahala arrived from Nawiliwili with 4289 bags of sugar, 166 bags of taro, 1 horse and 95 packages of sundries. She left 16,015 bags of sugar on the Island of Kauai. Her passengers were as follows: Paul Isenberg and wife, H. P. Foye and wife, R. D. Mead, Dr. Sandow, George H. Allen, J. D. Willard, Mrs. Chas. Lovell, Mrs. W. L. Bowers and two children, Miss E. Carlson, Miss Annie Achol, Miss Lahali, W. E. Devereux, Miss Harbottle, C. Knackstedt, Ng Fong, G. Kai, L. Lam, Mrs. Kaeko and sixty-two on deck.

The Mikahala reports the steamer Nihau as having arrived at Eleele at 10:30 on Saturday morning. The schooner Fannie Adele was also at Eleele, discharging a deckload of hay. By noon on Saturday the barkentine Amelia had finished discharging at Eleele. The steamer Ke Au Hou was on her way to Hanamaulu when the Mikahala left Nawiliwili at 5 o'clock in the morning on Saturday; the Ke Au Hou was not to leave Hanamaulu until today. The Mikahala reports smooth weather in the channel with ordinary trade-winds.

IWALANI FROM KUKUIHALE.
 Before daylight yesterday the steamer Iwalani came into port from Kukuiahae with 2,572 bags of sugar consigned to F. A. Schaefer & Co., 23 packages of sundries and five deck passengers. One of the passengers on deck was an insane woman brought from Honokaa to be placed in the asylum in this city. It is said that the unfortunate woman was swindled out of certain property not long ago and that her present state of mind is a result of worry and excitement over the matter.

The Iwalani reports the mills of the H. S. Co. and the P. S. M. Co. both grinding. The Iwalani cleaned out the P. S. M. Co. The H. S. Co. has about 1,500 bags of sugar left.

Very rough weather was experienced along the Hamakua coast during all of last week and the heavy sea burst over the tops of the landings at times. Crossing the channel the sea was very choppy and strong, fair winds prevailed.

LOST HIS CHRISTMAS TURKEY.
 A very amusing story is told on the second engineer of the Inter-Island steamer Iwalani. It seems that a friend of his made him a present of a particularly fine turkey in Honokaa. The receiver of this timely gift was delighted with his acquisition and started in right away to fatten the bird up for Christmas eating.

The Iwalani is a roller and almost anything will roll while at anchor at Kukuiahae. The Iwalani rolled that night for all she was worth and every time she rolled she took water on her deck. She took water in generous quantities and a good share of the water went over the unfortunate turkey which pitched all by itself on the port side of the vessel.

The consequence was that when the second engineer awoke in the morning and went to see how his turkey was getting on he found that the poor bird had been drowned during the night—that is, the fowl was to all appearances as dead as a door-nail; but the owner of the turkey would not give up his Christmas dinner as easily as his friends thought he would. He untied the turkey's remains and placed the bird in the sun on the forward hatchway and proceeded to work over it just as if it had been a human being. He rubbed it industriously in his endeavors to bring it back to life, and after nearly two hours' hard work, much to the surprise of others aboard the Iwalani, he finally succeeded in making the turkey stand up and move around, alive as ever and evidently not much the worse for being drowned.

The second engineer of an almost gone turkey was so delighted that he gave the bird the freedom of the ship and let it walk around the deck in order that it might recover its sea legs. The only regrettable thing in connection with the recovery of the turkey was that the second engineer, in rubbing the bird to bring it back to life, had rubbed all its feathers off and the fowl presented a funny appearance strutting around the deck without so much as a solitary feather to its name.

As a result of being tied for so long by his foot, the turkey was also troubled with a stiffness in that particular leg.

All went well until some little time after the Iwalani had sailed from Kukuiahae for Honolulu. Then the ungrateful turkey, evidently preferring death by drowning, having had some experience in that line, to being roasted or boiled for a Christmas dinner, made a grand break for liberty, flew over the rail and was soon lost to sight far astern. The last seen of the plucky bird, it was swimming with all its might after the vessel as if it had changed its mind at the last minute and wanted to live—er is still in possession of the bird's feathers, however, and it is sad that he will make use of them by stuffing a pair of boxing gloves with the soft material. These gloves he will use on anybody who says "turkey" to him, or even suggests that delicious fowl in the future.

SATURDAY'S SHIPPING.

On Saturday the schooners Aloha and Jessie Minor sailed for the Coast, the Aloha bound for San Francisco and the Minor for Eureka. The Aloha took up a load of sugar.

The four-masted schooner Okanogan, from Port Ludlow, and the barkentine Archer, from San Francisco, arrived at this port on Saturday.

At daylight the steamship America Maru, from the Orient, was sighted, and by 8 o'clock she was alongside the Pacific Mail wharf and had commenced discharging about 500 tons of freight for Honolulu. J. A. Forrest was the only passenger for Honolulu, coming from Yokohama. About midnight the Maru sailed for San Francisco taking with her considerable mail from this city.

The America Maru experienced an unusually rough trip from China and Japan. Some of the vessel's gingerbread work was damaged but no serious injury sustained.

Captain Going says that the vessels of the Toya Kisen Kaisha have endeavored to make the trip across the Pacific in the best possible time. Steamers of other lines must not be permitted to approach the records of these boats. As it is, the Marus hold all records for the Pacific.

When the America Maru left this port Captain Going fully expected to arrive in San Francisco at the same time as the Zealandia, if not a couple of hours ahead of her. The Zealandia had a start of over thirty hours ahead of the Maru.

Among the Island steamers, the Kinau arrived from Hilo and was expected on Saturday, the Noeau came in from Kauai and the Waialeale and Maui departed on their regular runs.

The United States Army transport Aztec sailed for Manila at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

IN HILO FOR CHRISTMAS.

The Roderick Dhu and Amy Turner left San Francisco for Hilo on the 2d inst. The race down will be interesting. The Turner has a full cargo of goods for Hackfeld & Co. and the Roderick is full up with merchandise for the local merchants and plantations. Her freight offerings were beyond her capacity. The following passengers were booked to sail by the Roderick: Gov. Baker and wife, Miss Julia Broderick, Miss Pomeroy, Miss Clarke, Miss Hattie Hilton, "Tug" Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Buck and W. H. Little, wife and baby.

GENTLEMEN:—It affords me great pleasure to say, that our iron roof, 1,400 square yards, covered by your "Arabic" Compound is very satisfactory. The heat under our roof before you painted it, was almost unbearable, now it feels like an ice house compared to what it was. It is more than 15 DEGREES COOLER. I can recommend the "Arabic" to those who want cool iron roofs.

IS THE GARDEN OF EDEN OURS?

Dean Hall Thinks That the Flag Now Waves Where Adam and Eve Dwelt.

Dean Hall, geologist in the University of Minnesota, calls attention to the fact that the report of Dr. D. F. Becker, one of the United States geologists who went with the army to the Philippine Islands, contains the geological history of the archipelago which leads scientists to believe that the islands comprise the Garden of Eden, the original home of man, and that the Tagalo of today is a direct descendant from the man of Borneo, midway in development between the ape and the human species.

Dr. Becker reports that during the tertiary period of geological history these islands were in the midst of swamps and shallow seas at the very edge of the Mediterranean Lake, which extended westward to the Atlantic Ocean. Later the bottom of the sea was lifted above land. The Alps, Caucasus and Himalaya mountains now stand as the highest points to which the ancient sea bottom of limestone and shales was lifted. The Philippines were lifted, too, so that during the later tertiary time the Philippine islands were a part of the continent of Asia and migration of land animals and plants took place freely. Then came a subsidence, which cut off the migration of animals to and from the islands, and with this subsidence begins a period of great volcanic activity and huge quantities of lava were thrown out and spread over the land and ocean bottom.

There is no evidence of land connection between the Philippines and Asia from that time to the present. There are evidences of certain oscillations, upliftings and submergences, but no movements of sufficient magnitude to make dry land across the China Sea.

But the item of special interest is the opinion of the late Professor Marsh that one of the earliest haunts of the human species was the Philippine archipelago, with Borneo and other southward-lying islands. The great elevation which lifted the bottom of the old Mediterranean Sea into mountain ranges like the Alps and Himalayas and the following submergences of the area of the China Sea beneath ocean waters had a profound effect upon the migration of the human race. "If it should be proved," says Dr. Hall, "that the original home of man was, as Marsh seems to suggest, in the Philippine Islands, then in bringing under the flag the original garden of Eden we shall secure a treasure beyond financial or political valuation."

"Only a few years ago in the island of Borneo the fossil remains were found of queer creatures believed to be midway in degree of development between the ape and man. The climatic conditions favoring the development of animal forces appear to exist there in highest perfection. The animals that were associated with man in the original garden of Eden, as they were driven in every direction by the movements of the sea and rivers of Basaot, show some marked divergences, as those of India, China and the Philippine Islands are compared. It is easy to see how under such intense conditions, the neighbors of the original man of Borneo, isolated on his own island to the north, could have developed into the Tagalo of today."

HIS TRUNK WAS LOOTED

Peter Donlan Robbed Of a Good Sum.

TWO SUSPECTS IN JAIL

Hilo Talks of a New Cemetery-- Telephone System--News of Hawaii.

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 13.—Peter Donlan, who has charge of the Olaa Sugar Company's stables at Nine Miles, is loser by about $300 through a burglary, says the Herald. When Mr. Donlan returned to his room after supper Monday night he found the door broken in, his trunk broken open and contents disturbed. Upon examination he found that upwards of $300 in gold and silver had been taken but the sugar company's drafts and his watch and chain had been left behind. Complaint was made to Officer Kelley, who notified Captain Hitchcock, and together they made an investigation. On Tuesday morning a Portuguese was arrested on suspicion and later in the afternoon another Portuguese was taken into custody. Both men were brought to Hilo and locked up. One of them was convicted at the Kohala term two years ago of throwing an iron bar through a window of a dwelling. He was sentenced to imprisonment and recently pardoned out.

THE OLAA LANDS.

It will be remembered that at the meeting of the Executive Council two weeks ago letters were read by Commissioner Brown from two persons who had bought lots in the new Olaa tract but who could not get possession owing to the presence of the squatters. The matter was discussed and both the gentlemen notified of the result. Following is a copy of the letter received by E. L. Rackliff of Olaa:

Honolulu, Dec. 4, 1900.
E. L. Rackliff, Olaa, Puna, Hawaii.
Dear Sir: Replying to yours of November 26th in the matter of the lot purchased by you in Olaa, and which you say you are denied possession of by claim of squatters on the same I would state:

That since the auction sale of the Olaa lots of September 20th last, the question of our authority to sell has been raised by the resident United States Attorney Mr. Baird.

The matter in dispute has been referred back to Washington and it is probable that an early determination of the question will be had. Such determination will, I believe, confirm the position taken by this office, but in the mean time our course in regard to the squatters is not clear. I do not know that any one contests our right to remove these trespassers on public land, but our authority to sell, to establish you in possession, is the point in issue. I hope, therefore, that you will give us additional time in this matter as we cannot claim from you any interest or payments on land that you are not able to obtain possession of. Yours respectfully,

J. F. BROWN,
Commissioner of Public Lands.
HILO NEEDS CEMETERY.

Honolulu has a new cemetery and a line of tramways will soon run to the door. The time is approaching when arrangements will have to be made for a new cemetery, or at least when there must be a law governing the burial of the dead in Hilo. Under present conditions burials take place anywhere; Hawaiians bury their dead, in many instances, where it is most convenient and without due regard to sanitary laws. One's back yard may be as good as any other place in so far as the dead are concerned, but not for those who, like their faults, live after them. The practice of burials being made on residence lots should be discouraged, and the best way to discourage it is for the next legislature to enact a law forbidding interments elsewhere than in a cemetery. There are suitable sites for the purpose near town, and one of them not altogether suitable for the cultivation of cane might be procured.

CONCERT AT HALL.

Professor Heilmann is arranging for a program for a concert to be given at Hall Church on Saturday evening, December 22. Among those who will take part will be Mrs. J. T. Lewis and the local orchestra. Details are not yet complete.

TELEPHONE IMPROVEMENTS.

Manager Richards, with a large corps of linemen, has been busily engaged during the past week in making alterations to the local telephone system. The old method will be discarded and a new metallic circuit system installed. New and larger poles take the place of the old ones all over town, and as far out as Waialae. It will take some time to complete the work.

HAWAII PERSONALS.

C. H. Brown is in town.

Robert Forest has been appointed luna on the Kona Sugar Plantation.

Mrs. Robert Rycroft was a passenger by the Kinau.

Dr. Stowe, of Hamakua, will locate in Hilo about January 1st.

Ten Chinese were arrested by Captain Brown on Tuesday and charged with gambling. The offense was in betting on the number of seeds contained in an orange.

Dr. Schoening will leave for Puna on Saturday. He will be absent about one week.

Charles Kluegel, chief engineer of the Hilo Railroad, is back in Hilo after an extended visit to the Mainland.

Frank Stanley, brother of ex-Judge Stanley, of Honolulu, will be the bookkeeper for Hoffschlaeger & Co., Hilo.

Messrs. Seigewick, Mackintosh and McDonough returned yesterday from a hunting trip to the other side of the Island.

The Loebenstein-Severance case involving the possession of the property at Waiuanue and Pitman street was decided by Judge Little in favor of Mr. Loebenstein. Ridgeway for plaintiff; Carl S. Smith for defendant.

Hon. J. Nickens, late of Tacoma, accompanied by his wife and child, arrived last night. Mr. Nickens has purchased the residence lately occupied by L. M. Whitehouse, and will reside permanently in Hilo. He will engage in the practice of law.

DEATH OF WM. DUDLEY HUNT.

Old Timer and Friend of King Lunalilo Passes Away at His Home.

After an illness of a month William Dudley Hunt passed away on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at his home near Makee Island at Waikiki.

The deceased was born at Ewa on July 21st, 1834, being a son of Thomas Hunt, a veteran of the war of 1812. During the many years of his residence on the Islands he was widely and popularly known, being a warm friend of the Kamehamehas and the intimate associate of King Lunalilo. Miss Julia Hunt, a teacher at Waialupe, is the daughter of the deceased and the only surviving relative.

The funeral services were held at 10 o'clock this morning from the Hunt residence.

WIRELESS SYSTEM CAN BE NO BAR

The Washington Star Urges Laying of the Pacific Cable

It is said that advocates of the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy will interest themselves this winter to cause a consideration of the method of communication in lieu of the proposed Pacific cable. The proposition to establish stations at San Francisco and Honolulu and to flash messages to and fro without the intervention of wires appeals to the economists, who would of course welcome a chance to avoid the expenditure of the several millions required for the laying and maintenance of a first-class ocean cable.

It is to be hoped that this project will not be seriously considered at any stage of the effort to connect San Francisco and Honolulu electrically. The wireless telegraphy is as yet in a sufficiently experimental stage to prevent its immediate application to the Pacific needs. It has succeeded across comparatively small bodies of water, and has been practically applied in offshore tests and uses, but it is folly to consider it as a possible substitute for the Pacific cable at this stage of its development.

The Pacific cable is urgently needed, and it would be a great mistake to rely upon a possible saving when every factor in the case, political as well as commercial, demands that this connection be supplied without further loss of time. When the wireless telegraphy has been demonstrated to be successful in service from Marseilles to Algiers, for instance, and then from Queenstown to St. Johns, it will be in order to propose it for the San Francisco-Honolulu stretch, but not until then.

The Pacific cable is one of the most important items of the congressional program. It should be hastened to the point of final provision before adjournment in March, in order that the work of laying the cable may be undertaken in the coming summer and completed at the earliest possible moment. The United States, having annexed Hawaii, should no longer confess its unwillingness or inability to provide this first necessity of union, a means of immediate communication with the new possession.—Washington Star.

LESSON OF THE PAST

One Nation's Labor Not Suitable Here.

A DIVERSITY IS NEEDED

Maui News Urges Making of Butter From Cane Tops--That Island's News.

WAILUKU, Maui, Dec. 15.—It will be admitted that too many laborers of any one race of people will not be so desirable to the Islands as a mixture of races, says the News. There is no need to fear the result of bringing any one race of laborers, provided they be not brought in such numbers as to enable them to unite and dictate conditions. The planters should take a hint from their experience with the Japanese and try polyglot labor for a while.

There is a fortune for some enterprising man who will come to Maui and make arrangements to convert into fodder or ensilage the immense amounts of cane tops now burned to get rid of them. If instead of being converted into ashes they were converted into good rich cream and butter, the man who accomplishes it will have a regular bonanza.

All of Governor Dole's enemies and some of his friends are joining in the cry that his appointment prevented the success of the Republicans at the last election. This is pure rot and if even Sam Parker had been appointed Governor the result of the recent election would have been precisely the same. The election was simply an expression of feeling on the part of the native Hawaiians, antagonistic to annexation and nothing more. The same result would have happened in the Philippines if annexation had taken place there and then the Filipinos had been allowed a chance at the ballot box.

Wholesale and retail merchants in Honolulu should not shut their eyes to the fact that Coast druggists are finding their way to the Islands and are diverting trade to the Coast. They would have done so before but for the heavy license imposed on Coast druggists. Neither should the Honolulu merchants underestimate the mail traffic which will spring up between the great department stores of the states and the retail purchasers on the Islands, who will be reached by catalogues. This traffic will curtail and eventually revolutionize the present current of trade on the Islands, both in the wholesale and retail departments.

The legislature should entirely remodel the liquor law, leaving it to the different localities to regulate the liquor traffic in their midst. It cannot be claimed that the liquor law as it now exists prevents the use or sale of liquor, and about the only thing to be claimed for it is that it held the legitimized sale of liquor in a few hands. It has often been demonstrated that legislation is impotent to check the traffic in liquor, consequently it should be left to each community to properly regulate its sale.

Mr. P. S. Scales, assistant postmaster and stenographer at Spreckelsville, has resigned and left on the last Mauna Loa for Panalaua, Pahala, Hawaii, where he will hold the position of head bookkeeper. Mr. Sparks from Paia has taken his position. Mr. David Meyers has temporary charge of the Kahului Railroad Company's warehouse at Paia.

The road between Lahaina and Wailuku has been repaired so as to make travel on wheels comfortable, but considerable work is needed yet.

Mr. W. G. Taylor, auditor for Alexander & Baldwin, has returned from Hawaii after having gone over the company's plantation books. He is now at Spreckelsville busily engaged.

Capt. L. Ahlborn of Pioneer plantation left Honolulu for the Coast on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Barckhausen will take his place as manager during his absence.

Mr. Fred Armstrong, sugar boiler at Paia, returned to Maui on Wednesday's steamer.

Mr. Cottrell, chief engineer of the Kahului Railroad Company, goes to Honolulu shortly to bring his family to Maui.

H. Harnberg will succeed W. A. Schmidt, formerly of Wailuku, as head luna at Kaanapali.

Pioneer Mill has already started on its season's run and Paia plantation will "smoke up" on Monday morning.

Dr. Rossi, representing the Italian Government, is inspecting the Maui plantations this week with the view of reporting to his Government relative to the expediency of encouraging Italian immigration to Hawaii.

Sheriff Baldwin returned from Lahaina on Wednesday.

Mr. William Bailey, formerly of Wailuku, but now of Southern California, accompanied by his son, William Bailey, Jr., visited Wailuku on Wednesday.

Judge Copp of Makawao visited Wailuku on Thursday. He reports that the recent storms have shaken a large number of berries from his coffee trees.

HOW GERMS DEVELOP.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Prof. Koch lectured before the Colonial Society, which was crowded with scientists and prominent men, at the Kaiserhof Hotel recently, on the subject of malarial fever. He described to his colleagues his experiences with the Government expedition to Java and New Guinea. He said he had reached the conclusion that great bites introduced and developed parasites into the human body. But, according to his theory, parasite germs breed in the human body itself. The germs are passed by a gnat from one human body to another, but they develop in the body of the gnat during the passage. Children, he said, were especially liable to impregnation. At a village in New Guinea 137 inhabitants out of 700 were affected by the disease and all were cured by the use of quinine. Mosquito nets, the Professor said, were useful but were not wholly reliable. All inoculations, he said, had hitherto been failures, and for that reason he urged the colonial authorities to issue a free supply of quinine.

ALLAN DUNN WEDS.

He Was Married to Miss Grace Buchanan Saturday

Allan Dunn has become a Benedict. The former actor, theatrical manager and librettist was married on Saturday to Miss Grace Buchanan by Rev. William Morris Kincaid. The bride is of Honolulu and Mr. Dunn, who was born in Devonshire, England, has been resident here for some time.

The wedding was quiet and only a few intimate friends were present. The happy couple will be at home at Cottage Grove after January 15.

MEXICAN MERRYMAKING.

How Laborers on a Plantation Celebrate Saint's Day.

The time-honored custom of celebrating Saint's Day, after some one of which nearly all the large haciendas in Mexico are named, was witnessed Sunday at one of the principal ranches in this valley.

This custom was started by the Spaniards as a religious rite, and still retains a great deal of the same sentiment, although it is looked forward to by most as a genuine merry-making. The extent of the celebration depends on the number of families living on the hacienda and the liberality of the owner, who generally gives a certain sum to one of the leading employes, leaving the matter in his hands to arrange for the greatest amount of enjoyment to his fellow workmen. A strict account is kept of the way this money is spent, so there is no dissatisfaction among the others, although the workman enjoying the distinction of being chosen to manage the feast is generally a leading star in the proceedings.

In the celebration of Sunday the ranch house had been beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, with Chinese lanterns hung in rows along the portales. While work was more than usually well advanced to the day before, one could notice an undercurrent of excitement prevailing in the colony of some sixty odd hands, and by 8 o'clock Saturday everything was ready for the short vespers dance which is usually held on the night before the saint's day celebration proper. If the music prepared for the occasion is good enough, the people of the house generally enjoy a little dance themselves, while all the peons gather in front of the main building and are left entirely to their own devices to make the most of the occasion. This was the case on Saturday night, but while the inside entertainment was all that could be wished for, the attraction of watching the fun outside drew most of the family on the veranda. All the peons of the place, of course, had gathered, from babies in arms to old men and women, and all enjoyed the music and dancing in a quiet way for the two hours to which it was limited.

However, this was only the preliminary for the program of the next day. At 8:30 in the morning mass was heard in the little chapel of the place, the priest and the band being paid for out of the fund devoted for the occasion. At this mass not only the work people and the people of the house attended, but also many from the neighboring haciendas. Particular prayers were said for the success of the hacienda, and altogether a very impressive service held. Everything went as usual during the day, but at night the entertainment was given over entirely to the workpeople. Tables had been placed on the lawn in front of the house on which were immense stacks of candy and fruit; free pulque from the ranch had been procured in quantities, and the major-domo had to have several assistants to help him deliver these things, of which the people, old and young, are so fond. System had to be employed in distributing the fruit and candy. As they passed in front of the tables those appointed as waiters gave to each as much as they could conveniently get away with in a day or so. Attempts are always made to work the waiters as many times as possible, and it was amusing to watch the little fellows especially dodge through the crowd and start in again, marching up as seriously and innocently as could be with their little shirts bursting with what they had already stored away inside.

The dancing began about 9 o'clock and lasted until 11, being carried on with vigor the whole of the time by old and young. It doesn't make much difference on these occasions who or what the partner is, so long as they are nimble on their feet and have good staying powers. If a girl or woman be not available, men and boys dance with each other, the primary object being not to waste the music. Perfect order, good feeling and politeness prevailed, and after the night was over the people were ready to go home, feeling better for their recreation, and resolved to deserve by their work another fiesta of a like kind when the time comes around.—Mexican Herald.

Only once did Mark Twain appear in public as a political speaker, and that was in the Presidential campaign of 1880. While visiting in Elmira, N. Y., in the fall of that year he made a short speech introducing to a Republican meeting General Hawley of Connecticut. In the course of his remarks Twain said: "General Hawley is a member of my church in Hartford, and the author of 'Beautiful Snow.' Maybe he will deny that, but I am only here to give him a character from his last place. As a pure citizen I respect him, as a personal friend of years I have the warmest regard for him, as a neighbor whose vegetable garden adjoins mine, why—why, I watch him. As the author of 'Beautiful Snow' he has added a new pang to winter. He is a square, true man in honest politics and I must say he occupies a mighty jonesome position. So broad, so bountiful is his character that he never turned a tramp empty-handed from the door, but always gave him a letter of introduction to me. Pure, honest, incorruptible, that is Joe Hawley. Such a man in politics is like a bottle of perfume in a glue factory—it may moderate the stench, but it doesn't destroy it. I haven't said any more of him than I would say of myself. Ladies and gentlemen, this is General Hawley."

KAMEHAMEHA ATHLETES WIN MAJORITY OF THE HONORS

A CROWD of about seven hundred people were present on the campus of Kamehameha school last Saturday afternoon to witness the annual track and field sports of that institution. The Territorial band was in attendance and pleasantly whiffed away the waits between the different events.

The entries were numerous and the sport good, and although no records were broken, the times were, considering the nature of the track, eminently satisfactory.

The lengthy program was gone through without a hitch and those in charge thereof are deserving of much credit.

The Kamehameha boys carried off the lion's share of the honors of the afternoon, winning every event on the program but two and receiving eighty points. They also took nine seconds and one-third.

Punahou, with but four to do battle for her colors, captured two firsts, one second and one third, scoring fourteen points.

The Young Men's Christian Association finished third in the race with six points, their representatives taking two seconds.

High school squeezed out five points awarded for one second and one third. The brown brotherhood put it all over their haole competitors and their excellent showing is a valuable tribute to the advantages of systematic training.

They won their proud position by sheer endurance and staying powers and are to be congratulated on their splendid achievement.

At the conclusion of the games Miss Ida Pope, principal of the Kamehameha School for Girls, distributed the prizes won by the Oahu College men and the "Initials," while Mrs. H. E. Coleman gracefully performed the same office for the successful Kamehamehas.

The junior events came first and were stoutly contested, the pole vault resulting in a tie at six feet eleven inches by Kekaha and Kawaha.

In the 50-yard dash, Rees, a mere boy, showed remarkable form, being only just bested out of premier honors by Akana.

The senior events opened up with the first heat of the 100-yard dash. Hanakahi finished first from Castle in twelve seconds.

In the second heat Punohu ran away from En Sang, who was expected to win. Time 11 1-5 seconds.

The running high jump was close in the extreme, Hardee and Harbottle tying with the bar at 5 feet 2 1/2 inches.

En Sang beat Campbell, who had been penalized for false starting, in the first heat of the 50-yard dash, though the latter was coming like a whirlwind at the finish. Time 7 seconds.

In the second heat of the 50-yard dash Castle, badly "pocketed," was unable to get through and was beaten a yard by Moon and Hanakahi, who tied for first place.

In the 440-yard run Antone Marcellino erred as to the finishing point and lost the race by making his effort too soon. Punohu won with ease in 1 minute 4 seconds.

STARTING GATE FOR HILO RACES

Device To Be Used for the First Time in These Islands.

Regarding the coming races at Hilo, J. R. Wilson has the following to say: "I am satisfied that the class of horses that will take part in the events on Christmas and New Year's is higher than any that have raced here before. We are determined to make the thing a success and with that end in view we are getting the track in perfect condition. The money earned at the July meeting is being expended in improvements and the receipts of the next meeting will go the same way. Our aim is to have a track equal to any in the United States, because the better the track the more certain are we that a good class of horses will eventually be sent from the Coast and entered in the races. I brought back a patent starting gate, the first ever brought to the country, and it will be used for the first time on Christmas day."

The Hilo race program for Christmas and New Year's day is as follows:

CHRISTMAS DAY.

One mile heat, 2:45 class, best two in three.

One-half mile dash. Free-for-all.

One mile for lunas' horses, owners up. Only horses that have been ridden by owners since November 1, 1900.

One mile dash. Free-for-all.

One mile heats, best two in three. Free-for-all.

Three-quarters mile dash. Hawaiian-bred horses.

One and one-quarter mile dash. Free-for-all.

NEW YEAR'S DAY.

One mile heats, best two in three. For green horses.

Five-eighths mile dash. Free-for-all.

Three-quarters mile. Pony race for 14 1/2 hands or under.

One mile heat, 2:35 class, best two in three.

Three-quarters mile dash. Free-for-all.

One mile. For Hawaiian-bred horses.

One and one-half mile dash. Free-for all.

The patent starting gate will be used for the first time in Hilo.

WELLINGTON AT ST. HELENA.

Memories of St. Helena in association with Napoleon have naturally had many mentions during the past few months. But it should not be forgotten that Wellington himself stayed on the island, not far from the spot where General and Mrs. Cronje now reside. Calling there on his way from India, he occupied the house which was afterward assigned to Napoleon. The reminiscence is contained in a letter of the Duke's own to Admiral Malcolm, in command of the island. It is dated from Paris, during the occupation by the allied troops, when Wellington found himself in quarters that had belonged to Napoleon. "You may tell Bonny," he wrote, "that I find his Harbottle showed that he has not lost any of his old form, by winning both the high and low hurdles in 17 1-5 and 14 seconds, respectively. Pa gave him a close rub in the latter event.

Deverill, from Punahou College, sprung a surprise in the half mile run, generally conceded to Alan. Deverill came along at the finish with a terrific spurt which proved too warm for Alan, and got home first in 2:22.

Castle woke up in the 220 yard dash, and after indulging Hanakahi with the lead till all but fifty yards of the distance had been traversed, passed him without much effort and won in 27 seconds.

Hanakahi took the final of the 100-yard dash from Moon and Castle after a furious race. Time, 11 2-5 seconds.

WE HAVE A CHIFFONIER of a tremendous size—FOUR LARGE AND TWO SMALL DRAWERS. This is one of the most beautiful Chiffoniers ever shipped to Honolulu. It is not fanciful in design, nor is it elaborately carved. But what it lacks in these qualities is more than made up by the beautifully mirror-like polish in golden oak and excellent cabinet work.

Other Chiffoniers of a smaller size in mahogany, mahogany finish and golden oak.

SMOKER'S TABLE—A neat gift to a gentleman. This table consists of a moistened box for cigars, a cutter, two cellars, and an electric battery to light the cigars.

ANOTHER GIFT FOR A GENTLEMAN is a SHAVING STAND, or a CELLERETTE. These Cellerettes are for cards, etc.

LADIES' DRESSING TABLES in birde-eye maple and oak, with oval mirrors of the best make.

LADIES' DESKS—Mahogany, golden oak, and birds-eye maple. A very appropriate gift to a young wife.

DIFFERING PLUMBERS

Don't Agree Among Themselves.

INSPECTOR'S STATEMENT

Moore Replies to Brown and Says Latter Won't Work as Law Commands.

An appointed committee representing the plumbers of the city accepted the invitation of the Board of Health for a conference on Saturday at 2 p. m.

The main contention was in reference to the character of drain pipes, Mr. Bath arguing from an economic stand that waste pipes leading from the tops of buildings need not be of more than standard thickness.

The Board of Health received much enlightenment as to the comparative virtues of cast-iron and vitrified pipe and all that relates thereto.

The following communication from Plumbing Inspector Moore is answering an attack made in another paper by Plumber Brown:

Editor Advertiser:—Kindly allow me space in your paper to make a reply to a base accusation made by Mr. C. H. Brown, a plumber of this city.

The Honorable Board of Health did not appoint me as an expert plumber, but as an experienced mechanic, and I believe I can safely say that I have assembled more pipe to stand a pressure of from fifty pounds to 300 pounds per square inch than any plumber in town.

Mr. Brown is the only plumber in town who defies the law. When I called upon him in regard to work he had done for Mr. Ladd I told him he would have to change it; his remark was, "I would be damned if I would."

Mr. Charles Falk did not get his work done as contracted and it is the same story—the property owner pays his bill without an approval from the Inspector; now Mr. Falk says he will get another plumber to complete his work.

It is my duty to the Board of Health and public to ferret out such men as Mr. Brown and the work they do, and as long as I am in this office the rules shall be lived up to the letter.

Any plumber who has a just claim against me is not afraid to bring it before the board. My past work is open for criticism and I invite any one to inspect it. Yours respectfully, CHAS. F. MOORE, Inspector of Plumbing.

MONEY FOR THE LEPERS

Their Christmas Will Be a Merry One.

CONCERT A BIG SUCCESS

Mrs. Walter H. Mann and Wray Taylor Prove Themselves Clever Managers.

The event of Saturday was the entertainment at the Hawaiian Opera House for the benefit of the Lepers' Merry Christmas fund, a charitable object that has gradually increased in success.

Everybody had a hand in its success, from the little children who sold flowers up to the public who lavished their money to help swell the fund. The tickets were all sold and some were sold twice over.

The selling of seats has so much money been turned in for sweet charity. The satin programs sold for as much over fifty cents as anyone cared to spare.

Several gentlemen, including Prince David, Mr. Paul Isenberg, Jr., and Mr. Staatauer, bid six dollars for some yellow satin ones to be used for sofa pillows. One gentleman gave Mrs. Hanson five dollars for one, and she sold several for a dollar apiece.

The program was admired for their taste and beauty. Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Walter appreciated the beautiful large white prizes, baskets and American flags kindly donated by the fire department. They also solicited shoes and sugar, and the Grand Ice Company gave the ice.

During the evening Mrs. Kitcat, the Misses Walker, Lutz, and Foster, and Misses served the refreshing beverage, doing a rushing business. But now comes the prettiest scene. Mrs. Annie Montague Turner stood under a bower of bougainvillee, where she was busily engaged in assorting bouquets of the choicest flowers, for neat little baskets donated by a friend. Her assistants certainly attracted much attention. They were besieged with buyers, and could have sold double the number they did if they had had them.

The little Misses Campbell, Howara, Herbert, Aberton and Tenney, Masters Damon and Herbert may rest assured that they materially sweetened the leper fund and gladdened many a poor heart on Molokai, for by their efforts they handed in to Mrs. Turner over $85. Mrs. H. Cooper during the afternoon did lots of work and sold $20 worth of programs. To all above mentioned, the Hawaiian Electric Light Company, and those who donated flowers Mrs. Hoffman wishes to express her hearty thanks; everyone helped so willingly and generously.

The ushers and doorknockers were prompt in their attendance, and Mr. Starbuck, the stage manager, positively refused any pay for his services. Mr. S. P. Taylor, who has charge of the opera house, was also very nice in every way. The management knows of no debts to pay from the gross amount, which is over a thousand dollars. Mrs. Walter Hoffman is deserving of the utmost credit for the successful manner in which she so cleverly managed the affair, for it was a brilliant success from beginning to end. The pretty theater was crowded in every part with leading society people, and presented a charming spectacle.

And now to the program. This was under the direction of Wray Taylor, who took charge of the stage for the evening. It opened with an overture, "Frolic of the Fairies," which was so well played by the Amateur Orchestra, led by Mr. Taylor, that it was compelled to respond to an enthusiastic encore. Mr. Chas. Frutty's fine tenor voice and singing pleased the audience very much and a recall was demanded. Mr. Chas. D. Lufkin, an excellent cornet player, producing very fine tones; his solo was a great treat. The Tuxedo Quartet simply captivated the audience and the four gentlemen were called back three times. No finer male quartet singing has ever been heard in this city.

Miss Alice Woods played a movement on the violin from one of De Berlioz's concertos. A welcome addition to our musical circles is Mrs. Melvin Vaniman, who possesses an extremely pleasing soprano voice which she knows how to use. An encore was insisted upon. The zither, in the hands of Mr. Samuel Peck, is a delightful instrument. He played a selection from "Faust" which was beautiful. Mrs. Ella Harrison, another new singer, gave "For All Eternity" in a charming manner, the violin obligato being played by Mr. Jos. Rosen.

Mr. Harold Mott-Smith's solo on the cello was one of the most delightful numbers of the evening. He played magnificently and had to come out and play a second time. Mrs. Mott-Smith and Miss Hyde officiated most ably during the evening as accompanists. The last number on the program was a "Bit of comedy without rhyme or reason" by Mrs. Walter Hoffman and Mr. J. Lovette Rockwell. It certainly was a bit of comedy, and the two kept the entire house convulsed with laughter the whole time they were on the stage. It was a delightful ending to an excellent program.

A. C. STEELE MARRIED.

Hilo Tribune Manager Takes Miss Willis For His Wife.

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 15.—The marriage of Miss Helen Willis to Archibald C. Steele was solemnized at Wai-naku Lawns last Saturday evening, December 8th, in the presence of intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Cruzan of the First Foreign Church. Miss Dolle E. Sumner, of Oakland, Cal., was maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Scott, bridesmaid, and Mr. W. McKay, of the Wilder Steamship Company, the groomsmen. The bride was attired in white organdie over white silk, with a tulle veil caught at her forehead with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Sumner wore a gown of white organdie over pink silk, and carried La France roses. Miss Marguerite Scott was daintily dressed in pink and carried pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott tendered the bridal couple a reception immediately after the wedding from 8 until 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Scott was assisted by Elvira Richardson, Miss Anna Rice and Miss Helen Severance in the dining room at the various tables. Mr. T. C. Ridgeway escorted the guests down the reception line and made the introductions. Those present at the reception were:

Mr. and Mrs. Moir, Mr. and Mrs. Pular, Mr. and Mrs. Deacon, Mr. and Mrs. Gibb, Mr. and Mrs. Baiding, Mr. and Mrs. Shipman, Mr. and Mrs. Wile, Mr. and Mrs. Furness, Mr. and Mrs. Severance, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Bartels, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Rice, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Forrist, Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Willifong, Dr. and Mrs. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey, Mr. and Mrs. Ma on, Mrs. McGee or Deacon, Mr. L. Leblanc, Mrs. Jules Richardson, Mrs. Westervelt, Mrs. Cruzan, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Deyo and Mrs. Pomerooy, Miss Wolfenden, Miss Potter, Miss Pepeekeo, Miss Dillon, Miss Eaton, Miss McCord, Miss Lillioe Hapai, Miss McGregor, Miss Shipman, Miss Lewis, Miss Louise Hapai, Messrs. Ralph Baiding, Bill, Burkholder, Cook, Thompson, Day, McKee, John Ross, Todd, Beers, John Kennedy, Deyo, Beall, McLain, Stewart, Rufus A. Lyman Jr.

A party of Americans were sitting on the upper deck of a Rhine river boat enjoying the charming scenery. One was reading aloud from a guide book about the various castles as they came into view. Just as the boat was passing one of the finest old buildings a woman in the party exclaimed to her companions: "Why, that old castle is inhabited. See, there are blinds at the windows." "No," said a man standing by her side "those are the shades of their ancestors."

Our Fight For Victory!

For business is campaigning. It has all the elements of courage except bodily risk. It has its watchwords, its standards. There is the ever-alertness for the concealed antagonist, the sudden surprise of crafty competition. There are enemies worthy of your steel—and there are guerrillas whose pot-fire is aimed at your back.

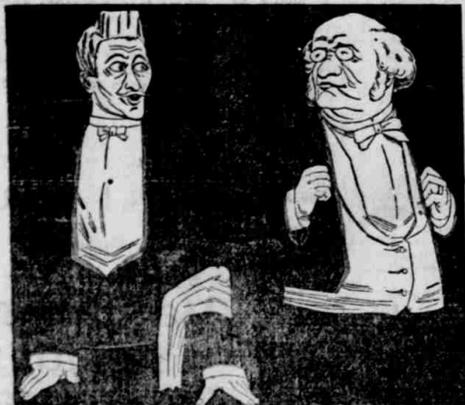

And the campaign is always on. The last trench is never dug. There are no winter quarters. The bugle is forever sounding the advance. Fatigue is cowardice. Failure is treason. Napoleon's troops slept on the march, but they moved forward, always forward. New cries were invented to rouse them. "The Cossacks are coming," and the shout would startle the sleeping heroes into new energy.

Push forward! March on! Keep your armor burnished. Get the range of your opponent. Study his equipment, then your own, and press into use the overpowering strength of better weapons. "God is on the side of the heaviest artillery"—success is a general who has cowards for enemies and slaves for troops. Push your campaign. Take new rallying cries and fight competition to the death.

Do not fail to have a look at our HOLIDAY GOODS.

QUEEN TO BE THERE

Liliuokalani To Attend Fair at Hilo.

HAILI CHURCH BENEFIT

Prince David Will Take a Musical Quartet From Honolulu for Occasion.

On December 22 there will be a grand luau and fair at Hilo, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the fund for providing Haili Church with a suitable organ, says the Hilo Herald.

The ladies of Hawaii, as well as those of Maui and Oahu, have been working for weeks past preparing suitable articles which will be sold during the day and evening. The ladies in charge are Mrs. Joseph Nawahi, Mrs. J. L. Richardson and M. S. James Campbell, and under them will be a number of assistants selected from among the young ladies of the congregation. There will be special tables for art work, donated by Hilo ladies. A fancy work table will contain a number of articles in embroidery, etc., donated by ladies in Hilo and on different parts of the Island. The other table will be filled to overflowing with native hats of the finest grade made in Kona. Some of these are of a quality never before put on the market, and the opportunity will be presented on this occasion to secure a hat of superior quality at a very low price, as the usual custom of doubling on prices will not be adopted at this fair.

Another table which will have especial interest for the ladies is that upon which tapa, fans, pillows and bed quilts of Hawaiian manufacture will be displayed. Some of the quilts have the Hawaiian flag and coat of arms in colored patchwork remarkably true to original designs. The tapa cloth as made by Hawaiians is extremely rare and the specimens to be on sale have been procured from remote parts of the Islands unacquainted by speculators in such articles. Each district in the Islands will be represented at the different tables. At this time it is impossible to learn the names of all those who will assist. The flower and lei table will be presided over by three young ladies of Haili, assisted by the Misses Campbell of Honolulu. At the ice cream table will be Mrs. Philip Rice and Miss Lilline Hapai, while Mrs. N. C. Willifong will look after the thirsty in dispensing lemonade and soda water. Plants will also be sold at this table.

The managers of the fair will erect a pavilion 40 x 60 feet on the makai side of the church building, and this will be handsomely decorated with evergreens and festooned with bunting. Apart from the space allotted to the display of fancy goods and articles usually found in such exhibitions, will be the dining room in which there will be six tables, three for the Hawaiians and three for foreigners. This distribution is made upon the request of a number of the older Hawaiians who believe they can enjoy the feast much more than to be crowded by the foreigners. The dishes to be served include the choicest found on the Island, and it will be cooked as only Hawaiians can cook. Turkeys and chickens will be brought from other parts of the Island to be served up with roast pig. Every article of food known to Hawaiians will be served between 1 and 11 p. m. Ex-Queen Liliuokalani has signified her intention to be present on the occasion, and she will be accompanied by Prince David, who will bring with him the best quartet club in the Islands.

SOLDIERS DEFEATED.

Evening Class of the Y. M. C. A Victors at Baseball.

The Evening Class team easily defeated the Soldiers at indoor baseball last Saturday evening, in the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian Association. The score was 25 to 5. The game was close at times, but the military collapsed in the closing innings.

The losers' excuse is that they had not practiced indoors before, and had used an old ball in their practices, whereas the one used in Saturday night's game was a new one, and proved to be too lively for them.

Brown and Cheatham played great ball for the victors, who should now make it exceedingly interesting for the undefeated Business Men if they meet again.

The teams and positions were as follows:

Soldiers—C. R. F. Pearson; p. Lipsett; 1b. Corp. Weible; 2b. Corp. Price; 3b. Lutz; s.s. Bradley; r. f. Larue; 1f. Wensel.

Evening Classes—C. Cheatham; p. Brown; 1b. Gibbs; 2b. Elerath; 3b. Moore; s.s. M. Johnson; r. f. Hill; 1f. Alvarez.

There will be no gymnasium classes during the present week, owing to the approach of the Christmas season.

On one occasion, while addressing a meeting, Mr. Gladstone was repeatedly interrupted by an individual who alternated loud guffaws with the imitation of a dog's howls. The speaker inquired the name of this fellow and was told that he was a certain John Larf. "Mr. Larf," he said, raising his voice, "our friend Goldsmith clearly had you in view when he said:

"The watch-dog's voice that bay'd the whispering wind,
And the loud Larf that spoke the vacant mind."

"He said that, did he?" cried Larf, as he turned round and struck a little man who was in the crowd a severe blow over the head. And it was only after a violent rough-and-tumble and much vituperative language that Mr. Larf was convinced that the man he had assaulted, and whose name was Goldsmith, was not the gentleman referred to by Mr. Gladstone.

THEATS AT WAIKIKI

Boy Arrested and Charged with Stealing Money.
For months past there have been oc...

from the dressing rooms at the Annex...
Honolulu's best-known suburban bath... ing place. The new manager, George...
McInnis, did his best to protect his... customers but now and then some... thing, which the bathers had not hand... ed over to the office for safe-keeping... would be missing. Last Sunday week...
a diamond pin, a Catholic medal and...
some money, all belonging to one man... were stolen. Somebody else lost a... pocket-knife, the latter theft suggest... ing that the culprit might be a boy...
Yesterday Manager McInnis says... that he put marked money in a suit of... clothes and hanging the garments in a...
dressing room went to a nearby covert... to watch. In a little while a boy ap... peared in the corridor, looking into...
the various rooms and entering the one... where the trap had been set came out... with the money in his pocket. McInnis... collared and searched him. The marked... pieces were all there and the boy was... taken, in his bathing dress, to the po... lice station...
On his way down town, so Mr. Mc...
Innis says, the boy confessed that he... had stolen the diamond, money and...
medal lost the Sunday before. He said... the medal had been thrown away. The...

which he said was the missing gem... but later, after his father had talk...

CULVERT BREAKS.
Serious Damage on Waikiki Road near Hopkins' Switch.
As a result of the November storm...
the brick culvert near Hopkins' switch... on Waikiki road gave way Saturday... night, leaving a large hole in the... drive. The culvert was built many... years ago. It carries the water from... the low ground mauka to the drains... and fish ponds below. The road su... pervisor was promptly notified by a...
Hawaiian, who had discovered the hole... and a lantern was placed there for the... night, the hole being filled temporarily...
with pilings from a neighboring fence...
For some time past the culvert has... been threatening to give away, as the... late storm filled it with debris, and...
the water rose almost to the roadway...
Although the culvert has fallen in in...
but one place, it is in very bad shape...
the entire length, and will probably...
have to be renewed altogether, as a... heavy load would cause it to fall in...
Marston Campbell, road supervisor... states that a great deal of damage was... done, and that a great many of the...
culverts in the city are in a dangerous... condition. An examination will shortly... be made and such work as is needed... will be done to put the Waikiki and... other culverts in shape...
