VETERANS OF TWO WARS JOIN IN MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

FLOODS AND FIRE SWEEP LIFE AWAY

GEO. W. DE LONG POST, NO. 45, G. A. R. DEPT. OF CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA.

(Advertiser Photo.)

VETERANS of two wars joined with the general public yesterday morning in honoring the men who offered up their lives in the defence of the Union. Hardly a score of the veterans of the Grand Army participated in the Memorial Day Exercises yesterday, but the Camp McKinley Artillery and the Hawaiian National Guard, many of whose members fought in Cuba and the Philippines turned out in full force.

The service was solemn and impressive. From the moment the procession started from the corner of Beretania and Emma streets until the bugler sounded taps at the Nuuanu cemetery the generous spirit of the occasion was manifest.

At the cemetery were gathered the people of many nations as well as those who were more or less interested in the special observance of Memorial Day, and all that the anniversary meant. By far the larger portion of the crowds at the cemetery were Hawaiians, and they showed their recognition of the spirit of the day by bedecking the graves of departed relatives with a liberal hand. Japanese and Chinese were present, as well as many American residents of the city, to whom the day has a special significance, and who bestowed their flowers upon the graves of the departed heroes.

THE PROCESSION.

The procession moved from the corner of Beretania and Emma streets a few minutes before 2:30 o'clock, and in charge of Chas. R. Frazier as marshal. A squad of police, mounted, was in the lead, and Captain Berger with the Territorial Band, followed. Then came the Sixty-sixth Company, United States Artillery from Camp McKinley, and the four companies of the National Guard. The artillery men wore their khaki uniforms, which contrasted effectively with the blue and red of the guardsmen. The soldiers were followed by the members of the Geo. W. De Long Post, in carryalls, and then came Governor Dole and his staff, the latter in uniform. The orator of the day, Walter G. Smith, President Crabbe of the Senate, Judge Estee and other federal officials were in carriages, and these were followed by a large number of private equipages. Arriving at the cemetery the guardsmen were halted at the entrance, and presented arms, while the artillerymen and Governor Dole with his staff entered.

AT THE CEMETERY.

At the small enclosure where lay buried the eighteen heroes who fought in the defence of the Union the artillerymen were drawn up at the right, while the band took place just within this line. On the left was formed the line of Grand Army men, barely more than a score, but these still showing that the forty years since the war had not rendered them helpless by any means. In truth some of the grizzled veterans looked as if they were as ready to respond to the country's call as in '61. Each veteran carried a bunch of flowers which was used in decorating the graves of their departed comrades.

Governor Dole, Judge Estee, President Crabbe of the Senate, Col. Soper, W. G. Smith, Secretary Carter, Marshal Hendry and Collector Stockable occupied seats facing the crowd, while chairs were also placed in the square for the accommodation of the many ladies present.

THE EXERCISES.

After a selection by the band the program was begun with the reading of the usual Grand Army ritual by Post Commander E. A. Strout. W. L. Eaton responded with the prayer, in the absence of L. L. La Piere, the chaplain who is ill with dengue fever. Commander Strout continued the reading of the ritual and another selection by the band intervened before the oration which was as follows:

WALTER G. SMITH'S ADDRESS.

Commander of the Post, Veterans of the Civil War, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The thirtieth of May is the most impressive of American holidays because it is the most unselfish. Christmas and Thanksgiving bring us joy, the Fourth of July raises our pride, but Memorial Day receives our service. It is a time a sad arrest; a day when we make pause in sordid things and go among the graves to honor the dead of a war long past. For us are no gifts as in the Christmas time, no fete of bells and guns and music as on the day that marks the nation's birth. It is ours instead to gather at the graves of men that few of us had ever known in life and place upon them flowers of red and white and blue, fit emblems of the flag in whose defence these martyrs fell; not asking, as a test of worth, whether the form beneath the sod was that of friend or stranger; whether the face was white or black; whether the voice commanded or the arm obeyed. It is enough for us to know that when the drums beat their long roll and the bugles rang their summons, these men were instant in the sacrifice. Standing in this presence and with these thoughts and amid these scenes, can any of us say that republics are ungrateful? Can we utter Hamlet's sneer, "How soon we are forgotten?" No, my friends, not more is measured here the strength of our democracy than is its pride in those who died for it in war or suffered for it anywhere. Nor is a single one forgotten. In a wide and special sense the grateful nation honors even—yes, honors best—the lowliest martyrdom. When a kingdom triumphs it raises bronze and marble to the princes and generals of war, or to patron saints or heathen gods, forgetting the humble soldier who bore the heat and burden of the battle. But in the republic there is no forgetfulness of any one, high or low, who gave his life that the nation might be saved. Here one finds the statue of the great commander, of the loyal public leader, but the monument seen everywhere in both North and South, the one most emblematic of the actors and the tragedy of Civil War, is that of the private soldier. In that stern and simple figure, without plume or epaulet, is proof of the republic's impartial gratitude; a gratitude which also shines in the beneficence of pensions and flows in the tide of a nation's sympathy on each Memorial day.

But after all, the heroes of the Civil War on either side need no shape of granite nor of bronze to make their fame survive. Great deeds are more lasting than the rock. The monument reared to them receives more immortality than it confers. There was once a stone lion set up in the narrow pass where 300 Spartans fell in defence of native land. For twice a thousand years no lion has been there, but who has forgotten Leonidas of Thermopylae and his little band of fighting men? There is today a lion of stone on the field of Waterloo, but long after it shall have crumbled into dust, men will recall what happened there to make the lion typical. Bunker Hill needs no carved epitaph, nor does Gettysburg nor Appomattox. What was done there lives in history, in the pride of men, in the everlasting grip of English speech, in the common human love of great deeds and of brave men.

The full debt of America to you, veterans of the Civil War, has not yet been written on stone nor revealed by voice, nor inscribed by prophecy. No one has cast it up and no one can do so in this age. He must have a long perspective who sees the Civil War in all its phases; perhaps centuries will have to pass before the full meaning and effect of that conflict will appear.

But a few thin as we may set down now in the record of your deeds which time is not needed to efface, and which have already fixed their place in history.

You saved the Union;
You saved the South from itself;
You saved the republican idea to humanity. This much is yours forever.
In saving the Union you made possible the world power which the Union has become. You made it continental and the arbiter of this half of the globe. Its peaceful gain in wealth was greater in the twenty years succeeding Lee's surrender than in the previous eighty years; and that gain dates back, in large degree, to the feeling of business faith and national pride which your victories conferred. Out of the military virtues shown on both sides of the war has come a special and peculiar strength to the restored Union; and this has done much to raise the nation from the third to the first rank. The Union you preserved has become a more widespread and powerful state than was the empire of Julius Caesar.

You saved the South from itself. The Confederacy wagered its hope of life on the idea of secession, on the right of political suicide. The edifice of its civil power had a corner stone of dynamite, its frame work was of matchwood and its tenants had the vested right, if things went wrong, to set the place on fire. Had the South won, its victory (Continued on page 3.)

Kansas and Missouri Are Visited by a Terrible Calamity.

Thousands Homeless, Hundreds Are Drowned, River Five Miles Wide, Burning Houses Floating Down Stream, Losses of Millions, Epi- demic Threatened.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

TOPEKA, Kansas, May 30.—The flood is a disaster which has caused enormous loss of life and property.

The rising of the Kaw or Kansas River at this point has rendered seven thousand people homeless and scores have been drowned. The Topeka Auditorium has been utilized as a temporary refuge and now houses two thousand people.

Contagious diseases have broken out among the homeless and an epidemic is feared.

The current of the river is terrific and an enormous mass of buildings and articles of all description are floating down it at almost steam-boat speed. Owing to looting by negroes troops have been called out and are preserving order and assisting in preserving life.

Across the river from Topeka is the manufacturing city of North Topeka and there ten thousand people are absolutely cut off from communication with the outside. North Topeka stands on a bend of the Kaw river and the great flood has cut off this bend and made it a partly submerged island. Following the great rush of water fire broke out in the city. Four hundred houses were burned and others which were floating in the stream caught fire and in turn set fire to others on the river. Many of these houses sheltered people who were climbing on to the roofs for their lives. Two hundred people met death, those who were not cremated by the flames falling into the rushing water to meet death by drowning.

Hundreds of others are now clinging to house-tops and to trees, without food, and as fast as they become exhausted are falling to death in the flood. In this way hundreds are already doomed.

Militiamen in boats and on rafts have saved a great many but it is impossible to render adequate aid. The river is now five miles wide.

A waterspout this afternoon caused a further rise.

KANSAS CITY, Missouri, May 30.—The great flood of the Kaw river which is now flowing into the Missouri, added to the already big flood of the latter river, has made conditions here appalling. It is raining heavily. Many lives have been lost.

Across the river in Kansas City, Kansas, there is even more destitution. There has been a great loss of life there and 2500 people are homeless. The loss to property is incalculable.

At Armourdale, the packing district, which is situated at the bend of a small peninsula caused by the Kaw river joining the Missouri river at that point, the flood has inundated the whole district. The big packing houses of Cudahy, Swift, and others have sustained a loss of five millions already. The Kansas City stock yards are under water and the railways centering there are at a standstill.

The city of Topeka is built on three ridges which run at right angles to the Kaw river. In the valleys made by these ridges are some large manufactories and the workshops of the Sante Fe railway and these have probably suffered heavily from the flood. Topeka is the capital city of Kansas and has four great railways centering there and for years has been known as the town that has no saloons. The larger number of factories are located across the river at North Topeka and the workmen who have been employed in these factories had their homes along the river banks. Great bridges spanned the river between the two cities, and as the cable states that there is no communication with North Topeka it is evident that these have been carried away by the flood. Topeka, including North Topeka, has a population of over thirty-three thousand and the two cities contain about four hundred manufacturing establishments.

FLOODS RENDER HOMELESS HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

(AFTERNOON ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30.—The floods along the Mississippi continue to spread terror and ruin along their courses. It is estimated that there are no less than 20,000 families homeless in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Indiana. Reports received today tell of thirty persons who have met death by drowning in the floods. Every effort is being made to relieve the distress but the floods have risen so quickly that it is impossible to reach even a fair majority of the residents.

At Des Moines, Iowa, the situation is the worst in the history of the country. A good portion of the city along the waterfront is under water. Hotels and homes are taxed to the utmost capacity and still accommodations are lacking. This morning the Capitol building was opened to the refugees, and the halls of the State Legislature have been turned into a big camping ground.

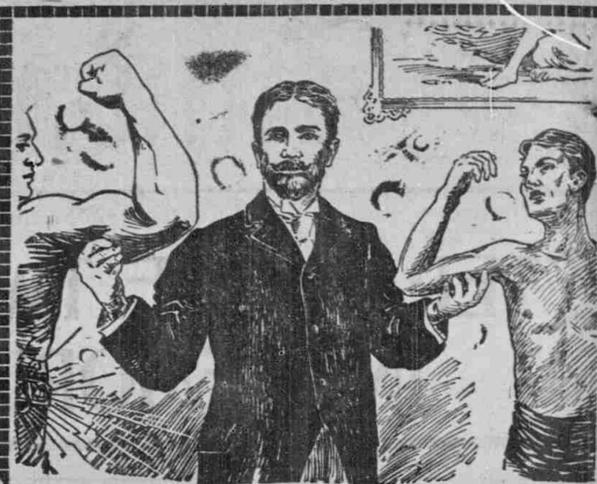

CAPITOL OF IOWA.

Des Moines, the capital city, and most populous center of the State of Iowa, usually expects a flood once a year but it has been a long time since it was necessary to use the Capitol building, which is located on high ground in the eastern part of the city, as a place of refuge. Two rivers have their junction at Des Moines. They are the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers. The Des Moines river is dammed up so that it forms an immense lake in the center of the city and the Raccoon empties its waters into the Des Moines but a short distance below the dam. It is the small 'Coon river that causes the trouble. When a freshet comes along this it floods a great deal of the southern portion of the city, a locality where the poorer class of people live. Many years ago the Des Moines river was navigable from the Mississippi as far north as Des Moines but in recent years the river has been so low that the old pack service had to be abandoned. In the flooded section of the city there are a large number of factories and some big railway warehouses.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—A collision of street cars at one of the street railway crossings this morning resulted in serious injury to twenty passengers. Both cars were crowded with passengers on their way to attend Memorial Day exercises.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—Memorial Day exercises are being held in all the leading cities and towns of the country today. The services at the Arlington National Cemetery were held as usual, officials of the Government joining with the Army and Navy in the elaborate ceremonies.

LARAMIE, Wyo., May 30.—After taking part in the Memorial Day services held here today, President Roosevelt donned his Rough Rider regalia and started off across the country to Cheyenne. The Presidential party is accompanied by a band of cowboys and Rough Riders, all picked men for the occasion. The President will spend the night in camp on the plains, arriving at Cheyenne during Sunday, when he will again board the train and proceed on his way to Washington.

HOW I CURE WEAK, PUNY MEN AND MAKE PHYSICAL GIANTS OF PIGMIES

There is one thing that I notice in all my patients: The loss of vital power. They have wasted it in some manner, usually by foolishness. Vital power is what they have lost. I know that I can give it back, so I know that I can cure every weak, puny man who will follow my advice.

With my new improved Belt, the result of many years of study, I will cure any case of weakness.

OR I WILL FOREFIT $1,000 IN GOLD

This is no idle boast. I talk straight from the shoulder, and back up anything I say.

With some poor men, who have spent every cent they have earned upon quacks who have promised everything, it is not enough for me to say, "I can cure you." Others have said that and have not cured them. Now I want to prove to them that I can and will, if my advice is followed. I am doing it every day.

Mr. John Klossner, Humboldt, Nev., writes me: "I want to tell you that your belt has done me great good. It is the best thing I ever tried and may the Lord bless you for it. I now feel as if I was only 25 years old."

It makes a man feel young. Youth is health, vigor, courage, ambition. It is joy and happiness.

Give me a man broken down from dissipation, hard work or worry, from any cause which has sapped his vitality. Let him follow my advice for three months and I will make him as vigorous in every respect as any man of his age.

I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who was never intended by nature to be strong and sturdy. Even that man I can make better than he is; but the man who has been strong and has lost his strength I can make as good as he ever was.

I can give back to any man what he has lost by violation of the laws of nature. I can stop all drains upon his vitality in ten days.

FREE BOOK

I explain how I do this in my book for men, which I will send, sealed, free on request. Every man who would like to reach the highest physical standard should read it.

A man who is nervous, whose brain and body are weak, who sleeps badly, awakes more tired than when he went to bed, who is easily discouraged, inclined to brood over imaginary troubles, who has lost ambition and energy to tackle hard problems, lacks the animal electricity which the Dr. McLaughlin Electric Belt supplies.

The whole force of vitality in your body is dependent upon your animal electricity. When you lose that, and cure you.

Mr. Harry C. Jackson, Valletto, Cal., writes: "Although you are a stranger to me, my heart warms toward you as a great benefactor and friend and I am more than grateful to you. Already I can feel the vigor of new life in my body; no aches and no pains. I wish you every success in your work."

Letters like that tell a story which means a great deal to a sufferer. They are a beacon light to the man who has become discouraged from useless doctoring. I get such letters every day.

My Belt has a wonderful influence upon tired, weak nerves. It braces and invigorates them, and stirs up a great force of energy in a man.

I make the best electric body appliance in the world, having devoted twenty years to perfecting it. I know my trade. My cures after everything else has failed are my best arguments.

FREE ELECTRIC SUSPENSORY FOR WEAK MEN

This suspensory is constructed so as to carry the current to the prostate gland, the seat of all weakness. It is free with Belts for men. Mr. John Gately, Long Valley, Cal., writes: "Your Belt has relieved me of rheumatism and stomach trouble to such an extent that I can now do a good day's work in peace. I have gained thirty pounds in weight and am still improving."

Give me a man with pains in his back, a dull ache in his muscles or joints, "come-and-go" pains in the shoulders, chest and side, Sciatica in his hip, Lumbago, Rheumatism or any ache or pain, and my Belt will pour the oil of life into his aching body and drive out every sign of pain. No pain can exist where my Belt is worn.

Mr. E. B. Miller of Compton avenue, Los Angeles, Cal., writes: "I have used your high-grade Belt for two months for lame back, rheumatism and weakened nerves, and am now a well man. I have gained over six pounds in weight and feel as strong and hearty as I ever did. They come every day from everywhere. There is not a town or hamlet in the country which has not cures by Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt."

Now, what does this mean to you, dear reader? If you are not what you ought to be, can you ask any better proof to make you try it? Is there a remedy which is as simple, as easy to use, as sure to cure and as cheap as Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt? I have not seen one. You must try it. In justice to yourself and to those who look to you for their future happiness, try it now. Act this minute. Such a matter ought not to be delayed.

It is as good for women as for men. Worn while you sleep, it causes no trouble. You feel the gentle, glowing heat from it constantly, but no stinging, no burning, as in old-style belts. I take other belts in exchange.

Send for my beautiful book, full of the things which a man likes to read if he wants to be a strong man. I send it, sealed, free. Cut out this ad. and send it to me. Call and test the Belt free.

would have spelled defeat; the Confederacy must have finally been broken into smaller ones by the working of its own principles—by sovereign States seceding from it; and in the end there would have been a group of little slaveholding oligarchies, without strength at home or respect abroad. By keeping the South in the Union in spite of itself, you made it great and rich; and its children's children will yet rise up to bless you for it.

You saved the republican idea to the world. Had it been proved that a republic is only a rope of sand; had it been shown that it could not be held together under the strain of its own politics; had it been made clear that peace, order or continuity, must have the strong arm of empire behind it—then every liberal appeal in the politics of the world must have been stifled and every king would have been stronger on his throne. Now there is not a country on the map—not even Russia or China—where the success of this republic in war and peace does not weaken the grip of one-man power; where it does not inspire the hope and raise the spirit and mark the future of democracy.

But veterans of the Civil War, such success begets envy, such prestige rouses fear and the republic must be ready at all times to defend itself and its mission in the world. We begin to hear the mutter of trade conspiracies against us; there is picking at the Monroe doctrine; there is an effort on the part of one eager and surly rival to outclass our naval strength; there is a spirit of unrest which bodes no good to peace. While General Grant was writing his great book, in his last days, he said: "Growing as we are in population, wealth and military power, we may become the envy of nations which led us in all these particulars only a few years ago; and unless we are prepared for it we may be in danger of a combined movement being some day made to crush us out." I turn from Grant to Bismarck and find this comment made in the last days of Germany's man of Blood and Iron:

"In estimating future events we must keep an eye on the United States of America, for they may develop into a danger to Europe in economic affairs, possibly also in others, at present wholly unexpected by most of us. In the future the one cannot be separated from the other. The war of the future is the economic war, the struggle for existence on a grand scale. May my successors always bear this in mind and take care when this struggle comes that we are prepared for it." The menace here is not hidden by careful terms. Bismarck speaks of many dangers from America which must be met, naming one as economic and leaving others to be inferred; but all of them, he shows, involve a struggle for existence. You and I know that such a struggle could not go on without a clash of arms; that out of the warfare of trade, when the case grows desperate, comes inevitably the warfare of armies. There are those who believe that the war Grant foresaw and Bismarck prophesied is not far away, but whether far or near we too will be ready for it and the more ready because, on a thousand bloody fields, you, veterans of the Grand Army and your ancient foremen of the South have shown what the American soldier can do.

G. A. R. PLOT IN NUUANU CEMETERY.

We of the generation that came after you; those of the generation that follows us, will meet the crisis when it comes most manfully, if we meet it in the spirit of your patience and your faith and your courage. And shall we not end it all with your triumph? In the old days when the miners of Cornwall feared that their beloved and honored leader Trelawney might lose his head, a song was sung among the cottages of the coast which echoed from human lips in the deep recesses and galleries under the sea:

And shall Trelawney die
And shall Trelawney die?
Then twenty thousand Cornish men
Shall know the reason why,
And twice as many underground
Shall know the reason why.

And if the republic is to fail of its high mission; if it is to be stabbed like Caesar in the Senate house, amid a ring of hostile faces; if Freedom herself is to die after the sacrifice of life upon her altar, not merely the living armies of the Union but twice as many underground shall know the reason why.

Senator C. H. Dickey a member of the Post read President Lincoln's famous Gettysburg address and the adjutant, J. W. Francis, read slowly and solemnly the roll call of the dead. Post Commander Eaton read from the ritual and Fred Sherman, as officer of the day, decorated the graves, strewn with flowers upon each mound.

The Sixty-sixth Artillery fired the usual salute of three rounds and the Camp McKinley buglers sounded taps. As the last note died away Rev. G. L. Pearson arose and pronounced the benediction and the service was ended.

THE FALLEN HEROES.
The roll of honor of the nation's dead in Nuuanu cemetery includes both those who served in the army and those who saw service in the navy. These are as follows:

HISTORY OF THE POST.

Geo. W. De Long Post was organized in Honolulu on September 23rd, 1882 and was the only Grand Army post in existence outside the limits of the United States up to the time of annexation. It is even now the only organization of its kind without the mainland, but its members are none the less patriotic or less willing to do honor to their dead comrades on that account. The membership of No. 45 is composed as follows:

- E. A. Strout, P. C., U. S. N., Pontoon.
- Robt. Nelson, S. V. C., Co. H, 23rd N. Y.
- W. F. Williams, J. V. C., Co. H, 8th Cal.

The first Grand Army Post was organized at Decatur, Ill., April 6th, 1886, by Dr. B. F. Stevenson at Springfield. The pledge of the original members was:

"We, the honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the army and navy and marine corps of the United States, who have consented to this union, having aided in maintaining the honor and integrity and the supremacy of the National Government during the late rebellion, do unite to establish a permanent association to accomplish the following objects:
"First. To preserve and strengthen the kind and fraternal feelings which bind together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion, and to perpetuate the memory and history of the dead.
"Second. To assist such former comrades in arms as need help and protection, and to extend needful aid to the widows and orphans of those who have fallen.
"Third. To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America and fidelity to its constitution and law, and to encourage the spread of universal liberty, equal rights and justice to all mankind."

IN THE CEMETERIES.
There was a general observance of Memorial Day in the decoration of graves in all the cemeteries of the city. From morning until night there were crowds at the various cemeteries with each person carrying an offering of flowers. In the Catholic, Pearl City, Kawaiahao and other burial grounds, graves were bedecked with flowers, and few were forgotten by relatives. Quite a crowd took the train to Pearl City.

DE LONG, THE EXPLORER.
The local camp takes its name from George Washington De Long one of the bravest of the Arctic explorers, and one who lost his life in seeking the North Pole.

He was born in New York, August 22, 1844, and entered the naval academy in 1861, from which he was graduated in 1865. He gained the rank of lieutenant commander in the navy and served in 1873 on the Junata on her trip to Greenland in search of the lost Polar. From that time it became his ambition to be placed at the head of an expedition for Arctic exploration, a duty for which he was well qualified. Johnson's Universal Encyclopedia says of him: "In November, 1873, he explained his views by letter to Mr. James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald, who had already considered the feasibility of such an expedition. The result of various conferences was the purchase by Mr. Bennett, of the English bark rigged, steam yacht Pandora of 420 tons, owned by Sir Allen Young. By special act of Congress she was allowed to sail under American colors, to take the name of Jeanette and be navigated by officers of the United States Navy, with all the rights, privileges, etc., of a Government vessel. The command was given to De Long who sailed in her from San Francisco July 8th, 1879, through Behring Strait, in search of the North Pole. On June 13th, 1881, the Jeanette sunk, crushed by the ice, in lat. 77 deg. 15 sec. N., long. 155 deg. 50 sec. E., and De Long with a number of the party, perished on the banks of the delta of the Lena, in Siberia, in October, 1881."

SPECIAL SUNDAY CHURCH SERVICES

Today will be a day of special services in many of the churches. The celebration of the Holy Ghost will be observed at the Roman Catholic Cathedral. The festivities began last evening and will continue through today. At 7 a. m. there will be distribution of alms; at 10:30 a. m. there will be solemn high mass with a sermon, which will be preceded by the mass procession. At one o'clock there will be the grand dinner to the twelve poor and from three to five this afternoon there will be a concert by the Territorial band.

Whitsuntide will be observed today at St. Andrew's Cathedral and Bishop Rastarick will preach morning and evening. There will be special music by the choir of the church appropriate to the occasion.

Today will be Children's Day at Central Union church. A special program has been prepared for the morning service by the Bible School. It is entitled "Nature's Praise." In the evening Rev. W. H. Rice will preach on the subject "The Beginnings" and H. W. Baldwin will sing the offertory. The Christian Endeavor subject will be "The Lad with the Leaves and Fishes."

At the Christian Church Rev. E. S. Muckley will preach in the morning on "Suppressing Truth and Its Effects." In the evening he will deliver the seventh sermon in his life series, his topic tonight being "The Source of Life."

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the First Methodist church today. In the morning Rev. G. L. Pearson will preach on "Christ's Finished Work." And in the evening on "Resisting Temptation." The evening service is for young people and there will be special singing.

The subject for the Epworth League meeting will be "Missionary Work Among Heathen Women." The Y. M. C. A. service this afternoon will be for both men and women and will be addressed by Mrs. Col. French.

The usual service will be held at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints.

At the church of St. John the Baptist White Sunday service will be celebrated with high musical mass and sermon at 8:30 o'clock this morning. At the Church of the Sacred Heart high mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock this morning.

Other religious bodies holding services at the usual hour are Chinese church, Fort, above Beretania; Honolulu Mission; Japanese Congregational, Kukui street; Japanese M. E. church, near St. Louis College; Kau-makapili church, King and Achi lane; Kawaiahao church, King and Punch-bowl; Makiki chapel, Japanese, Kinau street; Mormon church, Punchbowl street; Portuguese Protestant church, Punchbowl and Miller; Seventh Day Adventists, Printer's lane; Bishop Memorial chapel, Kamehameha Schools; Buddhist Temple, Fort lane; Christian Science Association, Alakea street; Pentec Mission, Irwin block; Salvation Army, King and Nuuanu streets; Sloan Mission, Kawaiahao street and Ward avenue. Rev. F. Felmy is still confined to his bed and in consequence there will be no service at the Lutheran church today. The Sunday school will also be closed.

Brings on warm weather: "W'y don't you put mo' hell in you' sermons, Brer Williams?" "Well, w'en I gives 'em too much er it de congregation makes sich a noise fannin' deyself, I hez ter order a recess!"—Atlanta Constitution.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS AND BUSINESS.

What shall capital do is a question which is agitating the East, and at the same time furnishes food for reflection to all who look deep into the future. Under the influence of a wave of prosperity, unsurpassed in the commercial history of the world, the United States has recently gone ahead with leaps and bounds, until now there seems no other nation which would be able to outbid or undersell our own. But recently indications have been many that there will have to be a reconstruction of the basis of the relations between the men who manage and the men who work, or the former will cease to give the latter an opportunity to progress.

There have been in the metropolitan journals, from time to time, this spring, small mention of the shutting down of factories. This meant in general only the stoppage of work for reasons such as lack of improvements to compete with new styles or methods, because the trade had been drawn away by other factories, or in a few cases because the dangers from labor troubles made it undesirable for the owners to run and endanger large stocks of raw material or to encounter inability to fill orders because of lockouts or strikes.

Most important perhaps is the news, that in view of the disturbed labor conditions, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the rich corporation which extends its lines through Eastern Pennsylvania and Western New York, has determined to abandon its plans for extension and improvements, designed as a result of the larger earnings and the greater demands of business. In the completion of this work the company had determined to carry out plans which would entail the expenditure of some $2,000,000. This would have meant work for thousands, not only in the construction of the line, but as well in the making of the rails, in the building of the cars, of the stations, of the appliances; in fact, in every branch of trade would be felt the impetus which such a work would give. But it will not be done. And by the same sign the wave of diminishing activity will leave along the shore the drift of unlit furnaces and unmanned mills.

To the strikes, to the social agitation which is going on must be attributed this lack of desire on the part of capitalists to go ahead and complete investments which would promise fairly good returns. The fact is patent that the people who have capital, the men who have control of practically unlimited means for investment will not endanger their money, when the exactions which are being placed upon capital are made burdensome. And what will be the result? Is it not fair to presume that capital will take a rest? Capital can do this. Labor suffers when it does. Capital can go to Europe; Labor must stay at home and strive for bread. Which will suffer if there is a change in conditions? It must be the worker. The issue will be closely watched here, for while outside the stream of such activity, we are interested and concerned in its flow.

HILO, PROGRESSIVE AND EXPECTANT.

Hail! Hilo, progressive city, rainy but hopeful, with one railroad line and another coming, with a people full of enterprise and determination. Hail!

And if anyone shall be inclined to doubt the breadth of the Hilo mind, the depth of the Hilo thought, then truly is he benighted. And again, as token, the last move of the little city on the big island may be cited. There can be no longer doubt. Hilo for a year has been hotelless. The failure of the hostelry, so well conducted, in the stopping place on the way to the volcano, was regretted by all except those who found that the resultant boom in boarding houses compensated themselves. To Honolulu folk, to the travelers, it was indeed a deprivation, but it had to be borne and was, but even Hilo felt the lack of proper accommodations for guests and recently set about to remedy the shortage in its attractions.

Then was formed a hui of local people, public spirited to the extreme, which undertook to prepare for the reception of the guests which must come with the drawing of attention to our many beauties, and preliminary steps were taken for the refitting and making habitable of the really ample accommodations, which Hilo has for visitors. It was found that to furnish and equip the hotel there would be needed something like $10,000, the balance over being prudently scheduled as a reserve fund. Then, the figuring being done, the men began to look around for the money. But it was thought by the prudent folk in mackintoshes and rubber boots that it would not be well to put all the eggs in the basket, and so it was that it has been brought to the attention of some people here, that Hilo would receive subscriptions to the stock of the hotel, modestly enough holding a majority of the stock, say $6,000, which would enable the control to be assured.

It was pointed out that Honolulu is endeavoring, or going to endeavor, to attract people to these Islands; that of course they would want to see Hilo, and consequently no better investment in local preparations for tourists could be thought of than a hotel in Hilo. No one has been observed rushing to take stock, but it is fair to presume that there will be none of this investment going begging when once the importance of the offering is known.

There can be no question of the success of the proposition. The business people here without doubt will take up the stock. It is well too, for certainly there will be very soon a subscription paper started for local things, and of course then, in bounden duty, will Hilo proceed with alacrity. From the very nature of their own proposal Hilo capital will invest in the things which Honolulu needs to be more attractive to visitors. The promoter of the Diamond Head tunnel, to enable the visitor to see the interior of the great cone without having to climb, will secure his capital on Hawaii. Hiloites will rush forward with money for the building of stations on each street corner so that the tourist may have a rest and shelter while waiting for rapid transit cars. Why not start a company to furnish all the ice cream soda that the visitor may need, at the street corners, with a drop-a-nickel-in-the-box attachment. Hilo will surely subscribe. We will all want tourists, Honolulu as much as Hilo, and there should be no hesitancy in asking Hilo for big contributions, now that the enterprise of the little city of the big island is known.

PROGRESS WITH ENDEAVOR.

Keeping everlastingly at it, might well have been the text which Mr. F. W. Dohrmann has taken in his several talks with members of the Merchants' Association during his visit to Honolulu. Some one gave that as the definition of genius long ago, and it will prove the genius of the young commercial body if the future holds for it the same accomplishments as the past.

When some one in a deprecatory tone told Mr. Dohrmann how hard had been the efforts to secure the paving of the down town streets, and that three years' work had been unsuccessful, it was with a smile that he told them how long San Francisco merchants worked before Market street was paved, and he adjured them to not abandon any project for making the city brighter, better or more attractive.

Coming from one who has been in close touch with the progress of San Francisco and California as a whole, his words must be full of promise and encouragement to those who have striven to inaugurate a new order. There will be progress as a result of consistent endeavor. As an apostle of work Mr. Dohrmann recognizes the value of getting together and his words cannot but stimulate our merchants.

Memorial day drew out a great many Hawaiians who seemed deeply interested in the ceremonies. They appeared to be studying the occasion for the Americanism they could find in it. Their attitude was a satisfactory answer to the charge, made as a boast by one of their organs, that they have no aloha for American ideas and are living on the memories and grievances of the old monarchy.

The disaster reported from Kansas and Missouri is appalling. Flood, waterspouts, fire, epidemics and death by drowning merge into a cumulative tale of horror. Such a catastrophe adds a new solemnity to Memorial day.

Fitch's Moustache Gone.
Bates as a Barnstormer.

Faxon Bishop is just now the most talked of man in town and right modestly he bears the compliments of his friends. Sometimes he is gently chided by his life-long well wishers who insist that his new role of the best dressed man in town must be burdensome, for he now has 113 suits at $1,000 each on hand.

Have you a mango, or an orange or a pear tree? Do you ever miss fruit and know that it has disappeared in the pocket or the bag of some Portuguese youngster? Then perhaps you will appreciate the action of a certain young woman who takes care of the help apparent in a Nuuanu Valley family. She had heard the head of the family, visitors, the grandparents and even the yard boy talk about the scourge of the Portuguese. She took it all to heart and began to keep the sharpest lookout for the predatory gang. Once fortune favored her and with the yard boy and the mistress a youngster was in the toils. But the little fellow had a plea. He was hungry, had no home, nothing to eat had passed his lips for a week and he thought the good, kind lady would not object if he took a few fallen mangoes. He was a diplomat and won a breakfast as well as his fruit. The nurse could hardly make this fit with the previous declarations that any lad so taken should be sent to the police station and she brooded over the matter for a couple of days. Then fortune favored her. She discovered that the favorite mango tree, and it is a notable tree in the valley, too, was being robbed by a lad who had climbed it and was shaking down the fruit. It was early in the morning, the master and mistress were still asleep, the yard boy was abroad and, depositing the youngster in his hammock, she made a quick flank movement and managed to capture the lad, the sack half full of mangoes, and to call the Japanese to hold the culprit. "There are plenty of bamboos about and she secured a cane and while the Jap hung onto the writhing kid she administered a dressing which must have been of the premier rank for the yells of the Portuguese waked every late sleeper in the vicinity. The master and mistress were aroused and through slatted doors looked on and finally called off the executioner. The girl released the kid, who quickly fled and she lugged the half filled bag to the house. When asked why she had loked the kid so unmercifully she remarked: "You talk Portuguese steal, too bad. You say you give police. I catch you no do. Next time I catch I whip. I think you stop too soon. No give enough. Next time plenty."

There are plenty of men who come to Hawaii and never leave the beaten tracks to see what is of interest outside the well travelled roads. Some do so, and enjoy hunting, mountain climbing and riding, which cannot be beaten anywhere. It has been given as the expert opinion of westerners who have seen the Hawaiian cowboys in action, that better riding cannot be done by men than they do. Senator Burton and Dr. King, who were down here a year ago with the senatorial commission and who enjoyed some hunting on Mauna Kea, believe they were given all kinds of high class exhibitions just for the purpose of impressing them, as westerners. Certainly the cowboys who acted as guides from Mana never saw finer guns, better equipment and a greater diversity of equipment. They looked upon the fine guns with some contempt and one little chap, who was with the twain on one hunting expedition, quite lost his temper when more than one miss was scored at a great boar which was being chased through the forest. The story told by a recent visitor over the same grounds is that the cowboy let the firing go on for a time and then yelled, "I'll get him for you," and dashed away through the trees, caught up with the maddened boar as he crossed a bit of clearing, dropped his lasso over the head and a front foot of the animal and dragged him up to the pair with the remark: "Now try shoot."

That there is a general belief that members of the Legislature have profited largely by their services, has been evidenced in more ways than one. The revenue of the members for the two months regular session was $400 each; this at least is the amount of salary paid for the term. The branching out of Mr. Kumalae as a grocer appears to have aroused the belief that every member will want to get into the retail business in Honolulu. This was shown when one member received a request to inspect for the purpose, a nice little curio business, paying well and decidedly suited to the temperament of a retiring legislative official.

When the legislature passed the law prohibiting the employment of Asiatics on government works it disturbed arrangements made during the monarchy, and probably some of the results of the law will be surprising to the majority of the legislators. When Princess Ruth built her palatial home on Emma street and surrounded it by a stone wall, the latter a means to secure seclusion for herself and retainers from the view of the hoi polloi, she had a Chinaman

A SONG OF THE YANKEE

If you chance to sail uncharted seas,
An unknown shore to gain—
It's ten to one when you reach the land,
A naked native is on the sand
With an Eigin timepiece in his hand,
Or a sardine tin from Maine;
And under a spreading cocoa tree
There stands a trader's tent,
Where a lonely stranger is selling clocks,
And Springfield guns and Stamford locks,
Jack-knives and liniment.

He hails from Maine or from Lake Champlain,
Or, maybe, from Salem, Mass.
His face is lean, and his wit is keen,
And his eye lets nothing pass.
In an unmade land or a desert sand
'Tis his especial pride
To do odd jobs for Providence,
And help himself on the side.

The Yankee inherits a deal of craft
From his stern faced Pilgrim sires,
Who learned restraint, though they suffered much,
And dwelt in peace with the crabbed Dutch,
And taught the wilderness at their touch,
To yield what a man requires.
And the mission spirit will drive some Yanks
Wherever a man can roam—
While others, with delicate skill, design
Wooden nutmegs and hams of pine,
To sell to the folks at home.
He's from 'Gansett Bay or Portsmouth way,
Or maybe from Hartford, Conn.
No thief that's made, in any shade,
Can steal what his eye is on.
Where the world is raw, each lantern jaw
Is chewing it into shape—
Then give God thanks, that his bony Yanks
Are scattered from Cape to Cape.
—Burgess Johnson in Harper's Magazine.

SOME GOOD THINGS

TO MAKE HIS OWN BATH.

Colonel Harry Hall, of Pittsburg, the writer and orator, likes the prairie and goes West every summer. During his trip last year he was overtaken by night in a little village in Nebraska. He stayed at the local hotel. In the morning he wanted to take a bath and consulted the landlord about it.

The landlord shouted back to the kitchen: "Hey, Jim, this here gent wants to take a bath. Bring the fixin's."
Soon afterward a boy appeared carrying a cake of yellow soap, a towel and a pickax.

"What's the pickax for?" asked Hall.
"Why," said the landlord, "you'll have to dam up the crick."

FOUR YEARS IN CONGRESS

To sum it all up, I received $20,000 in salary, $4,800 for clerk hire, $400 for mileage, and $500 for stationery, or $25,700. I am now r-ferred to in the newspapers as the Hon. Blank, ex-member of Congress. I lost the greater part of my law practice, but I can get that back and some more with it, for my reputation in the district has been increased, as a whole, by my service at Washington. Financially, I am several thousand dollars worse off than I was before I was elected. I can get that back, too. The feature that bothers most is that both my wife and myself, after our experiences at Washington, are dissatisfied with the humdrum life in our country town. We had things and saw things at Washington that are beyond our reach here. It is hard to settle down.—Everybody's Magazine.

BROUGHT TO TERMS.

When Alfred Henry Lewis, the author, was a correspondent at Washington for a Missouri paper he had a difficulty with Governor Dockery, who was then a member of the House of Representatives.

Lewis cast about for a suitable revenge. After thinking about the matter for some days he wrote an innocent paragraph for his paper which said that Mr. Dockery, who is a rich man, had decided to give a large portion of his wealth to the various churches of Missouri, and had begun by sending checks for $500 to churches in St. Joseph and Kansas City.

Then he sat back and waited. Dockery was begging for mercy in less than a week. Every church in the State, almost, had written for its share. Lewis printed another paragraph saying that Mr. Dockery's contributions would not be made for some years, and since that time Dockery has been scrupulously polite.

HENRY WARD BEECHER'S GHOST.

The recent discussion of Spiritualism, in which we are told that the ghost of Henry Ward Beecher has appeared to a former friend, and confined himself in his message to complaining that a certain coin, known as "the widow's mite," had not been returned to him, reminds us of an interesting incident in Mr. Beecher's life while he was still in the flesh. The great preacher was in England, as the story goes, and was being entertained by a gentleman who believed in Spiritualism and was himself a medium. One day he asked if Beecher would like to talk with the spirit of his father, Dr. Lyman Beecher. Mr. Beecher replied that it would impress him, at which, with a twinkle in his eye, Beecher responded: "All I have to say is, that if I shall be a stark-naked fool." When one considers the high and noble purposes to which Mr. Beecher devoted himself while on earth, and the things on which his mind seems to run now, we are constrained to recall this incident.—Everybody's Magazine.

ONLY ONE HIGHER BODY.

Sometimes the dignity of the United States does not appeal to the newcomer in Washington. A bumptious young secretary to a Senator strolled into the court room on decision day. He took a seat inside the railing, in one of the chairs reserved for the lawyers who are privileged to practice before the court.

PUBLIC OPINION

FUROR AMERICANUS.

There was a time when the question of war between Germany and the United States hung in the balance by the weight of a hair and that time was during the recent Venezuelan complication. This sensational statement, made in the Preussische Jahrbucher (Berlin), a conservative magazine, has attracted much attention in Berlin. "Can this really have been the case?" asks the Vossische Zeitung (Berlin). "In Germany no one thought of such a thing." It depreciates the so-called American fury fed by misrepresentations in the English press, and advises that gifts and flatteries from Germany to the United States be stopped and the cultivation of friendly relations on a more dignified basis be begun.

ENGLAND'S PERIL.

"The British navy is not only the possession and the pride of a great nation; it is the sole guarantee of their daily bread, their personal liberty, and their political existence," says The Monthly Review (London). It adds: "The world's history shows no parallel to our present position; it is a truism which has been uttered again and again, and which should be repeated until every child in the country knows it by heart, that from the moment when we cease to command the sea, we exist only upon sufferance, and from the moment when our navy is crushed by an enemy England is no more the seat of an empire or a nation, but an island off the coast of Europe, crowded with forty millions of starving and helpless people."

M. LOUBET'S POPULARITY.

"The French President is, we fancy, essentially a grave and respectable lawyer, with a reminiscence of the farmstead from which he sprang still visible in his character; without genius, but a man of acumen and of sterling worth. He has done nothing great, but under him no one expects disorder; and if he has not picked out first-rate administrators as ministers, he has chosen men capable of the most solid work." Thus the London Spectator, which adds: "The French see their innermost preference embodied in the President, and even when it rains epigrams in Paris they pay him every reverence, crowd to hear his plain and direct, though brief speeches, and strive in every village he passes to display some evidence of good-will."

COMMERCIAL NEWS

EDWARD M. BOYD.

Swelling deposits, easier payments of notes and overdrafts, combine to give the bankers of the community a rosier view of affairs. There seems to be other integers in the advancing prosperity than the mere payment of the fire claims, too, for the dividends are coming in well and the plantations which will not contribute their share to the general prosperity of the community will be few.

But even with these brighter aspects from the side of the bankers, there appears a little cloud for them which has for the business man a silver, or rather a golden, lining. The report is almost too good to be true in the opinion of the merchant and man who has to use the banks, but such as it is it is here given. Details I cannot get, but the rumor had its foundation with one of the most prominent of the city's financiers, who is in constant communication with the Coast. As the story goes: The International Banking Corporation, with head office in New York, and already branches in the Orient and on the Pacific Coast, is going to follow the cable, and establish branches in this city and in Manila. The reason for this is apparent. The corporation was formed with some of the best known and wealthiest of the New York bankers at its head, for the purpose of becoming a factor in the trade relations of the Orient with the United States. When it was determined to cut into the business the corporation secured from the Chartered Bank its Oriental manager, at a large price, and he in turn took from the various branches of that institution some of its oldest and best clerks and managers. With this managerial equipment the concern went into business in the various cities of China and Japan. A branch was placed in San Francisco, which has been developing a good business there, at the expense of the established financial institutions. It was there for business. It got a share of it. Rates were cut right and left, and there was a general system of lower exchange, of interest on daily balances and other trade compelling features introduced. The bank has worked up a fair Oriental business, and it is understood that it will come here for the same sort of trade, of course, having an eye on the Oriental exchange, which its connections should make profitable at lower rates.

As indicating that there may be other things, it is reported as well, amid the gossip of the mainland, that the Guaranteed Trust Company of New York, has decided that it will enter the Orient for business, and perhaps there may be attracted some attention to this city, at least by the managers who must pass through on the way out.

FIRE CLAIMS BEING PAID.

The payment of the Fire Claims, in the face of the fact that the procuring of two witnesses by each of the claimants, goes along well. The Chinese are collecting their money rapidly, there being already about one third of the cash put into circulation, and the prospect that the remainder will be put out as rapidly.

The bonds are not coming into the banks rapidly as yet. The price is now a standard one of 90, and some of the largest of the claimants have made agreements and turned over to the banks their claims, which in turn will be given to the government upon the receipt of the bonds. For convenience and safety Col. Fisher has prepared a special form of warrant, so that when he issues his demand on the Treasurer there will be no doubt as to what the claimant is to receive. The two officials will act in unison, so that there will be no delays or misunderstandings. It is the intention of the banks to act in the same harmony so that there promises to be speedy action on the bonds, as well as on the cash.

KONA SALE AND ACTION.

The published report from Hawaii that Judge Edings had refused to confirm the sale of the Kona plantation is not understood by those interested, owing to the fact that the case was set for yesterday, but would have to be postponed on account of the holiday. R. W. Shingle is now there to look after the interests of the purchasers, as there is a strong belief that Judge Edings will ratify the sale.

No one in authority will give out anything about the plans of those who are the real purchasers, but it is safe to say that at a meeting held on Friday by the backers of the organization, there was reached an understanding which will see the sale completed if the sale goes. It is now planned to make the change complete. The mauka lands will be surrendered to the lessors, the lower acreage being retained for care, and large additions being made. This will reduce the plantation to a business basis at least, and it is said that the owners of the land will be ready to sign new leases at low rates and assist in the remarking of the plantation. There are said to be men with money ready to advance a sum sufficient to put the estate on its feet if these changes are made, but seeing is believing, in the minds of many who have heretofore pinned faith to the sugar belt of the south side.

ON THE LOCAL MARKET.

The local shares market has been without incident lately, owing in entirety to the fact that investors have kept out of the buying. There is money at hand, plenty of it in town, but few people think it time to buy, as they have so many other things on hand. The record for the month of May shows only 472 shares transferred. The prices were practically without range. The sales of Ewa led, being almost half the transaction, M'Bryde being next. Waiialua, two and a half points, Rapid Transit five points and O. R. & L. Co., two and a half points constitute the advances for the month.

Forty Waiialua at $50 and 10 Oahu at $104 constitute the sales for the week. The prices showing no change. Of Kahuku bonds $12,000 at par and of Railroad bonds, $1,000 at $104.50, made the market.

The month brought out several dividend notices. In the list appear Honoumou and Onamea, which pay 1 per cent. The former will pay this rate for five months and the latter for seven, according to the announcements, and it is likely that there will be others in the list very soon. Waiialua had been expected to do more, but it is said unofficially that there may be some changes for betterments which will prevent this for the present. The list is: C. Brewer & Co., 1 per cent; Ewa Plantation, 1/2 per cent; Honoumou, 1 per cent; Onamea (S. F. June 5), 1 per cent; Waiialua, 1 per cent; Inter Island S. N. Co., 1 per cent; Hawaiian Electric Co., 1/2 per cent.

The directors of Brewer & Company have issued a statement to those holders of shares which were contemplated to be combined in the Hawaiian Securities Company, in which is announced the indefinite postponement of the plan. This is due largely to the fact that the New York money market has been advancing since the plan was proposed, in addition to which there are other conditions, if this one is not enough.

The type made me make a peculiar error last week, which being twice wrong could not make a right. As to the Oahu crop the estimate was 28,000 tons in stead of 15,000, of which some 15,000 tons had been taken off. The great yield of this plantation has put the whole outlook in such a shape that no one would be surprised if 18,000 tons more are taken off, or a crop of between 20,000 and 21,000 tons.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

There is an indication in the course of the inquiry which is being made that the Manoa section may experience a second spurt, if the new road is cut through opening sea view lands. There have been several persons who are looking at lots in that section recently. The same is true of Kaimuki, where the prospect of Rapid Transit has done much to stimulate activity.

The Kapoli Estate has moved into its new building, and several of the second floor offices of the Young Building have been let and occupied. The O'Neil block will be used this week.

The Odd Fellows are still considering their structure. J. F. C. Haggin, of the Fertilizer Works, has purchased two lots at the Peninsula and is improving the place. It lies on the Ewa side.

It is reported that Col. Parker will build on the Hatch lot in Pensacola street when it is turned over to him. Several new places on Tantalus have been completed recently.

SOME GOOD THINGS

The marshal saw the stranger and sent him a note which read: "Are you a member of the bar?"

The young secretary read the note and smiled a scornful smile. He sent to the marshal a card which proclaimed him to be the secretary of Senator So-and-So.

This did not impress the marshal for a doorkeeper led the young man, protesting vigorously, to the corridor.

"Now, see here, sonny," said the doorkeeper. "You just think it over. That's the Supreme Court and you don't want to raise no row. Suppose you get in contempt. There ain't nobody left to appeal to but the Lord."

GAVE A QUALIFIED ASSENT.

Senator Allison, of Iowa, has the reputation of being the most cautious man in public life. He takes no chances, but always qualifies his statements. His letters are marvels. During the past session of Congress the Senator read to Senator Hale a letter he had written on a subject in which Senator Hale was also interested.

"What will he think of that?" asked Allison.

"I don't think he will get much out of it," Hale replied.

"I didn't intend he should," chuckled Allison.

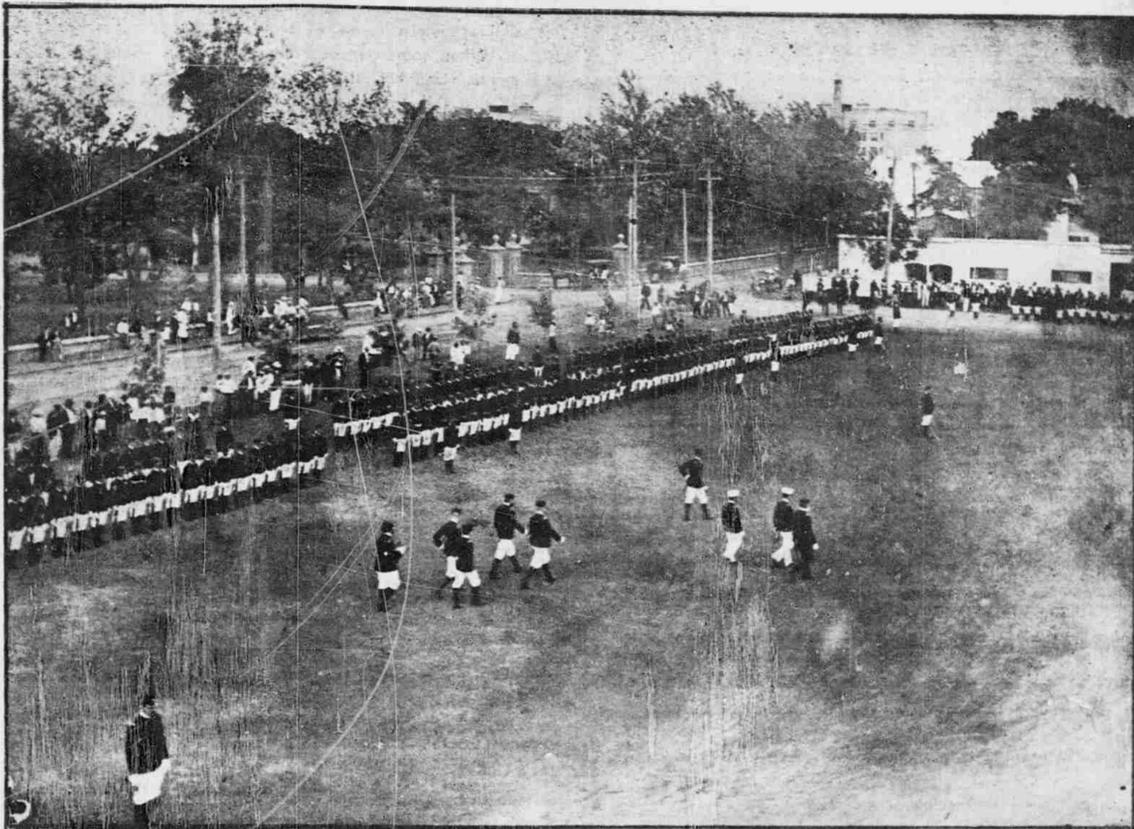

This incident led an Iowa man to tell the story of the rash citizen of Dubuque who once made a bet he could force Senator Allison to answer "Yes" to a direct proposition.

Half a dozen friends went along to see the miracle performed. They entered Allison's office and chatted on various topics. Presently a flock of sheep, newly sheared, came by.

"Those sheep have just been sheared, Senator," said the man who had made the bet, winking at his companions.

Senator Allison gazed earnestly at the sheep. Then he replied softly: "It looks like it on this side."

FIRST REGIMENT, NATIONAL GUARD OF HAWAII, INSPECTED FOR THE FIRST TIME BY A REGULAR ARMY OFFICER

Major McClellan, A. C., U. S. A., Passing Off the Armory Grounds, After Inspecting the First Regiment, N. G. H.

It was a memorable moment in the history of the Hawaiian National Guard yesterday morning when Major McClellan, A. C., U. S. A., formally placed the First Regiment under the oversight of the Federal authority. The transference of technical authority of the Guard to the United States army was witnessed at the armory by an interested crowd of spectators, including Governor Dole and several members of the Legislature. Col. J. W. Jones, commanding officer of the First Regiment, Adjutant-General Soper and the regimental staff, were present at the ceremony.

Seven companies were turned out, fully officered, and all presented an excellent appearance. Compliments were passed by Major McClellan during his inspection of the troops. The crack company "F," commanded by Captain Sam Johnson, was a surprise in that it presented for Major McClellan's inspection seven sets of fours in double rank, and the uniform appearance of the men, their soldierly bearing, called for praise. Captain Nahora Hipa's company was large in point of numbers, Company "A" made an excellent showing, and in fact all but the Portuguese company had out their full strength.

At 9:30 the Territorial Band under Captain Berger struck up the "Stars and Stripes," the guardsmen marched out of the armory and formed in regimental front on the drill grounds, two companies being compelled for lack of space to line up on Miller street. The regiment was formed for review by Majors Wall and Schaefer, and turned over to Col. Jones. Headed by the band the regiment marched past the reviewing officer, Major McClellan, who was attended by his aide, Lieutenant Behr. Col. Jones was surrounded by his staff consisting of General Soper, Majors Wall, Schaefer and Cooper, Captain Moore, Captain Short and Lieut. Johnson. The regiment passed the reviewing officer company front, but owing to the nature of the drill ground, and perhaps to nervousness, the companies were somewhat ragged in alignment as they passed by. When the troops came to a halt the companies were each carefully inspected, Major McClellan taking careful note of the arms and equipments of the men, asking each commanding officer to present to his aide company rosters, account for absent men, and lists of company property. The Band and Hospital Corps came in for inspection with the main body. Major McClellan concluded his work by inspecting the company quarters, lockers and gun racks.

Upon the basis of the inspection yesterday and the returns made by the company commanders the United States will in turn equip the regiment with standard arms, uniforms and general equipment.

The companies participating in the review were "F," "E," "G," "H," "B," "A," and "C."

THE BYSTANDER

In her employ who acted as a sort of gardener and handy man around the place. Upon the death of Ruth the Chinaman was continued in service under Hon. C. R. Bishop, and finally when the royal home was passed over to the government, one of the verbal agreements, or it may have been in writing, was that the Chinaman should be retained in service on the premises as long as he lived. The putting into effect of the new law naturally makes void the former agreements regarding the old servant, and unless his case is especially looked after the old fellow will cease to draw a government salary.

Even our old friend Tom Fitch has succumbed to the dictates of politics. The famous silver-tongued orator of every western state during the last quarter of a century, has become a slave of Dame Fashion or of Politics, and if he appeared today in one of the old mining camps of Nevada or California even the oldest inhabitant might pass him up as a rank tenderfoot. The thousands and tens of thousands of persons in the audiences which knew Tom Fitch in his old campaigning days remember the long, sweeping mustache which added not a little to his distinguished appearance. From under that military-looking mustache the silvered words that made Tom one of the best known orators of the wild and woolly west, poured forth in rippling cascade. But that mustache is no more. Directly upon the announcement that Mark Hanna had declared in favor of Roosevelt, Tom straightaway went to the Moana Hotel barber and had the famous mustache disconnected from his lip, and even Tom was struck by his resemblance to Mark. When Fitch entered a street car at any time yesterday, the passengers stared in wonder. It was Tom Fitch and it wasn't.

Tom Bates of the Ellefords has done a deal of barnstorming in his time—the real thing. He was doing small parts at the Alcazar in San Francisco when the "star" fever struck him and he made up his mind to start in among the mountain towns and give 'em Hamlet and things. In this laudable desire he was encouraged by an old actor who was willing, for $200, to be the advance man. Two hundred dollars were all Tom had, but he agreed to the proposition and gave the advance man $100 to start with. When he caught up with the pioneer he had to shell out another hundred. After that the bills came rushing in and Tom made inquiries of his friend. "You didn't expect me to pay bills with the two hundred, did you?" asked the advance man anxiously; "why that money is being used in the general interests of the show." At Auburn or some such place they had to build a stage and put up scenery in a saw mill. The advance man wouldn't help. He was wearing fine clothes, cash around his waist and all that sort of thing and while the actors were sweating in the sawmill he was parading the town with Miss Plunkett, the leading lady. "Somebody's got to be the walking gentleman in this show," he remarked. "Just there," said Tom, "I saw where my $200 went. I also made up my mind to stop being an actor and be an advance man or a manager. There's where you got the long green."

"Well, that night we played Richard III. When Richard fell he winked for the curtain but the thing wouldn't come down. So there was nothing to do but haul him off the stage. The other fellow made up some lines like 'Sdeath, I'll drag you to the outer keep and sate me vengeance on your outstretched form!' Then he began to pull. But the new lumber of the stage was full of splinters and they got in their work. 'Let go, confound you,' snarled the dead Richard. 'Shut up, whistled the other man, 'grin and bear it.' 'Grin nothin' said Richard as he sprang to his feet, 'do you think you are goin' to make a blankety blank porcupine out of me?' And amid the derisive howls of the audience the dead King of England disappeared in a haze of profanity.

"The show went all right so long as we kept in the backwoods," said Tom, "but it went to pieces whenever we ran across a railroad. I've seen actors get down on their knees to a railroad and every one that had any money took the first train that came along. Then we had to camp out in the woods until more talent could be signed or go ahead as we were. Why I've played Hamlet with a company of four."

DR. GALBRAITH TO HEAD CARAVAN

At the meeting of Aloha Temple yesterday morning, Griggs Holt, the illustrious Potentate, presiding, Dr. W. J. Galbraith was elected the Temple's representative to the Imperial Council which is to hold a meeting at Saratoga July 5 to 12 inclusive.

The gatherings of the Mystic Shriners are among the most conspicuous annual events in the country, bringing together from almost every state and territory representative men in business, as well as officials and professional men of high standing.

THE ELLEFORDS TO CLOSE

The Ellefords, the versatile and deservedly popular combination, now concluding the sixth week of their third annual season at the Orpheum, sail on Wednesday for California, completing their performances on Tuesday, after a stay that has proved most satisfactory to management and public alike.

W. J. Elleford sent a much better company this year than he has heretofore.

All the members were entirely competent and some more than usually clever. All promises of special scenery and extensive and novel repertoire have been lined up to, the business has been unusually large, keeping up to the last week, and the company is assured of a hearty welcome on their return.

The company, aside from W. J. Elleford, a host in himself, and clever and popular Jessie Norton, boasts a leading man of good presence, good voice and consistent characterization in Sossio, a clever actor in heavy and character work in Lando, who is also an excellent stage director, an unusually good comedian in Corrigan always artistic and never tiresome, a reliable character actor in Edler, capable of sustaining successfully varied roles, a very acceptable juvenile in Boardman, who improves every season, while Niece has shown much adaptability in minor roles. Charles Blair, the man responsible for the stage effects, has contributed no little to the general success while showing at opportune moments that he is possessed of true dramatic power.

With the fairer sex Elleford is equally fortunate. Miss Elliott is deservedly a favorite in heroic roles, Myrtle Selwyn as scoubrette, aside from her specialties, is a very welcome feature of every performance and Pauline Maitland's characterizations of eccentric roles, show much experience and sound judgment. Claire Washington and Nina Maitland, with Baby Maitland complete an eminently capable company, well looked after in front by Frank Wyman and Tom Bates.

Tomorrow night the Bachelors' Homeymoon, an excellent farce will be repeated to the joy of many. On Tuesday the farewell bill presents strong attractions. True Irish Hearts, one of Bondoullis masterpieces, a comedy, will be followed by Senator McFee, a droll creation in which Jessie Norton and Elleford are inimitable.

Mr. Robert Shingle was a passenger in the W. G. Hall Friday for Hawaii where he will rusticate for a short period.

The Kalulani had two boats damaged at Papaikou this week by the heavy surf. One was a total loss; the other will be out of commission for awhile.—Hilo Tribune.

IS JUDGE KALUA DISQUALIFIED?

Maui is to have an interesting term of court beginning Wednesday morning. The criminal calendar is the largest for years and some of the cases will be highly interesting.

S. Ahmi, a wealthy Chinese resident of Wailuku, is to be put on trial on the charge of obstructing justice, in attempting to bribe a policeman to permit gambling games to be run. There is promise of sensations in the case for Judge Kalua has said that he was charged with accepting a bribe in another case, in which Ahmi is concerned.

What will probably lend some excitement to the trial is an affidavit which Special Deputy Rawlins will file in court, asking that the case be transferred to some other judge, because of the alleged disqualification of Kalua. In this affidavit it is alleged that Kalua is interested with the defendant Ahmi in a number of business enterprises, among them taro planting and the new telephone company.

Judge Kalua will also have to pass on the case of Okana, who is charged with bribery, and there are also three cases of first degree burglary.

One of the most interesting trials will be that of Neau, who is charged with kahunaima. She is said to be an old witch and was convicted and fined in the district court. It is alleged that she caused the death of two men, father and son, by praying. The father was ill first and called in Neau and though she sacrificed pies and sundry other things, he died. A son went the same way, and then the widow had her arrested. As a defense the woman said she had done her best for the two men, whom she had been called upon to treat, but their sins had been of such magnitude that she could do nothing. They had, she said, caused the death of the favorite cat of her granddaughter and for that offense there was no help.

CELEBRATES HIS SIXTY-FIRST DAY

Sing Loy, one of the oldest Chinese merchants in Honolulu, celebrated his sixty-first birthday yesterday with a dinner party at his Moihili home, entertaining his Western friends in the truest Chinese fashion. More than thirty years ago Sing Loy came to Honolulu, engaging in vegetable gardening. Later he opened a small store in King street and from that beginning he has continued to grow and reach out until he now has many interests, devoting most of his time to his rice plantation and mill. Sing Loy has one son in China and two sons and four daughters here.

White Rock Water Has No Peer !! It Is Used By King Edward

Since the King's illness he has been recommended by his physicians to dilute his wine, and at the Guildhall Luncheon on Saturday last two bottles of effervescent spring water, called "White Rock" were placed beside His Majesty's plate. The water comes from a natural spring in the western part of the United States called Waukesha, and is very brilliant and pleasant to the palate. It was sent to the King as a present by a friend, and His Majesty used it in place of the usual Roshach or Apollinaris.

IN SOCIETY

Society is rapidly thinning out, as summer approaches and every steamer to the coast is carrying away many who entertain largely, who will scatter in the mountains of California for a season's rest. Both the Korea and Alameda will be taxed to the utmost to carry away those who have booked.

A Children's Fancy Dress party will be given at Progress Hall, Saturday evening, June 13, by the pupils of Mrs. Gunn's dancing classes. A number of new figures will be given, and the costumes will be as dainty as mothers can design for their children. Floradora will be given by the little ones. The fancy dances, as in past years, will form a pretty feature of the entertainment. Following the exhibition, a dance will be given in which the spectators will be permitted to enjoy themselves.

Miss Nalani Jones, who is being entertained at Mare Island by Captain and Mrs. Dickson, has had a rare opportunity during the visit of President Roosevelt to greet the nation's executive. During the President's visit to Mare Island Miss Jones assisted in receiving the party and shook hands with him. The President chatted with Miss Jones and was quite interested when hearing that she was from Honolulu.

Society will miss Mons. Vizzavona, the French Consul, when he leaves Honolulu during the week for Paris. His leave of absence is indefinite and he may never return here, as diplomatic changes may give him a post in Europe. He is booked for the Korea, and goes to Paris via San Francisco, New Orleans, Washington and New York. Mr. Albert Raas has received his appointment as acting consul.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Benson and Mr. Gerrit P. Wilder are occupying the old Wilder home at Waikiki for a few weeks.

Mrs. A. E. Cooley and child are expected home on the Siberia.

Mrs. C. H. Jennings leaves in the Alameda for Porto Rico where she will join Mr. Jennings.

On Wednesday Mrs. Carl Holloway gave a prettily appointed luncheon in honor of Mrs. E. D. Tenney and Mrs. Helen Noonan, who are soon to leave for a summer's outing in California.

Mrs. C. L. Wight and Mrs. Mary Gunn gave a large card party last week at the Nuuanu Valley residence of Mrs. Wight.

Mrs. J. M. Dowsett was hostess on Friday at a card party, eight tables being used. The prizes were beautiful souvenirs of an afternoon's pleasure, the first being won by Mrs. Geo. Herbert, a silver card case bearing the Hawaiian coat of arms. Mrs. Swanzy won the second prize, a handsome metal jardiniere; Mrs. Holloway secured the body prize, a dainty silver bonbon dish.

Mrs. W. F. C. Hasson and Mrs. Hermann Focke have issued cards for an at home on Monday afternoon at half past two. Euchre will be played.

Mrs. Hermann Focke was hostess on Wednesday at a delightful card party.

Miss Joselyn, a society girl of San Francisco, will arrive here in the Siberia to visit Mrs. F. M. Hatch.

Miss Edna Gunn and Miss Harriet Hatch will arrive in the Siberia to spend the summer. Col. Hawes is accompanying them.

Miss Anita Louise Oliver of Oakland, who has been visiting the Alexander Youngs for several weeks, departs in the Korea for her home. Miss Oliver has been very popular in society circles and has been the recipient of many social honors during her stay. The friends she has made during her stay in Honolulu have been many, and the young men of society will regret her departure.

The infant daughter of the Prince and Princess Kawananakoa will be christened this afternoon at St. Augustine's chapel, Waikiki, at 5:30. A large number of invitations have been issued for the event, admission to the church being by card, and a reception will follow at the old Campbell residence, Waikiki.

Mrs. J. W. Pfeuger and Miss Pfeuger are due to arrive from London on the Aorangi, to make a visit in Honolulu of about a year. Mrs. Pfeuger is the wife of J. W. Pfeuger, the oldest member of Hackfeld & Co., a son being now employed there. Mr. and Mrs. Pfeuger were here about thirty years ago and Mrs. Pfeuger will be remembered mainly by the kamaianas.

Mrs. Tenny and Mrs. Noonan have been the recipients of many luncheon and dinners during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davies entertained a number of friends yesterday afternoon at a musicale.

As exemplars of the strenuous life the younger generation of Hoffmann has always played to standing room only; but Ogden Hoffman's latest performance surpassed in thrill and exciting incident anything which that Johnny-on-the-spot young man has heretofore attempted, including that famous South Sea cruise for pirates' treasure. In the beautiful canon of the Lagunitas, over in Marin, Miss Alice Hoffman maintains a hunting lodge, and there "Og" Hoffman and his brother Jack rusticate, during the close season for pirates, be it understood. While fishing one day this week, the brothers discovered a still, deep pool, in which basked three gigantic steelheads. These whoppers persistently declined to respond to the allurements of the Hoffman fly-hook. "I bet you I can catch one with my hands," said Ogden. "I'm on for a five spot," replied Jack. In an instant, Ogden's clothes lay on the bank and that exponent of muscular activity was groping among the big fish, ten feet under water. As soon as a noble fourteen-pounder felt that inquisitive hand, he lashed out and dealt the diver a stunning blow between the eyes with his broad tail and then proceeded to climb all over him. The two smaller salmon joined in the mix-up, while Jack danced up and down, shrieking his approval from the bank. Honors were easy for the first two rounds and then, just as Ogden had succeeded in pinning one of the fish in a crevice, the bank caved in and precipitated Jack Hoffman and all of Ogden's clothing into the stream. The worst of it was that the current bore away a specific article of his wardrobe which is never dropped, save at a Caledonian picnic, and on reaching the lodge where Miss Hoffman was entertaining guests at an al fresco luncheon, Ogden unostentatiously betook himself to the hayrick, while Jack, arrayed in dry clothing, told the stirring tale to an accompaniment of popping corks, echoing laughter and the muttered excretions of the jawling prisoner.

Dr. Day gave a dinner last evening in honor of F. W. Dohrmann of San Francisco. Those present, beside the host and the guest of honor, were Gov. Dole, Prof. M. M. Scott, Hon. W. O. Smith, F. A. Schaefer, J. A. Gilman and Walter G. Smith.

STUNG.

Playing with bee-hives is a very harmless pastime provided there are no bees hanging around. But add a little collection of variegated stings to the bee-hive halo and things begin to get busy. Apropos to this there is a story about a man who thought he knew all about the general market and could place a value on anything from a vat of soft soap to a collection of poetic effusions. Yet he was biased against certain things and gave as his reason for their, to him, worthlessness simply that they were "no good." He tickled the market's ribs and got stung. Next time he will do different. He'll go to Bath, the plumber, and get a Douglas Patent Closet.

As Saturday was a holiday the new millinery store on Fort street, next to the Convent school, has extended the time one day longer for returns as to suggestions to names for their new place of business. A $10 hat will be given free to the lady who suggests the name selected by the committee. All communications should be sent to the Advertiser office before 5 p. m. on Monday.

FEAST OF THE HOLY GHOST

Portugal's Patron Saint Is Honored.

Mission Grounds Looked Like Country Fair Time.

Historic Annual Celebration a Unique Festival From the Old World.

Thousands of persons, Portuguese predominating, visited the opening of the Feast of the Holy Ghost at the Catholic Cathedral last evening, when the grounds were almost as bright as day under the glare of hundreds of multi-colored electric globes. The main avenue in the church grounds from Fort street to the fern-covered fountain, was lighted over head by red, white and blue lamps and enveloped in a fluttering mass of flags, and in this space a crowd moved forward and backward eager to get a closer view of the gaily-decorated pavilion in which was the shrine of the Holy Ghost, erected in honor of St. Elizabeth. Upon the altar surrounded by dozens of tall candles and paper decorations a facsimile of the crown of the good Queen Elizabeth, or St. Elizabeth, a patron saint of the Portuguese nation, rested, and it is about this crown that the entire feast revolves.

The celebration last night had all the appearance of a fair. The street curbs were lined with Japanese candy wagons, and inside the church premises were stands where soda water was sold. In a sheltered space beneath the mission house, shelves were loaded with rice in two pound bags, bread and food of all sorts, while whole quarters of beef hung from hooks awaiting delivery today to the poor. Tier upon tier of shelves on tables were loaded with cheap but attractive wares, consisting of perfume, vases, pin cushions, knives, etc., and during the evening chances upon these were sold at a lively rate. The Portuguese pressed about the booths, eagerly bidding for the goods. These sales netted a handsome profit which goes to charity.

But the interest was centered upon the gorgeous pavilion and shrine. In the center of the pavilion a long table was set for twelve persons, the board laden with fruits, meats and jellies, and wine in decanters, where today at noon twelve old Portuguese men will sit as the honored guests of the patron saint. A huge basket made of fruits was a conspicuous ornament in the pavilion.

At 7:30 o'clock the steeple bell clanged and shortly afterward a procession, headed by Bishop Libert and the Catholic clergy, came from the church, in the midst of which was carried the crown of St. Elizabeth and the Holy Ghost banner. The procession moved slowly as the people were anxious to touch and kiss the banner. It was finally deposited with ceremony upon the shrine where it will remain until high mass today, when it will be carried through the crowd as a receptacle for dollars, almost every Portuguese making it a point to drop that amount into it, after kissing the small metal cover surmounting it.

WILL TREAD ON HOT SANDS

It is expected that Aloha Temple, Mystic Shrine, will hold its ceremonial session the latter part of the coming month. Potentate Griggs Holt will call the regular quarterly meeting for Saturday, June 6, which time the reception of petitions will take place and everything made ready for the caravan, which this year will be over especially hot sands. It is anticipated that a number of the unregenerated from the Rainy City will be in attendance to receive the protection of Osman's Shadow.

HILO MURDERER IS PARDONED BY DOLE

Native Escapes Remainder of Twenty Year Sentence--Railroad Is Making Many Improvements.

HILO, May 29.—Kauhi, a native who had served three and one-half years in the Hilo jail on a sentence of twenty years for murder in the second degree, was released yesterday upon an unconditional pardon by Governor Dole.

HAWAII RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

The railway center of Hilo has been moved from Waiakea to Waianuene and Front streets. The last three days of last week were busy ones with Mr. Lambert and his assistants for the road had to be graded and tracks laid in order to carry out the plan to run trains from the new station on Sunday morning.

The construction gang graded across Waianuene street to the river, cutting a passage way several inches below the street. The ticket office was finished Saturday afternoon and at 8 o'clock Sunday morning a large crowd gathered to see the first train leave. The convenience of the change was realized by everyone who had occasion to patronize the road and by others who were there to see, if not to take advantage of the change. The road bed was as smooth as that over which the trains of the New York Central travel and it is a comfort to ride over the line. The double track to the river will facilitate freight handling and cars may be left there without interfering with passenger traffic. It is probable that trains will run between Waiakea and Hilo early in the morning, at noon and after five o'clock at night for the accommodation of working men. Mr. Lambert has made drawings for a car to be used on this train.

The company has decided not to build a depot at the terminus until some decision is reached regarding the removal of the postoffice or until active work is begun on the Kohala-Hilo railway. The intention is to have a union depot and both companies will use it.

Nothing will be done on the Olaa extension of the Hilo road until rails can be procured. The company made an offer for a quantity believed to be in Seattle but when the proposition reached there the rails had been shipped north. All of the mills are loaded with orders so that it is impossible to get the Hilo order filled with any degree of promptness. Even when the rails are laid to Glenwood it is not likely that the company will make any valuable improvements at that point; the trend of excursion travel is toward Puna and if the company decides to build a pavilion anywhere it will be at Puna where the attractions are greater than at Olaa. It is thought by some that a sanitarium will some day be built at Puna by outside capitalists in which case the attractions of the district would be still greater and the travel would increase proportionately.—Herald.

BLOODHOUND PRACTICE.

Wm. Watson, who is training the pair of young bloodhounds recently purchased by the Hilo Police Department, gave the pups a trial spin one day this week. A pair of pantaloons belonging to Lopez, were hanged to the tail gate of a wagon and driven over the lava road through Kaumana. The pups struck the trail and kept it until they were tired out. The pair of dogs are pure bloods from the kennels of Dr. J. B. Fuller at Beatrice, Neb.—Tribune.

CHINESE SUICIDE.

While making his rounds Monday afternoon, J. U. Smith discovered he had lost a tenant for one of his apartment houses on Front street. Yock See, an elderly Chinese, had committed suicide. To make certainty doubly sure, Yock used both rope and knife. He hanged himself with the rope and before strangulation, had slashed his throat with a knife. The body was taken in charge by the police and buried.—Tribune.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The last meeting of the year of the Hilo Teachers' Union was held Tuesday evening at the home of F. S. Lyman. The program was listened to by about twenty teachers. The work of the year in Roman history was finished by Miss Deyo, who presented a sketch on Modern Italy. The treat of the evening was the exhibition of European photographs and a descriptive talk by Mrs. Hyde. Mrs. Hyde's collection was made by herself in Switzerland and Italy and is very fine. She displayed at the meeting over one hundred views.—Herald.

ROOMS WANTED.

From reports from the outside districts received by individual members of the Executive Committee of the Fourth of July celebration it is probable that Hilo will have an unusually large number of visitors for nearly a week at that season. Should the Hilo Hotel be open at that time it will not be able to accommodate the guests who will ask for rooms. It has been suggested that persons having rooms to let will advise the committee, of which E. N. Holmes is chairman, just how many rooms they will have for use and how many persons they can accommodate with rooms and rooms and board. The committee will send these lists to Honolulu so that visitors may know before leaving what their chances are to secure comfortable quarters.

FIRE AT PAHALA.

The residence of J. P. Lino, the sugar boiler at Pahala, was burned last Wednesday. The fire was started by a self heating smoothing iron which was placed on a window sill. The building burned very quickly.

NOT INCENDIARY.

The jury in the case of the Rossmund House fire was unable to find evidence of incendiaryism. A verdict of accidental fire was returned.

ANDERSON-RUSSELL.

At the residence of Capt. B. H. Brown, on Thursday, May 21, 1903, Alvin T. Anderson and Augusta Russell were married by the Rev. S. L. Desha. It was a quiet and simple ceremony, Capt. Brown giving the bride away. Miss Mary Meine, an older sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and James Lynch, of the Kinaiu, acted as best man. A few friends were present.

HILO MEMORIAL DAY.

Memorial Day is to be observed tomorrow as usual though the exercises will not be held until Sunday. Judge Little is the orator of the day and speaks on "The Day and Its Memories." The Hilo band will take part, and there will be readings by Mrs. A. G. Curtis, Mrs. W. S. Terry and A. C. McKenny.

HILO HOTEL WAITS.

The committee in charge of the project to reopen the Hilo Hotel report that they are meeting with great success but do not expect to open the hotel upon July 4th when it is most needed. It is probable that some effort will be made to convert the hotel into a lodging house for the occasion.

WANT FIRE PROTECTION.

There was a meeting of citizens at Fireman's Hall on Tuesday night for the purpose of considering ways and means for improved facilities for fire fighting in Hilo.

The consensus of opinion was that the present company should disband and that a new one be organized in its place. It was decided then that when this was done a man should be provided with accommodations within the engine house and it would be his duty to look after the apparatus and see to the ringing of the bell when an alarm is turned in.

It is deemed necessary that additional street hydrants be installed and more hose procured. This matter will be looked after by a committee composed of Dr. Milton Rice, A. H. Jackson and Wm. Vannatta who will report at a meeting to be held at the Fireman's Hall next Tuesday night. This is to be a public meeting and it is hoped that citizens will be present and enroll as members of the fire company.—Herald.

NEWS NOTES.

Mrs. F. L. Nash entertained the Juniors at a lawn party on the Manse grounds last Thursday afternoon. About thirty-five were in attendance and a merry time was enjoyed by the little ones.

Just 114 citizens, many of them business men, donated, through P. C. Beamer, money for improving the new baseball grounds.

G. H. Gere returns to Honolulu today and takes with him complete data for the abutments for the Waiakea bridge on Front street. It is Mr. Gere's opinion that the building of this bridge will be pushed by the department.

The subscriptions to the Fourth of July are coming in liberally. The committees are meeting with success in their rounds and the outlook is good for plenty of money if all do as well as those already seen.

Nigel Jackson and Miss C. Martens will be married on June 8.

The Austin property sold at auction by I. F. Ray last Thursday brought $4100. It was bought in by the mortgagee.

O. A. Steven, who for the past two years has been in the government service in the Philippines, returned home yesterday.

The Kamehameha baseball team offer to play any team of ball players in Hilo on July 4 if arrangements can be made.

J. G. Serrao has purchased a quantity of roller skates and will establish a rink in his hall at the corner of Bridge and Shipman streets.

Rev. S. L. Desha will go to Honolulu tomorrow to attend the graduation exercises at Kamehameha, his two sons being in that institution.

It is said that about $5000 will be raised in Hilo toward refitting the Hilo Hotel. It will be hardly possible to have the place ready for July 4.

THOSE DAKOTA FARMERS.

The Job of Getting Them Too Much for One Promoter.

Hilo Side Lights has the following of local interest:

In response to a recent letter of inquiry relative to the non-appearance of the colony of South Dakota farmers, C. M. Giddings, the representative, under date of April 24, says:

"On my return to San Francisco I was awful sick and that took part of the enthusiasm out of me, and when I arrived home I found it took more than I had to start a colony of well-to-do men, and as they were all large holders of real estate and that business in a degree was a little dull, we never made the start. Of course it was a big undertaking and somewhat of a venture. "Still I would not be surprised if some of us put in the winter in Hilo. This is the first letter I have written since I left. As my scheme fell through, or at least is indefinitely postponed, I felt ashamed to write after they had done so much to find us a location. . . . I am yours truly, C. M. GIDDINGS."

SONG OF THE DERELICTS.

From ocean to ocean we wander,
From polar to tropical tide;
Alone, and forlorn, and forsaken,
The wraiths of our time-faded pride.

Through the tumult and surge of the tempest,
Wave beaten and battered we churn,
The ships of no name and no haven,
The ships that shall never return!

—Frederick Arthur Palmer in Boston Transcript.

MRS. COL. FRENCH OPENS CAMPAIGN

The Honolulu forces of the Salvation Army turned out in force last night for the first meeting conducted by Mrs. Col. French.

The open air meetings were held, and then headed by their own brass band, the army marched to the hall.

One of the unique features of the march was a large sign carried by two Salvationists, with the word "Concert".

Fair sized crowds greeted the Army in the hall, and the different numbers of the program met with a hearty reception.

Mrs. Col. French launched the Star Campaign, a Campaign of Advance, which had its inception in the fertile brain of Commander Booth-Tucker.

The work that Mrs. French has mapped out for the Honolulu Corps is as follows: Souls, 100; new soldiers, 25; candidates for officership, 3; corps cadets, 12; junior soldiers, 20.

This is to be an accomplished fact by September 7. Mrs. Col. French is an earnest talker, and has been an officer in the Army 22 years.

TELEPHONE LINE MEN ARE LAID OFF

Seven of the oldest linemen of the Telephone Company were laid off yesterday at noon. They were notified that they would not be needed until the arrival of the new cable for the Waikiki line.

Some of the men took another view, believing that the fact that they had joined the union and that on Wednesday they had been given an eight-hour day was the cause of their dismissal.

ANNIVERSARY OF A GREAT FLOOD

It is singular that the great Kansas flood occurs on the anniversary of a flood that will always be remembered in the history of floods.

Fourteen years ago today the dam on Little Cone-maugh river, nine miles above the city of Johnston, Pennsylvania, broke away during an extraordinary rainfall.

The impounded water added to the already overflowing streams swept down upon the city in one great wave, destroying an enormous amount of property and causing the death of over three hundred people.

OREGONIAN BRINGS A BIG CARGO

The American-Hawaiian steamship Oregonian arrived yesterday morning from Seattle with 4,000 tons of freight for Honolulu and Kahului.

The Kinau Fouls Eclipse. When the Kinau was ready to enter her dock yesterday on arrival from Hilo, she fouled the gasoline schooner Eclipse's bowsprit, which extended beyond the end of the wharf where the vessel was moored.

Shipping Notes.

The American ship Arthur Sewall shifted from the roadstead to the stream yesterday afternoon and is now fumigating.

HONOLULUS WIN A GAME

The H. A. C. baseball team defeated the Punahou yesterday afternoon on the Punahou campus, to the tune of 11-7. The teams did not play their regular League men and perhaps this accounts for the fact that the game was not up to the standard of the League contest.

Punahou went to bat first, and before they were out, Forbes, Cooke and Lishman succeeded in circling the diamond, the latter scoring while Steere was being run down.

En Sui of the H. A. C. received his base on balls, stole second and third and romped home on a sacrifice hit from Louis, making the only score for his side during that inning.

Punahou's turn at bat added two to the score. Woods and Marcellino counting. H. A. C. made a goose egg, going out after Pryce was caught napping on first.

In the third En Sui scored again with a hot grounder and two stolen bases, Gleason reached first on an error and after stealing a base came in on a two-bagger by Louis.

In the fifth inning Louis reached first on a base hit, stole two bases and came home while the Punahou catcher and third baseman missed connections in endeavoring to put Gleason to the pad; he finally crossed the plate.

The sixth inning opened with the score 5 all and some changes in the personnel of the teams. Waterhouse batted for Honan, the Punahou pitcher, while Williamson took his place in the box.

Punahou registered another goose egg in the seventh but the H. A. C. bestirred themselves and brought in En Sui, Louis and Joy. Louis reached home after about the prettiest exhibition of dogging seen this season.

The score was now 11-7 in favor of the Honolulu, and Punahou took her last chance at the bat but failed to profit, Cooke went out on an easy grounder, Tucker on a fly, Hemenway struck out, and the game was over.

GAMES FORFEITED BY LEAGUE CLUBS

After five minutes of pitching, tossing and catching a baseball by members of the H. A. C. team on the Punahou diamond yesterday afternoon, Umpire Bowers stepped to the plate and declared that team winner of the game scheduled with the Elks by a score of 9 to 0.

CLOSE FINISH OF THE YACHTS

The Yacht Club enjoyed good racing yesterday afternoon for the first and second classes, Helene and La Paloma competing in the first and Myrtle, Malihini, Columbia II, Princess, Pirate and Skip in the second.

The breeze which was so fresh in the morning to make the regatta committee shorten the course for the sake of the smaller craft died down as the afternoon wore on but held fairly good.

Helene not being ready on schedule time. The small boats made a beautiful start at 2:23 crossing the line almost simultaneously. Myrtle, Princess and Malihini soon detached themselves from the rest of the fleet and maintained their respective positions.

At the finish Prince Kuhio misunderstood the printed and oral instructions and failed to round the bell buoy coming home, thus crossing the line ahead of the Myrtle by 1 min. 25 sec.

On the beach home to the bell buoy, both boats failed to clear on their intended tracks. Helene, however, got round first and crossed the finish at the spar buoy just one minute ahead winning by three scant seconds, corrected time.

Helene and Myrtle both get cups for their victories. The next races are over the Pearl Harbor course on June 7.

MRS. DESKY AND HER DAUGHTER INJURED

Charles S. Desky hopes to get away in the Korea for San Francisco to be with his wife and daughter in their affliction, both having been injured in an accident sustained while driving. The following clipping from the San Francisco Call tells the story:

LOS GATOS, May 18.—A most unfortunate accident happened yesterday on Union avenue. Mrs. C. S. Desky, Miss Florence Desky and Miss Holden were driving on the avenue when suddenly the horse became frightened at a paper carrier riding along on his wheel, and turned around so suddenly that the surrey was overturned, the occupants being thrown to the ground.

Much more serious trouble might have occurred had it not been for the presence of mind of Miss Holden, who was driving at the time. All were under the surrey, but the lady held tightly to the reins, and as soon as possible the carrier jumped from his wheel and was at the frightened animal's head. As it was, the ladies were all hurt. Mrs. Desky's wrist was broken, and the severe fright has made her very nervous, as she was just recovering from a long illness. Miss Florence sustained a very bad fracture of the right arm, and Miss Holden was badly bruised and one rib was fractured. Mrs. Desky is resting, and it is hoped that the shock will not prove a severe setback. The horse is considered most gentle, but it is thought that the flying paper bags at the side of the carrier caused its fright.
